EPWORTH LEAGUE ANNIVERSARY SERVICE

The 35th anniversary of the organization of the Epworth League, was fittingly observed, last Sunday night, at the Methodist church. The evening hour of worship was made the occasion of celebrating this event.

Following a spirited song service, the members of the Epworth League cabinet for this new year took part. After prayer by Miss Alice Franks, a young people's worker, each of the officers gave a splendid, inspiring talk on the work of their departments of young people's work. They clearly revealed that the efforts of the church for the training of its young people has not been in vain.

Following their talks, the light of the cross was turned on, and the new officers were installed. As each one answered to his charge, they lighted their candle from the larger candle, which Pierre Kenyon, last year's president, held, thus receiving the light and its responsibility of leadership for the young people of the church and community. Mr. Kenyon and the pastor then led in a prayer of consecration. During the singing of "Where He Leads Me I Will Follow," the invitation was given to other young people and older ones present, who would, to join these young leaders in service for Christ during the year.

The following is the list of officers for this year: President—Miller Ross; First Vice Pres. (Dept. of Spiritual Activities)—Vernie Hoisington; Second Vice President (Missionary Dept.)—Dorothy Hillman; Third Vice Pres. (Social Service Dept.)—Ilo Hague; Fourth Vice President (Recreational Dept.)—Marie Johnson; Secretary—Elsie White; Treasurer—William Curtis; Pianist—Phyllis Larkins.

YEGGMEN VISIT PLYMOUTH LAST FRIDAY NIGHT

Three Business Places Were Broken Into and Safes Rifled by the Robbers.

At a late hour last Friday night or early Saturday morning, yeggmens broke into three business places in the village. The places visited by the yeggs, were: the Chevrolet garage, Towle & Roe Lumber Co., and Eckles & Goldsmith.

At the Towle & Roe Lumber Co., the robbers gained entrance to the office through a side door. The combination to the safe was chiseled off, and the cash box rifled of $62.33 in money and $1,835.74 in checks.

At the Chevrolet garage, entrance was gained by breaking the lock on the back door. Here also, the combination of the safe was chiseled off, and the cash box rifled of its contents, $142 and a few cents. The safe at the Chevrolet garage sets in the front window of the office and the robbers were in plain sight from the street as they did their work.

At Eckles & Goldsmith's, entrance was gained by prying open a back window. As in the other two places, the combination to the safe was broken off, and access gained to the cash box, from which the thieves extracted $143.72.

As soon as the robberies were discovered in the morning, Chief of Police Springer was notified, and he immediately got an expert from the identification bureau in Detroit, to come out and get finger prints which were left upon the safes. After careful examination, it was found that the thieves had worn gloves, and it was impossible to get any clues by the finger print method. Chief of Police Springer is still working upon the case.

The school children will furnish a part of the program, and a speaker will be secured to give the address of the day. After the exercises are concluded, a parade will be formed, and march to the cemetery where the graves of our soldier dead will be decorated.

BUSINESS MEN GUESTS OF BURROUGHS ADDING MACHINE CO.

Over One Hundred Business Men and Others Enjoy Luncheon at the Burroughs Plant in Detroit, Tuesday.

President Backus Welcomed the Plymouthites and E. C. Hough Responded for the Home Folks.

Over one hundred business men and others accepted the invitation of the Burroughs Adding Machine Co. of Detroit, extended through the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, to be their guests, at a luncheon held in the spacious dining room of the company's plant in Detroit, Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock. At 11:30 o'clock a. m., the Plymouth delegation assembled at Kellogg Park, and after a group picture had been taken by Photographer L. L. Ball, they embarked in automobiles for the city.

Arriving at the Burroughs plant, the delegation was met by the officials of the company, who proceeded to make everyone feel at home. At one o'clock, luncheon was announced, and the hosts ushered their guests into the dining room, where a delicious chicken luncheon was served the visitors. The cuts were simply fine, and the service could not have been better. At each one of the tables, a representative of the Burroughs Co. was seated, to see that everybody had everything they wanted and to entertain their guests. After the luncheon, the diners again had their pictures "took."

The guests were then taken to the auditorium, where smokes were passed around. President Backus of the Burroughs Co. in a few well chosen words, welcomed the men from Plymouth to the Burroughs plant. He prefaced his remarks by saying that the company was not asking for anything and had no axes to grind, but that the invitation had been extended to the business men of Plymouth to visit the plant, merely to get better acquainted with one another. He spoke of the company's purchase of 142 acres of land on the outskirts of Plymouth, and said as was stated at the time of its purchase, that it was acquired with a view to the future expansion of the company, and when the time came for this expansion, a branch plant would be built at Plymouth, but there was no intention of abandoning their present plant and moving it to Plymouth. Mr. Backus stated that the Burroughs Co. wished to become a member of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, that they were interested in Plymouth, and wished to do their part in any movement that was for its betterment and growth.

President Backus gave a short history of the great organization of which he is the head, from its beginning up to the present time, that was very interesting to those who heard him. He then called upon President Alfred of the Pere Marquette Railroad. Mr. Alfred touched upon the much talked of commuters service between Plymouth and Detroit, saying that he thought Plymouth had benefited more by not having such a service than they would by having it, as it was better to bring industries to Plymouth than for the workmen to live in Plymouth and work in the city. He pointed out the advantages of Plymouth as a shipping center, and said the Pere Marquette Co. was ready to work with the citizens of Plymouth and the Burroughs Company in every way they possibly could for the benefit of both.

The next speaker introduced was Judge Franz Kuhn, president of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. Judge Kuhn paid a splendid tribute to Plymouth as a thriving and beautiful village. He pleased his hearers immensely when he announced that the Bell Company had secured an option on a piece of property in the heart of the village, upon which would be erected a handsome building, to be equipped with latest and best telephone equipment to be obtained. These remarks were greeted with a round of applause.

A. C. Marshall, president of the Detroit Edison Co., was the next speaker introduced, and spoke briefly upon the improvements which his company was making to better serve the district for which the Edison Co. is furnishing light and power.

J. W. Simard, receiver for the D. U. R., was also present.

A demonstration of the wonderful calculator and the billing machine which are manufactured by the Burroughs Co. was made to show the visitors what these machines could accomplish.

E. C. Hough, of this village, was called upon for a few remarks. Mr. Hough, on behalf of the Plymouth business men, expressed appreciation for the invitation which had been extended by the Burroughs Co. to visit their plant, and for the splendid luncheon and entertainment which had been accorded them. He said that while the Burroughs Co. had not asked anything of the citizens of Plymouth, nevertheless they would be ready to cooperate with them whenever the opportunity presented itself, in every way possible, and they would give a hearty welcome by the citizens of Plymouth.

Following this, the visitors were taken through the great plant, which was not only very interesting, but instructive as well.

It was a most pleasant event in every way, and it has brought about a most friendly and neighborly feeling between the citizens of Plymouth and the Burroughs Co., which will live long in the memory of all those who were present.

