DINAH DON'T CARE

DINAH DON'T CARE was a careless Ethiopian. The china cups that passed through her hands fell to the floor and many a plate bore the nick of the time when she had handled it. The meat was scorched in the oven and the gravy was upset out of it, but Dinah merely said, "What's got ter be, is ter be," and dismissed the unpleasant incident.

HOME TALENT PLAY VERY SUCCESSFUL

The three-act comedy drama, "An Old-Fashioned Mother," given at the Methodist Community Hall Friday evening, December 12th, for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid society, was one of the best home talent plays ever presented in Plymouth. The audience will not soon forget the strong appeal of a mother's love, nor the humor manifested from beginning to end.

LOCAL MERCHANTS HAVING BIG HOLIDAY TRADE

Never before have the merchants of Plymouth made such a demand for advertising space in the Mail, as they have in the past few weeks. This is a sure indication that they are realizing more and more the value of advertising space in the local paper, as the surest means of getting their message to the buying public, and thus increasing their trade.

A PLEASANT OCCASION

About fifty neighbors gave a surprise party on Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Herah, at their home in Canton township, last week Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Herah were presented with a handsome rocker as a token of the high esteem in which they are held in the neighborhood.

Christmas Greetings

At this season of Peace on Earth and Good Will Toward Men, we want to pause in our daily tasks to wish each and every one of our readers, and all those who are near and dear to them— A Merry Christmas!

From those who gleefully await the coming of Santa Claus to those whose hair has been silvered by the hand of time, there is no sweeter season, nor a time when the heart abounds with a greater love for all humanity.

If there is not peace and joy and happiness and contentment in all the world now it is because men have refused to tie themselves together in a spirit of brotherly love.

If the year has prospered you, we are glad. If it has been tinged with dark clouds here and there, our sympathy is still with you, as well as our hope that the sun of the Christmas season will drive away all shadows and that your path will be light and peaceful on through the years.

We bring to you, and to those near and dear to you, our best wishes for a Merry Christmas. We wish you Happiness, we wish you Prosperity, we wish you Success in all your undertakings—but best of all we wish you the greatest blessing that can be handed down by the giver of all good things—

We wish you Health and the Peace that passeth understanding.

MANY SEE MOST WONDERFUL PICTURE

"ABRAHAM LINCOLN" AT THE PENNIMAN ALLEN THEATRE PLEASES LARGE CROWDS.

The presentation of the great picture film, "Abraham Lincoln," at the Penniman Allen theatre Sunday and Monday evenings, drew large audiences. We do not believe any picture has ever been shown at the local theatre, and they present nothing but the very best, has drawn so much favorable comment as did this picture, which so vividly portrays the life and character of Lincoln.

Through the courtesy of Manager H. R. Lush, nearly six hundred boys and girls were enabled to see the picture at a special matinee put on for them Monday afternoon.

A pleasing feature of the presentation of the picture here, was the singing of two appropriate solos by Mrs. Maxwell Moon, in her usual beautiful manner. There was one person at least in Plymouth, who saw this picture, whose memory was brought back most vividly to the Civil War days in Washington, and the assassination of Lincoln at Ford's theatre, which is so realistically shown in the picture.

For many years Mr. Rattenbury resided on a farm in Livonia township, where he was a successful farmer. He served his township as supervisor and took an active interest in the public affairs of the township.

A CHRISTMAS HINT

We want to take an inch or two of space to offer a suggestion to the Plymouth man or woman who has a mother living but who cannot be with her this Christmas day. You will, of course, remember her with a gift; and she will enjoy it. But there is one gift she will appreciate above all else, that will mean more to her than all the presents you can make or money can buy. And it will keep joy in her heart through all her years to come.

Write your mother a Christmas letter.

SETTING AN EXAMPLE

When President Coolidge went to Chicago recently to attend the International Live Stock Show, he set a precedent—he traveled in a Pullman car, and on a regular passenger train instead of in a private car or on a special train. It certainly serves to show one thing, at least, to the civilized world, and that is that the chief executive of the greatest nation on earth isn't afraid to mingle and rub elbows with his own people. It should also be an example that will save taxpayers of the country considerable money when we have to entertain royal visitors in the future—we can tell them that if an ordinary Pullman on a regular train is good enough for the president of the United States, it ought to be good enough for them. And knowing that taxpayers everywhere else are no different from those around Plymouth, we believe the suggestion will always be received with public approval.

A BIG BUSINESS

We have often marveled at the rapid growth of the auto business in this country, but now we are about to see the development of another business that will run it a close second within the next few years if, indeed, it doesn't exceed it. We refer to the radio business. We read a statement recently based on reports from 300 of the largest radio manufacturers in the country to the effect that $44,000,000 worth of radio apparatus was made and sold in 1923, and that 1924 will almost double it. What was formerly a fad has now settled down to a solid basis, and the radio is finding its way into hundreds of thousands of homes. The fact that it is especially fitted for bringing entertainment and information into rural homes is the greatest thing in its favor, and will do more than anything else to run its sales into the millions every year. There was a time when the average man wanted nothing better than a chance to sell automobiles. But it now looks as if the men who make and sell radio are going to carry off the big money.

