LET CONTRACTOR THE DECORATIONS

Another enthusiastic meeting of the Plymouth Day committee was held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms Monday evening. Reports from the various committees show that the plans for the big day are going steadily forward.

The decorating committee reported that they had let the contract for the decorating of the streets, bandstand and orchestra stand to the Detroit Flag Co. Plymouth has never before attempted anything quite so elaborate in the way of decorations for any former event, and this feature alone will be most pleasing to the eye. A beautiful arch will be constructed at the intersection of Main street and the new pavement on Plymouth road, where the ceremonies in connection with the opening of the road will take place.

Already many acceptances are being received from those who have been invited to be guests of the village on the big day. About four hundred invitations have been sent out.

The ladies of the Lutheran church will serve the banquet, which is to be held in the High school auditorium. The invited guests will be served first, commencing at 12:30. After the guests have been served, the public will be admitted, until all are served, at $1.00 per plate. The well known ability of the Lutheran ladies to serve delicious eats is a guarantee that it's going to be a most excellent and satisfying dinner. There will be music during the banquet.

Officer Wigle of the Detroit Police Department, one of the best and most popular soloists in Detroit has been engaged to sing, as also have the Dixie Eight, who have appeared here several times in the past.

The ball game between the Detroit Fire Department team and the Daniels Sales team, two of the strongest semi-professional ball teams in Wayne county, promises to be one of the very best ever seen here, as both teams are keen to win this contest.

Watch next week's paper for more particulars.

MASS MEETING CALLED

AT HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM
MONDAY, NIGHT, AUGUST 25.

Next Monday evening, August 25, a mass meeting of citizens will be held in the High school auditorium at 7:30 o'clock, for the purpose of discussing plans for the Plymouth Day celebration, Thursday, September 11th. Every man and woman in Plymouth is invited to be present. This is everybody's celebration, and everybody should be interested in it and have a part in making it the success that it should be. Only by your interest and co-operation can the committees hope to make the day a great success. Remember, every citizen, the ladies as well as the men, are on the committee, so don't stay away from the meeting because you think you are not on a committee. Music will be provided during the evening, and there's going to be a general good time for everybody, so come.

This year's committee consists of the following people: Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Becker, Mr. and Mrs. James Gates, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wisely, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hawk, Mr. and Mrs. Ammon Warner, Miss Bertha Warner and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Baum of Flint, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Scott.

A WONDERFUL MACHINE

LOCAL FOUNDRY TO MAKE
CASTINGS BY NEW PERMA-NENT MOLD PROCESS.

Since the beginning of the foundry business foundrymen the world over have sought to produce molds which could be used over and over again instead of the ordinary sand mold which could be used for one casting only. Many methods, devices and formulas for permanent molds have been invented and patented, but until very recently no one has been able to produce a permanent mold that could be used commercially and stand up under the rapid production methods in use in the industry today.

The Hubert Myers Company has maintained an experimental department for the development of permanent mold process. A number of patents have been allowed. Their patents and process have been proven a commercial success. The experimental plant was backed by men who were interested in large businesses of their own and the developments of their patents and discoveries was never carried to a point where it could be offered to the public until arrangements were made with the H. S. Lee Foundry & Machine Co., giving them exclusive right to manufacture the permanent mold machine under their patents.

The mold is made of metal, and is mounted on a machine which automatically fills the mold with molten metal, and after allowing the casting to cool for a few seconds, opens the mold, dropping a perfect casting, after which the mold is automatically closed and ready to repeat its work.

The practical application of this new method will unquestionably revolutionize the foundry industry as it increases production more than 100 per cent over the old sand method, eliminating the human element in the making of molds, thereby reducing the percentage of imperfect castings to almost nothing.

It is not hard to forecast just what this will mean to the Lee Foundry or to Plymouth, as the demand for a machine of this kind is beyond comprehension. Thousands of these machines could be used by foundries now in operation. Manufacturers buying castings from foundries can, with this machine, have their own foundry, as the small floor space occupied by this machine, the low cost of installation and the elimination of the necessity of skilled mechanics makes it possible for them to make their own castings.

The machine built by the Hubert Myers Company at Toledo, and which was used to make transmission bands for Ford cars, is now being rebuilt, and will soon be in operation in the H. S. Lee Foundry Machine Company's plant. It is estimated that the cost of the machine and the experimental work necessary to produce it is in excess of $100,000.00.

