CIVIL WAR VETERAN PASSES AWAY

ALFRED N. BROWN DIED AT HIS HOME ON SOUTH MAIN STREET LAST WEEK THURSDAY EVENING.

In the death of Capt. Alfred N. Brown, which occurred at his home on South Main street, Thursday night, July 8th, Plymouth loses one of her grand old men. Mr. Brown contracted a severe cold last May, and since that time has been confined to the house, and the greater portion of the time to his bed, and although everything that medical skill and loving hands could do was done for him, he gradually grew weaker until the end came and he passed peacefully to rest.

Capt. Brown was a man highly respected by the whole community; a man of sterling worth and character and a Christian gentleman. His cheery greetings to friends and acquaintances will be missed upon our streets, where he has been a familiar sight for many years. He was born in Lynn, Jefferson county, New York, February 12, 1828. At the age of 12 years, he began life as a sailor boy aboard a sailing vessel plying on the St. Lawrence river and the Great Lakes, and which occupation he followed for many years. At the age of sixteen he became the master of a sailing vessel. During the great famine in Ireland many years ago, he made three trips to that country with supplies and provisions.

In 1842 he came to Michigan and brought his parents to a farm, which he had purchased near Port Huron, at what is now known as Huronia Beach on the shores of Lake Huron.

For several years he was master of a U. S. government coast survey boat doing duty on Lakes Michigan and Huron.

On May 25, 1862, Mr. Brown was married to Julia C. Tyler at the lighthouse in Port Huron. The deceased is survived by three children, Phannett and W. C. Brown and Mrs. Karl Hillmer of this village. Mrs. Brown passed away April 1, 1910.

At the outbreak of the Civil war, Captain Brown joined the 1st Chicago regiment, later joining Busted's Battery, and was afterwards transferred to the First New York Light Artillery, Co. G, and saw three years of hard service with this splendid organization. He participated in the battles of Fredricksburg, Malvern Hill, Antietam, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg and many smaller engagements. He was wounded at the battle of Gettysburg. After the expiration of his three years' service he re-enlisted in the army, but shortly afterwards was transferred to the navy, and was in this service for one year and four months. It was while in the navy that he was severely wounded by the accidental explosion of a parrot gun aboard the ship. As a result of this accident he was confined to the hospital for many months. Capt. Brown had a splendid record. While in the army he was promoted to a sergeant. There was one thing about Mr. Brown's war record of which he was particularly proud, and that was a notation upon his discharge papers in which his commanding officer complimented him for his bravery and coolness in action and his strict attention to duty while in camp or on the march.

After the war Mr. Brown took up his occupation as a sailing master, which he followed until 1868, when he came to Plymouth, where he has since resided.

Mr. Brown was a devoted member of the Methodist church for many years, and when health permitted was very active in its interests and work. For more than forty years he was a member of the F. O. O. F. He was a staunch Prohibitionist for many years and was an active worker for the prohibition. Mr. Brown was a citizen member of the F. O. O. F. G. A. R. and was a great lover of this organization of all countries.

The funeral services were held from the home last Sunday afternoon, July 7th, at 2 o'clock.

Big Wayne County Picnic

WAYNE COUNTY FARM BUREAU MAKING PLANS FOR MONSTER PICNIC, SATURDAY, AUGUST 23.

The first annual picnic under the auspices of the Wayne Farm Bureau promises to be a great success. The picnic will be held Saturday, August 23, on the Avondale stock farm near Wayne. Many of the details for the big event have already been completed. In the morning there is to be a tractor demonstration and a track meet for the boys and girls under the direction of State Club Leader Turner.

The big noon picnic dinner will be served to the community. George Van Riper, president of the Wayne Farm Bureau, said that the picnic will be a success. The speakers in the afternoon will be Charles Bingham of Oakland county, secretary of the State Farm Bureau; Hon. D. D. Aikin of Flint; of Holstein fame; Miss Estella Downing of the "Mail's Normal," on "Woman and Reconstruction."

