RENEWAL OF RED CROSS MEMBERSHIPS

The Week of Oct. 27 to Nov. 1 Inclusive, Has Been Designated as the Time for the Annual Renewal of Memberships.

The hearty support with which Plymouth and vicinity have met the urgent call of the cause of the American Red Cross, since the war as well as during the awful conflict, is assurance enough to the local officers that the Roll Call of 1924 will be no exception to the rule.

During the week of Oct. 27th to Nov. 1st inclusive, booths will be stationed in the Plymouth United Savings Bank and at the Beyer Pharmacy, where for one dollar each old members may have their memberships renewed, and new members may join the Plymouth Branch of the Detroit Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Many new, active workers have signified their desire and willingness to assist in maintaining the booths, or to do anything else to help advance the cause. Any others who may wish to do so are invited to phone the general chairman, Mrs. C. H. Bennett, whose efficiency in past years has warranted the county authorities in asking her to again assume the leadership in the Plymouth campaign.

Plymouth and vicinity looks forward to Red Cross Roll Call week as an established annual event, and this no doubt accounts for the fact that the people go willingly and voluntarily to the booths instead of waiting to be approached and asked to join or renew their memberships.

The Boy Scouts, through the distribution of the campaign posters and literature, will do their part, and the various churches through publicity from the pulpits will lend their support to this worthy cause.

Officials of the local branch strongly urge all who join or renew their memberships in the Red Cross, to display the Red Cross emblem.

STATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONVENTION

MICHIGAN SUNDAY-SCHOOL COUNCIL OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION, LANSING, MICHIGAN, ANNOUNCE FOUR CONVENTIONS.

The 64th Annual State Convention of the Sunday-schools of Michigan is due this year to be divided into four conventions and all four will be held within the last two weeks of October. The first one at Traverse City, October 20, 21, 22; the second at Saginaw, October 22, 23, 24; the third one at Kalamazoo, October 27, 28, 29; and the fourth at Ann Arbor, October 29, 30, 31.

It was because of the large number of people desiring to attend the convention, and because only a few cities of the state could accommodate the gathering, that the Executive Committee of the Michigan Sunday-school Council, under whose auspices the conventions are held, arranged the present series.

The State Council of Religious Education is an inter-denominational organization representing officially seventeen of the Protestant Evangelical denominations of the state. The conventions, therefore, are authorized by these bodies and will be attended by delegates from most of the churches of Michigan.

The following talent has been secured: M. A. Honline, Pasadena, Calif., lecturer on Religious Pedagogy. W. O. Thompson, president, international Council of Religious Education, late president Ohio State University, Columbus.

John L. Alexander, American Youth Foundation, Chicago, Vocations and Avocations of Youth. A. M. Locker, field superintendent International Council of Religious Education, Chicago. Miss Cynthia Pearl Maus, Christian Board, St. Louis, specialist with Adolescents. Miss Florence Norton, Presbyterian Board, Philadelphia, National Director of Children's Work. Herman U. Leedy, Youngstown, Ohio, director in Music and Pageantry.

At the present time the county auxiliary units are laying plans for an intensive publicity campaign to reach every Sunday-school in their bounds.

DEATH OF A WELL KNOWN CITIZEN

ELI NOWLAND FOR MANY YEARS A RESIDENT OF PLYMOUTH, PASSED AWAY AT HIS HOME HERE LAST SATURDAY NIGHT.

In the death of Eli Nowland, which occurred at his home on South Harvey street early last Saturday evening, October 11, 1924, Plymouth loses one of her best known and highly respected citizens. Mr. Nowland had a severe attack of pneumonia last winter, while visiting in Detroit, and since that time he had suffered with heart trouble, which caused his death.

Mr. Nowland enjoyed a large acquaintance through his 29 years of service to the public, while in the employ of Harry C. Robinson. During all these years, Mr. Nowland drove the bus, which not only carried passengers, but also carried the mail between the postoffice and the depot, and for many years the express. Eli, as he was familiarly known to everyone, was faithful to every trust imposed upon him by his exacting duties, courteous and obliging to everyone, he had a large circle of friends who keenly regret his passing.

The funeral services were held from Schrader Bros. Funeral Home, Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, Rev. D. D. Nagle officiating. Mrs. Maxwell Moon sang two beautiful selections. There was a profusion of beautiful flowers from relatives and friends. The interment took place in Riverside cemetery.

Eli Nowland was born October 18, 1854, at New Boston, Mich., at the Nowland homestead. He remained upon the farm until he was 32 years of age. On September 3, 1878, he was married to Ida Lucretia Tice of Ann Arbor. To this union five children were born, two of whom are living, Mrs. H. H. Newell and Mrs. Don W. Voorhies, both of Detroit. Upon leaving the farm he came to Plymouth in the spring of 1886, and entered the employ of H. C. Robinson, where he remained for 29 years. In 1915 he removed to Detroit, where he lived for seven years, returning to Plymouth two years ago.

Many out of town relatives and friends were here to attend the funeral.

DR. BARKER HERE TODAY

HE WILL DELIVER THREE ADDRESSES UNDER AUSPICES OF THE PLYMOUTH ROTARY CLUB.

The citizens of Plymouth are to hear three addresses today, Friday, October 17th, by Dr. Charles E. Barker of Grand Rapids. Mr. Barker's visit to Plymouth is made possible through the initiative of the Rotary Club.

Dr. Barker is a doctor of hygiene and physical culture, having been granted university degree as such during the four years that Chief Justice Wm. H. Taft was in the White house. Dr. Barker was his health adviser, and under his direction, for an hour each morning, Mr. Taft followed a system of exercises that kept him in splendid physical condition.

Here is a man with a genuinely unselfish message. He realizes the grave responsibility of parents who love their children—but who sometimes wonder how best they can impart those lessons which are so vital and yet so intimate as to be difficult of expression. No parent—father or mother—can hear him without wanting to bless him for making a hard task easy and pleasant. His suggestions are not only practically helpful and informative, but they have helped thousands of loving but puzzled parents to get closer to their boys and girls than ever before. Dr. Barker is intensely human. He is thoroughly in earnest. His motive is to help you and to help you help those you love. Go and hear him!

At the Penniman Allen theatre at 3:00 o'clock p. m. he will address the women. Subject: "A Mother's Relation to Her Daughter."

At 8:00 in the evening at the Penniman Allen theatre, Dr. Barker will speak to the men. Subject: "A Father's Responsibility to His Son."

There is no admission or collection, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance at both meetings at the theatre.

FIRST NUMBER OF ENTERTAINMENT COURSE OCT. 21

ALTON PACKARD, CARTOONIST, WILL OPEN THE COURSE SEASON NEXT TUESDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 21, AT HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM.

When a man comes to Plymouth he brings his face with him, usually, but when Alton Packard arrives next Tuesday, he will bring all of his faces with him. He may wear only one, but before he leaves town, you will see several of them, if you attend the master-cartoonist's entertainment at 8:00 o'clock, at the High school auditorium.

This is the first number of the Senior-Redpath Entertainment Course announced in last week's issue, and in offering the course the Seniors are fortunate in securing so popular and versatile a man as Alton Packard. He has been here before, and many of us have watched him draw his pictures over the biggest sheets of drawing paper we have ever seen, and as we have watched and laughed, we have realized that we were in the presence of a master of his art, and back of the artist, a real man. He returns on this season's course by special request from those who have enjoyed him here before.

He used to go out lecturing with a roll of paper and a chunk of chalk. He made good then. Now he goes around with a quarter of a ton of stage equipment, enormous easels, paper and canvases over eight feet square, electrical illuminating devices for spectacular color effects, stage moonlight, sunset glow, shadowgraphs, comedy effects, ghostly apparitions and what-not. He has evolved a system of light effects equal to that of a modern theatre, that he manipulates himself. He throws the stage into total darkness, sketches in the dark and then throws a spotlight upon his finished sketch and sings some original songs as accompaniment. With his music, comedy, dramatic ability and spectacular lighting effects, a program by Packard and his cartoons is like a well staged musical comedy with a dozen people, a chorus and a dog.

So Packard has evolved from a "one-man-show" to a company. He is the Alton Packard-Ally-Star Musical and Cartoon Comedy Company traveling on one fare. He is cartoonist, humorist, musician, singer, composer, lecturer, actor, preacher and comedian. He is the prelude, interlude, postlude and encore. He isn't any weak members in his company, and no weak numbers on his program, and he can go back to any town any time with a new program and draw a capacity house. The result is that Packard's price and demand have been growing for years, and he is today one of the best-paid single attractions in the world.

The admission for this entertainment, only fifty cents. The season ticket at $2.00 for adults and $1.50 for students are on sale at the Mail office, R. R. Parrott's, Gayde Bros. Dodge Drug Store and Community Pharmacy, as well as in the hands of all seniors.

METHODISTS PLAN FOR DEDICATION

A SPLENDID PROGRAM OF EVENTS IS BEING PLANNED.

One of the outstanding events in the history of the local Methodist church will be on Sunday, November 2nd, when their new Community house, now being completed, will be dedicated by Bishop Thomas Nicholson, who is in charge of Methodist interests in the Detroit Area. Bishop Nicholson is one of the outstanding men in Methodism, and was one of the originators of the new Methodist Peace Temple located in the very heart of the business and amusement center of Chicago. His coming to the Detroit Area betokens much for the religious welfare of the whole state. He is as he styles himself, "an apostle of religious tolerance," and is loved and respected by men of all religious creeds—Protestant, Catholic and Jew. His coming to Plymouth will fittingly inscribe the stamp of his broadminded leadership on the efforts of the local Methodists to serve the whole community. Their new community house will be dedicated as the name implies, not only to the convenience of Methodists, but to the welfare of the whole community.

Another outstanding event of equal importance in connection with the dedication plans, will be the lecture on Friday night of that same week, November 7, by Dr. M. S. Rice, pastor of Metropolitan Methodist church in Detroit, but also a figure of national renown, and a lecturer of wide and popular fame. Dr. Rice never fails to win and delight his audiences with his keen humor and striking illustrations, and driving logic. Plymouth folks are fortunate to be able to hear this great preacher and lecturer.

On Wednesday night of the same week, will be held the dedication banquet. On Monday night the Methodist young folks will keep open house for all the young people of the community. On Tuesday evening there will be a dedication organ recital, followed by reports of the national election.

The New I. O. O. F. Temple

The Mail takes pleasure today in presenting to our readers the above picture from the architect's drawing of the new temple, which is to be erected by the Tonquish Temple Association as a new home for Tonquish Lodge, No. 32, I. O. O. F., of Plymouth.

This splendid building is to be built upon the property already owned by the Association on South Main street, nearly opposite the Ford garage. When completed, this building will be one of the finest in the town and a welcome addition to our business section, a great credit to the village as well as to the lodge.

The new building will have a frontage of 74 feet on South Main street, and will be 107 feet deep. It will be constructed of brick, using fancy pressed brick at the front, with ornamental cut stone facings.

On the first floor there will be two store rooms 20x75 feet and one store room 20x60 feet in size. At the rear of the building there will be a banquet hall, 30x50 feet in size. An entrance and hallway 10 feet in width is provided for on the north side of the building, which leads to the banquet hall at the rear and the lodge rooms on the second floor.

