THE UNCROWNED QUEEN

A handthrust, in the throbbing air of night,
To smooth my pains away;
An eye tear-jeweled with delight
O'er all that makes me gay;
A heart that beats in rhythm to my joy;
A bosom, soft with comforts for each plight,
To rock away the trials that annoy,
Restoring to tear-blinded eyes their sight;
A soul that sympathizes all life's day—

Surely, there is no other
So loving-kind as Mother—

The uncrowned queen of memory and May.

Next Sunday is Mothers' Day and you are invited to worship in

O. E. S. INSTALL

NEW OFFICERS

About two hundred members and guests gathered in Masonic hall, last Tuesday evening to witness the installation ceremonies of the Eastern Star, Mrs. Maude Schrader, past matron of Plymouth Chapter, acted as installing officer, assisted by Mrs. Sarah Cook, also past matron, as marshal. The work was rendered in a very graceful and pleasing manner, and the charge to the star points was made more impressive by the use of the beautiful floral work, each point being presented with a basket of flowers appropriate to the color of the degree. After the ceremonies, the worthy matron, Mrs. Flora Rathburn, in a few pleasing words welcomed the guests, and then in behalf of Plymouth Chapter, presented to the installing officers, small gifts, as a slight token of appreciation.

Mrs. Ada Murray gave a brief history of the Order of the Eastern Star which was of interest, not only to members, but all present. FARM LAND DECREASE

It may interest Plymouth people to know that a report just sent out by Uncle Sam shows plowlands in the U. S. decreased 7 per cent in price per acre during the past year. The average value of plowlands per acre on March 1st was $83.78, as compared to $90.01 in 1920 and $73.31 in 1919. It is blamed on declines in crop prices. The report also shows that the greatest drop was in Kentucky, due to tobacco price declines. A year ago the average price per acre of Kentucky plowland was $70. This year it is placed at $53. The highest score is shown by Iowa. There the average plowland acre is quoted at $200, while last year the value was taken at $219. Illinois shows the slightest drop. Western states taken as a whole, show a small decrease than those in the east, north or south. It is also interesting to note that, according to the report, land prices in the United States are still higher than they ever were in history up to the year 1920.

SUNNY-SOILED MEN

What affords any more pleasure than meeting on the street the man whose soul is filled with sunshine? The world loves him, and at home it is like a good tonic to have him around. We have quite a few of this kind in Plymouth, and how we wish we had more. Their magic power to transform trying situations is worth more than money, and it always makes a fellow feel like he had more to live for when he sees their sunny smiles, hears their word of good cheer, and feels their approving hand-shake or pat on their back. What a wonderful thing it is to be able to carry your sunshine right around with you; to cast a glow of brightness and joy upon every condition of life. The power to turn gloom into gladness, the mirth-provoking faculty, the ability to make a man smile when he feels blue—it's worth everything to possess. And the young man who is soon to start out into the world for himself couldn't do a wiser thing than cultivate the sunshine habit.

HAND IN HAND

Business success and advertising go hand in hand. The best way to judge the business enterprises of any community is by the size and frequency of the ads in the home paper. The business visitor to Plymouth is a stranger until he buys a few meals; and the permanent resident is very much a stranger at the store he has never been invited to patronize. The large display ad attracts and holds attention and arouses respect and confidence. It cries out, "low costs, low overhead, low selling prices, quality goods." It dominates the page, of course, just as the mansion of many rooms looms up larger than the shack. All ads are read—big and little. Everybody knows that, and the statement calls for no argument. But the merchant who is seeking real business success, and who wants to advertise the best way and get the most for his money is the one who realizes that the larger the ad the greater its pulling power.

Last Saturday afternoon a small blaze was discovered on the roof of Anderson Bros.' paint shop at the rear of what is known as the Coleman house on Penniman avenue, now owned by Edward H. Tighe. The blaze is thought to have caught from the stove-pipe, but the flames were extinguished before much damage was done.

DOUBLE FUNERAL FOR MOTHER AND DAUGHTER

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tanager, on Maple avenue, was filled with sympathizing friends and relatives, last Sunday afternoon, when they gathered there to pay the last tribute of respect to Mrs. Andrew Taylor, Jr., and a little daughter, Vivian, who met such a sad and sudden death last week Thursday. The many floral pieces spoke in silent words of love and sympathy of many friends. Rev. F. M. Field conducted the service. Burial in Riverside cemetery.

Viola Rosetta Wright was born in Plymouth, Michigan, October 22, 1890, where she lived all her life until she was called to her heavenly home, Thursday, April 28, 1921. She attended the Plymouth public schools, her first teacher being Miss Anna Smith, whom she loved dearly. On December 25, 1911, she was united in marriage to Andrew R. Taylor of this place, whom she had known since childhood, and to this union two children were born, Harold Vincent on October 22, 1914, who lived but a day, and Vivian Dawn, born August 4, 1916. Mrs. Taylor was baptized in the Methodist Episcopal church of Plymouth, when a little girl, and continued her christian life until her death. She was always ready and willing to do whatever asked of her. Mrs. Taylor was of a genial and loving disposition, always having a cheerful word for all, and thinking of others before herself, no matter how badly she might feel. To know her was to love her. During her husband's eighteen-months of service for his country, her strength of character was brought out by the bravery she displayed, never complaining, but glad to do her bit. Besides a devoted husband, she leaves to mourn their loss, a loving mother, Mrs. Henry Tanager; a step-father, Henry Tanager, who has been more than a father to her, and loved both she and little Vivian as he loved his life; one brother, Rowell Tanager, besides a host of relatives and friends.

A tree mature is beautiful, And a charm to living lends; A life mature is wonderful, A boon to many friends.

We cannot say when life shall end, Or suit its time to ours; But when life gains maturity, Takes love and also gives, Has home and friends and happiness, We know its spirit lives.

The life may go, Its memory stays To cheer its friends Through lonely days. —R. E. H.

Those who attended the funeral from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams, Detroit; Elijah Estep, Warren, Neb.; George W. Taylor, Hillsdale, Mich.; Howard, Mrs. Helen Fredo, Frankenshaw; Mrs. William Messner, Saginaw; Mrs. Bird Medler, Misses Alice and Edith and Mr. John Moller, Miss Emma Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Campbell, Charles Taylor, Mrs. Nell Smith and family, Harvey Shaw, Mrs. Mary Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Springer, Detroit; Walter and Mrs. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smith.

An alarm of fire was turned in Tuesday morning, when it was found that the roof of Mrs. Charles Lundy's house on Dodge street was on fire. The fire department quickly responded, and the only damage done was a small hole in the roof. The blaze started from a defective chimney.

The Delphian Chapter held their meeting in the kindergarten room at High school building, Tuesday, May 3rd. The meeting was called to order by the president and the study of the lesson taken up, after which the High school Glee Club sang two selections. Mrs. George Smith as hostess, served dainty refreshments and the meeting was adjourned until May 17th.

