

KIWANIS AND ROTARY CLUBS ENTERTAIN LADIES

The joint ladies night banquet and entertainment given by the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, at the Masonic Temple last week Thursday evening, was one of the pleasantest social events that has taken place in Plymouth for some time.

At 7:00 o'clock, the Kiwanians and Rotarians with their wives and guests entered the banquet room to the strains of a march played by the Kiwanis orchestra, who also played during the dinner hour. Rotarian Rev. Walter Nichols of the First Presbyterian church, gave the invocation. Community singing was led by Rotarian Calvin Whipple, with Phyllis Larkins at the piano. Kiwanian Dr. F. B. Hoyer and Rotarian Dr. B. E. Chumpe acted as toastmasters. Short talks were made by Rotarians E. C. Hough, George A. Smith and Ed. Gayde, and by Kiwanians John L. Crandell and Lawrence Johnson.

After the dinner the program was turned over to Kiwanian J. M. Larkins and Rotarian Calvin Whipple, who had charge of the following program:

Reading—Oliver Goldsmith, with Miss Phyllis Larkins at the piano. Violin Solo—Maynard Larkins, with Miss Phyllis Larkins at the piano. Songs—Plymouth Quartet, Messrs. Austin, Elmer, Calvin Whipple, E. V. Jolliffe, with Mrs. E. V. Jolliffe at the piano.

Piano Solo—Miss Ruth Allison. Vocal and Instrumental Music—Misses Geraldine Long and Gila French of Battle Creek.

Every number on the program was exceedingly well rendered, and was greatly appreciated.

Following the program, dancing, in charge of Rotarian Harry Robinson and Kiwanian Robert O. Mimmack, was enjoyed, with a six-piece orchestra furnishing the music. Rotarian Harry Robinson and wife led the grand march.

WAYNE HAS BIG ROAD PROGRAM FOR 1926

Approximately five million dollars will be spent on building new roads and improving the highways in Wayne county this year, according to an announcement the first of the week by Leroy C. Smith, engineer for the county road commission, says the Wayne Weekly.

Twenty-five miles of new paving and 35 miles of widening are included in the 1926 program, together with the other projects in the line of improvements to the county highways. Costs of the several items have been apportioned as follows:

New roads, $1,225,000; widenings, $2,500,000; highway bridges, $250,000; grade separation at railroads, $1,000,000.

The latter is one of the biggest improvement items now being carried out by the commission, the start having been made several years ago and present plans calling for the separation grades at every important main line highway in the county. The Wayne and Belleville projects were completed last year. The program in 1926 calls for separations on the South Dearborn and Division roads under the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton, Michigan Central Shore Line and the Lake Shore Electric railway. These projects are all south of Michigan avenue on the new highway that will connect with the Allen and Oakman pavements, southeast of Dearborn. Three miles of pavement will be laid on this strip.

Among the new pavings listed for the year the Outer Drive, a new road two and one-half miles in length between Warren and Plymouth roads, running parallel to Telegraph. This is in the Rouge park district.

Widening projects include nearly every main highway that has not already been improved in this manner, the increase in most cases being designed to give a roadbed of 30 or 40 feet, depending upon the importance of the road.

Among the widening projects listed by the commission are the Five Mile road between Telegraph and Wyoming, a distance of six miles; Warren road between Telegraph and Shaefer, five miles; Northville road between the village and Plymouth, three miles; and Canton Center road between Ford road and Plymouth, five miles.

Other highways in this program are Seven Mile road between Grand River and Livernois, eight miles; Miller road between Warren and Dix, four miles; Allan road between Ecorse and Fort roads, eleven miles; and River road between Wyandotte and Trenton, four miles.

We take pleasure in presenting an architect's drawing of the proposed new hotel building, which is to be erected upon the Forsgren property on Main street. The new hotel will have sixty-one sleeping rooms and fifty-two of these are provided with bath. There will be a spacious and well appointed lobby, ladies' sitting room, dining room and coffee shop. The hotel will also be provided with an elevator. The building will contain six stores.

At the rear of the building, adequate parking space has been provided. It is certainly a most substantial and beautiful building, and one that will be a credit to the community. The committee who have charge of the work of financing the proposition are meeting with splendid success, and everyone who has the best interests of Plymouth at heart, is invited to join in the effort to put this much needed, community project across one hundred per cent.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BANQUET

Under the auspices of the Girl Scouts and the Girl Reserves, the Mother and Daughter banquet will occur the Tuesday after Mothers' Day, May 11th, at 6:30 o'clock, in the M. E. dining room.

The slogan for the week is "Mother and Daughter—Chums," and this banquet will be an opportunity for mothers to meet with their daughters in that relationship, if they are not already so; if they are, they will enjoy an evening of songs and speeches and comradeship, of songs that will remind them of college and of girl camps, and of talks that they will remember long afterwards. The tickets are on sale by committees of the girls, and are 75c each. The banquet, which is in charge of the Episcopal Guild consists of:

- Southern Baked Ham
New Potatoes and Peas
Hot Rolls and Butter
Sweet Pickles
Pineapple and Cheese Salad
Orange Ice
Cake
Coffee

The program is as follows: Toastmistress—Mrs. F. D. Schrader. What a Daughter Wishes from Her Mother—Josephine Schmidt. What a Mother Should Expect from Her Daughter—Mrs. Frank Burrows. Song—"Follow the Light." Address by Dean of Women, Miss Jones, Michigan State Normal College. Song—"Follow the Gleam." Miss Jones is a very popular dean at the State Normal College, a woman with broad culture and a winning personality. Many of our Plymouth mothers have daughters who are or who will be in the Normal College, and who will be interested in the women who has charge of these girls. Others should avail themselves of the chance to hear one who is conversant with problems of the modern girl.

FABER-SCHUSTER

Nicholas Faber, Jr., and Miss Josephine Marie Schuster were married at the parsonage by Rev. Charles Strasen, Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The young couple were accompanied by Frank Everett and Miss Charlotte Ries. They will make their home in Dearborn.

A MOTHERS' DAY PROGRAM

A Mothers' Day service will be given in the school house, Pierson District No. 2, Seven Mile and Farmington roads at 11:00 o'clock a. m., Sunday, May 9th. Thomas Murphy and his male octette of Detroit, will give three selections, and Mrs. Parker of Detroit, will give a reading, "Mother."

Three brief addresses on the Mother and Daughter theme will be given: "The Mother of Yesterday," by Mrs. C. Wolfe; "The Mother of Today," by Mrs. E. Middlewood; "The Daughter of Today," by Mrs. Earl Wolfe.

Each one is requested to wear a flower in honor of mother—colored if she is living, and white if she be deceased.

The building will be tastefully decorated by the young people of the district. A community leader will be present. Sunday-school immediately following. Everyone welcome.

EVERETT RIES

A pretty wedding was solemnized last Wednesday afternoon, May 5th, when Miss Susan Charlotte Ries of Redford, was united in marriage to Frank Everett of this place.

The wedding took place at four o'clock, at the new home of the bride and groom on Ann Arbor street. Preceding the service, "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly" were beautifully rendered by Wayne VanDyne of Northville, after which the bridal party, to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March played by Mrs. Albert Weber, took their places. Miss Mae Crawford, becoming gowned in Nile green crepe de chine and carrying pink roses, acted as bridesmaid, and Harry Ries, brother of the bride, as best man. The bride was charming in white georgette, with lace hands, and wore a tulle veil caught with a pearl bandeau. She carried a large bouquet of tea roses.

The impressive ring service was read by Rev. Charles Strasen, pastor of the Lutheran church, in the presence of about fifty relatives and friends, after which light refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Everett received many lovely gifts.

Late in the afternoon, they left in company with Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Faber, who were married earlier in the day, for a motor trip through New York and Canada.

Mr. Everett is one of Plymouth's promising young business men, and he has the best wishes of many friends for a happy wedded life. They will be at home after May 25th, at 1424 West Ann Arbor street.

Out of town guests were present from Grand Rapids, Detroit, Fairgrove, Redford, Cherry Hill and Northville.

Ball game today, Dearborn vs. Plymouth.

W. C. T. U. ELECT NEW OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held in the M. E. Community Hall, Thursday, April 29th.

This being the season when so many women are engrossed in housecleaning, the attendance was rather small. However, the meeting proved of interest, especially the talk by Dr. Lendrum, who paid tribute to the W. C. T. U. for their tireless work for the betterment of mankind, and who emphasized the fact that there is today more need than ever before for the united efforts of all good temperance people to defeat those who are working for a modification or nullification of the Eighteenth Amendment and Volstead Act.

The duets by the Misses Bake and Allison with Miss Reyer as accompanist, were greatly enjoyed by all present, as also was the oration, "The New South," given by Miss Dorothy Hillman.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President—Mrs. E. R. Daggett. Recording Sec'y—Mrs. L. Clemens. Corresponding Sec'y—Mrs. W. Bartlett.

