21, at 8:00 o'clock. This year there are some new and unusual features.

Through Mr. Ross of Sunshine Acres Greenhouse, the school has been able to obtain wholesale prices on some unusually fine gladiolus bulbs, which are to be on sale at 25 cents a dozen. There will also be Excelsa roses, just right for planting
now at 25 cents each; 100 spirea plants at 25 cents each; pansy plants and potted geraniums at very attractive prices, will also be found in this booth.

Another booth will be a Japanese Art Room with Japanese pictures, baskets, incense burners and various kinds of incense, narcissus bowls and Japanese luncheon sets. These are on sale at reasonable prices, the school earning only a commission on the sale of these articles.

There is to be a moving picture show in the Auditorium and a baked goods sale, which, together with the plant sale, will begin at three o'clock and extend into the evening. Boys and girls minstrels are a part of the program; and pop corn, frost bites, fujiyamas and all sorts of noise

MRS. EMELINE COOPER PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Emeline Cooper, mother of Dr.
R. E. Cooper, a prominent physician of this place, passed away at the home of her son on Penniman avenue
early Friday afternoon, April 14th.
Although Mrs. Cooper had been seriously ill for the past six weeks and under the care of a trained nurse the greater part of the time, her death came as a shock to many friends.

Miss Emeline Barringer was born
October 6, 1842, in Percy township, Ontario, where the first twenty-six years of her life were spent. She was the daughter of Jacob and Eliza Anne Darling Barringer, her father being a native of Vermont and her mother a direct descendant of the New England Pilgrim Fathers; Captain John Darling, having arrived on the next ship following the historic landing at Plymouth Rock.

On March 17, 1868, she was united in marriage to Nathan Howard Cooper, who died in 1881. Two sons were born to this union, C. N. Cooper of Oakland, California, and Dr. R. E.
Cooper of Plymouth, Michigan. Mrs.
Cooper lived in Canada until the latter son had graduated from the University of Toronto; following which she came to Highland Park, Michigan.

In her early life, she was a member of the Baptist church, which was located on her husband's property in Canada. In 1893, her membership was transferred to the First Presbyterian church of Highland Park and in 1910, to the First Presbyterian church of Plymouth, Michigan, where she remained a faithful member until her death which occurred on Good Friday, April 14, 1922. She was also a faithful member of The Busy Woman's Bible Class and maintained a deep interest in all of its activities.

Of her immediate family, three sisters, Miss Lucretia Barringer, Miss Adelia Barringer and Mrs. William Usher, all of Colborne, Canada, and one brother, William H. Barringer, of Warworth, Ontario, are still living.
Her death thus marks the first break in the family circle.

"The circle is broken, one seat is foreaken in bliss.
One bud from the tree of our friendship is shaken,
One heart from among us no longer
shall thrill
With joy in our gladness or grief in our ill.

"As a cloud of the sunset slow melting in heaven,
As a star that is lost when the daylight is given,
As a glad dream of slumber which
wakens in bliss,
She hath passed to the world of the holy from this."

The funeral was held from her late home Monday afternoon, April 17th at three o'clock, Rev. S. Conger Hathaway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this place conducting the services. Burial in Riverside cemetery.

The following out of town people attended the funeral: Miss Adelia Barringer of Colborne, Ont., sister of Mrs. Cooper; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reekie and son, Allan, and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Sherwood of Detroit, and Mrs. Thomas Thompson of Northville.

SPECIAL ELECTION CALLED

At the regular meeting of the village commission Monday evening, a resolution was passed by the commission calling for a special election of the voters of the village for Tuesday, May 9th, 1922, for the purpose of submitting the proposition of borrowing the sum of $10,000 and issuing the bonds of the village therefor, for the purpose of paying a part of the expense of paving Starkweather avenue to be paid by the village at large.
A notice of the above election will be found in the Mail today.

President Henderson appointed P.
W. Vourhies as Village Attorney for the ensuing year and W. J. Burrows as a member of the cemetery board for three years, to fill the place of F. D. Schrader whose term of office had expired. Both appointments were confirmed by the commission.

Village Manager, Sidney D. Strong appointed Fred Wagenschutz as chief of the fire department for the ensuing year to succeed himself. The appointment was confirmed by the commission.

The commission voted to purchase
from Wayne County road commission the two iron bridges recently taken down on the Plymouth-Northville road. One of these bridges will be used on the flats owned by the village and the other will be used on Garfield avenue, when that thoroughfare is extended north to Penniman avenue.

PLYMOUTH DEBATERS WIN AT MT. CLEMENS

The Plymouth High school debaters are still among the undefeated teams of the state, having won another debate, last Friday evening. The local team went to Mt. Clemens, and added a two to one decision to their already splendid record of the season.

The Mt. Clemens debate was an exceptionally good high school debate, and both teams deserve credit for the way in which they handled their side of the proposition. A large enthusiastic and attentive audience did its part in adding to the success of the evening, and the spirit of fairness and courtesy was most conspicuous throughout, including many congratulations for the Plymouth debaters.

The Plymouth team will debate Durant on Monday evening, April 24,
in the Plymouth High school auditorium.

A NEW BUSINESS FIRM

F. W. Hillman and Charles Rathburn have formed a partnership
under the firm name of Hillman & Rathburn for an automobile sales agency. Besides the Reo, Overland and Willys-Knight cars, for which Mr. Hillman has had the agency for some time, the new firm has taken the agency for the Durant motor cars, which includes the new Durant Star car, that will be out about June 1st and which will be sold at a price to compete with the Ford car. The new firm will also have the agency for the Case tractors and threshing outfits. Their salesroom and office will be located at the Reo garage on South Main street.

A SPLENDID CONCERT

A concert of unusual merit was given in the Penniman Allen theatre,
last Monday evening by the Plymouth Choral society, under the direction of Robert Benford, a member of this year's graduating class of the State Normal at Ypsilanti. The members of this society have been preparing for this concert for several weeks, and the excellent program presented Monday evening bespoke of the splendid training which had been given them. The chorus was assisted by Edward Mosher, violinist, and John Finch, tenor, also of the State Normal, whose selections were greatly appreciated. Mr. Benford also rendered two beautiful piano selections. The stage was prettily decorated with lilies, ferns and other potted plants, and the theatre was well filled for the occasion.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of S. H. Hills of this place, to Mrs. Margaret Honey, also of Plymouth. The marriage took place in Detroit, Tuesday afternoon, April 18th. Rev. Frank M. Field, former pastor of the local Methodist Episcopal church, read the marriage service. Mr. Hills is engaged in the milk business with his son, Raymond Hills, and they will reside in the groom's house at 265 Blunk avenue.
The Mail extends best wishes to the happy couple.