Last week Thursday afternoon, while the eighth grade science class, under the chaperage of their teacher, C. R. Ross, were gathering wild flowers on the hillside near the Henry flats, Etha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. VanHousen, of Maple avenue, fell down the embankment and fractured her limb near her hip. She was taken to Harper hospital the same evening, where she has since remained under treatment.

The entertainment given at the Baptist church, last Wednesday evening, was well attended. The program consisted of readings by Virginia Giles and Dorothy Hillman, pupils of Miss Ellen Gardner; also music by Misses Anna Baker, Gladys Hall and Mrs. E. E. Siles. The entertainment was greatly enjoyed by all present, and the children did exceedingly well, as was demonstrated by the hearty applause. Great credit is due their teacher, Miss Gardner, for their graceful manner and pleasing impersonations.

DOUBLE FUNERAL FOR MOTHER AND DAUGHTER

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tanager, on Maple avenue, was filled with sympathizing friends and relatives, last Sunday afternoon, when they gathered there to pay the last tribute of respect to Mrs. Andrew Taylor, Jr., and a little daughter, Vivian, who met such a sad and sudden death last week Thursday. The many floral pieces spoke in silent words of love and sympathy of many friends. Rev. F. M. Field conducted the service. Burial in Riverside cemetery.

Viola Rosetta Wright was born in Plymouth, Michigan, October 22, 1890, where she lived all her life until she was called to her heavenly home, Thursday, April 28, 1921. She attended the Plymouth public schools, her first teacher being Miss Anna Smith, whom she loved dearly. On December 25, 1911, she was united in marriage to Andrew R. Taylor of this place, whom she had known since childhood, and to this union two children were born, Harold Vincent on October 22, 1914, who lived but a day, and Vivian Dawn, born August 4, 1916. Mrs. Taylor was baptized in the Methodist Episcopal church of Plymouth, when a little girl, and continued her christian life until her death. She was always ready and willing to do whatever asked of her. Mrs. Taylor was of a genial and loving disposition, always having a cheerful word for all, and thinking of others before herself, no matter how badly she might feel. To know her was to love her. During her husband's eighteen-months of service for his country, her strength of character was brought out by the bravery she displayed, never complaining, but glad to do her bit. Besides a devoted husband, she leaves to mourn their loss, a loving mother, Mrs. Henry Tanager; a step-father, Henry Tanager, who has been more than a father to her, and loved both she and little Vivian as he loved his life; one brother, Rowell Tanager, besides a host of relatives and friends.

The program for the day was in charge of Mrs. Clarence Sayles, and consisted of a number of choice selections from the writings of Mary F. Lathrop, read by the following ladies: Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. Bovee, Miss Cora Pelham, Mrs. Humphries, Mrs. Sarah Bartlett and Miss Nettie Pelham. A beautiful poem by Mrs. Lathrop, entitled, "A Woman's Answer," was recited by Mrs. Sayles, and a very amusing selection by another author, was delightfully rendered by Mrs. Humphries. The program concluded with two violin selections by Gertrude Grainger, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Grainger, which were enjoyed by all.
The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Mabel Stewart, Church street, and it is hoped there will be a good attendance; as the year books will be ready for distribution.

GARDEN NOTES

(By M. A. C. Horticultural Dept.)
Time now to sow the hardy annual flowering plants.
It is not too late to start celery for the late crop. Seed may be sown in well prepared out-door seed beds. Make the soil fine, cover the seed very lightly, and keep the soil moist.
The common varieties of spinach go to seed quickly in warm weather. If you are fond of the vegetable, try New Zealand. This variety grows all summer and repeated pickings may be made from the same plants, only the tender growing tips being used.
Try plantings of sweet corn and wax beans now. There is still danger of frost, but if the planting is lost, replant. The cost of seed is of minor consideration. Don't plant lima beans until the weather is settled and the soil is quite warm, otherwise the seed will rot. Henderson's Bush Lima is the most dependable variety to grow in Michigan.
It is a mistake to start an asparagus bed from old plants. Only one or two year old seedlings should be used. Set the plants eighteen inches apart. Always set the plants deep. The crown of the plant should be at least six inches below the normal level of the soil.
Plan to grow more vegetables for canning and storing this season. All reports indicate that the supply of canning fruits will be limited.

Baptist Notes

The annual meeting of the church was very well attended, and a splendid program was carried out. The ladies' quartet gave one number, the men's quartet gave two numbers, the young people's chorus one number, and the choir an anthem. After the election of officers and reports of the different departments of the church, Rev. Grimwood of the Northville Baptist church gave the address of the evening. The treasurer reported all bills paid and a balance in the treasury. The Ladies' Aid gave a good report of work done this year, and have a good balance in the treasury. The report of missionary society and other benevolences given through the church, make the amount for missions nearly $400. The Sunday-school reported all bills paid, and ready for another year's hard work.
The B. Y. P. U. gave a very good report for one so young, only a few weeks old, about twenty-five having signed as either active or associate members. The officers of the different departments will be named next week, as Sunday-school election will be next Sunday.
B. Y. P. U. banquet at the church, May 9th. C. H. Berry of Lansing, state director of young people's and Sunday-school work, will give the address.
Everyone seemed to enjoy the supper on Thursday evening before the program, and there was an abundance for all.
Next Sunday at the Baptist church, we observe Mother and Father's Day together, and request that all the ladies wear white flowers and the men red. We hope the boys and girls will do likewise. Let everyone come and remember father and mother and the old home, and all the blessings that came with it.

The Girl Scouts are going to have a bake sale at the gas office, next Saturday afternoon. Buy a cake, pie, doughnuts or candy.

About Digestion It is claimed that only half as much food is required when it is thoroughly masticated. Digestion begins in the mouth and a thorough mastication of the food is of great importance. Beulah and Her Chicken Overcoats

By HAROLD SINCLAIRE.

(© 1921, Westage Newspaper Dates.)

Miss Beulah Jones was cutting up a cake with a piece of silk thread to prove its lightness, as there came a knock at the door. She passed through the sitting room with many a hurried reach for scattered garments and fragments of cloth in a hopeless effort at tidying up.

"I do hope it isn't the janitor, or anybody but some neighbor," muttered the neat and circumspect little lady.

"It's only me, Beulah," spoke the bluff voice of giantlike John Moore, her distant cousin. "About once a year I get around here. Why don't you ever come and see me, Beulah?"

"You know I never go anywhere—now," she said, briefly.

"Well," spoke John, plumping down into an easy chair. "I've heard some wonderful things about those neat chickens of yours, and I've come to find out about them. Well! Well! Well!"

His roddy face began to pucker comically, and he let out a great guffaw. "What are you laughing at, John Moore?" demanded Miss Beulah, with severity.

Her cousin could not reply for some time. Waddling around in the chicken yard a full score of Plymouth Rock chickens were parading proudly, attired in close-fitting overcoats.

