But forget our heroic dead, from the earliest Revolutionary soldier down to the men of the Maine and the last soldier who gave his life in France, never!

REBEKAH LODGE RECEIVES HIGH PRAISE.

About seventy-five members and friends, including the degree staff of the Rebekah lodge, under the leadership of their captain, Mrs. Carrie Jewell, went to Dearborn, Friday evening, May 18, to confer the degrees on two candidates. There were nearly three hundred people in attendance including representatives of lodges in Ann Arbor, Dearfield, Ypsilanti, Detroit, Wayne and Columbus, Ohio. Never did the Plymouth staff do so well. Their captain, Mrs. Jewell, was congratulated right and left on the splendid showing the Plymouth team made. It was said that even in conventions of large numbers the work has never been done better. Many fine compliments were received, on the appearance of the new regalia worn by the team. Great credit is due their captain, Mrs. Jewell, for the very splendid way in which the team has been drilled.

A school of instruction followed the conferring of degrees. Ice cream and cake were served. The Wayne band furnished music during the refreshment hour.

SALVATION ARMY HOME SERVICE APPEAL

CAMPAIGN BACKED BY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE STARTS IN PLYMOUTH, MONDAY, MAY 28.

Backed by the Chamber of Commerce which unanimously endorsed the proposition, at the regular meeting of the Board of Directors, Tuesday, the Salvation Army will launch its annual Home Service appeal in Plymouth, on Monday, May 28th. The following committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce directors, will have charge of the solicitation: Frank Rambo, chairman, C. A. Fisher, treasurer; Dr. W. G. Jennings and John S. Dayton.

The drive is for the purpose of raising funds for the maintenance of the institutions of the Salvation Army, which serve the entire State of Michigan. Wm. E. Hammond, Field Representative for the Army, stated in his address to the Chamber of Commerce, that the Army annually cares for hundreds of unfortunate girls who have made their first misstep in life, and that the majority of these girls come from the smaller communities of the state. "The girl who has gone wrong," said Mr. Hammond, "is a problem from which no community can always escape, and it is the purpose of the Salvation Army to help solve this problem by maintaining two Rescue and Maternity Homes in Michigan, which are at the service of any community or individual needing the same." Quoting statistics, Mr. Hammond said, "Over eighty per cent of the girls who have been cared for in these homes are completely reformed and lead clean, useful lives in the future. Another feature of the Salvation Army's work, which is of great value to the state," continued Mr. Hammond, "is their work with the prisons and penal institutions where every year they reform hundreds of habitual criminals, thereby freeing society of a constant menace to life and property, and relieving the taxpayers of the tremendous cost of maintaining these criminals in prison."

The committee in charge of the drive, feel sure that the citizens of Plymouth will respond most generously to the appeal for funds, and that the quota for this district would be raised in a very short time.

SHEPPO-WEBBER

A very pretty wedding took place at 4:00 p. m. May 22, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Webber in Canton, when their daughter, Ruby Loneta, was united in marriage to Budd Harry Sheppo of Farmington, in the presence of the immediate families and a few friends, Rev. S. Conger Hathaway performing the ceremony. The bride was attended by Miss Marie Root of West Plymouth, the best man being Forest Green of Farmington, cousin of the groom. The bride wore a dress of blue Canton crepe, with a corsage of bridal roses and valley lilies. The bridesmaid wore a dress of brown satin, with a corsage of pink sweet peas and roses. The house was prettily decorated in pink and white. After the ceremony, a bounteous supper was served to about thirty-five guests. This was also the forty-third wedding anniversary of the bride's parents, and also her father's birthday. After May 24th, they will be at home to their friends at Farmington, where their home was all furnished.

Mrs. Peter Deiker is confined to her home on account of illness.

Sepharas Hummell and family and Mrs. Charles Middleworth of Bellevue, Ohio, were week-end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Hummell.

The local police force have been taking an active part the past week in the Safety Week campaign, which is on in Wayne county, by strictly enforcing the traffic laws.

No Foolish Romance

By JOHN PALMER

(© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)
LAWYER JOHN EDMONDS looked up from his desk. "Leaving me, Miss Prentiss? May I ask why, after all these years? If it's a matter of the salary—"

"It isn't that," said Miss Prentiss, looking down.

Miss Prentiss was silent.

"Come, Miss Prentiss, as an old friend, surely—"

"Well, Mr. Edmonds, if you must know, people are talking about us. It was your seeing me home those dark nights last winter."

John Edmonds looked at her thoughtfully. He was a widower of fifty, and Ellen Prentiss a comely business girl of thirty-three. Decision came into his mind, one of those Napoleonic decisions that had made him what he was—the most successful lawyer in the city.

"Did you ever think of getting married, Miss Prentiss?" he asked.

"No, it never occurred to me," Miss Prentiss answered.

"I'll be frank with you, Miss Prentiss. I have been thinking of getting married again. I want a wife. But I don't want any foolish romance. I never had much taste for it, and I'm growing old. Would you consider the proposition?"

"Indeed, yes," answered Miss Prentiss frankly. "I—I hate romance, Mr. Edmonds, and you men are so foolish. Now you've put the idea into my head; it suits me very well. As a business proposition I accept it gladly."

John Edmonds arose and shook her hand. "You are the most sensible woman in Clayton, Miss Prentiss," he said. "But then I've always known that. I shall be delighted to marry you on—let me see!" He consulted his diary. "On the 4th prox. That will give us two clear days—er—honey-moon, before that court case comes on. You don't mind honey-moons, Miss Prentiss?"