Credit must be given to Mr. Harry S. Lee, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, for having brought about arrangements for this meeting of Plymouth citizens and the Detroit people, the results of which will undoubtedly be greatly to the profit of our village in the near future. He is to be congratulated on its unequivocal success.

DEATH OF MRS. SARAH RIDDLE

Sarah E. Moreland was born in New York, September 24, 1847, and came to Plymouth in 1854. She was married to William Riddle on September 17, 1866, and had resided upon the same farm for fifty-nine years. On May 8, 1925, she entered into rest, aged seventy-seven years and seven months. A sister, Mrs. Emma Bradner; niece, Mrs. Charles VanGieson, and three children, Charles, Nellie and Caroline Riddle, are left to revere her memory.

The funeral was held at the Riddle home, Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, Rev. Joseph Vance, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Detroit, officiating. The services were largely attended, and interment was in Briggs cemetery.

Mrs. Riddle was one of the few remaining pioneers—that home-loving, devout, reliable class, who caused the wilderness to blossom as the rose. She has built an enduring monument. Columns of brass, corroded, marble crumbles into dust, but he who awakens within the human mind its capabilities for good, is building upon that which time cannot destroy, but will grow fairer and brighter through all eternity.

"THE ALUMNI REVUE"

An entertainment, entitled "The Alumni Revue," will be given at the High school auditorium, this, Friday evening, May 15th, at 8:00 o'clock. The admission has been placed at 25c. A splendid program has been arranged. Don't miss it.

A BENEFACTOR DIES

It was in 1884 that Elwood Haynes built and drove through the streets of an Indiana town what is said to have been the first gasoline auto produced in America. "Get the danged thing off the road," they yelled at him as they struggled to hold their frightened horses. Haynes probably laughed at the competition, for he could doubtless see ahead to the years when such remarks would never again be heard. And all that he foresaw came true before his death just a few weeks ago. He lived to see the day when there is an auto for every two families in the country, and when at least one out of every fifteen workers finds employment in connection with the manufacture, sale, repair of operation of autos. Henry Ford popularized the automobile, but it was Elwood Haynes who first gave it to the world, a fact which school teachers around Plymouth should not lose sight of when they are teaching our boys and girls the good things that men have done for the world.

THIS SOUNDS GOOD

We live in a land that produces more and wastes more than any other nation in the world, and yet the federal reserve bank of the U. S. has just issued a report showing that we also save more. On April 1 last, 893 savings banks in various parts of the country reported an increase in savings of $500,390,000 over a year ago. Depositors in these banks saved $47,000,000 more in the April just passed than they saved in April, 1924. These banks are not all in large cities. Some are in towns no larger than Plymouth, and the same thing that prevails with them will hold good with the other banking and savings institutions of the nation. This looks like the hardest rap of all at the man who argues that times are not getting better and our people more prosperous. It also offers a lesson to those of our citizens who are still complaining—and that is that if they haven't got a little nest-egg saved up in the bank it is because they have neglected to take a dollar or two around to the bank to start one.

THE STRANGER KNOWS

Plymouth citizens may not have noticed it, but a local paper is one of the first things a stranger calls for when he visits a town with a view to locating in it permanently. If the paper is filled with live ads, then he knows there is business in that town. If it is not, he knows that it must be either that the home merchants have little to sell or that they doubt their own ability to sell it. Then he concludes that the community is either dead or hard up—and he decides to locate elsewhere. This is not theory—it is a statement based on many years contact with people who have expressed themselves along the above lines. The local newspaper is an accurate business barometer, and no amount of billboard advertising or loud talk will offset that fact. Its columns are a faithful record of actual conditions in the town and community. You can "sell" your goods to your neighbors and "sell" your town to a stranger at one and the same time. But you can't do it by ignoring the home-town paper.

IT'S DANGEROUS NOW

To ignore a man who is trucking along the road as you whirl by in your auto looks on its face to be a pretty mean custom, and yet in these days of gun-carrying and loose ideas about other people's property rights, it is best to remember that "self-preservation is nature's first law." Within two weeks in the state of Ohio recently, one man who offered a stranger a ride was shot and killed and another shot, robbed and left along the roadside in a dying condition. Both were victims of their own generosity—hikers along the road had asked them for rides and then proved to be highway robbers. Not only are such crimes being perpetrated in Ohio, but in every state in the union. Always the driver is at a disadvantage when he takes a stranger into his car for a ride because he has both hands occupied. There are too many questionable characters walking the roads now to take chances, and the roads around Plymouth are no different from roads in other sections in this respect. The motorist who would be safe should keep this in mind, and especially when driving at night. He should hold fast to one rule, and that is that when a foot traveler unknown to him halts him for a ride, to drive on. It is better to be sorry for the pedestrian than for yourself later, for the chances are very good, at the present rate that crime is increasing, that you will be the one left behind if the ride is given. It has reached the point where driving on is the only sure means of escaping robbery, and possible death.

Show Window Selling

Your show window either invites people to come into your store—or it discourages them from entering.

The first impression received by persons glancing toward a show window is that of light, always light. A thoroughly well lighted window will hold the eye—and the step of the passer-by. Conversely, a poorly lighted window will create a feeling of indifference.

A well lighted window is the first step in a sale. It is itself a salesman, effective and relatively low salaried. Many, very many, storekeepers forget this.

DEVIOUS ARE THE WAYS OF CROOKS

Modern Thief Is Thoroughly Up to Date.

Great criminals of fiction who find it necessary to secure the impressions of keys for some nefarious purpose invariably carry small pellets of wax, which they keep pliable by the warmth of the hand. I suppose years ago burglars did use this sticky and clumsy method, writes Wilfrid Singleton.

The modern criminal, however, moves with the times. A few days ago I saw the impressions of a key taken by an expert gang of burglars who intended to commit a crime. They had their plans all perfected for a huge warehouse robbery. For weeks they had cultivated the acquaintance of the woman cleaner of the establishment, and one of them in the early morning helped in beating carpets and sweeping the stairs. To gather the impressions of all the keys in the warehouse had been a simple matter.

All these impressions were taken in the bone of a cuttlefish, that curious white flaky substance which children and artists use as well as modern burglars. For the bone of the cuttlefish gives a clear, sharp impression of the key edges, far better than can ever be obtained by wax, and moreover it possesses such properties that a mold is already at hand, and the keys can be made at once.

Queer devices of a similar nature are produced by criminal brains. The policeman, young and enthusiastic, who first tied a cotton thread to the handle of a jeweler's shop and a nail in the side of the doorway has long since been found out, as also has his comrade who stuck a pentilled piece of stamp paper on the joint of a door.

The regularity of the beats of these officers enables the crooks to make little of these safeguards. They simply appoint one of their number, known as the "minder," who wanders along behind the officer, armed with a similar piece of sticking plaster and a similar portion of cotton.

Once his friends are inside the premises which are to be robbed, he replaces the policeman's device with his own, and the officer, when he arrives an hour or so later at the shop, discovers his cotton or plaster apparently intact. He walks serenely by, assured of his own alertness, while the burglars inside the shop are probably working with acetone lamps at the safe that he will not know has been robbed until detectives arouse him in the late morning from his sleep with the news and with requests for explanations.