Added features to the program will be a ball game between the East Nankin Farmers' club and some unknown club of the county; also a tug of war, the northern part of the county, and the captaincy of Fred Kennedy and the southern guided by George Van Riper.

No pains will be spared to make this the biggest farmers' picnic ever staged in Wayne county.

THE ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETING

HAS BEEN CALLED FOR MONDAY EVENING, JULY 14TH, AT HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM.

The annual school meeting of District No. 1, R. Plymouth, will take place at the High School Auditorium, Monday evening, July 14th, at 7:30 o'clock. One of the matters that will come up at the meeting for decision is that of re-classifying the district under Act No. 166 of public acts of 1917. While it is obligatory that a vote be taken on the matter, it is optional with the electors of the district whether they vote to come under the provisions of this act or whether they vote not to do so.

As we understand the provisions of the law, we can see little or no advantage to be gained by its adoption in this district. A number of the provisions in the new law would effect districts having a large population, but in the smaller cities and villages there would be practically no change. If the district should vote to remain as at present, there is a provision for taking up the matter at a future time if it should be so desired.

There is also one trustee to be elected, the term of Trustee George C. Ravlier expiring this year.

BAND CONCERT AT NEWBURG

A band concert will be given by the Millard band of Plymouth at Newburg, Mich., Friday evening, July 12th. The concert will be on the lawn under the auspices of the Golden Rod division of the L. A. B. and is cordially invited.

Miss Hillmer has sold a lot of 100 city and township of Newburg, Mich., and is now in the hands of the L. A. B. and is cordially invited.

NOTES

Old Sol was on the job every minute. The carnival did a big business. No accidents marred the pleasure of the day. Many former Plymouthites were seen in the crowd. The strong man gave a splendid exhibition of great strength in his teeth. The merry-go-round and the Ferris wheel were the main attraction for the kids. It was a great day for ice cream and soft drinks, and the dispensers of these goods did a big business. About four hundred people were fed at the Grange hall, where the members of the Catholic mission served a fine dinner.

Miss Mabel Root has been spending several days visiting in Lansing and Auburn. Mr. and Mrs. Guy Smith of Flint, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Balden of Northville, were guests of Frank Dunn and family, Wednesday.

New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves

Why do 5,000,000 housewives prefer the New Perfection Oil Cook Stove? It has the famous Long Blue Chimney Burner—that's why. And here is the secret: This long Blue Chimney Burner turns every drop of kerosene all into clean, intense cooking heat and drives it full force, directly against the pot. Because it is exactly the right length, it gives you exactly the right heat for every purpose.

At the touch of a match you have a flame that will do your cooking and without the dirt of ashes or kindling. You can also get instantly, any slower cooking flame you want, right down to low simmering—a simple turn of the hand wheel does it. The flame is always in plain sight through the mica doors—and always stays where you set it.

We will be glad to demonstrate to you the wide range of flame adjustment and ease of New Perfection operation—see us today.

MR. DOOLING
By ELIZABETH SMITH.

Mary Greeley sat knitting at her desk in a private office of the Woodworth Manufacturing company, where for ten years she had typed for the engineer. Through the opened sliding windows in the partition, which separated her sanctum from the counting-room, she could plainly hear Paymaster Truesdale and Mr. Dooling, the bookkeeper, straightening out the payroll. There was also an occasional word from the traveling man, Mr. Bangs.

"Oh, dear!" mused Mary, sighing, as she caught a glimpse of herself in the large mirror over Mr. Robey's desk across the room. "I'm surely getting old, yet I'd do it over again just the same. Anyway, mother had every comfort while she lived. If we did live in two rooms. There'll always be comfort for me in the remembrance of that. No, I have no regrets, but I can't deny that I am very lonesome."

Mary was getting old. She had just ripened into full womanhood with no more plumpness than that which belongs to the well-rounded curves of twenty-eight. Always attractive, with her perfectly matured grace and poise, she was now positively beautiful.