"Then that's settled," said John Edmonds. "You will call me John in future and I shall call you Elizabeth."

On the way home with Miss Prentiss, who boarded in the same street, John Edmonds said thoughtfully: "How about—er—kissing Elizabeth? I don't see any sense in it myself, but I approve in a way of keeping up the old customs."

"Why, yes, I've thought of that," answered Elizabeth. "I suppose it's all right now and then."

To his surprise he found that he rather looked forward to those kisses. Elizabeth Prentiss never said anything about them.

Yes, John Edmonds felt strange, forgotten impulses stirring within him. One day he sat down at his desk and composed the following letter:

"Darling Elizabeth:

"You will never see this, but I have to relieve my mind. I find that I love you. It is nonsense, and I should be very much ashamed if you ever found out, because you are my ideal, so sensible and all that, and if you dreamed what I am thinking about you would probably never marry me. The sight of your beautiful face fills me with a terrible longing for I know not what. Every time I touch your lips with mine thrills run through me. When you smile it sends me straight into heaven. But you will never know. With fondest love, darling, Your John."

Just then the telephone rang. A man had been stabbed to death, and his assailant, pleading self-defense, had sent for John Edmonds from the jail. Forgetting all about his letter, John put on his hat and rushed out.

When he came back three hours later Elizabeth seemed particularly cold to him. He remembered the letter. He felt his heart sink into his boots. Elizabeth had to go to the court-house that afternoon. As soon as she was gone he took the fatal letter from under his blotting pad. Yes, she had arranged his desk, she had seen it. What was this? He hadn't written that:

"Darling John, I was afraid you'd never care for me. I am the happiest woman in the world. You are so noble and so strong and good and brave. Won't you take your little Popsy in your arms when she comes back and say all that to her?"

The clerk came in. John Edmonds started.

"That murderer wants to see you, sir, about—"

"I'm too busy to bother with murderers," answered John Edmonds.

But that was only John Edmonds's way. He was waiting for Elizabeth.

Red-Striped Goats.

Discovery of a species of mountain goat with red stripes on the backs and with straight horns has disclosed the fact that Indians living in Musrolkak, Alaska, still regard Queen Victoria as their ruler. They planned to send their specimens to the Anglican bishop of Yukon, and when informed that the Right Rev. Peter T. Dowe, Bishop of Alaska, in the United States church, was their ecclesiastical head, they decided to send goats to both prelates.

SUBWAY RIDERS WERE "WISE"

Good Reason Why Woman With Her "Nice Baby" Was Unable to Attain a Seat.

She was the only woman in the car who did not manage to get a seat by sprinting or by special donation. While the express raced north from William street she struggled to keep a blanket-wrapped bundle from slipping out of her arms as she lurched against the backs of three substantial citizens who had less trouble keeping their balance, the New York Sun states.

An occasional sudden swerve made her clutch her bundle with one arm while she steadied herself with the finger tips of a small white hand that could barely reach the window frame.

Between swerves and lurches she jotted the fuzzy blanket and sighed, "Baby—baa-ah! Keep still now; be a good baby!" Half the passengers in the car stopped reading and talking to watch her. As they looked up her eyes moved along the line, stopping first at one face, then at another. They were pleading black eyes and she was a rather pretty woman.

A little rump and a little weary with the lifting and lurching and stumbling while the other women sat down. Tired out trying to keep her balance and keep that baby quiet. The black eyes were set in a piquant little face framed in black curls and she wore a new brown straw mushroom-shaped hat. Yet no man gave up his seat for her.

The behavior of the baby was entertaining the crowd. Some folks laughed aloud. Others concealed a smile behind a newspaper. One or two had sufficient good breeding to see nothing.

At the Ninety-sixth street stop she had hopes of getting a seat. But the passengers piled in so rapidly that when the train started she was still standing. She stood till the train had come up for air, climbed over the trestle while and gone back into the tunnel again. All the while the baby was wriggling out of the blanket, making frantic efforts to reach the face of a coal-black stevedore who kept his eyes lowered and his face straight, but who was nevertheless amused.

At last the woman got a seat. She let the blanket drop and everybody took a good long look at the baby. It was white-faced, brown-eyed, sharp-nosed—an alert little creature, the sort of pup that is usually called a toy fox.

Wolves on the Increase.

Wolves are at the doors of civilization. In all the continents of the world except Africa, where most wild animals flourish, but curiously enough, this sinister animal never has had a foothold, wolves have been increasing, and it is estimated that there are more of these beasts in the world today than at any other time in history. This astonishing fact is engaging the attention of naturalists, scientists and farmers the world over, for it is regarded as an ill omen.

What has caused this remarkable increase in the wolf packs? As in most of the other undesirable things that have happened since the war, the blame can be laid directly on the World War, which made the "hunters of wild beasts hunters of men." After every war in history of the human race there has always been increase in wolves, but there has never been so marked an increase as after the World War that nearly destroyed civilization.—Exchange.

Telet Accessible by Telegraph.

For many years Tibet has been counted one of the most inaccessible fields of Asia. Now a telegraph line has been opened, connecting Tibet with India, and the first message sent over the new line was one from the Laha Lama to the viceroy of India (in part) as follows:

"On the occasion of connecting Lhasa with the outer world by telegraph, I tender felicitous greeting to His Majesty the King-Emperor, Your Excellency, and the Political Officer of Sikkim. We all fervently hope that the line will serve to cement the permanent bond of already existing friendship, between our countries and increase trade between us."

