HERE IS AN AUGUST SERMON FOR AUGUST

CHAUTAQUA CLOSED TUESDAY

THE MUTUAL-MORGAN BUREAU GAVE EXCELLENT PROGRAMS BUT LOST MONEY IN PLYMOUTH. DEFICIT OF $450.

As good entertainment as was ever given in Plymouth, but insufficient support to make it pay out, marked the Mutual-Morgan Chautauqua, which closed its five-day program here, last Tuesday evening. The total receipts were $655.40, of which $218 was from single admissions and the remainder from the sale of 209 adult and 21 youth season tickets. This left a deficit of $450, as the program was bought outright by the local committee for $1100. This would have cost each of the fifteen guarantors, $30, but the Mutual-Morgan bureau was very considerate in its dealing with the Plymouth men, and in view of the local situation two weeks ago, agreed that no guarantor would be held liable for more than $10. So the local men paid $150 of the deficit and the company stood the rest of the loss.

It may be interesting to know that our neighboring town of Howell, with the same program one day in advance had had big crowds every night, and cleared $700 for the local committee. The general estimate of those who attended is that the program this year was worthy of more generous patronage. It was well balanced, with both popular and classical music, both inspirational and informational lectures, and every program attractive and pleasing.

The Craven family on the opening night was enthusiastically received, and their splendid concert was as much enjoyed as when they were here five years ago. The trap-drummer and xylophonist, who was then a girl of twelve years wearing a bow hair ribbon, has advanced to attractive womanhood, and has become a seasons' artist. The oldest daughter has married, and her place is filled by another girl, who fits in the family orchestra splendidly.

The Venetians, a company of Italian musicians, gave programs on Saturday, which were thoroughly enjoyed. Their music was something different than is usually heard, and had such a distinctive gusto about it that everyone enjoyed it hilariously. The speaker on Saturday was Capt. Caward of Chicago, a manufacturer and business man, who had considerable experience in the war, and who knows how to talk to business men. He is an enthusiastic and attractive speaker, and every business man who wants to progress ought to have heard him. The lecture Saturday evening was especially for young men on "A Shot in the Arm," and was worth ten dollars to any young man who wants to make his life count. The afternoon lecture on "Making Live Wire Connections," was also good, plain common sense, such as Capt. Caward is accustomed to hand out to sales organizations and business men groups, and all put up in attractive packages.

The best in music well rendered describes the offering of the Chicago Concert party on Sunday. The work of Minna Krokowski on the violin was very good. The soloists were also good, with the contralto, Eva Moradesky, as a special favorite. Many were disappointed that these artists did not present any sacred numbers as they were expected to do for the Sunday program.

Toots Paka and her Hawaiian troupe, who have become famous through their Victor phonograph records, made Monday the big day of the week, with over two hundred single admissions besides those who had season tickets. Everybody seemed to like the Hawaiians, and the entertainment by Miss Davault, dramatic reader, was no less enjoyed. Some liked best the play "The Man Who Came Back," which she gave in the evening, while others appreciated more the miscellaneous sketches in the afternoon.

Dr. Lloyd Douglas, pastor of the Congregational church at Ann Arbor, was the Sunday lecturer and fitted in well with the day. There was more point to his evening lecture on "Life a Business Proposition," than to the afternoon address on "Personality," but all that he said was presented in his characteristic style, which made it enjoyable to listen to him, no matter what he said.

Girls as entertainers and Dr. Leslie W. Morgan of London, as the lecturer, was made especially attractive by the presentation of the pageant, "The Dream that Came True," by our own boys and girls, under the able direction of Miss Helen Ibbotson, the junior supervisor. Miss Ibbotson was in town nine days, giving her time unsparingly to the children, directing them in their play hours and drilling them for the pageant. The pageant was most delightful, with bright, charming costumes for the young fairies, butterflies, flowers, brownies and geese, and the various parts were taken with remarkable grace and attractiveness. Miss Florence Newell assisted Miss Ibbotson in presenting the pageant. Miss Helen Jewell was the piano accompanist.

The Dixie Girls won the hearts of all with their charming music and readings, and Dr. Morgan gave much interesting information concerning conditions on the dark streets of London during war time, and the work which was done by the Y. M. C. A. workers for the overseas soldiers in London.

Thanks are due the men who brought these splendid programs to Plymouth at some expense to themselves. All who have been in touch with the Chautauqua this year agree that it will be a fine thing to have the Mutual program again next year, but this depends entirely upon whether thirty business men can be found to back the proposition. Any who are interested may confer with Village Manager S. D. Strong.

ANNUAL MEETING OF METHODIST SOCIETY

IMPORTANT REPORTS AND BUSINESS AT CHURCH TUESDAY EVENING.

The last quarterly conference of the local Methodist church, which is the annual meeting of the society, when reports of the year's work are made and stewards and trustees for the ensuing year are chosen, is scheduled to meet at the church, next Tuesday evening, August 16, at 7:30. The district superintendent, Rev. A. B. Leonard, D. D., will be present and preside at the meeting. The pastor, Rev. Frank M. Field, will present his fifth, and possibly last, annual report, and all other departments of the church, including Sunday-school, Epworth League, Ladies' Aid society, Missionary societies, and Board of Trustees, will also have reports of the year's work. One of the important reports will be that of the estimating committee, as action upon it will determine the pastor's salary to be paid the coming year. The meeting is open to all members of the church and congregation.

The first item of business, preceding the regular conference session, will be the election of a lay delegate to the lay electoral conference, which meets at Adrian in connection with the annual conference. E. T. Cope is judge of the election, and R. R. Parrott and C. H. Hammond are tellers.

BRIGGS SCHOOL REUNION

The sixth annual reunion of the Briggs school in Livonia township, will take place at the school house in District No. 3, tomorrow, Saturday, August 13th. Many of the former teachers and pupils of the school are planning to attend, and the reunion promises to be a most pleasant occasion for all. A most interesting program has been arranged, and of course the big feature of the day will be the picnic dinner at noon, and the renewing of old school day acquaintances.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL

Tuesday evening, August 16th, starting at 7:00 p. m., on the lawn at A. J. Lapham's, corner Holbrook avenue and Pearl street, an ice cream social will be given by the Women's Guild of St. John's Episcopal mission. Ice cream and home-made cake and cones. Music through the courtesy of the Millard band.

