ASSOCIATION OF FUNERAL DIRECTORS MET HERE

The Southeast Counties Funeral Directors' Association met at Plymouth, Tuesday, for its second quarterly meeting. The attendance was forty-five from the various villages and cities of Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne counties, not including Detroit.

The business meeting in the afternoon and the banquet in the evening was arranged for by Schrader Bros. of Plymouth and Northville, and carried out in a very pleasing manner. The meeting was held in the chapel of Schrader Bros. new and commodious funeral home, and the banquet in the evening was held in Hotel Plymouth.

The meeting was called to order at four o'clock by President George A. Huber of Monroe. J. W. Henderson, village president, in a most pleasing manner cordially welcomed the visitors to Plymouth. His remarks were heartily applauded.

George Walters, secretary of the Detroit Police Commission, was to have been present as toastmaster, but found, because of pressing business engagements, it was impossible to be here. In his place he sent Aldrich Baxter as his substitute. He was at his best, and his best is a "going some" gait. He referred to the candidacy of Mr. Walters for sheriff of Wayne county, and facetiously remarked that the undertakers would probably all be against him, as Commissioner Walters at the head of Detroit's Safety First Bureau, was doing everything he could to retard the undertakers' business. He called attention to the fact that in Detroit, the death rate by autos and street cars had been reduced from into the thousands to a figure in the hundreds.

Baxter was a big hit, and some of the undertakers only escaped their own funeral by the laughter route by a narrow margin.

Other speakers were: Prof. G. A. Smith of Plymouth; F. D. Schrader, of Plymouth; George A. Huber of Monroe; R. B. Northrop of Redford; N. C. Schrader of Northville; M. C. Haley and J. C. Smalzer of Detroit; E. W. Blackmore of Milan; James Mooler of Galion, Ohio.

The officers are: President, George A. Huber, Monroe; vice president, W. D. Morton of Wayne; treasurer, E. W. Blackmore of Milan; secretary, M. Uht of New Boston.

The Plymouth High school orchestra furnished delightful music during the dinner hour, and later on Scott Montgomery of Northville, now with Newberry's famous band, rendered a couple of piano solos in his old-time pleasing manner.

The next meeting will be held at Monroe sometime in August. This meeting was voted the most interesting and enjoyable of any so far held, and a rising vote of thanks was given to Schrader Bros. for their part in it.

DEARBORN DEFEATS PLYMOUTH

The Plymouth I. O. O. F. base ball team was defeated by Dearborn on the local grounds last Saturday afternoon, by a score of 15 to 3.

The local team will play Northville at the Plymouth High School Athletic park, Saturday afternoon, May 20th, at 3:30 o'clock. A good game is anticipated.

CARITAS PUPILS WILL GIVE PLAY

The pupils of the Caritas Boarding Home will give, "The Life of Lincoln," a play in three acts at the Presbyterian church, Plymouth, Friday evening, May 26th. The proceeds are to go to the school. Admission, 25c.

WORK ON FORD BUILDING STARTED

Work has been commenced on the new Ford building which is being erected on the site of the Wilcox mill, which was recently demolished. The new building, which will be 24x84 feet in size, is being constructed of re-inforced concrete. It will be two stories in height.

R. G. Lawrence has built a new addition on his house on Hamilton street.

Mrs. M. J. Collins of Newago, Mich., is visiting her son Archie Collins and family on Holbrook avenue.

TOLEDOANS VISIT PLYMOUTH

About one hundred Toledo business men arrived in Plymouth last week Thursday afternoon at 4:45 and were met at the train with autos by members of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce and conveyed to the business districts of the village, where members of the party called upon our business men. When the train left for Toledo, each member of the party found a delicious lunch, which had been placed aboard the train, awaiting him, with the compliments of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce.

The members of the Toledo party were so pleased over the little courtesies shown them by the local Chamber of Commerce during their brief visit here, that the Toledo Chamber of Commerce have extended a most cordial invitation for the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce to come to Toledo as their guests for a day, yet to be decided upon. The visitors had many favorable comments to make on the beauty of Plymouth, and its many advantages for a town of its size, which will all go to help advertise the village.

The visitors from the Ohio city were a jolly bunch of fellows, and our citizens will be pleased to have them visit Plymouth again.

A LETTER OF APPRECIATION

F. D. Schrader, chairman of the entertainment committee of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, has received the following letter of appreciation from the secretary of the manufacturers and wholesalers division of the Toledo Chamber of Commerce regarding their recent visit here:

May 12, 1922.
Mr. F. D. Schrader, Chairman,
Plymouth Board of Commerce,
Plymouth, Mich.

Dear Mr. Schrader:
Our Trade Trip Committee wishes to thank you in particular for your very splendid service in making the Plymouth welcome extended to the members of our Trade Trip, so truly memorable.

I have written to Mr. Dayton and Mr. Smith, expressing to them the sincere appreciation of every member in our party.

It was certainly a fine thing, upon arriving at Plymouth, at the close of a long, hard, three-day trip, to find the large fleet of autos there ready to convey us comfortably up-town. This instance of course, was only indicative of the spirit with which you were eager to welcome us, and make our brief stop at Plymouth surely worth-while.

The very finest and most thoughtful thing done on the whole trip was the surprise given us by the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, which we discovered after our train had left Plymouth. The sandwiches were most refreshing, and our appreciation of the thoughtfulness and service back of them is indeed hard to express.

We shall, each of us, long remember this occasion, and we sincerely hope that our thanks and appreciation will be extended to everyone who participated in this very welcome surprise.

Sincerely yours,
Manufacturers & Wholesalers
Division.
Trade Trip Committee,
Arthur E. Gilman, Secretary.

PLYMOUTH WILL HEAR FINE CONCERT

The J. L. Hudson Co. orchestra, male quartet and ladies' quartet will give one of their splendid concerts in the High school auditorium, Friday evening, May 26, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist Episcopal church. Admission, 50c. Children, 12c. Tickets on sale at Pinckney's Pharmacy.

BAND CONCERT

Come to the concert in the High School auditorium, Monday, May 22. The Millard band has generously donated their entire talent to the Junior class. In addition to the band's well selected numbers, there will be readings by Virginia Giles, solo numbers by Evangeline Foster, and favorite songs by the High School Boys' Glee Club. Have an evening of song and incidentally help the Juniors on to Washington.

OPENING DATE PLYMOUTH CHAUTAUQUA JULY 10

The Mutual-Morgan Bureau announce July 10th, as the opening date of Plymouth's chautauqua this year. A splendid course of entertainments will make up a most attractive program. One of the big numbers will be "The Shepherd of the Hills." Watch the Mail for further particulars.

HOME TALENT PLAY AT SALEM TOWN HALL

A very popular and entertaining home talent play, "An Old-Fashioned Mother," will be given at the Salem Town Hall, Friday evening, May 19, for the benefit of the Young People's Class of the Second Congregational church of Salem. The play is a dramatic story of a mother's love triumphing amid and through difficult, sometimes serious, and frequently through amusing and refreshingly humorous situations.

The interesting plot of the story, in three acts, is set in a typical familiar old-fashioned gossipy village. In this atmosphere appear again the once well known character types, which form an unusually agreeable vehicle for the splendid local talent. Every appropriate property and detail has been included, and a production of real merit and thorough satisfaction and enjoyment is anticipated. The authors possessed the happy faculty of delightfully interweaving humor and pathos, sunshine and shadow, and a pleasing and natural denouement.

The following cast of characters carry the action:
Deborah Underhill, a mother in Israel, Mrs. F. Buers.
Widder Bill Pindle, Choir Leader, Mrs. J. Clark.
Miss Lowzy Loviny Custard, plain sewing and gossip, Miss Irene Hinman.

Isabel Simpscott, village belle, Miss Florence Rider.
Gloria Perkins, good as gold, Miss Eva Shoebridge.
Sukey Pindle, the widder's mite, Miss Mabel Callen.
John Underhill, prodigal son, Laverne Thompson.

Charles Underhill, the elder brother, Harold Stuart.
Brother Jonah Quackenbush, a white sepulchre, Frank Buers.
Jeremiah Gosling, a merry heart, Ralph Pickard.
Enoch Rone, an outcast and a wanderer, Bruce Rorabacher.

Quintus Todd, the county sheriff, DeForest Thompson.

Time.—Twenty years ago.
Place.—Any old-fashioned village of twenty years ago.

Price of admission will be 25c for children and 35c for adults. Early attendance is suggested as large patronage is expected.

Business Is Coming Back

Slowly but steadily general conditions are improving. The price spread is being narrowed. Conditions which had fallen too much are rising in price. Others which had remained too high are falling.

