GREAT SPELLING BEE TAKES PLACE TODAY

Seventy-four Boys and Girls of the Metropolitan Area Will Test Their Prowess at State Fair Coliseum this Afternoon.

William Kirkpatrick of the Fifth Grade of the Local School Will Represent Plymouth.

Today, Friday, is going to be a red letter event in the history of the schools throughout the metropolitan district of Detroit. Thousands of school children, their parents, teachers and friends will gather at the great coliseum on the fair grounds of the Michigan State Fair on Woodward avenue, between seven Mile and Eight Mile roads.

This afternoon in the coliseum at 3:00 p. m., the Detroit News will stage the great spelling match. It is expected that upwards of 20,000 people will witness it, and a band of fifty pieces will enliven it with music.

The purpose of this great event is to find the best speller in the grade schools of the whole metropolitan area. The Detroit News may send her own man to Washington to represent Detroit in the final contest of a great national bee, the winner of which will have the title of champion speller of the United States conferred on him by no less than President Coolidge.

The final match today will be the closing event, locally, of the Metropolitan spelling bee, which for the last four months, the Detroit News has been conducting in the grades of the public, parochial and private schools of the city, and all territory outside the city that lies within twenty-five miles of Detroit's city hall.

To this final match will come the picked spellers of Detroit and three counties—Wayne, Oakland and Macomb. They will number 74. They will represent nineteen different districts within the city of Detroit and every city, village and township outside Detroit, but within the metropolitan area. District champions have arrived at their present status only by passing through repeated and grueling preliminary spelling bees, at which their powers have been tested and developed and the battle of words today probably will surpass that seen at any similar event ever staged in America, for these 74 spellers are the pick of 238,000 school children—boys and girls who by poise and courage and sheer ability to spell have stood up through every elimination contest.

PLYMOUTH REPRESENTED

The Plymouth public schools will be represented in the great spelling bee by William Kirkpatrick, a pupil of the fifth grade.

The rural schools about Plymouth will also have their champion spellers in the contest.

The great spectacle will be open to the public. There will be no admission or other charge of any kind. Everyone connected with the schools of Detroit and Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties, as well as all others interested in education, are especially invited and welcome to this unique, imposing and absorbingly interesting event.

For the purposes of the match, the event will take the form of a commencement day in a rural school district of a generation ago. The members of the "town school board" will all be there. Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck will be "moderator" and will preside. Thomas Johnson, state superintendent of public instruction, will be present as a "director." Frank Cody, superintendent of schools of Detroit, will be "schoolmaster" and will have active charge of the "class." After a concert by Cass Tech Band, under the direction of Clarence Byrn, conductor, the school and its thousands of guests will join in singing several of the good, old-time school songs. "Moderator," "Director" and "Schoolmaster" will make brief talks, and then, as the crowning feature of the occasion—the spell-down!

The champion, whoever he or she may be, will receive a certificate of championship, designating him or her as the champion speller of Metropolitan Detroit, presented by Gov. Groesbeck.

PLYMOUTH WILL HONOR SOLDIER DEAD

APPROPRIATE EXERCISES WILL BE HELD TOMORROW, AND GRAVES OF OUR SOLDIER DEAD DECORATED.

Under the auspices of the Plymouth Rotary Club, Memorial Day, Saturday, May 30th, will be observed in Plymouth with appropriate exercises to be held at 10:00 o'clock in the morning, in Kelllogg Park, weather permitting. If the weather does not permit, the exercises will be held in the High school auditorium at the same hour.

Following the program, a parade will be formed, and go to the cemetery where the graves of our soldier dead will be decorated by the Boy Scouts. Automobiles will be provided for the Civil War Veterans. The police and fire departments and Boy Scouts will take part in the parade, and it is expected the soldiers and sailors of the World war, Spanish American war, civic societies and citizens in general will also be in the line of march.

The following program has been arranged:

INFORMATION BOOTH RE-OPENED FOR SUMMER SEASON.

The information booth on Main street, which was established last year by the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, was re-opened for the summer season, last week Friday.

This year the booth will be maintained jointly by the Chamber of Commerce and the local branch of the Detroit Automobile Club, which is now in charge of R. Bachelard. The expense of keeping an attendant in the office will be borne equally by the two organizations. Miss Thelma Williams will have charge of the booth from 9:00 a. m. to 6:00 p. m., each week day. On Sundays and during evening hours the booth will be looked after by the police department.

The booth proved a very popular convenience to the traveling public last season, and with the addition of more concrete highways entering Plymouth, the opportunity for supplying services of this kind will be greatly enhanced. The purpose of the booth is to supply tourists or strangers with information regarding the village that can be reasonably expected, and to give them directions as to the routes to any place they may wish to go from here. Maps and other information provided by the Automobile Club and literature by the Chamber of Commerce relative to the village are available to those who may desire the information which they contain. The booth also contains a telephone for the convenience of the public. It is the purpose of the booth to render every possible service and courtesy to the stranger who visits Plymouth, and that it is appreciated by the traveling public was evidenced last year by the many favorable comments which were received from the many who had occasion to make use of the service which it supplied, and it has done much to advertise the progressive spirit of Plymouth and the enterprise of the Chamber of Commerce.

HIGH SCHOOL OPERETTA

"The Toreadors," a light opera, which was given Tuesday evening, in the High school auditorium by the Glee Clubs, was a great success. The music, dancing and acting, together with the artistic scenery and costuming, gave the desired effect of a typical Spanish setting.

The action took place in a Spanish patio, which was well represented by a stone wall with red tiling, and a gate.

The first act opened with the entire cast, including the chorus, principals and dancing girls, celebrating the birthday of Benita and Juanita, the twin daughters of Senor Dكتور. Ruth Allison and Winifred Draper who took the parts of Benita and Juanita, were very attractive in their red dresses with black shawls and mantillas. They both carried their parts very well in the singing as well as the acting. The character of Senor Dكتور, a wealthy farmer and admirer of Toreadors, was very capably played by Pierre Kinyon, who wore a gray and red costume. His solos were sung unusually well. The parts of Juan and Pablo, admirers of Benita and Juanita, were played by Russell Reiman and Wilbur Murphy, who also deserve mention of having done well. They wore black costumes with brilliant colored sashes and trimmings. Ione Kelly and Thelma Peck, who were dressed in black with gay colored shawls and red mantillas, were good in their parts as Dolores and Maria, friends of Benita and Juanita.

The humor of the operetta was afforded through the characters of the beggars, who masqueraded as Toreadors—the great Senor Swateo and Senor Whackoo of Spain. On enter-

DEATH OF B. F. VEALEY

Benjamin F. Vealey was born in Nankin township, July 19, 1852, and died at his home on East Ann Arbor street, Friday evening, May 22nd. He moved with his parents when a small boy to Romulus, where he lived until 1911, when he came to Plymouth, where he has since made his home. In 1873, he married Sarah J. Post, also of Romulus township, and to this union were born three children, Ernest C. and George W., both of Plymouth, and Mrs. Maggie Bradburn of Belleville, all of whom remain to comfort their widowed mother and to mourn the loss of a kind father. Besides the widow and children, there are three grandchildren, two great grandchildren: one brother, J. A. Vealey of Missoula, Montana, who came from his home over a week ago, and was with his brother during his illness; one sister, Mrs. Charles Dunn of Romulus, and a host of other relatives and friends, all of whom are deeply grieved over his passing to the great beyond.

NEW PLANT A BUSY PLACE

The new plant of the General Machine & Iron Works is a busy place these days. The machinery has all been moved from the plant in Detroit to the new plant here, and there has hardly been a break in production of the plant. The company has plenty of orders, and F. J. Schmidt, president, reports that the work in all departments of the plant is progressing nicely. The mail will have a complete write-up and description of Plymouth's newest industry in a week or so.

Auctioneer Harry C. Robinson sold 104 horses at auction at the Sam Weinberg Horse Market in Detroit, Wednesday. This does not look as if the horse had been entirely eliminated by the motor vehicles.