On the second floor there is a lodge room 40x90 feet in size. The ceiling in this room is to be 19 feet high. There is a regalia room 14x16 feet, and an ante room of the same size. A ladies' rest room 14x16 feet has been provided for on this floor. At the head of the stairs there is a lounge, 20x37 feet in size, which will be utilized as a reading and smoking room.

The kitchen is located at the rear of the building in the northeast corner, and dumb waiters connect it with the banquet hall on the first floor. This feature will eliminate any odors of cooking to permeate the banquet hall.

There will be a full basement under the entire building, and all modern equipment as to heating, lighting, plumbing and ventilation will be installed.

Work on the building will be started next week.

The officers and directors of the Tonquish Temple Association are as follows:

President—Fred B. Rhead
Vice President—Russell A. Roe
Secretary—E. A. Cochran
Treasurer—William Michaels
Directors—J. A. Streng, D. A. Jolliffe, J. A. Fleuelling.

100 HOUR ENDURANCE AND ECONOMY RUN

CHEVROLET CAR DRIVEN 2,522 MILES IN 100 HOURS, MAKING AN AVERAGE OF 25.734 MILES ON A GALLON OF GASOLINE.

The 100-hour endurance and economy run, which was made with a Chevrolet touring car by the Allison-Bachelor Motor Sales, in conjunction with thousands of others dealers throughout the entire country, which started last week Tuesday morning at 8:00 o'clock, ended Saturday at 12:00 o'clock, noon.

The car was driven a total of 2,522 miles, or a tenth of the distance around the world.

The average number of miles to a gallon of gasoline for this distance was 25.734.

Five and one-half quarts of lubricating oil were used.

Two quarts of water were placed in the radiator during the run.

The engine was stopped but once during the 100-hour period, when the oil was changed after the car had been run for 56 hours.

No tire or engine trouble was experienced during the 100 hours.

This is a splendid record which speaks for itself as to the economy and stability of the Chevrolet cars.

COOLEY AND FRENDSORF SPOKE HERE SATURDAY

Prof. Mortimer E. Cooley of Ann Arbor, Democratic nominee for U. S. Senator, and Edward Friendsorf of Hudson, nominee for the same party, made short speeches here about noon last Saturday, on the street. Owing to the fact that it was the dinner hour for many, there was not a large crowd out to hear the speakers.

The Friendsorf party, in its tour of the state, are utilizing a "Loud Speaker," a device which makes street speaking easier, and at the same time carries the voice a greater distance. It is a sort of a dictaphone arrangement which the speaker faces and which multiplies the sound, and by means of loud speaker horns, the voice may be turned in several directions at once.

FIREMEN WILL GIVE ANNUAL DANCE

The Plymouth Fire Department are going to give their annual Fireman's Ball here on Saturday evening, October 25th, at the Penniman Allen auditorium. Good music is being arranged for, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance. Tickets will be sold at 75c each. Everybody is invited.

Some Light on the Water Question

The Village of Plymouth is very appreciative of the great interest the Plymouth Mail has always taken in the affairs of the village. It has on all occasions been ready to co-operate in any plan for the good of the town. And now the village is glad of the chance given by the paper for a discussion of our water problem, for it will serve to bring about a clearer understanding of our troubles and their solutions.

A larger and surer water supply is, of course, necessary. The reason our present supply is inadequate is the lowering of the ground water levels in this part of Michigan. No one is responsible for that. It has meant that we cannot depend on the old gravity supply at all and must pump all our water. The lack of certainty in our present supply is mainly due to the fact that we have but one pump at our well, and when anything happens to that we are out of luck—as we were last Sunday. Before this article appears in the paper, a second pump will be ordered. When that is installed, we will have a safe and sure supply for the present. The problem then becomes one of getting enough more water to the pump to supply the increase of population sure to come to Plymouth. No one need fear that the present pipe line will prove too small for some time. To be sure, we are now using more water than can flow down through the mains by gravity, but it is a fact which is not open to argument that four or five times as much water can be pumped through this main as will flow naturally.

Since we already have the land, the water rights, the pumps and the mains at our present source, that place is the logical one to develop to its fullest capacity before we invest in more land or rights, where we will have to spend large amounts of money for pumps and new mains—and probably purifying apparatus.

The village is now doing work at the well along these lines. It is too early to say how much new water we have found, but the outlook is at least encouraging.

SIDNEY D. STRONG, Village Manager.

HOW PLYMOUTH CELEBRATED THE FOURTH IN 1851

PLYMOUTH WILL HAVE UNIFORM DECORATION

BUSINESS PEOPLE HAVE PURCHASED FLAGS FOR THIS PURPOSE.

A new scheme for street decoration has been inaugurated in Plymouth. Forty-two of the business people have purchased flags and staffs, which are to be placed in front of their places of business, whenever occasion for street decoration presents itself. The flags were ordered through the Shenandoah Flag Co., and they were shipped to the Chamber of Commerce, who looked after the distribution and collections. The flags are 4x6 feet in size, and are attached to a 12-foot wood staff 1 1/4-inch base diameter. A short pipe of suitable size to receive the staff has been sunk into the sidewalk in front of each business place. When the business man wishes to decorate, he will set the flagstaff in the pipe, and he is decorated. A metal cap covers the pipe when not in use. A number of towns in this vicinity have adopted this system of uniform decoration, and it certainly makes a very pretty effect.

SENIORS PLAN WASHINGTON TRIP

CLASS OF 1924 OF LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL ARE WORKING FOR FUNDS TO MAKE THIS TRIP POSSIBLE.

In connection with their canvass for season tickets for the Senior-Redpath Entertainment Course, the senior class of the P. H. S. have announced that their purpose is to raise money to take a senior class trip to Washington.

Plans for this trip have been under way for over a year, and one of the first acts of their executive committee last year was to ask permission to work for such a trip.

Before such permission was granted, certain conditions were laid down, and these have been satisfied, to date. However, it was thought best not to give the plan too much publicity unless there was some hope of achieving this purpose. In other words, "Washington or Bust," became the seniors' actual alternative, and the class had no desire that a "bust" should have any undue publicity.

A fair start was made last year, and this fall an additional opportunity offers, in the Senior Redpath Lyceum course. If this is a failure, it will require most of what they have already made, to pay the bills. If the course is a success, it will net enough to put the class a substantial distance on its way to the goal.

In order to give credit where credit is due, each senior has been assigned enough tickets to pay for his share of the cost of the course, and whatever he sells beyond that will be credited to his own share of the Washington trip fund.

The seniors, who have been making a house-to-house canvass this week with the season tickets for the Redpath course, have been working hard to make this a success. They offer four numbers with the Redpath guarantee of high quality, and in order to give even greater value, the best class play they are able to produce.

Patrons of the Plymouth schools, who buy these tickets will not only assure themselves of five evenings of the best entertainment, but in addition may know that they are helping a worthy effort of the High school boys and girls to take one of the most valuable educational trips in the United States today.

CONGRESSMAN MICHENER HERE NEXT FRIDAY

Congressman Earl C. Michener of Adrian, will address the League of Women Voters of Plymouth, at the kindergarten room in the High school building, Friday, October 24th, at 2:30 o'clock. The men and women of Plymouth and vicinity are invited to hear our representative in congress at this time.

Mr. Michener will give a short talk before the Rotary Club at the noonday luncheon next Friday, while he is in the village.

NEWBURG BAZAAR AND HOMECOMING TODAY

The Newburg L. A. S. will hold their annual home-coming and bazaar at their hall, this (Friday) afternoon and evening, October 17th. Their usual good supper will be served, commencing five o'clock and continuing until all are served. Articles will be on sale from the different booths, with fish pond for the kiddies. Come and meet old friends, and enjoy a pleasant evening.

MRS. J. C. PETERHANS PRESENTS VILLAGE WITH A POSTER ADVERTISING A 4TH OF JULY CELEBRATION HELD IN PLYMOUTH IN 1851.

MANY NAMES PROMINENT IN THE EARLY HISTORY OF THE VILLAGE APPEAR UPON THE COMMITTEES FOR THE PROGRAM OF THE DAY.

Mrs. J. C. Peterhans has contributed a valuable relic to the village, in the shape of a full sheet poster, advertising a Fourth of July celebration, which was held in Plymouth, July 4th, 1851. The poster has been kept in a frame, covered with glass, and is therefore in a fine state of preservation. Many of the names appearing on the poster were well known and prominent citizens of Plymouth in those days, but we do not believe that there are any of them living today.

The poster was given to the late J. C. Peterhans many years ago, by John J. Lyon, who was the marshal of the day on this occasion, and has been kept in the family all these years. This interesting memento of bygone days will be hung upon the walls of the village hall, where it may be viewed by all, and will serve as a reminder of the patriotic impulses that prevailed among Plymouth citizens of those early days.

The poster reads as follows: The birthday of the glorious Independence will be celebrated, July 4th, 1851, at Plymouth.

A cordial and general invitation is given to ALL to be present at the National Jubilee.

Hail ye the morning, let thy heart rejoice; Spread forth our banner to a nation's gaze; Wake the artillery, with their thundering noise; Till the loud echo shall the world amaze.

Officers of the Day—Jonathan Shearer, president; Rowell Root, vice-president; John J. P. Lyon, marshal; J. W. Hodgkins, assistant marshal; H. B. Holbrook, ladies' marshal; Wm. B. Grow, chaplain; Wm. Hinsdill, reader of Declaration; A. G. B. Ames, orator.

Order of the Day—Assemble on the public square; under the National Flag at 9 o'clock a. m.; procession form and march to the grove a short distance. Prayer by the chaplain, music; reading of the Declaration, music; oration; music.

Order of Procession—1st, Martial music; 2nd, Revolutionary soldiers; 3rd, State banners; 4th, President; 5th, Chaplain Reader and Orator; 6th, Committee of Arrangements; 7th, Citizens; 8th, National Standard.

When the services are concluded, return in procession to the bower to partake of such fare as may be provided. After which there will be a number of sentiments offered, followed by the sound of fire-arms, cheers, music, &c.

Fathers of liberty, come to the feast; Mothers, lay by all your cares for the day;

Brothers be brothers, for this day is the best; Sisters, come forth as the blossom in May.

The following gentlemen who are chosen as committees, are invited to meet, at the school house in Plymouth village on Saturday, the 21st of June, at 2 o'clock p. m.: E. J. Penniman, Henry Fraick, B. G. Barker, J. M. Mead, S. Hughes, S. Baker, J. D. W. Ward, G. Scott, H. M. Parrin, C. Starkweather, E. W. Starkweather, J. B. Springer, D. A. McFarlan, S. J. Freeman, M. L. Shotts, J. Westfall, J. W. Hodgkins, A. Green, J. Davis, A. Y. Murray, Augustus Andrews, Daniel Myers, F. L. Shattuck, H. B. Holbrook, Wesley McKay, E. R. Anderson, L. Crosby, James Safford, A. Brown, J. M. Bentley, J. Shearer, M. Gates, C. C. Leach, A. A. Shaffer, F. Domstreick, S. Lyndon, B. C. Bunnell, J. E. Wilcox, J. G. Welch, W. A. Patten, Dexter Briggs, I. L. Dinis, F. Brown, Wm. P. Adams, Ezra Pattison.

