The Wayne county district oratorical and declamation contest will take place Friday evening, April 23rd, at 7:30 p. m. It will be held in Highland Park High school auditorium on Second boulevard, instead of at Northern High school, as previously announced.

Plymouth is the only one of the eleven schools competing to have a representative in both oratory and declamation. Julia Wilcox will represent us in the oratorical contest with her oration, "The Spirit of Peace." Franklin Atkinson will be our declaimer with the declamation, "Liberty and Union," by Daniel Webster.

In the oratorical contest two orations will be given on "The Constitution," one on "John Marshall and the Constitution," and one on "Abraham Lincoln."

There will be no admission charge, and it is hoped that a number of Plymouth people will be able to motor to Highland Park for the contest.

FRANKLIN ATKINSON

Highland Park High school will be there in full force to support their representative, and Plymouth's orators need Plymouth's support.

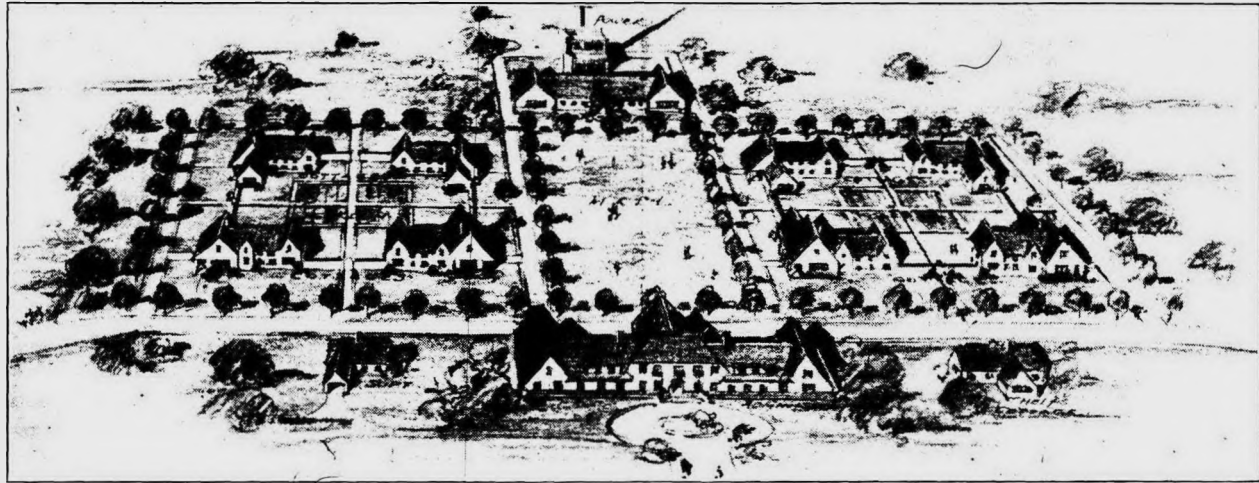

The names of the declaimers follow: William Friedman, Central High school, Detroit; Margaret Anderson, Western High school, Detroit; Laurence Wolf, Southeastern High school, Detroit; Franklin Atkinson, Plymouth; Mary Elizabeth O'Rue, St. Agnes High school, Detroit; Vincent Desmond, St. Benedict High school, Detroit.

The orators are: Charles Meyer, Highland Park High school; Meyer Applebaum, Cass Technical school, Detroit; Zeta Barbour, River Rouge High school; Julia Wilcox, Plymouth High school; Kathleen Lyons, Holy Redeemer Girls' school, Detroit; Joseph Viviano, St. Joseph's Commercial college, Detroit.

The New Detroit House of Correction Prison for Women

BIRD'S EYE VIEW OF BUILDINGS AND GROUNDS

We herewith present the architect's drawing of the new women's prison, which is to be built by the city of Detroit, on a site nearly opposite the Detroit House of Correction farm, near Plymouth. The site of the new prison is located on the Frank L. Becker farm in Northville township, which was recently acquired by the city for this purpose. It is on a high elevation, well back from the Plymouth and Northville town line concrete highway, and commands a splendid view of the surrounding country.

Eight cottages constructed of concrete blocks and painted upon the exterior will be erected to house the prisoners. The English type of architecture will be used.

Aside from the cottages there will be an administration building, superintendent's residence, residence for the matrons, fully equipped laundry, two work shops, 60x125 feet in size. These shops will contain a canning factory and a rug making, weaving and sewing shop.

The eight cottages will have a capacity of thirty-six inmates each. Each one will have its own dining room and kitchen, and quarters for two matrons. The plan of construction will be carried out so there will be a complete segregation of the prisoners in the various cottages. Two of the cottages will contain separate rooms, each with its own toilet facilities, for the more dangerous type of prisoners.

There will be one observation cottage, where prisoners will be held for observation for a period of two weeks to determine the physical and mental attitude of the prisoner, so that proper assignment may be made.

The higher types of cottages will be made as homelike as possible with enough ground allotted for exercise.

The administration building will contain the offices of the superintendent and assistant superintendent, receiving room, dressing-in-room, baths, welfare and social room, Berthillon measuring room, chapel and auditorium on the first floor. On the second floor will be located the hospital and matrons' quarters.

The power and heat for the new institution will be piped from the power plant at the men's prison.

The new prison, as it is now planned, will house a total of 288 prisoners, with provisions that more units can be added when necessary. The architect is Albert Kahn.

It is the aim of the mayor and the prison board to build a modern institution at as low a cost as possible, but at the same time the new prison will be the last word in penal institution construction, and in the construction of such a prison, the board has the advice and assistance of Edward Demiston, superintendent of the Detroit House of Correction, who has had a wide experience in penal institution construction.

Mrs. K. H. Campbell, the only woman member of the prison board, is now at Framington, Mass., conferring with Miss Jessie Hoiler, foremost woman superintendent of penal institutions in the United States.

It is hoped to have the new prison completed this year.

A LETTER BY AIR MAIL

The following letter has been received by this office via air mail. The letter left Los Angeles, California, April 17, 1926, at 7:35 a. m., and was received in Plymouth early Monday morning, April 19th.

April 16, 1926.

E. B. Samsen, Editor Plymouth Mail, Plymouth, Michigan.

Greetings to you and other Plymouth friends, by way of the first air mail, which leaves Los Angeles tomorrow morning, Saturday, April 17th, which will be an epochal date in the history of Southern California, for on and after that date the east and middle west will be several hundred miles nearer, if distance is measured by the time it takes to communicate or travel between places, in other words direct air mail service to and from the southland will be inaugurated.

I should like nothing better than to come east via airplane, which will not be such a novelty in a short time. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Riggs arrived here on April 2nd, after being stalled in the snow sixteen hours at Hutchinson, Kansas, and I think have seen all the snow they want for some time to come. They are now nicely located in one of their houses next to me, and also send greetings to the Plymouth friends.

My mother, Mrs. S. M. Reed, also sends greetings to her friends, and says although she is in her eighty-fifth year, she can still walk to church and back, which is two miles, and enjoys the exercise.

I would like to know in your next issue just how long it takes this letter to arrive.

Sincerely,

CLARA A. SOUTHWORTH. Formerly Mrs. E. L. Riggs.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gayde entertained sixteen guests at their home, Tuesday evening, Oct. of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Westphal of Detroit.

A NEW FUNERAL COACH

F. D. Schrader and son, Edwin, went to Cincinnati, Ohio, last Friday night, and drove back a new funeral coach, which the Schrader Bros. had recently purchased of the Sayers-Seville Co. of that city. The new funeral coach is the last word in vehicles of this kind, and will make a splendid addition to the already up-to-date funeral equipment maintained by this progressive firm. With the new coach, Schrader Bros. now have as complete and modern funeral equipment as will be found in the largest cities.

WILL TOUR EUROPE

The following taken from "The Evening Picket Wire," of Trinidad, Colorado, will be of interest to Plymouth people, as Mr. VanVleet is a former Plymouth boy:

"Mr. and Mrs. L. W. VanVleet will enjoy an extensive three months tour of interesting European cities, leaving Tuesday, April 13th. They will sail from New York harbor, and will visit Rome, Florence, Venice, Milan, Nice, Monte Carlo, Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, The Hague, London, and will sail from Southampton for New York. Mr. and Mrs. VanVleet expect to return to Trinidad about the middle of July."

Commencement exercises, Thursday evening, June 24th.

Alumni banquet, Friday evening, June 25th.

All of the above events will take place in the High school auditorium.

A NEW HOTEL

There are splendid prospects of Plymouth having a new and modern hotel. A committee is now at work upon the proposition, and are meeting with much encouragement on every hand. The Mail expects to be able to give full details of the project, together with a picture of the proposed new hotel, in our issue of next week.

The schools participating are Northville, Wayne, Farmington, Dearborn, Roosevelt High, Ypsilanti and Plymouth. The local school expects to have a good representation in the various events upon the program.