This machine is capable of producing 25 to 30 castings per minute, and will be in operation at the Lee Foundry plant within a very short time. As the process is so new and novel, it will be very interesting to see the machine in operation. The management of the foundry states that visitors are always welcome at their plant, and that they will be more than pleased to show them this new process.

NORTHVILLE IS COMING SEPTEMBER 11TH

We take the following from the Northville Record:

"Northville is planning to take part in the celebration and homecoming to be held in Plymouth on September 11, as an appreciation for the manner in which Plymouth people have rallied here on Plymouth day at the fair. Just mark the date on your calendar, and do not let anything keep you from doing your part to make the celebration a great success. This is a service you owe your community."

This is a fine spirit of neighborliness, and Plymouth will be more than pleased to welcome the citizens from our neighboring village on Plymouth Day, Thursday, September 11th.

THE "JAY-WALKER"

In New York city alone in 1923, 123 persons were killed by autos as they were crossing streets in the middle of a block. The man or woman who cuts across the street before getting to a regular crossing is known as a "jay-walker," and every city and town in this country possesses a goodly number of such people. So it is evident that there are careless pedestrians, just as there are reckless auto drivers, and that all accidents cannot be blamed upon the latter. Common sense convinces us that both drivers and pedestrians are not careful enough. Recent figures show that there are as many accidents as ever, but this means a reduction when we consider that there are now more cars. And yet the number can be cut to a still lower margin if "jay walking" is abolished and people take to crossing streets at the places set aside for that purpose.

AN IDEAL LAW

Kentucky has recently passed an ideal law. It reads like this: "Any person who shall wilfully, knowingly or maliciously repeat or communicate to any person or persons a false rumor or report of a slanderous or harmful nature, or which may be detrimental to the character or standing of such other person or persons, whether such person is a private citizen, an officer, or a candidate for office, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not less than $10 nor more than $1000, or imprisoned not less than 10 days nor more than 60 days, or both so fined and imprisoned for each offense."

It's nothing more or less than a fine against gossiping—and it's a fine law. We are as free of gossip as in Plymouth as any other town of its size, and yet there are times when such a law is needed in this community. The Kentucky law goes on to state that when arrested the gossip will be forced to prove on the witness stand that the rumor he or she circulated was absolutely true, and that there were reasonable grounds for circulating same. Since all of us know that not once in a million times can a gossip prove the rumor he circulates, it is easy to see how strong the law really is and how great could be the number of convictions under it.

Today there is no redress against gossip. Business and character and good name can be swept away with a single false report, and no satisfaction can be had by the injured party. But with a law like this on the statute books of every state there is no reason why gossiping could not be pretty generally stamped out all over the country.

COLD WEATHER CORN

Corn plays a big part in the life of the average Plymouth family, regardless of whether they raise it or not. So when we read a news item to the effect that a "cold weather corn" has been discovered in South America and is to be tried out in this country we are naturally much interested. Farmers in the United States have lost millions of dollars annually through corn crops being caught by early frosts, and their loss affects every one of us indirectly. It is claimed for the new variety of corn that it will thrive as high as 18,000 feet above sea-level, where it is never very warm, and that it will withstand pretty generous amount of frost. The ears are not as large as that of corn grown in the United States, but if our farmers can get something to beat the early frosts they'll soon take care of the size of the ears. Cross-breeding would eventually enlarge the size of the ears and the grains, and once the fear of frost is removed there is no reason why the cost of living should not be materially reduced.

FIRST LINK IN OUTER BELT

ROUTE WILL TAKE 2 YEARS

WORK OF SURVEYING PROPOSED CONTINUATION OF TELEGRAPH ROAD TO PONTIAC STARTS THIS WEEK.

Steps have been taken to continue Telegraph road through Oakland County and pave it as far as Pontiac, the work to be completed within two years. The state has authorized a survey of the route and this will be started this coming week, according to L. V. Belknap, Oakland County highway engineer.

Obtaining the necessary right of way will be started immediately. Eventually the road will be run around Pontiac to Flint, according to Luther D. Allen, chairman of the Oakland County board of supervisors. This will give an outer belt route around Detroit to the middle of the state.

Grading operations and the installation of the necessary bridges are now being carried on along the Six-Mile road from the city limits to Redford. This highway will be paved next year, according to the county road commission, and will provide a route from Redford to the Grand River district to the northern part of the city and the Ford Highland Park plant.

A total of 11.35 miles of 20-foot concrete highway, 30 feet over all, has been completed on the Plymouth road between Division road and the village of Plymouth. Division road connects directly with Grand River avenue and as the Plymouth road runs somewhat parallel with the latter, a great share of the Grand River traffic will be diverted over this thoroughfare, insuring an outlet for any possible congestion.

