WUERTH-SMITH

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Imogene Smith, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Smith of Detroit, to Charles Louis Wuerth, also of that city, which took place Tuesday, June 29th. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. S. After a three-course luncheon the happy couple left for a few days trip to Buffalo and the Falls, which will be followed by a motor trip to New York in August. The bride is one of Plymouth's popular and well-known young ladies, having resided here until about a year ago when she moved with her parents to Detroit. She was a member of the 1913 graduating class of the Plymouth High school, and also a student of the Ypsilanti Normal. The groom is a musician of considerable ability, having done academic work at both the University of New York and Michigan. While in New York, he conducted music in one of the large churches at the Bronx, and at present is organist and choir director at the North Woodward Avenue Methodist church, of which Dr. M. S. SUDDEN DEATH OF WM. CARRUTHERS

William Carruthers of Millerton, New Brunswick, Canada, aged 72 years, died at the home of his son, Charles J. Carruthers, in north village, last Sunday morning, of heart trouble. Mr. Carruthers and his wife had arrived in Plymouth the previous Friday, and expected to remain for an indefinite time at the home of their son. The funeral services were held from the Carruthers home on Mill street, Tuesday afternoon, Rev. S. Conger Hathaway officiating. The Masonic order of Plymouth had charge of the services at the grave in Riverside cemetery.

Three children were born to this union—Grace J., now deceased; William Alexander, who died Nov. 7, 1919, and Charles J., the only surviving child of Plymouth, Michigan. Mr. Carruthers was a member of the Masonic order of Plymouth and was instrumental in building the church of Millerton. At various times during his life, he was connected with fraternal organizations retaining his membership in the Masonic order for forty-four years and until the time of his death. THE SUMMER DIET

Vegetables and fruits—that is the correct summer diet, for Mother Nature has intended that we should always eat things that are in season. From spring until fall foodstuffs are green and watery, with lots of mineral salts in them and sugar. Then with the cooler days the heavier foods are necessary, grains with their starches and fats, foods that can be carried through the winter. And the acids—don't forget that. There is more acid in summer fruits than in those which can be carried through the winter and these acids enable us to withstand the higher temperature; they are good for us or they would not be found in such abundance in the fruit we eat. And it is this acid which also enables us to keep our system in good condition in the summer.

This old furnace of ours we call the body burns the fuel nature provides, and it is fitted for the seasons. If you will only feed the body furnace according to nature's rules—by eating things in season—and not seek to stuff it with fuels that are not adapted to the temperature that prevails; you'll be healthy and happy, no matter how hot it may get. Ask the doctor, the next time you meet him on the street, what causes the greatest number of cases of sickness here in Plymouth in the summertime, and he will tell you that it comes from disobeying nature's rules for eating in hot weather. And this is good sensible reasoning that neither the editor nor the doctor would think of charging you for.

Long Life Signs.

It is said to be possible to distinguish a long-lived person from one who will not last so long at sight. Are you going to live long? First, according to well-known authority, says London Answers, the primary conditions of longevity are that the lungs, heart, digestive organs and brains should all be long. If such be the case the trunk will be long and the limbs comparatively short. A good indication of longevity, it is said, is a long hand with short fingers, which are not stumpy at the ends. Blue, hazel or brown eyes, too, are said to denote a long life. Another sign—large, open and free nostrils which denote large lungs! If you are a long liver, you will appear tall when seated and short in standing. Your breath, we are also told, will be deeply scented, as portrayed by the orifice of the ear being low. Women seem to outlive men, for it has been recorded that from birth to ten years of age male death rate has exceeded the female.

A Native Flashlight.

The native's view of the Egyptian occupation in Egypt is given in a new book, "Gordon at Khartoum," there is a refreshing if somewhat irrelevant exception that, however, dates back to the days before the great English soldier's fate was sealed by the delay of the relief expedition at Mehemeh. Gordon approached his mundane matters from the point of view of an old Hebrew prophet, going to the Scriptures to find all necessary directions both for his temporal and for his eternal needs. This profound mysticism had another side, according to Nash, the native critic referred to above. "Yes," said Nash, "General Gordon reads the Bible all the morning and then he gets up and hangs a man."

