THE SPECIAL SCHOOL MEETING

There was a fairly good attendance of the taxpayers of School District No. 1, Fr., of Plymouth, last week Thursday evening at the high school auditorium, for the purpose of purchasing or rejecting the sites for two ward schools, which the Board of Education had obtained by options. President John W. Henderson, of the Board of Education, presided over the meeting, and E. V. Jolliffe acted as secretary. Walter Smith and Harry Purdy were appointed tellers. President Henderson stated that the board had secured three options as follows: Robert Walker property at $7,500 and E. E. Foster's property at $10,000. Both of these properties are located in north village. The other option was on property located at the corner of Forrest and Sutherland avenues at a price of $1,850. After some little discussion of the various sites, President Henderson stated that the board recommended that a building be built upon the present school grounds of the district, and also the purchase of the property on Forrest and Sutherland avenues.

A resolution was then offered calling for a vote as to whether the present site should be used for a new building as recommended by the board. This vote resulted in 83 ballots being cast, 67 in favor of the present site, and 16 against.

A vote was then taken on the question of purchasing the site at the corner of Forrest and Sutherland avenues. This resulted in 82 ballots being cast, 58 in favor of purchasing the site, and 24 against.

It was the sense of the taxpayers present that the board should proceed to get plans and estimates for the new building, so that work could be started next spring, and the building ready for occupancy next September.

The present school site is centrally located, and after careful consideration of the matter, the board came to the conclusion that for the present, at least, it would be economy to build upon the present site, and this idea seemed to prevail generally among the taxpayers present, as indicated by the vote.

No action was taken on the options secured in north village, as the board did not recommend their purchase, because they were not certain that it would be the place for the location of a school building when needed, and also they felt the prices were too high for school purposes.

MRS. LOUIS KAISER DIES SUD- DENLY.

Mrs. Louis Kaiser died suddenly at her home south of the village, last Saturday evening about nine o'clock. Mrs. Kaiser had been as well as usual upon the day of her death, and her sudden demise came as a great shock to her relatives and friends. Heart trouble was the cause of death. Mrs. Kaiser was a lady highly esteemed by all who knew her. Funeral services, which were largely attended, were held from the home, Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock. Rev. S. Conger Hathaway officiating. Interment in Riverside cemetery.

Miss Jenny A. Parrish, daughter of Charles and Agnes Parrish, was born in Canton township, September 20, 1883. January 24, 1906, she was married, in Detroit, to Louis E. Kaiser, who now survives her. Five children were born to this union, four of whom are living, Lillian, Lottie, Norman and Madelyn. She is also mourned by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parrish, four sisters, Mrs. Mary Hix of Perrinville, Mrs. Charlotte Kohnitz of Detroit, Mrs. Charles Kaiser and Mrs. Otto Kaiser of Plymouth township; two brothers, Charles Parrish of Ypsilanti, and Frank Parrish of Nankin township; and a large circle of other relatives and friends.

BUS BURNS UP

One of the big Renne busses was burned up in front of the Biessk Brothers garage, on the Plymouth road, last Friday afternoon. The bus had stopped at the garage for gasoline, and in filling the tank the gas overflowed and striking the exhaust pipe, ignited, and in a moment the bus was in flames, and was completely destroyed. Several passengers were in the bus, but escaped without injury. The bus was covered by insurance.

YPSILANTI CENTRAL DEFEATS PLYMOUTH HIGH

In spite of its good intentions after the first defeat, Plymouth High's football team went down to defeat for the second time this season, at Ypsilanti, last Friday afternoon, with a score of 21 to 0.

The game throughout was a poor display of football by both teams, except in the third quarter when Thorne. Ypsi's right end, tore through Plymouth's line for an 85-yard run to a touchdown. Frequent fumbling prevented the home team from scoring on several occasions. Ypsilanti gained two touchdowns by blocked punts.

In the first period the teams looked practically even, although the Rocks gained the most ground, but in the second period the whole team looked bad, and Ypsi made two touchdowns by blocked punts near the goal line.

In the third quarter the team pulled itself together for a while, until Thorne of Ypsi, scored a long run. In the final period, Plymouth fought desperately to score, but the whistle blew after Ypsi had again gained the ball.

The summary:

Score by quarters:
Ypsilanti 0 15 6 0—21

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR A. M. ECKLES.

Funeral services for Albert M. Eckles, whose death was mentioned in last week's Mail, were held from his late home northeast of the village, last Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, and were largely attended.

The wealth of beautiful flowers bore mute testimony to the esteem in which the deceased was held. Rev. D. D. Nagle, of the Methodist Episcopal church, conducted the services. Plymouth Rock Lodge, No. 47, F. & A. M., of which order Mr. Eckles had long been a member, had charge of the services at the grave. A delegation from Northville Commandery, Knights Templar, acted as an escort. Mr. Eckles was also a member of Mason Temple Shrine of Detroit. The interment took place at Riverside cemetery.

Albert M. Eckles was born February 14, 1861, in Livonia township, and spent his entire lifetime in and around this vicinity. April 13, 1886, he was united in marriage to Alice Mott, who passed away September 22, 1918. To this union five children were born, four of whom are living, Roy Eckles of South Lyon; Mrs. Sylvester Shear of Redford; Mrs. Harry Brown and Mrs. Paul Lee of this place. On August 10, 1920, he was united in marriage to Mrs. Lucy Cork of Northville. Besides the widow and four children, he leaves three brothers and three sisters, and many other relatives and friends to mourn their loss.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Claude Burrows was severely injured while riding a speeder on the P. M. R. R., Tuesday, near Beech. Mr. Burrows and another lineman were carrying a pole on their speeder. A bar on the tool box of Mr. Burrows' speeder worked loose, and dropping down caught in a tie, one end of the bar flying up hit Mr. Burrows in the head and threw him from the speeder, breaking several ribs and otherwise injuring him. He was taken to a Detroit hospital, where his condition at this writing is very critical.