The viceroy replied in a like congratulatory vein. Those who have long been praying for an entrance for the Gospel into Tibet will take heart from this news. Telegraphic communication is bound to help open the country to missionary enterprise.

BASIC RULES GOVERN POTATO PRODUCTION

More profitable potato production in Michigan hinges upon observance of a few basic principles in the handling of the crop, according to J. Weston, extension specialist with the M. A. C. crops department. A "boiled down" set of rules, covering the most fundamental points, has been prepared by Weston.

First—Use certified seed, which is selected from hills producing a large number of good type, marketable potatoes, free from diseases.

Second—Prepare the seed bed properly. Heat and moisture are the limiting factors in securing large yields of potatoes. Moisture is controlled largely by the organic content properly incorporated. This regulates heat, because it takes as much heat to raise a pound of water one degree as it does five pounds of soil. Practice level cultivation. Cultivate deep when plants are small; then shallow or mulch cultivation is best when feeder roots are developed.

Third—Treat all seed with corrosive sublimate. Black scurf, scab and the organisms that cause black leg, wilt, or blight may be on the outside of the healthy potato and carry over to new fields on the seed. This would result in an uneven stand, later infection, decreased yield, or actual loss. Seed treatment is "safety first" insurance. Cut seed should be kept cool, in shallow piles or crates, so as to prevent drying, rotting, or heating.

Fourth—Spray with bordeaux mixture plus arsenic poisoning for potato bugs. By applying bordeaux at a pressure of 175 to 200 pounds, with 3 nozzles to the row, at the rate of 100 to 125 gallons per acre, the potato plant is given a "copper armor" that fully protects it against the leaf hopper and flea beetle injury, as well as against any of the fungus foliage diseases. Thorough spraying is necessary if one expects to grow early potatoes successfully.

OBITUARY

Rosina Gottlieb Bronner, nee Bock, was born in Klengen, Oberamt Maulbron, Koerreich Wuertemberg, Germany, on May 14, 1845. There in the parochial schools of that country she received her education.

In the year 1865, she came to America, and to the state of Michigan, living in Farmington for four years. July 9, 1876 she was married to George Bronner, and lived with him in Plymouth. This union was blessed with one child, a daughter, Katherine Bronner, who lived with her mother. Mr. Bronner died June 14, 1884.

Mrs. Bronner had been ailing for some years, but always was able to be up and around. For one week only she had been seriously sick, suffering mainly from gout. She passed away Tuesday, 11:30, leaving to mourn her death her only daughter, one sister and one brother living in the western states. She attained an age of 78 years, 1 day. Mrs. Bronner confessed the Lutheran faith.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon, at 2:00 o'clock, from Schrader Bros. Funeral Home, Rev. C. Strasen officiating. Burial in Riverside cemetery.

Today's Reflections

Some Plymouth women's idea of heaven is a place where the back yard looks as good as the front yard.

Most letters are unnecessary and about the only value we can see in those which accumulate when an editor is away for a few days is that it gives him an excuse to put off work while he pines over them.

A Georgia girl broke all records by washing dishes for 31 hours. But it will never prove popular—it's too much like work.

Plymouth has to take the bitter with the sweet, and sometimes she also has to take a little December with her May.

The boys won't stay on the farms because the girls have gone, and the girls won't stay because the boys have skipped.

Some people sleep so little it is a wonder the bugs at their house don't starve to death.

There is talk of making rubber from various kinds of weeds. This ought to interest a good many Plymouth gardeners.

Men are creatures who cut down great trees to make a city, and then plant little saplings to beautify it.

One drawback to motoring is that it is so much easier to get batteries charged than to get gasoline charged.

The Plymouth man who can't show scars on his fingers never had any fun whittling when he was a boy.

Speaking of advertising—the difference between Rip Van Winkle and some merchants is that Rip Van Winkle woke up.

The U. S. Weather Bureau says that rain cannot be made to fall by artificial means. This will disappoint many people who thought the government could do anything.

A diamond ring will brighten a Plymouth girl's eyes, and yet leave her mind as dull as ever.

The fashions have become so freakish and contrary it wouldn't surprise us much to see the dear girls wearing cowhide boots next summer.

We read in an exchange that an explorer claims to have found where Noah's ark landed. A more timely job would be to find where the dove of peace went.

Our advice to Plymouth boys is not to marry a girl until they've heard her talk to her mother when she thinks nobody is listening.

Ever notice how easy it is for a man to be good-natured when everything is coming his way?

SCHOOL NOTES

The account of the track meet was furnished by Glenn Mitchell; of the ball game by Kenneth Bartlett; that of the Eloise trip by Dorothy Hinnau; the grade notes by Genevieve Butler; those of the High school by Clara Hauk, and the Junior banquet by Helen Fish.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The Girl Scouts held a meeting at Mariel Bovee's, Thursday, May 17th, for the purpose of organizing the Scouts in two teams for a contest in passing second class tests. The losing team will treat the winners to a weenie roast or if both teams do excellent work their captain, Miss Schmid, will treat both teams.

The beginning French class have finished their study of French grammar, and have been reading French stories.

About thirty seniors will take the trip to Niagara Falls. They are planning to start Friday evening, June 8th, and to return Monday, June 11th. They will reach Buffalo, Saturday at noon, and go directly to Niagara. Saturday evening and Sunday will be spent in visiting the places of educational interest at Niagara and nearby places.