Dangly Enemy of Fruit Trees. A dangly enemy of the tree caterpillar, which is very destructive to all fruit trees. The reddish brown moth lays its eggs in the form of incomplete belts on the smaller branches, each belt or packet consisting of hundreds of tiny eggs glued together and covered with varnishlike substance, says the American Forestry Magazine. These eggs hatch early in the spring and the young caterpillars make their way to the nearest fork where they spin a little tent of silk to protect them. They work out from the tent, feeding on the leaves and striving to the tent as they need more room. If there are many colonies working on a tree they soon strip it of leaves.

The oldest white oak in Dedham, Mass., bearing the distinction of having been selected as suitable material for the frigate that still lies at anchor of Charlestown—Old Ironsides—has been nominated for a place in the hall of fame for trees being chosen by the American Forestry Association of Washington, D. COLLECT SHEAF SAMPLES FOR FAIR EXHIBITS NOW

That sheaf samples of grasses and grains, which are to be entered in fair and grain show competition must be selected at the right time if successful specimens are to be collected, is the statement sent out by A. L. Bibbins, secretary-treasurer of the Michigan Crop Improvement Association.

"Collect clovers and vetches when in blossom," says Mr. Bibbins, "alfalfa when just beginning to bloom, and timothy and other grasses when heads are nearly ripe. Soy beans when the plants are well podded, but beans immature and the leaves still fresh. For sheaf grain samples, pick out of your field nice ripe heads and tall stalks of oats, barley, wheat, fresh. For sheaf grain samples growing and allow to cure under cover. For bundle of mature soy beans select plants having a large number of uniform, mature pods."

Detailed information regarding preparation of samples for exhibition may be had by writing Mr. Bibbins at East Lansing.

This is regarded as a purely technical proceeding, however, as it is the opinion of the military authorities that both men were acting within the line of duty.

Ludington—Though a playmate made an attempt to rescue him, Saul Homel, 9 years old, was drowned while swimming in Lake Michigan. His companion, Howard McElroy, narrowly escaped the same fate when the boy grasped him as he tried to bring him ashore. McElroy was forced to strike the drowning lad to free himself. Homel was the son of Maurice Homel, a Detroit, who recently moved here.

Grand Rapids—Merl Bader, 7 years old, who was cruelly beaten by his stepfather, Jacob Nemire, died at the home of Dr. William A. L. Dursum, after more than three months of suffering. From a robust boy he had wasted until he weighed only 24 pounds. An autopsy disclosed that death was due to a tumor on the brain. Nemire now is in jail serving a 90-day sentence following a plea of guilty in justice court to a charge of assault and battery on the boy.

Detroit—Droga Bellatic, who is a steadfast if unwelcome admirer of Mrs. Stephen Welemira, cannot take a hint, like being shot through the arm, to stay away from the object of his desires, but he will not bother her for the next 60 days, at least. Droga's latest expression of his feelings toward the woman of his desire took the form of a brick, which he is said to have hurled through the window at her husband. He was sentenced to 60 days in the house of correction by Judge Cotter.

Coldwater—Lawrence Chapman, 18 years old, was drowned at the Narrows, while trying to swim across the lake.

Bay City—Albert Walkman, 8, found some pills at his home. After locking himself in the bathroom he ate a number. He is dead.

Grand Rapids—Earle Cristy, 22, received a fracture of the left leg when his motorcycle collided with an automobile at Comstock park.

Grand Rapids—S. T. Richards, of Johannesburg, South Africa furniture manufacturer and dealer was in Grand Rapids to observe local marketing and manufacturing.

Detroit—Helen Setek, 3, of 116 Thaddeus street, backed into a kettle of scalding water, which her mother had placed on the kitchen floor. She died a few hours later.

Grand Rapids—Mrs. Anna Pheian, 60, of Ludington, is in St. Mary's hospital with a fractured leg and other serious injuries as a result of an automobile collision near Sparta.

