Mr. Edison
it to you

Mr. Edison doesn't want you to buy his phonograph on a "hunch." He gives you proof positive that the New Edison should be your one and only logical choice.

Over 3,000 times, before over 3,000,000 people, the New Edison has successfully sustained the test of direct comparison with living artists.

No other phonograph has dared this test. Draw your own conclusions. Then come and hear an exact replica of the instrument used in these startling tests.

PLYMOUTH DAY AT THE NORTHVILLE FAIR

EVERYTHING IS ALL SET FOR PLYMOUTH DAY AT THE NORTHVILLE FAIR, THURSDAY, SEPT. 28th; LOCAL COMMITTEE HAVE PLANNED FOR A BIG PARADE; EVERYBODY IS GOING.

Everybody in Plymouth and the surrounding country is planning on attending the Northville fair, next Thursday, September 28th, which has been set apart as Plymouth day at the fair. The local committee from the Chamber of Commerce have planned a monster parade, which will leave Kellogg park at 12:30 o'clock sharp. Everybody who has an auto is urged to join in this parade. The Millard band will furnish the music. The Plymouth schools will be in line, and the merchants and other business places of the village, will have a car representing their line of business in the parade. The committee has other plans under way that are sure to make the parade a regular hummer. A suitable windshield card will also be provided for every car. On arrival at the fair ground, the parade will go once around the race course. Everybody is urged to turn out and make this parade the success it should be, and thereby show our neighbors that we are interested in their fair and its success. Remember, Thursday afternoon, September 28th, is the day. Business in general will practically be suspended in Plymouth, and it is expected that every business place will close for the afternoon. Arrangements have been made with the fair officials, so that tickets will be available here before any confusion at the gate. Be in line at 12:30 o'clock sharp. Decorate your car and make it a gala occasion. Let's go.

The Penniman Allen theatre reopened, Wednesday evening, and two large audiences saw Charles Ray in "A Tallor Made Man." Everybody was delighted with the beautiful appearance of the newly decorated theatre. Doniel Patterson's four-piece orchestra furnished excellent music.

SEPTEMBER WEDDINGS

TILTON-CONNER

The spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Conner on Penniman avenue, was the scene of a very pretty home wedding, last Wednesday afternoon, September 20th, when their youngest daughter, Elizabeth Jane, was united in marriage to Gardner Tilton of Concord, New Hampshire. The house was attractively decorated with beautiful pink and green hydrangea blossoms and ferns. At four o'clock the bridal party, to the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal March, played on the piano by Miss Alvina Streng, took their places in the living room in front of a bower of these beautiful fall blossoms, where, in the presence of about sixty friends and relatives, the marriage service was impressively read by Rev. B. F. Farber of Pittsburgh, Pa., former pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this place. The beautiful ring service was used.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white crepe de chine over white silk with pearl trimming, and her tulle veil was fastened with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Maxwell Moon, who acted as matron of honor, and wore a becoming gown of orange Russian art crepe. Her bouquet was of pink roses and autumn flowers. Little Margaret Dale Moon, niece of the bride, in white dotted organza, was flower girl, and carried a basket of rose petals. Master Jack Wilcox, young son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilcox, cousin of the bride, and Master Edwin Tilton, nephew of the groom were ribbon bearers. Clarence Ryan of Detroit, a Harvard chum of the groom, served as best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held and refreshments served.

Mrs. Conner, mother of the bride, wore a gown of grey Spanish lace with georgette crepe over silk, and Mrs. Tilton, mother of the groom, was tastefully gowned in black lace over silk.

During the afternoon, the bride and groom left for Quebec and a boat trip down the St. Lawrence river. They will be at home after October first, at No. 48 Pleasant street, Concord, New Hampshire. Their gifts were beautiful and substantial, the groom's gift to the bride being a handsome diamond pin.

The bride is one of Plymouth's best known and popular young ladies. She was a graduate of the Plymouth High school, being a member of the 1918 graduating class, and also a member of the 1922 graduating class of the Sargent School of Physical Education at Cambridge, Mass. The groom is a graduate of Harvard University of the class of 1920, and for the past two years has been associated with Stratton & Company, flour and grain dealers at Concord, New Hampshire. The best wishes of a host of Plymouth friends go with them to their new home.

The following out of town guests attended the wedding. Dr. and Mrs. J. Odin Tilton, parents of the groom, and the Misses Katherine and Eleanor Tilton of Lexington, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Tilton and little son, Edwin O., of Worcester, Mass.; Clarence Ryan, Miss Helen M'Clure, William Graves, Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Burgess and daughter, Katherine, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sage of Detroit; Mrs. John F. Moon of Highland Park; Dewey Hawthorne of Redford; and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Roberts of Royal Oak.

WILLIAMS-HAVERSHAW

Miss Ruby Williams, daughter of Mrs. Fred Williams, of this place, and B. Clare Havershaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Havershaw, also of Plymouth, were quietly united in marriage last Saturday afternoon, September 16th, at 2:30 o'clock, at the Calvary Presbyterian church, Detroit, the pastor, Rev. Sutherland officiating. They were accompanied by the bride's brother and wife, Mr.

and Mrs. Claude Williams, of Detroit. Later in the day, Mr. and Mrs. Havershaw went to their new home at 5002 Ivanhoe avenue, Detroit, which had been furnished and was awaiting them. Both young people are well and favorably known here, having spent the greater part of their lives in Plymouth and having attended the Plymouth schools. The bride is a member of the 1918 graduating class. Mr. Havershaw is a member of Plymouth Rock Lodge F. & A. M., and both young people are members of Plymouth Chapter O. E. S. The bride is also a member of the L. O. T. M. of this place. The groom has a position as salesman with the Union Paper and Twine Co. of Detroit, and the best wishes of Plymouth friends go with them for happiness and success.

WATTS-ROBINSON

Miss Blanche A. Robinson of this place, and William C. Watts of Detroit, were quietly married by Rev. Frank M. Field, pastor of the Martha Holmes Memorial church, Detroit, at the parsonage in that city, Wednesday, September 20. They will make their home in Detroit. They have the best wishes of many Plymouth friends.

CHAMPAGNE-MICOL

Miss Anna Micol, formerly of this place, was united in marriage to Harry Champagne of Grosse Pointe Farms, Friday, September 15th, and will reside in their new home on Grosse Pointe boulevard, on their return from their wedding trip.

ANNUAL MISSION FESTIVAL

St. Peter's Lutheran congregation will celebrate its annual mission festival next Sunday. The morning service will be in German, beginning at 10:30. Rev. John Kempf, of near Ann Arbor, former missionary among the heathens in India, will preach. The service in the afternoon at 2:30 will be in English, and Rev. Alfred Maas from Northfield, will preach. In the evening, Rev. C. E. Krahnke from Detroit, will lecture on his work in our county and the city of Detroit institutions. This service begins at 7:30. Collections will be lifted in all services, the proceeds to be applied to missions. The Ladies' Aid society will serve dinner and supper in the church basement.

REV. D. D. NAGLE RETURNS TO PLYMOUTH

The Methodist conference held at Pontiac last week, returned the Rev. D. D. Nagle to the Plymouth church for another year. It was the unanimous wish of the members of the local church and congregation that Rev. Nagle be returned here, where his work as pastor has been most successful and satisfactory, indeed. Under his leadership the church has continued to prosper and grow in every department of the church life.

IT LOOKS BRIGHTER
While the hot, dry weather of late August and early September has resulted in some damage to the corn crop, there is still every indication that the nation will produce the 1,000,000,000 estimated by the Agricultural department. With the exception of oats, which made a poor crop, and wheat, which is somewhat below the average, all crops are up to or close to average and some, notably corn and potatoes, will be above average. With crops good and prices coming back, the American farmer seems to be assured of something closely approaching prosperity. The last two years have been discouraging for residents of rural districts, and a break in their luck will be welcome. Prices are now well above the pre-war level, and while there is no reason to expect a return to boom levels, there likewise is no reason to fear that the unprofitable prices of the readjustment period of 1920-21 will return. Plymouth people do not need to be told that when money finds its way to the rural sections, it quickly finds its way to town. And that's why news of the big crops at good prices should interest everybody.

