PLYMOUTH REAL ESTATE MEN ORGANIZE LOCAL BOARD

L. C. Batdorff of Lansing, Addressed Local Real Estate Dealers Last Tuesday Evening.

The real estate men of Plymouth, realizing the necessity of a local real estate board, very fortunately secured the services of Mr. L. C. Batdorff of Lansing, executive secretary of the Michigan Real Estate Association, to address them at a meeting held in Plymouth, Tuesday evening, August 4.

Mr. Batdorff very capably outlined the purpose of a local board and also discussed the advantages of such an organization to the community. A general discussion then followed in which ways and means, dues, better business methods, the future of Plymouth, and many other subjects of vital importance to the craft were discussed, which resulted in a resolution being proposed and unanimously adopted that a local real estate board be organized and officers elected.

Nominations were then called for the respective offices, and the election resulted as follows:

President—Roy M. Parrott
Vice President—Wm. B. Petz
Sec. Treas.—Raymond Bachelder

There were about sixteen or eighteen very enthusiastic dealers present, and all agreed that this was a very important step in the future development and history of Plymouth; that there was a time in the not far distant past when every person engaged in the real estate business was in competition with the other fellow; that a happier era has dawned, however, and the day is near at hand when it is confidently hoped every real estate broker will fully co-operate with, and not compete against, his fellow realtor.

The recent splendid assembly at Detroit, of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, stands forth the best example of co-ordinated bodies organized in unison for the general betterment of an ideal or profession long neglected. This alone ought to be an inspiration for that large number of real estate brokers who have not yet seen the light.

There can be found no valid reason why any substantial real estate broker having the advancement of his own business to a higher plane in mind, should remain in the competitive class rather than in the co-operative, because the latter offers every incentive for clean, honorable and fair dealing to all concerned, while the former, because of its very nature, offers the incentive to do otherwise.

Before leaving, Mr. Batdorff gave the new organization a very pleasant surprise by announcing that he would arrange for Mr. William E. Herron of Chicago, director of the extension department of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, to make the new Plymouth board an official visit while he and his party are making a tour of the boards of the Michigan Real Estate Association this month.

This appears to the board members to be such an excellent opportunity to become acquainted with national and state board methods that they immediately decided to invite the business men of our city to attend an informal luncheon and meet these men of national affairs, and to learn from them the objects of this organization. The date of this meeting will be announced as soon as the arrangements are completed.

Take it all and all, we feel that the men have taken a very decided step in the right direction, and are to be congratulated upon the movement.

MAY BUILD ANOTHER NEW HIGHWAY

Another important highway is proposed in a resolution passed by the Wayne Board of County Auditors, which orders the laying out of 120-foot boulevard through the western part of the county to follow the route of the cross-state oil pipe owned and operated by the Imperial Pipe Line Co. of Toronto, Canada. The pipe line lies a mile west of the villages of Redford and Wayne and coincides with Golden Gate drive near Southfield road. Copies of the resolution have been sent by the Wayne Board to the road commissioners and county auditors of Monroe, Oakland, Macomb and St. Clair counties, with a recommendation that similar action be taken in those counties.

If all counties act on this recommendation, a new road will be built 110 miles long and paralleling the pipe line from Toledo to Port Huron. Besides providing a needed highway for cross state traffic, it would protect citizens from subdivision operators who have sold land in the pipe line territory, thus conflicting with the Imperial Pipe Line Company's alleged legal rights.

POTATO GROWING CONTEST SPONSORED BY NORTHVILLE FAIR

PRIZES WILL BE AWARDED ON BASIS OF YIELD PER ACRE.

The Northville Wayne County Fair is offering cash prizes this year for the growers who can secure the largest yields per acre of potatoes. The only stipulations are that those who want to enter the contest must register with County Agricultural Agent Ralph Carr, so that the yield can be calculated at the time of digging, and the grower must also exhibit a bushel sample at the Fair. Separate prizes will be given the best exhibitors and for the highest yields per acre.

Early potatoes will soon be ready to dig so the Fair Association would like you to make your entries at once.

the bride and groom were the only guests at the ceremony.

Miss Arnold was attended by Miss Marian Carson, sister of the groom, and the bride's brother, Elmer Arnold of Detroit, attended as groomsmen. Randall Lamb played the Lohengrin wedding march.

The bride wore shell pink over georgette trimmed with brilliants, and carried Ophelia roses. Supper was served following the ceremony, with the bridal table decorated with garden flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Carson left following the wedding for a short trip, after which they will be at home at their new home, 212 Main street, Plymouth.

Miss Arnold was honored with several bridal showers before marriage. Mrs. A. M. Steinbaugh entertained at a miscellaneous shower; Mrs. Bruce Harrison and Mrs. C. Shingock were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower, and Mrs. Percy Legg and Mrs. Waid Hood entertained at a personal shower. —Dentice Press.

BAD AUTO ACCIDENT ON PLYMOUTH ROAD

A bad automobile accident occurred on the Plymouth road, Wednesday evening about nine o'clock, when a sedan driven by Henry Baker of this place, and a Ford coupe came into collision at the intersection of the Elm road. The Ford coupe was going south on the Elm road, and Mr. Baker was going east to Detroit. The Baker car, a new Willys-Knight sedan, was completely demolished, and the coupe was badly wrecked.

Mrs. Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Olson of Chicago, were passengers in the Baker car. Mr. and Mrs. Baker and Mr. Olson were badly cut about the face and limbs. Mrs. Olson, the most seriously hurt, received internal injuries, and at the time of our going to press, her condition is regarded as serious. All four were brought to the home of Mrs. Hattie Baker on Main street.

The occupants of the Ford coupe, who reside near the scene of the accident, were John Rohrer, badly cut on the head, and his brother, Albert, who sustained a broken right arm.

MUNICIPAL NOTES

The Village Commission and the other municipal officers of Plymouth of Detroit, attending as groomsmen. Randall Lamb played the Lohengrin wedding march.

The Village Commission and the other municipal officers of Plymouth of Detroit, attending as groomsmen. Randall Lamb played the Lohengrin wedding march.

Two very interesting subjects were discussed at the commission meeting last Monday. A proposition to install five overhead traffic regulating flashing signal lights was received and a demonstration of the light and its automatic control was enjoyed. This matter will be held over for further investigation.