More goods are moving as is shown by the increased number of freight cars loaded each week.

This promises better business for everyone, farmer, merchant and manufacturer.

PIGS

Mail carriers on our rural routes have been taking a census of pigs, to find out how many there are in America, and we believe every Plymouth citizen will be interested in the figures. Of course the two-legged kind will not be included. Uncle Sam believes they will find about 57,000,000 head of swine on the farms. Along with these are some 35,000,000 sheep, 19,000,000 horses, 5,100,000 mules, 24,000,000 milk cows and 41,000,000 other cattle. Civilization advances, but animals are still doing a valuable service for us. For that reason it is never out of place to treat them kindly, remembering that in relation to them from a financial standpoint many of us are not to be counted.

WHY IS IT?

Why do many railroad companies advertise in all of the towns through which the road runs? Why does the Ford automobile company advertise so extensively? Why does the Standard Oil company keep advertising its wares? Are not these lines of business well known to the public?

If the population of this country did not grow any older and the young people were not continually filling up the places left by their elders, then there would be no need in spending a cent for advertising things that are already widely known. But those with something to sell realize that they must meet the ever-changing and newer minds of the younger members of the country and create the impression among them also that has been created among their parents. There is no standing still in business, and the Plymouth man who hasn't yet realized this is on the wrong road to success. You are either advancing, or you are sliding backward; the current of the public mind is changing with the glide of time.

How many people can you carry your merchandising message to by word of mouth? How many people can you speak to through print with just one sheet of copy? The object of all advertising is to speak to as many people as possible at as little expense as possible. And it has been proven beyond all question that newspaper space is the best advertising medium in the world, when actual cost is considered.

SCHOOL NOTES

Marjorie Russell of the first grade is ill.

The fourth grade, Miss Hallahan's room, is learning a health play. Clyde Ferguson of the fourth grade, returned to school, Monday, after a week's illness.

The art exhibit of last Friday, as a whole, was just as good if not better than last year's. The first of the preliminary track meets will be held at Dearborn, Saturday. The schools to be represented are: Dearborn, Redford and Plymouth. There are to be either two or three of these before the Four Square League track meet on June 9. Winifred Draper and Alice Hathaway, both seventh graders, made posters for the Men's Glee Club concert on Monday evening.

All the work averaging a "B" or above done by the domestic art girls this year, was on exhibition in the domestic art room, Friday. The display was arranged by the art girls. The girls in the science department made and served punch to those attending the school exhibit.

The eighth graders went on a weenie roast, last Tuesday night to Moore's flats.

Two cars of Plymouth debate fans heard Allegan defeat Durand in the state championship debate at Ann Arbor, May 12th. The decision was 1 to 1.

Last week the physics class visited Hill's new refrigerator plant. The class is planning to study the x-ray. The Junior play, "Nothing but the Truth," was repeated Thursday night, May 18.

On Friday evening Mr. Graves of Highland Park High school, who personally directs and plans Washington trips for High schools in all sections of Michigan, addressed the members of the Junior class and their parents. He showed them the educational and historical value of such a trip, as well as the value to be gained from actually earning themselves the money for this trip.

The sixth grade are making herbariums and are planning their own cover designs.

METHODIST NOTES

The Ann Arbor district male quartet furnished music for the folks who attended the Thursday night gathering this week. Next week, Rev. Weldon F. Crossland, pastor of the Nineteenth Methodist church, Detroit, will speak. Mr. Crossland is one of the most popular young pastors of the city. You will want to hear him.

The Ladies' Aid society meets on Wednesday afternoons after school. Only a few more meetings before the summer vacation.

The 2-in-1 Missionary society has a hash supper, Friday night, this week at the church. There will be other delectables to make it worthwhile to be on hand at 6:00.

Mrs. Howard Musser of Detroit, will speak at the morning church service, next Sunday. This will be an opportunity to hear something worth-while for a change.

The following officers were installed as officers of the Epworth League at the anniversary service, last Sunday night: President, Kenneth Bartlett; first vice president, Eva Griffith; second vice president, Minnie Curtis; third vice president, Mary Parrott; fourth vice president, Perry Parrott; secretary, Floyd Huston; treasurer, Wilbur Hill.

Moving picture program, next Monday night, 7:15. Come. A good picture, a good place and good music. Coming a week from Monday night, the 29th, "A Maker of Men," a powerful photo-drama of present day and its possibilities of redemption, written by that fertile genius, Dr. James K. Shields. Keep this date open.

The Junior League young folks will furnish music for the service, Sunday night. Sermon topic, "Sterling Coin."

May 28th, the Hudson orchestra at the High school auditorium.

A sweeping verdict for QUALITY

Today's Reflections

When temptation shows a charming pair of ankles, man's only chance is to show a clean pair of heels.

We heard a Plymouth man say yesterday that his idea of hell is a place where speeders eternally eat the dust of cars they are not permitted to pass.

About the only creature in the world that has hindsight is the mule, and he kicks about it.

The early bird doesn't always get the worm. Sometimes the lawn mower beats him to it.

The Plymouth man who thinks talk is cheap never said "Darling, will you be mine."

Another drawback about being a bachelor is he doesn't have a wife he can blame things on.

The greatest thing about some Plymouth gardens is the men who make them actually grow to believe they know how to farm.

This being the season, we feel moved to say that love is like everything else in the shape of trouble. The more we think of it the worse it gets.

The promise of little change in the styles would indicate that nothing new will be pulled off this season.

Be friendly with every Plymouth citizen. If it wasn't for them, you would be a total stranger in this neighborhood.

FARM BUREAU PRODUCE EXCHANGE

The Farm Bureau Produce Exchange will start active selling by the first of June with Frank Bloom, formerly Michigan Distributing Manager for the American Fruit Growers, Inc., as its manager. This exchange will take care of all kinds of farm produce that members of the Farm Bureau desire to have sold upon the Eastern and Western markets. Many Farm Bureau members have already decided to sell their entire garden produce, eggs, poultry, veal and hogs through this association.

The Wayne County Farm Bureau at its executive board meeting, Saturday evening, joined this exchange, so that all members of the Farm Bureau in Wayne county, who desire to sell through the Farm Bureau Produce Exchange may do so by letting the Wayne County Farm Bureau, Dearborn, know of their desire. As fast as possible locals will be encouraged to join separately and a few have already shown sufficient interest to wish to do so in the near future.

LIKE BIT OF THE CATSKILLS

Archaeologists Find Traces of Aborigines in Caves Around Spuyten Duyvil Creek—First Comes Found Them Ready Formed by Nature—It Was There That Hendrick Hudson and His Sailors Gave Battle to the Indians, It Is Said.

Manhattan Island is unique in having at one end the densest populated spot on earth, and at the other, scarce fifteen miles away, a spot of entrancing wilderness, once the home of prehistoric cavemen. The tongue of land at the extreme upper end of Manhattan Island, formed by the Hudson river Spuyten Duyvil creek, called by the Indians "Shorapok," and hard by where Columbia university's new stadium is to be built, is as wild and picturesque as a bit in the heart of the Catskills, says the New York World.

Perhaps an Ancient Race. Anyway, the caves are there, and have been explored, and have yielded relics, and some archaeologists believe that the first Indians who inhabited them were of an old race, of a culture somewhat different from that of the Indians who were there in later years when the white men came. The Inwood ravine was doubtless then, as it is even now, an ideal place for an Indian village. There is the dry bed of a tiny brooklet running down its center. High up along the west wall are the fallen rocks which hide the caves. Near by is a fine spring, and in the forest are giant tulips, oaks, black birches, and in the tangled underwood grows the spicewood, or benzoin, used by the savages as tea.

The mystic ravine at Inwood, with its caves, has exerted its fascination upon Mr. Swenson to such an extent that he has collected some interesting data about it.

May Have Come From Yonkers. "It is difficult to obtain information about our predecessors on this island," said Mr. Swenson. "The first white settlers who had the opportunity to learn much about them left few descriptions. The Indians in this neighborhood seem to have had their headquarters at Yonkers, and come down here for fishing and other excursions. Many of them, no doubt, had permanent settlements on the island, not only at the northern end, but also way down where there were springs and wells. The island was rich in water courses. East of Inwood Hill the later Indians had tobacco fields. It is likely the Indians of the southern end of the island went to this more protected Inwood section in winter.

