NEW STORE OPENING

LARGELY ATTENDED

The opening of the Blunk Bros. new department store, Wednesday afternoon and evening, was largely attended and a most successful event. The new store presented a handsome appearance, and the Messrs. Irving and Arthur Blunk, the proprietors, were the recipients of many compliments on their splendid new store, and the fine stock of goods with which it has been well stocked. Numerous bouquets of flowers from friends and well wishers added a great deal to the attractiveness of the store. The favors which were given out were carnations for the ladies, cigars for the gentlemen and gas balloons for the kiddies. Nothing was sold on the opening day, but the Blunk Brothers and their corps of clerks extended a most cordial greeting to all their visitors, and showed them through the building. The store opened for business, Thursday morning.

WEDDING AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Saturday evening as the clock was striking six, the wedding ceremony was being read by Rev. H. E. Sayles, at the altar in the Baptist church, corner of Spring and Mill streets, Plymouth, Michigan, when Harry Bacon Sayles, Rev. and Mrs. Sayles' oldest son, was united in marriage to Miss Lucille Bennett of Logansport, Indiana. They were led to the altar by Dr. Walter Kline as best man, and Miss Dorothy Chipchase as bridesmaid. Miss Bennett was given away at the altar by her father, Casper C. Bennett. The impressive ring ceremony was used, and at the close, Rev. Sayles presented the young couple to the guests for congratulations. The decorations in the church were in splendid taste. Miss Bennett was gowned in white satin, carrying a bouquet of pink gladioli. Miss Chipchase was dressed in pink crepe de chine, and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. Guests from out of town were: Casper Bennett and wife of Logansport, Indiana; Mrs. Ernest Pearson, Miss Bennett's sister, of Palm Beach, Florida; Mrs. Earl Hamilton, also a sister of Miss Bennett of Logansport, Indiana; Miss Dorothy Chipchase, Miss Bennett's college friend, from Jacksonville, Ill.; Dr. Walter Kline of Logansport, Ind.; and Clifford L. Sayles of Kalamazoo, Mich.

After the wedding dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Sayles left for their new home at Pontiac, where Mr. Sayles is in the engineering department of the General Motors Corporation, as draftsman. Their many friends wish them all kinds of success and happiness.

SMITH-STAY

Mrs. Jennie Stay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pizarro Perkins of this place, and John B. Smith, a well-known and respected farmer, living near Northville, were quietly united in marriage in Detroit, Thursday afternoon, July 27th, by Rev. F. M. Field, former pastor of the Methodist church of this place. The bride is well known in Plymouth, having resided here for several years and the greater part of the time has been engaged in nursing. Many times she has been called to administer to the sick and suffering and whenever possible has given generously of her strength and time. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside on the groom's farm and the best wishes of Plymouth friends go with them for health and happiness. Last Saturday evening, about thirty relatives and friends gave Mr. and Mrs. Smith a reception at their farm home. Guests were present from Flint, Vassar, Detroit, Northville and Plymouth. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed and light refreshments were served.

The new Chamber of Commerce road signs have arrived, and are being put up on all the roads leading to Plymouth within a radius of eight miles. The new signs are very attractive and substantial. A red arrow with the number of miles points the way to Plymouth and the words, Welcome, and Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, appear on the signs also.

PLANS SET FOR BIG

M. A. C. FARM DAY

HUNDREDS OF MICHIGAN AGRICULTURISTS WILL BE ENTERAINED ON EAST LANSING CAMPUS AUGUST 4TH.

With final plans made for the reception of hundreds of Michigan farmers and their families, the campus of the Michigan Agricultural College is being groomed this week in preparation for the fifth annual summer Farmers' Day, Friday, August 4th. Hundreds of acres of interesting and valuable experimental work in farm crops and soils will be ready for inspection on the college farm. Livestock herds including representatives of the finest blood of the various breeds will be "dressed up" for visitors in the barns, and the college laboratories and buildings will be open for guests.