The little baby of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Richwine was taken to Harper hospital, Tuesday, suffering with spinal meningitis. The little one passed away yesterday about noon.

BACHELDOR-McKNIGHT

Raymond Bachelord, of the firm of Allison-Bachelord Motor Sales, of Plymouth, was married to Miss Beatrice McKnight of Chatham, Ontario, Monday, October 1st. Mr. Bachelord's many Plymouth friends extend congratulations and best wishes to him and his bride.

We take the following from the Chatham Daily News of Wednesday, October 3:

A pretty autumn wedding took place on Monday afternoon when Beatrice Ida May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris McKnight, became the bride of Raymond Bachelord, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bachelord of Dover township, at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. The service was conducted at the church at two-thirty o'clock by the pastor, Rev. A. S. Orton.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a suit of brown tulle with fur trimmings and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Grace McKnight, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore a taupe crushed velvet dress, and carried pink roses and lilies of the valley. Raymond Millard, of Dover, supported the bridegroom. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Murray Reeve sang, "All Joy Be Thine" accompanied at the organ by L. Challinor.

A reception and luncheon was held in the Gray Durb club rooms following the ceremony. Little Miss Evelyn Winters, in white organdie, admitted the guests, who were received by Mrs. McKnight, mother of the bride, who wore black silk lace over black silk, and carried red roses, and Mrs. Bachelord, mother of the bridegroom, who wore a black silk gown and carried pink roses.

Sixty guests sat down to a luncheon, which was served by four nurses from the Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit, the Misses Mary Martin, Bailey, Gillies and Catherine Thomson. The happy couple left for a short trip to points east, and will return on Monday to Plymouth, Mich., where they will be at home after December 1st.

Among the guests present from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Allison of Plymouth, Mich.; Mr. Morley Piggott of Ann Arbor, Mich.; Mr. J. G. Stein, Mrs. C. Stever, Mr. and Mrs. William Piggott, Mr. and Mrs. C. Holt and Mr. and Mrs. S. Bachelord, all of Detroit.

OBITUARY

Sylvia Hadley was born in the state of Pennsylvania, July 28, 1840, and departed this life, Monday, October 8, 1923, at the age of 83 years, two months and nine days. She came to Michigan when a small child, and has resided here during the rest of her life. The deceased was united in marriage October 3, 1864, to Enos Durham, who preceded her to the higher life ten years ago last March. Eight children were born to this union, two of whom are living, Frank Durham of this place, and Joseph Durham of Detroit; nine grandchildren and three great grandchildren also survive her. Mrs. Durham has been a life-long member of the Baptist church, having united with the Bell Branch church at an early age, and was an earnest worker in the church as long as her health would permit. She was a devoted and loving mother and grandmother, having raised six of her grandchildren.
Mrs. Durham has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Durham of this place, since last November, and will be greatly missed in their home. Sunday, the day previous to her death, she was in unusually good spirits and health, and enjoyed visitors from Detroit. The call came while she slept, and she passed silently on.
The funeral services were held from Schrader Bros. Funeral Home, Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. H. E. Sayles, pastor of the Baptist church officiating. She was laid to rest in Bell Branch cemetery beside her husband.

AN ERROR

An item in last week's mail stated that Mrs. Clarence Ebersole, in an automobile accident on Ann Arbor street, received serious injuries to her spine, and was operated upon by Detroit physicians. This was an error. An operation was found unnecessary after calling in Dr. January of Plymouth. One osteopathic treatment to adjust the misplaced bones was given, and Mrs. Ebersole was able to walk about. She will stay with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Herrick until fully recovered from her injuries.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother, who died one year ago the seventeenth day of October. Dearest mother, though you have left us
For a home above the skies;
For a home of peace and glory,
Where the spirit never dies.
We are lonesome here without you,
And we miss you more each day;
But sleep on, dear mother,
We shall meet in heaven some day.
Sadly missed by her loving daughter,
Mrs. Paul Helm.

BAPTIST NOTES

Three young men from the Highland Park Baptist church took charge of all the services on Sunday, and preached both morning and evening. These young men are mechanics, one working on Ford cars one on Lincoln cars and the other on the Packard cars, but preach the Old Gospel in the same good old way.
The pastor is in hopes of being able to fill the pulpit next Sunday.
The B. Y. P. U. held their social in the basement of the church last week Wednesday. All report a good time. These young people's socials occur once each month.
The Ladies' Aid has been postponed this week, on account of sickness in so many families. It will be announced on Sunday, where the next meeting will be.

WOMAN'S CLUB

Vacation over, the Woman's Club began their work for the new year Friday, with a luncheon at noon. Covers were laid on small tables, centered with white asters and green foliage, and the hot lunch was practical, delicious and one hundred per cent American. Gratitude was expressed on all sides to Mrs. Paul Weidman, chairman of the social committee, and her splendid helpers for the inspiration to the club in preparing a thing under adverse conditions and winning success.

The program was given by Div. I, with the leader, Mrs. D. F. Murray, as toastmistress, and was worthy of being broadcasted. "Twas as follows:

Piano Solo, Impromptu in A Flat (Shubert)—Mrs. Gilbert Brown. Greeting—Mrs. Charles Humphries, the new club president.

Trio, "The Shepherd Lady" (Armstrong) and "To a Wild Rose" (McDowell)—Mesdames Moon, Cassidy and Bake.