Attend the debate Monday night.

Perfect Health Is Yours if the Blood Is Kept Pure

If you have that extreme tired feeling, loss of appetite, tendency to anemia, nerve exhaustion, inactive bowels, constipation, you require a good Spring Tonic. This so-called "Spring Fever" is generally due to weak blood and in this condition you can not be vigorous in body or cheerful in mind.

You can not overestimate the importance of keeping the blood free from impurities. Any slight disorder or impurity that creeps into the blood is a source of danger, for every vital organ of the body depends upon the blood supply to properly perform its duties.

Avoid poor health by taking a good Blood and Skin Purifier and we can not suggest a better preparation for this purpose than "Herb Tone" which is also a good Tonic. Herb-Tone first works on the blood. It is remarkable how promptly its purifying, vitalizing effects are noticed.

It makes food taste good and also promotes good digestion so that you get the full value of the food you eat.
"Herb Tone" is manufactured with the sole purpose to help nature restore your system to its normal state.
Its real merits are its powers of strengthening the system, cleansing and enriching the blood. It stimu-lates nature to expel impurities from the system thru natural channels.
"Herb Tone" is recommended and sold by

The Prohibition Amendment and Law Enforcement

SPEECH OF
Hon. A. P. Nelson of Wisconsin, in the House of Representatives, on Dec. 21, 1921.

The eighteenth amendment will never be repealed. That fact is admitted by even the strongest opponents of the prohibition law. It will ever remain a part of our Constitution. The only issue is: Shall it be enforced or shall it be nullified? The American people are determined that it shall be enforced. A concerted movement of gigantic proportions, supported by every liquor agency and anti-prohibition propaganda in our country, is today attempting to break down public opinion and create a condition of nullification.

Nullification of our laws will never be tolerated, for it will ultimately spell anarchy, tyranny, and chaos. Only selfish greed, corrupt politics, and misguided thought will ever plead for the return of the American saloon or the nullification of our prohibition laws. Our government will forever endure in the adherence of our Constitution and laws, but will weaken with their disregard and perish with their nullification.

During the past school year, the High school has purchased at their own expense, the new portable bleachers that are used in the school auditorium and some physical training apparatus, the cost of which amounted to $1,000. A goodly portion of this sum has already been paid, while the balance is being carried at the local bank on a note. Not a cent of this expenditure is paid for by the school district by taxation, and all the citizens are asked to do is to come and enjoy the entertainments and games which are given from time to time, and thus make possible the apparatus which it is necessary to have in every modern school.

Plymouth friends of Ruth E. ## MANY HEAR REV. HALLIDAY

The religious services held in the Penniman Allen theatre on Good Friday afternoon, at 1:30 o'clock, were well attended. Rev. He spoke of the practical side of religion and urged the intermingling of religion in business.

Easter Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. Joyce Halliday again spoke in the Penniman Allen theatre to a large and appreciative audience. His talk was appropriate to the day, and his friends are always glad of an opportunity to hear him speak. Miss Ruth Halliday, who is a student of music at the University of Michigan, favored the company with two sacred songs. Rev. November 29, 1894, he was united in marriage to Eliza McLaughlin who now survives him. Two children were born to this union, one dying in infancy. Mr. and Mrs. Perkins moved to Plymouth nine years ago where they have since resided. He had been in feeble health for some time and on Easter Sunday, April 16, he passed within the veil. ## SWEGLES-OLIVER

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Lottie Ainsley, Saturday evening, April 8th, at 8:30 o'clock, when her granddaughter, Alma M., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Oliver, became the bride of Leith M. Swegles, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Swegles of Plymouth, Mich., in the presence of seventy relatives. The ring service was used by Rev. Dunning Idle, pastor of the First M. E. church of this city.

The bride was most attractive in a wedding gown of white crepe de chine, beaded; her bouquet was of bride's roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Theo Swegles, sister of the groom, wore pink organdie and carried pink roses. Roy Oliver, brother of the bride, attended Mr. Swegles as best man. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations of the house and dining room. After the ceremony, dainty refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Swegles left for their home, 5672 Howard street, Detroit, which he had previously furnished. Guests were present from Detroit, Wayne, Belleville, New Boston, Plymouth, Monroe, Willis and Ann Arbor. Mr. and Mrs. Swegles received many beautiful presents.—Ypsilanti Record.

Is Your Insurance

"Guilt Edged?"

Due to heavy losses and expenses and reduced premium income, nearly all Mutual Insurance Companies are under considerable strain at this time. Old Line Stock Companies are not seriously affected, but many light weight concerns, which have been unwisely managed have already succumbed, or have been compelled to call for 80 per cent to 100 per cent Special Assessments, and the prevailing opinion is that others of this class have trouble ahead.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

The church was beautifully decorated with calla lilies, last Sunday morning—very appropriately so since the Easter program given was entitled "Wishes for Easter." White candles were also used with good effect. The congregation was so large that chairs had to be brought in for their accommodation. The pantomime, "Lead Kindly Light," given by Virginia Giles, deserves special mention.

Eight ladies of the Busy Woman's Bible Class and the Auxiliary met at the church, last Tuesday, and gave the kitchen a thorough cleaning. Monday, May 8th, beginning at 10:30 a. m., Detroit Presbytery will hold a retreat in the First church of Northville. Autos will leave the Fort Street Presbyterian church at nine o'clock, and transport the city pastors and elders. The pastor and elders of the Plymouth church are among the invited guests. The retreat ends about four o'clock.

Numerous requests have been made that the Junior C. E. repeat the excellent entertainment given last Wednesday night. The program was clever and interesting, and netted the society twenty dollars for their gymnasium furnishing fund. At the close a bouquet was presented to Mrs. Karl Hillmer as a token of appreciation for her efficient help as a drill leader. The superintendent and her assistants deserve much credit for the success of this event.

