PLYMOUTH LOSES TO REDFORD

REDFORD HIGH FOOT BALL TEAM WON OVER LOCAL HIGH BOYS BY A 20 TO 0 SCORE LAST FRIDAY.

Last Friday, Plymouth High school foot ball team played their last home game of the season against the team from Redford, the newcomers this year in the 4-Square League. Redford, with typical "beginner's luck," got away with the big end of a 20-0 score in a game far more even than the score shows.

Redford's first score came on an off-tackle play, in which their fullback went through the whole Plymouth team for 60 yards and a touchdown. After that, line plunging failed to gain more than a few yards, and the visitors resorted to end runs and passes. Just before the end of the quarter a long pass resulted in a fluky touchdown, when Millard tackled the runner from behind, near the 10-yard line. In the deep mud both players slid, and rolled until when the ball came to rest, it was just over the goal line.

The second quarter, Plymouth held on end runs, as well as in the line, and Redford at last resorted to an outside kick. Plymouth's backfield let it roll, and Redford's fullback, eligible for the ball, came up, muffed it, but recovered in time to fall across the line for a touchdown, for the luckiest play in Plymouth field this season.

In the second half, with the score 20-0 against them, the home team came back to win. Had they had one-half of Redford's luck, the game would have been theirs. In spite of the deep mud, there were four successive efforts which carried the ball within Redford's 10-yard line, only to lose it without a score. All the playing this half was in Redford's territory, and had Plymouth shown in the first half, the energy and dash of the second, all would have been so.

Doubt was absent from the line-up, sick, and he was missed in every department of the game. Although Norgrove's line-plunging was as good as could be expected in the sea of mud, he did not carry the double threat that was needed. Stevens' passing was the best on the field, but more was needed, to score. Sayles in the last half, added new "pep" where it was lacking before.

The line-up was as follows.

L. E.—Sutherland, Sayles
L. T.—M. Strasen
L. G.—Schoof
C.—T. Strasen
R. G.—Chappel, Williams
R. T.—Williams, Norgrove
R. E.—Stevens, Sutherland
Qr.—Seger
L. H.—Millard
R. H.—Bartlett
F. B.—Norgrove, Stevens

FILLING A GREAT NEED

"Do I believe in the weekly papers?" asks Prof. Osmand Hooper, of the Ohio State University. And then he answered in words we want every reader in Plymouth to reflect upon. He said:
"There is no agency so necessary to community progress as the weekly or semi-weekly newspaper. It is to the community what the locomotive is to the train. If the locomotive moves, if it is stationary, so is the train. Similarly, a wide-awake progressive newspaper makes a wide-awake, progressive community; and any reasonable program of achievement that it sets and wisely works for, in the interest of all people, can be realized. But the newspaper cannot achieve single-handed. It must have help, unstinted help of all the good people of the community. It can have no steam if there is no fire,
and there can be no fire without fuel.
It needs the fuel of subscriptions.
Every subscription helps to make circulation, and circulation makes advertising a business instead of a charity. Both together make prosperity, and prosperity gives the power to push and pull for the best things in community life. If there is a weak community paper anywhere it is the fault of the persons who ought to take it, but don't. Everybody with town or country pride, everybody who believes in neighborliness, ought to be a subscription agent, as well as a subscriber, for the local paper. That is the way out of town and community stagnation.

"Give the local paper support, and it will give the community the things
it most needs.

START SHOPPING NOW

Wise shoppers have already started looking after their Christmas purchases, so one merchant told us yesterday. And he said it indicates a happier Christmas than we have ever had. People who buy early, even though they only have the goods laid aside, do so in comfort, and they get that which they want before it has been paved over by those who wait until later on when the stores are crowded, clerks are tired and the choice of Christmas things already carried away or spoken for. Christmas stocks are not going to be any cheaper the day before Christmas than they are this week. So you can save nothing by waiting until the last minute. Clerks have more time to attend to your wants now than they will have later on. So you are sure of being suited. And then, when the tardy ones are sweating and fuming and working themselves into a nervous fit over what to give for Christmas, you will have the satisfaction of knowing that you can sit back and comfortably escape all of such worry. Sensible Christmas buyers are those who have already commenced to do their buying.

PIANO RECITAL

A piano recital will be given in Penniman Allen theatre, next Monday evening, November 28th, at eight o'clock, by Miss Juanita Coe,
a pupil of Miss Czarina Penney, Mus.
Bach, assisted by J. Parre, violinist. Miss Coe is fourteen years of age and has been a pupil of Miss Penney for the past four years, during which time she has made marked improvement and is advanced for her years. This recital will be free, and the public is cordially invited to attend. Children must be accompanied by their parents, as the participants of previous recitals have been greatly annoyed by whispering.
The following program will be given:
La Baladine Caprice . . . . . Lysberg (Miss Czarina Penney at the Second Piano)
Rondo in C . . . . . Beethoven
Violin Solo . . . . . Selected

Scherzo . . . . . Schubert
Valse Brillante . . . . . Schumann
March Orchestrale . . . . . Cone

Second Piano)

