PLYMOUTH DEFEATED TWO TO ONE

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL DEBATING TEAM LOSE OUT AT KALAMAZOO AFTER A CLOSE CONTEST.

The Plymouth-Kalamazoo debate was extremely close and extremely exciting from start to finish. The Kalamazoo team consisted of two boys and one girl, Allan Maybee, Donald Gorham and Winifred Axell; and the Plymouth team consisted of two boys and one girl, namely, Lyman Judson, Etha Wisley and Charles Chappel. Each team had one veteran debater, Allan Maybee for Kalamazoo and Lyman Judson for Plymouth.

Our three Plymouth speakers never did better work, in spite of the trying circumstances under which they spoke. The Kalamazoo Normal people interrupted the debate three times with cheering and applause, which interruptions are expressly forbidden by the constitution of the Michigan High School Debating League. Approximately 450 people heard the debate.

The judges were Prof. Ewbank of Albion college; Mr. Perry of the Grand Rapids Social Service department; and Prof. Lardner of Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill.

The bright spot for Plymouth in the whole Kalamazoo trip was the vote of Prof. Lardner of Northwestern University. Prof. Lardner's vote is more to be desired than that of almost any other judge in the country. For twenty-five years the University of Michigan won everything in oratory in this part of the country, but the past ten years has seen most of the oratorical laurels go to Northwestern University. Northwestern University has been beating the universities of Wisconsin, Chicago, Illinois, Minnesota, Ohio State, and Michigan in debate and oratorical contests. The Northwestern coach has been Prof. Lardner, who voted for Plymouth at Kalamazoo.

Prof. Ewbank of Albion, said that he would have voted for Plymouth at the end of the main speeches, but he thought that Kalamazoo beat us on rebuttal. Prof. Lardner said that Plymouth won on their main speeches, and beat Kalamazoo completely on rebuttal.

Throughout the debate our two Plymouth boys appeared to be practically equal with the Kalamazoo boys; however, our boys were slightly superior in that Charles Chappel's voice was much better than Mr. Gorham's of Kalamazoo, and Lyman Judson spoke as a proper rate of speed, whereas Allan Maybee spoke too fast according to the three judges. Etha Wisley most certainly beat the Kalamazoo girl by a wide margin, as you will see if you attend the Kalamazoo Normal-East Jordan debate at Ann Arbor, May 6th.

During the past two years, Plymouth's debating team has won sixteen out of seventeen debates. We had hoped to make the record every one out of eighteen, but instead we shall have to be satisfied with Prof. Lardner's vote an honor worth having.

Plymouth's debate fans are planning to be in Ann Arbor, May 6th, for the Kalamazoo-East Jordan debate—C.

WOMAN'S CLUB MET

A regular meeting of the Woman's Club was held in the kindergarten room in the school building last Friday afternoon, April 15th. About twenty-five members were in attendance, and the president, Mrs. D. F. Murray presided over the business session.

A motherhood quotation was the response given to roll call. The program in charge of the seventh division with Mrs. Elmer Bennett, leader, was given as follows: Opening number, two piano selections, Miss Gladys Schrader. Paper, Mother's Pensions, Mrs. Pierre Bennett. Two vocal numbers, "Lullaby" and "At Dawning," Miss Evangeline Foster with Miss Evelyn Thomas accompanying. Current Events by Mrs. Ben Gilbert concluded the program.

Next Friday, April 22nd, will occur the annual meeting and all members are requested to be present fifteen minutes earlier, as the meeting will call promptly at two o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

Paul Phillips of Elm is driving a new Ford touring car.

GIRLS' BASKET BALL TEAM TO PLAY HOLLY, APRIL 29

Arrangements have been made this past week for a basket ball game with Holly. The Holly girls' team have not lost a game this season, and neither have the Plymouth girls, so the game should be a very close and interesting one. The game is to be played on the Holly floor on Friday night, April 29, and if the Plymouth team wins, the girls will then have a chance to play the East Lansing basket ball team, which holds the championship of the state. The girls have played twelve games this season, and have come out victorious in all of them, giving them the championship in the Four-Square League, in which Plymouth plays. Of course the girls are out of practice now, but with two weeks of training again, they should be in very good shape to play a snappy game with Holly.

TWO WEDDINGS

Hoffman-McKinney
Miss Flossie B. McKinney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam McKinney of Livonia, and Clarence M. Hoffman of Detroit, were united in marriage by Rev. S. Conger Hathaway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this place, at the Presbyterian manse, last Wednesday afternoon, at four o'clock. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate families of the contracting parties. After the ceremony, the bridal party went to the bride's home in Livonia, where a fine supper was awaiting them. Covers were laid for fifty guests.

Thursday morning, Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman left for a few months' sojourn in southern California, and on their return they expect to reside in Detroit, where the groom is in the employ of the Michigan Central railroad. The best wishes of many friends go with them for happiness and prosperity.

Ebersole-Herrick
Miss Gladys Herrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Herrick of Northville, and Clarence Ebersole, also of Northville, were quietly married in Detroit, Wednesday afternoon, April 20th. They were accompanied by the bride's sister, Miss Faye Herrick, and Howard Benton of Northville. The bride is known in Plymouth, as she was a former resident here, and a pupil of the Hymn-wood High school. The groom is in the employ of the Ford Tractor plant. Plymouth friends extend best wishes to the happy couple for a prosperous wedded life.

O. E. S. ELECT NEW OFFICERS

At the annual meeting of the Order of the Eastern Star, held in Masonic hall last Tuesday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

W. M.—Flora Rathburn
W. P.—C. H. Rauch
A. M.—Clella Smith
Secretary—Mary Brown
Treasurer—Lena Willett
Con.—Kyla Chambers
A. C.—Edna Todd

The officers will be installed Tuesday evening, May 3rd. Each member is privileged to invite one guest.

A NEW FIRM

We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of A. J. Baker and Emmett Kincaid, under the firm name of Baker & Kincaid, who have taken over the repair department of the new Reo Sales and Service Station. Both gentlemen are experienced automobile mechanics. Mr. Baker has been conducting a garage on Dodge street for the past several months, while Mr. Kincaid has been associated with Charles Hadley in conducting a garage opposite Kellogg park.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roberts are entertaining the latter's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Longley, who returned last Friday from California, where they have been spending the winter. They report a pleasant winter and delightful climate. They reached Michigan just in time to enjoy the Sunday snow storm.

MANY ATTEND OPENING OF NEW GARAGE

In spite of the inclemency of the weather last Saturday afternoon and evening, many people attended the opening of F. W. Hillman's new garage at the corner of South Main street and Maple avenue. Mr. Hillman had a nice display of Reo and Gardner cars for which he has the agency, on exhibition, which, of course, was the feature attraction of the opening. Each lady present was given a carnation, and the gentlemen were regaled with cigars. Mr. Hillman was much pleased with the opening day, which resulted in securing a number of good prospects for cars.

PLYMOUTH WILL CELEBRATE THE FOURTH

The entertainment committee of Tonguish Lodge, No. 32, I. O. O. F., are making the preliminary arrangements to stage the biggest Fourth of July celebration that has ever been pulled off in Plymouth, the coming Fourth. It's going to be a real celebration from the firing of a salute of fifty guns at sunrise, until the last sky rocket is touched off in the evening.

WATER SYSTEM IMPROVEMENTS STARTED

The Cooper-Widemann Construction Co., of Detroit, have a force of men excavating and erecting concrete plant at the village reservoir near Waterford. Work has also commenced on the improvements at the wells. The village employees have taken up about 700 feet of iron pipe line between the spring and reservoir, and are nearly ready to relay the same.

William Streng was given a pleasant birthday surprise at the home of her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kenner on Harvey street, last Thursday evening. About twenty relatives and guests were present. Cards were the entertainment and refreshments were served. At a late hour the guests departed, wishing Mr. Streng many happy returns of the day.