Lincoln's Gettysburg Address

Fourscore and seven years ago our Fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting-place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

MANY CHANGES IN MOTOR VEHICLE LAWS.

Broad changes in the state laws governing the operating of motor vehicles became effective recently when the Wells-Horton-Butley-Jewell bill was transmitted to the department of state bearing the governor's signature.

For the first time a positive dimming law is on the statute books. It stipulates that drivers shall dim not less than 600 feet of an approaching car, unless lights are of a non-glaring variety. Cut-outs and exhaust whistles hereafter are banned absolutely. The law states specially that cut-outs are not permitted.

The general passenger car law, relative to light, two headlights in front and one tail light—is unchanged, but a new clause was added making it mandatory for drivers to have the required number of lights functioning. Failure to have a vehicle properly lighted can now be termed reckless driving, and a driver's license may be suspended for violation.

A radical change in the lighting system for busses and trucks is prescribed. Trucks weighing more than two tons and passenger busses must have, in addition to the regular lighting equipment, three green lights in front, at the top of the windshield, and three green lights at the point of greatest visibility in the rear. The idea of this section is to give passenger car drivers warning when approaching a large commercial vehicle. Owners, as well as operators, of commercial vehicles, are held liable.

The new law provides distinctive license plates for commercial vehicles. Inasmuch as plates have already been issued for 1925 this section will not be enforced until 1926.

Commercial vehicles, including passenger carriers, must be equipped with speedometers, as state inspectors more readily may check their speed.

Drivers no longer are required to transfer license plates when a used car is taken in. The transfer will now be direct to the purchaser of the car.

Stiff penalties for violation of any section of the act are prescribed. First offenders are subject to a $25 fine and 10 days imprisonment; second offense, $50 and 30 days; third offense $100 and 60 days.

According to the secretary of state, immediate steps to enforce the new statute are to be taken.

In addition to the general changes effective the Young Drunken Driver bill has been operative for several days past and several license suspensions have been made under its provisions. It stipulates that driving while intoxicated is a misdemeanor, punishable by comparatively heavy penalties. In addition, the driver is subject to suspension of his license for 90 days for a first offense and for one year for a subsequent offense.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS INTERESTING TALK.

Prof. W. C. Hoard of the engineering firm of Hoard, Decker, Shoecraft & Drury, civil engineers of Ann Arbor, was the speaker at the noon-day luncheon of the Plymouth Rotary Club, last Friday. The subject of Prof. Hoard's talk was "Building a City." The speaker emphasized, water, ground and sanitary sewerage, as two of the first things needful in the building of a city, and the most necessary and important things in the future growth of a town or city, and the comfort and health of its inhabitants. He pointed out that it was the duty of an organization such as the Rotary Club and similar clubs to get back of the officials of the municipality in which they are located, in every public improvement that tends to the right building up of a city. It was a very interesting and helpful talk that held the closest attention of his hearers.

To the Citizens of Plymouth

The Michigan Funeral Directors and Embalmers Association will meet in Plymouth, June 23, 24, 25 next.

Our hotels have not the sleeping rooms to care for the large number of people who will come to Plymouth for this convention. Therefore, the Chamber of Commerce is going to ask the people of Plymouth, who have one or more rooms which they can spare, to volunteer their use for this occasion. Arrangements have been made for the serving of all meals. In next week's paper, a coupon will be printed, and those who can furnish a room, will be requested to fill out the same and return it to the Secretary of Chamber of Commerce.

The bringing of this convention to Plymouth is a great honor for the village, and will do much to advertise Plymouth as a progressive and growing town, and it is up to every citizen to help make the convention a big success.

Decide now how many rooms you can spare and be ready to fill out the coupon when it appears in the Mail next week.

THE DAY WE CELEBRATE

One hundred and forty-five years have passed since Patrick Henry, denouncing the tactics of England and pleading for the independence of thirteen struggling colonies in the new world, placed his name forever on history's pages by declaring, "I know not what course others may take, but as for me—give me liberty or give me death."

And that word "liberty" has since been held sacred by the descendants of the men who were gathered with Patrick Henry on that historic occasion. We come again to the anniversary of the birth of a nation with that word, "liberty" strongly imbedded in our hearts and minds. Forty-eight states have grown from those struggling thirteen colonies, and in every one of them the red, white and blue symbol of liberty is again being unfurled to the breeze. In the hearts of even the smallest, the meaning of the Fourth of July has been made plain. School children of Plymouth know why it has been proclaimed a national holiday, and they know what it signifies in the life of a free people. They enter with their elders into a proper observance of the day, and they praise the name of those who stood at Yorktown, Concord and Valley Forge, those who gave freely of their blood that liberty and independence might forever prevail among the people of the new world.

Celebrate the glorious Fourth as you will this year. Spend the holiday carrying out any program you may care to arrange, but do not let the celebration be such that those who gave their lives for your liberty could not approve of. Celebrate it as quietly or as enthusiastically as you choose—but don't forget why you are celebrating or what you are celebrating. And, above all else, take a moment to consecrate yourself anew to the upholding of the principles upon which your country is founded; pledge yourself again to be loyal to all that the Fourth of July and the American flag represents, and ask the spirit of those who gave you liberty to help throughout all the years to come to be a still better American.

DRINKING MILK

The cow has been the salvation of millions of people since the world began, and as at least one of her products, milk and butter form a part of the daily menu of every man, woman and child in Plymouth, it ought to be of interest to them to know that she is gaining in popularity, instead of declining with the horse. For years the milk consumption in this country averaged a pint a day for every person, and it is selling at a higher price than ever before. With about 110,000,000 people in the United States, and each of them averaging a quart of milk a day, it can readily be seen that the cow doesn't have to worry about her future. Her place in the American family is secure. And she ought to be glad of the fact that she has doubled the demand for her products without having to put on any "Buy-a-Glass-of-Milk" campaigns.

USE YOUR HEAD

If Plymouth citizens will take time to glance through a Monday morning paper printed in any of our larger cities, they will quickly see that it takes more than the hands and feet to operate an auto. The paper will tell of death and injury all over the United States, largely due to the fact that the thousands of drivers on Sunday drives were at the mercy of many who do not use their heads as well as their hands and feet. If we could speak but one sentence to our auto drivers it would be this, "Use your head." Take it easy, watch the other fellow as well as yourself—don't take anything for granted—the other man may do exactly the opposite of what you guessed he was going to do. If you are using your head, then your own car is in perfect control all the time, and you can prevent an accident that he might have been responsible for. We are all too busy making a living to have to stop and attend unnecessary funerals. So use your head as well as your hands and feet when you're driving, and we'll have fewer of them.

TRAFFIC WELL HANDLED IN PLYMOUTH.

The traffic regulations in Plymouth, and especially the manner in which traffic is directed, is very commendable and a great credit not only to the village, but to the police department, under the direction of Chief of Police Springer, as well. In spite of the fact that the Saturday night crowds who visit Plymouth are increasing in numbers, and the traffic and parking question is a problem, the arrangements for handling the same are so well carried out that there is little congestion and there have been no accidents.

The parking lines have been well marked out, and the motorists are observing the white lines cheerfully.

The members of the traffic squad are very efficient in the direction of traffic, and above all things are courteous, painstaking and are anxious and willing to render every service possible for the safety and convenience of the public. Where courtesy and good common sense are combined, the traffic regulations are much more easily regulated, and that is the case here. The people of the surrounding country who are coming to look upon Plymouth as the best place in which to do their trading are appreciative of this service of courtesy and safety, and they go away boosting for Plymouth.

MUNICIPAL NOTES

It seems to be time to call the small boy's attention to the fact that riding on sidewalks in the village is prohibited. One boy ran into another on the walk and was inclined to make trouble because the second one didn't get out of the way. This must be stopped.