BASE BALL SATURDAY

The I. O. O. F. base ball team will play the Pere Marquette team of Detroit, at the High School Athletic Park, tomorrow, Saturday, August 13th. Game called at 8:00 o'clock. Admission, 25c and 35c, including war tax.

TWO BUSINESS PLACES BROKEN INTO

Thieves broke into the store of the Beyer Pharmacy at a late hour Sunday night or early Monday morning, by prying open the rear door of the store. Before visiting the Beyer store, the robbers broke into H. J. Fisher's blacksmith shop, and procured a heavy rasp file with which to pry open the door. Nothing else was disturbed at the Fisher shop. At the Beyer store the thieves got a small quantity of opiates, which were kept in the safe, and a small amount of change from the cash register.

PATCHIN SCHOOL REUNION

The Patchin school reunion will be held at the school house in District No. 3, Nankin township, Saturday, August 13. Come early. There will be games in the forenoon and an entertainment in the afternoon. Bring your Knapsack and Pat's Pick. Everybody is requested to sing.

WAYNE'S ASSESSMENT GREATLY INCREASED

An increase of more than two billion dollars in the property valuation of the state for this year, as compared to the valuation of 1919, was recommended to the state board of equalization by the state tax commission, August 1. The commission places the total valuation at $6,706,421,000. Two years ago it was equalized at $4,500,000,000. The board of equalization heard the report and adjourned until August 15, to give counties time in which to file appeals. If the recommendation of the commission is accepted nearly one-half of the increase will be placed on the Wayne county assessment roll. In 1919 Wayne's valuation was $1,744,856,000. In the suggested 1921 valuation it is $2,734,000,000.

PERRINSVILLE HOME COMING

A reunion and homecoming picnic will be held on the Perrinsville school grounds, Saturday, August 20th. A short program of music and recitations has been prepared. The dean of the rural department of Ypsilanti Normal, and Fred Fisher of Belleville, assistant superintendent of schools of Wayne county, will speak on rural problems. Races, a tag of war and various other stunts will take place. There will be a ball game in the forenoon and afternoon. The L. A. S. will have a booth on the ground, where ice cream and candy can be purchased, also sandwiches and hot coffee. All bring your baskets and meet your old friends and make new ones. Everyone welcome.

TAKING HIS MEDICINE

If every one of men in this country had been hit as hard during the past twelve months as the farmers, we would have had a panic without equal in the nation's history. For when it comes to standing up and "taking the gaff," the American farmer is in a class by himself. And still there are in Plymouth, people who think that the frequent reference to the stability of the farmer comes from those who only seek to win favors from him. Yet they must admit, if they will consider prices and conditions in this country, that if there is a set of men capable of coming up smiling in the face of hard luck the farmers compose that set. They have taken their lessons, and plunged in to produce more to fight their way out.

It is not surprising when a calf brings 6c on the farm and 60c on the restaurant table that the farmer is taking steps to see what can be done along toward improving the marketing of the things he raises; to try to reduce the wide gap between himself and the ultimate consumer of his products. No other business man can point to as wide a margin between that which he turns out of his factory and the price the consumer has to pay for it. That's why we say the American farmer, in refusing to quit and let the country starve to death, is setting an example which other American citizens might find well worthy of emulation.

WINTER FUEL

Several Plymouth friends have asked us recently if we believe there is going to be a change in fuel prices between now and cold weather. And we wish we were in position to answer them. We wish we could see into the future far enough to tell exactly what conditions will be within the next few weeks. But that is impossible, so we must accept the word of mine operators, of railroad men and of coal dealers. And that is to the effect that coal will continue to retail for at least as much as it is now selling for. They will not say that it is going higher, but they seem to be a unit in declaring that it is not going to be any lower. If called upon to offer advice it would be to take a chance on present prices and lay in the winter supply now. It may be just a few cents cheaper later on, but we believe the extra protection of having it in the bin will offset any drop that may come. For after all it may be, before winter is over, more of a case of getting the coal than getting it at a lower price than it is now.

GRANGE NOTES

At our regular meeting August 5, a rather small assemblage listened to talks of the aim and accomplishments of the Farm Bureau by Mr. Ross and Mrs. Maude Bennett. Mr. Ross, as county club leader of the Boys' and Girls' Clubs, also gave interesting data along that line, paying high tribute to Mrs. S. W. Spicer's efficiency as our local leader. A special meeting is called for next week Monday evening at 7:30 for the purpose of obligating in the first and second degrees, and such other business as may need attention that was found impracticable to be attended to at our last regular meeting. All members of the team are urged to be present for drill practice promptly at 7:30 p. m., to prepare for the fourth degree. Meeting called for Friday evening, August 19th, at 7:00 o'clock p. m., at which time a full attendance is desired.

The new pump for the municipal water works system has arrived, and will be connected up this week. The concrete work at the big reservoir is practically completed, and more than half of the 18-inch dirt covering over the reservoir is in place.

Today's Reflections

When you ask a Plymouth girl to sing and she says she can't, take her word for it instead of asking her to prove it.

One thing about an elopement, you never can tell whether it was her suggestion or his.

We've also noticed that a poor man never troubles himself about the troubles of a millionaire.

We can forgive the Plymouth man who makes a mistake, but we haven't much use for the one who makes a mistake and then spends all his time walling about it.

There are star reporters and star advertising men, but we never yet heard of a star proofreader.

You may also have noticed that this day in time quite a few square people are broke flat.

There's one advantage in having a cork leg—it offers one less place for a mosquito to bite you.

About the only time a Plymouth fat man gets any applause is when his hat blows off and he has to chase it down the street.

They've built monuments in this country for almost every benefactor except the woman who first cooked corn and beans together.

Nothing hits the honeymoon a harder jolt than for hubby to discover her going around the house with her shoes unlaced.

And every Plymouth married man wonders once in his life what his wife does with all the money he gives her.

We're still offering a medal to the man who will point out any business in the United States, outside of the mint, that can make money without advertising.

Another favorite expression of many Plymouth women is, "I guess I'll let these dishes go 'till in the morning."

About the only time a certain class of people have a good word for the newspaper is when they want to get printed for nothing something they know they ought to pay for.

