ANOTHER CIVIL WAR VETERAN PASSES AWAY

Oliver P. Showers, a highly respected and well known resident of this village, passed away at his home on Roe street, last Sunday evening, after a week's illness, aged 77 years. Mr. Showers served through the Civil War as a member of the Sixteenth Michigan Volunteer Infantry, and for a number of years has been prominently identified with the affairs of Eddy Post, G. A. R., of which he was the commander at the time of his death. He was also a regular attendant at the Newburg Patriotic Society. He will be greatly missed by his comrades and friends in both organizations. Thirteen of the veterans attended the funeral services, which were held from Schrader Bros. Funeral Home, Tuesday afternoon, Rev. D. D. Nagle officiating. The interment took place at Fowlerville. Besides his widow, he leaves several other relatives.

On Monday evening, a most impressive flag service was conducted by Miss Hattie Holsington, president of the Newburg Patriotic Society, at the Funeral Home, where the body reposed.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON

A large company filled the auditorium last Sunday evening when the baccalaureate sermon was given by Rev. S. Conger Hathaway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this place. The graduates were seated in a body and Mr. Hathaway gave a very interesting and valuable talk to them. He took for his subject, "Benediction," and his entire discourse was filled with kindly words of advice for the uplifting and building of the characters of those who were soon to take up the responsibilities of life.

Two vocal solos were pleasingly sung by Mrs. Roderick Cassidy, with Mrs. Gilbert Brown accompanying. Rev. H. E. Sayles, pastor of the Baptist church gave the invocation and benediction, and the stage was prettily decorated with yellow daisies and other wild flowers.

Calvin Whipple lead the congregational singing.

CLASS DAY

The Class Day exercises of the graduating class of the Plymouth school, presented in the High school auditorium, last Tuesday evening, were unusually well rendered. The vocal selections presented by the double quartette; the whistling numbers by Wanda Shuttis; the class poem by Fay Herrick; the violin and clarinet duets by Harvard Norgror and Charles Chappel, bespeaks of the talent of the young people. Besides the president's address, class history, class oration, class will, gittatory, prophecy and jester were cleverly written and presented. The stage was prettily decorated with field daisies for the occasion. The auditorium was filled. Miss Gladys Schrader presided at the piano.

Mr. Baker graduated from the Lansing High school one year ago, and received his appointment to the academy last August, through Congressman P. H. Kelley.

CELEBRATED WEDDING ANNIVERSARIES

PARENTS CELEBRATE SIXTIETH ANNIVERSARY AND DAUGHTER HER TENTH. CONGRATULATED BY PRESIDENT HARDING.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bichy celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary and their daughter, Mrs. Carleton Blake's tenth, at the parents' home, "Old Point Comfort," on the Plymouth road, last Friday. The Rev. Charles Strasen of the Lutheran church, gave a beautiful invocation and talk, and Arthur Bichy of Detroit, and Oliver Goldsmith of Plymouth, gave toasts. Later in the evening, Mr. Goldsmith gave a most

The couple were the recipients of many handsome gifts and numerous congratulations from their many relatives and friends, and they wish to extend their heartiest appreciation and thanks for the same.

Among their congratulations was the honorable personal greetings from President Harding.

The Rev. Charles Strasen gave a special service on Sunday in honor of the rare occasion, and the couple were asked to take seats at the altar during the service.

DEATH OF MRS. MARIA OLIVER

Maria Hunter, daughter of Francis and Justina Hunter, was born at Fleet, in Lincolnshire, England, May 4, 1834. In 1838 the family removed to America, coming direct to Plymouth, where she has resided ever since. March 24, 1858, she was married to David Oliver. Nine children were born to them, four sons and five daughters, of whom the following survive: Miss Emma C. Oliver, Mrs. Louise Trumbull, Mrs. Annie Henderson and Mrs. Nellie Birch, all of Plymouth. There are also eleven grandchildren and ten great grandchildren. She was a life-long member of the church of England. For the last ten years her time was spent very closely at home in company with her invalid daughter. Eleven weeks ago she fell and was in much pain until last Sunday night at nine o'clock, "God's finger touched her and she slept."

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at the daughter's home on South Main street, conducted by Franklin Gibson, who is in charge of the local Episcopal church, assisted by the pastor of the Presbyterian church.