Petoskey—Authorities are unable to find the mysterious Mrs. Josephine Starks, summer resorter, alleged to have swindled Petoskey and Boyne City merchants out of approximately $1,500.

Ferndale—Charles Price of Detroit was fined $50 by Justice Gordon for violation of traffic laws. Reckless driving and disorderly conduct were also charged and he pleaded not guilty, demanding a jury trial.

Grand Rapids—When the hydraulic hoist, used to convey parcel post mail from the basement of the postoffice to the loading platform dropped, Kay F. Bates, truck driver, and Joseph L. McKenna, were severely injured.

Adrian—Lightning struck the residence of F. W. Wickwire, making Mrs. Wickwire unconscious, and of John Tankalalis, damaging it; also the barn of Milo Aldrich, burning it, and killed a valuable horse on the farm of M. A. Baker.

Bay City—Because a car of potatoes was delayed 10 days $935 damages was awarded the C. L. Randall Co. against the Detroit & Mackinac railway. The railway will appeal on the ground that the shippers signed a waiver of damages.

Detroit—Doris Fletcher, 14, who lives on the Eight Mile road and VaA Dyke avenue, was struck by a machine driven by Roy Kebbe, who took the lad to the Samaritan hospital, where he died. Kebbe, held by order of the sheriff, says the boy ran directly in front of his machine.

Grand Haven—Eastman Kodak Co. purchased of N. E. Brown, inventor, an automatic kite camera device. The company manufactured the product during the war. It was used on airplanes, making it possible for an aviator to photograph desired objects without carrying a photographer.

Adrian—The Adrian school board has announced a raise in tuition of county students to $75 for the senior high and junior high and $50 for all grades under the junior high. The highest rate was $40. Two hundred and twenty-nine rural students attended Adrian schools last year.

Millford—For the first time in 38 years there has been a change of pastor in the Millford Presbyterian church, due to the death of the minister, Rev. Alexander A. Wilson, who has served during that time. The new pastor is Rev. L. S. Brooke, who has a long record in the Detroit Presbyterian.

Grand Rapids—Owen D. Pickard, 21, of Sparta, who has a wife and child, has been sentenced by Circuit Judge John S. MacDonald to the state reformatory at Ionia for one to five years for larceny. Pickard was released last year from the reformatory after serving 17 months and placed on probation.

Mantec—Three hundred men were thrown out of work as the result of the destruction by fire of the $1,000,000 sawmill and saw block of the Buckley & Douglas Lumber Co. The fire invaded the residence section, nearly a dozen dwellings being destroyed. The plant was the largest here, the sawmill a relic of old lumber days, but the saw block was comparatively new.

Bay City—Mrs. John Volker was fatally injured by an automobile driven by her son. The son, warned by a policeman that his lights were out, stopped to fix them. His parents, stopped on. Unable to get his lights going, the son started on in the dark. At the first corner he ran into a man and a woman. He did not know until he stopped that they were his parents. Mrs. Volker was 50 years old.

Pontiac—Seeing a little leg sticking out of the water near the end of one of the many boat wharves at Lake Orion, Mrs. Frank Miller, of Ann Arbor, who is spending the summer at the resort, called for help and got the body out of the water. It proved to be that of her little son Bobby, 4 whom she was looking for. He is thought to have walked off the end of the wharf and landed in the soft mud head down.

Ferndale—Frank Price, Ferndale, is being persecuted by Ferndale village officials, he claims. He was arrested on a charge of reckless driving by Village Officer George Hughling at Woodward avenue and Nine-mile road, and for disorderly conduct and driving without a license. The village has retained Ray E. King, as special counsel to prosecute Price. He asked for a change of venue, alleging that Justice Hoolcy made some remarks about the case which might be considered prejudicial.

Buick Valve-In-Head Success

The Buick Valve-In-Head motor car's sales record each season is a good example of the confidence and prestige that the world's buyers have placed in Buick quality and manufacture.

The famous Buick policies and principles of twenty years ago still remain intact in Buick construction. They have stood the test of years of constant operation. Naturally the quality, endurance and economy which has been so essential to over five hundred thousand Buick owners in the past is now eagerly sought for by thousands of future motor car purchasers.

