WHAT kind of music do you like? The metallic? The harsh? The mechanical? Or the clear, the sweet, the natural? You go to a musical show—a concert—or an opera. How quickly you would criticize it if the music was harsh and metallic.

Whatever your taste as to character of music, the New Edison method gives you a reproduction you will like better. Hear it re-created through a diamond, rice paper and silk. Then listen to a similar record by the metallic method of reproduction. Then you decide which kind of music you want in your home.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. S. Conger Hathaway, Pastor

A MAN OF VISION

"The reason Washington looms so largely upon the horizon of the world's life is because he saw through the superficial things of his time into the profound truth of all time. Acknowledgement of God's wisdom and power, trust in God's providence, obedience to God's law formed the foundations upon which Washington began the building of the nation. We are not then surprised to learn that his old pastor could say: "He was the most punctual attendant at church I have ever known, and his behavior was so reverential as to greatly aid me in my labors."—London Telegraph.

Boy Scouts and Dads Enjoy Supper

As a climax to a week of anniversary events, the Boy Scouts of Troop 1, Plymouth, had supper with their dads at the Methodist church dining room, on Tuesday evening of this week. It was a typical scout supper, too, with hot frankfurts and rolls, baked beans, baked potatoes, pickles, cocoa, all that a fellow could eat and then some. Then to top it out, came some pie. And what boy is there, big or little, who doesn't like pie? More than one belt had to be loosened before the last bit of pie disappeared into the lower regions. Just 44 scouts, brave and true, old and young, bald-headed and shocky-haired; mustache and hairless, short pants and long pants, some in khaki and some were not. But boys they were, every one of them. Dads saw their boys in a new light; scouts saw their fathers from a new angle. And each one saw in the other, the real boy, the boy of fun, work, play and eat—the boy with a soul.

What added immensely to the pleasure of the evening, was the radio broadcast from WCX, The Detroit Free Press. Delightful and entertaining music while we ate, without having to change the record every two or three minutes. Mr. Daggett very kindly furnished the Scouts this entertainment with his excellent outfit. Mr. Daggett has a friend now in every boy who was there.

After every one had gorged himself to the limit, several mothers being present to pile the delectables on the table (for whom we are indeed grateful), a short program was presented. The scoutmaster, Rev. D. D. Nagle, introduced the toastmaster of the evening, Sidney Strong, a former scoutmaster at the Soo, and also a member of the local troop committee. And a capable and efficient master of ceremonies he proved to be. After a yell or two led by the troop cheer leader, scout Hathaway, (and yells were sandwiched along through the program), the toastmaster called on Rev. Hathaway to speak on behalf of the fathers. Scout Tefft, who is the only first class scout in the local troop at present, responded with a short speech, after which some of the scouts demonstrated for the benefit of their dads, some of the things they have been learning, first aid bandaging, methods of tying the injured, semaphore signaling and knot tying. The toastmaster then called on George A. Smith, superintendent of schools, and also a member of the troop committee, which is responsible for the welfare and progress of the troop. This was followed by an address to the fathers and sons by Mr. Gibson of Detroit, rector of the Plymouth Episcopal church. The speeches were all thoroughly enjoyed by everyone, especially the one by Mr. Gibson, who, himself, is a former scoutmaster in Detroit, and a worker with boys. We are sure every boy who was there is as determined now to be a better boy and scout, and every older boy is determined to be a better father to his boy. The program closed with the repeating of the Scout oath by all the members of the troop. Then all joined, fathers and sons, in an arm-to-arm circle, and repeated the Scout benediction, and cheer-leader Hathaway led in one final Scout yell, "A-M-E-R-I-C-A."

The boys had already been invited by Mr. Smith to come over to the High school auditorium and play a game of volley ball, fathers vs. Scouts. So with a whoop and much joking, all went over. It was agreed beforehand, that the losing team wash the dishes afterward. After playing three exciting games, shall we say it, the dads won all three. That's cruel, but it's the solemn truth. The Scouts were unanimously declared the champion kitchen-swipes and dishwashers of the evening.

However, the dads relented and consented to do their good turn by helping with the dishes. Was it worthwhile? Ask any Scout, old or young, who was there.

THE VILLAGE PRIMARY ELECTION

The village primary election held Tuesday, to place in nomination six candidates for the office of village commissioner, to be voted for at the coming village election, March 12th, only brought out a total of 76 votes. The following is the vote given each candidate:

J. W. Henderson	59
R. R. Parrott	59
E. R. Daggett	58
George H. Robinson	56
H. J. Fisher	53
W. T. Pettigill	46
Daniel Murray	37
Frank Rambo	32

The first six given above are the candidates whose names will appear upon the ballot at the coming village election, when three commissioners are to be elected.

THE ODD FELLOWS AT DEARBORN

The I. O. O. F. Interurban League, composed of Plymouth, Dearborn and Wayne lodges, held their first annual dinner at Dearborn, Monday evening. More than a hundred from Plymouth were in attendance. Over six hundred persons enjoyed the sumptuous banquet served by the Dearborn lodge. Dr. Edward Fisher acted as toastmaster and a fine program was rendered. The presentation of the medals and cups was made by Past Grand Wm. Ford of Dearborn. Plymouth brought home the big end of the prizes as follows: The Harlan cup, the horseshoe cup, and the base ball pennant. Wayne got the tug-of-war cup. The track meet will be held at Plymouth, this year on Labor Day.

DEATH OF LITTLE BOY

William Lars, the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lane, died Wednesday, after a short illness of cerebral meningitis. The funeral, which will be private, will be held from the home, today (Friday). The family have the sincere sympathy of the whole community in their great sorrow.

WILL GIVE NOON DAY LUNCHEON

A noon day luncheon will be given by Capt. Edward Denniston, at the Detroit House of Correction Farm, on Monday, February 19th, for the members of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce. All those wishing to attend are requested to notify William B. Petz, secretary, as soon as possible, so that Capt. Denniston may know how many will be present.

NUTRITION GROUP MEETING

At the February 8th meeting, the planning of daily meals that all members of the family may get the nutriment required for the different ages and occupations was under discussion, and much good derived. At the March 8th meeting the work of the three previous meetings will be reviewed, and a summary of the most important factors of nutrition will be dwelt upon. The fact that everyone interested is urged to attend, was wished emphasized.

BIRTHDAY SUPPER

Let us serve your birthday supper—one never to be forgotten. A prettily decorated table for each month of the year, with birthday cake and everything that helps to make a happy birthday. Can you imagine a supper like this for the small price of 50c for adults, and 35c for children under 12, with that beautifully decorated table?

NEXT NUMBER ON ENTERTAINMENT COURSE

The Chicago Lyceum Players, presenting the comedy-drama, "Sarah Sidelstepp," will be the next number on the Citizens Entertainment Course, at the Penningan Allen theatre, Tuesday evening, February 20th.

This is a well known company of musicians and entertainers who put on a program that takes an audience by storm. A very clever comedy drama, "Sarah Sidelstepp" is given in the form of an entire evening offering and music and miscellaneous numbers are interspersed. The Chicago Lyceum Players have the exclusive Lyceum and Chautauqua rights for "Sarah Sidelstepp." It is one of the few plays which can be successfully presented by a small cast under widely varied conditions.

Miss Gladys Houston takes the leading role of Mrs. Weathersby. She has able assistance in the three members who are selected to appear with her. All have had extended professional experience. The play, "Sarah Sidelstepp," is very funny, and the acting is extremely clever.

It is especially worthy of note here that there is nothing whatever of an objectionable nature in the play given by the Chicago Lyceum Players. Mr. Phil Wilmarth, playwright, stands for the highest possible ideals of clean living and clean thinking, but if you enjoy fun and like to laugh as you pass through life, you will find cause for unbounded enjoyment in the program of these talented players here. Single admission tickets, 50c.

