It is pointed out that this modern hotel when built in Plymouth, will advertise Plymouth all over the country as being a wide awake community.

There will be three big free-sets, hand concrete, large and varied exhibits in all departments.

In addition to the above points in the community where a modern hotel will be built, progress will be made in many other ways.

any small number of men to carry through alone, and because it is decidedly a community proposition in which the entire community will be benefited.

The citizens of Plymouth are generally united on this new hotel proposition. Every person who has studied his community agrees and knows that a modern hotel is urgently needed at the present time.

DON'T TRY IT

We read in a daily paper a statement credited to Dr. Eric Harliner, of London to the effect that he has been keeping tab on auto accidents with the result that he finds 40 or 45 miles an hour the most dangerous speed for a car. He says when an accident occurs while a car is going 80 or 90 miles an hour, when there is a collision or it goes in the ditch, the persons in it usually escape with a few bruises. This, says the doctor is due to the fact that a person's body in such cases is generally thrown with such force that it "skips" and rolls along on the ground. But when the auto is going 40 or 45 miles an hour, the riders are more likely to be tossed up in the air in such manner that they usually land on their heads. Everyone is entitled to his own opinion about this, and there is no reason why any driver in Plymouth can't disagree with the doctor if he wants to. For our part, we prefer to let somebody else be in the car or in front of it when something goes wrong, regardless of whether it is going 4 or 400 miles an hour.

WHO OWNS THE AIR?

There has always been a general understanding that when a man owns a piece of ground he owns everything above it to the sky and everything below it to the center of the earth. But radio has come along. It seems to change that, for radio passed over and beneath a man's ground, and yet he doesn't own or control the radio waves. In fact some fellow hundreds of miles away is taking possession of his "air," and using it as he sees fit. What come-back has the owner of the ground? How can he prevent his "air" being used? The answer is—he can't. He has but one good way to get even, or to get a return on his air, and that is to get a radio set and enjoy other people's air. We are getting around to the season when Plymouth people who do not know as yet the great value of a radio set will have favorable weather for finding out. Don't let the belief that "radio isn't yet perfect" keep you out of a good thing.

ANOTHER HARD WINTER

Along last summer Herbert J. Browne, a Chicago scientist, declared the winter of 1925-26 would be the most severe for a good many years, and that it would be followed by a very late spring. Every citizen of Plymouth now knows how well his forecast came true. So they ought to be interested in Mr. Browne's latest prediction—though they will probably not be pleased with it. He says we are in for another severe winter, like the last one, and that there is no need in letting ourselves believe that because last winter was a severe one the coming winter will be mild.

If we knew a lot about science we could understand Mr. Browne's reasons for predicting still another long, cold winter; but most of us have always been too busy keeping the wolf from the door to devote any time to science. However, we can understand what he means when he says that since 1922 there hasn't been sufficient heat from the sun to keep the glaciers in the far north from getting larger and the icebergs more numerous, and that as a result they have moved farther down in the North Atlantic and North Pacific, causing our winters to last longer—even to extend into April and May.

But we are not as much interested in what causes long, cold winters as we are interested in getting a few more normal ones. And even Mr. Browne must realize this, for he tempers his prediction with the statement that

"after next winter they should return to about normal again."

THE LITTLE THINGS

Plymouth men who are always looking for a chance to make one "whaling big profit" and then quit ought to find something to study about in the financial report of the nation's four largest five-and-ten cent store companies, recently made public. That report shows that the stores belonging to these four chains made a net profit of $48,000,000 in 1925. The largest chain had a profit of $20,000,397, from 1423 stores, and nothing in any of these stores was sold for more than ten cents.

All this vast profit came from the sale of little things, thousands of sales piling up an enormous volume and quick turnover. On many sales the profit was but a single penny—but look what the combined profit amounts to when thousands upon thousands of sales are made.

There isn't anything that can be classed as trifling any more; everything has a value. It may not be much, but saved and wisely used it doubles and triples itself within a very short time. Old Ben Franklin was about as wise as they get, even in his day or ours, and when he said that saving a few pennies daily means saving dollars yearly, he knew what he was talking about. The little savings, and the little sales, are not to be scoffed at. If you ever go into business you cannot hope for success unless you practice it.