The county road commission is concentrating on roads in the vicinity of Detroit to provide additional inlets and outlets. Among the projects where grading operations are now in progress and which will affect the transportation facilities of the Grand River district are Middle Belt road, Division road and Allen road.

The completion of paving and widening operations on Grand River avenue, and the paving, grading and widening of parallel and intersecting roads, is materially relieving traffic congestion along this highway and will eventually make it one of the most desirable paths for motorists in Wayne County according to the Grand River Improvement Association.

Grand River avenue, the widening of which as far as Redford has been completed, has a width of 70 feet between curbs on a 106-foot right of way at this point. Widening and paving work on this road the other side of Redford will provide a 204 foot highway as far as the Oakland County line.—The Detroit News.

We quote the following from the Detroit News: Berlin, Aug. 14.—Welfare workers who have visited the United States within the last few months, chiefly for investigating the question of prohibition, returned recently and have announced that a movement, sponsored principally by women, would soon be launched here to make Germany dry as quickly as possible.

"Meetings with this end in view have been held in Berlin, Leipzig, and it is said even in Munich, the seat of famous brewers. Most of these meetings, it is announced, have been private, the purpose being to assess the situation of the women whose influence it to be used in halting the movement."

Cluck! Cluck!

A tourist was driving her motor car along a narrow road in Maine, when she noticed a farmer with a yoke of oxen attached to a wagon approaching.

Thinking that the team might turn off at a side road which she was near she stopped the car where the farmer was wisest and waited. Three or four hens gathered around and one sat down in front of the machine.

When the farmer drew near he aimed a toothless grin at the fair driver and a handful of dirt at the hen, saying:

"I'll roost her out for ye. These danged hens be always gettin' in the way."

Gold in Australasia

A rich gold reef was recently discovered near Ardlethan, New South Wales, samples from which assayed 15 ounces gold to the ton. Another vein was found near the old Botangera mines on property previously worked. The width of the new vein is about two feet, and an assay taken from it showed free gold ranges from 1 ounce 13 pennyweight to 2 ounces 7 pennyweight per ton.

Huge New X-Ray

To reduce the cost of treatment and increase its effectiveness, an X-ray tube has been invented which is said to radiate five or six times as many curative rays as ordinary tubes. Thus the time of exposure is cut down. Another process is being perfected to extend the use of the X-rays to in terminal cancer.

NOT WITHIN THE FIRE LIMITS

Carl Shear, president of the Chamber of Commerce, has received the following anonymous communication:

NO WOOD IN THIS TOWN
 "No wooden buildings
 Within the fire zone please
 The city duds have said it
 And soon 'twas said, 'twas done.
 If you don't believe it
 Or think it is a lark
 Ask the little wooden building
 Seated in the park.
 "No wooden shingles
 Upon a wooden roof.
 The city duds will get you
 And when they get you 'woof."
 No need to backfire,
 Or even try your spark,
 Ask the little wooden building
 Seated in the park."

The building above referred to, the Chamber of Commerce information booth, is not within the fire limits.

UNIFORM TRAFFIC REGULATIONS.

Establishment of uniform traffic regulation in Wayne and all of the neighboring counties is one of the projects Sheriff George A. Walters, candidate for re-election, has listed among the objectives of the recently organized southeastern Michigan Sheriff's association, of which Walters is the head.

"The primary purpose of the Sheriff's association, according to Walters, is co-operation in the work of crime prevention, the problem of regulating automobile traffic has become so intricate that it must be dealt with in a large area and not in a limited district.

"There should be a careful enforcement of requirements for drivers' licenses and a uniformity of examination in the various counties," Walters said, "so that a person rejected for a license in one place cannot obtain one elsewhere and become a menace on the road.

"The City of Detroit has been more severe than the outlying districts in the enforcement of the law relative to revocation of drivers' licenses. Officials in neighboring counties can co-operate effectively with officials of Detroit and Wayne County by reporting cases of Detroit or Wayne County men convicted in other districts of violating traffic laws. Then the record of a given driver will be complete and his convictions for reckless driving will be on record even though he may never have been convicted in the city itself."—Advertisement.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

Only two more Sundays before the fall activities. Let's all get in line ready for the "race that is set before us."

The choir had another of their good times last Thursday at Phoenix Park.