NO MEETING OF WOMAN'S CLUB TODAY

Mrs. Sidney S. Weinman, who was scheduled for Friday, February 16th, to speak before the Woman's Club, will be unable to be here, and there will be no meeting.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY SUPPER

A supper will be given by the Choir Chapter society of the First Presbyterian church of Plymouth, in the basement of the church, on February 22nd. After the meal has been served, Miss Ferry of Lansing, "The head of the state historical commission," will give a talk. We are especially fortunate in having Miss Ferry with us, and we sincerely hope that this meeting will be largely attended. Her last visit to Plymouth was about a month ago, when she talked before the members of the Woman's Club.

Your Boy's Future

As you watch your boy trudging to school day after day, you realize with a pang of regret and a thrill of pride that in a few years he will no longer be a boy, but a man, ready to commence earning his own living or start off to college.

What preparation are you making for him now? Through all the plastic years of his life, you have the opportunity to make him what you will. His success will depend upon the foundation you have laid for him.

Remembering that thrift is the keynote to all good fortune, you should see that your boy is forming the saving habit now. Teach him to use this bank and show him the benefits he will derive by having its backing.

GOOD TIME TO PLAN

No matter how many new fads may come or what new style fashion may pull off, residents of Plymouth are always going to be interested in cutting down the cost of living. And being interested, they are always going to commence early to figure on their gardens, realizing as they do that the garden is one of the very best agencies known to man for bringing down the price of that which he must have on his dining table.

And now, since garden time is just around the corner and will be on us before we know it, we want to call attention to a few suggestions given us for publication by one of the most successful gardeners in this section. He argues that convenience in the garden is as necessary as in the kitchen or barn, and that the early vegetables, such as radishes, onions and lettuce should be placed closest to the house. Quite often the early vegetables have to be picked in rainy and muddy weather, and for that reason they should be where the housewife can get at them easily. Permanent vegetables, such as asparagus and rhubarb, should be planted where they will be least in the way. Their space cannot be shared by other vegetables and should be at one side of the garden, usually the one most distant from the house.

It may be a little too early to start active work in the garden. You'll have to be the judge of that. But it isn't too early to begin planning, and figuring out what you will plant and how and where. For cutting the cost of living depends on the gardens of the country, and right now is a mighty good time to start doing your part.

THE SENATOR KNOWS

Regardless of whether you agree with Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, politically, you'll have to admit that he's a good business man, and knows a good investment when he sees it. A few days ago he said:

"If there is one thing fairly established in the newspaper world today, it is that advertising is placed upon the strictest business principles, and there is not an advertiser but who buys his publicity at the lowest price he can. Merchants buy advertising as they buy goods, trying to get the best and the most for their money. There are very few advertisers spending money for space because they want to favor somebody. But they advertise because to sell the goods they've got to attract customers. And they are wise enough to know that the surest way to attract customers is through the columns of a newspaper."

There's a short little sermon, but a sensible one, for our business and professional men of Plymouth to think over.

NO STRIKE THIS YEAR

The best word we can carry to the people of Plymouth this week is a report from Washington that coal operators and miners have finished their conference, and there will be no coal strike in April. For that matter there will be no coal strike this year, as the wage agreement covers an entire twelve months. When we recall the disastrous strike of last year, when for five months thousands of men were idle and business of all kinds suffered, it is cause for rejoicing to know that we are not to again be hampered by a similar event. Coal is expected to take a tumble now, and some operators predict that during the summer it will be lower than at any time since 1914. We are also hoping that this is true, because with coal plentiful and at old-time prices factories can operate full time. And when the factories of this country are operating we feel it, even into the nooks and corners of the farms.

WHO KNOWS?

The Mail is desirous of collecting some historical data regarding the early days of Plymouth, and we are going to ask a series of questions, which, we hope, may bring about some interesting facts relating to the early history of the village. If you can give any information regarding these questions, write to the Mail office. If anyone has any questions they would like to ask in this column, please send or bring them to the Mail office. Here is a question for this week:

Who knows anything about the military companies organized here during the Civil War?

Who knows which is the oldest house standing in Plymouth?

HOW TO REMOVE SOOT

Large numbers of shingle roof and defective flue fires are being reported, due to the increasing use of soft coal. The accumulations of soot on heating surfaces reduce the value of the fuel, and frequently clog the flues and start fires. The Federal Fuel Administration Board suggests the following plan for removal of soot:

The fire is put into good condition with a substantial body of hot fuel. Common salt, thoroughly dried, is then thrown or sprinkled onto the incandescent fuel bed in a quantity depending entirely on the size of the furnace. In the case of a house heating furnace, one pound at a time is ample; in the case of a large power plant boiler, four or five scoops full may be required. The dampers are kept open so as to maintain the furnace temperature and the salt is allowed to remain until the fumes have entirely disappeared.

Immediately upon charging the salt, the furnace becomes filled with dense white fumes, which may require as much as half an hour entirely to disappear. If results are not secured on the first application, it should be repeated as many times as necessary.

Once the heating surface is thoroughly cleaned a small application every few days is usually sufficient to keep it so.

Everyone using soft coal is urged by the administration to use this remarkably simple and cheap process for getting rid of the soot, cleaning the heating surfaces of boilers, thus saving large amounts of coal, preventing fires from chimneys and generally conserving all along the line of heating and the production of power.

In Obedience to Jungle Law

By MORRIS SOHULTZ

(Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)
Casey had been "promoted" from the small rodents to the primates, but he was not sure he liked it. It was much harder work, to begin with, and then there were those afternoons when Baby, Bill and Mr. Jinks had tea on a platform in the zoo gardens.
He, Casey, had to sit on the platform with the three chimpanzees and pour out tea for them, and make them watch their table manners, while the crowd grinned underneath and said, "Ain't they human!"
Occasionally, too, wags pretended that Casey was one of the quartette of primates and addressed him as "Jocko."
The chief trouble, however, was that Mr. Jinks and Casey didn't get on together. Mr. Jinks always showed his white teeth when Casey appeared. He had been attached to his old keeper and couldn't understand what Casey wanted with him.
On this particular day Casey was tired. All hands had been called out because it was discovered that a particularly poisonous cobra had in some way escaped from its cage and was at large in the zoo grounds. They had searched all the morning, but had not discovered it.
Casey was worn out when he got Baby, Bill and Mr. Jinks on their platform. That day Mr. Jinks took it into his head to behave badly. He snatched up the teapot, drank out of the spout, scalded his mouth and began whimpering. Then he tried to bite Casey's hand and Casey forgot himself and boxed Mr. Jinks' ears. Mr. Jinks started howling.

The crowd lost its temper. "Say, you big baboon, you let the little fellow alone!" a man yelled.
"What a shameful thing!" said an old lady. "Those keepers are awful cruel to the dear animals, I've heard. He ought to be reported."
Casey was certainly having a bad time. Mr. Jinks snatched and blubbered and Baby and Bill, following his bad example, began snatching up the cake and crumpling it into their mouths. The more Casey tried to control them, the more hostile grew the spectators.

"Say, you oughter be put in a cage yourself!" shouted a fat man.
"Clip him one on the ear, Mr. Jinks!" shouted a thin man.
At last, to Casey's relief, the tea was finished. Baby and Bill, at Casey's signal, bounded from the platform and made their way home to their cages. Sometimes Casey would pretend to forget one of them and the crowd would see a frantic chimpanzee rushing wildly after its keeper. This always tickled it.
Today Mr. Jinks remained in a refractory mood. He snarled when Casey tried to make peace with him, wouldn't take an orange, and then, with a sudden bound, he had leaped from the platform to the branches of an overhanging tree, where he clung, while the crowd went frantic with delight.
"Get up and get your baby!" shouted a square man.
"Give papa a climb!" cried a very thin, emaciated one.
But suddenly, quick as a flash, Mr. Jinks had leaped from the tree. He was running through a patch of heavy grass and Casey was following him. Casey had a fine chase. It ended at the very outskirts of the gardens, with Mr. Jinks sitting on a fence and Casey standing in the grass a few feet away, holding out a banana, while Mr. Jinks showed his teeth.