The label on your paper tells when your subscription expires.

The Northville fair will be held Sept. 28, 29, 30 and Oct. 1st.

Brighton will have a Field Day, or a day of sports, Thursday, August 18. There are now about 100 children at the fresh air camp on the Detroit Sanitarium grounds west of Northville.

The citizens of Novi township are soon to vote upon the proposition of adopting the township unit school system.

Between 100 and 125 cars of gravel are being loaded daily at the gravel plant located on the Pere Marquette railroad between South Lyon and Island Lake.

Bird & Watters of Holly, offered $5 for the biggest black bass caught by August 1st. Frank Hubble held the honor, as he caught a bass in Strawberry lake. Holly township, weighing six pounds and three ounces.

Spencer Heeny completed the two-year course of instruction at M. C. Haley's school of embalming in Detroit in June, and was granted an embalmers' license as a result of the examination given by the state board of Health.—Northville Record.

Options are being taken on farm lands in the southwest portion of this township upon which the county of Wayne will establish a home for feeble minded. It is proposed to secure upwards of 500 acres for the new institution and the purchase of sufficient land has been authorized by the board of supervisors. The establishment of the home will mean quite an extensive building program, because suitable cottages and buildings will have to be erected to care for those who are to become inmates of the institution. This will mean three public institutions established in this section by the county of Wayne.—Northville Record.

A big sign "Milford Silver Black Fox Farm," is now to be seen at the Joerin residence, near the east end of Commerce street. The farm has now been in operation for several years, beginning with breeding stock brought from Prince Edward Island. The aim so far, of course, has been to increase the stock, pelts being taken off only from individual animals not needed, or desirable for breeding stock. There are now 28 foxes of various ages now in the ranch, including several pairs of breeders, and some stock has been sold for breeding purposes. The ranch consists of a tight board fence enclosure, within which are the pens built of heavy woven wire, and which are enclosed over the top as well as the sides. The fence also extends underground to prevent the animals from burrowing out. It is an interesting business, but one which requires an immense amount of care and detail. Joerin and Diehl are the proprietors.—Milford Times.

The building committee of the Michigan Methodist Children's Home have awarded the contract for the erection of a new building for that organization. The contract price is $49,000, and construction work has already started. The new building, which is to be the first unit of a social service center of eight units, to cost it is estimated, around half a million dollars, will be of brick and cut stone, and will contain on the first floor an office, living room, reception hall and dining room. On the second floor there will be two dormitories for 24 children and the quarters for the superintendent and her assistant. The third floor will be devoted to storage rooms and the basement will contain the heating and plumbing plant, and a play room large enough for all the children. The building is to be erected on the Landau farm just west of Farmington on Grand River. From the highest point of this property, which has been named Henderson Height, in honor of Bishop Theodore S. Henderson of Detroit, the skyscrapers of Detroit, twenty miles southeast, are visible. The administration building, it is proposed, will be erected on this height.

THE THEATRE

"Sowing the Wind," which has Anita Stewart as its charming star, is the attraction at the Penniman Allen theatre, Saturday evening, August 13th. It can be classified as one of the really good pictures of the current season, and it is of more than usual appeal since it contains all the elements which go to make up a modern picture of ceaseless action. Miss Stewart, by a finished performance in her portrayal of the character of a beautifully innocent girl whose mother is a "queen" of revellers in a notorious gambling house, commands hearty sympathy. She registers the changing emotions of a girl in such a predicament with fine shading and no one can go away from the theatre without taking the feeling that it makes no difference what obstacles an evil fate may place in the way of a human being, there can come happiness ultimately. The most interesting phase of the story hinges upon the girl meeting the man of her heart and her subsequent battles to have and to hold him despite her totally unsatisfactory maternal antecedent. Another interesting twist to the narrative is her discovery of her own father, who proves to be a very interesting character. A splendid suspense is maintained until the very end of the picture.

The cast supporting Miss Stewart deserves special commendation. It is far above the average. Ralph Lewis, Myrtle Stedman, James Morrison and William V. Mong, all handle important roles most acceptably. Mr. Lewis as Brabazon, the father of the unfortunate girl, gives an exceptionally fine performance, while Miss Stedman as the wayward mother, succeeds in doing her best work as an emotional artist.

"Sowing the Wind," is a photoplay which will thoroughly divert most anyone. It is even more than mere entertainment, for it is a veritable study such as anyone enjoys digging into with a zeal.

Cured of Stomach Trouble and Constipation

Rachel Cribley of Beaver Dam, Ohio, was sick two years with stomach trouble and constipation, taking one medicine after another with only temporary relief. "My neighbor spoke so enthusiastically of Chamberlain's Tablets," she says, "that I procured a bottle of them at our drug store to try. A few days' treatment convinced me that they were just what I needed. I continued their use for several weeks and they cured me."—Advertisement.

STATE FAIR'S BIG BUILDING PROGRAM

$20,000 HORSE STRUCTURE WILL BE READY FOR THE 1921 EXHIBITION.

GREAT NEW COLISEUM TO BE BUILT BY NEXT YEAR

Another distinct step forward in the steady development of the Michigan State Fair is being made in the building program that has been decided upon for the immediate future. The fair has maintained a rapid rate of growth since it located on the grounds out Woodward avenue and with the additions now to be made will begin to make the impressive appearance that its rank as the leading fair in America entitles it to.

There is now under construction on the fair grounds a new horse building, costing in the neighborhood of $20,000, which will be completed and ready for use at the coming fair, September 2-11. Were it not for the prohibitive cost of building construction and the difficulty of obtaining labor that existed last year, a more considerable amount of building would have been arranged for to be completed in time for the 1921 fair.

With the new horse building fully equipped to take care of all horses shown at the fair, in the most modern manner throughout, the old horse building is being remodeled as an addition to the cattle building," explained Secretary Manager G. W. Dickinson, of the fair. "The cattle building, with this addition, also will be one that the fair can be proud of."

"The old cattle sheds, which will be used this year for sheep and swine exhibits, will be torn down after this year's fair. The new coliseum will be erected on the site now occupied by these cattle sheds. The coliseum will be a most effective addition to the permanent features of the state fair. The building will cover a space about 220 by 180 feet. It will have a large central arena, with tiers of seats about the arena that will accommodate seven to eight thousand people.