Wants to See Action

"My greatest desire," said a Prairie avenue salesman, "is to see someone some day use a fire extinguisher. I've been going through the buildings of Detroit for many years and I've seen all sizes and shapes of extinguishers hanging in all possible positions. But never in all this time have I been fortunate enough to witness one in operation. I suppose they are used many times. Perhaps if I continue with my wish I may run into a slight blaze sometime that will give me my thrill. Even better, I may be able to satisfy a greater longing—that of yanking the extinguisher from its moorings and playing it on the blaze myself."—Detroit News

Sea Deposits Coal

On the beach of Burkhaven in Fifeshire, Scotland, the sea piles up coal some two or three feet thick. From the town come men, women and children with buckets, boxes, bags and wheelbarrows to get the family supply. From the country come farmers on their horses with bags to get their share, according to the Kansas City Times.

The coal is actually mined by the sea. Ground swells break away the seams outcropping in the Firth of Forth and slowly carry the treasure to the shore.

In stormy weather the product greatly increases.

In Advertising Jargon

"Hello! Wilbur F. Schwimpe! what's your reaction to this little old day?"

"Jefferson B. Hatch, I'm sold on it—completely, absolutely, totally."

"Same here. As I analyze the position the present weather certainly has a big general appeal."

"It sure does get its story across."

"Count me in on that, W. F.; that's my slant on it precisely."

"No need to canvass the situation on a day like today, J. B."

"Sounds like good psychology to me."

"My name's on the dotted line to that, old man. Well good-by."

"Good-by."—New York Life.

Real Spirit Phenomena

Genuine psychic phenomena actually occur. This statement was made by J. Malcolm Bird, editor of the Scientific American, in an address before the Medill School of Journalism in Chicago. "There are real spirit voices," though we have no proof that they are spirits. There are genuine clairvoyants, who can see pictures of the past, present and future. There are spirit writings, which display power far beyond the ability of the writer. And there are even more surprising genuine phenomena in the field of the objective or physical manifestations."

THRILLS OF DROP FROM AIRPLANE

Parachutists Make Interesting Experiments.

There is a theory that if one should have the misfortune to fall, say, from a cliff-top or high building, one would be dead before one hit the ground.

But what aerial experiments now seem to indicate is that a man can fall at a great speed through the air for quite an appreciable distance and yet retain control over his faculties and know what he is doing. "Ariel" writes, in the Washington Post.

In one test recently an experienced parachutist postponed deliberately the opening of his apparatus, after he had sprung from a high-flying airplane, until he had fallen sheer through the air for five or six seconds. Then, precisely when he had intended to do so, he pulled the necessary cord, opened his parachute, and sailed to the ground.

Some of our biggest aerial thrills nowadays occur in experiments for perfecting parachutes or, as they are called, "airmen's life belts."

Leaping from an airplane at a great altitude to test an experimental apparatus, a pilot fell like a stone for such a distance before his parachute opened that his downward rush set up such air friction that, as he declared afterward, "he began to feel as though it was burning my face."

There was another thrill when a novice, learning how to parachute, jumped from a fast-flying airplane, got his gear entangled with the rear control surfaces. The parachute was torn and those in the airplane gave him up for lost. But, even with his parachute damaged, he managed to alight without injuring himself, although his rate of descent was far greater than it should have been.

One civilian pilot, gliding down to land, found that his controls had become jammed when he was only 150 feet from the ground. Jumping out with his parachute, the apparatus opened in the nick of time, and enabled him to alight without injury.

What an efficient parachute means to an aviator was shown recently when, on a dark night and when flying high over a big center of population, a machine developed mechanical trouble. The pilot managed to steer it away until it was above open country, and then, springing from it with his parachute, made a safe descent upon the dark countryside below, the machine crashing some distance away and bursting into flames.

Fate's Cruel Thrust

An English inventor, eighty-three years old, received a sad blow in the hour of his triumph. For over twenty years, the inventor, a resident of Slough, has been struggling patiently to realize his great ambition to improve the tone of the piano. And all through those years his wife shared his enthusiasm. At last he triumphed. He found the secret, with the aid of which a prominent piano manufacturing company believe they can produce an instrument that will revolutionize piano manufacture in that country, and put the English piano in the forefront in the world's markets. But just when he had succeeded, his devoted wife died, and the old man is now prostrated. "I've done my work; my wife is dead, and I have nothing to live for now," is all he can say.

May Conscript Police

The Iceland government has drawn up a project for introducing conscription for the police service. All men between twenty and fifty years would be liable for service.

The reason for this project is an incident which happened a few years ago in Reykjavik. A Russian Bolshevik received an order for deportation and his colleagues in Iceland violently and effectively opposed the police, when the order was to be carried out. At last a voluntary citizen army was formed, which was forced to fight a regular battle in front of the house where the Russian lived. It was then discovered that the police were not sufficient and therefore help is being sought in regular conscription for police service.

Oyster Rich in Pearls

An oyster which proved to be a solid mass of pearls has been labelled as the most remarkable find in the Florida pearl fisheries. The gems contained within the shell ranged in size from a pin head to a cow pea. In color the pearls were black, brown, cream and snow-white, and were embedded clear through the body of the oyster, with a thin bluish skin covering them, through which they could plainly be seen on both sides of the oyster, which was a nice-sized one, and contained, perhaps, 500 pearls. Only the great muscle, gills and mantle of the oyster were free from pearls.

Real Spirit Phenomena

Genuine psychic phenomena actually occur. This statement was made by J. Malcolm Bird, editor of the Scientific American, in an address before the Medill School of Journalism in Chicago. "There are real spirit voices," though we have no proof that they are spirits. There are genuine clairvoyants, who can see pictures of the past, present and future. NEWBURG

There was a very good crowd out to church Sunday, in honor of Mothers' Day. The solo by Miss Gladys Horton was very much enjoyed by all, as well as the special music by the choir. During the Sunday-school hour, little Estu Cole sang a very pretty song, entitled, "Mother."

At the Queen Esther Circle meeting last Tuesday, the following officers were elected:

Pres.—Iva Melbeck
Vice Pres.—Lasona Joy
Secy.—Gladys Horton
Cor. Secy.—Bessie Smith
Treas.—Louise Geary
Supt.—Mrs. Greer.

The regular meeting of the Newburg Patriotic Society will be held next Thursday, May 21, at the home of Mrs. Jessie Thomas. Dinner will be served at noon.

A play entitled, "Womanless Wedding," will be given at the hall next Friday evening, May 22. More particulars next week.

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized on Tuesday, May 12, at Trenton, Mich., when Miss Genevieve Stark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Stark, was united in marriage to Dr. Walter A. Hall. After a short wedding trip, Dr. and Mrs. Hall will be at home in Buffalo, N. Y. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Stark of Newburg, attended the wedding. The play, "Safety First," given at Gleason Hall, by members of the P. T. A. for the school benefit, was a great success, and helped greatly to reduce the debt on the victrola. Our next efforts will be to earn enough for playground equipment. We are badly in need of these, particularly now that the new highway is so close to the school. Something must be done to keep the children interested on the school grounds.