The other matter was the collection of garbage and ashes. A franchise was asked of the Village to allow the collection of garbage throughout the Village by a private company. The charges proposed for this service were very reasonable, and the whole proposition was very favorably received by the Commission. A suitable franchise will be drawn up for discussion between the Village and the company which goes under the name of the Consolidated Garbage Co. It was proposed to serve Northville as well as Plymouth. For several years this matter of garbage disposal has been talked of, and several propositions have been made, but none have been carried to completion. There is no doubt, that a majority of householders would welcome some such collection agency.

The contract for the construction of the warehouse in the rear of the Village Hall was awarded to Clinton Gottschalk, who submitted the lowest of three bids for this work.

The village was very fortunate a week ago during the extra heavy rain. Except for the first hour or so when the downpour was heaviest, our sewers took care of the water very well. There were lots of flooded basements, but damage was very slight.

The sewer contractors suffered from excess of water and flowing sand.

As usual, there are several things to be brought to the attention of people whose memory is short or whose observation is not trained. Small boys and girls are not supposed to ride bicycles on the sidewalks of the Village. Pennington avenue from Church street to Moreland avenue is inside the Village limits, and the speed of many automobiles needs to be brought into harmony with that fact. It is no wonder oil won't stay put when so many drivers disregard the speed limit on this street.

Three new street lights have been authorized—one on Blunk avenue and two on dark corners on Union street.

The water records for July show that an average of 565,000 gallons per day were consumed in the village. This is 141 gallons per person per day in Plymouth. What do you do with it all? The water level in the reservoir varied from 61 inches to 94 inches.

The work of constructing a concrete curb and gutter on each side of Sheridan avenue has been started by Blunk & Smith. This will add very much to the looks of the street.

MRS. L. B. SAMSEN PASSES AWAY

Mrs. L. B. Samsen, wife of the editor of this paper, passed away at her home at 279 Blunk avenue, last Saturday, August 1st. Mrs. Samsen, who had been in poor health for some time, was taken seriously ill about six weeks ago. She was taken to the hospital, where she underwent an operation, and although everything possible was done for her, she passed away at 2:30 o'clock on the morning above mentioned.

Mrs. Samsen came to Plymouth about twelve years ago, and during that time she has made many friends, who were sincerely grieved to learn of her passing. She was of a retiring disposition and found her greatest enjoyment and happiness in her home and family. She was a devoted wife and mother, ready and willing to do for those whom she loved best. She was a member of the Woman's Club and the Leap Year Bridge Club.

Bertha Marchan was born September 2, 1880, at Holloway, Mich., the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Marchan, who both preceded her to the Great Beyond within the past two years. She is survived by her husband, little daughter, Phyllis Jean, and one sister, Mrs. B. E. Giles of this village, and a foster daughter, Mrs. Walter Fox of Farmington.

The funeral services were held from her late home Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. Mr. Henry W. Eaton of Detroit, conducting the Christian Science service, of which church Mrs. Samsen was a member. Mrs. R. A. Cussidy sang two beautiful solos. The room in which the casket reposed was filled with flowers, mute expressions of the love and esteem of relatives and friends. The interment took place at Riverside cemetery.

Among those from out of town here to attend the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Marchan of Lowell; Mr. and Mrs. William McCort of Coldwater; Charles Marchan of Flint; Congressman Earl C. Michener and wife of Adrian; Misses Jennie and Grace Gillespie; Mrs. Franc Gillespie and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Naylor, Mrs. Benedict, Mrs. John Murphy of Tecumseh; Mr. and Mrs. John Calloum, Mrs. Nixon of Holloway; Mr. and Mrs. William Bann, Alexandria, Indiana; Mrs. L. M. Lewis and Mrs. Lynn Jackson, Detroit; R. G. Samsen and daughter, Helen, of Willoughby, Ohio.

MANY PRESENT AT FARMERS DAY

EDUCATION, ORGANIZATION, HOME LIFE ON THE FARM STRESSED.

Despite a heavy rain, a crowd estimated to include 8,000 farmers and their families, attended the eighth annual Farmers' day at Michigan State College, Friday.

The program was held in the gymnasium. President Kenyon L. Butterfield made a short speech on Old and New in Rural Progress. He stressed the importance of education and organization to the farmers. He explained experiments in crop marketing the college is making.

Samuel R. McKelvie, former governor of Nebraska, stressed the value of the home life on the farm.

"The farm is worth just what it produces, but its value as a home is often overlooked," he said. "Compared with city standards, the average home life on the farm is worth $200 a month." He urged farmers to interest their boys and girls in clubs.

Winners in the dynamometer contest were teams owned by J. C. Poekins, Lansing; S. Miller, Lansing; M. T. Davis, Mt. Pleasant; George R. Pottor, Lansing. These were winners in Class A in order named. In class B, W. O'Connor, Lansing; M. Foster, East Lansing; Ed. Drumbeller, Bath, and J. Dodge were winners.

Woodland M. E. church won a first prize of $100 in the country choir singing contest; Mason, Baptist, second, $60; Presbyterian, M. E., $30, and Orleans, M. E., $20.

Three new street lights have been authorized—one on Blunk avenue and two on dark corners on Union street.

BETTER PROSPECTS

Plymouth citizens will be interested in knowing that weather conditions in all parts of the country, although abnormal this summer, have been such that on the whole all kinds of crops are yielding more bountifully than the government predicted early in the spring. With but two exceptions, this will be the biggest corn year in the history of the nation. Winter wheat has suffered, but spring wheat is fine. This year's wheat crop is short of 1924 but better prices are being maintained, and farmers are being advised to hold as long as possible so as to cash in for another raise, which seems almost sure to come.

Potato growing states report smaller crops than usual, due to reduced acreage. But there, again, prices will make up for the shortage. It seems to have been an off-year for fruit crops, though some sections report better than an average.

In his latest report Uncle Sam shows that the per capita production on American farms last year was $296. In other words, enough food was produced and sold to mean $296 for each farm, big and little. This is ahead of 1923, and this year promises to average still higher. The railroads report record-breaking car loadings—more cars are being used to move crops than at any similar time in the history of the country. In fact all indications point to a prosperous year for those who raise our foodstuffs and, with unemployment conditions growing rapidly better, the remainder of the year ought to see the entire country enjoying a pretty fair measure of prosperity.

THEY'RE ONLY JOKING

It's nothing unusual around Plymouth to hear someone wishing for "the good old days," and we never hear them but we wonder how long they would put up with the discomforts suffered by their grandfathers without raising a hue and cry for the things they now enjoy.

Scarcely fifty years ago residents of this section had mighty little in the way of comforts and conveniences. Today they have labor-saving devices never dreamed of then; they have the radio, the telephone and the telegraph to keep them in touch with the outside world; they have railroad trains, autos and airplanes instead of slow-going farm wagons and bugies; they have music and pictures and books and newspapers enough to bring enjoyment every leisure moment of their lives.