"The Manhattan Indians are referred to in the records as the Rethgawank, and their neighbors north of Spuyten Duyvil creek—or Papirimen, or perhaps Papiraminna, as it was called—were of the Weckquaskeck sub-tribe of the Mohican tribe, who belonged to the Wappalugor confederacy. Their chief village in Westchester county was at Dobbs Ferry. They had a fort called Nipinichsen on Spuyten Duyvil hill, the exact site of which has not been located. The Inwood hill section on Manhattan, called Shorapok, was an ideal location for a village, being near the Hudson river and a creek, with open water for fishing and close to the springing fountain later called Cold Spring. The meadows through which the creek wound southward so attracted the first white settlers that they almost decided to settle there instead of at the Battery. On top of Inwood, formerly called Cock Hill, was a fort some hundreds of years ago. Bolton road, once the Indian trail, leads now to its site.

Untouched by Civilization. "There are several caves, rock shelters and rock formations at the foot of the hill made by rocks falling from the cliffs above. There are also many small crevices at the foot of the cliffs. Three of the caves, which face east and lie close together, were explored several years ago by Mr. Chenoweth, at which time they were filled with earth which had worked its way in since they were occupied. Fallen rocks lay scattered about further north near the railway bridge.

"This strip of land is, I think, the most interesting place on the island. It is the only place left untouched by civilization. The caves make one wonder, with their 'look-me-over-as-long-as-you-like-and-you'll-never-guess-what's-under-the-surface' expression.

"There are also a number of shell-heaps marking the sites of camps. The road leading out to the caves has cut through one of them. There one can see large quantities of oyster and clam shells mixed with earth, ashes, charcoal and stones. Some of these heaps were examined about 1890 by W. L. Calver and James McGuey, and arrowheads, scrapers, fragments of pottery and other objects were found. I imagine a great many more relics will be found if this section eventually gives way to streets and apartment houses. If so, the Great Spirit will no doubt look humanely malign and cast an oblique light on the intruders.

"There is a big tulip tree near the shore below the caves. It has an iron fence around it, and bears the inscription: 'Liriodendron Tulipifera; circumference, 10 feet, height, 123 feet; age, about 231 years. Hendrick Hudson entered this inlet in 1609, and may have met the Indians here who used this place for a camp, as shown by the quantities of old broken oyster shells around this tree and nearby. This tree was thoroughly repurled and the fence erected around it Oct. 1912.'

Rich in Indian Relics. "The whole northern part of Manhattan is rich in Indian relics. All kinds of objects, and also graveyards and skeletons, have been found along Upper Broadway, formerly Kingsbridge road, and at Dyckman street, Academy street, Seneca avenue and other streets. The opinion of some archaeologists that the Indians who occupied the caves were of an older race and a culture somewhat different from the later known Algonquin Indian is now wholly supported by the remains found. Very probably these shelters and shell heaps are the remains of Indians who have lived here about the time Hendrick Hudson sailed by. The culture of these Indians was probably about as high as, for instance, the Iroquois group northwest of New York, or that of the Delaware Indians to the South.

"Incidentally, it was printed a few years ago that some Indians were allowed to camp on the south side of the Spuyten Duyvil creek as late as 1817. It was near Inwood, where he set foot on Manhattan Island, that Hendrick Hudson is said to have given battle to the Indians. I have read somewhere that after the battle was over the sailors laid their dead to rest here, perhaps in the open ground between the big tree and the cave. If so, the first possession of the white man upon the island was a grave. No wonder the place has a mystic look; that one imagines strange sounds coming from the caves in the stillness of the night; that a falling leaf after dark makes the wayfarer start and look around under shrub and tree shadow—for here lived the first 'cave men' of Manhattan, and it is such a lonesome, fantastic spot by moonlight that one can easily reconstruct the glowing fires at the mouths of the caves, dark canoeing at the river's lip, and the happy savage people listening to the story tellers about the hearths."

WOMAN CAPTURES WILDCAT

Animal Scratched Some, but She Was Victorious.

Mrs. Myra K. Peters, manager of the Sylvan Lake hotel, at Sylvan Lake S. D. was the heroine of an exciting incident recently.

During her stay at the lake this winter, Mrs. Peters made friends with a small wildcat, and it became so friendly that it would eat out of her hand and even sit in her lap while eating.

The wildcat would come every morning for its morning meal, and Mrs. Peters became quite attached to it and decided to keep it there and tame it. While she was feeding it in her lap one morning she threw a robe over it and put it in a safe place to keep it.

While doing so she was considerably scratched trying to hold it, but she now has the animal in captivity and is going to tame and raise it for a pet.

CROSSING UNITED STATES

Couple Drove Oxen From Connecticut on Long Trip.

The days of the "prairie schooner" were recalled by Brownstown, Ind., recently when a man and woman reached there driving three oxen.

They were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Beving, who were on their way from West Chester, Conn., to California. They have been on the road since December 1, 1920, and do not expect to reach their destination until the spring of 1922.

One yoke of oxen was hitched to a house-like wagon, fitted up with a gas heating and cooking outfit. The other ox was used to draw a smaller wagon on which was loaded a shelter tent, food, etc. The couple pay expenses by selling postcards of the outfit.

No War Tax

Effective May 8, 1922, the Excise Tax on United States Tires for passenger cars, both casings and tubes is absorbed by the makers and is not added to the selling price. United States Rubber Company.

To the Purchasers of a 30 x 3 1/2 Usco for $10.90

WHEN the "Usco" Tire announced its new price of $10.90 it carried this understand contract with the buyer—

A price reduction made in good faith—using all the U. S. advanced art of tire making not only to get the price down, but to keep the quality up.

Today $10.90 is not the uncommon price it was last November.

But the "Usco" Tire is still the uncommon tire value it always has been.

Because in carrying out the "Usco" price reduction in good faith, we learned something about raising the quality, too.

Greater and greater respect for the Usco at $10.90.

EPISCOPAL NOTES

Last Sunday was "Mothers' Day" at St. John's mission church, and there was a large congregation present at the morning service. There was a break in the ordinary service to give special thought and to speak a word about "Mother." Two of our young church school members, Wilbur Murphy and James Henry read essays on "Mother" and Mrs. Murphy spoke a few words on, "Mother, Early Reminiscences and the Early Influence of the Mother with Her Children." Franklin Gibson preached a very helpful sermon on "Prayer—Talking with God," taking his text from Matt 7:7-11. We were pleased to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Gibson, father and mother of our missionary in charge, who came out from Detroit last Sunday to visit their son's mission church in Plymouth.

Next Sunday morning the preacher will be the Rev. E. E. Piper, secretary of religious education in the diocese of Detroit. The Rev. Piper is a fine preacher, and we hope there will be a large congregation next Sunday morning to hear Mr. Piper.

The annual convention of the Episcopal church, this year, will take place at Jackson this week. All the parishes and missions in the diocese will be represented at this convention, which lasts for three days. Mrs. D. J. Murphy and Mrs. George Wilcox have been nominated by the vestry to represent the parish of St. John's, Plymouth.

Last Wednesday evening, Will Henry entertained the members of the Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrews and some of their friends down on the flats. The evening was warm and ideal for an evening picnic. Sides were formed and a lively game of base ball was indulged in. After which a lapse of about thirty years, Dr. Jennings proved himself quite young again, and showed himself quite capable of strong opposition—he made a "home run." The outing was enjoyed by all and Mr. Gibson caught the last car home to Detroit.

There is a possibility of a big two weeks' camp of the Junior Brotherhood being held on the flats this summer, and that the Plymouth chapter will invite some of the members from Detroit. If this is carried through, we know that the boys will have an ideal camping ground and spend a fine time.

The G. A. R. Post have asked us to join in with their memorial service to be held in the High school auditorium, a week from next Sunday, May 28th. This request was brought before the vestry last Sunday, who decided to join in with the G. A. R. at their memorial service. As this will necessitate giving up our morning service on that day, we will have our service in the evening.

We were glad to have Mrs. Hix with us, last Sunday. Mrs. Hix, who has been in the hospital and quite seriously ill, was able to join with us in our worship, and to return thanks to Almighty God for His goodness.

Next Thursday, the 25th, being Ascension Day, there will be a special service in the evening at 7:30. The preacher will be Mr. Martin F. Hausmann of the Detroit Y. M. C. A. Mr. Hausmann is not a stranger to Plymouth, as he was with us at the Fathers and Sons supper a few months ago. Everybody will be welcome to worship with us next Thursday and to hear Mr. Hausmann's address.

Fruits and Vegetables

With the coming of the summer it seems quite natural to think of fresh fruits and vegetables. We consciously buy them mostly for their flavor, but nature has been most generous with us in that she has "thrown in" something more valuable than flavor? What did we get for nothing?

