PLYMOUTH BOYS ATTEND OLDER BOYS' CONFERENCE

Eleven Boys from Plymouth took Part in the Conference Which Was Held at Lansing, November 27, 28, 29

The twenty-third annual Older Boys' Conference took place at Lansing, last Friday to Sunday, November 27, 28, 29, under the direction of the Y. M. C. A. There were at this time twenty-three such conferences in North America, of which the one at Lansing was the largest, consisting of over 2,500 boys, who came from all over the state to attend the conference. The purpose of such a meeting is to make stronger and better boys, not only physically, but morally and spiritually.

Upon arriving, each delegate went to the Chamber of Commerce, where he got his house assignment, as everybody was entertained at some private home in Lansing. General sessions were held in Prudden auditorium, Friday afternoon and evening, Saturday forenoon and evening. Sunday morning, each boy attended church with his host or his own church. On Sunday afternoon occurred the closing meeting, which lasted until about six o'clock. There were eleven boys and three men that went from Plymouth. They were: B. J. Holcomb, Paul Lee and Mr. Klecke; Ernest Henry, president of the H-Y Club; Robert Hubert, secretary; Malcolm Cutler, Harley Sallow, Carleton Moore, Harry Miller, as delegates from the H-Y Club; Russell Robinson and Clair Travis, as delegates from the Senior class; Gaylord Sayles, as a delegate from the Baptist church; Wilbur Murphy, as a delegate from the Junior class, and Archie Crum, as a delegate from the Sophomore class.

Tuesday, December 1st, the fifth hour in school, all delegates from Plymouth spoke to the Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth grade boys.

Harry Miller spoke on the general organization of the conference; Archie Crum reported on the address of Friday afternoon by President Spencer of Hillsdale College. He spoke of the four sources of power—(1) from underneath-material power; (2) lateral power—that of friendship and society; (3) power from within or will power; and (4) power from on high or spiritual power. He emphasized the fact that the truly successful man makes use of all the power available to him from each source.

Clair Travis gave a short report on "The Ways of Life," which was given at Lansing by A. E. Roberts of New York. There are different ways of life, the easy and the hard ways, the good and the bad ways. We should take the hard and good way, for even though it is not so pleasant at first, it will show the best man in the end.

Wilbur Murphy and Robert Hubert reported on the first and second discussion groups, which were made up of different delegates and led by Chester Bennett from Ann Arbor. The questions discussed were: "How boys should act toward girls, dancing in school building, joy riding." "Anything is all right if it is of some good to someone else," they concluded.

Russell Robinson summarized the address Saturday morning, by Dr. Charles Gilkey, pastor of Hyde Park church, Chicago, who brought out the difference between rules and principles, and then illustrated in modern terms the three principles of Jesus' life, self-mastery, service and reinforcement.

Harley Sallow gave a report on the idea that was brought out by Mr. Roberts, that men should be like trees to grow up, be strong, clean, not like chaff in a man's hand which can be blown all over the country or can be influenced by any one bad.

Ernest Henry gave a report on World Brotherhood by Harry White, stressing a point of a World Christ.

Malcolm Cutler gave an outline of the Sunday morning service in Central Methodist church of Lansing where Dr. Underwood, president of Chosen College, Seoul, Korea, told of the progress of missionary work in that country.

Next Sunday evening at 7:30, several of the boys will report on the conference, at the union church service in the Methodist Episcopal church.

A CORRECTION

In publishing the list of village presidents in the Municipal Notes, last week, we unintentionally left out the name of W. J. Burrows, who most acceptably served the village as president in 1919, 1920, 1921. We are sorry the mistake happened.

ROLLING OF STEEL BEGINS AT BIG FORD PLANT

Rolling of steel has begun in the new big steel mill of the Ford Motor Company at the River Rouge plant.

The first billets drawn from the furnace were sent through the rollers and emerged in steel bars, destined to become rear axle shafts for Ford cars. These billets are approximately four inches square by fourteen inches in length when they emerge from the furnace at around 1900 degrees Fahrenheit. By the time rolling is completed they have been converted into steel rods slightly more than an inch in diameter and approximately 160 feet in length.

Except for a few officials who were present and the cutting of several short pieces from the first bar, to be retained as souvenirs, the opening of the mill was unmarked. It was significant, however, for it is a new step in Ford development destined to effect a big economy in production and brings the company closer to the realization of its plan to direct within its own organization every step of manufacturing progress from the raw material to the finished product.

In the parlance of the trade, the mill is known as the merchant mill, a name passed down from the early days in steel trade, when the steel bar merchant was expected to handle bars of various sizes.

And this is just what the new mill will do. It will produce bars of various sizes, all of steel made, according to Ford specifications and intended for the manufacture of as many parts to be used in the assembly of Ford cars.

The rolling mill, which has a capacity of handling between 15,000 and 20,000 tons of steel a month, is the first unit of the steel plant to start operations. It will be March or April next year before the plant begins to function as a whole, with open hearth furnaces from which ingots will be cast and the conversion of these into billets which go to the rolling mill.

In the meantime rolling mill operations will be carried on with billets purchased from outside sources. Production will be increased monthly, so that when the remainder of the plant begins to function, the mill will be ready to care for all output of the furnaces.

The steel plant is housed in a building 460 by 1500 feet, with high walls of steel and glass, which provide a maximum of daylight and ventilating facilities. Equipment is the latest in steel mill practice.

The rolling mill, occupying one portion of this, is electrically operated and has what is known as six stands of eighteen-inch rollers and four stands of fourteen-inch rollers.

When the new industry gets into operation as a whole, with everything running from open hearth furnaces to rolling mill, it will present in reality a mammoth monument to Ford economy methods.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vosburgh and little daughter and Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Chambers were Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Runyon at Fenton.

Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present. The bride was a graduate of the class of 1920 of Northville High school, and the groom is well and favorably known in Northville and vicinity. The happy couple will be at home to their friends at 3246 Rochester Ave., Detroit, Michigan, after December 10. Everyone joins in wishing them a long and happy future.

With Christmas but a few weeks away, the average Plymouthite is busy with thoughts of Christmas, and have already starting their shopping. Never before have local merchants had their stocks of Christmas goods on display so early as they have this year, and it looks as if people were beginning to realize the advantage of early selection of gifts. Plymouth merchants are better able than ever this year to supply everything needed in the way of suitable gifts for old and young.

The stores are beginning to take on a holiday attire and some very attractive window displays are being shown.

Every merchant in the village is looking forward to the largest December business in the history of the town. In this week's issue of the Mail, Plymouth merchants are calling attention of buyers to the wisdom of doing their shopping early, and for this reason they are placing their Christmas advertising early this year. For the next two weeks it will be to a decided advantage for our readers to peruse the advertising columns of the Mail very carefully.

Before making your Christmas purchases, look over the stocks of our local merchants. You can do better and save money by trading at home.

DOWNING'S FARM HOME DESTROYED BY SECOND BLAZE

HOUSE, FURNISHINGS LOST IN SUNDAY AFTERNOON FIRE. CARRIED INSURANCE.

James Burrell Downing and their families suffered a second loss by fire late Sunday afternoon, when the James Downing farm home in South Superior township was completely destroyed by fire.

The two families, except Mrs. Downing, Sr., who went to Detroit, Sunday, to visit, were entertaining friends when embers were seen falling from the roof. The fire caught in the roof from the chimney.

The house was a large, old fashioned one that would cost considerable to replace today. The flames, which could be seen for miles, soon brought to the home a number of neighbors who turned their attention to saving household furnishings and clothing, as it was impossible to save the house without more adequate water supply and fire fighting facilities. The blaze had gained considerable headway in the upper portion of the building before it was discovered by the Downings.

Last spring the Downings lost their barn and farm buildings, but work of neighbors saved the house at that time.

Loss was partially covered by insurance.—Daily Ypsilantian-Press.

NEW STORE OPENS

Many people took the occasion to visit the new store, the Palace of Sweets, in the Rea block on Pennington avenue, last Saturday afternoon and evening, when the store was formally opened to the public. All the afternoon and evening, the store was thronged with visitors who expressed their delight with the handsome new store, and took occasion to meet and congratulate the proprietor, Alex Vateck. Souvenirs were given away to those who called.

WIDMAIER-MILLER

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilke, when their niece, Helen A. Miller, was united in marriage to Donald W. Widmaier of Detroit, on Wednesday evening, November 25th, by Rev. Horace Sayles of the Baptist church. They were attended by Kenneth Wilke and Orene Habermehl of Farmington.