A PLEASANT GATHERING

About 180 persons sat down to a splendid supper served by the ladies of the Episcopal church, in the dining room at the temple, at 6:30 o'clock. The girls of the domestic science class served as waiters. Following the supper, an excellent musical program was given by the Hull family of Detroit. In the lodge rooms on the second floor. They also furnished music during the supper hour. Later in the evening dancing was enjoyed. Roy Streng's orchestra furnishing the music. It was a most delightful occasion for all present.

The annual meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held next Thursday, April 29th, at the Methodist Community hall at 2:30 p. m. All members are urged to attend and are privileged to bring guests. A fine program has been prepared.

DEATH OF MRS. ANNIE SWEGLES

Mrs. Annie Swegles, mother of J. M. Swegles, passed away at her home in Detroit, Saturday night, after an illness of about three years. Death was due to a complication of diseases. She was sixty-five years of age. Mrs. Swegles was a member of the Wayne Baptist church and Order of the Eastern Star. The deceased is survived by three sons, William, of Modesto, California; J. M. of Plymouth, and Charles of Holly; two daughters, Mrs. George Dieder of Ann Arbor, and Mrs. Sam Toles of Ypsilanti; also twenty-nine grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

This pavilion is the largest in Oakland County and personally conducted by Mr. Czenkusch who has kept pace with the growing demands of pleasure seekers by furnishing the best of everything that makes dancing and recreation attractive and enjoyable.

Music for the opening night will be furnished by Jules Klein's orchestra, personally conducted.

BASE LINE ROAD TO BE IMPROVED.

A. E. Lating, a well known Detroit real estate dealer, states that the improvement of the Eight Mile road, under state supervision, will be commenced this year and much of the work completed. The distance from Mack avenue in Macomb county to its intersection with Grand River road at Charnesville is 21 miles and from that point to Division street at Farmington's southern limits is 2 1/2 miles. From Division to Northville the road is now an excellent gravel highway. The new construction will be cement.

Mr. Lating says: "The Eight mile road is regarded as one of the most important thoroughfares in the state, because it is the Base Line road, extending from Lake St. Clair to Lake Michigan, from which all north and south surveys are made."

While the new road will not be a part of the super-highway system under plan, it will be built on a 204-foot right of way, the center of which will be the Macomb-Wayne-Oakland county line. This width will permit for an Enterprise.

PICK JULY 30 FOR FARMERS' DAY DATE

Farmers' Day, the annual summer gathering at the Michigan State College, will be held on Friday, July 30, this year, according to announcement just made at the college.

Except for the addition of new features, the program for the day will be quite similar to that of former years. It will include inspection of the college experimental plots and barns, a big open-air afternoon meeting, with prominent national figures on the speaking program, and a schedule of picnic features. More than 8,000 farmers and their families gathered at M. S. C. for Farmers' Day, last year.

Mrs. Alex Vateck and baby are visiting relatives in Cambridge, Maryland.

WILL OPEN BASE BALL SEASON, SUNDAY, MAY 2

THE DETROIT FIRE DEPARTMENT TEAM AND THE OFFICERS TEAM AT THE DETROIT HOUSE OF CORRECTION PRISON FARM WILL OPEN SEASON AT THE FARM GROUNDS.

A PARADE OF THE VISITING TEAMS AND THE FIRE DEPARTMENT BAND AND THE DEDICATION OF A NEW FLAG POLE AT THE BALL PARK WILL BE FEATURES OF THE DAY.

The officers base ball team of the Detroit House of Correction prison farm, will open the base ball season on the farm grounds, Sunday, May 2nd, when they will have for their opponents the Detroit Fire Department, one of the strongest amateur teams in the city.

During the past several weeks some noticeable improvements have taken place at the farm ball park. A new addition to the grandstand has been built, a new score board erected and portions of the field have been sodded and it now has the appearance of a league park.

The opening game is going to be a real letter event in the history of base ball at the farm. Dressing the game a parade will be formed, headed by the Detroit Police Department band, the two ball teams and officials, and will march onto the field, where a new steel flag pole will be dedicated with proper ceremonies.

The game will be called promptly at 3:00 o'clock. The public is most cordially invited. There will be no admission to the grounds, but to help the boys defray the expenses of their new base ball uniforms, a charge of 25c will be made for reserved seats.

During the past several seasons the officers base ball team at the prison farm has made a splendid record, and Captain Demiston is looking forward to another successful season for his team. Next week we publish the line-up of the 1926 team.

VANISHING HIRED MAN

Not so long ago every farm of any consequence around Plymouth had its hired man. The farm household did not regard him as a paid laborer; he was a fixture and could be taken into confidence as readily as any other member of the family. Seldom did he prove to be a "floater." He came as a rule out of the nowhere, no one seemed to care about his past, he was content with board and lodging and a little money now and then for chewing tobacco and a change of shirt and socks. He was a jack-of-all-trades, could fix anything that went wrong about the farm, and became an indispensable member of the family. The hired man, as he used to be known and cherished, has been melting into oblivion, and we notice a vast difference between the farm laborer of today and the old-time hired hand. Today's hired farmer is a strange creature who more often than not migrates with the passing of each season; he is not content to spend long years in the employ of one family. In fact he is today nothing more than a man working for wages—and as high wages as he can get; tilling the soil means to him nothing more than how much money he can get out of it.

The old-time hired man has succumbed to the lure of the city. He couldn't resist the dream of big salaries and the fascinating life of the city. If he has found happiness there all right. But when he left he took away a lot of sentiment and happiness that can't be put back by the hired man of the present day.

A POOR ARGUMENT

When someone tries to tell you that the city merchant can sell cheaper than the merchant of the smaller towns because the former buys in such large quantities, ask him this: How much higher are his taxes; how much greater is the cost of his light and heat; how much more expensive is his clerk hire; how much more costly is his advertising space than space in the home-town paper; how much more insurance must he carry because he carries a larger stock—and who has to pay for all this added cost in the long run? If you've been believing that old stuff about "buying in large quantities," forget it. Answer the questions above for yourself and you'll understand why the small town merchant does not have to knock under to such sales argument as that, either in Plymouth or in any other town of like size.

A SAFETY SUGGESTION

Everybody loves to live in a pretty town. There isn't a man, woman or child in Plymouth but who enjoy seeing more trees, flowers and grass; there isn't an auto driver who would not welcome still better streets, and there isn't a pedestrian who doesn't wish that more bad crossings and worn-out stretches of sidewalks were made more comfortable for walking.

But, now that we are in the spring season of cleaning up both inside and outside the house let us try not to forget that there is a greater advantage than beauty to be gained by this annual clean-up. It means good health for the community at large, it means reducing the chance that a serious epidemic may sweep our community during the hot summer months. It is a good thing to beautify the home and a fine thing to clean up and improve our streets insofar as patching up the holes is concerned. But it is a far more important thing that we get into the side streets and the alleys and clean them up, that we burn all rubbish that has collected during the winter months, and fill up places where the rains that are to come a little later on are apt to leave com-pools for the breeding of dangerous insects and germs.

Do all the cleaning up about the house and yard you possibly can. A pretty home is a delight to the eye. But also remember the safety side of these clean-up days by cleaning up everything that can bring disease, and possible death, to your own or someone else's family.

MUNICIPAL NOTES

BY THE MANAGER

Monday evening, a petition was presented to the Village Commission, asking for the paving of Ann Arbor street, from Main street to the east village limits. The commission granted this petition, the actual work to be done next year. Plans will be gotten out this year, and all underground work put in shape. This is a much needed piece of work which should meet with the approval of every citizen.

An extension of the Arthur street storm sewer up to Blanch street, was also authorized. As this sewer will be needed before the village crew can possibly reach it in its regular order, Wm. Blunk was given permission to construct it under village supervision, for 30c per linear foot, the village to supply material.

Our water bills, delinquent December 31, 1925, have all been paid up except two—a good record. There are about 50 first quarter meter bills delinquent since April 15th.

Last Friday noon the fire siren sounded a false alarm, caused by a short circuit in the wiring on the tower. The wind blew a bare wire against the steel frame of the tank.

The work of replacing the old iron water services on South Main street with lead pipe, is going on, preparatory to the repaving of that street. The gas company will soon be repaving their lines on this street also.

Our new sewer contractors have been unloading rock and distributing it along the streets. By the time these notes are read their big digger will be started going north on Mill street from the corner of Union.

Watch for our Big $ Sale hand bills at your door next week. Woodworth's Bazaar.

Cadillac, Holly, Benton Harbor and Ironwood Employees of Bell Commended.

Award of the Theodore N. Vail memorial medal of bronze to two Michigan telephone people, an operator and a lineman, for particularly outstanding deeds of public service during 1925, is announced by President Franz C. Kuhn of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

The operator is Mrs. Josephine L. August, an employee of the Dowagiac Telephone Company, at Cassopolis, Mich., who, the night of November 23, last, frustrated an attempt by bandits to burglarize the First National Bank of Cassopolis, over which the telephone central office is located.