In the first place we are buying minerals. By minerals we mean the lime required for the building of teeth and bones, as well as the amount required for the coagulation of the blood—a safety provision without which small wounds would result in death by bleeding. Then too, we need iron for the building of good blood. Furthermore it is better to get these minerals from vegetables and fruits rather than from medicines, as they are more easily utilized by the body. Not only do fruits and vegetables supply us with minerals, but they aid in the digestive processes by making the food more bulky. Also they are useful in giving us more water. We need a greater amount of water than most people are accustomed to drinking.

So far then we have found that these fruits and vegetables should be supplying our bodies with minerals, water and a certain amount of bulk, also another most important element called the vitamins, which will be treated in the following article. Have we really received the minerals or were they thrown down the sink? The vegetable water contains most of the minerals and for that reason should be served with the vegetable. Again we find that the mineral matter is often found in one part more than in another. In the potatoes, for instance, there is much of it in the layer next to the skin. This is why potatoes ought to be pared as thinly as possible, or if baked the skin should also be eaten. In order to receive our quota of minerals each day, it is necessary to serve one other vegetable besides potatoes, preferably of the green leaf variety such as spinach, dandelion, lettuce, celery, beet tops, raw cabbage, brussels sprouts, etc. When these are not available there still remain onions, carrots, turnips etc., and the vegetables canned during the summer.

The same holds true of fruits. If it is impossible to buy fresh fruits during the entire year, there still remain the canned and dried fruits, which are easily obtained. However, as will be explained in the following article, it is safer to have one fresh fruit or green vegetable to alternate with canned or dried foods.

LOCAL BOYS TO COMPETE FOR A FREE FAIR TRIP

STATE FAIR MANAGEMENT ANNOUNCES BOYS' PROGRAM THIS YEAR WILL BE MORE EXTENSIVE

County School Commissioner E. W. Yost has received information from G. W. Dickman, secretary manager, that the Michigan State fair, which will be held September 1 to 10, will conduct its annual boys' state fair school upon a larger basis than ever before.

In every county of the state, competitive examinations will be held, and the boys who show the greatest proficiency in agricultural conduct, will be given a trip to the fair at Detroit at the expense of the Fair association.

At the fair they will be given instruction by the state's foremost agricultural experts on the best and most modern methods of agriculture. The Michigan State Fair has conducted this school for years as a contribution toward agricultural education. Expenses of the boys from the most distant counties of the state have been large, but have been cheerfully met.

The rules under which the free trip may be won are in part as follows:

Boys must be between the ages of 14 and 18 years; effective date, September 1, 1922.

They must write both in the regular eighth grade examination, and the special fair's examination.

The winner will be selected by the county school commissioner, board of examiners or a special committee. An alternate will also be selected.

Every effort is being made to have the fair examination questions entirely practical. It will go into the actual problems of the farm from every angle. Theoretical and practical phases will be jointly studied. A boy who can successfully answer the questions, it is said must show a pretty thorough knowledge of all phases of farm life.

At the fair, the management will see that the boys have a good time as well as instruction in agriculture.

It has been our observation that the man who falls in love with himself never has any rivals.

In Georgia the wind picked up a load of corn and carried it to town. We suppose that is what is called a trade wind.

Night shirts are still in style in Plymouth, but we doubt if you can find a man who drinks out of a moustache cup.

The young man of the present day should approve of the higher education for women, as it increases the chance that his wife may be able to support him.

RUNS MOVIE IN BARN TO KEEP FARM HANDS

John Armstrong Chaloner Prompted to Make His Scheme Country-wide.

John Armstrong Chaloner of New York and Cobhan, Va., author of the laconic inquiry, "Who's looney now?" has just left Atlanta to continue what he calls "his broad whirl" of the United States. Mr. Chaloner is now and has been for some months carrying out his plan to keep country boys away from the cities. He proposes to prevent depopulation of the farms by placing moving pictures in rural communities—preferably in the public schools—to check the movement to the cities by means of recreations that the farm lacks; to extend visual instruction in the schools, turn them into community centers, thus vastly increasing their service.
Mr. Chaloner said the superintendents of education of seven of the eleven states he had visited highly approved of his project. In December, 1920, he conceived the plan after his own farm hands and dairymen had been lured away by the amusements afforded by the neighboring towns. He had conducted a large dairy business on his 400-acre estate, known as "The Merry Mills," two miles from Cobhan, Va. His business had extended to Richmond, 100 miles away. Then suddenly he found himself possessed of an up-to-date dairy plant with no help to run it.
He decided to compete with the attractions of the towns by converting a large barn into a moving picture theater. He installed the necessary equipment and seats to accommodate 300 people. No admission was charged and his theater was always crowded. He prevailed upon to keep the theater open through the summer and was even asked to charge an admission fee to support it. He reluctantly charged 5 cents admission for children and 10 cents for adults, and during May, June and July the theater took in $1,000, although the shows were given only twice a week.
He declares no other attraction can keep his hands away from the farm now.

MONUMENT UNVEILED AT ARRAS TO NINTH SCOTTISH
In the presence of a large number of visitors a monument was unveiled to the memory of the officers and men of the Ninth Scottish division at Arras. The ceremonies were attended by Maj. Gen. William Furse, who commanded the division in 1915-16; General Tudor, who commanded the division in 1918; General Hugenot and General Girault of the French army, and M. Leroy, the mayor of Arras. Photo shows the monument, which is of roughly hewn stone and bearing various inscriptions.

MAURY WAS FIRST NAVAL SCIENTIST

Pioneer in Work of Charting Ocean for Navigators.

SOUTH PLANNED MEMORIAL

Incappeditated for Active Sea Duty, Maury Devoted His Time to Study of Winds and Currents and Published a Treatise on Navigation Which Became a Textbook of the Navy—His Knowledge Covered Geography of World and All Naval Lore.

The news that the South is planning a memorial to Matthew Fontaine Maury may give rise to the question on many lips, "Who is Maury?" "We honor the railroad builders who tracked the wilderness for our easy travel; we take the oceans for granted. An observation car passenger, conscious of bridges, tunnels, cuts and fills realizes that the civil engineer preceded the one in the cab. But many a trans-Atlantic traveler considers that Columbus found the way—and that's that," remarks a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"In point of fact the observation of fogs and iceberg limits and rain areas, and soundings for temperature constitute a preliminary work without which the safe and swift ocean travel of today would be impossible. The pioneer in this work was Matthew Fontaine Maury, whose name is as familiar to the navigator as it is that of Darwin to the naturalist. In the early annals of the American navy he is linked with Charles Wilkes and Matthew Calbraith Perry."

Who Surveyed the Ocean?
The bulletin then quotes from a comment on Josephus Daniels which relates the fascinating narrative of Maury's career as follows: "Maury early heard the call to the sea. His elder brother had lost his life in the naval service, and his father opposed Maury's ambition to follow the profession that had robbed him of his first-born, even though the appointment came from Sam Houston, then congressman from Tennessee. What romantic history hangs around the association of Houston and Maury—fighters both and American pioneers and statesmen, too!"

"The consuming passion, which made him always follow the path of duty, did not permit even parental objection to dissuade Maury from the high calling in which he was to win eminence."
No Naval Academy Then.
"There was no naval academy when Maury entered the navy. He had seen so prominent in mathematics in the country school in Tennessee that he was called upon by his teacher to instruct the younger boys, and on shipboard he continued the methodical study which made him the first scholar and scientist in the navy."

"Laying broad foundations, it was not until his voyage around Cape Horn, when he sought in vain for reliable information as to the winds and currents to be encountered and the best paths for the vessel to follow, that this need determined the particular study to which he would devote himself. When but twenty-eight years old he published his treatise on navigation. It attracted favorable attention in this country and abroad and became the textbook of the navy."

"Incappeditated for active service by a broken leg, his ambition for command about had to be abandoned, though while on crutches he applied for sea service, which was denied him. Writing to a friend at this time, he said: 'I'll content myself with cultivating a few little patches of knowledge.'

"His patches of knowledge grew until they almost covered the geography of the world and all naval lore, as the waters cover the sea. In his famous 'Scrapes From a Lucky Bag,' he advocated the adoption of steam as a motive power and predicted a new era in naval warfare of big guns. Did he dream of a gun that could shoot a hundred miles?"

Urged Naval School.
"He advocated a naval school for midshipmen, that they might be instructed in the higher duties of their profession; and urged the use of regular textbooks. His new ideas fairly startled old sea dogs, who basked in the glories of tradition."

"In 1814, he read to a distinguished audience in Washington, composed of the President and senators and congressmen, a paper, 'The Gulf Stream and Its Causes,' and later a paper on the connection of terrestrial magnetism with the circulation of the atmosphere."

