SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 5

TWO UNION SERVICES At 10 o'clock in the First M. E. Church
At 7:30 o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church

Come and hear a Layman's message.

Representatives of GIDEON'S BAND, speakers and musicians, to take part in each service, including Sunday-school.

The Band of Gideon is an organization composed entirely of traveling salesmen. The Gideons are Christian men who feel that, although their traveling life makes it impossible for them to work with a church organization in their homes, yet they desire to do something to promote religious growth. One of their special activities has been the placing of Bibles in public places, especially in the rooms of hotels and lodging houses. Over 16,000 Bibles have been placed in the hotels of Michigan alone. THEY WILL HAVE A MESSAGE FOR YOU.

Sabbath-School at 11:15. The Gideons will be there? Will you?

Topic for Wednesday night, "God's Voice in Mountain and Valley." Psalms 23 and 121.

PLYMOUTH'S POPULATION 2,857

THE CENSUS FIGURES SHOW THAT PLYMOUTH HAS MADE A GAIN OF 1186 SINCE THE LAST COUNT WAS MADE

According to the preliminary announcement of the bureau of the census, Plymouth has a population of 2,857. This is a gain of 1186 over the census of 1910, which gave Plymouth a population of 1,671. In 1900 we had a population of 1,474 or a gain of 1383 in twenty years. The past two or three years has seen the greatest growth in Plymouth's history, and there is every indication that the next few years will see even a greater growth. The population of Plymouth township including the village is 3,539. We give below the population of the incorporated cities and villages in Wayne county:

Belleville village	1920	1910
Dearborn village	626	486
Detroit city	2,470	911

PARAMOUNT WEEK IN LOCAL THEATRE

PENNIMAN ALLEN THEATRE WILL OBSERVE NATION-WIDE EVENT, SEPTEMBER 5-11.

SPECIAL FEATURE PICTURES WILL BE SHOWN ON FOUR NIGHTS OF THAT WEEK.

The Penniman Allen theatre will join with all the best theatres of the United States in celebrating Paramount Artcraft week—September 5-11. This week marks the opening of the fall season—the refreshing indication to the public that the best show time of all the year has come again. The Penniman Allen theatre shows Paramount pictures because the word Paramount is a standard of the very highest quality. Paramount pictures are produced by an organization that has back of it all the resources, all the directorial and acting talent, all the wealth of the finest stories and all the inspiration that comes from real, honest-to-goodness high ideals—ideals that are content only with the very best. When you see a Paramount picture you know you're seeing the best, the best that money can buy, and the best that money can buy is just the sort of thing that's good enough for the Penniman Allen theatre.

The management of the local theatre have given much care to the selection of some extraordinary feature pictures for Paramount Artcraft week, and special efforts will be made to make this week a red letter event in the history of the Penniman Allen theatre. There will be four shows next week as follows:
Monday, Sept. 6—Wallace Reid in "Double Speed."
Tuesday, Sept. 7—Enid Bennett in "Whatever Woman Learns."
Thursday, Sept. 9—Charles Ray in "Alarm Clock Andy."
Saturday, Sept. 11—Special Production, "The Coet."

McCleary & Karrow of Detroit, are the new proprietors of the Pierce Restaurant at the P. M. depot. They will serve regular meals at all hours of the day or night, and don't a first class restaurant. They ask the patronage of the public and especially Plymouth people.

SALVATION ARMY BAND DRAWS GREAT CROWD

THE LARGEST CROWD OF THE SEASON MARKED THE CLOSING OF THE SUMMER FREE ENTERTAINMENTS LAST SATURDAY EVENING.

The largest crowd which has gathered in Plymouth this summer for the free entertainments on Saturday night, to hear the concert given by the Salvation Army band of Detroit. The streets were thronged with people, and every available parking place was filled with cars. Redford, Northville, Walled Lake, Wayne and Ypsilanti were represented in the big crowd.

The concert given by the band of fifty pieces was of a high order and every number was roundly applauded by the crowd. The program was interspersed by several songs and readings, which added greatly to the pleasure of the evening. Sheriff Coffin's quartette rendered several selections that were also much enjoyed. The members of the band were much pleased with their visit to Plymouth, and expressed a desire to come again at some future time. It might be interesting to note here that the members of the band receive no compensation for their work, as individuals, but all money received for their playing as an organization goes to the Salvation Army fund. They are devoted to their work, and the thought that they are doing their bit in a great cause is their only reward.

The entertainment of last Saturday night closes the series of free entertainments which have been held on Penniman avenue this summer.