The bride was gowned in blown rose georgette, and wore a corsage of bride's roses; the bridesmaid wore powder blue Canton, and a corsage of pink opheila roses. A sumptuous wedding dinner was served.

Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present.

The bride was a graduate of the class of 1920 of Northville High school, and the groom is well and favorably known in Northville and vicinity. The happy couple will be at home to their friends at 3246 Rochester Ave., Detroit, Michigan, after December 10. Everyone joins in wishing them a long and happy future.

The Woman's Club will meet this Friday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. M. S. Stringer on Main street.

1926 MOTOR LICENSES WENT ON SALE TUESDAY

BLACK AND WHITE PLATES FOR NEW YEAR READY FOR ISSUE.

The new 1926 automobile license plates went on sale Tuesday. The plates are to be sold under the same system that has been in use for the last few years, it being a requirement that the owner present his state certificate of title when applying for the new license. In the case of new automobiles application for the title must be made along with that for the new license.

The new plates have white numerals on black background and there are two types, one for pleasure cars and the other for commercial vehicles. The latter style is somewhat higher and narrower than that for passenger vehicles.

Under instructions from the secretary of state, the commercial licenses are to be used for taxicabs, busses, trucks, delivery cars and roadsters with delivery boxes.

The prices for the licenses this year are the same as last and are computed on weight alone, the charge being 55 cents a hundred pounds for pleasure cars. On commercial vehicles the charges are 85 cents a hundred pounds on weights up to 2,500 pounds; 80 cents on weights from 2,500 to 4,000 pounds; $1.00 from 4,000 pounds to 6,000, and $1.20 a hundred pounds on trucks weighing more than 6,000 pounds.

THE SEALS ARE HERE!

Not from Alaska, but direct from the National Tuberculosis Association. More attractive than ever before, for your letters and Christmas packages.

The sale of these Christmas seals commenced Monday, November 30th, and will continue for ten days, or until all are supplied. This year the campaign is under the auspices of the Plymouth High school with auxiliaries in the Kenyon, Cooper, Allen, Bartlett, Newburg, Elm, Waterford and Livonia schools.

Much enthusiasm is manifested thus far in the sale of these seals, the entire proceeds of which go for the care and cure of those suffering from the dread disease, tuberculosis. Seals are also on sale at all the drug stores in the village.

You are urged to buy all you can afford, and then buy some more. Mr. C. H. Bennett is general chairman.

An illustrated lecture by Dr. F. Linsell of India, will be given at the M. E. Community House on Friday evening, December 11th. Dr. Linsell has been a resident of India for many years, and his lecture, "Mystic India" (illustrated), has aroused much interest here. Plymouth citizens were grieved to hear of the death of John E. Wilcox, a former well known citizen of Plymouth, which resulted from fatal injuries, which he received when he was hit by an electric train in Venice, California, where he resided, on Wednesday afternoon, November 25th. Mr. Wilcox resided in Plymouth for a number of years following his removal here from his farm in Livonia township. A few years ago, he moved to Idaho, where he resided for several years before removing to California. Mr. Wilcox was a man of sterling worth and character, and possessed a kindly and genial disposition which won for him a host of friends.

The remains will be brought to Plymouth for interment, and are expected to reach here today, Friday.

We take the following details of the accident from the Venice Evening Vanguard of Thursday, November 26:

Hurled several feet by the step of a two-car Pacific Electric train as he tried to beat the train across the tracks between Washington boulevard and the Venice city hall station late yesterday afternoon, John Wilcox, 80 years of age, of 1608 Electric avenue, Venice, died a few hours later in St. Catherine's hospital, Santa Monica. Internal injuries were believed to have been the cause of death.

Wilcox, according to report, saw the train approaching, but thought that he could get over the rails to the lumber yard on Virginia avenue before the train would reach him.

The impact threw the aged Venetian clear of the train. His head and nose were badly cut and he was believed badly shaken internally. The train stopped within two car lengths of the spot where Wilcox was hit.

Patrolmen Niles and Brown aided the Sharp and Nolan ambulance in carrying Wilcox to St. Catherine's sanitarium. Dr. C. W. Craik was summoned for treatment.

Wilcox expired early in the evening without being unconscious more than a few minutes before death. He complained of great pains and said that he could not breathe.

According to information gathered after the fatal accident, Wilcox had been in the habit of visiting a friend in the lumber yard, and had regularly crossed the tracks where he met his unfortunate end yesterday.

The death-dealing train was operated by Motorman E. Clark and Conductor O. E. Roberts. Both will be hailed as witnesses at an inquest to be held for the Sharp and Nolan funeral parlors, 20 Avenue 17, by the county coroner, Frank Nance.

Directors of the parlors have already informed Nance, and an inquest will be set soon, it is expected. There will also be a post-mortem.

Funeral arrangements are not to be completed until after the inquest fixes the blame in the accident, and the autopsy determines the exact cause of death.

HOW TIMES CHANGE

Already the "feel of Christmas" is getting in the air, and each day now will find it growing stronger. Even though it may not hold the joy for some of our older citizens that it held in the days of their youth, we are safe in saying that not one man or woman in Plymouth would vote to abolish it. We like to think back to Christmas seasons gone by, and especially to compare the customs of celebrating it then with customs of the present day. Time was when it was not considered good form for a young man to give his best girl articles of wearing apparel. It indicated that her people were neglecting to clothe her. His gift had to be an album, a toilet set or something along that line. Today Christmas giving is on a more sensible basis, and gifts of service, gifts the recipient can get some good out of are the most appropriate. Today, too, people buy more for the home than formerly. An odd chair, a new rug, dishes or silverware, labor-saving devices for the house or even new-fangled cooking utensils are favorite gifts now, instead of pictures and gewgaws that did not possess comfort or lighten the household burdens. Give a woman something serviceable to wear or something she can use in her home and you are gladdening her heart. Give a man something for his auto, or something he can wear, besides neckties, and you will win his thanks. Human nature hasn't changed, even if Christmas has. It is only in recent years that we have learned human nature craves something serviceable.

A BRIGHTER OUTLOOK

Great Britain has signed the peace treaties drawn up at Locarno in October, and which have already been signed by France, Germany and Italy. Italy has accepted the debt-funding terms of the United States, and will pay this country in full all that she owes her. The first twelve months of the Dawes plan have passed, and Germany has kept every provision of it, and has paid to the various allied nations more than the billion gold marks demanded of her. So altogether the skies across the sea are brighter than they have been at any time since the armistice was signed. There will be minor internal troubles over there, for each nation has domestic problems to settle, but the outlook for a peace that will last for years is now better than it has been for a generation. In other words, the Locarno pact makes it almost impossible for a serious war to start within the life of the present generation. We know you like to read good news, so we are offering this as the very best news we have been able to print for a long time.

MORE POWER TO THEM

Blessed are those Plymouth citizens who plant trees and shrubs in their yards and along our streets, for future generations will enjoy their thoughtfulness. Blessed are they who appreciate God's gift of birds and flowers and who encourage their growth. Blessed are they who scatter flower seed and keep others from destroying wild flowers along the roadside. Blessed are they who banish bill boards from their property, for they are protectors of outdoor beauty. Blessed are they who keep their property in repair and their houses painted, for they beautify the town in which they live. Blessed are they who speak well of schools and churches and of the men and women who give to their support. Blessed are they who greet the stranger with a smile and their neighbor with a handshake—blessed are they who do all these things, for there shall be joy and happiness in their hearts the whole year round.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving memory of our dear son and brother, Harvey E. Rutenbar, who passed away one year ago, December 3, 1924.

Gone, dear son, gone forever. How we miss your smiling face. But you left us to remember.

None on earth can take your place. You have left this earth of sorrow, And you are free from pain and harm And you rest in peace and comfort In the blessed Savior's arms.

The days are sad without you, And nothing seems just right, A face we dearly loved has gone, A heart so kind and bright.

But there is someone who will linger Around the spot where you are laid, Who would like to scatter flowers On the grave that Christ has made. Sadly missed by his loving parents, sisters and brothers.

SECURING MAHOGANY FOR RADIO CABINETS PERILOUS WORK

RADIO FACTORY TELLS HOW CABINETS ARE MADE.