TWO SIDES TO IT

When we see a specialist in any line rake off several hundred dollars for work that didn't require more than an hour or two, we usually feel that he has a pretty soft snap. We go to a circus, for instance, and see a star performer who gets several hundred dollars a week for working a few minutes each day high up on a trapeze or tight wire, and we put it down that he is getting "easy money," without pausing to consider how many dreary hours of hard, grinding, dangerous practice and study he had to put in to master that for which he is now receiving pay. And it is the same with the doctor, the lawyer, the expert machinist. If there is a boy in Plymouth who expresses a desire to some day be a specialist in some particular line, encourage him. He cannot be a success without hard study. But for all that hard study now he will be repaid later on, and usually by the very people who have lost sight of the rough road he had to travel before he got to where the going was smooth.

A CARD—The committee in charge of the Community Relief and Christmas cheer party given in the Penniman Allen auditorium last Saturday evening, desires to thank the citizens of Plymouth for their patronage; Mrs. Kate E. Allen for her generous donation of the auditorium, and all who assisted in any way. Over seventy-five dollars was netted, and financial aid has been given where it is most needed. Two tons of coal have been sent out in half-ton lots, and the remainder of the money will be used before Christmas. It is expected that the Community Relief party will be an annual affair as it is a most worthy cause and has received the support of many good citizens of the village.

Signed,
THE COMMITTEE.

The Christmas program will be given Tuesday, December 23, at 8:00 o'clock.

OBITUARY

Wilhelmine Friederike Maria Garchow, nee Schmidt, was born in Plath, Province of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, Germany, on the 9th day of January, 1847. She was baptised at Goehren of the same province on January 24th, of the same year. Here also she was instructed and confirmed in the Lutheran faith. In May, 1866, she was united in holy matrimony with Frederick W. Garchow. This union was blessed with eight children, two of whom, together with the husband have preceded the mother into eternity. In the year 1866, the deceased immigrated to the United States, coming to Wayne county. In the year 1867, she became a resident of Livonia township, where she resided until her death, last Monday morning, December 15, 1924, at the age of 77 years, 11 months and 6 days. She leaves to mourn: Two sons, Fred and William of Livonia; four daughters, Mrs. Louise Landau, Mrs. Hulda Wolfrom, Mrs. Emma Tuck of Livonia, and Mrs. Minnie Hart of Owosso; twenty-four grandchildren, four great grandchildren, besides a large circle of more distant relatives and friends.

The deceased was one of the charter members of St Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church of Livonia Center, and one of its sincerest supporters since its organization more than fifty years ago. For many years she was an officer of the Ladies' Aid Society, and a loyal supporter of every worthy enterprise of the church. Her hope in life is our comfort at the grave: "Saved by the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ."

Burial took place on Wednesday afternoon, December 17th, from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Julius Landau, and the Livonia Center Lutheran church, with interment in the Livonia Center cemetery, Rev. Oscar J. Peters of Wayne, officiating.

DON'T ALWAYS DROP PEARLS OF WISDOM

Commonplace Ideas Issue
From Lips of the Great.

The words of famous personages, addressed to mere, ordinary mortals or overheard by them, naturally are remembered, though they are often in themselves comically unworthy of remembrance. Authors and orators, even those who are most impressively capable of what Scott called "doing the big bow-wow" in print or on great occasions, must often descend to small talk—sometimes indeed to talk quite microscopically unimportant. In Mr. Robert Underwood Johnson's book, "Remembered Yesterdays," he relates an interview that his grandmother once had with Henry Clay while they were standing together by chance on the church steps while the congregation were dispersing.

"I understand, Mrs. Underwood," said Mr. Clay, "that you are the mother of seven children."

The lady deprecatingly owned to five or six.

"I want to tell you something very important," said Mr. Clay. "I want to impress on you that when a child has washed his face it is most important that in order to strengthen the sight the eyes should be wiped toward the nose."

A group of young girls standing near the main staircase at a reception attended by Daniel Webster—so one of them related in her old age—saw the great man, with his thunderous brows drawn above his deep-set dark eyes, slowly make his way down from the dressing rooms and speak to his hostess. They listened breathlessly for memorable words.

"Mrs. X," he said, "it is very dim at the turn of the upper hall, and I have just stepped on something there. There were others pressing forward from behind me, and I did not pause; but I must have been, from the sensation I experienced as my foot descended upon it, either a lady's muff or a cat. If it was a cat, I trust its demise will not grieve you deeply."