The Club of Our Mothers—Mrs. R. E. Cooper, a past president and daughter of a past president, who wittily recalled the days before "the serpent of parliamentary law had entered our Eden."

The Woman Today—Mrs. R. Cassidy—a plea to use the present.

Piano Duets—Germany; Spanish Dance (Moskowski)—Mrs. Fred Tighe and Mrs. Gilbert Brown.

The Woman of Tomorrow—Mrs. Charles Rathburn—a prophesy. Piano Solo, Impromptu in A Flat (Chopin)—Mrs. Fred Tighe.

Mrs. Humphries then presided over the business meeting, and all reports were given. The library committee reported a big growth in the book demand, and recommended that the need of the library and its value to the community being great, the present committee resign, and a new committee to represent all the people be appointed to work with the club—one each from the school board, township board, C. of C., village commission and club. Six delegates were appointed to attend the lectures on music, drama and art at the Detroit Federation. The meeting adjourned until October 19th.

Officers Team Wins From Eloise. The House of Correction defeated the strong Eloise ball club, 7 to 4, last Sunday. Eloise played hard for the game till the finish, getting three two-base hits, one three-base hit and one home run. But the Officers were not far behind, getting three two-base hits, and two three-base hits. Lyman pitched a hard game, but Cameron's base stealing and Arch Long's heavy hitting could not be stopped by the strong Eloise team. Harold Crossman for the officers, pitched a strong consistent game.

Batteries for Eloise—Lyman and Alfred. Batteries for H. of C.—Crossman and Long. Umpires—Taylor and Hoyt. Scorer—Stutzman.

Members of the Willing Weavers Daisy Class had a masquerade party at the church last Tuesday evening.

The Busy Woman's Bible Class held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. E. Leach, last Thursday.

A complimentary banquet is to be given the pastors and local evangelistic committees of Detroit Presbytery, at the Scovel Memorial Presbyterian Church, corner Grand River and McGraw avenues, next Monday evening, October 15th, at six-thirty o'clock. Our committee is, Mrs. George Cramer, Mrs. Maxwell Moon, D. G. Brown, H. J. Green and W. R. Shaw. It is important that all of these should go. The pastor will drive his car, and invites them to ride with him.

We shall need the co-operation of every member during the evangelistic campaign. God is able to do great things for us, and we can do great things for Him, if we are willing and ready. Purpose and plan and play. Underscore, reverse the order and rearrange these verbs any way you please. But be sure to use them intensely.

The Choir Chapter held a meeting last Tuesday evening—something is going to happen. Watch for it.

There was a good attendance at the rally day services last Sunday. Now let's make it last through the year.

Is sin a profitable enterprise? Then why are we so prone to engage in it? If any business doesn't pay, why continue in it? The conclusion of a Hi-jacker, who nearly lost his life recently in Detroit while engaged in his nefarious business, is, "It doesn't pay." Did you read his story in the News? Come to church Sunday night at 7:30, and hear some more about this life story of sin.

HOUSEWIVES' CONFERENCE TO BE HELD AT WAYNE

EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD PROGRAM PLANNED.

The second annual Housewives' Conference for Wayne County will be held at the Methodist church at Wayne, Friday, October 19th. Household efficiency will be the keynote of the program, which will begin promptly at ten o'clock, and which should be of interest to every woman in the county. We have been very fortunate to have secured for this program, Mrs. Frank Rosenblatt, director of Home Economics Department of the First National and Central Savings Bank of Detroit. Mrs. Rosenblatt's work in Detroit in assisting housewives to live better and spend less, has given her a national reputation, and the opportunity to hear her is one that will not come often to Wayne county women.

"The Relation of Household Equipment to Homemaking" will be the subject of a talk by Miss Adele Koch, assistant state leader of Home Demonstration Work for Michigan.

Of special interest will be the talks on and demonstrations with household equipment, given by women who are using these articles in their homes daily.

Other home and community problems will be discussed by Mrs. Lois Barrington, county public health nurse; Mrs. Edith Wagar, member executive committee State Farm Bureau; Ralph Carr, county agricultural agent; J. W. Wagner, county club agent. While this meeting is planned primarily for the women, the men are also cordially invited.

Lunch at noon will be served by the ladies of the church for 40c per plate. In order that the committee may know how many to plan, those who wish lunch should notify Bernice Woodworth, home demonstration agent, Dearborn, Box 548 or Mrs. H. N. Biddlecombe, Wayne. Do this as early as possible so you will not be disappointed. BERNICE WOODWORTH, Home Demonstration Agent.

WHY BIRDS MOVE

Glacial Era Held Responsible for Annual Migration.

Habit Started Same Time Changing Seasons Replaced Continuous Semi-Tropical Conditions.

The "honk" of the passing flocks of wild geese leaving the cold snap in the Far North is heard again in the pathway of the feathered migration en route for the sunny southland in the tropics.

It is said that flocks of migrating purple martins, teal and bobolinks and such like are on the wing making for their winter quarters on the Gulf coasts and further south, all of which, in bird life, indicates an early winter, for their unerring bird instincts never fail.

For more than 2,000 years, according to the investigations of the United States geological survey, the phenomena of bird migration have been scientifically noted, but while the extent and course of routes traversed have of late years become better known, no conclusive answer has been found to the question, "Why do North American birds migrate?"

Two different and diametrically opposite theories have been advanced to account for the beginnings of these migrations. The sum of these conclusions might be expressed in plain words, because it is natural.