NO BUILDING SLUMP

All predictions of a spring slump in the price of residences and real estate have been called off. This refers to Plymouth, the same as it does to New York, Chicago or any other place in the United States. The man who owns his own home here can now rest content that it's not going to decline in value as rapidly as some predicted a year or so ago. In fact, real estate men say the price of home and building lots all over the country is now fixed, and any change will be of such a local or minor nature as not to be noticeable.

With this in view, you can go right ahead now and improve your property as you had planned, knowing that if you sell it at any future time you'll be repaid for those improvements. If you put down a new walk in front of it, no matter what that walk costs, you have simply added that sum to the value of the house, and it is just the same as adding that much to your bank account. If you have outbuildings to erect go ahead with them; if you haven't as much shade as you'd like, then get the trees—good ones—and plant them at once. Every dollar you spend improving your property simply means that much added value if you ever want to sell—it means more, for improved property will always bring more than it cost to improve it.

Real estate markets are not going to rise and fall like the price of sugar, coffee and other commodities. It's going to stay within a few dollars of where it is. The only kind that will fall in price is the kind that isn't kept in repair. Remember that, and go ahead with the improvements you should have made a year ago.

MRS. JOHANNA BOLGOS PASSED AWAY SUNDAY

DECEASED HAD RESIDED IN AND NEAR PLYMOUTH FOR MANY YEARS AND WAS ONE OF THE OLDEST RESIDENTS.

Johanna Louise Justine Bolgos, nee Blankenburg, was born the 8th of May, 1838, in Reiersdorf, Province of Brandenburg, Germany. There she was baptized in the Lutheran faith, received her religious instructions and was confirmed. December 1, 1861, she was married to Gottlieb William Frederick Bolgos, and lived with him in the old country until 1869. July 4th of that year, they arrived in America, and lived in the following places: Livonia, Mich., seven years; Plymouth township, three years; Canton township, four years, and in the village of Plymouth, twenty years. The matrimonial union of Mr. and Mrs. Bolgos was blessed with seven children, of whom five preceded the mother into eternity. Mr. Bolgos died August 21, 1910, and his wife remained in Plymouth for two more years. The remaining nine years she made her home with her son, William Bolgos, of near Ann Arbor, but visiting frequently with her daughter, Mrs. William Blunk, here in Plymouth. On account of the severe sickness of Mrs. William Bolgos, about five months ago Mother Bolgos came to stay with her daughter. Grief and worry brought on severe attacks of an old heart trouble and she suffered severely, although she received all possible medical care and the best of nursing. She knew that the end was slowly drawing nigh, but was prepared for it, yet longed for it and prayed that it might come soon. Sunday morning the Lord fulfilled her desire, and took her home, as you might say, putting her to sleep, as a father does his child. She attained an age of eighty-two years, eleven months and nine days, and leaves two children, William Bolgos and Mrs. William Blunk, daughter, and a son-in-law, eight grandchildren, seven great grandchildren and many friends. Funeral services were held at St. Peter's Lutheran church, Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Charles Strasen preaching the sermon. Interment in Riverside cemetery.

DEATH OF MRS. FRANKLIN HOOVER

Mrs. Franklin Hoover, who died early Monday, April 18th, after several years suffering and invalidism, was fifty-nine years old, having been born at Welland, Ontario, July 21, 1862. Her maiden name was Emily Jane Dawdy, and she was one of a family of seven children, one of whom died in infancy. When a child of four years she was brought to Michigan by her parents, who made their new home at Fenwick, Michigan. In the month of August, 1876, she was married to Franklin Hoover, and went to Greenville, where nearly all her married life was lived, until in 1912 failing health of both Mr. and Mrs. Hoover made it impossible to continue their own home, and they went to live with their daughter, Mrs. J. A. Kenter, at Durand, and later came with her to Plymouth.

Three children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Hoover, all of whom died in childhood, and to fill the lack in the lonely home another daughter came to receive the care and blessings of their home, now Mrs. J. A. Kenter of Plymouth, who mourns the loss of the mother.

Mrs. Hoover was a life long member of the church, having united with the United Brethren church in childhood and later united with the Congregational church in Greenville, but during her last years of sickness, which confined her to her home, she had not been permitted to share in the active affairs of the church which she loved.

Three sisters and a brother still survive: Mrs. Elizabeth Weh of Plymouth; Mrs. Mary Kalmbach of Grand Rapids; Mrs. Alberta Britton of Greenville, and Harmon Dawdy of Stanton, besides the daughter, Mrs. J. A. Kenter of Plymouth.

Brief services were held at the home, Tuesday morning, after which the remains were taken to Greenville for the funeral services on Wednesday.

James M. Harlow was taken to the University hospital at Ann Arbor, last Saturday, for treatment.

PASTOR PRESENTED WITH NEW SEDAN

REV. CHARLES STRASEN OF ST. PETER'S LUTHERAN CHURCH HAPPILY SURPRISED LAST SUNDAY MORNING.

Last Sunday was a day of great joy at St. Peter's Lutheran church. The 400th anniversary of the Diet of Worms, where Luther upheld the pure doctrine, as taught by God himself in the Bible was celebrated. Prof. Schnute of Northville, presided at the organ and his two sons accompanied him on their violins, furnishing splendid music for the occasion. The local pastor preached an appropriate sermon. A collection of $40 was taken for suffering pastors, teachers and widows and orphans of such in foreign countries.

After the service while the pastor was listening to the postlude of organ and violins, his name was called aloud by Mr. Oliver Goldsmith. When the pastor stepped from the sacristy into the church auditorium, he was led by the arm to the church door, and when the janitor opened the door, he beheld a beautiful Ford sedan, decorated with a bouquet of cut flowers. It was a wonderful sight, the new car, the flowers and the snow storm. The congregation arose and Mr. Goldsmith spoke as follows: "Dear Pastor, Friend and Fellow Citizen:

In behalf of the members of your congregation and of your friends and fellow citizens, I herewith present you with this car.

Receive it, dear Reverend, with the same open heart and in the same true spirit in which it is given, and may you and your family enjoy it to the utmost.

It is given you with a free and clear title, with no strings attached, except—the strings of appreciation and love.

This is not a gift of charity, but is a token of the respect and high esteem in which you are held in this community, not only by your congregation, but by your friends and fellow citizens as well.

Today, I am sure that we are all proud and happy, to know that now, when duty calls you to comfort the sick or to administer at the bedside of those to whom the final hour has come, or to perform the last sad rites, or in your journeys upon pleasure bent we know that now you are not dependent upon friends or neighbors, but that you go in your own car, and that you travel in ease and comfort.

May the God above us guide and protect you, while you are becoming accustomed to the operating of this machine, and may He guide and keep you and yours in all of your journeys.

And may He grant that you remain in our midst many, many years, and may He grant and give you health and strength that you may serve us in the future as you have in the past, faithfully and well.

And lastly, dear Reverend, and this gives me the greatest pleasure of all—I now speak from the bottom of my own heart—I know that today, a great bond has been sealed between yourself and the members of your congregation and your friends and fellow citizens. The great bond of reverence, friendship, appreciation, good fellowship and respect, has been sealed, with that most glorious gift, coming from true and noble hearts, it is sealed with the gift of love.

After Mr. Goldsmith had finished, the pastor walked back to the altar and with a few words thanked all for their token of love, and wished them God's blessing. He said, "I will not say much, because I can't, my heart is too full. May God grant that this car becomes a means for better fulfillment of my duty toward you for spiritual welfare. I accept it from you with the same love in which you have given it."

Mr. Henry J. Fisher then spoke a few words, thanking all the people for the joyful and generous response to the words of the committee, to help purchase this token of love.

member, that just two weeks ago today, we undertook to fulfill a great and good task, that we might express our love and respect for our pastor and fellow citizen, and that we might express and show our appreciation of the good, work being done by him in our community.