George Lofblad, a lineman at Powers, Mich., was awarded the medal for saving a life, that of a companion who had been drawn beneath the waters of a whirlpool in the Cedar river, in the Northern Peninsula.

Mrs. August, hearing the bandits at work in the bank offices below her switchboard, attempted to call the sheriff and the fire department at Cassopolis, but found that the lines had been cut. After several attempts she aroused a residential subscriber of the telephone service and asked him to carry the alarm to the sheriff's office, which he did.

Bandit's Attempt Foiled
Hearing shots fired at the alarm messenger, Mrs. August threw a switch, provided by the city, which turned on a number of red lights in the streets and alleys, designed to attract the attention of the night patrolman in emergencies, and then attempted to notify surrounding towns of the bandit raid for the purpose of asking for help. The toll circuits, excepting one to Dowagiac, had been cut, also, evidently by the bandits, but she notified the telephone manager at Dowagiac, who aroused the countryside, villages and towns.

Meanwhile, through Mrs. August's activities, Cassopolis residents had been aroused thoroughly and the thugs were interrupted at their work and fled, escaping in an automobile. They failed to obtain any of the funds of the bank.

While bathing in the Cedar river, on June 7, 1925, a companion of Mr. Lofblad, unable to swim, ventured beyond his depth and was drawn into the vortex of a whirlpool. He was disappearing the third time when the telephone lineman plunged into the swirl of waters and brought the drowning man safely to shore.

Public presentation of the medals, the twenty-third and twenty-fourth given in Michigan in six years, will be made on dates later to be announced. The award to Mrs. August is of particular significance in that it is the first made to a person not an employee of a Bell company. The

Motor Fuel From Sugar
A French girl, daughter of a widely known chemist, has succeeded in making a powerful motor fuel by dissolving the heavy explosive fuel in a sugar solution, says Floyd W. Parsons in the Saturday Evening Post.

The product is being hailed in France as an epochal discovery, because it is more powerful than gasoline and can be manufactured at a low cost.

The experiments being carried on in Australia to extract alcohol from the prickly pear, of which there are tens of thousands of acres, also hold forth hope for an additional supply of motor fuel.

Stranger Than Fiction
"Restaurants," said a restaurateur, "used to depend on their kitchens. They depend on their dance floors now."

"My new dance floor, like all the latest dance floors, is suspended on air cushions, steel springs and rubber buffers. This gives it elasticity. We tune it up every few days like a piano. Springs and air cushions and rubber buffers must be kept in perfect harmony at just the right pitch."

"In the old days floors were polished. We iron them now. Two men with electric irons go over my floor every morning. The job takes an hour, and it gives the floor a touch that the old days knew nothing about."

Dowagiac Telephone Company is an independent organization but has toll and long distance connections over the circuits of the Michigan Bell Company.

A medal was awarded, a few years ago, to Michael C. Clark of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, who saved the life of an employee of the Michigan Company in the Detroit river, at the time of the laying of the last big international telephone cable between Detroit and Windsor, Ont.

Four More Commended
In addition to the award of the Vail memorial medal to Mrs. August and Mr. Lofblad, letters of special commendation were written to four employees of the Michigan Bell, who, during 1925, performed acts that indicated particularly meritorious initiative in emergencies. These four employees included three women and one man. With the acts for which they were commended, they are:

Eva Lake, night operator, Holly, for her action in connection with a serious conflagration which occurred in that village the morning of July 1, 1925.

Mrs. Daisy Stuart, night operator, Cadillac, for prompt and intelligent action in summoning aid, the night of December 10, when fire threatened to destroy the Wexford sanatorium, her prompt action helping avert greater property loss than occurred.

Mrs. Ida Foreman, chief operator, Benton Harbor, for praiseworthy service at the time of the Millburg bank robbery, February 21, 1925, in spreading the alarm to farms and nearby villages, resulting in the forming of a cordon of officers and farmers about the territory and effecting the capture of the bandits.

Train Wreck Averted
C. J. Bedore, plant combination man, Ironwood, for prompt initiative and action resulting in the saving of property and the prevention of possible loss of life, while working on a case of telephone circuit trouble along the right-of-way of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, Mr. Bedore found a broken rail and, climbing a telephone pole, attached his telephone test set to a circuit and notified the railway office of the break, thereby warning a through freight train that was due ten minutes later.

The Theodore N. Vail Memorial Fund was established by Mrs. Vail to perpetuate, among the 300,000 telephone people of the nation, the high ideals of service of the late Mr. Vail, former head of the Bell System, who, at the time of his death, April 16, 1920, had long been recognized as one of the world's great business leaders and to whose conspicuous service in the telephone field were largely due the expansion of the Bell System and the development of the art of telephony.

Under the terms of the establishment of the fund, bronze, silver and gold medals are awarded telephone people for acts or services which conspicuously illustrate Mr. Vail's ideals of public service. The medals are not awarded merely for acts of heroism or spectacular deeds, although noteworthy heroism often characterizes the service performed, as in the cases of the two Michigan telephone people whose acts are here cited. Nor are they given merely as a reward for faithfulness in the performance of daily tasks, but rather as special recognition of outstanding acts of service, many of which daily occur among telephone employees, characteristic of the spirit of service throughout the Bell System.

Ford
Highest in Quality
Lowest in Price
Ford cars are built throughout of the finest materials that can be produced. The very best steels available are used in Ford manufacture. The plate glass for windshields and windows is as perfect as can be made. Upholstery material contains a larger percentage of wool than is ordinarily specified—even for much higher priced cars. The basic features of Ford design have never been improved upon by any manufacturer.
No other car offers greater dependability. The Ford car has won the favor of millions of users under every conceivable motoring condition. Its convenience is known and appreciated the world over; its performance is taken for granted.
Such quality is possible at Ford prices because every operation, from mining of ore to final assembly, is under direct control of the Ford Motor Company.
Iron is taken from Ford mines in Michigan; coal from the Company's mines in Kentucky and West Virginia. Glass comes from Ford glass plants; wood from the Ford timber tracts in the North. Raw materials and finished products are carried over the Company's own transportation routes; coke ovens, blast furnaces, a steel mill, foundries and saw mills—all are part of this complete organization. There are even salvage plants, paper mill, cement plant, etc., to transform waste materials into useful by-products.
In this way every possible economy is effected. Under no other circumstances could Ford quality be had at Ford prices.

BUY THAT SCHOOL SITE NOW

Option on Walker Property Expires May 6th

On Thursday, April 8th, the qualified voters of the Plymouth school district defeated, and for the second time in less than two weeks, the proposal to annex more property to the present centralized school location. The rank and file of our citizenry have emphatically declared that they do not approve of any more central schools activity until it can be shown that the matter of ward schools for Plymouth will be given immediate and serious attention.

An option was secured on the Robert Walker property, in the north end of the village, on April 6th. Against the approval of certain powerful interests, the proposal to buy this property was and at almost the last minute placed on the ballot along with the proposal to purchase the central, or Adams street property. The time was short and people generally had not become thoroughly informed on the issues to be voted on. And yet the measure to buy the north end Walker property carried by almost a four to one vote, while the centralized Adams street proposition suffered a greater defeat than at time of the election of a few days earlier.

The price to be paid for the Walker property is $8,000.00, or much less than half the amount which would have been paid for the rejected and less desirable Adams street property. Now it is becoming apparent that certain powerful influences are again at work in an attempt to thwart the popular choice of the people. It seems apparent that an attempt is being made to sidetrack, or to perhaps permanently delay, the purchase of the north end Walker property.

The present attractive option on the Walker property will not last. Only thirty days could be secured. The time limit expires at midnight, May 6th. It cannot be renewed. There is certain to be a large advance in price. But there is still time. The people have already spoken. Action on the decision of the people should be taken NOW.

The Robert Walker property is located on Spring street, north village, and is directly opposite St. Peter's Lutheran church. Its area is something like 200x300 feet. Adjacent to this property, and fronting on the southeast corner of Spring and Holbrook, there is a strip of land, already belonging to the village, approximately 50x200 feet. To all appearances this strip of land is a part of the Walker front lawn. But it belongs to the village, and it does not enter into the 200x300 foot plot the people of Plymouth have voted to buy. And directly opposite this corner, or the southwest corner of Spring street and Holbrook avenue, is the so-called Centennial Park, also village property. The area of this is something like 140x180 feet. This may not be exact.

The 50x200 foot strip of land, and Centennial Park, was a gift to the village of Plymouth very many years ago. Nothing was ever done to improve this village property. It has never served any particularly useful service and it does not do so today. The land is restricted to park purposes, and no building may be erected upon it. But now, in connection with the people's decision to buy the Walker property, the village is given the opportunity to turn this old land gift into a very valuable and useful possession.