CHARLES WOLFF

PASSES AWAY

Charles Wolff was born in Wildberg, Germany, on the 9th of April, 1855. Here he was baptised and confirmed in the Lutheran faith. Here also, he was united in marriage with Caroline Schwartz. In the year 1885, the deceased immigrated to the United States. This union was blessed with seven children.

After a residence of about ten years in Southfield and Relford townships, he purchased a farm in Livonia township on the five mile road, where the family resided until 1917, when he moved to Plymouth, Michigan, to the residence on Spring street. Here his beloved wife passed away four years ago on the 9th of April, her husband's birthday. After a lingering illness during which the deceased was confined to his bed for about eight months, he departed this life on Thursday morning, August 19, 1926, at the age of 71 years, four months and ten days. He leaves to mourn him: Two sons, William and Charles; five daughters, Mrs. Anna Melow, Mrs. Bertha Ash, Mrs. Marie Peck, Mrs. Lillian LaFave and Mrs. Elsie Salow; 22 grandchildren, one brother, William, and a large circle of other relatives and friends.

The deceased was for more than a quarter of a century a faithful and respected member of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church of Livonia Center, serving same for many years as trustee, treasurer, and a member of the Church Council. His hope and faith for time and eternity was based upon the Savior of Sinners, Jesus Christ, and he remained true to it unto the end. What was his hope in life and death is our comfort at his grave.

He was laid to rest on Saturday afternoon, August 21st, in Riverside cemetery, Rev. Oscar J. Peters, pastor of St. Paul's church of Livonia Center, officiating.

THE interest an investment pays is important, but far from everything. Of equal, if not greater importance, are safety, value and marketability.

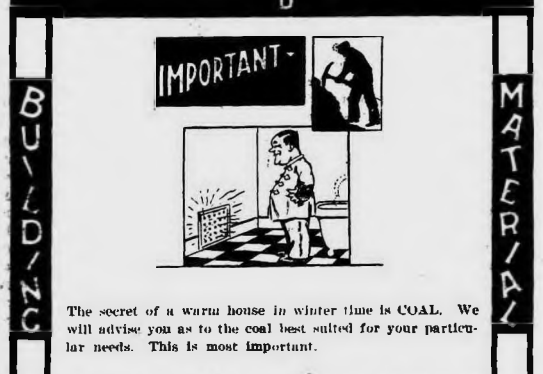

Besides paying a fair yield, a savings account is the safest investment you can make. Furthermore, unlike government, railroad and industrial bonds, it never fluctuates in value. And unlike mortgage bonds, your money in a savings account can be quickly recovered.

Just on its merits as an investment, a savings account here heads the list.

BAPTIST NOTES

The pastor was back from his vacation trip Sunday, and a fine audience greeted him and his wife. Their northern journey took them as far as Mackinaw City. There were eight in the party, and they traveled over 800 miles.

Everyone seemed to be in good spirits Sunday morning, while the pastor spoke from Luke 4:18. "The Mission of Jesus."

The church is hoping to have a special meeting early this fall. Let every member of the church enter heartily into the work, and may it prove a soul winning time for our community.

Some needed improvements have been made to the church. There is a new door at the basement entrance, and the large double doors at the main entrance have been rebuilt and painted, and put in good order.

New singing books are on the way to supply the need as the congregation increases.

The Sunday-school has kept its number up better than common this summer, and the rally day is not far off. Get ready for that day and invite your friends to come.

Albert Seger led the B. Y. P. U. last Sunday night. Hope every member of the society will be present before the students have to leave for school.

Remember next Saturday at Pfeiffer's market, the A division of the Ladies' Aid Society will hold a fried-cake and cookie sale.

The B Division of the Ladies' Aid Society will have a bazaar and supper at the Grange hall, afternoon and evening of September 3rd. Plan to be there. Supper, 50c.

A committee has been appointed to receive donations for the Baptist Children's Home, near Birmingham. Fruit, jellies, vegetables, groceries, anything that can be used in a home. The final day to receive these gifts will be the second Thursday in September. The committee is composed of W. Postiff, H. Miller, J. Hancock, Mrs. J. Stanley and Mrs. L. Schaaf.