In last week's notes the printer, by accident, made us say that the sewer bonds were sold at an interest rate of 4 1/2 per cent. We did better than that. The bonds were sold at 4 3/4 per cent.

The road oil has come and has been put on. This is a very disagreeable job, both for the villagers and to the men who have the work to do. The weather has not been hot enough to make the oil spread to the best advantage, even considering that it was steamed in the tank car.

The county has been spraying their trees within our limits. No chance for the bugs as long as such good care is taken of the young trees.

It is hoped that a large number of Plymouthites will join in making the Memorial Day exercises at the park tomorrow a success. Let us not forget that this day was originally set aside as a real memorial and not as a festal holiday.

If drivers of automobiles haven't brains enough to know that it is neither very safe nor very good for the grass, nor very courteous to the village to use the grassy hill slopes around the picnic part on the Flats for testing purposes, the Village of Plymouth is going to try to teach them. The appearance of these slopes is being ruined by those who don't seem to appreciate the work the Village does to make a beautiful playground of this place.

AT A SESSION OF SAID COURT, held at the Court House in the City of Detroit, said County and State, on the 20th day of April, A. D. 1925.

PRESENT: The Hon. Harry J. Dingeman, Circuit Judge.

ON READING AND FILING the Bill of Complaint in the cause from which it satisfactorily appears to the Court that title, interests or claims to the premises described in said Bill, and hereinafter described, which rights, title, interests and claims of said defendants, and each of them, if they ever had any validity, said plaintiff avers to be barred by the continuous, open, notorious, undisputed, adverse and exclusive possession of said plaintiff and his grantors for more than fifteen (15) years last past, and for more than fifteen (15) years since the several rights to the possession thereof accrued in said respective defendants, which possession has been during all of said time, and still is, adverse and hostile to the rights, title, interests and claims of said respective defendants, and upon reading the affidavit of plaintiff that it is not known and could not be ascertained, after diligent search and inquiry, whether the defendants named are living or dead, or whether their rights, title, interests and claims have been disposed of by will, and that it cannot be ascertained in what State or Country said defendants reside:

ON MOTION OF CRANDELL, TINKHAM & BAXTER, attorneys for plaintiff,

IT IS ORDERED, that Oliver Booth, Joseph L. Foster, George L. Hughes, Sarah J. Hughes, Tracy L. Hughes, George C. Hughes, Ellis B. Hughes, H. B. Malklem, or any of their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees, successors and assigns, and the unknown persons who are, or may be, entitled to claim under them, cause their several appearances to be entered herein in the manner provided by law on or before three months from the date hereof, and that this Order be published or served as required by law.

(A true copy) Russell McCabe, Deputy Clerk. Said suit involves the title to, and is brought to quiet title to, the lands and premises described in said Bill of Complaint, as follows: Situated in the Township of Canton, Wayne County, Michigan, to wit:

The northeast quarter (NE-1/4) of Section ten (10) except the east ten (10-A) acres thereof, of Town two (2) South of Range eight (8) East.

AROUND ABOUT US

The Redford township board has purchased a fire truck.

Three persons were bitten by a mad dog at Dearborn, one day last week.

Don F. Coustak has been elected president of the Ypsilanti Chamber of Commerce.

Rochester's new Catholic church, erection of which was begun last year, is to be completed this season. The cost of the new edifice is estimated at $50,000.

The Michigan State Park at Island Lake, re-opened last Sunday. With its natural beauty and close location to the main trunk lines, it will prove a great attraction for tourists again this summer as it did last year.

The Dexter Methodist Episcopal church, one of the old landmarks of that place, which was built by Samuel W. Dexter, founder of the village, about 70 years ago, was struck by lightning recently and burned to the ground.

Sixty-one out of 65 colonies of bees were destroyed by burning at Birmingham last week. The bees were afflicted with American foul brood. Nineteen dead colonies were found in the course of inspection. It is believed that other bees robbed the dead colonies of their honey and contracted the disease. Quarantines are often imposed on counties and sections where foul brood is prevalent until the disease is wiped out.—South Lyon Herald.

Residents of Holly are interested in an unusual feature of the commencement exercises at William Jewell college, Liberty, Mo., this week. Francis LeGrand Churn, born in Holly, a graduate of Holly High school, and a former Baptist pastor in Birmingham, Salem and Northville, has a wife and son in the same graduating class. His wife, Mrs. Mary A. Church, was a grandmother when she entered college in the same class with her son, four years ago.—Pontiac Press.

The Birmingham Rotary and Exchange Clubs put on "The Style Show," along with "The Dressmaker from Paris," at the high school auditorium on the evening of May 28. It was a very pretentious affair, with well known local people acting as models, and prominent Detroit firms assisting in the enterprise. The proceeds are to finance a most worthy cause—that of giving the crippled children of Birmingham and vicinity the medical treatment that will overcome their ailment, or if that is not possible, alleviate their condition so far as possible.

Picked Up About Town

"After all," says Dad Plymouth, "it's a lot safer for the girls to let the boys kiss them before they're married, than it is to let all of them do their kissing after marriage."

What a wonderful world this would be if it was as easy for all of us to find our fortunes as it is to find the other fellow's faults.

Dad Plymouth says he is sure every woman wants her husband to be good, but he sometimes hesitates to believe that all of them want their husbands to be happy.

You don't have to go to a race track to see a race. Just watch the weeds and vegetables in any garden in your neighborhood.

According to Dad Plymouth, the greatest optimist in the world is the horsefly that lights on an automobile radiator.

Three different expeditions are going to try for the north pole this summer. And we wouldn't be surprised to have them come back and tell us that the only thing they found up there was a filling station.

"All husbands may be bad," asserts Dad Plymouth, "but I never ran across one yet who'd been spoiled by too much flattery from his wife."

Fair Sex Not Only Possessor of "Moods"

Margery had made a deep impression on Dick. It was a little surprising to me because Dick is generally rather critical of women. I asked him why he liked Margery so much.

"She realizes that men have moods," he replied. He would say no more, but reflecting on his remark I realized how much it revealed and how much it concealed. writes Leticia Wayne in the London Mail.

"Moods" in men or women long ago ceased to be fashionable. They exist, of course, for although we can learn to control our moods so that they do not become a nuisance to other people few of us can prevent our unaccountable depressions or elations. But among many women there still endures the belief that to experience quick changes of emotions, to awaken one day with a cheerful heart, to rise next day strangely unhappy, is a peculiarly feminine weakness. It is only the wisest of women, however, who extend such comprehension to men.

What an enormous difference it makes to the success of the relationship between a man and a woman if the man knows that the woman appreciates that he is not altogether immune from the weakness of "moodiness." It is the strength of man that he is able as a rule to hide his emotions, to maintain a reasonable level of cheerfulness and consideration for others. And, perhaps, just because he has so long accustomed himself to control his feelings, he finds it very delightful when the companionship of a woman makes it plain to him that the mask is not always effective.

It is only the unselfish woman who does not seek always to be amused who knows when a man is "moody." Responsive silence, or gentle sympathy, the tactful adaptation of her own mood to his, may touch a chord in the man's heart, and be the beginning of a long romance.

Fixed Her Conscience

"My conscience has been hurting me all day," complained Helen the other evening.

"I was rushing up the elevated steps this morning, already ten minutes late to the office, when I saw ahead of me an old, old woman laden with bundles and dragging a heavy suitcase. She took one step up, then lagged the bag up to the same step. On every step she repeated the performance, grunting and sighing at the effort.

"People were passing to one side of her, but no one offered a lift. I passed calmly with the rest of them, but the sound of her groans has been haunting me all day. Tonight I picked up and returned a nickel another old woman had dropped, so the weight on my conscience has lightened somewhat."—Chicago Journal.

The Child in the Garden

John Philip Sousa, celebrating his seventieth birthday, said in an interview in Chicago:

"I have seen many changes, many improvements, in the course of my long and busy life. One change that I hope still to see is the abolition of child labor.