On account of the sickness of Elder Robert Gardner, Elder Loomis represented the church at Presbytery, last Tuesday. Miss Ellen Gardner is also confined to her home by illness.

Rev. James Barkley, D. D., of Detroit, was in Plymouth on business for the Synod of Michigan, last Thursday.

NEVER before has the amazing Knight sleeve-valve motor been available in so fine a car at so low a price. Europe uses the Knight motor in her most famous and expensive cars. Now Willys engineering, Willys quantity production, put it in the reach of all in a car equally famous, but far less costly.

The Motor

The Willys-Knight motor is the highest development of the Knight sliding sleeve-valve principle. It gives more power out of less gas than any other motor of its size and weight. It is free from valve trouble, free from carbon trouble, smooth, quiet, flexible. Scientific tests and driver experience show that it grows more powerful with use. And its life-limit has never yet been ascertained.

The Car

The Willys-Knight Car is especially designed to match the motor in long life and distinction. Graceful, refined, dignified, its sturdy steel chassis beats off jolts and jars and holds the body permanently free from rattles and squeaks. Vigilant springs translate the roll of the road into undulating ease. It is fleet, comfortable, responsible—and a sound investment.

METHODIST NOTES

The Ladies Society met at the church on Wednesday for an all-day meeting to do some sewing.

Beginning next week Thursday night, a six weeks special program of study, devotion and social activities is to be begun, in which it is hoped to enlist the interest and attendance of every member of the church and congregation. There will be four classes lasting just a half hour each, from 7:15 to 7:45. From 7:45 to 8:15 will be a half hour of song service and devotion; and from 8:15 to 8:45, a half hour of social stunts with a special feature each week.

The four classes will be as follows—A class for the boys and girls with story telling, songs and contests, etc; a class for young folks who have signed the "9-W Life Work Covenant"; a study class for adults and all who desire to enroll in the study of "John Wesley, Jr." a very popular book that is being read and studied widely in our church. The fourth class will be a Bible study course in "The Greatest Letter in the World," namely, "Paul's Letter to the Romans." These courses will run for just the brief period of six weeks for a half hour each week. Teachers will be announced on Sunday.

The public will be interested in the announcement on the front page of this issue of the big Community Mass meeting to be held at this church next Sunday night at 7:30 in the interests of National Prohibition and Law Enforcement, one of the most vital problems that confronts our country today. Mr. A. C. Graham will be the speaker, and is well able to make it an interesting and worth while meeting. Special music will be provided.

Moving picture program next Tuesday night. A good reel of reels will be provided.

EASTER SERVICES AT METHODIST CHURCH

Easter Day was a beautiful climax to the Eastertide services that were held each evening during the two weeks preceding Easter Sunday. The attendance and interest was good and a fine spirit of loyalty was manifest. And for all who attended, their faith and spiritual life was warmed and deepened through the worship of Christ and a consideration of His claim upon the life.

On Good Friday afternoon, a special meeting was held from 2:00 to 3:00 in honor of that sacred hour of prayer, and the renewed declaration of faith in Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior. It was an hour well spent by a large number of folks.

Easter day dawned bright and early with about 40 folks at the church for an Easter Sun-rise service at 6:00 a. m. and as the sunlight began to stream through the windows, the radiance of God's Holy Love manifest in Christ shone in the lives of those present. And so through all the glad day, every heart rejoiced anew that Christ was risen from the dead, and that a new earth is being born out of the old. Faith in the promise of the ultimate triumph of Christ over all sin and death was increased.

A goodly number of folks were received into membership of the church both in preparatory relationship and in full membership. Also a number were baptized, both children and adults, making a very fitting ceremony to deepen the impressions of the Easter day.

The quartet favored us both morning and evening with some very beautiful Easter music. Also Mr. and Mrs. Karl W. Hillmer rendered a delightful mandolin duet in the evening.

The pastor desires publicly to express his appreciation to all those who so loyally helped to make the Easter meetings a success and for their co-operation. Also for the beautiful flowers which decorated the church for Easter Sunday. A fine Easter Bible offering was taken amounting to about $225, which will go as a special offering for Christ in the benevolent work of our church, that others around the world may have the light of Christ.

A CARD—We wish to express our thanks to our friends and neighbors who assisted us at the time of the death of our husband, father and son, and also the railroad men and those who gave flowers, and Mr. Sayles for his kind words.

Mrs. Howard Holcomb and Children, Mrs. Ursula Holcomb.

Today's Reflections

We note that some Plymouth gardeners are digging places where you can't even raise your voice.

About the only time it pays to be at the bottom of the ladder is when the ladder breaks.

Here's a sermon in one sentence—stop worrying about the sorrows of yesterday and go after the joys of today.

A man may be a mighty good man in every way, but if he dies without having his paper paid up, it's awful hard for an editor to write an obituary like it ought to be written.

Joy is that peculiar feeling a Plymouth man has when he discovers he has more money in his pockets than he thought.

Many still have "There's No Place Like Home" in a frame, but no place like home to hang it.

Most every Plymouth man knows that nothing can make dress goods go up quicker than a mouse.

If the American people move much faster than they do now, the recording angel is going to have to learn how to write shorthand.

Dignity is the thing some men stand on when they are short on everything else.

The trouble with a good many of our Plymouth girls is that when mother mentions needles to her, she thinks mother means phonograph needles.

There is this to be said for long engagements—they stall off the divorce court just that much.

At about this time the chickens next door can hardly wait to see if he is going to make garden.

YELLOW FEVER LOSES BATTLE

Pacific Coast of South America Rid of Scourge.

IGNORANCE IS CHIEF OBSTACLE

Campaign Conducted Jointly by Government of Peru and the Rockefeller Foundation—In One Town Populace Rose in Arms Against Closing of Moving Picture Theaters and Churches—Sanitary Experts Made More Than 800,000 House Visits.

The campaign conducted jointly by the government of Peru and the Rockefeller foundation which has resulted in ridding the Pacific coast of South America from a scourge of yellow fever was a test of human endurance and also a battle against ignorance and opposition.