Plymouth Village, May 1st, 1851. Printed by Wm. Marsha, printer, No. 40 Jefferson Ave., Detroit.

REGISTRATION DATES SET FOR OCT. 18 AND 25

On next Saturday, October 18, and the following Saturday, October 25th, voters will have a chance to register at the Village Hall. A notice is published in this issue of the Mail, to which your attention is called.

Three amendments to the constitution will be voted on at this election, November 4th. One will be a proposed amendment to Article 10, relative to the enacting of an income tax law. Another will be a proposed amendment to Article 11, relative to compulsory public school attendance of children between the ages of seven and sixteen years. Another will be a proposed amendment to Article 5, relative to division of the state into senatorial and representative districts.

Albert Schroeder has purchased two lots on West Ann Arbor street, and expects to build thereon. E. R. Parrott agency made the deal.

THE SMALL DEPOSITOR

According to figures given out by the American Bankers' Association, $100 is considered by many banks as a profitable average balance of a commercial account. In other words, these banks state that they can make money by carrying accounts that average $100 in size. And that sets us to wondering along this line: If banks can make money handling such small accounts, why isn't banking a good thing for the fellow who has only $100? The bankers will tell you that the hardest $100 you will have to save will be the first hundred. Any Plymouth man who saves money will tell you the same thing, and they'll also tell you that once you have "planted" the first hundred in the bank you can't help piling up some more. While the young men of this vicinity may never break into the millionaire class, if they will start saving and stick to it until they have saved $100 they'll find they have $1000 almost before they can realize it.

GETTING STARTED AGAIN

We enjoy a good joke, even though it is on us or a member of our profession. And here is one on a Tennessee editor that we believe citizens of Plymouth will appreciate reading fully as much as we did:

The story is told of a man who read his own death notice in a paper. As it would cause some slight inconvenience in his domestic arrangements to have people think he was dead, he called on the editor, and demanded that a correction be inserted. "But we never make a mistake in this paper," argued the editor. The man replied that his presence was sufficient evidence of the error. The editor insisted that his paper had a reputation of standing behind everything it published, and could not, under any circumstances, admit that it was wrong. "The only thing I can do," said the editor, in a final effort to satisfy the "dead" man, "is to stick you in the birth column tomorrow and give you a fresh start."

TEACHERS TO MEET IN DETROIT OCTOBER 27-28

The Detroit meeting of the State Teachers' Association will be held this year on Monday and Tuesday, October 27 and 28.

Every Wayne county teacher should enroll and attend the meetings. Send the $2 membership fee to E. T. Cameron, executive secretary, M. S. T. A., Prudden building, Lansing, Mich.

It has been the custom to have a luncheon during the Michigan Teachers' Association, for all teachers of Wayne county and their friends. This year the luncheon will be held at the McMichael lunch room on the Northwestern campus, at the corner of Grand River and the Boulevard, at 12:30. Take Grand River car to the Boulevard or a John R-Dexter Blvd. bus to Dexter Boulevard or Northwestern High school.

A FORMER RESIDENT DIES

Riley Smith of Ypsilanti, and a former resident of Plymouth, died at his home in that city, last Sunday morning. Mr. Smith moved away from Plymouth ten years ago. He is survived by his wife and two daughters. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, with interment at Belleville. The deceased was a cousin of Mrs. David Corkins of this village, who with Mr. Corkins attended the funeral Tuesday.

NOTICE

A circumstance arising from our water troubles Sunday, makes this notice advisable.

Some man, whose identity we have not been able to discover, called the village manager's house by phone, Sunday morning, a little before seven o'clock. The manager was at work and the manager's wife answered the phone. This man talking in the name of the Hotel Andrine, although not one of the proprietors, was exceedingly abusive and ungentlemanly in his conversation concerning the lack of water, so much so that Mrs. Strong hung up the receiver in disgust.

The manager's wife, in taking messages or giving information, acts only as a messenger, giving what help she can from her knowledge of the village work. No one on earth has a right to hold her responsible for the conduct of village affairs or to talk to her as this man did Sunday.

Every once in a while some "kicker" seems to take delight in "balling out" one or more of the crew employed by the village and working under the direction of the manager and superintendent. Because they work for the village, in some people's minds, gives excuse for saying all kinds of nasty things to or about them.

There is one man in Plymouth, who, as a part of his work, is prepared and glad to listen to any complaint made in a decent, civil manner. That man is the manager. He is decidedly not willing that disgruntled people vent their grievances upon his wife or upon the men in his employ.

Hereafter, absolutely no attention will be paid to anyone violating the ordinary rules of civility and courtesy in making complaints concerning village affairs, for people are just as much bound to be considerate of the men in charge of or employed on public work, as those men, in turn, must be of those in whose interests they are working. Anyone going to the lengths the abusive person of Sunday did will, if found, be liable as a disorderly person.

Sidney D. Strong,
Village Manager.

MADE ODD BEQUESTS AND GAVE REASONS

Canadian Exposed Peculiar Traits of Relatives.

Mr. Hon. Austen Chamberlain received recently from an Ontario correspondent a copy of the will of Dr. William Dunlop, who was an assistant army surgeon in the War of 1812. It is said the will is registered at Goderich, and is dated at Montreal, 1847. As a legal document it seems to show in a class by itself. The main portions follow:

I leave my property of Balbrald, in the Township of Colborne, County and district of Huron, Western Canada, Esquire, being in sound health and body, and my mind just as usual (which my friends who flatter me say is no great shakes at the best of times), do make this my last Will and Testament as follows, revoking, of course, all former Wills.

I leave the property of Galbraid and all other landed property I may die possessed of to my sisters Helen Boyle Story and Elizabeth Boyle Dunlop, the former because she is married to a Minister whom she benecks—the latter because she is married to nobody nor is she like to be, for she is an old maid and not marketable, and also I leave to them, and their heirs, my share of the stock and implements on the farm, provided always that the enclosure round my brother's grave be reserved, and if either should die without issue, then the other to inherit the whole.

I leave to my sister-in-law, Louisa Dunlop, all my share of the household furniture and such traps with the exceptions hereinafter mentioned.

I leave my silver tankard to the eldest son of Old John as the representative of the family, but he would melt it down to make temperance medals and that would be sacrilege—however, I leave my big horn snuff box to him—he can only make temperance horn spoons of that.

I leave my sister Jenny my Bible, the property formerly of my great-grandmother, Bethia Hamilton of Wood Hall, and when she knows as much of the spirit of it as she does of the letter, she will be another gusher Christian than she is.

I also leave my late brother's watch to my brother Sam, exhorting him at the same time to give up Whiggery, radicalism and all other sins that do most easily beset him.

I leave my brother Alan my big snuff box, as I am informed he is rather a decent Christian with a jolly face.

I leave Parson Chevasse (Magyar's husband) the snuff box I got from the Sarnia Militia, as a small token of my gratitude for the services he has done the family in taking a sister that no man of taste would have taken.

I leave John Cadille a silver teapot to the end that he may drink tea therefrom to comfort him under the affliction of a slatternly wife.

I leave my books to my brother Andrew, because he has been so long a Jungley Wallah that he may learn to read with them.

I give my silver cup with a sovereign in it, to my sister, Janet Graham Dunlop because she is an old maid, and pious, and also my grandma's snuff mull, as it looks decent to see an old woman taking snuff.

Urgent Need

Edwin had been strangely fidgety all the evening. Usually he was content to sit for hours and hours in the twilight, holding his loved one, Edward, by the hand and dreaming dreams of the sweet by-and-by. Several times he glanced at his watch and at last—at least two hours before his accustomed time, he rose to take his departure.

"So soon, Edwin, dear?" she sighed. "Must you really go?" "I must, darling," he answered. "Though I would sacrifice ten years of my life to stay one more short hour with you."

"But why, dear," she begged—"why have you got to go so early tonight?" "Because, dearest," he replied, "it's our lodge meeting, and if I don't go I shall be fined a dollar."

Life!

The deputy warden of the penitentiary was looking over the new arrivals. Among them was a tall, forlorn-looking gentleman of color who seemed to take it very hard, sighing so deeply that the deputy asked:

"What's the matter, boy?" "Mah sentence, suh!" was the mournful reply. "Ah can't do all this heah time the jedge done gib me!" "How much are you doing?" inquired the deputy.

"Life!" exclaimed the new arrival. "Well," remarked the deputy, not unkindly, "just do what you can of it."—Everybody's Magazine.

Future Irrigation

Less than 2 per cent of the total arid and semi-arid land in the United States is now irrigated, yet reclamation has already reached the stage where future progress can be made only through the construction of extensive storage works or through underground water made available by pumping.

Pirate Put Treasure Beyond Human Reach

Surcharged with wild romance is the tale of Duval's board on the Rock of Perce, which lies off the coast of Gaspe Peninsula, province of Quebec. So many people have lost their lives in trying to climb up and recover the treasure supposed to be hidden there that the legislature of the province has passed an act forbidding anyone to try to scale the height without permission.

The rock is one of the natural wonders of the North American continent. Thousands of years ago some terrific convulsion of nature must have torn it from the floor by mountain and left it standing 500 feet high with a flat top and unscalable sides. At one time two caverns pierced the base on the seaward side, but one of them has collapsed and left only the larger, through which the sea thunders in stormy weather.

When Captain Duval, the French pirate, was hard pressed by the British, he collected all his treasure and sailed for the rock. A Micmac Indian with whom he was friendly warned his way upward through an opening in the greater of the caverns and, reaching the top, threw down a light line with which he hauled up a block and fall. He pulled up two British prisoners, then the captain himself. Boats containing the treasure stood by below.

Tradition says that the men were a day and a night in getting it all up. Then the Indian and Duval came down. The captain's sword was bloody. With muskets he and his men shot at the tackle until they had cut it through at a point so high on the rock that no one could reach it. Captain Duval never returned; nor did any of his men.

For two generations the rains rotted the stout hemp ropes on the side of the cliff until at last they disappeared. Though there are fishermen in Perce whose grandfathers saw the ropes, no one knows what happened to the two prisoners and the chests of treasure.

Which Proved It Right

L. D. Edle is a professor of economics at the State university, and incidentally is the author of the textbook used in his classes. He has a way of "catching up" his students, after they have made recitations. A few days ago, one of his students was as clever as he was. The usual procedure is that the professor asks a question, and after the student has answered it, the instructor says, "Now, are you sure about that?" and adds, "Isn't it thus and so," or "don't you really mean something entirely different from that?"

The student usually believes that he is wrong and "thmas and haws," trying to correct his first statement, which usually is correct.

But this time a young man recited and when Mr. Edle asked, "Are you sure about that?" the student said, "I don't know whether it is right or not but that is what you said in your book?"—Indianapolis News.

The News

"Well—'n't—no," said Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge in reply to the inquiry of the able editor of the Tumbler Torch of Liberty and Tootsie of the Times. "I don't believe there's nuth'n' special in the way of news been going on out my way. Come to think, though, at the dance at my house tuther night the floor broke down and killed a dog that had crawled under the house."