"The defenders of child labor haven't a leg to stand on. They only utter something that sounds like 'unconstitutional.' Really, you know, they're worse than the child in the garden.

"Oh, you bad, wicked, cruel boy!" his mother said to the child in the garden. "How could you have the heart to cut that poor caterpillar in two?"

"The child muttered: 'Well, it—it looked so lonesome!'"

Understudies Get Chance

Understudies and supernas are to have a great chance at the Vienna Burg theater. A performance of Beaumont's "Barber of Seville" will be given for charity in which all the leading parts will be taken by persons who ordinarily play very secondary roles in which they seldom have more than a single line to speak, says a correspondent of the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Figaro, one of the chief parts in the performance, will be taken by an actor who never before has been entrusted with more than one short sentence. Dramatic critics are discussing the performance with great eagerness and predicting that it may result in giving the Vienna stage a new star.

Sarcastic Like

Representative Boylan, at a dinner in New York, said of the sinking of the $30,000,000 Washington:

"When people tell me that this sinking was a move toward world peace I feel like answering them sarcastically. Yes, I feel as sarcastic as the druggist.

"The druggist, you know, had just taken a cinder out of a lady customer's eye. The pain had been severe and the lady was very, very grateful.

"Oh," she said, "the relief you've given me! Thank you so much! Do I owe you anything?"

"Owe me anything?" said the druggist. "Of course not, ma'am. You owe me nothing whatever. Don't you buy all your postage stamps here?"

Natural Question

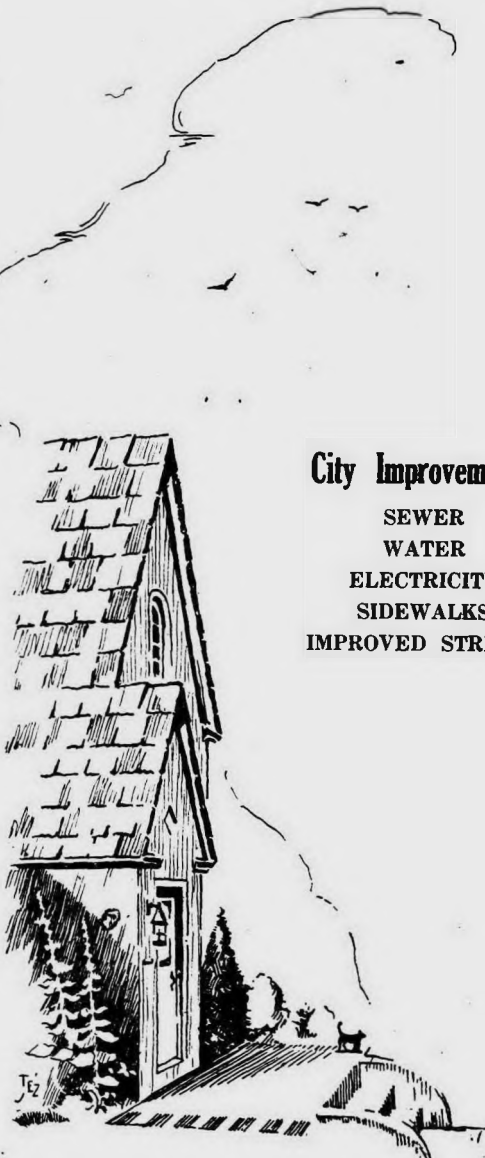

"Anything wantin'?" asked the landlord of the tavern at Waysoverbehind, appearing at the door of the room occupied by a guest who had been making loud and prolonged outcry.

"You bet, there's something wantin'!" was the snarling reply. "My trousers are some d'ye hear?"

"Yes, I hear ye say yer pants is mislaid." But are you right sure ye had 'em on when ye came here last evenin'?"—Kansas City Star.

NEWBURG

There was a very good attendance at church, Sunday morning, considering the unpleasant weather, to listen to Dr. H. Addis Leeson, who preached a splendid sermon from St. John 21:25.

Next Sabbath the Decoration Day services will be held at the usual hour, 11:00 a. m. Address by Rev. Paul Havens. Special music by the choir. Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, by Mrs. Donald Ryder. Program by the children in charge of Mrs. Thomas. All are requested to bring flowers or potted plants to beautify the church and decorate the soldiers' graves.

There were forty in attendance at the Newburg Patriotic Society, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Thomas, last Thursday. The table was prettily decorated with miniature flags and white and purple lilacs. After all had partaken of a fine dinner, the president, Miss Hattie Hollington opened the meeting and all sang, "America." Scripture reading by the chaplain; prayer, Rev. D. D. Nagle; secretary and treasurer's report. Mrs. Donald Ryder had charge of the program. William Smith gave a reading, entitled, "Forty Years Ago." Mrs. Charles Ryder was asked to tell about her recent trip to Chattanooga, and read a poem entitled, "Lookout Mountain," also telling of her trip to the old battle grounds of Chickamauga, Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge. Thomas Davey, Sr. gave a humorous reading. Mr. Hill made a few remarks. Rev. Nagle was then called on, and responded with several humorous stories; however, the last being a pathetic story of Lincoln. There were five Civil War veterans present—Comrades Edward H. Hill, senior vice commander of Fairbanks Post, Detroit; Thomas Davey, Sr., quartermaster of the same Post; Comrades James King, Manizer and Burden of Plymouth. Sympathy was expressed for Comrade Charles Westfall, who has been ill for some time. Mrs. Thomas Davey and daughter, Mrs. Frank Crane, and several other guests from Detroit, were present. The next meeting will be held in August at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Titus Ruff in Plymouth.

The stage was beautifully decorated with flowers and plants, with an improvised altar, as a setting for "The Womans' Wedding," which occurred at the L. A. S. hall, last week Friday evening, and was given under the auspices of the first division of the L. A. S., with Mrs. Greer as chairman.

The crowd that was in attendance was not disappointed in the laugh that was advertised, all expressing themselves as being the most laughable entertainment ever given in Newburg. The gentleman taking part were most lady-like, especially in the use of the powder puff and lip stick. The six-foot bride was very striking in a robe of white, with lace veil and orange blossoms. The groom, being of short stature, had to climb on a chair to kiss the bride. Bishop Leamas read a most impressive ceremony from a Sears-Roebuck catalogue. Among the gifts to the bride, was a live frog in a box, which created quite a stampee among the guests, as well as the audience when released from captivity. Before the wedding ceremony, a fine program consisting of music by Kenneth Jewell, drum, and Morris Garbow, accordion, with which everyone was delighted; solo, "The Little Red Schoolhouse," by John Carbury; violin solo by Mr. Hinton of Plymouth, accompanied on the piano by Miss Anna Youngs; piano solo by Evangelie Rousseau; Miss Anna Youngs gave an interesting sketch of American Rhythm and Music, after which she and her sister, Ada, rendered three Indian lyrics, accompanied by Mr. Hinton on the violin. Mrs. M. Eva Smith gave a comic reading, entitled, "Mrs. O'Toole and the Conductor." Solo by Miss Gladys Horton. Each number on the program was indeed fine. The ladies wish to thank all those who so kindly assisted in any way in making it the success it was; especially the Plymouth Mail for advertising; also Mrs. J. F. Rousseau for so kindly assisting in various ways.

There was a black frost Sunday night. The gardeners got busy and covered up their tomato plants, some even going so far as to take them up from the fields.

Miss Hazel Reddeman, Miss Margaret Griffith and Miss Louva Rowland of Plymouth, have been engaged as teachers in the Newburg school for the ensuing year.

Rev. Paul Havens, accompanied by Mrs. Havens, preached at Carleton, Scotland and Willow, last Sunday.

The L. A. S. will hold its regular meeting, at the home of Mrs. C. E. Ryder on Plymouth road, Wednesday afternoon, June 3, with Mrs. Thomas chairman of committee. Refreshments will be served. Everyone cordially invited.