"Merely to state the varied achievements of this master naval scientist attests his many-sided service. In addition to his purely maritime discoveries and accomplishments, Senator Vest declared 'the whole signal-service system of this country originated with the navy, and the man in whose brain it first had existence was M. F. Maury.' His system of weather reports has been extended so that on land as well as on sea he was a benefactor, whose ideas have not only made for safety in navigation, but have been of incalculable value to agriculture."

POSSIBLE TO TRAVEL BY MOTORS IN ALASKA

Good Roads Will Be Available This Summer Where There Has Been None Before.

Automobile travel in Alaska, an impossibility to any extent in the past, will this summer be a popular tourist attraction because of completed highways.

The road from Valdez, at tidewater, to Fairbanks is 370 miles long, government owned and kept in perfect condition by constant working. The scenic attractions along this highway cannot be surpassed in the states because of their "newness" and the wildness of the surrounding regions.

Over mountains that tower thousands of feet above the motorist, through weather-worn canyons housing roaring streams of glacial water and into dense forests which prove a welcome relief from the hot rays of the long day's sun, the most northerly improved boulevard winds its crooked way.

At intervals along the route the tourist comes upon a typical Alaska roadhouse, the cabin of Robert Service and those of other writers of 1898. The rough and ready loghouse shelter has not yet disappeared from the interior, and at these stopping places the travelers will find atmosphere gauges.

Big touring cars may be hired for the entire trip and return, or sightseers may slip their own cars from Seattle to Valdez by steamer. Arrangements have been completed so that practically every Alaska steamer carries automobiles to and from the north.

Many side trips can be made by automobile from the main artery of travel on good roads which are being rapidly widened and improved.

CLAIMS DISCOVERY OF SECRET OF LONG LIFE

Germain, a French alchemist, claims his recently discovered "elixir de longue vie" is the secret of retaining life. The hellorine he has concocted, he also says, can cure cancer, tuberculosis, paralysis, bring life to dead trees, and other such almost unbelievable and interesting experiments have been arrived at. M. Germain claims that when mixing hellorine with selenium and other different chemicals he can isolate the gold which is contained in some kind of sand found in the African deserts. M. Germain was photographed in his laboratories in Paris, where he is engaged in his numerous experiments that have attracted so much attention.

SLEEPLESS FOR 44 YEARS

William Warner, South Egremont Hermit, Dies at Eighty-Two.
William Warner, eighty-two years old, a bachelor, and a Civil war veteran, who always declared he had not slept in 44 years, died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Houghtaling in South Egremont, Mass.

For years he had lived a hermit's life in New Marlborough, his birthplace, and because of his intimate knowledge of the fauna and flora of the region he was known to thousands of South Berkshire summer residents as "Bill Warner, naturalist."

In 1877 he met with an accident that destroyed sleep. He rested in a rocker at night, but said he never lost consciousness. Two years ago his sight failed.

PART FISH, PART LIZARD

Zoologists Making Attempt to Classify a Freak That Was Found.
Zoologists are trying to classify a peculiar form of animal life found by Edward Briggs in the Niagara river at Niagara Falls, N. Y. The freak is 12 inches long.
The forepart of the body resembles a lizard, while the hindpart looks like a fish.
The creature is of a spotted brown color and has a smooth skin and no scales. It has four legs, the feet being formed like human hands, but with only four fingers.
The ears have four lobes with a tuft of hair on each lobe. The freak is alive.

DEER THEIR VICTIMS Soft Snow Makes Them Easy Prey of Wildcats. Wildcats wrought havoc with the deer in the Maple woods this winter, according to "Big John" Mitchell, chief fire warden of Penobscot county. Evidence of wholesale slaughter by the bolobents were found, Mitchell said.

Deep snow, softened but not melted by the spring sun, has sealed the doom of hundreds of deer, according to Mitchell. In trying to escape from the cuts the deer break through the snow and founder helplessly, while their pursuers, of lighter build, can travel on the crust and overtake their quarry.

IT RAINS FROGS AND LIZARDS At Least That's Evidence Supplied by Hencheytown, Pa. Frogs and lizards are making a sudden advent by the thousands at Hencheytown, near Altoona, Pa. After every shower there are more of them. W. H. Laird says dead frogs are particularly in evidence along the state road, many of them being killed at night by automobiles.

The "frog showers," which occur at intervals of about a week, are followed up by tuning up of the frog orchestra in ponds and streams. They are regularly followed the next night by "showers" of red lizards.

FRANCISCO VILLA STILL IS PICTURESQUE FIGURE

Though He Has Retired as Bandit He Goes to Chihuahua With a Guard. Francisco Villa, the erstwhile bandit and revolutionary leader, is not taking any chances these days. Although he retired about two years ago to the peaceful life of a planter under amnesty granted by the government and with a donation of 200,000 acres of rich land in return for his pledge that he would hereafter keep the peace, he continues to be the most spectacular figure in Mexican life today.

This fact was demonstrated during his recent visit to Chihuahua—the first that he has made since he quit the exciting game of riding up and down the country, killing and looting to his heart's content. No lord or prince of medieval times ever was accompanied by a more impressive entourage than that which escorted Villa to Chihuahua from his lauded estate at Canutillo.

With a bodyguard of fifty-three picked men, all heavily armed, Villa left the plantation and rode horseback to Parral. They there took the train and came to Chihuahua. They travelled by special train and brought their horses with them. It was an imposing column, not without its awesome aspects, that entered through the streets of the city. Ahead, behind and alongside of Villa rode his escort. It was a reminder to the local people of the days when the daring bandit leader with his noble army was wont to mid the town. Everywhere Villa went he was closely guarded. All the members of his bodyguard were nicked men. Most of them had seen long and active service under him during the revolutionary period.

During the few days that Villa remained here he visited friends, conferred with Gen. Martinez and transacted private business. Every man in his escort was under strict military discipline at his hands. No drinking was allowed and a strict observance of law and order was required of them wherever they went. At the end of his visit Villa went back to Canutillo.

Manna from Heaven REACHES WASHINGTON

Walter N. Pearce of the Near East division of the department of commerce, eating a sample of Turkish manna, supposedly the same substance upon which the children of Israel lived in the wilderness. This sample, the product of the skies, was received from Consul Owen of Bagdad. The manna falls like dew during the months of September, October and November, and is gathered by shaking it from the trees.

LITTLE ONES TRAVEL ALONE Two Make a Long Journey Without Any Guardian. Jimmy and Fern Patterson of Altoona, Kan., aged six and seven years respectively, who left unaccompanied a few nights ago to join their father, William Patterson, in Delatuna, Cal., have reached him safely. The children attracted much attention on the train. Passengers looked after them carefully.

In Denver the youngsters were given a great reception by the ladies of that city, who flocked to the Union station by the hundreds to see them. In a strong manila envelope on Fern's dress were two railroad tickets and quite a sum of money in bills, but no letter of instructions. Each railroad division manager wired ahead to the next division that the children were coming and to look after them carefully.

Their mother has long been confined to a hospital in Kansas City, and lately they have made their home with an aunt at Altoona. Neither had ever been on a train before boarding one at this place.

Freed After 22-Minute Murder Trial. After a trial lasting only 22 minutes, Barney Ramsey, sixteen years old, of Anderson, S. C., was acquitted of murdering J. Tam Hays. Ramsey shot and killed Hays when five men attacked his father, testimony showed. Ramsey's father died as a result of the attack.

BAPTIST NOTES

Mothers' day found the church decorated with many flowers, besides the flowers on the coats and dresses, the emblem of Mothers' Day. The service opened by singing, "My Mother's Bible." Fletcher Campbell recited one of the Psalms of David, instead of the scripture reading. The choir gave two very fine selections. Frank Hamill read in a very touching way, "My Mother"—a prayer by Thomas Dillon of Seattle, Washington. Mrs. Sayles read, "Mothers' Day," by Margaret Sangster. The pastor spoke from Matt. 12:48—"Who is My Mother?"

The Sunday-school opened in the usual manner, and little Miss Doris Hamill recited two selections for the school, which were much appreciated by everyone. The Sunday-school secretary gave the year's report speaking of the number of times each teacher had been present and absent, and also the number present in each class during the year—Miss Mary Smith, secretary. The amount of money received during the year from birthday offerings was $17.00, and all has been used to purchase flowers for those who were sick or in sorrow.

Mrs. Collins had charge of this fund most of the time. Mrs. Ward, the Sunday-school treasurer, reports all bills paid up to date, and a good amount in the treasury. Everyone appreciates the earnest work of our superintendent and his faithfulness for this year. The officers elected are as follows:

Supt.—Rollin Allenbaugh Assistant Supt.—Joseph Stanley. Secretary—Miss May Smith. Assistant Secretary—Chas. Duryee. Treasurer—Duane Sayles. Pianist—Miss Fannie Grainger. Chorister—Harry Sayles. Assistant Chorister—Frank Hamill. Treasurer of Flower Fund—Mrs. Cynthia Allen. Assistant Treas.—Mrs. Archie Collins.