And so the young men in the counting room must have thought, for all of them had proposed during her years at the plant. On being refused, they had one by one found a life partner elsewhere.

"No," Mary had told them. "While mother lives my sole duty is to care for her." And she had cared for her most tenderly until the end, which was now a year back.

"Miss Greeley," called Truesdale through the partition windows, "have you heard whether we're to have time off to see the president? I believe he is to land at eleven at Commonwealth pier."

"Yes," smiled Mary sweetly. "But I hear Mr. Robey talking just outside our door. He has just been to tell the department heads. Here he is—he'll tell you himself."

The engineer, who enjoyed the same princely salary as the general manager, was, owing to the absence of the latter, in full charge. He opened the door and announced:

"They are going to knock off at 11:30. I advise that you go to the other end of the works. You can see the president plainly from the windows there."

"All right, thank you," came from Truesdale. "But we have a little more to do."

Mr. Robey, a short, stout, austere appearing little man, with steely cold blue eyes and a closely trimmed vandyke, now bustled himself with a blueprint.

"What a pity," thought Mary, her eyes running casually over him. "What a queer person he is, to be sure—living in a lovely home with no wife—only a man for cook and housekeeper. And no golf, no tennis, no club, except the yacht club, and only speed boats for a hobby. Well, he is a bachelor at thirty-five. I suppose he'll always stay single."

"Well, it is 11:30," announced that gentleman rising, watch in hand. "I think I'll move down to the other end of the building."

When near the office, Mary met Mr. Robey, who smiled at the coincidence of their both returning. "I am going for a cigar," he explained. Then he courteously opened the door and they entered. Crossing the soft carpeted floor they went to their desks for the sought-for articles.

Mary had picked up her knitting and was rising to go, and Mr. Robey had just found his cigars, but sat glancing at a blueprint when:

"Robey is a boob!" It was Truesdale talking.

"Nothing less," agreed Bangs.

The engineer and his secretary both held high ideals. Although they abhorred eavesdropping, their surprise held them spellbound.

"Why, just think of it," expatiated Truesdale, as he struck a light for his cigar. "Here is a man thrown into the daily companionship of the loveliest and warmest-hearted girl in all Boston and he hasn't known enough in all these years to make love to her. Ugh! I'm disgusted with his blindness!"

"Same here!" offered Bangs. "He sees no beauty in anything but a con-founded old engine!"

"If I were he," came from Dooling. "I wouldn't wait a minute. I'd say, 'Mary, will you marry me?'"

Slam! went the door.

As the young men's footsteps grew fainter down the corridor, Mr. Robey looked up from his blueprint and across the room at Mary, who had slumped into her chair with her head bent forward and her eyes resting confusedly on the desk.

Crossing the room the dapper little man laid one hand very tenderly on Mary's shoulder; with the other he took her right hand and raising it to his lips declared:

"It was pretty queer, Miss Greeley, but it was true. You heard what Dooling said, I'd say, 'Mary, will you marry me?' Now I intended to ask you this. I ask you now. Will you? Oh, will you, dear?"

Mary, still deeply crimsoned, looked up through glancing eyes, and Mr. Robey, smiling love and happiness in the glance, stooped and kissed her.

Hand in hand, they sauntered down the long passage in blissful content, to where the loud cheering announced the coming of the great exemplar of peace. (Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Only One Law.
The children in our village organized a club and were enthusiastic about it. When Billy, our little neighbor, proudly informed me that he was vice president I inquired about their laws and bylaws. "Oh," he replied, "we didn't get but one law, an' that's in seven line cream at every meeting."—Ely change.

Happiness and Interest.
Personal happiness is almost synonymous with personal interests; the wider the range of the latter, the higher is the degree of happiness.—Lillian Whittier.