This thing of looking backward, or wishing for "the good old days," is just a form of sentiment, and the man or woman thus expressing themselves wouldn't be happy for an hour if they should suddenly be robbed of the comforts and conveniences they now have. Stop and think of the blessings you now enjoy and you'll be heartily glad that you were born late. These are the "best days" the human race has ever known, no matter how many people may wish for "the good old days," and all argument to the contrary wouldn't shake us in that belief for a single second.

ANOTHER MIRACLE

Another record smashed—an automobile driven from Los Angeles to New York a distance of 3980 miles without the engine stopping or the wheels being permitted to quit turning. First we had the coast-to-coast non-stop airplane flight, then the coast-to-coast down to darkness flight, and now the coast-to-coast non-stop auto run has been accomplished. It leads the thinking citizen of Plymouth to wonder what will come next in the way of modern miracles, and to ask if the old world isn't moving a little faster than it is safe for one generation to go. We've crossed the continent now in about every way imaginable, and yet this is such a restless age that we need not be surprised any day to hear of other and far more daring stunts than have yet been attempted. If the next generation works out as many miraculous things as this one has, what's this old world going to resemble about a hundred years from now?

WE'RE SATISFIED

New York has just taken a census of her population, and it shows a total of 6,103,384, or more people than can be counted in Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and San Francisco combined. No other city now approaches it in population and, to tell the truth, no other city appears to be sorry along that line. New Yorkers are lappy, even though their happiness comes largely through ignorance of the blessings that they could enjoy if they lived in smaller cities, or even in towns the size of Plymouth. It is a case "what they don't know won't hurt them," and of ignorance being bliss. There is but one New York, and of course the United States is glad to possess that one. It gives us some place to point to when we want to compare community blessings. But after the comparison has been made of the smaller cities and towns—something like 105,000,000 of us prefer not to live in New York.

Says Women Owe Debt to Immortal Writer

Shakespeare was a great student and admirer of women, said George Gordon Morton, professor of English literature at Oxford university.

In the history plays women had a hard time, and had to fight principally with their tongues. They sometimes threatened to scratch, but as a rule it would have been unnecessary to use their "ten commandments."

In the comedies young men were splendid fellows, but were better at talking than doing. When any real business had to be done or when any difficult arrangements had to be made it was the young women who acted. Shakespeare was so consistent about this that he must have meant it, and Mr. Gordon believed that in private life it was pretty near the truth.

Shakespeare appeared to have believed that it was one of the paradoxes and one of the puzzles of the feminine character that love as a rule made women not less but more practical.

Considering what Shakespeare had done for women, Professor Gordon thought it was singular that women had done so little for Shakespeare in the way of interpreting him and studying his character.

Shakespeare had done women more honor than any other dramatist, except possibly Moliere, and yet hardly any women had applied to his works those powers of analysis peculiar to their sex, which they exercised daily in all the drawing rooms of Europe on the characters of their friends.

Shakespeare paid women the high compliment of supposing that they might have knowledge, shrewdness, wit, and courage, without ceasing to be wholly feminine.—London Telegraph.

Today's Reflections

Maybe the reason some Plymouth men talk in their sleep is because that is their only opportunity.

Speaking of jazz bands, the man who put din in dinner took all the rest out of restaurants.

Nobody cares much what the average Plymouth man believes so long as he doesn't irritate the whole town by discussing it.

A friend is an acquaintance who never borrowed money from you and never loaned you any.

The summer is now so far advanced that the fly which you failed to swat in April now has 13,450,000 descendants.

Why is it that some men around Plymouth have to wait until their wives get wrinkles in their faces and corns on their hands before they realize just how helpful a wife really is?

The billing and cooing doesn't end with the honeymoon. Only the cooing stops then.

Uncle Sam says the life of a paper dollar is only seven or eight months, but we have never had any of them to die on our hands.

The world isn't as bad as some Plymouth folks make it out to be. But it's a fact that the world is certain to impose on the man with a good disposition.

The man who seeks trade by lying on his competitor is a poor salesman in any business and is headed for the rocks.

When a Plymouth girl tells a young man that she dromed of him the night before, he should begin to save up money for the furniture.

One New York taxicab knocked a man down and another one ran over him and killed him. We suppose that's what they call "team work" in New York.

Maybe the reason they print bedtime stories in morning papers is that the modern boy and girl are just going to bed about the time the morning papers come out.

Hens are troublesome at times and they seldom show much wisdom, but they are honest, for no hen ever laid a bad egg.

Any Plymouth husband who has had experience in skinning a rabbit ought to be of some help to his wife when she is shedding one of these new-fangled dresses.

"OUR RESTRICTIONS ARE YOUR PROTECTION"

PROFITS

All Roads Lead to Garden Grove and Profits

What are PROFITS? WEBSTER says that they are the difference between the price for which an article is sold, and the price paid for their purchase. PROFIT also means the difference between what an article is actually worth today and the price that was paid for it.

If you or anybody else had gone down and bought a lot on Joy Road in 1916 when they were selling lots for five or six hundred dollars, you could sell that lot today and make enough money to build a home for yourself and pay cash for it.

THAT IS JUST WHAT IS GOING TO HAPPEN IN GARDEN GROVE. Many people who have the ability to look ahead a few years have invested their money here where it will give them a manifold return should they ever want to sell. But we are proud to say that the majority of people who have bought in GARDEN GROVE have bought here to build. We have sold our lots to the best class of people, the lots are well restricted, and we are certain of one of the best classes of communities in this district, and are certain of a class of homes that will make every vacant lot in GARDEN GROVE worth many more times the price that was paid for it.

It is the progress of the City of Detroit in this direction, the development of this subdivision into a community of homes and the general growth of this section that is going to make for big profits in GARDEN GROVE.

SOMEBODY SAID THAT IT WAS TOO FAR OUT. DO YOU KNOW THAT THAT IS JUST WHAT THEY SAID OF JOY ROAD IN 1916? LOOK AT THAT DISTRICT TODAY. With the modern means of transportation, with the city improvements coming out this way, GARDEN GROVE is in as good a location today, as Joy Road was then.

The prices of lots in GARDEN GROVE range from $450.00 to $595.00. We could have sold them just as well if we had asked Two or Three Hundred more per lot. But we are selling property as the owners. This property has not been turned over several times. The PROFIT that might have been made is being passed on to the individual lot purchasers.