A special livestock parade, which has been called a modern "livestock style review," will feature a big afternoon meeting under the campus trees. Band music, speeches by prominent state agricultural leaders, including President David Friday of M. A. C., L. Whitney Watkins, chairman of the State Board of Agriculture, are listed on the afternoon program.

Condensed outdoor agricultural exhibits, each bearing some timely farm topic, will be erected near the meeting ground. Wireless outfits for the home, farm conveniences, control of diseases and pests, and best farm practices in general will be illustrated in these exhibits.

Women and children are to make their headquarters in the college woman's building, joining the "men folk" in the day's program of entertainment and business.

HONEYWELL BASKET PICNIC

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Honeywell very pleasantly entertained about fifty relatives, friends and neighbors at a basket picnic at their home on the Ann Arbor road, Sunday, July 30th. Tables were built under the beautiful trees in the yard and when the baskets were unloaded a bountiful dinner was laid, to which all did ample justice.

The guests were entertained with music and a social time was enjoyed by all. The real feature of the afternoon was a hotly contested ball game between the Wright team and the Douglas team, which resulted in a score of 14 to 5 in favor of the Douglas team.

After the ball game, ice cream and cake and watermelon were served by the hostess. All departed at a late hour, declaring Mr. and Mrs. Honeywell royal entertainers. Guests were present from Salem, Superior, Plymouth, Redford, Detroit, Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor, Brighton, Manistee, Toledo and Columbus, Ohio. A cordial invitation was extended to the company by Mrs. Beyers of Toledo, to attend another such picnic at Toledo Beach, August 18th.

HORSESHOE PITCHER

EVERY WAYNE COUNTY MAN WANTED AT FARM BUREAU-GRANGE PICNIC ON NEXT WEDNESDAY.

The real superb, paramount part of the Wayne county Farm Bureau-Grange coordinate picnic which will be held at Carpenter's Grove, on Michigan avenue, two miles west of Wayne, on next Wednesday, the 9th of August, will be the horseshoe pitching contest. At least twenty teams are promised. Preliminaries will start at 10 a. m. and continue until noon. The rules of the national association will govern and the winners will be challenged to meet with the very best from other counties. The committee wishes it understood that this contest is opened to all bonified residents of Wayne county, no matter what their occupation may be, but being a real farmers' game, it is presumed that that profession will have the largest representation in the entry list.

Plenty of free parking space at Carpenter's Grove for all automobiles; also interurban cars stop right at the gate.

Community picnics at noon. Every Grange, club of farmers and community organization, can at this time get together for a good old fashioned reunion.

The program for the afternoon consists really of one number, an address by Congressman John C. Ketchum, former master of the Michigan State Grange, who will tell about what is being done at Washington for the benefit of agriculture. Mr. Ketchum is so well known to Wayne county folks that he does not need an introduction, and every member of the Grange well knows that any word that he brings from Washington will be both accurate and official.

PATCHEN SCHOOL REUNION

The picnic and reunion of the Patchen school, Nankin District No. 3, will be held on the school grounds, on the car line between Warren avenue and King road, Saturday, August 12. A basket lunch at noon. There will be a program in the afternoon. Bring your family and meet your old schoolmates and teachers of days gone by.

ABOUT FLYING
Col. J. G. Vincent, the man who designed the Liberty motor, believes that families touring by airplane soon may be a common sight. Touring planes, he predicts, will be unlike the ones developed by the war. They will be built primarily for comfort and safety, rather than for terrific speed and heavy weight. All of which is interesting to contemplate. Touring in the air will eliminate road troubles, and for this reason taxpayers around Plymouth wouldn't care if the family airplane came into common use tomorrow. They would also do away with punctures and blowouts, and lots of money could be saved in that way. But, however successful they may become, there will always be a certain number ready to argue that flying is all right for those who like it, but one advantage in favor of sticking to the road is the bottom never falls out of a road and lets you drop a mile or so.