Some Bygone Marriages.
Some bygone lawmakers would have been in sympathy with the Brooklyn millionaire who maintains that at 60 he was too old to be legally married. In Rome, under the Emperor Augustus, a law was passed forbidding men to marry when they were over 60, and women when they were over 50. Peter the Great, also disapproved of senile marriages, and enacted that no marriage contract should be held good if either of the contracting parties was over 50 at the time it was entered upon.

Musings of Martha.
These wonderful business women we hear so much about may be all right but I'd like to see one of 'em tackle the job of gettin' up in th' mornin' an' gettin' breakfast fer ten before day light.

English May Dances.
The love of the maypole still lingers in the affections of the children of England, and in villages many of the old May dances have been revived, and the gray playgrounds of the cities' schools resound with the merry, as the youngsters girls with spring frocks and laced-up middie-top still dance the song and dance the steps which made merry the day through the May dances.

Where Papa Smoked.
Father—"I never smoked when you was your age. Will you be able to tell that to your son when you are an' age?" Willie—"Not with such a straight face as you do, father. 'You beat me there!'"

The Harpsichord.
This was the instrument out of which our modern piano grew. It was more like a grand than an upright piano and sometimes had two rows of keys, but it was very tender in power and tone to the modern instrument. It had no pedals, and the wires were not struck by hammers, but were plucked by quills. The compass of the instrument was about four octaves which was gradually increased as it was improved upon.

Just That Difference.
Some men are candidates for office because they can't help it—and some because the people can't help it.

Power Pays.
It is said that a sewing machine with an individual motor averaged 1,000 stitches a minute, while the old foot-driven machine accomplished only 300 or 400 stitches a minute at most.

The tenderness and flavor of Libby's Dried Beef are frequently commented upon.

ROSE INTO DESERVED FAME

Mystic Painter of Lithuania Accorded His Proper Place in the World of Art.

What Scriabin attempted to do with music in Russia, Curillon has done with paint in Lithuania.

Curillon made painting depict music. Scriabin attempted to unite color and sound through the medium of music.

In the words of the well-known American musical critic, Gilbert W. Gabriel, this painter "succeeds where others have failed."

Many a man climbs the ladder of fame only to be rewarded with a good hard fall.

DIRIGIBLE R-34 FLIES ATLANTIC

BRITISH AIRSHIP COMPLETES TRIP OF 3600 MILES WITHOUT AID. FIRST BALLOON TO CROSS OCEAN

Voyage is Made in 108 Hours and 12 Minutes—Severe Storms Retard Speed of Big Gas Bag.

Mineola, N. Y.—Great Britain's super-dirigible R-34, the first lighter-than-air machine to cross the Atlantic ocean, anchored here at Roosevelt flying field Sunday morning after an aerial voyage of 108 hours and 12 minutes, which covered 3,600 miles.

When the super-Zeppelin arrived here she had left only enough petrol to keep her moving 90 minutes longer.

With the R-34 long overdue at its destination, petrol supply running low and buffeted by strong head winds, Major Scott Saturday while over the Bay of Fundy sent a wireless call to the American navy department to be prepared to give assistance if it were needed.

This merely was a measure of precaution and did not indicate discouragement. While destroyers and submarine chasers were racing to her assistance, the R-34 was plugging steadily ahead on the way to Mineola.

Naval Appropriation Gets Deep Cut. Washington—As reported to the House, the 1920 Navy Appropriation Bill carries $291,500,000, a decrease of $75,000,000 from the estimate submitted by Secretary Daniels and $120,000,000 less than the amount carried in the bill as it passed the House last session. One of the principal items is $125,000,000 for continued construction of the 1916 building program. The bill provides for a permanent increase in pay of enlisted men from $17.20 to $18.50 a month.

PLANTED BY BIRDS

Simple Reason for Uncommon Position of Trees.

Tall Palmyra Palm Growing on Top of Bengal Fig Presents Curious Appearance—Naturalists Explain Apparent Phenomenon.