"In this arena we can have blooded stock shows and sales during the year as well as having the use of it at State Fair time. It can be made the central point in the mid-west for high-class stock sales, with profit to the state fair as well as increased rotation."

Sewers have been constructed through the fair grounds during this year, giving additional facilities to the grounds. A new building is being planned for the sheep and swine exhibits, which will be of much better grade than the present temporary quarters in the old cattle sheds. A new art building also is planned, along with improvements to several of the existing buildings on the grounds. All these improvements and new buildings are to be ready for the opening of the 1922 fair, it is planned, thus heavily increasing the facilities over those now had.

CANNING NOTES

(M. A. C. Home Economics Dept.)

Why can beets and carrots when they may be stored in the cellar in the fall and kept until late winter or early spring?

First, because the small tender vegetables have a better flavor than the older ones gathered in the fall. Second, because in thinning the rows of beets or carrots, some may be kept for winter use which would otherwise be wasted.

Third, they are cooked and ready to serve at a moment's notice, and one fire does for a number of meals. Fourth, they may be used late in the spring, after the stored vegetables are all gone or no longer fresh and crisp.

Beets and carrots canned by the cold pack method taste like the fresh product, when opened in the winter. Select small, uniform sized vegetables.

Leave one-inch of stem and tail on beets to keep them from losing color in blanching.

Blanch in boiling water for five minutes.

Dip in cold water.

Remove skins by scraping—not peeling.

Put into jars—beets should be packed whole if possible. Cover with boiling water to within one-fourth inch of top. Add one teaspoonful of salt to each quart.

Add rubber, and cover screwed down as tightly as possible with thumb and little finger.

Put in boiler or canner with boiling water over tops of cans. Boil for one and one-half hours.

Remove jars and tighten covers.

Beets may show a slight loss of color when removed from canner, but will brighten up in a few days.

FRANK COWARD.

Few men are better known to Michigan farmers and livestock breeders than Frank Coward, of Bronson, State Fair Board member who will be in charge of the exhibits of the sheep department of the 1921 fair in Detroit, Sept. 2-11. As state treasurer of the Grange and a prominent figure in farm loan activities and other state affairs he has been long prominent in the public eye.

The sheep department is regarded as one of the most important at the state fair, because of the prominence of Michigan in the wool market. Mr. Coward will be assisted in his work in this department by C. J. Kellogg, of Reading, who will judge medium and long wool, and by George A. Brown, professor of Animal Husbandry, M. A. C., East Lansing, judge of the wool.

FRAIN'S LAKE

The annual Moore reunion will be held at the home of C. H. Freeman, next Tuesday, August 16th.

The Misses Wales were afternoon callers at Mabel Fishbeck's.

What promises to be the great event of the season will be held at C. H. Freeman's farm home, August 19, when the G. R. O. W. class will give a minstrel show and fine entertainment. Hot sandwiches and coffee, popcorn, pie a la mode and cantaloupe sundaes will be served.

Lloyd Lyke and wife motored to Belle Isle, Sunday, where they attended an Oscoda picnic.

The Farmers' Clubs of Washtenaw county will hold a picnic at Whitmore Lake, Sunday.

Mrs. Bessie Geer attended the Pray reunion at the home of N. P. Hull at Lansing.

Ed. Lyke wife and daughter, Evelyn, and Mrs. Lloyd Lyke attended Ypsilanti Grange, last Saturday, at the home of Mrs. Newton.

Harry White, formerly of the town line, underwent an operation at Maplehurst hospital, last week.

County Agent Osler culled a flock of hens for Mrs. Edward Lyke, Tuesday morning.

C. E. Edwards and family will spend the last two weeks in August on a trip through the state.

SHOWED HIM HOW

Mr. Brown Learned Something From His Better Half.

Of Course Her Knowledge Was Not Scientific but the Cork Came Out of That Bottle.

Brown had been pattering around in the bathroom for a half hour, while Mrs. Brown grew more and more nervous. From experience she knew that trouble was brewing when her lord and master hauled himself about the house, and she was aware that he was not taking a bath in the middle of a Sunday morning. Presently there came a crash of glass falling into the porcelain tub, and Mrs. Brown was glad that the children had not yet returned from Sunday school.

"What is the matter? Can I help you, dear?" Mrs. Brown called brightly. For reply Brown came into the living room and stared at his better half with an expression in which patient suffering, rage, mockery and suspicion were nicely blended. In his hand, says the New York Sun, he held a bottle, empty, except for a cork that had been pushed inside.

"No, you cannot help me," he declared bitterly. "When did you ever help me? To satisfy your inordinate curiosity I will say that I am getting the cork out of this bottle, and, having the innate masculine qualities of determination and inventiveness, I will accomplish this seemingly impossible task, and your little plan to annoy me will fall through. Of course I know that you deliberately pushed the cork down into this bottle, though how you guessed that, I would wish to use this particular flask I haven't yet taken the trouble to figure out."

"I presume that even you know that heat expands an article? Very well, then; all that is necessary is to heat the neck of this bottle until it expands and then shake out the cork. Have you the frankness to admit that that would never have occurred to you?"

"No, I do not think that would have occurred to me," Mrs. Brown answered. "You see, I am afraid that glass is different from metal in respect to responding to temperature, and, besides, it seems to me that if you make the glass expand it will expand inward as well as outward, and so really make the opening in the neck of the bottle smaller. Now, what I'd do would be to—"

"Never mind what you'd do," retorted Brown. "You have sufficiently demonstrated your ignorance for once. In a few minutes I will show you the happy results when scientific knowledge and ingenuity go hand in hand." Whereupon he stalked out to the kitchen, and Mrs. Brown heard him lighting the gas stove. A few minutes later there was a howl of anguish from the kitchen.

"Probably your idea is entirely scientific and all right," she soothed, as she applied a cooling lotion to the thumb and finger that had incautiously grasped the hot bottle, "but, after all, it would be so much simpler to—"

"Oh, I suppose you are going to pretend that you could get that cork out without even trying," Brown snarled. "Well, let me see you do it!"