You all know, that to attain success, there must be harmony and good fellowship, and I wish to say, in behalf of the committee, that never before, in any of our undertakings, was there such harmony and good fellowship shown as in this undertaking, and we have surely succeeded. The work has been a pleasure to us all, as we were rewarded with such noble responses, with such open heartedness, and in such a good and true spirit.

Ours was not a work of begging and persuading, but a work for a good cause, and we, the committee, wish to say to you that mere words cannot express our thanks and appreciation. So the best we can do is to extend to you, one and all, our heartfelt thanks. Not only for your generous and noble responses, but for the courtesy shown us, the open heartedness and the great and true spirit in which you all responded.

Again, we thank you, each and everyone, and our sincerest wish is, that your undertakings, today, tomorrow and for all time, may be crowned with success.

IRELAND UNDER ALIEN RULE

Power of the Danes Broken by Brian Boru in 1014—Normans Became Amalgamated.

About 800 A. D., the pagan hosts of the Northmen and Danes fell on Ireland with fierce destruction. After a century of destruction, Irish kings led their people in a succession of wars, for the deliverance of their country, and Brian Boru, or Brian Boru (928-1014), king of Munster, by his great victory in the battle of Clontarf, on April 23, 1014, finally broke the power of the Danes in Ireland.

In 1171 Ireland was invaded by the Normans from England, in the time of Henry II, and his conquest began, "In Ireland," to quote the words of Prof. Edward A. Freeman (1823-1892) "the Norman was more purely a conqueror than anywhere else, but in Ireland his power of adaptation caused him to sink in a way in which he sank nowhere else. While some of the Norman settlers in Ireland went to swell the mass of the English of the Pale, others threw in their lot, with the native Irish, and became, in the well-known saying, "more Irish than the Irish themselves."—Detroit News.

THE THEATRE

According to all pre-view reports the story unfolded in "The Scotfer," Allan Dwan's latest contribution to the screen, is one of the most tremendously human of recent productions and the momentum with which the series of exceedingly interesting incidents move forward is described as "an avalanche of life's truest truisms so presented as to entertain royally." This photoplay is booked for a showing at the Penniman Allen theatre on Saturday evening, April 23rd, and there can be little doubt as to the film's popularity here since this community contains its full quota of real lovers of the human side of life.

George Stewart, brother of the beautiful and talented Anita, is also climbing the ladder of success in the motion picture world. He has the most important role of his screen career in "Old Dad," playing as Mildred Harris Chaplin's leading man in his new First National starring vehicle, which will be shown at the Penniman Allen theatre, Tuesday evening, April 26th. Inspired by his sister's remarkable success as a star, George has carefully prepared himself for a career in the silent drama. Heretofore he has played only minor parts in cinema productions. George Stewart's growing talent and progress, however, came under the observation of Director Lloyd Ingraham, who decided he would make an ideal lead for Mrs. Chaplin in her new photoplay.

"The Great Adventure," starring Lionel Barrymore, the noted actor, will be the attraction at the Penniman Allen theatre, Thursday, April 22. This Associated First National picture is the screen adaptation of Arnold Bennett's famous play of the same name, having been successfully produced on the stage both in England and America. In it Barrymore will be seen in a new role, for "The Great Adventure" is a comedy. He has the part of an eccentric artist, who in order to elude a celebrity hunter with matrimony as her object, conceals his identity by posing as his own dead valet, going to "his own" funeral in Westminster Abbey, and sacrificing his worldly possessions.

WAYNE COUNTY BUREAU NEWS

The largest and most important project ever undertaken by the Wayne County Farm Bureau and its extension staff will be that of wiping out in every form tuberculosis in the dairy herds. This action was approved by the executive board of the bureau at its last meeting, and the finances to pay the expenses of the federal veterinarians has now been assured by the board of supervisors.

visors, so County Agent Gregg will file at once the application with the state officials to have this work done. It is calculated that at no distant date all dairy herds in the county must be tested, but this work will be done in Wayne county a little in advance. This is particularly important in the matter of registered cattle. "The villages and rural sections of the county are more interested in this work than Detroit from a health standpoint," Secretary Carmichael explains. "In the city all of the milk is pasteurized, so there is little danger of the tuberculosis from that source, which is not true in other sections. State health authorities consider this the most advanced step that can be taken in the matter of controlling the spread of tuberculosis in Michigan; in fact, it is claimed that the number of cases will be reduced fifty per cent in two or three years."

The federal authorities are now working in Livingston county, but should reach Wayne late this coming summer or fall. At least ten experienced men will come every milk cow in the county will be tested and if found diseased ordered destroyed. Condemned cattle are paid for jointly by the federal and state authorities.

Baptist Notes
The annual meeting of the church will be held at the church, Thursday evening, April 28th. All the church and congregation are invited to come and eat supper together at six o'clock, and then go upstairs to elect officers, receive reports of all departments of the church. The address of the evening will be given by Rev. Grimwood, pastor of the Northville Baptist church. Special music will be given by the choir. The roll of the church will be called also.
Sunday morning the choir gave us some splendid music, and in the evening the young people certainly did credit to the service.

The snow did not seem to hinder the people from coming to church and Sunday-school, as there were more at Sunday-school than the Sunday before.
Miss Elizabeth Beyer led the young people's meeting Sunday night, and it was on "Recreation." Many things were discussed, such as parties, base ball, smoking, dancing, and it was full of good thoughts.
The B. Y. P. U. are planning a banquet about the middle of May. Our state superintendent of young people is expected to be with us.
Wednesday is church cleaning day. All are invited to assist in the good work.
The B. Y. P. U. will hold a pot-luck supper and business meeting at 6:30 next Saturday evening. Every member ought to be there.

Mr. and Mrs. Sayles will be away the most of the week. The Sayles family reunion takes place April 21 at Hillsdale. This year it is on Mr. Sayles' mother's birthday, and will be held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Dr. Martindale. She is 87 years old.
Mrs. Daly has been appointed delegate to the Women's Missionary society to meet at Howell. She is to respond to the address of welcome.
Rev. F. A. Brass of Walled Lake, was a caller at the Baptist parsonage.

MICHIGAN TO RAISE FUND FOR STARVING

STATE CAMPAIGN WILL BRING $350,000 FOR SUFFERING WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

EVERY CITIZEN ASKED TO HELP

May 1 to 8, Inclusive, Set For "Drive" For Share of National Charity Quota.

Every man, woman and child in Michigan whose sympathies go out to the poor, the homeless, the hungry and the unclad, will be asked to contribute to the state's quota of $350,000 in the nation-wide campaign now being waged to raise a total of $10,000,000 for the suffering women and children of Ireland by the American Committee for Relief in Ireland.

While more than 30 states began their campaigns on March 17 and many of them report the raising of their quotas, the "drive" in Michigan will be taken up during the eight days of May 1 to May 8, inclusive. It is planned to have a Michigan organization that will cover every county, every city, every township, ward and voting precinct, that no person may be overlooked in the solicitation of funds.

The American Committee for Relief in Ireland is a purely non-partisan, non-political and non-religious organization, made up, as it is, of men and women of all races and creeds. The organization made its original announcement of formation on the strictly humanitarian basis.

"We do not seek to inquire into nor to discuss the cause of suffering in Ireland," the Committee stated. "We know only that thousands of helpless women and children and old men are without food, clothing or shelter and that it is the duty of Americans to relieve these conditions. Our charity is needed just as badly in Ireland as ever it was in Belgium or any of the other countries of Europe during and following the World War."

The Michigan branch of the Committee is equally positive in its declaration of principals. The members refuse to take any part in a discussion of political or religious questions, basing their appeals for aid solely on the grounds of humanitarianism and the crying need for quick relief in Ireland.