YOUR WAGES
Uncle Sam has been doing some more research work, with the result that some interesting wage figures have just been given out. He shows that the combined wages, salaries and other incomes of all Americans in 1919 averaged $627 for every man, woman and child. The Plymouth man who desires to find out if he did as well or better than the average man can do so by multiplying $627 by the number of members in his family, himself included, and then comparing that with the total amount he earned in 1919. For instance, if there are four in your family, husband, wife and two children, the husband should have earned $2,508 in 1919 to have struck the average. If but two in a family, and only one wage-earner, then he should have earned $1254. But there is this to remember when you do your figuring—it was a year in which more was earned, and more was spent, than during any year in history of the present generation.

THE COMMUNITY CLUB
We have just read in a neighboring paper of a plan tried out by town and rural citizens that we believe could be worked in Plymouth and community most beneficially. The business men of the town got together and set the date for a mass meeting. Then they mailed out invitations to farmers surrounding the town for several miles, urging them to be present at the mass meeting. Many came. Lunch and hot coffee were served and set speeches were not permitted. The villagers said they wanted to meet the farmers and their families on the basis of genuine friendship. Then someone proposed the formation of a "Community Club," to be made up of residents of both the town and the countryside. The idea was accepted, and so enthusiastic have the people of that community become that monthly meetings, at which good programs are enjoyed and warmer friendship formed, are growing constantly in attendance and interest. Personally, we think this is one of the biggest things that could happen to any community. It gives the business men a better understanding of each other's interests; it brings the women into closer bonds of friendship, and it forever abolishes the old belief among young folks that there is any difference at all between town and country breeding. We only wish this community could awaken whole-heartedly to the advantages of such a Community Club."

Misunderstanding
Russ made such a mess of this space last week that I would like to say a few words myself. I was not connected with any case either full or empty, but I have been busy. However, that should not warrant my space being taken up with steam shovels, etc., unless you have profited by what he told you. Russ said that's all an ad's good for is to tell 'em what you want to say and he did. I might add that there are people who go without fire insurance, but they are no different than those who do not protect their property to the fullest extent of their ability. We, in this business we have built up in Plymouth, are continuing to post ourselves on the various kinds of insurance, and as we make this our business we are in a position to tender you the best service in this line. The mere formality of taking out some insurance is not all there is to protection by any means. When you buy insurance you should use the same good business judgment that you would in buying any other item of value. When you suffer a loss and can depend on quick and fair settlement without unnecessary trouble, then you will appreciate service as it is rendered by a real insurance agency. The slogan, "Buy at Home," applies to insurance as well as other commodities.

NEWBURG

There was an attendance of forty in Sunday-school, last Sabbath. Service at 11:00; Sunday-school immediately after. Everyone welcome. All the children had a great time at the Sunday-school picnic on the flats, last Friday afternoon. There was swimming, and also running races for which prizes were given. Through the kindness of Mr. Holmes and Lawrence a fine swing was put up. That, with sandwiches, cake and all the ice cream they could eat, they surely spent a happy afternoon. The L. A. S. will hold their regular meeting on Friday afternoon, August 11th, at the L. A. S. hall, instead of Wednesday afternoon, on account of the Farm Bureau picnic held on Wednesday. Everyone is urged to attend this meeting, and see how nice the interior of the hall looks. Please bring all quilt blocks, also needle and thimble to tie comforts.

William Smith returned home, Monday from a few days' outing, visiting friends in Toledo. Mrs. Henry Grimm and Mrs. George Gorton called on Mrs. Spencer Heenev at Farmington, last Thursday afternoon.

Generally has been laid up with lameness for the past week. Miss Beulah Ryder is spending the week with a party of Plymouth girls at Island Lake.

Miss Beatrice Davey is spending a week's vacation at the home of her parents.

Mrs. Jesse Jewell has a fine collection of begonias that's worth going to see.

Mrs. C. E. Ryder entertained for Sunday dinner: Mrs. M. Eva Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ryder, Burt Paddock and sons, Charles and Dwight, of Detroit.