On account of so many requests from those who were unable to see the play, "Safety First," last Friday, we will repeat it tonight, May 15th, at the Gleason Hall. Come and see Mary Ann, Mr. McNutt and the rest. You will have the laugh of your life.

We wish to thank Miss Youngs and Mr. Hutton for the very fine music rendered; also little Angelina Rousseau, who played the piano numbers for the curtain calls, they were very well done.

Tom Stonehouse and Harmon Gates deserve credit for the work of setting up the stake.

Plymouth Mail: Please accept our thanks for prompt notice given, also all who helped in anyway to make the play the success it was.

Rev. Havens preached from John II, a very touching sermon on Mothers' Day. There was a good crowd and everyone enjoyed it. If those who did not come could have seen the happy look on the pastor's face, they would all come again.

MUNICIPAL NOTES

The band of the Northwestern High school of Detroit, is going to play for us in Kellogg Park tomorrow night. Let's show our appreciation by giving them a good audience.

Through the courtesy of Paul J. Wiedman of the Plymouth Motor Sales Co., more parking space is available for our use. The vacant lot west of the creek on the south side of Ann Arbor street, and part of the garage property around the Hillmer Laundry, have been leveled off. Probably before this note is read, lights will have been installed, and signs will be set up. More than a hundred cars can be accommodated here. Automobileists naturally will show their appreciation of Mr. Wiedman's courtesy by using these grounds carefully.

Last Saturday night, the police started to keep Main street and Pennington avenue free from double parking. The safety and appearance of these two blocks was much improved thereby. This policy will be continued during the season. It will work no serious hardship on anyone since the new parking grounds will more than take care of the machines no longer able to use the streets. I am sure that everyone who stops to consider that with the double parking in use, it would be practically impossible for the firemen to answer a fire alarm from one of the stores, will approve this new step in traffic regulation.

This coming Monday night, the Commission will receive bids for the construction of the sanitary sewers authorized for this season, and also for the $92,000 sewer bonds voted this spring.

The five village officers, who were among the hundred or so Plymouth men visiting the Burroughs Adding Machine Co. Tuesday, were very much impressed with their reception and the plant, and much pleased that some day at least part of this factory will be located here.

Some more of the traffic marking has been put on the pavements. The county marked the center lines; Joe Tessman did the lettering, and the village crew marked the parking aisles.

The first car of road oil is supposed to be shipped today. We hope the weather warms up so the oil can be put on to the best advantage.

LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Harry Parker of Howell, visited Miss Mary Conner and Miss Almeda Wheeler, the last week.

Mrs. J. Petz, Miss C. Petz, John Petz, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. Holtz, F. J. Holtz, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bertram, Miss Eleanor Bertram and E. F. Bertram of Detroit, and Lewis Arnsperg of Ann Arbor, attended the Sunday morning service at the Lutheran church to witness the confirmation of Velma Petz and were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Petz.

While walking on Main street last week Tuesday, Mrs. Sheldon Gale was knocked down by a large dog jumping against her in front of the Plymouth Hotel. She was injured quite severely on the knee and bruising other parts of the body. She was assisted into an automobile and taken to a physician where her injuries were attended to. She is getting along nicely at this writing.

A LETTER FROM STATE VETERINARIAN.

Lansing, May 12, 1925.

Village Manager,
Plymouth, Mich.
Dear Sir:

We are in receipt of reports to the effect that dogs are being permitted to run at large in your village, contrary to the provisions of the quarantine, which now affects all of Wayne county.

Section 7 of Act 181 of the Public Acts of 1919 states that it shall be the duty of the sheriff of each county in the district affected, and of his deputies, constables and other municipal police officers, to see to it that such quarantine and orders are enforced.

The outbreak of rabies now sweeping the state is a very serious matter, and any co-operation you may be able to give in the effort to control the disease through the elimination of the stray dogs will be greatly appreciated.

Yours very truly,
B. J. KILLIAM,
State Veterinarian.

MICHIGAN STATE FAIR BOYS' SCHOOL.

The Michigan State Fair Boys' School will be conducted along lines similar to those of past years during the State Fair in Detroit, September 4th to 13th.

The school will be comprised of one boy from each county in the state, who will be entitled to this honor by having received the highest standings on the eighth grade county examination, and passing an acceptable examination in agriculture.

Each boy representing his county will have all expenses paid to the fair, and will be comfortably quartered at the grounds for a week.

The winner in Wayne county will be selected by a committee of which County School Commissioner, E. W. Yost, is chairman.

COMMUNITY CHURCH NOTES

The church was well filled last Sunday evening for the Mothers' Day service. The pastor delivered a very fine sermon paying tribute to the mothers. The choir also rendered some very fine special music.

This week Friday evening, May 15, the Ladies' Aid Society of the church will give a Mother and Daughter banquet in the church dining room at 7:00 o'clock. A program is being prepared. This is the first Mother and Daughter banquet ever given in this church, and it is hoped the mothers will bring their daughters and spend a pleasant evening together. There will also be tables for the men.

In last week's issue, through some little oversight, we failed to mention the name of Sam McKinney, but are glad to say that Mr. McKinney is also one of the trustees of the church.

The next meeting of the Aid Society will be held at the church, Thursday, May 21, at 2:00 o'clock. A pot-luck lunch will be served. Every lady invited.

Don't forget the services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Story of Pocket Knife

One who speaks as an authority is quoted as saying it requires 14,000,000 pocket knives annually to supply the demand. While there is a proportion of purchases by those who have not hitherto carried one, replacements constitute the main portion of the business. The information is added that the average life of a pocket knife is two years. They disappear through loss or breakage. The annual sales considered in conjunction with the average life of a knife indicates that about 28,000,000 persons carry this useful article. — Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

Light Much Cheaper Now

Since the development of electric energy, light has steadily become cheaper with the result that light for household purposes today is only about one-sixteenth as expensive as it was 40 years ago. This is one of the very few commodities the cost of which has come down in recent years. In 1887 about 1,115 candlepower could be bought for $1, but by 1923 $1 would buy 10,200 candlepower.

Electric Oil Field

At Yanamyoung, India, which is on the famous Irrawaddy river there is an all-electric oil field. Here Hindu, Chinese and Burmese coolies work alongside of electric well drills, electric pumps and other electrical equipment, including artificial illumination.

METHODIST NOTES

Next Wednesday night at 8:00 o'clock, Dr. Howard Musser, the Jungle Man of India, at this church. No charge for admission, but a free will offering for his expenses. Dr. Musser is a most remarkable speaker! Hear him.

Tonight, the Booster Sunday-school class has a pot-luck supper at the tourist camp.

Sunday is Fathers' Day in this church. Every father should be in attendance. A souvenir poem will be presented to every father who attends.