"Our chief obstacle," said Dr. Henry Hanson, director of the international health board, "was ignorance on the part of the public. The inhabitants in general did not wish to accept the diagnosis of yellow fever, saying that it was pernicious malaria with vomiting of blood. However, there was a sufficient number of medical men there who had seen yellow fever before and were satisfied as to the nature of the disease."

In one town the populace rose in arms against the enforced closing of moving picture theaters and churches and mobbed the sanitary office, intending to kill the director in that district and stop the campaign.

Troops End Riot.
The men in the office escaped through a hole in the roof of the building and troops were called out to end the riot.

The epidemic continued severe in that place, for Doctor Hanson withdrew all his sanitary forces to protect a section of the country where they were more needed.

An idea of the magnitude of the campaign may be gained from the fact that Doctor Hanson's assistants made more than 800,000 house visits and inspected more than 1,000,000 water containers.

After yellow fever was stamped out in Guayaquil in 1919, the disease stealthily spread to the northern provinces of Peru, and in early 1920 Dr. Henry R. Carter was sent to combat it. He believed he had it stopped, but instead it had crept into the department of Lambayeque. Upon learning of its reappearance, the Rockefeller foundation asked the Peruvian government if help was needed, and President Leguia accepted their offer.

Doctor Hanson, who made a name for himself in sanitary work in Panama, has directed the campaign as a joint project for the foundation, and for the Peruvian government, each paying 50 per cent of the expenses. The outside world will little realize the tremendous piece of work quietly carried on by this American doctor, who himself fell sick with the disease he was fighting.

In January, 1921, the epidemic was officially recognized and the campaign begun. The disease became so firmly established that Doctor Hanson and his corps of assistants could not check it until it had spread to 37 of the principal towns of the departments of Lambayeque and Libertad.

People Die by Hundreds.
"The inhabitants were dying by the hundreds," said Doctor Hanson, "the death rate being between 25 and 60 per cent, but it was a physical impossibility for us to attend to individual cases, because of lack of personnel. Our job was to prevent the spread of the epidemic."

"We organized our campaign on a military basis," continued Doctor Hanson. "The job was so big that there was no other way to handle it. I had about 300 employees, in addition to a detachment from the Peruvian army. My American assistants have been Maj. I. H. Dunn and Messrs. M. M. Seely, L. W. Pickert and John P. Corrigan. Colonel Vergne of the French army mission to Peru was a very valuable adviser and helper in the campaign."

Lineman Rescues Cat.
Brings Animal to Ground After It Had Been Up in Tree for Days.

Perched in a hickory tree at No. 1500 Parkside drive, Toledo, O., for three days, a yellow cat was brought to the ground one afternoon recently by a telephone company lineman.

Mrs. Hazel Wheeler of Parkside drive notified the Toledo Humane society after her husband had tried several times to induce the cat to come down. He climbed as high as he was able but could not reach the cat or persuade it to leave its perch.

The telephone company was notified and Leon Hullenbeck, lineman, climbed to the top of the tree and to the end of the limb, from which he brought the feline to the ground.

It is thought the cat became frightened by dogs and ran to the highest point in the tree and either was unable to get down or was afraid to come down.

OLD CHARTERED TRAIL AN AID TO BOTANIST

Data on Dangerous Country in South America Found Accurate in All Details.

A cartographical trail blazed through the Bopl and Bent river country of South America forty-two years ago by Dr. Edwin R. Heath of Kansas City, South American explorer, proved of vital assistance in taking Frederick L. Hoffman of Newark, N. J., widely known botanist, on an exploring trip throughout the same country several months ago, according to a letter Dr. Heath has received from Mr. Hoffman.

The maps and other geographical data on the dangerous country as prepared by Dr. Heath and published in scientific journals a few years ago were so accurate as to excite the admiration of Mr. Hoffman, the latter said.

"No geographical matter I had with me served a better purpose, no observations were more accurate, no conclusions more prophetic than yours," the botanist wrote. "I followed as nearly as possible your methods, keeping account of my journey from hour to hour, but making the trip down the river (Bopl), while your journey was made in the reverse direction. I found a number of minor omissions, misspellings, etc., but the little map appended to your paper in the Geographic Journal was priceless and literally worn to shreds by the time I reached Riberalta."

The letter mentioned visits to many places Dr. Heath recalled having seen on his trips.

Although eighty-three years old, Dr. Heath retains intense interest in scientific investigation of South America. He is at present consul in the United States for Guatemala, Honduras, Bolivia and Nicaragua.

A fellow in the Royal Geographic society and the recipient of honors from many scientific organizations Dr. Heath is perhaps most proud of the fact that one of the great rivers of South America bears his name. It is a tributary of the Madre de Dios. He discovered the Madre de Dios river on his trip in 1880. The River Heath forms part of the boundary between Bolivia and Peru.

Dr. Henry H. Rusby, dean of the college of pharmacy at Columbia university, is recuperating at his home in Newark, N. J., after a perilous and grueling a trip as any man ever experienced. Last June Doctor Rusby headed the Mulford biological expedition in search of new vegetable growths of possible medicinal value in the wilds of South America.

At Rurrenabaque, Bolivia, he was stricken with neuritis, which crippled his left leg so badly that he could hardly travel along, an infected tooth causing him intense agony at the same time.

And so, alone, he started for Manaus, 1,600 miles away on the Amazon—and Manaus is 1,000 miles from the Atlantic coast mouth of the Amazon.

Incidentally, and lest it be forgotten, Doctor Rusby was the first man ever to carry the American flag across the continent of South America, traveling from the Atlantic to the Pacific afoot, on muleback, and on rafts, back in 1883.

VALVE THAT PUT RADIO ON FEET

'Thermionic Valve' Keystone of Arch of Modern Wireless.

DESCRIBED BY ITS INVENTOR

It is Extremely Simple in Construction, Says British Electrical Engineer, Who Designed It—in the Same Category of Merit as Steam Engine, Power Loom and Sewing Machine—Its Use Explained in Simple Language.

"The thermionic valve is an invention which is the keystone of the arch of modern wireless telegraphy. Without it this kind of telegraphy would have a very restricted use. With it we can telegraph from England to Australia at the rate of a hundred words or more a minute. We can speak telephonically to flying airplanes or airplanes 100 miles away and miles high in the sky. We can talk across stormy oceans many hundreds of miles as easily and often better than we can speak across the city by means of a telephone exchange. In short, the thermionic valve is an invention worthy to stand in the same category of merit as the steam engine, the power loom, the sewing machine or the petrol engine. Moreover, unlike these inventions, it is extremely simple in construction."

