METHODIST YOUNG PEOPLE'S CONFERENCE HELD HERE

Young People of the Ann Arbor District Were Guests of Local Methodist Church Last Week Friday and Saturday.

The Methodist young folks of Ann Arbor District poured into Plymouth last Friday, to the tune of close onto 300, the occasion being their annual convolve. Nearly a hundred remained over night, and many came back next day.

The conference opened with a banquet on Friday evening, after a brief tour of inspection of the new Community House, which has become a center of interest and attraction to young people all over the district. Following the banquet, basket ball preliminaries were pulled off, as the opening shot in an enthusiastic tournament.

Dr. H. Addis Leeson, district superintendent, and Dr. Frank Kingdon of Lansing, were the banquet speakers. Dr. Leeson in a very unique way telling of his four years' work among the young people of the district. In opening his remarks he told of there being 86 churches in his domain with 56 pastors looking after their needs. He told of nationally known places (by name at least) in the district including Napoleon, Waterloo and several others, and oddities as expressed in the names of charges were also illustrated.

Dr. Frank Kingdon gave his young peoples' lecture, "Living Foursquare" in which he brought out the relation of God to man; man to himself; man to man; man to God. While the evening was hot and sultry and the young people anxious to get into the preliminaries of the basket ball games the speaker with his rapid fire and all inspiring address held his audience of 300 young people with rapt attention to the last. In his closing thoughts he brought out that young people should never be satisfied with what they can reach, but give their all and continue to reach higher; let God have his way with them and they will never regret it; closing with the query "Is your life hitting absolutely on all four cylinders, if not clean out the carbon of low ideals, sin and selfishness and be true to yourself by living foursquare."

Charles Hill of Ypsilanti, presided at the first half of the Saturday morning session when the various phases of christian young peoples' work was presented by Mrs. D. D. Nagle of Plymouth, Miss Mabel H. Chapman and Rev. W. S. Westerman of Ann Arbor, and Miss Mildred Jackson of Pontiac.

The success that can be attained with a junior church was shown by Rev. Harley Bingham of Pontiac, which has the finest Methodist junior church in the district. Mrs. Peter F. Starr of Monroe, spoke of the new era that is before the young people of Methodism. At the annual election of the District Epworth League officers the following were chosen: President, Miss Mabel H. Chapman, Ann Arbor; first vice, Miss Florence Swenk, Adrian; second, Rev. W. S. Westerman, Ann Arbor; fourth, Miss Ruth Bayler, Ypsilanti; secretary, Margaret Nash, Pontiac; treasurer, Arthur Tyrell, Dundee. The district is still honored with having the district president a member of the State Epworth League cabinet, Miss Chapman being state secretary.

The district officers practiced their slogan of recreation being a part of religion rather than apart from religion by having a basket ball tournament with the 1925 conference. The teams playing and their scores follow: Ann Arbor, 16, vs. Newburg, 8; Pontiac, 42, vs. Chelsea, 7; Plymouth, 41, vs. Northville, 4; Dundee drew a by; Ann Arbor, 17, vs. Pontiac, 15; Plymouth, 24, vs. Dundee, 18. The leaders, Ann Arbor and Plymouth, played off for district honors, Ann Arbor winning by the score of 39 to 16. Only two girls' teams were scheduled in which Ypsilanti defeated Plymouth with a score of 11 to 9.

TWO NEW COUNTY PARKS

The county park trustees were authorized last week by the supervisors to start making improvements in the two new public parks both received by gift during the past year. For the Plymouth and Northville, the expenditure of $7,000 was authorized; in Victory Park, on the Huron river road near Belleville, improvements to the extent of $3,000 will be made at once.

BIG CONVENTION HERE IN JUNE

MICHIGAN FUNERAL DIRECTORS AND EMBALMERS' ASSOCIATION MEETS HERE JUNE 23, 24 AND 25.

On June 23, 24 and 25, Plymouth will entertain the Michigan Funeral Directors' and Embalmers' Association. The occasion is the forty-seventh annual convention of the association. Through the efforts of F. D. Schrader, president of the association, the convention was secured for Plymouth. Never before has a town of this size been chosen as a place for the holding of this convention, but Plymouth will show the world that she is equal to the occasion.

The convention will bring more than a thousand people to Plymouth. Of course, Plymouth has not got hotel accommodations to care for but a very small portion of this number, but the citizens of the village will be asked to open their homes to the visitors. Most everyone has a spare room that they would be willing to place at the disposal of the entertainment committee, who will have this matter in charge.

The bringing of the convention to Plymouth will be a great advertisement for Plymouth. These visitors will come from every part of the state, and when they return home from the convention they are going to do much to advertise the beauty of our town and the many advantages we have to offer to the person looking for a home site or to those who are seeking industrial locations.

It is expected that the coming convention will be the largest and best that the Michigan Funeral Directors have ever held.

The Plymouth Chamber of Commerce will make every effort to make the convention a success, and every citizen should be glad to co-operate with them.

HIGH SCHOOL GOSPEL TEAM PRESENT INSPIRING SERVICE

The Union Service held at the Methodist church last Sunday evening, was one well worth while. Before a well-filled house, four members of the Hi-Y and two members of the Girls' Reserves took charge of the evening hour of worship, and proved to the satisfaction of parents, teachers and friends, that the new High school organizations for the development of the Christian ideals of life are functioning in splendid manner.

Pierre Kenyon, president of the Hi-Y, acted as leader of the group, and went ahead with the service as though he had been at the job all his life. After several rousing songs by the congregation, and prayer by Rev. Hathaway, the High school quartette sang, and later, the Girls' Reserves sang a special selection. A choir made up of members of the two organizations occupied the choir loft, and assisted greatly in the service.

In the following order each speaker presented some phase of the Christian ideal of life; and the part these organizations play in the development of the same: Gaylord Sayles, Forest Hubert, Elsie White, "Pat" Murphy, Juanita Coe, Pierre Kenyon. One could not but think as one listened to them speaking, that if all the young folks of this day could grasp the same high ideals of life as these young folks have, we would not need to worry about the kind of world the next generation will have to live in. Each one of these young people revealed splendid possibilities of service, and very ably presented their themes.

Rev. Sayles closed the service with the benediction.

A blaze which originated in the stormhouse at the rear of the house occupied by Fred Wagonschütz on South Harvey street, called out the fire department Thursday forenoon. Quite a little damage was done to the kitchen and the rear of the house.

All Hail the Queen

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BANQUET A SUCCESS

They hope they have started something, the Junior and Senior Girl Scouts and the Girl Reserves. Last Monday night they asked their mothers to enjoy supper with them, and to listen to a program given by them at the M. E. church dining room. There were 139 present, in fact almost every Scout and Reserve brought her mother or a member of her family. The Hi-Y boys served the meal, a matter of pure friendly service on their part, for there was neither pie nor ice cream in the menu; they seemed to enjoy helping the girls even as the girls had enjoyed serving for them.

Elizabeth Burrows spoke for the Junior Scouts, telling what the Scout laws were and what the attitude of the mothers meant to the girls in their endeavor to live up to those laws. Dorothy Melow gave a history of the Girl Reserve movement, the code of the national organization and the local purpose written by the local group. She also indicated which of the code purposes seemed to the girls the most difficult to live up to, these are apparently also the most difficult for adults, namely, to be impartial in judgment, victorious over one's self, to see the beautiful, and to be always sincere. Alice Hathaway, speaking for the Senior Scouts, gave a toast, "To Our Mothers," closing with the wish that we might make every day a real "Mothers' Day."

Defending the Younger Generation, did not seem at all difficult for Mrs. Hillman, speaking as a mother. In fact, she thinks we are just as good as we used to be and considering the greater complexity of life, we meet this with more courage, more confidence, and with more frankness. The last speaker was Miss Carrie Williams, a clothing specialist in the extension department of the Home Economics course at the Michigan State College, to which place she has recently come from New York state, recommended as one of the best in her field. We had planned to have Mrs. Campbell of the same department, but President Butterfield had been forced to use her in place of others who were ill, and she had to send a substitute. Miss Williams stressed the vocations open to girls who might specialize in home economics work, and she showed the widened horizon of the home so that it touched the fields of food and textile chemistry, medicine, nutrition and others.

The girls' organizations of the High school are hoping a way may be found to continue a function of this kind on an even larger scale.

"WILD DOGS" ROUNDED UP

More than 100 men, armed with shot guns and rifles, took part in the hunt for "wild dogs" in a large tract of woods north of the village, last Sunday. Very few people in the village were aware that "wild dogs" were in such close proximity to Plymouth, until they read the accounts of their depredations in the Detroit papers. The hunt last Sunday resulted in the rounding up of twenty canines, nine of which were puppies that were dug out of a hole. It is said that the dogs have been preying upon the chickens and geese of the farmers of the vicinity for the past year, but have displayed unusual craftiness in eluding the hunters.

GAS COMPANY WILL MAKE EXTENSIONS

The Plymouth & Northville Gas Co. will commence work next week on extending the gas mains on a number of streets in the village, and when the work is completed, which will be in about sixty days, about everybody in the village will be able to obtain gas service if they desire it. Extensions will be made on the following streets: Adams, North Harvey, Forest, South Main, Deer, Fairground, Fair, Mill, Amelia, Rose, Liberty, Pearl and in Virginia Park.

"SAFETY FIRST"

"Safety First," a three-act farce comedy will be given at the Gleaner hall, Newburg, Friday evening, May 8th, by the members of the P. T. A., for the benefit of the school. ANNUAL MEETING OF W. C. T. U.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held Thursday, April 23rd, at the Methodist church, with a good attendance.

Plans were made for a meeting of the "Law Enforcement League" at the Methodist church, May 3rd, with an address by Rev. S. C. Lecklier.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. Clara Todd.
Recording Sec'y—Mrs. L. Clemens.
Corresponding Sec'y—Mrs. W. Bartlett.

Treasurer—Mrs. G. Smith.

After the election of officers, a short program was given. Several vocal selections by Misses Barbara Bake, Alice Hathaway and Ruth Allison, with Miss Coe at the piano, were greatly enjoyed. Miss Leona Beyer gave two pleasing piano solos. Mrs. Tina Bovee, in a very impressive manner, recited "College Oil Cans," and in response to a hearty encore, gave a charming little bit of comedy. Miss Nettie Pelham recited two original poems, "The Bobs" and "An Awakened Conscience."

In conclusion a social hour was enjoyed, and ice cream and wafers were served, the latter being kindly donated by Mr. Patrick.

A tea meeting will be held Thursday, May 28th, at the home of Mrs. Albert Stevens.

NOTED PEDESTRIAN HERE

A noted pedestrian is visiting in Plymouth this week, in the person of George Mitty, great uncle of Oscar Matts, at whose home he is for a few days. Mr. Mitty is 81 years of age, and is still hale and hearty. He walked from Detroit to Plymouth, by way of Wayne, Tuesday. His mother lived to attain the age of 103, and his father 100 years of age. About nineteen years ago, Mr. Mitty walked to California. In 1881, he resided in Canton township.