Treasurer—Mrs. Arthur White. After the election of officers, ice cream and wafers were served, and a social time enjoyed by all.

Great regret was expressed by the members that the retiring president, Mrs. Clara Todd, was unable to be present at this meeting, and all voiced their sympathy and expressed their hope for her speedy recovery.

The time and place for the next meeting will be announced later.

DEATH OF MRS. PLATO HOUGH

Mrs. Plato Hough died at her home on Ann street, last week Thursday afternoon, April 29th, after an illness of several months. Mrs. Hough was born October 8, 1860, in Rush Creek, Fayette county, Iowa. She is survived by her husband, four brothers and one sister. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and of the Order of the Eastern Star, which order had charge of the funeral services, held from Schrader Bros. Funeral Home Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. Dr. F. A. Lendrum, pastor of the Methodist church officiated at the services. Mrs. William Bake sang two beautiful selections. The interment took place in Riverside cemetery.

CONFIRMATION SERVICES MAY 16

Sunday, May 16th, a class of thirteen catechumens will be confirmed at St. Peter's Ev. Lutheran church. The members of this class are: Lucille Ash, Gladys Schroeder, Irene Krauter, Hazel Baumgartner, Rosalie Bakhaus, Eunna Myers, Margaret Myers, Dorothy Fretheit, Nita Gebhardt, Herman Bakhaus, Carl Holtz, Kenneth Groth, Harold Rebitzke. Everybody is welcome to attend this confirmation service. The evening service will be a reunion of all confirmed in the church, especially in the last ten years. Both services will be in English.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murray entertained their children and grandchildren at a dinner, at their home on Maple avenue, last Sunday. The occasion was the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Murray.

THE SENIORS WILL GIVE PLAY CREDIT BUREAU WILL HOLD BANQUET

The Senior play, entitled, "Kempy," will be given in the High school auditorium, Thursday evening, May 13th. This play is a delightful comedy in three acts. It snags with wit and humor of the most delightful kind. It's electric. It's small town folk perfectly pictured. Full of types of varied sorts, each one done to a turn and served with zesty sauce.

The story is about a high falutin' daughter, who in a fit of pique married the young plumber architect, who comes to fix the water pipes, just because he "understands" her, having read her book and having sworn to marry the authoress. But in that story lies all the humor which will keep the audience laughing every second of every act. The growing out of this family mix-up is lively and clean. This play is an ideal entertainment for amusement purposes. "Kempy" has been a tremendous hit in New York, Chicago and wherever it has been played.

When a member of the Senior class asks you to buy a ticket for "Kempy," don't fail to buy one. Admission price is 25c and 35c; 10c extra will be charged for reserved seats. Tickets may be reserved all day at Conner's store.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

The regular monthly meeting of the League of Women Voters was held at the home of Miss Lina Durfee on May 3rd. The new president, Mrs. Van-Akon, presided. There was a good attendance, and delicious refreshments were served.

The speaker for the afternoon was Miss Anne V. Whitson, the executive secretary for the State League. Miss Whitson brought to us splendid reports of the national convention at St. Louis. This was the seventh annual convention, and was held in the city which gave birth to the organization in 1918. Miss Whitson's remarks gave us new confidence in the methods of the League. The purpose of the League is non-partisan information to women voters along educational lines. Special courses are offered in the colleges to the new voters along the lines of good citizenship.

NUTRITION CLASS HOLDS LAST MEETING

The North Canton Nutrition Class held their last meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. S. W. Spicer, last Tuesday afternoon. The reports of the members showed decided improvements in meal planning and food habits which makes for better health for each family.

Committees were appointed and plans are being made for their part on the program for the annual achievement day, which will be held at Wayne, on Wednesday, May 26th, when all the nutrition and clothing classes in the county will be represented with exhibits, demonstrations or stunts. Everybody is invited to attend.

The Plymouth Credit Bureau will give a dinner at the Plymouth Hotel dining room on Tuesday, May 18th, at 6:45 o'clock. The price per plate is $1.00. A special program of speakers has been arranged for, and the program promises to be one of especial interest to every business man. Floyd Miller, manager of the Pontiac Credit Bureau, will be the principal speaker of the evening. Northville business men have been invited to attend the dinner, and it is hoped that there will be a good representation from our neighboring village.

Those who are in charge of the local bureau are hoping to see a number of Northville merchants affiliated with the local bureau and thus bring about a closer co-operation among the business men of the two towns in matters of this kind.

The local credit bureau which was organized last December, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, has met a long felt need among the business men of Plymouth, and it is functioning remarkably well for a new organization, and the thirty-nine members who comprise the bureau are greatly pleased with the service which the bureau furnishes to its members.

It is expected that every member of the bureau will be present at the banquet, and bring another business man who is not a member of the bureau.

MRS. ASENATH M'LEOD PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Asepath McLeod of Sheldon, widow of the late John McLeod, passed away Wednesday, April 28, 1926, at St. Joseph hospital, Ann Arbor, where she had been a sufferer for the past year. Mrs. McLeod was the mother of J. R. McLeod of this place, and she had many friends here. Had she lived until June 17th, she would have passed her 81st birthday. Surviving her are three sons, J. A. McLeod of Dearborn, J. R. McLeod of Plymouth, and P. W. McLeod of Pontiac; and one daughter, Mrs. Belle Woodward of Carleton; one brother, Frank Arley of Gladstone; thirteen grandchildren and nine great grandchildren. Funeral services were held at the Sheldon church, Saturday afternoon, Rev. D. D. Nagle of Strathmoor, assisted by Rev. Blake, officiating. Interment in Sheldon cemetery.

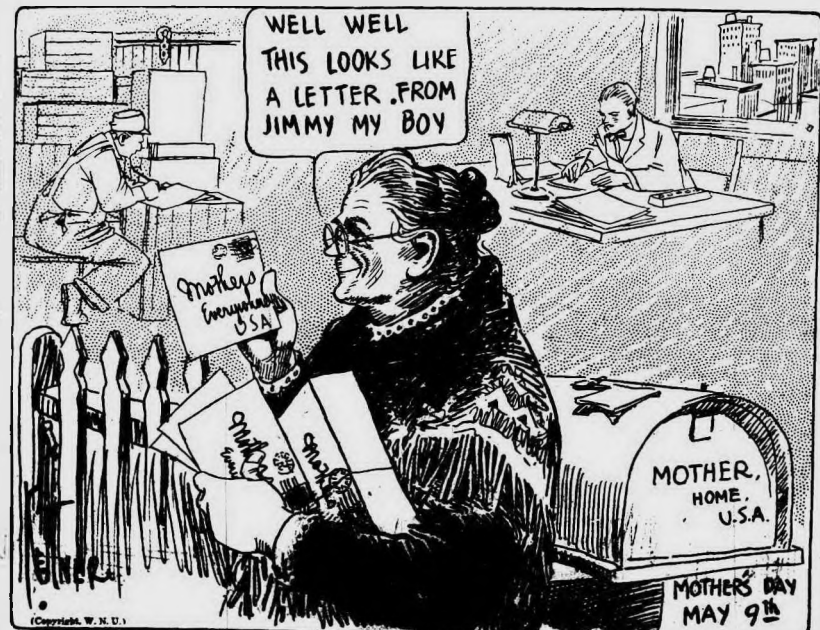

FIREMEN WIN OPENING GAME

The opening ball game at the prison farm last Sunday, was attended by nearly 1500 people. Proceeding the game, a procession was formed, including the Detroit Fire Department band, ball teams, Ex-Service men and officials, and marched around the field to the new steel flag pole, which was dedicated with proper ceremonies. The ball game was between the fire department team and the officers team at the farm. The score was 21 to 7, in favor of the firemen.

TRACK MEET AT NORTHVILLE

On Thursday afternoon, May 13th, a track meet will be held on the Northville fair grounds, where teams representing Grosse Point, Plymouth and Northville will contest for honors in thirteen events. Trophies and ribbons will be awarded the winners in each event.

Write Mother Today

...MOTHER...

A great man once said, "All that I am and all that I ever hope to be I owe to my mother."

But it is not necessary to be great, as the world measures greatness, to realize that there is one debt we can never hope to repay, the debt we owe our mothers.

It was a beautiful sentiment that prompted someone to suggest setting aside the second Sunday of May in each year as a day upon which we can honor the one who has given us life. It enables us in a small measure to attempt payment of the debt we owe her. It gives us an opportunity to show her that, even though we may never be able to pay her in full, we are not unmindful of her sacrifices and solicitude for us.

If your mother is living take occasion on this coming Sunday—Mothers' Day—to spend it with her, and near her, and to cheer her by telling her how thankful you are that she has been spared to you. If you cannot be with her in person, write her the letter or telegram that will reach her Sunday, and cheer her heart far more than you can ever know. If she has passed on to the heavenly reward due all mothers, pluck a flower and wear it in honor of her. And if you have the good fortune to have children of your own, see that they are taught the meaning of Mother's Day, and that they enter into the spirit of it, and join in its observance.