METHODIST NOTES

Miss Ida Vie Lendrum and little Virginia Lendrum of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. are guests at the parsonage.

The General Air Society will meet in the church parlors Wednesday afternoon.

Mogul Fighter Saw

No Shame in Flight
The reader of Babar's Memoirs will be struck by the frequency with which Babar and his Moguls ran away.

Don't forget that they were Mongols, whose first instinct when surprised or beaten in the night, was to take to horse, put distance between themselves and the swords of their enemies and then stop and find out what it was all about.

It was all very different from the battles of medieval Europe, when a reigning monarch might take the field and remain by his standard without mixing up very much in the fighting, and surrendering if matters went against him. He would be then "chivalrously entreated," entertained and probably ransomed. Then he could start in and fight another battle.

Babar couldn't. If he was captured that would be the end of him. He wasn't captured, somehow or other, and so he had to fight.

The fact is that Babar tells the simple truth. He laughs at himself when he has to run and he admits quite unaffectedly that he was scared stiff when he thought he was about to die. When he was carried away by battle fever and tried to make a stand with a hundred warriors against a couple of thousand, he takes pains to point out what a fool he was.

In his greatest battle, when some 12,000 Moguls faced 100,000 Rajputs, he confesses that his men were in a blue funk, and more than half confesses that he thought he would be worsted. As a matter of fact he won a remarkable victory by his generalship. All he says is that God made conquerors instead of martyrs of the Moguls.

Babar was incurably courageous. He gambled incessantly with his life—hunted rhinoceros and tiger on horseback with his bow and sword, swam across every river he came upon, spent nights without shelter on the Hindu kush in midwinter, climbed the ice cliffs of the Karatagh. He led his men into a hundred-odd fights, had at least four horses shot under him, was wounded five or six times, poisoned once and given up for dead another time.—Adventure Magazine.

Oratorical Flight

In the opinion of the Detroit Free Press the palm for attainment of oratorical attitudes should be awarded Representative C. L. Abernethy of North Carolina. In the house of representatives. During the recent session, he said:

"If all the chewing tobacco manufactured in one year in North Carolina were made into one big succulent plug, and a man standing on top of Mount Mitchell bit a chew from its thick corner, his voracious chin would drop so far that it would break the back of a somnolent shark at the profound bottom of the Gulf of Mexico, while his anticipative mustache, standing out like the quills of a fretful porcupine, would make the stickled ankles of the flappers of New Jersey's northernmost verandas, shrinkingly suspect the sting and bite of a new and unconquerable mosquito."

POLICE PRECINCT NO. 9 VS. DEHOCO CLUB.

The Police Dep't No. 9 Precinct realized their ambition, Saturday, by defeating the Dehoco Club team, 8 to 7. After the Farmers had them beaten, 7 to 1 up to the eighth inning, the Cops made three runs in the eighth and three runs in the ninth, tying the score. Bowman, who helped to defeat the Farmers last Saturday, got away to a bad start, and was relieved by Herkley in the fifth and held the Dehoco Club to two runs, while the Cops piled up seven runs off Trombley's delivery, who deserved to win. It was a tough game for him to lose, but good pitching cannot overcome bad base running, errors and bone-head plays.

DEHOCO CLUB VS. BARTON PLUMBERS.

Those who saw the game Sunday, between the Barton Plumbers and the Dehoco Club, saw a style of pitching by Shields that was different from anything yet displayed on the home grounds. His weird underhand delivery was a puzzle to the Farmers and had he not had a bad start, the result might have been different. Rowland pitched one of the best games he has pitched this year.

The Farmers won, 3 to 2, after the Plumbers had tied it up in the eighth. Jaska, who was "beated" in the third, singled in the tenth, took second on a fielder's choice and scored the winning run, when, on an attempt to steal, Lewis threw the ball into left field.

AN AIRPLANE ACCIDENT

TWO PLYMOUTH GENTLEMEN NARROWLY ESCAPE DEATH.