FARMER FATALLY INJURED

WILLIAM McDONALD DIES FROM INJURIES RECEIVED BY FALLING THROUGH OPENING IN HAY MOW.

William McDonald, employed on the Emmons Gill farm, of Cherry Hill, fell through an opening in the hay mow of the barn to the cement floor below, last week Thursday afternoon, sustaining injuries which caused his death. Undertaker F. D. Schrader was called and brought the remains to the Schrader Bros. funeral home, where services were held Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. Rev. Frank M. Field officiating. Interment in Riverside cemetery. McDonald was 57 years of age and unmarried.

DEATH OF MRS. JOHN STRENG

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Helen Streng, wife of John Streng, which occurred at her home in Highland Park, Wednesday morning, Sept. 1st. Mrs. Streng had been in failing health for several months. The deceased is a sister of Mrs. William Gayde of this place. Mr. and Mrs. Streng were former residents here, having been engaged in the hotel business at one time. The funeral services will be held from her late home on Beardford avenue/Highland Park, at one o'clock Saturday afternoon, and burial will take place in Riverside cemetery, Plymouth. Friends here extend sympathy to the bereaved family.

MILLARD BARR GETS COMPLIMENT

In its account of the recent I. O. O. F. celebration, the Wayne Weekly has the following complimentary notice of the Millard band of this village:
"Band concerts by the Plymouth band by the way, a musical organization of more than usual merit were a feature of both days, and their work was most pleasing."

The Free Press gives the estimated payroll of F. W. Voorhees, for the year ending Sept. 30, as $100,000. The paper's auditor, seems to have defeated Green.

PLYMOUTH SCHOOLS WILL OPEN

PUBLIC SCHOOLS WILL RESUME WORK AFTER SUMMER VACATION, TUESDAY, SEPT. 7TH.

On Tuesday, Sept. 7th, the public school will resume the work of making a better tomorrow. The boys and girls who have rested and rusted, regretting the opening of school, also who have been hustling during the summer in the great out-of-doors, looking ahead to the happy days of association with fellow students and teachers, will realize to their sorrow or joy that society has decreed, "Education is necessary to good government and happiness."

To those having passed the eighth grade, this date should bring careful, honest and serious consideration. The problem today is not whether to attend school, but rather what school to attend.

In the recent past when positions sought men, there was a serious problem concerning one's earning capacity before and after attending High school, but times are now approaching when the normal man will be or woman with a High school or college education (other qualifications being equal) receive in competition for positions the distinction which he merits.

The Board of Education has endeavored to adapt the course of study in Plymouth High school to best meet the needs of all pupils in their district and the adjacent community.

The new athletic field and playground with its base ball diamond, foot ball gridiron, running track and tennis court is certainly a fitting monument to the co-operation of the Board of Education, village commission and management of the Plymouth Base Ball association, and a blessing to all students of the school.

The Plymouth High school is glad to welcome all girls and boys who wish to enlarge their possibilities for advancement and service, for by your co-operation with its splendid corps of teachers in the use of the completely equipped school will aid you in achieving the success to which you aspire.

CONNER HARDWARE STORE BURGLARIZED

The store of the Conner Hardware Co. was burglarized last Friday night or early Saturday morning. The thieves gained entrance to the store through the cellar window. Several watches, flashlights, etc., were taken, amounting in the neighborhood of $100. No clue to the robbers has been found by the officers.

Norman Schoof and cousin from Northville, are visiting relatives at Gladwin, Mich.

WHERE THEY COME FROM
 Our next president will be either the son of a farmer or the son of a country doctor, and he will also have the pleasure of knowing that a good deal of his early experience in life was spent right around a town no larger than Plymouth. For he is known that the farm and the small town have produced more presidents than have the cities.
 Of the twenty-seven who have been elected to the head of our government, sixteen were born on the farm. The list includes: George Washington, John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, James Monroe, John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson, Martin VanBuren, James Polk, Zachary Taylor, Millard Fillmore, Franklin Pierce, Abraham Lincoln, U. S. Grant, James A. Garfield and Benjamin Harrison. Twenty-one presidents have lived to complete their terms of office. Twelve of them retired to the farm. Twenty-two of our presidents have belonged for a part of their lives to the farming class. Only five, Arthur, Cleveland, McKinley, Taft and Wilson have not at some time earned their living by cultivating the soil. Senator Harding was born and reared in a village. Gov. Cox was born on a farm, and today owns and oversees the cultivation of that same farm.