M. A. C. STOCK GET STATE FAIR RIBBONS

HIGH AWARDS GO TO HORSES, CATTLE AND SHEEP EXHIBITED BY COLLEGE AT DETROIT.

Horses, cattle and sheep exhibited by the Michigan Agricultural College at the Michigan State Fair at Detroit have come home adorned with many ribbons. The complete list of winnings have been announced by R. S. Hudson, superintendent of the M. A. C. farm, who was in charge of the horse exhibit, and by G. A. Brown, professor of animal husbandry, in charge of the cattle and sheep.

The college herd of draft horses which carried off honors at the Ohio State Fair during the previous week repeated its triumphs at Detroit. Langwater Model, a two-year-old, was junior and grand champion among the Clydesdales, defeating his full brother, Langwater Fashion, exhibited by the Cuyungham Stables, Wilkes Barre, Pa.

In Percherons, the three-year-old college horse Librite was second and reserve senior champion, being defeated by Jerome, son of last year's grand champion Laet, himself reserve champion at Chicago in 1921 and grand champion at Ohio and Michigan this year.

The stallion Jupiter was second and reserve champion among Belgians and the mare Betty d' Camille was first prize two-year-old and junior and reserve grand champion. Other prizes were taken by Percheron and Belgian mares.

First and second steer herd were awarded to the M. A. C. cattle exhibit. Additional ribbons included first senior yearling, Shorthorn bull, second two-year-old Aberdeen Angus bull, second aged Hereford bull and others.

Grand champion and reserve champion wether went to M. A. C. sheep, as well as first medium wool yearling, first medium wool lamb and first fine wool yearling.

SCHOOL NOTES

These school notes are written by Donald Beyer.

There are sixty pupils enrolled in the first grade. Ardath Baker of this grade is ill with scarlet fever.

There are forty-four sixth graders in Miss Sundley's room, nine of whom are in the 4th A and thirty-five in the 4th B.

Katherine Hallahan visited the sixth grade room, Friday. The sixth A is studying French exploration.

David Alexander of the sixth grade, has left for Indiana to work on a farm.

Irene Anderson of the fifth grade, is ill this week.

The library opened last Tuesday. All history classes will start work in the "Literary Digest," this week.

The Aggie Club held its first meeting, Wednesday noon. The following officers were elected: President, Olivias Williams; vice president, Carl Ash; secretary, Margaret Amrhein; executive committee, Dorothy McCumpha, Daniel Murphy. Meetings are being planned for each week of the school year.

Contests have been arranged for the Northville Fair for student judging of live stock, corn and apples. Five students from each school will be allowed in each contest. The following schools have been invited to take part. Plymouth, Ypsilanti, Monroe, Howell, Holly. The Northville Fair Association deserves credit for the spirit which will put on such a contest, when their own school is not eligible to compete because they have no agricultural course. To show its support of the movement, Plymouth United Savings Bank has agreed to provide a cup as a permanent trophy for first place.

All boys taking physical training are required to wear gymnasium suits this year.

Soccer teams are being organized among the fifth and sixth grade boys.

Wanted—5000 foot ball fans. Think foot ball, talk foot ball, play foot ball. Get the "Rock" spirit. Foot ball prospects are good. There are thirty candidates and a shortage of suits, which shows the "Rock" spirit. Eleven letter men from last year's team, of which "Ted" Strasen is captain are working hard to keep their positions. The first game will be Thursday at the Northville Fair. The schedule will be as follows:

- Sept. 22—Open.
- Sept. 28—Northville.
- Oct. 6—Royal Oak, there.
- Oct. 13—Open.
- Oct. 20—Howell, there.
- Oct. 27—Ford City, here.
- Nov. 3—Dearborn, there.
- Nov. 10—Farmington, here.
- Nov. 17—Redford, there.
- Nov. 24—Wayne, here.

The election by the whole body of High school students of the members of the Board in Control of Athletics resulted as follows: President of Athletic Association and chairman of executive board of control, Marion Kiehl; senior high boy representative, Olivias Williams; senior high girl representative, Margaret Amrhein; junior representative, Elsie White.

KING'S CORNERS

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Parrish of Holly, and their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Parrish of Flint, were Sunday guests of the former's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parrish, of this place.

George Hix, Sr., is very low at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kaiser and daughters, Lillian and Lottie, and son, Norman, were recent callers at the parental home.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Coopersmith and little daughter, Evelyn, were week-end guests of Mrs. Coopersmith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pisarek.

Mrs. Pettibone was calling on Mrs. Hix and Mrs. Parrish, Monday.

Samuel Urbanick has been confined to the bed the past week, and is under the care of Dr. Earle of Wayne.

Mrs. Hamilton of Detroit, spent Tuesday with her sister, Mrs. Charles Parrish.

Mrs. Titus Ruff of Plymouth, spent Friday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hix.

Mrs. Josephine Hix is spending several days with her son, Perry Hix and family, near Plymouth.

School started this week in the new school house at Cady's Corners.

BAPTIST NOTES

Sunday morning service found quite a number of strangers in the audience, and in the evening many of our M. E. friends came in to worship with us. We were glad to have them with us.

During the Sunday-school, the birthday offering was called for, and Mrs. Mary Hodge, who was 85 last Monday, sent her offering to the box. She is better at this writing, but last week was very sick.

Harold Holcomb and Harold Wilskie led the B. Y. P. U. last Sunday. The discussion was about education, and some good thoughts were brought out touching upon christian schools.

This week Friday evening, the Ladies' Division under the direction of Mrs. Hugh Daly, will have a sock and apron social. A pot-luck supper will be served at 6:30, and a short program will be given after the receiving of the socks and aprons. Come and enjoy a good social hour.

Remember a week from next Sunday is rally day. Miss Alta Hamill is chairman of the program committee.

LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. George Springer and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pierce made a week-end motor trip to Chatham, Ontario.

Dr. and Mrs. McGillicuddy and two sons, Oliver and Robert, of Lansing, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Shaw and Mrs. Carrie E. Partridge.

LOW APPLE MARKET LESSON TO GROWERS

HIGH CLASS PRODUCT IS YIELDING PROFIT OF $150 PER ACRE. SAYS M. A. C. EXPERT.

Pointing to the fact that some apple growers in Michigan are making profits of $150 an acre in spite of a poor market, Prof. V. R. Gardner of the horticultural department at Michigan Agricultural College, lays stress upon the value of correct cultural methods for orchardists, and declares that "well-grown, perfect winter apples always find a market."

Favorable growing conditions and reasonable care on the part of orchard owners have caused the state yield of apples to be unusually large, but orchards in other sections are also producing great quantities, and the result has been a slump in the market. Prof. Gardner admits the situation is not ideal, yet he says it is bad only by comparison, and then not so bad as it might be. He cites the case of one central Michigan grower, who recently sold his crop of standard winter apples at a figure that will leave him $1.50 to $2 per barrel clear, over and above all producing, picking and handling costs.

"This is not a large margin of profit," says Prof. Gardner, "not so large as it should be, but it means that this year that farm will show a balance on the right side of the ledger. Some will say that this grower has simply been lucky. It wasn't luck. The fruit was sold in open competition with the product from other orchards to an experienced buyer, who knows the value of apples and who doesn't pay more than they are worth. It was simply a case of this grower having first-class fruit that had been thoroughly sprayed and well grown. It was sound. It was worth the money, even as the market is today, and the buyer knew it."

"The lesson is clear. Well grown, perfect winter apples always find a market. The more unsettled the general market conditions are, the greater is the relative advantage of the grower with the better grade fruit. The good grower, the grower with good apples is not discouraged. His experience has taught him that good cultural methods pay. The man who has not given his orchard good care, and this year finds his product a drug on the market, should not be disheartened. Instead he should plan to prune, spray and fertilize in such a manner next season that, regardless of general market conditions, the advantage will be on his side."

The Ideal Purgative
 As a purgative, Chamberlain's Tablets are the exact thing required. Strong enough for the most robust, mild enough for children. They cause an agreeable movement of the bowels without any of that terrible gripping. They are easy and pleasant to take and agreeable in effect.—Advertisement.