So says John Ambrose Fleming, D. Sc., fellow of the Royal Society, in a signed article in the Manchester Guardian. Doctor Fleming is a distinguished consulting electrical engineer, and lectures on applied mechanics in the university and has been professor of electrical engineering at University college, London, since 1885. He has been intimately associated with the development of all the great applications of electrical science in the past twenty-five years—the telephone, electric lighting and wireless telegraphy. He is the inventor of the thermionic valve, which has revolutionized wireless telegraphy and made possible wireless telephoning.

Approved by a Committee. In the article here quoted Doctor Fleming writes:

"In the year 1919-20 an Imperial wireless telegraphy committee, appointed to consider the scheme of intercommunication between all parts of the British empire, reported to parliament the conclusions at which they had arrived. These were broadly as follows: (1) That the Imperial wireless stations should be established at distances of about 2,000 miles, connecting the various communities of the empire; (2) that the wireless system employed should be that making use of the thermionic valve; (3) that the stations be planned by a wireless commission composed of experts and that the construction of these stations should be entrusted to the engineering department of the general post office and the corresponding Indian and dominion authorities.

"The report of this wireless commission has just been issued and forms interesting reading to experts in wireless telegraphy. The general reader will, however, find its technicalities unintelligible in the absence of a little explanation. The first question he will ask is: What is this thermionic valve to which the committee attaches so much importance?"

"The thermionic valve consists merely of an incandescent electric lamp, comprising a glass or silica bulb which is highly exhausted of its air and contains a filament of tungsten wire which can be rendered intensely hot by an electric current passed through it. It differs, however, from an electric lamp by having the filament surrounded by two metal cylinders. The outer one is a cylinder formed of a solid plate of nickel and the inner one is either a spiral of nickel wire or else a cylinder of nickel gauze or network. These two cylinders do not touch each other or the filament, and they are attached to wires which are sealed through the wall of the bulb.

Atoms and Electrons. "To explain the operation of this device we must remind the reader that modern research has shown that the atoms of which material substances are composed are themselves formed of still smaller atoms of electricity called electrons. An atom of matter is a very small thing. If 250,000,000 atoms of copper or gold were put in a row, like marbles, touching each other, the row would only be an inch long. But an electron is still smaller. Its diameter is probably only one hundred thousandth of that of an atom. Electrons are of two kinds, called 'positive and negative,' and an atom is a sort of solar system in which a number of negative electrons revolve round a nucleus composed chiefly of positive electrons. In the case of metals some of these negative electrons escape easily from the atoms and probably jump about from atom to atom like bees in a garden flitting from flower to flower. The speed with which these free electrons dart about is sixty miles per second.

Procession of Electrons. "The state we call an electric current in a wire is merely these free electrons as a whole drifting in one direction or surging to and fro with out ceasing their irregular motion. When a wire, say, of tungsten is made very hot some of these free electrons escape from its surface, and this is called thermionic emission. If, then, we surround the hot wire by a cylinder of cold metal which is electrified positively, the escaping electrons are attracted to it, and the movement of negative electrons from the hot wire to the cold plate creates a thermionic current. Since then, negative electricity can pass from the hot wire to the cold metal cylinder but cannot pass in the opposite direction, such a lamp, with cylinder, enclosing the filaments, acts toward electricity as a valve in a pump acts toward water. It allows a flow to take place in one direction only. The writer of this article, who was the first to use in 1904 such an appliance in wireless telegraphy, called it an oscillation valve, a name subsequently changed to thermionic valve.

Credit to an American. "In 1907 an addition was made to it by an American inventor, De Forest, consisting in the interposition of a zig-zag of metal wire between the filament and the metal plate of a Fleming oscillation valve. This addition formed the starting point for new developments by numerous inventors in England, America and France, which have finally given us the remarkable appliance called a three-electrode thermionic valve or electron valve, which cannot only detect but magnify feeble electric oscillations, and, more important still, can generate very powerful vibratory electric currents if the circuit connecting the outer cylinder to the filament contains a battery or dynamo creating a steady electric voltage, and if this circuit is properly connected to another circuit joining the perforated plate or grid with the filament.

"A Sort of Lighthouse." "In this form it is called a transmitting valve, and we can by it generate the very powerful high-frequency to and fro or alternating electric currents in an aerial wire which are necessary in wireless telegraphy or telephony. These electric vibrations generate the electric waves which travel away through space from the aerial. The aerial wire, therefore, resembles a sort of lighthouse which is radiating invisible light. Transmitting valves are now made with silica or glass bulbs about the size and shape of a Rugby football. A large number can be harnessed together so as to generate enormous oscillatory currents.

"At the great Carnarvon wireless station on the side of Snowdon, Marconi's Wireless Telegraph company have built a valve panel containing about sixty large valves, which can put into the great aerial wires currents of three or four hundred amperes. The electric waves so generated can be detected by suitable receiving thermionic valves at all parts of the habitable earth.

Two Other Methods. "There are two other methods of creating the continuous electric waves now used in wireless telegraphy. One of these is by means of a high-frequency alternator, which is a complicated kind of dynamo very different in principle from the alternators used for producing the low-frequency electric currents employed in electric lighting. Machines of this kind are installed in the great wireless stations at Long Island and at St. Asstie, near Paris. Again, there is another method which makes use of an electric arc. The thermionic valve has, however, great advantages in point of first cost as against the high-frequency alternator, and it is superior to the arc generator because it gives a purer form of electric wave, less contaminated by a mixture of wave-lengths, called higher harmonics, and has other advantages in economy of power in signaling.

"The growth and development of the three methods of electric wave generation—namely, by high-frequency alternators, arc, and thermionic valve panels—will be watched by experts with great interest."