 Perhaps Governor Thomas W. Bickett of North Carolina, had all of this in mind when he once said: "The small farm owned by the man who tills it is the best plant bed in the world in which to grow a patriot. On such a farm it is possible to produce anything from pecks of potatoes to the hill to a president of the United States."
THEY'LL NEVER DIE
 There is one class of weeklies which will never die as long as men and women live together in small communities and in well settled countryside. It is what the reading public of America calls, "the country weekly."
 And right here we would say to the people of Plymouth and community, that a well-conducted country weekly, and hundreds of them are well conducted, does not attempt at all to compete with the big city dailies, with their dozens of pages in every issue and thousands of inches of feature articles and display advertising. The country weekly that is properly conducted does not try to cover in its news column all the news of the world, which it knows its readers will get from other sources more fully than it could give it to them. It is satisfied to give its readers all the news of the town, community and neighborhood news. Its field is limited, for every live town has one or more weeklies, but as long as human beings remain interested in their own doings and those of their friends and neighbors, the field will be there, insensibly demanding to be filled. When a so-called "country editor" has the ability to gather all this news and to present it attractively, and combines with this an honest mind and a clean and kind heart, for use in his editorial column, he does for the souls of his readers what the country doctor does for the bodies of his patients.

 We are not throwing bouquets. We are merely stating facts for the benefit of that fast dwindling class of people in his country who haven't yet found out the mission of the "country weekly."
GREAT ALFALFA YEAR
 Whether the average Plymouth citizen realizes it or not, this has been a great season all over the United States for alfalfa. Its cultivation in this country began in the dry regions, because it has a habit of sending its long roots far down into the earth to gather whatever moisture there is hidden below, but recently it has been shown that it thrives in regions where there is considerable moisture.
 While alfalfa is comparatively new in the United States, it is one of the oldest of cultivated crops. It was known and appreciated a thousand years before Christ tramped the rocky hills of Palestine. When the Medea and Persians were trying to exterminate each other, their horses were being sustained upon alfalfa hay. Europe cultivated it a thousand years ago, and the Spaniards carried it across the ocean to South America. A Catholic priest introduced it into this country within the last hundred years, and it was not until twenty-five or thirty years ago that it began to be cultivated as a commercial crop in the United States, making its way from California across the plains and thence to almost every section of the land. Today it is one of the most valuable crops in America, and this year of all years the harvest is a record-breaker and worth many millions of dollars.

THE FREE ENTERTAINMENTS
 The Saturday night free entertainments given in Plymouth the past summer have brought large crowds to town on every occasion. For a number of years the business men have been giving these free entertainments, and they have proved a great advertisement for the village. People come here on Saturday nights from far and near, because Plymouth has the reputation of being great entertainers, and that they have been more than pleased with the attractions provided this season, is very evident from the fact that the crowds have been growing larger with each succeeding entertainment.
PLYMOUTH'S POPULATION
 Plymouth's growth in population during the past ten years is a matter of general satisfaction to our citizens. While we have not had a boom of any kind, yet we have made a remarkable gain in population. The next ten years will show an even greater growth, if all indications count for anything.

day owns and oversees the cultivation of that same farm.
 Perhaps Governor Thomas W. Bickett of North Carolina, had all of this in mind when he once said: "The small farm owned by the man who tills it is the best plant bed in the world in which to grow a patriot. On such a farm it is possible to produce anything from pecks of potatoes to the hill to a president of the United States."
THEY'LL NEVER DIE
 There is one class of weeklies which will never die as long as men and women live together in small communities and in well settled countryside. It is what the reading public of America calls, "the country weekly."
 And right here we would say to the people of Plymouth and community, that a well-conducted country weekly, and hundreds of them are well conducted, does not attempt at all to compete with the big city dailies, with their dozens of pages in every issue and thousands of inches of feature articles and display advertising. The country weekly that is properly conducted does not try to cover in its news column all the news of the world, which it knows its readers will get from other sources more fully than it could give it to them. It is satisfied to give its readers all the news of the town, community and neighborhood news. Its field is limited, for every live town has one or more weeklies, but as long as human beings remain interested in their own doings and those of their friends and neighbors, the field will be there, insensibly demanding to be filled. When a so-called "country editor" has the ability to gather all this news and to present it attractively, and

PLAYER-PIANOS

Including Bench, Cabinet and 12 Latest Music Rolls

THIS is a brand new, full-size Player-Piano, and plays all standard 88-note rolls. It is plain in design, being built on the most modern artistic lines. It has a five-point motor, bell metal plate, spruce sounding board, ivory keys and ebony sharps and all the latest improvements. It is priced far under prevailing prices for equal quality. This is possible only through the foresight of our factory in purchasing, months ago, the necessary materials to increase its output. Everywhere piano dealers and even manufacturers are short of stock, while our factory has nearly doubled its output for this year. Large production means the reduction of cost of manufacturing as well as overhead cost, which is shown in the price change herewith. Now is the time to make your selection before a change in conditions sends prices up.