KENNETH BARTLETT ELECTED TO HONORARY FRAT.

Kenneth Bartlett, who was a member of the Varsity debating team at Albion College, this year, has been elected to membership in Delta Sigma Rho, the national honorary forensic fraternity. Although Bartlett is only a Sophomore on the Albion campus, this has been his second year of intercollegiate debating.

Kenneth is the second key man, who has received his early debate training in Plymouth High school, the first being Lyman Judson, who was elected two years ago. This outstanding record should be an incentive to continued excellence in debate and oratory among our High school students.

WILL OPEN BASE BALL SEASON

Sunday afternoon, May 3, the Detroit House of Correction Farm base ball team will play the strong Windsor Athletics. This is the opening game of the season on the farm diamond, and the Plymouth fans are cordially invited to come and inspect one of the finest base ball grounds in the state.

An addition to the grand stand has recently been completed, and grading and leveling is going on so that the opening day will see a completed ball park.

The farm officers are confident that victory will rest with them Sunday, but they also realize it will be a tough battle, as the Windsor boys have been visitors before this season, on the farm lot, and have shown real ball playing.

It is expected that quite a few Detroit City Officials will attend the opener as Captain Denniston's guests, and a like invitation is extended to all the Plymouth friends of the Officer's Team.

While driving near Dixboro, Wednesday afternoon, a car driven by Henry Wright of this place, accompanied by Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Plato Hough, became stalled on a hill, and in attempting to back the car down, it went into the ditch and tipped over. Mrs. Hough had her right arm broken in two places. Mr. and Mrs. Wright escaped unhurt.

People in Plymouth appear to be keeping up their reputation of having clean premises.

The new fire truck passed its acceptance test, last Friday afternoon, very satisfactorily. The figures, as given by T. H. Kay, engineer with the Michigan Inspection Bureau, who conducted the test are as follows:

Two-hour test—792 gallons per minute at 132 lbs. pump pressure.
One-half-hour test—397 gallons per minute at 204 lbs. pump pressure.
One-half-hour test—273 gallons per minute at 251 lbs. pump pressure.

Last Friday evening after our own tests, some of the women and American-LaFrance representatives, took the new truck to Northville and showed our neighbors how it worked. They were much pleased with the demonstration.

Mr. Reddeman has been improving the appearance of the Mill street Booster Station grounds by grading and by setting out two trees. He also has been setting willows along the Rouge on the flats to keep the banks from caving.

FLYING FLIVVERS

The Ford plant has commenced to turn out airplanes and within the past few weeks has established its own freight-carrying airplane between Detroit and Chicago, on a regular schedule. The new Ford plane, which may some day reach an enormous output, will carry 2,000 pounds of useful load at 130 to 140 miles an hour. Officials contend that within five years regular freight-carrying airplane lines will be in operation all over the country, and especially in the south, where strawberries, oranges and other fruits can be carried direct from the truck patches into New York city in a single day's flying time. Thus will the expense of refrigeration and packing be saved, and the consumer should be benefited through lower prices. In other sections perishable products can also be carried to market by airplane, and the producers saved from heavy loss encountered when they have to depend upon trucks or trains. We've predicted for a long time that Plymouth will at a not far distant date find herself on an airplane route, and now that Henry Ford has gone to making planes we look for that prediction to come true in a hurry.

IN LEGAL TERMS

One thing that makes legal advice costly is that so few of us can say what we want to say in legal terms. For instance, if a Plymouth man wanted to give a friend an orange he would simply say, "I give you an orange." But if he had to trust it to a lawyer—and pay legal rates—here is about how it would sound in writing:

"I hereby give and convey to you, all and singular, my estate and interest, right, title, claim and advantages of and in said orange, together with all its rind, juice, pulp and pips, and all rights and advantages therein, with full power to bite such and otherwise eat the same or give the same away, with or without the rind, skin, juice, pulp or pips, anything hereinbefore or hereinafter or in any other deed or deeds, instrument or instruments of whatever nature or kind whatsoever to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding."

WHERE WE CAN HELP

Ask any Plymouth housewife what constitutes the greatest problem of spring cleaning, and she will tell you it is finding a way to get rid of various articles that have accumulated about the house for which she has no use. Things that are too good to destroy, but which have been replaced by something else, take up room that is badly needed. And yet the housewife knows that once they are put away they are there to stay, collecting dust and rust and cobwebs and doing nobody any good. Right here is where we want to offer a suggestion that may help out. Surely there is someone in the community who would be glad to get the very things you want to be rid of. They would gladly pay a reasonable sum for them, too. So why not kill two birds with one stone—get rid of these articles for which you have no use, get a little money out of them, and at the same time confer a favor on a neighbor who would be glad to get them. A small sum spent for a little reader or two in the columns of this newspaper will do the work—and thus will be removed one of the big problems of housecleaning.

OUR INSECT ENEMIES

According to newspaper dispatches from various parts of the country, tremendous damage has been done by forest fires and insect enemies in the past few weeks. In Massachusetts fires spread so rapidly that many farm homes were destroyed, and patrols have been formed to fight the flames raging in Virginia and West Virginia.

But fires are not the only enemies of our forests and orchards. In the last twenty years, Maine has lost 40 per cent of her spruce and fir forests through the ravages of the bud worm. The tent caterpillar has done great damage to poplars, a tree valuable to the paper interests; the gypsy moth has stripped many varieties of trees in the New England states, and Massachusetts alone has spent $22,000,000 in the past few years fighting it. The pine tree blister—brought over from Europe in tree shipments—is also taking a heavy toll in the south and west.

Right now when insect and vegetable life is getting a good start is an excellent time for residents around Plymouth to do their bit toward stamping out our natural tree enemies. Look over the trees on your place and destroy every appearance of insects before they begin to propagate, and before they have appeared in such large numbers as to make a successful fight against them impossible. Watch closely for the appearance of caterpillars, and if you are not posted on other destructive insects you can easily find someone in the community who can inform you about them. At any rate, look after your trees because each year finds them more and more valuable, even though to you they are held only as an object of ornamentation.

A PLEASANT EVENT AT HANFORD SCHOOL

A day long to be remembered was that of Wednesday, April 22, when parents and friends of the Hanford school to the number of twenty-five came with well-filled baskets and surprised both teacher and pupils. Miss McGinnis and the pupils soon showed that all were welcome, and after partaking of a good dinner of roast meat, scalloped potatoes, pie, cake, pickles and fried cakes, the men of the district tried to show the boys how to play ball. You need only to ask the boys who were the better players. The rest of the afternoon was spent listening to the regular lessons of the day, which brought back memories of old school days. The guests from out of the district were: Mr. and Miss Harris, Mrs. Sayles of Plymouth, and Mrs. Dixon of Ypsilanti, a former teacher. The afternoon was well spent, and all agreed that they would try and meet again some time in the near future.

MODERN TREND IS ALL FOR SHORTNESS

Abbreviation Seems the Order of the Day.

Longer days mean "shorter" women. For there is an epidemic of abbreviation abroad.

Women have shortened their hair, their skirts, their sleeves, in fact everything that could be shortened in their modes.

Their manners have been subjected to the same process. Engagements are shorter and marriages also.

Social life is a succession of brief functions. Dinner is the merest snapshot before a short dance in one place and a short drive to the next. Petrie Townshend writes in the continental edition of the London Mail:

"Life is short and art cannot be long" is the modern woman's motto. She will not look at a picture unless its effect is obvious and can be seized in a glance. She prefers short to long stories, and even her novels are arrangements of epigrams. Her letters are reduced to brief notes.

Absence of brevity means presence of boredom to women, who prefer even their proposals to be made by telephone. It is quicker to cut off a rejected suitor than to discuss him.

There is also an idea abroad just now that quickness means slowness. The short skirt means the perfect figure and the short skirt enables plenty of strenuous exercise to be taken even in London. Even stockings are turning into socks for the tennis player, and gloves must end at the wrist.

Short hair means a short way with meals and a quick dressing time.

If brevity is the soul of wit the shortened dinner table of today (it is rarely made to seat more than eight persons) should scintillate with sparkling conversation. Modern women's remarks, however, are so short that they tend to be unossifiable. It is the fashion to omit all pronouns and as many verbs as possible and to rely on allusion for the rest.

Conversation is carried on in a society cipher and those who hold the key do not appear to find the expanded form particularly enlivening. Still, shorter small talk is probably a boon. Shorter engagements mean more marriages. The finding-out process takes a little longer than the conventional six weeks, which is all that can elapse between the curt circular notification and the wedding day.

With every occupation cut short, the hours should be long, but the most frequent complaint of the modern woman is that she is so terribly busy:

"The days are so short!"

The Change

"Well, how's everything been going on arounds whilst I've been away?" asked a citizen who had been over in Oklahoma for a number of years. "Any changes took place?"

"You betcha!" returned Cap Johnson of Kumpus Ridge. "Three new houses have been built, the whole Harker-Smith and Hellbender families have wiped themselves plumb out with their funds, 'most everybody it could hurt has been killed off by bone-dry ficker, Lem Lummocks has married ag'in—you know, his first wife had a wart right yur on the pint of her chin; well, his new wife has got one on the back of her neck—and I'm down in tuther side of the back from what I used to be. Aw, there's a heap of changes took place whilst you've been gone."—Kansas City Times.

Corned Beef Heroes in American History

Corned beef and cabbage was responsible for the Titan race of New Englanders that dominated art, commerce and literature until it was discovered that blond Nordics were, after all, very inferior and that the real vintage manhood came from southern Italy and Ukraine. Then they sort of faded away.

In the old days, and it is perhaps so now, you took a piece of case-hardened beef from the most durable part of the ox. You soaked it over the winter in salt brine. This destroyed the taste and perfected the vulcanizing. Then you took the big iron pot off the hook in the woodshed, filled it half full of water, and put in the meat. You also put in potatoes, carrots, a cabbage, onions, turnips, rutabagas, or what have you, and set the pot on the back of the stove and went on about your business. When it was dinner time, you took the pot into the depth of the back yard and poured out the water. Then you ran back, because that water, if approached too intimately, would destroy one's taste for any kind of dinner. Then you served the remaining material on one big dish. The corned beef tasted like carrots; the potatoes tasted like cabbage; they all tasted like onions. If you have ever eaten it you will get the general idea.

The path breakers, the empire builders, that passed westward along the Oneida trail and the Mohawk valley in the forties, were corned beef and cabbage-eating Americans. They went to Ohio and grew up and became presidents, just as others stayed in Boston and ate cod, and still others went to Vermont and perfected the savory fire-breast of the succulent bean. These comestibles are food for heroes and prophets. They are the just and proper stimulants for dwellers on "a stern and rock-bound coast." Roger Williams, and Old Trapper Blackstone, and Betsy Stark and Col. Lazy Putnam ate them. "Don't give up the ship," cried Lawrence in the thick of battle. Certainly not. They hadn't any cabbage, but the hold was full of corned beef. There is still a lot of corned beef in our national institutions, and well it is for us.—F. M. K. in McNaught's Monthly.