D. J. Healy, Jr., of Detroit, is chairman for Michigan of the National Committee. He has associated with him George F. Carroll, secretary to the State Deputy of the Knights of Columbus, as director of organization, and David A. Brown, of Detroit, the most prominent representative of the Jewish race in the state, as chairman of the executive committee. Mayor M. J. Doyle, of Menominee, is chairman for the Upper Peninsula.

The state committee has undertaken the perfection of an organization that shall cover Michigan thoroughly. Already chairmen have been appointed in many of the 83 counties of the state and others are being selected rapidly. In each county the chairman is appointing committees of workers that will carry the work into every home.

The city of Detroit is being divided into 40 districts and teams of workers under captains will conduct a house-to-house canvass. It is expected that this plan also will be carried out in other larger cities of the state. In Detroit and the other cities, too, mass meetings will be held prior to May 1, and speakers of national fame will come to Michigan for these affairs.

The movement in the state is receiving the unqualified endorsement of men and women of every faith and race. The three Catholic Bishops of Michigan have already signified their intention of sending out pastoral letters urging a ready response from their people. It is also hoped to have like communications from the Bishops of the Episcopal and Methodist churches and from a prominent Jewish rabbi.

Gov. Groesbeck has been asked to issue a proclamation calling on the people of the state to enter into the work. Thomas E. Johnson, state superintendent of public instruction will ask the children of all the schools of Michigan to carry the message to their parents. Mayors of cities are to be asked to issue proclamations, too.

The plan of the state committee includes the starting of the campaign, on May 1, with a "Church Sunday". All ministers in Michigan will be asked to tell their congregations of the purposes of the campaign and to urge a hearty co-operation.

CHURCH AND LABOR CONTRIBUTE

A letter received by the American Committee for Relief in Ireland from Archbishop Hayes, of New York, wished, all success and blessing to this noble and Christian movement, and contained His Grace's check for $5,000. Another gift of $4,800 came from the International Union of Steam and Operating Engineers, with regrets that the sum was not larger.

CONGRESSMAN WILLIAM S. GREENE: America has always been foremost in contributing for the relief of suffering humanity and will again respond to relieve distress among the women and children of Ireland.

Come in and see this better spreader. It's the world's standard—the one the imitators try to copy.

EVERY DOLLAR OF FUND WILL GO TO IRELAND, HE SAYS

Every dollar collected in Michigan's campaign, May 1 to May 8, inclusive, will go for the cause for which it is contributed—the feeding, clothing and sheltering of the thousands of helpless women and children who are today without the necessities of life.

This is the assurance of D. J. Healy, Jr., of Detroit, chairman for Michigan of the American Committee for Relief in Ireland which will raise a fund of $350,000, this state's share of the $10,000,000 national fund.

"Not a penny of the money given in Michigan will be expended for organization work, clerk hire, office rent, salaries or the other necessary expenses of a big campaign like this," Mr. Healy announces.

"All organization and collection expense has been met by contributions made by the leading men identified with the American Committee in the United States.

"We want every man, woman and child in the state to know that every penny will be spent for exactly the cause for which it was contributed, the feeding, clothing and sheltering of the thousands of helpless and starving women and children of the Emerald Isle."

THE REXALL STORE

ONE-CENT SALE!

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 28, 29, 30

What is a One-Cent Sale? It is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price—then another item of the same kind for 1c. As an illustration: The standard price of Rexall Tooth Paste is 25c. You buy a tube at this price, and by paying 1c more, or 26c, you get two tubes. Every article in this sale is a high-class standard piece of merchandise, just the same as we sell you every day at regular prices and have sold you for years.

A New Way of Advertising This sale was developed by the United Drug Co., as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you a full-size package of high standard merchandise for 1c. It costs money to get new customers, the loss taken on this sale will be well spent if the goods please you.

We Do Job Printing

Reunited by Smith's Spite Fence.

By HAZEL BLAIR.

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

It certainly was a desirable property from every point of view, but one point of view was permanently included, and that was the outlook upon old Mr. Smith's garden. It was an enormous garden, almost big enough for the grounds of an institution, and from Mr. Smith's front gate Mrs. Harnack could see rows of magnificent elms and locust trees and flower beds which always seemed to bloom with seasonable flowers. But from her side windows she could see nothing.

"It's the spite fence," explained the agent. "That's why the property's so cheap. Mr. Smith resented the late owner's building next to him, and so he put it up."

So Mrs. Harnack bought the property. It was just the place, she told herself, for a widowed lady to settle down, and there was an excellent finishing school near by for Miriam, her only child. And days passed and weeks passed, but neither saw Mr. Smith.

One day the agent stopped her in the street. "I hear you're going to have a neighbor," he said, grinning. "What, somebody else going to build on the other side?" asked Adeline Harnack apprehensively.

"No, Mrs. Harnack," the agent answered. "Old Mr. Smith's nephew, John, is coming to live with him. Wonder what old man Smith will do with him."

"Teach him to be a fence-maker, I suppose," said Mrs. Harnack crossly. Young John Smith was put into a lawyer's office in Cosset Town. One day, when Miriam had been home from school two weeks, Mrs. Harnack, walking with her, saw her daughter bow, and John Smith raised his hat as he passed on the opposite side of the road.

"How do you know him?" demanded the mother. "Oh, I was introduced," answered her daughter evasively. "Then understand, Miriam, I forbid you to speak to him again or notice him."

"Very well, mamma," answered the daughter submissively. But on the next day carpenters arrived at Mr. Smith's house, and they proceeded to erect a rough scaffolding on the outside of the fence. And the next day painters mounted it, and before nightfall the exterior bore the sign, in huge letters of yellow and red:

"Try Pyramid Pills for That Tired Feeling!" Adeline Harnack was away that day in town. When she came back she saw the legend. She was furious.

"Miriam, I am going to stop this if it takes every penny I have," she said. "I am going straight down to Mr. Capel, the lawyer, to instruct him to get an injunction."

"But, mamma—" "Now, not a word, Miriam!" "All right, mamma, only John—I mean Mr. Smith—is working in Mr. Capel's office."

The name betrayed the secret which the girl's tones concealed. Mrs. Harnack turned on her. "Why do you call him John?" she asked billy. "Is it possible—possible?" She looked at her daughter's scarlet face. "Miriam, has there been anything between you and that contemptible young man?"

Miriam began to cry. "I love John," she sobbed. "And he loves me, and he's coming to see you tomorrow afternoon."

"No, indeed," answered her mother. "I am going to see him, and his uncle, too, and tell them what I think of them."

Her anger was at the boiling point when she arrived at the front door. "Is Mr. Smith in?" she asked of the housekeeper.

"Mr. John Smith, or Mr. Jonathan Smith?" asked the woman curtly. "Jonathan!" said Mrs. Harnack quietly, and the housekeeper thought it was the answer to her question. But Adeline Harnack merely repeated the name in wonder. Could there be two Jonathan Smiths or was it—"Walk in, please," said the housekeeper, and a half minute later the visitor found herself in the presence of the recluse.

He had not changed so greatly. He was the same man whom she had once loved so passionately, save for the tale of years. And he knew her. "Adeline!" he exclaimed, and stumbled forward. And Adeline Harnack somehow found herself in his arms, though it was 20 years since she had left them.

"It's really you, Adeline?" he asked incredulously. "Where do you live? How have you found me here?" "I live next door," she answered. "Next door?"

"Beyond the fence. Don't you remember that I wrote to you? Oh, but you didn't know my married name, did you? I want to tell you so much—but the shock has unnerved me."

He caught her in his arms again. "It is you, then," he said. "I've held you in my heart and fenced you round about—and all the while I was fencing you out, unknowing it. But, Adeline—I shall keep you now—I—"

He paused. "Well, tear down the fence tomorrow," he said, "and then we can talk. Not tonight. Tonight we are a boy and girl together again, as we used to be."