A staff of explorers and especially trained buyers of mahogany continually plod through the dense, steaming jungles of Central America and Mexico, in search of genuine mahogany that meets the rigid tests of the high specifications for certain radio cabinets.

Little does the average person know of the perilous adventures and difficulties encountered in securing the genuine mahogany, logging it to the coast, where it must be kept in fresh water till the ship in which it is to be carried arrives. This is to avoid the teredo worm, scourge of tropical seas, which attacks all wood, honeycombs it and makes it worthless.

For the exacting manufacturer, the mahogany must come from Mexico or Central America, as it is conceded to be the only true mahogany aside from that on the Gold Coast of Africa. African mahogany is not especially adapted to radio cabinets.

Seventy-eight operations, with as many inspections, are required to convert the rough mahogany logs into satin finished radio cabinets, according to the Atwater Kent Company of Philadelphia. This firm uses an average of 20,000 feet of mahogany a day, approximately four feet to a cabinet.

The process of converting the mahogany logs into cabinets in the Atwater Kent daylight factory, may be separated into three divisions: the wood itself, the construction of the cabinet and the finishing of the cabinet. After the logs arrive in the United States, they are cut into boards and exposed to the atmosphere. When the mahogany boards are first placed in the open, they are almost white, but the action of the elements turns them to a light, salmon pink shading sometimes to a brown, then to the mellow mahogany tone. After the boards are sent to the factory, great care must be exercised to keep the room at a high temperature. Any sudden change—or cold air—will make many of the boards warp, and some snap. After the boards are cut, they are automatically planed, tongued and grooved. High-speed machines drill holes; others round the edges of the cabinets. Large, endless sand belts speed production and make the assembled cabinet smooth as glass. In assembling the cabinet, special care is taken to make the joints tight by dovetailing instead of nailing together. After the cabinet is assembled, it must be water stained, lacquered, rubbed, lacquered and rubbed again and again, until the highest smooth piano finish is obtained. The special preparations of the Atwater Kent Company enable them to bring the full mellowness of the mahogany to the surface and finish the cabinet in such a manner that it gives the same effect as if plate glass were placed over the cabinet to accentuate its beauty.

TEMPLE THEATRE Detroit, Michigan

Harry M. Snodgrass, America's foremost radio artist, headlines the bill at R. F. Keith's Temple Theatre starting Sunday matinee. Mr. Snodgrass is a sensational pianist and is called "The King of the Ivories." He broadcasted from Station WOS at Jefferson City, Mo., and has brought with him to vaudeville, J. M. Witten, the prize winning announcer from that station. The setting for Mr. Snodgrass' act is a faithful reproduction of the radio-telephone room in the dome of the State Capitol at Jefferson City. Countless thousands who have heard him play over the air from that station will undoubtedly be eager to see and hear him. James J. Corbett, former heavy weight champion of the world, and Bobby Barry is announced as second feature. Others include: Albert Whelan, Australian singer and monologist; Sully and Houghton, supported by Edwin Forsburg in "Arms and the Girl;" Loretta Gray Revue, a colorful dance flash; Alice Hamilton and George Hayes in "The Spirit of '76;" Cerro and Moro in "Notes and Things;" Klismet Sisters in feats of strength; A Hal Roach Comedy, "Stratton Blues," featuring Clyde Stark, and the usual screen program.

"Hollywood" for Malta

To meet the keen desire on the part of the British to obtain some new place where films may be made to compete with American films, a suggestion has been made that studios be erected on the island of Malta in the Mediterranean. The journey from London to Malta requires only three days and there are vast tracts on the island awaiting development. It is pointed out that Hollywood can only imitate the "happy hunting ground for the man behind the camera—the eternal East." There is sunlight the year round at Malta, and within a short radius not only the East itself but all the well-known backgrounds of Europe. Film-making in England has been declared hopeless except for the limited possibilities of the studio.

Walking on Springs

Leaping through the air like a kangaroo is the exciting sensation offered to children by the recent invention of shoes with springs. These novel exercising toys are strapped to the feet in the same manner as roller skates, and the wearer can walk, run, jump, or dance on them. The steel springs, while of unusual strength, are extremely elastic. The effect produced is said to be like walking on air. Each shoe has two spiral springs. One is a writer in Popular Science, and the lower end of each is fastened to a sole that prevents the springs from injuring carpets or polished floors. With a little practice, it is said, a child can make enormous leaps.

Pigeons His Pets

Peanuts for pigeons in Grant park, Chicago, cost a pigeon-lover $150 a year. Four or five times daily this gentleman, who is treasurer of the Orchestra Hall association, leaves a sky-scraper overlooking the park, crosses the avenue with bulging pockets of peanuts to ration the birds, many of them of four years' acquaintance. His appearance causes a winged offensive. The benefactor carries a knife with a small, sharp blade, which, as the birds feed, he uses in removing strings entangling their feet and to perform any small bits of necessary surgery. Wherever he travels he feeds pigeons in the parks. He is never feared, whether friend or stranger.

Vessel's Varied Career

The Roosevelt, the famous ship upon which Admiral Peary went to the Arctic in search of the North pole, has had a varied career. She was built in a Maine shipyard. Later she was brought to Puget sound and was converted into a sea-going tug. After this the Roosevelt saw considerable service with the fishing fleets of the Pacific, and now she is taking the place of the electric generating station on Vancouver Island in Puget sound which was recently destroyed by lightning, acting as a floating power house until a new one upon land can be built.

Christmas Gifts in the New York Manner

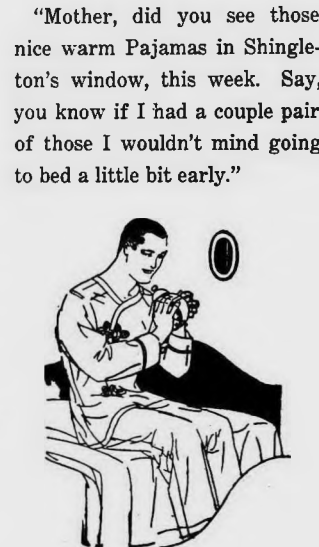

"Here's What I'd Like For Christmas--"

"If any of my female relatives happen to see this, I hope they read it."

"My last year's Christmas gifts were all sunk away in the bottom of my dresser drawer. This year I am going to try to help people out by distributing a few strong hints."

"For example, how nice it would be if someone would present me with some new, flashy neckties! My present supply is all wrinkled, and say I noticed some classy ones in Shingleton's window."

"My Aunt Ella likes to give practical gifts. What could be more appropriate than a nice box of Linen Handkerchiefs. Those with the fancy border like all the boys use now."

"Dad, speaking of Shirts, you should just drop into Shingleton's some day and just examine some of their Shirts. Say, I saw some fancy stripes of the famous Imported English Broadcloth, at $3.00, and just think, there was some neat nice ones as low as $1.95.

"Say, Sis, just a word to the wise is sufficient. Before you buy for me, take a look at some Mufflers at Shingleton's."

"I saw some fancy Wool Hose in Shingleton's window the other day that just begged to be bought. They had an expensive air, but when I looked close I found they were only one dollar a pair."

"While you are looking at footwear, examine some of their Oxfords and Shoes."

"UNIQUE TROUSERS"

"Extra Trousers for work or dress. English cut Trousers and plain bottoms. Prices range from $1.59 to $7.50.

Robert Esch PROPRIETOR

JESSE ZEIGLER, Clerk

British Honored Sons of Benedict Arnold

Very little has been written of Arnold outside of his traitorous conduct in connection with the attempted surrender of West Point to the British, says the Dearborn Independent. Through a correspondence with Major Andre, Arnold, then commanding West Point, offered to surrender to the British; and to consummate the plan Arnold and Andre met at midnight on the shore of the Hudson September 21, 1780. The capture of Andre frustrated the scheme, and Arnold fled to the British sloop of war Vulture.

The British made him brigadier general and he fought the American army at Richmond, Portsmouth and New London, Conn. In December, 1781, he sailed for England with his family, who were pensioned by the British government. He received about $31,755 for his alleged losses in deserting the Americans. Failing to get a position in the army he was forced to take up the trade of merchant. He carried on trade with the West Indies, but returned to London in 1791.

War between France and England exposed his shipping to great risks and Arnold on one occasion was captured by a French ship, but managed to escape. The British government still refused to give him active service in the army and he turned his attention to fitting out privateers against France to recover his lost fortune, but being unsuccessful, weighed down by private debts, and despised by America and the British empire, he sank into a state of acute melancholy, and died June 14, 1801, regretting, it is said, his treason.