Today the Buick Valve-In-Head built by the pioneer builders of Valve-In-Head motor cars stand pre-eminently before the entire motor car field as "first choice" among motor car buyers.

When better automobiles are built, Buick will build them

HOOPLA! CIRCUS DAY ALMOST HERE

RINGLING BROS. AND BARNUM & BAILEY GREAT DOUBLE SHOWS ARE IMPATIENTLY WAITING.

The world's two most famous circuses now merged into one and headed this way and will exhibit at Detroit, Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 2 and 3.

It would seem as though everybody in this locality were planning to attend. The very name of the great new circus—Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined—has been sufficient to arouse far more interest than has ever before been shown in the coming of any amusement enterprise. And word from the Ringling Brothers, who are the directors of this gigantic circus, is to the effect that those who attend the performances will witness the greatest program ever presented in America. This is likewise true of the mammoth street parade, which will positively take place show-day morning, the mammoth menagerie and all else connected with this biggest of all amusement institutions. The famous showmen have made a complete survey of both the great circuses and merged the finest and best of each into one. Hundreds upon hundreds of performers will appear in the gigantic main tent. There will be scores upon scores of the cleverest dumb actors. A gorgeously costumed pageant of stupendous size will open the program. Great companies of characters, representing the best-loved stories of fable and nursery lore will appear. There will be splendid and many groups of beautiful horses in jeweled trappings. The army of clowns exceed all past records for fun and numbers. All contribute to the biggest circus in history.

Northville's chautauqua opened Wednesday of this week.

The Milford, Oakland Co., Fair will be held on September 15-18.

It is estimated that 500 Washtenaw county dogs are slated to be killed because their owners have failed to pay the license.

Ypsilanti business men are planning an outing to which all citizens will be invited. It will be held in August, but the exact date has not yet been set.

The South Lyon Presbyterian church is endeavoring to add to a bequest of $8,000 for an endowment fund of $50,000. They have already reached $20,000.

Dearborn's assessed valuation this year is $10,501,125, approximately $1,000,000 more than last year. The new tax rate is $8.54 per thousand, an increase of 17 cents.

Rev. O. Peters left last week for an extended trip to Saginaw and points in Wisconsin. While away Rev. Peters will attend a synod meeting. The pastor expects to be gone two weeks.—Wayne Weekly.

The automobile owners of Washtenaw county, paid in $96,955.58 in license fees to the state during the first six months of the year, which will entitle the county to receive back $48,477.84 for road building.

Edwin H. Smith, county clerk of Washtenaw county, announces himself as a candidate for the probate judgeship of that county at the primaries to be held August 31st. Mr. Smith was a former Salemite.

Some months ago the Northville Chamber of Commerce was run down by a "divver," while walking down the highway of public progress and before it could gain its equilibrium other forces came along and buffeted it, while still others belittled its efforts and declared the youngster could not long survive. A few faithful friends endeavored to nurse the organization back to health and vigor and to repair the fractured structure, but owing to the state of putrefaction their efforts failed and the condition of the patient grew gradually worse until claimed by death the first of July, and it has gone to join that innumerable host of similar organizations which have been formed in nearly every community in the state. The end came peacefully and there were but few mourners when the spirit of life went out. In fact, the circumstances of its demise resembled the death of a relative who was very wealthy, but who remembered all his kin. The mourners could not weep, and they dared not rejoice.—Northville Record.

We've all heard a good deal about the class of people who drive through the country in automobiles and consider themselves privileged to help themselves to fruit, vegetables or anything not fastened down, but here's a new variation of the story. Last Saturday forenoon Mrs. Judson Bamber, after baking a batch of cookies and leaving them on the kitchen table to cool, went out into the garden a little distance from the house without taking the precaution to fasten the kitchen door. Looking toward the house as she was about to return, she saw a man going down the steps. Thinking it was one of the neighbors, she called to him she would be there presently but he hastened to a waiting automobile and sped away to the north. She heard the party laughing, and the cause of their mirth was apparent as she surveyed the kitchen table from which all the cookies except a very few, were missing. But we'll bet a cookie that a batch of Mrs. Bamber's cookies would be an irresistible temptation to most anybody.—Milford Times.