Mrs. John Thompson's father, Charles Hammon, and uncle, Samuel Hammon, of South Lyon, spent a part of last week at the Thompson home.

They say the crowd always follows the band. It looked like it last Friday night from the way Newburg people went to Beech to the social. The entertainment was fine.

If some of the state police were stationed a mile north of Newburg, it would be a good thing for the community.

PERRINSVILLE

A goodly number were out to church, Sunday morning, at which time Rev. Wise preached one of his good sermons. Church service at 9:30. Everybody welcome.

The M. E. church will give an ice cream social, August 16th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Whitsel, at Warren avenue and Merriam road. Wise wishes a meeting of the stewards of the church, Sunday after the services.

There will be a meeting at Newburg, August 12, of the church boards of Perrinsville, Newburg and Beech. All the members should be present.

TIE TELEPHONE

REMEMBER the telephone! For what is the use of our wonderful modern civilization if we don't take advantage of all its conveniences? And that is just what the telephone is—a convenience.

Yet for the sake of saving five or ten or twenty cents, sometimes, some of us ignore the existence of the telephone, and cause thereby untold worry to our family and our friends.

For instance, you have told your family that you will be home at four o'clock to take a little motor trip before dinner. You are delayed at the office, and know you won't be able to get home until seven. Telephone them, and put their minds at rest about the change of your plans. Or you are delayed by a block on the subway or street car line on the way to a friend's house for a luncheon engagement. Telephone her, instead of arriving three-quarters of an hour late, full of apologies. Or perhaps you take a taxi to the station to catch a train to a friend's house for a week-end visit. The taxi is caught in a traffic jam and you miss the train. Telephone, so that the friend who is expecting you won't wait anxiously for your train to arrive.

It is a far better thing to use the telephone to explain away worries and doubts and misunderstandings than to use it as a means of disseminating neighborhood gossip.

WHY? DO SERVANTS WEAR LIVERY

AS MIGHT be deduced from the fact that the word "livery" is of French origin—derived from the verb "livrer," "to deliver"—the custom of clothing servants in a uniform started in France where it was the habit of the early French kings to give clothes to their servants. Because these outfits were given or delivered free of charge, the uniforms were spoken of as "liveries" and the custom gradually spread until all of the nobility and even some of the gentry were clothing their servants. As a means of differentiating between the servants of various houses, the uniforms were made of contrasting colors and varying styles, and the French verb, when translated into English, became "livery."

In England, however, the term has had a number of meanings. During the reign of Edward IV, for example, it appears to have been synonymous with "badge," because this mark of service consisted of a crest or coat-of-arms worn upon the left sleeve—much as the men of the American expeditionary force wore an arm badge or insignia to designate the regiment to which they belonged. Like other uniforms, the servants' livery gradually became standardized and today there is far less latitude in the choice of servants' clothing of this kind than there was in the Middle Ages.

WITH THAT FIRST MILLION

Harold Hope Has Planned to Have Many Things, but the First is a Marble Swimming Pool.

"When I make my first million," said Harold Hope carelessly, "I'm going to build my house."

Harold has so many things to do when he makes his first million that there is some anxiety in the minds of his friends as to whether the money will suffice to pay for them all. A million doesn't go so very far nowadays, you know, observes a New York Sun writer.

"My house," continued Harold, undisturbed by any doubts on that score, "is not going to be like other people's houses. Oh! it's going to be a very original house in many ways. And the one feature of it that I delight in more than anything else about my house is the swimming pool."

"I've always from childhood wanted to have my own private marble swimming pool, with a tame seal in it to skylark with me when I take my plunge. And my dream is going to be realized when I make my first million and build my house. I haven't quite decided whether to have a seal or a sea lion. Whichever I select, I'll probably end by getting a pair of 'em."