GIRL, 13, MADE A PREACHER

Is One of Seven Granted a License by Oklahoma M. E. Prey. A thirteen-year-old girl was among seven persons granted a license to preach by the Northeastern Oklahoma Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church at Tulsa, Okla., recently. She is Miss Fay Emery of Miami, Okla., who began preaching last summer in the minkig districts near her home. She is in the seventh grade at school and says her ambition is to become a foreign missionary. The girl became a church member two years ago and immediately became a Sunday school teacher. She became interested in all church activities and soon attracted the attention of her pastor. Under the direction of the Rev. George A. Kleinstepper, she prepared a sermon and delivered it from his pulpit. Soon she was urged to address regularly the inmates of the Old Ladies' and Men's homes. Later she filled vacancies at Picher, Okla., and then preached at Baxter Springs.

SLEEPS THREE DAYS

Young Woman Then Woke Up of Her Own Accord. Miss Phyllis Hewitt, sixteen years of age, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Hewitt, who live near Corunna Ind., woke up Wednesday afternoon and on their return found the girl asleep. Monday morning the parents were unable to rouse the girl. A physician was called, but he failed to wake her. When the girl was left alone for a few moments Wednesday afternoon she woke up and called her mother. The girl said she thought she had slept about three hours. After taking some nourishment, her condition apparently was normal.

SHIP SAVED BY CAPTAIN'S SKILL

Fire Breaks Out in Hold of Potomac in North Sea.

FIGHT FLAMES FOR 16 HOURS

Captain Macleod Swings Vessel Sharply to Port, Throwing 400 Tons of Water on Blaze and Quenching It—Was Ready to Beach Ship on Dutch Coast to Save the Passengers—Firemen Held to Their Work by Officers With Drawn Revolvers.

By presence of mind on the part of the master of the steamship Potomac, a fire which had been blazing for 16 hours was extinguished and the necessity of beaching the vessel obviated. Two members of the crew who had been overcome with smoke and another who had been struck on the head by a piece of iron, had recovered when the ship reached port. Two fire room with drawn revolvers over the Spanish and Filipino stokers who wanted to get out on deck. The fire which was in No. 4 hold, right next to them, combined with the heat from the furnaces, made things too warm even for natives of the tropics.

The Potomac sailing from Bremen for New York was 83 miles out in the North sea skirting the Dutch coast when the quartermaster reported that smoke was coming out of No. 4 hatch, where the provisions were stowed. Capt. William Macleod, who had just turned in, was notified by the officer of the watch and word was sent to Chief Engineer E. M. Garland, who had been on duty for two days and nights in Bremen overhauling the machinery and had just gone to his cabin.

Pumps Have Little Effect.

The pumps were started and the chemical apparatus, was turned into the hatch where the blaze was raging, but had little effect. At 1 a. m. the fire had gained so much headway that the heat could be felt by the watch who were wetting down the decks. The crew worked quietly and stewards were stationed at the companion ways to prevent passengers from coming on deck and impeding the work of the crew. By this time the spare straw mattresses stowed under No. 4 hatch had caught on fire and the pungent smoke made it difficult for the engineers and officers to get along the between decks to direct the hose on the fire.

The pumps worked steadily injecting tons of water into the hold, and the passengers, who had been unaware of the fire until they got up for breakfast, watched the crew at work without any signs of panic because they realized that the shore was not far off and that they would be saved by steamers standing by their blazing craft.

At 3 p. m. the next day the ship was listed to starboard, and with 400 tons of water which had been pumped into No. 4 hold to quench the fire, which was on the port side, Captain Macleod decided that he had to take sudden and drastic action if he wished to save the ship.

Firemen Become Restive.

About this time the foreign firemen and coal passers became restive and did not want to stop down below, but the presence of Assistant Engineers Edward Standish and Henry Topping with big navy revolvers in their hands decided them to stick on the job. Realizing that he could not get the fire under control from between decks, the captain stopped the ship just before 5 a. m. and sent men over the side in boats' chairs with sledge hammers to smash in the ports opening into the blazing hold. Lines of canvas hose were run over the side to the seamen, who placed the nozzles through the broken ports directly onto the fire. Just at that time a German steamer bound for Bremen came up and hove to within a quarter of a mile of the Potomac, and stood by to see if Captain Macleod needed assistance. While he did not admit this, the officers said that the captain had decided to run into the Dutch coast and beach the vessel if the fire could not be got under control before it spread to the passengers' quarters.

After sending word to the engineer in charge below to give her every pound of steam he could, the captain ordered the quartermaster to put the helm hard aport, and as her bow swung over the ship recovered her list to starboard and the water went over to the opposite side of the hold with a noise like a tidal wave and knocked seven bells out of the fire, as the bo'sun said. From that time it was under control, and the flames gradually died out, after destroying a considerable quantity of stores.

CHINESE PIRATES ARE VERY POLITE

After Looting Ship Chief Apologizes to Captain.

GET LOOT WORTH $120,000

Captain Is Compelled to Navigate His Ship According to Orders of Pirate Chief—Bullion, Passengers' Money and Jewelry Collected at Leisure—Captain Is Compensated by Chief for Gold Watch Taken From Him by One of Band.

The most polite pirate extant is the chief of the band that looted the steamer Kwang Lee on the China sea recently. An account has reached this country of this remarkable case of piracy, in which $120,000 in bullion and passengers' money and jewelry was stolen and a native passenger was murdered.

The Kwang Lee, 1,400 tons, owned by the China Merchants' Steam Navigation company, commanded by Captain Lindsay Crawford, left Shanghai on Dec. 13 for Hongkong with a general cargo and 230 Chinese passengers. All went well until Dec. 15, when, off Amoy, two Chinese passengers entered the captain's cabin at midday, pointed revolvers at him and fired a blank cartridge. Captain Crawford was forced out of the cabin and told if he offered any resistance he would be instantly shot and thrown overboard. He was ordered along the main deck and shown into the mess-room, where he found the second engineer. Armed sentries were placed on guard at the door and shortly afterward the chief engineer and other officers were made prisoners.

Gave Him Sailing Orders. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the captain was ordered onto the bridge, and the leader of the pirates demanded the position of the ship and the distance to Chupel Island. On being informed that the Kwang Lee was eighteen miles due south of the island the pirates became very excited. A number of them collected on the bridge and after an animated discussion Captain Crawford was asked the distance to Hongkong, and was then ordered at the point of a revolver to steam due south.