Ingenious Machines

At a recent German motor show there was exhibited a tank-pow. A caterpillar tractor working like an army tank drew a plow.

An automatic potato digger has been designed that the inventor says will prove a wonderful labor-saving machine on the farm. It not only digs up the potatoes, but discharges them in windrows for pickers.

Looking like a huge mosquito, a new machine is said to be able to bore a hole three feet deep and nine inches in diameter in half a minute. The machine looks like a small engine on four wheels, and carries a huge corkscrew-like drill in front of it at the end of two braces. A pull on a lever is sufficient to start the drill downward. Another pull stops it at the desired depth and brings it back to the starting point. The inventor built his original model from 23 pieces of farm machinery.

Good for the Circulation

Carlhandt Blecker said at the annual Parrot ball at the Ritz-Carlton in New York:

"The new fashions are transparent. Well, we're used to that. But have you remarked—I know you have, of course—the return of the slashed skirt? The short, very tight skirt with a long slash at the left side has returned, and it's—well, it's a revelation.

"A grand dame, got up in transparent blouse and slashed skirt and all the rest of it, stopped at my table in a restaurant the other day at luncheon time and laughed and said: "I love those new fashions. They make me feel so girlish, Carlhandt. Every time a man looks at me I blush."

Compromised Position

Transit Commissioner John F. O'Ryan of New York was countenancing the proposal to do away with all surface and elevated cars in favor of trolleys.

"It can't be done," General O'Ryan said, "and any nump who says he can do it is in exactly the same ridiculous position as Mr. Hake.

"Mr. Hake got home one morning at dawn. His wife listened to his explanatory words for a few seconds, and then she barked:

"Sitting up with a sick friend, eh? Bah, go brush the rouge and powder out of your mustache!"

Sounded Like "Dime"

I was attending a Sunday school festival in church. When it was time for the collection to be taken, a strange woman who was sitting back of me said what I thought was, "Have you got a dime?" Much surprised, I handed her one.

You can imagine how I felt when she replied, "Not a dime. Have you got the time?"—Chicago Tribune.

Restoring a Lost Art

The radio and the movies have been of tremendous benefit in acquainting a hysterical world with the benefits of the process known as "slowing down." They have taught people to sit quietly for hours at a time, relaxed and silent. Listening was a lost art in this country until the radio came along.—New York Telegraph.

China's Great Population

China's population is about four times that of the United States, according to latest estimates.

ANCIENT CLOCKS SHOW INGENUITY

Examples of Clever Workmanship Are Many.

From early days there seems to have been a demand for curious time-measuring machines, particularly so in the Seventeenth century. The various and ingenious clocks made have portrayed the inventive ability of our ancestors.

In the famous Cathedral clock of Strasburg the four quarters of the hour were struck by four figures, each of them representing a certain portion of human life. A child with an apple struck the first quarter, a youth with an arrow followed, a man with a staff performed the third, while the fourth was announced by an aged man with a crutch. The hour was struck by Death himself.

Another curious clock was worked by balls which rolled down inclined planes, finally being swallowed up by brass serpents, whose bodies the balls traversed before being thrown up again by means of Archimedean screws. A plate filled with water in which a tortoise swam, turning and indicating each hour, was yet another marvelous method of timekeeping. The brim of the plate constituted the dial.

We have records of very old clocks which faithfully exhibited processions of saints whose manifestations of obedience to the Virgin and Child revealed not only the religious views of the inventor, but also his aptitude for novelty. Other ancient timekeepers, ingenious, but less fanciful, perhaps, displayed the motions of the sun and moon and the ebb and flow of the tide. George the Third invented a clock which, it is said, was capable of recording daily the rise and fall of the barometer. The registration was performed by the aid of a pencil—floating on the surface of the mercury—which traveled a circular card divided into 365 parts by radiating lines.

It is more than a hundred years since the illumination of the dials of public clocks was first introduced. Glasgow being the first city to adopt the idea. At the present day we have the electro-magnetic regulation of clocks, which is by no means new to us, and also the electric clock which goes for three years; one recently invented is guaranteed to keep good time for ten years without attention.

Metal Mountain

A mountain practically made of metal has been discovered in Italy. It is Mount Amata, in the Tuscan Apennines.

Tests reveal the presence of an extraordinary amalgam of different metals, including aluminum, manganese and mercury. The presence of gold is suggested by the fact that the sand of the River Ombrone close by contains gold. Green Jasper, which is generally found with gold, has been discovered in the mountain.

Offers for the exploitation rights have come from France, Germany and Russia.

A curious point is that some time ago an aged hermit, considered mad because of his lonely life on the mountain, prophesied the discovery of gold, and was ridiculed.

Developing Palestine

Palestine is not suffering from over-population, but, on the contrary, from underdevelopment. The newcomers have not taken land from anyone else, only hitherto waste-land, unimproved land, which they have irrigated, fertilized, tilled, and they are producing over considerable tracts of country, evidence of prosperity which have been lacking for hundreds of years. They are bringing money with them. They are setting up schools, developing towns, roads and communications. They are still few in number—something over 100,000—but they promise to give a new prosperity to Palestine, in which the Arabs can share, if they care to.—London Chronicle.

Argentine's Textiles

The textile industry is becoming quite well established in Argentina. Cash cotton and wool cloth, hosiery, blankets, etc., being turned out. The mills are comparatively small as yet, and are established mostly in Buenos Aires.

However, Argentine still imports from Europe and the United States, the finer grades of cotton cloth, fine suitings, etc. Argentine is a great wool producer, and is beginning to grow cotton, so I believe that within a few years she will be entirely self-supporting in the matter of textiles.—William H. Barbour, in Adventure Magazine.

Them Was the Days

A display in a store window of this city indicates the old-fashioned valentine, not the "come," but the sentimental, lacy kind with bluebirds and hearts and forget-me-nots. Cupids and pretty girl faces, and cloying words of sweetness in verses of sentiment are coming back. These valentines are made in Germany and were very popular in grandfather's and grandmother's day—they were little boys and girls'—and the sight of them will bring back tender memories.—Lyons (Kan.) Republican.

WAYNE COUNTY HAS A BIG PROGRAM FOR 1925.

One of the most ambitious road improvement programs ever conceived in relation to the development of Wayne county will be started almost immediately, with the ultimate end in view of improving every mile of road within its limits.

The improvements already under way and contemplated for the ensuing year embrace some 70 miles of paving, 18 bridges, several grade separation projects and an extensive grading program in preparation for the 1926 activities.

A broad definition of what Wayne county hopes to attain in a modern highway transportation system thru the huge development of the past few years, and with clear-sighted vision and foresight into the needs of the future, may be summarized as follows:

Make every mile of road an improved and easily accessible means of transportation.

Every bridge made safe and of adequate width.

Pedestrian paths along all trunk lines.

All railroad grade crossings separated.

The entire system lighted.

All ditches closed.

Public comfort stations to serve the traveling public in a sanitary way.

All roads planted and maintained in slightly condition.

All advertising signs, poles, etc., removed from the highways and all wires placed underground.

Some of the more important projects started about April 20 are as follows:

Plymouth road west of Plymouth, and working toward the village, will be paved for a distance of approximately 12 miles. This project is known as the Plymouth-Ann Arbor improvement, the federal and state highway departments assuming 75% of the cost and the county 25%.

The super-highway is to be paved west of Michigan road to the village of Wayne. The improvements include a 24-foot concrete pavement on the north side. This is one of the first roads which to any extent has acquired the super-highway width of 204 feet.

In addition to these improvements, the commissioners have mapped out an extensive maintenance program during the spring and summer, which will be of use to the community as quickly as possible.

In addition, the commission plans to complete seven more bridges this year, four big grade separation projects and plant some 8,000 trees throughout the county.

As a comparison with this pretentious program the commission report the following work done or in course of operation in 1924:

Over 901,750 square yards of concrete road of a thickness of nine inches laid, representing a linear length of 65.13 miles of new road and 14.16 miles of old concrete road widened. Slightly more than five and one-half miles of gravel roadway was built in outlying sections of the county of Washtenaw. Some 60 miles of road were in course of grading and numerous drainage structures built, as well as a number of smaller road improvements completed.

Electricity in Homes

There is now approximately a billion dollars worth of electric labor savers and cooking appliances in use in the electrified homes of the United States. Of these appliances the most popular is the iron, of which there are now 8,350,000 in household use.

Rural Mail-Box Stand

In order to do away with unsightly rows of individual mail boxes set on posts at crossroads, groups of farmers in many communities fix their mail boxes to large discarded wagon wheels set on the ends of fence posts.

Hoats Summon Students

University of Maine students are summoned to classes by the hoofs of a half dozen horns mounted on electric-light poles at points of vantage about the campus.

Rather Expensive

A grocer in North Illinois street scribbled on his front window: "Fresh Eggs—35c Doz." Someone with a sense of humor had done a little erasing, which left the sign like this: "Flash Eggs—35c Doz."

Memorial to Forester

At McVeytown in Pennsylvania there stands a six-ton boulder to which is attached a bronze tablet bearing in bas relief the figure of a man in hunting costume standing on the rocky brink of a deep chasm.

Railroads Use Much Steel

Railroads of this country used more steel and iron than any other industry last year and building and construction work claimed the next largest amount.

Ancient Works of Art
A vase with a secret, a Fifteenth-century Chinese production, with a "secret" design, the only known specimen of the period of the Emperor Hung Chih (1488-1505), has just been acquired by the British museum. It is decorated with green dragons, but the "secret" design, almost invisible at first sight, represents rocks standing out of waves, and was traced very finely and faintly with a needle stylus before the vase was glazed. "There is no special significance so far as I know in these secret designs," said an official of the museum. "It is simply a feature of Chinese art." The carved figure of a bull found in Babylonia, and believed to be about 5,000 years old, minus legs, arms and tail, has also been added to the collection. It is thought that it was used for religious purposes.

Death Penalty for Laziness
The Incas were a great agricultural people, and the remains of their canals and aqueducts may be seen in many places along the coasts of Peru. They had no rich and no poor. The state did everything for its subjects, interfering in all things, even in the affairs of private life. There were three classes—the royal family, the priests, and the people. The chief priest and the head of the army were drawn from the royal house. Every man of twenty-one and every girl of eighteen was compelled to marry. To every child a piece of land was given—a boy getting more than a girl. All the work was done by the people, and every person—man, woman, and child—had his or her allotted share of work to do. No one was permitted to be overworked, but no one dare be lazy under penalty of death.