GRADE NOTES

"Blessed is he that has no history." The correspondent visited the grade rooms last week to get school notes, but in vain. However, two items were received from Mrs. Root's room.

Haldor Burden and Norvall Bovee of the B first grade have been neither absent nor tardy during this semester. These children are learning that punctuality is very important.

During their recess time the children of the first grade are dramatizing the following story plays: Making a Garden, Picking Spring Flowers, May Queen, Birds Learning to Fly, and The Circus.

THE JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

Following the custom of the past years, the Junior class of nineteen hundred and twenty-three, gave the third Junior-Senior banquet since the war, last Friday evening, May 18th. The decorations were carried out in the senior class colors, green and white strips of crepe paper forming a canopy over the tables and a pergola in the center, from which came strains of music of a victrola.

Keeping Out of the Rut—Perry Richwine.

Speeding—Olivias Williams.

Blowing the Horn—Daniel Patterson.

Feeding 'er Gas—James Hickey.

Changing a Tire—Jone Kelly.

Remarks from the Back Seat—Dorothy Hinnau.

Going Ahead—Alta Hamill.

Applying the brakes—Katherine Learned and Alton Sayles.

Much credit is due Mr. Wiseman, proprietor of Ye Old Plymouth Inn, for the excellent banquet which he provided, and to the sophomore girls, who made most capable waitresses, and looked very splendid in their green and white crepe paper costumes.

PHYSICS CLASS VISITS ELOISE

A three-hour electric entertainment at Eloise was something the physics class never before experienced. The fluoroscope was demonstrated first. This was found especially interesting as the class had just finished studying it in their work. On examining a sprain received by one of the boys during basket ball season, it showed that the misplaced bone had not grown back to its normal position. Everyone received an electric shock from the static machine, which is used in giving treatments for paralysis, rheumatism and nervous diseases. Mr. Keenan, the electrician, then illustrated some of the principles of magnetism and induction by apparatus, which he himself has constructed. The most interesting experiment of the evening was one in which the air was exhausted from the bell jar of an air pump; when a current was passed through, the effect was similar to the northern lights.

After this different members of the class were allowed to hold vacuum tubes, these being sealed glass tubes from which the air had been partially exhausted. When the party holding the tube was connected up with a low voltage machine, a very beautiful lighting effect was seen, the tubes glowing with various colors according to the kind of glass of which they were made. About ten o'clock the class started home, after expressing their appreciation to Mr. Keenan for such a profitable evening.

The Outsiders' Class

By AUSTIN FLEET

(Copyright 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

SINCE Larry the Blood had reformed and settled down with his wife, Minnie, and the best baby in the world, in a Harlem flat, things had gone slowly.

No more burglary, no more strong-arm work, no more haggling with fences—nothing but an occasional transaction to remind him of the days that were.

"Ya see," he said to his pal, Skinner, likewise reformed, "it ain't that I wanta go crooked again. I promised Minnie, and that holds. But it's the life, Skinner; it's the life."

That was why he welcomed a diversion that he would have turned up his nose at scornfully in the good old days.

"Skinner, come here," he said, a week later, as he stood at the apartment house entrance and saw his friend approaching. "Look at that mutt! Picked him up on Fifth avenue, I did, and whistled him home. Whadya make of him?"

"I'd call him a cross between a dachs and a hairy sardine," said Skinner, examining him critically.

"Jesso. Affectionate little thing, too, if he is mustard color," said Larry, surveying the fawning animal. "I'm thinking of entering him for the dog show, Skinner."

"Skinner, you don't get my meaning. These here King Charleses is very fashionable dogs. My old woman uster have one. Mustard and black they are, with long hair like this one. Now this here mutt would be the living breathing image of a King Charles, with them long, hairy ears, if he was doctored up a bit. He's a good King Charles born wrong, Skinner, and I'm going to make him one and win first prize in the toy spaniel department at the dog show with him."

"You gotta show me," said Skinner, unconvinced.

"I'll show you now. I got the dope in my apartment."

The mongrel, carried upstairs, was speedily transformed. Great patches of black dye, applied skillfully to the back, sides, legs and tips of the ears, gave it a decidedly rakish appearance. The mustard color was deepened into a tawny red. The hair was clipped here and there, with the result that at the end of an hour the mutt had assumed a totally different aspect.

"So that's King Charles?" said Skinner, thoughtfully, as he inspected the result. "Well, all I gotta say is, I'm glad he ain't named after me."

The day of the dog show arrived. Larry and Minnie, with Skinner, were early on hand after the opening and went around the show, looking for the toy spaniel section.

The largest entrance was of Pekingese, but to those they devoted hardly a glance. Eventually they came upon the toy spaniels. There were four kinds, Rubles, Blenheim, Prince Charles and King Charles, but the mutt was not among them. Furthermore, an inspection of the judges' cards affixed to the kennels promptly convinced them that no prize had been awarded it.

"Well, whadya think of that?" demanded Skinner.

"Say, what they done with him?" asked Larry. "They got to have him put somewhere. Mebbe he's got among the poodles by mistake."

There were black poodles and white poodles, but a survey made it sure that the mutt was not among the poodles, either.

And, in turn, they inspected the dachshunds, the terriers, the bulls, the greyhounds and whippets. All was in vain.

It was not until they had been wandering about for an hour that they found the mongrel at last, to be welcomed with vociferous barks. It was among a dozen others, labeled "Miscellaneous Mutts."