WOMAN'S CLUB

A regular meeting of the Woman's Club was held Friday afternoon, November 18th, with about thirty-five members in attendance. One new name was added to the club membership. The business session was in charge of the president, Mrs.
D. F. Murray. Roll call was responded to by giving the names of various kinds of pottery made in America.
A splendid program prepared by the third division, with Mrs. George A. Smith, leader, was presented as follows:
Group of Indian Songs, Charles
Wakefield Cadman—Miss Evangeline
Foster. Miss Foster was becomingly attired in Indian costume, and was accompanied on the piano by Miss Evelyn Thomas.
Paper, "Story of American Indian"
—Mrs. Edge T. Cape.
—Mrs. Charles T. Humphries then related in an interesting manner the story of several Indian legends, viz.:
The Water Lily, The Violet, Thunder
and Lightning and The Happy Hunting Ground.
Miss Foster then entertained the club with another group of Indian songs, and the program concluded with the following Indian instrumental selections, played by Miss Evelyn Thomas from the play,
"Thunderbird," by Charles Wakefield Cadman, "From the Village," "Nowana's Love Song" and "War Dance."
At the close of the meeting, the members were invited to inspect an interesting display of Indian craft.
Mrs. Martin Stringer has kindly invited the members of the Plymouth Woman's Club to meet at her home on their next regular meeting day, which occurs Friday afternoon, December 2nd, at 2:30 o'clock. The Wayne Literary Club will also be guests of Mrs. Stringer and the Plymouth Club on that day.

BRILLIANT OUTLOOK

No brighter prospect for the International Live Stock Exposition ever existed than on the eve of the 1921 assemblage of the aristocracy of the pedigreed draft horses, beef cattle, swine and sheep of this North American continent and Europe at Chicago
November 26th to December 3rd.
Despite a period of depression, for which there is scant precedent in trade annals, breeders and feeders both manifest surprising interest, as evidenced by an imposing array of entries. Both numerically and from the standpoint of quality, the basic principle of the Exposition, the 1921 aggregation at Chicago will demonstrate the virility of this most important industry, essential alike to the conversion of coarse grains and grasses into merchantable product, and to the daily replenishment of the larder of the Nation.
All through the stress of the postwar readjustment, the live stock industry has functioned unflinchingly.
The 1921 International Live Stock Exposition will constitute a convincing demonstration of its virility. The seed stock of the country, incalculable in value, has not only been preserved but improved, as will be shown by the most imposing array of young animals ever presented in an American show yard, together with their progenitors, imported and domestic origin, the whole constituting a galaxy of merit possible only at this annual Chicago event. This 1921
"International" will be the defiance of the American stockman to adversity. More and better draft horses, beef cattle, swine and sheep will be presented to probably the largest audiences the "International" has ever attracted from the four corners of the globe.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTES

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, held on the 22nd inst, it was moved and carried that in place of appointing a new committee to make a survey of the housing conditions in Plymouth, that the Industrial Committee be increased from three to five members and that the work of stimulating the building of houses be granted to this committee. The Industrial Committee as then appointed is as follows: Paul J. Wiedman, Ernest Roe, Edward C. Hough, Robert O. Mimmack and William R.
Shaw.
Memberships to the Chamber of Commerce can be paid to either John S. Dayton, secretary, or C. A. Fisher, treasurer, at the Plymouth United Savings Bank.
Members of the Chamber of Commerce are entitled to all the privileges of the club room facilities at the Chamber of Commerce rooms,
over Gale's store.
A membership campaign is to be inaugurated by the membership committee at once and a systematic canvass will be made for memberships. Every home in Plymouth should be represented in the Chamber of Commerce.

HIS DANCING DAYS NOT OVER

Civil War Veteran Antoniahd Hotel
Loungers During Recent Reunion
at Indianapolis.

When the "boys in blue" went marching down Pennsylvania street toward Washington, the masses of spectators to the left and right were astonished to see two men, who a moment before had seemed as weary and spent as any in the column, break step, link arms and shy to the west end where, for 50 yards, they executed a dance, a sort of double jig, of which their aged limbs seemed incapable. Some of the comrades, on the sidewalk at the east side of Illinois street near the Hotel Severin, were discussing this feat in the evening. Two civilians who had witnessed the airy capers joined in the comment, and the "meeting" agreed that the antic was remarkable. While this talk was flowing an old soldier from lower Ohio came near and listened. He was a little past eighty years; his beard mantled his breast, his weight was a trifle under 300 pounds, and there was a twinkle in each of his eyes.

"Sho, that wasn't much to do," he piped in a voice unexpectedly small and high. The members of the "curb meeting" looked at him sharply, as if to ask on what grounds he presumed to belittle the acrobatics of comrades. The aged Ohioan's eyes twinkled like two stars. He knew what was passing in the minds of the men he had interrupted, and he meant to answer them by deeds. Before they realized his purpose, he pitched his broad-brimmed hat aside, gave a hitch to his trousers, and danced a double shuffle at a rate reminding the "audience" of a tenor drum roll. Had the hotel building reared up and spun round the little crowd would scarcely have been more astonished. Three minutes the jig clattered on, then with a triumphant glance about him, the dancer stopped, caught up his hat and trundled down street without a word.—Indianapolis News.