"Why, of course if you wish me to, dear," Mrs. Brown responded sweetly. She took a small but strong cord, tied a large knot in the end, dropped the knot into the bottle, turned the bottle upside down, and shook it a little until the cork joggled down in to the neck, the knot in the cord being behind the cork. Then she gave the cord a strong, steady pull, and the cork came out with a plop! "It is really easy, you see, dear," she said mildly.

Francis Likes Kipling.

Although Rudyard Kipling is not without honor in his own country, it is a fact that some young lions there affect to sneer at him, remarks the London Post. Like the Athenians, they want something new.

But in France he is at the height of his fame. Some fourteen volumes of translations of his works have been published by the Mercure de France. A distinguished academician, M. Andre Chevrillon, has constituted himself his chief interpreter. Now a student in Paris, preparing for the Baccalaureate, writes that he is one of the authors "set" in English, a high and exceptional honor for a contemporary.

Know Little of Their City.

Many of the lifelong residents of New York city know little of the city's rapidly expanding transportation system, says the New York Sun. They are acquainted with those minor sections they use daily, but if they have occasion to travel to unaccustomed quarters they are as puzzled as the stranger. It is usually the newcomers, the resident of a few months or years, who even pretends to know the subways or the streets of any considerable section of the town.

American Progress.

American progress is absolutely dependent upon electricity, according to Henry D. Shute, vice president of the Westinghouse Electric company, who declares that "It is no exaggeration to say that America has now become absolutely dependent upon electricity for her further progress, and in the future hardly a wheel will turn without electricity behind it."

Pa Gets Funny.

"Pa, what does the expression 'to go up in smoke' mean?"

"It refers to an aviator making an ascent in Pittsburgh, my son."

NEWBURG

There was a good attendance at church and Sunday-school, Sunday last. Church services at 11:00 a. m.; Sunday-school at 12:00. Everyone welcome. Come and hear a good sermon by the pastor, who also conducts the Men's Bible Class.

A happy lot of children with several young and older people enjoyed the Sunday-school picnic and trip to Belle Isle, last week Thursday. Never was there a finer day for a picnic. Through the kindness of Mr. Clemens in donating the use of his truck, a larger number of children were able to attend. Some of them had never had the privilege of seeing this beautiful park. The exclamations of delight and wonder in the aquarium and elsewhere were a delight to hear; neither was the bathing beach forgotten. At noon, together with the pastor and his family, and the Ferrinsville people, numbering sixty-five in all, sat down to a bountiful dinner, which all were ready for. At a late hour they departed for their home amid shouts of laughter and merriment.

Miss Martha Britten of Chicago, spent last Friday and Saturday, at the home of her cousin, Mrs. C. F. Ryder.

The special meeting held in Newburg school house, Monday evening, drew out a large crowd of interested people. After listening to the splendid report by the chairman of the committee, I. Gunsolly, an extremely warm discussion followed on the question, "Is it best to consolidate with Plymouth district or continue under the present organization?" which resulted in 24 against and 19 for. There are fifteen pupils from Newburg who will attend Plymouth High school this year. Mr. Allenbaugh and Lillian Lundy have been secured as teachers for this year.

The Canning Club met with Mrs. Marrow, Tuesday afternoon. Picnic at Walled Lake, next week Friday.

Mrs. Marlow and children took a boat trip to Bob-Lo, last Saturday.

Raymond Ryder of Chicago, accompanied Mrs. Emily LeVan home, last Thursday, from his home, where she had spent several weeks. He visited his parents over Sunday, returning to his home in Chicago, Monday night.

Miss Leona Joy returned from a ten days' trip up north, last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Mackinder have received word from their children, who are motoring westward, that they are seeing the wonders of Yellowstone Park.

Mrs. Mary Paddock and daughter, Florence, of Detroit, visited the Ryder homestead, Sunday night and Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stark had the misfortune to have all of their chickens and a number of bushels of oats stolen, last Friday night.

Two buses are running between Plymouth and Detroit on Plymouth road. Quite an accommodation to the public.

Miss Beulah Ryder, with a party of girls from Plymouth, is at Silver lake, in the Draper cottage, this week.

Mrs. L. Clemens and daughter, Gladys, and brother, J. Matherson, left Monday for a two weeks' visit with relatives in Goderich, Ontario.

Howard Cochran, who is still in Ford hospital, is slowly convalescing. His parents visit him every Sunday. This young lad has the sympathy of all in his long suffering.

Samuel Armstrong of Cincinnati, is spending a few days with his granddaughter, Mrs. Emerson Woods. Mr. and Mrs. Woods are staying on the LeVan farm for a few weeks.

BUICK

Presenting The New Buick Four

The new Buick Four is a distinctively Buick creation in every feature of design and construction. It embodies those principles of construction that have characterized Buick automobiles for more than twenty years.

The engine is of the famed Buick Valve-in-Head type. The bore is 3 1/4" — the stroke, 4 1/2". Wheel base, 109", turning radius, 36'.

A Marvel carburetor with the new automatic heat control insures proper vaporization of the common low grade of commercial gasoline.

Multiple disc clutch, the transmission and universal joint are of standard Buick construction—the universal joint being lubricated from the transmission. The rear axle is the three-quarter floating type, with semi-elliptical type springs front and rear. The frame is a deep channel section, strongly re-inforced with four cross members.

High pressure Alemite system provides lubrication. Delco equipment with side battery insures efficient starting, lighting and ignition.

All models have non-glare headlight lenses—all are complete with the carrier and extra rim. Closed models are equipped with adjustable windshield visors, windshield cleaners. Some light, ventilating windshield, adjustable windows, and sun shade in rear window.

VETERANS OF GAL-LANT REGIMENT HERE

THE 32ND REUNION OF THE MEMBERS OF THE SIXTEENTH MICHIGAN VOLUNTEER INFANTRY HELD HERE THURSDAY.

The 32nd annual reunion of the veterans of the Sixteenth Michigan Volunteer Infantry was held here, Thursday, with a goodly attendance of the surviving veterans and their families.

The visitors arrived during the forenoon and registered at the village hall, where each received a pretty souvenir badge commemorating the occasion. The business meeting was held at 1:30 o'clock, after which the visitors were given an auto ride to Ann Arbor and return.

A banquet was tendered the veterans, their families and invited guests at the Presbyterian church at six o'clock, the ladies of the church serving a most sumptuous repast. Following the banquet an impromptu program of speeches, music and war reminiscences by the veterans rounded out a most pleasant day.