Prizes are being offered by our board of education for posters announcing the spirit and purpose of Children's Day. See the pastor if you are interested. Any member of the Sunday-school can try for it.

"Forsake not the assembling of yourselves together, as the manner of some is."

Miss Virginia Giles will give a special reading on Service, at the morning service next Sunday.

Do not fail to hear Dr. Musser next week. He is worth going miles to see and hear.

"Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, thou and thy household."

BAPTIST NOTES

Mothers' Day was remembered in an appropriate manner, last Sunday, at the church. The choir gave two special selections. The men's trio sang, "No Love Like Mother's Love." The pastor's sermon was from Judges 5:7, "Deborah, a Mother in Israel." The decorations were red and white, and made the room very pretty.

The election of Sunday-school officers took place at the close of the Sunday-school hour, with the following result:

Superintendent—Roland Allenbaugh
Asst. Supt.—Walter Postin
Sec'y.—Mrs. Roland Allenbaugh
Treas.—Kenneth Wilske
Organist—Mrs. H. E. Sayles
Chorister—Frank Hamill
Flower Treas.—Mrs. Angie Collins

The B. Y. P. U. entertained in a very pleasant way, their mothers and few guests in the church parlors, last Sunday evening, at 6:00 p. m. Miss Sarah Daly, president of the society, welcomed the mothers and others to the gathering, and spoke a few words of greeting. Mrs. H. E. Sayles responded in a very earnest way, urging each young person to respect and honor their mothers, who had every desire and plan, for their usefulness and success in the world, and especially in their christian life and influence. Miss Bernadett Dalton in her address spoke of trials and storms, but sunshine was sure after the storm and victory after trial, when we follow the right plan. Everyone was pleased with the address. The pastor was called to speak to the young men and women of the society, giving a brief review of the B. Y. P. U. and its purposes. All went upstairs for the evening service.

The B. Y. P. U. rally of the Wayne association meets tonight at the High school building, Walled Lake. Banquet at 6:00 p. m.

The topics for prayer meeting will be: May 18, "Abraham"; May 20, "Samuel"; May 27th, "Daniel."

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

LeRoy Gottschalk led the Christian Endeavor meeting last Sunday evening. Several visitors from the local Epworth League were present. Anna Hondorp leads next Sunday.

The pastor is to be away again next Sunday on business of Presbytery. He is to ordain Mr. Gibbon as elder in the Ypsilanti church. Mr. Gibbon is brother to Mrs. McLeod of our own congregation, and is well known in Plymouth. The pastor will be back to conduct the evening service. In the morning, Rev. H. G. Kellogg of Jackson, will preach.

We were glad to welcome so many mothers at the morning service last Sunday. The church was again crowded with worshippers, and a fine sermon with special music by the choir was enjoyed.

The two flags add to our services a great deal of beauty and meaning. How did we get along without them?

The men's class keeps well above the average in attendance; and it is only well staffed in its growth. Wait until it gets thoroughly under way. Battle Creek may have the largest men's class in the state; but Plymouth is destined to have the best. Why not?

A pleasant meeting of the Busy Woman's Bible Class was enjoyed at the home of Mrs. Hammel last Tuesday. That a fine pot-luck dinner was served, goes without saying. The pastor had to be in Marshall for a Probate Court hearing, and could not enjoy the dinner this time.

Save the evening of June 9th for the pipe organ recital to be given by Miss Olive Merz, our organist, who is a pupil of Dr. MacKay, the organist of St. Paul's Cathedral. Plymouth will have another chance to hear some good organ music.

The Woman's Auxiliary met last Wednesday at the church. Reports were given of the Presbyterian meeting held recently in Pontiac.

FATHERS' DAY

What Sacred Associations Cluster Around the Word:

"FATHER"

"A true Father is the best earthly friend while he lives, and after he has gone there gathers round his head a halo of glory borrowed from heaven into which he has entered, and we name him with a feeling that is almost worship."

Special service and sermon in honor of our Fathers, next Sunday morning at 10:00. A souvenir poem will be given to every father who attends. Miss Virginia Giles will give a short reading.

SCHOOL NOTES

The grade notes were furnished by Gladys Hake; the High school by Jean Hlalop, and the base ball by Pierre Kenyon.

PLYMOUTH WINS FROM FARMINGTON, 10 TO 5.

The local High school nine easily defeated the inferior Farmington team by the score of 10 to 5, last Friday. Taylor Plymouth's left hander, held the visitors scoreless until the last inning, when his arm began to tire. Due to Taylor's slowing up, Farmington seemed to get into the hitting habit. Their good batting streak netted them only five runs. Our other twirler, Rowland, was sent into the box, and being fresh, stopped their hitting streak, and ended the game without letting in any more runs.

Plymouth's runs were quite evenly distributed throughout the game, which is proof of their consistent playing. They surely look like a championship team now, and we hope they will continue to look so.

THE JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

The Junior-Senior banquet of 1925 was held in the High school auditorium, Friday evening, May 8th. The auditorium was decorated in a quaint old Holland way, with a tulip bed surrounded by a lattice fence with vines climbing over it. The originality of the Juniors showed in the decorations. At one side, reaching nearly to the ceiling, stood a big Holland windmill, from which streamers of blue and white radiated over the heads of the banqueters to the opposite side. Big wooden shoes, filled with dyed excelsior to resemble grass, held tulips, artificial but convincing. The ice cream was served in paper cups inside flower pots; its chocolate color, with the single tulip growing from it surely looked like "Holland soil."

The banquet was served by fourteen Sophomore girls dressed in Dutch costumes, seven as girls and seven as boys. The favors were little Dutch windmills, wooden shoes, churns and pieces of furniture. The program was as follows:

- Guards of the Dykes—Blanche Freeman
- The Rising Tide—Mary Parrott
- Dutch Peter—Doris Hanft
- The Burgomaster—Everett Cummins
- A Dutch Love—Mrs. Murray
- Gardens in Holland—Mr. Ross
- Dutch Dance—Virginia Giles, Doris Whipple
- To Hans—Julia Wilcox
- To Gretchen—Forrest Hubert
- The Turning of the Mill—Kenneth Wilske

GRADE NOTES

A new victrola will be found in the B2 room. It was purchased by the B Second and First grade, from the money they received from the play that was given last week. The B Second is studying "Good Times on the Farm" for reading.

Doll houses and theatres are being made by the Third grade.

A great surprise was given Miss Kimball, Friday, by the pupils of the Fourth grade, the day being her birthday.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The Senior Class are going to visit the Physics department of the University of Michigan on Friday, May 15.

On Friday afternoon, the Grade school of Plymouth, will give an exhibition.

The Freshmen are having a class party Tuesday evening, at the M. E. Community Hall.

A picnic was held by the eighth grade, at the tourist camp last week.

The Aggie Club of Plymouth is sending judging teams to Lansing the 14th and 15th of May, to judge poultry, stock, grain and potatoes. About fifteen people expect to go.

PLYMOUTH LOSES TO ORCHARD LAKE POLISH SEMINARY.