The Ladies of the Second Division are planning to give a supper at the hall Thursday, June 11, at 6:00 p. m. Further notice next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ryder entertained Dr. Leeson for Sunday dinner.

One of the real social events of the week, was a miscellaneous shower tendered Miss Onalee Hall, at the home of Mrs. Thomas at Newburg, about 47 being present. The house was tastefully decorated in pink and blue. To the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, played by Mrs. Greer, a humorous incident of the gathering was the "mock marriage," in which Miss Hall and Mrs. Robert Schmittling as the groom, were united in holy bonds of wedlock, the ceremony being performed by Mrs. Paul Havens. and its message

Years have thinned the ranks which first paid tribute at the graves of fallen comrades on this day of ideals and memories.

New armies which fought for Liberty now are taking over the task of honor. There are newer graves to tend.

For the Living

Memorial Day brings a new duty—to carry on unflinching the work for which those heroes died.

AT A SESSION of said Court, held in the Court Room thereof in the City of Detroit, said County and State, on the 20th day of April, A. D. 1925.

PRESENT: The Hon. Harry J. Dingeman, Circuit Judge.

On reading and filing the Bill of Complaint in this cause from which it satisfactorily appears to the Court that title, interests or claims to the premises described in said Bill, and hereinafter described, which rights, title, interests and claims of said defendants, and each of them, if they ever had any validity, said plaintiff avers to be barred by the continuous, open, notorious, undisputed, adverse and exclusive possession of plaintiff and his grantors for more than fifteen (15) years last past, and for more than fifteen (15) years since the several rights to the possession thereof accrued by said respective defendants, which possession has been, during all of said time, and still is, adverse and hostile to the rights, title, interests and claims of said respective defendants; and upon reading the affidavit of said plaintiff that it is not known, and could not be ascertained after diligent search and inquiry, whether their rights, title, interests and claims have been disposed of by Will, and that it cannot be ascertained in what State or Country said defendants reside:

ON MOTION OF CRANDELL, TINKHAM & BAXTER, Attorneys for plaintiff.

IT IS ORDERED, That William N. Stevens and John B. Opinions May Differ

as to Practical Sex

A he-man, as everybody knows, is a stern and hard-boiled creature with one eye on the main chance and a system wholly free of sentimentalism. Hear him as he holds forth concerning matrimony: "I don't care what people say about her, and I don't care what her people may be. The people who criticize her are home-made liars, and she isn't responsible for her family. She is good and sweet, and I'm going to marry her and he good to her." That was the hard-boiled chap signing off.

The women, as everybody knows, are gentle and impractical creatures who yearn for love and nothing more. Give them a promise of devotion and the simple creatures will follow one to the end of the earth.

Hear one of their number speaking in confidence concerning the great adventure:

"I just don't know what to do," says she. "I'm going to get married, because I want a home and somebody to care for me; but I can't decide between Jack and Bub. Jack is a dear, but if I marry him I'll have to live on the ranch, wholly out of touch with civilization. Bub is wonderful, too, and he lives in town and enjoys the things I enjoy. But he's poor, and we'd be cramped in some tiny apartment and I'd feel under obligation to keep my job and help pay expenses."

"If Bub had Jack's money I'd marry him in a minute; and if Jack lived in town, where I could keep in touch with mother and all of my friends, I wouldn't ask for a better husband."

"A girl has an awfully hard time. I'm getting wrinkles about my eyes right now, and I must decide to do something while I have a chance. It's just simply frightful to be in love this way and not know which one to take."

Dear, trusting, unsophisticated creatures; how sorely they need a strong and practical man to lean upon!—Baltimore Sun.

Einstein Theory

The first test of the relativity theory was the mathematical determination by relatively equations of the full value of the rotational professional of the perihelion of the planet Mercury. The second triumph was the confirmation of Einstein's prediction that gravity affects light. This was put to test at the eclipse expedition of May, 1919. The decisive success came on May 29, 1919, when at Principe light from nearby stars was found deflected by the sun almost equal to that predicted. The third prediction to be verified was that in the gravitational field of the sun light waves would be lengthened. St. John, at Mount Wilson observatory, reported to the National academy, at its 1924 session at Washington, that he found confirmation of this predicted effect in an elaborate series of measurements of the shift of spectrum lines.

Honor for King George

The appointment of King George to the rank of admiral in the Swedish fleet is considered one of the greatest honors Sweden can bestow. Although King George is qualified to hold a high post in the British navy, when other rulers have bestowed honorary rank upon him the army has always been selected hitherto. His majesty is thus, like his uncle, the duke of Connaught, the colonel of a crack Spanish infantry regiment and is also a field marshal of Japan. Sweden has never indulged freely in granting honorary positions in her navy to foreign monarchs, which makes the courtesy extended to his majesty a still greater compliment.—Family Herald.

Making Map in Clouds

Half a dozen planes are engaged in the task of producing a novel map of London. Observers are photographing the whole of the Metropolitan area in sections, and these photographs, when placed together and the parts which overlap deleted, will form a complete aerial map. It will show not only the streets, but all the principal buildings, so that it will facilitate sightseeing on the part of country and foreign visitors. The work necessarily means a great deal of flying, and its progress depends upon the state of the weather, but if average progress is made the map will be finished shortly.

Most Common Diseases

According to figures calculated by a leading life insurance company, the seven most common causes of death of persons over ten years of age in the United States are as follows: Heart disease, which heads the list among both men and women. Second, chronic nephritis for men and cerebral hemorrhage for women. Third comes cerebral hemorrhage for men and cancer for women. Fourth among men is cancer and among women chronic nephritis. Tuberculosis is fifth among both men and women. Lobar and broncho pneumonia are sixth and seventh among both sexes.

Sewing Machine Exhibit

Through the co-operation of sewing machine manufacturers, the textiles and clothing division of the bureau of home economics of the Department of Agriculture has arranged for a permanent loan exhibit of the various types of home sewing machines now on the market. Forty-three machines are on display at present, including hand, foot and motor-driven models of all the types now purchasable. This exhibit, which is in the bureau of home economics building at Washington, gives the general public its first opportunity to study the various makes and models in one collection.

Too Late

A wild-haired, morbid young man was raving about the emptiness of life. "The sooner the world ends the better," he said. "We all ought to be annihilated." "My dear fellow," his friend replied, "the world's packed with interesting things. They've just discovered that human life began on this earth about a million years ago—and you talk of wiping us all out." "A million years ago?" "The papers are full of it." "Oh, well," said the morbid man, miserably, "it's too late to do anything about it, then."

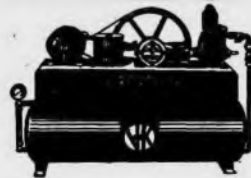

School Laxity in China

Many Chinese schools have failed to open this year and others have been greatly hampered in their work by the disturbances in the country and lack of funds. The education department of Peking university, however, has continued its work, with an attendance of 600 students and steady progress has been made on the new buildings and teachers' residences under construction.—School Life.

Fall in Dairy Products

A decrease of $36,000,000 in the farm value of dairy products produced in 1924 as compared with 1923, is shown in estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture, which place the 1924 value at $2,560,148,000 compared with $2,626,418,000 in 1923. The decrease is attributed to lower prices for all farm dairy products except buttermilk, whey and skim milk.

The Best Is Not Too Good

Sometimes a storekeeper believes that because his stock is not the largest—his fixtures not the newest—his store not in the best location—his building not imposing—he doesn't need the most improved lighting.

Experience proves the contrary. More than other storekeepers who are better circumstanced, he needs the best lighting to offset disadvantages that he cannot easily control.

No other improvement that he can think of has such power to increase trade as this simple item of lighting. Lighting attracts. Lighting makes sales. Lighting pays profits.

We will inspect your lighting equipment and suggest improvements without charge.