First "Athenaeum"
The "Athenaeum" was a temple in ancient Athens, sacred to Pallas Athene. There the poets and philosophers were accustomed to declaim and recite their compositions. There was also an athenaeum at Rome erected by the Emperor Hadrian in 125 A. D. It was founded for the study of poetry and rhetoric, had a regular staff of professors and existed as the Schola Romana until the Fifth century. Smaller institutions existed at Constantinople, Lyons and Nimes. The word "atheneum" has been applied in later times to any association or building devoted to literary or artistic purposes.—Kansas City Star.

Odd Form of Dictation
A prominent merchant in a Western city has as his private secretary a young deaf and dumb woman who is an expert in lip reading. He dictates his letters in the ordinary way, except that he invariably faces the secretary, and her work is as satisfactory as that of any other young woman in his office.

STATUES OF LAVA ON EASTER ISLAND

Modern Scientists at Loss to Account for Cult.

Easter Island, in the South Pacific, which recently was reported to have vanished in a submarine convulsion, still waits its fabled patrons in air. Capt. Alfred King sends to Illustrierte Zeitung, Berlin, an account of some of its peculiarities.

"In former times," the captain writes, "the tribes and clans on the island lived in constant warfare with each other. The captives were eaten. Many human bones still lie about in the caves of the island. The original Kanakas had a very queer cult, for which they built gigantic statues of lava. The biggest of these statues is that of the thunder god. It is twenty-one meters long and seven meters wide and weighs twenty tons. Whether these stone monuments were idols or the statues of famous island personalities cannot be ascertained.

"Some of the monuments carry a mysterious hieroglyphic script. There are about 555 of these giants, the tokens of former civilization. In 1863 the island was discovered by Peru slave dealers, who caught the majority of the Kanakas and took them by force to the Peruvian guano islands, where they died of epidemics.

"The island people own wild chickens and pigs. The chickens fly like pheasants and stay at night in the trees. The owners identify their chickens by cuts on the toes. Wildcatters are the only game on Easter Island. Daytime is determined by the position of the sun. Tobacco plants grow on the island. The natives use banana leaves as cigarette paper; they always carry a provision of banana leaves at their belt.

"I could never quite find out how marital conditions were on the island. It seemed to me that marriage among members of the same household was prohibited. A violation of this law was punished by putting both offenders to death. Otherwise there was complete prenuptial freedom. Cautious fathers shut their daughters up."

Have to Practice Shooting

The reason Argentines rank among the best shots in the world, as shown in various international rifle contests in past years, is that marksmanship is obligatory upon every male citizen of Argentina between the ages of eighteen and forty-five. This is a part of the Argentine system of compulsory military instruction. Not all citizens have to serve in the army, its ranks being recruited by lot, but those chosen may reduce their one-year term of service by three-fourths if they take the marksmanship course. Those not chosen are obliged to take the course anyway. Statistics recently issued by the ministry of war show that during last year 44,000 citizens took lessons at the 130 rifle ranges in the country, and shot 4,500,000 cartridges.

Task for Pianist

Cortot, the celebrated pianist, is fond of a good joke on himself. Cyranos, the Paris periodical, reports this: "Dining with friends one night, he was persuaded at the end of the meal to play a rhapsody, which he did with good grace and brilliance.

"Late with emotion, a young woman who had been fluttering for a time at her chair suddenly stood up and said: "How divinely you play, maître, but may I ask you a question?" "Ask it, I beg you." "Is a quaver played quickly?" "Good heavens, I should say it is." "And a semiquaver?" "Much more so." "Oh, maître," said the lady beseechingly, "do play one for me."

Dugouts for Dwellings

In Katwyk, a small fishing village on the shore of the North sea, the housing shortage is so intense that many inhabitants are obliged to live in trenches constructed during the World war to defend the Dutch coast against surprise attack. The attention of walkers on the dunes is aroused by chimneys sticking out of the trench tops. In dark, narrowed dugouts large families are sometimes quartered. Small tables on which the machine guns were placed in wartime, chairs and field beds are the only furniture. The loopholes have been transformed into windows. Water and light are lacking. Lodgers profit by the curiosity of passers-by by exhibiting their "dens" for a small fee.

His Education Lacking

Three-year-old Herbert was taken to his grandfather's for a visit. It was his first visit to the farm and he was much interested in what he saw. He watched eagerly as Hannah dressed the turkey for dinner, and noticed that each handful of feathers was placed carefully in a box. Finally his curiosity got the better of him and he asked: "Why do you have to save the feathers, Hannah—for seed?" At milking time he was surprised to see the first time where the milk came from, and as the man finished milking one cow the youngster exclaimed: "Now are you going to turn this one's facets on?"—Exchange.

Telephone Facilities

There are now about 10,000 telephone companies operating in the United States. Of these companies over 91 per cent are interconnected so that a subscriber may talk to practically any other telephone subscriber located anywhere else in the United States.

Phrases That Can Be Construed as Comic

Have you ever noticed how difficult it is to find expressions to emphasize the meaning of what we wish to convey? There certainly must be a paucity, or shortage of words in our language, because we have a knack of saying, often with the most mournful faces, very comic things.

How fond we are of ill-treating our eyes: in fact, these valuable organs are about the worst treated a person has. We often rivet them on some striking object, a toad, or the horns of a bull. Sometimes they are fixed on a picture or the landscape. At times they are dropped, and very often kept on the ground. Again, they are rolled in surprise, and sweeping a room with them is quite a common practice. We fasten them, too, on the fire, and there are occasions when they swim in tears.

A man's countenance will fall, or his jaw drop. When something very extraordinary takes place we have been known to wring our hands and throw up our arms. There are people remarkably skilled in knitting their brows. Rude girls toss their heads, while you, perhaps, keep a dog which has a nasty habit of pricking its ears.

There was the gallant Horatius of the good old days who asked his countrymen to stand on either hand and keep the bridge with him. It is hard enough, we think, to have one's toes trodden on.

Have you heard of the piercing cry which rent the air? Have you seen a woman rooted to the spot? Have you seen any one throw up his head?

Charles Dickens had a keen ear for the ridiculous things people say sometimes. In the Pickwick Papers, when Mr. John Snucker requests Mr. Weller to take his arm, Sam replies: "Thankee, sir. You're very good, but I won't deprive you of it."

Mark Antony was occasionally "strung up" for a word. He passionately beseeches his countrymen, during an appeal over Caesar's corpse, to lead him their ears.

Have you ever heard of lame ideas? Or perhaps you have heard of them striking? One often hears of people with their minds unhinged. We have heard of a boy who asked his teacher to excuse the noisiness of the class because his teeth would chatter.—Montreal Family Herald.

Ants Invade England

A new and most undesirable visitor has arrived at Eastbourne, a popular seaside resort on the south coast of England. This visitor is the Argentine ant. Its appetite is voracious and undiscriminating. It will eat young plants, young birds, and has been known to attack babies in the cradle. There is nothing safe from its onslaughts, and it can live anywhere between the tropics and the poles. In Madeira it has almost exterminated the birds and ruined the coffee plants. These ants seem to be free from any known parasite to prey upon them, the cold of a refrigerator has no permanent effect upon them, and during a flood they mass themselves into a ball and float.

Statesmen Not Dressy

The statement that Premier Baldwin is dressing more carefully than he did during his previous term as premier of the imperial parliament has brought forth a statement that none of Britain's premiers have been particularly fussy with regard to attire. Mr. Lloyd George wore well-cut clothes in his premierships, but never gave the idea that he worried about them; the same is true of Mr. Asquith. Lord Balfour was never dressy. Granville used to tell how he met Gladstone in Regent street wearing his top hat back to front. Lord Salisbury was clothed rather than dressed, and "Dizzy" had ceased to affect the dandy before he became premier.

Odd Form of Evidence

The imprint of a perfect cupid's bow left on paper by the rouged lips of pretty Bertina Riley, eighteen of Los Angeles, was the evidence that caused the conviction of a snatch thief. The prisoner was charged with taking Miss Riley's purse. The purse was not unlike thousands of others when held up to the view of the court. The prosecutor opened it and produced the imprint of the young lady's lips. Another imprint then taken showed similarity, strengthening the evidence.

Engineers Use Airplanes

The airplane has displaced the canoe as first assistant to engineers. No longer is the slower means of travel used to any extent to survey untraveled country. Instead, the engineer hops into a plane and is carried over the trackless highlands, covering a route in a few hours that formerly took many days by canoe and on foot. Such is the romance of engineering as recently enjoyed by H. K. Wicksteed in locating a railroad across western Quebec, remarks the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Does Work of Ten

An unusually compact mechanical cabinetmaker, which requires only a one-horse power motor, can do the work of ten men. The machine is declared almost as versatile as larger machines designed for similar purposes. The rip gauge is used right and left, and also as a guard over the circular saw. The saw table will tilt to an angle of 45 degrees. A hand wheel adjusts the projection of the saw above the table. Pressure rollers hold work firmly on the table when planing is being done.

Selling Value of Good Lighting

A storekeeper may have all else—goods, location, salesmanship—but if he has not good lights it will avail him little.

Experiment under actual everyday business conditions, in many classes of trade, demonstrate that there is a certain standard of lighting below which trade suffers. The standard varies with the kind of goods displayed. It should never be under 10 foot-candles.

Seven out of ten stores are found under-lighted—as low as four or five foot-candles. Such stores certainly cannot keep the cash register very busy.

We will inspect your equipment, measure your light, and make suitable recommendations—without charge.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

REV. S. CONGER HATHAWAY, A. M., PASTOR

Next Sunday morning, Rev. Robert A. Bartlett, D. D., of Detroit, will preach.

In the evening, Rev. Lecklighter of Detroit, will address a mass meeting at the M. E. church, in the interest of good citizenship.

ALL ARE WELCOME

BAPTIST NOTES

The important event of this week was the annual meeting of the church, Thursday evening. Rev. W. E. Musser of Ortonville, gave the address of the evening.

Proper topics for Mothers' Day will be taken up by the pastor May 10th. Plan to be there.

A goodly number of the people from the Baptist church attended the union meeting at the M. E. church, last Sunday evening, when the service was under the direction of H-Y and Girl Reserves organizations. The young men and women of the High school certainly deserve credit for carrying on such a service. We say God speed them in their work.

The B. Y. P. U. are planning to entertain their mothers for an hour before the evening service on Mothers' Day.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

An architect from Detroit, was at the manse last Tuesday, desiring to submit drawings for an enlarged auditorium for our church. How did he know that our audiences were increasing so steadily?

The pastor being called away next Sunday on business of Presbytery, Rev. Robert A. Bartlett, D. D., of Detroit, formerly of Sault Ste. Marie, will preach at the morning service. In the evening a mass meeting will be held at the M. E. church in the interest of good citizenship. Rev. Lecklighter of Detroit, will preach.

It was inspiring to see the young folks in the pulpit last Sunday night, beginning to take the responsibilities of religious work upon themselves. They did well, too. All this augurs well for the future ministry of the church.

Pierre Kenyon is to sing a solo at our morning service, next Sunday.