QUAINT OLD ENGLISH CUSTOM

Dwellers in Cornish Village Maintain Their Right to Look on Statues With Reverence.

In Launceston, a small town in Cornwall, one image and one old custom have remained in spite of the Puritans, says a contributor to London Country Life, who relates a curious survival of the old days when Oliver Cromwell and his image-smashing soldiers ruled England. Perhaps it was because the Cornish did not take kindly to the Puritan spirit, continues the writer, but the Magdalen of Launceston remains and the people of Launceston still believe in her power for good and evil. The figure, which rests in a conopse niche between the center of the three windows at the east end of the parish church, is a little less than life-size, and represents the Magdalen as lying face down in an attitude of grief. By her side is what is described as a skull or the box of ointment.

What is still more interesting is the large number of stones, pebbles and pieces of slate always to be seen scattered and untidy on the back of the figure or upon the sill of the window above. They represent the triumph of custom or superstition. The people believe that if you cast a stone upon the figure and it remains upon it you will get your reward. If you treat the statue with disrespect you will suffer. The stones on the window sill represent failure; those on the figure, success. The people of Launceston are reluctant to talk about this belief of theirs. If you ask, they will half shyly tell you that the children believe it, and that they remember that when they were children they threw a stone up when they wanted a new pair of boots or a treat of some kind.

"And did you get it?" you ask. "Yes," you will generally be told. "Yes," if you watch, you will see that the children still believe it, and that some of the "children" have long since passed school age. The stones are always there, always increasing. Of the many stories I heard of the Magdalen of Launceston one was of how the narrator, when a boy, many years ago, came running home from school and, passing the statue, jumped at it to hit its face. He told me that it might have been that or it might not, but before he was out of the churchyard he slipped, sprained his ankle and was in bed for many days. No one seems to know how old the custom is, but the same itself is not old as ecclesiastical figures count age.

Power From Gas.
The question of transmitting power long distances by means of gas made the coal fields is raised in the engineering supplement of a British paper. One of the objects sought in erecting the proposed capital power stations in England and distributing electricity from them, is to save the cost of conveying coal to individual factories. It is possible that the same advantage would be realized by transmitting gas instead of electricity.

It is suggested further that the gas now made in a multiplicity of gas works scattered all over the country could be generated on modern lines in large works on the coal fields. The writer calculates that the money spent on the carriage of one year's coal by one of the London gas undertakings would alone suffice to pay for a main large enough to bring from Yorkshire all the gas it makes in the year.—New York Post.

Nitrate From the Air.
When Thomas Edison was asked recently what he considered the greatest inventions since the electric light, he mentioned first wireless telegraphy and second the American process for making nitrogen from the air. Before the war we depended upon Germany for our supply of nitrogen, and especially for the fertilizers which made our farms so productive. The Germans had deposits which they only need dig out of the ground to sell at enormous prices. Today there are great plants in the south where the air is put under pressure and frozen to a liquid form from which in turn the nitrogen is extracted. The supply is of course absolutely limitless. By harnessing water falls to these plants the work is done very cheaply.—Boys' Life.

Canaries Betrayed Burglars.
While on patrol on Henry street one night recently a canary bird flitted by Patrolman Killea, followed by another. Above him half a dozen more were flying about.

Killea investigated and found that the exodus of canaries was from a bird store. Inside, in the semi-darkness, he saw five men moving about, whom he arrested. They were locked up on charges of burglary.

Louis Polizza, who owns the bird store, said about seventy-five or a hundred of his canaries had been freed. He estimated his loss at $200.—New York Mail.

Rice Long Cultivated.
Rice is generally considered a native of China, probably due to the fact that Emperor Chin-Nong, who ruled 2800 years before Christ, established a ceremonial ordinance which prescribed that the emperor should sow the rice himself, while four other kinds of seed may be sown by princes in his family.

And in America—
In Japan hissing means delight and usually signifies a greeting; in West Africa it denotes astonishment; in the New Hebrides it is evoked by anything beautiful. With the Basutos it is a sign of cordial agreement.