His first wife gave birth to three sons. His eldest sons received commissions in the British army; and his second son by his second marriage, inheriting his father's daring and military ability, rose to be a lieutenant general, was made aid de camp to King William IV and was created a knight. Arnold's other children held honorable positions, and one of his grandsons, Capt. William Traill Arnold, a brave fighting man, was killed in the Crimean war.

Seek Lost Italian City

A lost city, sunk in the bay of Naples, 2,500 feet below the surface of the water, is the treasure that will be sought by Hans Hartman, an American deep-sea diver, according to the Rome newspaper, Risorgimento. Diving apparatus, constructed according to Hartman's designs by the Krupp works at Essen, is said to be capable of resisting the enormous pressure of the water at a depth of 12,000 feet. A special oxygen-generating device will permit two occupants of the machine to live for 36 hours, and a special motor-driven propeller will send it to the surface in case the cable breaks. No human diver has previously explored more than 300 feet beneath the surface, according to Hartman, who believes that in future centuries men will derive much of their fuel and even their food from submarine sources.

There will be a dance at Grange hall this Friday, evening. Music by Livingston's orchestra.

It is about as hard to find real errors in the work of the editor of this paper as it is to get anything on a bank, but we had a chance to crow last week, when he accidentally left out the name of one of our recent village presidents from the published list. The editor is to be congratulated that such slips are so rare.

The Detroit Edison Company is installing our traffic lights. One is already hung at the corner of Main and Ann Arbor streets. It will be some time yet before they are working, because some of the necessary cable has not arrived.

The village crew is putting in two short stretches of storm sewer—one on South Harvey street and one north of Blanche street up an alley—Neither is over two hundred feet long.

The yard in front of the new village warehouse has been filled with chinders. If you haven't seen this place recently you won't recognize it.

The carpenters are again working on the inside of the hall.

Theodore street has been re-cleared. It had hard usage while the Main street crossing was closed and badly needed repairs.

Nolan's sewer crew is working by Kellogg Park on Ann Arbor street. There is a bigger crew working, and much faster progress is being made.

A. R. Crow's men on the sewage disposal plant have been making fine headway. The open weather has been favorable for concrete work, and a large portion of the filter bed walls and floor, and part of the floor of the bludoff tank are poured.

We have had complaints about double parking on Penniman avenue, one of them, as it happens, from one of those who like to double park. It is illegal to stop an automobile outside the line of parked cars under any circumstances except under police supervision. Penniman avenue, although a forty-foot pavement is none too wide for ordinary travel, and when someone thoughtlessly and selfishly stops his or her car in the line of traffic, the whole street is automatically blocked. I guess we will have to start giving severe fines for this offense. We have been very lenient in the matter for a long time.

PERRINSVILLE

Don't forget the play at the Perrinsville hall, Tuesday, December 8th, given by the Clarenceville ladies. George Hix had the misfortune to have his thumb and first finger cut very badly while buzzing wood. Is there any more bad luck to go to George?

Mrs. Charles Priebe is slowly recovering from pleurisy and pneumonia. Mrs. Grace Hanchett, who has been ill, is able to be around again.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kubik and daughter, Margaret, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Billie Adams of Detroit.

Thanksgiving visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Erlend Bridge at Plymouth were: Mr. and Mrs. Baehr, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Herje, Glen Matvea, Miss Charlotte Baehr and Clinton Baehr.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bock's baby is suffering with abscesses in his ears. The Hawthorne Club House has been closed for the season, and all help laid off until the first of March.

D. Hanchett and Miss F. Slanks spent the week-end at Eagle.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hanchett and baby, Dora Lee, and Lawrence Hanchett were Lansing visitors, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wilson called on Mr. and Mrs. Y. Steinbauer, Saturday evening.

Mrs. E. Steinbauer and Mrs. Arthur Hanchett were in Wayne on business, Monday.

The Perrinsville L. A. S. will meet at Mrs. Emma Steinbauer's next Wednesday. Meeting will begin promptly at one o'clock.

Dr. J. E. Martin will be with us for service, Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. Everyone be sure and hear our new district superintendent.

The official board of the church will meet immediately after church service.

Carpet of Trees

Woven mats of willow twigs, which take root and grow when immersed in water, are being sunk by the government near Memphis, Tenn., to curb the Mississippi.

The mats are weighted down by stones. Young trees grow up from them, which prevent the river washing away the shore.

The Time is Here Perhaps wise old Mother Nature decided to make our girls, most of them at least, slightly knock-kneed because she foresaw a time, viz., the present, when a little friction as they walked around would be badly needed to supply warmth and keep up the circulation.—Ohio State Journal.

Listen in on Oakland Owners. Tributes such as these are pouring in by thousands from new Oakland Six owners. These owners are not merely Oakland friends, they are Oakland fans—as enthusiastic over the car as over their favorite performer in sports. And no wonder! The new Oakland Six—priced from $70 to $350 lower—embodies more than 100 improvements, including Air Cleaner, Oil Filter, Full Pressure Oiling System, Four Wheel Brake refinements and the Harmonic Balancer—an advanced engineering feature imparting unmatched freedom from vibration. As one owner says, "The car has everything!"

How often have your fingers ached with the cold—in spite of heaviest gloves. The gloves were to blame, not faulty blood circulation. For driving gloves do not have to be bulky for warmth, if made right.

Here is a glove made from imported cape leather, that is warm in any weather—yet smart as any street glove. Completely lined with pure lamb's wool (warmer than any fur). The finger seams are sewed a special way to prevent cramping while you drive, and the fingers are cut a fraction larger throughout for better circulation.

M. S. C. MAN PUBLISHES FARM MARKETING BOOK.

A review of the entire field of agricultural marketing is given in a new book on the subject just written by Prof. J. T. Horner, of the Michigan State College economics department.

While the book covers everything from preparation for market to the final disposition of the product, it places special emphasis upon the production problems in relation to marketing, a phase of the subject given too little attention in the past. Standardization of product and care in producing and handling are brought out in special chapters.

M. S. C. TO BROADCAST FARM RADIO SCHOOL

FIVE COURSES ANNOUNCED FOR SERIES FROM WKAR BEGINNING ON JANUARY 11.

Five separate courses, each having its own night of the week, will be included in the farm radio school, which is to be broadcast from the Michigan State College, station WKAR, beginning on Monday, January 11.

The school will run for twelve weeks, or throughout the months of best radio reception. Experience of the college radio school a year ago showed that farmers, as a rule, are too busy with spring work after about April 1 to listen regularly to radio courses. This fact, together with the better reception conditions of the winter months, caused authorities at M. S. C. to book the school earlier this year.

The plan of the courses will be different from that of the first school last spring. Instead of devoting one or two weeks to each subject, individual courses will run through the entire twelve weeks, one night each week being allotted to each. This plan, it is felt, will better serve the needs of both listeners and broadcasters.

Subject matter for the five courses and their nights will be as follows: Home economics, Mondays; animal husbandry, poultry and veterinary medicine, Tuesdays; gardening and horticulture, Wednesdays; and farm crops, Fridays. The lectures will begin at 7:15, eastern standard time, and continue until 8:00 o'clock. From two to four speakers will be scheduled for each night.

A radio school catalogue, containing detailed schedules of all lectures, the subjects to be discussed, and information about registration, is being mailed out to hundreds who enrolled in last year's farm school, and to others who are interested in agricultural radio courses.

AROUND ABOUT US

The First State Bank of Milford, has reached the million dollar mark.

William H. Phillips, a former well known resident of Northville, died at his home in Highland Park, November 19th.

The Livingston County Poultry Association will hold their annual show at Brighton, December 9, 10 and 11. A large exhibit is looked for by the officers of the association.

Six hundred licenses were granted deer hunters from Oakland county this year, 200 more than ever before. There should be quite a depletion in the deer population of the state this year, if they all get their quota.

An old teacher's contract was found by a family in Highland in which the lady agreed to teach the school in the West Highland district for ten weeks. The contract was dated June, 1853, and the exorbitant salary named was one dollar and fifty cents a week.

The Rochester Era of last week announced that Hall Brothers of Detroit had purchased some land near that place and were erecting a ski jump to be of steel construction and 130 feet in height. A club house will be erected and ski club organized.—Northville Record.