Spoons in His Stomach

Two spoons were removed from the stomach of a man, twenty-eight years of age, at the David Lewis Northern hospital, Liverpool, England. They were desert spoons, each about nine inches long, and had been swallowed two years before when the man was in prison and had attempted to commit suicide. An X-ray examination showed that both spoons were near his ribs. "I have never known similar articles to remain in a person's stomach so long," said the surgeon who performed the operation. The man had complained of pains and said that the spoons clicked together as he turned over in bed and woke him up.

School ended last Friday at Elm, and the children are delighted to have another long vacation.

We are very proud of Carlton, as he is only in the Sixth grade; and hope he wins the wonderful trip to Washington, D. C.

Briggs school closed a very successful year last Monday, with a picnic at the school. About seventy were present including the children, who presented Mrs. Watson, their teacher, with two lovely gifts. Mrs. Watson is returning again next fall.

Nearly everyone in the district is planning to attend the County Picnic at Elizabeth Park, on June 6th. Try to meet at the school house by 8:30 o'clock, the latest.

Harold Rosow was ill over the week-end, and was unable to attend the last day of school picnic.

The Eighth grade boys entertained the Briggs Busy Bodies at a basket picnic at the tourist camp last week Friday evening.

We have a very interesting Wood or Tree exhibit for Elizabeth Park, done by our Sixth grade boys.

If you have anything to buy or sell, advertise in the Mail. It will pay you.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

The church was comfortably warmed last Sunday during the May snow storm, but there was a decided slump in attendance at all services. Probably sickness was a contributing factor. Make it up next Sunday by bringing someone with you.

Plans are being made for Children's Day, and the superintendent promises an interesting program. The date is June 14.

Save the evening of June 9th for the pipe organ recital.

Sunday-school teachers are asked to make their class records as complete as possible, so that our permanent roll can be finished.

If any of our Sunday-school classes desire additional work, it is suggested that they plant shrubbery around the building and beautify the premises.

Parents may have their children baptised on Children's Day. The pastor still has a quantity of Jordan water and will use it for this purpose.

The General Assembly is finishing its work this week at Columbus, Ohio. The meeting next year will be held at Pensacola, Florida.

The church session met after prayer meeting, last Wednesday night.

METHODIST NOTES

Official board regular meeting at the church, next Tuesday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Mid-week prayer service on Wednesday evening at 7:30.

We appreciate the beautiful flowers that have been brought to the church, each Sunday. They are an inspiration for worshipping.

Read carefully our church ad this week, and ponder well its meaning, parents—especially if you are not in the habit of attending church yourself. One cannot expect his children to do what father or mother will not do themselves.

Faith removes mountains. It cannot remove your difficulties. Do you believe?

Over sixty married people and their children, members of the Boosters' Class, had a pot-luck supper together at the flats on a recent Friday. We are going again sometime. After a "gorgeous" supper, the men showed the ladies how to play base ball.

Arlo Soth was elected president of the Boosters' Class, at this same meeting, after Blake Fisher had resigned to accept the position as teacher of the class. William Meeker and Manna Hunk were also elected vice presidents. Watch for future developments in this class.

The Epworth League has been having some interesting discussions at their weekly devotional meetings. Plan to attend next Sunday evening at 6:30, Young Friend.

BAPTIST NOTES

The decorations at the church were very pretty, last Sunday, and made the room cheerful.

The flower bed at the front of the church was through the kindness of C. Helde and George Wilske. Everyone says, "Thank you."

Almost every evening the children of the Sunday-school are at the church practicing for Children's Day. The title of the evening's entertainment is, "The Soul of a Flower," by Catherine Postle, and promises to be very fine.

A large number deposited their contribution to the flower fund, last Sunday at the Sunday-school hour. Among the number were Mrs. Sarah Bartlett and Mrs. Cynthia Allen, both in their eighties. They gave them a good cheer and wished them many more birthdays.

The B. Y. U. C. has invited the young people of the Northville Baptist church to meet with them Sunday evening, June 21st.

The pastor was at Pontiac last Monday, attending the ministers' conference of the Wayne Association of the Baptist churches.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gotsch attended the funeral of Mrs. Elliott at Willis, last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Huston and Edna, Mrs. Susan Corwin and Hattie spent Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Elmer Sears of Milan.

Several from here attended church at Denton, Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Jameson have moved to their farm near Dundee.

Patrick Henry said in his last will:

"I have now disposed of all my worldly property to my family. There is one more thing I wish I could give them, and that is the CHRISTIAN RELIGION. If they had this, and I had not given them a shilling, they would be rich. But if they had not the Christian religion and I had given them all the world, they would be poor."

It is this Christian Religion we are teaching in our church and church school.

See that your children get the church-going habit.

THE THEATRE

"ADVENTURE"

The new Paramount picture, which comes to the Penniman Allen theatre, Saturday, May 30, suggests a problem in film-mathematics. Take a couple of savage South Sea islands and add one brave and fearless white man; multiply that by several hundred head-hunting cannibals; then add one woman soldier of fortune and two unscrupulous money-lenders; divide the sum total by one romance and at least a dozen dynamic thrills—and the answer is—?

There can be only one correct answer and that is—"Adventure," the title of this latest of dramatic screen plays, which Victor Fleming produced from Jack London's famous novel of the same name.

Here is a story so crowded with incident and action, so replete with surprising developments and unexpected turns that not for a moment does it fail to hold the attention and grip the interest of the spectator. The romantic and love elements are subtly blended and lend a softening influence to the melodramatic action of the plot.

"Adventure" gives us a vivid realistic picture of life as it actually is on the isolated islands of the South Seas. Heretofore most pictures have painted that little known corner of the earth as a fascinating land of sunshine and play. In this photoplay we see it as an enchanted and terrible land, where even now the tom-toms of cannibal feasts echo in the midnight jungles and the white man's head is still a coveted trophy.

Victor Fleming, the director, has many successful pictures to his credit, but "Adventure" outshines them all. Photographically, the picture is flawless and scenically it leaves nothing to be desired.

The cast is one of the finest and includes some of movieland's top-notch favorites. Tom Moore, Pauline Starke, Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton have featured roles and their individual performances are worthy of the highest praise.

"MADAME SANS GENE"

In "Madame Sans Gene," Gloria Swanson has probably the most difficult role ever attempted by her during her screen career, but according to all reports she has created for the screen a figure as great as the French actress Regine did for the stage in the play by Victorien Sardou and Emile Moreau.

The Paramount picture, which was filmed entirely in Paris, comes to the Penniman Allen theatre on Sunday and Monday, May 31 and June 1. The opening of the production finds Gloria as Catherine Hubscher, a French laundress who, through the fortunes of war—the French Revolution—finds herself the possessor of the title of Duchess and a place in the court of Napoleon, for whom she used to steal silk shirts from her wealthy customers, when the Emperor of France was a mere nobody.

Charles de Roche, the only member of the supporting cast with any motion picture experience in this country, has the leading man's role, that of a young sergeant who marries Sans Gene.

"Madame Sans Gene" was written for the screen by Forrest Halsey, who adapted all of Miss Swanson's recent successes.

Besides de Roche, Warrick Ward, popular English leading man; Emile Drain, probably the foremost portrayer of the character of Napoleon in the world today, appears in the cast.

"TEARING THROUGH"

Adapted from a story by Frederick Stowers, resident of the color of Chinatown and the impenetrable mystery of the Oriental, "Tearing Through," the first of the big new series starring Richard Talmadge, comes to the Penniman Allen theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, June 3 and 4. This is by far the most elaborate Talmadge picture which F. B. O. has turned out, and it indicates that the producers think highly of their athletic stunt star, which is not extraordinary, considering his obvious popularity. Arthur Rosson has directed the picture with a fine sense of drama and comedy, and he has given Talmadge plenty of opportunity to indulge his favorite sport of risking his neck in thrilling stunts. Kathryn McGulre makes a delightful heroine. The rest of the cast also includes some excellent thespians notably Arthur Rankin and Dave Morris.