According to the more commonly accepted theory, ages ago the United States and Canada swarmed with non-migrating bird life, long before the arctic ice fields, advancing south during the glacial era, rendered uninhabitable the northern half of the continent. The birds' love of home influenced them to remain near the nesting site until the approaching ice began for the first time to produce a winter which so reduced the food supply as to compel the birds to move or starve. As the ice approached very gradually, now and then receding, these enforced retreats and absences—at first only a short distance and a brief time—increased both in distance and duration until migration became an integral part of the being of the bird. In other words, the formation of the habit of migration took place at the same time that changing seasons of the year replaced the continuous semi-tropical conditions of the preglacial eras.

As the ice advanced southward the swing to the north in spring migration was continually shortened and the fall retreat in a suitable winter home lengthened in proportion until the glacial period birds were, for most part, confined to middle South America. But the habit of migration had been formed and when the ice receded toward its present position the birds followed it northward and in time established their present diversified migration routes.

The late John Burroughs, eminent student of nature and bird life, long ago placed the District of Columbia in the direct path of bird migration.—Washington Star.

Wind Kneads Bread.

Foreigners are not so slow as Americans think they are in hastening to adapt themselves to up-to-date ideas, and also in devising ways and means of their own to accomplish their daily tasks more easily. Near one city in Europe an ingenious country baker has connected a windmill on top of his plant with machinery below, which mixes and kneads his bread. Indeed, baking may be said to be done by wind power. When baking is not going forward and the wind is still turning the mill this gratuitous power of nature is not permitted to go to waste, but is utilized by the thrifty baker for turning the wheels that grind the wheat and rye into flour.

Italian Fish Killed by Shock.

Italian anglers getting ready to spread their nets on Lake Bracciano recently were amazed to see the surface of the water covered with dead fish.

At first they believed it to be the work of poachers, who often start explosions under the rocks where fish are known to shelter; but some of the fish were sent to Rome for experts to study the case. The experts came to the conclusion that the fish had been killed by an electric shock, and this suggestion is supported by the fact that Lake Bracciano lies in the crater of a dead volcano.

Almost Repeated.

Of two friends at a hostelry where most keys fit most rooms, one went off to bed, undressed, and turned in, mistaking his friend's room for his own. Half an hour later the friend followed, saw his bed occupied and returned to the coffee room.

"Did you see me go to my room just now?" he said to the night porter.

"Yes, sir," was the reply.

"Well, then, why didn't you tell me I'd gone to bed already?" he grunted, and proceeded to finish the night on a chair in front of the fire.—Yorkshire Post.

Expanded Responsibilities.

"The automobile has made a great difference in our affairs."

"Yes," answered Cactus Joe. "And it ain't all in the line of improvement. It used to be possible to clear the moral atmosphere by hangin' a boss thief every month or so. But if you was to go after them silver thieves from Snake Ridge the same way you'd have to start a massacre."

HOTTEST PLACE ON EARTH

Traveler Claims Mercury Reached 128 Degrees While He Was on a Visit to Shikarpur.

Discussing the hottest place on earth, a "Returned Exile" writes: When travelers from the deserts of Sindh, the banks of the Zambezi, and the black blocks of Queensland begin to compare thermometer readings it is probable that none will yield pride of place until the highest figures known to meteorological science have been reached and surpassed.

In India, Jacobabad has an evil reputation, but there the retired Indian Colonel is beaten on his own ground, as I can claim to have spent a fortnight at Shikarpur in June, the hottest month of 1915, one of the worst years on record.

Shikarpur is not many miles from Jacobabad, and, having no garrison, has not acquired similar fame, but is even more sultry, being surrounded by trees which keep off the breeze that might otherwise bring a breath of early morning coolness from the desert.

When I was there the mercury on several occasions touched 128 degrees in the shade, and for more than ten days on end never fell below 100 degrees at any moment of the day or night.

Contrary to popular belief, the most intense heat is not to be found near the equator, and often outside the tropics altogether. The highest reading in my experience—131 degrees—was taken in Manchuria, but that was in a railway carriage between Port Arthur and Harbin, and would not be accepted as "official."

Further north still, at Blagoveshensk in Siberia, where the thermometer in winter falls to 60 degrees below zero, extreme heat is common in the summer, but only for brief periods.

In the southern hemisphere readings of 110 degrees and 115 degrees are frequently reported from western Australia and northern Queensland, Burke and Townsville being notorious in this respect.

But so far as human comfort is concerned the thermometer is a very poor indicator, and the figures are hardly worth arguing about. In the sticky heat of large cities in July it is possible to be almost melted at 90 degrees, while 110 degrees in the dry Sahara is perfectly bearable.

To vary an old saying, "A woman is as cool as she looks, and a man as hot as he feels."

Colors Controlled by Soil.

The colors of vegetation vary in intensity in a direct ratio to the amount of sunlight combined with coolness of temperature, within certain limits. Examples are the intense redness of apples grown in northern climates and the deep colors of Alpine vegetation. But the soil, as well as other influences, has an effect upon plant colors.

Experiments have been made with reference to the question of artificial control of the colors of plants through the introduction of chemicals into the soil in which they grow. In very small quantities such chemicals are absorbed without apparent injury, but the effect upon the colors is slight. Yellow roses appear to become deeper in hue under the influence of aluminum sulphate and potassium sulphate. With the use of these same chemicals the petals of the white carnation show a tendency to develop red streaks, while, when fed with ammonium sulphate, aluminum sulphate, iron citrate and citric acid, scarlet carnations tend to form white streaks.

Swan Attacks Swimmers.

A swimming race for a challenge cup at Chertsey, England, has been upset and the contest declared void by the judges, owing to the opposition of a swan. The race was in progress when a big male swan dashed across the Thames and singled out for a fierce attack a swimmer with a bald head.