We are selling these for 10 per cent down and 1 per cent per month. If you haven't the full 10 per cent, we can give you plenty of time to pay it. As owners of the property we can afford to do this. Ten Dollars is all you need, the rest is easy.

COME OVER AND SEE US TODAY. DON'T WAIT UNTIL ALL OF THE BEST LOTS ARE GONE.

The PROFIT on one of these lots might send your boy or girl to college, or build you a nice home some day. Anyway the profits will come in mighty handy in a few years when you need some extra money very bad.

Dedicate Instrument

A newly mounted radiometer is to be used in an expedition about to be made half way around the earth to take daily measurements of the heat of the sun in the interest of long-range weather forecasting. The radiometer is so sensitive that the ray of a candle situated 7,000 feet away and focused upon it is sufficient to turn its vanes through several hundred scale divisions. Even the face of an observer, when placed in the position previously occupied by the candle, will produce a deflection of twenty-five scale divisions. It has been suggested by a humorist that with this instrument one might almost note the approach of a friend, while still some miles distant, merely by the glow of his countenance. It might even detect the sun in an English summer.

Little Need for Muscle

Two thousand years from now man may have hoofs, says Prof. Conrad Tharaldsen of the zoology department of Northwestern university. He will probably have a huge dome of a head, a spindling body, dumpy legs and feet something like those of a horse. As a result of inaction and little need of muscular strength man's arms and legs are already beginning to dwindle in size, says the professor. Mechanical inventions are rapidly doing away with the need for muscle, he says, and lack of use is causing the muscular portions of the body to degenerate. But man's ever-growing brain will need more room. As a consequence his skull will get bigger and bigger until it resembles a dome.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Suspicious Resignation

Governor Slizer said at a dinner in Trenton: "When a man is resigned to a corrupt government, mistrust him. He is likely to be profiting from the corruption." "Hoskins, clad in deepest black, said reagently as he drained a large vanilla soda: "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away. Blessed be the name of the Lord!" "Hoskins" whispered a bystander, "has evidently suffered a bereavement." "Yes," said another bystander. "He buried his mother-in-law this morning."

Remarkable Memories

Germans believe that a member of the staff of the Prussian State library has the finest memory in the world. He has specialized in weather reports and from memory he can describe the weather of any day from 1881 up to the present time. His wonderful memory recently was tested by the Berlin Meteorological society and he came through with flying colors. Colonel Charratle of England once memorized the entire issue of a newspaper on a wager; a stoker memorized Haydn's "Dictionary of Dates," and Lord Randolph Churchill, also of England, was able to repeat a page of print after a single reading.

Old Custom Revived

Great Britain's return to the gold standard has revived an ancient custom at the Bank of England. At four o'clock each afternoon one of the old employees emerges from his sanctum, walks with dignity to the courtyard and there posts upon a bulletin board a list of the bank's sales and purchases of bar gold during the day. At the same hour messengers from the principal private banks, clad in their shiniest silk "toppers," arrive in the courtyard and, after copying the figures on the board, depart in all haste. It is one of the happiest signals of a return to gold currency after a lapse of ten years.

Zambesi Falls Called Inferior to Niagara

The Victoria falls are located on the Zambesi river, in Rhodesia. They are more than twice the height and somewhat wider than Niagara falls. The native name is "Mush-on-tun-ya"—"Thundering Smoke" or "Smoke Does-Sound-Here."

The Zambesi, one of the four great rivers of Africa, is more than 1,700 miles in length and carries an enormous volume of water, so that the falls are a magnificent spectacle at any time of the year. But this volume of water is not as great as that which pours out of our lakes, and it is in this respect that the Victoria falls are inferior to Niagara.

The African cataract is divided by islands so that it forms four falls, two wide and two narrow. Near the right bank of the Zambesi is the Leaping Water, a fall 108 feet wide; then Boaruka Island; then the main fall, 1,419 feet wide; then Livingstone Island; then the Rainbow fall, 1,605 feet wide; then another island; and finally the Eastern cataract, which resembles the Leaping Water.

The Victoria falls occur where the Zambesi is at its widest. They fall over an edge which is almost vertical, but instead of falling into an open basin as Niagara does, they drop into a chasm the opposite wall of which is only 80 by 240 feet away. The outlet of all this water is a gorge 300 feet wide, which leads a little farther on into a Grand canyon 40 miles long.

The falls were discovered by David Livingstone on November 17, 1855. They are on the route of the Cape-to-Cairo railway, and a bridge 650 feet long has been constructed across the canyon some distance below the falls.

Colors on the Screen

For two hot hours recently, says the London Daily Mail, a large audience sat in darkness in Queen's hall, Langhame place, while Thomas Wilfred demonstrated his invention, the clavivox.

Before the screen was a boxlike apparatus divided into four sections, each containing a number of keys. The performer, by mering basic colors, blue, green and red, obtained beautiful shades and designs, also "building up" scenes resembling silhouettes, save that coloring was the basis of the pictures.

He then merged the blue, green and red shades upon the screen, which appeared purely white, but, walking between the instrument and the screen, he "shook" the continuity of the scheme and the separate colors could be seen reflected.

Laurel With a History

What was perhaps the oldest laurel bush in France has just died in what remains of a once beautiful Paris garden. The laurel was one of a group sent by Louis XIV to Marshal Turanne, victor of the battles of Fribourg and Nerdlingen. It came from the royal gardens of Fontainebleau. Turanne's handsome country home was in what is now the boulevard de Montparnasse, hidden from the public view by the tall houses bordering the street. It was built by Mansard, the architect whose fine facades give such dignity to the Place de la Concorde. The house has been occupied recently by the engraver, Leopold Flameng, father of the late painter. He watched over the ancient laurel's last years. A young sculptor of the quarter is going to use the wood for a statuette of the illustrious marshal. It will be sent to the army museum at the Invalides.

Bromine Shortage Looms

Due to the increasing commercial use of bromine, there is a shortage of that product throughout the world, with the result that an expedition has started out to extract it from the waters of the Atlantic ocean. Both industry and medical science feels the shortage at the present time. The development of ethyl gasoline for motor fuel is partly responsible. Chemical experts estimate that 1,700 gallons of sea water will produce one pound of bromine.

Cow Climbed From Well

While the weary members of a bridgeport (Vt.) rescue party were at home for a night's rest, a 1,000-pound cow which had been imprisoned for hours at the bottom of an eleven-foot well shaft into which she had fallen, clambered in some manner to the earth's surface and in the morning stood near the mouth of the yawning cavern placidly chewing her cud when the men came to renew their efforts to succor the animal.