He Named the Flapper.

Why is a flapper? Who knows? Well, why is she called a flapper? Now, that's different.

In "Bunker Bean," a story published 12 years ago, Harry Leon Wilson, the author, called the little, dumpling girl to whom "our Hero, Bunker Bean," found himself married, the "flapper."

The name "just kind-a fitted" that type of girl and it caught on, slowly at first, through use of joke writers, on the vaudeville stage and in short story magazines. Its use became general with a rush about a year ago, perhaps because short skirts and bobbed hair seemed to increase the tribe of "flapper types."

When asked recently why he called his Bunker Bean girl a flapper, Mr. Wilson said he didn't exactly know. "I heard the term first in England, I believe," he said. "Over 15 years ago the little, plump chorus girl was called a flapper. Later England dropped the word and called her a 'pouy,' as she is still known. But flapper originated, I believe, in the English chorus."

IN EXACT MODEL

Nashville to Have Perfect Reproduction of Parthenon.

Finished Structure, It Is Announced, Will Conform in Every Detail to the Original.

Within a year the United States will have the only exact-to-the-inch reproduction of the Athenian parthenon. The masterpiece at Athens, conceived and built by Phidias, the sculptor; Ictinus, the architect, and Pericles, the statesman, is being reconstructed at Nashville, Tenn. When Tennessee's centennial is celebrated by an international exposition twenty-four years ago the directors of the fete built in temporary form a replica of the parthenon. It was used to house the art exhibit of that exposition. Nashville people considered it a partial gratification of their ambition to make their city the "Athens of the South."

This temporary structure left much to be desired in the execution of the delicate ornamentation and the great number of statues which had to be reconstructed from the inadequate drawings then in existence. Yet the general effect of the cream-colored structure, with brilliant colors in the frieze and gables, so overshadowed all the other buildings that when the exposition was over the people demanded its preservation, and it became a shrine to the residents and visitors of Nashville.

Three years ago disintegration had progressed to such an extent that the building had to be closed. It was finally decided to erect a permanent replica of the Athenian temple, using the method known as the "mosaic surface" concrete, developed by John E. Barry of Washington, who was entrusted with that part of the work.

There still remained the question of the red background of the metopes and gables, the blue of the triglyphs as agreed upon by the majority of authorities on Greek architecture.

About that time George Julian Zolnay, sculptor, was making experiments in the production of a durable material other than the costly stone and bronze, realizing that not until the sculptor's work can be successfully reproduced in less expensive yet durable materials will sculpture become a truly democratic art.

He secured a synthetic stone, which not only "poured" but could be made of any color. Zolnay was commissioned by the Nashville park board to reconstruct the figures of the great temple and then to reproduce them in this artificial stone.

Whether the original parthenon had an open roof or whether there was some structural arrangement with side lights masked by the cornice has never been determined. The Nashville parthenon will have a flat skylight following the slope of the roof and so arranged as to obtain the best possible light within, where an art museum will be located eventually.

Raising a Town.

In order to raise the level of the town eight feet, nearly all the buildings in Wilmington, near Los Angeles, Cal., were placed on temporary wooden supports. Wilmington stood on low ground. When the engineers began the work of dredging the adjacent harbor, it became evident that here was a chance to get, at comparatively little cost, thousands of tons of sand with which to change the grade. A bulkhead was erected round the land to be filled, and the discharge pipes from the dredger carried the sand to all parts of an area about 20 city blocks in size. It is estimated that 1,200,000 cubic yards of material was taken from the harbor bottom. When the grading was done, the town stood high and dry above the harbor, and the principal streets were on the level with the docks.

New Use for Old Bulbs.

Here is a valuable use for your old incandescent lamp bulbs. By adopting this suggestion one can have a fire extinguisher ready any time. Carbon tetrachloride bombs have found favor in many American power plants for fire extinguishing, and their use has resulted in the prompt quenching of fires that might have resulted in serious consequences had quick action not been taken.

Burned out incandescent lamp bulbs of a suitable size are converted into bombs by removing the metal base and filling the glass bulb with the liquid. By breaking the tip from the bulb, while it is immersed in a bucket of the carbon tetrachloride the filling can be easily accomplished. A drop of wax is placed over the small hole at the tip to seal the bulb.—New York Herald.

New Heat-Resisting Alloy.

The perfection of a new alloy, made of aluminum, nickel and iron, that will resist the high heat of 2,375 degrees Fahrenheit without rusting, was announced at the meeting of the American Society for Steel Treating at Indianapolis recently by G. R. Brophy, metallurgical engineer of the General Electric company.

The new metal also retains a perfect polish after it has been placed in a concentrated sea salt solution spray at 100 degrees Fahrenheit for one hundred hours. It is highly resistant to atmospheric corrosion and the action of acids except hydrochloric and sulphuric. Molten salt will not affect it, nor does molten or vaporized sulphur.