Harold's eyes kindled at the thought, and he exclaimed:

"Won't it be wonderful to have those beautiful animals to sport with in the water? You see, a seal swims for enjoyment. It swims for business, too, of course, but when it hasn't any business to swim it just swims for enjoyment. If you watch 'em in their tanks at the aquarium or the zoo you'll see that they take a positively voluptuous joy in their element."

"There's an infinite graceful abandon in the air with which they circle round and round on their backs, or go plunging like porpoises, making a tremendous splash, playing tricks on each other and then at intervals rearing themselves out of the water, pointing their noses as high as they can, and trying to look as if they never broke a plate."

"And the sea lions have the most beautiful eyes in the world, bar none—I don't even except the giraffes, the llamas or the anteaters. And they're very gentle when you domesticate 'em and train 'em. I bet they'll enjoy having a master who swims with 'em every day. Of course I'll get young ones and break 'em in gradually to swimming with me."

"You see, I'm very much the same class of swimmer as the seal family. Maybe I was a sea lion in my last life. Anyhow, I make myself one with the water, just as the seals do. I love to slide lazily down among the rocks of the water lilies, and mosey around below the surface with a very seal-like joy in the element. And I look forward to having great games with my pet sea lions when I bathe in my marble tank in the house I mean to build when I make my first million."

Max Was Cautious.

After refusing the slightest assistance to the writer of a book just issued entitled "Max Beerholm in Perspective," Max continues in the course of his letter: "I remember several books about men who, not yet dead, had blantly aided and abetted the author; and I remember what awful asses those men seemed to me thereby to have made of themselves. Two of them were rather great men. They could afford to make awful asses of themselves. I, who am 100 miles away from being great, cannot afford such luxuries, so my gifts are small. I've used them very well and discreetly, never straining them; and the result is that I've made a charming little reputation. But that reputation is a frail plant. Don't over-attend to it, Gardner Lynch! Don't drench and deluge it! The contents of a quite small watering-can will be quite enough." And then comes this cautionary advice: "Be judicial. . . . Don't, by dithyrambs, hasten the reaction of critics against me. Tend rather to underrate me—so that those who don't care for my words shall not be incensed, and those who do shall rally round me."—Boston Transcript.

Cars Pulled by Balloon.

Hochstaufen, near Bad Reichenhain, in Germany, will soon have one of the most peculiar railways in the world. It will run up a steep mountain side, and will be operated by a balloon.

The mountain is so steep that no ordinary way of locomotion would do, so it has been planned to hitch a balloon to the car that makes the up trip, and have it practically lift the car to the top of the hill. But the car will be held to the earth by clamps that will retain the wheels close to the rails, and the upward tendency of the balloon will furnish the power.

The big bag of gas will be 67 feet in diameter, and will have a lifting capacity of about 10,000 pounds.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Uncommon Sense
 JOHN BLAKE

TEN YEARS

TO THE boy of eight, ten years is an eternity. Ten years ago he had no existence. Ten years more and he will be a man in stature—a size that seems to him far beyond attainment.

To the boy of twenty-one, ten years, while not a lifetime, is a long stretch ahead.

At the end of the coming ten years he will be well on his way to wherever he is going, success or failure.

If he could understand just how much those ten years mean, just what can be done with them, just what they will yield if rightly cultivated, there would be far less trouble and distress in the world.

To the man of forty, ten years are ten years which must not be wasted. The next ten years are his best, as far as productivity is concerned. If he has not made the last ten years count, he still has a chance with the next ten.

After that, unless he is a phenomenon, the chance will be gone. He can progress after fifty, go farther than he has ever gone, but rarely unless he is going strong on his fiftieth birthday.

Look at your remaining years as an asset. Examine the next ten of them for opportunity, and see if you can allot to each enough work to carry you at a better pace into the next decade.

Ten years wisely employed at any time after twenty ought to make a man either a success or a failure.

They may not be enough to bring a fortune, but they ought to bring habits and methods which later will insure independence.

Compare the next ten years with the last, and determine that these stretches of time, now empty and unimproved, shall be filled with achievement that is worth while.