Long Period of Sleep

Miss Swanepoel, a Transvaal woman (says a writer in an African paper), has been asleep for the past fifteen years! During this period she has never been fully conscious. Fifteen years ago the shock of her lover's death brought on hysterical cataplexy, and she resisted all efforts to awaken her. She has remained in bed throughout her illness, and in appearance is little more than a living skeleton. Food is administered at frequent intervals.

World's Brightest Light

A short time ago the most powerful lighthouse in the world was lit for the first time. It is intended to light the airway from Algiers to Paris, and is built 1,947 feet above sea level, on the plateau known as Mont Afrique, a few miles from Dijon.

Flashing at intervals of five seconds, the rays of the $71,000,000 electric power light will be visible in all weather, radius of 100 to 125 miles.

Idea of Humor Changes With Advancing Years

Nothing is more apparent than that a man's sense of humor "grows up" with him. Two Lebanon men stood watching a group of small boys, probably five or six years old. They were immensely tickled over the sad plight of an elderly man who had slipped on a mud-smeared banana peel and sat down on the walk with rather an undignified thud. He quickly regained his feet, but it was "hot stuff" for the small boys who chorused their excited glee.

"Nothing funny in an old man falling on the sidewalk," grunted one of the men in disgust over the shouts of the boys.

"No, not now for us, but I can remember when I was a kid nothing was funnier than some grown-up person getting a sprawling fall," the other replied. "I guess our sense of humor grows up with us," he continued.

And undoubtedly it does. At ten years a boy will find keen delight in mimicking the soft speech of his big sister's beau. When he is fifteen he looks down with superior indulgence on his parents and he is positively amused at the seriousness with which they regard bread, butter, rent and other prosaic things of life.

A few years later at college he roars with laughter when prexy and the profs are sneezed off the platform by red pepper placed in the faculty hymn books. As a lover he repeats over and over to himself the cute little things which his sweetheart has said to him. At thirty, when he is married and a father of two or three lusty children, he gets his best chuckle by listening to some bachelor friend discuss life, because the big joke is that the bachelor doesn't know anything at all about life.

At fifty he is secretly amused at the self-confidence of the bustling family man of thirty. By the time he has reached sixty he smiles in amusement, tinged with sympathy, upon the strenuous ambitions of his younger friends to achieve success, which they must abandon in a few short years. His seventieth birthday comes and he finds himself getting his great joy out of the play and pranks of his grandchildren. And he probably would laugh as heartily if not so loud if some old man should fall on a mud-smeared banana peel.—Lebanon (Ind.) Reporter.

Found Rare Art Works

Three large bowls were dug up in a garden in the slum section of Budapest. Believing them to be brass, their discoverers used them as flower pots. Subsequently rings, chains and small figures of animals were excavated in the garden. These were sent to the National museum, where they were identified as gold ornaments of great beauty and clever workmanship dating back to the Hallstatt period. The finder then took the bowls to the museum, and the director found that they constituted one of the most important discoveries of recent times. The bowls are of pure gold dating 2,600 years ago, and their elaborate design equals that of the famous gold treasure found at Szilagy-Somlyo. Rumors are now current that the whole neighborhood abounds with antiquities, and systematic excavations are to be carried out.

Statistics of Blindness

There has been a decrease in the last few years in the number of blind people throughout the country. The census of 1910 gave a total of 57,272 in the United States, while ten years later this had fallen, despite the increase in population, to 52,567. In other words, in 1910 there were 623 blind for each million of population, while a decade later there were only 567. The proportion of the blind to the population varies in different states. Wyoming has only 154 blind per million of population, which is the lowest recorded; New York has 465; Indiana, 570, while the state with the highest proportion of blind is New Hampshire with 1,533 per million.

Denies Coyote Is a Pest

W. H. Fletcher of Brant, Alberta, has written the department of agriculture of the Canadian province that far from encouraging the slaughter of coyotes, which has long been a provincial policy, the killing of one of these animals should be made a crime. He explained that jack-rabbits, by consuming crops and damaging trees, had become a scourge to farmers. He expressed belief that coyotes had formerly kept down the number of rabbits. Fletcher predicted that if coyotes were not permitted to prey upon rabbits the latter would become such an evil as they did in Australia.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

REV. S. CONGER HATHAWAY, A. M., PASTOR

IN ADDITION

to the usual music by the organist and chorus choir the congregation will be favored next Sunday morning with a violin solo by Claude A. Rogers of Ann Arbor. Mr. Rogers will play "Andantino, Transposed to D" by Edwin H. Lemare.

NO EVENING SERVICE UNTIL SEPTEMBER

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

The pastor was pleased to greet so large a congregation, last Sunday morning. There was also a good attendance in choir and Sunday-school. The new wall roll in the men's classroom will be a real time saver when we get used to it. The ladies would like to come and use it too; but—

Using as his text, "The common people heard him gladly," the pastor attributed William Jennings Bryan's great popularity as a public speaker to these facts:

1. Mr. Bryan convinced his hearers that he was unselfishly interested in their personal problems and needs.
  2. He was always logical and convincing in his presentation of the truth to those who love the truth above personal prejudice and partisan preference.
  3. He was genuinely consistent in his Christian character and conduct; as one of his Nebraskan neighbors once said: "He is the squarest Christian that I ever knew." The quotations used in the sermon were taken from Mr. Bryan's most recent books, "In His Image," published by Fleming H. Revell Company in 1922, and "Seven Questions in Dispute," published by the same company in 1924. Both volumes are a lasting contribution to Christian literature worthy of a frequent reading. The latter volume contains chapters on "The Inspiration of the Bible," "The Deity of Christ," "The Virgin Birth," "The Blood Atonement," "The Bodily Resurrection of Jesus," "The Miracles of Our Lord" and "The Origin of Man."
- Claude A. Rogers, who is to give a violin solo next Sunday morning, is not a stranger to Plymouth, but played frequently during the pastorate of Rev. Leith. We shall be glad to welcome him again to our service.

BAPTIST NOTES

Rev. R. O. Thompson of Novi, filled the pulpit last Sunday. His theme was, "The Wonderful Jesus, His Name, His Person and His Work." It was a good sermon.

The Sunday-school was well attended, and some of the teachers were back with their classes. The vacation season always makes a break in the church work.

The Sunday-school held their second picnic at the tourist camp last Tuesday evening, and all had a good time, and are waiting for the announcement of another.

Several of the young people of the B. Y. P. U. went to the Northville society, and took charge of the meeting last Sunday evening. Miss Sarah Daly, president, led the meeting, and a good time was reported. They invited the Plymouth B. Y. P. U. back to their weenie and marshmallow roast this week Friday evening.

