PLYMOUTH, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, MARCH 6, 1925

$1.50 PER YEAR

A SANITARY SEWER SYSTEM FOR PLYMOUTH

At the Coming Village Election the Voters Will be Asked to Approve of a Bond Issue of $92,000 for the Installation of a Sewer System and a Sanitary Sewage Disposal Plant.

For a number of years there has been an agitation for the construction of a sanitary sewer system for Plymouth. This agitation has not only come from the citizens of Plymouth, but also from the State Board of Health. As most Plymouth citizens know plans and estimates for the construction of a sanitary sewage disposal plant and the necessary sanitary sewers were prepared eight years ago. The war prevented the construction of the system at that time, and meanwhile the town has been growing and the need for such a system has been increasing with the growth of the village.

Three years ago one-half mile of sanitary sewer laterals was laid on Starkweather avenue, and last fall another half-mile was laid on West Ann Arbor street. The people assessed for these sewers understood they would not receive actual benefit from these sewers for some time, but there is and should be a limit to the patience of these taxpayers.

This spring in connection with the widening of the South Main street pavement in co-operation with the Wayne County Road Commission, it will be necessary to lay another one-half mile of sewer before actual paving can be done. It can be readily seen that it is only a matter of good sense and economy that these laterals be laid before the pavement is constructed, in order that the new concrete will not have to be disturbed.

The Village Commission is now putting up to the voters of Plymouth at the regular election to be held on Monday, March 9th, the proposition to bond for the construction of the sewage disposal plant and enough of the mains to supply an outlet for the three sections of laterals spoken of above. Incidentally of course, these mains will furnish local service in the streets through which they pass, thus giving service to about one-half of the northeastern section of the village and practically the full length of Ann Arbor and Wing streets in the south part of town.

The cost of the disposal plant is estimated to be $35,000, and the cost of the mains to be constructed is estimated to be $79,273, and of this last amount $57,000 is estimated as the proportion to be raised by general tax, and something over $22,000 by special assessment which does not have to be voted on.

The amount of the general bonds to be voted on is the sum of $35,000 and $57,000 or a total of $92,000. This seems like a large amount of money, but a comparison of these estimates with the cost of construction of other similar projects installed recently in our vicinity proves their reasonableness. For instance, Northville's disposal plant cost about $30,000 and the sewers for the entire village about $70,000. Plymouth is a great deal more spread out than Northville, and its sewer system may reasonably be expected to cost proportionately more than Northville.

The plans for the system and the estimates of cost have been prepared by one of the best known consulting engineering firms in this part of the country. A letter to the village manager from the director of the Board of Engineering of the Michigan Department of Health on this subject is as follows:

November 28, 1924.

Mr. Sidney D. Strong, Village Manager, Plymouth, Michigan.

Dear Mr. Strong: Replying to your inquiry of November 25th, I will say that Head, Decker, Shoecraft & Drury have had charge of a number of very important engineering projects in this state during the past eight or ten years. Among these are sewerage and sewage disposal at Muskegon Heights, Muskegon, Cadillac, Jackson, Lansing, Royal Oak, Adrian, Gladstone, Escanaba, Marquette, Grand Rapids, Bay View, Trenton, Ann Arbor and Wayne County Home at Eloise, and water supply and water purification at Highland Park, Monroe, Trenton, Jackson, Negaunee, Iron Mountain, Muskegon, Ypsilanti, Deans and Wayne County Home at Deans.

We find that they give very careful study to their problems and I think investigate more different ways of solving the problem in each instance before arriving at a conclusion than do most engineers. They are very particular to compare the costs of various plans before deciding which is the best one to use.

We have no hesitation in recommending them as high class in every respect and one of the best firms of engineers doing business in Michigan. Very truly yours,
Bureau of Engineering,
Edward D. Rich, Director.

The Commission listening to the chorus of opinions from all classes of citizens have come to the conclusion that the matter of the construction of a sanitary sewer system can no longer be delayed. One of the very first questions asked by people desiring to locate in Plymouth and build new homes, is concerning the existence of a sanitary sewer system. The State Board of Health sends a representative here periodically to inquire if we have yet started this sewer construction, and they are insistent that this work be started at the earliest possible period.

There are then three very important reasons why the Commission thinks this is the proper time to present the question to the voters, and they feel justified in believing that the voters at the coming election should by a substantial majority grant them the authority to issue the bonds and proceed with the work.

Many people who are not familiar with this kind of work, may be interested in knowing about the nature of a disposal plant. This will be situated on the village flats between the former site of the Gayde slaughter-house and the river. In the words of the engineers' report:

The plant is to consist of a screen chamber, Imhoff tanks, trickling filter and sludge beds, together with such piping, regulating devices and other appurtenances as are necessary for the convenient operation of the plant.

So far as possible, all parts of the plant are planned on the unit system, permitting the complete capacity to be developed as the need for it arises. These parts which may be subdivided, however, such as the screen chamber and the main outfall sewer, are proportioned for the ultimate capacity of the plant, which is 1,200,000 gallons a day, based on a future tributary population of 12,800.

Upon being received at the disposal area, the sewage will first pass through a coarse screen or rack made of flat steel bars spaced one inch apart. This screen is put here for the purpose of intercepting sticks, rags and other miscellaneous debris that might later clog the slots and sludge pipes of the Imhoff tanks.

From the screen chamber the sewage goes to the Imhoff tank. This tank is a device for settling out the solids in the sewage, and for decomposing or digesting these solids later through the agency of certain kinds of bacteria. The sewage enters the tank near the center and is drawn off quietly through orifices in the steel trough around the circumference. At times of average flow the sewage requires 3 hours to pass across the tank from inlet to outlet, and during this quiet interval all the solids that are capable of being deposited settle down to the sloping floor of the sedimentation compartment, and presently slide through the slot and sink into the depths of the sludge digestion compartment beneath. Here a large part of the solids is gradually disintegrated and decomposed, a part remaining as ordinary marsh gas, and a part being reduced to simpler and soluble products, which diffuse out through the slot opening and are absorbed and carried to the filter by the sewage in the sedimentation compartment above.

Not all the sludge originally settled out of the sewage is thus gelled or liquified, however. A part of it is composed of plain sand or dirt and other purely mineral substances, and this part of course, is not in any way disintegrated or reduced in volume. There is also a certain amount of mineral residue left over from the liquifying processes just mentioned. In addition, there is a certain portion of the solid organic matter contained in sewage, which resists bacterial decomposition, being somewhat in the nature of the humus or leaf-mold in the forest. These resistant materials gradually accumulate in the bottom of the tank, and, if not removed, would eventually fill it up. In the ordinary operation of Imhoff tanks this residual sludge is drawn off at intervals, being at these times run out in drainage beds of sand and gravel. Here the water content is allowed to drain away, after which the drained and partially dried sludge is shoveled up and hauled away to be spread over farm land as a fertilizer.

Beware the Ides of March

We have proportioned both the Imhoff tank and the sludge beds at Plymouth in such a way that all the drawing off and handling of sludge may be done only during the warmer 6 or 7 months of the year.

The liquid part of the sewage, considerably clarified by its passage through the Imhoff tank, then goes to the trickling filter. This filter consists essentially of a concrete tank about 7 feet deep, and of suitable form and proportions, filled with screened gravel or broken stone about the size of hen eggs, carefully underdrained by means of a special false floor, and provided with a system of pipes through which the sewage is distributed over the filter. The sewage is sprinkled over the surface of the filter by means of a number of sprinkler nozzles spaced at equal intervals over the area, and then trickles down in thin films over the surfaces of the filter stones until it reaches the bottom of the filter and flows out through the underdrainage system into the main outfall sewer, and then to the river. During its slow passage downward through the filter the sewage comes into intimate contact with multitudes of scavenger bacteria and other low forms of both plant and animal life, which have a home on the surfaces of the filter stones. The result is a complete change in the character of the sewage; the sewage being further clarified, its colloidal matters largely removed and objectionable organic materials being largely oxidized into harmless mineral substances.