If you have anything to buy or sell, advertise it in the Mail. It will cost but a small sum. Try it.

SAYS WORD IS MISPLACED

Writer Criticizes the Too-Frequent Employment of Phrase, "The Psychological Moment."

A correspondent of the London Times sternly scolds all who are so slaphash in their speech as to employ that most useful of phrases, "the psychological moment," says the Living Age. Asserting that by no possible distortion of the English language can it legitimately be forced into its current meaning of "the proper or fitting moment," he proceeds to give a history of the phrase which is vastly more interesting than his diatribe against its users.

"The psychological moment" is an English translation of the French le moment psychologique, which is, in its turn, a mistranslation of the German das psychologische moment, which was used in the Neue Preussische Zeitung in December, 1870, when the bombardment of Paris was about to begin. The German writer said: "The psychological moment (das psychologische moment) must be allowed to play a prominent part for without its co-operation there is little to be hoped from the work of the artillery." Confusing the neuter German word das moment (which means "momentum," and, as here used, a dynamic part of the human mind urging it to action), with the masculine der moment (which means moment in its ordinary English sense) the French translated it le moment psychologique, and with derivative zest incorporated it into the slang of the hour.

The French writer Francisque Sarcey, in his "Diary of the Siege of Paris," tells how the beleaguered Parisians pluckily made game of their enemy's phrase:

"You know how we laugh over that psychological moment. The word has become all the rage. Everybody says, 'I'm hungry. The psychological moment for sitting down to dinner has arrived.' When the first hail fell in the streets of Paris, everybody cried laughingly, 'Tious! They must think the psychological moment has arrived!'"

The facts are vouched for by the new English dictionary, but for all the lexicographers may say, "the psychological moment" is too firmly fixed in the usage to be withdrawn readily.

Indiana Doing Well.
Liberty bond subscriptions by Indians of the World War, running into the millions of dollars, first awakened the public to the importance of the race as a business factor. A glance at their income returns is enlightening.

In Oklahoma about 116,000 Indians received during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1920 (the latest data available), incomes aggregating more than $29,000,000. In North Dakota 9,000 received more than $1,500,000; in Utah more than 1,000 received nearly $2,500,000; and in South Dakota 32,000 received about $4,333,333. The total income of the race was $72,096,431 that year, and since then has greatly increased.

Many of those, not rich through oil, are busy with basket weaving, pottery and other native pursuits; but they make good farmers, too, and about 50,000 of them are thus engaged. The crop raised, for instance, in Oklahoma and in South Dakota such amounted to substantially more than $1,000,000. The total value of Indian crops was nearly $37,000,000 in the year named.—The Nation's Business.

Snowflake is Really Transparent.
The reflection of the sunlight on the snowflake crystals is what gives them the appearance of being white. Snow is simply water turned into crystals by the low temperature. The flake itself is transparent, as is water, but because of its crystal formation the snowflake is only partially transparent, the facets of the crystal reflecting the light and giving the whole flake a white appearance.

If the light reflected by the snow crystal is red or green the snowflake will take on the same appearance. When millions of snowflakes are combined in one mass on the ground their ability to reflect the light is increased and in this way a snow bank appears even more white than would one isolated snowflake.—Cleveland News-Leader.

Austrian Confusion.
One of the stories told to illustrate the confused diplomatic situation in central Europe is attributed to Prince Furstenburg. He was appointed as a diplomatic representative of the old Austrian government to the Ukraine, which then was ruled by Hetman Skoppadsky. Describing his diplomatic status to friends in Kiev, the prince said: "I am the representative of a government that has ceased to exist and accredited to one that never existed. The most extraordinary part of it is that I am paid for performing the duties of this position that I do not hold."

Just a Little Too Much.
Mr. Featherly weighs over two hundred pounds and is sensitive about it. He was calling on a friend the other evening when she said, naively: "Oh, Mr. Featherly, would you just as soon sit in this easy chair as in that rocker?"

"Certainly," replied Featherly, as he changed from one chair to the other. "Oh, thanks," she murmured; "you are very kind. I have a book full of fern leaves under the cushion of that easy chair, and you—"

"Good-night," said Featherly, stiffly, as he walked away, never to return.

How Not to Take Cold
Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold bath every day in a warm room, avoid overheated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming overheated and then chilled and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.—Advertisement.

VOICES

By Emanuel C. Frank

There's a wondrous thrill of pleasure
When you see the form and face,
Of some loved one in whose presence you rejoice;
But the joy there is in seeing
Can't compare with what takes place,
When you hear the magic music of her voice.

Be it mother, wife or sweetheart,
Be it sister, daughter, friend,
As within your waiting vision each appears;
While your heart may leap to see them
What is better in the end,
Than their eager voices sounding in your ears.

But remember as you listen
That these sweet and nameless thrills,
Find an echo and an answer rich and true,
In the hearts of cherished loved ones
Which alone your voice fulfills;
For when all is said, your voice is really you.

So when travel takes you from them
Let them feel how much you care,
Let them know you haven't left them all alone;
Let them feel in fullest measure
You, yourself, are standing there;
Let them hear the voice they cherish through [the phone.]