Now is a good time for church members to decide upon their religious periodicals. The Presbyterian Magazine is the official organ of our denomination. The pastor can give you the names of several other papers that will be found helpful in the home. Young people should take the Christian Endeavor World.

BAPTIST NOTES

The pulpit was filled last Sunday by Rev. Osborn of Ann Arbor, president of the Life League of America. The sermon in the evening to the young people was splendid.

The Sunday-school expects to give an entertainment next Friday evening, August 29th, at the Wixom Baptist church.

The pastor was away at Pontiac, last Sunday, to speak for the pastor of the First Baptist church who was away on his vacation. He expects to be in his place in Plymouth next Sunday.

The Aid Society enjoyed the meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Campbell, three miles south of town. About twenty-five sat down to supper, and enjoyed the splendid fellowship.

BATHROOMS
YIELD TWOFOLD BENEFITS
Two important advantages result when a modern bathroom is installed in a home.
First: The bathroom provides opportunity for the healthful practice of daily bathing. "A bath-a-day keeps you fit every way."
Second: A modern bathroom increases the property value, far more than the cost of having it installed. Houses that have modern bathrooms rent and sell for more.
A complete modern bathroom with its built-in or attached shower, medicine cabinet, bath stool and small fixtures (toilet rocks, tumbler holders), is a convenience worth many times its cost. In truth, it pays to be the room, of all, most comfortable.
Ask us to show you plans for complete modern bathing facilities in your home. Let the whole household enjoy the healthful practice of daily bathing. Modern fixtures—a complete bathroom—can be purchased for less than the cheapest automobile.

BIG FIREWORKS DISPLAY AT WASHTENAW COUNTY FAIR

Domes of blazing streamers, showers of fire and splashes of color against a dark sky—nearly two hours of continuous spectacular fireworks will feature the evening entertainment programs announced by officials of the Washtenaw County Fair, Ann Arbor, Mich.

Contracts have been closed with the Thearle-Duffield Fireworks Co. of Chicago for what promises to be the most elaborate and entertaining fireworks program ever staged in this part of the State. All the successes at the big State Fairs of the last season, hundreds of new ideas in American pyrotechnics, will be combined in this program to be given here.

Dazzling gyrators, thunderous batteries, glittering stars, trails of liquid fire will paint the sky with literally tons of fireworks of every conceivable description. Novel features never before attempted will be included in the nightly displays. People, animals, cities will be reproduced in fireworks. The eruption of Mt. Vesuvius, a pioneer settlement with an attack by Indians, and other historical scenic subjects will be depicted in living fire. More than sixty separate numbers of this type are embraced in the schedule here.

Experts from the studios and magazines of the Thearle-Duffield Fireworks Co. will arrive in advance of August 26, the date here, to superintend the wiring and the electrical devices which will be installed for firing the displays. They will remain throughout the fair and will have personal charge each evening.

Today's Reflections

You see a lot of fathers going around Plymouth these days with untrimmed hair, because they have to pay for haircuts for all the other members of the family first.

We see where a man wrote 3000 words on a postcard. Wonder what he could do on an acre of land if he had a chance?

It's easy enough to love your neighbor as you love yourself, provided they mind their own business.

At the age of six a Plymouth boy thinks his father the smartest man on earth; at 16 he imagines he has forgotten more than the "old man" ever knew.

You have also probably noticed that the calamity howler seldom has any blisters on his hands.

No Plymouth woman ever really settles down to matrimony until she gets to the point where she always imagines she smells something burning.

If you want to know whether a man has been at work, look at his palms. And if you want to know if a girl has been at work, look at the third finger on her left hand.

Yes, women are more efficient than men. What man could get that much foot in a shoe that small?

They say women in olden days did all their cooking in one kettle. We know some Plymouth women who do most of theirs with one can-opener.

Here is a recipe for being popular—quit telling the truth about your neighbors.

Some day the world will become sane, and then there'll be a medal for the father who can keep seven children in shoes.

Our advice to Plymouth citizens is to look not upon the new car as it shineth. Cheap paint is a mocker and bum leather causes rage. Later it sheddeth like a serpent and peelth like an adder.

The man who shines on the seat of his pants seldom shines in society.

An eastern editor says we can cut auto accidents by having an eye-test for drivers. Why not a breath test, too?

When a Plymouth man says, "I'm going to be frank with you," we know we're going to hear something disagreeable.

Another "death ray" is the one that comes from the right-hand auto lamp when the left one isn't shining.