"Well, whadya think of that?" exclaimed the three, simultaneously.

"I guess you only thought you was making a King Charles out of him," suggested Skinner.

"A very interesting animal," said a pompous-looking gentleman to his friend, as they stood before the kennel, pointing to Larry's dog—and Larry listened with both ears. "If it were not for the coloring I'd swear that was the famous Pekingese Royal Dowager, that was lost on the street a few weeks ago. The finest Pekingese in the world, and valued at twelve thousand dollars, on account of the growth of hair."

"D'you suppose it's the same, been stolen and doctored?" asked his friend.

"Not unless the owner's a fool," the other answered. "Anyway, he'd be worth nothing now, with his hair clipped. It never grows again."

Ben Franklin's Wisdom.

Money never made a man happy yet, nor will it. There is nothing in its nature to produce happiness. The more a man has, the more he wants. Instead of its filling a vacuum it makes one. If it satisfies one want it doubles and triples that want another way.—Franklin.

Whooping Cough

This is a very dangerous disease, particularly to children under five years of age, but when no paregoric, codeine or other opiate is given, is easily cured by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Most people believe that it must run its course, not knowing that the time is very much shortened, and that there is little danger from the disease when this remedy is given. It has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, with pronounced success. It is safe and pleasant to take.—Advertisement.

PLYMOUTH WINS CLOSEST CONTEST

With the score tied at four all, and with third place in the league standing at stake, "Spike" Milliman singled with bases full and two out in the last half of the last inning, sending home the run which defeated Northville 5 to 4 here, last Friday afternoon. It was easily the closest game seen here in years.

To start that last inning, Sutherland, who had replaced Hickey in center field, when Hickey argued a decision, doubled to right. Bartlett walked and Trimble shot a single past first. Coach Walker holding Sutherland to third on the hit. Rowland sent in to bunt, struck out. With Milliman up, Northville's infield was pulled in expecting another bunt, but instead of bunting, "Spike" got hold of one of German's fast ones and popped it into right, ending the game.

Trimble deserved to win his game, pitching much better ball than German, who is Northville's star pitcher. Hammond, first up for Northville, hit what should have been an ordinary single had not Milliman let it go through him. Given life on this error, he disregarded his coach's signal to stop at third, but tried to score with the result that he was an easy put out. Had he stopped at third, as he should have done, he would have been driven in by Helfrich's single, and the score might have been different, because the local team has the reputation of having had first innings, after a run has been scored against them in that chapter.

With two down in the first, Trimble walked, stole second and third, and then came home on a wild pitch. In the second Sump singled with one down and Wiseley walked. Sump went to third on a passed ball, and later scored on Taylor's sacrifice.

In the third and fourth, Northville scored three and one runs respectively—largely through errors. During the fifth, Plymouth evened it up. Hickey singled, Bartlett forced him at second, but got to second himself on an overthrow of first base. Trimble doubled, Bartlett scoring. Milliman sent Trimble home on his single to left. That tied the score and the rest you already know.

SOMETHING TO BE AVOIDED

Writer in Magazine Declares Club Meal to Be Very Real Danger to Partaker Thereof.

A man died the other day who was so prominent that probably every newspaper in the country printed an obituary, and humbly bowed to the inscrutable ways of providence in taking so good a man.

The writer talked lately with the man's closest friend, who said the untimely death was due to the club habit.

The man loved the club idea. Almost every day and night he appeared at some club affair, and ate too much of unsuitable food; banquet food is nearly always unfit for human consumption. He loved to be called upon to speak, and utter beautiful nothings. He loved to shake hands with the amiable asses who make up the usual club membership, and hear their polite, meaningless words. The man attained distinction late in life, and so loved it that he tried to crowd into his later years all the applause he had missed between thirty and sixty. He was repeatedly warned by physicians and real friends that the club habit was "getting him," but he continued in it.

One day, recently, a large audience gathered at a club affair because this man was advertised to speak. When the hour came for the speaking, a note was handed the chairman, who arose and said: "Gentlemen, I regret that the speaker for this occasion cannot be present; he has just expired from stomach trouble."

Will the vast thousands who belong to the vast number of foolish clubs heed the warning, eat moderately of good food at home, and avoid in future the foolish piffle usually heard in club addresses?—From E. W. Howe's Monthly.

CARE GIVEN SOW SETS LITTLE PIG'S HEALTH

That a little pig's chances for a healthy and successful start in life are determined largely by the feeding and general care of the sow before the litter is born is shown by records kept on spring pigs this year in connection with the Michigan Ton Litter Club contest, fostered by the Michigan Agricultural College.

"The unusually cold weather during March and the first part of April is being blamed for heavy losses of young pigs this year," says V. A. Freeman of the college staff in commenting on the situation. "This condition is true not only in Michigan but also throughout the entire corn belt. While the cold weather did have a great influence, the fact remains that many farms raised litters of good average size in spite of the weather—an indication that other factors affected the condition of the pigs at farrowing time.

"There have been plenty of illustrations this spring to show that the sow which was fed on a well balanced ration and got plenty of exercise had a far better chance of producing a litter of healthy young pigs, able to make a strong start, than did the sow that received a heavy fattening ration, went short on exercise, and was handled poorly in other ways.

"Proper feeding is ineffective without good housing, management so that the sows are required to take exercise every day, and proper attention at farrowing time, but with such weather as predominated throughout most of the farrowing time in the state, strong vitality at birth was a big factor in reducing losses of young pigs. In combination with corn, rye or barley for the main swine feed supplementary amounts of alfalfa hay, skimmed milk, tankage, or other sources of protein and minerals proved their value in feeding brood sows this spring."