Four members of this famous regiment reside in Plymouth, O. P. Showers, C. J. Bunya, Charles Fitcher and William Gray. We are anxious to print the following interesting bit of history of the exploits of the regiment.

The Sixteenth, originally known as "Stockton's Independent Regiment," was organized at Camp Backus, Detroit, by Col. T. B. W. Stockton of Flint. During the four years or about, that it was engaged in active field service, it received, and the regiment bore upon its rolls 2,318 officers and men, this including all who joined the regiment at different times by company organization as recruits and those who re-enlisted as veterans to the number of 389, same being counted in the aggregate for the second time, which would reduce the actual number to 1,929, and of this number there were received as recruits in 1865 about 300, who came too late to participate in the engagements, thereby further reducing the actual number of "Old Veterans" who endured all the trials and hardships incident to active warfare to about 1,629 officers and men. Of this number, the regiment lost 870 of its actual working and enduring force as follows: Ten officers and 155 men killed in action, two officers and 48 men died of wounds received in action, 128 men of disease, and 577 officers and men wounded, disabled and missing, making a total from all causes of 870.

The regiment took part in 53 engagements, consisting of battles, sieges and skirmishes during the war, and was under fire from the enemy over 390 days. The regiment was mustered into the United States service at Detroit, September 8, 1861, and left the state September 16, 1861, arrived at Washington, D. C., soon thereafter and was brigaded with the Twelfth, Seventeenth, Forty-third, New York and Eighty-third Pennsylvania regiments. It remained in camp at Hall's Hill, Virginia, until the latter part of March, 1862, when it took transportation for Fortress Monroe, thence to Hampton, to Big Bethel, Yorktown, Va., remaining there on siege duty until May 4. Thence marched by the way of "Yorktown," "White House Landing," "Gaine's Mills" where it remained until May 27, thence to "Hanover Court House," where it took quite an active part in the battle.

The regiment returned to camp at Gaine's Mills, and June 26 and 27 took place one of the most severe battles of the war, so far as losses were concerned. Thence to "White Oak Swamp, Turkey Bend" and "Malvern Hill," where the old Sixteenth supported a battery of artillery on the left of the road as it faced the enemy. The battle of "Malvern Hill" was one of the fiercest and most determined of any during the war.

Thence to Harrison's Landing, Va., where it remained until the latter part of August, when it resumed the march down the "Peninsula," thence to "Fortress Monroe" and "Aquia Creek," "Fredericksburg" and "Fry's Bay" thence to "Ball's Bluff," August 30, 1862, where the "Old Regiment" became very heavily engaged, and with the army was compelled to face back to the defenses of Washington.

Thence to "South Mountain" and "Antietam," Md., September 17th, where it was part of the reserve force, but under heavy artillery fire. Later at Gettysburg, Pa., July 2, 3 and 4, it was heavily engaged on the "Little Round Top," this being "the keystone" to the position of our army on the second day's battle, "the decisive day of blood." It may be said, "that the back bone of confederacy was broken at Gettysburg." In the disposition of Gen. Daniel Sickles, Third army corps, on the second day of the battle along and parallel with Emmetsburg road to the "Peach Orchard," and reversing and refusing the left at right angles and extending through the "Wheat Field" and to the "Devil's Den." It was found that the force was not sufficient to cover "The Little Round Top."

"Sickles" was attacked about four o'clock in the afternoon by "Longstreet's" corps, and overpowered, his lines being inflamed by the artillery fire of the enemy and driven back, fighting very stubbornly and contesting every inch of ground, when the Fifth army corps was ordered to the rescue. The Fifth corps massed between the Emmetsburg road and the Baltimore pike, the first division on the right. The third brigade on the right of the division and the Sixteenth Michigan on the right of the brigade, when marching in column in direction of the "Peach Orchard," it was met by Gen. G. K. Warren, who said to Col. Strong Vincent, commanding the Third brigade: "I take the responsibility of detaching your brigade; give the command to 'double quick' to 'The Little Round Top' yonder, and ride forward with me." The command was given. The regiments of the brigade did double quick, climbed the side of the mountain and moved forward into line—formed on the top. The ranks were closed up. Gen. Warren took his position on the large rock where the bronze statue of himself stands today, and pointed out to Colonel Vincent and to Col. Welch the movements of "Hood's division" or "Longstreet's corps."

"It was my privilege," said one of the old veterans, "while standing near and awaiting orders, to hear General Warren imperatively order Colonel Vincent to hold this point at all hazards if you sacrifice every man of the Third brigade I will bring you reinforcements." The proper disposition of regiments and battery was made as follows: Battery 'D,' Hazlett's Fifth United States artillery, on top of the mountain and on the right of brigade, Sixteenth Michigan moved forward and right, resting under the guns at the left section of battery with two companies, 'A' and 'Sharpshooters' detached and deployed as skirmishers, leading over and on 'Big Round Top,' Forty-fourth New York and Eighty-third Pennsylvania and Twentieth Maine in somewhat of a semi-circle formation and facing in the wood and low rocky ground between the 'Round Tops.' We remained in this position but a very short time when the Third brigade made its grand charge up the side of the 'Little Round Top,' thus saving the 'Army of the Potomac' from disaster and assuring victory to our arms on the third and last day of the great battle." No others are entitled to first honors. The loss sustained in this desperate encounter and as reported the next day, July 3, by the commanders of forces engaged, were 491 officers and men, 62 per cent of those of the commands actually engaged.

OF ODD DESIGN

Timepieces of Long Ago Were Masterpieces of Art.

Mary Queen of Scots Had a Collection of Watches of Peculiar and Growsome Shape.

The fragile watch of dainty pattern and design which today is a favorite among women is in striking contrast to some of the watches which were famous centuries ago.

Many of these were of enormous size and of the most ornate design, remarks a writer in the Dearborn Independent.