Entertainment Committee—Mrs. Grainger, Mrs. Sayles, Miss Smith. Decoration Committee—Mrs. Daly and Mr. and Mrs. George Wilke. Supts. of Primary Dept.—Mrs. Daly and Mrs. Estep.

The pastor took charge of the B. Y. P. U., and they discussed, "What has the church done for me, and what have I done for the church." Next Sunday evening the topic is, "What my B. Y. P. U. does for me." Miss Louva Roland as leader. Let each member be ready to say what the society has done for them.

Duane and Alton, Sayles, Henry Holcomb and Al. Segar returned from the B. Y. P. U. convention, last Sunday night, and they report a glorious time with about 500 young people in attendance. Jackson was full of young people on Sunday last. The boys give their report next Sunday. Hear it.

PLANTING TREES ALONG COUN- TY HIGHWAYS.

As a further step in its campaign to remedy the treeless condition of Wayne county's highways, the Wayne County Road Commission on Arbor Day planted on the Seven-mile road, 2,200 trees of different varieties, including 800 American elms, 950 Norway maples, 125 Oriental pines, 125 red oaks, 100 pin oaks, 50 paper birches and 50 mountain ash trees.

Until the special session of the legislature last year, when a law was passed making it possible to plant trees along public highways, nothing had been done with the exception of two miles of roadway, west of Mack road on the Seven-mile road, along which trees have been planted by the Women's Garden club of Michigan. The Seven-mile road is now properly planted from Lake St. Clair to two miles west of the Grand River road.

The commission has placed the trees of its latest planting far enough apart to permit individual development, with each tree a typical example of its species, at the same time making a continuous line of shade. The work will be carried on in the near future along the Seven-mile road to the Washtenaw county line. A survey of the entire county is being made to provide a definite systematic, continuing plan of tree planting.—Detroit News.

Whooping Cough

This is a very dangerous disease, particularly to children under five years of age, but when no paregoric, codeine or other opiate is given, is easily cured by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Most people believe that it must run its course, not knowing that the time is very much shortened, and that there is little danger from the disease when this remedy is given. It has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, with pronounced success. It is safe and pleasant to take.—Advertisement.

M. A. C. COMPLETES SIXTY-FIFTH YEAR

PRESIDENT FRIDAY DELIVERS
RADIO MESSAGE TO ALUMNI
IN RECOGNITION OF ANNI-VERSARY.

The Michigan Agricultural College celebrated its sixty-fifth birthday on Saturday, May 13, when alumni, students and faculty gathered on the college campus in recognition of M. A. C. Founders' Day.

Sectional alumni clubs of the college held simultaneous meetings all over the country, in honor of the anniversary.

President David Friday, new executive of the state school, delivered his first official message to M. A. C. alumni during the Founders' Day program. This talk was broadcasted by radio from the college station, in order that all alumni clubs could hear the speech at first hand.

Policies which will govern the management of the college during coming years were outlined by President Friday, who told of new buildings to be erected on the campus, of courses of study which are to be revised and pushed, and of investigational work to be carried on.

"We are to start construction soon on new Home Economics and Library buildings," said Friday. "The new legislature will be asked for funds for the erection of a new Horticultural building, including cold storage and commercial greenhouse facilities.

"The engineering department, beginning next fall, will offer a new course in engineering administration. Work in horticulture and economics will be reorganized and expanded, in order to make M. A. C. a leader in these fields. Plans are under way for the establishment of graduate work in agriculture and science, to utilize the excellent facilities of the college for this work.

"In short, we hope, with the support of the alumni and friends of the college, to maintain the institution in the foremost ranks of American education."

AROUND ABOUT US

Northville will have a ball game and a race matinee on July 4th.

The annual Detroit-Milford picnic will take place at Belle Isle, June 22.

The Oakland Council of the American Legion are laying plans for a Fourth of July celebration to be staged at the fair grounds in Milford.

The children's unit of the Detroit Municipal Tuberculosis Sanatorium, near Northville, is now open and fifty-six children are now being cared for at the new institution.

Holly has a $30,000 community house project under consideration, through the offer of a former resident to contribute $5,000, if the citizens will raise the $25,000.

It is expected that the work of putting gravel on the Northville-Norway Farmington highway will soon be under way. This will be good news to Plymouth folks who travel this road.

W. A. Ellsworth, for the past four years director of athletics and teacher in the Wayne High school has accepted a similar position with the Lake Orion high school and will take up his new duties next fall.

By a vote of 273 to 20 Dearborn voted recently a bond issue of $55,000 to pay part of the cash of a proposed viaduct under the Michigan Central tracks at Porter street. The balance will be paid by the State and County. It will open a new highway to Detroit.

W. E. Scotten has developed a very fine spring of water on his home grounds and to care for the surplus water, he is constructing an artificial lake, which will add greatly to the attractiveness of the grounds of Grandview when completed.—Northville Record.

The Fred Goers farm; just this side of Farmington Junction and on the south side of Grand River avenue, has been purchased by Detroit parties, who are organizing a cemetery association to be named the Garden-Brak cemetery. The immediate frontage along the avenue is rolling and broken by the River Rouge, and will be made into a park while the cemetery proper will be on the high land to the south.—Redford Record.

PLYMOUTH, MICHIGAN, HOL- STEIN PRODUCES OVER TWEN- TY-SIX POUNDS OF BUTTER IN SEVEN DAYS.

W. H. Wernett & Son of Plymouth, Michigan, are mentioned in the official bulletin of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, published bi-weekly by Malcolm H. Gardner of Delavan, Wisconsin, which reports the milk and butter production of cows under official supervision.

This cow, Stoneacres Lunde Pontiac Canary, is reported as having produced at the age of four years and one month, a record of 640 lbs. of milk and 21,207 lbs. of butter fat, in seven days, equivalent to 26.5 lbs. of butter.

The champion Holstein for the state of Michigan in the Junior four-year-old class for seven days' production is Wandermere Belle Hengerveld, whose record of 577.8 lbs. of milk and 34,120 lbs. of butter fat, equivalent to 42.6 lbs. of butter, surpasses all others, according to the records of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America. This record production was made at the E. LeRoy Pelletier Farm, at Pontiac, Mich.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet next Thursday, May 25th, at 2:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. E. C. Vealey, Ann Arbor street. A mothers' meeting will be conducted by Mrs. O. P. Showers, and it is hoped there will be a good attendance. The new year books will be given out at this time.

The treasurer, Mrs. E. C. Vealey, earnestly requests that members will, if possible, pay their dues before the 23rd of the month, as the state dues must be paid then, and there are still many of the members whose local dues have not yet been paid.

A decrease in the number of alcoholic patients taken to the receiving hospital in Detroit to one-fifth of the number prior to prohibition, is a most encouraging result of the Eighteenth Amendment, according to a statement made by Edwin M. Mulock, chief probation officer of the recorder's court, at a meeting of the Social Workers' club held at the Industrial Women's Service Center in Detroit, recently, says the Pontiac (Mich.) Press.

"The most hopeful outlook was presented by Judge Hulbert, long experienced in juvenile court work, who stated that the number of juvenile delinquents in court is gradually but steadily decreasing." The judge considers the elimination of the liquor traffic in connection with dance halls and cafes, where formerly young girls from thirteen years up became liquor addicts, one of the factors that has been instrumental in bringing about this improved condition.—Union Signal, May 4th.

Do You Know Why?

The grain in the siding and finish of some houses stands out, while it doesn't in that of others.

Why some hardwood flooring "cups" after a little wear;

Why some windows rattle after a little while and let in cold drafts; Why some roofs always seem to have a new leak;

Why some houses seem to deteriorate much quicker than others.

MODEL SCHOOL AT FORT RILEY

Cavalrymen Now Given Advanced Courses by Specialists.

BECOME EXPERTS ON HORSES

Students Are Drawn From Three Branches of the Army, Says Captain Gregory—Soldiers Trained to Be Bakers, Cooks and Horseshoers—Men Showing Aptitude Along Certain Lines Are Given Training at Special Schools.

Fort Riley, Kansas, the home of the cavalry school, is our most centrally located military reservation, says Capt. Hugh McNeil Gregory, writing in the United States Army Recruiting News. According to engineers, the center of the United States lies on one of the promontories above the buildings of the post. The climate of central Kansas is as average as could be found in America. Here are all the forms of terrain a soldier could hope to meet.