"Ah! Your dog?" asked the scribe. "Nope; belonged to Newt Strodder, over beyond Slippery Slap. Newt cussed and cut up so much about it—claimed he had only nine dogs left—that before the evening was over I had to shoot him in the leg to give him something else to think about. No, I don't know no pertickler news."—Kansas City Star.

Rush-Bearing Festival

In a little-frequented village in the heart of North Wales, the ancient custom of rush bearing is observed annually on a Sunday in mid-July. Village girls pass into the churchyard through the old lych gate before morning service, bearing in their arms large bundles of green rushes and sheaves of all the sweetest-smelling flowers—mignonette and gilly-flowers, lavender and "Old Man," pansies and lilies pinks and roses, which they place reverently upon the various graves. At the feasting which takes place after the service on every guest's place is laid a sprig of rue, which he or she must wear forthwith or be guilty of great discourtesy. "Rue—that's for remembrance."

Makes Music in the Sky

One of the queerest orchestras in the world plays music up in the sky. The players are members of a flock of pigeons carrying various kinds of light metal whistles attached to their tails by fine wires. Flocks of the birds flying through the air provide a unique and melodious aerial concert says Popular Science Monthly. The originators of this unusual idea are the Chinese. The musical instruments used are of two different types—bamboo tubes and gourds with tubes attached. They are made to whistle by the rapid passage of the bird through the air.

HAVE CURIOUS WAYS OF DESCRIBING TIME

Primitive People Sometimes Use Puzzling Expressions.

The first time you begin to interrogate a New Hebridean about the time a thing happens in the night, he will puzzle you by pointing up into the sky. Then an old stager will tell you that he is pointing to the spot which the sun would have reached had it been day-time—a good idea, in a land where clocks are unimagined.

"My son will be back in a guld-chew," declares the Javanese, meaning five minutes, the time it takes to chew a quid of sirih. After waiting half an hour you return and say, "It is now 'kay,' cooking time (the time it takes to cook a 'kay' of rice), and he is not here." "Sorry," says the native; "he has sent a message that he cannot be here until a 'gangtang' cooking time" (the time it takes to cook a "gangtang" of rice, about 90 minutes).

"The lion came in the silence of the land," explains the African Bahwende race, meaning at midnight.

An exasperating custom of the Bismarck Islanders is to tell you that a thing happened as long ago as it takes to walk from some place you have never heard of to another place you have never heard of. In one village the standard expression for four hours was the time that it took a lame old woman to hobble half way to the other side of the island. That was as clear as any clock-reading to the villagers, who had known the old lady for years—but it didn't help the stranger much!

Some tropical races say, "That happened just before the turning of the smoke." Along the coast a stiff wind suddenly blows in from the sea shortly before sunset.

The natives of Madagascar have one of the jolliest primitive time systems. Midnight they call Center of Night; 2 a. m. is Frog-croaking; 5:15 a. m. is Glimmer of Day; 5:30 a. m. is Unlazy People Awake; 6 a. m. is Sunrise; 6:15 a. m. is Cattle Go Out; 6:30 a. m. is Leaves Are Dry; 9 a. m. is Sun Over Eaves; 12 noon is Sun Over Roof Ridge; 2 p. m. is Day Slips; and so it goes in detail until 9:30 p. m. which is Everyone in Bed.

The Nandi, an African race, have a rather similar toll of hours, puzzling at first to the newcomer, but as clear to themselves as any numbered hours to us. A Nandi afternoon runs thus: Noon, the Sun Has Stood Upright; 12:30 p. m., the Goats Have Drunk Water; 1 p. m., the Sun Turns; 1:30 p. m., the Drones Hum; 2 p. m., the Oxen Feed; 3 p. m., the Goats Have Drunk Water; 4 p. m., the Oxen Are Watered a Second Time; 4:30 p. m., the Goats Sleep; 5 p. m., Take Goats Home; 5:30 p. m., Goats Enter Kruki; 6 p. m., Sun Finished; 6:15 p. m., Milk Cows; 6:45 p. m., Can't See Man Nor Beast; 7 p. m., the Heavens Are Fastened; 8 p. m., Porridge Is Finished; 9 p. m., Those Who Have Drunk Milk Are Asleep; 10 p. m., the Huts Are Closed; 11 p. m., Those Who Sleep Early Wake Up; and 12 is Night's Middle.—Manchester Guardian.

Narrow Escape

Karl Hobbitzelle, president of the Interstate Amusement company, who is in Houston for a few days, tells of meeting a very absent-minded old man, who came to visit the Dallas Majestic. He talked with Mr. Hobbitzelle for a while, and then after looking all over the theater, said he would journey on.

A minute later he returned, evidently much worried. "I have mislaid my hat. Has anyone in this office seen it?" he asked.

"Why, it's on your head," said Mr. Hobbitzelle, pointing.

"Gracious," said the old man. "I nearly went off without it!"—Houston Post.

Leading Question

Mrs. Dean Bond, librarian of the Indiana State Normal school, has a keen sense of humor. The other day she watched a young man hunting through the book stacks for a book. He was heard to ask another young man for the book for which he was hunting.

It was called "Good English."

He asked for it in this manner: "Have you ever heard 'Good English'?"

Mrs. Bond laughed. But she laughed still harder when the fellow came to her and asked: "Do you know 'Good English'?"—Indianapolis News.

More Corn Now

It took 60 rows of corn to make a wagonload three years ago from a field on the farm of V. H. Price of Tipton county, Tenn. But for three years this farmer has been demonstrating soil building through growing legumes, in co-operation with the county agricultural agent, planting lespedeza and following with corn and soy beans. In 1923, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture, only 20 rows of corn from this field were needed to make a wagonload.

Pies by Machinery

A newly patented mixing machine turns out pies at the rate of fifteen a minute, "never touched by human hands." After the tins are lined with crust, trimmed and crimped on the edges, they are passed along to reservoirs containing different kinds of filler and automatically stopped to receive the kind of material desired. Then they are passed along to the oven. The finished product is known as an "open-face pie."

Odd Epitaphs Seen in Old Graveyards

In accordance with his wishes the grave of Henry Long in Massachusetts is marked by a stone on which is inscribed, "Henry Long. I still live." A hard-headed, matter-of-fact friend who questioned this statement left directions that his monument be inscribed with this: "James Maguire, dead, and I own up to it."

On the stone marking the spot where reposes all that is mortal of Doctor Walker, author of "Walker's British Particles," is inscribed, "Here lies Walker's Particles." A similar punning effect is exhibited by the epitaph of one Doctor Fuller, "Fuller's earth." Equally brief and witty touched by a bit of grim humor is the inscription over the grave of Thomas Maginola, "Flis. Maginola."

Hill Nye, the humorist, once ran across a monument on which this inscription was neatly lettered: "Here we have a widow bereft; Richard on the right and Tom on the left." He suggested that the couplet might have been improved by the addition of the following: "And if she had outlived a couple of more she could have had one behind and another before."

One cannot be quite certain what the bereaved husband had in mind when he composed this epitaph for his departed spouse: "This dear little spot is the joy of my life—it raises my flowers and covers my wife." Some what more pointed is this posthumous eulogy: "Here lies in silent clay Miss Arabella Young, who on the 21st of May began to hold her tongue."

On a stone under which sleeps Jonathan Oakes is this terse, matter-of-fact inscription: "Here lies the body of Jonathan Oakes, who lived and died like other folks." The son of a deceased tavern keeper brought down two birds with one stone when he set the stone over his parent's grave and had cut into it these lines: "Beneath this stone in hope of Zion is laid the landlord of the Lion. Resigned unto the heavenly will his son keeps on the business still."—Kansas City Star.

Unsuited for Discipline

An Irish attorney who was very lame was moved during the time of trouble in Ireland to take part in military preparations. Learning that among the various volunteer corps being raised was one of lawyers, he decided to join it.

"My dear friend," he remarked to John Philpott Curran, the Irish wit, "these are not times for a man to be idle; I am determined to join the lawyers' corps and follow the camp."

"You follow the camp, my little limb of the law?" said Curran. "Tut! Tut! Renounce the idea; you never can be a disciplinarian."

"And why not, Mr. Curran?" "For this reason," was the reply; "the moment you were ordered to march you would halt!"—Youth's Companion.

Rearing Trout in England

Some of the quietest passengers ever carried by the railway companies may be seen just now at some north country stations. Swimming about in big iron tanks, there are baby trout which angling associations in Yorkshire and Lincolnshire are importing to restock their fishing waters.

Ranging from ten weeks to two years old, they vary in length from four to ten inches. They have all been hand-reared in some of the Cumberland or Northumberland hatcheries, and, despite the railway journey, they arrive so tame that they will feed from the hand, says London Tit-Bits.

After a month in their new home, however, they will be wild enough to provide all the sport the most enthusiastic angler can desire.

Most Common Metal

Iron is the metal most used by man, yet the metal which is by far the commonest in the earth's crust is not iron, but calcium. Forty per cent of limestone is calcium, says London Tit-Bits.

Calcium is a very light metal, easily hammered, easily drawn out into wire and almost as pretty in color as gold. Why, then, you may ask, do we not make more use of it?

There are two reasons: the first that it is very difficult to isolate from its ores, but the second is worse. When isolated, let the merest drop of moisture touch calcium and it fizzes away into slaked lime. The present price of calcium is about twenty times that of gold.

Saving Window Shade

A simple method of doubling the life of a window shade, half of which has become soiled, is to remove the shade from the top of the roller and hem the end thus removed. Then remove the stick from the hem at the bottom, or soiled portion of the shade, and slip it into the new hem. Next cut off the old hem at the bottom of the soiled portion of the shade and attach the raw edge to the roller. The bottom, or soiled portion of the shade now becomes the top end, and when the shade is drawn down half the length of the window, a clean new shade appears.

Modern Mida

Representative Mudd of Maryland was talking about a tricky politician. "The man's reputation was always a bit dubious," he said. "During one of his quasi-prosperous spells two senators were discussing him in a hotel lobby. "Everything he touches," said the first senator, "seems to turn to gold." "Yes," said the second. "He touched me for a ten-spot this morning."—Minneapolis Tribune.

SUCCUMBED TO LURE OF MIRROR AT ONCE

Little Story Offered as Evidence on Vexed Subject.

Man has always waxed sarcastic about the mutual attraction between woman and the mirror, remarks a writer in the Pathfinder. He has made many playful jests on the subject, attributing to pure vanity the many hours spent before the reflecting glass. Woman has never answered except to accuse man of being even fonder of the glass than herself, of never being able to pass one without taking a glance at himself. If she seems to spend more time before the mirror, she explains, it is because the nature of her toilet, the laborious combing of her hair, requires it. Each sex insists that the other is the valuer, and that the mirror proves it.

This age-old dispute will perhaps never be settled to the point where one side will concede defeat and admit the other right. If men have almost succeeded in making the term "vanity" an attribute of femininity, women, on the other hand, have been even more successful in fastening the adjective "conceit" on men alone. Arguments will never decide the question—nor will proof for that matter—because some very strong circumstantial evidence on the subject was recently presented by a Frenchman who had been in a peculiarly favorable condition to procure it.