"It's a great idea," said John, "but it's the funniest thing I ever saw."

"I don't see anything very funny about it," rejoined Miss Jones. "Some of the poor things froze up last winter. They shan't this."

John Moore grinned the harder as he strode to the window and again looked out. John Moore fancied he saw something spectacular in it all.

"I've got an idea, Beulah," he said. "I'm looking for a novelty, and that's what brought me here. I want to buy those chickens."

Miss Beulah regarded her cousin sharply and then suspiciously. "They're not for sale," she declared at once.

"Then I want to borrow them—rent them, we'll call it. We are working up a procession," John went on to explain; "torchlights, music and all that. We're going to have a hayrack, showing prosperity—heaps of apples, corn, goddesses of liberty and the like. I want to scatter those winter-plucked sets of yours over the load. It will be a great catch."

It proved a greater catch than the ingenious committee man had expected. It was two days later when Miss Jones saw a wagon draw up to the yard. Her pets, well fed and lively, were being returned safe and sound to their coops, as her cousin had promised.

The weekly paper had just arrived. Miss Jones had flushed in a startled way as she read "the news." It appeared that the overcoated chicks had been the novelty of the procession. The district had a great many chicken farms. The home display had won over this interest, they had voted for Allen Parsons, and that candidate was elected.

Allen Parsons! How that name awoke painful memories in the heart of the reclus! She had drawn open a drawer in the old-fashioned secretary and had taken thence a sheet of paper, closely written over, and a photograph. The latter was a photograph of the portrait of the successful candidate in the paper. There was a knock at the door. Miss Jones opened it to face—the successful candidate.

"I had to call to thank you for the great support your pets gave me," spoke the stalwart, one-looking visitor. "Why, Miss Jones—Beulah!"

At sight of the man she had loved, still loved in secret, her estranged fiancé, Miss Jones paled, tottered, and Allen had to help her to a chair in the sitting room. As he started to leave her his face fell upon the photograph and the letter. His eyes dilated as he traced a line or two in the letter.

"Beulah," he said, his lips set kindly but determined, "has this letter anything to do with your rejection of my suit two years ago?"

"It has everything to do with it," faltered poor Beulah. "Can you look at it and wonder why? You wrote it."

"Yes, I wrote it, but as a model for a friend who wished to propose to a young lady in another town. How did it come into your possession?"

"Miss Simmons brought it to me—she said she found it."

"Stole it, more likely," asserted Allen. "My old landlady and a mischief-maker! Oh, Beulah! And has this foolish misunderstanding kept us so cruelly apart all of this time?"

John Moore, coming into the house to see his cousin, halted, stared, stood rooted to the spot, and then retreated softly with a great chuckle of satire.

For Beulah was resting contentedly in the strong, protecting arms of Allen Parsons! All had been explained—and the feathered campaigners had done it!

THE THEATRE

An exciting fox hunt offers a thrilling spectacle in "The Mask," the special attraction which is coming to the Penniman Allen theatre on Saturday, May 7th. This scene was filmed in the California mountains, and in it Jack Holt and Hedda Nova, playing the leading parts, are given some difficult work to do. Holt, as Kenneth Traynor, rescues his wife from a runaway horse, racing alongside of one and snatching her from the saddle of her frightened steed. Both Holt and Hedda Nova are crack riders, and a most realistic thrill is said to have been obtained. Miss Nova, who was born in Odessa, Russia, learned many tricks in wild riding from the Cossacks of her native country. "The Mask" is a Col. Wm. N. Lee production. It was adapted from Arthur Hornblow's story of the same name, and was directed by Bertram Bracken.

Next Tuesday, May 10th, the attraction at the Penniman Allen Theatre is "The Truth About Husbands," adapted from Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's brilliant stage play, "The Prodigate." It is a Whitman Bennett production released through First National, and has an exceptionally well balanced cast headed by May McAvoy. It deals in a startlingly interesting way with the age-old problem of how a man before marriage cannot have his finger with-out the danger of escapades confronting him after marriage. The denouement of the play is perhaps as thrilling as a climax as ever screened in a society drama. H. E. Herbert plays Dunstan Benschaw, a wealthy bachelor who is supposedly typical of his class. He is not vicious, merely worldly.

They're even building railroads right inside the studio lot these days. Witness Charles Ray's production of "Nineteen and Phyllis," his third First National release, which will be the screen attraction at the Penniman Allen theatre, Thursday evening, May 12th. So many of the scenes in the photoplay require the popular actor to appear on an antiquated small town trolley car that he decided it would be more satisfactory to have his own tracks and car, rather than borrow the use of a regular transportation company's line. In "Nineteen and Phyllis," the Viville "Rapid Transit" car, which is capable of making at least four miles an hour, plays a very important part in the unfolding of a very romantic incident, and also figures in some of the most amusing scenes of this story by Frederick Stowers. Another interesting feature of "Nineteen and Phyllis" is the fact that Mr. Ray is departing from his usual country boy role, and will be seen as a real swell small town Beau Brummel.

The arrival of a breezy city youth causes him much sorrow, for his greatest efforts are surpassed by the big town dandy, but by enlisting the aid of several tried and true confederates in the person of some ragged urchins, he outwits the rival and wins for himself the heart and hand of the belle of the town.

Bible Students Some bible students have believed for years that there were two phases to the church. One, a smaller company, the "little flock," wise virgins, zealous, obedient "faithful little church." Then a larger or "great company," the "foolish virgins," lacking in loving zeal, "all their life time subject to bondage" (of men) who eventually "come up through great tribulation" to a certain goal. Does the Song of Solomon also carry out the two phases? If the latter "foolish virgins" of chapter 5:2 are beloved and called "my sister," "my dove," "my dove," etc., are they ever called "my spouse" (real bride). "Thou (bride) hast ravished my (bridegroom's) heart." "Turn away thine eyes from me (Christ) for they have overcome me." What a love for His real bride of eternity. How sublime. Can we make it? Fully discussed Sunday, May 8th. David Stock's residence, 502 South Mill street. Welcome.

THE FORDSON TRACTOR

The Fordson is a profitable investment. It can be used every working day in the year. It is an inexpensive power plant that will lighten your farm work. It has proven its worth on more than one hundred thousand farms not only in operating implements in the fields, but in belt and pulley work. And it doesn't eat when idle.

There are many Tractors clamoring for the patronage of the farmer. The very air is charged with the noise of claims. One would think that all the farmer had to do was to buy a Tractor, and he would enter into the Millenium.

The Fordson Tractor was made to meet the demands and necessities of the every-day American farmer. It was made with the thought that it was the necessity of the man of forty acres as well as the man with one thousand acres. It was made not only for plowing, harrowing, discing, drilling, seeding, mowing, reaping, but for all other work on the farm where power is necessary. It was made to bring conveniences to the farmer's home as well as for the cultivation of his fields. It was made to furnish power for the cream separator, silo filling, cutting feed, sawing wood, furnishing power for milking, washing, supplying the house with running water, electric lights, and the hundred and one things on the farm. It was made to do all this economically and in a reliable way. It was made to be the big profitable servant on the farm.