JOINED TO WORLD
 People of Tristan da Cunha No Longer Isolated.
 Installation of Wireless Telegraphy Will End Seclusion Which They Seem to Have Enjoyed.
 Tristan da Cunha is the general name for a group of three small volcanic islands belonging to Great Britain situated in the South Atlantic about 2000 miles west of the Cape of Good Hope and about 4000 miles northeast of Cape Horn. Tristan, the largest and northernmost island, has an area of 16 square miles, is circular in form, about seven miles in diameter, and has a volcanic cone (7640 feet), usually capped with snow, in the center. It sometimes happens that Tristan da Cunha remains six months, ten months, a year without receiving news from any part of the world, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.
 The islands were discovered in 1506 by the Portuguese Admiral Tristan (or more correctly Tristao) da Cunha, after whom they are named, during a voyage to India, but it was not until the Nineteenth century that the islands were permanently inhabited. One day an American named Lambert, "late of Salem, Mass. mariner and citizen thereof," landed on Tristan and declared himself sovereign and sole possessor of the group (which he renamed Islands of Refreshment).
 "I have made up my mind," he wrote, "to prepare for myself and my family a home where I shall be able to live without the difficulties that have constantly troubled me, and to procure for us a property that will insure us forever the measure of living and preserve us from common misfortunes."
 Jonathan Lambert had many imitators. He arrived in 1810. In 1818 the island had already counted 72 inhabitants. It counted 80 in 1850, and 100 in 1908. According to the latest news Tristan population has increased to 150 persons, men, women and children, and a pastor included. Incidentally Lambert's sovereignty was short-lived, as he was drowned in May, 1820, while out fishing.
 Tristan da Cunha has no history. It knows neither industry nor commerce, nor war. It has no neighbors who envy it. There is no government. The people manage their affairs without any laws, the project once entertained of providing them with a formal constitution being deemed unnecessary.
 Nothing, or nearly nothing, would be known about the customs of these Robinsons if, in 1908, an advertisement in a London paper had not signalled the sad condition of those people living even outside of religion! Thereupon an Anglican pastor, Rev. Mr. Barrow, decided to go there with his wife and a servant. It took them six months from Southampton to reach the island. They remained there three years, and Mrs. Barrow has left an excellent narrative of their visit.
 In this way it was learned that those recluses, even if they did not consider themselves very happy, seemed to fear that they would be even less happy if they deserted this island. In 1900 the majority for the second time refused to desert the island, though offered allotments of land in Cape Colony.
 But an incident has just occurred that will upset their life. A cable from Rio de Janeiro tells of the arrival on the island of a new pastor who brought with him a wireless apparatus. Henceforth Tristan da Cunha may know everything.
Too Busy to Get Up.
 Pleasant dreams have a feeling of dissatisfaction with cold, everyday facts. The contrast between the romance of unfettered imagination and the world as it is frequently proves distressing, remarks the Portland Oregonian.
 Two young bank clerks room together. One of them awoke and began preparing for the day, but hesitated to arouse the other—he slept with such a pleasant snore. Finally the ordeal could not be postponed any longer and the sleeper was subjected to a rude series of shakes.
 "G'way, I can't get up yet. I must go back to sleep," was the drowsy protest.
 "But it's tomorrow morning, we got to be at work in half an hour."
 "You go—leave me alone! I'm bicycle riding with a pretty girl and she is just giving me her address; so I can call. And I lost my hat and I have to go back to sleep and find it."
To Aid Ribbon Industry.
 The ribbon manufacturers of the United States are organizing a "Make It of Ribbon" campaign in order to further the interests of the industry, which represents an investment of $20,000,000 and an annual business of $60,000,000.
Good Mixers.
 "Your recent attitude has been somewhat ponderous and aloof," remarked the solicitous friend.
 "Times have changed," replied Senator Sorghum. "In politics the 'good mixer' has gone out of date, along with the bartender."

MORTGAGE SALE
 Whereas default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed by George A. Taylor, a widower, of the Village of Plymouth, County of Wayne and State of Michigan, as mortgagor, to Amendt Milling Company, a Michigan Corporation, of Monroe, Michigan, as mortgagee, dated the twenty-first day of December, 1921, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Wayne and State of Michigan, in Liber 1076 of Mortgages, on page 224, on the twenty-ninth day of December, 1921, on which said mortgage there is claimed to be due and unpaid at the date of this notice, for principal and interest, the sum of Two Hundred Seventy-four and 75-100 Dollars ($274.75), and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity has been instituted to recover said money or any part thereof.

NOW THEREFORE, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the sixteenth day of December, 1922, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, Eastern Standard Time, the undersigned, or the sheriff, under sheriff or a deputy sheriff, said Wayne County, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the southerly, or Congress street entrance to the City of Detroit, County of Wayne and State of Michigan, (that being the building where the Circuit Court for the said County of Wayne is held), the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to realize the amount due, together with any additional sums, or sums, mortgagee may pay under the terms of said mortgage, with seven per cent interest and all legal costs allowed by law and provided for in said mortgage, including an attorney's fee, which said premises to be sold as aforesaid are situated in the Village of Plymouth, County of Wayne and State of Michigan, and described as follows, to-wit:

Commencing at a point about one and one-half rods south of the stake in the center of Penniman Avenue, formerly known as Sutton Street, which stake is nine rods three feet and four inches westerly from a stone at the intersection of Penniman Avenue and Main Street in said Village and running thence southerly to the north line of land formerly owned by Thomas P. May, now deceased; thence westerly along the north line of the said Thomas P. May's land ten feet; thence northerly to a point in Penniman Avenue west of the point of commencement; thence easterly ten feet along Penniman Avenue to the place of beginning.

Also commencing at the northwest corner of land heretofore conveyed to Henry Dohmstreich by deed dated November 11th, 1889, and recorded in Liber 320 of Deeds on Page 262, Wayne County records, and later owned by Caroline Webber, running thence, that is from said point of commencement, westerly along the middle of Penniman Avenue ten feet; thence southerly in a direct line, parallel with the west line of lands as aforesaid owned by Caroline Webber, one hundred feet, more or less, to land formerly owned by Thomas P. May, Jr., and later by Kate E. Penniman; thence easterly and along the north line of said land so owned by Kate E. Penniman ten feet to the southwest corner of said land formerly owned by said Caroline Webber; thence northerly along the west line of the said land owned by the said Caroline Webber one hundred feet to the place of beginning, containing three and three-fourths square rods of land, more or less.

Dated September 22, 1922.
 AMENDT MILLING COMPANY,
 Mortgagee.
 John S. Dayton,
 Attorney for Mortgagee,
 Plymouth, Michigan.

Miss Ruby Dixon, who will soon be a September bride. The afternoon was spent in recalling instances that happened in their old school days, and by a few of the young ladies taking part in some exercises. An instrumental solo by Grace Geiger; a reading of an original poem by Helen Rorabacher, recounting the past life of the bride. It was very ably gotten up and delivered, and brought much laughter among the girls. Miss Winnifred Thompson then gave two solos. The bride was then blindfolded, and seated in a white chair, decorated with pink and white, before a table decorated in pink and white, with pink flowers. Above this across the corner were decorations of pink and white in the form of two curtains draped back. A chest filled to the top, also decorated in pink and white was then carried in from the dining room by Miss Gertrude Braun and Miss Velma Nelson, and presented to the bride by Miss Velma. The bride was then unblinded, and anxiously undid her presents, with a heart full of thanks to her girl friends. At five o'clock Miss Velma invited each one to the dining room by calling her name, while Miss Mae Mager presided at the piano and played the march. The table was handsomely decorated in pink and white, also green and white vines and cut flowers of pink. Two large cupies very tastefully dressed for the occasion, representing the bride and groom, were placed in the center of the table, which made the occasion a lively one. A two-course luncheon was then very nicely served by Mrs. Golden Bender as waitress.

New Superior Chevrolet 5-Passenger Sedan
$860 f. o. b. Flint

THE IDEAL ALL-YEAR FAMILY AUTOMOBILE

The Chevrolet New Superior Model Sedan is the most sensational value of 1922 Motoring. Never before has a car of this quality been offered at so low a price. In beauty of design, high-grade workmanship and external and internal appointments this Fisher Body Sedan compares favorably with that of any closed car at any price. To see it is to admire it. To sit within its comfortable, home-like interior is to want it. To realize its wonderful economy is to buy it. It is the most irresistible offering in the world of motoring. Experience has proved that the closed car is the ideal for every day in the year. It is cool and clean in summer and provides the comfort of home in winter. Its owner is independent of snow, rain or cold. The famous Chevrolet power plant will carry the car through deep snow or soft mud, while the Sedan body protects the passengers from driving rain, flying snow and cold winds. The Chevrolet Sedan is the ideal family car when only one car is owned. Its low cost makes it possible for families of moderate income to own both an open and a closed Chevrolet for less than the price of some open cars.