The distribution of the sewage over the filter is automatic, being regulated by the co-operative action of a dosing tank and the sprinkler nozzles. In fact, the sewage will move through the entire plant, through screen chamber, Imhoff tank, trickling filter, outfall sewer and into the river—without pumping or other artificial assistance. This does not mean that the plant will take care of itself, however. Some man must be charged with the care of the plant and must be trained in its operation. The screen must be raked off once or twice a day; the Imhoff tank will sometimes need attention; occasionally one or more of the sprinkler nozzles of the filter will get clogged and must be unclogged and cleaned. In the summer time the sludge must be drawn off from the tank at intervals, and later must be shoveled from the sludge beds and hauled away. The grass must be cut, the shrubbery and trees must be looked after, and the whole premises must be cared for about the same as a park. For some time to come this should require only a fraction of one man's time in the winter season, but in the summer, and especially during the period when sludge is handled, practically one man's full time will be required.

Lawrence Stallings, literary critic for the New York World, author of several books and co-writer of an extraordinary successful play on Broadway, "What Price Glory," led the vanguard of critics in praise of Eaton's book. Like the other reviewers he lauds Eaton's honesty and fearlessness in presenting rural life as it is. "He shuns the pretty-pretty and writes what his characters think," Mr. Stallings writes and describes the novel as provocative of a great deal of thought.

The New York Times took the book even more seriously. It sees the story as written with a "savagely cumulative, acid intensity," and the main character, Ralph, says, "Next to 'Jude the Obscure' there is no more helpless, baffled, struggling creature in the pages of English or American fiction." Considering that Thomas Hardy, the author of "Jude" is the greatest living English novelist, this is no slight praise from a paper as cautious and conservative in its statements as the New York Times.

From east to west the novel is being reviewed by literary critics and it has yet to meet an unfavorable opinion. The St. Louis Globe Democrat is for the book, so is the Detroit Free Press; so is the Haldeman-Julius weekly, published in Girard, Kansas. The Brooklyn Eagle has gone further, in some respects, than any other paper in praise of the story. "Backfurrow" is a magnificent book," says the Eagle, and continues, "You will groan over the freezing of some young peach trees as if they were your own children. You watch the long, slow, uneven battle between man and the earth, and the seasons with horror but your horror is also fascination. The author knows what he knows. And what he knows about life follows in so deep and so true that none can afford to be grateful to him."

FORMER PLYMOUTH BOY WRITES BOOK

G. D. Eaton, who was born in Plymouth on October 11, 1894, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Eaton, is the author of a novel, "Backfurrow," published by G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York. It will be a book interesting to the people around Plymouth, not only because the author was born there, but because the setting of the story is on a Michigan farm, not many miles from the author's birthplace.

Mr. Eaton's book is the first realistic novel to be written of rural life in Michigan, and one of the first half dozen of its type to be written on country life anywhere in America. The author spent much of his childhood on a farm, and every summer from the time he was nine years old until he was eighteen, when his father died in the country.

The novel has created a sensation in New York, and was not on the stand two days before it was enthusiastically reviewed by the New York World and the New York Times, the two most influential newspapers in the city.

Lawrence Stallings, literary critic for the New York World, author of several books and co-writer of an extraordinary successful play on Broadway, "What Price Glory," led the vanguard of critics in praise of Eaton's book. Like the other reviewers he lauds Eaton's honesty and fearlessness in presenting rural life as it is. And what he knows about life follows in so deep and so true that none can afford to be grateful to him."

The author's parents moved from Plymouth while he was yet a baby, and he got his first education at a rural district school. At Pontiac he entered the grammar grades and finished them in Detroit, where he also went to high school. His education was cut short by the death of his father, and he went to work on the Detroit Journal when eighteen years of age, four years later going over to the Detroit Times, and then entering the army.

He was discharged from the army in 1919 among the disabled, and enrolled at the University of Michigan where he had an eventful career, writing articles in the campus publications and elsewhere which never failed to stir the students and faculty members, some to vigorous approval, some to equally vigorous dissent. He was graduated in June 1923 with the best marks of any of the 200 government students at the University, and was within the two per cent of the 1,800 graduating who had the highest marks.

He is well remembered as the most distinctive student the campus has had in a number of years, and when his book was published the Michigan Daily ran a full page on the volume and on Eaton's history and achievements while at the University.

Since leaving the University Eaton has been doing newspaper and magazine work in New York, where he is now literary editor of the Morning Telegraph.

JOHN J. EDMUNDS PASSES AWAY

John J. Edmunds, son of Willard and Fannie T. Edmunds, was born near Wayne, Michigan, August 9, 1840, and departed this life, February 26, 1925, aged 84 years, 6 months and 17 days. His father came to Michigan in 1834, and settled at Wayne in 1836, where he served as postmaster, supervisor and justice for many years. On April 24, 1863, Mr. Edmunds was united in marriage to Jennie M. Sims, who was called to her heavenly home on January 27, 1907. To this union three sons were given, Frank W. Edmunds of Dearborn, and Willard J. and George P. Edmunds, both of Detroit. On April 17, 1907, he married again, being united to Miss Almira C. MacPhee of Goderich, Ont., who now survives him. There remain therefore, his wife, three sons, five grandchildren, two great grandchildren and a large circle of more distant relatives and friends.

Mr. Edmunds was a life member of the Masonic Lodge of Wayne. Early in life he united with an Advent Christian church, from which his membership was never transferred. His faith was in the Book of Ages, and now he rests in Him.

Funeral services at the home on Sheridan avenue, Plymouth, attended by the Wayne Masons in a body, were conducted Sunday afternoon, at two o'clock by Rev. S. Conger Hathaway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, assisted by Mrs. William Bake as soloist. Mrs. Bake sang, "The City Four Square." Interment was made in the Genung cemetery, near Eloise, with Masonic ceremonies by the Wayne Lodge.

"DIXIE HANDICAP" EXCITING FILM

REGINALD BARKER PHOTOPLAY RATES HIGH AMONG RACING DRAMAS.

For thrills, comedy, beauty and more thrills, "The Dixie Handicap," Reginald Barker's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, which comes to the Penniman Allen theatre, Sunday and Monday, March 8 and 9, is one of the most all-around satisfactory pictures of the year. Rarely have we seen any picture as exciting, or at the same time, as pleasing to the eye. There are several reasons for both.

For excitement there are a number of horse races that surpass anything done before on the screen picturing the "Sport of Kings." The earlier ones take place at a county fair, and the climax race is the international contest between the horse of the film and the English champion. These scenes were taken at Latonia and their authenticity added a good deal of interest to the picture.

Frank Keenan, who has often appeared as a Southern gentleman, has the leading role, that of Judge Jeffrey Roberts, a man of aristocratic birth who has fallen into poverty. Mr. Keenan had the leading roles in "Women Who Give," "Hearts Aflame," "Brass" and "Lorna Doone." Claire Windsor appears as Virginia, the Judge's daughter, a girl who lives up to the best traditions of Southern beauty and culture. It is the first picture Miss Windsor has made for Metro-Goldwyn since the merger of the companies.

The story offers new twists on former tales of the turf, adding scenes of racing life not seen before, and having a "love angle that will appeal strongly to feminine fans."