FIRST CONCERT SATURDAY EVENING

PLYMOUTH DELPHIANS' GARDEN PARTY

The Plymouth Delphians and Progressive Club held their annual garden party at the home of their president, Mrs. E. T. Cope of Penniman avenue, Thursday, June 15. Luncheon was served promptly at 1:30. The guests were then taken into the Cope music room, where a surprise was in store for them. Lloyd Cell of Sheridan avenue, who is in the radio business, had installed for the Delphian ladies' benefit the Aeriola Grand, one of the finest Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co.'s radio cabinets, and they were able to listen to both radio concerts in as clear a manner as if they had been seated at the concert studio. The ladies certainly were pleased with this surprise and rare treat.

Doniel Patterson played two selections on the violin and saxophone, in his usual pleasing manner, and the Delphians feel his future as a musician will certainly be a success.

The Delphians then adjourned until the fall musical, to be held in September.

WOMAN'S CLUB ANNUAL PICNIC

The annual picnic of the Woman's Club was held at the pleasant farm home of Mrs. Carman Root last Friday, June 16th. Although the morning was a stormy one, it cleared before noon and the day was very pleasant. By one o'clock, a large company had gathered and a fine picnic dinner was enjoyed after which the guests gathered under the beautiful maple trees on the lawn and a short business meeting was held. This was followed by a program consisting of music by the ladies' quartet and a reading by Mrs. Charles Humphries. Miss Ellen Gardiner, in behalf of the club presented the retiring president, Mrs. E. T. Cope, with a basket of cut flowers, who in turn responded in a pleasing manner, and presented the gavel to Mrs. Geo. A. Robinson. Calendars for the coming year's work were then distributed and late in the afternoon, the members returned to town, declaring Mrs. Root a very gracious hostess.

ROBERTS-FOSTER

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Wednesday evening, June 21st, at eight o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Foster on Caster avenue, when their daughter, Evangeline, was united in marriage to Harold H. Roberts of Detroit.

The house was very prettily decorated with palms and flowers. Promptly at the time set, Miss Frances Leavens of Kalamazoo, took her place at the piano, modulating from her introductory number into the wedding march. Then came the bridal party, led by the bride's pastor, Rev. S. Conger Hathaway, of the First Presbyterian church. Following him came the bridegroom and his best man, Elmer Ellis of Detroit; then the matron of honor, Mrs. Henry Clise, the bride's sister, appressed in white pongee dress and a garden hat and carrying a bouquet of pink and white snapdragons; last of all the bride, leaning on her father's arm, and daintily arrayed in a dress of radium crepe with flowing veil and wreath of orange blossoms. When they had taken their places in the arbor nook of palms and flowers, Mr. Hathaway began the ceremony, using a modified form of the Presbyterian ring service, and being assisted by Rev. D. D. Nagle of the First M. E. church.

Following the ceremony, the guests were invited to the dining room, where dainty refreshments were served. About fifty guests were present. Both bride and groom are popular in Plymouth, having sung in the Methodist choir for several years and at various social occasions. They left by auto on their wedding tour, and after August 1st will be at home to their friends at 116 Rhode Island avenue, Royal Oak, Michigan.

A MAN'S DEBTS

Theodore Roosevelt once said: "Every man owes some of his time to the upbuilding of the industry to which he belongs."

It is equally true that every man owes some of his time to the upbuilding of the community to which he belongs.

Also every man owes some of his time to the upbuilding of his home life and the care of his family.

And again every man owes some of his time to the upbuilding of the CHURCH to which he belongs.

OUTLOOK ENCOURAGING

Optimistic reports of agricultural and financial conditions throughout the west and south have been made by Eugene Myer, director of the War Finance Corporation. Returning from a six weeks' tour he reports finding a more hopeful condition all over the west, and a future outlook exceptionally bright. The crop outlook, he says, is the best in years, and a hopeful feeling is growing fast among all classes of farmers and business men.

Mines, he says, are re-opening in Utah, Montana and Arizona, and some railroad construction has started up in the southwest for the first time in five years. The buying power of the farmers, Mr. Myer declared, will be somewhat restricted as they are operating as economically as possible this season and buying only necessities before returning to their normal scale of purchases. The indications are that this year's crop will bring good prices, with a satisfactory supply of labor at more conservative wages than have prevailed at any time since the war.

Business men around Plymouth, while not over-enthusiastic, admit that the outlook is steadily becoming brighter, and that already they feel the trend toward normal business conditions, bankers are more optimistic and money easier to secure. All of which comes as mighty good news and an answer to most everyone's prayer.