The pastor expects to be in the pulpit next Sunday morning, but there will be no evening service during the week. Last Sunday, he preached in the Springwells Avenue Baptist church in Detroit, and enjoyed the day.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet with Mrs. Joseph Stanley next Wednesday. All members are urged to come. Will you try and be there?

COMMUNITY CHURCH NOTES

Sunday, July 26th, marked one of the most impressive services ever held in this church, and will long be remembered by all present. The Ladies' Bible Class had planned to give the pastor a real surprise, and their efforts were not in vain. At the close of the morning service, Mrs. Emma Butler, in her usual pleasing manner, walked to the front of the church, while Miss Thelma Davey walked down the aisle dressed in pure white, bearing a beautiful communion set. Mrs. Butler presented this gift to the pastor and people, and in her presentation she said:

Friends, Pastor: It seems to me that I have a rather unique presentation to make this morning, to this church. During Christ's pilgrimage on earth, He left two symbols of Christian faith which are held very sacred to all true followers of Christ. These symbols are Baptism and Sacrament. In keeping these, we show to the world the outward and visible sign of the inward and spiritual grace. When we partake of the communion, we commemorate the death and dying love of Christ, as well as renewing our vows of faithful Christian obedience.

"To the Divine Master, this gift is a communion set, and is given by the ladies of the Livonia Center Community church, and to my mind, is purely a Christian gift, because as we look upon it, we are ever reminded of a Saviour's love.

"To Sister Phelps, as she accepts this gift in behalf of the church, I trust God will bring to you many added blessings for your faithful and earnest work in reconsecrating this church again to divine service; and to the people in this community, who have contributed so liberally of time and money, you are doing a wonderful Christian work—something that will live on through the years to come.

"To the ancients centuries ago, the star was a symbol of eternity, but somewhere it has been said that by touch of God's hand sometime they will cease to shine and fall like autumn leaves, and down the great highway there will be mourning, for worlds are dead.

"But to the faithful Christian workers is given that great and gracious is what your old, worn electric iron is worth whenever you decide to bring it back and buy a new one.

Your old iron may have been too long in service; it may be so worn as to be beyond repair; it may be in such condition as to cause you loss of time, of satisfaction with its working, of even a little temper at times.

You need not stand that sort of thing; it is quite unnecessary. All you have to do is to bring back the old iron, pick out a new one, which you don't have to pay for all at once, and receive credit for one dollar on the first installment. Just that easy!

Alexandra

Alexandra, queen of Judea, the widow and successor of Alexander Jannaeus, was a wise and virtuous princess, who, contrary to example of her husband studied to please her subjects and preserved peace and prosperity during her reign of seven years. She died in the seventy-third year of her age, B. C. 70. She was the mother of Hyrcanus and Aristobulus and the latter years of her reign were disturbed by the attempt of her younger son, Aristobulus, to obtain the sovereignty, as he was exasperated by the favor his mother showed to the sect of the Pharisees and the authority she allowed them.—Chicago Journal.

THE OAKLAND COUNTY FAIR

The officers and superintendents of the Oakland County Fair to be held at Milford, August 12 to 15, say that the prospect was never so encouraging for a successful fair as it is this year. Everybody seems enthusiastic and determined to put the 1925 fair over better and stronger than ever.

The premium list has been greatly enlarged and the amounts of premiums in several departments have been substantially increased. Special premiums are offered for boys' and girls' club work in the county. As amusement and entertainment features there will be three high class "free attractions," showing each day and evening in front of the grand stand, three ball games, three days of horse racing, three bands, a great display of fireworks on three nights, besides the usual "rides" and midway attractions.

Holly, Milford and two Pontiac ball teams—Oakland Motor Co. and Geney Dyers and Cleaners—will contest the base ball series. Holly band has been engaged for Thursday, Oakland Motor band for Friday and the noted Industrial School band from Lansing for Saturday.

The horse racing will include three events on Thursday, four on Friday, and three on Saturday. Liberal purses will bring some of the best speedsters in the state.

The night fair on Thursday, Friday and Saturday will offer each night a very attractive display of fireworks in addition to the regular exhibits, the free act performances and a special band concert.

REAL MEANING TO VISIONS OF SLEEP

Fantasies by No Means to Be Disregarded.

While men will not admit it, women usually are more intuitive.

Their more natural expression of emotion, which so early meets with repression from the men, is an acceptable explanation.

With the male of the household, providing he is strongly psychic, anything that passes the censor of his subconscious mind is a "hunch." But with the female such visions are presentiments, which carry tokens of good or clouds of depression, says a writer in the Chicago Evening Post.

But instead of allowing dreams to depress, they should serve as a warning to prepare us for whatever happens. In such a state of mind we often may be able to sidestep that which would bring sorrow.

Sometimes it is the striking of a bell, the crying of a dog, the creaking, creaking noise, a figure in black.

There are many accounts of the appearance of one about to die, to the loved one, even though distance be great. Great rulers of Europe have awakened from sleep and summoned their servants to protect them from objects in their rooms. Soon they would be repaired on the throne and driven from their homes.

If you will search your mind you will recall the dream or warning that came to you of something that was about to happen. Did it happen? A great many will find that it did.

Many have experienced thinking of a friend very intently and then receiving news from him.

When you dream or have a presentiment, do not be alarmed. Think it over. If it carries a message of good fortune, all well and good; if it carries a depressing message, be ready to meet the situation maybe you can prevent it.

For one to cut a finger or suffer other laceration of the hands or face warns the dreamer to set up a barrier against the treachery of one whom she believes to be a friend.

However, should it appear that no blood comes from the wound, it is indicated that the treachery will be quite concealed and may work great harm.

To be lonely and unhappy in a dream means that you will be happy and quite contented in wakened hours.

Dream records show that visions of unhappiness nearly always are followed by much happiness for the dreamer.

A lover is quite often visioned by a dreamer and his or her appearance brings both good and bad omens.

Ardent love will come if the lover is happy, while unhappiness is quite sure if the lover seems angry or indifferent.

Dreams of collisions mean but one thing; you are about to face difficult problems which will end seriously for you unless you exert yourself.

Such dreams of caution, must not be taken lightly. When such a vision comes to you, prepare yourself to meet the emergency and you will be protected.

Deception can readily be noticed in some of these dreams which will give you ample warning to beware of false friends. Unless your companions are jovial and show good cheer, be on your guard. All other visions are bad omens.