EPISCOPAL NOTES

The Ven. J. G. Widdifield, archdeacon of Detroit, preached a very inspiring sermon, last Sunday, Whit-sunday, from the text, "I will not leave you comfortless," John 14:18.

During the Sunday-school sessions, last Sunday morning, Daniel Murphy, the Sunday-school treasurer, opened the "birthday jar," as is usual at Whit-sunday, and recorded the contents. This year these birthday offerings will be sent to the mission work in Liberia.

As we all know, Bishop Tucker, bishop of Tokio, Japan, has been elected bishop of Michigan, although it is not known yet whether Bishop Tucker will accept the position of leader of the Episcopal church in Michigan. Episcopals of Michigan consider themselves very fortunate in the selection of a man like Bishop Tucker. He has accomplished some splendid work in Japan, and has securely established the Episcopal church of America in Tokio, with native ordained ministers and a native bishop as his successor, thus accomplishing the task he had set himself to in eleven years' work. Bishop Tucker is the son of a bishop, a member of a fine old Virginia family, a staunch American and a brilliant scholar.

The members of the vestry went over to Wayne, last Sunday afternoon, to confer together with the members of St. John's, Wayne, vestry. The principal discussion was that of a successor to Franklin Gibson, who is leaving us on June 20th to take up his new work in the mission field of Montana, under Bishop Fox. The results of the discussion and the choice of the minister for Wayne and Plymouth will be made known after another meeting of the two vestries has been held, probably in Plymouth in about ten days time. All the members of both vestries were present on Sunday, except C. C. Mabin of Wayne, whom we regret has been away for the past month owing to illness. The meeting was presided over by archdeacon Widdifield.

The Ladies' Guild will meet next Thursday, May 31st, at the home of Mrs. Paul Ware, at A. J. Lapham's residence, at 2:00 o'clock. All the members are requested to be present.

REQUIREMENTS FOR MAY CALL FOR 300,000 CARS AND TRUCKS

The general prosperity now existing throughout the country is strikingly reflected in the demand for Ford Cars and Trucks.

Dealer requirements for May just announced at the office of the Ford Motor Company, call for 300,000 Cars and Trucks, and orders making up this great total come from every section of the nation.

The company's huge manufacturing facilities are being utilized to the utmost in an endeavor to increase the daily output so that dealer's orders may be filled as quickly as possible.

The proportion of increase in the demand for Ford Products is about equally divided between commercial centers and rural communities, reflecting not only better conditions in the cities, but likewise a growth of prosperity among the farmers.

A feature of the dealer requirements is the large number of Ford one-ton trucks. Sales of Ford trucks have been mounting every month this year, establishing new high marks and May promises to bring another record breaker. While business concerns everywhere are daily turning to the use of the Ford truck in increasing numbers, the sales records also show that farmers are availing themselves of the advantages and economy of motor truck transportation to a greater extent than ever before.

A CARD—I wish to extend my sincere thanks to neighbors and friends for their kindness and sympathy during the sickness and after the death of my mother. Also for the gifts of beautiful flowers.

GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH HERE SOON

The world's one big circus—Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined—draws nearer and on its hundred cars will come "the thorn and wonders" to exhibit in Detroit, June 1 and 2.

World toured and world conquering this truly Greatest Show on Earth is now fully a third larger than it was when it last visited this locality. In addition to the many innovations offered then, the present season's program numbers ten more trained wild-animal displays—making thirty in all—and the most superb trained horse acts that Europe has yet produced. The wild-animal and equine displays of the past were introduced merely that the Ringling Brothers might judge of their popularity. So enthusiastically were these numbers received that the famous showmen immediately arranged for the purchase of the world's finest acts of this kind. An entire equine circus was bought outright and brought to this country last winter. And while the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey agents were securing this and the trained tiger, polar bear, lion, leopard and jaguar groups, they had orders to engage the foremost men and women performers of the European capitals. And these stars from city and jungle are all to be seen with this wonder circus of 1923.

More than 700 men and women, embracing the world's foremost entertainers, are being brought to the amazing English family of Nelsons—positively one family consisting of father, mother, six daughters and one son. And this group of world-famous acrobats but illustrates the remarkable scope of the human side of this great circus. There are 100 clowns. Aside from the ferocious beasts, the program includes forty trained elephants. There are five companies of trained seals, many dogs, bears, monkeys, pigs and pigeons. Added for good measure is the mammoth menagerie of more than 1,000 animals. It is the biggest circus program the world has ever seen, given under the largest tent.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches."—Advertisement.

WINTER IN MAY

From all sections of the country reports continue to come in regarding the extent of the severe touch of winter weather which recently swept over the north, east and west. These reports are as varied as they are numerous. In fact, no one seems fully able to determine as yet just how serious the chill is going to prove before crops are approaching the ripening period.

Insofar as Plymouth and surrounding territory are concerned, we believe everything will come out all right, though of course any serious setback in any other part of the country is bound to be felt here in an indirect way. If crops, either fruit, cotton or grain, are damaged to the point where it will mean a little stiffer price toward the harvest time, it isn't going to hurt anybody. On the contrary it will really be a blessing because the country cannot hope to continue along prosperous lines if one great part of it—the agricultural and stock-raising part—isn't prospering too. The rural sections must prosper with the towns and cities if good times continue for any great period. And government reports will bear us out in our statement that at this time the rural communities are not sharing as fully in prosperity as are the manufacturing industries of the country.