Captain Gregory says that years ago forward-looking officers of the cavalry and artillery obtained the foundation of the mounted service school. This was located at Fort Riley, and concerned itself mainly with that important subject—the army horse, his feeding and care, and how to ride him. With the war came the realization that the school was not teaching all that might be desired. The artillerymen, says Captain Gregory, asked why they should learn to ride at one school and how to shoot at another. The artilleryman decided there was more that he might profitably devote his time to. As a result we now have at Fort Riley the cavalry school, with the same high ideals of the mounted service school as to the horse and with other departments for rounding out the cavalryman's knowledge of his profession.

School for Specialists. Besides the school for officers, there are at Fort Riley a number of schools for enlisted specialists. The army is not so keen now as it once was on giving men an education and trade that will encourage them to leave the service, says Captain Gregory, but it is just as earnest as ever about making them into good, intelligent soldiers. Every outfit must have some men of special qualifications for important positions. Men showing aptitude along these lines are given training at such schools as that for bakers and cooks, where ordinary soldiers are developed into excellent bakers or first-class cooks. Another school fits men to be horseshoers. Soldiers who have learned a little in the troop shoeing shop are sent here to be given expert instruction.

There is also a course for stable sergeants. Men taking this course are given some instruction in shoeing and some in veterinary medicine. They study the horse, his anatomy and physiology, his feeding, his ill and his care. A graduated stable sergeant, if he has applied himself, has the knowledge necessary to make him a first-class stable boss.

At such a post as this a good-sized garrison is required. The troops at Fort Riley have a threefold mission. Besides keeping themselves in readiness for any unlooked-for emergency and doing all that ordinarily falls within the measure of garrison duty, the organizations at Fort Riley play a definite part in the instruction of the student members of the school. They give demonstrations in all the details of a soldier's work.

Pass on Their Knowledge. The personnel of the cavalry school proper is divided into the instruction group and the student body, each of which plays a vital part in our performance, says Captain Gregory. The instructors, drawn from the whole service, are men who have distinguished themselves in practice along at least one important line. Officers who have themselves been students at this and other army schools are here to pass on their knowledge to the rest of the cavalry service. Each year a few students, those showing the best work in the various lines, are retained for a term as assistant instructors. Continuing Captain Gregory says:

"For the different officers making up our student body the work is organized in four courses. For the National Guard and reserve officers a short course has been arranged, giving them a start in the more important phases of military instruction and paying particular attention to the possibilities of their duty in civil disturbances. The officer who is starting his career as a cavalryman finds a basic course mapped out for him. Instead of reporting direct to his regiment with little or no experience, he goes after a year at the cavalry school, well prepared to accept and fulfill the duties of a junior officer with a regiment.

"The officer who has served his day as a subaltern and probably commanded a troop comes back to Fort Riley for the troop officers' course. Here he perfects his horsemanship, deepens his knowledge of tactics, further prepares himself for the command of troops, and looks forward to duty as a field officer. For the field officer there is a 'refresher course' of five months. Only about one-tenth of the field officers of the cavalry can serve with regiments and the others must do staff duty. R. O. T. C. duty or details with other arms."

PARENTS PUT A LOG CHAIN ON BOY'S NECK

Father and Mother of Young Merklinger Say They Wanted to Keep Him Home.

Following a campaign designed to encourage parents and others to look more closely after children and prevent them becoming wayward, the question is asked, "Are parents justified in fastening a log chain around their little son's neck in an effort to keep him at home?"

The authorities of Aberdeen, S. D., have been called upon to investigate such a case, and the affair has caused something of a sensation in the northern part of South Dakota. The victim of the alleged cruelty on the part of his father was Cecil Merklinger, the fourteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Merklinger.

The boy was found with a twenty-pound log chain fastened about his neck. The chain was about seventeen feet long. The boy's neck was red and scarred from the rusty chain, which he had carried for several days. The boy is said to have been kept in an attic of the Merklinger home.

A neighbor boy—Harold Melgaard—coaxed the Merklinger lad to leave his home and join him in the rear. When he discovered that his comrade had the log chain about his neck the Melgaard boy procured a hammer and chisel and attempted to cut the chain loose from his little friend.

Falling in this, the Melgaard boy summoned his father, who, upon learning of the case, reported the matter to the police. Reese Price, assistant chief of police, went to the scene. With a pair of steel shears he cut the links of the chain and freed the boy. There are five other minor children in the Merklinger family. The parents did not think that by placing the chain about the boy's neck they had adopted severe measures to keep him at home.

MOST 'LOFTY' AND 'EXALTED' MUSICIAN IN THE WORLD

H. S. King, is considered the most "lofty" and most "exalted" player in the world. He is china master at the campanile, 302 feet high at the University of California, Berkeley, and makes the trip to the top to play bell solos three times a day. Mr. King taught literature and languages at the university.

OLD INDIAN CANOE FOUND

Supposed to Have Been Used by Them in Traveling.

The muskrat hunters this season, who are hunting in every nook and corner for rats, have discovered an old canoe for years, been known as the "Columbus Bed," near Shawtope, Ind., a real Indian canoe, roughly dug out and part of it in a fair state of preservation.

About one-half of the canoe is deeply imbedded in the mud, and from what is to be seen of it the length is estimated to be about 18 feet.

This bed of hard bottom was the landing place of the Indians, it being directly opposite the "Wading Place," where the Indians crossed the Nanticoke in their travels from the Chop tank to Mardela Springs.

It was here that three roughly-hewn, bathtubs were found after the Nanticoke Indians left this section. The tubs were here in a state of preservation for many years.

Japanese to Observe Sunday.

Japanese observance of the Sabbath as a day of rest is assured in Tokyo newspapers, which announce imperial recognition of the purpose of the day. The government has for many years partly observed Sunday. The complete recognition is considered the result of the work of Christian missionaries.

Children Pay $46,000 for "Movies."

A total of $46,000 a year for moving pictures is spent by high school students of Chicago, according to statistics from questionnaire sent through six of the high schools. Eighty-seven per cent of the 3,000 boys and girls go to the "movies" from one to three times a week and spend $920 in admissions.

 Last Saturday afternoon, May 13, Frances, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edge T. Cope, pleasantly entertained a company of playmates in honor of her eleventh birthday. A delicious supper was served, covers being laid for eleven. One of the games of the afternoon was a shooting contest, in which Winifred Draper carried off the honors. Although it was her first experience in marksmanship, she broke three bottles placed on the fence at a distance of 200 feet.
 Mrs. Melburn Partridge and Mrs. J. R. Rauch went to Detroit, last Friday, where they were guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Ephraim Partridge, and as her guests attended a "mother and daughter banquet," given in the Methodist church, situated at the corner of McGraw and Grand River avenues, of which Rev. Walter A. Fruit is pastor. Covers were laid for 362 guests, and the tables were attractively decorated. A fine program was also rendered. One of the guests, a mother of nine daughters, was given honorable mention. Both ladies report a delightful evening.

TEMPER IS A BAD BOSS
 Even prizefighters have to learn to control their tempers before they can hope to win.

If you have ever seen an angry child strike blindly at another you will understand how your own mind operates.

Generals who win battles never get angry. They know that anger prevents intelligent planning and intelligent action.

Suppose a subordinate makes a stupid mistake. Getting into a temper and abusing him will not help him any, and it will put you off your work.

An angry man can never do anything worth while. His brain is so filled with the vapors of his wrath that it is impossible to think clearly.

Temper is the worst possible master. It has kept many naturally bright and capable men from success. If it is in control in your mental shop, get rid of it. You will never amount to anything until you do.—John Blake in Chicago Daily News.

A CIRCLE FOR PLYMOUTH

Miss Amy L. Ridgely, field secretary, is here to interest the mothers of Plymouth in the work of a league, which has for its object helping parents train their children physically, morally and intellectually, laying special emphasis on training for social purity. It provides for their welfare by means of systematic educational and advisory work in the acquirement of definite knowledge and broader culture relating especially to childhood and its needs.

The Child Conservation League is a national organization, incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia, and by co-operation with organized womanhood, the league seeks to do those practical things through enforcement of laws designed to better the condition of men.

The president of the league is Dr. Winfield Scott Hall, the eminent authority on sex hygiene and social purity. On its advisory board are many famous men and women, among whom are Judge Ben Lindsey, President G. Stanley Hall, Luther Burbank, Edwin Markham, poet and social reformer, Prof. O'Shea of the University of Wisconsin; Mrs. May Wright Sewall, lecturer and publicist, and Prof. Zueblin, also publicist and lecturer.