NAMING THE FARM

In South Dakota there is a law by which a farmer who has given his farm a name can register the name with the clerk of the courts for $1.00 and thereafter have the exclusive right to that name. We believe farmers around Plymouth would do well to ask their state representative to urge a similar law and to get others in the legislature to boost it. The farm that has been christened adds dignity to itself, its owner and the neighborhood. The result is the farmer takes a greater pride in it, makes it a better farm and markets a higher class of produce because he wants to keep the name of the farm in good standing before the public. All of which means more money for the farmer, and that means greater prosperity in town. Give the farm a name, just as any other business institution, and see how quickly people will start commenting on your enterprise.

IT WORKS BOTH WAYS.

As long as coal mine owners boost the price of coal whenever they can we may expect coal miners to do the same thing with their wages. Herbert Hoover has tried to stop mine owners from boosting their prices during the strike by approving a price of $3.00 a ton at the mines in West Virginia. And that's a big price. Before the war mine owners were glad to sell spot coal at the mines for 95c a ton and during the war the government fixed a price of $2.25 to $2.65 at the mines. Now they are to receive $3.50—and still they're not satisfied. These figures ought to interest Plymouth citizens who burn coal, and may serve to show them that in the present argument the blame for high coal prices should not be placed wholly at the door of the retailer or the miner. The retailer must raise his price if coal goes up at the mine, and the striker is only asking a living wage. So, on face of the figures, it appears that if anyone is trying to play the role of "whole hog or none" it is the men who own the mines.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Scriber, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Shaver and Mrs. Booth of Detroit, drove over to Plymouth, last Sunday afternoon, to visit at the manse and attend the baccalaureate services.

The trustees met last Monday night in the pastor's study. All bills were ordered paid and plans were discussed for enlarging the manse and building a home for "Henry the Second."

Commencement exercises have pre-empted the nights of the week and Rev. H. R. Chapman has a previous engagement for Sunday. So the Ready Service Class will postpone their proposed meeting until after the vacation period.

The pastor and superintendent of Religious Education are both leaving next Monday to attend summer school at the University of Michigan. Mr. Smith will be at the Acacia House on South State street and Mr. Hathaway at 413 Fifth street. Those desiring to have long distant communication with the pastor may call Edward Muehlig, 1419-M.

torium. Rev. Hathaway gave an excellent sermon from Jude, verses 24 and 25. He complimented the class for their courage and determination to continue until they had accomplished their purpose, and now are to graduate. He urged them to know their possibilities, and make the highest round of the ladder, not forgetting their own weak points and endeavoring to overcome them as the years go by. His illustrations were very apt. In concluding, he recommended to them a christian life, to make it a rounded out life, full of promise, helpfulness, joy and satisfaction, led by the spirit of Christ into all usefulness.

Palmer Hartsough of Ontario, Wisconsin, will give a report, next Sunday morning, June 25th, of the Northern Baptist Convention, which was held in Indianapolis, last week.

METHODIST NOTES

The Ladies' Aid society enjoyed a day's outing at the home of Brother and Sister Fred Lee in Livonia on Wednesday of this week. The annual business meeting and election of officers took place during the afternoon.

If any who are receiving the Advocate and have not yet paid for it, and are paying on the yearly basis, the treasurer would appreciate it if such would see him immediately as the Advocate office needs the money.

Beginning next Monday and continuing for a week, the annual Epworth League Institute opens at Albion. A number of young people from Plymouth are planning to attend. These occasions are always times of great inspiration and helpfulness to the young people of the state. If any of our people desire to contribute to the expenses of those going, the pastor would appreciate it if they would speak to him about it.

Next Saturday night, the 24th, the Epworth League will have an ice cream and lemonade stand across from the stores in the park down town. The money earned in this way will go to help pay the expenses of the delegates to Albion.

BAPTIST NOTES

Joseph Stanley gave a short report of the Howell camp, after the sermon last Sunday, and Mrs. Stanley gave a report of the meeting of the Woman's Missionary society at the prayer meeting last Thursday evening.

The new garage at the back of the church is all paid for, and the pastor is thankful for its convenience.

The piano fund is growing each week. If you have a surplus make a deposit for this purpose with Mrs. Grainger, Mrs. Sayles or Miss May Smith.

The decorations are worth a mention each week, for they are grand, the roses and ferns and white and yellow daisies were all blended in the right shape, and cause a fine background of beauty.

The Sunday evening service was taken up, and the church and congregation attended the baccalaureate services in the High school auditorium.

Mid-week prayer service at 7:30, next Thursday night.

Plan to attend church next Sunday, and worship in the beauty of His sanctuary.