Suddenly, with a hoarse scream, Mr. Jinks leaped at Casey. So sudden was the onset that Casey stumbled and fell back into the grass. He heard Mr. Jinks screaming hoarsely. He put up his hands to save himself. He pincered the chimpanzee's teeth in his throat.
But only a plaintive wailing followed. Casey sat up. Mr. Jinks was sitting in the grass a few feet away from him, looking at him with a tired expression. Casey advanced hesitantly; advanced, and stopped in amazement.
Beside Mr. Jinks, coiled up, lay the cobra, dead. Mr. Jinks' teeth had bitten his head nearly off.
And Mr. Jinks' arm was swollen to the size of Casey's leg. The chimpanzee's eyes were glaring fast.
With a sob Casey knelt down and put his arm round Mr. Jinks' neck. Mr. Jinks chattered, his head fell upon Casey's breast. Mr. Jinks was dead.
He had died in obedience to jungle law. For men and monkeys stand together against humanity's first enemy. Casey understood that. Their quarrel had been forgotten in the presence of the snake.

SPORT.
An Englishman, touring America for the first time, was riding in a taxi through some of Chicago's most beautiful suburbs.
Just as the car hummed past an extremely well-kept cemetery, partly hidden by trees and flowers, he called to the driver to stop.
"I say, is this a summer resort?"
"You betcha," came the quick reply; "the last resort."
"Jolly attractive scenery, guess I'll stop and have tea here."
"Say, this ain't no tea station; this is a marble orchard."
The Londoner bewilderingly repeated:
"A marble orchard! I say, what do they raise?"
"Tomatoes!"
"Right you are, carry on."

They Appeal to Our Sympathies
The bilious and dyspeptic are constant sufferers and appeal to our sympathies. Many such, however, have been completely restored to health by the use of Chamberlain's Tablets. These tablets strengthen the stomach, irrigate the liver and improve the digestion. They also cause a gentle movement of the bowels. When you have any trouble with your stomach, give them a trial. Today's Reflections

As if Uncle Sam had not already enough to worry about, now comes a proposal for a national divorce law.

Maybe the reason a Plymouth boy seldom swears before his dad, is because his dad swears first.

We still contend that the meanest kind of a hypocrite is the man who praises the Lord and refuses to pay his debts.

We want to give Plymouth men a little advice. Don't cuss winter. The longer it lasts, the longer it is until you have to cut the weeds.

It is also a good idea to remember that there are more nice things to save money for than there are things to spend it for.

It wouldn't be so bad and a lot of trouble could be averted if some people would talk as slowly as they think.

It would make it a lot easier for Plymouth husbands if their wives were as afraid of them as they are of old age.

If when people tell us "absence makes the heart grow fonder," they are talking about money, we heartily agree with them.

Why is it that every married woman thinks that all her husband's bachelor friends envy him?

When the average Plymouth man's clothes are worn shabby, it's pretty hard for him to keep his face that way.

A Tennessee school teacher proposes to have school last the year round. That will probably impress the small boy as war news.

You have also, doubtless noticed that the more money a man has, the harder the lawyers will work to keep him out of jail.

No Plymouth man really knows what it is to be busy until he hasn't time to get a haircut until four weeks after he needs it.

EPISCOPAL NOTES

We regret that at the last moment the Rev. Henry Midworth was not able to be with us, last Sunday morning, as he was unable to make connections and had to postpone the morning service. Some of our members attended the services and worshipped in the other churches.

Next Sunday our morning service will be as usual, Franklin Gibson will be the preacher, and will take as his subject "Rest," from Matt. 11:28, 29.

There will be mid-week services in the church every week during Lent. Next week services will be held on Wednesday at 7:30. Franklin Gibson will have charge of the service, and will take as his subject, "The Lost Coin." After next week, the mid-week Lenten services will be held every Thursday evening. We invite everybody to attend, and worship with us in our services, which will be both inspiring and helpful.

Thanks to the hard work of some of the ladies of the Guild, with the assistance of some of the elder girls of the church-school, our community supper, given in the Grange hall, last week, was a great success. The proceeds have enabled us to pay off our pledge to the Armenia fund in full, with a nice sum over for our treasures.

Apart from this singular success it was also a success socially. All denominations were well represented at the supper, and a pleasant social evening was spent.

The organist is anxious to set apart one evening a week for choir practice, so that the praise part of our service should be rendered as fully as possible, new hymn tunes and chants learned. This will be discussed and arranged probably next Sunday, and Mr. Gibson asks all who can to attend these practices.

The Legacy Left by Uncle John

By ANTHONY REIMERT

(© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

Uncle John had been ill for seven months before he died, and had been attended by a horde of relations. Uncle John had lived forty years in the little cottage at the end of the road. In his old age he had grown crumpled and crafty and mean; he had dismissed his old housekeeper and attended to his own wants until stricken by his mortal illness.

Then his relatives swooped down—for everybody knew the old man was wealthy. There were Brother James and Brother Thomas, Sister Angelica, Cousin Betsy, Cousin Matilda, and an uncounted host of nephews and nieces, vying with one another.

One brought him broth, one brought him flowers, one looked after him on Tuesdays and Saturdays, and another on Wednesdays and Sundays. Sister Angelica, with whom he had been estranged for years, came in every evening and there was an affecting scene between them.

Who was his favorite? Niece Mary, the local stenographer, who was nearly forty, but happy in her inevitable spinsterhood, seemed to hold the old man's heart more than any of the others. They told Uncle John shocking stories about her, but Uncle John seemed too far gone to take these tales at their proper valuation.

They were as sweet as honey to the old man, and pressed their eternal claims upon him. Cousin Matilda was a widow, with five children to bring up. But Brother James thought that, as head of the family, he should inherit the bulk of Uncle John's property.

Uncle John had certainly never had such a time to his life as in those last months. He lived upon jelly and chicken, and his room was like a hot-house. Uncle John incidentally detested flowers. Niece Mary was the only one who didn't give him expensive presents, but then she only got fifteen a week, and it is hard to be generous on that amount of money.

One night Uncle John quietly fell asleep in death when nobody was near him. Perhaps it was just as well. They came in and found the old man lying back upon his pillows, a placid smile upon his face.

"It's a mercy, after all he'd suffered, poor man!" was Cousin Matilda's verdict.
"Well, he lived a long life if not a merry one," soliloquized Brother James.

And two problems perturbed them exceedingly: How much had Uncle John left, and who was going to get the bulk of it?

"I should say," said Brother Thomas, pursing his lips, "that my brother was worth about forty thousand."
"Forty thousand?" cried Brother James. "How far will that go among us all? Of course, I ain't suggesting that John has left more'n a triding remembrance to most of 'em," he added.

The will was read the morning after the old man's death, by the gray-haired lawyer, in the shabby little living room.

"To my brother, James, in acknowledgment of his headship of the family, fifty dollars."
The terrible silence was cut by a snickering laugh from Cousin Matilda.
"To my brother, Thomas, in acknowledgment of his kindness to a crumpled old man—"

"Ah!" There was a universal sigh. So Thomas had got it, had he?
"Twenty-five dollars."
This time everybody except the brothers burst on laughing.

"To my sister, Angelica, my house and its contents."
"Worth five hundred at the outside," sniffed Sister Angelica contemptuously. "The mean old—"
"Hush! Hush!" cried the indignant voices.
"To my cousins, Betsy and Matilda, and each of my nephews and nieces, except my niece, Mary, ten dollars apiece."
Indignant, dagger-glances at Mary, who sat alone in one corner of the room.