By treading water and waving his arms the man beat the bird off, and the swan then assailed other swimmers so persistently that people on the bank had to go to their rescue.

The swan was resolute as well as angry, and delayed the race so long that it had to be abandoned.

Patience.

"Hello, Jud!" saluted a young swain of the Possum Trot region, addressing another of his kind who was humped up on a log by the roadside. "What are you setting there for? Anything the matter?"

"Nope!" was the reply. "Just waiting for Miss Duck Daddle to come along; that's all. I'm going to take her to singing school."

"But, great guns, singing school don't take place till tomorrow night!"

"I know it, but when a feller's in love he don't mind waiting."—Kansas City Star.

The Miracle.

A lady who had been wearing a bracelet watch for two years found that the clasp was becoming a trifle weak. So she went to a jeweler to have it fixed. He fixed it. He also wound the watch part of the ornament, adjusted the hands to indicate the proper hour and started the outfit ticking merrily. The owner observed all this with utmost amazement.

"Dear me," she exclaimed. "Will it run?"

The Real Object.

"Are you getting out among your constituents to tell them what they ought to do?"

"Not so much that," answered Senator Sorghum, "as to find out what they are going to do."

Yet it is perfectly practicable for every mistress of a home to possess the same privilege and enjoy the comfort and leisure that goes with it.

USE OF MIRRORS

Origin Is Shrouded in Mists of Mythology.

Cleopatra Used One Made of Metal—Those of Glass Are Modern Invention.

Most ancient of all accessories for women's toilet is the mirror, that reflecting bit of vanity which means so much in our daily life, as well as in our scheme of decoration. Its origin is shrouded in the twilight of mythology and our real clues are the fragments which mother earth and the tombs have rendered back to us, sometimes in a fair state of preservation.

Glass was made by the Egyptians, yet the only mirrors that have come down to us from them are like those from other ancient sources, of metal, very highly polished and often containing silver and gold. The first form of the mirror was the hand-glass and it is the fragments of this that remain to us. We know, however, that metal mirrors were made in sections so arranged in grooves in the wall that they could slide up and down to show the figure at full length. Cleopatra is supposed to have possessed such a mirror, but its magnificence can only be imagined, as no authentic description of it is available.

Glass mirrors coated with tin have been found in Italy that were used in the days of Pompey, but just when and where quicksilver-backed glass was first employed has never been definitely established. As early as 1373 the Germans had acquired a knowledge of glass mirror work, and in the Fifteenth century they invented a curious form of mirror construction called the "bull's eye."

In the Sixteenth century the Venetians did much business in the manufacture and exporting of glasses with quicksilver backs, and in 1665 the French government induced 20 of these glassworkers to come to Paris, where in the year 1691 a method of making plate glass was perfected which made France thereafter the mirror market of the world.

The history of mirror making in England might be said to date from 1670. From this time on rapid strides were made in the manufacture of looking-glasses, those of Queen Anne and Georgian periods being particularly notable.

Mirror glass in its early stages was "blown" and beyond the length of three and one-half feet was too thin to serve as mirrors. In case a greater length was desired, it was necessary to add a second piece, and thus the longer glasses of the early Eighteenth century were made in two pieces, one overlapping the other, or finished with a molding to hide the intersection.

In the latter part of the Eighteenth century Chippendale-made mirrors of great charm were made, and it was in this time that Chinese designs became popular. Later, Hepplewhite and the brothers Adam designed mirrors of real worth, the former in shield and oval shapes, usually in pairs.

In the earlier part of the Georgian period the revival of the Queen Anne mirror began, and by 1800 the lines of this model were much seen. Previous to this looking-glasses were manufactured in large numbers in this country, and from 1780 to 1790 the famous "Constitution" glasses were made. This period also marked the vogue of the quaint Girandoles and bull's eyes. Mantel glasses were in great demand throughout the Eighteenth century, but more especially after 1780, when both oval and oblong shapes began to be popular. The cheval glass, never at any time a common piece of furniture, enjoyed its greatest favor about 1830. Some excellent designs of this type had been previously fashioned by the great English cabinet makers, notably Sheraton, but comparatively few have survived in this country.—Arts and Decoration.

Makes Novel Condenser.
The superintendent of a mill was putting on his rubber boots to make an inspection of the water wheel as the treasurer of the company came in to look about. After standing under a large belt for a few minutes in conversation with the visitor, the superintendent unintentionally touched the treasurer's shoulder, giving him an electric shock which nearly overturned the man of money. The earth, the rubber boots and the man inside formed a Leyden jar, the discharge of which was very severe, especially to a person expecting nothing of the kind.

Fetching and Catching.
A clergyman, accompanied by two charming girls, stood admiring the beauties of a little stream.
An angler passing by said: "Any sport?"
"Sir, I am a fisher of men," replied the parson, with dignity.
"Well," retorted the fisherman, glancing admiringly at the girls, "you've got the right bait."—London Tit-Bits.

Justifiable Resentment.
The devil looked up from his daily register. "I see you got a fellow named Sherman here."
"Yes," said Beelzebub, "he came in with the last lot."
"Well, see if he is any relation to a general of that name who said war was hell, and if he is, give him the limit. I ain't going to stand for people slandering hell that way."—Dallas News.

TO DIG UP CITY OF DAVID

Excavation of What Is Believed to Have Been Ancient Site to Be Started at Once.

More secrets are to be dug out of the buried past. Work on the excavation of what is believed to be the site of the ancient City of David, outside the walls of Jerusalem, will be started at once. Buried there beneath the soil and other accumulations of centuries, archeologists believe will be found many of the most puzzling of historical problems. Excavations will be made first on what is now known as the Hill, considered as the probable site of the Jebusite fortress, which afterward became the center of the City of David.