This man was marooned on a desert island in the South seas when "Dase" drifted to him in a boat, which had been blown out of its course, a man and his wife who were of a savage, negro cannibal tribe. He saved their lives, and they lived with him on very friendly terms. Here is the way he described the effect on them of a little mirror he had in his cabin.

"I presented it first to the woman. Hardly did she see her image reflected in it than she began to quiver, to tremble in all her members; she turned and again turned the enchanted object, felt its surface, explored the other side, and, not being able to understand the sorcery of it, called her husband. With him it was much worse. As soon as he saw in the mirror a living being who was looking at him he uttered a loud scream and fled with all the speed of his legs and never stopped until he reached the other end of the island. He never got over his dread of the object."

"For him that glass was the dwelling place of an evil spirit. On the contrary, the woman, little by little, became familiar with it. Attracted by a secret charm she would come of her own accord to ask me for the mirror, and for hours she would make before it grimaces and contortions unspeakably comical. In her curiosity there was still mingled a certain fear. Yet she came back as if an obscure instinct had taught her that this mirror was an instrument of coquetry. She was a woman."

Of course this story does not prove anything. Women will still be unconvinced. But all must admit that it is an interesting circumstance bearing on the question. At least that.

Improved Gas Generators

Gas generators are now beginning to be used by French automobile industries to replace gasoline as a source of power in agricultural motors such as tractors and plows. The new gas generator has recently been tried in an automobile. It burns any fuel, coal, coke, anthracite or wood-charcoal. The gas produced contains 33 per cent of combustible gas, of which about 30 per cent is carbon monoxide. The absence of hydrogen is said to make it superior to generators developing water gas, since hydrogen is a gas hard to use in motors. The gas produced in the new generators is purified and air-cooled before using.

Futile Talkers

Talkers and futile persons are commonly vain and credulous withal, for he that talketh what he knoweth will also talk what he knoweth not; therefore set it down that a habit of secrecy is both politic and moral; and in this part it is good, that a man's face gives his tongue leave to speak; for the discovery of a man's self by the traits of his countenance is a great weakness, and betraying by how much it is many times more marked and believed than a man's words.—Francis Bacon.

Put Faith in Airplane

For the first time in missionary work the Lutheran church of America proposes to use the airplane. Dr. E. A. Late, formerly of the British aviation service, is to be the pioneer missionary aviator and will make his headquarters in Liberia. From there he will visit several uncharted districts in the heart of the black continent. He says that the sight of an airplane will be like a miracle to the natives and ought to establish his reputation at once as something at least akin to the supernatural.

Foot Palmistry

A somewhat celebrated psychic crystal gazer and palmist of Los Angeles, who has gained fame through her many fulfilled predictions regarding the destinies of professional people who are famous in America and abroad, has launched a new art, on which she has spent the past two years in deep study—an art which she terms "solestry," the science of foretelling one's fate by the soles of the feet.

Fall Into a Trap

"So this fine little baby is a girl?" beamed the rector, as he walked round the baby show. "The proud father asserted." "And this other one—is it of the contrary sex?" His wife's eyes were upon him, but with no thought of the wrath to come he replied, blithely: "Yes, sir; she is a girl, too."

AROUND ABOUT US

Mrs. E. L. Calkins of Ypsilanti, state president of the W. C. T. U., was elected at the state convention held in Detroit, last week.

Charles Koch of Ann Arbor township, delivered a load of wool, Tuesday to J. F. Alber of Chelsea. The load weighed 1465 pounds, and brought 50 cents a pound, which is an exceptionally good price. Mr. Koch stated that practically all of the wool in this section has been bought and shipped out.—The Washtenaw Post.

According to figures recently compiled by the county auditors, it cost Washtenaw county, $2,626.26 for bounties on crows, rats, woodchucks and weasels killed during the year closing April 30, 1924. Bats cost the county, $2,300.40; crows, $700.25; sparrows, $1,614.46; woodchucks, $1,651.25, and for weasels, 50 cents. Besides there is a large amount of bounties not paid on each bird or animal killed by persons who call at the treasurer's office with proof that they have killed a large number of the alleged pests.—Ypsilanti Record.

Interest is keenly felt in Wayne over the November election owing to the fact that one of our most prominent women, Miss Elizabeth Stellwagen has been nominated on the Democratic ticket for the office of Register of Deeds. Wayne may well feel proud to give its support to Miss Stellwagen. Principal of the Wayne High school for many years, she made a great many friends among the parents of the students whom she taught. She deserves the vote of every citizen of Wayne regardless of the party to which he or she is affiliated.—Wayne Weekly.

L. A. Kitchen, aviator, enroute from Dayton, Ohio, to Flint, was compelled to make a forced landing at the Whiteman farm near South Lyon, Monday morning, when the motor exploded. Kitchen came through the wreck remarkably with only slight injuries. Crashing down a distance of 2,000 feet, the plane landed bottomside up in the Whiteman fields and was badly wrecked. The aviator was taken to a physician, where his wounds were dressed, and as soon as possible he returned to the farm to gather up the parts of the machine and prepare them for shipment by truck to Flint. He also left for that city the same day.—South Lyon Herald.

An observation tower about 75 feet high is one of the improvements being made on the George W. Needles subdivision on the north side of Cedar Island Lake. The tower, with exception entirely of tamarack logs and poles. Starting with an octagonal base about 16 feet across, the timbers gradually slope toward the center, so that the platforms or landings, of which there are four or five, get smaller as the height increases. The highest point to which one can climb is a little stand about large enough for one person to stand in. The whole is surmounted by a flag staff which was put in place on Wednesday. Geeson Bros of White Lake township, are the builders.—Milford Times.

LIVONIA CENTER LUTHERAN CHURCH.

There will be no services at Livonia Center Lutheran church on Sunday, October 19th, on account of the celebration of mission-festival by the Lutheran church at Wayne. All the members are cordially invited to attend services at Wayne. There will be two divine services at Wayne. The morning service will be in the German language. The Rev. Eckert of Riga, Michigan, will also address all at 1:30 p. m., in the English language, on the work now being done in our church body, and our attitude toward the same. At 2:30 p. m., there will be services in English. Rev. H. Hoenecke of Detroit, will deliver the sermon. The ladies of the church will provide dinner for all present, in the basement, at noon. Everyone welcome. Come and bring your friends.

The laymen of the Wayne association of Baptist churches will meet at the Baptist church in Plymouth, Friday, October 31. Noted speakers will be here.

The B. Y. P. U. of the Wayne association will hold their fall rally at the First Baptist church in Pontiac, Friday, November 14. Make your plans to go. Let Plymouth be well represented.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

Quite an old-time gathering of Christian Endeavorers met last Sunday night to hear the Ann Arbor team. It is inspiring to see young men and women of talent and opportunity preparing themselves for Christian work. Charles Bichey and the pastor brought them over Sunday afternoon, and the social committee served them a luncheon in the dining room of the church just before the meeting.

The Busy Woman's Bible Class was pleasantly entertained, last Tuesday, at the home of Mrs. E. Leach and Mrs. William Wood. A pot-luck dinner was enjoyed, followed by a business meeting, at which arrangements were made for an election of officers. It was a pleasure to see Mrs. E. J. Alexander again. She was visiting in Plymouth and dropped in at the meeting to greet old friends. Other guests were Mr. Voorhies of Detroit, and Mrs. A. P. Warner of Battle Creek.

Henry the Fourth has arrived and rules the manse garage.
D. W. Hathaway returned Tuesday to his home in Battle Creek, after a short visit at the manse, made especially to help celebrate the fifteenth birthday anniversary of his granddaughter, Alice.

D. M. Merrylees celebrated a birthday anniversary this week. We wish him many happy returns.

Those who heard Dr. Orr's earnest messages last winter, will be pleased to hear him again next Sunday. He will preach morning and evening.

Mr. Green made the church beautiful last Sunday, with fall foliage and flowers, and there was a large attendance at all the services of the day. A special offering for Christian education and Sunday-school work was made in the Sunday-school. The program centered around the theme, "The Bible for All."

Have you considered the value of having a first mortgage bond, bearing 6 per cent interest annually, on our church property, as one of the best investments you can make with your money? See Mr. Richwine or the pastor at once, and make arrangements to take a $100 or $500 bond.

You will want to hear the sermon, next Sunday night, on "The Utica Movement," a new organization of Protestant and Catholic men.

Christian folks ought to remember to pray specifically for the American voters that in the coming election the right men shall be chosen to guide the Ship of State for the coming years. It does make a tremendous difference who is at the helm of affairs. God-fearing and right-minded christian men need to be elected.

The neglect of a child's spiritual uplifting has brought sorrow to many a mother and disgrace to many a home. Your children should be in Sunday-school every Sunday. We will soon be using our new building, where we will have a better arrangement and equipment for the religious training of the children.

"For our light affliction, which is for but a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory, while we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen; for the things which are seen are temporal, but the things which are not seen are eternal." 2 Cor. 4:17-18.

The new STUDEBAKER DUPLEX

—two cars in one!

For the first time an open and closed car combined at strictly open car price

This combination of features found in no other car:

The New Duplex-Phaeton Body—it solves the closed-open car problem.

Genuine Balloon Tires—20 x 6.20 inches.

New Satin-Lacquer Finish. Spanish chrome tanned leather upholstery.

New idea in ease of operation and control.

Vibrationless Engine; forced oiling system with new idea in oil supply.

Four-Wheel Hydraulic Brakes optional—totally unlike any other system on American cars. Automatic braking pressure.

Special Six DUPLEX-PHAETON $1495

AT LAST—THE DUPLEX!
An entirely new-type car created by Studebaker. By simply drawing down the roller side enclosures, it may be changed from an open car to an enclosed car in thirty seconds.

For the first time in history, a car which completely meets the requirements of year round motoring.

Use it rain or shine, winter or summer, twelve months in the year. It is like owning two cars!

And the price is no higher than the old-time open car.

Pramed and shaped in steel, the upper section of the Duplex body is built integral with the lower part. Thus its beauty is permanent like that of a closed car.

Its long, low sweeping lines—

deeply crowned fenders—beautiful hood and radiator—all completely harmonize. For the Duplex is designed and built as a unit by Studebaker.

And with this double value you have Studebaker mechanical superiority which means abundant power—effortless operation—new ease of gear shifting—powerful brakes—velvet clutch action and notably easy steering.

In addition there is a multitude of improvements and refinements that bring a new sense of satisfaction to motoring.

The Duplex models are an exclusive Studebaker creation—they are available from no other maker!

Come in and inspect these new Studebakers. See the latest development in motor cars.