Johnny Sheridan is saved from imprisonment for stealing a meal by Judge Roberts, when the latter learns he is a well-known horse trainer. Out of gratitude Johnny stays with the Judge through many bitter months of poverty, caring for the Judge's favorite horse, Southern Melody. When Southern Melody is killed while protecting her filly, Dixie, from a cougar, John devotes his time to developing the colt.

Brant Dexter, personal representative of Peter Bosworth, (New York millionaire and race horse fancier) asks the Judge to speak favorably of him to Virginia. As his son-in-law, Dexter tells the Judge he can save him from ruin, since Bosworth has bought all the over-due notes and mortgages. The Judge refuses to make such a bargain.

Learning that Virginia has agreed to marry Dexter in order to save her father, the Judge accepts Bosworth's $10,000 offer for Dixie and sends Virginia to Europe. Johnny, who has formed a great love for Virginia, breathes a sigh of relief.

Because of ill-treatment, Dixie is unmanageable in her first race and stumbles over the barrier, pulling a tendon. Bosworth is disgusted, and is all for shooting the horse, but when Johnny offers him eighty dollars for the crippled horse, he accepts and tells Johnny to take the animal out of his sight.

Under the care of Johnny, Dixie recovers and just as Virginia comes home, runs in the great Latonia sweepstakes. This situation is led up to in interesting style, and the climax promises some of the most exciting kind of screen entertainment.

REPAIRED WATER LINE IN QUICK TIME

The crew of the village water system had quite a strenuous time, last Friday and Saturday. The pressure gauge indicated a leak in the mains supplying the village. In going over the line it was discovered that several feet of 12-inch pipe laying partly in a creek on the Thompson farm had split for several feet. The crew started work on Saturday morning. They first had to construct a dam around the pipe and cut out the damaged section. They had their supper brought to them and completed the job at midnight. During the interval of repairing the pipe line the village got its water supply from the big reservoir. Monday morning the water pressure was a little low for a time, until the pumps were got into action. The village is fortunate in having a crew of workers who are interested enough to put in long extra hours in the cold on emergency work of this kind. The members of the crew are: William Riddeman, William Hayball, August Meyers, Ray Sackett and Loten Baldwin.

PLYMOUTH'S BONDED INDEBTEDNESS

The voters this election are to have the opportunity to vote on the proposition of bonding Plymouth for $142,000.00—$92,000.00 for sewers and disposal plant, $40,000.00 for water improvements, and $10,000.00 for a fire truck. The question naturally arises, what is the financial condition of the village with respect to bonds? Well, it is better than a great majority of towns. On an assessed valuation of $4,000,000.00, the village charter permits a bonded indebtedness of 10 per cent, or $400,000.00.

Our present outstanding general debt is as follows:

Issue of 12-15-04—Water Bonds	$15,000
Issue of 12-15-20—Water Bonds	69,000
Issue of 3-15-22—Refunding Water Bonds	18,000
Issue of 6-15-22—Starkweather Avenue Paving Bonds	6,000
Issue of 9-15-24—Ann Arbor St. Paving Bonds	10,000
Issue of 9-15-24—Ann Arbor St. Sewer Bonds	3,500

Total $121,500

This total is being reduced by $7,700 per year. Thus the total bonded indebtedness of the village, including the issues proposed for this year, would be only $263,500, or practically only two-thirds of the allowable limit. And that is figured on 1924 valuations, which will be materially increased for 1925 on account of the large volume of building done last season.

Plymouth will still be in excellent shape financially if all three of the 1925 issues are allowed. And if Plymouth is to grow and progress, there is only one way to vote next Monday—Yes—on all three. Let's not step backward.

ANNUAL VILLAGE ELECTION NEXT MONDAY

The annual village election occurs next Monday, March 9th. Aside from the election of three commissioners, there are three important bond issues to come before the voters: $10,000 for fire truck, $92,000 for sanitary sewer system, and $40,000 for water system improvements. The following are candidates for commissioners: Harry C. Robinson, John W. Henderson, George Robinson, Frank Rambo, Frank L. Barrows, Henry J. Fisher.

COMPANY INCORPORATES TO CONSTRUCT SPEEDWAY

We take the following from Wednesday's Detroit News, which will be of interest to Plymouth people:

The Motor City Speedway, Inc., which will own and operate a speedway in Plymouth Township for "motor vehicle and other racing contests," filed articles of incorporation yesterday with the Secretary of State. The corporation is capitalized for $500,000, with $60,000, according to its articles, subscribed and paid in. The speedway, it is stipulated, will also be available for testing motors and motor vehicles. The incorporators are Hurd B. Guiney, Edward D. Shea and John W. Troster. The corporation's offices are at 303 Hammond Building.

WILL TAKE VILLAGE CENSUS

A census of the village will soon be taken under the auspices of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce. The village will be divided into districts, with workers assigned to the various streets. Full particulars will be announced shortly.

LET'S BE CAREFUL

"March makes all doctors cringe," declares a Michigan physician in a newspaper article that has just come to our desk. And then he goes on to explain that our blood gets thinner in the change from the cold to the warmer months, and that colds are more easily contracted than at any other season of the year. He declares that a large per cent of deaths would never occur if people realized that the common cold is apt to develop into a fatal malady over night. This warning should be heeded by everyone in Plymouth and strict attention given to warding off colds during the next few weeks, the most dangerous weeks in all the year, according to medical men. Don't be content to believe that it will be gone tomorrow. Listen to those who know more than you do about colds—get right after it the minute you feel it coming on.

GOOD AS A TEXT BOOK

W. F. Bond, state superintendent of schools of Mississippi, recently sent a letter to every school teacher in the state, and for the benefit of our teacher friends around Plymouth we are reprinting it. They will find it embodies a sensible suggestion. Mr. Bond says: "The country newspaper is in reality a country educational institution that does more to form public sentiment than perhaps any other agency in the country. The children of every school should read the paper regularly and discuss with the teacher issues of vital importance to the people of the county. Once a week, therefore the papers should be used as a sort of textbook on good citizenship. There should be in every school a regular correspondent for the paper so that worthwhile things accomplished by the school may be gotten before the people of the county generally."

HOUGH SCHOOL NOTES

During this year the Hough school P. T. A. has carried on a membership contest. The losing side were to give the winners a banquet. The men formed one side, the women the other—each side working to bring in the greatest number of new members. The contest was closed at the last meeting and it was decided that the men were the winners—thus making it necessary for the women to serve the banquet. This they did very efficiently last Friday evening, February 27th. The banquet was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mack. The menu consisted of mashed potatoes, roast beef and gravy, cabbage salad, jelly, rolls, pie and coffee. Miss Edith L. Wellever, Wayne County supervising teacher; Mrs. Smith of Detroit Teachers' College; Mr. Miller, a Ypsilanti Kiwanian, and Mr. Crocker, secretary of the Ypsilanti Kiwanis Club, were guests. Following the banquet they each gave short talks, after which various games filled out the evening's entertainment. An unusually good time was enjoyed by all, and everyone indeed appreciated the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Mack in opening their home for the occasion.

On February 26, the geography helping teachers, Miss Dibble and Mrs. Robinson made their visit to the school. They brought with them a victrola. Miss Dibble taught an appreciative lesson of "America, the Beautiful." Mrs. Robinson gave a short talk on geography work to the children.

Several new collections have been added to the geography museum.

The following pupils were used in the demonstration lesson in geography at the Zone III meeting at Willow Run, Saturday, February 28:

Pauline and Phila Gust, William Kennedy, Lester Reddeman, Jeanette Merriman, Flora Gerst and Luella Swegles. The lesson was of the study recitation type which was the new method used in the zone this month. The lesson taught was in Belgium.

