PACKARD FAMILY REUNION

The reunion of the descendants of the family of the late Orson Packard was held Saturday, August 9th, at the tourists' camp. There were forty-six members of the family in attendance, besides several visitors. The occasion was one of great enjoyment to all. The oldest member present was Mrs. Louisa Packard, aged eighty-three years and nine months; the youngest, Robert Glenn Whittaker, aged three months. At 1:00 p. m., the group sat down to a table loaded with good things, to which each did ample justice. Those present were from West Branch, Lansing, Jackson, Highland Park, Salem, Dixboro, Detroit and Plymouth. Toward evening the happy company broke up, to meet again next year at the same place, the last Saturday in June.

WORK ON NEW MASONIC TEMPLE PROGRESSING

Work on the new Masonic temple on Union street is progressing rapidly. The concrete footings for the new building are all in and the steel work is being placed in position. The new building is not only going to be a great credit to the local Masonic lodge when it is completed, but it is going to be something to which every citizen of the village can point to with pride.

CELEBRATED FIFTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Koss of Canton township, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at their home, Wednesday. A special service was held at Our Lady of Good Counsel church in the morning in their honor. At noon a sumptuous dinner was served to the relatives and friends, who were present to extend congratulations and to honor the bride and groom of fifty years ago.

PUT NEW BUMPER ON MARKET

The Plymouth Universal Bumper Co., who have temporary quarters in the Foster plant east of the village, are this week placing on the market the new bumper, which they are manufacturing for Ford cars. Whenever the new bumper has been shown, it has met with an enthusiastic reception, and there is every indication that it will meet with a ready sale. The bumper is constructed of seamless steel tubing, and is of extra strength and durability. It has a special device for fastening to the car. The company is made up of local people, and the Mail wishes them the best of success.

Miss Louise H. Olson, who has been visiting at the home of Mrs. I. N. Dickerson, left Thursday for Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor, where she will visit friends.

The Rebekah and Odd Fellows picnic will be held at Walnut Lake, Sunday, August 17th. Members and families invited. Meet at I. O. O. F. hall at 8:30 o'clock.

PLYMOUTH HAS CANDIDATE FOR LEGISLATURE

Lawrence Johnson of this village, is a candidate on the Republican ticket for the nomination of state representative from the Third District, of which Plymouth is a part, at the coming primaries, September 9th. Milo Johnson of Northville, who has represented the district for the past several terms in the legislature, decided not to become a candidate again this fall, and the many friends of Lawrence Johnson urged him to make the run. Lawrence has had some experience at the capitol, having served as a messenger in the House of Representatives and also as a document clerk. He has always taken an active part in the affairs of the Republican party, and if nominated and elected to the office of state representative, he is qualified to serve the district ably and well. Mr. Johnson's many Plymouth friends are pleased that he has entered the field, and he will receive strong support here and in Northville, where he resided before coming to Plymouth.

COMMITTEES ARE ALL WORKING HARD

ARRANGEMENTS GOING FORWARD FOR PLYMOUTH DAY, SEPTEMBER 11.

Another enthusiastic meeting of the chairmen of the several Plymouth Day committees was held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, Monday evening. Acceptances are already being received from those who have been sent special invitations to be guests of the village on September 11th.

It is expected that the corner stone of the new Masonic temple will be laid on Plymouth Day, with appropriate ceremonies in charge of the Grand Lodge officers. This will be a splendid time for such a ceremony, and it will be a feature of the day's program that will be of special interest to many.

It would be hard to find a more enthusiastic booster for the big day than Harry Robinson, the general chairman. Mr. Robinson and his committees are leaving nothing undone to make it the biggest day in the history of the town.

A general mass meeting has been called for Monday evening, August 25th, at the High school auditorium, when it is expected that every man and woman in Plymouth, who wants to see this day a success—a day that will mean much to advertise Plymouth—will be present. Make your plans now to attend this meeting.

Mrs. Jacob Streng, Mrs. William Downing and Miss Eudora Birch attended the graduating exercises at the Michigan State Normal, last week Thursday. Miss Ruth Shattuck graduated from the music department, and Miss Margaret Streng from the commercial department of the college.

MRS. HOPKIN WILLIAMS PASSED AWAY MONDAY

Mrs. Hopkin Williams, a most highly esteemed lady of this village, passed away at her home on Main street, last Monday evening, August 11th. Ever since the sudden death of her eldest son, O. B. Williams of Seattle, Wash., on May 15th last, Mrs. Williams' health had steadily failed, and following her return from Battle Creek Sanatorium, where she had been for some time in hopes of regaining health and strength, she gradually passed to that state which offered no hope, and among her old home friends and relatives she answered the final summons.

Mrs. Williams was born in New York state, April 12, 1845. She came to Michigan with her parents when a young girl. She lived on the Williams farm, west of town, for forty-five years, until she and Mr. Williams moved to Plymouth village. Mr. Williams died ten years ago. She is survived by six children, Mrs. Fred Trueblood, Charlotte, Winifred and Lloyd of Plymouth; Mrs. James Tierney of West Virginia, and Ivor H. of Detroit. Mrs. Williams was a devoted mother, and was greatly beloved by a large circle of friends and acquaintances. She was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star and the Woman's Club. Funeral services were held from her late home on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. Gibson, a former rector of St. John's Episcopal church of this place, officiating. Interment in Riverside cemetery.

DEATH OF JAMES POWELL

James Powell, a highly respected farmer of Plymouth township, died at his home, Tuesday afternoon, August 12th. Mr. Powell had been in poor health for some time, but was only confined to his bed about one week.