Last Wednesday, Plymouth lost a hard game to the Polish Seminary, by the score of 12 to 6. By the looks of the score, one would think it was an easy victory for the lake dwellers; however, it was a hard fought game from beginning to end. The Plymouth team, as was predicted earlier in the season, are fast becoming hard hitters, which was shown when the Seminary's star pitcher was battered out of the box, and another was substituted. We feel quite confident in the team after having played such a hard hitting game at Orchard Lake, and are sure that they will really do something worth while this season.

THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR

Today's Reflections

Now they're talking of having a "tell-the-truth week." Better not have it while the fishing season is on.

Every Plymouth family is proud of its ancestors, but few of them want to take care of the old folks.

The fellow who buys a 14c stamp must learn to be generous enough to give the government the other half.

The trouble with a political reform is that it usually solves one problem and creates two new ones.

Professional ball players can knock dies, but it is now up to the citizens of Plymouth to swat them.

Nowadays when a fellow with a bottle says, "Take a drink, it will straighten you out," it proves to be stuff that will straighten you out, all right.

If the world is really better than it used to be then our ancestors must have been an awful bunch of toughs.

Young people of Plymouth don't pay as much attention to older folks now as they once did because it's so hard to find anyone who will admit they're old.

What has become of the old-fashioned salesman who never tackled a hard customer until he had had a drink or two?

If you really believe in fairy stories, buy some stock that is guaranteed to yield twenty per cent.

If a Plymouth man neglects his family, but is good to his dog, people say he has a kind heart.

Another thing that tends to make anarchists is the thing of bringing pies to market in an auto right past the man who never gets to ride in one only at a funeral.

Girls who begin painting at twelve usually need "whitewashing" at twenty.

Does anyone know why the average Plymouth man can spade longer and with less fatigue when he is spading for fishing worms than he can when he is planting vegetables?

A lot of fat women won't care to go to heaven if they're forced to wear the long flowing robes supposed to be stylish with the angels.

Our idea of a good husband is the Plymouth man who can wipe dishes without dropping a few so he'll be sent out of the kitchen.

It would have to be something awful shocking to make the modern girl blush so it would show through the paint.

If you have anything to buy or sell, advertise it in the Mail.

The man in a fog should visualize one thing readily—his imperative need of glasses. A thorough examination of his eyes and the right lenses.

"All health is often a symptom of eye strain; eye relief meaning health improvement."

Northville wants a twilight base ball league. Plans are under way for the organization of a building and loan association at Redford.

Rochester has a twilight base ball league of six teams, and games are called at 7:30 p. m. The Milford Masonic Lodge has purchased a three-story brick building in that village for a lodge home.

The attempt to form a six-town base ball league in which Milford was to be included, has been abandoned. Northville business men will shut up shop four nights a week this summer—Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays.

Excavating is now in progress for St. Mary's new church at Redford. The new church will have a seating capacity of 1,000 people. Work has been commenced on Redford township's new office building, which is to be located at the corner of Waterford road and Woodland avenue.

Rev. Joe Payne, the cowboy evangelist, has begun a series of meetings at the Wixom church. Rev. Payne conducted a series of meetings in Plymouth a short time ago. Henry Ford has purchased a copy of the city directory of Pontiac and Flint, published in 1861, and which is said to be the first directory ever published in the two cities.

The Detroit Motor Bus Company has arranged to take over the business recently established by the Detroit, Northville and Milford Motor Company, and will continue the service. Ira Carnes of Walled Lake unwittingly traded cars Saturday night. He parked his new Chrysler sedan beside one of the dance pavilions and when he went to get it found it missing and a Dodge of the vintage of 1919 in its place—Milford Times.

Thirty-seven registered Hoelsteins, said to be the largest number of cattle from any one herd in Oakland county or vicinity to be slaughtered because of tuberculosis infection, were killed Friday at Pontiac. Meat inspection officials of the city and a representative of the Board of Agriculture were present—Milford Times.

When arraigned before Justice Callkins Monday on a charge of killing six robins and a brown thrush, a Detroit party paid a fine of fifty dollars and $10 costs. His partner was fined $50 and $5 costs for shooting squirrels. Guns of both men were confiscated. The men were placed under arrest in a woods north of New Hudson, Sunday, by Deputy Game Warden A. C. Wilkinson—South Lyon Herald.

A striking confirmation of the fact of the gradual concentration of farm land ownership in Washtenaw county is shown in the holdings of the Godfredson Land Company. This organization owns more acres of land in the county than any other one person or corporation. Here under one management are 16 farms, with an area of 1,800 acres, of which 1,200 are in Superior township. E. A. Clarke is the general manager. He operates the 16 farms with the help of 15 men, three tractors (2 Fordson and one Rummely), and 36 horses. On these farms at this time are 430 head of cattle, including 100 pure bred shorthorns, some of them prize winners at Michigan state and international shows in 1924. In addition, Mr. Clarke is feeding 330 Steers, 350 Duroc Jersey swine and between 300 and 400 poultry.—The Washtenaw Post.

THE THEATRE

"CHU CHIN CHOW"

"Chu Chin Chow" comes to the Penniman Allen theatre, Saturday, May 16th. This production is a film version of the famous stage play, which ran for five years in London, and three in America, the consensus of opinion calling it the greatest of all spectacles, and the picture has been said to even surpass the play for gorgeous scenes and thrilling action. Beautiful Betty Blythe, of "Queen of Sheba" fame, is seen as Zabrat, the desert flower and the much-desired slave girl. Never has Miss Blythe appeared more radiantly beautiful than in the wonderful Oriental gowns she wears, among them one made entirely of pearls. With her, in the role of Chu Chin Chow of China, will be seen Herbert Langley, a famous English actor. Thousands appear in the great cast, with its many dancing Harem girls. When you see "Chu Chin Chow" you will once again be back in the realm of the age-old theme, Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves, the story that has come down through the mists of Ancient Arabian legends and was presented to a wondering western world by Burton in his "Arabian Nights." You will see Oscar Asche's wonderful Oriental spectacle presented before you in all the profuse magnificence of the East. One scene in "Chu Chin Chow" will astound you with its regal eastern splendor, Ali Baba's cave. Here you have a wonderful arrangement and glittering array of precious jewels, gold and silver, wonderful antique oriental vessels, garments, hangings and carpets and a thousand other things that simply dazzle. Altogether "Chu Chin Chow" is one of those pictures that will stand out in the memory as a production of unforgettable beauty and thrill. It was adapted and directed by Herbert Wilcox and was produced by the Graham Wilcox company, an English concern. It is distributed by Metro-Goldwyn.