So who knows but, after all, the recent spell of winter weather which swept across the continent may not prove a blessing instead of a calamity? The law of averages—and old Mother Nature—work in a peculiar way to gain their ends.

THE DROWNING SEASON

While everyone is being warned to be careful of autos, and Plymouth parents have dinned it into the heads of their offsprings to watch very closely when walking along or crossing streets or roads, it is also a good time to call attention to another danger soon to confront youth. That is the drowning season. Already one case has been reported this season—three Michigan boys losing their lives while playing in a canal. Parents should encourage their children to learn to swim, for one never knows when such knowledge will prevent loss of life. But at the same time impress upon your boy that no matter how expert he may be in the water, there is always a chance of drowning. It is safest to always be sure of the depth of water and to have knowledge of its currents before venturing into it. Boys should never play in water of considerable depth when there are no grown persons near. Keep on warning the children of auto dangers—but include a few warnings, too, against being reckless during the drowning season.

THE SAFEST SECURITY

Regardless of what you may desire to invest in, land is still the safest form of security, and therefore the safest investment. Bad investments in land may be made, but the person who invests in it and knows what he is buying is a good investor. Wayne county real estate today holds out the same security as it did in the beginning of the county—at a higher rate of profit. It was a good investment in the beginning; it was a good investment fifty years ago, twenty years ago and ten years ago—and it's a good investment now. This community it going to grow, for it isn't made up of the kind of people who are willing to forever stand still. Ten years from now will witness changes most of us do not even dream of now. That's why no man should hesitate to invest in local real estate, or in land out in the county. "Ground under foot, roof over head" is man's first necessity. There is no safer form of security than a piece of ground—and especially a piece of ground with a home on it.

THE THEATRE

A melodramatic picture that holds one's attention from start to finish, is William de Mille's Paramount production of "Grumpy" featuring Theodore Roberts, May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel, which will be on view at the Penniman Allen theatre for Wednesday and Thursday, May 30 and 31. This is said to be one of the most suspenseful photoplays booked by Manager Lush this season.

Mr. de Mille has injected a great deal of mystery into "Grumpy." This mystery is wrapped around two tiny flowers, both gardenias. The story is laid around a young man, Conrad Nagel has this role, with whom has been trusted a diamond valued at half a million dollars. A gentleman crook (played by Casson Ferguson) steals the diamond. But he so cleverly conceals his part in the robbery that he is not suspected.

Two flowers change places during the robbery. One of the flowers has a strand of a woman's hair around the stem. The other has not. These two tiny bits of evidence go back and forth with dazzling speed. Just when you think Roberts, or "Grumpy," will get the flower with the strand of hair and thus fasten the guilt of the robbery on Ferguson, something happens to the evidence. Of course, everything ends happily.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

Every member of the Christian Endeavor Society is urged to be present at the meeting Sunday night. There will be a brief business meeting held after Sunday-school next Sunday. Who is going to Saugatuck, from our society? This is one item of importance to be discussed. Beginning with June 3rd, the Session has decided to maintain the following as stated services until the vacation period: Sunday morning at 10:00 and 11:15; Wednesday evening at 7:30. The evening services will be discontinued until later announcement.

The new chorus choir is growing stronger and better each Sunday. This week they are being measured for uniform vestments which will be received in a couple of weeks.

The pastor was in Jackson yesterday, calling on Mrs. Mary Chaffee, who has recently made her home there. The Synod of Michigan will hold its annual meeting at Alma, June 27 to July 3rd. This is a departure from the former custom of holding the synodical meeting in October. The General Assembly is now in session at Indianapolis, Indiana. Dr. Charles F. Wishart, president of Wooster College, Wooster, Ohio, has been elected moderator.

Our hearts go out in sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Raphael Mettetal in the recent loss of their little babe, Virginia Mae. May they find true comfort in the words of Jesus, "Suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not; for of such is the kingdom of God."

METHODIST NOTES

Memorial Day service at 10:00 a. m., at the High school, next Sunday. Rev. Mr. Gibson will preach.

The District meeting of the Home Missionary Society is being held at Clinton, Thursday and Friday of this week.

The Michigan Christian Advocate has an exceptionally fine offer of the rest of the year for $1.00. The spiritual value of such a paper coming to the home ever week, is not to be measured by the dollar sign, however.

Why not? Take an hour on Thursday evening to study God's word, and engage in Christian prayer and fellowship. 7:30 to 8:30.

We wonder if it is really too much to ask of folks who bear the name of Christ, to spend an extra hour on Sunday evening to worship Him at His sanctuary, and by this act to encourage others to worship and love the Christ.

Also we wonder sometimes about some folks who took a solemn vow before Christ and the church, that they would attend to both private and public worship, but who seldom if ever come to public worship, just what excuse they will offer when they stand some day before the Judge of the Earth. It would be interesting to hear what that Judge has to say about our excuses, for once while on earth, He spoke a parable about excuses.

Sermon Sunday night 7:30, on "The Captain of Life." Special music by the choir.

If you know of an item of news, phone it to the Mail office. A regular meeting of the Order of the Eastern Star will be held in the Masonic hall, May 29th, at 7:30 p. m. Extra business will be handled, and all members are urged to be present.