GARDEN NOTES

By M. A. C. Horticultural Dept.
Nothing pays better than thorough soil preparation for vegetable crops. A fine, deep, well-farmed seed bed is essential.
Early planting is one of the secrets to success in growing head lettuce. May King and Mignonette are good early varieties for the home garden. Try Big Boston or California Cream for late.
Melons and cucumbers planted now in pots, berry boxes or inverted soda should be about the proper size for setting in the garden any time after May 25th.
Smooth seeded varieties of garden peas are best for extra early planting. The wrinkled seeded sorts should be planted a little later. Try these for a succession: Alaska (first early), American Wonder, Notts Excelsior, Gradus, Champion of England (requires some support).
Early planted radishes often escape the maggots. Scarlet Globe, White Icicle and Scarlet Turnip White Tipped are good.
Don't leave a heavy mulch on the strawberry bed too long. The plants may smother. It is not necessary to remove the mulch entirely from the bed; simply pull it away from over the tops of the plants into the row.
Don't let the weather fool you. The average date for the last killing frost in southern Michigan is about May 10th. Don't plant beans and other tender crops too early.

FARMERS -- ATTENTION!

The Imported Percheron Stallion,
JANZE
(No. 88707)

will stand at our farm during the season of 1921. Service Fee, $20.00 to insure a standing colt.

JANZE is a fine, well built horse, and is just the kind of an animal for farmers to use to secure good draft and farm horses.

SCHOOL NOTES

The following second grade children were neither absent nor tardy for the month: Doris Williams, Jean Strong, Joseph Ribbar, Horace Nelson, Norman Orr, Isaac Williams, Franklin Myer, Margaret Straub, Floyd Dicks, Henry Rengert.
The spelling match between Wayne, Northville and Plymouth resulted in a victory for Wayne, who has been doing most of their work orally, while the other two have been writing.
This showed in the more facile spelling of the victorious school. At the end of an hour and a half, Wayne had 17 standing, Plymouth 3 and Northville 1. Mr. Brown of the public speaking department pronounced the words.
Cards were out last Wednesday for the High school, and each parent should have considered this report thoughtfully and earnestly.
The fourth and fifth grade boys have been organized into seven baseball teams. The captains selected were: Ted Hickey, Earl Moore, Edward Klenske, Charles Foster, William Rambo, Earl Waltz and Frazer Carmichael. The captains chose their teams and the names of the teams decided upon were: Plymouth Sluggers, Detroit Union Leaders, Red Sox, Plymouth Giants, Red Caps and Tigers. They will play a series of games against each other this season to determine which one is the champion team.
The fifth and sixth grade girls started their Newcomb games, Monday. Beatrice Britcher's team winning 12-14. The girls have fine teams with the following girls as captains: Beatrice Britcher, Hazel Hill, Katherine Wilcox, Winifred Draper and Alice Hathaway.

Presbyterian Notes

W. J. Burrows and the pastor represented the Plymouth church at the spring meeting of the Presbyterian held Tuesday at the Immanuel Presbyterian church of Detroit.
The Woman's Missionary society held its annual meeting at the church, last Wednesday.
Rev. W. B. Shirey of Ann Arbor, addressed the members of the Ready Service class last Monday night. After the address a social hour was enjoyed.
The traveling basket is still on its way. If you have not had it, ask for it.
The last dime needed to fill David Alexander's register bank for missions was added last Sunday night at the young people's service and the contents were transferred to the treasury. The meeting was well supplied with leaders, Catherine Learned, Evelyn Schrader and Alice Hathaway being in charge.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM JOHN E. WILCOX

WE HAVE RECEIVED AN INTERESTING LETTER FROM JOHN E. WILCOX, A FORMER WELL KNOWN PLYMOUTH RESIDENT.

Twin Falls, Idaho.
Dear Sir:

In my letter to you some five or six weeks ago, I forgot to tell you about the muddy roads that Idaho had this last winter. I certainly never saw anything like it. Talk about your Grand Rapids fly paper and adhesive tape for mending tires—they are not in it with Idaho mud. But men who have been on the tract for some time say they never saw anything like it before. We live on Hayburn avenue, and the city limits are just across the road from our house. There is no sidewalk on our street, and we have to walk about thirty rods to reach the boulevard, where we have a nice cement walk. Well, we have about fifteen boys and girls who attend school on our street, and one morning they had a great time in getting to the boulevard. Some had their rubbers on, and some had them in their hands. Well, along this boulevard is an irrigating ditch, about eighteen inches deep and twenty inches wide. This time of the year this ditch is supposed to be dry, and they all thought they would put their rubbers in this ditch and cover them with leaves, and when they came home at night get them. Well, some way the city turned about a foot of water in this ditch, and away went the rubbers. Now, if Henry Ford should find a good assortment of overshoes and rubbers coming over some of his dams some day, he can ship them back to Twin Falls, C. O. D.
They have a story down at Twin Falls that some farmer was coming to town and he saw a man's hat in the road and thought he would try and get it. He found an old fly pole beside the road, and when he lifted the hat, he found a man's head under it, and he asked the fellow how long he had been there, and he said about fifteen minutes. He asked him if he was afraid, and the fellow said, no, he was horseback. I heard they saved the man, but lost the horse and saddle.

Well, I commenced this letter the 4th of April, and this morning we have more snow on the ground than we have had any time this last winter. Apricots are in full bloom here, but it is quite mild and may not injure them. This is one of the days when children appreciate being carried to school. There are thirty-three hundred pupils who attend school in Twin Falls. They have forty wagons that carry the pupils. They pay the drivers $10 to $15 per month. Some of them are five miles or so away. They employ around one hundred and thirty-five teachers. I think they pay them quite good wages—all the way from $90 to $200 per month. Twin Falls certainly has some fine school buildings.

In the line of churches, Twin Falls has everything you can think of—Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist, Congregational, Christian Science, Episcopal, Immanuel Lutheran, Catholic, First Christian and three or four Mormon churches. The Methodist and Presbyterians have the finest churches in the city, both of them recently built. Two members gave the Methodists a $12,000 organ. They had to enlarge the church to take care of the organ, and it is certainly very beautiful inside, and on the 20th of March they re-dedicated at the morning service. They stated they were $34,000 in debt at the morning service, and at the evening services they had secured $39,000 in pledges. The Presbyterians have a fine church costing around $75,000.
The Twin Falls Commandery, Knights Templar, held Easter services in the church on the 27th.
We have four banks here, three daily papers, Commercial club, public library, five elevators, one sugar factory, four theaters, two fine hotels and some very fine dwellings.
They had a Chautauqua last August. It was certainly fine. The last thing on the program was an address by William Jennings Bryan. The address was given in the park. What a crowd. Mr. Bryan said he came here seventeen years ago, "Nothing here then but sagebrush and jackrabbits." Now he says, "I find a beautiful city, and hundreds of beautiful farms. Water did it all." Then he gave a toast on water, and no man but Mr. Bryan could say so much about water. Then we had Pussfoot Johnson here one day. Sixty men gave $10.00 apiece to have him brought over here in an aeroplane from Billings, Montana. Then we had William G. McAdoo here last fall and he lectured on the leagues of nations. He was a very pleasing speaker.
Mrs. Wilcox says, "John, get some coal."

First - Build on Paper

What a barn costs depends in no small degree on the care with which it is planned in advance.

By having your plans completely worked out and blue printed, you can safely let the contract to the lowest bidder. Contractors and those supplying materials are held to exact requirements; substitution of inferior materials or workmanship can be prevented; wastes are avoided; no excuse is given for expensive "extras"; and misunderstandings with contractors, sub-contractors and workmen are unlikely.