If you want ice cream next Saturday, be sure to buy it at the Epworth League stand in the park down town.

EPISCOPAL NOTES

Last Friday there was a good turnout of the members of the church-school, when they met at the home of Mrs. D. Murphy. There was plenty of strawberries and cake and games. The boys enjoyed a fine game of baseball. Besides a most enjoyable time, the proceeds were excellent and went towards the school pledge to provide for one poor Armenian child for one year.

As the church-school is now on vacation and will not hold a session for the next three months, Mr. Gibson has appointed next Sunday, "Children's Day," and he wants every member to be present at the morning service with their parents and friends, when he will give a special address. All members of the congregation are asked to be present, too.

Mr. Gibson will come out to Plymouth on Saturday with some Boy Scouts from Detroit, and they will camp down by the river over night, and be at the church service, Sunday morning.

We regret to record that Mrs. Alfred Innis is again very ill, and has had to be removed to Harper hospital. Reports from Harper hospital state that Mrs. Tracy is rapidly improving, so we hope to have her again at our services shortly.

The "O-A-T-K-A" camp for boys start out on July 3rd, for two weeks' camp. This camp is located at Port Sanilac on the shores of Lake Huron, about thirty miles north of Port Huron and six miles from Carsonville, the nearest railroad station. The camp is under the directorship of Rev. C. H. McCurdy, rector of Birmingham, and the assistant directors are Franklin L. Gibson, who will lead the first week, and Rev. Harry Robinson (late archdeacon), who will lead the second week, and these three directors will be in camp during the two weeks. The Birmingham Record, in commenting upon the camp, says: "We are particularly fortunate to have Franklin L. Gibson a leader in our camp this year. Several boys' camps have tried to get him for a leader, from Long Island to Missouri, but Camp O-A-T-K-A has won the prize. 'Frank' could make a successful boys' camp without any other feature. He was a good soldier in the war, a good Scout leader, a real choir boy, a Brotherhood man, and now he is developing a most interesting work for the church in the town of Plymouth." Parents who want to give their boys a good vacation—healthful, educational and spiritual—should get details from Mr. Gibson, and names can be sent in to George Merryweather, who will give any details required.

Get a Plymouth man some sort of pretty button to wear and he'll join any darn thing you organize.

Recommends Chamberlain's Tablets

"Chamberlain's Tablets have been used by my husband and myself off and on for the past five years. When my husband goes away from home he always takes a bottle of them along with him. Whenever I have that heavy feeling after eating, or feel dull and played out, I take one or two of Chamberlain's Tablets and they fix me up fine," writes Mrs. Newton Vreeland, Mined, N. Y.

Take these tablets when troubled with constipation or indigestion, and they will do you good.—Advertisement.

Smith and the Bank Thieves

By CLAIRE SMITH

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

Dugald Forsythe smiled with the impersonal amusement of one who watches himself struggle in the grip of fate and has grown tired of resistance. He locked the door of his cage behind him and, with his suitcase in his hand, started for the door of the bank. He had almost reached it when a hand was laid on his shoulder. Forsythe looked up into the kindly face of Mr. Smith, the manager.

"Will you come into my office a moment, Mr. Forsythe?" asked the latter.

"Mr. Forsythe," said Smith, "Mr. Swan died suddenly this morning. We thought he would be able to return to duty, but he came unexpectedly. He has decided to give you his position. You have worked for us faithfully and efficiently for seven years. Your present salary is—"

"Two thousand six," answered Forsythe, swallowing dryly.

"You will start on Monday morning at $3,500," said Mr. Smith. "That is the assistant manager's regular salary. Please let me have your key. I shall turn it over to Griggs, who will succeed you. Report to me on Monday at nine o'clock. Thank you! Good-day!"

A minute later Forsythe was standing on the curb in front of the bank, breathless and bewildered. It was a Saturday afternoon, and in his suitcase he had a ticket for Pensacola and $5,000 in bills, the property of the bank.

He had been driven to it. He had tried to keep Maud and their little girl in comfort. He had plunged deeper and deeper in debt. Loan sharks threatened him with a "howling out," which would mean the loss of his position. And Maud lay sick in a southern sanitarium, and Muriel was staying with a relative. Maud had undergone a desperate operation successfully, but it would be weeks before she was well. The news of his defalcation would not reach her in Atwater, Fla.

The crudeness and impossibility of his plan had not troubled him. When a man is surrounded by creditors and sharks his life becomes such a nightmare that he grasps at any release. So he had taken $5,000 that morning, knowing that the theft would not be discovered till Monday.