The famous E. LeRoy Pelletier farm at Orchard Lake, consisting of 200 acres, is to be subdivided into residence lots. A short time ago Mr. Pelletier was offered $1,000,000 for this tract of land. The property lies between Cass and Orchard lakes, with long frontage on each of these bodies of water, and is almost an island because of the close approach of the lakes at both ends of the farm.—Farmington Enterprise.

No little credit for the freedom at Island Lake from the many disturbances and annoyances which are characteristic of most resorts, should go to the vigilant and tactful Mr. Charles Millard, who was installed by the Hearn Company as a representative of law and order. Island Lake is naturally a family resort, being too far removed from any big city to be the goal, very often, of a transient rowdy element. However, there have been a few times, when if it had not been for one as stern as Charlie, there would have been cause to complain, but through his tact he was able on a few occasions to nip a disturbance in its inception. The rowdy element has given Island Lake a wide berth.—Brighton Argus.

SLAIN BY GRIZZLY

Trapper Lost Out in Stand-Up Fight With Forest King.

From Evidence it Seemed That Animal Had Been Taken in Trap, but Had Broken Away.

Joseph Duret, pioneer hunter and trapper, a man who knew all the tricks of the game, was killed near Livingston, Mont., recently by a grizzly bear. Duret owned a nice ranch in the southern part of Park county, Montana, near the boundary of the Yellowstone National park, and he knew all the tricks of the hunting game, was well aware of the danger of encountering a vicious bear and yet he appears to have flitted with death in trying to kill alone a huge grizzly, and to have lost.

Duret caught the animal in one of his game traps—a huge steel device that fastened itself with a clamp about the paw. He hastily returned home for his large-bore rifle and told his wife of his catch. Mrs. Duret never saw him again. His failure to return prompted her to search the hills with dogs in vain. Then she appealed to the Yellowstone park rangers.

They spread out over the country and after a long search W. Hutchings, assistant as the park buffalo corral, and Ranger William Dehnoff found Duret's mangled body nearly two miles from where he had engaged in a life-and-death struggle with the beast. It was a wild, desolate place not ten miles from where Duret in 1910, was introduced to and warmly greeted by President Roosevelt.

Pieces of hair and torn flesh, remnants of the broken trap and a clawed and chewed rifle told the story of the fight Duret made. Superintendent Horace M. Albright of Yellowstone park, who investigated the old hunter's death, said the grizzly was a veritable brute of the park for which hunters had covered many a mile. It apparently had succeeded in breaking away from the trap after Duret fired a shot. It is believed the bear broke a chain which attached the trap to a tree, then attacked the hunter, whose rifle had apparently jammed.

It was apparent that Duret had tried to defend himself by using his rifle as a club, but his fight was useless. One arm and a leg were torn off and the body was mangled. It is believed he became unconscious, then revived after the bear had wearied of his prey and dragged away the chain attached to the trap. Signs indicated that Duret managed to crawl about two miles toward his home. The rangers say he must have retained full possession of his faculties, as he was making a straight line to his ranch when death overtook him.

Today's Reflections

We see in an exchange that a Michigan man thinks he is the devil. It's a bad idea to believe everything your wife tells you.

Long fall and winter evenings are always shortest to the man who has his subscription to his home town paper paid in advance.

Wouldn't it be fine if, an American doll was worth as much here as it is in Germany?

Look on the bright side. If you wore fine clothes people might take you for a bootlegger.

It has also been our observation that the Plymouth man who takes his own time never has any left over.

The meek may inherit the earth, but at the rate they are now paying rent it looks like they were buying it on the installment plan.

Here's a beauty secret for Plymouth women: Never start a fight with the other woman if her finger nails are longer than yours.

Three thousand boxes of soap have been shipped to Russia. They'll probably use the boxes for fuel, but nobody knows what they'll do with the soap.

This may be an awful country, but in Paris the men are wearing earrings.

About the most lonesome thing around Plymouth these days is the old swimming hole.

The easiest thing on earth is deciding what to do instead of work.

"What has become of the old-fashioned family doctor?" asks an exchange. What we want to know is; what has become of the old-fashioned family.

Things would go a lot smoother with some Plymouth men if they could get it into their heads that business never comes to a man's place without an invitation.

A Storm in a Teacup

By CLARA DELAFIELD
(©, 1922, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Maud Dartley stood petrified, staring at the incriminating object. Oh, but perhaps we'd better begin at the beginning. Hop Sing was—

No, better start with the Dartleys and the Jetleys. They lived next door to each other in Roperstown. Each inhabited an identical frame house, painted green and black. Each had the same strip of lawn. Each shared the same suburbanites. They were, in fact, typical suburbanites, and loved each other as suburbanites do.

Each owned an auto and a gramophone, a baby and a baby carriage, and neither owned a servant.

Mr. Dartley owned Mrs. Dartley, and Mr. Jetley owned—no! Mrs. Dartley owned Mr. Dartley and Mrs. Jetley owned Mr. Jetley. Mr. Dartley also owned some fine pleated shirts, which Mr. Jetley very much admired.

Mrs. Dartley was giving a party. You know those parties—iced grapefruit with a cherry in it, and unfermented grape juice, and cut glass over round lace doilies. Mrs. Dartley had made the terrible discovery that her best doilies were dirty. Hop Sing had to be called into instant requisition.

"Thursday, Hop Sing, Thursday!" Mrs. Dartley held up two fingers, and she said "Thursday" very loud, which is, as every one knows, the way to make a Chinaman understand anything.

This was Wednesday night, and Mrs. Dartley had called at the laundry to find out how her doilies were getting on.

There was some trouble about getting in, but Maud Dartley was a determined woman, especially with beathen. She went through the window. She called and called, and then went through the house.

She found Hop Sing in a tiny room, lying on a box coach. A tiny pipe, a peanut oil lamp and some black pills were beside him. Hop Sing opened his eyes and grinned feebly at her. One arm went round in the air in a peculiar manner. It was just as if Hop Sing had imagined that the air was her waist.

Mrs. Dartley, dreadfully shocked, ran back into the laundry.

"That's what comes of opium smoking," she said with conviction. It's almost as bad as beer drinking."

It was clear she would have to attend to the doilies herself. Hunting about the shelves, Mrs. Dartley suddenly came upon her husband's things. She recognized them immediately by the pleated shirts.

Suddenly her heart gave a bound. Among the shirts and collars which Mr. Dartley had done up himself, as was his custom, she saw a pink silk waist. And then her heart seemed to stand still.

That pink silk waist was Mrs. Jetley's!

"Monster! Oh, what does it mean!" she whispered, as, forgetting the doilies, she tottered homeward. She had trusted Mr. Dartley too well. She had left him look after his own laundry, which is the height of confidence in a devoted wife, and he was sending Mrs. Jetley's waist with his things!

There was no mistaking that pink silk waist, which had flattered itself over innumerable unfermented grape juice tables. His guilt was clear. Mr. Dartley was paying for Mrs. Jetley's laundry. Worse, he was sending it with his.

What a scandal if it became known in Roperstown!

She hurried home, her eyes brimming with tears. But when she reached the strip of lawn before the house she recoiled. There sat the monster, with Mr. Jetley on one side and Mrs. Jetley on the other, smoking cigars and drinking cool drinks, chatting and laughing as if the world had not suddenly tumbled about their ears.

She crept round toward the back of the house under the shelter of the big locust trees. Inside, she paused uncertainly. How could she nerve herself for the denunciation which it was her wifely duty to make?

And yet it had to be made.

She stood in the hall. The voices of the men came floating out to her.

"I guess that's on you, old man," laughed Jetley. "I found out the place all right, all right."

"You did, confound you?"

"Sure I did, Dartley, and say! I got a dozen of the prettiest pleated shirts you ever saw, a trifle shop-soiled, but just like yours, and old Hop Sing's doing them up for me."

Maud Dartley gasped and stood on the stoop of the house.