WAYNE PUTTING UP NEW GUIDE SIGNS

COUNTY BOARD ADOPTS STYLE OF BOARD TO AID TRAVELERS.

The board of road commissioners of Wayne county is placing a new style of road sign on all the principal highways in the county for the purpose of guiding travelers. On every concrete road in the county one of these boards is to be erected at the county line.

Placing accurate direction signs on the highways has long been considered by the board of county road commissioners to be one of the important tasks of the commission. As a result there has been erected at every road intersection on the concrete highways of Wayne county a sign which gives the names of both roads and mileage to the nearest important centers.

"It is the aim of the road commission to serve not only the motorists of Wayne county, but those who come into the county from other sections," said Edward N. Himes, chairman of the board of county road commissioners. "Very often a stranger coming into Detroit or passing through does not know how to approach the city over the best route, or how to take county roads around Detroit if he is attempting to go on to a further point, avoiding the congestion of city traffic. These new signs, we feel, will serve admirably as a guide to such tourists."

"Correct marking to all travelable roads is an important function of the road commission. While the state marks the trunk lines to serve through traffic the county commission places signs giving detailed information on its roads so as to direct travelers. It is the plan of our commission to place these big directional signs on all main highways leading into the county."—Detroit Free Press.

VILLAGE COMMISSION HAD BUSY SESSION

The village commission had a busy session at their regular meeting, Monday evening. The usual routine business was transacted. Supt. Aruna Cady of the D. J. & C. division of the D. U. R., was present to discuss with the commission some improvements in the local service. Mr. Cady informed the commission that the company would establish a waiting room in north village if the village would secure a suitable location for the same. He also stated that some improvements would be made at the waiting room on Main street. He also gave the village permission to use the ground adjoining the waiting room for parking purposes, which is greatly needed. An improved time table for this division will be provided. Mr. Cady said that hourly service would be resumed out of Plymouth as soon as business warranted it. Some improvements are to be made in the track through the village.

Attorney Vining of Wayne, was present in behalf of Glen Smith, regarding the new ordinance, which would eliminate the using of slot machines in the village, and which has had its first and second readings. The matter was discussed at some length. No action was taken by the commission regarding the final passage of the ordinance, but it was understood that the business places will remove these machines before the next meeting of the commission, June 4th.

The commission gave the committee representing the local I. O. O. F., permission to use the tourist camping ground for their Labor Day celebration here.

Rhodian Antiquities.

The restoration of the hospital of the knights in Rhodes has been completed by the Italian authorities with their usual thoroughness and good taste. The medieval hospital of the Knights of St. John is an important link between classical, Byzantine and Turkish periods. The chief ward of the hospital is 190 feet long and 45 feet wide. In the time of the knights this ward contained 100 beds for pilgrims and patients. In 1523 the Turks took Rhodes, and the hospital was diverted to other uses. The island of Rhodes is in the Aegean and was famous for having one of the "Seven Wonders of the World"—namely, the "Colossus of Rhodes," which was overthrown by an earthquake. The island was the last outpost of the Crusaders. The occupation by the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem dates from the years 1308-1310. The principal aim of this order was the protection of pilgrims and care of the sick. Italy is to remain Rhodes for 15 years, when a plebiscite of the population, which is mainly Greek, will be taken. The Italians are such colonizers; however, that there is little doubt that the inhabitants will elect to stay under Italian rule.—Scientific American.

Edible Oil Production.

There are many edible and industrial oils in use at the present time and it would appear that most of the available sources of these products have been exhausted. But the investigations of the Department of Agriculture have proved otherwise, that valuable edible oils can be obtained in paying quantities from waste products and from seeds, such as the sunflower, not yet grown to any great extent in this country. Tomato seeds are recovered in large quantities. An oil can be extracted from these seeds which is suitable for food oil. The yield is about 15 per cent of the dry weight of seed by pressing and 20 to 25 per cent if a solvent is used. Oils obtained from brown mustard and charlock are of use in the manufacture of soap and technical products. Oil from the sunflower seed can be used for food and in the manufacture of soaps and Russian varnishes. Okra seed oil resembles cottonseed oil closely and can be used for most of the applications to which the latter is put. Cochineal nut oil resembles coconut oil and can replace it for many purposes.—Scientific American.

Days of Clipper Ship's Glory.

The science museum at South Kensington, London, is advertising for a model of the prototype of the American clipper ship. It is possible that one will be found in some neglected storeroom but not probable that there is anyone now living who could reproduce one from memory. The original clipper was created about a century ago; the type, with some modifications, was in the heyday of its glory during the gold rush to the Pacific coast in the 1850s; it passed out of existence with the building of the railroad across the American continent, except for a few retained for service in the China trade.

Edible Morning Glory.

A morning glory that can be enjoyed by those who are not early risers has been found in China by J. F. Rock, plant explorer of the United States Department of Agriculture, and imported for growth in this country. The chief beauty of this plant is that it is edible, its leaves and hollow stems forming a succulent spinachlike food. Edible morning glories are not altogether new to this country, experts say, as our common sweet potato is a cultivated member of the morning glory family which was developed into an important food by the early American Indians.—Science Service.

Cat Rings Doorbell.

The cat in the family pet and, standing on its hind legs, with one forepaw against the door, uses the other forepaw to give the small handle a turn, and it gives the bell a shaky ring, too. The bell is of the kind which people turn with the thumb and first finger. Sometimes the cat does not succeed in ringing the bell upon first trials, but keeps at it until it does ring, when its mistress always opens the door to let it in.