And now—his brain swam, his senses reeled.

He must get the money back into the safe!

If only he had not yielded to that hideous temptation!

Next day was Sunday. Every time he went outside his apartment building, his footsteps seemed to turn in the direction of the bank, which lay only a matter of a few blocks distant. At eight o'clock that evening he was standing outside for the fourth time that day.

At midnight he was still pacing the street.

One o'clock boomed from the church steeple. Forsythe turned homeward. He would confess upon the morrow. He would go to Mr. Smith and—

A tiny flicker of light inside the bank attracted his attention. Somebody was within the bank.

Forsythe thought swiftly. If thieves had gained access it must have been from an adjacent building. He hurried round to the cellar door that gave upon the rear street.

He crouched behind a pile of lumber and waited. All at once Forsythe heard the faintest sound behind him.

It was the sound of a padlock being very cautiously unfastened.

A moment later a man came stealthily up the stairs, followed by another. The two hesitated. They looked round anxiously, and one of them caught sight of Forsythe behind the lumber pile.

Instantly they flew at him. Forsythe saw the gleam of a steel blade in the hands of one of them. He dodged and struck the fellow with a length of timber, felling him to the ground. The other closed with him. They wrestled wildly into the street, and fell on the curb.

Forsythe was no match for this giant. He could not defend himself adequately in any event, for his hands were full of bills. Five thousand dollars in his hands, and this fool wildly hammering at his face! How much more did he have on him? Whatever he had taken from the safe was now increased by $5,000, for with his last atom of strength Forsythe crammed the man's pockets full of the bills.

Then he fainted.

When he opened his eyes he was lying in a darkened room. A woman stirred beside his bed.

"Where am I?" he asked, feebly, and his hands went automatically feeling for the money.

"Forsythe! Don't you know me?" asked a man who rose from his bed-side.

"Mr. Smith!" Forsythe exclaimed, the events of the past night surging through his brain again.

"You have saved the bank $50,000," said the manager with emotion.

Fifty thousand! And he had taken only $5,000.

"It was a miracle," the manager continued. "The bank will not forget it. But tell me, Forsythe, how in the world did you happen to be upon the spot when the thieves came out with their plunder, and what led you to suspect them?"

Forsythe never remembered his answer.

The Grinding of the Mills

By MYRA C. LANE

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

"That moment was indelibly imprinted in Elsie's mind forever. The tearing face of the tramp who had come to the door, the country scene beyond the garden, sloping down to the foaming stream, the little settlement with its neat streets and the factory; then the tramp's face blotted out everything.

"So I've found you at last, Elsie Walters!" he grinned. "What's your name now?"

"Leeson," answered Elsie mechanically.

"Ah, that's the name. I've been asking about him in the village. Good-hearted man, but kind of perturbed, isn't he? Generous to a fault, and kind, but he wouldn't stand for—what he doesn't know yet?"

"Well?"

"Is that all you can say? Suppose he did know about those days when you and I were members of the same burlesque company touring the rural districts? Suppose he knew about—"

"Stop! In God's name, why have you come here to torture me?"

"I'm down and out, Elsie, that's why. But I've the promise of a good job this fall. Say, doesn't it warm your heart to think of the times we used to have—old Mossa raving, and then the little suppliers together? Even if we never had so much money, we saw life together didn't we?"

The picture which she had banished so resolutely since her marriage to the kindly farmer whom she had at last learned to love came vividly back to her. John Leeson had never known of that just at which Elsie had learned to shudder.

She had come to Springville after everything had broken up. She had sought a month's rest, with the last of her money, before plunging again into the unknown. John Leeson had fallen in love with her and asked her to marry him. That had been two years ago.

Now Cy Hemming had traced her. The past had risen before her eyes; she shuddered.

"What is it you want?" she cried.

"If twenty dollars will help you—"

"I don't want money," answered Hemming. "I want you, Elsie."

"Never! Never!"

"Listen!" said Hemming, laying a hand upon her arm. "I've got you already. A few words to John Leeson, and he'll set you adrift. I know that type of man. Gentle as a lamb, but hard as nails where his principles are concerned. And what will you do then? You'll have to come to me."

"You—unspokeable!"

"Hard words don't mend matters," answered Hemming. "Think it over, Elsie. What I want you to do is to come away with me. I can raise the money in the city. I'm only beating my way like this because I heard you were somewhere in these parts, and had to go cheap to find you. Come away with me!"

"Never!"