THE THEATRE

"BROKEN BARRIERS"

"Broken Barriers," Reginald Barker's new special production for Metro, is to play at the Penniman Allen, Saturday, October 18th. This picture, a screen version of Meredith Nicholson's novel, has what appears to be the biggest all-star cast of the year; fans will find a continual parade of their favorites across the shadow stage. James Kirkwood appears as Ward Trenton, estranged from his wife (Winifred Bryson), who will not allow him a divorce to marry the girl he loves (Norma Shearer). The story hinges on the efforts of this pair to smash the barricades of convention that stand in the way of their happiness, and shows the effect on a wide number of people of their efforts to change old morals for new. Mae Busch appears as a girl infatuated with a lively man-about-town, played by Adolphe Menjou, who was recently so successful in Chaplin's "Woman of Paris" and Lubitch's "The Marriage Circle." Robert Frazer, remembered as the hero of Barker's "Women Who Give," and who played opposite Pola Negri in "Men" is the third member of this secondary triangle in the picture. George Fawcett appears as the father of the heroine, whose sister in the picture is played by Ruth Stonehouse, a favorite star some years ago, who, in this picture, makes her return to the screen after a long absence. There is still another angle to the story that requires expert acting, dealing, as it does, with the younger generation. Robert Agnew and Vera Reynolds appear as two jazz-crazed young people, recklessly skidding down the primrose path with twice the pace and zest of their elders. Others in the cast are Edythe Chapman, Margaret McWade and George Kuwa.

"Broken Barriers" is a Louis B. Mayer presentation through Metro. It was adapted to the screen by Sada Cowan and Howard Higgin.

"IN HOLLYWOOD"

What progress have the movies made in the past ten years? Samuel Goldwyn, producer of "In Hollywood" with Potash and Perlmutter, the First National Picture which will be the attraction at the Penniman Allen Theatre on Sunday and Monday, October 19 and 20, discovered recently that the progress has been swift and far-reaching. "In Hollywood" with Potash and Perlmutter shows the famous partners of the cloak and suit trade in their first venture as movie producers. Their first effort is necessarily very crude and Mr. Goldwyn, in order to show its crudities, went in search of the antiquated scenery and costumes that were used in the movies ten years ago. And the search proved one of the most difficult tasks with which Mr. Goldwyn had ever been confronted. This picture-within-a-picture, however, is said to be one of the most hilariously funny episodes ever presented on the screen. Their first screen production, "The Gully Dollar," having proved a dire failure, Potash and Perlmutter attempt a huge spectacle "like Ben Hur, only more original." None other than Rosie Potash is cast as the Roman empress. And when this fair actress, played by Vera Gordon, insists upon eating swiss cheese sandwiches during the filming of the Roman banquet scene, the hilarity is said to reach its climax. Alexander Carr plays Perlmutter and George Sidney is Potash in this production, which is the second Potash and Perlmutter play which Mr. Goldwyn has brought to the screen. Others in the cast are Betty Rhythe, David Butler, Belle Bennett and Vera Gordon. Alfred Green directed and Frances Marion wrote the scenario. Montague Glass, creator of the two famous characters, wrote the sub-titles, which are said to be as humorous as the picture itself.

"HER LOVE STORY"

In her new Paramount picture, "Her Love Story," which is scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday, October 22 and 23, at the Penniman Allen thetre, Gloria Swanson proves the truth of that old adage: "Love makes the world go round." Of course, there are all kinds of Love, but it is safe to assume that the man or woman who first uttered those words of wisdom had in mind mother-love. Because mother-love is the only real, pure, genuine, unselfish love that will stand every acid test.

Those who read the story when it first appeared in Cosmopolitan magazine, will recall that it concerns the thrilling romance of a lovely little princess. She secretly marries the man she loves, a noble captain of the guards. But this marriage is disapproved by her father who marries her off to a powerful King. A son is born to her—the son of her soldier lover. Naturally the King is furious when he learns the truth, but his pride prompts him to proclaim the child as his own, although to punish the Queen he banishes her. But mother-love is not to be denied, and the sorrows and sufferings and sacrifices of the Queen whose heart aches for her son furnish some tremendously thrilling moments.

Glorious Gloria plays the part of the Queen, and Alan Dwan, who produced the picture, has surrounded her with a capable cast. Among others you will see Ian Keith, George Fawcett, Mario Majeroni and Donald Hall.

We suggest every mother see this picture! Sure, take Dad and the kiddies! They'll enjoy it too!

FRAIN'S LAKE

TAKE NOTICE

All those owing the late Dr. Wm. G. Johnson are requested to meet at the store of Cal Whipple and settle their accounts. All accounts not paid within a reasonable time will be placed in the hands of a collector. Ross E. Northrop, Administrator.

SAYS NOTHING CAN SUPPLANT THE FARM

Synthetic Foods Not Practicable, Chemist Declares.

Predictions often are made that some day we shall have all our food made in chemical factories, out of air and water and carbonic-acid gas; that even farming soon is to be a thing of the past, and that chemically prepared food will come to us in tablets that we shall nibble.

These notions are mere guesses, unsound economically. The farm is not to be supplanted by the chemical factory, writes Dr. Ellwood Hendrick, noted chemist, in the Popular Science Monthly, although the farm already is beginning to draft the chemical and biological laboratories for its own purposes.

Even if we chemists could make tasty and nutritious foods of inanimate matter, instead of things that have been through the process of life, of things that have grown on the farm—and it's a fact that we don't know how to do it—there isn't power enough available to make the food for the world in factories. We should require coal or water power or fuel oil, while the plants and trees use the power of light direct from the sun for their growth. We cannot use light for power. Every green leaf has us beaten in this respect.

Again, our internal organs are so constructed that if we undertook to live on tablets without the necessary roughage or coarseness of food they would collapse and the whole world soon would come down with an international bowel complaint. Let's keep our feet on the ground. Men of science have to do so. But don't be disappointed. Science, working along practical lines, already is accomplishing amazing things in solving our food problems. It has learned to extract elements necessary to plant growth from the air, from the sewage of cities, from the smoke of factory chimneys. It is conserving our crops through the development of the canning industry. It has taught the bakers to produce better and cheaper bread. It has helped crops by destroying insect pests. It has studied foods in the laboratory and taught us how to balance our diet according to the requirements of our bodies.

Science does not move ahead with a brass band, with trumpets and drums; its progress results from hard, slow work, with here and there a happy reward.

Absent-Mindedness Plus

A Beech Grove merchant was laughing over the absent-minded customer, who recently sent her little girl to the store with instruction to stay there until her mother telephoned an order. After the child had been there an hour or so, the mother called and said she had forgotten all about sending her.

"It reminds me," said the merchant, "of the time when I was a boy. We lived about a quarter of a mile from the town. It was our custom to walk to the village in the evening to get the mail and loaf a while at the general store. One evening dad was very tired and instead of walking, hitched up the old mare and drove into town. About nine o'clock just as I had taken off my shoes to go to bed, dad came whistling up the front walk.

"Whr, dad," I said, "didn't you drive to town this evening?"

A queer expression came over his face and in a tone of great authority he said, "Go right down there and get that horse." Then I wished I had kept still."—Indianapolis News.

Dust Used as Evidence

The French police are making a microscopic examination of dirt found upon the clothing of suspected criminals. After cross-examination the suspects are stripped of their clothing, whose surface dust is first examined under a strong microscope. A vacuum cleaner is next applied to draw out other dirt into a pan. In some instances heating is used to separate foreign matter. From the dirt thus secured the detectives determine whether the suspect has been telling the truth. One murderer tried to prove an alibi by saying that he had slept in an open field the night of the crime. Microscopic examination of his clothing showed that he had slept in a quarry. A carpenter was connected with a murder by means of sawdust found on a piece of overall which the victim had torn from his assailant and which was found at the scene of the crime. The value of the plan has been in breaking down the bravado of criminals. They frequently confess when shown that their first stories were lies.

Origin of Paved Roads

Our modern dustless concrete roads may be said to have originated in a dusty limestone highway of England, says Popular Science Monthly. Just 100 years ago Joseph Aspdin, a mason of Leeds, England, discovered that if the dust of limestone roads was mixed with clay and burned at a high temperature the resulting mass when ground would produce a material that hardened when mixed with mortar. This substance looked like building stone quarried at Portland, so he called it Portland cement.

Riches for University

The University of Texas may become one of the wealthiest institutions of learning in the world as a result of the recent discovery of oil on its lands. Under contract with the oil companies the university will receive a one-eighth royalty.

Made Her Sick

Bertha had blood poisoning in her foot and the doctor had been obliged to cut and trim the wound which, of course, frightened the child. One day, on seeing the doctor approaching, Bertha began to cry. Mother said: "Don't cry, dear, the doctor is coming to make you well." "He doesn't," cried Bertha. "He sickens me every time he comes."

SCHOOL NOTES

The High school notes, the Hi-Y news and the second team game write-ups were furnished by Pierre Kenyon; those for the first team and the grade notes, by Frank Millard.

PLYMOUTH SECOND TEAM WINS FROM REDFORD.

Plymouth High school second team beat Redford last week Thursday, by the score of 18 to 6. The teams were evenly matched in weight, but the very moment the game started one could see that Plymouth was by far the better team. In spite of this, however, the local reserves at the end of the first half, only had a 6 to 0 score on the out-of-towners.

At the beginning of the second half, the team came back with the old Plymouth scrap, and made another touchdown. Then to even things up a bit, Redford, after a series of forward passes to their tail end, smashed off right for their only touchdown. Late in the fourth period, to show that they still had lots of fight, Plymouth made another touchdown, thus making the score 18 to 6.

The outstanding players of the Plymouth team were Palmer, who seemed could not be stopped on his off tackle plunges, which resulted in two touchdowns; Ambrus made an end run of twenty-five yards for a touchdown in the last quarter; Hickey also stood out well as a ground gainer. The team will be weakened for a couple of weeks because of the fact that he was taken out of the game with a broken finger. Krumm, at left end showed his ability at the receiving end of forward passes. The line-up that stood out well, were: Murphy, Rodman and Sieloff. Their tackling was excellent.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Last Wednesday night two teams in section three of the girls' physical training classes played a game of soccer, with Dorothy Hillman and Corrine Howell as captains. Dorothy Hillman's team won by a score of 2 to 0. Winifred Draper and Evelyn Schrader officiated.

New typewriters have been purchased by the school for the commercial students.

All penmanship pupils have started to work for the Palmer Method penmanship diplomas.

The High school orchestra, has been divided into a first and second orchestra.

Mr. Holcomb's agricultural classes with the aid of Miss Miller's cooking classes, have been scoring potatoes this week.

HI-Y NEWS

The Plymouth Hi-Y club, under the leadership of Mr. Holcomb, is to be initiated and to have the officers installed by the Flint club this Friday night, at the high school building. The club has been functioning for some time, but will not belong to the state council until after initiation. The Plymouth club is to pay all Flint's expenses, and they are also going to give them a banquet and an all around good time.

The members that are to be initiated are: P. Kezyon, president; F. Hubert, vice-president; M. Kurze, secretary; W. Murphy, treasurer; D. Wilson, D. Rowland, R. Reiman, L. Holmes, F. Hiery, L. Curtis, E. Cummins, M. Lyke, A. Sump, E. Henry and C. Moore.

PLYMOUTH WINS FROM DEARBORN.

In the second league game of the season, Plymouth defeated Dearborn by the score of 16 to 7. The first point resulted from a fumble behind Dearborn's goal line and a safety of two points. The first touchdown was made by Kenyon after a nine yard line smash off tackle in the second period. He kicked a perfect goal. Holmes made the second touchdown after a line smash through guard, and Doudt made the extra point with a run around end.