Plymouth friends will be pleased to learn that Miss Neva Schrader, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Schrader of Northville, and former Plymouth resident, who is attending Glendale College, at Glendale, Ohio, has been chosen editor-in-chief of the school annual, The Glendalian.

Hugh Ward of Fowlerville, entered the winning litter of pigs in the state "ton litter" contest held last summer by the animal husbandry department of the Michigan State College. The litter consisted of 13 O. I. C. pigs with a total weight of 3,025 pounds when they were 180 days old.

The deer which have been roaming unmolested in Livingston county for several years are becoming obnoxious to farmers in the region of Pinckney and neighboring towns. A large buck has recently been amongst a flock of sheep owned by Fred Burgess and has chased and tossed some of the flock doing considerable damage. As deer are protected in Livingston county at all times of the year, Mr. Burgess is wondering how he is going to protect his property against further damage and loss.—Brighton Argus.

Mrs. Ruth Crowe of Northville, had the distinction Thursday of being the first woman to serve in Wayne Circuit Courts as a one-woman jury. Mrs. Crowe was selected by agreement of defense and plaintiff's counsel to hear a $50,000 damage suit brought by Miss Katherine May Mitchell, 21, of Littlefield, Conn., against Frank H. Boyer and his chauffeur. Miss Mitchell charged she was struck by the Boyer car New Year's Eve, 1923, and was confined to hospitals for ten weeks as the result of injuries suffered. Mrs. Crowe awarded Miss Mitchell a verdict of $8,000. This ratified an agreement reached with an insurance company out of court.—Detroit Times.

Today's Reflections

A man can smell with his nose, but if you will notice that's where a woman shines.

By this time every man in Plymouth knows whether or not the moths enjoyed his overcoat last summer.

The approach of Christmas reminds more than one man that about all he saved during the year was some daylight.

Wonder why the pant makers are not as careful about putting on buttons as the dealers are in putting on the price tags.

We overheard a Plymouth man say yesterday that if more mothers were strappers we'd have fewer flappers.

The world is still full of fellows who feather their own nest by robbing some other bird.

And still one doesn't have to be so old to remember the time when a nickel would buy a ham sandwich.

Another reason why Plymouth is a good town to live it is because nobody's dinner bell ever rings a false alarm.

A thief may have honor in some things, a deadbeat may have charity, but a common gossip has no redeeming trait.

The reason some Plymouth men do not cut their own hair is they're afraid they might amputate the last lock.

We also want to add that the modern girl knows as much about a needle as the modern boy knows about a saw-buck.

The Colorado woman who killed 140 rattlesnakes in one day should be given a prohibition enforcement job.

Another reason why most Plymouth men object to working fourteen hours a day is because a fellow is too tired at the end of it to boast about how much he has done.

Don't raise your boy to be a burglar. He would have to be out late at night and in all kinds of weather and might catch pneumonia.

We've a lot of chronic complainers around Plymouth, but we've never yet heard of one of them complaining about his tax assessment being too small.

Every man thinks he can cure a cold and raise a family until he gets one of his own.

Don't Let Your Fuse Blow

It's annoying to have a fuse blow in the midst of your work, but don't forget that it does so for your protection. You have overloaded the circuit and created a fire hazard.

The ordinary light outlet will safely carry a load of 1000 watts. Don't put more upon it. The electric appliances that you use have their capacity in watts stamped on them, so you can't go astray. If you find that you wish to use more than you should on one outlet, have an additional outlet put in.

Hard to Account for Hobbies of Collectors

You can understand a person collecting china or coins or stamps or snuff boxes. These are objects of beauty, or of any rate of interest. Birds' eggs, butterflies, or beetles form interesting collections and teach natural history, while such objects as playing cards, snuff mezzotints, or enamels have at least historic interest.

But of late years many people have abandoned the more ordinary forms of collecting in favor of gathering together all sorts of freakish objects which do not appear to have either beauty or intrinsic value, and the gathering of which at much expense both of time and money looks like sheer waste of both these commodities.

For instance, in a dully paper certain individuals have been boasting of their collections of match boxes, one correspondent declaring that he has over 300 different specimens.

No doubt the collection gives him a certain amount of pleasure, but what will his heirs think of it? Would my museum say "thank you" for it?

But the collector of match boxes shows more discrimination than the man who has spent half a lifetime and goodness knows how much money in traveling all over the world and collecting water from each river he comes across.

Out of each stream he takes a sample in a small bottle, which is then sealed and labeled. He has already hundreds of these bottles, and the number constantly grows.

A hobby that is worse than useless is the collection of title pages. This is a form of curiosity of considerable antiquity, and is the reason why so many early printed books lack their title pages. Thousands of the rarest books have been mutilated in this way, the classical authors suffering more than others for the reason that their title pages were so often fine steel plates.

Helium for Longevity

Helium, the sun element, is now a commercial product in relation to longevity. It is offered in bottles as an aerated table water. Claimed to be the intrinsic factor of most of the health springs, helium in this impregnated water, is said to prevent the clogging of the vascular glands normally responsible for the nutrition of the body. If they become debilitated or functionless there is senility and the phenomena characteristic of certain chronic complaints. Vital statistics gathered in the vicinity of some of these springs are very interesting—accounting in one instance for so few as 20 octogenarians in a population of 521. The difficulty of obtaining a supply of helium at an economic price has held back its therapeutic applications. It is now available at a figure which permits its sale in England in aerated water at about 10s 6d per dozen bottles.—London Times.

Kings Made Sea Popular

Do you know why you go to the sea shore to spend your summer vacation? It is because the sea shore was made fashionable by royalty.

There was a time when no one ever thought of spending a holiday by the sea. Such a thing was unheard of. The country and inland watering places were then in favor. Then came a change.

George III of England became ill and, according to Tit-Bits, was advised by his physicians to go to Weymouth-by-the-sea. Instantly the town came into favor. Later George IV patronized Brighton, and the resort became famous. And from then on seaside vacations became increasingly popular.

Protestants Visit Pope

Among the hundreds of thousands who, during the year of pilgrimage, sought audience with the pope, have been many Protestants, whose requests have been received quite as hospitably and granted quite as quickly as those of Catholics. Especially notable, in this respect, were two Scandinavian pilgrimages. The first contained 400 Catholics and 40 Protestants; the second, 30 Catholics and 180 Protestants. The Protestants, among them several pastors, were regularly inscribed as Pilgrims and were given a special welcome by the pope in his informal address.

Wise Child

The attitude of so many foreigners across the seas toward Americans demonstrates the truth of the proverb about fair-weather friends, and reminds one of little Billy.

Billy's uncle paid him a visit. When he was leaving, Billy was playing out in front of his home with a group of boys, so his uncle gave him a dime, saying: "You have lots of playmates, Billy; are they all your friends?"

"I was just playing with them," he replied, putting the dime in his pocket, "but they'll all want to be my friends now."

Escaped Russian Prison

After 11 years' imprisonment in Russia, during which he made several unsuccessful attempts to escape, Paul Cons, sculptor, recently reached Bonn. During the Russian campaign of the German army in August, 1914, Cons was wounded and taken prisoner. When he recovered, he says, he was assigned to a Russian working squad and put at hard labor. His repeated attempts to escape were frustrated until this year, when Cons and three companions succeeded in crossing the border.

WRITER NO FRIEND OF HOUSEHOLD PET

One Might Almost Think He Doesn't Like Cats.

Of all the impostors who sponge upon the kindness and forbearance of humanity, the cat is the only one that has no single redeeming feature, writes Nell Bell in the London Mail.

How long ago the cat came in from the wild to man's fireside no man may now even hazard a guess; but the only sure thing about that invasion is that the cat slunk in to serve its own selfish ends.

In the makeup of this sponging and hypocritical egotist is no particle of gratitude, of affection, of faithfulness, of pluck, or of honesty.

You may lavish love on one of these beasts, give it the best of fare, the easiest chair, the warmest corner of the hearth, put up with its contemptuous stare, its minding gait and its evil temper for ten years; and then if you fall on hard times, this creature of mere appetite will leave you for the hand of any stranger that offers it food. Rats will indeed leave a sinking ship. The cat quits it at first sign of a leak.

The loving hand that has fed and cared for one of these cringing gluttons for a dozen years is no more sacred to it than the muzzle of a curious pup. It will turn and read either with an equal abandon and zest at the slightest threat to its comfort.