At 10 o'clock the same night the course was altered towards Swatow, the captain being informed that if he went near the shore he would be shot. During the night and a great part of the following day the pirates occupied themselves in looting the vessel. Passengers' trunks were smashed open and everything portable removed. The cabins were ransacked and officers relieved of all personal belongings, including evening dress clothes. Early in the proceedings a Chinese passenger, Se Po Kwan, was shot and his body heaved overboard. The strong room was opened and five boxes containing $20,000 were lowered into a junk, together with passengers' clothing, money and jewelry, valued at $100,000.

On leaving the boat the robbers gave strict instructions that the vessel was not to leave the bay before 6 a. m. on Dec. 17. Directly the junk left the vessel the members of the crew were released and the necessary repairs to the engines were rushed through. Three hours later the vessel crept out of the bay and made full speed for Hongkong.

Courteous Pirate Chief. Captain Crawford is of the opinion that there was no collusion between the crew of the junk and the pirates. The junk was held up and ordered to come alongside. The chief of the pirates was courteous and polite, and upon leaving the vessel apologized for the inconvenience caused, and hoped the captain would think of them in a friendly manner. He offered to shake hands with Captain Crawford.

As a little memento of the occasion the robber presented the captain with his gold watch and chain to compensate him for the loss of his own, which had been looted by one of the gang. A silver-mounted walking stick was presented to the second officer, and a Chinese lady passenger was called forward and $100 given her with instruction to share it among the passengers on arrival at Hongkong.

GAVE UNIQUE SERVICE

Cigarmaker Has Helped the Police of Monroe as Volunteer.

For more than 20 years, Jesse J. Dusseau of Monroe, Mich., cigarmaker, has occupied the unique role of an auxiliary police signal service.

The service he has voluntarily given the city has become almost an institution. Dusseau's shop is close to police headquarters. So frequent have the calls been to his shop to summon police officers that he has equipped himself with a shrill whistle to sound an "S O S" for officers whose beats may have taken them a block or two distant.

Mayor James Gilmore has proposed public recognition for the service Dusseau has given.

Coin in Purse Saves Woman's Life. A silver dollar in her pocketbook saved the life of Mrs. Ida L. McCormick of Dallas, Tex., when her husband shot her. The bullet went through the woman's arm, struck the coin, and was deflected from her heart. The lead was found in the purse. The husband committed suicide after wounding his wife.

A Farmer Cured of Rheumatism. "A man living on a farm near here came in a short time ago completely doubled up with rheumatism. I handed him a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment and told him to use it freely," says C. P. Rayder, Patten Mills, N. Y. "A few days later he walked into the store as straight as a string, and handed me a dollar, saying give me another bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment; I want it in the house all the time for it cured me."—Advertisement.

BUYS FARM WITH TIPS

Missouri Bellboy Saves $8,000 in Eleven Years.

Bert E. Cox of Joplin, Mo., has used the tips he received as bellboy in a hotel for 11 years to buy an $8,000 farm in a fertile valley south of the town. He intends to grow fruit and berries and to raise chickens on it, he says. He will continue to be a bellboy until he has enough money to build a comfortable home on the farm. Cox invested his money in Liberty bonds during the World war. He bought a home and a motorcar while he was saving to realize his great ambition—to own a farm.

"Hard to save money?" asked Cox. "No, it was a comparatively easy matter. Of course, you have to get the saving habit. Once that is done your bank account will grow."

From Quarry to Pulpit.

It was an unobtrusive-seeming appearance of Dr. Joseph Parker, the famous preacher, which led to him being nicknamed "the Russian bear."

An American visitor who heard him said he looked more like the captain of a plate vessel than a minister of the Gospel.

Talking of Dr. Parker's early days, Mr. Albert Dawson of the City temple said that the minister's parents were so poor that he went to school shod in a pair of clogs with iron round the soles. Ultimately he went to work as a mason.

One day, however, while hewing stone in the quarry, he exclaimed suddenly: "Hammers and stones tire poor men's bones!" He threw down his pick, went off, and never returned to the quarry.

When he was twenty-three, he entered the ministry, and married Annie Nesbit, "the soul I loved, the girl that saved me and made me a man."

Made Him Look Small.

A young and newly married couple were entertaining their friends, and among the guests was one whose continued rudeness made him extremely objectionable to the rest of the company. His conduct, although most unbearable, was put up with for some time, until at supper he held up on his fork a piece of meat which had been served to him, and in a vein of intended humor, he looked round and remarked:

"Is this pig?"

This immediately drew forth the remark from a quiet-looking individual sitting at the other end of the table: "Which end of the fork do you refer to?"

Where the Fish Swam.

There are rich fishing banks of huge extent around Iceland, but the greatest are around Newfoundland, and are so rich that fishing vessels congregate there from America and France, as well as Great Britain.

These banks are very interesting for they are shallows which overhang the abyssal depths which fall quite close by to as much as 4,000 fathoms, or more than four miles sheer depth.

There are fine banks all along the Greenland coast, and plenty of fish on them. But here trawling is impossible, for the icebergs have covered the bottom with enormous boulders.

Perquisites.

"There are very few perquisites nowadays."

"I'm glad of it," replied Senator Saragum. "Perquisites in the old days were regarded by 100 many penurious people as an excuse for holding a public servant down to an inadequate salary."

Court Reinstates Drunken Sheriff.

The Supreme court has issued an order restoring to office Sheriff John G. McClain, of Lincoln county, Ark., following his discharge upon conviction of drunkenness. Intoxication is not sufficient reason to discharge an officer, the court ruled.

BRITISH TRY TO END QUEER SUPERSTITIONS

Peasants in Palestine Said to Be Kept in Ignorance by Peculiar Beliefs.

The British administration in Palestine is trying to stamp out some of the peculiar superstitions of the fellahs (peasants) and has appointed a committee of district governors to advise it as to the best method of attaining that purpose.

After four years of occupation the authorities are beginning to realize that superstition plays an important role in keeping the peasant in ignorance.

Some of the native beliefs are very interesting. One government official discovered that he had transgressed a tradition the other day when he stepped over a baby's cradle as he crossed a village street. His action was noticed by a group of women, who halted him and told him he would have to retreat his steps or the baby would surely die. As their attitude was menacing he did so to save himself from attack.