Friends desert us in a time of need. Children forget us, as new interests come into their life. But Mother's love abides as strong as the day we came into the world, and her eyes were first to greet us, her hand the first to touch our tiny, fluttering heart. Her love never fades, her affection never wanes, her eyes never dim to our better selves. To her we are always good and kind and noble. And in sunshine or shadow, in fair weather or foul, Mother's love abides with us and Mother's prayers are sent forth in our behalf.

Pay your fullest measure of homage to your Mother next Sunday. It is a little thing at best, and yet it serves to gladden her heart and in a way repays her for the suffering and the sacrifices she has made for you. Mothers are the only angels we have on earth. Mothers will be the first angels to greet us in another world. Breathe a silent prayer of thanks next Sunday for the opportunity to pay a tribute to the greatest of all God's handiwork—Mothers.

IT'S NOTHING NEW

If we're in for a late spring, don't let it worry you. Older citizens of Plymouth can tell you off-hand of other late springs that turned out all right so far as fruit and crops were concerned. Snow fell in the Ohio river valley for three days, April 19, 20 and 21, in 1901, and on May 23, 1883, snow covered growing corn all through the west and as far east as Pittsburg. Even as late as April 30, 1908, one of the heaviest snows of that entire winter covered the Middle West, so heavy it broke down fruit and shade trees which were in full bloom. But these late snows are not killing to fruit or crops and the sun quickly knocks them. So if this turns out to be another late spring don't imagine that "everything's going to the dogs." Old Mother Nature knows her business, and she'll bring everything around all right.

SAME OLD "DRIFT"

The furms of the U. S. lost something like a half-million in population last year, it is said. But there is nothing disheartening in that. Agricultural production is still sufficient. In older days everybody lived in the country; and not so very long ago there were two families on the furms for every family in the cities. Now it's the other way around and both farmers and city people are earning greater incomes per family. The fact is that farmers are not only more efficient in their business, but they are much better equipped. Improved machinery and the use of power have easily doubled the ability of every man who produces food. We can raise twice as much now with the same number of men as could have been raised forty or fifty years ago. There seems to be no occasion for getting excited over a dwindling farm population, and no great reason for another "back to the farm" movement.

"FISHIN' TIME"

Another thing the average Plymouth man can't understand is why the fishing season has to come just at a time when house-cleaning and gardening demand his attention. Even now we hear quite a number complaining because they are kept so busy that they have serious doubts if they will ever "catch up with their fishing."

But fishing is one thing a fellow can enjoy talking about, even though he doesn't have an opportunity to do as much of it as he would like. Nothing is more restful, few things furnish a better opportunity for relaxing and filling the lungs full of pure, fresh, health-giving air, and from a financial standpoint there isn't an outdoor sport that requires so small a monetary expenditure.

But fishing can be abused and the sport ruined for future years if a man is inclined to be a hog, or if illegal methods of taking fish are resorted to, such as seining, using dynamite, fish traps or trot lines which fasten to both banks of a stream and present a regular network of hooks. We believe the average fisherman in this section is a true sportsman, and that he is satisfied to catch his share. But there is no occasion for permitting anyone to violate our fish and game laws, and any instance of it that may come to your notice should be immediately reported to the proper authorities.

STARTING EARLY

The best way to avoid having your auto stolen is to keep it locked. The proper time to plant your crops or garden is before you have broken the ground. And the best way to prevent an epidemic is to get rid of the things that are most likely to cause it.

As a general rule housewives around Plymouth wait until flies get so numerous inside the house that they are annoying before they put up the door and window screens. And here they make a mistake. Put them up now, before the pests have had an opportunity to enter the house, and you will find less bother from them later on. They will not have had a good chance to deposit their eggs and bring forth thousands of their offspring to annoy you if they are kept outdoors from the very start.

Right now is also an ideal time to start your fight on the housefly in other ways than by putting up the screens. Start now and scatter a few shovels of lime in places that are apt to prove unsanitary during the warmer weather soon to come. Scattering a little lime over the yard is a fine thing, as it strengthens and sweetens the soil and helps the grass to get a deeper rooting. It doesn't take long to look after these little things, especially if you start early, but it takes a long time to cure a case of sickness or stamp out an epidemic that can easily be caused by failure to use precaution.

ELM

Congratulations and best wishes for a long and very happy wedded life, are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Schenk. Mrs. Schenk was Miss Jane Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson of Elm.

We regret to lose as neighbors in our community, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Pines and family, who have moved to their new home in Plymouth. We hope they will continue on, in fellowship, with their many friends in Elm.

We are glad to know that Charles Bentley, now of Plymouth, has entirely recovered from his recent illness.

A home talent play, "Examination Day" at Wood Hill School, and a carnival, will be given in Elm school house, Friday evening, May 14th. The characters who are to take part are as follows:

Fanny Mark, a director of youth—Vern Procter

Robert Coleman, a visitor from the city—Fred Wilson, Jr.

The Honorable Board of School Trustees—

Jim Tarbox—Mr. Steiner

George (Echo) Tarbox—Wallace Hawkins

Joshua Brogg—Mr. Headley

Hiram A. Pryor—George Bentley

Jordan Timm—Fred Wolfram

Mrs. Rachel Latimer, a proud mother—Mrs. Scowden

Abner Schuch, taking a P. G. course—Fleider Schaffer

Representing other pupils of the Wood Hill school, will be Bruce Hawkins, Lorna Schaffer, Dorothy Bentley, Norma Schaffer, Richard Smith, Charles Schaffer, Rosy Whitehead, Helen Wolfram, George Steiner, Elmore Wilson and Glenn Schaffer.

The May meeting of the Elm Parent-Teacher association was held Tuesday evening, May 4th. Results of the effort which has been made to equip our school with the needs of the school and playground for our boys and girls, were given, and reports were made by the special committees appointed for this work. A very pleasing surprise is in store for those interested in Elm school, an account of which will be given next week in this column. Following the business meeting, two songs were beautifully rendered by Mrs. Rust, sister of Mrs. Scowden. A song by the boys and girls in attendance, also added to the enjoyment of the evening.

Mr. Kuhlman of Redford, the speaker for the evening, gave a very inspiring talk for both teachers and parents, showing the great opportunity for the implanting of high ideals, or the building of character in the lives of boys and girls. He gave in a most interesting way, the results accomplished by the co-operation of the home and school in this great work, especially in the personal interest and influence which the teacher and parent may have, upon the ideals formed in the mind and heart of the child.

To close the meeting, hot chocolate and coffee with wafers were served by the refreshment committee. Mrs. Richard Smith and Mrs. Blanche Lee.

A special meeting will be held this month by the P. T. A., the time of which will be announced later. A June meeting will also be held to complete the reports of the year and to plan for the annual picnic held at Elizabeth Park. All parents and friends should try to attend both of these meetings, whether members of the association or not, because you are interested in the opportunities which are given to your child and every other child in the community, and should also lend your bit of enthusiasm and fellowship.

Mrs. Mabel K. Raymond, in closing her president's message in the April-May Bulletin, has quoted these lines of inspiration for service—which should be felt by all:

"To be alive in such an age,
To live to it!
To give to it!
Fling forth thy sorrow to the wind
And link thy hope to humankind:
Breathe the world-thought, do the world deed,
Think hugely of thy brother's need,
And what thy woe and what thy weal,
Look to the work the times reveal!
Give thanks with all thy flaming heart,
Crave but to have in it a part,
Give thanks and clasp thy heritage—
To be alive in such an age!"

Tokyo's Bicycle Traffic

Tokyo is the one great city in the world where bicycles continue to be a favorite form of transportation. There are nearly 100,000 licensed within the municipality. Of late years many of these have acquired side cars and trailers and their presence on the main streets has become a serious problem. A census of traffic taken recently shows that between six in the morning and six at night, at some of the busiest corners, an average of 2,500 bicycles pass an hour. These are ridden mostly by young boys, messenger boys, delivery clerks, school lads and the like, who dodge in and through the other traffic at high speeds, causing many accidents.

War on Prairie Dogs

The Department of Agriculture says that less than a dozen live prairie dogs could be found in Nobara county, Wyo., over an area that had been almost solid prairie dog towns for a stretch of 20 miles in one direction and 48 miles in the other. Extensive and unrelenting warfare has been waged in this section against this small but exceedingly destructive pest, with the result that today native hay has been cut from land formerly riddled with prairie dog mounds, and fine fields of alfalfa have been grown on land which was a worthless prairie dog colony only a few years ago.

Dolls That Help Doctors

Among people unacquainted by Western rules, including the seduction of women, a doctor's diagnosis of his feminine patients is no easy task, and must necessarily be open to considerable doubt.