You can put into them almost anything you choose—work, effort, thought, or idling, and time wasting.

Almost any man can be made or broken in ten years. You have at least that time before you if you are the age of the average newspaper reader.

Make up your mind that even if the last ten years counted for nothing the next ten will count for much. Make that purpose, and stick to it. And these coming ten years will be the best you have ever known.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"VILLAIN"
 HISTORY, which has a habit of repeating itself, runs true to form in a number of words, as may be seen by the comparison of the changes undergone by "villain" and "villain."

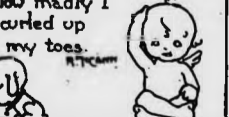

The former, as we have seen, first meant a dweller in a village (pagus), then a heathen villager and then a heathen.

Similarly, "villain" was originally applied to the serf or peasant, known as "villanus" because he was attached to the villa or farm. In this sense it had no opprobrious meaning whatever, being practically a synonym for our word "countryman" or "rustic." Then, because it was taken for granted that the peasant would be churlish, selfish, dishonest, and generally of evil moral conditions—referring, of course, only to the peasants of other days—the word began to take on these secondary characteristics, and, at the third step, nothing of the meaning which the etymology suggests survives. The peasant is entirely lost, and the evil moral conditions of him who is called by this name alone remain, for, in its final stage, the epithet may be as freely applied to the peer as to the pauper. In fact, thanks to popular fiction and the even more popular screen, the current visualization of a villain is that of a well-dressed, black-mustached, cigarette-smoking person, bred within the mocha cramped confines of the big city rather than raised in the theoretically pure atmosphere of the farm. Thus do words swing around until their meaning points in a direction precisely opposite to that in which they started.

ANNIVERSARIES SAD TO SOME

According to Professor, Those of Victoria Recall Bereavement; While as for Tin Weddings—

"There is always an element of sadness in the celebration of an anniversary," remarked the professor, laying down his paper with a sigh.

"How can you say anything so pessimistic? Why, I think anniversaries are just lovely!" cried his wife.

"Only when we succeed in forgetting that they are anniversaries," retorted the professor. "The very fact that they remind us of the inevitable passage of time gives them a fundamental sadness to begin with but that is not what I meant."

"I was thinking of Mothers' day with all its reminders of bereavement, and then it suddenly occurred to me that the original occasions of almost all annual celebrations contained sadness for somebody."

"The other day came the anniversary of Sherman's march to the sea. With what feelings, do you suppose that reminder is received by survivors of the unfortunates who lived in the great general's devastating path? And so it is with the anniversaries of all battles and victories. Even the rejoicings of the victorious side are tempered with the sorrows of those who lost sons in the conflict."

"Some anniversaries are sad," confessed the professor's wife, "like Memorial day and Good Friday, but most of them are awfully happy, like Christmas and the glorious Fourth."

"Please don't remind me of those most melancholy festivities, Isolde," growled the professor, "with their artificial and unwholesome stimulation of the young and their inescapable depression of the—er—middle aged."

"Well, at least you will admit, dear," said Isolde, "that wedding anniversaries are happy occasions."

"Ghastly!" cried the professor. "I never remember being so wretched in my life as I was at the tin wedding you insisted on our inviting our friends to. Really, my treasure, I trust you will never do that again."

"Of course not," said Isolde sharply. "We couldn't have another tin wedding, but we'll have a silver wedding when the time comes, and meanwhile I think we'll have an aluminum wedding, or a silk wedding, or—in fact, just as many anniversaries as we are entitled to."

"Heaven help me!" cried the professor. "For my part I feel with the poet that, 'The holiest of all holidays are those kept by ourselves in silence and apart.' The secret anniversaries of the heart!"

Effect of Franz Liszt.

Autograph letters, trinkets and other articles associated with Franz Liszt have been brought to this country by Rudolph Siegel at the request of the composer's heirs, remarks the New York Herald, for whose benefit they are to be sold.