THE THEATRE

"UNGUARDED WOMEN"

"Unguarded Women" is the title of the picture scheduled for showing at the Penman Allen theatre next Saturday, August 23rd. It features Bebe Daniels, Richard Dix and Mary Astor, with Walter McGrail, Frank Losee, Helen Lindroth, Harry Mestayer, Donald Hall, Joe King and others playing in support. The story was adapted by James Creelman from the Saturday Evening Post serial, "Face," by Lucy Stone Ferrill. It tells of a young man who gives up the girl he loves to marry another for whose social position he feels himself directly responsible.

The story is only too well known to the readers of the Post. It literally overran with picture possibilities, and Paramount took advantage of each and every one of them in making the screen version of the tale. The scenes are laid for the most part in Pekin, China—colorful Pekin in the land of romance and adventure. Then, too, there are scenes on Long Island, scenes of the ultra-fashionable smart set, with its beautiful homes, gorgeous gowns, etc. Alan Crosland, who made "Enemies of Women," "Under the Red Robe," "Three Weeks" and other pictures equally successful, produced "Unguarded Women." It is his first Paramount picture, and a fine example of what is to be expected from the same source in the near future.

If there ever was a picture that holds an audience's interest from title to final fadeout, "Unguarded Women" is it. It has everything a screen success should have—and then some! If you had to walk five miles to get to the Penman Allen you wouldn't regret it after seeing this one! Sure-fire? You bet!

"SINGLE WIVES"

What of the woman whose husband has decided that he need no longer court her?

This is the intriguing theme of the First National production, "Single Wives," which comes to the Penman Allen theatre, Sunday, August 24th, in which Corinne Griffith and Milton Sills are co-featured for the first time on the screen.

Earl Hudson, the author, had delved into the innermost recesses of the human heart and taken from it a story of its aches and desires; he has made a subtle etching of a modern matrimonial tangle; he has painted a portrait of wedded folk that is said to be of wide appeal and true to latter-day life.

In the story of "Single Wives," the author has shown how a normal couple, loving each other and living a quiet life, may, through the agency of trifling incidents, drift apart—perhaps to the danger point.

Betty Jordan—played by Corinne Griffith—yearns for the little, thoughtful acts that her husband, Perry, seems to overlook. When he presents her with a pearl necklace on their wedding anniversary he unwittingly hurts her to the quick by his lack of enthusiasm or romanticism. When another man appears on the horizon and he gives her more attention than she receives from her husband she finds herself drifting away from her fireside. Her own mother, at the same time, faces the same situation—two triangles are finally solved makes the unfolding of "Single Wives," an absorbing story.

In addition to Corinne Griffith and Milton Sills, the cast boasts of very prominent screen names, including Kathryn Williams, Lou Tellegen, Henry B. Walthall, Phyllis Lever, Phillips Smalley, Jerry Austin, John Patrick and others. George Archambaud directed the picture from a scenario by Marion Orth.

"ICEBOUND"

"Icebound," which will be seen at the Penman Allen Theatre, Wednesday, August 27th, is a story of a pretty girl who inherits a wild young fellow in a will, making a real man out of him because she loves him. It's a William de Mille Paramount production, an adaptation of the Pulitzer prize play by Owen Davis. Richard Dix plays Ben Jordan a shiftless lad on a New England farm. Lois Wilson is the girl.

When old Mrs. Jordan dies, leaving her goodly fortune to her son, the ward played by Mks Wilson, her last request is that the girl take Ben in hand and make a man out of him. There's a flapper cousin (Vera Reynolds) who does her best to win Ben over. She even succeeds for a time until Jane, heart-broken, is about to leave and Ben is brought to his senses.

"Icebound" is a human story of everyday people, a typical de Mille production that will stand alone for a long time to come before its equal in heart-interest and appeal is seen on the screen.

The stage play was ideal screen material, and, as adapted by Clara Beranger, is nothing short of a knock-out.

It's great picture no matter how you look at it—acting, direction, photography, all approach a near perfection as it is possible to attain. Edna May Oliver, Ethel Wales and Alice Chapin are prominent in the strong supporting cast.

FARMERS WILL INCREASE WHEAT ACREAGE NEXT YEAR.

Michigan farmers intend to increase their acreage of wheat for next year by at least 80,000 acres, or nine per cent, according to a survey made August 1, the results of which were made public Saturday, August 16th, by L. Whitney Watkins, Commissioner of Agriculture and Verne H. Church, Agricultural Statistician. The increase for the country as a whole is seven and one-half per cent, all of the important wheat states except Pennsylvania, Illinois and Washington, reporting a greater intended acreage than was sown last fall. A good yield, better prospective future demand, higher price, and a more plentiful supply of labor are the contributing factors toward the increased interest in wheat growing. While this is a marked change, a smaller area was sown last year, and the intentions for 42,919,000 acres this year will bring the acreage up to the average of recent years, but still three million acres under that of two years ago.