A small ivory or metal figure of a woman is passed through a curtain, writes Col. P. T. Ederton in his book, "In the Heart of Asia." The patient then hands the figure back, indicating the spot where she feels the pain, and the doctor diagnoses accordingly, a simple method provided he prescribes the right medicine.

High Order of Knighthood

The Order of the Golden Fleece is an order of knighthood founded by Phillip III, duke of Burgundy and the Netherlands, in 1429, at the time of his marriage with Isabella, daughter of John I of Portugal. It was established for the protection of the church, and consisted of 31 members, with whom rested the sole right of filling vacancies. Subsequently, however, Pope Gregory XIII granted to Phillip II of Spain the right of nominating the knights himself. It is at the present day the highest order in Spain and Austria.—Exchange.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother, Bertha Schmidt Reinholz, who died May 8, 1925.

She bore her pain, she bore it well,
Oh, what she suffered, none can tell,
Painfully sleeping, resting at last,
Life's weary trials and suffering past,
She did not fail to do her best,
Her heart was true and tender;
She did work hard for those she left,
That's something to remember,
Some may think we are not lonely,
When at times they see us smile,
Little do they know the heartache
That we suffer all the while,
Sadly missed by all her children.

STARKWEATHER STILL GARRULOUS

Reflects on North Side as Strategic Point and Stresses Effect New School Will Have On More and Better Homes Program.

"When I think of Plymouth I think not merely of north end, or main end, or any other one particular section of town, but I think of the whole of it. It's all Plymouth to me. But there's just one place for the schools, and that's the old established central location. The fact that some youngsters may have to walk unusually long distances don't alter my opinion one bit. I had to walk long distances to school when I was a boy. Let 'em walk. It's good for 'em.—Statement by a respected and well-known former village officer, prominent in business and community life; not a resident of the north side.

"We need not be much bothered about 'lower town.' They have no leaders there.—Statement by a high ranking Plymouth citizen who does not maintain a residence in 'lower town.' Was against north side school. Long prominent in Plymouth civic and financial affairs.

"Lower town' ought to have a school, but that section is really a detriment and a disgrace to the rest of the village. Its principal features are tumble-down shacks and railroad smoke. No fine homes will ever be built there. The only way it can ever improve would be through a good cleaning out by fire. I wouldn't live in 'lower town' if you'd give me a home.—Statement by a Plymouth mechanic. Is thrifty, owns his own home and other property. Lives in 'major town.'

Such statements as these, of course, do not set well with north side residents. In fact, north side residents resent them. And yet these simple opinions, reflecting, as they seem to, and in one way or another, on the good and welfare of an important section of Plymouth, all emanate from inherently honest men. Two of them rank especially high in the community life of Plymouth. They are in position to exert considerable influence. That is what makes their opinions on these matters all the more ominous.

The first and the third of the sample opinions given here were addressed directly to this writer. The second quotation came through a Plymouth official, who claimed to have heard the remark, and exactly as recorded here. It is assumed that each of the opinions was sincerely uttered. It is also granted that there may be a degree of truth in all of them.

Residents of the north side know full well that, without the remaining portions of town to rely upon, Plymouth would not be much of a place to boast about. What makes north side residents proud of Plymouth is not because of what can be discovered within the immediate environs of the north side, but because of what can be seen and sensed within the entire village boundary. And yet, what would 'major town' do without the north village?

Steam travelers alight from their trains on the north side. Incoming freight is unloaded on the north side. Most direct automobile road from Detroit enters Plymouth on the north side. Autoists arriving from Detroit via Five Mile or Seven Mile pavements enter Plymouth through the north side. Schoolcraft road is soon to be paved, and when this is accomplished autoists traveling over it will enter Plymouth through its humble north side. Most direct auto route to Michigan avenue will be over Mill road. This is to be paved, and it enters Plymouth on the north side. Northville road will be paved, and of course enters Plymouth on the north side.

All things considered, it appears that the north side is slated to come into its own. Big interests have the north side spotted as a strategic point. It has been predicted that within a few years the intersection of Plymouth road and Mill street will have become the center of a busy shopping and business district. Corners of corner lots will be trimmed, making a sort of octagon 'square.' When all this arrives, residents on Penniman avenue and Ann Arbor streets will then be shipping over to the north side to do their shopping.

Thus it seems that the voters of Plymouth made no mistake when they chose to purchase the Walker school site in north village. And neither will any mistake be made when again they choose to erect a handsome, modern, ten or twelve room school building on that site. (It is understood that the structure will include a kindergarten, and an assembly room or community hall.) A school building of this kind will attract new and better homes in the north end.

The slogan on the lately designed municipal banner reads that Plymouth is a 'village of homes.' The proposed north side school will tend to make this more true. A centralization of schools inclines toward a centralization of homes. And a centralization of homes does not tend toward the ideal home life. We do not want our children to be brought up in flats, apartment houses and congested areas in order to be near the centralized school. Builders tell us that when a new family head, with growing children, comes to town, he locates his home as near to a school as possible. He would rather drive several miles to work, and have his children near a school, than to have the situation reversed.

So here's to the north side school and more and better homes.

Ford Highest in Quality

The quality of a motor car is largely determined by the materials out of which it is built.

Take, for instance, steels—which comprise the major portion of the materials used in automotive manufacturing today. No automobile can have more durable or more satisfactory steels than you get in a Ford.

The upholstery used in Ford closed cars contains a much larger percentage of wool than is ordinarily specified. Genuine polished plate glass is used for Ford windows and windshields.

The story is the same for every item of material used in Ford manufacture. It is logical that such extreme care in the selection of materials should result in a car that is without an equal when it comes to enduring service.

Lowest in Price

Conditions that are unique in the automotive industry make Ford prices possible.

Every manufacturing operation is under direct control of the Ford Motor Company. Iron is taken from Ford mines in Michigan; coal from the Company's mines in Kentucky and West Virginia. Ford glass plants produce the glass for windshields and windows; wood comes from Ford timber tracts. Raw materials and finished products are carried over Ford-owned transportation routes; coke ovens, blast furnaces, a steel mill, foundries and saw mills—all are part of this complete organization.

Under any other circumstances, Ford cars would cost a great deal more than they do.

BAPTIST NOTES

The annual meeting of the Plymouth Baptist church took place last week Thursday, April 29th. The supper hour was 6:30, and a splendid spread was on the tables—almost everything to eat. The tables were well filled. After the supper hour the people went up to the auditorium, where the reports of the church were given. All branches of the church seem to be out of debt and ready for a new year. The Ladies' Aid raised over $500. The Sunday-school showed a good balance in the treasury. Two members have been called away this year by death, Mrs. Harry Northrop and Dr. S. E. Campbell.

At the close of the reports, Frank Hamill and daughter, Alma, sang a duet. Then the pastor addressed Mrs. Woodworth, and presented her with a silver censer, the gift of the church and congregation. The pastor wished them both a long and happy life and best wishes of the church.

The nominating committee reported and the following officers were elected for the new year:

Sunday-school Supr.—Roland Allenbaugh

Deacons—Two elected for life, Sewell L. Bennett, Joseph Stanley; also Walter Postiff, Lewis Schaal, George Wilske, Henry Stanley, John Hancock.

Board of Trustees—Frank Hamill, S. L. Bennett, Walter Postiff, George Wilske, Isaac Tillotson, John Hancock, J. M. Swegles

Clerk—Miss Edith Scott
Treasurer—Charles Grainger
Missionary Treasurer—Mrs. S. L. Bennett

Fishers—George Wilske, John Hancock
Organist—Mrs. H. E. Sayles

The address of the evening was given by Rev. A. K. McRea, pastor of the Northville Baptist church. It was a splendid sermon.

Quite a number of B. Y. P. U. members went to the association rally, last week Friday, April 30, at Holly, where over 200 young people gathered. The Plymouth B. Y. P. U. have invited them for the fall rally in November.

The service last Sunday was well attended. A good many strangers came.

The Sunday-school appointed a committee for Children's Day, consisting of Mrs. Allenbaugh, Mrs. Daly and Mrs. Sayles.

The pastor spoke at the Kiwanis Club on Tuesday of this week.

Remember the Mother's Day service, next Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock. Special music.

The parsonage has been dressed in new paper and paint on the outside.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

The Men's Class met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bichy, Penniman avenue, on Friday evening of last week. Proceedings began with an athletic contest in which several members won distinction. When the judges had given their decisions, all repaired to the dining room, where an excellent dinner was served. Here it was impossible to declare a winner, every man being sure that his had been the greatest enjoyment. Following the dinner there was a discussion concerning the work of the class and an election of officers which resulted as follows: C. H. Bennett, president; R. O. Mimmack, vice president; F. A. Kehrl, treasurer; E. C. Vealey, secretary. When the men had enjoyed an hour of song and social intercourse, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Bichy, and the company dispersed. There were about thirty in attendance.

Mother's Day will be observed in the Sunday-school and church service next Sunday morning.