WINTER TOPS—THE SEDAN KIND

A few years ago the Columbia Body Company made winter tops for Ford only they are now building winter tops for all makes of cars, each and every top is specially designed for a specific car. The tops, therefore, blends as perfectly with the lines of your car as a custom made body. It is light in weight, rigid in construction and fits perfectly. No overhanging, no squeaking and absolutely no rattling.

No matter if it is cold or raining, or if it is snowing or blowing, you ride as snug and comfortable as in the finest limousine.

The Columbia Body Company will accept orders now for future deliveries; in placing your order now for a Columbia Body Top they will build it and will give you a guarantee of delivery whenever you want it—September, October, November or December. They also have a easy payment plan. You can order your top today and pay what you like and the balance in monthly installments up to January 1st.

When you visit the State Fair it will afford you an opportunity to go to the Columbia Body Company's sales room, 21-29 Selden Avenue, where you can see a full line of Columbia Body Tops. The Columbia Body Company have been building tops for a number of years and have succeeded in making a top that will transform your open car into a handsome Sedan. Columbia Tops are installed at our salesroom free of charge. If you do not have a Columbia Agent in your town write for Columbia Body Co. Winter Top Booklet.

Buy a Columbia Winter Top to assemble on your open car. It will take care of your winter troubles. Write for our Catalogue of bodies for Ford cars and all Commercial Trucks.

Seven Things To Be Sure Of

IN THE PURCHASE OF YOUR PIPELESS HEATING SYSTEM

1. That the quality of heating service assures a comfortable, clean, healthful home in any weather.
2. That the convenience of simple operation, regulation, and quick heating compares favorably with much more expensive types of heating systems.
3. That the low first cost is due to economy of material and labor instead of cheapness of construction.
4. That the fuel bill can be reduced from 1-4 to 1-3—enough to save handsome dividends on the amount invested.
5. That the "upkeep" or expense for repairs is positively less than any other types of heating systems.
6. That you are protected at this store, because of the manufacturer's refusal to authorize installation where their trained heating engineers cannot safely guarantee it to operate efficiently in your home, their decision being made after careful study of conditions in your home—no guess work—thus protecting all concerned.
7. That the purchase will increase the value of your property more than the amount invested.

ALL ARE TRUE OF THE ROUND OAK THAT'S WHY WE SELL AND RECOMMEND IT STATE FAIR VISITORS—Visit either of our down-town stores and let our heating expert go over the proposition with you

'ROLLED BY WIVES'

Mail Sent Up Long Ago by Dignified Roman Senator.

Statesmen of the Great Empire Might Be Supreme Over All Mankind, but They Were Powerless to Control Women.

The "modern woman" with her new-found interest in politics and law-making is not as purely a twentieth-century product as most of us imagine.

Take, for example, in 215 B. C., when a bill regulating women's dress was brought up before the Roman senate.

Unfortunately, however, the matrons and mistresses of the republic couldn't see it. They definitely objected to it.

Let us not pry too closely into the family secrets of the senatorial households! Why attempt to visualize the dignified politician who swayed the votes of hundreds trying to explain to his late spouse that really, my dear, it was not a personal matter.

When the question reached the senate the feminists adopted even more militant tactics. They tried "picketing."

And, naturally, the law was repealed.—George W. Lefingwell, Ph. D., in New York Post.

Improved Water-Wheel Governor.

Overshot water wheels respond only sluggishly to a governor that opens and closes the gate, while one that sets a brake on the main shaft wastes water, because the gate remains wide open.

Was She Right?

Four-year-old Mary Ellen is much given to bumping her knees and skinning them. So her mother makes her wear long stockings when she is out playing with the children.

She voiced her protest the other morning: "I don't see why I have to cover my knees when we're at home and then let them show when we go places," she said poutingly: "You and daddy don't do that way."

A Dickens Memorial.

Number 48 Doughty street, where Dickens settled down after his marriage, and where he completed "Pickwick," "Oliver Twist" and "Nicholas Nickleby," is coming into the market, and there are great hopes that it will be purchased on behalf of the Dickens Fellowship.

Eclipse of the Sun.

A total eclipse of the sun is expected to throw light on Australia. That is another way of saying that technical expeditions may be expected to hasten to the Commonwealth in 1922.