"Hello, dear! Why, what's the matter?" asked her husband.

"Oh, darling, I—I can't get the doilies, and I don't know what we'll do tomorrow!"

Mortality of Trees.

Human beings cannot compete with trees in the matter of longevity, but human beings are more fortunate than trees up to certain ages, according to mortality tables. A forest at maturity contains about 5 per cent of all the trees that have started life there. The percentage of persons living from ten to fifty is much greater in the case of trees. About 85 per cent of our trees die before they are eighty years old, while only 87 per cent of persons will die before reaching that age.

But when it comes to trees 100 years of age and over we have to go back into Biblical history to find human beings who compare with them in length of years. Methuselah and Noah were far ahead of the majority of our common trees as centenarians, but no man save the sequoia has lived as long as have the sequoia trees. The sequoia attains an age of about 4,000 years.

England's Daylight Saving.

Daylight saving in England passes under the term of summer time. It has been under consideration in the British parliament, where new statutory authority has been given. It seems there is something of an agricultural bloc in England, too. Its activities resulted in shortening the period for early rising by three weeks at each end. In other words, England, with its high latitude, and the consequences upon the relative length of sunlight and darkness, will next year begin daylight saving late in April and end it early in September.—From the Nation's Business.

What Made His Hen Ill.

Mr. Bagley of Bensonsfield makes a hobby of poultry keeping. He gets pleasure out of it, and occasionally a surprise.

The other day, for instance, he thought of one of his chickens was ill, and decided to kill it. When he opened it up to ascertain the cause of the trouble, he found:

Tin tacks,
Small screws,
Pieces of tin, and Metal nuts.

The chicken, he afterward learned, had been pecking for food in a build'er's yard!—London Express.

Labor-Saving Implement.

"Do you find that taking summer boarders lightens your burden as an agricultural toiler?"

"I'll say it does," declared Farmer Cornutus. "It's a heap easier to get your tomatoes with a can opener than it is with a hoe."

Hellum Gas.

Hellum, the gas used in the three latest army balloons, was discovered 84 years ago in the sun by means of a spectroscope, 27 years before it was found on earth.

A Pronounced Success.

The uniform success that has attended the use of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy in the relief and cure of bowel complaints, both for children and adults, has brought it into almost universal use, so that it is practically without a rival and as everyone who has used it knows, it is without an equal.—Advertisement.

Speed of Migrating Birds.

Migrating birds do not fly at their fastest. Their migration speed is usually from 30 to 40 miles an hour and rarely exceeds 50. Flights of a few hours a night, alternating with rests of one or more days, make the spring advance very slow, averaging for all species not more than 23 miles a day, but with great variations of the daily rate among the different species. The exact number of miles which a particular bird makes during one day's journey has not yet been determined and cannot be ascertained until the tagging or banding of birds by means of metal rings is carried out on a far more extensive scale than has yet been possible.

No Substitutes Offered.

Say what you will about druggists offering something "just as good" because it pays better profit, the fact still stands that ninety-nine out of a hundred druggists recommend Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy, when the best medicine for diarrhoea is asked for, and do so because they know from what their customers say of it, that it can be depended upon.—Advertisement.

F. L. Huff miraculously escaped serious injury Sunday afternoon, when he was accidentally thrown from an automobile. His head and eye were cut quite badly, but he escaped other injury.

OBITUARY

The home-going of Rev. Wittich of Salem, Michigan, formed a great surprise and shock to the large circle of his friends and to his immediate family. For a number of years, a slight breaking of his physical condition, due to over-work and the strain of his ministry, was noticeable to a few who stood near to him.

However, the hope was entertained that the Lord would touch our brother anew with his divine resurrection life, and it seemed as if God would restore him, when a few months ago, Pastor Wittich received a touch of the healing power of Jesus. Returning from a few weeks' rest at the home of his relatives at New Bremen, Ohio, our brother was preparing for an extended vacation in the west. A new attack of his trouble to which pneumonia was added, fastened him to his sick bed, and on Wednesday, September 13th, at 3:30 o'clock in the morning, God took his soul to himself.

The final days of his earthly life were spent in making preparations for his departure, as God had revealed to him that he was soon to join the loved ones in Paradise, who had preceded him in death. The last half hour of his life, he spent in praising his Savior with a loud voice, and his hallelujahs to his Redeemer rang through the whole house, calling his dear ones to his bedside. His end was contrary to the opinion of medical science, and he breathed his spirit into the hands of his divine Redeemer as the night of Tuesday was yielding to the dawn of a new day.

Pastor Philip F. Wittich, second son of the late Pastor Benjamin Wittich, founder of the Mt. Horeb Mission in Detroit, and his wife, nee Baumgartner, was born at Middletown, Ohio, May 19, 1893. His early school training he obtained at Cincinnati, Ohio, continuing his studies successively at Pittsburg, Pa., and Toledo, Ohio. Graduating from the Detroit high schools, he became a student of the Junior College of that city, and later on he took a course of theology at Mt. Horeb Bible school of his father, where he was ordained for the ministry.

During the late war, he served as secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Fort Wayne, Michigan, when God used him to lead many of our soldier boys to a faithful knowledge of our Lord, Jesus Christ. He also assisted his father in the caring for the many duties of Mt. Horeb Mission. After four years of ministerial activities, pastor Wittich accepted a unanimous call to the two churches at Salem and Worden, Michigan, April 1, 1921. God put the seal of His approval upon this step by the salvation of over forty souls at both parishes.

Our departed brother gave his heart to God in early childhood, and received the baptism in Holy Spirit ten years ago, when over eighty souls received this anointing according to Acts 2:4, at his father's mission. God gave him great love for lost souls and a burning desire to see Jesus glorified. One of his last sermons was delivered at New Bremen, Ohio, making a lasting impression on those who were present. Two weeks previous to his demise, he took part in a baptismal service, and was instrumental in leading several souls to the Master. He made all preparations for his burial, selected his text and chose his uncle as presiding minister.

God granted him an age of 29 years, three months and twenty days. He leaves his widowed mother, Mrs. Lucy Wittich; two sisters, Mrs. Lucia Stroh and Mrs. Frieda Veci, and one brother, Frederick. One sister, Martha, preceded him in infancy, and a number of years ago his oldest brother, Pastor Carl Wittich, laid down his life as missionary for the lost souls in dark East Africa. His own father, Pastor Benjamin Wittich, late founder of Mt. Horeb Mission of Detroit, Mich., was called home on the 22nd of October, 1918.

His text chosen was John 10:2-3. But he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep. To him the portal openeth and the sheep hear his voice and he calleth them by name and leadeth them out.

Pastor Wittich was buried at Ripley, Ohio, Saturday afternoon, September 16, 1922.

IN APPRECIATION

The members of the Salem and Worden congregations, the people of the community and the pastors of the near churches, realize the loss they sustain in the passing of Rev. Paul F. Wittich. Wherever he went he brought the joy of his assurance in his Master. The outstanding features of his personality were, his great passion for souls and his courage in preaching the true gospel of Jesus Christ. Indeed, he stood pre-eminent among the ministers of the day in fearlessness in preaching the good news of the gospel. The results of his labors cannot be estimated because his seed sowing was ever abroad and the influence of this faithful servant of God will be revealed only in eternity.

Rev. Wittich's pastoral work extended not only to the members of his congregation, but to all who were troubled or in need. He announced many calls to prayer for the sick. When Rev. Wittich came to Salem, the outlook was anything but encouraging, as there were but a handful of workers, and the church property was in a run down condition. Through his untiring efforts and whole reliance on God alone to lead and provide, the work has picked up and advanced rapidly.

Rev. Wittich was enthusiastic in whatever he undertook to do, not only in religious affairs but in social gatherings, and his great joy in living made him popular with all classes. And though gone beyond, his memory will live on and on.

Announcing the 1923 Series

The 1923 Series of New Oakland Six-44 models are ready for delivery. They are distinctly new in beauty of line and in refinement of detail, and yet they retain all of the basic high quality of the first Six-44's.

Never before have so many exclusive and valuable features been combined with such high quality construction in a car so reasonably priced. Never has the automobile dollar bought more than it buys in the 1923 Oakland at the recently reduced price of $995.