Mary Queen of Scots was the possessor of a death's head watch which was of silver gilt and most elaborately ornamented. The forehead of the skull bore the symbols of death, the scythe and hourglass placed between a palace and a cottage to show the impartiality of the grim destroyer. At the back of the skull was Time, destroying all things, and at the top of the head, scenes of the Garden of Eden and the crucifixion. The watch was opened by reversing the skull, placing the upper part of it in the hollow of the hand and lifting the jaw by the hinge, this part being enriched by engraved representations of the holy trinity, angels and shepherds with their flocks. The works of the watch formed the brains of the skull and were within a silver envelope which acted as a musically-toned bell, while the dial plate was in the place of the palate. The curious work of art was made at Blois and, at her death, was bequeathed by Mary Queen of Scots to her maid of honor Mary Seton, in 1587. It afterward came into the possession of Sir John Dick Lander.

Another skull watch which once belonged to Mary Queen of Scots by its inscription and date, 1560, shows that Francis II of France presented it to his young wife many years before watches were supposed to have been brought to England from Germany.

Queen Mary was evidently a collector of watches of unique design. She is said to have possessed one in a case of crystal, shaped like a coffin, and another made at Rouen, in which a thread of catgut supplied the place of a chain.

Some of the early watches were so small as to be set in the head of walking sticks, the clasp of bracelets, or in pendants, and there is a record of a striking watch which was mounted in a ring, in the year 1542.

At the Strawberry Hill sale Queen Victoria purchased a little clock of brass-gilt, which had been presented to Anne Boleyn by Henry VIII, upon their marriage in 1532. It is richly chased and engraved and is still at Windsor castle.

The clock placed in one of the towers at the palace at Hampton court in 1551 is said to be the oldest English-made clock extant. When in action it shows the motions of several of the planets. The dial and several of the wheels attached to the back of the dial still remain.

Carrier Pigeon's Swift Flight.
A carrier pigeon, the record of which has been used for the purpose of comparison with the performance of man on the 220-yard course, was the property of A. E. Harman. The race took place at Washington where this sport is very frequently indulged in. The record of this particular flight is preserved in the records in the Museum of Natural History, and was taken from the Washington Star of September 17, 1901. According to the best authorities available, the record made by Mr. Harman's pigeon has never been equaled, although it was established almost two decades ago.

On this occasion the race was between about 20 birds. The pigeon of Mr. Harman came in first, and his best time was 1,782 yards for the first minute of flight, which means 7,483-891 seconds for 220 yards.

So, of the four official records it will be noted that while a runner has made his 220 yards in 29 4-5 seconds, the carrier pigeon is almost three times as fast.

The Army of the Disabled.
The International labor bureau at Geneva has prepared statistics showing the number of men disabled during the great war. France leads the list with 1,500,000 soldiers crippled or otherwise permanently injured; Germany runs a close second with 1,400,000. Allowing for the smaller population of France, this means that French industry must support a heavier burden of the incapacitated than Germany. Great Britain contributes 1,170,000 to the army of disabled; Italy, 570,000; the United States, 200,000; Czechoslovakia, 175,000; Jugoslavia, 180,000; Poland, 150,000; Canada, 88,000; Roumania, 84,000; Belgium, 40,000. Except for Germany and parts of the old Austria-Hungary which are now allied states, the statistics of former enemy countries are lacking. Russia disability statistics are also wanting. But even without these the army of the disabled reaches the impressive and terrible total of more than 5,600,000.—From the Independent (N. Y.).

Victim of Sympathy.
"Why are you so frequently discontented?"
"I dunno," replied Farmer Corntose; "maybe I wouldn't be if all the politicians I met didn't seem to think it was a part of their regular business to sympathize with me about something."

Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy

This is unquestionably one of the most successful medicines in use for bowel complaints. A few doses of it will cure an ordinary attack of diarrhoea. It has been used in nine epidemics of dysentery with perfect success. It can always be depended upon to give prompt relief in cases of colic and cholera morbus. When reduced with water and sweetened, it is pleasant to take. Every family should keep this remedy at hand.—Advertisement.

TOOLS NAMED FOR ANIMALS

Not Always Easy to Trace the Connection, Though Sometimes It Is Plainly Apparent.

There are quite a number of tools which are named after animals, and it is interesting to find out the connection between the instrument and the animal after which it is named. In some cases the connection of ideas is evident and it is obvious why the tool is so named, observes a writer in London Answers.

The "monkey wrench," for instance, which is a spanner with a movable jaw, capable of adjustment, can, by a little stretch of imagination, be thought to possess some likeness to a monkey's profile and, true, it deals with "nuts."

The "donkey engine," which is capable of lifting great weights, may be considered similar in disposition to the animal noted for its stubbornness and strength. We can see how the mechanical "crane" got its name, in the distance it looks somewhat like that long-necked and long-legged bird.

It is also natural that in a country like the United States, where large herds of cattle are found roaming wild, the wedge-shaped iron frame in front of a locomotive should be called "cow-catcher." The carpenter's "horse" is naturally so called because it has to carry so much on its back.

The derivation of the tailor's "goose" is not very evident, but no doubt some long-forgotten, imaginative and poetically minded tailor, in a burst of inspiration, called his smoothing iron a "goose" and the name has been used ever since by his more practical successors.

The trivet used to support a vessel over the fire, with its long, thin legs, is naturally called a "spider," and it is obvious why a spiral instrument or iron screw is called a "worm." Also we can all see why the large iron poker which, being made red hot, is used for lighting fires, is called a " salamander."

It is not easy, however, to see the connection between a crab—a fat, clumsy animal—and the pillar used as a winch; and why a capstan is called a "crab" is difficult to imagine.

Again, the bar of iron sharpened at one end and used as a lever for raising weights is named a "crowbar," for no evident reason, and I would gladly take my hat off to the man or woman who can explain to me the derivation of the name "bucksaw," "catboat" and "bullwheel."

Flying Gas Cloud.
A cloud of glowing gas has been discovered flying through space at a speed of 1,125 miles per second.

Readers may be relieved to know that it is traveling away from us, but even if it were coming our way there would be nothing to fear, as many thousands, perhaps millions, of years must elapse before it could reach us.

How it manages to remain intact while traveling at such a dizzy speed is a mystery. Equally mysterious is the manner in which it was able to get up such a speed.

The most probable explanations are that it has been shot from some gigantic sun belonging to a universe of stars far beyond those we can see, or that it is a gradual accumulation of gas or gases which ultimately will be forced into stars such as we see around us at night.

Copper and Calcium in the Air.