Mr. Hummel who is in St. Joseph, Ann Arbor, and Mrs. Todd, who is in Harper hospital, Detroit, are both improving, and are expecting to return to their homes shortly.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church will hold its regular monthly business meeting in the chapel of the church, Wednesday, May 12th. The meeting convenes at 2:30 p. m., and a most cordial and urgent invitation is extended to the ladies to be present.

METHODIST NOTES

The Ann Arbor District, W. H. M. S., will meet at Pontiac, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, and plans are being made to have the local auxiliary attend the district meeting instead of holding their own session. Further notice will be given next Sunday.

Music for Sunday morning—the male quartet, a contralto solo, and for the offertory an instrumental trio—the organ, piano and violin. A quartet in the evening, and a musical reading by Miss Dorothy Hillman.

Being Mother's Day, the Boy Scouts have been invited to participate in the evening service.

Important Scientific Find

Electric light bulbs are not the only things that contain argon. This supposedly rare inert gaseous element has lately been discovered in the cells of a number of organisms, and is presumably present in the cells of all living things, says a Science Service bulletin. A French scientist, A. Picot, reported recently before the Paris Academy of Sciences that he and two associates had extracted a little less than a third of a cubic centimeter of the gas from a gram of dried yeast and that they had later found it also in sheep's brains and in the blood of oxen. They explain its presence on the hypothesis that the gas, being exceedingly inactive chemically, slowly accumulates in the cells as it is carried there, and has no means of elimination because it does not combine with other elements. It thus remains stored in the cells until their death and disintegration.

Robert Howe

On March 11, 1782, Robert Howe, a great American patriot and soldier, was born in Brunswick. He served against the Indians and was commander of Fort Johnson on Cape Fear river. Later, when the provincial congress revolted, he took command of the Continental troops and played a prominent part in the history of his country. His previous experience in dealing with the Indians caused him to be sent to pacify the Indians of the West, which he successfully accomplished. He was highly esteemed by his compatriots and elected to the North Carolina legislature, but died before taking his seat.—Chicago Daily News.

Paid to See the Sun

A sight of the sun and the novelty of feeling its warm radiance was worth $150 to a party of six Londoners who became bored with the perpetual shadow of the city which has prevailed this winter. They went to Croydton airdrome and hired an airplane, specifying that they must be taken above the layer of fog and smoke and kept in the sunshine for an hour. They paid $25 each. The machine reached an altitude of 6,500 feet and came into brilliant sunshine. When the passengers landed they said the experience of seeing the sun was worth the money.

Picked Up About Town

Why is it that any time we do a man a favor without being asked, he will spend an hour trying to figure where the catch comes in.

It has about come to the point where a man can't pick dandelions without putting himself under suspicion.

Dad Plymouth says he can't figure out how Adam vented his temper when there were no doors around the house to slam.

"The door it's the hardest to keep the wolf from," declares Dad Plymouth, "is the door in the sedan."

Temperance seems to be the cause just now of a whole lot of intemperate discussion.

GOLDEN LAKE HIDES ITS VAST TREASURE

Riches Deeply Buried Under Mud and Silt.

In the Colombian Andes, 10,000 feet above sea level, there is a lake which is said to be paved with gold, or very nearly so. Some of that gold was offered for sale in London a short time ago—breastplates of beaten gold, headbands worn by married men five centuries or more ago, gold earrings worn by the high priests of a dead Indian race, and other pitiful relics of men whose life and nationality were crushed beneath the heel of the Spaniards of Cortez and Pizarro.

Romance lies behind the history of this gold and the lake wherein an English mining engineer named Knowles found it.

The lake was one of five sacred to the religion of the Chibcha Indians, whose faith was that an evil spirit dwelt therein. To appease this spirit, little gold, wrought in pure gold, were flung into its waters.

Later, when the Spanish drum was beaten in the passes of the Andes, and the breastplates and pennons of the invader flamed up the mountain slopes and Toledo blades ran red with Indian blood, the royal house of Chibcha was overthrown, and the private treasure of its sovereigns was flung into the lake.

The Spaniards tried again and again to recover it. One man succeeded so far as to lower the lake by ten feet, and found many jewels and ornaments of gold.

Then the crown woke up, and laid its hand upon the lake of gold. A contract was entered into with an adventurer. He lavished his fortune upon the work of draining the lake, and found much treasure, all of which was claimed by the crown. But he failed to drain the lake entirely, and was left penniless. His contract was thus invalid, and the Spanish crown kept the treasure which he had found. Many other gold-seekers followed him.

Finally in 1904 the lake was drained entirely and dredged to a depth of 50 feet. Many jewels and much more gold were found, but more, say the treasure-hunters, lies still deeper embedded in the age-old deposits of mud and silt which are as yet untouched.

The syndicate which intends to add to the treasures already brought to London is now planning to install a huge steam shovel, and so lay bare the secret wealth that has sunk to bedrock.

But until the shovel arrives, the lake is once more flooded, so those who cherish visions of by-night raids on the lake bed must go clad in diving suits!

Was Last Member of Idealistic Community

In the death in Santa Barbara, Cal., a short time ago, of John Van Der Zee Sears, there passed away a man who undoubtedly was the last survivor of that famous experiment in idealism, Brook Farm, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

To most of the present generation, the colony established at West Roxbury, Mass., is hardly likely to be more than a memory, but in its day it was famous, not only for its essay in pure socialism, but for the men who identified themselves with it.

Among these were Nathaniel Hawthorne, George William Curtis, Charles A. Dana, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Horace Greeley, Amos Bronson Alcott and its founder, George Ripley. Hawthorne's novel, "The Blithedale Romance," was inspired by the writer's experience at Brook Farm.

The colony was founded in 1841, and after flourishing for several years, finally was abandoned in 1847. In connection with the colony a school was maintained, and Mr. Sears, who was born in Albany in 1833, became one of its pupils. At Brook Farm he met Horace Greeley and through the editor of the New York Tribune was first introduced into journalism. Greeley taking him into his office in a secretarial capacity.

Prior to the Civil war, Mr. Sears came to Philadelphia, and for many years that city was his home. He was in the office of Jay Cooke, was with parties surveying the route of the projected Northern Pacific railroad and represented the Philadelphia Inquirer as a correspondent at the front in the Civil war. Subsequently he became financial editor of the Inquirer, but in 1888 went to the Evening Telegraph as its art editor and an editorial writer. There he remained until about twenty years ago, when he retired from active journalism and went to New York, where he employed his leisure in writing his recollections of Brook Farm under the title of "My Friends at Brook Farm."

A gentleman of large culture, distinguished in appearance and with the courtly manners of his generation, Mr. Sears had an extensive acquaintanceship in literary and art circles, although a native modesty limited his more intimate social contacts.

Besides his book on Brook Farm, he was an active contributor to most of the magazines of his younger days.

His Supposition

"I was driving along the road in Booger Holler," in the cross-roads store, related Lefe Lagg, "when just as I passed a house the door opened, a lady stepped out onto the porch with a dishpan in her hands, and hung out of it the water that had been in it and also a baby that—er—'n't—wasn't dressed up for company. The baby yelled, and the lady yelled and then jumped off from the porch, grabbed up the baby, put it in the dishpan, took it into the house, and I driv' on."

"What in the name of torment did the lady do a trick like that for?" asked old man Soggy.

"I hadn't the least idy at first, but after I'd studied it over for a spell I figured that she must a-been giving the baby a bath in the dishpan and had a streak of absent-mindedness while she was a-doing of it."—Kansas City Star.

Bananas for Athletes

Bananas have become popular as a training food for athletes in England. Professional trainers favor bananas because of the readiness with which they are digested and because they contain a higher percentage of calories than most fruits. The trainers maintain that before a game, between halves, etc., when the players are pressed for time, when they are more or less exhausted, the banana is the most suitable food. The banana also carries the guarantee that until its natural germproof wrapper is peeled away it is free from contamination.—Exchange.

Another Question!

At a Lancastrian dinner the other evening Sir Edwin Stockton, who can always be relied on for a good story, told this:

During one of his electioneering campaigns in Manchester, a small voice from the back of the hall asked if the candidate was in favor of "free milk for poor expectant mothers."

Sir Edwin replied that he was, whereupon an exceedingly gruff voice followed with the question: "And are you in favor of free beer for expectant fathers?"

Japanese Hero Honored

Admiral Count Togo, commander of the Japanese fleet which destroyed the Russian squadrons in the battle of the Sea of Japan in May, 1905, now celebrated by his eighty years, has special permission to carry a cane when visiting the imperial court. The carrying of sticks of any sort in the presence of the nation's rulers is forbidden by court etiquette, but exception in the case of the aged sea hero was made by formal ruling of the minister of the imperial household.

Correcting a Lady Killer

Princess Blimesco at a Los Angeles tea was praising her mother, the countess of Oxford and Asquith.

"My mother," she began, "is very brilliant. A great lady killer was once describing his tactics to her.

"I play women," he said, "exactly as I play fish."