Fordson

$625 f. o. b. Detroit

Shorter hours on the farm

—The Fordson saves from thirty to fifty per cent of the farmer's time.

Fewer horses on the farm

—The Fordson does the work of from four to six horses.

Less farm help

—One man with a Fordson can do more work easier and with less expense than two men with horses.

More money for the Farmer

—A farmer with a Fordson can raise more crops easier and with less expense. He therefore makes more profit.

The Fordson Tractor then asks you to buy it because of what it has done for your neighbors. It asks you to buy it on its merits. It asks you to buy it, Mr. Farmer, because you have use for it every day in the year. All the uses for the Fordson Tractor have not yet been uncovered because new places where machine power can take the place of human power, where machine power can supplant the horse and mule power, are being found every week, and wherever such discovery occurs, the Fordson will fill the bill more satisfactorily than any other form of power.

Now we solicit every farmer to buy one or more Fordsons. Come in and see them. Come in and let us tell you more than we can in an advertisement. Let us demonstrate to you. Let us put it to every test that you ask. The Tractor is just as necessary for the farmer as water is in the house. Come in! Look over the Fordson. Test it. Don't experiment. Supply your farm with the Tractor of established value.

Today's Reflections

The Plymouth man who profits by opportunity's knock is the one who opens the sweat glands as well as the door.

Some fellow could make a fortune by discovering a way to extract gold and silver from old mining stocks.

It is reported from various sections that housewives in their spring cleaning this year didn't turn up as many half-pint bottles as they used to.

Our idea of another great invention would be the perfecting of a breed of chickens that didn't know how to scratch up a garden.

About the only difference there is between a reformer and a knocker is the knocker doesn't ask to be paid for it.

Every Plymouth mother thinks that her boy acquired his meanness from that messy kid next door.

Maybe you can't be a governor or a president, but you can help the world by bragging on your neighbors when the occasion offers.

About the only consolation in being poor is you know you are not going to get robbed every time you get a few blocks from home.

By this time the fellows elected last fall have learned just how many poor relations they really have.

If you want to find a Plymouth man who hasn't anything pleasant to say about the weather, hunt up one who has had to replant a garden.

STREETS ONLY BY COURTESY

Roadways in European Cities Unpaved and Filthy Up to Comparatively Few Years Ago.

The oldest pavement of which there is any record in modern cities is that of Cordova, Spain, which was paved with stones by the Moors in the middle of the ninth century. Modern travelers think the original pavement cannot have been replaced. It is so bad. The Moors also caused water to be conveyed to the city in leaden pipes.

Paris was the next city to pave its streets; but this civic betterment did not take place until the year 1184, on which occasion an historian says, "the streets of the city were changed from mud to stone, which it had been previously called on account of its filthiness."

Those old streets must have been very bad indeed, as it was the general practice of the citizens to keep swine, which roamed at large and wallowed in the mire of the public ways.

The streets of London were unpaved in the eleventh century, and it is uncertain just when the work did begin. London was not paved until 1417, though it was frequently impassable from the depth of its mud.

Martin allowed its streets to go without even a clearing or cleaning until the middle of the seventeenth century, and until 1861 it was a popular practice to place pig pens immediately beneath the front windows of the houses.

Every kind of filth and dirt was thrown into the streets of Warsaw up to the comparatively recent year of 1821.—Stray Stories.

How Cupid Foiled the Constable

By KATE EDMONDS.

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

A young man, well dressed and clever faced, counting rapidly down the principal street of Fairview, suddenly paused and stared ahead in a startled way. He had apparently observed some one he did not wish to meet, and he turned down a side lane at a brisk, excited walk.

"It's the constable, sure enough," he said under his breath, "and I feel pretty sure he must be looking for me." The speaker glanced apprehensively back the way he had come, and then broke into a run.

It was a singular position, that in which Cecil Morse found himself. Briefly stated, he was bent upon running away to get married. Others, including his legal guardian, Lawyer Grabbe, and his old maid daughter, Portia, and their hired emissary, the town constable, were set on nipping the golden progress of love's young dream in the bud.

Cecil was heir to a liberal fortune. He lived with the Grabbe family. The lawyer was intent on keeping a hold on his ward and his fortune as long as he could. Incidentally he plotted to emmesh the young man in the snares of the somewhat faded beauty of the classic Portia.

Now, Cecil had loved and won Claire Wyndham, who lived over in the next county. Her father was a tyrannical old fellow who had heard of the mutual attachment, thundered out that the lovers were too young to think of wedding bells, and had set his foot down—hard.

The result was a plot on the part of the lovers. The Wyndhams were going to take Claire to Europe the following week. In the meantime she had gained permission to visit a schoolgirl chum at Brookville. There Cecil had been the day previous. There, too, all the arrangements had been made for an elopement the next evening. Just now, Cecil had gone to a garage to secure the automobile he had engaged for the trip.

The auto man was his friend. He told Cecil that the constable had been there looking for him. The lawyer had got wind of Cecil's plan to leave town, and was bound to circumvent it.

"I'm your friend, Cecil," said the garage keeper, "so I warn you. They have the west turnpike guarded. The constable is looking for you with a warrant."

Cecil was a crack sprinter. His one thought was to get out of town. He would trust to luck for guidance—once clear of his pursuer. Turning into an open stretch he discovered half a mile away a high board fence.

"The very thing!" he cried exultingly. "If my friend, Bob Archer, is only on hand."

There had been an airplane meet at Fairview for several days. Inside the enclosure was Archer, who was an airplane enthusiast. He and Cecil had become great friends. The runner shot a rapid glance behind him. Less than a quarter of a mile away the constable was hot on his trail.

"There is the flyer," cheered Cecil, promptly making for a hangar beyond which a three-passenger biplane was getting ready for a flight. He recognized the machine belonging to Bob, and its owner near by. All out of breath, Cecil ran up to his friend.

"Bob," he panted, "I'm in trouble! Got to get away from Fairview."

"You don't say so?" exclaimed Archer. "Where to, may I ask?"

"Brookville, and quick. The constable is after me. Bob, it's about what I hinted to you—the girl I love. They are trying to separate us."

"Jump in—the left seat back of the 'hot post,'" directed the young airman. "Strap yourself in. Give her a run, boys," he directed to his assistants.

"Chug—chug!" the aerial beauty sped over the grass for 30 feet. Bob shot on, there! Stop that machine! In the name of the law!"

"The mischief!" gasped Cecil. "They were leaving the ground, but not alone. The official had fairly overtaken his prey. He had jumped at the machine and skinned one of the wings. To prevent damage and save him from a fall, Bob was forced to grab the bulk officer and drag him into the vacant seat."