Fortunately it proved to be only a muff, but half a dozen girls for the rest of their lives could not recall the impressive figure of Webster to mind without seeing a rat under his foot—like St. George, stepping on the squirming dragon in old prints," as the narrator put it.

At her first dinner party, when she was only fifteen years old, an English girl, Louisa Courtenay, who lived well into her nineties, was seated near Wordsworth and next to Southey. She was of course eagerly attentive, awaiting the high discourse of the two poets. Wordsworth, who solemnly and did not talk at all, Southey, too, addressed himself gravely and exclusively to his guest. There was a dish of liver, a kind of water cross, to accompany it; this was set immediately in front of Mrs. Miss Courtenay, and after waiting to see whether it was to be eaten, she readily took her part.

"Young lady," said Southey, "I am glad to see that you appreciate liver."

She did so, and he replied that it was the best of the season.

Modern Editor

Young Editor, who had the head of the West. As he sat at the head of the table, he thought he had recognized the wedding guest, and he when he looked back at the bride and made off with the bride.

As he entered the street, which stood the chair he noted that it was still early, and he was glad that he had given himself a wide margin in which to perfect his plans. He would leave his car without, hide himself in the church, and then at the right moment spring forward and seize the bride.

But the ceremony ended with the usual kisses and tears, and the bride and groom departed for the station amid the customary shower of shoes and rice, and Lochivar had not put in an appearance.

A few minutes after the sexton had locked the doors of the church Lochivar came running up, breathless and perspiring.

He had just found a place to park.

Life.

"Busy" Line Told Secret

In Budapest, as elsewhere, a telephone operator sometimes plugs a call through on an occupied line. Generally one hangs up. But Stephen Koszaka, a high city official in Budapest, didn't for he was calling his wife, says the Kansas City Star. He was connected while she was speaking with Lieut. Col. Sigmond Valerain, one of the best known Hungarian cavalry officers and a lifelong friend of Koszaka. Through the conversation he learned that the army officer was his wife's lover and that they planned to elope.

"Talkless Phone" for Deaf

One of the most recent devices for use in communication between deaf mutes is a "talkless phone" that conveys messages by means of an alpha-beta printed on electric light bulbs. As the operator presses the keys of a special typewriter wired electrically, the corresponding letters are lighted, spelling out the message. The invention is the work of William E. Shaw of Cambridge, Mass., who was stricken deaf and dumb by sickness at an early age.—Popular Science Monthly.

Field's Tribute to Riley

Among the finest tributes which one man of genius has paid to another is that of Eugene Field to his friend and brother poet, James Whitcomb Riley. He put it in the language of an Indiana villager and the essence of it was this paragraph:

"Riley has got true genius; can't call it anything else. When he was born God give him the tongues of men and of angels, and threw in charity for good measure. There ain't no Shakespeare business about him, nor no Byron. Jim is a straightaway poet, and his pieces are as full of honey and dew as the flower the hummin' bird plays tag with in the cool sunlight of an early summer morning. You don't have to have anybody tell you what Jim means in them pieces; there ain't no need of footnotes and there ain't no disputed passages. It is all plain music from the word go, and that's the kind of music a feller's heart loves to dance to."

Happiness and Hard Work

Happiness, I have discovered, is nearly always a rebound from hard work. It is one of the follies of men to imagine that they can enjoy mere thought, or emotion, or sentiment. As well try to eat beauty! For happiness must be tricked! She loves to see men at work. She loves sweat, weariness, self-sacrifice. She will be found, not in palaces, but lurking in cornfields and factories and hovering over littered desks. She crowns the unconscionable head of the busy child. If you look up suddenly from hard work you will see her, but if you look too long she fades sorrowfully away.—From "Advantages in Contentment," by David Grayson.

FOND MEMORIES OF THE OLD HOME TOWN

And the Boys Who Have Made Good in the World.