This is Mr. Edison's Official Laboratory Model

It is the phonograph which the world uses today for all important musical events.

In a recent Broadway show, it supplied the off-stage music.

When the Prince of Wales visited this country, it played in his hotel suite.

The U. S. Post Office Department used it in its experiments with music for increasing the efficiency of mail clerks.

Dr. W. V. Bingham, Director of the Department of Applied Psychology at Carnegie Institute of Technology, used it in his experiments on the effects of music.

Harvard, Yale, Columbia, and many other universities used it in making tests of music's power to change human moods.

The Official Laboratory Model was chosen for all this work because it sustains the test of comparison with living artists,—and has therefore been accepted as the only phonograph which brings the true beauties and the full benefits of music.

The tests by which the Official Laboratory Model attained this recognition were continent-wide. Premier artists such as Case, Hempel, Muxio, Chalmers, Spalding, have compared their living performances with the RE-CREATIONS of those performances by the New Edison. These comparisons were made in famous auditoriums, such as Carnegie Hall, New York, Symphony Hall, Boston, etc. Thousands of people attended, including leading music critics. Newspapers such as the New York Times, New York Sun, Chicago Tribune, Cleveland Plain Dealer, San Francisco Examiner, published the facts of the Official Laboratory Model's triumphs. Even Bamboschek, leading conductor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, acknowledged that he could not tell living music from RE-CREATED music.

Hear the Official Laboratory Model,—and you, too, will discover that Mr Edison has made his phonograph a new and finer kind of instrument.

Compare it with other phonographs and talking-machines,—and you will discover that the Official Laboratory Model stands for new standards in home music.

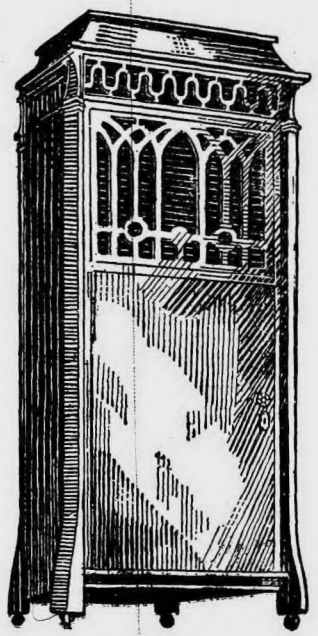

We cordially invite you to come in and hear the famous Official Laboratory Model.

The Test General Wingate Heard

—was made May 25th, 1921 in the 2nd Field Artillery Armory, Brooklyn, N. Y.—before Reville Post No. 127, American Legion, and its friends. The illustration (from a photograph) shows Miss Helen Clark making the comparison which so impressed General Wingate.

General Wingate, who commanded the 2nd Field Artillery in its operations against the Hindenburg Line, said he could not tell Miss Clark's living voice from the Edison RE-CREATION of her voice.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES

ITEMS GATHERED HERE AND THERE THAT WILL BE OF INTEREST TO OUR READERS.

C. A. Downer, who was postmaster here many years ago, writes from Decatur asking for a copy of The Record of November 4th telling of his wheelbarrow "pushing" experience of 25 years ago. Mr. Downer purchased a grape vineyard at Decatur last fall—Northville Record.

Mrs. C. I. Gittins, Miss Knapp and the Gittins children are quarantined at the home on north Main street because of three cases of scarlet fever, Elizabeth, Charlotte and Junior being the patients. The children have it in a very light form, however, and are getting along nicely.—Milford Times.

Cass R. Benton has been ill at his home on the Plymouth road this week. Mr. Benton has not been in good health for some months past and at a consultation of physicians held the first of the week it was decided he was suffering from a nervous trouble. Mr. Benton was advised to take a few months of complete rest. Many friends in this section and throughout the state will join The Record in hoping he may be speedily restored to health.—Northville Record. Mr. Benton has many friends in Plymouth who will hope for his speedy recovery to health.

Mrs. C. E. Ryder, mention of whose death was made last week, was born in Plymouth township on June 20th, 1863, her maiden name being Martha Jane VanAkan. She grew to womanhood in that community and on March 12th, 1880, was united in marriage to Mr. Ryder, and to the union five sons were born, two of whom having preceded their mother in death. Early in life she identified herself with the church and she never failed to show forth her love and devotion to her Master, and to render faithful service in His behalf, although she had poor health much of her life. Her home was the center of her affection and she kindly administered to all in a spirit of patience, fortitude and trust which is worthy of emulation. By her faith she was greatly sustained in the last hours of her life when she was a great sufferer. The deceased is survived by her mother, husband, three brothers and three sons.—Northville Record.

MATTER OF LUCK

Odd Ways by Which Property Has Been Disposed Of.

Distribution Left to Whim of Cards—Will Written on Shirt Collar—Found in Books.