Prof. R. S. McAllister will be in charge of the work, which may mean much to archeology and which seems certain to mean much to the records of the Jewish people. Professor McAllister is a great authority on Biblical history and has had years of experience in excavations in Palestine.

The plan is attracting wide attention in Europe. The dean of Westminster regards it "likely to bring Biblical knowledge of almost paramount importance."

"I have always dreamed," he said, "that the Tombs of the Kings might be found, and it is quite possible that beneath the accumulations of rubbish the most valuable discoveries may be made, possibly going back to the time of David and Solomon."

Professor McAllister will not hit at what he expects to find. Excavations of this kind are full of disappointments. But details of the daily life of those who lived in the now buried city in the days of David and Absalom, Ahaz and Isaiah, Jeremiah and Jehoiakim are certain to be learned. Whatever definite "finds" are made, the excavators are quite certain of being able through their studies to paint in a background which will reduce the vagueness of the historian. That a monument set up by Solomon or David may be found within the bounds of reasonable hope.

Doctor McAllister denies that the object of the expedition is the finding of the tomb of David. There is no reason to believe, either, that the tomb of David is or isn't in the area to be excavated.

Besides it is a matter of ancient history that the tomb of David was robbed long ago. Josephus has left the record that John Hyrcanus, son of Simon Maccabeus, in very ancient days, opened the tomb of David and took from it 3,000 talents of silver, which so aroused the cupidity of Herod the Great that he also robbed the tomb of furniture, gold and other precious things. The tomb, even if it is found, may be an empty cavern.

But if there are no relics of the few notables of ancient history in the excavated area, there are certain to be found there relics of the vast majority of the population of the city. These will give valuable information of the past. There is no reason to believe that the pillar set up by Absalom, or the bones of King Solomon's apes and peacocks will be found; but these things are possible, as are many other notable discoveries.

New episodes may be learned of the long life (175 years) of Abraham, concerning which we have knowledge of about twenty occurrences. The entire known record of the patriarch's life covers only a few years and can be read in 15 minutes.

Running on Its Reputation.
A young wife was holding forth with great enthusiasm about her husband's mechanical knowledge and skill.

"There's no use in talking," she declared. "Louis is simply wonderful. I don't believe there's another man in the world who can drive a motorcar the way he can!"

"What has happened?" asked a friend.

"Why, we took a ride yesterday and went along beautifully in spite of the fact that he had forgotten some of the machinery."

"You don't mean to say that you were running without machinery?"

"We surely were. We had gone at least 15 miles before Louis discovered that his engine was missing."—Harper's Magazine.

Ring Solves War Mystery.

A mother's gift of a ring has been the means of solving a seven-year-old war mystery. After the first battle of the Somme, in July, 1916, Donald Poulter of the London rifle brigade was reported missing. He was known to have been one of a party surrounded by the enemy, but no information as to his fate was forthcoming.

His mother has now been informed by the war graves commission that the body of her son has been found. It was identified by means of a ring which had belonged to his dead father and had been given to Poulter by his mother on the eve of his leaving for France.

The Country Boarding House.
"I think our lodgings are positively disgraceful, George."
"Yes, dear."
"And, besides, you might have brought me to a livelier place."
"Yes, my dear."
"Look here, George, if you're not going to be sociable, I'm going home."

SCHOOL NOTES

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

High school notes and football write-up by Helen Fish.

The second football team has been organized with Mr. Holcomb as coach and Douglas Carruthers as captain. There were about fifteen boys out for places. The schedule has not been entirely arranged, but Mr. Coatta has written to Birmingham for two games, and also to Strathmoor.

School was dismissed at three o'clock last Friday afternoon, enabling all those who were going to Ypsilanti to see the football game to do so without missing any of their classes. Fifth hour, which is a study period for all grades, was omitted, and sixth hour period began at twelve forty-five.

"Se Comte de Monte Cristo," by Alexander Dumas, who wrote "The Three Musketeers" is being read by the French 12 class.

At a recent Freshman class meeting, Wilbur Murphy was elected president, and Alice Hathaway, secretary and treasurer. The office of vice-president has not been voted for yet. Yellow and blue were chosen for their class colors, the yellow rose for their flower, and "Nil Desperandum," which means "Despair of Nothing," for their motto.

Reports of the different judging contests held at the Northville Fair made interesting topics for the first program meeting of the Aggie Club, held October 4th.

Having worked hard all last year giving banquets and holding carnivals on Mothers' Day, the Aggie club has at last been able to purchase four dozen knives, forks and spoons of Tudor plate, which the club will use at the banquets which it gives every three weeks to the members of the club, and also for the two big banquets of the year, one to the parents of the members, and one to the public. This silverware was needed badly, as the school has only a little for the dining room.

The board of control of athletics held its first meeting, Thursday afternoon, October 4th.

Athletic association tickets were on sale Tuesday morning, for twenty-five cents. All high school people who buy these tickets, are admitted to the athletic association and receive a reduction upon all season tickets. The season football tickets were on sale Wednesday. These sell for one dollar to all those outside of school and to those who do not belong to this association, but to those who do belong to this association, the tickets sell for seventy-five cents. Special tickets for the children in the grades were sold at fifty cents, which also makes them a member of the association.

The Board of Education and the teachers held a meeting last Wednesday afternoon, at which the old teachers introduced the new teachers to the Board. Orange ice and angel-food cake were served by Mr. and Mrs. Smith. A prize was offered to the teacher who should read the best reason why we should have four days off for the Northville fair. Since freedom rests with the aged, Miss Smith was the judge.