The central section of seats will be reserved on the morning of May 10th for the mothers of the community. You auto bring them if you can.

The pastor has been invited to address the Elm Parent-Teacher Association, next Tuesday evening. Here's hoping Henry the Fourth gets back!

A little booklet, entitled, "The Church's Children," is presented to the parents of each infant baptised in our church. It contains the baptismal certificate, and has chapters on the meaning of baptism, the obligations of parents, religion in the home, etc.

When Jordan water is used special mention of it is made in the certificate.

At the trustee meeting, last Monday night, appreciation was shown our organist, Miss Olive Merz, for the capable service she is rendering, by granting her an increase of salary.

The trustees have ordered the construction of a coat and hat rack for the vestibule of the church.

Arrangements have been made to supply the need of more ushers.

How Do You Spend Sunday?

"It will, in my opinion, be a sad day for this or any people when there shall have come in them an atrophy of the religious nature; when they shall have suppressed the need of communion, no matter how vague, with a Supreme Power in the universe; when the ties which bind men of similar modes of thought in the various religious organizations shall be dissolved; when men, instead of meeting their fellow-men in assemblies for public worship which give them a sense of brotherhood, shall lounge at home or in clubs; when men and women, instead of bringing themselves at stated periods into an atmosphere of prayer, praise and aspiration to hear the discussion of higher spiritual themes, to be stirred by appeals to their nobler nature, and to be moved by a closer realization of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, shall stay at home and give their throats to the Sunday papers or to the conduct of their business or to the languid search for refuge from boredom."—Andrew D. White, Ex-President of Cornell University, formerly Representative of U. S. at St. Petersburg, and at Berlin.

Fort That Has Figured

in American History

Fort Michilimackinac, invariably clipped to "Mackinac," resulted from Father Marquette's mission established in 1673 on Point St. Ignace, and La Salle's visit there two years later. The first defense, as found by La Salle, was a palisade, and the garrison consisted of Indians. La Salle did much to strengthen this post. La Motte Cadillac also was there and further added to the strength of the fort. Then Detroit swung into the lead as a fur and trading center, and in 1712 the settlement was moved to the south side of the strait, where Mackinaw City stands. There the second Fort Mackinac was built. It was this Fort Charlevoix describes in Vol. II of "A Journal of a Voyage to North America." This fort was surrendered to the English when France lost out. It was captured by Pontiac's Chippewas and Ottawas on King George's birthday (June 4), 1763. It was without a garrison for four years. At the beginning of the Revolution it was strengthened and heavily garrisoned. The English commander, fearing capture, moved his forces to the island of Mackinac in November, 1779, where the third fort of that name was built. It was occupied by the British until July, 1780, but did not figure in the war. It was turned over to the United States in 1796. A description of the last Fort Mackinac, as it was in 1880, is found in Ulrich Tracy's report on it to Samuel Dexter, secretary of war. It had a garrison of 57 men at the outbreak of the War of 1812. It was captured by an overwhelming British force of soldiers and Indians, and its capture brought many tribes to the British standard. The blockhouse on the hill back of the old fort was built by the British during the war. It was surrendered to the United States in July, 1815.

Got Out of It Neatly

Sir Henry Robertson was an official of the local government board for Ireland, and he had been entertained by an old priest who, finding his larder low, had prepared a large pancake an inch thick, swimming in grease, for his guest's supper. Sir Henry, with respect for his digestion, slipped it into a pocket containing two leather bags, and then mailed one of them at the village post office. Upon finding a convenient ditch in which to deposit the package, he looked in the bag and found it full of papers. He had mailed the pancake to the office of the government board. Presently he received an angry letter from headquarters, inquiring for what purpose the contents of the pouch were forwarded. "I did not wish to give away my carelessness," says Sir Henry, "so I headed my reply, 'Failure of the potato crop—sample of food consumed by small farmers in the west.'"

Intelligent Deer

Mrs. Della Austin, postmaster at Fort Kent Mills, Maine, has a pet deer which she has had since it was a fawn and it has become thoroughly domesticated. Not only that, but it shows marked house-keeping abilities. A little outhouse has been provided for the deer, and it has an electric light which may be turned on with a string. The door is kept hinged to keep out intruders, but when the Austin deer feels the need of food or shelter it will nose up the hinged door, pull on the electric light and proceed contentedly to munch the supply of Arrostook potatoes which are kept in a box, says the Boston Globe.

Remarkable, If True

"Academicians," said Robert W. Chambers at a dinner in New York, "always bar out the very people they should welcome in. Thus the French academy barred out Zola, and thus our American academy bars out Dreiser." "The great American painter Whistler, once visited an exhibition of the Royal academy at the Grosvenor galleries in London. After reviewing a mile or two of execrable canvasses, Whistler yawned and said: "Great men's origins are always interesting, but I don't generally know that several Royal academicians actually began life as artists."

Sad, but True

Most listeners have remarked the fact that the broadcaster speaks slowly and distinctly at the outset and frequently pauses—ahem—between words.

Then suddenly he changes his pace and we know that the official in charge of the station has nodded to him that his time is almost up and he will have to get on with the next item of his scheduled address within the prescribed time limit.—Judge.

SEES ENGLISH AS WORLD LANGUAGE

Lexicographer Makes Prediction for Future.

"We are building a great language for the future years," remarked Dr. Frank H. Vizetelly, managing editor of the Standard dictionary. "He believes that 'English is undoubtedly the greatest language of all ages for ease of expression and shades of meaning,' and thinks that 'the English-speaking races of today number nearly 200,000,000 people.' This is about 12 per cent of the population of the earth, but Doctor Vizetelly expects the percentage to double in 75 years, according to the New York Sun.

Languages can be measured in importance by their usefulness as means of communication and by their contributions to world culture. English has quite evidently become the most important of all languages from the purely practical standpoint. No other tongue is used so extensively in trade or even in governmental and social relationships. It is estimated that 120,000,000 people speak German, 90,000,000 Russian, 60,000,000 French and 55,000,000 Spanish. Despite the great population of China and India neither of these countries has a single language spoken by as many people as speak English. India has 147 languages. Chinese dialects are innumerable. Altogether only 230,000,000 Indians speak languages of the Indo-Aryan branch, and there are three of these. Mandarin represents a means of communication almost everywhere in China, but it probably has not the actual currency that English has. The tongue that only 20,000,000 people spoke in 1800 is undoubtedly dominant among languages today so far as extent of use and variety of usefulness are concerned.

English has also steadily shaped itself into an effective medium for accuracy and beauty of expression. It has been jeered at as a heterogeneous language and it has been criticized for the "weakness" of turning to Latin and Greek for new terms. Lovers of the romance languages find it lacking in elegance. Its grammatical irregularity has been noted. Still, English has produced poetry, drama and fiction that are now world inheritances. Its poetry especially challenges comparison in fitness and body with that of any language. Meanwhile, as the power of the nations using English has grown, the serviceability and dignity of the tongue as an instrument of diplomatic, scientific and critical or philosophical use has been more generally acknowledged.

Historical Organ

An organ with which King James II entertained himself while he and his army were encamped outside of London in the year 1687 for the purpose of overawing religious rioters within the city, arrived in this country a few weeks ago. A firm in New York has bought it. The organ is square and has a false front, pierced and carved, and with dummy pipes painted on it. The keyboard has four octaves and forty-three notes and diapason, cornet, sesquialter, principal, twelfth and fifteenth stops. The lower half of the instrument, except for two small panels that are decorated with cupids and represent "Music" and "Singing," shows scenes in East India. The large panels in front evidently represent episodes in the life of a princess. In one she is seated on a camel led by a guide armed with a spear. In another she is alighting from a camel in an oasis.—Youth's Companion.

Invisible Light

A demonstration of how opaque objects can be rendered transparent by "invisible light" acting through a special instrument called the "super retina" has been given by the famous Indian scientist, Sir Jagadis Chandra Bose.

Sir Jagadis Chandra Bose declares that he has perfected his instrument after 30 years' experiment.

"Invisible light" consists of short electric waves having the same properties as a beam of light. These waves are selectively absorbed by different substances. Coal tar and pitch are transparent, while water is opaque.

Modern Life

Martinsburg is a little town away from the railroad and the small children know very little about riding on the train. One day Elmo Wyman and his mother went to New Albany in an auto, but returned via Borden on the train. It was Elmo's first ride on the train. The train went a short distance and stopped. At the same time Elmo heard the noise of steam escaping, and with a look of disgust he leaned back in his seat and said, "Oh, no, there goes a tire, now we will have to wait another half hour."—Indianapolis News.

Wigs Cover Bobbed Hair

Once again wigs of various-colored hair are being worn by women of fashion in Paris to cover their bobbed heads when they put on evening attire. The color of the hair matches the gown and after five years of stagnated business the hairpin manufacturers are starting up with a flourish.

Bachelor Percentage High

Nevada has the highest percentage of single men of any state in the Union, but on the other hand the low percentage of unmarried women. Of its male population over fifteen years of age 42.1 per cent are bachelors, while of the women only 19.3 per cent are single.

He Can't Be Shamed

Mrs. Mildred Neville Mallison of Hagatone fame said in a recent lecture in Council Bluffs:

"Men declare that they are just to women, but it is not true. A man grows good and fat and wrinkled, but he expects his wife to remain slender and blooming. He grows bald, but he would be horribly surprised if she did not retain all her hair."

Mrs. Mallison smiled grimly. "She's the man," she cried, "who will agree that it's as fair for his wife to grow as fat as he is."

Farmer Well Cooled

"Indispensable Man"

Now goes the husbandman forth in the chill dawn with renewed vigor in his gait. "All winter he has labored, but not hurriedly, fixing his barn, cutting wood, pruning fruit trees and caring for his animals. On bad days he sat by the fire and turned things over in his mind—so many acres of wheat and so many acres of oats, this field for roots and that for corn. And you may be sure that he has also turned over the pages of many a catalogue longingly, wishing he could buy twice as many things as he can afford—the better to do his complicated job of feeding the urban multitudes.

When the sun passes the meridian the farmer knows that his dawdling days are done; henceforth, for eight months he will be racing with the calendar, with frost, rain, hail, food and the everlasting weed. Old Sol sends to the husbandman a challenge along with his blessing of fruitifying heat. Gliddap!

Ye city dwellers, reflect upon the manifold activities of this unknown friend of yours as he proceeds with the preparation of your next winter's dinners. Sap bucket in hand, he makes the rounds of his maple trees. Bringing the most progressive of his bene into a warm corner, he dusts her with antilouse powder and leaves her to her devotions. Then he sees to it that she has water and food during her settling-up exercises. Next, he gets the brooder ready for the day-old chicks he has ordered. Presently, in a mad rush to finish a mean job before the ground thaws, he returns to Mother Earth the last of the accumulated fertilizer from the barnyard. Any number of things must be done before plowing, because thereafter every day will demand its meed of seeding, planting, harvesting, and animal tending.