A fine new ward school, commensurate with the growth and progress of Plymouth, can be built upon the Walker property proper. The restricted park area could then be admirably used as an addition to the school play park, or as athletic grounds, and so enhance the value and usefulness of the entire property. Thus the village, in buying the Robert Walker property, would automatically put into use almost twice as much property as the amount actually purchased, and for much less than half the price which was to have been paid for the Adams street property.

One more word might be added as to the beauty and location of the Walker property as a school site. When York street is extended through from Mill road to Plymouth road, and it is only a matter of time before this will occur,—the proposed school site will then face on three fronts. The view from what will be the east or York street front, overlooking the Rouge valley, is particularly beautiful. The location is conveniently located for a north end ward school, and yet is quite some distance from any main artery of travel. It will be a safe place for the children. The location will reduce the crossing of railroad tracks for many pupils, and entirely eliminate the crossing of tracks for many others. All progressive Plymouth parents and taxpayers are urgently requested to come and make a personal inspection of this ideal school site.

And above all, see that this site gets purchased before midnight, Thursday, May 6th.

FURNITURE

"HOME"

You have often gone into a home and remarked how pretty it was and then commented on the furniture. No matter how pretty the interior may be, if it does not have suitable furniture it seems bare and unattractive.

We have for a long time been making homes more attractive and home-like with our furniture. It is surprising the charm that an added piece will lend to the home.

YOU NEED NOT BUY AN ENTIRE LIVING ROOM SET—A SINGLE ROCKER OR TABLE HELPS THE ROOM

In buying furniture we try not to go in for "fad stuff"—the kind of furniture that is all right today and rated as out-of-date tomorrow. We buy sensibly and we buy for SERVICE.

AND IT IS SERVICE AND SENSIBLE FURNITURE THAT WE HAVE TO OFFER AT PRICES THAT WILL SATISFY YOU

10:00 A. M.—"The Blessed and Their Privileges."
7:30 P. M.—Union Service at Methodist Episcopal Church. Anti-Saloon League Speaker.
6:30 P. M.—Christian Endeavor.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Segnitz class met at the church for a social hour. A pot-luck supper was greatly enjoyed by the girls.
On Tuesday, a company of folk from the First Presbyterian Sunday-school, went to Ypsilanti, where a pot-luck dinner was enjoyed at the home of Rev. and Mrs. S. Conger Hathaway. All report a delightful time.
Edward M. Stewart and Mr. Nichol attended the meeting of Detroit Presbytery at Royal Oak, on Tuesday.
Next Sunday evening, the congregation of the First Presbyterian church will unite with the congregation of the Methodist Episcopal church for the purpose of hearing a representative of the Anti-Saloon League. The service will be in the Methodist church.

METHODIST NOTES

At the circle meetings Wednesday afternoon, each member brought a photograph of herself. "When she was a baby." "Ain't women strange?"

Mr. McKnight's sermon last Sunday evening, showing Plymouth's rich heritage and the present day challenge was greatly enjoyed.

Our Sunday-school has been in an attendance contest since March 1st, with the Northville Sunday-school. Thus far we are in "second position," but next Sunday is the last day of the contest, and we hope to see enough loyalty on hand to enable us to crowd out into the lead.

It will be our privilege to enjoy the male quartet next Sunday morning, and the young people's quartet in the evening.

"Dad" Rompel of Springfield, Illinois, superintendent of the anti-saloon league of Illinois, will be the speaker next Sunday evening. He will bring echoes of the state convention now in session in Detroit. It will be a union service, and the public generally is invited.

BAPTIST NOTES

Sunday was "Baptist Day," and the pastor preached about the denomination, giving in a brief way the beginning and organization and teachings of the same. Every pastor was supposed to do the same in the United States.

The Sunday-school is doing well. The primary department was full last Sunday.

Roland Allenbaugh led the B. Y. P. U. last Sunday. The topic was the "Baptist Church and Its Teachings," giving some prominent men who belong to the same. Plans were made to go to Holly next week, for the Spring Rally of the B. Y. P. U.

Next week Thursday evening, April 29th, is the time for the annual meeting of the church. Rev. J. C. Austin of Lansing, one of the state workers, has been asked to come and address the church after the supper. We hope every member of the church and congregation will plan to be there.

After the sermon Sunday evening, the pastor baptised two young ladies. It was a very impressive service as they followed the Lord's example.

SCHOOL NOTES

The girls from the eighth grade domestic science class served the Masons and their wives last Thursday night at a dinner at the Masonic Temple.

Several groups from the eighth grade domestic science class have served their mothers and guests at luncheon, on the noons of April 19 and 20. Among the guests were: Mesdames Burch, Friedheit, Grove, Ebert, Sankleton and Watson, and the Misses Allen and Forsythe.

The seventh grade domestic art girls are busy with their new spring gowns, while the sixth graders are finishing their slips.

The advance domestic art class have a very interesting problem, that of selecting new drapes for the school dining room.

The girls are asking that their friends and anyone interested in styles to keep Tuesday, May 4, from 2 to 3 p. m., free. At this time, Miss Helen A. Cornelius from J. L. Hudson's of Detroit, will show gowns and commencement dresses appropriate for high school girls, on living models. The girls for the models will be selected from among our own girls.

Cooking by Exhaust

A mechanic of Columbus, Ohio, has invented a device by which motorists may now utilize the exhaust from their motors to cook their camp suppers, says the Scientific American. The contrivance uses a small petcock to close the exhaust pipe. A pipe connection is fitted to the exhaust manifold and joins with a round circular burner. This burner is provided with circular ribs, to prevent exhaust flames from jumping. Similar ribs are built to the bottom of pots and frying pans to obtain a maximum of heat. When the motor is idle the exhaust heat is forced through the burner. Sufficient heat is generated for any outdoor cooking.

Was He? Yes

The prosecuting attorney asked a colored defendant the following question: "Mose, were you ever convicted or acquitted on any charge before this court?" "No, suh; no, suh. Nothin' that sounded like dat." "Now, listen, Mose. I mean were you ever acquitted or convicted of any crime?" "Well, suh, boss, de judge he say, 'Go on along' an' 'I does, an' 'I gets picked up agin'. Yes, suh, I guess I wuz."

Due Process of Law

"Say, Slack!" said the town marshal of Topheavy who had dropped over for a fraternal call. "What sort of a fool ordinance has your council just passed—about muzzling—haw! haw!—potato bugs?" "Prohibiting potato bugs running at large within the corporate limits of our progressive little city unless muzzled," replied Constable Sam T. Slackpitter, the faithful guardian of the peace and dignity of Petunia. "Them pesterin' bugs eat the bottomholes out of ladies' gowns."—Kansas City Star.

Drab Realism

The poet Michael Strange—Mrs. John Barrymore—defended at a Greenwich village tea idealistic as contrasted with realistic art. "Let us have idealism and romance in our poetry and pictures," she said, "for nowhere else are these jolly things to be found. Life itself is horribly drab and uneventful." The fair poetess smiled, then she added: "In life nothing ever comes off except buttons."

MAKE DIPHTHERIA ANCIENT HISTORY IN MICHIGAN.

Toxin-antitoxin prevents diphtheria. Through its use, diphtheria can be made a thing of the past in Michigan. Toxin-antitoxin and antitoxin are not the same. Toxin-antitoxin is for the well person, to protect him from having diphtheria. Antitoxin is given to the person who actually has the disease, and to those who have come in contact with him. Antitoxin cures while toxin-antitoxin prevents diphtheria.

Cause of Diphtheria

Diphtheria is caused by a germ. During its life on the surface of the throat, the germ manufactures an overwhelmingly strong poison. This poison enters the patient's blood stream and is responsible for the alarming character of the disease.

Diphtheria germs make their way directly from one person to another. Frequently, healthy individuals harbor the organism in their throats, and even though these "carriers" remain well they often give the disease to others. There are undiscovered carriers in every community, a constant danger to the unprotected.

Children—especially very young children—are a great deal more liable to contract diphtheria than are adults. Eighty per cent of the hundreds of children who annually, and needlessly die from this disease are less than five years old.

Toxin-Antitoxin Safeguards

Every individual can be safeguarded for life from diphtheria by the use of toxin-antitoxin. This material, by completely destroying the strength of the diphtheria poisons, makes the individual immune, or incapable of contracting the disease. Even though the protected child gets diphtheria organisms in his throat, he does not have the disease. His body has been given ample means of defense.

Toxin-antitoxin is given by the physician in three doses, at weekly intervals. This is sufficient to safeguard 90 per cent of children. The other 10 per cent require a second series of treatments to make them absolutely immune. To determine whether the child needs the second series, the physician follows the first treatment with a simple skin test called the Schick test which shows whether the child is still liable to contract diphtheria.