"Only," said my mother, "in the one case you angle to make them rise and in the other to make them fall."

You have heard it—they are all good automobiles—

THE impression that all cars sold at approximately the same price give approximately the same results, never was less true than today.

There are now two ways of building motor cars. One is to forget quality and build cars for trading purposes. The cost of production is cut to the bone, so that dealers may offer you more than the market value for your used car.

The Buick way is to build for quality's sake—to give owners a better new car full of value—with every modern feature.

Compare Buick design to that of other cars of the same or higher list price, and fix Buick superiority firmly in your mind, before you spend your money.

KINYON SCHOOL NOTES

(Too late for last week.)

The third, fourth and fifth grades have been studying the poem, "The Faithless Flowers."

At citizenship meeting, it was voted that Avis Forshee act as president, and Helen Rebitzki as vice president, for the rest of the year.

John Miller has been on the sick list this week.

The regular meeting of the P. T. A. was held on Tuesday of last week. Election of officers took place. President, Mrs. Frank Miller; vice president, Miss Ione Bird; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Henry Root. Contests furnished entertainment for the evening. Mr. Holcomb, Mr. Forshee and Mrs. Root, winning. A lunch was then served.

We spent last Thursday morning cleaning the school yard.

Base ball has been the favorite sport the past week.

Miss Cochran visited school Tuesday of this week. She gave us four more gold stars, making a total of nine.

The children of the citizenship club then served ice cream and wafers.

We have ordered a new flag for our school.

Avis Forshee goes to Northville, Friday to represent us in the district spelling contest.

The fifth grade has completed their geography books, and the fourth grade their arithmetic books.

We have a new spelling chart. They receive a gold star for every perfect spelling paper.

About thirteen from our district went to Wayne, Saturday, to Club

Achievement day. Helen Rebitzki had a perfect paper in the music memory contest.

The eighth graders are busy reviewing for final examinations which will be held sometime in May.

WASHTENAW FAIR

FRUIT AND FLOWER LISTS REVISED; PREMIUMS INCREASED.

The fruit and flower divisions for the 1926 Washtenaw County Fair Premium Book and program have been completely revised. A number of sections said to be unsatisfactory were eliminated from the classifications and increased premiums are offered on the more valuable varieties best suited to the soil and weather conditions of Washtenaw County.

In taking this action the Fair officials are co-operating with the Horticultural and Floricultural Departments of Michigan State College, who are endeavoring to increase the quality and good points in general of the more valuable varieties for which there is a growing demand.

The 1926 Fair Books, containing complete classifications for all divisions will be distributed early next month. Anyone desiring a copy of the revised flower list for immediate use may obtain it by communicating with the Fair Office.

The Flower Show during Fair week, August 31 to September 4, will be augmented by a non-competitive Dahlia display from Baumann's Dahlia Gardens of Birmingham.

Send us your news items, or phone them to G-F-2.

CANTON CENTER

The Detroit News held the spelling contest at the school, Friday afternoon, April 30th. Mickey Crivocean was the champion from the Palmer school. Fred C. Fischer pronounced the words for the contest. We congratulate the winner for the splendid work done.

The eighth grade students are working hard on their review, and also practicing on mental arithmetic every day for one-half an hour.

We are all preparing to go to the "Hatchet Sharpener," Friday of this week. The boys and girls are practicing on jumping, running, etc. We are also planning to attend the picnic at Elizabeth Park, June 5th, the eighth grade graduation exercises; then the graduates will receive their diplomas.

One of the Normal teachers came from the Normal College, Monday morning, to help the girls and boys with their songs for the "Hatchet Sharpener," Friday, at 10:00 o'clock. Miss Reed, our county nurse, was a caller at the school, Friday. The nurse is going to give the toxin-antitoxin to all of those who care to have it given to their children some day this week. Miss Reed will invite one doctor from Plymouth to help with the work.

The banquet that is always given to the teachers and members of the school board by the Kiwanis Club, will be given at the Masonic temple at Ypsilanti, May 12th. A six o'clock dinner will take place first, followed by a program.

The pupils of the school expect to visit the Detroit News in Detroit in the near future and also to get their new dictionaries that they are entitled to receive.

A. E. Cole is improving daily.

AROUND ABOUT US

A farm in Southfield sold recently for $503,000, or $3,500 per acre.

Northville will soon have a factory for the manufacture of aeroplanes.

The Red Umbrella, a clever little red and grey tea room on the corner of Ford and Telegraph roads, opened last Sunday.

The season opening of Westwood Inn took place last Saturday. The policy of the Inn, which is one of the oldest inns in Michigan, has been to make itself famous for the quality of its dinners.

Oakland county's 1926 road building program, as approved by the board of supervisors, will involve 25 pieces of road, totalling 109 miles of either gravel or concrete and will cost approximately a million and a half dollars. Most of the new roads are in the southern and eastern part of the county, and the two stretches in this locality being the Ormond road on the east side of White Lake and the Dublin road running from Cooley Lake to Oxbow.

PUT OUT MILK BOTTLES

TEMPLE THEATRE
Detroit, Michigan

Power's dancing elephants, the New York Hippodrome's famous pachyderms, headlines the bill at B. F. Keith's Temple theatre, starting Sunday matinee, May 9. These are the most valuable elephants in America, and their official value exceeds $100,000. There are four in the herd which includes Lena, Jennie, Koxie and Julia. Jennie is the most accomplished. Her shimmy dance is conceded to be the most difficult feat ever acquired by any elephant. In fact all of their stunts are remarkable and the result of education rather than training. Others billed are: Duel De Kerekjarto, royal violinist virtuoso; the Brille and Pello Revue, featuring Lew Kessler with Paul F. Haggarty and Bobbie Parsons; Herbert Clifton offering "Travesties of the Weaker Sex"; Lang and Haley in their comedy skit, "Who Is Your Boss?"; Carleton and Balow in "A Feast for Fashionable Fancies"; Miacahua, the wire walking wonder of Brazil; the Wilson Aubrey Trio in a sensational offering and the weekly screen features.

It's easy to lay a MULE-HIDE Roof right!

EITHER carpenter, contractor or home builder experience no difficulty in applying Mule-Hide Multiple Shingles—four-in-one—whether applying on a new home or over a present old roof.

These Multiple Shingles are made in strips 36" long and are self-spaced. All the applicator is required to do is drive a nail 1/2" above each cut-out slot. It's almost impossible to do the job wrong.

Another big time saver in applying this Mule-Hide 4-in-1 Shingle is this: You only lay 100 Mule-Hide Shingles to cover the same roof area as if you applied 1000 ordinary wood shingles. Figure the time and labor saving.

The big advantages are these. You are never required to paint Mule-Hide Shingles because the natural slate surfacing never fades or bleaches (artificially dyed mineral surfacing does) and the big thing to remember is this: You can't burn slate—that is the reason why Mule-Hide Shingles (and roll roofing) are fire-safe—and so recognized by the Insurance Underwriters who allow a special price concession when these shingles are applied either on new homes or over present old, curled and decayed roofs.

Come in and see us before you buy your next roof—and save money.

THE THEATRE

"MONTE CARLO"

Lew Cody, long distinguished on the screen as a sophisticated heartbreaker and home wrecker, emerges triumphantly as a first-water comedian in his latest vehicle, "Monte Carlo," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production directed by Christy Cabanne, coming to the Pennington Allen theatre, Saturday, May 8th.

"Monte Carlo" is a frothy comedy, smooth moving and well constructed, with more of a plot than is afforded most comedies, and Cody's distinguished performance as the American scion of wealth, who, estranged from his father, suddenly finds himself receiving the adulation of a prince because he accidentally acquired the prince's clothes, gives his hilarious situation a delicious flavor.

Cody's place in comedy of this type seems assured after his work in "His Secretary" and "Monte Carlo."

Gertrude Olmstead has the leading feminine role in the picture and acquits herself creditably indeed. She is charming and appealing as the little New England school ma'am who comes to Monte Carlo after winning a popularity contest in her home town. Trixie Friganza, famous on the vaudeville stage, where she has been a headliner for many years, has the part of Flossie, the petty proprietress of the small town garage, who, with Gertrude Olmstead and ZaSu Pitts, finds herself precipitated into a trip to Monte Carlo by reason of winning the local newspaper's popularity contest.

Cody, Trixie, ZaSu and Harry Myers, as Greaves, the faithful valet, carry the major part of the comedy, and the results are side-splitting. In addition the cast of comedians includes Karl Dane, whose ascent since his role of the big Swede in "The Big Parade," has been spectacular; Arthur Hoyt, the "height of insignificance"; Cesare Gravina and Roy D'Arcy, the crown prince of "The Merry Widow."

The romantic theme and the fun making march side by side through the film. There is a brilliant fashion show done in true colors, which shows a tremendous advance in this branch of film technique.