Miss Lois Corbett, Wayne County Home Demonstration Agent, visited the school for a short time, Monday.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

REV. S. CONGER HATHAWAY, A. M., PASTOR

MEN TO BANQUET LADIES

Monday, March 9th, 1925, at 6:30 sharp, the men of the church will give a banquet to the ladies of the church to which all members of the church and congregation are invited. Following the banquet, the annual meeting of the church and congregation will be held; at which meeting reports will be given, a budget adopted for the ensuing year, and such officers elected as our articles of association require. The main address will be given by

Rev. M. E. Anderson, D. D., Pastor of Detroit Immanuel.

BAPTIST NOTES

The snow storm Sunday morning, hindered some of the people from finding their accustomed seats at the morning service. The pastor's sermon was on "The Minority—Not the multitude, not the crowd," Luke 12:32.

Mr. Hamill's class in Sunday-school had the banner last Sunday, for the largest percentage in attendance. That's right, boys, keep it up.

The boys' basket ball team lost again this week, but they are on the gain, and some day look out. Oh, Boy!

The primary department down stairs to have some new equipment, as well as an organ. Miss Mildred Hartford is superintendent.

Kenneth Wilke is to lead the B. Y. P. U. next Sunday evening at six o'clock. Will you be there on time? The subject is "Obedience to Law."

Quite a number signed the petition favoring the new Sunday law now before the Michigan legislature.

METHODIST NOTES

Two Chinese students attending the University will be here next Sunday evening to speak at the evening church service at 7:30. You will want to hear their message. They will also be at the Epworth League service at 6:30. Their coming will add considerably to the study that the Epworth League is having on "China's Real Revolution."

The Missionary Society will meet with Mrs. Whitney next Wednesday. All the ladies are urged to be present.

Sunday-school board meeting at the church in the men's room, next Tuesday evening at 7:30. Every member ought to be present.

Plans are getting under way for our Easter evangelistic campaign. Further announcements will be made later. To the end that every energy of the church may be given entirely for the spiritual interests, the pastor is requesting that as far as possible every other activity be set aside after the 17th of this month until after Easter.

The pastor believes that the Lenten season ought to mean more in the lives of each individual christian. It would be a splendid thing if each one of us would set aside any special social activities during the same period mentioned above, and join with the church in a prayerful observance of these last weeks of the Lord's life while here on earth. A real sacrificial spirit on our part will do more to deepen and strengthen our spiritual life than anything we have attempted before.

The Ladies' Aid Society are planning for a St. Patrick's Day supper on the night of the 17th. We will all be there, of course.

The music of the Northville quintette, last Sunday evening, was highly appreciated by those present.

Next Monday is voting day. Let us not forget to go to the polls.

"Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God."

Mid-week service on Wednesday evening at 7:30. These studies in "The Life of Christ" have been provoking some interesting discussions. Those who have been attending wish that others would come and enjoy the

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

There were thirty-six men present at the class, last Sunday, out of an enrollment of fifty-one. We shall soon be going like sixty! The girls haven't honked yet.

Home Coming Sunday was an inspiring success. Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Daugherty were received into membership, and recognition was made of little Patricia May as a baptised child of the church.

There was a good attendance, too, at the evening service. My, how Jimmie can sing! And how he can make others sing; Miss Genevieve McClumpha is to be credited for planning the song service.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church will hold its regular monthly business meeting at 2:30 p. m., Monday, March 9th, in the lecture room of the church. As this is the annual meeting all the ladies are urged to be present to hear the reports of the officers, and assist in electing new officers.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wood were painfully injured in an auto accident, last Sunday night. The church extends sympathy and prayer for speedy recovery.

The pastor spoke at five services last Sunday. Rather a full day.

It may be a coincidence, but nevertheless a fact, that our largest attendance lately has followed the eclipse on Saturday and the earthquake on Saturday. What will happen when the Lord shall "shake heaven and earth?" See Hebrews 12:25, 26.

"IN THE HOUR OF TRIAL"

When the Titanic sank, the name of God was upon every lip, and the heroic musicians went into eternity playing a hymn.

Explorer Scott's last written words, as he calmly faced death in the frozen south, linked the three great obligations, God—Country—Family.

Man is an incurably religious animal.

Many persons go for months and even for years without giving any serious thought to religion. Then, of a sudden, in the hour of calamity, the mind turns naturally to God.

How much more honest and fair it would be to turn to God every day, and give Him a rightful place in our lives. We would be so much happier and healthier, too.

The Christian church and its ministers seek to help you in every hour of need.

NEXT SUNDAY AT 7:30 P. M.

Hung Chang, from Chile, China

Aud another Chinese, both students at the University of Michigan, will speak. You are invited to hear them.

Day of Small Towns

Coming in America?

That the modern city is doomed is the rather startling statement of Henry Ford. According to Drew Pearson, writing in Automotive Industries, Mr. Ford declares that in the America of the future there will be no mammoth collections of skyscrapers and teeming tenements in which millions of people are cooped within a few square miles of territory. Instead, the country will be traversed by chains of small towns clustering around individual factories and inhabited by people who will divide their time between factory and farm. The picture of the America of tomorrow which Henry Ford paints, says Mr. Pearson, is a particularly rosy one. In his opinion, the passing of the big city will mean less crime, less poverty, less wealth, less unrest and less of that fierce, nervous strain under which myriads of our city dwellers live today.

Something like this, agrees the Philadelphia Record, will have to be brought about in order to correct the growing monstrosity of our big cities. There are some four hundred of these in the world whose populations exceed one hundred thousand, says the Washington Post. In Mr. Ford's opinion:

"The overhead expense of living in such places is becoming unbearable. The cost of maintaining interest on debts, of keeping up water supply, sewerage and sanitary systems, of cost of traffic control and of policing great masses of people is so great as to offset the benefits of the city. The cities are getting topheavy and are about doomed."

"Industry in the future is going to be organized on a big scale—somewhat along the lines of the vertical trust. Competition, however, will force big industry to move its various parts to the country, where labor is steady and overhead costs low."

"At the same time, it is nonsense to say that because the cities are overcrowded everybody ought to move to the farm. There must be a balance between the two. The farm has its dull season, when the farmer can come into the factory, and the factory has its dull season when the workmen can get out on the land to help produce food."—From the Literary Digest.

Find City of David

Excavations in progress for six months in Opel, close to the area where stood the Jewish temple, seem to have revealed this as the indisputable site of the city of David, according to Rev. J. Garrow Duncan, director of the Palestine exploration fund.

His explorations have led him to what he is convinced is the eastern side of David's city, where he has discovered not only a wall 27 feet thick and which he has traced for 200 yards, but also a magnificent tower of David. He is certain he has discovered the real Jebusite wall of the fort, which was standing when David took it in the year 1000 B. C., says the Kansas City Times.

The discovery of the remains of the ancient city of David is of great interest to archeologists, who have long debated the location of the original site of ancient Jerusalem. Mr. Duncan says in addition to finally settling the point, he has been able to prove the site where David's city stood has been continuously inhabited for more than five thousand years, some of the pottery unearthed at Opel belonging to the cave-dwelling period of three thousand years B. C. and before.

But Not the Collection

Snoot Gulch, a metropolis of the great open spaces, had at one time supported a small church, but the population had slowly dwindled until it was impossible longer to collect enough money to pay the parson's salary. The parson, therefore, doffed the cloth and established a lunch room near the station.

One Sunday night a traveler who had regularly passed Snoot Gulch dropped in at the lunch room and ordered supper. After having waited for more than a half hour without being offered more than a glass of water, he called to the former parson.

"Yes," replied that gentleman.