The same official on another occasion was invited to take lunch with the mukhtar (head) of a village. As he entered the guest chamber he stumbled and fell headlong on the floor. The host told him that his falling was sure to bring bad luck to the village unless he saw fit to forego the lunch.

It is a common practice for girls to visit willies (prophets' tombs) and lay there pieces of their garments, believing that by so doing they are sure to be married soon. Sometimes they go without food or drink for seven days for the same purpose.

Married women who have no children, trying to avoid divorce, go to cemeteries and walk over children's tombs in order to have offspring of their own. Often, to be blessed with children, they go to a mosque, walk seven times around the building and then smash an egg in the gateway. These are only a few of the odd customs which are commonly practiced by the fellahs and which the government is anxious to end.

RICH CHINESE GIRL TAKES UP MECHANICAL TRAINING

Miss Ah Sing Chan, of Shanghai, daughter of Ah Sing Chan, wealthy Chinese coal dealer, and the wife of M. C. Chan, a graduate of New York university and now a cotton mill owner in the Orient, has joined the New Bedford Textile school, where she is following her hobby—that of getting a mechanical education. Mrs. Chan hopes to return to her home in a brief time and help her husband as an efficiency engineer.

Mrs. Chan would rather learn how to set an automobile engine together than lazily reclining in her millionaire father's sedan chair.

MAN GETS NEW NOSE

Old One Gets Bitten Off, and Fresh Came From His Arm.

Burt Hayes of Van Buren, Ark., is in a Fort Smith hospital, with his nose bitten off, and Gould Worley of Fort Smith is nursing the remnants of a finger which was badly lacerated by Hayes' teeth as the result of a chewing and scraping match staged by the two men just off Garrison avenue a few days ago.

Surgeons decided it necessary to graft some flesh on the vacant place on Hayes' face, and as a result he is confined to his bed with his left arm bound to his face, where it will remain for several days until the flesh knits, and his arm is cut free from his nose. Surgeons say he will have a good look the nose when the operation is completed, although it may not function as well as the old one.

Worley probably will lose a finger, or if he does not, it will remain stiff and almost useless, surgeons say. Following the battle, when the two men wallowed in the mud and water and clowned each other up, county officers served warrants charging "fighting and maintaining" on the two men, and fixing bonds of $250 each. Their hearing will be had as soon as Hayes' new nose is in such condition that he may appear in court.

usual church service to enable the members of the church school to take part. Some of the kindergarten members of Mrs. Jennings' class recited from:

"Two little eyes to look up to God."
"Two little hands to work for Him."
"And a tongue to speak the truth," etc., etc.

During the singing of the hymn, "In the Cross of Christ I Glory," by the congregation, the children of the church school formed in procession, walked up the church and placed a white carnation in a cross frame at the chancel steps, thus forming a beautiful cross of white carnations. This was indeed a very beautiful ceremony by the children of the church. Wilbur Murphy sang very nicely, the solo from, "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross."

Good Friday evening service was equally well attended, and notwithstanding the stormy evening quite a large congregation was present to hear the Rev. H. C. McCurdy's address. He preached a very impressive sermon from the text, "And the Lord turned and looked upon Peter." The Ven.; the Rev. J. Germain, archdeacon of the Northern Peninsula, who has been in Detroit officiating at some of the Lenten services, also came out to Plymouth to visit our little mission church. Archdeacon Germain showed great interest in the progress of our mission here, and he expressed a wish to come out to Plymouth later on to address our congregation. It has been arranged for him to come to Plymouth early in May. The exact date will be announced later.

Lent has passed and the children of our mission church presented their Lenten mite boxes at the altar, Easter Sunday, to show their gratitude for the beautiful gift that Easter brings. This is only the first year of our mite boxes in St. John's, Plymouth, but it is the forty-sixth year that the children of the church in this country have united to make this Easter offering. The contents of these Lenten mite boxes was excellent, but it is not only the contents, but the prayer with each penny put in that is of such value and real help to the children of the church in foreign lands. The money will be sent to the Foreign Missionary society in New York, from our little band of workers in Plymouth, Michigan.

The Ladies' Guild will meet this week at the home of Mrs. Paul Ware. A full attendance is requested.

We hope to welcome a large congregation, next Sunday morning, when the Ven.; the Rev. J. C. Widerfeld, archdeacon of Detroit, will be with us, and will preach. The dedication of the new brass memorial cross and the brass candlesticks will take place at this service.

EPISCOPAL NOTES

Easter day at St. John's was a very happy day, equally for the members, the church school and those friends and visitors who attended the service. The little mission church was filled to the doors, the service was bright and the singing of hymns was heartily joined in by the congregation. Franklin L. Gibson preached a very impressive sermon on "The Resurrection," and Daniel Murphy gave a short talk on "The Meaning of the Cross." There was a break in the

A large crowd greeted the Rubicon Masonic Minstrels of Detroit, in Penniman Allen Theatre, last Wednesday evening, when they appeared here under the auspices of Plymouth Rock Lodge, No. 47, F. & A. M. The first part of the program, consisting of circle, interlocutor and colored end men, brought forth the usual jokes, witticisms and songs by the company. The second part, "The best beloved Southern melodies," played by the Rubicon orchestra was greatly enjoyed, and the entertainment concluded with a musical farce, entitled, "Crooked to the End." Through the kindness of Mrs. Allen in donating the theater for the occasion, about sixty dollars was netted for the Masonic building fund.

Pratt was 22 years old, and his home was at Honor, Mich.

Easter Sunday was fittingly observed in the First Presbyterian church, last Sunday morning, when an Easter song service was given by the Sunday-school at ten o'clock. The opening and closing numbers on the program were two beautiful organ voluntaries by Miss Evelyn Thomas. Other numbers of interest on the program were several Easter songs sung by a chorus of boys and girls; a short talk by the pastor; several recitations, and the repeating of the 23rd Psalm by the primary department in unison with their teacher, Mrs. Frank Burrows, leading, "Lead Kindly Light," sung by Calvin Whipple, was beautifully presented in pantomime by Virginia Giles. The church was handsomely decorated with calla lilies and ferns with festoons of narrow white satin ribbon. In the center of each pyramid of flowers surrounding the altar, was nestled a burning candle with dainty white marguerites at the base. Every seat in the church was filled for the occasion.