Monday evening there was a surprise given to the teachers of our high school, by the Board of Education. All the teachers were taken down to the tourist camp, where they roasted wienies. Some four-foot wood furnished a real fire, around which the group gathered and sang the songs everybody knows. The teachers voted it "the most enjoyable party one could wish for."

Deputy County Commissioner Fred C. Fisher, three members of the Board of Education, and a few citizens of Belleville, were around visiting the schools of Northville, Redford, Strathmoor, Ferndale and Plymouth Monday, studying these schools, as they are planning to build at Belleville.

GRADE NOTES

The grade notes were furnished by Doris VanArsdale.

The highest number of scores in the Curtis Standardized Arithmetic Test given last week for the sixth graders, was made by Marion Shackleton. Mr. Walker's room has also completed a test in Standardized Penmanship.

"October's Bright Blue Weather," is being studied by the fifth graders this month.

Mrs. Frank Smith of Plymouth, was a visitor one day last week, in Mrs. Bird's room.

An extensive study of Africa will be taken up next week, in the sixth grade. Along with their work in geography, they have some very good stories of things in Australia, told by Doris Gallimore, who has visited there before.

Other grades have nothing on the fourth and fifth grades, as they have organized their teams for "Ball on Bases."

"Schlog Ball" and "Newcomb" have been the chief games this year, in physical training, played by the fifth and sixth graders. They have organized into four teams with Carol Simcock, Maurine Dunn, Vaun Campbell and Doris Jewell as captains. All teams stand even with twenty points each.

It really looks as though we were going to have some hand-painted waste paper baskets. The boys in the manual training classes are doing the painting, and expect soon to place the baskets in assembly rooms and corridors.

Ada Mores has left the sixth grade, and moved to Wayne. We have now a total of seventy-one left in the class.

The highest number of grade pupils in one day in the library, came Thursday, October 4, seventy-six in all.

Mr. Walker may be heard almost any time of the day answering questions concerning "Thrift Savings," in the one hundred per cent sixth grade room, where there is a great interest in the banks.

THE THEATRE

"THE EAGLE'S FEATHER"

Delila Jamieson (Mary Alden), a strong-willed, powerful minded woman, owns Circle R. Ranch, and rules it with an iron hand. She is known as "the best man in the county" and men call her "the eagle woman." Her niece, Martha (Elinor Fair), a frail, beautiful girl, is called "the eagle's feather."

There are only these two women on the ranch; both safely guarded by the fidelity they inspire in the workers. But on the adjoining ranch is a dangerous man, Van Brewen, (George Siegmund), jealous of the eagle woman's success and covetous of the beauty of the eagle's feather.

One day when getting the mail, Martha is annoyed by Van Brewen's insulting attentions, and a stranger, John Trent (James Kirkwood), protects her. Trent has been a wanderer since the horror of his war service robbed him of ambition. He seeks a job as roustabout on Circle R. ranch, and there, under the inspiring leadership of Delila Jamieson, and his growing love for Martha, he finds a return of his own aggressive manhood.

Jeff Carney (Lester Cuneo), one of the ranchmen, is jealous of Trent's advance as foreman of the ranch, and "accidentally" has his horse kick Trent in the head. As Trent lies wounded, Delila, in attending him, finds that she loves him.

Her love increases when, driving the cattle on a hundred mile trip to the market, there is a terrible stampede, and Trent rescues her from the onrushing animals, after she has been thrown from her horse.

On their return, Trent goes to Delila to tell her of his love for Martha, but he bungles his words, and she thinks he is proposing to her. When she accepts him, he bluntly tells her it is Martha he loves.

Delila is in a frenzy of humiliated rage. She accuses Trent of stealing money from her safe and orders the ranchmen to horsewhip him, and drives Martha from the house.

Trent fights the ranchers one by one, but, when beaten nearly to a pulp, the Chinese cook comes and says he saw Jeff Carney take the money. Jeff flees.

Trent goes after Martha, amid a blinding snowstorm. He finds that Van Brewen, seeing the girl dashed, has taken her into his home. When Trent demands the girl be freed, Van Brewen, who has a burning hatred for him, because Trent had foreclosed a mortgage on the ranch, attacks him and binds him to a post.

Van Brewen turns on the girl, but the eagle woman has come driving through the storm after Trent and Martha. Her fury over, she wants to forgive him. She rescues them from Van Brewen and calls the ranch parson to marry them.

"The Eagle's Feather" will be shown at the Penniman Allen theatre, Saturday, October 13th.

"PIONEER TRAILS"

The versatility of Aggie Herring as a character actress is shown in "Pioneer Trails," a Vitagraph super-production in which she will be seen at the Penniman Allen Theatre, on Sunday and Monday, October 14 and 15. In "Pioneer Trails" Miss Herring plays the part of "Laundry Lou," a miner's widow who is compelled to take in washing for a living.

Her romance with "Easy Aaron" Cropsey, played by Otis Harlan, is one of the interesting secondary themes in the plot of "Pioneer Trails." Through her love and interest Cropsey, an itinerant lawyer and philosopher, rises to the heights and saves the hero from a false charge.

"Pioneer Trails" is a delightful story of the period following the gold rush of 1849. Unusual thrilling scenes depicting the hardships and courage of the early settlers in the West are shown in the picture. An Indian massacre of members of a prairie caravan furnishes one of most thrilling and dramatic sequences.

"Pioneer Trails" was directed by David Smith, who produced "The Midnight Alarm," "Masters of Men" and "The Ninety and Nine." Cullen

Landis and Alice Calhoun head the all star cast.