The average devoted to rye has greatly declined in the last two years, but apparently the farmers of the country are renewing interest in the crop as the survey shows an intention to increase the acreage over last year by 14.1 per cent, bringing the total up to 4,992,000 as compared with 4,377,000 one year ago, and 5,157,000 two years ago. However, Michigan farmers have indicated a tendency to still further decrease their acreage of rye to be sown this year, the survey showing a cut of eight per cent as compared with last year.

The actual amount seeded to wheat and rye may not agree with these expressed intentions, but this information is intended to inform farmers as to what the growers in other sections expect to plant. By having a knowledge of the situation at this early date, each can adjust his acreage as he feels the situation warrants, and thereby aid in maintaining a normal production and preventing an over-supply.

Crater Brings to Mind Ancient Idea of Hell

The news that Halemauau, the hottest crater of the Kilauea volcano in Hawaii, is active again and has thrown up black dust clouds to a height of 7,000 feet, reminds me of my visit to the Pit of Everlasting Fire. That is what the name Halemauau means, and it corresponds to its description, writes G. L. D. Jones. The Japanese liner in which I was making a ten-weeks' voyage from Hongkong to Valparaiso (incidentally, I believe, the longest passenger voyage in the world) not only called at Honolulu, but at Hilo, and from Hilo—a port in the making—I went with the few other white passengers on board by motor car to Kilauea and Halemauau.

Our chauffeur was a Japanese of a Japanese-Hawaiian mixture. In his capacity for driving I had little confidence at the start, and out of his hands we were all very glad to get at the finish, more especially as the motor car itself had seen better days. It had been warm when I left Hilo (in whites and a sun-helmet). When the car stopped I was shivering with cold—on the tropic line, with an active volcano at my feet. There was a great host of volcano visitors who wished to stop the night. All around was a black degeneration of waste ground, striated by solidified tracks of lava from former eruptions. We picked our way down along a well-trodden path and suddenly we saw Halemauau.

We were at the end of the world, and below us, was a vivid representation of the ancient idea of Hell. The pit was glowing with fire, red-hot fire. It was cut up into sections of fire. Picture to yourself pools of red-hot fire, now suddenly agitated into fountains; rivers of red-hot fire, now overflowing their banks. Ten, twenty, thirty pools and fountains and rivers all blazing at once, all working at red-hot pressure, some suddenly becoming even more excessively angry than before. That is Halemauau.

The City of David

Prof. R. A. S. Macalister, describing recently the work carried on on the eastern hills to the south of Jerusalem, said that there was undoubted evidence of the occupation of the site by men of prehistoric time. They had, however, discovered the bottom portions of the walls of the city that David had taken from the Jebusites. Although it was not wise to theorize before the work was completed, they had found indications that pointed to a spot in the northern wall being that which David breached when he took the city, subsequently screened with a wall that he built to cover the damage, and finally properly repaired by Solomon.

A strong bastion, with walls over twelve feet thick, indicated that it might be the tower from which the Jebusites mocked David, saying that only blind men and cripples would be necessary to hold the walls against him. The excavations also had brought to light other things which illustrated or amplified Biblical references to David. The work was as yet far from complete, only about an acre of ground having been taken, but sufficient had been done to show very attractive possibilities in its completion.

As She Understood It

After the usual Saturday romp the children gathered in the drawing room for some music.

As bedtime drew near the mother said: "Now, children, choose a hymn to finish up with and then you must all say good night."

"Let's have 'Ere Again Our Sabbath Close,'" said a little girl of seven.

"Well, I think that would be more suitable for tomorrow night," replied the mother.

"Oh, but you always air our Sabbath clothes on Saturdays," said the child.

Research Work Needed

It is not safe to say that any intelligent research work is useless. With so overwhelming a proportion of the inhabitants of the earth giving their eager attention to the accumulation of wealth which perishes, we can well afford to provide the opportunity for the exceptional man here and there, to investigate any subject to which his enthusiasm directs his attention. If he succeeds in discovering truth, the investment will be of imperishable benefit to the human race.—William Wallace Campbell, President of the University of California.

Why Don't They!