"BEVERLY OF GRAUSTARK"

"Beverly of Graustark," which comes to the Pennington Allen theatre, Sunday and Monday, May 9 and 10, is Marlon Davies' best picture. The star of "Yolanda," "Little Old New York," "Janice Meredith," "Zander the Great," "Lights of Old Broadway" and other big screen successes, has never appeared to better advantage than in this exceedingly popular tale of an American girl's adventures in royal court circles abroad.

George Barr McCutcheon is one of the most successful and popular novelists America has produced. "Beverly of Graustark" was a best-seller for years. Literally millions of people are familiar with the story and will flock to view its picturization. It was with his Graustark stories that McCutcheon established the current vogue for romantic stories dealing with mythical kingdoms abroad. "Beverly of Graustark" was among the first and best of these stories. It has played to big success on the stage, and holds an affectionate place in the memories of the thousands who viewed it behind the footlights. It was long popular in stock.

Opposite Marlon Davies in this production appears one of the screen's most popular leading men, Antonio Moreno, now playing in Ingram's immensely successful "Mare Nostrum," boasts a tremendous following of his own, and is destined to increase it by the striking work which he has done in this film.

Sidney Franklin, director of "Her Night of Romance," "Learning to Love" and "Her Sister from Paris," has produced "Beverly of Graustark" on an elaborate and spectacular scale commensurate with its importance to the screen. As in every other Cosmopolitan production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, no expense has been spared to make the film a genuine milestone in motion picture progress. A distinguished supporting cast, headed by Creighton Hale and Roy D'Arcy, appears with Miss Davies and Moreno, and the entire troupe has been directed with that finesse and skill and understanding of action and dramatic continuity which is the key to Director Franklin's astonishingly successful career in the directorial field.

"Beverly of Graustark" is the most appealing love story ever screened. This tale of an American girl's adventurous perils amidst foreign intrigue, ending in marriage to a Crown Prince, is compounded of the dregs and desires of every girl who ever lived. "Beverly of Graustark" is going over big.

"THE GRAND DUCHESS AND THE WAITER"

The latest comedy opus from the Paramount organization, "The Grand Duchess and the Waiter," may well be characterized as a triple triumph. It will come to the Pennington Allen theatre, Wednesday, May 12th.

It is certainly a triumph for Malcolm St. Clair, the rising young directorial genius, who has taken this frisky French stage success by Alfred Savoir and transferred it to the silver sheet with the regal opulence of a De Mille and the Continental sophistication of a Lubitsch.

It is a decided triumph for Adolphe Menjou, whose smooth and polished performance of the wealthy Parisian boulevardier masquerading as a waiter is the finest exposition of screen artistry the current season has produced.

It is assuredly a triumph for Florence Vidor, who looks ravishly beautiful in her new French bob and startling array of fashionable gown creations, and who plays the role of the haughty and fascinating Grand Duchess with the charm and poise and consummate skill of a seasoned trouper.

These two, Menjou and Miss Vidor, hold the center of the stage throughout the unrolling of the picture and provoke a continuous succession of laughs and chuckles. The plot, though of light substance, has been so deftly handled by St. Clair that it becomes a matter of considerable interest in itself and keeps the audience wondering what's coming next and how it's all going to end.

The action hinges on Menjou's experiences as a waiter and later as a member of the Duchesses' personal staff. The idea of falling in love with a servant is unthinkable to the Duchess, and yet there is something about Menjou that piques her curiosity and stirs her emotions. But the waiter's suave love-making finally sweeps away all barriers. Even then her pride prompts her to run away, but a persistent search and a complete explanation bring happy results.

Today's Reflections

Patriotism is the ability to believe that tires would be cheaper if the rubber trust was operated by Americans instead of British.

Few Plymouth parents now give their children music lessons. They just teach them how to run the radio or the phonograph.

Wouldn't there be a lot of yelling if some fellows could come back and find how much their families had to pay in inheritance taxes?

Maybe the reason more of us are not famous is because some of us still have to work for a living.

They say that it is "better to have loved and lost." And a lot of Plymouth husbands can testify that it is cheaper.

It has been our observation that a man seldom has his heart in his work unless he has his back in it, too.

They say Florida real estate business is becoming so valuable they make those coming away dust off their cars before they cross the state line.

Heredity is something the average Plymouth father believes in until his son gets to acting the darned fool.

A census in one Kansas county shows 369 sheep and 1894 dogs. Maybe if they'd use the x-ray they could tell where the other sheep went to.

Maybe the reason they print the bill of fare in French in some of the swell city hotels is because what you don't know won't hurt you.

Plymouth husbands do not object to having their wives use a little powder on their faces, but any of them object to going with a wife who is so powdered up she looks like a marsh-mallow.

The best singing in the world is that of the birds. And they don't get up amateur concerts and insist that everybody buy a ticket.

Don't kick because your kids are noisy. Suppose you lived in Holland where they wear wooden shoes.

Nothing provokes a Plymouth man more than to get down his last summer's light-weight trousers and find that the seat needs half-soleing.

ERRORS IN BUYING OF REAL ESTATE.

At this particular time of the year there is more activity in the purchase of real estate than at any other period in the year, and it is well that many things are to be considered when making purchases.

It is true that an investment in real estate in Plymouth and vicinity is probably as good an investment as can be made in that line, but like anything else it has possibilities for disaster.

One of the common errors is to buy more real estate than you can afford. Sometimes unexpected expenses pile up and demand more of your earnings than you figure, so you are unable sometimes to meet the installments on your property.

Another error often made is the possibilities of a quick resale. Increase in values depend a great deal on future progress, which is hard to determine. Buying real estate for a quick turn-over makes it a speculation, where it should be considered as an investment.

Too many people are swayed by unreasonable promises, when purchasing. Promises should be contained in the contract. One must use reason in real estate investments. Get advice from a reputable Realtor, whose duty it is to safeguard investors and advise them of the true values as near as possible of sound investments.

Deal with a Realtor.

CODE OF ETHICS OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REAL ESTATE BOARDS.

Article 17. When acting as agent in the management of property, a Realtor should not accept any commission, rebate, or profit on expenditures made for the owner, without his full knowledge and consent.

Article 18. The exclusive listing of property should be urged and practiced by a Realtor as a means of eliminating misunderstanding and dissensions and assuring better service to the owner.

Article 19. The acceptance by a Realtor of an exclusive listing imposes the obligation of rendering skilled and conscientious service; when a Realtor is unable to render such services either himself or with the aid of his fellow-Realtors, he should not accept the listing.

Article 20. Before offering a property listed with him by the owner, it is the Realtor's duty to advise the owner honestly and intelligently regarding its fair market value.

Part 3.—Relations to Customers and the Public.

Article 21. It is the duty of every Realtor to protect the public against fraud, misrepresentation, or unethical practices in connection with real estate transactions.

Article 22. Property should be offered by a Realtor solely on its merit without exaggeration, concealment or any form of deception or misleading representation.

Article 23. It is the duty of a Realtor to ascertain all pertinent facts concerning every property for which he accepts the agency, so that in offering the property he may avoid error, exaggeration, and misrepresentation.

Article 24. A Realtor should never offer a property without the authorization of the owner.

Article 25. The price at which a Realtor offers a property should not be higher than that which the owner has openly agreed to take.

Article 26. Before a Realtor buys for a client property in the ownership of which the Realtor has an interest, he should disclose his interest to all parties to the transaction.

Article 27. Before a Realtor sells property in the ownership of which he is interested, he should make it clear to the purchaser that he is acting solely for the owner.

Article 28. A Realtor when acting as a broker should make it clear for which party he is acting, and he should not receive compensation from more than one party except with the full knowledge and consent of all parties to the transaction.

Article 29. Under no circumstances should a Realtor permit any property in his charge to be used for illegal or immoral purposes.

Article 30. In closing transactions, the Realtor should advise the use of legal counsel when the interest of any party to the transactions appears to require it; and in all cases he should exercise care in the preparation of documents so that they shall embody the exact agreements reached.

Article 31. At the time the agreement is reached as to the terms of a transaction the Realtor should fully inform each party regarding commissions and other expenses to which each is respectively liable.

Article 32. Before the closing of a transaction, the Realtor should recommend the examination of title and conveying papers.

Article 33. All contracts and agreements to which a Realtor is a party should be made in writing and should be complete and exact.

Article 34. A Realtor should never be instrumental in introducing into a neighborhood a character of property or occupancy, members of any race or nationality, or any individuals whose presence will clearly be detrimental to property values in that neighborhood.

Article 35. No instructions nor inducements from any client or customer relieve the Realtor from his responsibility strictly to observe this Code of Ethics.

SPANISH COURTSHIP GIRL'S LIFE GLORY

Drab Existence Follows Ceremony at Altar.

In a Spanish girl's life courtship is her crown and triumph, writes Barbara Pender in the London Mail.

Like the queen bee, emerging from the nest to soar upwards in the blue, pursued by desirous mates till captured by one, thence homeward to domesticity and innumerable progeny, so the Spanish maiden has her day, of which she makes full use; small blame to her.