"I was just wondering, parson, said the traveling man, "if you had cut out the Sunday evening service."—Judge.

Best Not to Be Hasty

The earth is neither round, flat, square nor hollow, but is crooked and shaped somewhat like a dumb-bell, says Charles Series of Elmira, N. Y. This is too bad, because it means that all the old geographies in the schools which show the world to be round will now have to be thrown out. Perhaps, however, it will be wise not to be too much of a hurry about it, as some one else may shortly tell us that the earth is three-cornered or six-sided like a die, or a string of sausages or a bunch of bananas.—Pittsburgh Magazine.

Mr. Robison had been an invalid for two years, having been injured in an automobile accident. Besides his widow, who was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Rich of Lapham's Corners, he leaves four children from seven to fifteen years of age. The funeral was held at the home in Detroit, Friday afternoon, and burial was in Lapham's cemetery beside his two children, who died within a few days of scarlet fever about fourteen years ago.

NEWBURG

Rev. Havens preached to a large and appreciative audience, last Sunday. This being the first Sunday in Lent, his subject was, "The Temptation of Jesus," making an earnest appeal to the young people to resist temptation. Mrs. Ed. Smith sang a solo, entitled, "Alone," accompanied on the piano by her son, Howard. There were seventy in attendance at Sunday-school. A good interest is kept in the Epworth League. Mrs. Ed. Smith will lead the meeting next Sabbath evening. They are planning a community banquet and entertainment to be given March 18. Further notice next week. Prayer and bible study every Thursday evening at the parsonage. All invited to these services.

We wish to correct two mistakes made in last week's account of the Patriotic meeting. Rev. D. D. Nagle of Plymouth, gave the talk on Lincoln, instead of Rev. Havens. On account of his school duties the latter was unable to be present. The second should have read Benjamin Rhead instead of John Rhead.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bassett and Mr. and Mrs. James Bassett called at Ford hospital, Monday evening, to see Mrs. Rose Ryan, who was operated on for acute appendicitis, last week Wednesday, finding her very weak. However, the doctors say there are hopes of her recovery. She has the sympathy of her many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. William Clark of Highland Park, took Sunday dinner at the Ryder homestead.

I. Gumsolly is sick with the "flu."

A number from here are drawing their milk to Plymouth, on account of the closing of the milk depot at Newburg.

The children and grandchildren of George Chilson helped him to celebrate his 80th birthday, Tuesday. His many friends extend congratulations.

CHEVROLET CLOSED MODELS ON DISPLAY

Because of the fact that only open cars were on display to the hundreds of thousands who viewed the new Chevrolet at the various dealers' showrooms throughout the country early in January, it has been decided to make a special display of the new closed models locally, beginning the week of March 9th, at the Allison-Bachelor Motor Sales, of Plymouth. Although but few dealers have had any considerable number of the closed models, sales of the closed body types have run into the thousands, the majority of which were purchased from a reading of the specifications and a photograph of the particular closed model desired.

Particular interest is attached to this display of closed models due to the decided public preference for the closed car, as attested by the fact that schedules of production for the current year call for more than fifty per cent in this body style, for the first time in the history of industry.

The bodies of the three closed cars in the Chevrolet line—the coach, coupe and sedan—are built by Fisher and have the rounded curves and graceful lines that have come to be associated with all the products of this company. They have the "VV" one-piece windshield with regulator located above the windshield and automatic windshield wiper controlled from the dash.

The closed cars, like all the body types, are equipped with cowl lights and new instrument board, refined and designed for maximum leg room.

All bodies are finished in Duco, the new and lustrous finish which is practically impervious to damage, and all bodies are finished in color other than black. Chevrolet is the lowest priced car to introduce Duco on all its standard body types and also the lowest priced car with all models in colors other than black.

The coupe is finished with lower panels and hood in sage green, upper panels and fenders in black. The coach is finished in a rich, dark blue with fenders in black—special artillery wheels and balloon tires. The sedan is finished in aqua marine blue on the lower panels and hood and a deep black on the fenders and upper panels. Both the coupe and sedan are equipped with balloon tires and disc wheels.

There is a dome light in coach and sedan and robe rail in sedan.

These models have all the new mechanical features of the new line—new, improved dry-plate disc clutch, semi-elliptic springs and entirely new, strong rear axle with banjo-type pressed steel housing. The new and heavier channel steel frame, 28 inches longer, with five sturdy cross-members gives the chassis a rugged construction indicative of the longer life built into the car.

The new Harrison radiator shell of highly polished non-rusting airplane metal is in keeping with the beauty of the new stream-line bodies.

Many improvements and refinements have been made in the famous Chevrolet motor.

Farmers Urged to Coöperate

Better to Start Right Than Later Be Compelled to Reorganize or Fail.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Farmers are being urged by the United States Department of Agriculture that in forming co-operative marketing organizations careful consideration be given the economic need for such organizations, and that the advice of competent co-operative marketing experts be sought. There are thousands of successful marketing organizations in the United States, but there are also numerous failures where associations have not been founded on fundamental economic principles. It is better to start right than later to be compelled to reorganize or possibly fail, the department points out.

Studies by the department of more than 10,000 co-operative organizations now in existence, and which comprise approximately 70 per cent of all such associations in the United States emphasize the fact that success in co-operative marketing cannot be won overnight. These organizations, some of which have been in existence more than 20 years have at times been put to severe tests, but through loyal membership, singleness of purpose, and businesslike management have weathered the recurring storms of economic conditions.

History of Co-Operation.

The history of agricultural co-operation in the United States runs back to the Civil war. The first cheese factory was established in 1863, and the first organization of fruit and vegetable growers in 1887. Two organizations of grain growers were formed in 1887, followed in 1890 by an organization of live stock raisers. The movement developed slowly and over a long period of years while these and other pioneers were putting their theories into normal practice. Other associations were established and the principles of sound co-operative methods were demonstrated until in 1900 there were several thousand farmers' organizations in existence.

The movement was given great impetus during the next 20 years. By 1905 numerous grain organizations had been formed and each year saw an increasing number of grain growers banding together to market their commodity. Live stock organizations were also formed in increasing numbers during the next 15 years, until in 1920 the peak of the movement in all commodities was reached. More than 800 organizations now in existence and reporting to the department were formed in 1919; in 1920 there were established 973 associations now functioning, and in 1921 there were organized 776 associations. The years 1921-23 saw the formation of state-wide cotton and tobacco organizations.

Number of Organizations.

The total number of farmers' organizations in the United States is now in excess of 12,000 with a membership of about 2,000,000 farmers, and doing an annual business of more than $2,500,000,000. Seventy per cent of all the associations are in the 12 North Central states, which states include the great corn and wheat producing areas. Six per cent of the organizations are in the three Pacific coast states.

There has been an increase of nearly 200 per cent in the number of associations since 1915, according to the department's record; the membership has increased 300 per cent, and the estimated amount of business has increased 200 per cent as measured in dollars.

The local associations were the first historically and are still the most numerous, the department says. They are created by farmers of a single community to perform services which can well be performed near the producing areas. Primarily these functions are assembling farm products and preparing them for market.

About fifty federations of local organizations are reported as now functioning in the United States. These federations determine policies regarding standardization of products and the preparation of products for entering the channels of trade. They usually develop and handle the advertising and selling campaigns, and all matters of transportation and legal affairs.

The centralized or state-wide association which combines the functions of the local and the federation has come into prominence during the past five years. There are now about fifty organizations of this type operating throughout the country, including fifteen large cotton associations, seven big tobacco associations, and numerous state-wide associations handling other commodities.