The team showed much poorer work because of the strenuous contest the preceding week with the Ypsilanti Reserves. Kenyon, Kurze, Holmes and Hiery had to be taken out because of minor injuries.

GRADE NOTES

Miss Stader has given a picture of her own painting to the first and second grades.

The second grade has started Halloween decoration work, and the second and third grade rooms have instituted a doll corner.

In the first grade the following have been neither absent nor tardy for the marking period of five weeks: Eleanor Allen, Mary Scinto, Derward Jewell, William Petz, Ruth Moorman, Harold Thorne, Ione Perkins and Sterling Korabacher.

The grade has started a Health Crusade and hopes to attain 100 per cent for their room. Two new health posters are ready.

Florence Atkins has been promoted from 4 B to 4 A.

Lora Kincaid has a collection of stones, shells, and star fishes gathered from the beach for use at school.

The fifth grade exhibit a little booklet they have made containing all of their fall poems.

Tuesday, the 5 B and 4 B held Columbus Day exercises.

The sixth grade has completed a product map of South America, and held a spelling contest during the week.

Announcement

We have installed a new Hydraulic Cider Mill at our farm, located three miles west of Plymouth, and one-half mile south of Penniman avenue. We hope to have it in operation by Friday, October 24, and will be glad to attend to your pressing needs.

And, ladies and gentlemen, as Harry Robinson would say, I wish to announce, that we are picking the finest crop of Apples we have ever grown, and which we will be pleased to sell you at a reasonable price. Don't ask for seconds, as we intend to crush the juice from them, and Oh Boy, you will blush with delight when you drink it.

Drive out and see us, a fine gravel road leads to our farm.

STORY OF THE NEW DAM AT FRENCH LANDING

The following article from the October number of the Detroit Edison Spectroscopist will be of interest to our readers as it gives in detail the new Edison dam now under construction at French Landing, just below Belleville:

About 12 or 14 years ago the Washtenaw Light and Power company, which was afterwards taken over by the Eastern Michigan Edison company, and later by the Detroit Edison company, purchased a considerable amount of land along the Huron river, between French Landing and Rawsonville, for flowage purposes with the intention of building a hydro-electric plant at French Landing. At that time there was one piece of property that the company was unable to buy, and it was only within the past year that the owner of this property agreed to sell to the Detroit Edison company at a reasonable price. If it had been possible to have purchased this property when the rest was purchased, this plant would undoubtedly have been built some years ago.

As soon as the company obtained this property, Gardner S. Williams was called in to prepare plans and specifications for the new plant, and the contract for the construction work was let about June 1, to Phelps & Son, of Knoxville, Iowa. The contractor started work on the job five weeks later. This dam will consist of an earth embankment about 750 feet long, a spillway 180 feet long consisting of a number of concrete arches, two sector gates each 33 feet wide, and the power house. In the power house there will be installed two Francis type turbines and generators built by the Allis Chalmers company, having capacities at 2,100 Kva and 1,000 Kva at a head of 33 feet. This plant will not only be a generating station, but also a distributing station for small towns in this section. Three 4,600 volt circuits out of this station will feed Belleville, Romulus, New Boston, and the Detroit Reduction company at French Landing. There will also be an outdoor substation which will connect the French Landing plant to the 23,000 volt system, through three 1,000 Kva step-up transformers. The three circuits will be equipped with service restoring mechanisms so that in case of trouble on any one circuit the oil circuit breaker will close three times and, if trouble is still on, the switch will then remain open.

The generating plant will be remote controlled by the system operator at Superior, 10 miles up the river. The system operator will be able to tell at all times what the elevation of the water is above the plant, which machine is on the line, and the gate opening at which it is operating. The method of controlling one of the units will be as follows: The system operator will close the switch at Superior on the unit he wants started up; this will energize the solenoid on the governor and the latter will open the turbine gates, permitting flow to the wheels. When the generator is in synchronism with the rest of the system, a special synchronizing coil will cause the oil circuit breaker on the generator to close, putting the generator on the line. The governor will open the gates of the turbine to whatever gate-opening it is set for. To shut the unit down, the system operator will open the control switch at Superior, and the unit will be taken off the line and shut down. In case of any trouble within the generator or in the bearings of the unit will immediately be taken off the line and a signal sent in to Superior.

There will be one gate on each side of the power house, and these will be used in time of high water to let down surplus water which is not being used through the wheels. They are of a sector type, their height being controlled by a motor-driven valve. These gates are hydraulically operated; that is, when water is let into a hydraulic chamber, beneath the gates, they are raised and the water is held back in the pond; letting the water out of the chamber lowers the gates and the water from the pond discharges over the top. When this pond is filled with water it will cover about 1,800 acres, forming a lake, between French Landing and Rawsonville, about five miles long and from a quarter to three-quarters of a mile wide, and although its purpose is purely industrial, this large body of water—"Edison lake," if you will—will also be the means of beautifying Belleville and the country surrounding.

Backing this water up so far will necessitate the raising of two roads at Belleville, one of which is Trunk Line 56, a concrete highway running north of Belleville. Anyone who has traveled over this road knows what bad curves there were on it just before turning onto Main street in Belleville. After this work is completed there will be a good concrete highway leading out across the pond to the north of Belleville and meeting the old road on the north side of the river. The other road that is being raised is one running directly west from Belleville.

GRENNAN'S CAKES DEFEAT NORTHVILLE 6 TO 3

Grennan's Cakes won over Northville, last Sunday, in the exciting game at Northville, which was witnessed by many fans from this section. It was an exciting game to the near end and the score stood 3 to 2 up to the ninth inning. In the ninth, the Cakes made it a decisive victory for themselves, by getting three tallies. The twelve hundred fans saw one of the best games of the season, and requested another game between the two clubs. Arrangements have been made for another contest next Sunday at Northville. A record must have been made in the last game for pitched balls to a single batter, when Fink of the Grennans was at bat. Pitcher German put over a strike, when three balls followed. The next nine pitched balls were fouled off by Fink; then he struck out on the next. In all, fourteen balls were delivered to this one batter. Ordinarily, enough balls were pitched to retire the entire side. This was tough on the pitcher, but also tough for the batter. He struck out after waiting away so long.

GRAVEYARD HAD ITS INCEPTION IN JOKE

Man's Jestling Proposal Carried Out by Companions.

On the great Warner ranch in San Diego county, Calif., a few miles from the hot springs resort, is a little cluster of seven graves. They are just off the frequently traveled road leading to Montezuma and San Felipe valleys, but are not visible from the road and very few of the residents of that section are aware of their existence. No fence surrounds them, and but for a few fragments of a single marble slab they would not be noticed by a pedestrian who might walk over them.

But in the origin of this little burying ground is a story of throbbing interest. The graves are on a knoll a few hundred feet back of the old Butterfield stage station in Buena Vista valley, one of the stopping places of what was the longest stage line in the world, extending from St. Louis to San Francisco, in operation before the Civil war.

Through the middle part of the little Buena Vista valley runs a cienega with a line of large cottonwood trees, affording water and shade to some of the many thousand sleek cattle which range the big ranch, says the Los Angeles Times. The stage station, built of adobe, with wooden "lean-to" and porches, was not only patronized by cross-country travelers, but was also a resort for the prospectors who thronged that region in the early days, and the cattlemen who looked after the herds in the surrounding territory. Saturday night always found a crowd of these rough-and-ready frontiersmen gathered at the station, where they spent the evening swapping stories, gambling, drinking and carousing generally.

On the Sunday morning following a particularly wild carousal, when all were partly stupefied from the night's orgy, some one remarked:

"Well, we done about everything there was to do last night, but if anybody can start anything new we will do it now."

Said another, stretching himself and yawning: "Well, the only thing I can think of that we did not do was to start a graveyard."

"That's right," said the first speaker. "We did not do that, but we'll do it right now, and you'll be the one we'll start it with."

The new idea was welcomed by all except the one who suggested it. A range rider produced a rope, and the action was escorted to a large sycamore tree a few hundred feet from the house. The rope was thrown over a limb, and, as they thought, adjusted about the man's neck so as not to strangle him—for no one really intended to take his life. Then he was hauled up into the air, and with much hilarity the rest of the company went into the house to breakfast, leaving the unfortunate victim of their practical joke helplessly dangling.

Returning to the sycamore tree after breakfast to release their companion from his uncomfortable position, they found him dead. In their befuddled condition they had bungled in adjusting the rope, and he had been choked to death.

After they had cut the body down and it was evident life could not be restored, a consultation was held, and it was decided, without inquest or other official action, to bury the body. It was taken to the top of the knoll back of the stage station, and then and there the graveyard was started, as its first occupant had suggested.

Vegetable Sponge Edible

In Algeria an extensive industry has been developed in the cultivation of what are known as vegetable sponges. The chief market for the product is Paris, although specimens are not uncommon in the United States. They have come into extensive use for the toilet, the bathroom and various other domestic purposes.

Prior to maturity the fruit is edible, but when the stage of ripeness has been passed the fibrous matter becomes separated from the pulp and forms a tough, spongy mass. The material is prepared for the market by being bleached in a weak lime bath.—Grit.

Canada's Gold Production

Louis D. Hunteon, former professor of mining and metallurgy at Yale university, predicts that within a few years Canada will surpass the United States in gold production. He points out that since 1915 Canada's output has increased rapidly, while in the United States it has undergone a steady decline. Canada's gold production in 1923 was valued at $25,294,000, and he expresses the opinion that this year it will rise to $30,000,000.

His Chance

"Don't you think that if I had lived in the olden days I would have made a good knight?" asked the young man who had bored her for hours describing a cinema picture he had seen.

"I don't care so much what you would have made then," observed the girl, wearily, "but you might try to see what kind of a good night you can make now."

Ingenious Squirrel

At Epping, N. H., a squirrel has been playing in a sugar maple tree near the schoolhouse, and a closer inspection revealed the fact that he had gnawed the under side of a limb and, hanging on his four feet, was sucking the sap that oozed out. He repeated this performance several times.

Gift of the Fairies

Is Offered to All

The man who is continually wrapped up in himself makes a rather small parcel. I is a capital letter, but only a small word in the story of mankind, the Washington Post comments.

Some people seem to possess the Peter Pan quality of never growing old. A man like Chauncey Depew remains youthful in heart and outlook even though he has seen ninety summers or more.

This magic is a gift of the fairies to all who keep in touch with the Angel of Hope, an angel whose favorite haunt is with little folk the world over.

Imagination, the mother of sympathy, is most conspicuous in childhood, but it remains potent and plastic, as long as we give it even half a chance. What are the nursery rhymes but verses which have been adapted and molded by the fancies of the wee folk, when the blythe folk found other matters of greater interest?

Year after year our English nursery stories appear in new editions, popular throughout the centuries by reason of their irresistible appeal to the child mind.

These old-world stories are a child's birthright—the heirlooms of humanity—and many a grown-up retains a lingering affection for those friends of the days of yore.

Childishness and childlikeness are as different as the North and the South pole. The good points in childhood are not to be despised by any man unless he wants to grow old before his time. The sense of wonder, the craving to know more, the sheer joy in being alive, the nimble fancy—such traits as these are good enough for anyone. They will help us to take life as it comes, in a good-natured way.