James Barn Plans
The James Barn Planning Department is a national "clearing house" of barn ideas. The best of these ideas are in a 200 page book on barn building, remodeling, ventilation and equipment which we will give you free on request. Come in and see us now; tell us your barn problems, perhaps we (or James Barn Experts) can help you solve them.

The Largest Factory in the World Building Pipeless Furnaces Only

THE cut above is the new Homer factory at Coldwater, Michigan, the largest exclusive pipeless furnace factory in the world, and a monument to the success of the pipeless furnace principle.

S. D. Strong invented the Homer. He built the first Homer ten years ago. He has built over fifty thousand since. And he builds the Homer today. His first factory was in the rear of a country town hardware store. His present factory is a $75,000.00 plant, planned and fabricated to produce Homer Furnaces.

What does this signify?

That clean-cut quality will win, that the pipeless principle is right, and that the Homer Furnace is the heating plant for your home, whether it contains five rooms or fifteen.

The Homer trade-mark and the Thermo-Seal Inner Lining mark the genuine Homer Pipeless Furnace. Look for both. We will gladly show you a Homer, explain its principle, and quote you a price on a plant to fit your home.

How the Trapper Won His Bride

By FREDERICK CLARKE

(Copyright 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Will you remember me when I am gone, Leona? Tell me!" The tone was masterful.

"Perhaps."

The man gave a sharp exclamation, and catching the girl by the wrist he said sternly:

"Don't speak that way. When you do it cuts like a knife," and his other hand fell half-unconsciously upon the belt of the hunting knife in his belt.

"How dare you? You know, Jean Lemare, I have never told any man that I love him."

"Actions speak louder than words," the man returned coldly. "Those glorious eyes of yours say yes, when your lips form no. You have listened to my words of love and never turned away."

"They interested me as long as they were different," the girl returned, madly.

"When you have something new to say, expect me to remember you; but until then I do not care to even listen," and the trapper was left alone with his rage and love. Until his departure on the following day the spoiled beauty kept out of his way, and once he had disappeared, she drew a deep sigh of relief.

Smiling a little to herself, and yet wondering if he would study something new to say to her when he returned from the dangers of the unbroken path into the wilderness, she hummed a song he favored, and was so wrapped up in her own thoughts she did not hear the stealthy step of a man who stole upon her. Small wonder that she did not, for he was skilled in tracking down the wildest kind of game, and hiding his presence from the keen-scented wild things of the unexplored North. The first that she realized that she was not alone was when Leona felt a man's arms about her, and a man's mouth pressed to hers; and frightened almost to death she looked up into Jean's dark, flashing eyes.

"You told me to make love differently," he said, after he had kissed her breathless, "and so I have. I knew no other man had ever held you in his arms or taken kisses from your lips. Now I have put my stamp on you."

With a heavy sigh, and yet with the light of hopeful love in his face, Jean retraced his steps, and this time fairly began his long journey. For weeks afterward, Leona felt her cheeks burn crimson at the very thought of Jean's kisses, and yet in her heart she was not angry, for she did love him, though her untamed girlish nature rebelled at restraint. As the days crept on, she took pleasure in the thought that she belonged to this mighty hunter, and she began to plan her future as his wife. Suddenly her happiness was crushed as the tender verdure beneath the branches of the felled forest tree. After a day that had seemed unusually long to her impatience, although one of the shortest of the year, she was sitting in the chimney corner idly listening to her father, when some of his words recalled her to attention.

"I didn't think that of Jean. He ought to be ashamed of such a thing."

"What?" Leona asked.

"Marrying an Indian girl," was the careless answer.

"He never did!" she said fiercely, her eyes blazing in the freight.

For a week she lay ill, and when she finally crawled forth into the open air she loved so well she was like one smitten. All her proud, young courage was gone. She shunned the trappers who flocked to her father's store, and spent her time out in the woods where Jean had kissed her maiden lips and held her in his strong arms. Into this retreat no one dared penetrate, not even Long John Hathers. He would not give up the secret hope in his heart, and tried to court her, although he said but little. His eyes glowed a red fire that nothing extinguished. Leona at first scarcely noticed him, then hated him for the love she saw he bore her, and prevented him from speaking of it until one day when the sun was beginning to feel warm, and she was once more in the woods. Believing herself entirely alone, she began to live over once more the love scene of the fall before, when suddenly Long John stood before her, speaking madly of his love, and pleading madly with her to return it.

The girl fought like a young tiger. She knew now that he had been a witness to her last scene with Jean, and it drove her mad with rage. Finally, seeing the hateful, bearded face coming nearer and nearer, she cried aloud for help, and in providential answer to her cry it came, for suddenly Long John measured his length on the grass, and she saw Jean like one in a dream.

"Come, Leona, sweetheart," Jean said tenderly, "give me the welcome back I deserve," and he held out his arms.

"How dare you?" she gasped. "What will your wife think when I tell her?"

"What about the Indian girl?" she continued, for the man looked puzzled.

"Indian girl? Oh, you mean the one I found and took to the mission. Why, dear, she is only eleven."

Leona gave a gasp of happiness, and Long John, crawling to his feet, once more saw Leona in Jean's arms, but this time she went of her own accord.

For a Severe Cold
"Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured my daughter, Anna, of a severe cold and cough a few years ago, and ever since then I have never missed an opportunity to recommend this medicine to anyone suffering from throat or lung troubles. I cannot speak too highly in praise of it," writes Mrs. D. J. Shelley, Earlville, N. Y. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no narcotic and may be given to children with perfect confidence. It is a pleasant syrup, so they do not object to taking it.

NEW AGRICULTURAL COURSES AT M. A. C.

CHANGES IN DIVISION AT STATE SCHOOL MADE TO MEET MODERN CONDITIONS IN FARMING.

Addition of several new courses in the agricultural section at the M. A. C. has been announced by Dean R. S. Shaw, head of the division. The new work, adopted to meet changed conditions in the agriculture of the country, is said to enlarge and broaden the field of study at the state school materially.

Courses adapted to practical dairy farming are among those added to the curriculum. One of these will train men in judging dairy cattle, and will develop student teams to represent the college and state at future national dairy shows. Others cover dairy barn management, market milk production, and other phases of the industry.

Work which will train students in selection of beef cattle is also being started under the animal husbandry department. Teams to enter judging competition at the International Live Stock Show at Chicago, will develop from this training. Other new courses include work in farm crops with potatoes, sugar beets, and other minor root crops; farm management subjects under the newly established department of farm management; a general elementary course in genetics under the botany department; and added work in farm mechanics.

Practically all changes in the M. A. C. curriculum affect the junior and senior years of the course, the elementary work having been judged as adequate for present conditions as it has stood in the past. None of the courses formerly given have been dropped, the new courses simply offering a wider option of selection for students of the division.

Today's Reflections

A new kind of alcohol has been discovered, but with a great number of fellows want is more of the old kind.

Maybe the reason some Plymouth women never appear to be content is because they have heard contentment makes people fat.

You've also probably noticed it takes longer to descend from the peak of high prices than it did to climb up to it.

So far the nations that have paid dues in the League of Nations haven't heard very much cheering over here.

The reason most editors don't print exactly what they think, is because they don't want to spend a lot of time in the hospital.

There are some things the average Plymouth husband can't do, and one of them is to make his wife believe that she snores.

If a woman wants a life-time job, with twenty-four hours work every day, let her marry a man to reform him.

Why is it that in the last year or so when a sick man stops a doctor on the street he always whispers to him?

It wouldn't hurt some Plymouth people any if they'd borrow their neighbor's spectacles occasionally and look at their own faults.

Even though a woman can vote never hear of a judge giving a man alimony in a divorce case.

And the Plymouth man who yells at the top of his voice seldom wins an argument.

The allies have discovered that you can hold a German down, but you can't make him cough up.

If a Plymouth woman brags about her husband quite often, he never gets tired of telling people that he has got the best wife in the world.