Every one has heard of small trees getting sown on larger ones, and appearing like little babies on the branches of their hosts. But in India it is, in some parts, fairly common to see the tall Palmyra palm growing as if from the top of the tree called Bengal fig. The appearance this presents is most curious and it has engaged the attention of nearly all travelers in the Thana district of Bombay, where the palm is especially abundant.

If one fancies how incongruous a very tall telegraph pole fixed into the middle of an oak tree and surmounted by a small crown of fan-shaped leaves would look, it can be realized how astonishing the first encounter with the Palmyra palm must be, when similarly united with a fig tree. An explanation, of course, had to be found, and the first casual observers might be divided into those that thought it a case of a hybrid, and the remainder who considered it a graft. But botanists know that no hybrid or graft has ever been produced between two species that are so distantly related as those in question. As a matter of fact, the introduction of these two friends to each other is made by some of the pretty little birds that abound in the region, including a few of the humming birds. Their principal food, George Michael Ryan tells us, consists of the minute fruits of the wild fig trees.

After collecting a few of these, they usually fly off to the top of a tall palm to enjoy them in peace. Some of the seeds fall and become lodged in the joints where the leaves spring from the stem. Here, in process of time, they germinate, throwing out roots below and branches and leaves above. But the roots of these fig trees are not content to draw their moisture and food from the little pocket of sand and dust into which they happen to fall. They soon multiply and spread far beyond their original home, into a thick network that covers and envelops the whole of the lower part of the Palmyra stem. Branches at the same time multiply above, forming a large bush which, with the roots, monopolizes the situation and makes the palm look like a mere adjunct. But the palm does not mind. All the air it wants is for the leaves above.

The encroaching sheath of fig roots, moreover, cause it no inconvenience, because it would not in any case, increase in girth after it had once risen from the ground. It is, in fact, a case of symbiosis or mutual accommodation between the two species. The palm gives the necessary assistance to the baby fig, and afterward support to its maturing branches, while the foliage which these bear provides welcome shade to the roots of its patron.—Journal of Natural History Society of Bombay.

Film Stars Mustn't Ocululate. The police of Japan do not like to see kissing in public and therefore film stars are not permitted to ocululate on the screen. In six months up to March 1 the police censors removed 2,350 kisses from films. Only one kiss was allowed to remain. It was a kiss granted to Columbus by Queen Isabella and was shown in Tokyo only, as the censors deleted it before permitting the photoplay "Columbus" to discover the provinces. Three hundred and fifty-three embraces were omitted from films, states the Far East. The titles of 2,144 photoplays were altered by the censors and 127 murder scenes were killed. Reels entirely prohibited numbered 57. Most films shown in Japan are from America and a large proportion of them originally contain a little kiss or so, showing the difference in standards between east and west.

Trying to Kid Him. Down at Kelly field an instructor left on a fooling and his cadets were assigned to other "flights" for their flying practice. By mistake one was attached to a "cirrus" squad.

When his turn came he climbed into the rear pit and the instructor took him up to 8,000 feet, swung the machine into a spiral nose dive, and waved his arms above his head to indicate that the cadet should right the machine.

When the machine had dropped to 2,500 feet, gaining momentum rapidly, the instructor became alarmed and looked back at the cadet, who waved his arms above his head and smiled. The pilot grabbed the controls and made a safe landing.

The cadet explained that this was his first flight, and he thought the instructor was trying to kid him when he waved, so he pretended he wasn't scared.

Mexico to Restore Ruin. The palace of Cortes, in the suburbs of Coyoteac, is to be reconstructed by the government and used as a museum for relics of the Spanish conquest. The structure, 400 years old, has been allowed to fall into ruin. In the courtyard are ancient trees, under which Hernan Cortes and his followers were wont to rest. These are hundreds of years older than the ancient building itself. The chapel attached to the palace is still in good condition.

In 1827, the total township assessed tax for Plymouth (now Northville, Plymouth and Canton) was $66.90 and the county tax was $57.50. Wages were $10 per month, but at the same time $100 would buy an 80-acre farm. Some change in these days.—Northville Record.