Julien Monnett has been visiting in the old home town this week, according to the old home paper. Don't remember Julien Monnett? Well that indicates that you are a tenderfoot in the old home town and not entitled to membership in the old settlers' society.
Ask any of the oldtimers about the Monnett family, and they will recall them, and give you the names and ages of all the children—Leon, Louise, Mary, Gylses, Julien, Cora and perhaps one or two others. For the pioneers of the old home town had great respect for large families. One reason, perhaps, that the old home town has been losing steadily in population during the last twenty years or more, is that the modern family is so much smaller than the first families were.
Lena Strickling, who used to be the leader of the neighborhood kids in that part of town where the old Strickling home stood, after a recent visit to the old home town, asked one of her former schoolmates: "Do you remember the big crowd of children that played with us on the commons up there by our house? Well, there isn't a child now in that end of town."
The old home town has been accusing, among other things, the free mail delivery and the motorcar for its gradual decline in population. But the fact that there are no more large families in the town, such as there were in the old days, may have had something to do with it.
All the oldtimers will readily recall that Ulysses Monnett went away to Chicago and became a big business man. For short, we called him "Uly," and those of us who were kids with him in that day, when we felt sure we could outrun him, called him "Useless" Monnett. Julien, whose mind turned to the law, went away to the state university, and now he is the head of the law school of one of the big southwestern universities.
When Julien Monnett comes home we always expect to hear some news of the old boys who have drifted away and made a place for themselves in the world. And, sure enough, he brings back word this year of one of the choicest of the kids who formed the kingdom of boyville in the old home town of long ago.
Remember "Woody" Blackmore? "Woody" licked Henry Scott one night because "Hen" nickered him when he stuttered. Ah, we will not forget that fight for many a day, because "Hen" Scott was a bigger boy than "Woody" Blackmore. Well, "Woody" Blackmore is one of the real, big lawyers of his present home state. He has been on the Supreme bench and has reached the top as a lawyer.
"Are you this boy that we pulled out of the millrace one day, back in the old home town?" Julien Monnett asked this big lawyer one day when he was a member of the Supreme court. And right there court was adjourned while Justice Blackmore retired into his chambers to take up the more important matter of living over again the days in the old home town, with Judge Julien Monnett, head of a big law school.
Oh, boy! It is great to have these old boys come back occasionally and give us an opportunity to call the roll.

W. T. PETTINGILL,
Treasurer.

Secretary's Report

The 1924 term of the Chamber of Commerce was started off with the biggest membership campaign in its history. Your directors realized that if the Chamber of Commerce was to accomplish its purpose, it must have the backing of as large a percentage of the citizenship as possible and to that end set a goal of 500 members for 1924. Teams were organized and prizes offered. Every man in Plymouth and vicinity was solicited for his moral as well as financial support, with the result that upwards of three hundred members were secured. This was the largest representation that the organization has ever had, and its strength proved a great incentive for the directors to set about in earnest to accomplish a few noteworthy results.

At early meetings, several minor matters were disposed of, among which was the adoption of a budget so that all expenditures would be kept within the limits of our bank account; the selection of blue and white as official P. C. C. colors; the design and adoption of an official seal for use of the Chamber of Commerce, the village of Plymouth and all the Plymouth institutions; the appointment of a committee to urge local improvements upon the Pere Marquette Railway, the selection of the Shasta daisy and the larkspur as official flowers.

Your secretary, at the request of the directors, appealed to the post-office department for additional mail service for Plymouth. His request was acknowledged by postal officials, and some early action was promised. At present, nothing has been done by Washington, but we are still keeping after them and hope to soon have some favorable action to report.

At the request of Fr. F. C. Lefevre, the Chamber of Commerce co-operated with the local churches, and induced all stores to close from 12:00 to 3:00 p. m. on Good Friday. Religious services were arranged for, a large turnout observed the day at tending services at the Penman Allen theatre, where Rev. Strasen delivered an appropriate address.

An effort was made to establish a "Clean Up, Paint Up and Plant" week. Posters were obtained and distributed, urging the public to use this week for the improvement of the appearance of their property. Some good resulted from our efforts and a foundation was at least laid for future campaigns of this nature.

Your Chamber co-operated with other local organizations for an appropriate observance of Memorial Day. A very successful program was arranged and fitting honor paid the Civil War veterans.

A publicity campaign was inaugurated for the purpose of advertising the merits of Plymouth. An attractive folder with views of Plymouth was printed, and this, with a personal letter, was mailed to 5000 Detroit residents. The letter and folder were designed to sell Plymouth to outsiders as an ideal place in which to build their future homes. The actual benefits of this campaign can never be accurately determined, but we have excellent reasons to believe that it was productive of many real estate transactions and several families have chosen Plymouth as their home since that time. It has at least made Plymouth and its advantages known to thousands of people who have not known of our village before.

Probably the outstanding accomplishment of our Chamber of Commerce for the past year has been the establishment and maintenance of a public information booth on Main street at Kellogg Park. This booth was designed to represent the cottage on the official seal, and was built in an attractive manner so as to catch the eye of the passing motorist. The building was built by Fred Rhead, painted by Langendam, wired by Corbett; shades by Blank Brothers, and furniture by Schrader Brothers. An average of 1,000 persons a month were furnished information regarding roads, industrial sites, homes for sale, etc. Leaflets, maps, etc. were distributed to all who called, and through this booth many people were made acquainted with Plymouth and its advantage. It is to be hoped that the new board of directors will see fit to continue this greatest advertising medium that Plymouth has known.