"Stop this machine!" bared the constable. "I've got a warrant!"

"Can't stop—got to finish this curve first. Here, Cecil, strap him in. If he doesn't want a tip."

"Oh, let me out—let me out!" pleaded the shivering official.

Once in the spectacular flight, Bob leaned toward Cecil and received detailed instructions. Then he volplaned, made a circuit, and the airplane landed in an open field near Brookville, easy and graceful as a bird sinking to its nest.

Cecil quickly removed his safety belt and sprang to the ground.

"Hold on, there!" shouted the constable. "I've got a warrant for that young man."

"No good in this district, officer," smiled Bob. "We've landed just over the county line."

Cecil Morse disappeared. He was to reappear at the Wyndham home two days later. The happy wedding pair had sent a honeymoon wire to Papa Wyndham, pathetically telling him how sorry, but still how happy they were. The reply telegram had conveyed to them the time-honored sentiment: "Come home, and all will be forgiven!"

It Is Poor Economy to Buy "Cheap" Clothes

But That Does Not Mean That They Need Be Expensive!

In fact, in times like these, when conservative buying is so necessary, it would be just as poor economy to buy very costly things.

But there is a happy medium—and that is to buy good, well-made clothes, of good materials, and of correct style. And be sure that you are getting value for every dollar you put into them.

That is the same as telling you to buy your Spring things at the Hutzel Shop—and a trip of inspection will prove to you how really sensible that advice is.

This year, more than ever before, we have concentrated on value. We have gone to infinite pains to get the best possible things for the money. We have scrupulously avoided the "cheap" as well as the ultra-fashionable extremes.

Just now we are having a very

So Human ---it amazed all Plymouth

SOME of your friends must have been in the huge audience which heard Marie Morrisey in her Tone-Test recital at the High School Auditorium. Ask them about it. This is the astonishing discovery they made:

The keenest musical ear cannot distinguish any difference between the voice of the living artist and the RE-CREATION of that voice by the New Edison."

And does it not amaze you, too, that Mr. Edison has succeeded in producing an instrument that captures every subtle sweetness of the human voice—that gives you all the ear can give you of the art of the world's great artists? No other phonograph dares to make this direct comparison.

Methodist Matters

Eighteen boys and girls under fourteen years of age have a perfect record of church attendance for the past six months and eighteen others have only one or two absences. Miss Ione Bird has kept a careful record of attendance of the members of the League of Worshipping Children at the morning preaching service, for each time present, passing a purple grape on a large outline bunch of grapes and a green grape for each absence. At the service next Sunday morning, fitting recognition of this faithfulness will be given and every boy and girl of the Sunday-school should be present. Following are those with a perfect record: Vaughn Campbell, Elsie White, Corrine Howell, Esther Field, Marie Hahn, Ima Campbell, Hazel Hill, Mary Parrott, Hazel Raynor, Raymond Hanchett, Foster Howell, Ruth Perkins, Lawrence Hanchett, Camilla Waterman, Katherine Waterman, Genevieve Bird, Doris Field, Arvid Burden. The following have almost a perfect record: Leone Terry, Velda Larkins, Edna Gottschalk, Herbert Shipley, Arlean Newell, Louise Newell, Ralph Bovee, Muriel Bovee, Donald Bovee, Loneta Grove, Margaret Amrhein, Philip Doerr, Dorothy Shipley, Ethelyn Shipley, Frances Cope, Lucy Cope, Sarah White and Marie Johnson.
The members of the Woman's Missionary Societies are to be entertained this Friday afternoon at the parsonage and the delegates to the conference convention at Pontiac last week will give their reports at this meeting. At the conclusion of the meeting, a social hour will be enjoyed in honor of Mrs. Charles Newton, who is moving to Grand Rapids.
Horatio, S. Earle of Detroit, who was one of the speakers at the recent Community banquet here and is a member of the Cass Ave. Methodist church, was a visitor at the Plymouth church last Sunday morning. At the Sunday-school hour he addressed the men of the Brotherhood Bible Class along practical and inspirational lines, much to the delight of all present.
During April and May the pastor has been conducting a church membership class of young people at the Sunday-school hour, preparing them for full membership at the next communion service, the first Sunday in June. The class meets at the parsonage after the opening exercises.
The fund for sending Plymouth young people to the State Epworth League Institute in June has now reached the sum of $76.20, of which $16.20 came from the moving picture entertainment last Monday evening. All who were there immensely enjoyed the picture 'The Pinch Hitter.' It is hoped to bring the fund to $90, so that at least nine people can go to the institute.
Mrs. Cook's Sunday-school girls, the 'True Blues,' netted $12.50 from their bake sale last week, and now besides purchasing some neat class pins, have some money to give to the starving children fund.

During the next three Sunday evening beautifully colored stereopticon views will be used to show the miracles that are being performed with the Centenary money, which the Methodist people are giving. Plymouth people are putting over $2,000 a year into these great enterprises, and every contributor will surely want to know what their money is doing. Next Sunday evening the pictures will show 'Centenary Miracles Overseas.' This is a brand new set of slides from views recently procured and the information is right up-to-date.
The Pontiac District convention of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, which will be held in Plymouth church Thursday and Friday of next week, will afford a fine opportunity for the people here. The program will be announced Sunday. The Plymouth ladies will serve meals and the supper on Thursday will be open to the public.

'THE SECRET GARDEN'

FAMOUS JUVENILE STORY IN PICTURES.

The boy or girl who has never read 'Little Lord Fauntleroy' or 'The Secret Garden,' by Frances Hodgson Burnett, has missed a rare treat, and grown-ups enjoy these famous stories almost as much as the young folks. The picture to be shown at the Methodist church, next Monday evening, is the screen version of 'The Secret Garden,' a Paramount picture featuring Lila Lee. A rich, pampered and spoiled young prince, a girl cousin who had lost her parents in India, and a happy care-free lad of the moor, who made foxes, crows and squirrels his pets, furnish the interesting details of this delightful story. The book has been read in several rooms in the school, and the boys and girls are looking forward to the picture as a rare treat. 'Little Lord Fauntleroy,' a companion to 'The Secret Garden,' is the story which Mary Pickford is to put into her next picture.

Edgar, Roy, Lucy Luella and Jeanette Howard, Miss Ida Holmes and Miss Hazel Cahoon of Walled Lake, motored over to the evening service at the Baptist church, and listened to their former pastor.

DOWRIES IN THEIR HAIR

Bulgarian Women Have Peculiar Fashion of Arranging Their Forms of Head Dress.

In Bulgaria, from which have come some of the most interesting stories of the war, there are many odd customs whose origin dates back to ancient days. Many of these customs have to do with fighting—for Bulgaria has been at war very often with its neighbors in the past—but some of the most interesting have their origin in the paths of peace.