7,858 FORDS, DAY'S OUTPUT

The Ford Motor company set a new record for production Tuesday, when its assembly plants turned out 7,858 Ford cars and trucks in the working day. This record is for the United States plants alone, and does not include foreign plants and associated companies or the Ford Motor company of Canada, Ltd.

An interesting thing in connection with this remarkable production is that the company is exceeding its most careful estimate for May. Current Ford billboards, which were prepared 60 days ago, carry the message "7,000 More Since Yesterday." But in actual output the company exceeded this by 850.

Production of the company has been steadily increased during the last few weeks due to the growing spring business and new output records have been frequent, but none approaching within 100 of the remarkable figure of Tuesday.

On April 28 the domestic plants beat a record of 7,482 established a year ago by assembling 7,504 cars and trucks. This record stood until May 12 when production went to 7,782—Detroit Free Press.

Today's Reflections

A gossip is all right in her place, but the trouble is she never goes there until she dies.

The average Plymouth man isn't as much interested in the pineapple crop failure in Hawaii as he is in corn-on-the-cob prospects in his native land.

There is talk of adding another month to the year. People with houses to rent must be backing that move.

Some Plymouth women would make better wives if they were as good at providing a monthful as they are at providing an awful.

At that the short hair the women wear isn't as funny looking as the long hair some fellows comb over a bald spot.

One of the best ways in the world to be sure that you'll be mourned when you're gone is to die owing a lot of bills.

Our idea of the smartest young man in Plymouth is the one who can tell the difference after his sweetheart has spent two hours in fixing her hair.

It begins to look as though prohibition is providing a wonderful thing for the men who make bottles and padlocks.

One reason why some Plymouth fathers object to daughter marrying, is they don't feel able to keep a son-in-law.

There is one thing the average Plymouth man would rather see his wife wear than anything else—and that is a contented look.

The biggest news the daily papers have printed for months was told last week in two lines. Secretary Mellon says there may be another tax reduction.

Life is a funny thing. A couple of Plymouth men have a fight and are the best of friends afterward. But just let a couple of women try it.

We are adding new names to our subscription list every day. There's a reason.

CHAPTER NINE

Although the site of Buenos Aires was one of the first to be chosen for a Spanish settlement, it is not the oldest city of the republic. In 1535 that is eight years after the erection of the fortress of Espiritu Santo, near the mouth of the Corcorana, Diego Mendoza went up the Riachuelo, and erected a few huts on the terrace dominating this stream. Due to the opposition on the part of the Querandi Indians, and the numerous attacks growing out of their hatred for the Spaniards, Alvar Nunez broke up the settlement in 1542, and restored the district to the Indians. Thus repulsed the Spaniards turned up the Parana and Paraguay Rivers, where the natives submitted without much show of resistance. This progress in the interior rendered necessary the establishment of a post near the coast, to act as a basis of supplies for the interior settlements. So in 1580, Juan de Garay, at the head of about 100 soldiers resumed possession of the terrace of Buenos Aires, and from then on the city has been a permanent one.

The city, covering a very large area in proportion to its population, extends about eight miles along the river, from Belgrano to Barracas, and about the same distance inland from the river. In plan, the city is very comparable to Washington, and others of our well planned cities. The modern buildings and streets have been merely grafted on a living town, so that one who knew Buenos Aires fifteen years ago could still find his way around, although the names of streets and the locations of places of business have been changed considerably during that time.

The chief characteristic of the city is to be found in its astounding variety. Street cars, automobiles, victorias and the like pass in endless succession through the Avenida de Mayo, Calle Florida, and other principal arteries of the town; the sidewalks are thronged in the fashion of our large cities, while the theatres, restaurants, cafes and ten shops are full to overflowing most of the time. It is indeed a modern city, distinctly so since the construction of the subway system traversing the ground beneath the Avenida de Mayo.

The central portion of the town is by far the busiest; but this term "central" must be taken metaphorically rather than in its geographical sense. The commercial and shopping neighborhood is in the extreme south of the town, while the fashionable avenues and boulevards run up north from this, parallel to the river, to Palermo Park, the great municipal recreation center, as well as the promenade for the elite of the city, and to Belgrano, a very fashionable suburb. It is within this radius that the majority of the principal buildings are situated. The chief monuments are concentrated near the shore on the spot where Juan de Garay erected his first humble huts. The governmental palace was the old viceregal fort, partly rebuilt a number of times, and close by the Plaza de Mayo is lined by the Town Hall, Exchange, Teatro Colon, and the cathedral, built in 1752, after the style of the Madeleine in Paris, with a peristyle of twelve corinthian columns supporting an elaborately sculptured pediment. The latest and most noticeable of the governmental structures is the House of Congress, situated at the western extremity of the Avenida, an imposing structure with a lofty, slender, marble dome that dominates the city.

The private establishments, too, compare favorably with those in the chief cities of Europe and the United States. The restaurants are smaller in size, but offer a wide variety of well cooked foods, both native and foreign, although, in my opinion, the style of cooking is decidedly European, mostly French. Argentina seems to have fewer dishes characteristically Argentinian than any of the other South American countries. The large new hotels, foreign owned, enable the traveller to have every convenience he could find in the most modern hotels in the world.

Of the theatres, the Teatro Colon is the finest. It is a very recent building, decidedly classical in form, set in surroundings that enable it to be seen at its best. It is here that all the great European artists come, as the Argentinians are loth to be satisfied with anything but the best.

The most central and noted avenue of the city is the Avenida de Mayo. This spacious and imposing thoroughfare stretches between the Plaza de Mayo, with its governmental palace, a mile to the New Congress building. Along its whole length the Avenida is flanked by buildings of the highest grade—buildings that would grace the streets of any of our North American, or European cities, the most beautiful of which is the office of La Prensa, the most important newspaper in South America.

The avenue, the Alvear, undoubtedly surpasses the Avenida in many respects. Leading through the most fashionable quarter of the capital to Palermo Park, the roadway itself is incomparably the broadest and best engineered of all. It is lined throughout with masses of flowers, trees and shrubs; great public gardens dot its course; and, moreover, it is flanked by the finest residences in the city, most of them palatial mansions. At its central end, approached by shaded gardens, is the Westminster Abbey of Buenos Aires, the Recoleta, where are found the tombs of hundreds of notable Argentinians. It might be termed the "city of the dead," for its "streets" are lined with tombs and chapels for houses—a setting decidedly solemn and impressive. Here on these great tombs, generally Grecian in pattern, is written, in the deeds of its great men, the history of Argentina, almost from its very founding to the present time. Quite a contrast, indeed, to the roar of automobiles and street cars, and the modern edifices a scant four blocks away!

No matter how brief, a description of Buenos Aires is not complete without some mention of the Palermo race track, with its huge stadium, the home of the national sport of Argentina. The journey to Palermo brings out the sporting instincts of the "cocheros" to the utmost. Once clear of the main streets, on the broad stretch of the Alvear the cab horses stretch themselves out, and the occupants of the victorias feel that they are the ones racing, for often the enthusiastic "fans" will bet among themselves as to the outcome. Soon the course is reached, and one gets their first view of the great white stands which comprise the Hipodromo

Argentino, the most important and imposing of which is the stand of the Jockey Club, done in white marble, which rises in tiers and is capped by a spreading and very graceful roof. The club itself is, incidentally, the finest organization of its kind in the world.

The enclosure within the oval course is indeed worthy of mention. In order that nothing shall have been left undone, this part has been beautified to match the rest. Small streams, canal-like in their "manufacturedness" form a network of silvery bands in the site of the terraces, and are spanned by tiny, cream colored bridges. Moreover, the center abounds with flower beds, an item usually neglected in the majority of race courses.

Such then, is the nature of this metropolis of the southern hemisphere. Its suburbs, although worthy of mention, are important only from a standpoint of natural beauty, a factor so common in the make-up of this great Latin American city.