"To my niece, Mary, the remainder of my personal estate, together with my recipe for happiness."
How much? How much? There were agonizing looks at Mary. They forgot to shake hands with her when they fled out.

It was a little over two hundred dollars, the lawyer informed Mary a little later. He handed her a letter from her uncle, the envelope inscribed "Recipe for Happiness." Mary opened it:
"My dear, I wish I could do more for you. But you follow this advice and it'll be as good as money to you as long as you live. The next best thing to having money is purchasing."

Rastus on Vowels.
Rastus—Kin you tell me, Uncle Eph, why de letter "i" am de pleeple of all de vowels?
Uncle Eph—Lectin' me de vowels am a, e, i, o, u, an' caus'ally y. Why dat "y" come bustin' in jak dat de Lawd ony know.
Rastus—Scuse me, but you am beggin' de question. Well, don, lemme explain it to you: "i" am in de midst of bliss, while "e" am in hell and all de res' am in purgatory.
Uncle Eph—Halleluluyah! Dat "i" has got all de othas on de blink. An say boy, you astutly wukked in dat casual "y" jus lak a collidge professor!—Detroit Free Press

METHODIST NOTES

Mrs. Sallow's company gives a supper at the church, next Friday night, February 23rd. It is to be a Washington birthday supper. Plan to be there.

Remember the Thursday evening program of devotion and study to increase the attendance and interest, by being present yourself. Verily it will be a great inspiration to yourself as well as others.

Pledges for the organ fund are still coming in. It is down now to $261 still remaining to be raised. Are you in on it? See the pastor, or E. V. Jolliffe, the treasurer of the fund, or William Sutherland, and hand to either of them that nice, helpful pledge you have been planning to make for the benefit of enjoying the inspiration of the new pipe organ.

The Epworth League is actually in the midst of the missionary base ball tournament now. Something doing from now on. If you are curious as to what it is, come to the meeting next Sunday at 6:30 p. m.

The pastor regrets having to be away more or less for the next week or so. The pastors of the district are being used in the educational canvass that is being made by Michigan Methodism, and they are subject to the call of the district superintendent for several weeks.

The personal canvass for the educational advance of Michigan Methodism will be made in Plymouth some time next week. The folks of our Methodist constituency are asked to receive the canvassers kindly as ministers of Christ. If so situated that you can give anything for this important cause of christian education, well and good. If not so situated, give these messengers your blessing, anyway.

Our sympathies and prayers are with all who are afflicted with sickness of one kind and another. May Christ's presence be the encouragement of all such.

Next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 is the monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid society at the church. It is the date of the kitchen shower that has been planned. A business meeting and program.

The Junior League will also meet next Wednesday afternoon. Owing to Mrs. Nagle's illness, it has been impossible to get things organized. She will be present next week.

The radio program, broadcast from Central Methodist church, next Sunday evening at 7:30, with Dr. Hough, a world-renowned preacher, and the Hudson Quartette, will make a unique and worth-while program. The public is cordially invited. Come and enjoy it.

Sunday-school board meeting, next Tuesday night at 7:30.
Don't forget the radio program, Sunday evening. This pleasurable and inspiring event is made possible by the kindness and generosity of Mr. Daggett of the Radio Shop.

Livonia Center Lutheran Church

There will be regular services at the Livonia Center Lutheran Church on Sunday, February 18, 1923, in the English language. Sunday-school at 1:45. On Friday evening, February 16th, at 7:30, there will be special Lenten services in the German language. These services will continue during Lent, on Wednesday evenings, alternately German and English. The services on February 21st will be in English. "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go up into the house of the Lord," Ps. 122, 1.

THE PEOPLE'S CAR

For Economical Transportation—
Why It Should Be a Chevrolet

The Chevrolet IS the people's car—so efficient in service and pleasing in appearance it satisfies the wealthy motorist—so low in price it meets the most modest purse.

It is the world's lowest priced, fully equipped standard automobile.

It includes every item of equipment—every accessory that modern motoring demands. There is nothing left to buy but the license.

ALL MODELS have demountable rims and extra rim, tire carrier, license holder, legal lights in head-lamps, oil pressure gauge, ammeter, speedometer, choke pull, and gas tank on the rear.

OPEN MODELS have double adjustable windshield, one-man top, and side curtains open with the doors.

CLOSED MODELS have plate glass windows with Fernstedt regulators, windshield wiper, sun visor, dash light, bolts and locks on the doors, and straight side Cord tires.

More than 243,000 Chevrolets sold in 1922, with a production schedule for 1923 about double that of 1922.

The new Superior Model is the best Chevrolet that has ever been made, yet offered at an incomparably low price.

QUALITY CARS

Ford Cars Have Never Been As High In Quality

For the past year Henry Ford and his ablest assistants have devoted practically all their time and energies to improving the Ford car. As a result we are today offering the best Ford car that has ever been made in the history of the Ford Motor Company.

HERE ARE A FEW OF THE IMPROVEMENTS:

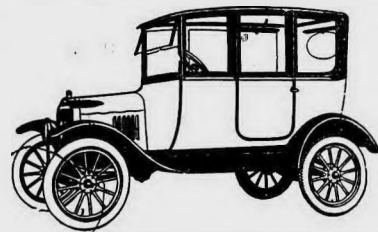

- Lighter pistons and connecting rods—resulting in smoother running, reduced vibration, snappier pick up, decreased wear.
- Elimination of oil pumping by new piston and ring construction.
- Improved rear end parts reducing rear end trouble.
- Wiring system has been completely re-designed, making it practically proof against short circuits and fire.
- Pressed steel muffler.
- One man top, gypsy curtains, slanting windshield, improved seats. No advance in price.
- One piece running board brackets insuring exceptional rigidity with light weight and freedom from vibration.
- Crankshaft, perfectly balanced, made of as good material and as finely finished as those used on cars, ten times the price of a Ford.
- Dash weather trough preventing trouble due to rain and moisture.
- Motor—higher cylinder head—more water circulation. Larger compression chamber—less carbon knock lessens strain on crank and bearing—less overheating.
- New Ford Carburetor—more pep—more mileage.
- Demountable rim lugs fastened on rim, preventing slipping.
- Front spring—new design and new suspension making it practically unbreakable.

THE IMPROVED ...FORD...

The late Ford models embody 25 mechanical changes and improvements in construction which make the new Ford car 100% better than it was a year ago.

Basket Ball Games

Since the winning of this game would place the victors at the head of the Four Square League, the contest last Friday evening was a fight from the start.

Redford was the first to score, and at the end of the first half the chances for P. H. S. winning the game were not very promising; although the Blue and White made four points from the foul line, they did not succeed in making any field baskets, and at the end of the second quarter the score stood 5 to 4 in favor of Redford. One factor operating against Plymouth was the slippery floor, and the ball was lost several times on account of the players sliding out of bounds.

In the second half, notwithstanding the splendid fight put up by the Maroons, they scored only three more points, while Plymouth made 11 points. The total then read 15 to 8 in favor of Plymouth.

This now puts us at the head of the league, and it is all up to us and to the support we get as to whether we can maintain our lead.

Tonight we are playing our return game with Northville, and having in mind the clean, snappy game played with us at Plymouth, the final outcome cannot be foretold until the game is finished. What we need in this, as well as in any game is not only the full co-operation of all the players, but the support of the home town folks. So let everyone who takes any interest in the sport, come out to witness the game; come to Northville with us, bringing your horns and leaving your hammers at home. Do not be afraid to cheer P. H. S. for that is the kind of language we understand, the kind that makes us win games, and the kind that will keep your basket ball team on the map.