The powerful, six-cylinder, overhead-valve engine carries the same written, 15,000 mile guarantee. But the performance of this motor is even more remarkable due to a new system of carburetion. Other distinct improvements add greatly to car appearance and driving ease.

Examine the 1923 Oakland critically. In performance, power, beauty and economy it instantly reveals superior value. Compare it with cars of similar price and you will never be content with one of lesser worth.

When you come in to examine the many improvements and improvements you will discover two exclusive features of great value to be found in no other car at any price.

NEWBURG

There were twenty-two in attendance at the L. A. S. meeting, last week Wednesday. Two comforts were tied and arrangements completed for the annual fair and homecoming to be held Wednesday, October 18th. Committees appointed were: Mrs. C. E. Ryder, matron of the kitchen; Mrs. Edgar Stevens, matron of the dining room; Miss Ada Youngs and Beulah Ryder, candy booth; Mrs. Zanger, vegetable counter; Miss Hattie Hoisington, check room and Plymouth Mail; Mrs. Blanche Campbell, fish pond. A letter of congratulation was sent to Mrs. Sarah Hoisington from the L. A. S. Mrs. Hoisington has reached the 86th milestone on life's journey, and also has the honor of being the oldest member of the society.

Don't forget the bake sale at the Plymouth gas office, this (Saturday) afternoon, Messdames Campbell and Steinhilber having charge of it. Mrs. F. Davey and Beulah Ryder will collect the eatables.

Lawrence Holmes was sent as a delegate to the Boys' Conference at Pontiac. He reports a fine time.

Mrs. M. Eva Smith and Mrs. C. E. Ryder had the pleasure of hearing the Hudson band and quartette, at the Central M. E. church, Pontiac, last Saturday afternoon. They also had the honor of listening to a wonderful sermon by Bishop McDowell, attending the love feast at 9:00 in the morning. Mr. and Mrs. L. Clemens of Newburg, attended the services in Pontiac on Sunday. There were hundreds of people who were unable to get into the church. Messdames Smith and Ryder were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schroeder of Cass Lake, Saturday night.

About thirty-five young people gathered at the home of Beulah Ryder, last Thursday evening, and participated in a corn, weenie and hot rolls roast, after which they played games on the lawn. Needless to say they all had a good time.

Messdames Clemens and Ryder attended the housewife's convention at the Grange hall, last week Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Mackinder motored to Grand Rapids, Monday, in company with Mr. and Mrs. J. Norris and sons, Edwin and Walter, returning home Friday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Secord and family motored to Belleville, Sunday, spending the day with friends.

Dr. Wilbur Caster of Highland Park, called at the Ryder home, Sunday evening. His friends sympathize with him in the loss of his wife, who passed away last week Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. William Smith called on Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. Ella Wright and daughter, Mrs. Harry Bassett of Wayne, Tuesday evening.

John and Eleanor's Dream

By ELLA SAUNDERS
(© 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

Their dream had come true at last. John and Eleanor looked at each other with startled eyes, as if unable to believe it. After two years of city life—an apartment, modest, but in quite a nice district—they had their country cottage.

The cottage they had always dreamed of. It was John who had found it. It was a little, old-fashioned place with about half an acre of garden, just within the commuting region yet untouched by modernity. There was not even a bathroom when they rented it. John had had that put in. The whole thing had been a surprise to Eleanor.

She stood among the hollyhocks with shining eyes. "It seems too good to be true," she said. "The dearest, place! John, won't we be happy?"

They were. Eleanor revelled in her garden. John mowed the lawn in the evenings. They had no cures, no one to bother them. In the evenings Eleanor sewed or read, while John, when he was not detained at the office, as frequently happened, went through his accounts and correspondence.

"We'll save all the expenses of a holiday now, dearest," said John. "I shall simply knock off work for a couple of weeks and stay here with you."

That event happened a few weeks after they had moved in. It was the latter part of August, scorching hot. John sat in his shirt-sleeves all day under the big maples, going through letters and wishing that he had his stenographer with him.

"John, dearest," said Eleanor, bending over him, "don't you think you ought to get a little exercise now that you're free?"

"I've thought of that," answered John, smoothing down his waistcoat. "Trouble is, there are no golf links anywhere for miles around. I wish some one would start some."

"But, dearest, how about those nice country walks we planned?"

"Nothing against 'em," answered John, "except that we've worn out the country."

"Worn it out?" queried Eleanor.

"Yep, that's what I said," John answered briskly. "We know all the roads from here. We know Farmer Giles' black cow and Farmer Hendrick's blue one. We know the pretty cottage with the jasmine and honeysuckle at the end of the road. We know—Oh, everything that's knowable, including Mrs. Miller's blue-eyed kid that makes faces at us."

"Oh, I know, I know," said Eleanor miserably. John was getting tired of their dream, that was the trouble. That was why he brought all his work home, John was mooping.

"The clear, starry skies, the wonder of the dawn, the sound of singing birds, the music in each rill of water—these were not for John. Eleanor would be glad, for John's sake, when his holiday came to an end.

Something seemed to be coming between them that autumn. The old, sweet confidence seemed gone. Sometimes Eleanor would detect her husband sitting in his chair, staring moodily at her. At such times her heart would beat faster, and she would wonder:

"Can there be any one else?"

One night she could bear it no longer. "John, won't you tell me what has come between us of late?" she begged. "Is there—is there some one else?"

John kissed her sadly. "No, darling. Just business troubles," he answered.

Could she believe him? Eleanor looked at him doubtfully. After that the shadow that had fallen between them grew blacker and blacker.

"Dear, what'd you say to a little jaunt to town this evening?" John asked. "Just to keep in touch with things. We mustn't become back numbers, even if we do live in the country, must we?"

Eleanor agreed without enthusiasm. The spell of country life had taken hold of her. But for John's sake—

It was strange being at the theater again. They watched each other, each afraid of seeming too appreciative. They dined at a fashionable restaurant.

"It is nice in a way, isn't it, Eleanor?" said John. "But it doesn't come up to the glories of sunset and dawn, and the hum of the tree-toads, does it?"

"No," said Eleanor.

She was so absorbed in her thoughts that she did not realize where they were going until John helped her out of the taxi.

She stared about her. "Why, it's our old apartment house!" she exclaimed.

Without a word John led the way into their old apartment on the ground floor. Eleanor gasped. It was all furnished—ready for occupancy. She looked at her husband, and a sudden light came to her.

"Oh, darling!" she cried.

"Did I guess right?"

"You did. But—but—"

"We'll have our things sent out this week, old oaken bucket and all. I'll attend to it. You'll stay right here. This is where our real life begins."

Double Play.
Twins having arrived, the father told little Peter that he needn't go to school that day.

Little Peter—But wouldn't it be just as good to tell teacher tomorrow I've got one new little brother, and next week stay home again and then tell her I've got one more?

The Key That Unlocks the Door to
The men of eighty-five and ninety years of age are not the rotund, well-fed, but thin, spare men, who live on a slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age will occasionally eat too much or of some article of food not suited to his constitution, causing indigestion or constipation, and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets to move his bowels and invigorate his stomach. When this is done, there is no reason why the average man should not live to a ripe old age.—Advertisement.

BEGAN GOLD RUSH

George W. Carmack Started Stampede into the Klondike.

White Men Had Mined There Before Him, but Credit for the Great "Discovery" is His.

Gold dust worth $185,000,000 has been taken from the creeks of the Klondike. Although twenty-five years have elapsed since the first discovery, that event is recalled by the death recently of George W. Carmack, who panned the first high-grade gravel from Bonanza creek. The details of the discovery are related by a writer in the Engineering and Mining Journal-Press of New York. Carmack was a fisherman, with an Indian squaw, and maintained a small trading post on the Youkon twenty miles above the Crossing. He was not the first to find gold in the valleys of the Klondike, for Robert Henderson preceded him, but he started the stampede that led to the development of the Yukon territory. At that time Carmack was fishing for salmon at the mouth of the Klondike, where it joins the Yukon and where Dawson now stands. Two miles up the valley the Klondike is joined by Bonanza creek. Carmack happened to be short of fresh meat so he went with three Indians, one of them a brother-in-law, on a hunting expedition. At that time Bonanza creek was known as a likely place for moose, therefore he went thither. He knew that Henderson and three other white men were mining on Gold Bottom, on the other side of the divide with his Indian companions to see what the others were doing and to sell them some of the fresh meat that he and the Indians had obtained.