She is a business woman of Indianapolis and in the spinster class, too. And she resents the pitying way people have of saying "old maid" when they speak of some one in her class.

The other evening the man before her was introduced as "the town's most popular bachelor."

Then she arose, "I'm not married either," she said, "but when you speak of me as an old maid I want you to give it the same apity twist as you do 'bachelor' when you speak of that unmarried man."

Others Had Wondered

Little Margie was unusually silent, her mind deep in the realms of fancy. Finally she turned to her mother, who was seated on the sofa with a rather sad expression on her face, and asked: "Say, mother, how did you come to marry papa?" Margie's mother looked at her daughter with a wistful smile and replied: "My dear child, is that beginning to astonish you, too?"

ARE NOT AGREED ON ORIGIN OF HOOSIER

Some Opinions Put Forward Not Complimentary.

What the term "Hoosier" means, and the origin of it, is a question that persists through the years. More than ninety years ago it was discussed in the newspapers, and though the reasonable and probable answer was then indicated, which the Indiana Democrat of October 28, 1833, copied from the Cincinnati Republican, an improbable explanation that chanced to get a footing, nearly always given in answer. It is that the nickname rose from what was said to be the habit of Indiana pioneers of hailing a cabin with the call "Who's yere?" No authentic pioneer chronicles tell of any such expression.

A common hall was: "Hello the house!" in Indiana and elsewhere. More worthy of credence is the notion of James Whitcomb Riley, who maintained that Hoosier evolved from the characteristic scrappiness of the pioneers who in settling their differences bit off each other's features. When, after one of these pleasant, a heated citizen arrived on the scene and saw a detached ear lying on the ground he naturally asked: "Who's ear?" Other stories than these derived the word from huzzar, huzza and husher. None of them merits serious consideration. Another story not quite so unlikely is that when the canal was being dug a contractor by the name of Hoosier employed workmen from the Indiana side of the river. These became known as Hoosier's men, and as there were a great many of them, the use of the name spread until it became associated with Indianians generally.

The discussion of 1833, referred to above as quoted from the Cincinnati Republican, had this to say: "The word Hoosier is indebted for its existence to that once numerous but now extinct class of mortals called the Ohio boatmen. In its original acceptance it was equivalent to 'Rip-staver,' 'Scrouger,' 'Screamer,' 'Bulger,' 'Ringtail roarer,' and a hundred others. By some caprice the appellation became confined solely to such boatmen as had their homes upon the Indiana shore, and from them it was gradually applied to all the Indianians."

The writer of this perhaps did not know that the word was not confined to the boatmen on the river, but extended southward and was probably common then, as it certainly was later in the more primitive sections, especially in the mountain districts. Today one may find the word Hoosier there as an expression of contempt for an uncouth and unkempt person. That it made its way northward along with the tide of immigration from the South hardly admits of a doubt, and that it attached to the typical early Indianian is an uncomplimentary probability. As the cultural status of the people changed the word gradually lost its earlier implications but retained its place. The first appearance of the word in print, as far as known, is in the Indiana Palladium for July 30, 1831, which, describing Noah Noble as a horse in the political race, says: "He may be called a 'Hoosier.'"—Indianapolis News.

His Reason

"I'm fidgeting on moving away," said Lufe Lazyberry of Boogie Hollar. "I aim to load the folks into the waggin, pour a gourdful of water on the fire, call the dogs and light out for Oklahomy."

"What do you want to go to Oklahomy for special?" asked an acquaintance.

"Well, I'll just tell you: I've used up all the credit I had yurabouts and borried till I can't borry nuth'n more, and over there I don't know nobody and nobody don't know me, so I aim to start all over ag'in."—Kansas City Star.

Knew the Owner

There was nothing the professor disliked so much as to see the ignorant public get false information—especially on the subject of ornithology. So when he observed that an incorrect scientific name had been attached to a cage of birds at the park zoo, he summoned the attendant.

"Don't you know that these birds do not belong to the family Paradiidae?" he asked.

"Sure, I do," replied the attendant.

"The zoo bought 'em last week."

Baby Elephant as Pet

Wanting to give a more substantial wedding present than furniture or cut glass, Bernard Rube of Newark, N. J., gave his daughter, Elsie, when she was married to Carl Strohm, a baby elephant. He told his daughter, as she sailed for a honeymoon trip to Europe, that the animal, besides being a pet, is a good investment, for it could always be sold for more than its cost; and as the elephant lives for several hundred years it will be in the family for some generations.