"I won't take 'never' till you've thought things over. I'll take your answer tonight. If it's 'no,' I'll go to your husband with the story. Then you'll have to come. You can cook, up some story about a sick sister or something, and come off with me. Maybe I'll get tired of you and let you go back, and then John Leeson will never know the truth. You can wait an hour after sundown at the bridge down there." He pointed toward the stream.

"I'll never go with you!" she answered fiercely.

But he only grinned, and left her. And Elsie watched his figure as it passed down the garden, with growing horror. She clenched her fists until the nails bit into the flesh. It was the realization of the nightmare which she had always feared.

The blow had fallen at last. And there was only one thing to do. She must run away—from both men. She had $20. She must disappear forever from the home, from happiness. She must start life anew.

Feverishly she packed her grip. Her husband would be home soon after sundown. She must not meet him. But she put on the kettle and laid the table mechanically—a last duty? Then she went upstairs again and locked her suitcase.

Somebody at the door! John! He was calling her. He must have come home on the earlier train, as he sometimes did.

"Elsie!"

Mechanically she went down. John was staring at her. She was white.

"Why, you're as white as a ghost, Elsie! You haven't heard?"

"What? What?" she gasped, putting out a hand to steady herself.

"There's been an accident down the river. A strange tramp stepped off the plank bridge into the dark and was caught in the mill-race. Crushed to pieces! There, take it easy! No wonder you're upset, darling!"

Didn't understand the "Jumps."

Just before the big show started the lion tamer and the dog trainer were seated in the dressing tent conversing about their respective acts. "How's that new dog you bought last month coming along?" inquired the lion tamer. "He's learning fast, and will make a good performer if I can ever get him accustomed to this jumping from town to town," replied the other. "It's going to be some job, though. Why, the day we showed in Kansas City he buried a bone beside the center pole, and he tried to dig it up in Topeka the next day."—The Argonaut.

The Standard of Comparison

Why Buick Cushions "Ride Easy"

Buick cushions are comfortable on all roads because of their "double-deck" springs and resilient hair pads. The upper springs, which are light and easy-acting, yield to the slightest road irregularity. The lower springs are larger and stiffer. They come into play on rough country roads, carrying the passenger in comfort over bumps which cause the ordinary seat to "strike bottom".

Between the springs and the French-plaited leather upholstery are two thick, yielding pads of interlaced hair which positively prevent "lumping".

In Buick seat cushions, as in every other part of the car, is built the quality which has made Buick cars the standard of comparison.

The Grand Old Game of Barnyard Golf

An innovation at the Michigan State Fair, Detroit, September 1 to 10, will be the horse-shoe pitchers' championship tournament. Hundreds of entries already have been made, and valuable prizes will be given, according to announcement by G. W. Dickinson, secretary-manager of the fair.

FAIR COLISEUM WILL SEAT 8,000

CONSTRUCTION ON NEW STATE EXPOSITION BUILDING BEING SPEEDED.

WILL USE GIANTIC ARENA FOR CATTLE JUDGING, SHOW

Construction of the Coliseum, the greatest task ever undertaken by an administration of the Michigan State Fair, is well under way and the building is practically assured of completion by this year's exposition. George W. Dickinson, secretary-manager of the exposition, announced recently.

The building of this gigantic play-house, intended to seat comfortably at one show, 8,000 persons, is being done under Mr. Dickinson's personal supervision at a cost aggregating nearly $300,000.

"Although we have been delayed in the structural steel work because of late deliveries on steel," said Mr. Dickinson, in discussing the new building, "we are reasonably positive the Coliseum will be completed before fair time September 1 to 10."

"Necessary steel to complete the job is now on the fair grounds. All other materials required have been delivered and work on the roof and balconies will begin the moment the steel work is completed."

"The Coliseum building will be 400 feet long and inside, a ring, 235 feet long and 100 feet wide, where blooded stock will be shown and judged, is being constructed. More than 8,000 people will be comfortably seated inside the structure while judging is going on."

"We have exercised great care in our lighting facilities. Large windows will allow the light to pour in during the day while judging is in progress. In the evening a great circle of spotlights will play from the roof down onto the ring where the thoroughbreds will parade."

"One corner and a portion of one side of the coliseum will be devoted to a large cafeteria, capable of serving hundreds of persons rapidly. These large demonstration rooms will be included in another corner of the building, each room capable of seating hundreds of people. These also will house meetings of various associations."