ARE YOU HUNGRY FOR A REALLY GOOD PLAY

THE COURAGE OF MARGE O'DOONE WILL SATISFY YOUR APPETITE.

If it is a genuine, tingling thrill you hunger for—some rare, red blooded adventure out in huge chunks from the flanks of life in the raw; spiced with romance and sprinkled throughout with suspense, or, in plain words, you are looking for the prize photoplay of the season, the one that has all the zip and zest that you have looked for so vainly, your hunger will be satisfied on Saturday, September 4th, when "The Courage of Marge O'Doone" will be shown at the Penniman Allen theatre.

There are primitive men, gritty and beautiful women, men fighting against the elements, men against man, bear fights and the long lonely trails that break the hearts and sinews of men; there is that red blooded romance and adventure of the great story right where it belongs, right where it is bred.

CHANCERY NOTICE

No. 1288G. STATE OF MICHIGAN, The circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw in Chancery.

In the matter of the petition of Clarence W. Alsbro and Matilda Alsbro for leave to sell real estate.

At a session of said Court held at the Court House in the City of Ann Arbor, in said County, on the thirtieth day of August, 1920.

Present, The Honorable George W. Sample, Circuit Judge.

The petition of Clarence W. Alsbro and Matilda Alsbro representing, among other things, that the said Clarence W. Alsbro has a life estate and the said Matilda Alsbro has a conditional life estate, subject to be defeated upon certain condition in certain lands, tenements and hereditaments, in the Township of Salem, Washtenaw County, known and described as the southwest one-quarter of the southwest one-quarter of Section Eight (8) Town One (1) South of Range Seven (7) East, and said petitioners therein praying that the said premises be sold and the proceeds of said sale be held in lieu thereof and invested under the order of the court and thereafter treated as real property and subject to the same disposition as would have been made of said property had the same not been sold, having been duly filed in this court, and it satisfactorily appearing to this court that it is for the best interest of all persons interested in said premises that the prayer of said petitioners be granted, on motion of John S. Dayton, attorney for petitioners, it is ordered that all persons interested in said property do appear before this court on the sixteenth day of October, 1920, at the opening of court on said day and show cause, if any exist, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted.

It is further ordered that a copy of this order shall be published once in each week for three successive weeks preceding the sixteenth day of October, 1920, in the Washtenaw Post, a newspaper printed and circulated in Washtenaw County, Michigan, that being the county where said property is situated, and in the Plymouth Mail, a newspaper printed and circulated in Wayne County, Michigan, that being the county in which the petitioners reside, and that a copy of this order be served on Oscar Ahlro, Nellie Bird, Cora Gale, Ivy Amsterburg, Helen Corbin, Hazel Clark and Ruby Alsbro, persons interested in said premises.

GEO. W. SAMPLE, Circuit Judge.

Countersigned, Claramon L. Pray, Deputy Clerk.

John S. Dayton, Attorney for Petitioners, Business Address, Plymouth, Mich.

Today's Reflections

Some Plymouth people like their town without doing very much to make their town like them.

A western man has been fined $50 by a judge over a telephone. He ought to appeal on the ground that he's entitled to a new "hearing."

Whatever else there may be in the way of a food shortage next winter, there'll be plenty of "crow" for defeated candidates.

Most Plymouth men are like pins—they are no good when they lose their heads.

Another firm that has hung together for a good long time is that old partnership of Comb & Brush.

Maybe the man who goes over Niagara Falls in a barrel only wants to show there's still some use for a barrel in this country.

We long ago found it is impossible to suppress the Plymouth man who thinks he can tell a funny story.

A hoop is about the only thing left in his country that can make both ends meet.

You have also probably noticed this time, that the fellow who in a war doesn't care anything

A clever Plymouth girl is one who knows what you mean when you say things you don't mean.

Saying the right thing at the right time, is just the same as keeping your mouth shut when you haven't anything to say.

The trouble with sending a diplomatic note to the Russians is there are so many of them who can't read.

Our advice to the young Plymouth man hunting a wife is not to marry one with bobbed hair. In case of a fight you've nothing to drag her around by.

Most any farmer can tell you that the freshest thing to be found on a farm is a city boarder.

Prices may be expected to take a drop when the number of people satisfied to run a wheelbarrow is in proportion to the number satisfied to run an auto.

The case is growing serious when a Plymouth girl can distinguish the sound of the fellow's auto horn from among all the rest.

We have always observed that people with no children of their own, don't believe in spanking.

OLD MAN WISE SAYS:

When looking for the big chance don't overlook the bets right in front of you.

If Abraham Lincoln split rails as a starter, what handicap do you ask for in life's race?