Both the giving of toxin-antitoxin and the Schick test are harmless.

What To Do

All children six months of age, or older, should be given toxin-antitoxin.

Take your children to your physician and tell him that you want them immunized with toxin-antitoxin. The future anxiety and suffering you may prevent cannot be estimated.

If you wish to know more about diphtheria, and about toxin-antitoxin, call at your local health department or write to the Michigan Department of Health at Lansing.

Help make diphtheria ancient history in Michigan.

Later in the evening, the president, Mrs. Swegles, called the meeting to order, the regular business being taken care of. Mrs. Michelin, of the Wayne County Parent-Teacher Council, was introduced, and in her remarks, very highly commended the members of the district and the Parent-Teacher Association for their interest and loyalty to their school.

DUROCK

the perfect material for bathroom equipment

The Madbury Lavatory

The last word in fine lavatories. All exposed parts of Durock—no metal to polish. Integral combination hot-and-cold water inlet, giving a steady stream of any desired temperature; large, square bowl; and splash rim; hooded overflow outlet, automatically cleaned.

IT IS a safe prediction that, sooner or later, a tumbler, a bottle, or other hard, heavy object will be dropped onto your new lavatory.

If the lavatory is made of a coated material the impact will knock off a chip of the coating and a black, rough spot will remain as an eyesore as long as the lavatory stays in your home.

Durock will not chip. It is not a coated material, but a ware in which the surface and the body are of like nature, permanently fused together.

Neither will Durock stain, scratch, crack, nor "craze". The smooth, glass-like surface will not hold soil, it never needs scouring. It remains permanently pure white and glistening; always new, everlasting.

Durock is produced solely and exclusively by Thomas Maddock's Sons Company. Come in and inspect fixtures made of Durock that we now have on display.

PLANNING FOR A BIGGER AND BETTER FAIR FOR 1926.

At the regular monthly meeting of the officers and directors of the Northville Fair Association last Thursday night plans were discussed for the 1926 fair and it was the opinion of all present that every effort should be put forward to make the fair this year exceed any of the previous ones. It was decided to designate Friday as children's day, when all school children under 12 years of age will be admitted to the grounds free. It was also decided to have a dog show again this year and Wednesday was set aside for the horse show. There will be a good race program on Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons, with ball games as usual. The free attractions this year will be better than those of last season, and equal to any to be shown at any of the surrounding fairs. It was voted to build an addition on the west side of the main hall to provide more display room for the fruit and vegetable displays. Harry G. Backhaus will have charge of the horticultural department again this year and liberal purses will be offered for large displays as well as individual exhibits. Every superintendent promised a better display than last year, and these men usually keep their promise. —Northville Record.

CROP REPORT

Winter Wheat: Notwithstanding the fact much wheat was sown unusually late last fall and attained only a small growth, it has apparently come through the winter in better condition than expected according to the April 1 report, issued by L. Whitney Watkins, Commissioner of Agriculture, and Verne H. Church, agricultural statistician, U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. March is generally the most severe month on fall-sown grain, but this year the ground was covered with snow during the greater part of the time. Correspondents reported an average condition of 76 per cent for Michigan, nine per cent below last year's figure on the same date and eight per cent lower than the ten-year average for April 1. As the crop was under the snow at the time of report, opinions varied greatly as to the true condition and a more definite statement can probably be made at the time of the next report. The condition for the country as a whole is 84.1 per cent as compared with 68.7 per cent one year ago. Rye: Rye is a less popular crop in Michigan than formerly and many farmers have discontinued raising it. Much of the acreage was sown late in the fall due to adverse weather conditions, and made but little growth before winter set in. The condition is reported at 81 per cent, against 87 per cent one year ago and 88, the ten-year average for April 1. With ample moisture now in the soil, both wheat and rye should react favorably when growth starts. The United States' crop shows a condition of 80.2 per cent, four per cent below that of one year ago and nearly eight per cent under the ten-year average. Pasture: Owing to the lateness of the spring, it is too early to report a condition on pasture in Michigan. For the entire country, the average condition is 82.1 per cent. Last year it was 85.5 per cent on the same date. Farm Rental Values: The results of a special inquiry on this subject indicate that the average rental value of farms is $4.56 per acre; of plow lands, $3.80 per acre; and pasture lands, $2.30 per acre. The respective values of these three classes of lands are $81, $89 and $41 per acre. Farm Wages: The average farm wages are slightly higher than one year ago. The rate by the month with board is $41 and without board, $37.25. Last year, they were $40 and $33, respectively. The day rate averages $2.50 with board and $3.25 without board. One year ago, they were $2.35 and $3.00, respectively. For the United States, the monthly rate with board is $34.38, and without board, $48.40. Farm Labor: The supply averages 80 per cent of normal, and the demand, 83 per cent. The ratio of supply to demand is, therefore, 97 per cent. For the entire country, the supply averages 80.2 per cent of normal, and the demand, 91.0 per cent, the ratio of supply to demand being 88 per cent.

SCHOOL NOTES

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The decorative plans for the Junior-Senior banquet are soon to be put in action by the different committees.

The annual "Aggie" Club banquet, which occurred Friday evening, at the school auditorium, was a most enjoyable occasion. This banquet has somewhat the same relation to the agricultural work in the school that the summing-up has in a debate. It leaves a clear impression of the work of the year in this particular field.

The menu which was the result of the efforts of the girls in the club consisted of roast beef, mashed potatoes and gravy, peas and butter, Waldorf salad, apple pie and coffee. This was served on tastefully decorated tables, and was appreciated by all.

The program was carried out with the idea of a circus with Miss Letha Rowland as ring master. Her introductory remarks were happy and to the point.

Miss Eva Griffith, with her subject, "The Parade," outlined in a very interesting way some of the worth while accomplishments of this course. She paid Mr. Holcomb a well deserved tribute for his work and his influence upon the young people in the school.

After being entertained by the Band Wagon, Mr. and Mrs. Wagner and Mr. Hutton, Russell Miller spoke on the performers, going somewhat into detail as to the actual work done in school in an agricultural way.

Mr. Coatta was the Calliope, with a vocal number, after which Mr. Holcomb spoke in his usual pleasant manner upon the subject, "Seeing the Animals."

The "Big Tent" was represented by Prof. A. A. Metcalf of the Michigan State Normal College, who gave an inspirational talk which will be remembered a long time by those who heard it. He urged that young people should not overlook the opportunities at home. They often went to college when they were not fitted mentally to cope with a college course, and so had to be sent home, a tragic result, both for the parents and student. Unless a pupil was above the average in high school, the chances were against his ever amounting to anything in college; and perhaps he would graduate but find himself a misfit. Study the opportunities at home, he urged; the chances were that the average pupil could do better, there.

Great credit for the speedy serving of the banquet is due to Miss Carey, who supervised the Girl Scouts, and to the Scouts who served.

PLYMOUTH-WAYNE GAME

(Barbara Bake)

Plymouth opened her base ball season this year by defeating Wayne High school, score 6 to 3.

Plymouth scored four runs the first inning. Wayne was held scoreless until the last part of the game, when several errors were made on the Plymouth side. Doubt, our new pitcher, hurled a good game, this being his first try at that position. The team is mostly made up of new recruits this year, only three veterans being back. The line-up was as follows:

L. Simmons, 1. f.; G. Simmons, 2b.; S. Rambo, c. f.; W. Doudt, p.; E. Stacey, s. s.; N. Lockwood, c.; T. Hickey, 3b.; C. Moore, r. f.; G. Sayles 2b.

Subs were: Carney for Sayles and Mills for Moore.

Picked Up About Town

"Many a woman who thought she was marrying a lover," declares Dad Plymouth, "only learned later on that she had taken on a boarder and a lot of hard work."

Some women's idea of a "big bum" is a husband who gets in the way while she is trying to do her spring house-cleaning.

Dad Plymouth says that the strangest things in this life to him are barbers, skinny cooks and lazy husbands.

Good driving is when you speed over a bad place and reckless driving is when the other fellow speeds over it.

"The real reason some men look down on their wives," says Dad Plymouth, "is because the poor things were silly enough to marry them."

Dad Plymouth says one thing he has never been able to understand is why the man who has a million dollars and the one who wishes he had a million can never agree on how it ought to be spent.

"My idea of a good newspaper subscriber," says Dad Plymouth, "would be one who doesn't feel that he is entitled to control its policy after he has taken it for about a year."

Buick shares its price with many motor cars —but its Value with none

Because of the great number of Buicks bought each year, and because every dollar of the savings of great volume goes back into Buick value, Buick's moderate price buys quality.

Buick can, and does build its cars the way all motor car engineers would like to build theirs, if their volume or selling price permitted.

Buick is selling more cars today than ever before in Buick history. The public wants finer transportation at lower cost. And in Buick they get it.