Often the sweet strains of music can be plainly heard in dreams.

It heralds for the dreamer peace of mind in wakened hours and success in love and business. It is a good omen to seem to be singing alone, while good times are ahead if you are singing with a group.

One of the predominating dreams that enter the nightly visions of young women is the bridal costume.

Nearly every young woman will admit that she has at some time seen herself attired in bridal attire. Such a dream is often important.

If one seems happy while in such attire, good fortune, happiness, success in love and business are destined for them. While, on the contrary, attire forebodes of illness, unhappy marriage and loss of friends and money.

EDITORIAL

Once upon a time in the first ages of shop keeping it was understood that the buyer must take chances on being disappointed when he bought anything, in other words "Let The Buyer Beware!"

The evolution of store keeping and merchandising has changed entirely those old methods, for today customers take no chances when they purchase quality goods from a reliable store, especially when that store guarantees satisfaction or a return of money if for any reason the customer is not entirely pleased with her purchase.

This rule applies here at this store where a sale is not complete until the buyer is satisfied.

HISTORIC SPOT TO BE MEMORIAL

Plan to Preserve Earliest Western Railroad Depot.

The spot where ground was broken in 1853 for the first railroad west of the Mississippi soon will be dedicated as a memorial to one of its most enthusiastic promoters, Anton le Claire, whose home was the railroad's first depot in Iowa.

Le Claire was a familiar and important figure on the frontier. Indians and white men alike depended upon him as a go-between. He himself was of Indian descent and married to an Indian princess; but the federal government had educated him and the United States used him as an interpreter in making treaties with the Indian tribes of Illinois and Iowa.

When General Scott was negotiating with the Sac and Fox tribes Chief Keokuk gave the intermediary, Le Claire, the site on which Davenport, Iowa, now stands, on condition that Le Claire build his house near the spot where General Scott's tent stood. Here was signed the treaty between the United States and these Indian tribes in 1832.

Le Claire built his house the following year, the first residence in Davenport. Twenty years later the Missouri and Mississippi railway broke ground beside it and Le Claire turned his house over to the railroad to be used as a depot, moving to a more sumptuous dwelling on a hill, for meantime he had acquired wealth.

In the little house, with front and back porches and two dormer windows, Le Claire heard the grievances of his Indian neighbors. Here inquiries of the government were translated and the responses of the red men were drawn up into formal proposals that later went to congress and became historic treaties, underlying the rights of title and possession of the western country. Here Le Claire met Indians bent on war and white men bent on litigation and brought harmony and co-operation into their dealings. Here, too, he took counsel with those determined upon the development of the West and with them planned the pushing across the Mississippi of the "iron horse."

The little house, shorn of most of its trimmings, huddled on its historic spot for many years after it was abandoned as a railway depot. Now it is coming into greater honor. It was presented a short while ago by the owner of the land on which it stood, to the Rock Island railway, with which its early history was associated. The railroad put back its porches and its dormer windows and restored it completely. Under the supervision of the curator of the historical, memorial and art department of Iowa it was moved a few feet and rebuilt as nearly as possible in its original condition.

It will be turned over for safe keeping to the Davenport chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. They will possess it as a museum and surround it with such flowers and shrubbery as might have been found there in the early days of Iowa.

Long Jaunt of Whaler

After completing a remarkable voyage, the world's largest whaling "cookery," the Sir James Clark Ross, has returned to Norway. On board was the body of the captain, who died after the ship had reached the Ross sea. The result of the expedition was fairly good, and doubtless would have been better had not extremely low temperatures and rough seas created unusual difficulties. On this voyage the Sir James Clark Ross accomplished a real trip around the world. On the way out the ship passed south of Africa and proceeded by way of New Zealand to Ross sea. The return journey was around Cape Horn. The total distance traveled was 32,000 nautical miles, or the equivalent of one and a third times around the earth at the equator.

Siamese Advancing

Siamese students are coming in increasing numbers to the United States. The leader of the present group is a graduate of Harvard. The assistant director general of the Royal Siam-Siam railway and a son of the minister of the interior were educated in this country. Associations have been formed in Siam and in America to promote interest in educational institutions in the United States. As foreign-trained Siamese become available they are gradually supplanting Europeans employed in the various branches of the Siamese government.

Cyanide Process Growing

Of the three well-known processes of separating gold and silver from their ores, the cyaniding process is now used for the production of about one-third of the world's annual production of precious metals. The other two methods are smelting and amalgamation. In the cyaniding process the ores are crushed finely and mixed with water containing cyanide in solution. The gold and silver are dissolved, the solution filtered and the gold or silver then precipitated by the addition of zinc dust or shavings which replaces gold or silver in solution.

The strawberry season is over, but the fried chicken season has just begun.

We saw a kitchen the other day that had been too large. It was re-arranged, new cupboards and counter built in, and the cleverest little breakfast room you ever saw took up the surplus room. Maybe you can do the same.

Our white fir 2x4's will save you one-third of your carpenter time, because they are straight and work up fast. They are a soft wood and do not split.

Our finish all comes double sanded, the last sanding being done the day you receive it. Can you figure the carpenter time this will save you.

See our complete building exhibit. It will give you new ideas about your home.

SCOTTISH PLAIDS OF MANY COLORS

National Costume Distinguished for Bright Hues.

Everyone has heard of Scotch plaid, but perhaps there are not many who know what a Scotch plaid really is. In Gaelic, the word is "pellaid," and means a sheepskin or hide. From this is derived the Gaelic "plaid," meaning a blanket. So you see that the plaid is in reality a piece of material, and not a pattern, as we think of it.

The plaid is also called "tartan," and as a garment is worn by both men and women in Scotland, where it forms an important part of the national costume. The peculiar patterns, consisting of crossbars of stripes of various colors, are said formerly to have distinguished the Scottish Highland clans, each clan having its own particular plaid.

Do you remember in your Sir Walter Scott's "Lady of the Lake," how "Roderick threw down his target and his plaid"? Thus, it is plain that the plaid is a garment or shawl woven in the check patterns of a peculiar kind, but the terms have become confused, and so used interchangeably. Sometimes you will hear a shawl referred to as a plaid, and just as frequently, the pattern on it is called a tartan.

Some of the clans had more than one plaid, for use on different occasions. For instance, the royal Stuart has a plaid of bright red foundation, squared off with greenish bars, interspersed with narrow black and white stripes. But the Stuart "hunting plaid" has a green foundation blocked with black and blue crossings, with an overlaid of red and yellow. At the same time there is a "dress Stuart" which has a white foundation, and plaidings of red, blue, black and yellow.