"The Pack of Cards Case" was referred to in Justice Bargrave Dean's court the other week and it is one of the most remarkable of what may be termed haphazard bequests, a writer in London Answers observes. The testatrix, suffering from a paralytic stroke, had a pack of cards dealt to her by her solicitor bearing the names of her relatives. On another pack were details of her various properties. The solicitor "dealt" her a card with the name of a person, and she played to it a card with an item of her estate on it. The solicitor gathered the trick, and the trick was done; but whether everybody was satisfied that they were lucky at cards is another matter.

A man who was found in a dying condition having met with an accident while out shooting alone, had written his last will and testament on his shirt cuff with a fountain pen. It was duly signed and as its provisions were very simple and its intention obviously sincere, it passed muster without any difficulty.

Shipwrecked sailors have made their wills upon the most strange things—empty meat-tins, the soles of their boots, a handkerchief—anything they could lay their hands on at the last moment.

The great Russian novelist, Tolstoy, wrote his will on the stump of a tree in this remarkable document is the following passage: "Bury me where I die. If in town, then in the cheapest coffin, the cheapest cemetery, like a pauper. No flowers, no wreaths, no speeches, without priests or liturgy if possible."

Book collectors occasionally come across strange finds. On one of the bookshelves by the side of the Seine a book-lover found two pages of an old volume stuck together. He opened them carefully and found three banknotes for 1,000 francs each; also a note which read as follows:

"Friend, whoever thou art, be legatize without remorse of this little fortune. It is all my men has brought me in 50 years. May the muses be more favorable to thee, for thou art surely a man of letters." Then followed the writer's initials and the date.

But the most haphazard will on record was the one which said: "I own 71 pairs of trousers. It is my desire that he be sold by public auction, and that the product of their sale be distributed among the deserving poor. They must be sold to the highest bidder, but no one must be allowed to purchase two pairs."

The 71 pairs of trousers were knocked down to as many bidders, and the proceeds handed over to the parochial authorities for distribution. A few days after the sale one of the buyers took it into his head to examine his purchase more carefully, and he found stitched securely in the waistband a small canvas bag containing ten $100 notes.

The tidings of this amazing discovery spread like wildfire and each fortunate possessor of the dead man's pants was rejoiced to find his closer investigation rewarded by a sum equivalent to $200.

Congressman a Traveler.
The "most traveled man in Congress"—Representative Ernest R. Ackerman—is off on his world rambles again, accompanied by his old faithful umbrella that has already been in every country on the face of the globe.

Mr. Ackerman, having already traveled more than 600,000 miles beyond the three-mile limit off the American shores, is abroad to study foreign trade conditions and to gather information that will aid him as member of the foreign affairs committee.

Having touched at practically every seaport of importance, Representative Ackerman has brought home one of the best privately owned collections of art treasures. His greatest delight is in touching shoulders with peoples in all walks of life and in the remotest corners of the globe.—Washington Star.

Novel Idea for Player Piano.
A novel attachment for player pianos is to be a pictured series of grotesque animals and human heads, which appear to open their mouths when the keys of the instrument are depressed. The heads form a panel along one face of a patented box containing a music roll. When the box is laid along the white keys the funny faces are flush with the front edge of the latter, and inasmuch as the lower jaws are omitted, the animals and queer people seem to be opening and shutting their mouths with the fall and rise of the keys. Just nonsense business, of course, but amusing. The box, it should be said, is made just wide enough to fit in front of the black keys and lie flat on the white ones.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Dream of Other Days.
The country-raised man is inspired to dream of the good old days when big, thick slabs of ham were stacked on the platter, after he has received an order of ham about the size of his hand and perhaps twice as thick as Florida Metropolis.

J. J. Wagner has sold his farm in Salem township to Frederick Crank. Holly is to have a factory which will manufacture a line of automobile accessories.

Good Health
If you would enjoy good health, keep your bowels regular. No one can reasonably hope to feel well when constipated. When needed, take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are mild and gentle. Advertisement.

FRETTING NAUGHT BUT POLLY

But Many Sermons on the Subject Have Failed to Convince People of Its Uselessness.

In that doleful, delightful book, "The Education of Henry Adams," occurs a phrase, "the folly of fret," which is better than the usual expression, "the uselessness of worry."

Many sermons have been preached, many lectures delivered, many medical opinions pronounced, many household homilies uttered, on that theme. The trend of applied science in our century is toward the reduction of friction and the elimination of waste. And a big part of friction and of waste is worry.

We worry about the human machine. We imagine that all sorts of dreadful things are about to happen to us. Our thoughts ought to be on our work—and they are diverted by our worries.

We worry about losing a position in business or our standing in society. There would be less excuse for anxiety if we would spend the energy consumed in trying to do our work still better, trying to serve more satisfactorily the community we live in, striving to discharge the various and delicate offices of friendship with increased tact and perception and sympathetic selflessness.

Worry is quite another matter from a proper carelessness, that weighs a proposition and looks all round its object ere acceptance.

A man who investigates before he buys, who considers alternatives and who asks questions before deciding, who makes no leap in the dark, is not open to the reproach of one whose "folly of fret" merely leads him in frantic circles, like a tethered donkey. All his fuss and clamor issue in nothing but an ecstasy of motion and emotion.

Man power is too precious to be thrown away in these gyrations that are the pantomime of futility.