Once more we have reached the season where the fish are living on the best worms in the land.

Hear it for yourself

—the phonograph which amazed
all Plymouth

ARE you one of those who believe that no phonograph can match the voice of the living human? An astonishing discovery awaits you—like the hundreds of music lovers who attended the Marie Morrisey recital.

Thomas A. Edison gave his famous Tone-test, Wednesday night, April 6th, at the High School Auditorium. He had Marie Morrisey sing in direct comparison with the RE-CREATION of her voice by the new Edison.* Music lovers were completely baffled. Their ears were unable to distinguish the RE-

CREATED voice from the living. You have never heard any phonograph that approaches the New Edison. It RE-CREATES not only the musical notes, but every elusive quality of tone and color which identify the original artist.

GAYDE BROS.

CENTER ROAD

Alvin Rutenbar of Detroit, is spending a few days with his parents.

Mrs. Clayton Rohde attended a meeting of the Beech L. A. S., Wednesday.

The mail carriers are having a busy time of it in this vicinity, the quantity of mail for the married ladies having increased about 200 per cent. An epidemic of "endless chain letters" has broken out again. The correspondent has consigned so many of these to the waste basket during the past week, that she is looking forward to a very sad week indeed. Just why this particular batch of letters is exclusively for married ladies is a puzzle for surely there are others interested in our soldiers and sailors.

The farmers have been busy gravelling the bad places on the Center road this week.

Fred Melow is driving a new Ford touring car.

LIVONIA CENTER

Miss Lillian Nancy of Detroit, is spending this week at the Frank Peck home.

Mrs. Fred Lee returned home, Friday, having been called to Republic, Ohio, on account of the illness of her mother.

Miss Helen Hottenstein was a week-end guest of her parents at Petersburg.

Burton Snook and two sons were guests of friends at Rochester, Sunday.

Mrs. Ida Stringer was in Detroit on business, Monday.

The Needle Club was entertained by Mrs. John Staman, at her home, Thursday afternoon. There were twenty ladies present, and a pleasant social time was enjoyed in connection with the busy social hour. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Denbeck and Mrs. Lute in a guessing contest. An elaborate pot-luck supper was served at 5:30. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Emma Tack, April 23.

L. D. Welzheimer of the M. A. C., was testing cows at the Fred Lee and Wolf Bros. farms, last week.

He has been in poor health nearly all winter and unable to work. Lillian Kaiser is in school again, after her severe ear trouble, having been absent nearly three weeks.

NEWBURG

In spite of the snowstorm, Sunday, there were forty in attendance at church service and Epworth League. A great deal of interest is manifested in Sunday-school. Everyone welcome to these services.

There were twenty-five in attendance at the L. A. S. meeting, last week Wednesday. The election of officers resulted in the following being elected.

President—Mrs. Stella Davey
Vice Pres.—Mrs. M. Eva Smith
Secretary—Mrs. Gladys Ryder
Treasurer—Miss Ada Youngs
Trustees—Mesdames Mackinder, Ryder, Clemens and Joy.

Mrs. Davey has acted as treasurer of the L. A. S. for the past six years. Miss Hattie Hoisington reported six new subscribers to the Plymouth Mail, which adds a neat little sum to the society.

The Epworth League had a very merry time at their hard times social, last Friday night. There were sixty in attendance. Jack Taylor presented the most poverty stricken appearance.

Keep in mind the date for the cemetery meeting, Saturday afternoon, April 30th, at two o'clock.

Mrs. C. E. Ryder took dinner with Mrs. N. Ryder, last Wednesday.

Those who attended the W. C. T. U. meeting from this vicinity were: Mesdames M. Eva Smith, C. E. Ryder, Clemens, Wellman and D. Ryder and Misses Hattie Hoisington and Ada Youngs.

Miss Maud Gracen of Plymouth, spent the week-end at the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ryder.

Mark Joy has commenced his new house on his five-acre ranch on Plymouth road.

Mrs. Kramer writes they are more than delighted with Denver, and looks forward to getting the Plymouth Mail and receiving the home news.

Mesdames Clemens and Ryder attended the Methodist meeting at Ann Arbor, Wednesday of this week.

Mrs. Sarah Hoisington spent last week Wednesday with Mrs. Emily LeVan, also called on Mr. and Mrs. William Eastonberry.

Bert Paddock commenced work at the River Rouge plant, last Tuesday.

FORGOT THE YEARS

World's Big Men Have Laughed at Father Time.

History Records Many Who Defied the Calendar—Too Busy to Take Note of Crew's Feet.

Sir James Canlie flatly challenges a current misconception in his statement: "Old age is just a pose. A man usually grows old because he thinks it is dignified. He sits back and lets the years do what they like with him." It is not so with the septuagenarian, who rises at 1:30 and dances Highland flings. He shares the spirit of Tennyson's "Ulysses," who could not bear to sit idle amid his island crag, or of Barrie's "Peter Pan," who refused to grow up, or of him who, according to another poet, kept the immortal child tarrying all his lifetime in his heart.

We do not have to look long for monumental examples of great men who, like Oliver Wendell Holmes in his poem, "The Boys," and in his personal example, defied the calendar. To one such perennially young gentleman, namely, Dr. W. W. Keen, the community that affectionately reveres him is even now preparing to do honor. The will to keep youthful in the spirit seems to be the biggest part of insouciance. We have lately had occasion to consult the record of a gentleman named Hepburn, who graduated from Princeton in 1882, and did not pass away until 1911, 79 years later, when he had attained the ripe age of ninety-six. Unlike many of the Old Testament patriarchs, of whom nothing is recorded but their exceeding longevity, Doctor Hepburn was usefully and fruitfully busy through several generations. The empire of Japan, a country that never forgets anything or anybody, will forever hold his name in honor among the benefactors. Not merely did he train some of the foremost of her diplomats, but he compiled the famous dictionary that resolved the barriers betwixt the tortuous tongue of Nippon and our own.

The thought of growing old is chiefly oppressive to those who never grow anything else. Most of those who produce, create, achieve, are too busy to study crow's feet in the mirror or calculate percentages of lime in the bones or acid in the blood. They are not forever in a lonely observatory on the outlook for new symptoms. They are up and doing, with a whetted appetite for fresh adventure. There is "Labrador" Cabot of Boston, who is forever starting out on a one-man expedition among the Indians of the barrens not very far from the desolate spot where the balloon came down with Lieutenant Hinton and his comrades. It is useless to tell him that he is too old. You might as well try to persuade "Oom John" Burroughs to quit exploring swamps and forests and playing with squirrels. Nature, they tell us, has no favorites, but she has a way of granting to the naturalists a special grace in growing "old." The life of Fabre, which began in 1823 and did not end until 1915, might be cited, or that of Chevreul, 1786-1880. Many artists, moreover, are like St. Gaudens, and "do not count the mortal years it takes to mold memorial forms." "If I live to be 100," said the modest Hokudal, "perhaps I shall be able to draw a line." Such a man knows what it means to live for many years and to remain forever young because forever acquisitive, inquisitive, aspiring.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Paris Not French Capital. THIS is not a paradox nor a joke, but an official fact. Parisians who are given to an alarmist disposition are disturbed in their minds, for from the fact that Paris has ceased to be the capital of the country since 1914, results that all official documents of the republic of France signed since the above date are theoretically illegal.

September 3, 1914, when the government left Paris before the menace of the German advance, the Official Journal announced that Bordeaux was henceforward and until further notice the legal capital of France, and official documents dated from Bordeaux. Until December this procedure was followed. One by one the ministries came back to Paris, and by December 11 all documents were once again dated from Paris.

No one, however, in the stress of the times, thought to insert a notice in the Official Journal to the effect that Paris once again had become the capital of France.