James Powell was born in Herefordshire, England, August 16, 1841. On May 16, 1868, he was united in marriage to Sarah Parker, who died in 1913. Over fifty years ago they came to America, settling in Plymouth township, where the remainder of his life was spent in the interest of home and farm. Seven children were born to them, six of whom are still living, Frank Charles Powell having departed this life fourteen years ago. The other children are William James, Lewis Edwin, Mrs. Olive Maude Packard, Albert Giles, Mrs. Mary Louise Forshee and Miss Chloe Ann Powell of Plymouth township. There are seven grandchildren and one great grandchild. He is survived also by a large circle of more distant relatives and friends.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock, this Friday afternoon, from his late home in Plymouth township, conducted by Rev. S. Conger Hathaway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

ONE LESS NUISANCE

It is a relief to millions of people in this country not to be obliged any more to pay a "war tax" on candy, telegraph and telephone messages, movie tickets and a good many other commodities. It is doubtful if these taxes, generally known as "nuisance taxes," ever really profited the government very much, in view of the fact that it often required the expenditure of several hundred dollars to collect a few cents.

We hear a good deal of "tax talk" around Plymouth in the course of a year, and from it we glean that a good many people have come to view all taxes in the light of a nuisance. But even so, we are afraid they are going to be forced to maintain these so-called nuisances for a good many years to come. That may be worth something to us, too, for it is a constant reminder that if we go to war we are going to have to pay for it, and we'll not be permitted to forget it for long years after the last gun has been fired. These taxes of a cent or two on hundreds of articles we use almost daily are merely additional evidence that if we feel that we must dance then we've got to pay the fiddler.

From time to time now we expect to see the taxes on other things abolished until the country gets back to the point where revenues raised through regular channels will be sufficient to meet all government expenses. And by that time, we hope too, that the world will be sufficiently advanced in good sense as to have discovered some means whereby war and "nuisance taxes" will be a thing unheard of except in history.

STORM LESSONS

We are not attempting to advertise any particular business in our editorial columns, because advertising doesn't belong there. But in view of the unusual number of terrific and disastrous storms that have swept various sections of the United States within the past three or four months we believe citizens of Plymouth could do no better thing than to give a little more attention to insurance. The city of Lorain, Ohio, almost wiped off the map within the space of five minutes, offered an example. Hundreds lost their homes who would have had insurance money enough coming in to rebuild if they had not been negligent. It isn't the cost of insurance that keeps most people from protecting their homes with it—it's just neglect, just putting it off until it's forgotten altogether. And then comes the fire or tornado. We haven't any assurance the next example won't be right here in our own community. That's why it really doesn't pay to take chances on getting along without insurance.

WHERE DO YOU BELONG?

We read in a magazine a few evenings ago a statement by a noted business man of the country to the effect that only about two per cent of all the workers in the world are what you'd call leaders—foremen, superintendents, managers, proprietors, etc. That's largely true, he says, because the rest of the population is simply dead set against accepting new things, even those that are worth while, without making a kick. A man fit to belong to the per cent club is a leader and one of the things that makes him a leader is his willingness to learn to accept suggestions from others. He is willing to look into everything and is seldom guilty of saying, "It can't be done." Before parents start their offspring into school again it wouldn't hurt them any to tell them about this "two per cent club," and also to tell them how they can hope to acquire a membership in it—by listening to suggestions and by refusing to believe that "It can't be done."

AROUND ABOUT US

Chelsea farmers expect a yield of 40 bushels of wheat to the acre this fall.

A Hamburg, Livingston county, farmer had a yield of 273 bushels of rye from nine acres.

If the plans of the Redford township board materialize, that township will organize a township police force.

Belleville will have a home-coming celebration on Friday, August 29th, with a splendid program of events during the day and evening.

It is expected that the paving on Grand River will be near enough completed so that the road can be opened for traffic by September 1st.

The Walled Lake Masonic lodge have moved into their new home, which has been converted from the old school building at that place. Several officers from the Grand Lodge were present at the dedication ceremonies.

Our neighboring village of South Lyon is making big preparations to entertain large crowds for their home-coming celebration, which is scheduled to take place next Wednesday and Thursday, August 20 and 21. Many from Plymouth and vicinity are planning to attend.

A bald-headed eagle with a wing spread of five feet nine inches, was captured the other day in a trap set for a hawk on a farm near Fenton. There is a government protection on these birds and it was freed after its captor had displayed it in Fenton village. South Lyon Herald.

The Forged Seamless Tube Co. expects to begin operations at South Lyon this fall. They will occupy a new building recently built by the Panel & Plywood Co. Machinery for the new plant is now on the road. The factory will give employment to twenty-five men at the start.

The old hotel at Clarenceville, a landmark on Grand River road, has been purchased by Henry Ford with forty acres of adjoining land. It is understood that Mr. Ford intends to move the old building back a distance from the road, and preserve it in its original form. It will be in the center of a fine little park, laid out with walks and ornamented with shrubbery. Mr. Botsford, who owned the property, has been in possession of it for many years.—Farmington Enterprise.

The time has already come when Island Lake Hotel is incapable of taking care of all the guests that apply. When George Williams built the first hotel on the east shore of the lake a few years ago, many thought he was crazy. But they would have thought the same about anyone who would pay $5.00 a foot for lake front, yet alone $35.00 to $40.00 a foot. Now Mr. Williams announces, he will enlarge the hotel to at least 60x60 feet large dining room over the water. Work will begin at once. Roy M. Downing is in charge of the hotel again this year.—Brighton Argus.

There is no good reason why a woman nowadays should waste her strength and undermine her health at the heavy tasks of the home. Electricity will do them all, more quickly, more easily, more cheaply.

An electric washer will dispose of the week's wash in two hours for a few cents worth of electricity. The ironing will cost little.

Cleaning is quickly done with the electric vacuum sweeper. Dishes are washed and dried in a few minutes.