Included in the collection of eighty items is a death mask and a lock of Liszt's long gray hair. The genuineness of the latter is attested by Lena Schaulhausen, who was the housekeeper at the Liszt home at the time of his death, in 1886. The case, which is in a glass case, is in excellent condition. A prayer book, much used and worn by the great composer, is an item closely woven with his life as the two presentation books given to him on his seventieth birthday, October 22, 1881.

One of these books contains many autographs of musicians who were famous during this period. In Hans von Bulow, eminent pianist, is represented in two separate autographed notations. Translated from his script, which is in German, they read: "As soon as we artists are able to emancipate ourselves from the poisonous atmosphere of envy and fear we will be enabled to consider ourselves the pinnacles of aristocracy and music as photographable reproduction of the necessities of eternity."

Thirty letters in French and thirteen in German comprise the collection of letters, among which is correspondence from Theresa Carreno, Carl Tausig and Pablo de Sarasate.

Rats Infest English Town.

A Nottingham (Eng.) municipal medical officer has this to say about rats in his city: "A half million rats, some two feet long and weighing two pounds, inhabit the prehistoric subterranean passages of the city. They would attack elephants. They have rats and devoured muskoxen, ferrets and wildcats, and men do not dare invade their haunts. An undeterred female cat alone is superior to a big rat. The city tried poisoning them, but the rats quickly discovered the food was tampered with and they refused to eat it." Asphyxiating poison gas has been suggested to rid Nottingham of the horde of rodents.

United States Land of Phones.

At the end of 1921 there were 13,250,000 telephones in residences and places of business with which any Bell system telephone can be connected. The United States, with only one-sixteenth of the population of the world, has two-thirds of the world's telephones. The average daily exchange and toll connections amounted to more than 35,000,000, or a total of 12,000,000,000 calls for the year.

DAVID FRIDAY GIVES FARM INCOME FACTS

RAILWAY WAGES AND AGRICULTURAL PROFITS SUBJECT OF COMPARISON BY M. A. C. HEAD.

That value of agricultural products in the United States, as compared with the compensation of railway employees, has suffered a relative loss during recent years, and that farmers as a whole consequently favor proposed wage reductions for the railroads, is the conclusion reached by President David Friday, of the Michigan Agricultural College, in an article which has appeared in current issue of the Review of Reviews, national magazine.

Statistics presented by President Friday in analyzing the farmer's position show that whereas the total value of agricultural products in the United States was more than twenty-three billion dollars in 1919, it fell off to a little more than twelve billion in 1921, with an estimate of thirteen billions for 1922. Compensation of railway employees, on the other hand, has fallen from two billion eight hundred and forty-three million in 1919 to two billion eight hundred million in 1921, and an estimate of two billion six hundred million for 1922, a slight decrease as compared with the farmers' earning power.

In view of the further fact that the farmer believes that the size of silver-labor's wages, because of the effect on freight rates, has a very direct effect upon the price which he receives for his product, he naturally looks with favor upon lowered wages, according to Friday.

Commenting editorially upon the present agricultural situation, the Review of Reviews speaks of President Friday's article as "evidence that there is a strong and positive public opinion among the farmers of the country, that must be taken into account in the future adjustment of large problems that affect public welfare."

LIVONIA LUTHERAN CHURCH.

Last Sunday was a day long to be remembered by the church at Livonia Center. A very large crowd gathered to witness the confirmation of the children on that day. In spite of the fact that a double row of chairs was placed in the aisle, many could find no seats and had to stand throughout the service. After a brief examination, the pastor preached on the text, Romans 1:16, admonishing all present to remain faithful to their Saviour Jesus Christ, and like Paul not to be ashamed of His gospel.

Next Sunday there will be no services at the Center. Everybody is cordially invited to attend the services at Wayne. In the afternoon at 3:00 p. m., the Ladies' Aid society of Wayne, celebrates its twentieth anniversary, with a special divine service. Rev. K. Lorenz of Clarenceville, will deliver the sermon. After the service, the L. A. S. will serve supper to all present in the basement of the church.