THE THEATRE

"BRAVEHEART"

An epical Indian picture screened for the greater part on Indian ground in the mountain and river country of Oregon, widely known as the "Alps of America." Rod La Roque's new star vehicle, "Braveheart," which will be on view at the Penniman Allen theatre, Saturday, April 24th, is said to be one of the most beautiful photoplays thus far issued from the Cecil B. DeMille studios in California.

The story, adapted by Mary O'Hara from William C. DeMille's famous play, "Strongheart," is a typical American Indian tale. It is in no sense a regulation western thriller with its hardy pioneers who are constantly battling with Indian scalping parties, but it is a thoroughly modern story of an Indian foot ball hero and of his love and noble sacrifice for a white girl. How he learns at last, through humiliation and sorrow that the blood of white man and red man can never mix, makes the theme not only logical, but intensely dramatic and colorful.

There are four featured players in the cast. They include Lillian Rich, leading woman; Robert Edeson, famous stage player and creator of the role of "Strongheart"; Tyrone Power, a veteran of stage and screen, and Jean Acker, a screen favorite. Among the supporting players are Sally Rand, Henry Victor and Frank Hagney, all players of ability on stage and screen. In addition to these, scores of Indians are employed in the most thrilling scenes which occur on an Indian reservation.

The picture was directed by Alan Hale under the personal supervision of Cecil B. DeMille.

"BLUEBEARD'S SEVEN WIVES"

First National's Robert Kane production, "Bluebeard's Seven Wives," is scheduled to be shown at the Penniman Allen theatre, Sunday and Monday, April 25 and 26. This is something different in the way of feature comedy, it is promised. The principal male role is portrayed by Ben Lyon.

Playing opposite Lyon are seven of the screen's fairest leading women, headed by Blanche Sweet and Lois Wilson, and including Dorothy Sebastian, Diana Kane, Katherine Ray, Lucy Fox and Kathleen Martin.

The story of the comedy relates of the manner in which an humble bank clerk is outwitted to movie stardom by the clever manipulations of a press agent. It permits Lyon to show his ability in four widely different phases of characterization. At first he is seen as the bank clerk, second as a fiery Latin lover, third as a presumably Spanish actor of renown, and fourth as Romeo in beautiful scenes from Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet."

During the course of the story, many interesting "back stage" views of the motion picture studio are projected on the screen. The comedy, centering around the press agent's efforts to get the young star married as often as the original Bluebeard, is said to be hilarious in the extreme.

"Bluebeard's Seven Wives" was written by Blanche Merrill, famous vaudeville sketch writer, and Paul Schofield, motion picture scenarist. Alfred A. Santell directed.

"DON'T"

A comedy that is predicted to be more screamingly funny even than "Excuse Me," is coming on Wednesday, April 28th, to the Penniman Allen theatre. It is "Don't," which was directed by Alf Goulding. It is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.

The combination of Rupert Hughes, author and supervisor, and Goulding, director, is taking its destined place in the "Who's Who of Screenland." The two that made "Excuse Me" have again contributed to "Don't," and made it a comedy long to be remembered.

Although essentially a comedy, "Don't" gives Alf Goulding his first opportunity to direct a picture that has a serious motif. It tells of the struggle of a young girl in a small town for freedom—and the much abused term—"self-expression," against her parents and narrow-minded friends. In the end, both the girl and her parents triumph, paradoxically enough. Rupert Hughes, who never has anything to say unless it is worth while, has told his story in a refreshing different style, and it has been directed with absolute understanding by Alf Goulding.

The cast of "Don't" is filled with real names. Sally O'Neill, a newcomer to the screen, who acts like a veteran, plays the leading feminine role, and Bert Roach the important role of Uncle Nat. Others in the well-balanced cast include John Patrick, James Morrison, Estelle Clark, DeWitt Jennings, Ethel Wales, Johnnie Fox, Dorothy Seay, Evelyn Pierce, Brinsley Shaw and Helen Hoge. Agnes Christine Johnston wrote the scenario.

Held Mandrake Gifted With Peculiar Power

Mandrake, known to present day botanists as an anesthetic and narcotic, since Biblical times has been supposed to have powers of love and fertility, but during the Seventeenth century its activity as a love agent was "exploded by the spirit of investigation," according to a Journal of 1638. However, we find that the mystery and superstition of the drug still exist. According to Frederick Starr, an American writer, a wealthy Jew of Chicago who was interested in the return of the Jews to Palestine and who contributed generously to the cause, mourned the fact that he had no child to perpetuate his line. The Jews of Palestine, knowing of his family sorrow and appreciative of sympathy, sent him a mandrake with their best wishes.

Tales concerning the plant are numerous. The root, that looks much like a parsnip, resembles the human form in shape. The fruit varies in size from that of a nutmeg to a small apple. These "apples" were gathered in the gardens of Aphrodite, the goddess of love, according to mythology. The mandrake, according to an old legend, never was found growing except under the site of a gallows, from which it was nourished by the blood of the victim, particularly an innocent victim.

The Syrians would not touch the herb until certain concoctions had been poured upon it, after which the ground was loosened and a dog left to the root. The dog was then left alone, and in its struggle to escape the plant was torn from the ground, killing the dog by the frightful screams coming from its throat. In return for its capture the plant was thought to have power to cure diseases, frighten away demons and set as a love potion.—Missouri Botanical Garden Bulletin.

Fire Preserves Fruit

A new process for preserving fruit, vegetables and kindred things makes use of a system similar to that adapted for exhausting wireless valves. According to recent research the main cause of decay in perishable goods packed in tins is the presence of oxygen, and the object of the new process is to remove the oxygen. The following is a brief resume of the process:

The fruit is placed in the metal container, over which is placed a metal cover. A piece of wood impregnated with a special solution is next placed over the shield and ignited, and when conflagration is well developed the container is hermetically sealed. This process results in carbon dioxide (CO₂) being left in place of the oxygen. The food is preserved for much greater periods, without admittance of chemical preservatives.

Built House in Treetop

In a treetop near Masquon, N. J., an enterprising man built himself a house five years ago. There he has dwelt, rent free—now he must abandon his primitive abode. The tree stands in a lonely spot near the beach. The city is planning to extend an avenue and the tree, in the way, must come down. The tenant must look for another tree or hide himself to a boarding house or apartment. The tree man is employed by the street department. Five years ago he became enthusiastic over outdoor life. He built a frame structure in the tree, 5 feet wide, 7 feet long and 5 feet high. It is 12 feet above the ground and supported by sturdy branches. On both sides are openings just large enough for a man to crawl through. He reaches his nest by means of a ladder.

The Actor

Consider the life of a photoplay actor, how he is here and how male factor.

There are millions to gasp at the sight of his eyes—there's Nathan to call him a pit-throwing high-noon.

He sails for France amid kisses in gayness to ride the shoulders of princes and vicars.

From Benjamins on Fifth he disdainfully scans his autographed photographs clutter up Kansas.

Newspaper writers deny that he means well—they certainly have to admit that he screws well.

The road to success has its twistings and splittings—but it's certainly grand to be famed for your pictures.—The New Yorker.

Concrete Streets, like Concrete Roads, are built for permanence

Why Clare Paved with Portland Cement Concrete

When the business men of Clare, Michigan, decided it was time to pave the city's main thoroughfare, they wanted assured protection against costly repairs. They wanted a pavement that would remain true and even, firm and rigid under all kinds of traffic.

That's why they decided on portland cement concrete—the pavement you recognize by its non-skid surface and its pleasing, light gray color.

Tourists passing through Clare always praise its concrete pavement. Some day they will no doubt have the pleasure of driving on concrete over M-14, the heavily traveled highway leading to the famous summer resorts of the North Country.

Concrete on M-14 will mean a great deal to local prosperity in the years ahead. Don't just say "pave." Say "pave with portland cement concrete."

All of the facts are in our free booklet on "Concrete Streets." Ask for your copy.

BIG BRAIN OFTEN UNDER SMALL HAT

Size of Head Nothing to Do With Intellect.

A few months ago a brilliant woman died in Washington. When her attorneys opened her will they found she had left her brain to Cornell University for study. Mrs. Helen Hamilton Gardner, famous as a writer, and the first woman United States civil service commissioner, made this strange bequest in the hope of throwing light on the age-old question, "Are women as smart as men?"

In death she proved at least that the brain of one exceptional woman is as big as that of one exceptional man, for her brain was found to weigh 1,150 grams—exactly the same as that of Dr. Burt G. Wilder, distinguished scientist, who for many years was a member of the Cornell faculty.

Will further study of Mrs. Gardner's brain help establish the truth of the old belief that all great thinkers have big brains and that a man's mental capacity may be judged by the size of the hat he wears?