One gift of the fairies may be ours—the spirit of youth, the desire for more light. This is the mystic gift which the fairies bestow upon all who stoop to conquer.

Relic of Baal Worship

In some parts of the highlands of Scotland an old May day custom called "Beltein" is still continued. Beltein in reality signifies "Fire of Baal," a festival in the sun's honor, observed almost within living memory. The Highlander ever showed respect to the sun, as in the careful way he would approach a fountain to drink by moving from east to west, which is called in Gaelic the lucky way. The ceremony of Beltein would bring all herds-men together from the villages, to assemble round a fire and dress a candle of eggs, butter, and oatmeal. Each man would take an oaten cask having nine square knobs, dedicated to some preserver or destroyer of flocks and herds, and on breaking off a knob would fling it over his shoulder, saying, "This I give to thee, preserve thou my sheep," or "This to thee, O fox! spare my lambs—this to thee, O hooded crow—this to thee, eagle!" And so to the feast.

English Lark an Artist

Lovers of the wonderful English lark, which rises straight up from the earth and warbles so melodiously until it eludes the eye on account of its altitude, say the lark sings according to book—not merely unpremeditated art. Opening with a prelude, vivace crescendo, this carries the soarer to his airy watch tower. Impatience during the ascent is the ruling idea. Then the song becomes moderato, broken into short phrases, each repeated several times, making a fantasia. While hovering, head to wind, the ardor gives way to self-satisfied calm. And as the singer comes down so, by gradations, his melody sinks. Some say they have made out that the number of the notes accords exactly with the beating of the wings.

Unprogressive Poets

"Mexico," says an American who has spent much time in that distracted country, "honors her poets, but she esteems the patriot above the poet and would like her authors to draw their images from the life around them rather than from conventional literature. "Our poets are good writers," a Mexican official once assured me, "but they never speak of nightingales and larks, gazelles and hyacinths." "Yes?" I murmured questioning. "Without venturing," continued the Mexican, in a reproachful voice, "to give place in their verses to the cut-lacoe or to the senizent or to the secomiti or to the yozochiti."

A Time Saving Convenience

It's the home that is strictly modern and convenient that sells or rents quickest, for this is the age of conveniences.

The location and kind of plumbing fixtures has much to do with making a house into a modern home. Having a downstairs toilet and washroom is one way to increase comfort and convenience in a home. It is a popular addition.

Whether building or remodeling a home, there is always some small, unused space downstairs that can be converted into a toilet and washroom. Many homes have it opening into the hall-way. We have made a study of this important addition to the modern home and can help you plan one for yours.

National Good Health Week, October 20 to 25, inclusive, is a good time to have this improvement planned and installed. Write, phone or call for information showing how economical it is to have this convenience.

Today's Reflections

We've also noticed that once a Plymouth man gets started on the downward path, he never thinks to use the emergency brake.

If the makers of hemp ever got together and raised the price to $8 a yard, stylish women wouldn't dress in anything but gunnysacks.

Mother never had to cut down so much on expenses before the custom of cutting down Dad's pants to fit Willie went out of style.

Old-time Plymouth fishermen used to boast about what they brought back. Now they boast about what they're taking along.

They say using the radio for speeches costs candidates lots of money. But look what they save on punk campaign cigars.

The average Plymouth man never thinks of saving time until he gets to the point where time is about all he has left to save.

After all the nations of the world are persuaded to disarm, maybe something will be done about persuading our girls to help their mothers with the kitchen work.

This old world could be a lot worse than it is. For instance, there might be beauty contests for men.

Our advice to Plymouth girls is simply this: "If you have a good home and three square meals a day, forget about Hollywood."

The man who declares that something is "as cheap as dirt," evidently hasn't priced any real estate lately.

As a general rule the best thing to do for a "run down feeling" is to sue the owner of the automobile.

We heard yesterday of one Plymouth man who calls his wife "experience." He says she costs him so much.

A Chicago paper says sleeping outdoors makes one beautiful. Now we know how all the beautiful tramps got that way.

In the good old days the big boys at school were not satisfied until they had whipped the teacher. Now they are not satisfied until they're making love to her.

A scientist in New York says corns can be cured with the x-ray, but Plymouth men will go right on caring for them with a razor.

Our idea of a freak election is one where the loser would have to read his own party's platform.

Had Little Fear of Bod's Hugging Powers

Among the large collection of jungle creatures brought to New York by the Beebe expedition from British Guiana was what is described as the most iridescent tropical snake ever seen in this latitude.

The snake, which will find a home in the Zoological museum, is over seven feet long, and was captured by the ladies of the expedition, Miss Ruth Rose, the historian; Miss Isabel Cooper, the artist, and Mrs. John Teevan.

Miss Rose, in describing the capture, said that the male members of the party, including Sergie Chetyrkin, archeologist, and Mr. Teevan, were away in the depths of the jungle while the young women were in a subcamp with a group of native women and children. The welkin was suddenly split with feminine screams, and the white ladies boldly ran to the scene of the bullhalloo. Native women of British Guiana do not know a poisonous snake from the harmless kind, and they had never seen a scintillating rainbow boa before. That was what they were screaming about.

Under the leadership of Miss Rose the ladies closed in on the snake, whose dazzling beauty, Miss Rose intimated, seemed intended as a protective coloration to blind its foes. The standard way to capture a big snake is to grab it by the back of the neck, and if you are an ordinary lady to call for male help. Ornithological ladies never think of calling for help.

Exactly which one grabbed the back of the boa's neck first none of the grabbers could tell. But all got firm grips somewhere on the marvelous snake's squirming length and held on. In an instant there was a great show of military mixed with prismatic bou-lines resembling a May pole celebration gone mad.

Of course, the ladies said later, they did not fear to be lugged by the boa, or any head, because he was hardly strong enough to crush one's bones, and they were determined to capture him alive just to show the men that they were not the whole jungle shooting match. Equally, to the joy of the startled native women, the boa surrendered and consented to be held up in a box.—Montreal Family Herald.

Hungarian Gypsy Music

The music of the Hungarian gypsy has been handed down from father to son for ages and is distinctive and traditional. They have their own instruments, the oldest of which is the Backwozy pipe, a kind of small but rough oboe with a half wailing, half humorous tone. It would appear to be as much Hungarian as gypsy; however, for the name is taken from that of a field outside Budapest, where at one time the kings of Hungary opened their parliament or riksdag. It seems likely that the instrument was used either for calling the members together or for ritual purposes connected with the ceremonies of the opening and closing of the parliament, and so was given the name of the place where it was utilized.

Drake's Set of Bowls

One of the features of the great historical pageant of Devon, produced at Torquay recently, was the use, in one scene, of the identical set of bowls with which Drake was playing when the armada came in sight. These bowls are among the treasures of Torquay museum, says London Tit-Bits.

There are people, however, who doubt their authenticity, or, rather, the truth of the famous anecdote of Drake and his celebrated game on Plymouth Hoe.

There is no contemporary account of the incident, which was described for the first time in Britain in an Eighteenth-century book. It is mentioned, however, in a Spanish political pamphlet published in 1624.

Owl, Symbol of Wisdom

The owl has been known as the symbol of wisdom since the dawn of history. This bird figures extensively in the legends and folklore of all peoples of all ages. Among the ancient Greeks Athena was the goddess of wisdom and the patroness of the arts, and her attributes were the serpent, the owl and the eggs. The mystery surrounding the owl's nocturnal habits and its large, almost stationary eyes have probably contributed most toward making it an object of superstition. The ancients thought that if an owl appeared near a sick chamber it was an omen of death.—The Pathfinder.

Sauce for Her

Nancy, aged seven, is lunching with her mother in a restaurant. Mother (helping herself to sauce)—You won't like this, dear, it's parsley sauce. Nancy—Oh! let me have some, mummy. I know I should like it. Mother—Why, you haven't tasted it. Nancy—No, but I've read about it in the Bible. Mother (surprised)—Where? Nancy—I've been reading about the man who was sick of the parsley and I want to try it.—Brisbane Mail.

German War Mortality

An analysis of the German death rate during the war shows that men between twenty and twenty-five years of age suffered most heavily. Between 1913 and 1915 the mortality rate between those ages jumped from 4.4 a thousand to 68.9. During the two following years it decreased but rose in 1919 to 68.8. For women between twenty and twenty-five years of age the death rate increase did not begin until 1917, when the scarcity of food, coal and other supplies was reaching a climax.

The Telephone Follow-up OF SALES EFFORT AND ADVERTISING

Keep business going—put the enlivening kick into trade by using Long Distance as a consistent follow-up of sales and advertising.

Two Detroit automobile firms sell cars by telephone.

A large automobile manufacturer urges his agents to sell by telephone.

A cleaning and dyeing house in Lansing gets business by phone.

A Saginaw dealer sells tires by telephone.

A big match company does practically all its wholesaling by telephone.

Financial houses sell stocks and bonds by telephone.

Many other concerns build business and keep in touch with their field forces by telephone.

The saving of time and money to producer, wholesaler and retailer is reflected in lower costs to the consumer.

Take a 10-minute jaunt thru the Old Family Album and then—Dress Up This Fall.

The reason the old family photographs look queer to you now is not because the faces are out of focus, but because the clothes are out of style.

Take Uncle Egbert—take off his burnside—take off his 1863 suit—put in its place a bright new Value-First 1924 model and the same subject that you think comical now would grace any Country Club in America.

Stylish Clothes do make the man. With all things equal they have no equal for making money, friends, history and happiness.

Dress Up—We're Ready! The New Fall Suits and Overcoats are here—waiting to help you advertise to the world that while your ancestors may have come over in the Mayflower, your Fall Clothes were Not Included in the Baggage.

Only 10 Weeks to Christmas

Yes!—and Christmas days are busy days

Now is a good time to make a list of the friends you wish to remember. Also your wants.

Some wait until the last day, and are disappointed on finding that some article they had their eye on, had been taken by some one else.

If we haven't it in stock, we will try and get it for you, and by making a small deposit we will lay it away until Christmas.

By commencing now on weekly payment plan, you can secure a good present and not miss the money.

Leave your order for a few of those Non-plate-Engraved Christmas Cards with your name on.

The 5 per cent tax has been removed from all watches, clocks and jewelry up to $80.00.

Iodine and Goitre

The belief that the disease of goitre is due to the want of iodine in the thyroid gland has been attacked by a distinguished European physician. Yet two goitre sections of the United States, centering in Michigan and Idaho, are the ones where analysis shows, there is the least iodine in the water. It has been computed that it would take a human being a thousand years to drink enough Lake Superior water to obtain as much iodine as exists in the thyroid gland. The places where goitre is the least prevalent, along the seashores, are those having the most iodine in the surface waters.—Toledo Blade.

NOTICE

To John Willis Lashbrook—Wish you would come home or send for me at once. There has been a misunderstanding in another clipping, as I meant no harm. Only wanted to know if you were alright, as you were not feeling well when you left. Have sold out. Everything in good shape. Nothing to worry about. No trouble at all. Everyone wants to see you so badly. Mrs. Florence Lashbrook. Charleston, Illinois. 472p