When some men marry they take to slippers and the easy chair, and then tell themselves that getting married ruined their chances.

Some men who can't put two dollars in the bank each week can make a gambling punch board look like an exhausted meal ticket.

Some men won't let an employer help them buy homes, but will go down town and let a total stranger tell them that the employer should be forced to buy them homes.

The man who believes it is too late for him to start now was making excuses when he put on his first long pants in each day.

Good Morning!

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

(Copyright, 1919, Western Newspaper Union.)

It had been a pleasant day and evening for Muriel Delevan, and she was content to linger upon the porch and dream over the various events that had made her nineteenth birthday a red letter event in her life. There had been tennis all the afternoon and music and dancing until eleven o'clock and now, nearing the mystic hour of midnight, the last guest had departed.

Old Abel Strong, the gardener and general major domo, had retired after a final survey of the grounds. Mrs. Walters, the housekeeper, was going upstairs to her room when Rose, the younger sister, came out and sat down in Muriel's lap and put her arms lovingly about her neck.

"Tired, dear?" she cooed in gentle, soothing tones.

"No, just lost in happy dreams," came the low murmured reply. "I think I shall never forget this great, lovely day of my life."

"Do you think Rodney Blair will, either?" mischievously inquired Rose.

"Oh, I don't know," replied Muriel in an ecstasy of emotion, but he was so kind and thoughtful and almost sentimental.

"And he stole away from the others in your stroll about the grounds. Why, you palpitating, ecstatic little humbug, you are in love with him and afraid to think it!"

"Now, Rose—"

"No, now Muriel!" disputed Rose, "you are to come to bed at once. You know we promised papa early hours while he was away and here it is going towards one o'clock. Come, dear," and Rose led her sister into the house and they went up stairs.

Rose was yawning and sleepy, but she indulged her sister in not hurrying her from a final survey of the numerous gifts she had received. There was a diamond ring from her father and a handsome wrist watch from her Aunt Dorothy. There were minor articles of jewelry from her girl friends and there was a bouquet from Rodney Blair which she had placed upon the little stand at the head of the bed. Muriel stole a glance at Rose who had already retired, noticed that she was asleep, selected a bud from the bouquet and turned out the light and tiptoed softly to the open window. She pressed the cherished flower to her lips and looked out upon the garden. Life seemed still and sweet, the zephyrs blew gently down a vale of bliss. There seemed to be a rare magic where the moon, shining through the trees, illuminated dells of fairy light. She was lost in maiden reverie until a wavy glow of light showed, disappeared, moving about from spot to spot beyond a long row of stately lilies.

Instantly Muriel thought of some lurking marauder. She recalled that her absent father always kept money and securities in the library safe. Then, top, a sudden inestimable value to her cherished present was presented to her active mind. She swept the jewelry from the stand into a drawer and quietly left the room. Abel Strong, the gardener slept in an attic over the kitchen. She reached his door and tapped.

"What is it?" at length sounded a sleepy voice.

"Please get up at once," answered Muriel. "Some one is prowling about the garden—some one with a flashlight."

Abel came out in a few moments—a pistol in either coat pocket. Muriel related what she had seen.

"You stay on the porch here, Miss," spoke Abel finally. "I will leave one of the pistols and if the light comes near the house fire it off as a signal to me."

It was an exciting and suspenseful five minutes for Muriel. The flashes of light had ceased, there was an interminable silence and then approaching voices sounded and the gardener and another came into shadowy view. Muriel stepped to the door, reached in and turned on the porch light.

She stood spellbound as the illumination revealed the gardener and Rodney Blair. The latter held a flashlight in one hand, in the other a long, flat wallet.

"If you please, Miss," spoke the gardener, "the gentleman says he will explain to you about his being here," and with a slight smile on his face went away around the house.

"Why, won't you be seated?" bewilderedly uttered Muriel.

"I must be an unwelcome intruder, causing you such an unwarranted alarm," said Blair, equally confused.

"When we—that is, in the stroll about the garden last evening I must have dropped a letter from my pocket. It was one I had written to my mother and, Miss Delevan, let me make a full confession. It was all about you. Perhaps the clearest thing to do is to ask you to read it."

With growing emotion Muriel perused the missive in which Blair told his mother of his love for her and asking if she would welcome the loveliest girl in the world as a daughter-in-law if he could win her.

Rose Delevan was a heavy sleeper, but she had awakened at the echo of voices. She had gone to the window of her room and peered down at the porch wonderingly.

"Oh, I am surely dreaming," she fluttered, for on its lower step Rodney Blair was kissing the hand of her sister in a tender—

"Good night, my love!"