Another accomplishment of your Chamber of Commerce for the past year was the successful celebration of the opening of the Plymouth road on September 11th, known as "Plymouth Day." Under the general chairmanship of Harry C. Robinson, Plymouth was host to its neighbors at the biggest and most successful celebration in the history of our village. Not a money grabbing scheme was allowed. Attractions were many and good. Plymouth entertained its guests and Plymouth paid the bill. About ten thousand persons came to Plymouth and saw Plymouth at its best. It is hard to estimate the results of Plymouth Day, but as Plymouth is growing and prospering, we believe it was helped to some extent by this advertising. Plymouth Day surely deserves its share of the credit as this celebration probably brought Plymouth to the attention of more people than any other activity we have ever had. Northville citizens turned out for Plymouth Day in large numbers, and to return the courtesy your Chamber of Commerce appointed a committee to have Plymouth represented in large numbers at the Northville Fair. This exchange of compliments has cemented the friendship of the two villages in a manner that is highly beneficial to all concerned.

A committee was appointed to confer with the Board of Wayne County Road Commissioners, regarding the construction of the Plymouth road. As you know the finest concrete road in Michigan now connects our village to Detroit by the shortest possible route. The influence brought to bear by the Chamber of Commerce was no doubt largely responsible for bringing improved road conditions in and about Plymouth.

Early in the year we commenced the publication of a monthly news letter, which was mailed to our membership. This was the first time this had been done, and we believe that it has helped the cause along by keeping the members posted of the activities of their organization.

At the time the annual budget was up before the Village Commission for consideration, a committee was appointed by the Chamber of Commerce to go into the matter thoroughly and make definite recommendations to the Village Commission. Considerable time and thought was put into a report to the Commission and many needed improvements and changes were recommended to their favorable consideration. Many of the suggestions of the committee were adopted.

Agitation for a public skating rink was started by the Woman's Club, and found most ardent support in the person of Karl W. Hillmer. This has borne fruit, and today finds a large skating rink ready to be flooded and enjoyed by everybody.

This report must necessarily be brief and touch but lightly on the most important phases of our year's work. Much good has been done in the past year, but much more remains to be done in the years to come. Plymouth cannot attain its maximum development and growth without the constant efforts of a representative organization such as the Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber of Commerce is the only local organization which is representative of every class of Plymouth's citizens. It is also the only local organization which has its only object the betterment of Plymouth. Plymouth is bound to grow in spite of us, but we have a large part to play in the directing of that growth and that growth must be directed if Plymouth is to maintain her reputation as the finest town on earth in which to live and do business.

May we bespeak the active and hearty co-operation of every member with the new board of directors that you will choose tonight? They will do things that all of you do not like. They will not do things that some of you think ought to be done. But in these cases we assure you that our common interests will be served to the best advantage if those of you who differ with your board attend their meetings, express your thoughts, get an expression from the majority and when you are outnumbered, put your shoulder to the wheel and work for our common good.

J. E. TAYLOR,
Assistant Secretary.

My Best Christmas

By Emily Burks Adams.

(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

AS Christmas as it approaches, I think, surely, it's the best, and how perfectly delightful each one has been, and yet all so different. The best of all was, I'm sure, if there can be a best, was the Christmas that mother, dad, and I spent down at Aunt Mary's.

We had, during the year, met with many reverses, and father said, a few days before Christmas, that our Christmas would be slim; that we couldn't have any of our relatives come, could have no tree, and we'd give each other only necessary clothing as gifts. I couldn't conceive of a necessity as a gift, and it was a joy-killer for me to be sure.

Mother and I talked it over—"Well, mother, Christmas won't be Christmas if I can't buy for you and daddy, and I surely expect something."

"Now, my dear," said mother, we must consider dad. He knows when we can give and when we shouldn't. He's always been most generous with us, and maybe something will turn up, and we don't want a moment of Christmas time spent lamenting over what we can't have. Christmas is a time to be happy; Santa Claus knows when and how to call. Maybe something unexpected will happen, and this prove the best Christmas of all."

"Oh! Mother, you are some poet, and very optimistic." We both laughed. I heard the car door slam and father rushed in the front door beaming.

"Well, Jene, it's all fixed; Aunt Mary has invited us down for Christmas, providing there won't be any exchanging of gifts. Wonder how she knew we were so deuced hard up."

There Were Boxes and Boxes and Boxes.

We started early Christmas morning; the air was crisp; furs felt good, and the car sped along as if keeping time to the Christmas music, which seemed to permeate the air. A distance of fifty miles, but so happy were we the distance was soon covered.

Aunt Mary and Uncle John met us at the door, beaming. The fire was cheery. I peeped in but didn't see the usual laden table. I was hungry, too.

Aunt Mary talked so fast—"So glad to see you, a Merry Christmas—this is to be a different Christmas, no hurry, no worry, and no stuffing. We're going to have a simple dinner and take time to think and visit."

She rushed us into the drawing room, and there were boxes and boxes and boxes! "Oh, dear, auntie! What's all this! Your Christmas presents, eh! Now that isn't fair."