Redford Line-up—
 Welsby, R. F., 2 one-point baskets,

2 2-point baskets, 1 free throw, 2 technical and 1 personal fouls.
 Henkle, L. F., 1 1-point basket, 1 personal and 2 technical fouls.
 Dicks, J. C., 1 technical and 1 personal foul.

Costello, S. C., 1 technical foul.
 Burdick, R. G., 2 personal and 1 technical fouls.
 DePotty, L. G., (side) 3 personal fouls.
 Bacon for C. DePotty.
 Plymouth Line-up—
 Kiely, R. F., 3 free throws, 3 2-point baskets, 1 1-point basket.
 Amrhein, L. F., 5 free throws, 1 technical foul.

Freydl, J. C., 1 technical foul.
 Whipple, S. C.
 Mueller, R. G., 2 personal fouls.
 Hake, L. G., 1 personal foul.
 Hinnau for Kiely.

One minute before the final whistle blew, Plymouth tossed a basket which made us victors at Redford, Friday, February 11, with a score of 21 to 20.

The first quarter was filled with much excitement because neither team was warmed up. At the end of the first half, Redford's star had made the score 12 to 8 in his favor.
 During the second half the Plymouth spectators showed a great deal of enthusiasm of the kind the fellows on the team enjoyed.

Coach Walker put Richwine into the third quarter to guard Dennis of Redford.

The Redford boys must have been either discouraged or have lost their heads in the final minutes of play, because they allowed Capt. "Suds" to toss in quite a few fouls, and the last basket which won the game.

The team is not at all satisfied with its past work, and so they have decided to win from now on, including the game at Northville tonight. If you would like to see some peppy fighting, come to Northville.

 Plymouth Line-up—
 Sutherland, (Capt.)—4 field throws, 8 1-point baskets
 Williams, I. F.
 Palmer, I. F.—1 field, 1 1-point basket

Strasen, C.
 Richwine, C.
 Birch, R. G.
 Kenyon, R. G.—1 field basket
 Holmes, I. G.

Redford Line-up—
 James, R. F.—1 1-point basket, 2 field baskets
 Durham, R. F.
 Dennis, I. F.—3 1-point baskets, 5 field baskets
 E. Butcher, C.—1 field basket
 DeLange, C.
 Leahy, R. G.
 Jarman, I. G.

Facing an unbeaten team on a slippery floor larger than their own, our girls' second team played at Redford their first game, which resulted in a defeat by four points. Following the first basket made by Plymouth's forwards, Redford's forwards made a complete line of points, and the score at the end of the first quarter was 15 to 11, in their favor. Good sportsmanship was shown by both teams in this clean, hard fought game. Even though our girls worked hard and lost, the final score was 27 to 23, in favor of Redford.

The line-up was—
 I. Bird, R. F., 1 technical foul, 3 free throws and 7 field throws
 E. England, I. F., 2 technical fouls, 1 free throw and 1 field throw
 D. Hinnau, I. F., 2 technical fouls, 1 free throw and 2 field throws
 G. Bird, J. C.
 C. White, R. G., 2 technical fouls
 M. Shogren, Capt., R. G., 1 technical foul

M. Griffith, I. G.
 G. Herrick, I. G., 1 technical foul
 Substitutes—Herrick for Griffith, England for White, Hinnau for England, White for Hinnau and Griffith for Herrick.

Playing on a floor that was much larger than Plymouth's, our boys' second team won their first game by five points. Their work was good, and they succeeded in outplaying their opponents. The final score was 16 to 11 in our favor.

The line-up—
 Millard, R. F., 3 personals
 Taylor, L. T.
 Goyer, C., 1 personal
 Hickey (Capt.), R. G., 3 personals
 Wilson, L. G.
 Substitutes—Moyer; Mills, 1 personal.

SCHOOL NOTES

A deed once done can never be undone," someone has said. But certainly none would care to undo the generous deed which was performed by the class of '22. The graduates must have felt a deep devotion for their High school when they caused one more trophy to be placed among those Plymouth has held in the past.

The way in which the seniors expressed their devotion for their school can be seen any time the front doors are open. After you enter the building, just look directly in front of you and you will see a beautiful glass case placed behind the drinking fountain, with the front pane of glass gently tilting, so that you can get a closer view of what it boasts. The workmanship of their trophy case is very fine, no wood frame being necessary, except the base and the doors at the rear.

It contains one shelf of glass on which is proudly displayed the rewards of Plymouth's various contests in athletics, debating and stock judging meets. From left to right the cups are: First, the Michigan fruit judging cup, which was won last year at the Northville Fair. The state championship for debating is represented by the next trophy. The girls' track team of '22 brought home the bacon; it's next in line. The boys' track of '20 won the cup from the other contestants in Four Square League. The next trophy was won in 1921 by the boys' relay team at M. A. C. The last four cups will always remain on display in the trophy case, unless they are crowded out in the future by the efforts of our promising Freshies.

SCHOOL'S SECOND YEAR MILK PROJECT

A successful project supervised by the domestic science class is being carried on throughout the school. The dispensing of milk last year grew out of the lessons on milk given by Miss Rogers, the home demonstrator. At the conclusion of these lessons, Mrs. Murray of the school board; Miss Ellis, the community nurse, and Mr. Smith, the superintendent, interviewed those who did not drink milk at home, and found a real need to be supplied. Mrs. Murray, who was then the president of the Woman's Club, interested the civic committee in taking over the project in 1922.

Because of financial experiences of last year, the civic committee was doubtful as to the advisability of the club's financing the project for those boys and girls who could not afford milk. The matter was taken before the board of education, who decided that the superintendent should with some plan finance the project. The school has accepted the kind offer of the Woman's Club to take charge of the dispensing of the milk this year.

The plan for financing the project for the next semester of twenty weeks, at three cents a day, will cost three dollars for each child for milk and wafers. There are about twenty children, whose fathers are dead and whose mothers are endeavoring to keep their families together. It will require about sixty dollars more than is received for the milk to finance the project.

We have planned to try to encourage organizations such as fraternal societies and churches to adopt one or more children for the semester, paying the three dollars for the milk consumed until all twenty cases are provided for. It is through the loyal organizations and civic committee of the clubs that the school hopes to be able to continue to sell milk to those who cannot afford to pay.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

Several good reports were given at the C. E. meeting, last Sunday night, and the attendance was larger than usual.

Four members of the Boy Scout Patrol went into the pulpit, last Sunday, upon invitation of the pastor, and gave the scout oath in unison. Over a hundred sat down to a fine Christmas supper given to the members of the Sunday-school, last Monday night. All reported a good time. This event was postponed at Christmas time on account of the general illness.

Plan to attend the Washington's Birthday supper, given by the members of the Choir Chapter.

The Busy Woman's Bible Class had an interesting meeting at the manse, last Tuesday. Sickens and weather conditions made the attendance small.

The Young Ladies' Choir Chapter held two meetings this week, one for business on Tuesday, and one for practice on Thursday.