All this labor, all these chances of life and death, intervene between All Fools' day and Harvest Home. The farmer, facing the chill spring wind and the challenge of the climbing sun, is the very embodiment of human persistence—the utterly indispensable man.—Boston Independent.

Preference in Meats

In an analysis of meat consumption statistics the Department of Agriculture noted that the British eat nearly seven times as much mutton and lamb as do Americans, and declared the reason has "huffed satisfactory explanation."

Mutton and lamb consumed in the United States last year made up only 3.2 per cent of the total meat consumption, while the percentage in Great Britain was 22. There was 10 times more beef and 15 times more pork than mutton and lamb eaten in this country last year.

The department estimated that mutton and lamb consumption was at the rate of 5.2 pounds per person; pork, 88.8 pounds; beef, 62.6 pounds, and veal, 8.3 pounds.

Their Way

"I reckon I'll hafta quit taking my children to the picture shows," at the crossroads store remarked Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge.

"What's the matter—they catch the itch, or something that-a-way?" asked an acquaintance.

"Not yet, as far as I know. But what's the matter is that they get so devilish interested in the picture that they forget whur they're at. They all decide for one feller on the screen and whoop and holler for him till the roof lifts, or else part of 'em are fur him and the rest ag'in him, and while one side cheers the other side snarls till directly they jump up a-cussing and tear into each other like fighting fire."—Kansas City Star.

Flying Flivver Era Tardy

Cheap, light airplanes for popular use and ownership are still a development of the future, says Prof. E. M. Low, in charge of the light airplane competition recently held in England to encourage hope for an era of flying flivvers. The public interest still is apathetic, he said, and the manufacturers of light airplanes have not succeeded to any extent in perfecting their machines. The small light planes are very noisy, dirty, dangerous and uncomfortable, according to Professor Low.

Clock Has One Hand

An oblong clock with a single hand, and shaped like a thermometer, is the latest innovation in timepieces. The space between each hour number is divided into minute units. Smaller figures mark the 15-minute periods. A pointer traveling in a slot between the columns of figures, is attached to an endless chain actuated by a mechanism at the bottom of the case. When the pointer reaches the bottom it turns and starts upward, pointing in the opposite direction.

Where Modesty Wins

A modest person seldom fails to gain the good will of those he converses with because nobody envies a man who does not appear to be pleased with himself.

Has Penetration

The largest X-ray machine ever built, capable of generating 200,000 voltage of rays, will penetrate through one-quarter inch of lead, one foot of aluminum and two feet of brick.

Women Win Recognition

The press gallery of the British parliament is now open to women, and the first of the sex to take advantage of the privilege was Miss Stella W. Murray.

GAME WITH REDFORD

(By Ira Kingsley)

Playing the best brand of base ball seen this season, the Plymouth team came to the support of "Bob" Taylor, veteran pitcher, and hammered out an 8 to 7 victory over Redford, here last Friday.

Lowry, who started to pitch the game for Redford, was battered for four runs in the second inning, so that in the third inning he was seen in center field, with Bradbrook serving the ball up to the Plymouth batters.

Taylor's best pitching was shown in the third inning, when with four runs across and one out, he came back courageously and struck out the next batter, while the third batter grounded to Losey. After that he pitched good ball, but in the sixth inning his wildness in passing Gardiner and Jensen, cost him two more runs. Two singles, aided by a stolen base, accounted for the final run in the seventh.

Plymouth was held scoreless by Bradbrook until the 7th, when his wildness filled the bases and Russell Reiman drove in the winning runs by an infield single.

Score by Innings
Redford— 0 0 4 0 0 2 1—7
Plymouth— 0 4 0 1 0 0 3—8
Line-ups: Redford—Jenssen, c.; Bachman, ss.; Bradbrook, c. f.; Merritt, 1b.; Lowry, p. and c. f.; Gardiner, 2b.; Wall, r. f.; Jensen, 3b.; Costello, r. f.; Plymouth—Losey, 2b.; Curtis, c.; Doudt, ss.; Rowland, 3b.; Reiman, 1b.; Barlow, c. f.; Wilson, r. f.; Wiskey, 1. f.; Taylor, p. Substitutions: Reiman for Costello.

On Tuesday, April 23, all agriculture classes were called to the Lecture room to see pictures and hear a talk by Mr. Harmon, about the European Corn Borer and its control. Mr. Harmon gave a very interesting and very important talk upon this harmful insect; then came the pictures, which showed all stages of growth and the way it spread, how it acted on United States' greatest crop, and how it is to be controlled.

The moth lays its eggs in the spring corn and then these hatch and bore their way into the stalks of corn, and cause the tops to drop, or, even the stalks may drop so as to let the ears of corn fall on the ground and mold.

To control this pest, clean up all rubbish, and cut corn close to ground. The silo serves the purpose by killing the worms in the fermentation. The grist mill is a thing that helps to spread the pest by not destroying the corn cobs which are infected.

Mr. Harmon also told how the government takes care of the quarantine of different sections which keep the producers of corn from transporting it from one section which is infested, to another which is not infested by the pest.

This is from the department of vocational guidance.

THE MILKMAN

Marguerite Melow

It was dawn in the little town of Glenwood. The stars one by one were disappearing. The big laughing faced moon, which sent the silvery moonbeams and made the shadows creep softly, gradually faded away as the rising sun sent a crimson ray over the sky. The cocks began to crow. Here and there a small stream of smoke curled lazily from the red brick chimneys.

About two or three miles outside of Glenwood was a farm on which was a big white house, the windows were shaded by old fashioned green blinds. Part of the back porch was screened in. On the steps were milk cans waiting to be washed. Around the house grew large evergreen trees. Behind the house ran a clear sparkling brook which sang as it flowed over the stones. South of this stood the big red barn and of course the necessary buildings that go with farm work. This is the home of Mr. Brown, the milkman.

Between the evergreens, the flickering light of a lamp could be seen. The Browns were rising earlier this morning, for Mr. Brown had to make an extra trip.

Mrs. Brown was a large, heavy woman, when she walked there was always a slight jarring of the windows. She was bobbing to and fro about the kitchen, her hair hanging around her face. This morning she wore a blue and white figured house dress.

each side of the wagon. Inside are crates filled with pints and quarts of milk.

Later in the morning, he stopped at the home of Mrs. Camp. Coming to the door she said, "Good morning Mr. Brown." And he in reply answered, "Good morning, Mrs. Camp."

"I would like an extra quart of milk this morning for I am having company today and that means extra baking."

"Alright, I have plenty."

From here he drove to the next street, where Mrs. Hull cheerfully called:

"Have you whipping cream with you? I would like a pint, as I am going to treat the family to whipped cream cake."

Handing her the cream, he said, "Mrs. Brown made one just yesterday."

When he reached the corner he saw a small boy crying bitterly. Stopping Betsy, he said, "What is the matter Sonny?"

The boy lifting up his tear stained face, sobbingly said, "My mover sent me to get a quart of milk. I fell and dropped my pennies, and now I can't get it."

"Cheer up sonny, take this quart of milk and run along home."

As he turned the corner, he saw Mr. Saunders waiting on the sidewalk for him.

"Good morning, Mr. Brown. I was sent out here to order four quarts of milk and two pints of whipping cream for tomorrow. Mrs. Saunders is entertaining the Ladies' Aid. Of course, you have to feed them."

So on through the town he gathers the news, but always glad to return to his home two or three miles outside of Glenwood.

SARGASSO IS SEA OF MANY SECRETS

Expedition Will Explore Mysterious Region.

As if an enormous giant had put his finger into the sea and stirred it round, the entire North Atlantic ocean slowly revolves in the direction of the clock's hands.

In the center is the Sargasso sea, a gigantic collection of floating islands, made of seaweed and inhabited by countless living things.

Nobody knows how Herodotus, in ancient times, came by the alarming stories he told of this mysterious region, for it is only during recent years that it has been properly charted.

When Columbus and his men were drawn into this oval-shaped vortex, his ship remained out of control for 15 days, and the crew thought they were condemned to perish in a watery prison, closely guarded by seaweed barriers for 200,000 square miles. But a strong wind luckily carried the ship to safety.

Supported in the water by small air balloons, the feathery weeds of Sargasso are mostly olive-brown in color, with blotches of white. The chief source of supply has been proved to be the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean sea.

Sailors do not like this strange tract which floats almost like land, on the bosom of the Atlantic. It is reputed to be the home of barbarous fish and the hiding place of mysterious monsters. Animals drifting about on the surface of the sea, with only the scattered cover of moving seaweed, are exposed to many dangers, not only from the birds always hovering above, but from hungry fish lurking in the patches of uncovered sea, which is the bluest in the world.

To protect themselves, all the living creatures imitate, in a remarkable way, the color of their floating home. One grotesque little animal is conspicuous owing to the disproportionate size of its head and jaws, and resembles the frog fish, sometimes seen near British coasts.

Making its nest of seaweed bound together by long cords of its own manufacture, this singular creature combines all the characteristics of an animal, a fish, and a bird.

A short-tailed crab of the shell-less type swarms on the Sargasso weed and is blotched with white to match the light patches on its surroundings. These and many more peculiar creatures will be examined by Professor Beebe, of New York, who recently set out to explore this little-known region.

A secret ambition of the expedition is to capture a monster squid, a terrifying fish of the cuttlefish family, with black eyes at least 12 inches in diameter and a body 80 feet in length. The body of these giants, one of which the explorers hope to capture, is wrapped in a loose mantle, from an opening in which emerges the evil-looking head with its sharp, parrot-like beak.

This Sargasso monster is the tiger of the ocean, and, like its striped counterpart on land, is said to kill even when not hungry—for the sheer pleasure of killing.

Victoria Invested Wisely

Through the good advice of Dibraell, her chief adviser, Queen Victoria of England, invested in Suez canal stock and was thus enabled eventually to leave additional millions to her children. She also was one of the original owners of a share in the New River Water company which provided the water supply for London. The water shares, originally worth a pound ($5), enhanced in value to where they were worth millions, and even the richest of others like the Rothschilds were forced to be content later with a sixteenth or a thirtieth-second of a share.

Quake Made Trouble

All was peaceful and quiet Saturday night in the Springfield police station when Patrolman Clark, who was entering something in the police blotter, suddenly shouted: "For the love of Mike, Mitchell, stop slinking the table. How do you suppose I can write?" Patrolman Mitchell indignantly denied that he was shaking the table and accused Clark of being responsible. The argument was waxing warm, with each denying and accusing, when the telephone rang and gave them their first inkling that an earthquake was the cause of the table's strange behavior. —Boston Globe.

China's Trade in Bones

For many years, the economical Chinese have put animal bone to good use for various ornamental and practical articles and for fertilizer, but the traffic in this commodity in recent times has greatly increased so that now they are said to be importing large quantities. During the first six months of 1923 Shanghai alone imported nearly 1,500 tons of cow bone valued at more than $238,000, principally for the game makers. In 1922, China exported more than $1,000,000 worth of bone. —Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Sheet Covers Two Acres

Near Fitzgerald, Ga., there is a large tobacco field or bed covering two unbroken acres, so that a large sheet containing two acres of cloth had to be designed to cover it. The bed is on the farm owned by H. K. Sligh, which is on the Dixie highway.