Human Machine Rusts if Change Is Denied

When one's bodily health is below par there is nothing of greater benefit than "to go away for a change"—of air, scenery, surroundings, people. Not many, however, realize that if they "changed" at home they would not require to "go away" for a change. The latter might be impossible on account of the expense, or inconvenient in other ways.

With a few exceptions we would all be infinitely better in mind and body if we changed our environment at least once a year. Our "work health," the capacity to do what we have to do easily and without undue strain, is affected by our environment. There are critics of the "week-end habit," but the latter is really nothing more than an escape from the dulling sameness of Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday!

One business man, whose success or failure depends on whether or not his mind is fresh or stale, changes his office once a year, says London Answers. He has realized that, after a time, the sameness of his surroundings affects him adversely. So he makes a move—goes to a different station, walks along different streets—and is all the better for the change.

It was on the same principle that a certain well-known author, in the days when houses were plentiful, was always on the move. He'd take a cottage near the sea. "Use up" the inspiration of his new environment, and then pass on!

The above changes may not be possible to all. But what of smaller ones? We get in the habit of clothing ourselves, say, in sober hues. Change to something brighter! Our method of life, may be an unchanging routine. Change it! We associate with the same people year in and year out. Step off the track and get into touch with others.

A groove holds no inspiration whatever. We want a change, and the shaking-up of ourselves that change involves would do us a world of good. Holiday time is coming, but don't wait until then. Start having your change now.

The Holy Grail

Archeologists believe that the inner cup in the recently discovered "chalice of Antioch" is the true holy grail, the vessel from which Jesus drank at the last supper, and which is believed to have the power of curing bodily disease.

If this is so, a search that has lasted for nearly 2,000 years will be ended. Every generation has had its own expedition in search of this miraculous cup. The quest is as old as Christianity itself.

But there is another quest older still—a quest that has been common to all races of mankind as long as mankind has been on earth.

And that is the universal quest for a grail that will cure, not diseases of the body, but diseases of the soul.

All the progress of humanity throughout the ages has been impelled by this instinctive craving for higher and better things.

Every man who ever lived on earth has been a pilgrim in search of the holy grail. And although the physical grail may be discovered, humanity will continue to better itself so long as the spiritual grail hovers just within the reach of man's imagination, but just beyond the reach of his hands.

Forest's Name Changed

President Coolidge on March 11 changed the name of the Department national forest in Colorado to the Grand Mesa national forest, announces the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture. The new name describes the principal topographic feature of not only a part of the national forest but the entire mountain section of that region.

Grand Mesa proper comprises the very important southwestern arm of the national forest upon which the principal irrigation water of the vast farming region surrounding it is impounded in artificial reservoirs and discharged during the periods when needed for agriculture. It is also a most attractive recreation and fishing grounds for the population of the surrounding valleys as well as the traveling population from more distant points.

Remember Sainted King

The populace of Bavaria will celebrate during the summer the nine hundredth anniversary of the death of Heinrich II, founder of the episcopate of Bamberg. The main ceremony will take place in the Bamberg cathedral, where Emperor Heinrich and Empress Kunigunde are buried. Heinrich ruled over central Europe as king of the Holy Roman empire, and during his lifetime made wars on Italy, Poland and Bohemia, as well as upon many rival princes. He was made a saint by Pope Eugene III in 1148. A monument was erected to Heinrich and his wife in the Bamberg cathedral.

The Fond Father

Fred Rakemann, former head of the industrial department of the Indianapolis chamber of commerce, is now the proud father of a baby daughter, Barbara Brock Rakemann. Fred boasts much of the baby, but it took a splinter to call him down right about her. The splinter met him the other morning. "How is the baby?" she asked. Fred grinned. "Oh, it is just fine," he returned enthusiastically. "Mr. Rakemann," she looked at him severely, "don't you think it is time to call that baby she?"—Indianapolis News.

The Need is Very Urgent

An attack of dysentery often results from indigestible food, polluted water, or sudden changes in weather or climate. Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy should be in every home, every traveler's bag, every vacation kit. A valuable medicine, dependable, safe, reliable in emergency at home or when traveling.—Advertisement.

HOUSE OF CORRECTION FARM PLAN IS URGED.

The mayor's committee on the new House of Correction, headed by Tracy W. McGregor, Friday made public in a conference with acting mayor Joseph A. Martin its report and recommendations.

These included:
1. Establishment of a House of Correction farm to be used solely as a corrective institution for Detroit misdemeanants.
2. Setting aside a portion of the present House of Correction building for the care of state and federal prisoners, until such time as the state and government has made other provisions for them.
3. Establishment of a detention house in the present House of Correction building. This would serve for the reception of all newly-sentenced prisoners before they are sent to the farm and for the permanent housing of those who it is felt should not be sent there. It is also suggested that certain prisoners might sleep in the detention house at night, and pursue their regular employment during the day.

4. Building of barracks for the housing of prisoners at the farm.
5. Employment of prison labor to as great an extent as possible in all building operations, under the direction of a construction engineer.
6. Separation of the farms for men and women prisoners a distance of at least five miles, and setting up a separate operating unit in each.
The committee is to report later its recommendations for the handling of women and felons.—Detroit News.

WHEN INDIAN FISHES ITS WORK, NOT SPORT

Naturally Lazy, He Uses the Sure and Simple Method.

He has three ways of doing it—with a gill-net, with a dip-net, and with a gaff-hook. The familiar hook and line of the white man he scorns as being too slow and entailing too much hard work. What the Indian wants is the fish. He cares nothing about the sport of the thing, nor the thrill of landing a 12-pound beauty with an eight-ounce rod and a slender silk line; leave that to the crazy white man who has nothing else to do. The Indian wants the fish, and the easier he can get them the better he likes it, and the more time he has for sleep.