"Ravager" of Education. An insurance man, speaking to a congress of general agents and managers in St. Louis, reminded his hearers that of the ten thousand men, whose names appear in "Who's Who," only 39 had no schooling, 1,008 had a grade school education, 1,545 a high school training and 5,000 are college graduates. Will somebody page the Missouri solum who argued learnedly against the bill to raise the preparatory requirements of rural teachers in this state by shouting that Abraham Lincoln never had a high-school education?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Remains Reminiscence. "The boys never sing 'Landlord, Fill the Flowing Bowl,' any more." "No," replied Uncle Bill Bottletop. "The nearest we ever get to a drinking song now is 'Cumlu' Through the Eye."

Chamberlain Tablets Are Just What You Need

When bilious

An Angel Strayed From Heaven

By WILLIAM FALL.

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

George Chapin was reading a letter from his married sister when he sat in his bachelor apartment, and he scratched his head in evident perplexity.

"My dear George," his sister wrote, "we are in great trouble about Walter. He has had a terrible quarrel with his father about some dreadful actress whom he says he is engaged to be married to, and Philip—you know how busy he is—has ordered him out of the house. You know Walter may expect to inherit a comfortable fortune, and it is natural that this woman, Linda Manners, as she calls herself, should want to get her fingers on it. Now, George, you are a man of forty-five, and of ripe experience. She lives in your town. Can't you get to her and find out whether a sufficient inducement would persuade her to leave Walter alone? And don't forget to tell her that if she marries Walter he won't get a penny of his father's fortune."

There was a tap at the door and, as George Chapin put the letter aside, a young man entered. He was a good-looking boy, in his early twenties, and George was unconsciously proud of him.

"Hello, Walter," he said, rising and offering his hand. Sit down. So you've been getting into another scrape, eh?"

"Please don't allude to my fiancée, Miss Manners, as a scrape, Uncle George," replied the young man with dignity.

"Well, Walter, we won't quarrel over words. But do you realize that you are up against a serious predicament? How are you going to earn a living if your father disinherits you?"

"Uncle," said the young man impressively, "if once you saw Linda—Miss Manners—I think you'd agree with me that she's worth sacrificing any amount of money for."

"Well, where is she?" his uncle asked.

"At the Lyric theater," answered his nephew. "Say, uncle, what did mother write you?"

"She wrote me that—oh, the devil, Walter, I'm no hand at intrigue. Read it," said his uncle, thrusting the letter into the other's hands.

Walter Hampton read it and returned it with a grin. "I can forgive the suggestion," he said, "because I know mother means well. She's just hasty, that's all."

George Chapin smiled a little sadly. "My dear nephew," said the other, "you're going up to Escoube on that fishing trip you wrote me about, and you're going to be gone three days, and you will neither see nor communicate with your inamorata until the time is past. Otherwise I wash my hands of the affair."

Consequently it was without serious misgivings that Walter Hampton went off on his fishing trip, and though the time dragged wearily, he returned to town eager to hear his fiancée's praise from his uncle's lips.

His first surprise was when the door of the spacious apartment was opened by a maid—a new maid in cap and apron, who looked at him inquiringly, as though he had no business there.

"My uncle—Mr. Chapin. Is he at home?" asked Walter.

The maid hesitated. "Yes, sir," she said at length, "but Mrs. Chapin doesn't receive visitors—"

"Mrs. Chapin?" exclaimed the young man. "Who is she?"

"Haven't you heard of Mr. Chapin's marriage, sir?" simpered the maid. "I believe it was very sudden, sir."

Walter pushed past her, ran along the hall, and broke into the reception room without ceremony. A woman rose from a chair—Linda!

Walter did not see the library door open. He rushed toward her. "Linda!" he cried. "You here? You? What does this mean? You're married to my uncle?"

The older man had come softly up and placed a hand on his shoulder. George Chapin was smiling; his nephew was purple with fury. He flung himself upon his uncle, striking out wildly with his fists, and they fought all over the room, till finally the other got him down, pressed his face into the sofa pillows, twisted his arms, and sat on him.

"Linda, my dear, come here," he said. "Shall I tell this young idiot the truth, or will you?"

The girl, who had retreated in fear to the farther corner of the room, now came forward. There were tears in her eyes, but a smile played about her mouth. "You told him," she said.

"Then listen," said George Chapin. "Alice Manners—now Mrs. George Chapin—is an old friend who had passed out of my life for years. We had a lovers' quarrel long ago. That's why I've never married. When I found her again I took her right around to the city hall and got a license to marry her, and then rushed her to a minister. That was two days ago. I wasn't taking any more chances. Understand that, lunatic? And from the way your father and I mauled each other when we were boys, to see who should propose to Alice—that is, my wife—I guess he won't have any more objections to your marrying Miss Linda, her daughter."

Passing It Around. The Smitten Swain—Love me and the world is mine! The Baby Vamp—Fine! Love me and I'll get it away from you.

QUAKERS TO HANDLE RELIEF FOR IRELAND

SEND COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE NEED AND WILL DIS-TRIBUTE FOOD, CLOTH-ING AND MONEY.

SAY NINE LIVE ON $2 WEEKLY

Bread and Tea All Suffering, Have To Keep Them From Starvation, Report States.

Neither race nor religion, politics nor policies, are to be allowed to hamper the work which has been undertaken by the American Committee for Relief in Ireland for the feeding, clothing and sheltering of the thousands of helpless women and children who are now without these necessities of life and are starving in the Emerald Isle.

The first step in the American campaign was indicative of this spirit of humanitarianism. The Society of Friends, the great Quaker organization of the United States, was asked to investigate the need for relief and to undertake the entire distribution of the relief when the funds should have been raised and the needed supplies had been obtained.

To this end, a commission appointed by the national headquarters of the Society of Friends, was sent to Ireland early in the year. This commission, after receiving permission for the visit from the English authorities, moved into Ireland and set up headquarters from which all investigations have been made and all reports of the dire distress extant relayed to this country.

The commission, headed by C. J. France, brother of Senator France, of Maryland, has examined witnesses and consulted with the authorities in Dublin, Belfast, Lisburn, Cork and other Irish cities and studied conditions in several counties. Everywhere, they report, they have met those who have lost their all, hungry children and unemployed men and women.

In August 232 families were compelled to leave their homes. Several hundred women and children, scantily clothed, fled from their homes on the night of the general burnings and made their way during the night to Belfast, over twelve miles of hillside roads.

In Cork at present the Cork Distress Fund, headed by the deputy lord mayor and local business men, has been distributing from $2,400 to $4,000 weekly among 800 heads of families aggregating 4,000 men, women and children, who were rendered destitute by the burning of the city, but only $16,000 now remains in this fund, and there are, in addition, several thousand other families in acute need which they have been unable to assist.

The report includes a full summary of the precarious situation of the expelled workers in Belfast, where 5,000 shipyard workers were driven from their employment last July, and they, with their dependents, some 30,000 persons in all, have since been dependent on relief.

During the past six months the expelled workers and their dependents have been sustained through contributions received largely from labor groups in Ireland, England, and Scotland. Large sums have been raised by Irish workers, whose wages average $10 weekly. In all, some $200,000 has been distributed. Widespread unemployment in England has ended hope of further contributions from this source.

The commission has found among these expelled workers families of from five to nine persons subsisting on one pound sterling, $4.00, a week doled out by the local committee. Their rent and coal cost $1, leaving a slender amount for food. They were living on bread and tea, with the occasional luxury of a slice of soap.

Mrs. Lucy Waterman, who resides with Mrs. Evelyn Lawrence on Depot street, suffered a stroke of paralysis a week ago, and is not much improved at this writing.

Several members of Union Chapter, No. 55, Royal Arch Masons, went to Northville, Wednesday evening, where they enjoyed a six o'clock dinner, followed by a banquet.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson of Massville, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Chambers of this place, were Saturday and Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Myrland Post, near Romulus.