Concentrates Are Best

for Farm Work Horses

Corn and cob meal has been fed quite successfully to horses in a few instances; however, it should not be ground too fine and probably would improve it to mix some oats with it. However, if horses are receiving a great deal of other roughage or bulky feed it would not be best to feed too much corn and cob meal, as horses are different from cattle and sheep in that they require a more concentrated ration. Corn and cob meal is a very poor fattener, as the cobs contain so much fiber, and large enough quantity cannot be consumed to put much fat upon the body, almost all of the digestive part of the ration being used by the body for maintenance and energy rather than to lay on fat.

SCHOOL NOTES

Miss Forsythe, the music teacher, went with fourteen from the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth grades, to the last of the concerts given for children, who enroll in the music memory contest, at Orchestra hall, last Monday. Friday, March 6th, ten of this number will compete at Orchestra hall in the final contest.

Grades 6, 7 and 8 are enrolled in the Detroit News spelling contest, the outer belt schools being in a district by themselves. Grade champions are first chosen, then school champions and finally district champions. These compete in a final metropolitan "spell down," and the winner gets a trip to Washington to a national contest.

Two new members were elected to the Girl Reserves: Myrtle Rogers and Louise Spicer.

DEARBORN VS. PLYMOUTH

In a fast hard-fought game, Plymouth girls tied Dearborn on our own floor, last Friday night. At the start we had the tip-off and gained a small lead, which our opponents were unable to surpass. When the whistle blew at the end of the half, the score was 14 to 8.

Through increased efforts on Dearborn's part, the score became a tie, and then wavered between the two. Dearborn was one point ahead with one and one-half minutes to go, when Plymouth scored a basket. The referee called it an overhead throw, counting only one point for the home team, and so the score ended 18 to 18. Dearborn decided not to play the tie off, therefore her chance of championship rests entirely with her game versus Northville, which will be played this Friday at Dearborn.

Margaret Amrhein scored 16 of Plymouth's points; W. Draper, 2; D. Hillman played in the forward for a short time. G. Bird and J. Whipple kept the ball at Plymouth's end a good share of the time, and E. White and E. England played a good game as guards.

The boys' game was 20 to 8, in favor of Dearborn. Dearborn has first place in the league at the present time.

OBITUARY

The sudden death of Miss Amelia Ann Strebbling, last Saturday evening, February 21st, was a shock to her relatives and friends. "Mellie," as she was more familiarly known, accompanied by the family of Grover Place of Elm, was about to enter the State Fair grounds, where the Shriners' circus was being held, when she was stricken with apoplexy and death overtook her while she was being rushed to the Highland Park hospital. She was fifty-three years of age, having been born on the Strebbling farm, Lamphere road, February 13, 1872, and had lived in Redford and vicinity all her life, during which time she had endeared herself to many who will feel her death a distinct loss, as she was loyal to her friends and gave of her best in serving others. Besides a host of friends, she leaves to mourn her death, five sisters, Mrs. William Shear, Mrs. E. E. Rocker, Mrs. George Mosher, Mrs. M. J. Furnham, Mary A. and four brothers, Frederick, Charles J., Edward A., William R., and several nieces, nephews and other relatives. The funeral was held from the Strebbling homestead, Tuesday, Rev. Modern Courtship Not as Some Remember It

This will interest nobody except middle-aged men who have a bald spot and a twinge of rheumatism in the left knee. It concerns the way of a man with a maid.

The technique of courtship has changed greatly in three decades. In the old days the maid sat in a parlor to be wooed. Perhaps she sat on a squeaky stool to play an organ or a piano. If she did, you stood beside her to turn the music. You did not hear the music. Your only sensation was one of delight in the beauty of her six-inch pompadour as seen from above. If she did not play, you sat on a thing called a sofa and studied her whiskered ancestors in an album. At times your heads almost touched and little shivers ran up and down your back, writes one who knows in the Baltimore Sun.

Little things meant much in those days. The first time you held her hand you were thrilled as by a visitation of angels. The youngsters won't believe this, but it is true. You lost all sense of time and space, and just sat there numb with ecstasy.

And then the great event! It was a moonlight night, and the reins were slack on the dashboard, and the road ahead of spring was in you. You kissed her! Oh, my gosh! Right smack on the mouth! There wasn't any rouge in those days, and very little powder, and you didn't taste a blessed thing but girl! How commonplace—how utterly paltry and wearisome Paradise would have seemed to you then!

How long ago! How long ago! The modern maid is just as sweet, for all her shorn tresses and silken legs, but the way of the man has changed. He drives up in front and honks and he doesn't help her in. She doesn't need help. Given a running start, she could jump in without opening the door.

They don't hold hands. And a kiss doesn't mean very much to either of them. It is just a substitute for conversation. It takes the place of the family album. And it has strange flavors.

How wonderful to be wise! But how much more thrilling it was to be green.

Successful Australian

Sir George Brodman, regarded in Australia as the "Father of the Gold Mine," that held of rich deposits which has yielded millions of pounds sterling, is a native of Glasgow, but became a resident of Adelaide at the age of two. He began his career as a grocer. In 1883 he formed a small syndicate with a capital of 150 pounds ($700). With this trifling investment was made the mammoth discovery that, eventually, developed 12 great mining properties. Six years after the organization of the syndicate the shareholders went into one of the most remarkable liquidations on record. For the capitalization of the various properties represented a total of 9,275,750 pounds sterling ($38,000,000). Sir George was a member of the legislature for eight years and during the war rendered most efficient service. He is noted for his generosity. His donation of 15,000 pounds made possible the establishment of the Adelaide school of mines. He is identified with many philanthropic and patriotic organizations in Australia.

Looked Suspicious

Speaking of caddies being of more or less assistance to players recalls that Jim Barnes, the Pelham Country club professional, has a very caustic sense of humor which reveals itself at the most unexpected moments. In a very important match he fell so far from grace as to hook a long tee shot into some apparently very bad rough. Everyone was anxious to know what would be his fate. His caddy had hurried forward and incited the ball, sitting serenely on a nice tuft of grass. A galleryite rushed back to impart the glad tidings. "It's all right, Jim," he boomed. "Your caddy says it's all teed up."

"It ought to be; he's been in there long enough," laconically replied "Long Jim."—Judge.

Prime Minister Slipped

The other day in parliament the prime minister made a strange slip for an old parliamentarian. He referred to the gentlemen in the gallery, whereupon there were sharp cries of "Order!" For it is one of the curious customs of parliament that a member must assume that no one is looking on. If attention were drawn to the fact that strangers were present the speaker would, by the ancient rules of the house, have to clear the public galleries. On this occasion Mr. Speaker turned a conveniently deaf ear to the references.—London Opinion.

Interesting Sight

"What is happening over there on the opposite side of the street?" asked a recently arrived guest. "One man is lurching up and down, waving his arms and yelling like a lunatic, while another man is regarding him with what appears to be silent contempt."

"Aw, one of 'em is old Sam Swiggs, who drinks such infernal bone-dry hicker as we get here, and now is drunk and entertaining the Jim-Jams. The other fellow is deaf-and-dumb and imagines Sam is trying to explain these 'ere crossroads puzzles to him," replied the landlord of the Petrus tavern.—Kansas City Star.

MUCH LIKE CAMERA IS THE HUMAN EYE

Optic, However, Infinitely Superior in Operation.

Quite simply, the eye is a camera, with a series of lenses arranged in a dark chamber; the iris serves as a shutter, and the object of the whole apparatus is to form on the retina—the sensitive plate at the back of the eye—an image of the object photographed, says a writer in My Magnifying Glass, London.

When a beam of light comes from the object it passes through the cornea and other layers of the outer part of the eye. All of these substances are rather complicated. But think what happens.