"SEVEN CHANCES" He had $7,000,000, but still was a poor man. Why? Because his girl wouldn't marry him. Such is the predicament of Buster Keaton in his new Metro-Goldwyn comedy, "Seven Chances," which is coming to the Penniman Allen theatre on Sunday and Monday, May 17 and 18. It isn't as bad as Buster thinks, thank goodness, for his girl loves him. But because he proposes to her in order to get a wife and carry out the terms of his uncle's will so as to get the $7,000,000, she doesn't like it a bit. "Seven Chances" was produced by Joseph M. Schenck from David Belasco, Belasco's famous stage comedy makes excellent screen material and, by the way, it is the first stage production Buster has ever used for film purposes. Buster's trio of scenarists, Joe Mitchell, Jean Haves and Clyde Bruckman, have "zapped up" the Belasco comedy so that the screen version out-laughs the stage play at every turn. "The girl who refuses him is played by Ruth Dwyer.

"PETER PAN" The Paramount screen version of J. M. Barrie's stage play, "Peter Pan," a Herbert Brenon production for Paramount, will be the feature at the Penniman Allen theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, May 20 and 21. The picture is an adaptation by Willis Goldbeck and features Betty Bronson, Ernest Torrence, Cyril Chadwick, Virginia Brown Faire and Anna May Wong in the leading roles. Five years ago it might have been said that such a picture couldn't be made. And it would have been true. For Paramount needed every last particle of its long experience and every trick known to present-day motion picture production to make "Peter Pan" a possibility. Just such a picture is "Peter Pan." Everyone knows the story which is even more pleasing in its screen form—and Betty Bronson in the title role. They searched far and wide for a "Peter Pan" type and found Miss Bronson right under their very noses in the Hollywood studios. To say that she's a "find" is putting it mildly. She's perfect! Ernest Torrence, as the frightful pirate Captain Hook, gives a characterization which overshadows even his role of Jackson in "The Covered Wagon." And the same goes for each and every other member of the cast. It is said that six months were spent before a camera was turned on "Peter Pan" that it might be as near perfection as it was possible to make. Let us spend six months in preparation on a few more of our productions if this is the result, say we.

No Increase in the Price of Firestone FULL-SIZE GUM-DIPPED BALLOONS. The extra quality built in by the extra process of Gum-Dipping, the economy of these wonderful tires and the added mileage obtained from them during the past two years, has created such a large demand that over 75% of Firestone's mammoth production is now Balloon Gum-Dipped Cords. This has greatly increased the total sales volume and the huge Firestone factories are now working on a 24-hour schedule to supply the demand. This large volume, produced under the most economical tire manufacturing methods, permits Firestone to sell these extra-process Full-Size Balloons at no extra cost to car owners. And this in the face of a greatly advanced cost for crude rubber brought about by the operation of the British Rubber Restriction Act. Gum-Dipping means longer mileage—greater economy—at no extra cost to you! Enjoy the safety, economy and comfort of Balloon Gum-Dipped Cords this summer. South American Impressions

BY CASS S. HOUGH

CHAPTER FIVE

The great Inca Empire included much more than Cuzco and its adjoining lands; it stretches far to the south, some writers giving evidence of its including the southern part of Lake Titicaca. As we leave Cuzco for Puno, we must remember that the route we are traveling is that trodden by thousands of these great people—had now four centuries. The massive ruins of the palace of Yahuar-Hancco, and other great edifices, Viracocha, are plainly seen on either side of the road. Puno is reached, and here we are on the banks of Lake Titicaca, the highest body of navigable water in the world. The lake lies at an average height of 12,500 feet above the sea, about 200 miles from the Pacific, and easily 2000 miles from the Atlantic shores of Brazil. The great chain of Bolivian Andes or Cordillera Real skirts the lake on its eastern side. This mountain chain, from the towering peak of Hango-Vina, to Illimani to the imposing mass of the Illimani southeast of the city of La Paz, runs from northwest to southeast, and the lake in the same direction forms a deep trough west, or rather southwest of that snowy range. At sunset on a good day a magnificent view of 200 miles of snowy Andes is visible, from Illimani, the tallest of the Sorata group, to Illimani.

Leaving Puno at the upper end of the Laguna de Chucuito, the lake spreads out before us, a placid water-sheet of azure blue, with streaks of emerald green here and there. The skies above, to quote Carpenter "are all the best of the Andean heavens combined with others peculiarly their own."

As we sail into the lake proper, we can barely discern the principal villages on the gently sloping Peruvian shores. Here and there, on great points of land we can make out great human stone statues, such as the one near Inca. In the distance we can see some of the Nevados that separate the lake region. As we look over the prow of the "Inca," we see a rugged promontory jutting into the lake. The northern end of this point is Titiaca Island, while its southern continuation is the peninsula of Copacabana. As we look at the sharply defined, lofty peaks surrounding Titiaca's basin, we cease to wonder at the name given the range—Cordillera Real—these majestic peaks are fully deserving of this appellation. As the sun sinks low, the great peaks become golden, their bases a deep violet, followed soon by a deep crimson just as the sun sinks below the horizon. The Master Painter is again at work. Oh that Gainsborough of Inness might be able to represent this panorama with even a faint suggestion of the luminous color that greets the eye here!

Small islands dot the lake, unusually close to shore, showing in all probability that they are a part of the mainland, exposed by a drop in the water level. Ruins are visible on nearly all the islands, and even today small bands of Indians, probably Inca-Quechua mixtures, inhabit the larger ones. We see their "Bolsas" or small straw boats, drifting the placid surface of the lake, going from island to island, or to the shore.

The journey across the lake occupies twelve hours, which passes altogether too soon. By means of a railway connecting with the boat arrivals, we are soon on our way to La Paz, capital of Bolivia, a comparatively new city, when compared to Oruro and Potosi, the once fabulously wealthy mining centers of Bolivia, but now, with no semblance of their former glory left, they are forced to rank third and fourth with La Paz and Sucre ahead of them.

We keep looking and looking for La Paz, but we do not see it. Finally, when our patience is almost exhausted, the train slows down on the rim of a great valley nestling in the Bolivian Andes—there before us lies La Paz, bathed in many colors, due mainly to the brightly colored roofs. The roofs are still brighter colored roofs. The descent into the city takes very little time; soon we are in the Plaza Mayor, with its great Alameda stretching out from it to north and south.

What brightly-colored clothes these people wear—so much brighter than the natives of other parts of the great small town in Alto Peru wear. The people are very different; here the "Chunos" predominate, the half-bred Indians, slow moving, slow thinking, suspicious, indolent race, which would rather sit and chew coca leaves than anything else. True they do have their markets, but the sale of their merchandise is a secondary consideration with them. They have their interesting articles for sale, such as the great fur slippers, big enough for both feet, which they use as a foot-warmer, articles woven from the alpaca wool, ponchos, knitted caps (which look like the rising sun seen through a prism)—in short, a regular clothing store.

The main article of food for sale are the "chunos," potatoes, already prepared and packed in a process of trapping them with late foot, much in the same manner as German sauerkraut is made. These "chunos" are as white as bleached bones, and must be thawed out before eating. Then, too, one can buy the native beer, "chicha," which is made from Indian corn, and resembles in consistency our North American buttermilk, only it has a golden hue. This forms the principal drink of the Bolivian Indians.