His favorite way of catching salmon is by the use of the gill-net, since this method leaves him the maximum amount of time for his previously mentioned sleep. A gill-net is a straight piece of netting about twelve feet long and five or six feet wide. One side has wooden floats and the other heavy leaden weights, so it will hang perpendicular in the water. On either end is a stone anchor to keep it stretched out.

Setting the net is an easy process. He chooses an eddy or a deep pool in the river and floats by in his canoe, with the net piled in the stern. When the proper spot is reached, he kicks one of the anchors overboard. This settles to the bottom of the river and pulls the net out over the stern as the canoe floats leisurely on. When all the net is out of the canoe, he kicks the other anchor overboard and his work is done. His labors over for the day, the Indian winds his homeward way and sinks into repose until the morning, leaving the net to catch his meal, says Adventure Magazine.

The water of the Nooksack river is never very clear; usually it is muddy. This makes it hard for the salmon to see, and thereby brings about their undoing. They swim around in the eddies and pools in search of food and, if a net is there, they are sure to run into it head-first in the course of a day or two. The meshes of the net are not quite large enough to let an average-sized salmon through. He gets half-way through, and then tries to back out. As he backs out, the meshes of the net catch under his gills and he stays there till the owner of the net pulls him out.

Next day the Indian comes back in his canoe and pulls the net up, usually finding four or five salmon in it. These he either takes home or hides under a log so he can tell his wife where to find them. With this supply of fish, he betakes himself to rest and does not stir abroad again for a week or so, or until such time as his larder is empty.

Only Campfire Smoke

At the recent state G. A. R. encampment in Frankfort, the annual campfire was the big public event and created much interest. The meeting was held in Howard hall, the Frankfort High school gymnasium.

One woman who lives a short distance from the hall did not attend. Her husband returned home about nine o'clock, while the gathering was still in session, and as he opened the front door, remarked: "I smell smoke, something must be burning."

His wife looked up from the book she was reading. "I've been smelling that," she said. And then a light spread over her face and with all seriousness she said: "Oh, I know. It's the campfire."—Indianapolis News.

How This Fish Walks

As waters inhabited by climbing perch dry up, the existing puddles become overstocked, and the fish leave their old home, says Nature Magazine. They depart by hundreds, traveling over the land, scattering in all directions. Then the gill covers are fully extended and the pectoral fins spread out. The former are bent outward like a joint, the pointed ends seeking a firm hold; by a twisting and turning movement of the body the creature is jerked forward. Then the spines of the gill covers again seek a firm hold. In this way the climbing perch is able to move quite rapidly. If the fish do not find water, they will dig themselves into the mud and can be found at a depth of one and a half feet.

Plant Almost Human

Operating without human control, halting while minor difficulties are adjusted and stopping altogether if something goes seriously wrong, a new electric power station at Searsburg, Vt., embodies astonishing mechanical intelligence, says Popular Science Monthly.

The turbine of the plant drives a generator with a capacity of 8,500 horsepower. The only help from human beings is occasional inspection, lubrication and regulation of the governor mechanism. The turbine starts when sufficient water arrives and shuts down when the flow falls below an efficient limit.

Palp From Ailanthus

Officials of the United States forest products laboratory, in Madison, Wis., announce the discovery of what is declared to be an excellent and valuable pulp wood from the ailanthus tree, otherwise known as the "Tree of Heaven." Officials, after laboratory tests, say that it developed into a high grade of book paper, also fit for use in the manufacture of lithograph and writing paper. The ailanthus was imported from China into Pennsylvania and New York, where it rapidly became a weed and a nuisance.

BATHROOMS

YIELD TWOFOLD BENEFITS

Two important advantages result when a modern bathroom is installed in a home.

First: The bathroom provides opportunity for the healthful practice of daily bathing. "A bath-a-day keeps you fit every way."

Second: A modern bathroom increases the property value, far more than the cost of having it installed. Houses that have modern bathrooms rent and sell for more.

A complete modern bathroom with its built-in or attached shower, medicine cabinet, bath stool and small fixtures (towel racks, trambler holders), is a convenience worth many times its cost. In truth, it proves to be the room, of all, most comfortable.

Ask us to show you plans for complete modern bathing facilities in your home. Let the whole household enjoy the healthful practice of daily bathing. Modern fixtures—a complete bathroom—can be purchased for less than the cheapest automobile.

BROWN STRIKES AT CAMPAIGN PLEDGES

SAYS TEST IS—"WILL OBEY OATH."

"Murder and robbery have become so common it is not safe to be on the streets or even in one's home. Heroic measures are necessary. The same old complacent way of doing things and the 'age-old game of passing the buck' will not accomplish anything. A strenuous militant policy is required."

This is the attitude Frederick B. Brown, Republican candidate for prosecuting Attorney of Wayne County, has taken in the public addresses he is making about the County, and he is also severely criticizing the time-worn "campaign promises" many candidates are so prone to make.

"As to the enforcement of the law, one's promise to do so is perhaps not particularly important. If one does not consider that his oath of office puts him under obligations to do what he can to enforce the law, it is quite plain that he would not regard a promise very seriously."

"So far as liquor, gambling and vice laws generally are concerned, the enforcement depends more upon letting these elements of society understand that the officials mean business than it is to arrest a multitude of people and clog the court dockets with cases that are never tried.

"A 'slap on the wrist' once or twice a year is not enough to keep down the lawless elements, but a firm, steady and unyielding policy that will let the gamblers, blind-pig operators, murderers and bandits understand that the law must be respected and that violations mean punishment is what Wayne County needs now as never before."—Advertisement.