For the most part, these real Scottish plaids are made up of simple colorings, a bright red, a canary yellow, dark purple, dark bluish green, with black, and a white. Of course, wherever the different stripes cross each other in the plaids, a modified blend of these colors will appear. Naturally the dye-stuffs of the ancient clansmen were mixed from the plants native to their beloved heaths. There is the black from the alder tree bark and dockroot; blue from the blueberry and elderberry; crimson from the dark lichens; and green from the brown, thistle, heather and wild cress. The dyes produced in the old ways were very fast in color, and it is said that many of them are still produced in the Highlands.

Naturally, when a design has been as omnipresent as the plaids this season, there is always a great deal of interest aroused as to its origin in history and story. And while it may not always be possible, or even desirable, to reproduce the exact patterns of the various clans, generally the colorings have been more or less faithfully adhered to in order to give to our modern plaiding the name of "Scotch plaid."

Decries "Junk" in Abbey

The proposal to overhaul Westminster abbey so that more of its treasures and beauties may be revealed has led C. W. R. Nevison, an English artist, to remark that the abbey is more like a department store than a church.

The opinion that some of the most beautiful things in the abbey cannot be seen because of the overcrowded memorial statuary is shared by many lovers of the historic building, including Canon Westlake, the abbey historian.

"The proper course is to get rid of some of the ecclesiastical junk at present in the abbey," Mr. Nevison said. "I think it could be cleaned out without offending anybody's susceptibilities. Ultimately many beautiful things could be discovered which cannot now be seen."—Westminster Gazette.

Odd Way to Bring Rain

Rain-making is supposedly achieved by novel methods by peasants in the Punjab. An investigator into customs and methods visited a village where it had not rained for a long time. The anxious women of the village gathered around the officer's tent and requested to be allowed to souse him with water, as they believed that the performance of such a rite would bring down rain at once. The officer refused to be drenched, for two days, but he gave way on the third. Twenty pots of water were poured on the unwilling head of the official outside his tent, and after 24 hours the rain came.

Horse to Live in History

The skeleton of the famous racehorse, Tracery, bred by August Belmont at Lexington, Ky., has been presented to the Yorkshire Philosophical society and is now exhibited in that society's museum at York, England. Tracery won nearly $100,000 in stakes during his racing career. He was sold in 1920 to Señor Unzué of Buenos Aires for $255,000, the largest sum ever paid for a racehorse. He was taken back to England in July, 1923, and died at the Cobham stud, Surrey, four months later.

Newspaper "Elevation"

Little Bobbie Knotts was trying to get a drink, but could not reach the bucket, which sat on the cabinet. So he put a newspaper on the floor and stood on it. When questioned as to why he stood on the newspaper, he said that he couldn't reach the bucket, so he thought the paper would make him higher.—Indianapolis News.

The Need is Very Urgent

An attack of dysentery often results from indigestible food, polluted drinking water, or sudden changes in weather or climate. Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy should be in every home, every traveler's bag, every vacation kit. A valuable medicine, dependable, safe, reliable in emergencies at home or when traveling.—Advertisement.

THE THEATRE

"CONFESSIONS OF A QUEEN"

Victor Seastrom's Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "Confessions of a Queen," comes to the Penniman Allen Theatre, Saturday, August 8th. It is an adaptation of Alphonse Daudet's famous story, "Kings in Exile," and tells first of all the difficulty of keeping a kingdom, and after being in exile, skill necessary to try and keep the same kingdom from coming back into your possession.

Alice Terry plays the Princess Fredericka, who comes to Illyria to marry King Christian. Later she is the Queen and goes through the most trying experiences both in and out of exile.

Lewis Stone is the King Christian, and is fascinating and convincing. Such an able actor as Stone can play any part, but it does seem that he portrays the King roles extraordinarily well.

John Howers as the Prince Alexei runs Stone a close second. He gives a perfect portrayal of the jealous Prince.

Helena d'Algy, Joe Dowling, Frances Hatton, Eugenie Besserer and Otto Hoffman are also importantly cast and each one deserves especial mention.

"PATHS TO PARADISE"

Cleverness takes the place of hokum in this picture of two "crooks" who work in and out of clever situations.

"Paths to Paradise," featuring Betty Compson and Raymond Griffith, was adapted for the screen by Keene Thompson from the play, "The Heart of a Thief," by Paul Armstrong. Clarence Badger directed. Making high-class comedies is nothing new with him—he was with Mack Sennett for years.

Paramount has turned out a lot of great comedies of late—but this one with Betty Compson and the star of "Forty Winks" and "The Night Club!" This picture will be shown at the Penniman Allen theatre, Sunday and Monday, August 9th and 10th.

"THE LITTLE FRENCH GIRL"

Anne Douglas Sedgwick's novel, "The Little French Girl," the present

sensation in the world of literature, comes to the Penniman Allen theatre Wednesday, August 12th, as a Paramount picture that promises to be even more popular than the book.

Herbert Brenon directed the production, which features Alice Joyce, Neil Hamilton, Mary Brian and Esther Ralston. The story is one of Alix Vervier, the little French girl, whose mother's mode of life makes a suitable marriage impossible for her in France. She goes to the home of friends in England. How she finally finds happiness in despite the past and differences in social standards between the two countries makes "The Little French Girl" high class picture entertainment.

Mario Majeroni, Anthony Jovitt, a new screen discovery; Maurice Cannon, Paul Doucet and Jane Jennings are a few of the well known names in the strong supporting cast.

Picked Up About Town

Dad Plymouth declares that when a man has a holl on the back of his neck he knows about how badly a woman feels when her nose is shiny and she can't find a powder rag.

If the coal strike comes and there is a fuel famine, it'll be just like some mean newspaper man to shout, "Keep Cool with Coolidge."

"Some of us can remember," asserts Dad Plymouth, "when the clothes on a wash line weighed more than the clothespin that holds them."

A magazine writer says our fish are vanishing. We don't know. It seems there are just as many suckers as there ever was.

Why is it that a woman always lowers her voice when she asks for something and then raises it when she doesn't get it.

"I've noticed," says Dad Plymouth, "that most of the big jobs are held by fellows whose neighbors said when he was a kid that he'd never amount to anything.

Dad Plymouth wants to know what has become of the old-fashioned preacher who thought he had to yell at the top of his voice in order to put the fear of God into the hearts of his congregation.

"I remember," asserts Dad Plymouth, "when girls used to exercise to improve their complexion. Now some of them are afraid to sneeze for fear they'll blow it off."