Auntie smiled, "No, Jene, all my friends and I decided we wouldn't give useless gifts, costly gifts, and gifts that weren't needed, so we put in our time gathering these for Hope's orphanage, and I've planned for you, Jene, and brother and sister to help distribute them."

"Oh! It was fun, and that was real Christmas, carrying joy to those who had so little, and we spent several most happy hours delivering those boxes that were jammed full of Christmas cheer to the little ones in the great orphanage."

JUST TO HEAR YOU

"WHAT do you want, children?" said the awakened sleeper, in the early morning of Christmas day. "Oh nothing, only just to hear you," came the answer from the two little girls who had knocked upon grandfather's door. So easily is love satisfied. Such meaning expression has. Love goes out upon hearthstones for lack of expression. Fathers of expression smother their fire. Were we all dumb and deaf the world would be filled with silent specters. Houses have ceased to be homes because so little is said. Like fragile flowers the affections must spring up in ever new manifestations, or we cease to have a garden. We know that others love us, but we forget it. What a pleasure it is just to hear them! — Christopher G. Hamard.

Love of "Bush" Strong in Average Australian

All true Australians refer to the country districts of their land as the bush. They prefer it to the more sophisticated expression "the country." The dictionary definition is "a thick shrub," and that is all the word conveys to most people. To an Australian it means more than almost any word in his vocabulary, a writer in the Youth's Companion asserts.

It will conjure up for him a vision of a wide tract of land covered with brushwood—sandalwood, star bush gleaming with white blossoms, saffron wattle and feathery may—stretching away unevenly till it meets the edge of the dome of the sky. The sky always seems so much more vast in Australia than in other lands, and the stars so much bigger!

If he comes from the scrub country, the bush will mean to him forests of thin brittle-branched mulga or tangled tittree, the whole trunk of a giant eucalyptus standing strongly among it here and there and the gay colored cockatoos calling shrilly overhead. If the plains of New South Wales are his home, he will recall a day when he rode alone for many hours across the red plain, only checking his horse while he opened the gates in the barbed-wire fences with his boot, till the low roofs of the homestead came into sight and he saw the green fringe of the willows by the deep-banked river.

The Queenslander will think of a night that he spent camping among colossal red gum trees, when he slept on a bed of sweet-smelling branches and heard the howl of the bingoo, his horse hobbled near by, and the last flames of the fire lighting up the tree trunks and making the leaves far overhead quiver.

To each one it will stand for something different, for the area of Australia is nearly 3,000,000 miles, and the bush stretches from the orchard and dairy lands around the coast to the unsearched deserts of the center.—Christian Science Monitor.

City to Honor Jenny Lind

A full-length statue of Jenny Lind is soon to be erected by the Jenny Lind association in Battery park, near the Aquarium, formerly Castle Garden, scene of the first American appearance of the famous Swedish singer. The monument, according to present plans of the association, will be dedicated on October 6, 1925, which date will be the one hundred and fifth birthday of the singer, and will fall less than a month after the seventy-fifth anniversary of her first appearance in America, on September 11, 1850.

Jenny Lind is the second woman to be honored by a public statue in the city of New York, and the sixth musician to be thus commemorated in the American metropolis. The only other public monument to a woman, excepting the basis in the Hall of Fame, is the equestrian statue of Joan of Arc on Riverside drive. The other musicians to whom statues have been erected in the city are Beethoven, who is honored by two pedestaled busts—one on the Mall in Central park and the other in Prospect park in Brooklyn; Mozart, von Weber and Grieg, each with a bust in the flower garden of Prospect park, and Verdi, with a heroic monument in a square of upper Broadway.

Real Heroine

They are mighty liberal display, or rather the display that comes from lack of costume, but once in awhile the officer on duty does come to the front when he finds that the tide is afraid to come in.

But the other day, this intrepid protector of masculine eyesight walked right into a lot of trouble.

"Your tights are too high. Drop 'em a little lower."

He was addressing a heavyweight flapper, about 200 pounds net.

"How would you like to mind your own business?" the super-flapper asked petulantly. "There's nothing for you to worry about, is there? If there's anyone to be ashamed, it's me, not you, isn't it?"

And then she waddled off. Censoring benches isn't as simple as it looks. —Los Angeles Times.

Yes, It Really Happened

That the age of chivalry has not passed is quite well proved by an incident involving a conductor on a Jefferson avenue car, an elderly woman and the elderly woman's handkerchief. The woman boarded the car and, in doing so, dropped her handkerchief on the pavement. With perfect grace the conductor stepped from his post into the street, picked up the handkerchief, returned it to the grateful loser and buzzed his signal for full speed ahead. "And she wasn't young or handsome, either!" ejaculated an observer, who decided immediately that the incident was beyond comprehension. In this age.—Detroit News.