THE THEATRE

"CHANGING HUSBANDS"

Admirers of Leatrice Joy are promised a treat when "Changing Husbands," a Paramount picture, is flashed upon the local screen at the Penniman Allen theatre, Saturday, August 16th. They will see her in a part that calls for every ounce of histrionic power that is in her. The acid test of a great actor or actress is the ability to portray a dual role with convincing skill, and that is exactly what the lovely Leatrice is called upon to do in this production. "Changing Husbands" was adapted by Sada Cowan and Howard Higgin from the Saturday Evening Post story, "Roles," by Elizabeth Alexander. The theme of the story deals with the modern problem of home versus a career. Tired of her life of idle ease and luxury, a popular society matron decides to change places with a girl who bears a remarkable resemblance to her and who, at the time, is acting in a New York stage play. They both overlook purposely, to be sure—the important detail of notifying those most affected by the change, the wife, her husband, and the actress, her fiancée. The result? Complications galore, which the audience is bound to enjoy.

Miss Joy, of course, plays both parts—not an easy task when you stop to consider that the two personalities are as far apart as the poles in temperament and disposition. Last you think that all the acting honors fall to the lot of the versatile Leatrice, we hasten to point out that Victor Varconi, Raymond Griffith, ZaSu Pitts and Julia Faye are in the supporting cast.

"A SELF-MADE FAILURE"

In "A Self-Made Failure," the First National Picture, which comes to the Penniman Allen theatre, Sunday, August 17th, J. K. McDonald again scores a clean knockout. Those who saw "Penrod and Sam" and "Boy of Mine" may be prepared to see even a better picture in "A Self-Made Failure."

The production has everything essential to a picture success—story, direction, cast, acting, sets and photography.

But most of all, and best of all, it has human appeal without which no picture can impress an audience. Being a farce-comedy it naturally has humor and more than a bit of slapstick. These have been considered outside this producer's realm, but a study of "A Self-Made Failure" convinces that McDonald has added to his already vast domain of artistic ability.

The director of this remarkable comedy is William Beaudine, who directed both "Penrod and Sam" and "Boy of Mine." Ben Alexander, who had featured roles in both these productions, is one of the principals in this film.

The story begins with an episode in the life of two tramps (Ben Alexander and Lloyd Hamilton), and it follows these two intensely human characters through a maze of human adventure, which brings in an all-star cast including: Matt Moore, Patsy Ruth Miller, Mary Carr, Sam De Grasse, Chuc Riesner, Victor Ford, Dan Mason, Harry Todd, Alta Allen, Priscilla Moran, Joe McCray and "Cameo," the bull terrier of "Penrod and Sam" fame.

"THE GIRL IN THE LIMOUSINE"

Larry Semon, whose first starring picture of feature length, "The Girl in the Limousine," is proving the comedy sensation of the year, will be seen at the Penniman Allen theatre, Wednesday, August 20th. It is described as follows by the Inside Dopester of the movie world:

A comedian by choice, since he refuses ever to portray a tragic or melancholy role.

A magician by heredity—for his father was the famous Zera the Great, and from him Larry learned many startling tricks of sleight-of-hand and magic.

A singer by habit—until one day someone discovered that he had a rich baritone and induced him to sing some comic songs for a phonograph record manufacturer.

A cartoonist by profession—for his father, wishing him to abandon theatrical life, developed a remarkable talent for drawing, and Larry earned his living for several years as a cartoonist on a New York evening paper.

A golfer when possible—this being the favorite sport and hobby of the famous screen star.

"The Girl in the Limousine" is the most elaborate picture Semon has ever made. It also marks his debut as the star of feature pictures. Heretofore he has been seen only in one or two reel comedies.

Today's Reflections

What annoys us most during the season of building political fences is the sound of constant knocking.

The average Plymouth man realizes that he is getting old, when people commence to tell him that he's looking younger than ever.

If the groom dances well and has nice shiny hair, it's a pretty safe bet that they're going to make their home with the bride's father and mother.

It has been our observation that the most discouraging thing about poverty is that it lasts so long.

Any man in Plymouth will tell you that the chief trouble in being a man is it takes so much longer to shave than it does just to smear on a little powder.

Has the old-fashioned family which kept the Bible and the photograph album on a stand in the front room given way to the one that uses the stand for the radio set?

Women are braver than men. Who ever heard of a man marrying a woman in the hope of reforming her?

Another thing we've never been able to figure out is why some Plymouth men insist on a front seat at a show, and a back seat at church.

The worst thing about bobbed hair is too many editors, who need a shave and a haircut, spend their time writing jokes about it.

A Chicago jury awarded a man $1 for his wife's affections. And that is a dollar more than the affections of some wives are worth.

Many a fellow around Plymouth yells for freedom when what he really wants is a raise in wages.

If you find a Plymouth girl who can make good candy, don't take it for granted that she is also an expert with an ironing board.

There's this much about the fellow who marries a girl with a pug nose—he never has to wait for something to turn up.

A scientist says the fewer garments people wear, the longer they'll live. Then they'll have to take some of the "flappers" out and shoot them on judgment day.

When you hear a Plymouth man complain that his wife does not understand him, you can bet he has been up to some meanness and is hunting for an alibi.

We're not crazy to find out what the world is coming to. What we'd like to know is what it's up to.

We see where a New Orleans thief lifts his loot through an open window with a hook and line. Wonder what kind of bait he uses?

BAPTIST NOTES

The committee on decoration had some fine baskets of flowers, last Sunday, to make the room cheerful.

We had just a male quartet, Sunday morning, and they led the singing in good shape.

The Sunday-school keeps up its number in fine shape. Quite a number of the teachers were absent last Sunday on their vacation.

The B. Y. P. U. was led Sunday evening by Walter Mostel, the subject being, "The Beautiful Things I See in Nature—as Flowers, Fruit, Grain, Trees—all speak of God."