Give us more of the calm, big men who plan and then proceed.

They seem to have time. They do not operate in a flutter and a fever resembling the hen yard or the stock pen. They make up their minds and preserve their equanimity. Seeing them so cool and controlled, those who do everything in a panic or a paroxysm try their best to excite them by telling them the house is burning down or the world is coming to an end.

But these quiet and capable ones are not deceived. They know that it is not for man to say when his own life or his own work shall end. In trust and peace they continue on their way—avoiding "the folly of fret" that victimizes and weakens other men.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Relics of an Extinct Race.
Relics of an extinct Indian race are being uncovered on the Santa Ynez river by a road construction gang under the direction of Ranger R. Forsythe of the Santa Barbara national forest. The discovery is at a point two miles upstream from the foot of the grade of the San Marcos road on the other side of the mountain.

One such relic brought in to Forest Supervisor Thomas B. Sloan's office was a matter of much speculation. It appears to be a piece of black soapstone in the shape of a cylinder about 1 1/2 inches in diameter and four inches long, with a half-inch hole the length of it. The relic is highly polished and when first excavated was said to be of a softness that permitted scarring its surface. Exposure to the air evidently had hardened it, however, in a few hours.

Forsythe said two other relics similar to this one have been uncovered, and one of the bones of the forearm of a man also has been found.—Santa Barbara Press.

Some Exceptions.
Among the witnesses called in a trial in a southern court was an old blacky.

"Do you swear that what you tell shall be the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth?" intoned the clerk.

"Well, sah," returned the witness shifting uneasily, "dis lawyer gemm'n kin make it a powerful lot easier on hisself an' relieve me of a mighty big strain of he'll leave out anything about gin an' chickens. Cepding to dose, Ah guess Ah kin stick to de truth."—The American Legion Weekly.

No Joke.
Ex-Chancellor Day of Syracuse University, bewailing the high price of books, clothes and what-not, said at a dinner:

"Will this thing never end? I heard a story the other day. A charitable lady on a seashore boardwalk dropped a nickel in a beggar's hat. But the beggar returned the nickel to her, saying in not unkindly tones:

"Excuse me, lady; I don't want to hurt your feelin's, but I'll have to return this here nickel back to you if we take less than a dime we lose our union card."

Mansfield Uses Phonographs.
Appreciation of music is taught in the schools of Mansfield, Ohio, with the help of phonograph records. In the seven schools of the town there are 37 phonographs. The machines were paid for by the pupils' music club, which includes 600 boys and girls. Each school has a complete library of records and the phonographs and records represent an investment of more than $5,000. A special text book in music appreciation guides the teachers in this work, and the music supervisor of the town schools considers the teaching successful.

Chamberlain's Tablets Have Done Her a World of Good.

"Chamberlain's Tablets have done me a world of good," writes Mrs. Ella L. Buzton, Kirkville, New York. "I have recommended them to a number of my friends and all who have used them praise them highly." When troubled with indigestion or constipation give them a trial and realize for yourself what an excellent medicine it is.—Advertisement.

Your Home Must be Warm

Winter is never so far away, but what cold weather comfort deserves consideration.

No home is comfortable unless it's warm. And no home is comfortably warm until the right kind of heating plant is in the basement.

Comfortable warmth demands more than just something to burn coal in. Stoves, base burners, old-fashioned pipe furnaces and other out-of-date heating makeshifts will not provide that kind of comfort.

Your home needs a Homer if a comfortable and economical heating system is the result sought. And the same applies to stores, churches, schools and other buildings.

Why a Homer

—Because it operates on the most natural principle of heat travel. Warm air ascends, cooled air descends.

—Because one register is sufficient to allow warm air to circulate throughout the house, without the necessity of pipes.

—Because the heat is uniform. Every owner of a pipe furnace knows that there are always one or two cold registers.

—Because there are no pipes, no flues, no danger, no ashes in the living rooms, no need to maintain a big fire on mild days, no tearing out of walls to install it.

—Because it ventilates while it heats.

—Because it is the original patented pipeless furnace, the most efficient and the lowest priced to install and maintain.

Why Buick Valve-in-Head Motors Have More Power

Internal combustion motors are heat engines. The more heat retained in their cylinders, the more power they generate.

Water-jacketing space absorbs heat.

Buick Valve-in-Head motors have about 20% less water-jacketing space than the L Head type and about 15% less than the T Head type.

That is one of the reasons why Buick Valve-in-Head motors have more power.

A FATAL ACCIDENT

Edward Pettit, a ten-year old lad, of Nankin township, was almost instantly killed on the Warren avenue road, where the Pere Marquette crosses the highway, early Tuesday evening. Two autos were approaching the crossing from opposite directions, and it is thought that the boy was watching the car from the east, and stepped out into the road in the path of the car from the west. Deputy Sheriff Springer and Justice Oliver Loomis of this place, were called to the scene of the accident, and after investigating the circumstances, decided an inquest was unnecessary, and no blame was attached to the driver of the car, William H. Shepherd of Detroit.