Probably not, says Popular Science Monthly. Informed scientists now agree with the saying of Oliver Wendell Holmes that "You can't tell by looking at a man's head what kind of mind is inside it, any more than you can tell by looking at a safe how much money it contains." So if your hat size is small remember that a large head may mean large cranial capacity, but not necessarily a large or well-developed brain. And remember, too, that great men's heads, on the average, are no larger than those of the rest of us.

The average American wears a 7 1/4 hat. How does that compare with the sizes of his fellow citizens who have achieved fame? Very well indeed. Take, for example, men who have been elected to the Presidency. James A. Garfield wore size 7 1/4, but that did not make him a greater President than Abraham Lincoln, who wore size 7 1/4. William H. Taft, an all-around big man, wears size 7 1/2; Grover Cleveland, and Benjamin Harrison wore size 7 1/4, and Theodore Roosevelt and Warren G. Harding wore 7 1/2—all well above the average. Yet Woodrow Wilson and U. S. Grant both wore the average 7 1/4, while President Coolidge wears size 7 1/4, slightly below the national standard.

Ellis Root, perhaps the most brilliant American statesman of his time, wears 7 1/4. William G. McAdoo goes him a split size better by wearing 7 1/8. Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon wears size 7 1/4.

The same variation is noticeable in the hat sizes of the famous and successful in other fields of endeavor. John L. Sullivan, mighty man of his hands, wore a 7 1/4 hat. James J. Jeffries, almost as famous a ringman of his day, wears size 7 1/4. Christy Mathewson, who was baseball's most famous pitcher, wore size 7 1/4.

Chauncey M. Depew, who has brains enough to have lived well over ninety years and to have enjoyed them all, also wears a 7 1/4 hat. Robert G. Ingersoll, one of the greatest of orators, wore size 7 1/4; but so does Harry K. Thaw.

It is probable that the wide variation in men's mental powers is caused by varying qualities of brain rather than by differences in the size of brains. The Cornell scientists who examined Mrs. Gardner's brain found it to be not only as large, but as well formed as the brain of Doctor Wilder.

Clams Good Mousers

City residents who are bothered by the common household variety of mice might take a hint from the inhabitants of Cushing, Maine, who have found in the ordinary clam a mouser superior to either cats or traps.

The discovery was made by Mrs. O. W. Creamer. She kept a basket of clams in her cellar one night, and the next morning she found three dead mice held firm and fast between the shells of as many clams. She relayed the news to a neighbor, who obtained the same results.

Now all the Cushingites who have been troubled with mice are putting clams on their trail, and the mouse-trap business is experiencing the worst slump in years.

Sermon Touched Burglar

A burglar entered an Oakland (Cal.) home and stole a $300 radio outfit. The first thing he tuned in on was a sermon by Dr. Frank M. Sitzley on reasons why all transgressors against the moral law, burglars included, should seek the path of righteousness and virtue. After the sermon the burglar tucked the radio under his arm, returned to the house where he had stolen it, again broke in and placed the set on its stand. Then he fixed the ground wire, closed the window after him and disappeared. At least he relates all this in a letter received by Doctor Sitzley, signed only "Ex-Convict."

Novel Metal Mixture

Metallurgical experts claim to have produced a metal alloy nearly as hard as the diamond. The difference in the scale of hardness is merely one-tenth of a degree.

The alloy consists of a fused mixture of metallic tungsten and tungsten carbides.

Tests have shown that this tungsten alloy, while somewhat softer than a diamond, offers many practical advantages. It is said to have metallic structure and to retain its cutting power much longer than the diamond.

Has Gone Long Unkissed

There are all sorts of distinctions these days. William Jones, sixty-nine, cowboy of Jensen, Utah, says he has never been kissed by a woman and believes this is a record, says Capper's Weekly. He was tempted only once, he says. That was when he saw a pretty squaw skin a buffalo. "But a little later she began munching a chunk of raw meat and that cured me forever." Some men, it would seem, are too fastidious to live.

Today's Reflections

The seed catalogue shows nice pictures of everything except the backache.

Every married man in Plymouth knows that government can't make husbands free. The thumb is mightier than the sword.

The country is as wet as ever, say the wets, while the dries say it is dry; and strange to say, neither is satisfied.

The craze for fiddlers has already raised the price of rosin, but the boom does not seem to have struck the cat market yet.

When a Plymouth man says, "I run things at my house," he probably means the washing machine and the lawn mower.

We've often wondered why those who are against things in general can make so much more noise than those who are not.

Samson had the right idea about advertising. He took two columns and brought down the house.

Nothing could bring greater joy to Plymouth than for her to awaken some morning and find that one of her citizens had invented an auto that will wash itself.

A Georgia man secured an injunction to prevent his wife's telling him how to drive their automobile, but the next thing is to try to enforce it.

Most Plymouth men believe in a trial by jury until it comes time for them to serve on a jury.

The difference between some people's singing and having a fit is they can't help having fits.

A brute is a man who brings company home for dinner without first letting his wife know.

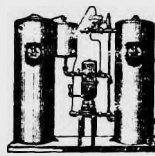

Our advice to Plymouth boys is to look and see that they've got enough gas to get back home, unless the young lady is unusually pretty.

We heard the other day of a Plymouth woman who calls her little boy "Prescription." She says it's so hard to get him filled.

Reared Family on

Lines of Individuality

Old Mrs. Wolters bore nine children and managed to rear eight of them to what passes for maturity. Anyhow, the eight got married. And she did it without cramping the style of any one of them, "J. P." relates in the Kansas City Times. The neighborhood held that they were eight hopeless and incredible nuts, inasmuch as no one of them thought on any subject what any one of the remaining seven did. But it was the happiest family—

Among the eight were an artist and a farmer and an automobile driver and a cook. I've forgotten through what channels ran the talents of the other four. At any rate, each child was given his chance. If one of them had wanted to teach Greek or an Indian reservation his mother would have placidly gone about getting him the proper textbooks and reading up on reservations. There were no rules of conduct in that family save one: "Never interfere with anyone else."

"That rule, interpreted, meant the application of decency and order. No one made a noise late at night or early in the morning or stole any other child's goods or lied—more than the usual child lies, which are mere growing pains—or told tales. Her neighbors used to think old Mrs. Wolters carried freedom too far, sometimes. Meals were served at fixed hours, but the child who did not reach the table in time had the liberty of the pantry, on the understanding that he did his own clearing away.

"They are good kids," the neighbors used to say. "Of course, if they were mine, I wouldn't let them—"

The eight grew up to be clean-cut, diamond-edged, sparkling individuals. They had not been jumbled into a mold or been compelled to take the color of their elders. Courtesy, unselfishness, thoughtfulness, had been demanded of them, but apart from that they were their own masters. And here's the moral:

I doubt if there was another home on the street in which some grown-up was not trying to make some child over after his own fashion. And in many cases the fashion wasn't much.

Enlightening Sentences

An eighth-grade teacher recently gave her pupils several words to use in sentences. In some of the following results it is easy to find the words:

She went in a pulmonary coach to Boston.

The Red Cross is going to use the pulmonary when people nearly get drowned.

The child had a pulmonary expression on his face.

I was writing when I beheld the teacher watching me.

The man declined in his easy chair.

Willard is a boy that has tubular disease.

Don't aggregate the dogs in front of the house.

The man's tubulars were stopped up.

The man was on a milk dialogue.—Indianapolis News.

Universal Necessity

Apologies of the rich Osage Indian girl who sent the government a bill of $372 for cosmetics, Secretary Work told a story at a reception.

"Cosmetics are becoming a universal necessity," he said. "A nurse-girl the other day rushed into the study of her master, a young divine, and gasped:

"Goodness gracious me! What are we to do, sir? While his ma was asleep the baby licked all the paint off—"

"The nurse girl gulped. She could hardly go on for fright.

"All the paint off—"

"Yes, yes. Off his toys?" said the young divine.

"No, sir," said the nurse maid. "Off his ma."

Where Women Rule

An even greater independence than that enjoyed by American women prevails among the women of the Tuarecs, a nomadic semi-Arabic tribe inhabiting the southern districts of the Sahara desert. Although the Tuarecs are Mohammedans, their women enjoy the prerogative of going about with their faces unveiled whereas the men invariably have their faces well covered. Among the Tuarecs it is the women who choose their husbands, and throughout their married life they remain the sole owners of all their possessions. They alone rear the children, and at all times are invested with supreme authority as head of the family.

Thunderstorms

The weather bureau says that we do occasionally have thunder and lightning in the winter, but they are far more frequent in the summer. The thunderstorm is caused by the rapid ascent of air carrying a large amount of water vapor. Now, to carry a large amount of water vapor, the air must be warm, and, to rise rapidly, the surface temperature must be much higher than that of the air half a mile to a mile above. These conditions are far more frequent in the spring and summer than during the winter; hence the thunderstorm is correspondingly more frequent during the warmer season.

His Purpose

"Howdy-do, Lemuel!" saluted old Pustus Pester. "This is Lem, ain't it? Come back to Petunia to see your old friends, hey?"