The pastor will be away next Sunday. The Rev. Gahorn of Ypsilanti, will preach morning and evening. The morning subject will be, "Loyalty to Law," evening, "Life's Transcendent Imperative." You will want to hear him. He is president of the Life Conservation League.

The Ladies' Aid society, which met with Mrs. D. A. Campbell, three miles south of town, will be reported next week.

The B. Y. P. U. will hold their monthly meeting and pot-luck supper at the tourist camp, this Friday evening. All the young people are urged to come and have a good time.

SCIENTIFIC WONDERS "OUT IN THE OPEN"

Museum Makes Things Plain to the Average Man.

Will American cities soon be adding to the public library and the art museum another temple-like structure whose object is to popularize science? Although this is above all the age of science, the average man has had to depend for his knowledge on reading. At Washington there has recently been opened a "Wonder House of Science," where the ordinary man can familiarize himself at first hand with the methods whereby the marvelous results of science are obtained. The new institution was immediately seen to fill such a "long-felt want" that other cities undoubtedly will copy the idea.

Any visitor can go through the stately marble palace and work the machines and instruments for himself. He can study the sun; he can watch earthquakes and tremors being recorded; he can examine things with high-powered microscopes; he can look at the vibrations of his own voice; he can himself perform the marvels that he has read about in the Sunday supplements.

The Wonder House of Science is neither museum, scientific laboratory nor theater. And yet it is all of these and more—testifies Raymond J. Brown in Popular Science Monthly. The glass cases for exhibits and the familiar "Hands Off" of the conventional museum are conspicuously absent. The exhibits are in plain sight, unguarded and unprotected.

"More than that," he goes on, "you and I, when we call on science in its new home, are urged and invited to handle the exhibits and experiment with them as much as we please. "Though they are made up of the most delicate, intricate and expensive instruments of the modern scientific laboratory, they are not reserved for the exclusive use of experts, as would be the case in a laboratory.

"On every exhibit are attached plain directions, which instruct us how to turn the switches, to press the buttons, to focus the eye-pieces.

"The purposes of the experiments are explained; we carry them on with our hands, observing the details of the successive stages with our own eyes, and we appreciate the significance of the conclusion as we never could were we merely to read of it or to hear it discussed by a lecturer. No theater could provide a spectacle more amazing than this almost bewildering array of scientific wonders, made tangible and understandable to all who come to see.

"There is the matter of earthquakes, for example. Ordinarily we hear only of the great disasters, such as the one that occurred last year in Japan, but earthquakes happen rather frequently—10,000 times a year, once at least every hour, according to the latest testimony of the scientists. There was graphic evidence of that fact on the broad recording tape of the new-type seismograph that was the first thing I saw when I entered the building."

Nocturnal Animals

The gray-haired generation is forever taking snapshots at the rising one, says the Los Angeles Times. There is an indicated wonderment us to the whereabouts of the wandering boy this evening. Grandfather is blaming the parents. He is utterly oblivious of the fact that his criticism is a reflection upon his own methods of discipline. Boys and girls have fared forth at evening in other generations. They will continue the habit as other generations rise. Do parents have any control over their children? The query has been running for a couple of thousand years at least and we are all sure that the boys and girls we now have are quite the most vicious and sophisticated the world has ever had. We said it of the last generation and will broadcast it for the next. It is the one theme that never fails.

Working the Rule

A mother was sending her little girl to the post office in a small town with 10 cents to buy five 2-cent stamps for the five letters she was sending. She had been in the habit of giving the few extra pennies left from a purchase to the little girl, so she said: "What will I get back, mother?" "Nothing, dear. I am sending the exact amount," but the negative reply brought disappointment to the little girl.

Immediately the conversation was changed to loving people, the mother telling her that if we love people they will love us, that we get back what we give. The little girl looked up with a face beaming with hope. "Then I ought to get this 10 cents back, mother."—Exchange.

Lobsters and Small Boys

A curious point of similarity has been discovered by Canadian scientists between little lobsters and little boys. The scientists have found that the lobsters do not like cold water. The corresponding trait in the juvenile male of the human species is a matter of common observation. Dr. A. G. Huntsman, biologist of the biological board of Canada, has found that lobsters are abundant and small lobsters, particularly fry, present in any considerable numbers only in waters with a summer temperature of 52 degrees or higher. Adult lobsters will survive in colder water, but the younger ones are discouraged sooner and refuse to live in such a chilly world.

CRABBED OLD SILAS FINALLY SAW LIGHT

Reformation Really Got Him Out of Two Holes.

Silas Atkinson was as industrious as he was vindictive and crabbed. His only daughter, Martha, who lived with him in their brush home in the hills, was falling a victim to his tyranny; she bade fair to go overworked and starved to the grave as her mother had gone.

Martha found favor in the eyes of big Ben Thomas, a neighboring lad who was seldom too busy to come over for a visit; but old Silas soon stopped such nonsense.

"Now lookie here, Ben," he said. "I need Mr. G. H. P.'s help, and I'm a-going to have it. If you'll come and hire out to me you kin see her, pervidin' you'll promise never to say a word of love or anything to keep her off her work. I'll shoot you if you play false! Will you come?"

Ben agreed and became a member of the household. Martha gained new spirit and new color, though her toll was not lightened. "Guess he's given up marryin' and takin' her arim," muttered old Silas, chuckling grimly. "Why, she's worth twice as much as she was, worth a whole man's wages and don't cost a cent! I got Ben cheap too. Those two lovin' fools make a good bargain for me!"

One June morning the two men were digging a well. Ben was working the hole at the top, and Silas was at the bottom, digging.

Finally Ben pulled the bucket out of the hole. "Old man," he called down the well, "I've quit! Martha and me has some important business to look after downtown. You ain't hardly safe to be trusted out just now, so I'll keep this rope up here. Now don't yell too hard; it's bad for the throat. Good-by!"