"So the casual visitor in Sofia, or indeed in any of the Bulgarian towns, one of the most striking sights of the streets are the women with their great masses of hair. At first sight it seems that no other women in the world are endowed with so much hair as are these sometimes very pretty women of Bulgaria. But when one looks closer at the head-dresses—for most of the women go about bareheaded—the amazing discovery is made that the perfect network of hair sometimes covering a woman's entire back in elaborate plaits is not her own, but is goat's hair, in which are entwined silver and gold coins.

Inquiry reveals the strange reason for these odd appendages of goat's hair and money, as not so much for decorative purposes as for diplomatic display. You see, every woman wears attached to the false hair as many coins as she can secure. Some of these are undoubtedly handed down from mother to daughter through many generations. This fact is evident if one is privileged to examine the curious coins that make up the head-dress—some are of ancient dynasties, while the others are examples of the coinage of all the world.

The fashion is certainly a convenient one, for suitors and prospective mothers-in-law can thus tell without embarrassing inquiries the market value of an unmarried woman. If a man likes the face of a girl all he has to do is to catch a glimpse of her back to know whether or not it would be "wise" to seek her hand in marriage.

It is odd, however, that so much importance should be attached to these dowries by the Bulgarians, for the coins are rarely if ever spent. When a girl marries she takes her dowry from her hair and hides it away. From time to time she adds to the dowry the coins she is able to hoard, in the expectation of dividing her dowry into adequate dowries for each of her daughters.—Temple Manning in Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Films of Rare Woods.
The growing scarcity of the more beautiful and valuable woods has made necessary the substitution of other and cheaper kinds. Thus hardly any furniture nowadays is made of solid mahogany, and inferior materials have very generally taken the place of the disappearing "cabinet woods."

Indeed, high-grade lumber of any kind is now so costly as to prohibit its common use as the solid body of furniture. Manufacturers are resorting more and more to the use of veneers. Articles of furniture, ranging from tables to phonograph cases, have skeletons of cheap wood covered with a thin skin of high quality stuff.

The skin is usually not more than one-twentieth of an inch thick. A thousand board feet of lumber will produce 10,000 square feet of veneer. Thus a great economy is obtained, and the furniture produced by this method is as pretty to look at as if it were what it purports to be.

A Bird Story.
In the early spring Mrs. Newlywed's bedroom was papered. The hangings at the windows were of Chinese taweling. It was difficult to find a pattern to harmonize, but finally a light gray with bamboo branches scattered over it was decided on. The border consisted of bamboo trees with groups of brightly-colored birds darting here and there. In the early dawn the occupants of this room were startled by flutterings of wings and tiny chirpings. This continued for some time and one morning when Mrs. Newlywed went up to make her bed she found a lot of sparrows in the room perched on her dressing table and fluttering about the birds in her wall-paper border. Frequently before this she had found bird feathers scattered over the room.—Exchange.

Hardly Also an Architect.
Thomas Hardy, whose novels and poems of Wessex are published in this country by Harper & Brothers, designed the marble tablet which was recently erected to the memory of the men of the Dorchester, England, postal staff who fell in the war. The veteran novelist, who was an architect in early life, offered to do the design, and the result of his work is said to be of rare beauty and dignity. A line from one of his Wessex poems, "None dubious of the cause, none murmuring," was chosen as the inscription for the memorial.

FAITH THAT WAS PRACTICAL

Object Lesson in the Determination of Dominic Joe That He Would "Make Good."

Up in the Catskill mountains there lived a mountaineer who believed that he had been called to preach the gospel. He got a license, but he could get no church to preach in. Indeed, there was no church within many miles of where he lived.

For a while Dominic Joe, as he was called, preached in the schoolhouse, but as he was always saying, "wint he wanted was a real proper house of worship." During week days he was a hard-working farmer with meager resources; and whenever he spoke of a church to his hard-working neighbors they would shake their heads as if they thought him a little queer.

But the dominie did not give up his plan. Indeed, as time went on he thought of little else. He even selected a site for the church—a pretty knoll at the edge of his farm. One evening when he came in from milking his face was shining. "Maria," he said to his wife, solemnly, "the trouble with me is that I haven't had the real kind of faith." After milking this evening I knelt down in the corner of the cow yard where I could see the little knoll, and with my eyes open I prayed and prayed until I saw the church just as plain as I see your face. It was white with green shutters and had a tall steeple; and on top of the steeple, Maria, was a bright star."

Dominie Joe's wife was worried; she feared that his head "had gone quite wrong."

In the middle of the night the dominie awoke and exclaimed "Maria! Old Josiah Sturges' tannery! Some one told me that Josiah had sold the old tannery site to a city man for a summer place. I'll bet that city man'll pay to have the tannery pulled down and carted away! And there's the stuff for our church!"

No one could withstand Dominic Joe's enthusiasm; that winter the farmers got together and carted the timber and the boards of the old tannery to the place where today stands as pretty and neat a country church, as you can see anywhere. Dominic Joe himself was a fair carpenter. Country masons and carpenters gave their work. During the afternoon of the church "raising" word went round that the city man had offered to pay for a steeple and buy a bell.

A visiting fisherman who frequently passes Dominic Joe's church says that he never sees the big gilt star on the steeple without thinking of the mountaineer kneeling in his cow yard and gazing at the vision of his faith.—Youth's Companion.

Quaint Wedding Coaches.
An American bridegroom who recently made his journey to the altar in a steam plow has had many rivals in matrimonial wedding carriages, observes London Answers.

It is not long since a bridal couple and their guests made a dramatic appearance in a Welsh village in a traction engine, and a procession of trucks gayly decorated with flags, flowers and evergreens.

A wedding party drove up to St. Mark's church, Birmingham, one Easter Sunday, in mourning coaches, the horses being inconspicuously adorned with white rosettes. A prettily decorated tramcar was the chosen vehicle of a Wolverhampton bridal party, the driver and conductor wearing white gloves and smart buttonholes, and the journey to the church being heralded by the explosion of a number of fog signals.

But perhaps the most novel journey of all was that of a young Austrian couple whose wedding procession slid down a steep hill from the bride's home to Payback church on seven toboggans, decorated with pine branches and flowers.

Limits of Submarine.
In a contribution to the submarine- versus-battleship controversy, Admiral Sir M. Bacon, quoted in the Scientific American, states that because of the constructional conditions attending submarine design, a craft which navigates below water loses a large per cent of her surface fighting efficiency.

For tonnage, the fighting and accounting efficiency of a submarine is only about 10 per cent of that of the surface vessel.

Sir George Owen, Thurston, naval director of Vickers, Limited, gives figures showing that a submarine of 5,400 tons, having a surface speed of 20 knots, could mount an armament of only one 5.5-inch and one 3-inch gun.

Eating and Wasting Lamb Meat.
The United States Department of Agriculture reports that ten years ago the consumption of beef per head of the population in the United States was 70 pounds. Last year it was less than 50 pounds. Beef consumption in the American household, it is stated, has undergone a great change during this time, especially in reducing waste.