The fact that cats were once worshipped in Egypt seems somehow to have become a racial memory with these animals. The haughty and insolent stare of a cat in possession of the best chair would provoke an angel to slaughter. A cat would not give up its seat to dying man; it would rob a sick child of its milk.

History is full of the noble deeds of dogs, of horses, of lions, of elephants—in fact, of most of the animals of the world. You may search the pages of history in vain for one instance of nobility, of faithfulness, or even affection to put to the credit of the cat.

George Wither, the Elizabethan poet, wrote "Hang sorrow; care will kill a cat." But, of course, the point is, as the genial Wither very well knew, cats don't care.

The really curious thing about the whole business is that people in their hearts are only too conscious of the cat's unloveliness; the most obnoxious thing one can say about another person, is, "What a cat!"

Reports Eskimos Dying Out

Dr. D. E. Scott, who recently returned from Edmonton, Alberta, after one year at Aklavik, in the delta of the Mackenzie river, predicted that not many years would elapse before the Eskimos would be exterminated by disease through adopting white man's ways of living. Eskimos and Indians of the delta are suffering from intestinal parasitic attacks, due to eating raw fish, rabbits and other meats, said the doctor, but these are not so serious a problem as cancer and appendicitis, which are becoming prevalent. Since the Eskimos have been living in cabins and shacks instead of snow houses, as in the old days, tuberculosis has ravaged them. Ninety per cent of the delta people had symptoms of tuberculosis, he asserted.

Noble Koreans Paupers

The Korean nobility, with the exception of a few propertied peers, is reported to be suffering from extreme poverty. Several of the nobles, who were once wealthy, are now working as cart pullers and performing other menial tasks as the only means of escaping starvation. At the time of the annexation of Korea to Japan, about sixty of the leading Koreans were created peers and received property from the Japanese government. Most of them ran through their property rapidly. Recently 30 of the impoverished Korean nobles sent a petition to the Japanese government asking for financial assistance.

Acquitted

Bill Austin, star clarinetist with the Elks' orchestra at the Catalina (Cal.) convention, decided he'd take up the saxophone. He thought he was doing fine until some of the neighbors came in and protested.

"For heaven's sake stick to your clarinet; that sax is no good. They must have sold you a lemon!" "That must be it!" exclaimed Bill. "I thought it was my fault, but if the sax is a lemon, no wonder the notes are sour."

May "Fingerprint" Babies

An increase in the number of deserted babies in Ireland prompted the union commissioners to order that finger prints be taken of babies under three months of age who are discharged from the maternity hospital of Pelletstown. The action was inspired by a letter from Miss Duggan, a woman barrister, who pointed out that such a scheme would aid the police in discovering the mother or foster mother of a deserted child.

Greater Church Comfort

Some of the Lutheran churches of the country, in an effort to increase the summer attendance at church and Sabbath schools, are urging the adoption and installation of ice-cooled ventilation systems to compete with theaters which have adopted that modern comfort as a means of drawing the crowds.

Late Discoveries That Delight Antiquarians

American visitors, who have done Europe and have seen all the cathedrals, ruined castles and museums, must return to see the collections that the various countries are digging out of the soil, says a writer in the New York Herald Tribune.

Sir Arthur Keith, the famous anthropologist, declared recently, after workmen had unearthed the shoulder blade of a mammoth that roamed the Thames valley 10,000 years ago: "This is just another bit of evidence that we in London are living over an old British museum." Professor Paribeni has just returned to Rome, after a museum trip to Tripolitania and states that the excavations at Leptis Magna have disclosed finds equal to any in Italy. Bulgarian peasants, working outside the village of Vulchidrum, accidentally dug up a golden vase weighing 390 ounces of 24 carat of rare Asiatic origin and unique of its kind.

Workmen have excavated among the ruins of Richborough castle, near Deal, in England no fewer than 8,500 Roman coins only three feet from the surface, some as fresh as if just from the mint, and at Ospringe nearby, an old Roman cemetery has been found and sixty beautiful pieces of pottery in fine preservation and also thirty skeletons of men who may have formed part of Julius Caesar's invading army.

THE THEATRE

"A SLAVE OF FASHION"

Clothes, clothes, clothes. The wail of all women be they rich or poor. Windows full of clothes to attract them: advertisements of the most appealing sort to intrigue them because for generations that has been the thing to which they have been most susceptible.

There are women who starve their very souls—for clothes.

There are others who go hungry to satisfy their appetite for—clothes.

"A Slave of Fashion" is in line with this most feminine of all yearnings. This Hobart Henley production made by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is coming to the Penniman Allen-theatre on Saturday, December 5th. It is from the original story written by Samuel Shipman, adapted and made into continuity by Bess Meredyth.

Norma Shearer is the star of the production, while Lew Cody is featured. Others important in the cast are Vivia Ogden, Mary Carr, Miss Dupont, James Corrigan and Sidney Bracy.

"ROMOLA"

So many motion pictures are made each year that in the grist of a year's film entertainment a production has to be superlatively good for it to stand out in bold relief. Such a production is "Romola." Lillian Gish's latest picture, which comes to the Penniman Allen theatre Sunday and Monday, December 6th and 7th. "Romola," a film version of George Eliot's immortal novel, is in fact a milestone of film progress. It surpasses anything heretofore seen in point of beauty.

Never before have we seen such gorgeous settings, such use of shadows, such completeness of feeling for old-world grandeur, such detail in the working out of art objects. The inspiration, of course, was present in that the story was laid in the Florence of the Renaissance, but nevertheless the director, Henry King, and his corps of technical experts are deserving of all the praise one can bestow.

Just beauty, however, is only one feature of "Romola"—it has also great drama and great players to interpret it. What a cast! Lillian Gish, Dorothy Gish, Ronald Colman, William H. Powell, Charles Lane, Herbert Grimwood and a host of others not entirely distinguishable because they are Italian actors with the usual difficult nomenclature.

The Gish sisters are together in this picture for the first time since "Orphans of the Storm," and again they show that team-work is a fine art in itself. Lillian, of course, is Romola, and Dorothy appears as Tessa, the ill-the peasant girl who lives so happily until she falls in love with the wicked Tito, and then is swept into tragedy. Both of the girls look more radiantly beautiful than ever before, and it is a delight to see them together again.

Ronald Colman, who was the hero in Miss Gish's "The White Sister," again demonstrates that he is an actor of fine bearing with a nice repression that is most pleasing and rather flattering to the audience. William H. Powell does the villain role with real suavity, and you rather like him after all; a fascinating performance.

The story of Romola is especially adaptable for screen use, and while it might be called a costume picture, the characters are such that you have no trouble keeping their identity in mind, the chief fault with films that are laid in the period of silks and plumes. "Romola" takes place in 1492, and they didn't wear plumes then to speak of.

The picture is released by Metro-Goldwyn and was made by Inspiration Pictures. Charles H. Duell, Jr. President.

"WILD WEST"

A land rush with 12,000 men, women and children participating, is one of the many big scenes and events in "Wild West," the Pathe-picture featuring Jack Mulhall and Helen Ferguson at the Penniman Allen theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, December 9th and 10th. The events of the prologue happen twenty years before the action of the main story, which is concerned with the romance and adventures of the two people whose identities get tangled in their childhood.

One of these is Jimmy Whitehawk, educated at Carlisle and a prosperous rancher. Jimmy is believed to be part Indian, while Bob Miller, adopted by the three owners of the 101 Ranch, is really the half breed. Unknown to anyone but the old Indian squaw who changed them as they slept, these two men are half brothers.

The leading feminine character in "Wild West" is Polly Breen, star of a circus and beloved by all.

When Jimmy and the cowboys from his ranch attend the performance, Polly's elephant act especially thrills Jimmy, who can ride any bucking horse or mule. This performance of the daring Polly provides one of the big thrills of "Wild West" and also serves as a romantic introduction of the hero to the heroine, roles played by Jack Mulhall and Helen Ferguson.

BUY 228 ACRES NEAR WAYNE

DONOHUE AND ADAMS BELIEVE
MICHIGAN ROAD WILL PROSPER FAR OUT.

In the belief that the village of Wayne, as a suburb of Detroit, will eventually come into its own as an industrial development, the Donahue-Adams Co. Detroit subdividers, have acquired and platted 238 acres on both sides of Michigan avenue, east of Wayne. The property, known as Avondale Park Subdivision, includes what was once one of the largest stock farms in the state, and has been platted to provide business frontage on Michigan avenue and residential lots throughout the remainder.