An ordinary photographic camera needs painstaking adjustment in order to obtain clear images of near or far objects. An opera glass must have its lenses screwed backward and forward. So must a telescope, in a much more prodigious way. But the eye focuses itself on near or distant objects without winking. It is as quick as thought. This is what is called the eye's power of accommodation.

What the eye does is first to contract the pupil, making it smaller when looking at a near object, and then to alter the front surface of the lens making it more curved, or, let us say, more convex. When the eye shifts its gaze from near to distant objects the eye lets the front surface of its principal lens get a little larger and flatter. It does not do all these things without our knowing it; we wish it done, and it is done. But we scarcely realize the number of eye muscles, six at least, which are called into play when focusing.

As for the sensitive plate behind the eye, that is even more wonderful; and, after all our study of it, it is not altogether understood yet. It is a plate with ten layers, of which the most important that we will mention are the rods and cones, the granular layers and the nerve-fiber layers. The rods and cones are really the ends of the nerves that lead to the brain. They are sensitive to light, which is to say that when the beam of light coming through the lens falls on them it actually alters them. In the outer parts of the rods there is a stuff called visual purple, and when light falls on this it first becomes yellow and then colorless. The visual purple is, let us say, the chemical of the photographic plate of the eye. But the really wonderful thing about this retina, and all the layers of which it is made up, is that it is not merely sensitive to light; it can tell what sort of light. It can distinguish color. It is for ever taking instantaneous moving color photographs. It has a wonderful command of color. It can see, not merely the chief colors, the big six—red, orange, yellow, green, blue and violet—but all the mixtures and gradations of these.

It has been noted of them that they can be arranged by the eye in octaves, and a great painter usually employs a range of four octaves, or 32 hues.

Dig Wells in River Bed

Digging wells in the bed of a river to save the water supply seems like nonsense, but that is what engineers in the Santa Clara valley in California are planning to do for the sake of the 116,000 acres of prime trees. The usual method is proposed as a means of keeping the natural water supply from running into San Francisco bay. The region normally is provided with abundant artesian water from the mountains. Few years it has percolated into the underlying gravel beds where it spread to the entire valley, but lately clay washed down with the freshets has formed a sort of blanket over which the water has passed without sinking into the lower strata. The "inverted wells," as they have been called, will penetrate this accumulation of silt and allow the streams to soak down to their natural reservoir of gravel and coarse sand. Advocates of this plan point out that it will save the cost of building large dams and other irrigation projects.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Sea Delivers Coal

On the beach of Buchhaven in Fife-shire, Scotland, the sea piles up coal some two or three feet thick. From the town come men, women and children with buckets, boxes, bags and wheelbarrows to get the family supply. From the country come farmers on their horses with bags to get their share. The coal is actually mined by the sea. Ground swells break away the seams outcropping in the Firth of Forth and slowly carry the treasure to the shore. In stormy weather the product greatly increases.

Baby Plane Flies High

A remarkable new type of baby monoplane was completed recently by Edwin F. Allen, a test pilot, of Washington, D. C., who succeeded in flying it to a height of 1,800 feet. The little plane is equipped with a 9-horse power motorcycle engine and weighs only 200 pounds. Its wing spread is 27 feet, and it can make 63 miles an hour.—Popular Science Monthly.

Twine From Pine Trees

String that is said to be as strong as that made from hemp is being manufactured from the pulp of pine trees by a southern paper company. Popular Mechanics Magazine reports. The long fibers of the wood, three times the length of those of the spruce, are well adapted for making linc cordage and the product is reported to be especially fitted for wrapping twine.

THE THEATRE

"TOMORROW'S LOVE"

Agnes Ayres comes to the Penniman Allen Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, March 11 and 12, in another entertaining picture of the first year of newly married life—"Tomorrow's Love," adapted for the screen by Howard Higgin from the Saturday Evening Post story, "Interlocutory," by Charles Brackett.

When it was decided to make this picture devoted to "the perfect husband," Paramount's bachelor director, Paul Bern, was selected to direct. Bern, who made "Worldly Goods," in which Miss Ayres appeared specializes in domestic dramas and his latest embodies a humorous sequence of events in the life of a young couple, portrayed by Miss Ayres and Pat O'Malley, leading man. Bern, however, denies that his remarkable understanding of the trials and tribulations of married life is responsible for his bachelorhood.

One of the finest casts ever given Miss Ayres supports the star in this picture. O'Malley, on the strength of his excellent performance in "Worldly Goods" again is leading man. Raymond Hatton, one of the clever comedy character actors on the screen today, has an important part. Ruby Lafayette, who played the grandmother in "Hollywood," has an eighty-year-old modern grandmother role in "Tomorrow's Love." Jane Winton, former Ziegfeld Follies beauty, who appeared in the William de Mille production, "Locked Doors," has her first real screen opportunity in this picture. Little "Spec" O'Donnell, clever and freckled (hence the "Spec") has an amusing office boy part. Dale Fuller plays a maid.

"Tomorrow's Love" is Agnes Ayres' best.

"LOVE'S WILDERNESS"

Hollywood and New York's Broadway unite their dramatic strength in "Love's Wilderness," in which First National will present Corinne Griffith at the Penniman Allen theatre Saturday, March 7th.

Supporting Corinne in this picture are two prominent Broadway stage players, who were brought to Hollywood to create the leading male roles. They are Holmes Herbert and Ian Keith.

Another stage celebrity in the cast is Maurice Cannon. Cannon was brought over by First National from France, where he was leading juvenile with the Comedie Francaise in Paris.

Playgoers of older memory will recall two other faces in "Love's Wilderness," reminiscent of stage fame of two decades past. They are David Torrence, brother of Ernest, who was leading baritone in "The Geisha" and other comic operas that were all the rage a generation ago, and Emily Fitzroy, as well known as she was on the English and American stage twenty years ago.

This picture presents the lovely Corinne in a new dramatic element—totally different in spirit from that of "Black Oxen" and "Lilies of the Field," in which she scored tremendously. It is the story of a young southern girl who runs away with an adventurer and takes her through scenes in Canada and the South Seas. Robert Z. Leonard, directed.

Today's Reflections

Isn't it about time they are holding a disarmament conference out at Herrin, Illinois?

The modern test of will power in Plymouth, is to work crossword puzzles or leave them alone.

Beverages containing more than one-half of one per cent alcohol will be sold as long as we do not have 100 per cent law enforcement.

It's hard for the average Plymouth man to understand how a millinery store can go bankrupt.

Many of the sealskin coats sold during the winter, were worn by rabbits and pussy cats last fall.

It has been our observation that the man who pities himself never does much of anything else.

Most Plymouth married men will tell you that the only time a bachelor has the best of it is right around housecleaning time.

Many a man congratulates himself that he has reached the top when he has only been laid on the shelf.

There wouldn't be many marriages in this country if all young women looked like the printed pictures in the fashion magazines.

Why is it that a Plymouth man will spend hours praising the biscuit mother used to make and never mention anything about the dough his father used to make?

As a general rule the proof of the pudding is what it does to you after you have eaten it.

We can't help feeling that when old Gabriel blows his trumpet there will be some people stubborn enough to criticize his music.

About the only thing left these days that a nickel will buy is a shine on one shoe.

Why will some Plymouth auto drivers continue to refer to a certain class of people as "road hogs" when even a hog has more sense than to take a chance on being killed.

TAKES PART IN GROUND-BREAKING

Lyman S. Judson, well known Albion College Senior, was one of the two speakers on the program when ground was formally broken for the new two hundred thousand dollar Stanley Kresge gymnasium at Albion College.