A Daughter of Chief White Crow

By HAROLD SINCLAIRE.

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

Each year the Hopi Indians dance the corn dance, in honor of the tasselling blades and in praise of the giver; and each year since he had joined the agency Clifford Durham attended the spectacle alone.

Men and women participated in the great sacred dance in honor of the corn.

This year there was a newcomer, a girl of exquisite beauty.

"I am the assistant agent," said Clifford introducing himself to her as she stood a little apart from the throng of Indians after the dance. "You are of this tribe? But I have never seen you. Where do you live?"

"Oh, I am an Indian in exile," she answered, smiling. "No, you will not see me again. This is my first return and my last. My father was Chief White Crow."

"I," said Clifford, "shall remain here—always, I think. I was born among the Indians and have learned to love them. I seek no more of life than that I may remain here until I die, protecting them, instructing them, helping them and teaching them to help themselves."

"God aid you in your worthy purpose," she answered softly. Clifford saw that there were tears in her eyes. He clasped her in his arms and rained kisses upon her lips and throat.

"She fought him like a fury, fought her way out of his arms, and stood glaring at him under the large, yellow harvest moon.

"You—how dare you!" she cried passionately. "You—who were sworn—who have just told me that you wanted to help—!" She choked upon her words. "So you think because I wear the Indian garb that I am only an Indian girl," she went on in tones of intensest bitterness.

"Forgive me," he murmured humbly. "I love you. I have never seen any woman like you. I was insane. Give me a chance to prove that I was not slighting you."

"Oh, you shall have your chance," she answered and turned away.

Governor Lawson was partly of Indian blood. Though it was only one-eighth, or hardly more, he boasted of it. It gave him prestige among the aboriginal inhabitants of his state, many of whom had won honors in various ranks of life. Three were in the legislature. One owned a bank. Governor Lawson studied the welfare of the Indians his study and hobby. He sent for Clifford, to examine him concerning a matter of disputed lands.

After the talk he said: "You have been seven years on the reservation, tell me. You must take a long rest in the capital.

"Durham," said the governor, "I want you to stay and be our guest at my daughter's wedding tomorrow.

And, when Clifford assented, gratefully, for he felt ill at ease, the governor led him into his drawing room. A young woman was seated there.

"Estelle," said Governor Lawson, "I want to introduce Mr. Durham."

The color flamed into Durham's face. It was his Indian girl. She smiled coldly at him.

"You asked for your chance," she said. "Well, I have given it to you."

"To love you?" he murmured, and she drew back as though he had whipped her.

"To prove that you were not slighting me," she answered.

Clifford Durham was a man of simple mold. He had never loved until that night; since then he had always loved. He knew he always would. Later that evening he turned his feet resolutely in the direction of the governor's residence, set in the grove of trees. Next moment he was striding noiselessly across the turf.

Estelle was seated at her window beside a lamp. Invisible though he was to her, she was perfectly apparent. When she raised her eyes he saw tears rolling down her cheeks. And then the memory became irresistible.

He walked up to the window and tapped lightly. "Estelle!" he called. She sprang up with a startled gesture, turned and faced him. She seemed to freeze to stone.

"Estelle," he said, "I know why you came to the Hopi dance last year. It was because you are an Indian still, as I am in soul. It was the old, untamed love for the wilds, the plains, the solitude. You are like a caged bird here. And you are going to be married tomorrow!"

He laughed softly and held out his arms.

"You will never be happy in the life that you have planned out," he said. "You must follow your destiny—you must come with me."

"Oh—if I dared!" she said. "What would they think of me? What would they say?"

"Come, Estelle!" he whispered. And suddenly he caught her in his arms and kissed her as on that night under the harvest moon.

"If your duty were here I would not urge you," he said.

"If you had not come I should have killed myself," she said. "Oh, my love—ever since that night under the harvest moon! It was I who sent for you. I knew you would come then and I knew you would come tonight. I am yours forever. Take me!"

She stepped outside the window into his arms. He pulled the latch and led her off under the windy skies, late the night, westward.

DEATH OF FORMER LIVONIA RESIDENT

Dr. J. M. Armstrong, who died recently in California, was born on a farm east of Plymouth, in Livonia township, where he grew to young manhood. He attended the Newburg school and later the Plymouth schools. He attended the U. of M. at Ann Arbor, graduating from the medical department in 1883. He began the practice of medicine in Northville and while there was married to Miss Carrie Peckles, leaving Northville, Dr. Armstrong went to Salt Lake City, and later moved to Los Angeles, where he made his home until eleven years ago when he went to Alhambra, California. We take the following from the Alhambra paper regarding his death:

Dr. John M. Armstrong, prominent physician and highly respected citizen of this city, died at eleven o'clock this (Friday) morning in the Pasadena hospital, where he was taken a week ago with a severe attack of heart trouble. There his condition became gradually worse, and Wednesday his physicians abandoned hope for his recovery.

His wife is prostrated with grief at the home of their adopted daughter, Mrs. E. W. Moorhead, at 229 North Hidalgo. The deceased was perhaps one of the best known citizens of Alhambra. He had resided here for the past eleven years and practiced medicine with a large measure of success. His practice had become so large in the past few years that he was compelled to give up his office in the National Bank building and limit himself to the clientele he had established. Strenuous work in looking after his large practice no doubt impaired his health and two months ago he suffered a severe stroke of paralysis. He was given treatment in the Long Beach Sanitarium for several weeks and his condition seemed somewhat improved, so that he was removed to the home of Mrs. Moorhead. However, he had only been at the home of his daughter a short time until symptoms of an old malady, Bright's disease, began to appear. He suffered considerably and finally was taken to the Pasadena hospital.

The deceased is survived by his wife and one adopted daughter, and a brother, Charles Armstrong of 17 North El Molino. They were all present at his deathbed.

The funeral will be held next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock at the Presbyterian church, of which church the deceased was a trustee. Burial will be private Monday morning at San Gabriel cemetery under the direction of Turner, Stevens & Turner.

Nothing could be more tragic than the death of this noble citizen, husband and public servant. Only a few months ago he was pronounced the picture of health and was looking after his large medical practice with the usual cheerfulness and sincerity which endeared him to a host of friends.

Francis Johnson has gone to Kalamazoo, where he is employed on a poultry farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peck entertained fifteen guests Sunday, in honor of the birthday of their son, Harry. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Peck and family and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Peck of Detroit; Mrs. Mary

Peck of Jackson, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Peck and family. A sumptuous dinner and supper were served, and there were seventeen "Pecks" seated at the table.

John VanBonn has been confined to the house by illness during the past week.

Mrs. Barney Tuck entertained the Needle Club at her home on the Seven Mile drive, Thursday afternoon. The day was ideal, and the members of club and invited guests numbered thirty-three, and all report a most enjoyable afternoon. In the "egg" contest, prizes were awarded to Mrs. Riley Wolfson and Mrs. Frank Bradley. An unusually fine pot-luck supper was served. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Julius Landau, Thursday, May 12th.