Use the Bath Spray

You can keep your screens clean by giving them a bath every week with the bath spray. Then your curtains will not soil so easily.

Experience makes some people sadder and wiser, while with other people it only makes them sadder.

Revolutionary Patriot Deserving of Honor

"Who in heaven's name is Hercules Mulligan?" must have been the approximate exclamation of every one who read a newspaper headline saying that a gentleman of that name had been proposed for the Hall of Fame at New York university. And not only who, but why? The inquirer naturally approached the question with some arrogance, but after he had listened for a brief moment to Michael J. O'Brien, historiographer of the American Irish Historical society, who proposed Mr. Mulligan, he went away with meek and drooping tail feathers. For, believe Mr. O'Brien, who knows and can back up his words with documents, Hercules Mulligan was some person, says a New York letter in the Baltimore Sun.

It appears that Hercules Mulligan was the American patriot who led a crowd on the afternoon of July 9, 1776, from the Common, now City Hall park, New York, to Bowling Green and there tore down and destroyed the hateful statue there erected of George III of England. The crowd had just been listening to the reading of the Declaration of Independence, which was then brand new and had quite a different effect on audiences from what it has now.

But that is not nearly all about Hercules Mulligan, for even a digest condensed record of his principal claims to fame takes over half a newspaper column. He was a prominent member and organizer of the Sons of Liberty; friend, confidant and host of George Washington; the friend, protector and confidant of Alexander Hamilton.

According to Mr. O'Brien's researches, when Alexander Hamilton arrived here from the West Indies at the age of sixteen, he had a letter to Mr. Mulligan, who was a merchant in Water street. The merchant was just twice the age of Hamilton and took him to live with him, and later started him as a student in the College of New Jersey, which is now Princeton.

Other claims of Mulligan to fame were that he saved Washington from capture or assassination by the forces of Gen. Henry Clinton, was host to Washington and his officers at his home in Queens street on the first Evacuation day, and that he was the first to introduce instrumental music in the churches of New York, he being a vestryman of Trinity church.

Mr. O'Brien's nomination of Hercules Mulligan was received two days too late to be considered, but it has served to introduce a lively patriotic figure to a lot of us ignorant people, who are glad to make his acquaintance.

Ho, Hum!

A New York physician warns girls that their frivolous habits, smoking, jazzing and drinking, will shorten their lives.

"Waste of breath, Doe! They've shortened their skirts, their hair and code of morals in spite of warnings, and they'll go right ahead and shorten their lives if they want to, and no little thing like a warning's gonna stop 'em."

You can't be short-sighted and long-lived—but girls don't care.

But there is one thing you can't get the female of the species to shorten—and that's—yes, you guessed it—her conversation.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Solace for Puppies

"We were given a couple of puppies recently and had to keep them in the basement, where they cried and whimpered all night long, keeping the neighbors awake as well as us," a Detroit related. "A neighbor pounded on our door the middle of the third night and told us how to make those blankety-blank pups shut up. 'Give them a hot water bottle to cuddle against and they'll be happy and quiet until morning,' he said. 'The pups have had their hot water bottle every night since, and haven't whimpered once.'—Detroit News.

Famous Ring

The museum of Versailles now has the ring with which M. Clemenceau sealed the famous treaty in 1919, and it is a ring that had an interesting history even before that. Charles Naundorff, who maintained that he was Louis XVII of France, gave it to Jules Favre, who became foreign minister, and M. Favre used it to seal the armistice of 1871 at Versailles, because Bismarck was unwilling to wait until the state seal could be brought from Paris. —Youth's Companion.

The Missing Proof

Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, taking his rest cure at Bedford Hills, said of a suggested proof that the world was growing less religious:

"I think you have proved just the opposite. Your proof, in fact, reminds me of the servant girl to whom her mistress, after a trip to Florida, said: 'Did my husband miss me during my month at Miami, North?'"

"Sure, miss," said North, "I didn't notice it so much at first, but yesterday he was in despair like!"

Copper in Africa

The last year in copper was marked by the ascendancy of a new producing area outside of the American interior. The great property of the Union Miniere du Haut Katanga, Belgian Congo, Africa, has forced into the first place as a copper producer, its monthly output now ranking greater than that of any other single mine. Future production will be still heavier if present metallurgical plans are carried out. Other new African deposits of copper are also reported.

This famous, patented, all iron burner is found only in the Red Star. No wicks. No wick substitutes. Uses common kerosene, gasoline or distillate. Cooks with clean hot, economical GAS HEAT. Gives perfect results. Saves one-fourth the fuel. Lasts a lifetime.

ACTUAL COOKING AND BAKING

Ten RED STARS in First Two Days

The new type, sanitary Red Star Oil Stove is like NO OTHER oil stove in the world.

Thousands of enthusiastic women already know this; but we want EVERY woman to know it. We want every woman to know why the Red Star is so different from other stoves; why it cooks as fast as gas, but uses oil for fuel.

The best way we can have every woman know this is to have them actually see a Red Star stove in operation.

Two things especially delight the women who see it. One is the unusual beauty of the stove with its smooth flowing stream lines combined with the sanitary white porcelain and black enamel finish. The other is the absence of wicks or wick substitutes.

All day Saturday we will have an actual demonstration of this wonderful oil stove at our store.

We invite you to come. See how the patented burner vaporizes kerosene. See how wicks or wick substitutes have been abolished. See how two blue rings of clean, odorless flame are forced right against the bottom of the utensil—where the heat belongs. See how you regulate the flame just like a gas stove.

We Will Occupy Building Until May 6

OPEN EVENINGS

By all means manage to come in during this occasion. Special terms will be arranged to place one of these modern Oil Stoves into your home.

WOMAN'S INTUITION THING OVERRATED?

Writer Questions Idea Concerning Sixth Sense.

Only an arch-heretic would cast doubt on woman's intuition. I confess to heresy. Unquestionably this sixth sense exists, but I think that it is over-rated. Lydia Haig writes in the Washington Post.

If woman's intuition were so uncannily developed as it is commonly represented to be, her advantage over man would be incalculable. In emergencies her decisions would be more prompt and wise than his, she would more readily detect false logic, and so be better protected against the designs of the unscrupulous. In reality, more women than men are victimized by suave impostors.

If women were so highly intuitive they would excel in the law courts. Intuitive perception being a natural force, women would leap to swift but sound conclusions while trained and experienced men were stumbly endeavoring to sift evidence.

As speculators they would achieve riches, or by their advice enable men to achieve them, yet in truth any trader, man or woman, who bought and sold by intuition without studying the markets would be ruined.

Had women this divining gift no politician would make a move without consulting some accomplished woman. Many men have, indeed, acknowledged the aid rendered by their wives and mothers, but always the women possessed superior intelligence and they helped by the exercise of reason and judgment, not by mysterious short cuts.

In domestic and social life women's superior intuition is seldom apparent. They do not secure more faithful friends than men do, they are not more successful in selecting servants, they do not adjust themselves more happily to the caprices and tempers of their associates, nor more quickly perceive the consequences of unwise words. In all these things there are great individual differences, but the differences are a matter of temperament, not sex.

In that crucial test, the selection of a husband, women's mistakes are frequent and lamentable. Men, who are confessedly devoid of intuition, are often seduced by unworthy women, but rarely are they so blind as a woman enamored of an unworthy man. In whatever guise the deceiver comes she cannot use the mask or detect the character behind it.

I believe that to overestimate her power of intuition does woman a grave injury. It prevents her from cultivating judgment and relying on it. From her youth she is encouraged to believe that she is endowed with a special talent, that she possesses occult methods of getting at facts, and as a result she makes frequent and disastrous mistakes.

Suspicious

"This feller is a suspicious character," announced Constable Sam T. Slackpooter, the well-known sleuth of Petunia, dragging a thin and harmless-looking stranger up before Esquire Hambottom.

"How do you make that out?" asked the official.

"Well, he's from Kay See, and you'll say yourself he looks so innocent that he's prob'ly a hand or holdup of some kind. I've searched him through and through and emptied him out, and I'll be jinked if he's got a single deadly weapon concealed about his person. So I say he's a suspicious character!"—Kansas City Star.

Camera as Detective

An interesting discovery in photography is now being used by the French police in their work of criminal investigation. It has been found useful to impregnate the skin of the fingers of criminals, or other suspected persons, with a preparation containing a lead compound. This remains on the lines of the skin.

When an X-ray photograph is taken, not only is the finger print shown in detail, but also the structure of the bones. The bones of the fingers furnish even more possible clues to the identification of criminals than finger prints.—Detroit Free Press.

Fire-Fighting Aid

During many great fires, fire-fighting equipment from neighboring cities has proved useless because the threads in the hose couplings did not fit the local hydrants. In order to remedy this, the United States bureau of standards has perfected a set of tools enabling new threads to be cut on the spot. Fire departments in many large cities now are being equipped with these.—Popular Science Monthly.

Inkwell Covers Itself

The annoyance of removing the cover of an inkwell every time a pen is to be used has been obviated by an ingenious cover that is closed by a small glass ball rolling on a runway, says Popular Science Monthly. When a pen is inserted the ball is pushed back easily. As the pen is removed the ball rolls forward, closing the well from dust and air.

Can Move Tall Trees

Tall trees are now successfully transplanted by means of a newly invented machine.

Traffic in Human Hair

Ninety-nine tons of human hair was exported from Hongkong in 1923.

Today's Reflections

We feel sure that the man who wrote "Jack and the Beanstalk" also wrote most of our seed catalogues.

If the average Plymouth man followed his natural bent, he never would be bent from overwork.

Hogs are worth more on the hoof, but still less than ever behind a steering wheel.

The objection to a pistol is you're tempted to use it when it isn't necessary and haven't time to use when it is.

The biggest question now confronting many Plymouth men is: "Shall I make the old bus do another year?"

Everybody knows that if he had plenty of money he would know how to use it better than those who have.

We also noticed that even the tornado, which recently swept over Illinois avoided the town of Herin.

Some families around Plymouth never will be as happy as they ought to be until every member has his own car.

But even if women are smarter than men, a man never has to wonder if his knees are showing.

We know of some stingy men around Plymouth, but we don't believe there are very many wearing whiskers because they are too stingy to buy neckties.

A western poorhouse refused to admit a man because he owned an auto. That's about like a hospital refusing to take a man in because he is sick.

Girls of today hunting husbands do not care if they are not educated. Give them a man and they'll educate him.

Some women's idea of a real help-meet is to thread the needle for her husband when he wants to sew on a button.

The average Plymouth voter bears a good deal of talk about "a new source of revenue," but he knows it is just a case of doing the same old tax-tapping in a different place.