Makes Radio Sending Easy

Forest rangers in the state of Washington have discovered that by using the branches of trees instead of the customary wire antenna they can send radio messages over a distance of two or three miles. All they have to do is to drive a copper nail into the trunk of a tree, connect the sending instrument with it and begin to send. Experiments are now in progress to increase the efficiency of the contrivance, which should prove of great service in enabling rangers to keep in touch with their stations and with one another.—Youth's Companion.

Sunday-school is still at 9:30. If any parents desire to have their little children christened, the pastor will be pleased to perform this beautiful service next Sunday morning, at the church hour. The moving picture program tonight will be worth your while to see. The story of a man who learned a great lesson in life. It has a special Christmas appeal that we all need. There will be a watch-night service at the church one week from Wednesday night.

The play given by the Ladies' Aid Society, last Friday night, was one of the finest plays that has yet been presented in Plymouth. Such plays teach a great lesson, as well as give entertainment. It was especially appropriate for the new Community House. We wish everyone in Plymouth could have seen it.

Remember the moving pictures in the new Community Hall.
There will not be any prayer meeting next week Thursday, it being Christmas day.

BAPTIST NOTES

The Christmas spirit seems to be in the air, and every boy and girl is waiting for Christmas eve, and sometimes the joy of anticipation is greater than realization, but most children are happy with the gift that is given and very thankful for the same.

Help You Avoid Suffering.
For those distressing gassy pains that crowd the heart take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Why continue to suffer when this good medicine may be so easily had and at so small a cost? Only 25c.—Advertisement.

The program at the Baptist church for next Wednesday evening, promises to be equal to those of former years. There will be a pageant, music and recitations, and Santa will be there with his pack. Come and bring the children, and be happy with them at Christmas time.
Quite a number of the teachers of the Sunday-school were absent last Sunday. We ought to make every effort to be with our classes, and not discourage them.
Last Sunday, Miss Mildred Harford had charge of the B. Y. P. U. meeting. The subject was, "Stewardship." This was one of the best meetings we have had, being full of study.

The Ladies' Aid Society met at the home of the president, last week Wednesday. After the devotionals, there were recitations and roll call. Mrs. Wiskie served the guests with a very nice lunch. All had a good time and went away happy.
Quite a number went to the Ministers' and Laymen's conference, held at Wixom, last Friday. The subject was, "Revivals." Different pastors spoke on special topics of the subject. Ministers were there from Pontiac, Highland, Walled Lake, Rochester, Brighton, Northville and Plymouth.

Remember the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society, the second week in January.

EPISCOPAL NOTES
Last Sunday evening during the service, the rector gave a special address on, "Confirmation," which proved to be most interesting and instructive, not only to some of the class to be confirmed by the Bishop on Sunday afternoon, December 28th, but also to the older members of the congregation, reviving the memory of their own confirmation.

The Bishop will make his annual visitation to St. John's, Plymouth, on Sunday afternoon, December 28th, when he will confirm a class of candidates and give a special address. Our Plymouth friends are invited to be present. Keep the time and date vacant—December 28th, afternoon.

At the church school sessions, last Sunday morning, Ernest Henry gave a very interesting account of his visit to the boys' conference at Muskegon, recently. Ernest Henry is one of our boys who went to the conference, and he says he hopes to go again next year.

On Christmas eve at 7:30, a beautiful pageant, entitled, "The Nativity," will be given in the church by some of our young people of Plymouth and Wayne. This is the first time a pageant of this kind has been attempted in Plymouth, and the rector hopes to see a large gathering of citizens of Plymouth present. The Rev. Frank Copeland extends the invitation to all who can to come. Christmas eve at 7:30.

This week a Christmas party for the little ones of the church will be given under Mrs. William Henry's supervision, and the Christmas party for the elder members of the school will be given next week.

THE THEATRE

"THE SNOB"

Monta Bell, Harry Rapf's directorial discovery, has hit his third successful film in "The Snob," the Metro-Goldwyn picture which comes to the Penniman Allen theatre, Saturday, December 20th.

Bell, in this picturization of Helen R. Martin's popular novel, has gone far from the usual film plot and treatment. His direction of this play ranks with his first sensational success, "Broadway After Dark."

The story is that of a handsome, personal young snob, an instructor in a private academy, and a favorite lecturer at women's clubs.

The central character is admirably played by John Gilbert, as the young instructor. The "snob," anxious to advance himself by any means, makes ardent love to the daughter of the town's wealthiest man, although he is engaged to a country school teacher.

He becomes the teacher's husband in a death-bed marriage, and she contrary to the doctor's prediction, recovers. The "snob's" treatment of her, his infidelity, and his attempts to release himself from the marriage in order to marry the wealthy woman, his fawning on those of greater wealth and position, and his arrogance to those below him, form the basis of the story.