WOMAN'S CLUB

A regular meeting of the Woman's Club of Plymouth, was held in the club room, Conner building, February 9th. The president, Mrs. George Robinson, presided. After a short business session, the program was taken over by Div. VIII, with Mrs. E. E. Foster as the leader. A paper, "Robert Frost," by Mrs. Foster, was followed by two selections from this author, "The Bon-Fire" and "The Self Seeker," which were read by Mrs. F. W. Hillman. Mrs. Syler of Detroit, favored the company with two piano selections, (a) Hungarian March; (b) Variations of Old Black Joe. This being a patriotic meeting, Mrs. Paul Bennett read a very interesting paper on, "The Lincoln Memorial." Mrs. Charles A. Root, a Plymouth teacher, was present, with a wonderful collection of relics of the Revolutionary period, which she displayed and explained in the following order, viz: Continental currency—One cent piece, dated 1783, and a 13 link cent dated 1787; paper money issued in 1775, a $20.00 bill; paper money issued 1777, a $3.00 bill. A dinner plate specially made in England for a dinner party in Boston for General Lafayette, on his second arrival in this country. It bears the picture of "The Landing of the Pilgrims" and the date of the death of George Washington. Two very old newspapers, one published in 1770, the other after the death of Washington and tells of his funeral, and the act of congress in honor of him. Shoe buckles and knee buckles that match, which were worn during the Revolutionary war. A poem, "How Dorcas Took the Spy," by Susan H. Wixom, of Fall River, Mass., who was a descendant of the Dorcas Soule of the poem. It tells of a real incident of the Revolutionary war, Dorcas is an ancestor of Mrs. Root. Such a collection as she possesses should find a secure place for exhibit, as it is indeed full of interest. The program was closed by two fine vocal selections rendered by Mrs. Harold Roberts of Royal Oak, accompanied by Mrs. Syler.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Private Vernon E. Henderson, who died in the service of his country, February 19, 1918. Though earthly ties are broken, In life we meet no more, Our thoughts are with you, Vernon, On yonder distant shore.

For many years a family circle was closely linked together; But oh, that chain is broken. Three links have gone forever. Mother, Brother, Sister.

RESOLUTIONS

To the family of John Quartel, Sr., from Tent 338, K. O. T. M., Plymouth, Michigan.

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst our worthy brother and friend, John Quartel, Sr., be it

RESOLVED, That we as a lodge of Maccabees, tender our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved widow and children in their hour of affliction. We feel that in the loss of our brother, we have lost a friend indeed. During our associations with him, we have found him an energetic and faithful member, as well as a useful brother, and while you mourn the loss of a husband and father, we too, have lost an honored member, and his memory will live long in the hearts of his brethren. And we hope and trust that you as a family and we as an entire lodge may meet in that temple not made by hands whose light is the Lord. Be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of these resolutions be placed in the records of the lodge, and one be sent to the family, and also be published in the Plymouth Mail.

Signed in behalf of the Lodge,
 J. E. PETTINGILL,
 C. O. DICKERSON,
 J. R. McLEOD,
 Committee.

W. C. T. U.
 The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet, Thursday, February 22, with Mrs. E. R. Daggett. There will be a patriotic program, and it is hoped there will be a good attendance.

The Point of Honor

By JOHN PALMER

(© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

The finest story young Thompson ever wrote for his paper was the description of Lyman Jackson's death.

"Thompson," said his city editor to him, "Jackson, the department store man's dead. Died last night. Swallowed oxalic acid in mistake for some medicine or other. Old man with a pretty young wife. Run up and interview her and find out just what happened and make a thundering good story out of it."

Thompson was new at the game. The city editor saw him hesitate. "Whasermarrer? Don't like the job, hey?"

"Well, Mr. Benton, I—It's sort of men, isn't it? Of course—"

Benton laid a fatherly hand upon his shoulder. "See here, son," he said, "a reporter has no sense of honor apart from his paper. Get me? What your paper thinks right you think right. Now hop!"

Thompson heaved, but he hated himself and his job more and more as he made his way uptown on the L. When he arrived at the Jackson house he had to summon all his energies to ring the bell.

The maid showed him into the parlor. Presently an extremely pretty young widow came in, dressed in black. Her eyes were red and tear-stained.

"Good-morning," said Thompson. "I'm from the 'Daily Record.' We want to know how this unfortunate accident came about."

"Well, I've nothing to say," she answered. "That's all to that."

Thompson knew she would talk. "How did he come to make such a mistake?" he asked.

"Because he took the wrong bottle in the dark instead of switching on the light. My God, it's too terrible!" She began to cry, and Thompson felt more of a brute than ever.

"And—how long was it before he realized the mistake?" he asked.

"Not for nearly an hour, until he was seized with those terrible pains. I called the doctor at once, of course, but it was too late. Oh, I can't bear to think about it!"

Thompson asked her a few more questions, which she answered. "Well, I'm sorry to have troubled you," he said. He would have to elaborate the widow's story; there had been nothing picturesque in the manner of Jackson's death.

Just a stupid old man dying in a stupid way. How could he build a romance out of that?

"Are you really a reporter?" asked Mrs. Jackson suddenly. "Not a—detective?"

"A detective? Why?"

"Oh, I'm going to tell you the truth now," she cried suddenly, catching Thompson by the arm. "I killed him!"

"You—?" Thompson stared at her. Was she out of her mind, or—?

"I killed him. I took away that bottle of medicine he kept on the shelf to make him sleep, and I put the acid there in its place. I knew he'd swallow it and that it would kill him."

"But why?" demanded Thompson, suddenly conscious that he had achieved the scoop of the year.

"Because I love Jim Huddersfield, and I'd go through it—for him. And I'd gone through it—with Mr. Jackson. That's why. He wouldn't die, the old fool, though he'd had heart disease for years."

"You can call this a confession, but I tell you I glory in it. I'd do more than that for Jim. And we were to have been married!"

"Did he—did he suspect?"

"He didn't. He was holding my hand at the last, when he was dying, and I was laughing at him. I had no pity for him. Well, why should I have had? He bought me with his money when I was a young and innocent girl. I'd had enough of him. He never knew. Now take me away!"

"But—but I'm not a detective," stammered Thompson. "See here, Mrs. Jackson, you were out of your mind when you told me this."

"You—you are really a reporter? My God, and I thought—Oh, what shall I do?"

Thompson took her by the arm. "You will take care to place a seal upon your lips, Mrs. Jackson, as I shall place one on mine," he answered. "Not one word of what you have told me will be printed or related to anyone. For, you see, it isn't true."

"No, it isn't true," she repeated mechanically.

Thompson's story was the best thing he ever wrote. It described how the old man took the acid in mistake for the sleeping draught, and his last hours, and the anguish of his broken-hearted widow.

His inquiry.

"During the old settlers' celebration last week," related the landlord of the Petunia tavern, "we held a horseshoe-pitching tournament that attracted players from all over."

"H'm!" returned the hypercritical guest. "Why not hold a leading and splitting tournament and be done with it?"—Kansas City Star.

"Eat and Grow Thin."

Mrs. Skelton—Yes, I keep slender, although I eat everything that's put before me.

Mrs. Woodbe Shimmer—How do you manage to do it?

Mrs. Skelton—Where I board they put precious little before me.

LOOKED IN FACE OF DEATH

Anglo-Indian Merchant's Class Call at the Hands of Servant Who Sought Revenge.

Poisoning is a fine art in India. It is a favorite way to be revenged on a foe in a private quarrel. Sometimes a reptile is placed in a man's bed, or the more subtle method may be adopted of inserting poison in his belongings.

An Anglo-Indian merchant once had an adventure that nearly cost him his life. He had gotten along well with the natives, but two of his servants had had a quarrel over a girl. The merchant interfered in the affair. The unsuccessful suitor, began to make trouble, and his rival, the husband, warned the merchant against him.

Nothing happened for some months. Then the merchant went away on business. On his return he was told that Laj had been caught in his bedroom.

In the East this means trouble. The merchant called his servants and had a thorough search made of the house. They scrutinized every knob, handle and garment to see whether it had been smeared with poison or with juices that attract venomous creatures.

The merchant was tired, and after eating went to the cabinet where he kept his cigars. As he took up a box he noticed on it the marks of dirty fingers.

He was about to take a cigar when he noticed that something was wrong with the head. A second and a third were like the first. In each a small, almost imperceptible rose thorn had been inserted and on it was a dab of brown slime, still moist, the same color as the cigar.

The merchant notified the police. In half an hour an officer appeared with Laj under guard. The merchant stated the case to the officer, and, taking one of the cigars, handed it to Laj with the command, "Take it and smoke it."