When the train came in back in 1910

TEN years ago you might have seen one or two automobiles waiting outside the station, when the weather was pleasant.

Today the square is crowded with them. And most of the cars you generally see there are moderate-price cars.

II

Anybody who tells you that owners of moderate-price cars are not interested in the quality of their tires has never met very many of them.

We come in contact with the small car owner every day and we have found that he is just as much interested as the big car owner.

III

There is one tire, at least, that makes no distinction between small cars and large cars so far as quality is concerned—the U. S. Tire.

Every U. S. Tire is just like every other in quality—the best its builders know how to build.

We feel the same way about it. That's why we represent U. S. Tires in this community.

Today's Reflections

Considering the vast number of people now wearing silk shirts and silk stockings, what do they do with our cotton crops?

In one respect some Plymouth men are like a church, they never start hustling till they get a debt of their hands.

The time has long since passed when we dared to talk back to either the cook or the hired hand.

Possibly the girl who daubs her face with paint a half-inch thick thinks the tattooed lady in the circus is perfectly horrid.

We doubt if there is a man or woman in Plymouth who can say they ever made a success of picking out a husband for a young lady friend.

Mr. Harding says he will have the solid vote of the Jones family. Now, if Mr. Cox can corner the Smith vote, he ought to have no kick coming.

The American public is quick to forget—and that is why it pays so little attention to straw votes or Wall street betting.

Why doesn't the fair price commissions in this country enliven things by offering a prize for a few fair prices.

When the doctor asks you if you've been eating potatoes, he is trying to find out your financial condition and not the condition of your system.

About the only time some Plymouth men begin to economize is when the collection box gets around to them.

Old clothes are much worn these days, and yet that doesn't seem to make them fashionable.

Scientists say the smallest thing in the world is a "quantel." They don't make any mention of a pay envelope after the grocery bill is paid.

Many a Plymouth man who thinks he won a prize when he married, finds out later that he only entered into another guessing contest.

Among the men we usually try to avoid meeting on the street is the fellow who says, "I told you so."

After all vacation time is only the season of the year when the farm dwellers go to the city and the city folks go to the farm.

The old-fashioned Plymouth man who used to whistle at his work, now has a son who swears while he washes his automobile.

The Girl at Central

Not long ago, near Flint, Michigan, in a fire that threatened a huge loss of life and property, a brave telephone operator remained at her post sending out calls for help until her switchboard was put out of commission and her clothing enveloped in flames.

This is only one of hundreds of cases that are on record where operators, on their own initiative, saved entire communities from burning, floods or other danger by calling all available help from surrounding districts.

The Michigan State Telephone Company is naturally very proud of its operators—proud of their heroism and unflinching courage, but it is prouder still of this rare sense of duty that has always prompted the operators to stick to their posts in the face of danger, epidemics and storms.

It is this kind of devotion to service that has given telephone operators, not only a conspicuous place in the hall of fame, but a prominent place, too, in the hearts of the community they serve.

For your telephone operator, highly trained, as she must be, proficient to a wonderful degree in her work and unflinching in her traditional devotion to her service, is, after all, just an ordinary girl.

She is the kind of bright, active, intelligent girl that you, if you knew her, would go out of your way to show every courtesy.

In most cases she is a home girl and in every case, we know, she is the best protected girl in any kind of work in the city.

We want to tell you many things about your telephone operator—of the motherly care that is taken of her during working hours, of the care that is taken of her health in her work. We want everyone to know why a telephone girl finds her work so inspirational, personal and serviceful—of her opportunities and her happiness in her work that go so far to make your telephone service better.

Now, we are introducing your telephone girl to you, because we know that in this closer acquaintanceship you will find much that is helpful in your relations with the most personal service you command—your telephone.

LIVES IN MEMORY

New Yorker Recalls Delightful Evening With Twain.

Baffled That He Saw Great Humor in His Best When He Sat by the Fireplace and Smoked With Him.