It is reported that Prof. Hartley of Dublin has photographed, in ordinary air, spectroscopic lines due, among other things, to copper and calcium. It is believed that they arise from fine dust consisting of these substances, projected into the atmosphere by road vehicles, and by smoke and the sparks of trolley wires. It is from the latter that copper is supposed to come. The quantity of copper thus found is excessively slight. Indeed it is only the delicacy of the tests that renders it appreciable. Lines due to lead, carbon, iron, manganese, nickel and magnesium have also been detected, but the quantity of these substances is even less than that of the calcium and copper, the lines of which are always prominent in the spectra.

Wireless Storm Warnings.

American mariners are to receive storm warnings by wireless from all parts of the world under arrangements perfected by the shipping board with most of the high-power radio stations in different countries. Managing agents and masters of shipping board vessels were notified that the warnings would be sent broadcast on schedules furnished by the ship's radio operators. Because of the number of vessels still on the sea without radio equipment, the warnings are to be passed on from ships receiving them by other means when such vessels are sighted.—Scientific American.

He Was Engaged.

On the Friday evening when the great strike had been planned to take place an old lady got into an omnibus. She handed the conductor her fare and said, anxiously: "Are you coming out this evening?"
The conductor shook his head and answered with great politeness: "I'm afraid I can't, mum. I've got to get home to my old woman."—London Tit-Bits.

The Good Old Days.

Do you know that it wasn't so long ago that when a clothier sold a pair of pants the crease had to be pressed out before the customer would wear 'em? The good old days were days of happy knees and patched seats, but there was considerable attendance upon the prayer meetings then.—Houston Post.

"I have used Chamberlain's Tablets for stomach trouble, biliousness and constipation off and on for the past ten years. I have never seen their equal yet. They strengthened my digestion, relieved me of headaches and had a mild pleasant action on my bowels. I take pleasure in recommending them," writes H. D. F. Why We Advise You to Buy Your Coal Now....

To meet the country's requirements in soft coal alone, the mines must produce ten million tons each week through the year.

They are now producing only a little over half this amount. They are falling steadily behind.

They cannot produce more because they cannot store it. If they could mine ahead and store the coal, the extra handling would mean greatly increased prices.

They can produce economically only what the dealers order. The dealers can order only as the public orders from them, as their yards have comparatively little storage capacity.

In other words, the mines can operate only as you—the public—order coal, and thus permit it to move. In holding up your orders, you hold up production all along the line.

When fall comes, the mines cannot possibly produce all at once all the coal that will be needed. If the mines could produce it, the railroads couldn't haul it. If the railroads could haul it, the dealers couldn't handle it.

There is only one solution—THE COAL MUST MOVE NOW. Your welfare—the welfare of the community—of the whole country—demands it.

There are cars now—weather conditions are favorable—the coal can be mined, shipped and delivered—if you do the thing that your own best interests demand, and ORDER YOUR COAL NOW.

It was the same a year ago. The only thing that prevented a serious coal shortage was the very mild winter. Even so, there are hundreds, perhaps thousands, who remember many chilly days when they shivered in cold houses waiting for coal.

As to prices, no one knows what they will be, but in past years they have always been lowest in spring and early summer. This is the time when coal can be mined, shipped and delivered most economically.

It's DEMAND that sends prices up. If everyone waits until fall and then demands coal all at once, prices will inevitably be higher. We do not believe they will be lower.

The dealers want to serve everyone, to deliver coal and at the lowest possible prices. There is only one way in which it can be done and that is by your co-operation. Part of the coal that your town needs must be delivered before cold weather comes. This gradual distribution will mean coal for everyone and the economical use of labor and time will keep prices down.

Our advice is to see your dealer—be sure he uses the sign of the Square Deal—and ORDER YOUR COAL NOW.

Wirthmor Girls Dresses

ON SALE TODAY

Four New Models at $2.00
Six New Models at $3.00

SIZES 7 TO 14

Here are the little girls' dresses that will convince you it does not pay to make your daughter's frocks.

To say that these dresses are $2.00 and $3.00 is enough to arouse a mother's suspicions at once as to quality of materials in them. But there can be no better test than a mother's all-seeing eye. So we invite you to come and see and criticize if you will these new Wirthmor Girls' Wash Frocks.

The House of Wirthmor is a great factory whose sole aim is to produce beautiful merchandise at prices other manufacturers cannot meet. This they are able to do because of their unique method of distribution.

When you have tested the gingham in your mother's way and approved it, turn any of these little dresses inside out and examine the seams, notice the deep hems, the buttonholes, the shiny buttons. Then you will be willing to be enticed by their cuteness and originality.

Mrs. Mamie Cullen.

A trip about Plymouth will reveal the fact that many new houses are being built this summer, in spite of the fact that building is at a standstill in many cities and towns throughout the country. Nearly every street has one or two new houses that have been built this summer or are now in course of construction. This certainly speaks well for the prosperity and progress of Plymouth. Many Detroit people are looking toward Plymouth as an ideal residence town, and nearly every day prospective purchasers of homes are here from the city.
There will be regular services in the Livonia Lutheran church on Sunday afternoon, August 14th, at 2:30, in the German language. Rev. Oscar J. Peters of Wayne, will deliver the sermon. The following Sunday, August 21st, will be a festival Sunday for the Lutheran church at Livonia Center. On this day the congregation will celebrate mission-festival with appropriate sermons by outside speakers. The morning service beginning at 10:30. Eastern Standard time, will be in the German language. Rev. H. F. Eggert of Detroit, will deliver the sermon. In the afternoon at 2:30, the service will be in the English language, Prof. Walter Bodamer of Northwestern College, Watertown, Wis., to deliver the sermon. The ladies of the church will serve dinner at noon. Everybody welcome to attend all of these services. Special offerings will be taken on August 21st, for the benefit of missions, both home and foreign.

SIXTY AUTOS MAKE

TOUR OF ORCHARDS
How the automobile is helping to knit the farmers more closely together was evidenced last week, when some sixty machines and more than 300 persons took part in the three-day tour of orchards in Kent, Oceana and Mason counties, under the auspices of the Michigan Horticultural society. The tourists inspected the results of special methods of fertilization, pruning and spraying. Before breaking up on the shore of Lake Michigan in Mason county, they decided to visit orchards in Allegan and VanBuren counties, next year.