Earthquake Cooled Water

Water in the bay of Tokyo is colder this year than last, according to observers of the Marine Products Institute, the earthquake of last September being blamed for a marked drop in temperature. The lower temperature of water along the coasts near Tokyo is expected to handicap such industries as fishing for shellfish and gathering seaweeds, in which the workers are obliged to spend hours standing in water.

Grim Relics of Fight of Long Centuries Ago

Many legends have been the revelations of archeology concerning "Unhappy, far-off things and battles long ago." But British explorations at Jerabius—the Carchemish of Jeremiah's prophecy—told a tragic tale with unusual clearness. Some fine limestone blocks projecting from a cutting of the Bagdad railway first aroused scientific curiosity, and excavation quickly showed that they formed the rear wall of a fine, spacious villa.

At no great depth under the surface the men encountered a thick stratum of burned ashes. There was no trace of later construction, and the site, which was the most commanding in the outer town, would hardly have been left unoccupied while Carchemish was a city; so the excavators assumed that the fire that destroyed the house was that which swept the whole place about 800 B. C. Very soon the assumption received startling confirmation, says the Youth's Companion.

Outside the walls they found a few bronze arrow heads, on the porch there were a number of them, and on the floor of the rooms under the ashes arrow heads of bronze and iron turned up in hundreds, and with them lance points and broken sword blades and men's bones and all the signs of a fierce struggle. Always the weapons lay thickest in front of room doors, and there the arrow heads were often bent or broken, as if from striking against the bronze casing of the door timbers. It needed but little imagination to follow the fight as the defenders were driven back from room to room until they were overwhelmed at the last.

Ancient and Modern Culture

To compare ancient Egypt, or the Valley of the Kings, and all they have bequeathed to us, brought to light from time to time by excavation, with material discoveries such as steam, electricity and the like, through other scientific channels would be ridiculous. But archeological discoveries as the harnessing of those powers to our uses are the only real advantage other than the science of medicine, that modern civilization may claim over that of the ancients. Again, though we cannot become intimate with those ancient people in the living, by archeological research work we can become intimate with their dead and the material they have bequeathed us. As a result of such research, we find that culture in the way of intellectual development and the arts in general were in those most ancient times in many ways higher than they are today. In fact, modern progress in the mechanical sciences and industrialism generally are largely responsible for the complete eclipse of spontaneous and unconscious artistic production. If there by we get such ultimate results as cubism and futurism, then archeological research will show that the arts are best without our mechanical and industrial progress.—Howard Carter in Current History Magazine.

Tree Planting

A request from the American Tree Planting association for the name of the "champion tree planter" in each state is a reminder of the great growth of the arboricultural movement in the United States since J. Sterling Morton first proposed an Arbor day. The American Tree association says that it has enrolled 70,000 registered tree planters, but this is far from counting our tree planting strength. The effort to establish avenues of shade along the principal highways is participated in by many individuals and by hundreds of local organizations. The association meanwhile furthers an excellent undertaking by publishing instructions on tree planting that the veriest novice can understand.—Portland Oregonian.

Fiddling Work!

A certain young New Zealander, six or seven years old, is very inquisitive. One day he was asking how things came to be here: "Mother, who made me?" The mother replied, "God." "Who made the horses and cows?" "God." "And who made the elephants?" "Why, God, of course!" A long pause, then: "Well, did God make flies?" "Why, yes, my son!" "Humph!" said the boy. "Fiddling work, flies!"—Everybody's Magazine.

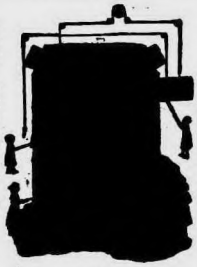

Strange Tree Fatality

Ored Mallinax, twenty-one years old, rancher, was killed recently at Libby, Mont., by an unusual accident. He felled a tree, which struck a second tree, which fell and hit a third. The third took down a fourth, which fell on the man, killing him. The trees stood in a circle.

U.S. Royal Cords

BALLOON ~ BALLOON-TYPE ~ HIGH PRESSURE
Built of Latex-treated Cords

TIRE building took a big step forward when the makers of United States Tires invented the Latex Process.

The added strength and wearing quality given by Latex-treated cords is something that the user of Royal Cords can tell you about from his own experience.

Royal Cords are the standard of value in cord tire equipment—even more certainly today than ever before.

And this holds good whether you are considering a High-Pressure Balloon-Type Tire to fit your present wheels and rims, or a Balloon Tire for a 20 or 21 inch wheel.