The angriest man in all the history of the hills stayed down in the well that afternoon, for no relief came in answer to his shouting.

At sunset Ben's smiling face appeared at the opening. "Old man, we've just been married. I told fair, and I haven't said a word to her about love while I was workin' for you, but I quit this mornin' you know. It was all arranged before I come. You've stole her youth and her money all these years, but now she's goin' free and safe. You'll sign a release of your daughter and your promise to be good before you ever get out of that hole. Will you sign now?"

Old Silas would not sign! Never, never, never!

Ben rawned. "Well," he said, "I'm goin' back to the house for the night, where Martha has our weddin' supper. Say, but it's grand! I'll come out here in the mornin' and see if you're reasonable."

He came in the morning and again at night and once more on the second morning, but Silas was still firm.

On the second night, however, the man capitulated. "I was an old fool," he said. "I robbed and was killin' her with overwork. I'll pay her up honest, though I reckon you ought to leave me here in this hole forever for what I done in the past. But say, Ben, I'd sure like to taste Martha's weddin' cake! Do I get out?"

He got out, and the Grandpa Atkinson of later years couldn't have been finer if he had been born with a halo! —Youth's Companion.

Baby Tours in Suitcase

A customs inspector examining baggage when the Cunard liner Albion arrived recently opened what he thought was a suitcase and to his surprise a four-month-old baby smiled contentedly up at him. The extraordinary crib was well ventilated and the youngster was giving part of his time to the contents of a nursing bottle.

The parents, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis of Los Angeles, explained that their young son was very much at home in his new quarters. The doctor said the baby was born in Vienna. As he and his wife had to do much traveling it was a burden to carry the young son in their arms, so they had had the special case made for him.

The special case is 22 inches wide and 32 inches long. The doctor said it was a safe and sanitary method of transportation, says the New York Times.

King's Train in Museum

The court train of the late King Ludwig II of Bavaria has been repaired and refitted in the state railway shops here and returned to Nuremberg, where it is kept in a railway museum.

The train cost a fortune, the car used as the king's drawing-room having been wonderfully furnished. The tables are of marble and the chairs of blue silk with heavy gold ornaments.

The ceiling of the car, too, is of gold, while the coat of arms of the Wittelsbach family and the initials of the king are displayed freely on all the cars in gold relief.

Most Prized Order

Prior to June 26, 1902, the day upon which King Edward VII was given the Order of Merit, the highest honor in his gift would, in most people's estimation, have been the Order of the Garter, and it is still the premier order of chivalry in the world. On that day, however, a new "Order" was instituted, which, for real distinction, takes precedence of any other. It is the Order of Merit, which is limited to 24 men and women of extraordinary eminence.

Thousands Sail Into Port of Missing Men

An army of men, numbering nobody knows how many thousands, men in the prime and vigor of their youth, dropping out of the life that knew them, leaving no more trace of their existence than footprints leave in wet sand, is an unexpected epilogue to the great drama of the war. Preparations for paying the bonus revealed the disappearance of this great number of men made restless and discontented with the humdrum ways of peace by campaigning and battle and now wandering the earth somewhere without their families and friends knowing where they are or even if they are living or dead.

Casualties of war, this huge crew has sailed into the port of missing men just as surely as if they had fallen in conflict, says the Philadelphia Bulletin. And like the unknown dead, buried in nameless graves, they have left behind them sorrowing hearts and minds tortured by a doubt that may never be resolved. That doubt if a loved one be dead or alive, if he may be expected to return some time, or if he has vanished forever, is harder to bear than the certainty of knowledge as to the irrevocable loss of son or husband, and is a cruel cross to inflict upon those who can only sit and wait and wait.

If the men who have gone their way into the obscurity of a changed existence could realize the wrong they are doing to those who love them they would surely disclose their whereabouts at least, even if they did not return. Moreover, until something is known of them, their compensation will be withheld by the government. Those of them who are dead without a word of their fate to their families, have left their next of kin penniless, so far as receiving compensation from the government is concerned, for to collect on the bonus, proof of death must be given. Thus the backwash of war is still swirling about the lives of thousands of people, tossing hither and thither on the waters of doubt, anxiety and apprehension, innocent victims of the struggle that ended nearly six years ago.

Deaf No Longer Helpless

There were many school graduation exercises this season but one of the most novel was that of Gallaudet college at Washington. Here five attractive girls—three of them with bobbed hair—and 14 young men received M. A., A. B. and B. S. degrees. Not one of them can hear. Three orations, delivered orally, were translated into the sign language.

"People look upon the deaf with sympathy," said Nathan Zimble. "They never think that there is happiness among us. There was a time when to be deaf meant being a charge and a nuisance. But all that has changed. Now we are able to take care of ourselves. There are worse things than being deaf. If we were blind or crippled there would be ground for sympathy." William Griffin, deaf since he was seven, denounced impostors who pass themselves off as deaf. "The real deaf are not beggars," he insisted.—Pittsburgh Magazine.

Railroads of the World

Totalling approximately 750,000 miles, according to figures prepared by the National City bank of New York, the world's railroads, if placed in a single line, would reach to the moon and back and encircle the globe nearly 11 times, Popular Mechanics Magazine states. This amount represents an increase of 250,000 miles since 1900. Nearly all of the mileage has been built in the last 74 years for, in 1850, the world boasted only 25,000 miles of lines, less than is owned now by a single great system in the United States. About 85 per cent of the railroads are under government ownership, it is estimated. Conditions of government control and operation vary in different countries, and in the United States, Great Britain and Spain practically all the lines are under private ownership.