Ethel VanBonn, who has been spending the past few months in Detroit, is home for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Chilton visited friends in Northville and Novi, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Caunelle entertained friends from Detroit, Sunday.

Miss Helen Hottenstein was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lee at Plymouth.

The Misses Hazel and Muriel Parmalee of Northville, were Sunday callers at the Fred Lee home.

The community regrets the occurrence of another drowning accident in our midst, last week. It brings to mind a similar tragedy of about two years ago, when two young people lost their lives by drowning, in the same stream, one mile from the scene of the accident of last week. Our hearts go out in sympathy to the relatives and friends of Mrs. Taylor and little Vivian.

The entertainment given by the Dearborn Dramatic Club, under the auspices of the I. O. O. F., in Penniman Allen theatre, last Friday evening, was fairly well attended. Each member of the cast, in presenting the comedy, "Lend Me Your Baby," took their part in a creditable manner. Music was furnished by Millard orchestra.

Thomas Hunter of Spencer, Ohio, made a pleasant call at the Mail office, Tuesday. Mr. Hunter states that Spencer is experiencing an oil boom at present. The oil has been found on the farm of Frank Brown, husband of Mr. Hunter's granddaughter. Oil of good quality stands within six feet of the top of the well. An offer of $5,000 has been made for the well just as it stands.

For the second time this week, fire broke out in the upper story of Frank Beal's home on Elm street, last Tuesday evening, about eleven o'clock. The fire department was immediately summoned, and the blaze was extinguished before great damage was done. The fire broke out in the same place as it did on Sunday afternoon, and the cause is unknown, but it is thought it might have been smoldering in the partition since the previous fire.

A few evenings ago, the members of the committee for the good of the Order of the Eastern Star, gave their chairman and husband, Mr. and Mrs. W. Luten, an agreeable surprise at their home in north village. At six o'clock the members gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Luten, carrying with them baskets filled with roasted chicken and other goodies, and a fine supper was served after which a social evening followed. All report a pleasant time.

Wednesday evening, about thirty Plymouth people motored to Ann Arbor to hear the fourth annual state championship debate in Sarah Caswell Angell hall in Barbour gymnasium. The trip was made through the courtesy of Donald Patterson, Donald Sutherland, Roy Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Kay Hill and Miss Edna Edson O. Hill and James Hill. The debate was won by two votes for Kalamazoo Normal and one for East Jordan.

The Daisy Employees' Association held their regular meeting in the I. O. O. F. hall, Wednesday evening, May 4th. More than one hundred were in attendance. After the business session the wives and friends of the members were invited in, where they were pleasantly entertained by a program consisting of instrumental music, vocal selections, dialogues, etc. Several members of the Northville L. O. T. M. assisted with the program. Later in the evening, refreshments were served, and dancing was indulged in. It was voted to continue the meetings during the summer months.

SWICKARD-REED
Wes Swickard of the local post of Michigan State Post, and Miss Metta Reed of Chandler, Indiana, were married by Justice Thos. Patterson, Wednesday evening, at the home of Mrs. Patterson on Ann Arbor street.

They have the best wishes of their many friends for a happy and prosperous wedded life.

A CARD—We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to the many neighbors and friends for their many acts of kindness rendered during our recent sad bereavement. CENTENARIES OF GREAT MEN

Year 1921 is rich in memories of those whom the world looks to as heroes.

Nineteen hundred and twenty-one is particularly rich in literary centenaries, says a correspondent in the Manchester Guardian. Flaubert and Dostoevsky represent France and Russia, respectively, in fiction, and Shelley has William Collins, Whyte Melville and, if one may venture to add her name to such an illustrious company, Miss Charlotte Maria Tucker, dear to some of us in childhood days as A. L. O. E.

In poetry the great name of Dante is supreme; it will be the 600th anniversary of his death in September. This year also sees the birth centenary of Baudelaire, while we have such a variety of poets as Dora Greenwell, Frederick Locker-Lampson and John Skinner, the last named having been born 200 years ago and called by Burns the writer of the "best-Scottish song ever Scotland saw."

Sir Samuel Baker, Heinrich Barth and Sir Richard Burton make a notable trilogy of travelers, and among painters there are Noel Paton and Ford Madox Brown. Of religious writers, preachers, teachers and church dignitaries there are George Dawson, Archbishop Temple, Dean Bradley (who propped the walls of Westminster abbey for posterity), and Henri Frederic Amiel. And in what other company shall one include Marcus Aurelius, said to have been born in 121 A. D. and Anne Askew, born in 1521, and martyred 23 years later?

Journalism is represented by Meredith Dixon and J. M. F. Lodiow, the latter being the propagandist through the press of Christian socialism. Gifters will be glad to revive the memory of Tom Morris and educationists that of Edward Thring, while the fighting services are represented by Lord Alcester.

Fate.
There is one woman in Indianapolis, who will base cause to reflect long on the uncertainty of life. Dish-washing being particularly distasteful to her, she halted with joy her husband's announcement that an electric dishwasher was to be her birthday present and hurried down town to order one sent out. The obliging clerk, on being impressed with the strength of her desire to have the machine in the house before the evening meal, glibly promised to see that it was there. The woman was anxious to try it out as soon as it came. Accordingly, she collected some dirty dishes from one of the neighbors who had her heavy meal at noon. The dishes were carried over in two wicker baskets and deposited in the kitchen to await a demonstration. Four o'clock came and with it a vague uneasiness that later became a certainty though telephone calls to the accommodating clerk brought forth the assurance that the machine would be there. At 5:45 she put on the dishpan and washed her neighbor's dishes. Then she took them down in the market basket, a fully disillusioned woman. Some time the next day the dishwasher arrived. — Indianapolis News.

Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets. The Corsets that Women Like. We know this because we sell so many of them and sell them over and over again to the same customers. It is probably because Warner's is such an "all-round" corset. It is fashionable in its lines, giving any type of figure those firm, trim contours that are just right under tailored clothes; it is the soul of comfort, women tell us—and we think that is because it is so well-made and the boning is so skilfully placed. It is certainly the most economical corset you can buy because it is guaranteed not to rust, break or tear.

Warner's Perfection Waists for Children have a special appeal to mothers, because of their lightness, healthfulness and strength. Over a child's knitted underwear they are far superior to knitted waists, which are not healthful since a double layer of knitted garments is apt to cause excess perspiration. Perfection Waists, on the other hand, are made of batiste and twill and do not induce perspiration. They clothe the child in a modern, healthful way, and they afford proper support for the outer garments. Perfection Waists are thoroughly reinforced, have well-taped, unbreakable buttons and hardy hose supporters. There is not that constant ripping and tearing of material, which make many underwaists a trial to mothers. We Do Hemstitching and Pleating Wear Cadet Hosiery. They Satisfy