Mrs. Frank J. Rust is in possession of three interesting millstones, the original ones used in the first grist mill in Washtenaw county. The mill was built on the Huron river back of the Foster place, and was owned by a Mr. Woodruff. The building and business was purchased by George Bennett, father of Mrs. Rust in 1850.—Washtenaw Post.

At the rate the little county steam shovel is doing business on the U. S. government road, the grading for the new cement roads in Northville township will be finished in about four years. In the whole route there is about 14,000 feet, and the shovel has been going at the rate of about 20 feet a day. It can work on an average of 170 days in a year. Figure it out for yourself.—Northville Record.

Representative Michener from this district, has introduced a bill in the house of representatives authorizing the Secretary of War to donate to the Belleville Park and Playground association a cannon or fieldpiece captured by the American army from the forces of the Imperial German government during the late war. If this bill is passed we will have a suitable memorial for the part our young men took in the great war.—Belleville Enterprise.

The question of securing a sufficient amount of help during the coming harvest rush promises to be quite a problem in Wayne county. The Farm Bureau has a representative at the federal employment office in Detroit every morning, getting all of the men who will go to the country. At that time the supply is often sharp. By advertising in the Detroit papers it is hoped that sufficient help can be secured to properly take care of the wheat, oats and rye. Farmers should send in their labor requests early to County Agent Gregg.

ANXIOUS TO LEARN GIRL'S REAL NAME

JUVENILE COURT OFFICIALS STUMPED BY ONE IRMA CONWAY.

Juvenile court officials are anxious to find out the real name of Irma Conway, who was found in Plymouth, April 14, in an unconscious condition.

She was taken first to the Women's Detention home and then transferred to the juvenile detention home, but Miss Alice M. Reese, superintendent, has been unable to obtain from the girl any definite information as to her past history. She tells many conflicting stories and refuses to associate with her companions in the home, on the plea that they are beneath her station in life.

It has been established that she was employed at the Larned Carter company office for two weeks, and that she worked for a short time in the home at Grosse Pointe. She claims to have been born in Minneapolis, to have been taken to Englewood, to have attended school at Marquette, to have studied dancing lessons in Los Angeles, and to have used the names of Irma Degrawe and Harriet James. She is 18 years of age.

Unless definite information can be secured, Irma will probably be sent to the Industrial Home for Girls at Adrian.—Detroit Free Press.

RACINE HORSE-SHOE TIRES

"Remember the Horse-Shoe Tread"

—not only because it is the hall-mark of a great tire, but because it has several distinct advantages of its own.

While effectively anti-skid, it is noiseless on asphalt or concrete—does not hum or sing. It is equally efficient on front and rear wheels—has no tendency to "climb" out of ruts or make steering difficult. And it is wonderfully tough—seldom gets cut.

Remember—the next tire you buy is going to be a Horse-Shoe!

Ford THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford Model T Trucks

The Ford Model T One-ton Truck is now a little over three years old, and we have yet to hear of the first trouble it has given. That's because of the worm drive. Not a bit of the power of the motor is lost through the worm drive. It simply cannot be. Up to the introduction of the Ford Motor Truck, you could only get the worm drive in the highest priced motor trucks. It is too expensive an equipment for ordinary priced trucks. That's one reason why we put it on the Ford Truck. Quality in materials, scientific application of transmission of power, dependability in service and economy in operation are cardinal virtues in Ford production. These are what made the Ford "The Universal Car," and these are the qualities that will make the Ford One-ton Truck "The Universal Motor Truck." In town, in the city, in village and farm, the Ford Motor Truck is the essential necessity because it solves the problem of economical transportation. Come in and let us give you a demonstration. Let us have a chance to point out the superior merits of the Ford Motor Truck. The firm listed below will be only too glad to take your order and give you the delivery with the least delay possible, and assure you of splendid "after service." The Ford Motor Truck sells at $550.00 without the body, but we will supply you with such a body as you may desire.