There seems to be one law for the rich and one for the poor—and about 2,000,000 for the middle class.

The only thing we are thankful for when we run into a Plymouth knock-out is that all humanity was not born twins.

Cloth men must live. So what they take off the girl's skirts to make them shorter they put on the young man's trousers to make them larger.

Will Relieve Mother's Fears. A panic of fear seizes mother when sudden and severe cramps agonizing intestinal pains, black nausea and weakening diarrhoea prostrate some one of the family. Keep Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy in the home, and such emergencies need cause neither fear nor alarm. Eases pain almost instantly.—Advertisement.

Picked Up About Town

Dad Plymouth says some men are so stingy they never think of buying candy for their wives until said wives go on a reducing diet.

It is a pretty idea to so live that no one will be glad of a chance to act as one of your pallbearers.

"Our grandmothers may have had removable hair and teeth," says Dad Plymouth, "but they didn't have to wash off their complexion before they went to bed."

Most men would rather listen to the static noises over a radio than to a peevish wife when she gets going good.

According to Dad Plymouth, about the only way left to get a chance in this world is to grab it.

"I've always noticed that the fellow who tries to cut a big swath," says Dad Plymouth, "is usually the last one in the community to cut the weeds around his property."

George Barnes has sold his forty acres, between Labser and Evergreen roads on the Eight Mile road at $1850 per acre. Aside from the attractive sum of money it represents, the sale itself was in the nature of an event, as this is the first time the property has passed into the hands of strangers in eighty-three years. Mr. Barnes' great grandfather, Peter Barnes, having procured it from the Government in 1842. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes still own a few acres on Labser and the Eight Mile road, where they reside.—Relford Record.

Schradler Brothers recently closed the deal for the purchase of the Filkins property adjoining their store on the north, and which is now occupied by the Secord Bakery. A few months ago they purchased the Harmon-Neal property on the south side of their store occupied by C. R. Ely's coat office and J. R. Walker's pool and billiard parlors, with the idea of erecting a modern business block. Since acquiring the Filkins property they have decided to erect their new building on the site and they are now preparing plans for the new structure. The present room occupied with the funeral chapel will be remodeled to correspond with the show room on the south and the reconstructed block will be an attractive one. The new building will contain a funeral chapel, office, a slumber room, work room, morgue, garage and store room and will be one of the most up-to-date furniture establishments to be found in the country, with every modern convenience for the service of the public. Work will start on the new structure just as soon as possible.—Northville Record.

THE THEATRE

"THE DRESSMAKER FROM PARIS"

"The Dressmaker from Paris," a new Paramount picture featuring Lentric Joy and Ernest Torrence which will be shown at the Penniman Allen theatre on Saturday, May 2nd, is a fine comedy drama of a little French girl who rises from modiste's messenger to the position of Paris' most prominent fashion designer.

Paul Born directed the production, which was written for the screen by Adelaide Hellbron and Howard Hawks. Allan Forrest is leading man. Others in the cast are Mildred Harris, Larry Gray, Charles Crockett, Rosemary Cooper and "Spec" O'Donnell.

The story opens in Paris at the beginning of the World War. Miss Joy has the role of Fifi, a little midinette who meets Billy Brent (Forrest), an American army officer through accident. It is a case of love at first sight for both. Brent is called to the front, and Fifi enters a contest, the winner of which is entitled to study designing in the establishment of a famous modiste.

The scene shifts to the little American town of Clarion, Ill. Brent is now junior partner in a department store owned by Torrence, and Fifi, now known as Madame Louise, world-famous designer, comes to give a fashion show in the establishment. Brent is engaged to Torrence's daughter, played by Miss Harris, and the appearance of Fifi complicates matters not a little.

Everything is straightened out in the end.

"THE GREAT DIVIDE"

There have been few pictures which have brought so great a message as that which is presented on the screen at the Penniman Allen theatre where the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "The Great Divide" will be shown on Sunday and Monday, May 3 and 4.

How three men gamble for a girl, with one ultimately coming out victorious, how she is then bought for a string of gold nuggets and how she struggles to regain her freedom by getting possession of the nuggets is told in a forceful way.

The cast is full of interesting names and the performances are all excellent, though perhaps the two which stand out the most are those of Alice Terry, who plays Ruth Jordan, and Conway Tearle, cast as Stephen Ghent. There are the most important parts and the tremendous mental conflict between them is unlike anything that has been witnessed on the screen before.

Wallace Beery as Dutch and George Cooper as Shorty are likable fellows, and Zasu Pitts as Polly brings out a pessimistic part prominently forward, which adds much comedy. William Orland as Lou is ludicrously funny while Huntley Gordon as Philip Jordan, and Allan Forrest as Dr. Winthrop Newberry, have roles of importance, which have been justifiably entrusted to them.

Reginald Barker directed the production with a fine hand, and as his aid chose Percy Hillburn to photograph it. Mr. Hillburn did a great job. There has never been a screen offering before with more beautiful photography or more effective lighting than in "The Great Divide."

"THE GOLDEN BED"

That women, crazed for social position, will sometimes drag their husbands right into financial disaster, is a point brought out by Cecil B. De Mille in his newest production for Paramount, "The Golden Bed," which will be shown next Wednesday and Thursday, May 6th and 7th, at the Penniman Allen theatre.

Lillian Rich, the latest screen "discovery" to make a bid for stellar honors under De Mille, and Vera Reynolds whom that director brought into prominence in "Feet of Clay," play out a veiled duel, wage a battle of wits for social mastery. For once the men in the families are negro-pawns in the game.

"The Golden Bed" was written for the screen by Jennie MacPherson from the novel of the same name by Wallace Irwin. Rod La Roque has the leading man's role in the production. We first find him a struggling young candy maker who, by dint of hard work, becomes the owner of a large chain of stores.

Flora Lee Donke (Lillian Rich) hope of a poor but proud family who before young Holtz, played by La Roque, had made his money wouldn't have anything to do with him, now sees a way to retrieve the family fortune—become Mrs. Holtz.

The other sister (Vera Reynolds), however, has been in love with Holtz from the very beginning and it is when she sees the possibility of losing him that the fun begins.

De Mille has made a picture of this Irwin novel that is going to prove more popular than anything he has ever attempted before, excepting, of course, "The Ten Commandments."

The three aforementioned players all have featured roles in the cast of the picture as have Warner Baxter, Theodore Kosloff and Julia Faye.

Robert Edson, Henry Walthall and Robert Cain are but a few of the popular players in the supporting cast.

Here's a picture that affords De Mille every opportunity for beautiful women, spectacular scenes, gorgeous gowns and all the rest.

THE "AUTOMOBILE" Accident Policy

More people are KILLED or INJURED every day by Autos than in any other way.

Probably a HALF MILLION People or More will be SERIOUSLY INJURED by Automobiles during the Current Year.

In the face of such FACT, and with the DANGER CONSTANTLY INCREASING, can any insurable person afford to be without PROTECTION against such an Appalling Hazard?

Every time we venture on the Streets the risk is incurred of being run down by an AUTOMOBILE and SERIOUSLY INJURED, which means a SERIOUS LOSS of INCOME to most. Many are badly hurt, as our newspapers daily show.

To protect against this EVER PRESENT fortuity, we have several companies who have designed and offer "AUTOMOBILE" ACCIDENT Policy, an UNIQUE and HIGHLY LIBERAL contract, which PAYS:

$25.00 Per week for twenty-eight weeks if totally disabled by an accident while insured is operating, driving, riding in, demonstrating, adjusting or cranking an automobile, or in consequence of being struck, run down or run over by or caused by the burning or explosion of, an automobile; but the insurance does not cover loss resulting from or in consequence of performing the duties of a machinist in repairing, overhauling or testing an automobile, or while operating an electric or motor-driven vehicle for hire, or while carrying passengers or goods for fare or direct pecuniary profit or gain.

$12.50 Per week for four weeks if partially disabled.

$40.00 Per week for two weeks if confined in a hospital because of injuries.

$10.00 is allowed for surgeon's services if injuries sustained did not cause disability.

$1,000.00 (Specific Losses) is paid for accidental death or loss of both eyes, both hands, both feet, or one hand and one foot, due to an automobile accident; $500 is paid for the loss of one hand or one foot, and $300 for loss of one eye.

$1,500.00 For any of the above first five specific losses after policy has been in continuous force five years.

No medical or other examination required.

Total Cost—$6.00 first year, and $5.00 per year thereafter.

Male and Female risks accepted—Age Limits, 16 to 59 years, inclusive.

OBITUARY

Wm. Bichy, Sr., the son of Herman and Elizabeth Bichy, was born in Schenectady, N. Y., October 11, 1841. He was baptised, schooled and later on confirmed in Buffalo, N. Y. He came to Detroit in 1860, and worked at the barber trade. On June 16, 1861, he was married to Miss Anna Beyer of Detroit. This union was blessed by God with eleven children, of which two died in infancy, and nine are yet living.

About four years ago, when his eyesight had become very bad, so that he was nearly blind, Mr. Bichy, with his family, removed from Detroit, to his present home on Plymouth road, where he felt very happy. With his happy disposition, he took all things cheerfully, as the Lord sent them.

On Tuesday, he was yet out and around, and retired at 10:00 p. m., seemingly healthy and well. During the night, he admitted to his wife that he did not feel well. About 3:30, one of the daughters heard him breathe heavily, and going to the bedside, found that there was something wrong with Father Bichy. An hour later with all his loved ones at his bedside, he had already passed away peacefully, as he had always wished to leave this world. Yet his death was a shock to the members of the family, his relatives and friends. He attained the age of 83 years, 6 months and 11 days, and leaves to mourn his departure, his aged wife; the sons, William and Charles Bichy of Plymouth, Arthur Bichy of Detroit; the daughters, Anna, Julia and Louise at home, as also Mrs. May Merz, a widowed daughter, Mrs. Charles Merz and Mrs. Carlton Blake of Plymouth. Besides these, father Bichy leaves seven grandchildren, one sister of Buffalo, N. Y., and other relatives and many close friends.

Mr. Bichy was a faithful member of the Lutheran church all his life. Funeral services were held on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. Interment at Woodlawn, Detroit, Mich.

What is Iron Made Of?

This looks like a singular, not to say foolish, question, and yet some chemists are beginning to doubt whether iron is really a chemical element. They think that instead of being an elementary substance it may be a highly complex compound, and that eventually means may be found of separating or isolating the bodies, or elements, of which iron is made up.

Different substances are ordinarily combined either by simple intermixture, as oxygen and nitrogen are intermixed in the air, or by solution, or by chemical combination.

But of late it has been suggested that there may be a fourth state of combination still more intimate than that which is implied by the usual expression "chemical union." The combination of yet unrecognized elements which make what we call iron would be an example of the fourth state.

What this conception necessitates may be judged from the fact that it seems to do away with the atom as the smallest elementary particle of matter.—Washington Star.