"Good morning, you mean!" cried the irrepressible Rose and Muriel ran into the house, alarum with happy blushes.

Just What She Needed

"I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets some time ago and they proved to be just what I needed," writes Mrs. Volva Bankson, Chillicothe, Mo. "They not only relieved me of indigestion, but toned up my liver and rid me of backache and dizziness that I had been subject to for some time. They did me a world of good, and I will always speak a warm word for them."—Advt.

Fordson
TRADE MARK

The Fordson cuts the cost of preparing land almost as it costs with horses. But even more important is the Fordson saves from thirty to fifty per cent of the farmer's time saved—getting fields in shape to plant in the spring, getting things done when they should be done—means more for the farmer. Besides it solves the labor problem.

As ever, the machine-way is proving more efficient, faster than the old-hand way. In the factory, the machine increases production, saves labor—produces more at less cost. And that is the Fordson does on the farm. The Fordson way is the machine way of farming. Besides it solves the labor problem.

The Fordson's first cost is the lowest in the market; and its operating cost is lowest. It is a compact easily handled tractor backed by the greatest tractor service organization in the States.

We are Fordson dealers. Not only do we sell Fordson tractors but we carry a stock of Fordson parts and employ Fordson mechanics to help the farmers get the best results from the Fordson.

You can hear it in our store

—the phonograph that is featured in Vaudeville's strangest act

Perhaps you've seen it—Signor Friscoe's "Magic" Xylophone Act. It's the hit of vaudeville's "Big-Time." Signor Friscoe's "magic" is an Official Laboratory Model of the New Edison. We have one exactly like it. Signor Friscoe's instrument is an exact duplicate of the original Official Laboratory Model, which cost Mr. Edison three million dollars to perfect. Our instrument is also an exact duplicate of this famous three million dollar original. We guarantee it to be able to give the same marvelous RE-CREATIONS of music, which Signor Friscoe's Official Laboratory Model gives in vaudeville.

Come in and test the astonishing realism of this instrument for yourself—in Mr. Edison's Realism Test.

The NEW EDISON
"The Phonograph with a Soul"

You've read how the New Edison has proved its perfect realism. Four thousand tests have been given, in which more than 50 different artists compared their art with its RE-CREATION by the New Edison. Leading newspapers conceded that there was no difference between the two.

Has any one suggested to you that these comparison tests are "faked"—that the artist imitates the New Edison?

Signor Friscoe's performance makes such an assertion positively ridiculous. Every week, 20,000 people see his hammers ripple over the xylophone keys. Suddenly he holds them aloft—still.

The rippling music continues.

Slowly, the gorgeous curtains of the back-drop part. The audience gasps. The New Edison stands revealed. It has taken up Signor Friscoe's performance, and is now RE-CREATING it alone. The effect of this extraordinary magic can rest upon only one fact: No one can distinguish any difference between Signor Friscoe's performance and its RE-CREATION by the New Edison. Signor Friscoe could not possibly imitate the New Edison, because the xylophone was not made to imitate any other instrument, so as to deceive its hearers.

Signor Friscoe's act is not an Edison enterprise. He has simply been clever enough to use the New Edison for what it is worth. Why don't you?

PRICES

The price of the New Edison has increased less than 15% since 1914. This includes the War Tax.

Mr. Edison has staved off price advances by personally absorbing more than half of the increased cost of manufacture.

Because of the exceptionally high quality of materials and workmanship demanded by the Edison Laboratories, and the untimely scarcity of both, it may be necessary to advance prices. But rest assured that this will not occur, unless Mr. Edison is forced to it.

Our Budget Plan—the thrift way of getting—will help you buy now. Let us tell you about it.

Houghton—Twelve range lights at Portage entry, formerly operated by oil burners, now are electrified. The current is supplied by a submarine cable. Nine additional lights in this part of the Keweenaw waterways will be included in the new system as soon as the cable can be extended.

Portland—Roy Paine, a balloonist, lost his life when he landed in Grand river, north of this village. Paine was 30 years old and had made ascensions all summer at Pine Lake near Lequette. Failure to unnap his life belt is believed to have caused his drowning. He was a good swimmer.

Eaton Rapids—Pollution of the waters of the Grand River, probably by the refuse of industrial plants, is being investigated by Deputy Game Warden Frank Miller. He believes the cause of the destruction of fish, hundreds of which have been found floating in the river recently. The city's sewage also enters the river near the point where the fish were found, and due to low water during the summer season, this may have an effect in destroying the game species. An investigation will be made.