TROLLEY BOWLING LEAGUE

The second week of the bowling league found a few changes in the standing of the various clubs. Lapham's Five, one of the Farmington teams, had easy going and won three straight games, which still leaves a perfect average. Redford Reds won two out of three from Farmington's Trolley Liners. Plymouth Rocks met Jim's Bears at Northville, and by steady and consistent bowling won two out of three. The Huckleberry Finns of Northville, came to Plymouth, and gave our Indians a two out of three trimming.

Baptist Notes

The revival meetings closed last Sunday evening, and the church was crowded. The chorus choir, led by Harry Sayles, gave the audience many hearty songs. The male quartette, composed of Duane and Harry Sayles, Frank Hamill and Rollin Allenbaugh sang, "The Church in the Wildwood." The chorus sang, "The Awakening Song" in great spirit, and the people were delighted. The pastor read the church covenant and baptized ten converts, who had been received into the church, while a number expect to follow their Lord in baptism, next Sunday. These meetings have all been of the highest type, and the preaching and sermons were clear and impressive. A good offering was taken to continue the work in other parts of the state. Rev. F. L. Currey of Lansing, superintendent of evangelism, won many friends while he was here by his frank and honest preaching and as a christian gentleman.

Plans for the Christmas exercises are under way, and soon the rehearsals will be under way. Let every member of the Sunday-school do their best to make this a great Christmas.

The B. Y. P. U. took up their meeting, last Sunday night, because of the baptism service, but will hold their meeting next Sunday evening at six o'clock. Olivia Williams leads the meeting. Subject, "Points in the Pledge We Are Likely to Neglect." All young people are invited to attend and enjoy the meetings.

The mock trial, which was to take place at the church this week Friday night, had to be placed a week later, for some of the prominent witnesses will be out of town this week, and Judge Eyewise could not convene the court. Get ready to attend. It's all free.

The pastor was called to Ypsilanti, last Monday, to attend a conference of the ministers of the Wayne and Washtenaw associations. The purpose of this meeting was to plan a drive for home foreign missionary movement, known as "The Forward Step." The meeting, which was to have been at Plymouth, Nov. 22, was postponed for some time, and will be announced in a few days. Rev. W. T. Roberts of Lansing, was the state's representative at the conference, and took charge of the afternoon session. The Ypsilanti Baptist church provided a splendid chicken dinner for the men.

The expressman left a crate containing a live turkey at the Baptist parsonage, last Friday afternoon. It was sent by the congregation and Sunday-school of the Skeels Baptist church of Gladwin county. Mr. and Mrs. Sayles spend their summer vacation there, and the pastor always preaches for them when there, as they have had no minister for some time, and they took this way to express their thankfulness. The pastor will probably preach again, if the opportunity presents itself, for Thanksgiving turkeys are scarce and this is the first he ever had.

WAR'S THUNDER AGAIN HEARD

Fire in West Flanders Forest Set Off Thousands of Shells That Had Been Stored There.

The inhabitants of Lungenattek, Clercken, Staden, Woumen and other villages bounding the forest of Houthulst were startled out of their sleep one night recently by a furious cannonading which brought them scurrying out of their more or less repaired dwellings and in search of dugouts as they used to do in "the terrible four years," as they are called in West Flanders.

The peasants around the forest have become experts in artillery, and the barrage that night, they say, was something more terrific than they ever heard during the war, according to the Cleveland Plain Dealer. First there came volleys of the familiar German eighty-sevens and the Austro eight-eights, to which would reply the rapid succession of hundreds of batteries of French seventy-fives. The forest of Houthulst was ablaze and owing to the protracted drought, fire was spreading with furious rapidity. Then cavalry arrived on the scene. They were Belgians come to fight the forest fire.

"Has it come again, the war, sir?" a trembling old woman asked of the captain.

Suddenly the cry was heard, "Gas!" and there was a stampede. The soldiers began to distribute gas masks and throughout the night peasants and soldiers, armed with spades, shovels and specks, dug a trench that the fire might be stopped before it reached the huge ammunition dumps left by German and allied troops in the center of the forest, with millions of shells of all kinds, almost enough, it was said, "to blow West Flanders into the North sea."

By hurrying the fighters had the upper hand of the fire which was vanquished about one hundred yards from one of the largest dumps, but meanwhile about a million shells of all sorts exploded. They were in four separate dumps and of four square miles of the forest where they had been nothing remains but a few trees, like bare spars swaying in the wind.

Airplane Again Useful

For years the greatest difficulty in the development of rapid communication between interior Colombia and the outside world has been the navigation of the river which descends from the altitudinous capital of the republic to the seaport. Fifteen days was the required time for this journey. By airplane the distance will be negotiated in less than two days. Whether or not the carrying of mail is a function which private enterprise normally should conduct, is not the question raised in this instance. Which government agencies have failed to bring Bogota nearer to New York than a month's journey a private concern has brought the round trip inside that space of time. Of course, Bogota is not the only inland city of South America in the service of which the airplane will sooner or later come into a real usefulness. It will be interesting to watch this venture and its duplication in other directions.—New York Telegram.