"THE CHEAT"

Pola Negri's new Paramount picture, "The Cheat," featuring Jack Holt as leading man, with Charles de Roche heading the supporting cast, is said to be one of the strongest photoplays of the current season. It comes to the Penniman Allen theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, October 17 and 18. The story deals with a beautiful and wealthy Latin-American girl, who elopes with a New York broker and after being disinherited by her father, falls into the clutches of a crook disguised as an East Indian prince. When she seeks to repay her debts to him with money, he brands her as a cheat and is shot for his pains. This precipitates highly interesting developments that rush to one of the most dramatic climaxes ever screened. The supporting cast is exceptionally strong. George Fitzmaurice produced the picture, the story of which was written by Hector Turnbull.

FARMINGTON'S OLD STAGE LINES.

N. H. Power Writes of Grand River Traffic in the Old Days

The planking of Grand River road in 1852 made possible the operation of stage coaches between Detroit and Lansing. The travel required two frequent extras as far as Farmington and often the extras were obliged to continue as far as Brighton or Howell. They ran daily, each carrying 24 passengers, and most of the time every seat was taken. It was not an unusual thing to see eight or nine passengers riding on the top, so great was the travel at that date. The coaches were roomy and when the road was in condition it was not a bad way to travel if the passenger was not too eager to reach his destination. The mail was carried in this way, and the arrival of the coach carrying passengers and mail were daily events of no little importance to the citizens along the way. Many of the drivers were well known to the patrons of the line. One of the most famous was John Blessed, an expert with the lines and whip, and capable at all times of using and driving vicious horses which were ready to balk or run away at the first opportunity. On one occasion with another driver the horses became unmanageable and succeeded in getting away, running up Main street with great speed. At the risk of his life a young man, seeing the peril of the people in the stage, rushed out and incurring great danger in grabbing one of the frightened animals by the bits, succeeded in stopping the runaways. The man who performed this feat, J. J. Webster, is still with us and a resident of Farmington. The fare from Farmington to Detroit was $1.00.

Claridge hotel in Clarenceville, now known as the old Botsford hotel was one of the places on the line where horses were changed and fresh ones took the places of those that had been driven from Detroit. One night in 1857 or 1858 the barn caught fire and ten or twelve horses were burned to death. The coaches were owned by Hibbard and Bunell of Detroit, although at other times the former had other partners. The stage lines flourished until the opening of the Detroit, Lansing and Northern Railroad, now known as the Grand Rapids division of the Pere Marquette. After which they declined, first reducing their equipment to a single daily stage and then disappearing entirely.—N. H. Power in Farmington Enterprise.

Never Before Were Sports Coats So Interesting

What keener pleasure can any woman have these Fall days than to go forth into crisp weather toggled in one of these sports coats. There is a new gracefulness about them, you will notice, due of course to these long slim lines so fashionably tube-like—due, too, to color combinations of amber, green or mustard colorings on beige or grey backgrounds. Stripes are ultra smart, so fashion notes tell us, and stripes are ultra smart on coats here. It is quite the most thrilling array of sports coats imaginable.

Junior Misses Fall Apparel

Presents Style and Quality Reasons for Buying Here

At no time during the year do mothers feel the need of exercising such great care in selecting their young daughter's wardrobe as now. For clothes are given hard wear during these Fall school months. So besides the important point of pleasing the Junior Miss herself, is the necessity of having durability as well as style prominent. We have the finest selection of Junior Misses' Fall apparel we have ever had. It includes a very large selection of dressy and school apparel in the best of the season's new styles.

Here are all those practical, yet smart School Frocks that are the first items, more than likely on a mother's list now. It won't be necessary to coax the Junior Miss into one of these Frocks, for they are so pretty! Twill, Jersey and wool ratine make these smart models. Some new two-piece ones of Jersey have contrast color bindings, and some clever monogram trimmings. Smart touches of embroidery or braid are not the least of the attractions of the twill Frocks. In short it is a group that stands out because it is packed with durability.

LOCAL NEWS

If you have anything to buy or sell, it will pay you to advertise in the Mail.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Wilske were given a farewell party, Saturday evening, by relatives and friends from Grayling, Royal Oak, Highland Park, Northville, Denton and Plymouth. Refreshments of roast corn and weiners, etc., were served, and a fine time was enjoyed in dancing and cards.

Fire broke out in the basement of the dwelling house of Mrs. Ella Downing, Tuesday afternoon, about four o'clock. The fire was discovered by neighbors, who saw the smoke coming out of the basement windows and sent in the alarm. The neighbors kept the flames at bay till the arrival of the fire department, who quickly extinguished the blaze. Considerable damage was done to the ceiling of the basement, in fact, nearly everything in the basement was ruined. It was very fortunate, however, that the fire did not reach the upper portions of the house. The fire is thought to have originated from an electric light wire. No one was at home at the time the fire started.

SCHOOL BUILDING SOLD AT AUCTION.

The school building and equipment in District No. 7, Fr., of Plymouth township, was sold at auction, last Saturday afternoon. The school building, which is a stone structure, was purchased by Don Packard for $1,300. The school building stands upon a corner of the Packard farm. The equipment was sold to bidders from several nearby districts. The school library was divided between District No. 4, Plymouth, and District No. 3, Northville.

School District No. 7, Fr., of Plymouth township, has been disbanded, and the territory divided among nearby districts. Wayne county took from this district several hundred acres of land on which to build the new training school for sub-normal children and several farms were purchased by the City of Detroit for the House of Correction farms, thus leaving such a small taxable area that the few families remaining could not maintain school.