Detroit—Two patrolmen said to have accepted money from disorderly women were dismissed from the force by the police chief here. Mrs. Mahal Gilmore, 18 Mountain street east, testified that she had given $25 to patrolman Clyde Weaver during June, July and August for protection. "The whole thing is a frame-up," former testified. He declared she will appeal to the civil service commission. Patrolman Julius Tojak was also accused of receiving money from Mrs. Gilmore and from Helen Miller, 2122 Western street.

Low and Jealousy

By WALTER J. DELANEY

Jealousy was the bane of Elvira's life, but it centered itself upon one person solely. Her fiance, Arthur Waltham, was a truly devoted lover, but before he had known Elvira he had been a pretty constant visitor at the Randall home, just across the street from that of Elvira, and that was enough to inject a sentiment of suspicion and dislike as to the daughter of the house—Blanche. To Elvira she was a heartless flirt. By others she was considered companionable rather than flirtatious. She was a beautiful girl and loved variety and excitement. Everybody knew that she was engaged to a wealthy New Yorker, away in Europe, and the young men who danced attendance upon the exacting beauty were well aware of this fact, but the charm of her company was worth the seeking, even transiently.

As to Blanche herself, she had frankly told her intimate girl friends that she was bent upon the full enjoyment of life until she settled down into wedded life. Elvira was too sensible to fall Arthur Waltham of the secret, though she had endured whenever she saw him enter the Randall home. It was possible that Blanche suspected her jealousy and took a certain delight in showing her supremacy over men in general. Only once had Waltham alluded to the circumstance of his being a good deal at the Randall home.

"Burton Randall and I were college chums and I count him as my dearest friend," he told Elvira. "Lately we have been rehearsing a little comedy we are to present before the alumni down at old Chester, so we spend a good deal of time together."

That satisfied Elvira for the time being, but when she would see Waltham and Blanche in the garden of the Randall home her soul would expand with resentment. He always spent Thursday evening with Elvira, and she counted the hours until Sunday arrived, when she would have him with her again. One particular Friday was a day of morbid anxiety and wretchedness when, late in the afternoon, she saw Waltham enter the Randall home carrying a suit case. By a morbid mood Elvira watched from the curtained window, and when Elvira was announced pleaded indisposition and sat at her post, a torturing jealousy gnawing at her heart. She aroused to a new token of interest as Waltham came out into the garden about dusk and opened the door of the garage. He turned on the lights, worked about the automobile and then honked the horn. At once a hurrying figure arrayed in a dress Blanche wore frequently, for it was a favorite with her, and very tasteful and becoming, indeed, as Elvira had to acknowledge, came to the garage, was beset beside Waltham and away sped the machine.

"Oh, this is unbearable!" quivered Elvira. "If Arthur was all he pretends to be to me, he would have told me something about this. He placed a suitcase in the car, Blanche carried her wraps as if for a long drive and—there poor Elvira broke down utterly and sobbed forth her desolate misery for an hour or more.

All kinds of foolish notions filled her mind. She even imagined an elopement as the hours wore on, and she never removed her glance from the house opposite.

"You look worried, quite ill," her mother commented as Elvira forced herself to come downstairs at breakfast, but Elvira made some trivial allusion as to a bad headache, and eating little and talking less, immediately retired to her room to renew her miserable vigil.

About ten o'clock in the morning the Randall automobile circled from the street into the garage. The figure in that hateful, familiar dress went at once into the house. It wrrenched Elvira's heart to see her lover pat her shoulder with a reckless familiarity that shocked her finer sensibilities.

With set lips and strongly determined eyes Elvira went out into the garden and seated herself on a rustic bench facing the home where Waltham seemed to be so welcome a visitor. Two thoughts were in her mind—to ask her parents to allow her to visit a relative at a distance for a prolonged period, to write Waltham that his brazen perfidy had placed a forever irremovable barrier against all the future.

The door of the house opposite opened. Arthur Waltham came down the steps, sprightly, smiling-faced. As he cast a glance at the home of his dear one he must have caught sight of the figure on the garden bench. Elvira shrank and shivered as he crossed the road, quickly leaped the hedge and was at her side.

"A complete success!" he cried buoyantly. "We got word, Burton and I, to come down to the alumni jamboree too late yesterday for me to get an explanation to you. Our little act, with him the heroine of our little sketch, arrayed in his sister's finery, just brought down the house. Why, Elvira! What in the world is the matter?"

She had wavered and fell into his arms in a dead faint, but when she opened her eyes again it was to cling to him in perfect joy and trust, and never a word about her foolish jealousy.