Henderson and his partners were not getting much gold and Carmack soon returned to the camp on Bonanza creek. Having seen the mining done by the four men on Gold Bottom he was prompted to do a little prospecting himself, and almost at the first try found gold on the rim of the bedrock projecting above the water of Bonanza creek. This rich spot, recognized as "the discovery," proved later to be only a patch twenty feet square. Carmack recorded his claim and the three claims located in the names of his friends, Skookum Jim, Indian Pete and Tagish Charlie. A quiet "rush" began. David Mackay, Daniel McGillivray and Harry Waugh were the first to start. Each of them made a fortune. The information did not reach the "outside," meaning the states, until the best ground had been staked; those who came to Dawson with the stampede at the end of 1897 and in the spring of 1898 found that they were too late. They had to buy claims or work for wages. On July 14, 1897, the steamer Excelsior reached San Francisco with the tidings of a new Eldorado; in proof thereof she brought half a million dollars in gold. "This was the first of many treasure ships to enter the Golden gate like Spanish galleons of the olden days.

Perfect Comfort on the Longest Tour
The 1923 Buick Six Touring Sedan—1935

For touring to the "Big Game" this fall, driving on the boulevard, or slipping along a country road in the hazy sunshine of Indian Summer, this smart new Buick six-cylinder touring sedan offers a degree of comfort that cannot be surpassed.

Long and low in appearance, it affords perfect riding ease and comfort for five passengers. Its well-knit chassis, new cantilever springs and strong frame take up the jars and jolts of the country road.

Broad plate glass windows give a wide vision to all occupants, while protecting them from chilling winds. Added warmth is provided by a heater. The interior of the Fisher built body is finished in handsome plush with individual seats in front. Driving convenience is assured by a longer steering column at a lower angle, complete instrument panel and longer gear shift lever.

Large Luggage Trunk
The handsome luggage trunk carried on the rear of the touring sedan models is as practical as it is striking. It will carry a suitcase or small luggage so that the passengers need not be inconvenienced.

ALL ABOUT RAIN

By a Man Who Evidently Has Studied the Subject.

Some Few Facts May Have Been Overlooked, But in General It Will Be Found Pretty Comprehensive.

"Rain," said the man who presides over the fortunes of the all-night lunch room, "is a phenomenon familiar to all of us from our early years. Scientists tell us that rain is the moisture which makes the clouds before it is condensed into rain drops by coming into contact with colder air currents, and that is very interesting.

"There are certain other interesting facts connected with rain. I have spent much time in collecting them. Rain can be confidently expected to fall on the Fourth of July, on the 17th of March, on the dates of weddings, open-air prize fights, and inaugurations of the Presidents, when it sometimes appears frozen and is then called snow. It can be looked for with assurance on other occasions too numerous to mention and it comes frequently in defiance of all known rules.

"There are certain cities in this country which support a game called baseball," he continued. "In these cities rain is famous principally because it produces what are known as double-headers, an arrangement much in favor among certain admirers of the sport.

"In the days before children were deprived of the pleasure of risking their lives with fireworks in celebration of the signing of the Declaration of Independence each Fourth of July, rain was hailed with delight on that an 'versary by certain nervous men and women. It exerted a dampening influence on the dangers of the day, tended to reduce the noise of the occasion and made it almost impossible to set roofs on fire with skyrockets and powder crackers.

"But today almost the only persons who welcome rain are the husbands and fathers of the land, who seek excuses for accompanying their wives and children to places of so-called amusement and who, by some strange superstition, regard a holiday as a period in which to rest. Rain is especially unwelcome on days like the Fourth of July to the people whose profits depend on the assembling of thousands of patriotic celebrators in the open air.

"Aside from holidays, rain is deemed a valuable stock in trade by farmers, gardeners, the manufacturers of rubbers, raincoats and umbrellas. Housewives usually object to it, because in all the centuries of civilization the male members of families have never learned the real use of the mat at the front door with 'Welcome' written on it.

"Rain is sometimes, but not often, useful as an inspiration to poets, advertisement illustrators and people with bad tempers. The last class often waxes really eloquent when the gentle drops fall from the clouds.

"He told me that he had just been presented with something from over the border that rendered him immune to the ills attendant upon rain, called me a crass materialist and went out, thinking of violets, I guess, because he forgot to pay for his coffee."—Providence Journal.

Do We Laugh in Dreams?

Why do we have no sense of humor while we are dreaming? And why do we take almost everything as a matter of course?

In our waking moments we should be surprised if a fat Chinese guest were to swim like a goldfish through the dining room where Lloyd George is gratefully eating a mud pie brought in by a little girl whose hair is done up in eight pig tails, and a tailor is applying an immense duiton to the coat which its owner is wearing while he is smoking a saxophone, and a swarthy man is chopping up books and cording them in the center of the room.

Perhaps we do laugh while we dream, and then forget that we laughed.—Life.

Religious Freedom Under Bolshevism.

The baptizing of children will not be allowed in Russia in the future. The supreme council of the church, which is under Soviet control, is elaborating a new church law dealing with baptism. In this the age of baptism is fixed at eighteen, and the consent of the person concerned must be obtained in writing and filed with the authorities.

Seeing Is Believing.

Jane, age four, had just come in from four hours in the sand pile and was having a prolonged session in the bathroom with her mother.

"Jane, your hands are simply frights," exclaimed mother, considering the possible use of a scrub brush. "But, mother," retorted Jane, "you ought to see my knees; they're more frightened than my hands."

British Legacy Law Shift.

A change in the English law is proposed by which the freehold property of a man who dies without leaving a will may be divided among all his children. As the law is at present the property goes to his eldest son.

Grant and Taft.

With the exception of General Grant, who occupied the post only for a brief period during a cabinet reorganization, William Howard Taft is the only secretary of war who ever became President of the United States.

EPISCOPAL NOTES

The Ven. J. G. Widdifield, archdeacon of Detroit, was with us last Sunday, which was Communion Sunday, and gave a splendid address on the Holy Communion and what it meant to christians. Mr. Widdifield took his text from St. John 7:53, "Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink His blood, ye have no life in you."

The church-school commenced their new courses of instruction, last Sunday morning, and made a splendid start. The superintendent was glad to welcome ten new pupils, who were assigned to their different classes, and there are more coming in next Sunday. An additional supply of school material has been ordered, as the supply ordered and received last week was not sufficient. Our invitation and appeal for new pupils for our church-school has been splendidly responded to, and two or three of the old pupils have won the gold star. One of our church-school pupils, little Billy Henry, about whom much anxiety has been felt of late, was taken to the hospital in Detroit, last week Wednesday, where he underwent an operation. The operation has been successful, and at the time of writing, little Billy was feeling bright and comfortable. We know his classmates will remember him in their prayers, that he may soon be back again, restored to health.

Next Sunday, a special afternoon community service will be held at four o'clock in the church. We have been very fortunate in securing as special preacher, the Rev. Robert W. Woodruff, rector of St. John's church, Detroit. Mr. Woodruff is one of the outstanding preachers of the Episcopal church, and we extend an invitation to the people of Plymouth to welcome Mr. Woodruff to Plymouth and to hear his address. Everybody will be welcomed next Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. Bright service, hearty singing by the congregation and an inspiring address.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. George McLeaver and Mr. and Mrs. James McKeever attended the funeral of George Rhoades, in Detroit, Monday afternoon.

Plymouth friends will be interested to hear that word has been received from Father Lefevre, who went to New Mexico a few weeks ago on account of ill health, stating that he was rapidly improving.

Thursday evening of last week, Miss Czarina Penney entertained ten guests at dinner at her home on Main street, in honor of Miss Helen VanDeCar and her guest, Mr. Kellenberger, of Blythe, California.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kohler motored to Sombra, Ontario, last Sunday, where they attended a celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Kohler, of Northville.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Blunk entertained at a family dinner, Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. William Blunk, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Blunk and daughter, Madeline, Mr. and Mrs. Manna Blunk and son, Melvin, Irving Blunk and Miss Edna Mather.

The village has completed the laying of a water main on the west end of Williams street and south on Arthur street to Penniman avenue. About 1300 feet of new main is also being laid on Garfield and Sheridan avenues in Elm Heights.