Rubber Naturally White

It is generally known that rubber is derived from the sap of certain tropical trees, but it is not generally known that it is white. The juice is a creamy-white liquid called latex, about 85 per cent of which is pure rubber. Placed aside by itself in a glass of rich milk, it resembles the latter so closely that you couldn't tell the difference unless you drank it. At the plantations where rubber is grown, or at a nearby center where conveniences are to be had, the latex is strained and coagulated. This is an operation resembling the souring of milk, and is done by adding a little mild acid, which turns the liquid into a yellowish, brownish, sticky substance, which is rolled out into commerce-ribbed smoked sheets and crepes of many grades.

Jews to Have Own Money

The introduction of a distinctive Palestine monetary system, to replace the Egyptian money now in use, is contemplated by the government, and a commission has been appointed to make recommendations in the matter. Not since the days of the Roman emperors has Palestine had a money of its own, having used that of its rulers through the centuries since then. Egyptian money was introduced at Jerusalem after the occupation by General Allenby's forces. It is planned that the new money shall be issued directly by the government and without the intermediary of any bank.

DRESS UP

Only The Rich Can Afford To Look Poor

America has a certain millionaire who started life on a shoe string and even today he wears a shoe string for a cravat.

That's fine—when you are at the top of the ladder you can afford many eccentricities, but if you are only half way up, you have got to watch not only your step, but your appearance.

Count the men you know who in their dress do not care whether school keeps or not, and you can count on one hand all the fun, friends and finances they are getting out of life.

Dress up; Cinderella didn't do her best work in sack cloth and ashes. The silver slippers of 1924 are not awarded to the men who are allowing their grooming to grow aged and rusty.

Come in; let us show you a Value-First suit. We will willingly let you try it on, but you won't willingly take it off.

HOME CONVENIENCES OBJECT OF CAMPAIGN

WATER AND SEWAGE DISPOSAL SYSTEMS TO BE SHOWN IN WAYNE COUNTY ON AUGUST 21, 22 BY M. A. C. DEMONSTRATION TEAM.

Wayne county is to be visited on August 21 and 22, by the "home conveniences" demonstration truck from the Michigan Agricultural College. The object of the tour is to furnish information on water systems, septic tanks and other conveniences for the farm home, and to leave in the county a permanent demonstration by actually constructing a septic tank and providing a set of "take down" forms for the construction of future tanks in the community.

The demonstration tour, which is conducted by extension men of the M. A. C. agricultural engineering department, is scheduled to begin August 5th in Shiawassee county, and will terminate in Clinton county, the last week in October. Two days are to be spent in practically every county in the southern four tiers of Michigan counties and two meetings a day are planned.

The meetings in Wayne county will be as follows: Thursday, Aug. 21st at 11: a. m., at W. E. VanVleet's, Inkster; 3:00 p. m., at C. W. Root's, Plymouth. Friday, August 22nd, at 11:00 a. m., at Jake Miller's Summit.

A truck fitted up with a full-sized bathroom equipment, showing a simple water system, the gravity system of water supply, a small pressure tank system, a small lighting plant and other conveniences, will travel with the campaigners. This equipment will all be demonstrated and operated as in a permanent installation.

County Agricultural Agent Ralph Carr is in charge of local arrangements for the meetings.

FORMER PLYMOUTH BOY WEDS

The following from the Border Cities Star, Windsor Ont., of Thursday, August 7th, will be of interest to Plymouth people as the groom was a former Plymouth boy, and a son of Mrs. Anna Lake:

"A very pretty wedding was solemnized the early part of the week at the rectory of Our Lady of Prompt Succor church, Rev. J. A. Rooney officiating, when Miss Mabel Josephine Janisse, daughter of Mrs. A. Janisse, was united in marriage to Mr. Albert L. Lake of Detroit. The bride was charmingly gowned in white crepe de chine with hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and snapdragons. The bridesmaid, Miss Dorothy R. Sexton was attractively attired in coral georgette and carried Columbia roses and snapdragons. Mr. Elverson Jenks of Detroit, attended the groom. After a dainty wedding breakfast served to the immediate family, the couple left on an extended motor trip through northern Michigan. On their return they will be at home to their friends at 1328 East Grand boulevard, Detroit."

On another page of this paper will be found a notice of registration. Voters will do well to read it over. The law providing for re-registration each four years applies to towns of having units having more than ten thousand population. It does not affect the voters of Plymouth. If your name is already on the poll list of your township, you will not need to re-register, unless you have moved from one precinct to another, and in that case you ask to have your name transferred.

The Towle & Roe Lumber Co. are building a new storage building, 60x120 feet in size. The new building will have a drive-in through the center, so that material can be loaded on the delivery trucks from two decks on either side. An office will also be provided for in the southeast corner of the new building. The old shed will be moved from its present location to another part of the lot and will be used for storage purposes. The increasing business of the company makes it necessary to have a greater storage capacity. Fred Rhoad has the contract for the new building.

MORE PAVED ROADS OPEN

FIFTEEN MILES OF NEW CONCRETE LAID BY COUNTY BOARD; MANY HIGHWAYS WIDENED.

An article in last Sunday's Detroit News by Edward N. Hines, chairman of the Board of County Road Commissioners, states that the commission has added 14.37 miles of new concrete road to the Wayne county highway system in July, and widened 4.73 miles of old concrete road. The Telegraph road has been completed from Grand River to Michigan avenue, making a continuous stretch of concrete 24 miles long to the Monroe county line at Flat Rock, where it connects with the new trunk line to Toledo, which is being built by the State Highway Department. Good progress has also been made on the Exmore road from the village limits to the Belleville road, a distance of 16 miles. The remaining three miles to the Washtenaw county line will be completed in August. 11.35 miles of concrete on the Plymouth road was completed during July. This road will be completed in its entirety during the month of August.