"Of interest in connection with the building program of the State Fair, is the rebuilding of the cattle barns. The facilities for housing cattle have been doubled by the addition of a new, modern equipped shed, and, now the State Fair can house under one roof 1,000 head of cattle. This work has been completed and the building is being cleaned thoroughly in preparation for a big livestock exhibition at the fair."

Construction of sewers through the fair grounds, giving additional facilities to the grounds also was mentioned by Mr. Dickinson.

STATE FAIR TO SPONSOR ALL BREED DOG SHOW

Following close the first annual specialty show of the Mid-West Shepherd Dog club at the Michigan State fair grounds, is the announcement by G. W. Dickinson, secretary-manager of the exposition, of an all-breed dog show at this year's fair, Detroit, September 1 to 10.

The all-breed show will be held under the auspices of the Michigan State Fair Dog club of which Mr. Dickinson is an interested member. Elaborate preparations now are being made to house the canine aristocracy of Michigan.

WIDER RANGE OF EXHIBITS ANTICIPATED FOR 73RD ANNUAL EXPOSITION

500,000 PERSONS EXPECTED TO VIEW SHOW THIS YEAR

Presenting a picture of Michigan's agricultural and industrial greatness, the Seventy-third annual Michigan State Fair, which opens in Detroit, September 1, and runs 10 days, will break all records for attendance, is the prediction of George W. Dickinson, secretary-manager, who has been the directing head for the past 10 years.

Scores of requests to the State Fair offices from prospective exhibitors concerning the approaching exposition are indicative this year's exhibitions will be wider in range and of greater educational values, believes Mr. Dickinson.

Enthusiastic beyond expression about the outlook, Mr. Dickinson says, "Fairs of today are fast becoming matters of great importance to all. No longer are they considered of local or state importance, but they are rapidly being recognized as national schools."

"The Michigan State Fair has been recognized as an educational force by the railroads. They are co-operating to bring the people to Detroit for a 10-day practical schooling, worth many dollars to the spectator."

"County, state and the national governments have recognized it and, all will be represented with worthy exhibitions of farm products of modern agriculture."

"Everyone is beginning to recognize the value in the Michigan State Fair as a community gathering. It affords an opportunity for the farmer to see the manufacturer's product in actual operation before he purchases and, it gives the farmer an opportunity to present his product of the soil which he hopes to sell at a reasonable price above the cost of production."

"Years of experience in building a fair which will mirror the industrial and rural life of Michigan have taught us that entertainment is a necessary division of the fair. So, we are presenting, each year, a more wholesome and clean type of entertainment."

"The fair of 10 years ago would not be tolerated today. The exhibitions, the entertainment and everything connected with it would be hooted as terrible and would not be accepted by those who are in the market of life, to get full value. Public sentiment has demanded a better fair, and, a far better fair than ever before will be the Michigan exposition this year."

"Present indications are the counties this year will send more and better exhibitions of farm products. Improved horses and cattle are promised by these exhibitors. Apiary men are showing strong interest."

"Our boys and girls on the farm are being urged to bring their livestock to the fair and exhibit. It is a mighty influence for good when you give the youngster some encouragement and one of the goals of the State Fair is this."

"Never before has so much money been contributed for grains at a State Fair as will be at this year's exposition. It is apparent that grains are easily shown and easily maintained in good condition and this type of exhibition can do an everlastingly good. Too, we are paying more and higher premiums for the important livestock breeds."

SHAM LEADERS OF MANKIND

Much Tinsel Among Many Personages That Figure Prominently in the Pages of History.

Louis XIV of France was a fine specimen of the sham leader. He was the man who, descending the steps of his palace at Versailles just as his chariot drove up, said to the coachman, "I nearly had to wait." He it was who remarked to his wife, when she ventured to criticize a decision, "We have taken you, madam, so that you might give us children, and not that you might give us advice." He made an immortal phrase "The state, that's me."

He was splendid; embroidered and jeweled clothes, fine nasal prominence, and wit, capacity for unlimited ruleless, self-satisfaction so great that he needed a duke to hand him his shirt, and a marquis to hold the spittoon. Indeed that, nothing except his opinion that in war, poetry, painting, riding, he was supreme. Some one rather like him had a fall just before the armistice.

Louis XIV spent his life in spreading throughout France famine and glory, those honest friends; he patronized the arts as an arbiter of fashion; in the last portion of his life he chose generals for their elegance, rather than for their methods. He left behind him nothing but ruins, which before the end of the century were cleared up by the French Revolution.