Miss Ruth E. Huston was hostess at dinner, last Friday evening, at her home on Penniman avenue. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. William Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jolliffe, Miss Czarina Penney, Miss Helen VanDeCar, Edwin Kellenberger, Leo Spencer and Austin Whipple.

Mrs. Arthur Blunk pleasantly entertained a company of friends in honor of her husband's birthday, Thursday evening of last week. Cards were played, Mr. and Mrs. James Gates carrying off best prizes, while Dorothy Spillman and Albert Groth were consoled. After a beautiful supper, all left, wishing "Aaron" many more happy birthdays.

Last Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Alice Sayles, mother of Rev. H. E. Sayles, and his sister, Mrs. Nichols of Ploverville, came to stay a few days in the pastor's home. On Sunday they also entertained at dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Sayles of Pontiac, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence VanDeburg of Kalamazoo, nephew and niece of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Sayles, also their son, Duane Sayles, from North Farmington. It was almost a family reunion.

Mrs. George A. Smith, Worthy Matron of Plymouth Chapter, O. E. S., very agreeably entertained the lady officers of the Order, at her home on Union street, last week Wednesday evening, September 13th, in honor of Miss Ruby Williams, Associate Conductress of Plymouth Chapter, whose marriage to B. Clare Havershaw took place last Saturday afternoon. A social evening with refreshments was enjoyed and the guest of honor was presented with a handsome gift from the officers.

Most of us will remember Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ede, who resided for some time in Plymouth before their return to England. Mrs. Arthur Torre has been spending most of her vacation with Mrs. Ede, visiting in Devonshire and Cornwall. Many talks they had together of the happy years the Ede's spent in Plymouth, of the friendships formed here, and of the little mission church of St. John's, and they send their kind remembrance to all Plymouth friends. Mr. Ede is comfortably situated now. He is employed by Lord Clifden in Cornwall, and has charge of part of his lordship's estate, which covers an area of many miles, and it is on the Earl of Clifden's beautiful estate, near Mr. Torre's native home among the wild scenery on the Cornish coast, that Mrs. Torre has been so much benefited in health during her vacation.

The Plymouth Motor Sales Co. will have a display of Ford cars at the Northville fair, next week.

C. G. Draper has moved his jewelry store to the new Conner block, which is in the same location as was his old store. Mr. Draper is busy getting settled, but is open for business. New fixtures have been installed, and the new store will present a fine appearance when everything is in place.

The members of the Board of Education with their wives and the teachers of the Plymouth school met in the auditorium at the school building, last Tuesday afternoon from four to six, in what was termed a "Get Acquainted" meeting. A social hour was enjoyed and light refreshments were served.

Mrs. H. S. Doerr and Mrs. I. N. Dickerson were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shattuck at Pontiac, the latter part of last week, and attended the Methodist Conference while there. Mr. Dickerson visited at Mr. Shattuck's, Saturday and Sunday, Mrs. Dickerson and Mrs. Doerr returning home with him, Sunday evening.

1922 STATE FAIR CALLED GREATEST

375,000 SEE MICHIGAN EXPOSITION—EDUCATIONAL EXHIBITS HOLD VISITORS INTEREST.

G. W. DICKINSON ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR NEW BUILDING

Establishing new attendance records that may stand for years—including a wider range of exhibitions than ever before and successful from the viewpoint of diversified entertainment. The seventy-third annual Michigan State Fair which recently came to an end at Detroit marks the beginning of a new era of fairs in this state. The fair accomplished the purpose outlined for it by G. W. Dickinson, secretary-manager, that of being of some educational value to the farmer, for whom fairs originally were created and for whom the present fair administration seeks to do some everlasting good.

Modern Buildings to Replace Sheds.

With the close of the fair which saw the new coliseum building, erected at a cost of $300,000, put into use, Mr. Dickinson announced the plans for a new sheep and swine pavilion to cost, when completed, $80,000. Construction of this is to be started almost immediately.

Handicapped by the rail strike and the threatened outcome of the coal situation, the fair horse department established a new record for entries—355 of the finest draft and light horses in the middle west going on exhibition, 120 more than the previous year. This disproves that the horse has given way to machine power.

In the cattle department more than 1000 animals were exhibited. Before the fair got under way, 709 of these animals (exceeding the capacity of the enlarged cattle barns and several hundred more were brought in by the boys and girls clubs from various sections of Michigan.

Machinery of 1849 and 1922 Shown.

There probably never was assembled such a display of modern machinery as housed in the machinery hall and individual tents on the fair grounds. Thousands were drawn into Henry Ford's exhibition which occupied more than 12,000 square feet of space outside. There, the motor king had on display not only all of his own products but farm machinery from as far back as 1849, the year of the original Michigan fair.

Besides the broad exhibits by the United States department of agriculture, American Jersey Cattle club and hundreds of independent exhibitors the dairy building drew visitors with its busy sculpture work. Baking of pies, cakes and instruction in canning, etc., brought many to the domestic department.

A federal government exhibit, the Michigan Agricultural college work which embodied lectures, the state department of agriculture's display and exhibitions by counties and individuals made up the show in the Agricultural building. Garment making, judging of poultry, canning and cooking were other educational features.

An important adjunct of the fair was the work carried on by the boys and girls clubs and the Boys State Fair school. All of the boys were quartered in tents in front of the administration building while the girls were housed in a bungalow on the grounds.

Clean Entertainments Afforded.

The egg laying and milking contests probably drew more attention than any of the competing novelties at the fair. The Better Babies contest was much bigger, 47 babies being examined the first day of the fair compared to seven for the corresponding day in 1921. Next year the entire east end of the Woman's building will be devoted to this affair.

The Dog show, with more than 350 canine aristocrats competing drew 20,000 visitors in three days and was followed by a three-day cat show equally interesting. The wild life exhibit near the educational building held the interest of the children. In the educational building were the aero exhibits and aquarium. The Woman's Work department with its hundreds of fancy articles and pieces of needlework was also a center of interest.

Rubin & Cherry shows afforded clean entertainment, a big program of vaudeville was offered before the grandstand and in the coliseum building each afternoon and evening. There were six days of running races, three days of auto racing and nine nights of fireworks. The air mail service maintained between Chicago and Detroit and Cleveland and Detroit and the tourist camp where 140 tourists were quartered also proved interesting.

The official attendance was near 375,000 and stands as a record.

Be sure and read the ads. It will pay you to do it.

HOUSEWIVES' CONFERENCE HELD HERE

The Housewives' Conference held at Plymouth Grange hall brought together a goodly number of members and visitors, all seemingly much interested in the subjects presented.

Reports from members of the different clubs told of the benefits they had derived from the various branches of home study, and they implied full appreciation of the conscientious instruction given by our County Home Demonstration agent, Miss Marian Rogers, who resigns at this time to accept the honored position of Leader of Home Management at the M. A. C. Our gratitude and best wishes follow her in her new enterprise. The leaders who reported most excellently were Mrs. Moyer, Mrs. Swegles, Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Perry Campbell, Mrs. Carmichael, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Hawk and Miss Blanche Hutton. Each in turn brought her best, which was set forth as a special tribute to the excellent work of her own club.

The fine pot-luck lunch carried with it a most enjoyable social hour. Early in the afternoon's program, the new county agent, Ralph Carr, who takes the place of Mr. Gregg, who resigned to accept a similar position in Allegan county; also Mr. Wagner, the new Boys' and Girls' Club leader, and Miss Woodworth, as prospective of the demonstration agent, were introduced. All responded with cheerful and concise remarks.

Mrs. Gertrude Hillmer Hubbard added a dash of spice with a couple of delightfully rendered readings. Miss Edna V. Smith from the M. A. C., with the aid of charts, demonstrated the comparative value of the different departments of home management, making special mention of the budget system of financing, full of suggestions and helpful as her talks always are, making the housewife feel that to manage a household successfully involves the greatest responsibility of any position in existence; its influence the most far reaching and powerful throughout the world.

Mrs. Pepper of Detroit, president of Woman's League of Voters, spoke on legislative problems. Very forceful and convincing were the arguments set forth as to the need of each individual keeping in touch with requirements of public offices, and the adaptability of the candidates for the positions. Our public schools should be the most potent factors toward all forms of good government.