The man refused. His guilt was proved.

Up to the Minute in Rings.

The Woman had gone with the engaged girl to look at platinum wedding rings. But as the delicate hoops with sentimental wreaths of orange blossoms or prosaic but gorgeous diamonds studded ones were placed on the strip of black velvet on the counter the Woman's attention wandered from the eager engaged girl to a nonchalant customer of many years.

There was nothing extraordinary about this person's appearance either in features or clothes, but there was a positive manner in the way she picked up the rings displayed for her inspection that aroused interest. After she had examined a dozen wedding rings or so as though they were the most commonplace merchandise instead of the most wonderful thing in the world to buy, the Woman saw her slip one on. And as she wondered how anyone could be quite so cold about that sort of a purchase she heard her say:

"I don't want to spend a lot. But it must be platinum. This is my third. I've had the gold and the white gold, so I might as well have the latest there is to have now."—Chicago Journal.

Moses as Alchemist.

All writers upon alchemy triumphantly cite the Bible story of the golden calf to prove that Moses could make or unmake gold at his pleasure. It is recorded that Moses was so wrought with the Israelites for their idolatry that "he took the calf which they had made, and burned it in the fire, and ground it to powder, and strewed it upon the water, and made the people of Israel drink of it." This, say the alchemists, he never could have done had he not been in possession of the philosopher's stone—by no other means could he have made the powder of gold float upon the water.

The notions of the alchemists seem to have been that all metals were composed of two substances—the one, metallic earth, and the other a red, inflammable matter, which they called sulphur. The pure union of these substances formed gold, but other metals were mixed with and contaminated by various foreign ingredients. The object of the philosopher's stone was to dissolve or neutralize all these ingredients by which iron, lead, copper and all metals would be transmuted into the original gold.

Daddy Knew 'Em All.

My brother recently attended a charity bazaar, accompanied by his little son, aged three. Several young ladies soliciting sales for charity were dressed in costumes cut rather delectable. My brother, knowing several of the women, conversed a few moments with them. Next morning, when mother asked the child what he'd seen the night before, he told of the pretty things and also said "And, Grandma, there were lots of ladies and they had nothing on here (pointing to his chest) and nothing on here (indicating his arms) and daddy knew them all!"—Detroit News.

Business Letters.

One business man whom the Woman knows receives many humorous letters. When he receives one that is particularly funny he forwards the Woman a copy. Her mail this morning contained this copy: "Gentlemen," it read, "my order arrived in very bad shape. All the metal sheets were bent and the kegs were broken. I am disgusted with your service. If I ever order anything from you again, please don't ship it."—New York Sun.

Newsy School Notes

The kindergarten, first, second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades are planning valentine boxes.

Mrs. John McLaren and Mrs. Earl Taylor visited the second grade, and Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Lorson visited the third grade last week.

Marion Gust, Mary Lorenz, Lawrence Rattenbury, Margaret Schaufele, Chase, Willett and Velma Petz were neither absent nor tardy the first semester. The pupils who never miss a day and never come just a little late are learning punctuality, one of the most important lessons of life.

The third grade language class is studying the life of Lincoln.

There are only eight pupils in the B section of the fourth grade this term.

The sixth grade cooking class is studying frozen desserts and making jello.

Miss Ellis, the school nurse, has been examining the children from the first through the sixth grades. The children have been weighed and measured, and there are 105 who are underweight at least ten per cent. This is about twenty-five per cent of the total number. The fifth and sixth grades have been examined for eye and throat trouble, but comparatively little of that was found. There was a dental inspection at the school last fall, and since then many of the children have had their teeth taken care of. Miss Ellis and Miss Woodworth are working on a series of talks on nutrition and health habits for the children. Miss Ellis is at the school all day Monday and Wednesday morning, and she will be very glad to have any of the mothers come up and talk over the work with her.

News has lately reached America that one of the very ancient castles in Ireland has been destroyed by the Irish, but this is not the only one that has met such a fate. The castles that the Seniors built in regard to Washington, D. C., have also been ruined, because of the lack of funds and co-operation of the class. A few in the class were very anxious to go on this trip, but others did not care so much about it. The diligent seniors worked long and hard at various jobs, such as getting subscriptions for the Ladies' Home Journal, selling candy, giving a play, and even some of the seniors blacked shoes at noon in the school house, to make the air castle a substantial one. After discussing the matter, it was finally decided, that with the funds we had and what we might earn, it would be possible for the class to go to Niagara Falls.

Some think that this trip would not be as educational as the trip to Washington, but although there are not so many national buildings at Niagara, it is educational in other respects. Although some in the class may have the chance to see Niagara many times in the future, still there are some who will never have this chance again, and none will ever have the opportunity of going with all their classmates with whom they graduated in 1923.

The school notes have been furnished by the senior English class: Dorothy Hinnau wrote of the first term boys' game; Bonnie Mueller, of the first team girls' game; Genevieve Butler, of the second team games; Avis Blackmore, of the library; Kenneth Bartlett, of the High school; Clara Hank, of the grades; Glenn Mitchell, of the trophy case; Fannie Grainger, of the Niagara plans, and Alice Van Arsdale, of the milk distribution.

To use the popular phrase, "Day by day, in every way, P. H. S. gets better and better." It doesn't take auto-suggestion either to make one see that the advantages which the local school offers place Plymouth in the front rank. A town is judged by the school it supports—thus it is only right that the advantages which the local school offers for the second semester should be announced at this time.

There are 378 pupils enrolled from the seventh to the twelfth grades, an increase of 91 over the first semester, and an increase of 121 over the total enrollment five years ago. Of the 378 students, 86 are taking commercial work, while the rest are taking academic studies. In reality, there are many more taking commercial work than the figure indicated, because of the 378, 174 are upper classmen (10th, 11th, 12th grades) and only the upper classmen are allowed to elect the commercial course.

The total number of teachers in the High school is 18, an increase of five over those of 1918.

The newest course to be given is economics, one of the social sciences, which includes history, law, government, sociology, ethics and economics. All these subjects are now being taught, except sociology and ethics. History and government, or civics, as it is called, are open to all classes, but because of the large Senior class, law and economics are given only to them. It is the first time that the study of economics has been given in the local school—its purpose is to study man as a wealth-getter and a wealth-user. Superintendent Smith, who is teaching the subject, said of it, "The main reason for the introduction of economics in the High schools of Michigan is the feeling among school people that the schools of the recent yesterdays have been doing more to fit boys and girls to earn a living than to live lives. A very small percentage of our boys and girls attend college and hence a very small percentage have been brought face to face in an unprejudiced way with the great problems of life, such as production and consumption of goods, and the distribution of wealth. After leaving school they would naturally, when attempting to think on these problems, view them from the standpoint of capital or labor, and be unwilling to grant the just contentions of the other. In order to become good citizens, I believe that seniors in the high school should, as far as possible, be led to approach the great social problems with which economics deals, not with the idea of definitely settling the great problems on which scholars differ, but of meeting them seriously, and for the first time in as fair and impartial a way as possible, because, if children of both capital and labor first meet these problems in a fair, honest, thoughtful manner, I believe it will rid society in the future of a great deal of greed, self conceit, and hatred toward others, which is now so often manifest, thereby making society of the future, to a large degree at least, free from the disputes between capital and labor, because each will be able to see the viewpoint of the other."

Other new subjects starting this semester are Solid Geometry, Horticulture and Botany. Beginner classes are being started in Algebra and Geometry for the purpose of saving a half year for those who failed the first semester.

One day a week in the History and Civics classes is given over to the study of current events. The magazine best fitted for this study is the Literary Digest, because of its unbiased opinion—consequently to Funk & Wagnalls Company every year, goes $1.00 in payment for 130 copies. The company gives the school a discount.