The ground-breaking was a culmination of over twenty years of effort on the part of the college authorities, and was attended by Alumni, Trustees, Faculty and student body. After his introduction by the chairman of the Building Committee, Mr. Judson, president of the student body, spoke on "The Development of the All-Round Individual," pointing out the necessity of correlating physical and mental training.

Following Mr. Judson's address, President John L. Seaton of Albion College, spoke for the faculty and trustees.

The Stanley Kresge gymnasium, named after the son of S. S. Kresge, member of the Board of Trustees of Albion College, and former Albion foot ball star, will occupy the entire western end of the college campus. Patterned after plans embodying the best features of the "Big Ten" gymnasiums, the building will form the keystone of a proposed quadrangle of new structures, finding completion next September.

Do not forget about the St. Patrick's dance given at the Penniman Allen auditorium, March 17, by members of Our Lady of Good Counsel church.

ELM

Sunday-school at the school house next Sunday as usual. The superintendent urges everyone to be present, as it will be the annual election of officers. It was a year ago this month that the Sunday-school was organized and it has made in just the year a wonderful record.

The Parent-Teacher Association held their monthly meeting on Tuesday, March 3rd, 1925. This meeting was the annual election of officers. All present officers were re-elected to serve another year. Mrs. George D. Michelin Jr., as president; Mrs. Richard Smith, vice president; Mrs. Walter Sharrow, secretary; Mrs. Fred Wilson, treasurer. The association are making plans for an entertainment to be held in the next two weeks, notice to be given out later. Five new members joined our P. T. A. The Farmerettes Thimble Club girls sang their club song and "Because I Love You." Mrs. Scott Davis and Wm. Spencer, both teachers of Elm, have extended an invitation to the officers in charge of the district zone meetings for the March meeting of this district to meet with them at Elm. The P. T. A. will serve a noon-day luncheon, and it is hoped that every member will try to put this affair over big. We want you to come and help and also stay for the afternoon program. They always have a splendid program with an address by an outside speaker and you will be fully repaid for your efforts.

The little folks sewing club gave an afternoon party and tea, with their mothers as special guests. They gave a fine musical program and served dainty refreshments. Helen Wolfram, Loena Shaffer, Marygale Shaffer, Hazel Hogan, Ruth Michelin and Beatrice Michelin took part in the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Winterstein of Dearborn, had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Wilson last Saturday.

Miss Cleo Maher spent the week-end with relatives at Howell, Mich.

Mrs. Edna Ellis, daughter of Noble M. Cunningham, who died recently, has been confined to her bed ever since her arrival from Missouri.

Viola Mauk has been out of school all this week with LaGrippe.

Miss Cochrane, the helping teacher in this zone visited Elm school, Thursday last.

The primary room have a new tooth brushing chart. Each child receives a gold star for brushing their teeth twice a day.

Mrs. Davis attended the zone meeting last Saturday at the Brainard school.

Rhea Rathburn and Beatrice Michelin are back in school after a long absence on account of illness.

Miss Beatrice Douglas spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Wm. Grammel in Superior.

Mrs. Robert Douglas has just returned from a three weeks stay with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Grammel of Superior. Mrs. Douglas is rejoicing over the arrival of her first grandchild, a little daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Grammel.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Davis were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Innis of Plymouth.

Miss Lois Corbett, Wayne County Demonstration Agent visited the Farmerettes Thimble Club meeting Tuesday afternoon, and examined the sewing the girls were doing and gave a little talk.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Shaffer entertained a large party of friends at their new home on the Plymouth road last Saturday evening. The time was passed playing cards and Mrs. Shaffer served a midnight lunch.

"Help Boost Elm." Phone any news you have to 7021 R4, Redford.

Three local P. T. A. members, Mrs. Fred Wilson, Mrs. George Bentley and Mrs. George Michelin, attended the Founder's Day program of the Wayne Council of P. T. A. at the Northwestern High school in Detroit on Friday, February 20, 1925. This month all the associations are celebrating the 27th birthday of the national order, and the 8th birthday of our Michigan association. There was a rousing response in the community singing of P. T. A. songs sang to the good old familiar tunes.

After the important business (most of the regular business having been suspended) Mrs. Stringer introduced the speaker, Mrs. Edgar Keifer, of Port Huron, our state president. I wish everyone could have heard her talk. Her appealing, magnetic personality at once attracted her audience, and inspired all that in our field was a work as in no other organization. She gave many suggestions for dealing with our boys and girls, and how to solve their misunderstandings, urging us to come into more personal contact with them, to encourage them to come to our meetings, to learn their little kinks, also their qualities, and to keep them interested, as only the idle child is in mischief.

She impressed on us not to expect tooth brushing chart. Each child receives a gold star for brushing their teeth twice a day. The child does not discriminate between the different laws. If we drive 45 miles an hour when the law says 25, or if we break the 18th amendment, why should not the child break those laws he may see fit.

Mrs. Keifer called our attention to our general talk in the home, that though the child may apparently be playing, nevertheless he is always alert to what we are saying, and if we talk lightly of the scandals and sensational affairs that cover the pages of our newspapers, they are going to make a lasting impression on that child.

"Be more neighborly. I cannot say too much to encourage parents to know the parents of the children their child plays with," said Mrs. Keifer. "And don't forget that perhaps the neighbor you shun most and that you think unfit, may be the parent of the 'gang' leader your boy plays with.

So many people, when asked to join a P. T. A., say: "Well, what will I get out of it." Mrs. Keifer's answer is: "Nothing." The association is purely a work of service. You don't GET, you GIVE, and the parent isn't worthy of being called father or mother if they are not willing to give that service.

There are four objectives in P. T. A. work—1st, Training of parenthood; 2nd, Things of the home; 3rd, Training in the value of education; 4th, Self education. Mrs. Keifer tried to impress upon us how closely the home was tied to the school in all the school objectives—1st, Health; 2nd, Vocational training; 3rd, Command of fundamental tools and prophet; 4th, Recreation; 5th, Good citizenship; 6th, Ethical character. In all but the third of these, the home should play the biggest part, and it doesn't do it. We have been pushing off our duty onto the teacher, and expect her to accomplish her own job and ours too. So let us realize our part and do it ourselves. Never say "Don't" to the child, if you want him to stop what he is doing. Suggest something else for him to do. So many parents say, "My child is no better than the rest." But Mrs. Keifer smiled and said, "Well, folks, mine are better than the others. Why shouldn't they be to me. And if you parents are fair and honest, down deep in your heart your child is best. Of course, they are."

Mrs. Keifer said she guessed she was like the colored parson that had exchanged pulpits with one of his white friends. The colored parson noticed the white minister had written his sermon, and said to him, "Why, laws man, don't you know the devil am a'lookin' ova you shoulder and he's am a'goin' to go all 'round through de congregation an' tell 'em all about what you going to say?" The white minister then asked the colored parson if he didn't ever write his sermon down so he could refer to it. "Oh no, no. I've never do. Neither me nor the devil knows what 'se a'goin' to talk about."

A silver collection was taken at the close of the meeting. Every organization takes this collection his month, and sends it to the National treasurer. It is used to extend the P. T. A. in other countries. The combined offerings last year amounted to $5,000.00.

The council served a lovely birthday cake.

The robin's song and crisp young onions will soon inform every citizen of Plymouth that old spring is ready to make her report on hog jowl and dandelion greens.

How About Your Table Service?

The charming thing about table setting is that it is more and more coming to be a creation of one's individual taste. Indeed, many a woman unable to get domestic help, has found a new delight in her table through handling her fine linens, china, glass and silverware herself, and making them express her inborn love of beauty and good taste.