"Wayne, with the development of Michigan avenue as a 204-foot, two-way traffic, super-highway to the village from Detroit, the paving and grade separation of Wayne road, north and south, through the community and its other shipping advantages is, in my personal belief, strategically situated for industrial development," said A. F. Nerlinger, of the Donahue-Adams Co.

"The village is 18 miles west of Detroit, on the highway and railroad route to Chicago.

"Detroit's first zone of development is encompassed by the ten-mile circle. Its second and present zone of upbuilding is in the belt made by the ten-mile and fifteen-mile circles, because of the establishment of rapid transit provision on Michigan, Woodward and Gratiot avenues.

"With Henry Ford's vast holdings along the thoroughfare and community developments such as Springwells, Dearborn and Inkster, there really is but little Michigan avenue frontage left for public acquisition at subdivision sale."—Detroit News.

FREE LOTS AND THE LAW

The new Michigan platting law is expected to help put the lid on free lot schemes of land sale. The law gives wide power to township boards to disapprove of plats until streets have been graded or cindered and until sidewalks have been constructed, and giving those boards also authority to reject plats in which residential lots of less than forty-foot width are provided.

WINTER BUILDING ACTIVITIES

GOING FORWARD IN PLYMOUTH

An Unusual Amount of Building Is Reported
For Plymouth and Vicinity.

With the coming of winter months, the volume of building in Plymouth and vicinity is not slowing up. For the first time in years, the building of homes and stores is going ahead as if the thermometer was standing at summer rates instead of at winter rates. There has been a lot more done in putting in foundations and cement work with the thermometer standing at freezing than in former years, and it looks as though we would have them building right through the winter. Just look around and you will see at least a dozen houses that are started, and it is now after the first of December. The outlook is good for 1926, and if people are wise this will make Plymouth at least 50 per cent larger when we check up next December. We have everything that anybody wants:

Sewers, gas, the finest spring water and electricity. Not going to be, but we have them now. We have transportation to the heart of downtown Detroit. One hour and twenty minutes is the running time, and over cement roads all the way. When the big Realtors tell you that they are going to have so and so, tell them to look around them and they will see a lot of fine homes and such in Plymouth. Tell them to keep their eye on Plymouth and forget that they will have to wait two or three years for so-called improvements to mature. We have them now, and our tax rate is as low as any other in the county. Just keep it in mind when you are talking to others that you have the finest home town in Michigan.

REDFORD TO BE MERGED WITH DETROIT JAN. 15

Jan. 15, 1926, has been set as the final day for the Village of Redford. After then it will exist no more as a separate town.

Its merger with Detroit, which has been under consideration since the voters last October approved annexation of 16.4 square miles of Redford Township, including the village of Redford and the unincorporated villages of Brightmoor and Stratmoor with an estimated total population of 30,000, has been arranged.

Too hasty a certification of the election result with the Secretary of State at Lansing, would have brought about a sudden demise for Redford and would have caused a muddled state of affairs under which the 1925 taxes would not have been collectable in the district annexed either by the township or by Detroit. So the Board of Supervisors postponed certification until Jan. 15. Redford taxes unpaid after Jan. 10 will be delinquent and will then be collectable by Detroit.

Village Began in 1909.
From an obscure hamlet in 1909, when H. Perrin Burgess, the first president, took office, Redford grew to a town with a $5,000,000 assessed valuation, bonded debt of $247,000, sinking fund of $18,000, 10 schools, a city hall, public library, and 3,000 population. At the same time, its neighboring communities grew even faster.

The greater part of Redford's bonded debt is due to the installation of water mains for which $150,000 was appropriated. These mains will be formally taken over by the Detroit Water Board on Jan. 15. The Public Lighting Commission of Detroit will take over the street lights; Detroit's welfare bureau will take over the duties of caring for the unfortunate in Redford; the Department of Public Works will take over the streets; the Police and Fire departments will take over the Redford facilities for these services and extend Detroit protection to the new territory; the Board of Education will take over the schools.

Except for the taking over of the books and records by the City controller, the absorption of Redford will be a gradual affair, especially as concerns the Department of Public Works. According to the Election Commission, it will probably be a year or two before all the details of transfer have been completed.

Officers to Quit.
With the ringing down of the curtain on Redford's separate existence January 15th, however, present township officials, the village officials and the school board members will all relinquish their positions. The outgoing village officers are:

George W. Burt, president; Mrs. Anna Bradish, clerk; Donald Stringer, treasurer; Fred Hantz, assessor; Frank Elwell, T. F. Mueller, Harry Williams, Edward Myers, Henry J. Steffen and Lewis Becanson, trustees; Earl R. Laing, president; Edward Dawson, secretary, and George Vetal Robert Shaw and M. Smith, members of the school board.

None of the present township officers lives in the portion of the township not annexed to Detroit, so that an entirely new set of township officers will have to be named. The outgoing ones are Jas. Cooley, supervisor; Ross B. Northrop, clerk; Thomas Sherwood, treasurer, and George Vetal, justice of the peace. To take their places between January and April, when there will be a new election of township officers, appointments of people living in the unannexed territory will be made.

Only Four Presidents.
Mr. Burt, who was the fourth president of the village of Redford and will be the last one, is completing his seventh year in that office. His predecessors were H. Perrin Burgess, George C. Burgess (a brother of the former), and Bert High. The old settlers of Redford district included the Burgesses, the Burrs, the McIntyres, the Wilmarths and the Houghtons.

The record of the growth of the village of Redford from 1918, when Mr. Burt took office, to the present, is as follows:
1919—Valuation, $1,343,150; tax rate, 15; tax, $20,147.
1920—Valuation, $3,501,940; tax rate, 15; tax, $52,529.
1921—Valuation, $3,762,700; tax rate, 12; tax, $45,159.
1922—Valuation, $3,885,578; tax rate, 15; tax, $58,283.
1923—Valuation, $4,058,080; tax rate, 15; tax, $61,325.
1924—Valuation, $4,367,160; tax rate, 15; tax, $65,280.
1925—(Est.) valuation, $5,000,000; tax rate, 17; tax, $85,000.—Detroit News.

NO SALES ON SUNDAY

Ethics was the subject of a recent meeting of the Orlando, Fla., Board. Owners of property are urged not to accept small binders because registration of the contract prevents the sale to any other person, and the giver of the small binder can let the property go unsold for a long time, as long as the contract runs.

Selling real estate on Sunday was condemned.

The Realtors pledged their support of opposition to giving commissions to anyone who is not a licensed real estate operator or agent.

One firm of Orlando is now 100 per cent Realtor, twenty-two members of the staff having been allowed membership in the Board at a recent meeting.

FLORIDA BROADCASTS

The Florida Association of Real Estate Boards has sent out a letter requesting the co-operation of real estate boards throughout the country in preventing operators from preying on the uninformed public in the matter of Florida land.

The recent revision of the license law, effective from September 30th, is a protective measure.

Vigilance committees of local Florida boards are co-operating with the state association in enforcing the law.

When cases of misrepresentation or fraud or suspected unethical practice in the promotion of Florida land sales are reported, the association asks that sufficient facts be given so that an investigation can be made and proper action taken.

The last suggestion in the letter asks that everyone going to Florida be instructed to consult a Realtor.

CHURCH GREETINGS

The parlors of the First Presbyterian Church were elaborately and tastefully decorated Tuesday evening with baskets of cut flowers and ferns and were made cozily home-like with rugs and shaded lamps, the occasion being a welcoming reception given by members of the church and congregation to the newly installed pastor, Rev. S. Conger Hathaway and his family. A number of prominent members were in the receiving line and others introduced the numerous guests as they arrived.

Early in the evening, Mrs. A. F. Bruske, general chairman of the committee of arrangements, with a few well chosen words on behalf of the women of the congregation, and as a token of their esteem, presented Mrs. Hathaway with a dozen beautiful pink roses.