State High School Debating League that Plymouth's next opponent would be Chelsea, here. But that same week Chelsea notified us that we would forfeit the debate; no prize was given by them for doing so. This gives Plymouth team 15 points, or four straight victories, which insures their entry into the finals.

The girls' basket ball team is leading in the Four Square League with four victories and one defeat.

The boys' team is tied for last place with Wayne, with four losses and one victory.

The stock and fruit judging results at Lansing, have not as yet been received. Such is P. H. S. as it starts the second semester.

The first grade pupils are making patriotic books containing pictures of Washington, Lincoln and the flag.

THE HIGH SCHOOL LIBRARY

Since the school year began in September, two thousand new books have been added to the high school library. In this addition there are books on religion, history, fiction, juvenile books, and supplementary readers. Fifteen books have been given by Mrs. Fitzgerald. The history section has been developed greatly and historical material is in demand. The magazines in most demand are: National Geographic, Good House-keeping, Ladies' Home Journal, Atlantic Monthly and The American. Among the younger people, the News-las and the Youth's Companion are the most used.

Since September, eighteen dollars in fines, have been collected from people who had kept books too long.

In the juvenile section, the largest number of people served in one day, was 101. So far this year, there have been 3648 served. For the whole year 1922 there were 7000. About 75 senior high people use the library in one day.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Aids Nature

Medicines that aid nature are always most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It allays the cough, relieves the lungs, aids expectation, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Thousands have testified to its good qualities. Good Candy

Is there a difference in candy? There certainly is, not only in price but also in quality. It has been our desire in the past year to give GOOD candy at a REASONABLE price.

You may be able to buy the same kind of candy some place else at a cheaper price, but remember, you are getting no more than what you pay for. If it sells for less you can rest assured the quality is less.

My father's motto was, "Not how CHEAP; but how GOOD."

PARENT-TEACHERS ASSOCIATION.

The Parent-Teachers Association met in the kindergarten room at the High school on Monday evening. Although the weather was so very unfavorable, quite a goodly number of people were present.

After reports of various committees, and suggestions as to what would make the meetings of interest, Mrs. R. A. Cassidy sang two children's songs, "Just Before the Lights Are Lit" and "A Boy's Vacation."

Miss Fern Hall being unexpectedly called away, Mrs. Cassidy led in community singing. Several old time favorites were sung. The speaker of the evening, Mrs. Carr of Detroit, State Chairman of Literature, was introduced. In a wonderfully pleasing manner she gave a very informal and "man to man" talk on the function of the Parent-Teachers Association; how it came into existence, how it can be made helpful, etc. She said all good citizens, whether parents or not, were eligible to membership. That the boy's ideal is the successful business man. That parents and teachers can be helpful to each other by being better acquainted with each other. For education, any way, was simply fitting children to live in a complex democracy. To be helpful to his neighbor, to be able to live comfortably with folks.

At the close of her remarks the meeting was adjourned to meet the second Monday in March.

NEWBURG

Owing to so many being sick in the community, there were very few out to church, Sunday. Quite a number of young people were out to the League meeting, Sunday evening, showing a great interest in Mrs. Smith's reading of the bible story, which will be continued next month.

Mrs. Henry Grimm, Jr., has been a great sufferer for the past week with an internal abscess over the right eye.

Allen Geer's mother is quite ill with the "flu."

Misses Anna and Ada Youngs spent Sunday with their brother, Newton and wife, in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rambo and mother, Mrs. Stiff, of Plymouth, were Sunday callers at the LeVan home, finding Mrs. Emily LeVan much better.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell and family have moved to Plymouth. They will be greatly missed from the church and Sunday-school.

A play, entitled "Topsy Turvy," under the auspices of the L. A. S., will be given some time in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Westfall of Plymouth, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burt Kehrl.

Burt Paddock and sons, Charles and Dwight of Detroit, spent Sunday at the home of his uncle, C. E. Ryder.

Mr. Carson has moved into his house next to the hall.

Charles Trombly has taken possession of the store, and moved into the house next to the store.

BAPTIST NOTES

The men gave us some more good music, Sunday morning. Mr. Trimball sang the solo.

The question of holding special meetings, beginning March 4, simultaneous with the other churches in Wayne Association, was discussed on Sunday. Many thought we ought to hold the meetings if the right pastor could be found to assist in the work.

Mrs. Sayles was elected teacher of a new class of girls, last Sunday. The future of the class looks very bright.

Mrs. Collins' class held a valentine social at the home of Mrs. Estep on Wednesday. She has a fine class.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sayles of Pontiac, came to spend Sunday at the home of his father and mother. Harry led the Sunday-school in music, and taught his old Sunday-school class. Mr. Hamill was absent from Sunday-school.

The B. Y. U. had a good meeting, Sunday night. The election of officers takes place next Wednesday evening in the church parlor. The members of the society will sit down together to a pot-luck supper. A special speaker will be at the meeting. A good program is being arranged, and every member ought to be there to boost.

The social given by the B. Y. P. U. at Beyer's hall, last Tuesday night, was a decided success. Everyone had a good time, and splendid eats. A nice sum was realized.

On account of the cold weather, no prayer meeting was held last Wednesday evening. Next week, Thursday evening, the prayer meeting will be held at the home of Miss Hattie Hartsough on Union street. Everyone plan to come.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jewell of Plymouth, and Mrs. F. L. Becker were Detroit shoppers, Tuesday.

Miss Mabel Becker is on the sick list, this week.

Gus Gates, who has been very sick for some time, was taken suddenly worse, last Wednesday. He is very slowly getting better, and as soon as he can be moved will be taken to the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Hearn were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burnham at Romulus, Sunday.

Samuel Bills of Wayne, called at the Butler home, last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Butler visited their daughter, Mrs. J. G. Shannon in Detroit, last Friday.

KING'S CORNERS

Mr. Jubbenville's people entertained the following guests, last Sunday: Lewis Jubbenville and family of Royal Oak; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnston and little son of Farmington; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lockhart and son, Kenneth, of this place.

The Helping Hand society met last Wednesday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schiffe, on Kellogg street, with a good attendance and several visitors. Notice of next meeting will be given later.

Mrs. Robert Johnston and little son are making an extended visit with her sister, Mrs. Lockhart and family at this place.

Mrs. Minnie Theeck, mother of Mr. Voss, had the misfortune to fall and hurt herself very badly. Dr. Gupper was called and made her as comfortable as could be under the circumstances. She is a very old lady, and her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Charles Voss is still confined to his bed, and is no better at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hix spent Sunday with the former's mother, Mrs. Mary Hix and family.

J. Frank Parrish is drawing logs for J. H. Fogarty.

David McCracken's health is much improved at this writing.

TOOK ALL SORTS OF CHANCES

Reckless Motorist Furnished Every Kind of Thrill That His Passengers Could Possibly Desire.

The Muscovite who was driving our Benz over a Persian mountain pass had the most original method of descending a mountain side that I have ever seen.

Instead of putting his clutch into second gear, he would shut off his power entirely and then go charging downward at terrific speed, the big car lurching from side to side of the precipice bordered road like a runaway locomotive.

The ordinary curves he took on two wheels, presumably to save rubber, but when we were within a few yards of one of the hairpin turns with which the road abounded, with nothing but emptiness ahead, he would suddenly jam on foot and emergency brakes simultaneously, thus locking his rear wheels and causing the stern of the car to skid around the corner.

And sometimes at the narrowest places, where the outside of the road ended in "a drop into nothing below you as far as a beggar could spit," he would give us an extra thrill by gripping the steering wheel with his knees so that he would have both hands free to light a cigarette.

I do not think that I am a particularly nervous person, but am frank to say that I heaved a sigh of relief when we reached the bottom. There were several moments when I wondered if I was going to see the Statue of Liberty again.—E. Alexander Powell in Harper's Magazine.