The ladies wish to thank all who so kindly helped to make it a success, especially the band and the gentleman who went for them and took them back, and to Mr. Ford for the pictures and the ladies who furnished the cake. It was heard on all sides, that a delightful evening had been spent.

Same Old Story but a Good One. And Now—Profit in Farming Without the Drudgery

FORDSON power makes more productive seed beds and the tractor does its work so rapidly that farm drudgery is passing. Expenses are reduced. Better crops are grown.

For the job of plowing tough or sticky soils, Fordson farmers use the OLIVER DISC FLOW and do the work easily and well. The thoroughness of its work has made this plow standard equipment with the Fordson.

Penetration in the toughest soils is assured by the design of the plow which throws its weight to the cutting edge of the discs where they enter the ground. This penetration is easily varied for different soils. By simply turning a crank screw, the penetrating power is increased or decreased.

Improved scrapers give a mouldboard effect. They leave a well pulverized seed bed and cover all trash.

To farm the new way means so small an investment that it is within easy reach of every farmer. Come in and see the Fordson and the OLIVER SPECIAL DISC GANG for the Fordson, and you, too, will decide to be a Fordson farmer.

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

DON'T BLAME THE WAR

DON'T you get tired of hearing people say, day after day, "Well, it was different before the war?"

A middle-aged woman said the other day that when she was a child she used to hear her mother and grandmother talk about the good old days before the war. She used to say to herself, with childish satisfaction, "Well, anyway I'll never have to do that." But today she is doing just that same thing—talking about the good old days before the war.

Perhaps that is the way of the world. Perhaps our Colonial ancestors used to remember the pleasant conditions before the Revolutionary war. Perhaps France looked longingly back a hundred years ago to the days before the Napoleonic war. Perhaps mankind will always talk of pre-war days with longing.

But just remember that the really well-bred thing just at present is not to refer too often to the war, not to blame everything unpleasant in life to the war. You can find out just by trying that if you refrain from blaming the war for the unpleasant things of just one day, you will have made the war seem just that much further away. One way for us to help the statesmen and politicians solve the peace problem is to forget the war.

YOUR HAND

How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm.

ILLNESS SHOWN IN THE HAND

AS HUMAN KIND is subject to the affliction of very many varieties of disease, so the signs or marks of these illnesses in the hand are many and varied.

A line rising from the line of life and ending in an island on the mount of Saturn, beneath the middle finger, is a sign of pleurisy. Rheumatism, or a tendency toward that widespread disease, is shown by a skin that has a satiny feel. A fork at the termination of the line of life is also a sign, with fine lines crossing downward at the commencement of the line of the heart.

Scarlet fever is shown by a small square on the line of life, the square bearing on its inside an upright cross. Very narrow and curved nails show danger of spinal disease. Peril of sunstroke is shown by an island on the line of the head under the mount of the sun, which lies at the base of the ring finger. If the hand shows a long and wavy line of the heart, with a line of health that is also wavy, and has the second phalanx of the fingers relatively longer than the others the subject will suffer from poor health.

BECKER FAMILY REUNION

A very pleasant gathering occurred last Sunday, at the home of Miss Theda Hicks at Fenton, when Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Becker and all their children and grandchildren to the number of twenty-eight, gathered at a picnic grove on Miss Hicks' farm, where there are tables and seats. There were also relatives from Owosso, Laingsburg and Fenton present. A pot-luck dinner, with everything good to eat, was served. There were forty-three present. The day was ideal, and everyone enjoyed it to the utmost. Those who attended from Plymouth were: Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Becker, Byron, Thurber and Mable Becker, Otto Reamer, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Jewell and Durward, Mr. and Mrs. Ford Becker, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Rorabacher, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Blunk and Madeline; also Mr. and Mrs. Paul Becker and little daughter, Marie, of Northville. The meeting place was the childhood home of Mrs. F. L. Becker, Miss Theda being her sister.