It is only about forty years since I spent a most delightful evening with Mr. and Mrs. Clemens at their newly-built home in Hartford, yet the Sun and New York Herald refers to the house as "one of the oldest residences in New England from the point of construction," says the writer of a letter to that newspaper.

Undoubtedly your reporter wrote that it was "one of the oddest," and he was right. The types were guilty of a characteristic prank.

We sat in front of a goodly old-fashioned fireplace and smoked such tobacco as I liked—that is, he and I did—in the long-stemmed clay pipes they call churchwardens, while Mrs. Clemens looked on with smiling toleration, contributing the gracious charm of her presence to the entertainment he was giving to a casual guest who had scant claim to the hospitality he was enjoying. I had called as a stranger on a professional business and had been received socially.

Clemens was at his best—and let me say that best was never bettered by anyone else. His monologue of narrative and epigrams was drawn out through a long evening, as I laughed, and Mrs. Clemens smiled, and Mark bustled himself cleaning, burning out and filling pipe after pipe—there were a dozen of them standing in the corners of the fireplace—and handing them to me or lighting one for himself as fast or even faster than they were needed. There were two of them alight all the time.

I wish I could remember what he said, but I can recall only one remark, and that was too trivial to repeat, though I laughed at it as heartily as I did at all the other nonsense. It was not what he said so much as the way he said it.

P. T. Barnum, the great showman, told me that he, too, kept on laughing all the time Mark Twain talked to him. "But my wife doesn't," he said. "Mrs. Barnum has not a very keen sense of humor and she is a little afraid of laughing at the wrong time, so she sometimes seems unappreciative when Mark is really funny even for him."

"She has found out for herself, though, a pretty good rule to go by," he continued. "You see, she and I frequently visit with Mr. and Mrs. Clemens, and I noticed after a while that she was always watching Mrs. Clemens, so I asked her why she did it, and she told me that it was because Mrs. Clemens did not always laugh as other people did when Mark spoke. 'But when she laughs,' said Mrs. Barnum, 'I know it must be really funny, so I laugh, too!'"

"I call that pretty shrewd," continued the old showman with one of his own hearty laughs, "and I took to doing the same thing myself. It worked well, I must say, for I noticed after a while that Mrs. Clemens never laughed excepting at the very best of Mark's jokes. I suppose she must have got tired laughing all the time before that."

I knew the great man for a long time after that wonderful evening, but I never felt that I knew him any better.

Colossal German Theater.

One of the world's most colossal theaters, and by far the most bizarre, is the great auditorium recently opened in Berlin. The dreary exterior of the building is nonstrous, but gives little promise of the surprise within. The curving walls of the foyer, says an illustrated article in Popular Mechanics Magazine for May, merge into a domed roof, supported by carved mahogany columns. The upper portion of each column is formed by many disks that radiate orange and blue light from concealed bulbs. The auditorium itself suggests the Greek open-air amphitheater. The 3,000 seats are ranged in horseshoe plan around an arena, or more properly, an orchestra.

Chess Expert Doomed.

Senior Capablanca has set up as remarkable a record as ever made in any sport in his chess exhibitions in Great Britain and Ireland. His total score in 1,352 games is 1,253 wins, 71 draws, and 28 losses. His opponents have included all the best English players. He taken them on thirty or more at a time. To each move on the board the Cuban master devotes an average of nine seconds, his victims six minutes. Recalling the tragic history of the great chess experts, of Morphy and others, one asks fearfully, when will Capablanca go insane?—New York Globe.

Made Vacation Profitable.

A unique vacation was that of Dr. William Goodwin, superintendent of the general hospital at Staten Island, who camped for one month in the maple orchard of Frank Taylor of Harwinton, Conn. He combined business with pleasure, worked nights as well as days and made seventy-six gallons of maple syrup.

Self-Evident.

Paerich—"I wasn't born with a silver spoon in my mouth." Wigwag—"No, I notice you eat with your knife."

Summer Complaint Quickly Believed.

"About two years ago when suffering from a severe case of summer complaint," writes Mrs. Bessie B. Clark, "I was cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I have since written to you an excellent remedy for summer complaint and should be glad to see it in every issue."—Advt.