"No; not exactly," replied Len Linger, who had been away ten years. "I got to thinking that by this time I could make a new set of enemies."

Hunting Trip Planned

on Vegetarian Lines

"Run up to the country with me over the week-end," suggested Boggs, my vegetarian friend. "I've just had a report from my hunting lodge in Maine that the water cress shooting is excellent."

"But, Boggs—"

"Or we can motor down to Virginia and stalk wild tulips. You know, I had a thrilling week last winter stalking tulips and spearing asparagus in the Blue Ridge mountains."

"Really, now, Mr. Boggs," I primly started, but there was no stopping him at this juncture.

"You can't realize the thrill of riding behind the hounds in full pursuit of an elusive squash," he continued, enthusiastically. "Come on now, say you'll go with me," he added, pleadingly.

Feebly I protested. "But I don't like squash; I never eat it—it doesn't agree with me." But Boggs did—too darn rapidly.

"O, that's all right," he retorted; "we'll go up to the Adirondacks and bag some lima beans. Think of the delightful evenings around the campfire, with bulging bags of lima beans standing in the shadows. We can sing jolly songs until nine and then you'll sleep like a rock. At break of day we'll be up and away in pursuit of the ferocious spinach. Ah, well, do I remember the morning a wild spinach cub bit me. I can show you the scar, if you'd like to see it," he added, starting to shed his coat.

"Never mind, old man," I blurted, reaching for my hat. "I've got a date to snare a Welsh rarebit and I'm late already."—Arthur L. Lippmann, in Judge.

"Language" Used by Rooks

A colony of rooks will prove to anyone that these birds have a language. Many times I have been the interested spectator of their home life in the tree tops, and there are few birds with such a variety of notes. At one nest a hen rook was becoming really angry at the long absence of her husband. When he returned, and before he was able to part with the food he had brought, she stood on the side of the nest and let forth such a flood of violent rook language that I felt quite sorry for him. To stop her he forced the food upon her. But even as she swallowed it, she still endeavored to continue her protests, and nearly choked in the attempt!

At last he pacified her by slipping on to the nest. This was a sign that she could go out into the fields for a few hours' recreation. When she returned he was quite forgiven.—London Mail.

Peary's Home a Memorial

The birthplace of Admiral R. H. Peary, discoverer of the North pole, is to be made into a shrine in memory of the first man to reach the "roof of the world." The house is a frame dwelling on the William Penn highway near the western end of Cresson, Pa., and is in a fair state of preservation. The place has been unknown and unmarked for years. About a year ago a movement was started to preserve the house. The Daughters of the American Revolution have taken steps to interest the Pennsylvania legislature and members of congress. At last permission has been obtained to purchase the house and convert it into a memorial.—Exchange.

Marksmen Freed Bird

Winchester (N. H.) residents stopped at the iron bridge in the town to watch the frantic efforts of a pigeon to free itself. The bird was hanging from a tree branch high in the air by a string which was fastened to one leg and had become entangled in the tree, leaving the bird about three feet below the branch. The onlookers suggested every possible way of freeing the bird, but Tom Barden settled it by firing a shot and cutting the string. The bird flew away dangling about eighteen inches of string. Some time later it was enticed into a pigeon loft where the string was removed.

Nothing to Physiognomy

Dr. J. McKeen Cattell, retiring president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, declared in an address at Kansas City that psychology provides the only reliable instrument for character reading. He asserted that in researches at Columbia university no correlation was found between the shape of the head or the features and the ability of the individual. "The reading of characters by physiognomy and graphology," Doctor Cattell said, "is the occupation of charlatans."—Pathfinder Magazine.

Ungrateful Hawk

A venturesome hawk, seeking a meal of a sparrow, flew down Main street, Franklin, N. H., crashing against the window of a store. He killed the sparrow, which was promptly carried off by a cat, but was stunned himself. Several men picked the big bird up, carried him to a store where he recovered and tore their fingers and clothes as a reward for their kindness.

Beauty

Mrs. Oscar M. Burke, the former Princess Flora, gives her maid a dollar every time the forgetful servant addresses her as "Mme. la princesse," for Mrs. Burke has a contempt for titles.

She has also a wit, and on the way to Paris she said of a certain lady: "Oh, yes, indeed, Helen used to be considered quite a beauty. That was before her father failed in business."—Chicago Daily News.

WINDSTORMS Are With Us Again

Arkansas and Mississippi have inaugurated the 1926 Windstorm season. A tornado and heavy windstorm are responsible for the loss of many lives and considerable destruction of property. The entire town of Tisdale, Mississippi, was virtually demolished.

It recalls to mind the terrific destruction caused in five mid-western states just about a year ago. Then there was the visitation to New England last fall when wind ripped its destructive way through Woburn, Massachusetts, and adjoining towns.

WINDSTORM INSURANCE with this agency will protect you against this unpreventable cause of loss. The cost is very low, only $4.00 for $1,000.00 worth of insurance for three years.

MEETING OF THE LOCAL BOARD

Regular meeting of the Plymouth Real Estate Board was held last Thursday night at the Plymouth Hotel. Dinner was served at 6:45. The meeting was well attended, and after the business session, Sidney D. Stroug, the village manager, was called upon for a few remarks in connection with the different activities of Plymouth where the board could be of material assistance. He pointed out that there was a great need for plats of the different sections of the unplatted part of the village, and the different members of the board could assist in that work by furnishing descriptions of these parcels they may have in their files.

The board could also assist in the Zoning and City Planning which is of great importance to the future development.

The Village Manager was assured by the board, that each and every member stands ready to do his utmost in the compiling of data for plats of the unplatted area of the village, the assistance in City Planning and Zoning, and also would be glad to act as advisors to the assessors or the board of review if their services would be required in that connection.

ZONING IS SEEN AS BENEFIT TO INDUSTRY.

That industry will derive much benefit from the adoption of the proposed zoning ordinance was pointed out, Saturday by Julia M. Barker, realty operator on the West Side. "As frequently explained by city planners, zoning is the only method today by which industry may be protected," she said. "The zoning ordinance, by allowing for expansion in the various industrial districts (which may be changed if the need arises), will be assured of uninterrupted manufacture." —Detroit Times.

CODE OF ETHICS OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REAL ESTATE BOARDS.

Preamble
Under all is the land. Upon its wise utilization and widely allocated ownership depend the survival and growth of free institutions and of our civilization. The Realtor is the instrumentality through which the land resource of the nation reaches its highest use and through which land ownership attains its widest distribution. He is a creator of homes, a builder of cities, a developer of industries and productive farms.
Such functions impose obligations beyond those of ordinary commerce; they impose grave social responsibility and a patriotic duty to which the Realtor should dedicate himself, and for which he should be diligent in preparing himself. The Realtor, therefore is zealous to maintain and improve the standards of his calling and shares with his fellow Realtors a common responsibility for its integrity and honor.

In the interpretation of his obligations, he can take no safer guide than that which has been handed down through twenty centuries, embodied in the Golden Rule:

"Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye also unto them."

Accepting this standard as his own, every Realtor pledges himself to observe its spirit in all his dealings and to conduct his business in accordance with the following Code of Ethics, adopted by the National Association of Real Estate Boards:

Part I—Professional Relations
Article 1. In the best interest of society, of his associates, and of his own business, the Realtor should be loyal to the real estate board of his community and active in its work; and he should willingly share with his fellow-members the lessons of his experience.

Article 2. The Realtor should so conduct his business as to avoid controversies with his fellow-Realtors; but in the event of a controversy between Realtors whose members of the same real estate board, such controversy should be submitted for arbitration in accordance with the regulations of their board and not to a suit at law, and the decision in such arbitrations should be accepted as final and binding.

Article 3. Controversies between Realtors who are not members of the same real estate board should be submitted for arbitration to an arbitration board consisting of one arbitrator chosen by each Realtor from a real estate board to which he belongs and of one other member, or a sufficient number of members to make an odd number, selected by the arbitrators thus chosen.

Article 4. When a Realtor is charged with unethical practice, he should voluntarily place all pertinent facts before the proper tribunal of the real estate board of which he is a member, for investigation and judgment.

Article 5. A Realtor should never publicly criticize a competitor; he should never express an opinion of a competitor's transaction unless requested to do so by one of the principals, and his opinion then should be rendered in accordance with strict professional courtesy and integrity.

Article 6. A Realtor should never seek information about a competitor's transaction to use for the purpose of closing the transaction himself or diverting the customer to another property.

Article 7. When a Realtor accepts a listing from another broker, the agency of the broker who offers the listing should be respected until it has expired and the property has come to the attention of the accepting Realtor from a different source, or until the owner, without solicitation, offers to list with the accepting Realtor; furthermore, such a listing should not be passed on to a third broker without the consent of the listing broker.