The women are the salesmen in the public market. They work while their husbands walk about eating coca leaves, or squat in a convenient place to talk to some other "hard working" brave. It seems as though there are as many babies as there are grown-ups—ranging in age from a month to a year, the younger ones often carried on their mothers' backs. They are much the same way as is a pup of one of our tribes of North American Indians. The llamas present an interesting study, with their large, sensitive eyes, proudly held heads, and majestic air. This animal is the chief means of transportation, and from all appearances, they are aware of the fact. They will carry about 100 pounds, and the instant a bit more is added, they will lie down and sulk, until that extra weight is taken off. We must at least give them credit for a generous amount of "horse" sense. They are an affectionate animal, and show great devotion for their masters. We befriend the unfortunate person who offends them, for they promptly spit on the offender. Somewhere in their mouths they secrete a decidedly evil-smelling fluid, and once this touches a person "all the king's dry-cleaners can't remove the odor. In this they are quite comparable to the familiar North American skunk. They are fed in trains, ranging from six to ten. On the sides of the great market are open squares where these beasts are herded while their master is "busily" engaged in buying his wife and children's wares. They stand in these open air stables hours at a time, patiently chewing their cud, waiting for the homeward journey. Nor is this least of value solely as a means of transportation; their droppings form the most important fuel in Bolivia. It is not uncommon to see great piles of it in the rear of, or sometimes in the house itself. Considered in the light of their economic value to the Bolivians, it is far greater than that of our horses to us. Is it strange then that the Bolivian people treat these animals with almost the same thoughtfulness as pet cats, dogs and canaries are cared for in our homes?

Toward the south, a short distance, lies the town of Sorata, situated towards the head of the Rio Corico. I cannot pass by the opportunity of giving mention to the place it played in early Bolivian history. It will be remembered that early in the 18th century, the Indians of the Bolivian highlands, were quite passive. Then came the great insurrection of Tupac Amaru the Inca. All the Spaniards in the country surrounding Sorata had taken refuge in the city, aware of the fact that they could easily withstand a siege. But the crafty Tupac, instead of waiting to reduce the city by a long siege operation, created a temporary reservoir higher up on the Rio Corico, and then suddenly discharged its contents on the doomed city. Those who survived the avalanche of rushing water perished by the sword. Bandetta's "Inca" is surely applicable here.

We must leave Bolivia and the Indians and once more turn our faces toward the sea, where we will embark on the next stage of our journey, which will carry us to the central part of Chile.

CHAPTER SIX

The descent from La Paz to Arica is soon accomplished, and we find ourselves in the very heart of the region over which so many lives have been lost, although it appears now as though Tacna will remain in Chilean hands, as it has since 1882. Here in Arica we see the "Morro," eternal evidence of the great battle fought here, ending in the pushing of thousands of Peruvians over the cliff onto the rocks below.

The geographical location of Arica is an important one, and it occupies a unique position in the physical structure of the continent. It is practically at the junction of the main axes of the Peruvian and Chilean Andes, and for this reason frequent vibrations of the ground are felt, caused by the subterranean disturbances. The shocks are often quite violent, and Arica, which was destroyed in 1605, suffered a total ruin in 1868. Nevertheless, however, the people have learned their lesson, and their buildings are low, and strong enough to resist quite violent shocks.

The Chilean people are more Indian than European by descent, and have a very marked personality among the South American populations. They are apparently of a more modern type, but their very neighbors, the Peruvians, and other inhabitants of the central and northern Andean regions, and to me seem more steadfast and tenacious of a purpose. Elsewhere we see the "Chunos" of Bolivia, but here, as the English of the southern continent by contrast with the Peruvians, or rather the people of Lima, whom they assimilate to the French. They are described as reserved, harsh and even cruel, and in the last war with Peru they certainly showed little pity for the vanquished.

They are largely of Araucanian lineage, but even then their language is not the pure Castilian, the Spanish language having undergone more changes in Chile than in any of the other Iberian colonies in the New World. The Peninsula Spaniards, landing at Valparaiso had a great deal of difficulty in understanding the language spoken, on account of the many Araucanian forms introduced, and because the Chileans have a habit of dropping the last syllable of their words.

The remarkable thing about Chile is that it has inherited its homogeneity more continuously than any of her sister republics. This is explained by the proximity of the sea, which makes it truly a maritime state, a state whose importance is greatly enhanced by the importance of Valparaiso, which lies about midway between the extremities of the long coast line. Similar positions were held in ancient times by Phoenicia, later Greece, and still later Venice, which countries, thanks to their command of the seas, were able to enlarge their narrow boundaries by colonies along the shores of the Mediterranean. Venice also going along the entire coast of the Adriatic.

Due to this unity as a nation, Chile hitherto has been smugly proud for the fortunes of war in her conflicts with her northern neighbors. Let us look, then, at some of the ports on the Chilean coast, where daily, tons of shipping pass in and out.

As we coast south along the rather rugged Chilean coast, numerous small settlements dot the water's edge. Antofagasta, the most important of these, commercially, from a huge aggregate of wooden and galvanized-iron houses, stores, workshops and depots. It is the great center of the silver industry, as well as the nitrates, though by no means monopolizing the export trade in that metal, and today is the terminus for the longest railroad running into the Bolivian plateau from the Pacific.

A PLEASING ENTERTAINMENT

The entertainment given at the Methodist Community hall last Saturday evening for the benefit of the Missionary Society, was only fairly well attended. A one-act play entitled, "A Love of a Bonnet," was given by six ladies in a very clever manner. Rev. D. D. Nagle favored the audience with a solo, while Mrs. Nagle gave two readings, both numbers being excellent. Lyman Judson of Albion College, winner of second place in the national contest at Northwestern University, gave his oration, "Crime and the Criminal Court." Mr. Judson handled this interesting subject in a manner that showed him to be a deep thinker and an orator of great ability. It is to be regretted that more people could not have heard this splendid oration.

ROOT HOMESTEAD IN FAMILY ONE HUNDRED YEARS.

Last week passed the hundredth anniversary of the Root farm on the old Ann Arbor road west of Plymouth. The first to make his home on this tract of land was Roswell Root, born on March 31, 1780. He came to Michigan in the spring of 1825, from New York. On May 8th of the same year, he took up the farm, which is now owned and occupied by his youngest grandson, who has lived all of his life on the old homestead. In August of the same year, Mr. Root went to Washington, D. C., to obtain a deed of his new Michigan home, and to bring his family back with him. The deed, now in the possession of another grandson, J. F. Root, was written on parchment and signed by Andrew Jackson. The possessor of this document is now living on a part of the homestead where Mr. Root lived until his death, which occurred on October 23, 1873. The homestead was then transferred to his youngest son and wife, Henry R. and Elizabeth C., who made a home for his mother until her death in 1877. Henry R. Root lived all of his life, which was with January 16, 1919, in the old homestead. At that time the old home was again transferred to the youngest son and wife, Lewis H. and Ada E. During the period of one hundred years the home has been in the Root name with only two transfers and no mortgages.