After the guests had all arrived, Professor H. C. Lott acted as chairman of the evening and called upon James R. Breaky to open the program with a piano solo, which was very enthusiastically received. Mr. Breaky graciously responding to an insistent encore. Prof. Lott, in his happy way, then introduced the speakers after he had very ably stated the purpose of the meeting and had eloquently voiced the cordial welcome which the entire church desired to convey to their new leader and his family. Greetings from the several churches were extended by Rev. H. C. Colburn of the First Congregational Church, Dr. Dunning, of the First Methodist Church, Rev. Hurton S. Levering, of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, and Rev. W. R. Shaw of the First Baptist Church. Mr. F. H. Nissly welcomed the newcomers on behalf of the business men of the community, showing his ready acquaintance and particular good wishes by calling each member of the family by name—not even omitting Stephen Jr.

Rev. Hathaway was then called upon to respond, which he did in a hearty manner and with a deep feeling of appreciation. He said that his emotions had been deeply stirred by such evidence of cordiality and good will shown him by the representative citizens of Ypsilanti and the members of his church.

Dainty refreshments were then served by the women of the congregation. Altogether there was a spirit of cordiality and united good feeling manifested by all present such as bodes well for the continuous harmony and progress of the church under the newly established relationship of pastor and people.—Daily Ypsilanti-Press, Wednesday, November 25.

Dr. Liberty Hyde Bailey, former dean of agriculture at Cornell University, author, lecturer, and one of the world's leading figures in agriculture, will be a speaker at the annual Farmers' Week to be held at the Michigan State College from February 1 to 5 this winter.

Although the list of speakers for the big rural conference is far from complete, several men of national prominence have already been announced. In addition to Dr. Bailey, C. W. Warburton, federal director of agricultural extension work, Washington, D. C., and J. D. Willard, director of extension work at the Massachusetts Agricultural College, have accepted invitations to address the Farm Week crowds.

A score of other speakers, from both inside and outside the state, will be listed on the general programs for the week. Announcements will be made later, as these men are definitely scheduled.

Prominent among the many special exhibits for the week will be a crops show, featuring a state potato show, the competitive exhibits of the Michigan Crop Improvement Association, and a special corn borer display. A poultry and egg show, and special horticultural displays in honor of the official opening of the M. S. C.'s new horticultural building, will also be of special interest.

for the 8th consecutive year at the National Automobile Shows

Again Buick has won first place in the motor car industry. This year, as in every one of the preceding seven, the public has invested more dollars in Buick automobiles than in other cars built by any member of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

This entitles Buick to first choice of display space at the National Automobile Shows in New York and Chicago.

For eight years Buick has dominated quality motor car sales, enjoying nearly a decade of leadership, while a host of other fine cars were striving for the place of honor held by Buick.

A better idea of the magnitude of this Buick achievement may be obtained when you consider that to duplicate it, a motor car would need to capture first place now, then hold it continuously until 1934.

To have won the lion's share of public preference, year after year, for so long, conclusively shows superior merit in the Buick product.

Buick has built a better motor car, and public recognition has followed—has singled it out as the one car among all—which contains in the greatest measure the essentials of dependability, economical and luxurious motoring.

ELM

The Parent-Teacher association of Elm school met Tuesday evening, Deember 1st. The meeting was opened with community singing of P. T. A. songs. A short business session was held, after which a social evening was spent with games, old fashioned square dances and Virginia reel. The music of the evening was furnished by the Schaffer family, Dan McKinney, Fred Wilson and Ben Brew, all of which was greatly enjoyed by a large attendance of members and friends. The evening passed by all too soon, and closed with the formation of a grand march of all those present, and as the march ended, each guest received an apple and a bag of pop corn.

The hunters have all returned safely from their annual trip to the north woods. We are glad to see them back again.

Miss Vera Proctor of Plymouth, is staying at the home of the George Bentley family.

Don't forget the Zone meeting Saturday, December 5th, which is to be held at Ferrisville. All of those interested in the work of the schools are invited to attend these meetings.

ODD PENALTIES FOR LAPSE FROM GRACE

Ridicule Once Held Effective Punishment.

The "drunkard's cloak" as a punishment was the system once adopted by the magistrates of Newcastle-Upon-Tyne in order to cure drunken persons, and as the "cloak" consisted of a barrel with holes for the head and hands, the delinquent, who was forced to parade the streets wearing it, would attract considerable attention to his lapse.

Similarly the stocks, once used so extensively for the punishment of petty offenders, were so arranged that the culprits generally received more ridicule than sympathy, and probably our forefathers considered that publicity was likely to discourage wrongdoing. In 1376 a petition was presented Edward III, requesting that stocks should be established in every village, and, later on, each parish was so provided. These relics of a bygone punishment are still seen by the wayside.

The whipping post was sometimes an accompaniment of the stocks; occasionally the whipping was done "at the cart's tail." Titus Oates, for instance, was ordered to be whipped from Aldgate to Newgate, and, two days later, from Newgate to Tyburn.

Our ancestors were severe on the woman sinner, and the punishment meted out to her was drastic. One known as the brank was a sugar-loaf-shaped fixture for the head, constructed of iron hoops, with a cross at the top. A flat piece of iron projected inwards, which was placed on the woman's tongue. She was then led about the streets wearing this unique head dress.

The ducking stool was built and used in this wise. A post was erected in a pond, and a beam, working on a swivel, was affixed thereto. A chair was then fastened to the beam, and the refractory woman was placed in the chair. She was then swung over the pond and immersed in the water, the operation being repeated "as often as the violence of the distemper required." This punishment is also said to have been inflicted upon brewers and bakers who violated the laws.

The pillory was another instrument of punishment where the offender was exposed to public view. It generally consisted of a wooden frame or screen, raised from the ground, and with holes for the head and arms of the person condemned to stand therein.

But of all these wayside spectacles surely the gibbet would be the most revolting. It might be regarded as a "comforting sight to the relations and friends of the deceased" to see that justice had been done and the murderer's body suspended by the roadside, but it would be a ghastly sight for other people.

France Preserves Relics

France has taken steps to protect the prehistoric art of the cave man from damage by vandals. Dr. C. E. Resser, geologist of the United States National museum, who has recently returned from the Dordogne cave region of southern France, reports that the government now requires that the caves be locked to prevent unauthorized visits of sightseers who have formerly frequently written or carved their names and initials on the paintings and drawings made probably 20,000 years ago by primitive artists as part of religious rites. In the principal cave man shrine containing colored animal pictures, the low, narrow galleries in which the cave artist worked by the dim light of his lamp, electric lights have now been placed to avoid the damage from the smoking candles.

Few Women in Poorhouses

There are more men in poorhouses than women, about two to one, but the women are harder to handle than the men, says the superintendent of one. "Give a man a stick to whittle and a seat in the sun and he'll be satisfied, but a woman never gets fully reconciled to charity. Our most troublesome inmates are the old bachelors and the most difficult to manage. They mean well, some of them are fine old fellows, but they have a different view of life than a man who has had a wife and children. They just simply haven't got the idea of teamwork." Correct. It takes teamwork to make a home.—Capper's Weekly.

Air Transport

More than 28,000,000 miles have been flown in Europe and the United States to January 1, 1925, in regular scheduled air service, and in six years more than 51,000,000 pounds have been carried by aircraft over established routes, writes J. Parker Van Zandt of the Department of Commerce in the Journal of the Society of Automotive Engineers. A careful analysis of this experience will give us the facts that we so much need regarding the air traffic program, continues Mr. Van Zandt, who made a special trip to Europe during the summer of 1924 to investigate the commercial air services there.

Aristocratic Ranchers

The life of a Canadian farmer makes appeal to Lord Edward Montagu, nineteen-year-old son of the duke of Manchester, and he has gone to Lord Rodney's ranch in Saskatchewan. He found there the Duc de Namours, nephew of the king of the Belgians, who went out some time ago as a pup, accompanied by a nephew of the east of Derby.

Obstructionists Rebuked

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Wheeler of Pine Grove, Pa., were served with an injunction to prevent them from lying on a pavement used as a detour. Believing it to be their private property, they took for their motto, "They shall not pass," and stretching out on the street, placed themselves in danger of being run over, and got on the nerves of motorists who feared hitting the couple.

You Don't Wash Clothes in Water
Women have always dipped clothes into water to soak and rinse, but taken them out of water to wash. It is the rubbing of one fabric against another in soap suds, out of the water, that washes clothes. In the the clothes come up out of the water into the suds, rub themselves against themselves and go down into the water again to rinse themselves off.

It washes cleaner and quicker—faster than a woman can rinse, blue and hang out; 60 lbs. of dry clothes an hour. See this wonderful washer at