Much interest is being shown by the ladies of Plymouth in this good work, and it is hoped that a splendid circle of the league may be organized here. The field secretary will call upon the mothers and answer any questions.

C. OF C. TWILIGHT BASE BALL

The Chamber of Commerce twilight series of base ball games, started in full swing, Monday and Tuesday evenings, and both games were attended by large crowds.

Monday evening, Wood's Indians met Shattuck's Farmers, and defeated the latter by a score of 17 to 13.

The following night, Rathbun's Braves lined up against Rambo's All-Stars, and took the game by the decisive score of 22 to 8. Both games were no hit games, and should the reader believe this impossible, let them witness the two coming games, Monday between the Indians and Braves, and Tuesday between the Farmers and All-Stars. Games called at 6:30 p. m.

Team	W.	L.	Pct
Braves	1	0	1000
Indians	1	0	1000
All Stars	0	1	0000

Mr. Zeitsch of Chicago, has been visiting his brother, George Zeitsch and family, on Roe street, this week.

Mrs. Lawrence Lyon of Detroit, spent Mothers' Day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Peck, at Buena Vista Farms.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Fisher pleasantly entertained the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Tiffin, and family of Northville, at a six o'clock dinner at their home here, last Wednesday evening, the occasion being Mrs. Tiffin's birthday.

The Plymouth Delphians will meet at the home of Mrs. Martin Stringer on Main street, next Wednesday afternoon. A fine program has been prepared. This will be the last meeting of the year, and all members are urged to be present.

Mrs. Musser, who with her husband, Rev. Howard A. Musser of Detroit, spent ten years in India, will speak in the Methodist church of this place, next Sunday morning at ten o'clock. Mrs. Musser is a talented woman and able speaker, and she will bring a message very much worthwhile.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dennis, Jr., were called to Detroit, this week, on account of the death of the former's mother, Mrs. Frederick Dennis, Sr., who died at Grace hospital, Sunday, May 14th. The funeral was held from her late residence, No. 1371 Glynn Court, Wednesday afternoon. Burial in Woodlawn cemetery. Plymouth friends extend sympathy.

A very fine concert was given in the High school auditorium, last Monday evening, by the Normal Glee Club of Ypsilanti. The concert was under the direction of Frederick Alexander, and every number was exceedingly well rendered. The attendance was not large, and it is to be greatly regretted that such talent should not be better patronized.

About one hundred members of Plymouth Rock Lodge, No. 47, F. & M., went to Easton, Ont., last Wednesday afternoon, where they were entertained by the Essex Masons. A fine dinner was served the visitors at six o'clock, and in the evening Plymouth Lodge exemplified the degrees. The Plymouth Masons motor-ec over, and they were escorted by a Kiltie band composed of snare drum and bagpipe. All report a fine time.

The Detroit Free Press contained the following death notice, Thursday morning: "Black—May 17, 1922, at Providence hospital, Frank, beloved son of Robert and Josephine, and dear brother of John and Robert and Mrs. Marcellus Bernhardt. Funeral from sister's residence, 69 Avalon avenue, Highland Park, Saturday at 10 a. m., and St. Francis Xavier church, Ecorse, at 9 a. m. Plymouth papers please copy."

A class in Braille was started here, last Wednesday afternoon, for the purpose of transcribing books for the blind. Miss Ella McClelland of Detroit is the instructor, and the lessons are free. This work is very worthy, as the books are greatly needed, and after a person has learned the system the work can be carried on in the home. The class will meet again next Wednesday afternoon, May 24th, at 2:30 o'clock in the High school building, and it is hoped that many more will join. For further particulars phone 175.

PERRINSVILLE

Never was there a finer Mothers' Day sermon preached than was listened to by a good crowd at Perrinsville, Sunday, and which was given by Rev. William Wise. The music by Mr. Wise and sister was greatly appreciated by all.

The L. A. S. will give an ice cream social, Saturday evening, May 20th, at John Hook's on Warren avenue. Everybody welcome.

May 31st has been set to clean the church. We hope to see a lot of ladies out. A pot-luck dinner will be served at noon.

Mr. and Mrs. George Baehr entertained their children and grandchildren, Sunday.

Ed. Holmes and daughter, Beatrice, are able to be out again.

The tuberculosis test is taking a good many cows out of this vicinity. Mrs. William Love called at the Baehr home, Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Love and family motored to Carleton, Sunday. Miss Jessie Love spent Sunday at home.

A very pleasant Aid meeting was held at Mrs. John Shotzky's, Wednesday last.

Mrs. Mabel Badelt and son and Mrs. Ethel Lewis attended the Aid meeting, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cousins entertained their daughters and families, Sunday.

Mrs. James Cousins is spending a few days with his daughter, Mrs. Outhwaite.

Charles Preebe has purchased a new Ford truck.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dunn, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches."—Advertisement.

SCIENTISTS IN RUSSIA STARVE

Pathetic Stories Told of Sufferings of Eminent Scholars.

DEATH OF PROF. FEDEROFF

Last Words Were "Russian Science is Covered With Wounds Received During Past Years, Received in Vain, Because Science Was Outside Politics, but She Will Recover, More Courage—Hope of Escape all That Prevents One From Committing Suicide."

Pathetic stories of the sufferings of eminent scientists in Soviet Russia have reached the Russian academic group in the United States, whose members, including Russians who formerly taught in universities in their native land, are now attempting to enlist the sympathy of Americans to contribute food drafts through the American Relief Administration.

Dr. Vera Danchakoff of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia university, has made public letters and other data showing the plight of internationally known Russian scientists.

Here is an abstract from a letter written by Boris Sokoff, professor of biology, concerning his visit to Professor Federoff, a crystallo-physicist:

"It was painful to see the sufferings of Professor Federoff. Aged, with hair all white, emaciated from starvation, he still continued his studies on the laws of the growth of crystals. I came to see him once and brought him a piece of bread. He bit it greedily, then all at once he stopped and said, 'You are young. You need it more than I. It is time for me to die. His last words before his death were, 'I will soon die, and before dying I want to say to you, dear friends, dear students, more courage. Russian science is covered with wounds received during the past years, received in vain, because science was outside of politics. The wounds are deep, but not mortal. Russian science will recover from them. . . . More courage. . . ."

Hope of Escape Prevents Suicide.

Here is part of a letter to Doctor Danchakoff from Professor Maximoff of the Medical Academy of Petrograd:

"With every day life becomes more intolerable and it is difficult to imagine what is awaiting us next winter. People die like flies. If not for the hope of escaping, I would have committed suicide."

"Let me know whether I can count on any position anywhere in America or anywhere. It is impossible for me to leave Russia now, but I hope it will be known easier."

"Do you know and all other civilized people in America know what is going on here? The reality excels all hearsay. We were proclaimed parasites and idlers. We were deprived even of the ration which is given to soldiers and workmen. Those of us who had in reserve clothes or other things sold them gradually in order to continue existence. Those who had no clothes or anything else to sell, sold their books. This was pathetic."

"Tired and exhausted after a day spent in searching for food, I enter a cold and dark apartment. No water, no candle. I go to bed without taking off my clothes, trying to keep warm and to keep down the rebellious voice of hunger. At dawn one has to go out and sweep the street and clear the roads of snow. But when I see my entomological collection perish from cold, I do not think any more of hunger and cold, or of the atrocities of life, or even of my nearest ones. I run like a madman to find pieces of wood to make a fire to warm up and to save my laboratory."

No Energy, Physical or Moral.

Miss X., professor of mental diseases in children and the daughter of a professor of neurology, wrote to her brother:

"If only all of you who live so far away could at least partly imagine our life; but that is impossible. We ourselves are startled when important events wake us up and we begin to think. Life is such a burden that no body makes any preparation for the holidays. Nobody is capable of making any preparation. We have no energy physical or moral. We cannot buy anything. We just dream of cleaning up the horrible dirt in which we live."

Despite the famine, according to information reaching the United States, the universities of Samara and Saratoff are still functioning. A relief worker asked a student from Samara to tell her something of the conditions among the women students. She answered, "Well, one girl lived all summer on leaves and the bark of trees. She is still living. It is not an isolated instance. We have for so long, all of us, lived under these conditions."

Money for food drafts may be sent to the American Relief Administration 42 Broadway, and should be marked "for the educational institutions in Russia." It is promised that every institution will get its share.

TEASING MADE SQUIRREL WILD

A "mad" squirrel created a panic among residents at Casper, Wyo., when it jumped from tree branches to the shoulders of pedestrians and inflicted wounds by biting them. Teasing by small boys is said to have driven the pet squirrel "wild." It was captured and killed.