There remain several other cities worthy of a great deal of description: La Plata, Cordoba, Rosario, Tucuman, Mar de la Plata, and others but of all these, La Plata, the capital of the province of Buenos Aires is the only one I will take time to describe.

Situated near the mouth of the Plata river, La Plata is the natural port for Buenos Aires and Central Argentina, and would have probably remained such had not Buenos Aires itself become a port, and usurped the glory of the formerly great port. Its beautiful public buildings and paved streets fell into decay, grass sprang up between the paving blocks—"it seemed the splendid corpse of a city," writes Koebel.

However, with the beginnings of universal prosperity which has prevailed of late, it has, phoenix-like, risen from its lethargy, and once more taken on a new life. There is every indication that La Plata will once more rank with Buenos Aires, and other important cities of the republic. This is only fitting, for, never was a provincial capital designed on so lavish a scale. The breadth of the streets and the stateliness of its buildings is almost astonishing. The architectural keynote struck in all the public buildings, are grandeur and nobility. Aside from the intrinsic interest attached to La Plata, the town is worthy of study as a specimen of modern town-planning.

CHAPTER TEN

At the mouth of the Plata lies the capital of Argentina's sister republic, Uruguay—Montevideo—a city which dates only from the early part of the 18th century, when Zabala, governor of Buenos Aires founded it as a military post as a means of cutting out the Portuguese, who were threatening to seize the east bank of the estuary.

Then followed, years later, the turbulent days of the revolution and its dependence in the Platine regions, during which Montevideo suffered more than any other cities in this region. For nine years, (1842-'51), the Colorados, with Garibaldi's Italians and the Basque French, together with the Spanish, violently defended this "New Troy" against Rosas' lieutenant Oribe," writes Reclus in a brief outline of the city history, "and after the disaster at Monte Caseros, the Plateans were compelled to raise the siege and proclaim the free navigation of the rivers, for which the capital of Uruguay was contending against Buenos Aires.

The city is well situated on an elevated headland which projects westward, north of which the shoreline forms a semicircular depression, terminated by the Cerro, which stands opposite the capital at the entrance to the harbor. The city rises much in the same manner as the rows of seats in an amphitheatre, the lower tiers filled with government and public buildings, the upper tiers comprising the residential district, the city thus presenting a decidedly pleasant seaward aspect.

The people are quite like their neighbors across the river: to quote Rambold, "The populace, too, how different from that of Brazilian city! no negroes here, no ugly-looking Portuguese; but handsome Castilians with a good deal of Indian blood in the lower orders of them." The courtesy of these people is easily noticed on the thoroughfares, where, if by accident a man justifies a passing woman or sometimes even a fellow man, he will courteously lift his hat and murmur, "Favor de dispensarme," a trait possessed by only the people of Montevideo and Lima. And in many ways this capital is very comparable to the capital of Peru, only Montevideo is by far the more modern of the two. Too much cannot be said in the praise of this city, and the little republic of which it is capital, for it must be remembered that, as compared to the other cities of the continent, Montevideo is quite young, and, perhaps this is the reason for her modern tendencies, Quien Sabe?

CHAPTER ELEVEN

Leaving Montevideo and Uruguay astern, we sail north along the Brazilian coast, with its hundreds of bays and open roadsteads. The scenery gets more and more tropical as we sail north, and the weather is transformed into a floral paradise—contrasting greatly with the barren and arid west coast of the continent.

Our first port of call on the Brazilian coast is Santos, the chief port for all the coffee grown in the state of Sao Paulo. Santos itself is not the oldest port, but stands on an island just around a point of land which extends into Santos bay. San Vincente, the first settlement on this natural bay, was founded in 1532, and lies about six miles east of the present city of Santos. Here was produced the first sugar in Brazil, extracted from the cane introduced from Madeira, and it was here the Jesuit fathers established the first primary school, in 1580.

Santos, the melting pot of nations, extends along the foot of the steep Monserrate eminence, which occupies the center of the island, and is crowned by a church, commanding a superb view of the neighboring country. The site of the city is hopeless. The soil is not, and the water is not, and the water, mixed with the sewage which has been accumulating for years, no place in the New World has suffered so from the scourge of yellow fever as Santos. Yet, despite its natural features, Santos is the center of a large import

IN JUSTICE COURT

Deputy Sheriff George W. Springer and members of the local police force raided two places last Friday night. One of the places raided by the officers was the home of Mrs. Cynthia Dougherty on the Schoolcraft road in Livonia township. Here several bottles of beer and a quart of whiskey were confiscated. Mrs. Dougherty was arraigned in Justice Phoebe Patterson's court Saturday morning under the disorderly act. She pleaded guilty, and was fined $75 and 30 days in the House of Correction.

The other place visited by the officers was the home of Joe Sabo in Wayne. Here the officers found several bottles of beer and about eight gallons of "white mule." Sabo was arraigned before Justice Patterson Saturday morning under the disorderly act. He pleaded not guilty, and asked for a trial. After hearing the evidence in the case, the court found the defendant guilty, and he drew a fine of $50 and 30 days in the House of Correction.

John Gifford was brought before Justice Patterson Monday morning, by Chief of Police Springer, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated last Sunday evening, when he ran into another car on Penniman avenue. Gifford pleaded not guilty, and asked for a trial. After hearing the evidence in the case, he was found guilty by the court, and given a sentence of 45 days in the House of Correction without the option of a fine. His license was also revoked for a period of one year. Walter White, who was with Gifford in the car when the accident happened, was arraigned in Justice Patterson's court the same morning, on a drunk and disorderly charge. He pleaded guilty, and was given a fine of $50 or fifteen days in the House of Correction.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS BANQUET AT LINCOLN SCHOOL.

The new consolidated school situated two miles from the town of Willis, was the scene of a unique occasion Friday evening, May 22nd. A number of people from Plymouth, who went to attend a Mother and Daughter banquet there and were expecting a small attendance, were surprised to see the people pour in. It was indeed a community banquet in every sense of the word. Five hundred and fifty mothers and daughters representing six different faiths, sat down at the beautifully decorated tables in the spacious gymnasium. And most surprising of all, the men did all the cooking and the serving of the food. And such a banquet! One of the speakers said that she had known of men who were brave enough to cook for a bunch of men, but it must have taken real courage to serve such a crowd of ladies. During the evening, there was a cry, "Kitcheners, Kitcheners," and the writer counted seventy men in their various kitchen regalia who marched the length of the gymnasium. The toasts were excellent. Mrs. D. D. Nagle gave the address of the evening to an unusually attentive and appreciative audience. At the close, she was presented with a beautiful bouquet of roses. The people of that section are to be congratulated on their splendid school building, which is modern in every particular, and their fine community spirit.

MANY DOLLARS LOST ANNUALLY THROUGH CARELESS MAILING

JUNE 1-7 DESIGNATED "BETTER MAILING WEEK" TO REDUCE LOSS.

June 1 to 7 has been designated "Better Mailing Week" when a nationwide campaign will be undertaken to reduce the appalling loss occasioned by carelessness in addressing mail matter.

During the week thousands of motion picture theatres will display on their screens appropriate slogans urging greater care in addressing and wrapping of mail. Other organizations will likewise assist in emphasizing the need for better mailing.

Last year 21,000,000 letters went to the dead letter office, as did also 803,000 parcels. It is said that 100,000 letters reach the dead letter office yearly in blank envelopes, the writer having carelessly failed to affix the address.

The Postoffice Department removes from misdirected letters annually $55,000 or more in cash. Fully $12,000 in checks, drafts and money orders failed to reach intended owners through the carelessness of the senders. Uncle Sam collected last year $92,000 in postage for the return of mail sent to the Dead Letter office. It cost Uncle Sam last year $1,740,000 to look up addresses on misdirected mail matter. Postal authorities at Washington say the Dead Letter office could be discontinued and thousands of dollars saved if every person patronizing the mails would affix to each piece of mail a return address, and wrap each parcel carefully in stout paper and tie with strong cord.