The school teacher leaves him when she discovers his unfaithfulness, and he, learning that she is really a wealthy woman, begs her to come back.

The character of the snob is developed by many subtle touches under Bell's direction, and the story becomes tremendously entertaining in the telling.

Norma Shearer, who has been making rapid strides on the screen in the last two years, does another good piece of work as the school teacher. Conrad Nagel can always be counted on for a good performance. In this he plays the teacher's friend, Phyllis Hopper, Aileen Manning, Margaret Seddon, Jack Curtis and others of the cast, support the principals to excellent advantage.

"The Snob" was adapted and directed by Monta Bell, and was presented by Louis B. Mayer.

SUNDOWN"

A great deal has been said pro and con regarding the real aristocrats of America. Some have insisted that descendants of the early settlers in New England deserved that appellation, while others give the honor to those who have, by heritage or chance, acquired a huge fortune.

"Sundown," the First National Production, which comes to the Penniman Allen theatre, Sunday and Monday, December 21 and 22, introduces to the world what Earl Hudson, the author, considers the only genuine aristocrats of America—the pioneers who dared to invade a primitive empire and who, by sheer force of will and courage, conquered it.

"Sundown" relates the story of a band of cattlemen, monarchs of the old West, who, having fought for and won their livelihood in the great forests and plains of the West, are being slowly forced by the advance of civilization to seek new lands where their vast herds may graze.

Their grueling battle against the overwhelming odds of the elements—the desert—the heat—the miles upon miles of dry, parched soil—this makes a photo-dramatic effort of colossal production said to exceed anything heretofore depicted on the screen.

"The real aristocrats of America," according to Hudson, who also supervised the production, are enacted by an all-star cast, including Bessie Love, Hobart Bosworth, Roy Stewart, Charlie Murray, Charles Crockett, Wilfred North, Charles Sellon, Arthur Hoyt, Jere Austin and Margaret McWade.

Christmas Giving

Everybody makes Christmas gifts—perhaps one or two, perhaps many. We give for friendship, for affection—above all for remembrance. We want our gift to carry with it a thought of the giver—and to keep that thought alive as long as possible.

This is where electric home-using appliances are especially desirable for Christmas gifts—beautiful, useful, ever-welcome electric devices for the table, the living room, the library, the kitchen, or my lady's toilet. They keep the giver in remembrance the year round.

Choose no Christmas gift till you have looked at the very attractive display of electrical home appliances in our salesroom. Come today, and come early. The days are flying.

Today's Reflections

If gold was as plentiful as tin and tin as rare as gold, we'd be buying sardines in gold boxes and paying for them with tin.

Some young fellows around Plymouth have so much brass it's a wonder the girls they kiss don't die of ptomaine poisoning.

It wouldn't be a bad idea for our people generally to remember that a town is largely judged by the kind of streets it keeps.

The better you know some fellows the more puzzled you are over directions when you read that they have "gone to their reward."

In order to be on the safe side and save repair bills one Plymouth man has taken the mirror out of his car since his wife began driving.

It isn't charitable to give for Christmas something that you don't want yourself—but economical.

The fellow who thinks oratory is a lost art ought to hear one woman telling another woman about the perfectly lovely dress she is making.

Scientists say the ants on Mars are as large as our horses. Wouldn't that be a terrible place to hold a picnic?

When they name a baby "Bob" these days, you don't know whether it's named for its daddy or for its mother's hair.

Ever notice that when you tell the average Plymouth man how smart he is, he goes right out and brags about what good judgment you have?

Ever stop to think that explaining to your wife and arguing with a neighbor gets you about as far as riding on a merry-go-round.

The average Plymouth man's wife can't understand why her husband howls about a missing button when there is a whole paper of pins on the bureau.

It may be more blessed to give than to receive, but most of us are always ready to let the other fellow have the blessing.

If Plymouth men were as scared of the devil as they are of speed cops, there'd be a lot more traffic on the straight and narrow way.

Some Plymouth auto drivers get 10,000 a year out of a set of tires—and others tell the truth.

Our idea of an unfortunate young man is the one whose girl's birthday comes during Christmas week.

O, Christmas Bells!

Ring, gently ring, O, Christmas Bells,
Across the miles of snow,
Ring soft and clear, the day is here
That brings us joy for so long.

Let children sing the wondrous song
That angels sang of yore
At Jesus' birth, of Peace on Earth
Whom men should be no more.

Ring, sweetly ring, O, Christmas Bells,
While morning star shines bright,
The sun's clear beams the happy dream
Shedding the shades of night.

This day to us men here is King,
The Saviour of mankind,
"Peace and Good Will" His message still
With love all hearts shall bind.

Be a Santa Claus!
Almost anyone can be a Santa Claus, and there are plenty of people who are just delighted to have the job.