Many such frauds live in history; Lorenzo the Magnificent, Charles V of Spain, Charles XII of Sweden. They glitter through the pages, but we know that the true man may be imitated as easily as the genuine diamond. Their glow tends to throw pallor over the real people, such as Bolivar, Lincoln, Bismarck, Gambetta.

They deceive us, they taint our idea of leaders; they prevent us from recognizing among the men in shining armor those who are clad in well-polished ones.—W. L. George, in Harper's Magazine.

Getting the Facts.

It is not considered primarily a government function to test the truth of sayings. But scientists of the United States bureau of entomology have prepared a test for one at least. They have devised a gate with a meter device to be placed at the entrance to a beehive. A telephone attachment thereto records electrically the passage of every bee as it goes out for honey. What if the machine should shatter a tradition, and prove that a bee isn't busy? What if this time clock showed he hung around the house every other day? We shall soon know what to think of this bee creature! It is just as well for a phrase-lazy race that no one takes the trouble to prove whether a cat is weak, whether a dog gets especially tired, whether a fish drinks more than he ought, and whether a lark is happy.—New York Sun.

The Real Difference.

"I can't see why that man is boss over me. I do most of the work around here."

"I guess that's so."

"It is. I know more about the business than he does. Whenever he wants to know anything about what's going on, he comes to me to find out."

"That's usually the way."

"I'm the fellow that ought to be the boss."

"A lot of men think that way, and yet there's one big difference. He knows something that you don't know."

"What is it?"

"He knows enough to hire good men like you to do the work. If you knew that you'd be the boss, and he'd be in your place."—Detroit Free Press.

Crossings Cautiously American Railroads, Awful for the next four months, try to educate the people against their own folly. Too many accidents at railroad crossings - or even on the railroad tracks where the victim is usually a trespasser - are occurring. Teachers, preachers, business men and women, generally, are asked to use their influence in having these simple precautions followed: 1. Do not walk on railroad tracks or bridges. 2. Do not allow children to play around railroad tracks or stations. 3. Do not crawl under or between cars. 4. Before crossing tracks at crossings, STOP, LOOK and LISTEN to see if a train is coming, and after a train has passed make sure no other trains are approaching in either direction. 5. Do not crawl under or between cars after they are moving. Stop until train passes. 6. Do not allow children to play around turn-tables, cranes, cars, or other railroad property. 7. Use the streets and highways instead of the railroad tracks in going to or from work. Public Relations Department. Pere Marquette Railway

Do You Know Why?

The grain in the siding and finish of some houses stands out, while it doesn't in that of others.

Why some hardwood flooring "cups" after a little wear;

Why some windows rattle after a little while and let in cold drafts; Why some roofs always seem to have a new leak;

Why some houses seem to deteriorate much quicker than others.

We will tell you why without obligation.

Being able to answer the above questions and advise prospective builders how to avoid such defects in building is A PART OF OUR BUSINESS.

We guarantee our service and the quality of the products we handle. Let us help you put longer life in your buildings.

The children all acted happy, last Sunday, when they took part in the Children's Day program. Miss Beatrice Davey's class of girls showed their ability to memorize. The L. A. S. meeting held at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stevens in Plymouth, last Wednesday afternoon, was well attended. A short and impressive memorial service was conducted by Mrs. Ches. Ryder, in memory of Mrs. Doan Mrs. Bassett and Mrs. Rutter, who passed away during the past year. After the business meeting, Zephania Blunk gave two readings that were decidedly well rendered. The ladies decided to tear down the old sheds at the hall, as they are in a dilapidated condition. By so doing it will add to the appearance of Newburg. A fine supper was served. All expressed themselves as having a pleasant time.

A PLEASING AND FRIENDLY SURPRISE

On Tuesday evening, June 20th, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Goldsmith of "Auburn," were most pleasantly surprised by the Bichy family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Merz and daughter, Olive, Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Blake and little daughter, Lillian, and Mr. Bichy, Sr.'s sister of Buffalo, New York, it being Mr. and Mrs. Goldsmith's twenty-third wedding anniversary. The evening passed altogether too quickly, as it was filled with true friendliness and pleasure. Mr. and Mrs. Goldsmith were the recipients of beautiful gifts, all of which are very highly prized, among them being a handsome reproduction in oil of a photo of Miss Olive Merz and Duke, the "faithful dog guardian of the fold," at Auburn. The painting is a masterpiece, and Charles Merz, the artist, is to be highly congratulated. The evening closed with a dainty luncheon, and all expressed their sincere wish that Mr. and Mrs. Goldsmith might live to enjoy many more anniversaries.