Spanish girls have numerous suitors, but are rarely engaged more than once, an engagement being almost as binding as marriage. The suitor begins by following the girl everywhere. He sends discreet little notes through the concierge, haunts cinemas and theaters, and when he finds her gazes at her all the time.

She, too, looks occasionally. . . . Then comes a daily conversation in the street or through the grilled window behind which she is safely barred; or he may stand outside the door of the flat talking through a grille. At this stage he is not permitted to visit her, so the love-talk lasts from one to three hours.

Very little notice is apparently taken of the couple by their respective families, though no parents are more astute. If the novia is duly approved, in due course the engagement becomes formal. The girl's family then receive the young man's family in state, there is a banquet and general rejoicing, and the novia gives his sweetheart a bracelet—as magnificent as possible.

He can now go to the house, sit next to her at the theater and walk by her side in the street—though not alone. Her mother or a companion is on the other side, looking as bored as the girl looks happy. For the Spaniard makes love inimitably. It is not with him a thing apart; it is his whole existence.

He devours her with his eyes; he pours forth passionate, adoring words; he is at her feet, her slave; and she, his queen, is afire with love and devotion. It is her hour and she revels in it. It matters not where they are, how many people present—each demands the whole attention of the other.

But she is still unattained—and therein lies the glamor. I used to watch an engaged couple at the cinema and was fascinated. A year after marriage, I still watched. She came with the full paraphernalia—a young baby and nurse. But the lover, the slave, the kneeler at her feet, was not there. Cafe, club or business had claimed him with returned zest.

He is secure of his wife. She has her baby; she will probably have one a year. He is free as air; he can still soar in the blue. She is not; but in her smoldering eyes lies the remembrance of courtship days.

Says Boston Bobbed First

Boston women, as far back as the '70s and '80s, wore their hair cut short. The bob had originated by one, Sam Lang, who is still cutting hair in Lynn, Mass., says the Boston Post.

The women of that time wore their hair curled in ringlets from the forehead to the nape of the neck, but it was nothing more than an ordinary bob with curls. Lang had a way of marceling with old-fashioned curling tongs, and although the curls were not enduring, they were good enough for the aristocracy of Beacon Hill, for from there Lang drew most of his patronage.

And Lang did not learn his business in Paris, either. He went to Boston direct from Waterville, Maine.

Short Coats as Protest

Members of a smart Parisian club have resolved to wear very narrow ties and very short coats in protest against the hardness of the times and the high taxation. History will thus repeat itself. In 1792, the carmagnole, a short jacket, was adopted by thousands of advanced revolutionaries, but soon went out of favor. The "convention" was solemnly asked to order all citizens to wear a national costume, so that the new principle of equality should receive complete expression. That idea was never adopted. Toward the end of the second empire a "Robespierre waistcoat," white, with large lapels, was worn by some opponents of the regime.

Will Be Great Cathedral

The Protestant Episcopal cathedral of St. John the Divine is now in process of construction on Morningglade heights, New York. The cornerstone was laid December 27, 1892. In 1911 the choir and crossing were completed. They are in Romanesque style. For the construction of the nave a modified Gothic style was later adopted. The plan calls for a total length of not more than 520 feet, a width of 290 feet and a height of 425 feet to the top of the spire.

Back-Yard Silkworm Farm

Thousands of school children in the United States owe their first-hand knowledge of the industrious silkworm to T. A. Keleber, an amateur entomologist of Washington, who for 26 years has been experimenting with silk worm culture in his own back yard. On half a dozen mulberry trees he raises from 10,000 to 20,000 of the creatures a year, distributing them among schools as living exhibits. Every cocoon contains from 750 to 1,000 yards of silk thread.

THIRD in the World

-and Sales still mounting

During the first three months of 1926 Dodge Brothers, Inc., built and sold more motor vehicles than any other manufacturer in the world, except Ford and Chevrolet.

71,189 retail deliveries were made by Dodge Brothers Dealers in the United States and Canada between January second and April third. This represents a gain of 37 per cent over the same period last year and 69 per cent over the first quarter of 1924!

Third largest in the world! And sales CONTINUING to mount week after week to new record breaking levels.

In fact, during the week ending April 24th retail sales reached the remarkable total of 9,566—the greatest single week in Dodge Brothers history!

These figures are all the more significant when you realize that the gain of the industry as a whole over last year is only 12 per cent.

There could be no more convincing evidence that today's product is regarded as better than ever before and that the present prices make it the most impressive value Dodge Brothers have ever offered.

King's Speech Seldom Great State Document

As a rule little attempt is made to prepare a "king's speech" which can be called a great state document. In the last conservative government before the war there was a speech on one occasion which had been so much maltreated in the process of revision that the clerk to the council apologized to the lord chancellor for the form in which it was sent up to him for reading in the house of lords. "Oh," said the lord chancellor, cheerfully, "I don't mind. You see, I generally get one version of the speech from the lord president and another from the prime minister, and they rarely agree. But I don't worry, because the papers get their copy from some third source, which differs from either of the others!"

Lloyd George, in Paris, gayly canceled the draft prepared by his colleagues and had a substitute prepared under his own eye. This, when pruned of some "flamboyance," was quite a remarkable effort, though it was finally passed only a quarter of an hour before the council met. At the other end of the scale might be placed a later speech, the clumsiness of which so annoyed Lord Balfour that he devoted a morning in bed to the production of something a little more grammatical.

Speeches from the throne were casual and intermittent pleasures until James I introduced the practice of making a personal explanation of his reasons for summoning parliament. At the opening of the first parliament held after his accession in 1604, the new monarch, always fond of hearing his own voice, treated lords and commons to a long and well-informed speech, which was well received and gained him a somewhat fulsome compliment from his lord chancellor. Being expected to follow on his majesty's oration, Lord Ellesmere, apparently overcome with emotion, said: "A Lacedaemonian, being once invited to hear one that could imitate the nightingale very well, replied, 'I have heard the nightingale itself. And why should you be troubled with croaking of a chancellor that have heard the powerful expression of a most eloquent king?'"—Manchester Guardian.

Misplaced Joking

The week's prize father and son story is told of an observance in Birmingham, attended by the best fathers and sons of that community. Everything went beautifully at the banquet and the forensic festivities that followed it, but the fireworks started when some 300-pound fathers repaired to the dressing rooms after the show was over to look for their clothes. They couldn't find them. The sons, in a spirit that was at once restive and playful, had mixed them all up. Sons observed one of the more or less late fathers, should be taught that probably the most inappropriate time to indulge in practical joking is at the father-and-son banquet.—Washington Star.

Parachute Well Tested

Just to see if parachutes will open as they should, a California man permits himself to be blown over a cliff several times a day, trusting that the support will save him from death or serious injury when he lands at the bottom, 200 feet below. With the harness strapped securely to him, the daring jumper steps into the path of a powerful wind current caused by a motor-driven fan at the top of the cliff and near its edge.

If the parachute is properly constructed, the blast of air will open the folds and the tester will be dragged along, suddenly swinging into space for a safe descent. At least three trials with each parachute are required before the equipment is considered thoroughly tested.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Americans Are Taller

The average American is taller than the average European by nearly an inch. Doctor Hrdlicka, Smithsonian anthropologist, says so. The average American man is 5 feet 8.6 inches; the average American woman 5 feet 3.7 inches. It has taken a comparatively short 300 years to produce a distinct American type of human, with these characteristics: Slenderness, narrow hands and feet, brown hair, longish oval face, reduced cheek bones, relatively long nose, moderately developed jaw bone and thin lips—the last a marked indication of the nervous, active temperament. Our climate keeps us from becoming phlegmatic, making it a virtue to cultivate repose and poise.—Capper's Weekly.

Celebrating

After taking possession of their new home on Kingsley drive, Frank and Viola were disturbed, soon after retiring, by the crowing of a neighbor's rooster.

"Did you hear those roosters crowing this morning early?" queried Frank.

"Yes, dear," replied Viola.

"I wonder what on earth they want to do that for?" puzzled Frank.

"Why, don't you remember, dear, you got up one morning early to go on a trip with Brad, and you crowed about it for a week?"—Los Angeles Times.

Old Book Discovered

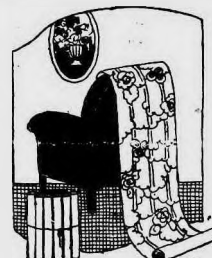

A book printed in 1797 at Schenectady, N. Y., and preserved through many brushes with the Indians and from a watery grave when the covered wagon which brought it West went down in the Platte river, has been discovered at Vancouver, Wash., in the possession of A. P. Daley. The volume contains letters addressed to the Protestant ministers in British churches by Melville Horne, then chaplain of Sierra Leone, in Africa. It was printed by C. P. Wyckoff in Schenectady, and for years it was the property of George Ackles.