Pleasure riding in a passenger airplane at the Irish Hills last Sunday, proved to be a thrilling adventure, coupled with serious cuts and bruises to the occupants of the machine. Robert McKee, wife and son, Elmer, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Knuski of East Plymouth, motored to the Irish Hills to spend the day with friends. Among the amusements at the resort this season, the passenger airship making hourly flights seems to be very popular. Mr. McKee and Mr. Knuski decided to make a flight, and after a few preliminaries, the gentlemen were strapped into their seats, and the signal given for the start.

The plane made a perfect get-away, and ascended to a height of 7,000 feet and circled a distance of several miles in the surrounding area. In returning to the place of starting, the pilot tried to make a landing, but saw that his machine would glide into a boggy patch near his take-off, so decided to raise his plane to seek out a better position. In steering his machine upward again when about 50 feet in the air, it was caught in an air pocket, and hurled to the ground before the pilot could shift his levers.

A crowd immediately rushed to the machine, which was completely demolished, and succeeded after much difficulty in extricating the pilot and his passengers, who were rushed to a nearby first aid station, and later removed to their homes. Mr. McKee and Mr. Knuski suffered severe lacerations about the head and face, and the pilot suffered a fractured skull.

NEW SPORT ROADSTER BY DODGE BROTHERS

The new sport roadster with rumble seat which is now being displayed in the showrooms of Dodge Brothers dealers everywhere offers an unusual combination of beauty and service.

The dashing appearance and smart rakish lines of this new addition to Dodge Brothers line will win the instant admiration of everyone who takes pride in a touch of individuality in the appearance of the car he drives.

There is a striking contrast between the tan colored top, the brilliant pheasant green laquer of the body and hood and the lustrous black of the fenders and shields. The highly polished nickel of the bumpers, lamp rims, radiator shell, windshield stanchions and top bow trimming adds a distinctive touch.

The cushion and back of the rumble seat, like the front upholstery, are of hand buffed gray Spanish genuine leather, constructed over spring frames to insure maximum riding ease. The back is high and well pitched. The deck is so constructed that when the seat is folded the rear compartment is absolutely waterproof, even in the rainiest weather.

Exceptional space, easily accessible through a large covered opening behind the driver's seat, is provided for carrying of golf clubs, tennis rackets, parcels or luggage.

TEMPLE THEATRE

Stella Mayhew, America's cheeriest comedienne, and Dave Apollon and Company, are announced as the headliners on the bill at B. F. Keith's Temple theatre starting Sunday matinee. Miss Mayhew offers a collection of character songs written especially for her by Paul Gerard Smith. Mr. Apollon presents his "Apollonian Revue," assisted by Marjorie Lane, Dorothy Charles and the Manila orchestra. Others billed: Frank Davis and Adele Darnell known as "The Birdseed Couple" in their rip roaring comedy skit "Caterpillar;" Sun Fong-Lin and Co., direct from Pekin, in a routine of sensational Chinese novelties; Frank Farros, dealer in laughs; Mimi Lindsay and "Sultan" in an equine surprise; two acts to fill, and the weekly screen program.

The Main Thing

Harold Hartney, vice president of the General Airways system, which offers to train the government's airmen for $5,000,000 a year, said at a luncheon in New York:

"A Commercial flying school would be rather a novelty—like the matrimonial school, you know."

"A canvasser called at a home that boasted six grown-up daughters and two teen-agers, and said to the lady of the house: 'I represent a new school that has just opened in Temperance hall, madam—a school to teach young ladies to be good wives. Would you care to enroll your daughters?'"

"Enroll the lady, do you—guarantee situations afterwards?"

Truly a Family Affair

Published by W. E. LaFayette, his wife and their nine children, the Lake Washington Reflector of Bellevue, near Seattle, is a real family journal. Under the direction of Sylvia, age fourteen, who is foreman and assistant manager, seven of the children set type and print the tri-monthly issue. Gloria, age thirteen, is the champion typewriter, boasting four "stickies full" in an hour. Janice, age five, printer's devil, tells the girls on press day and can already set her name in capital letters. Mrs. LaFayette collects and writes the news, while her husband writes the editorial and manages the business department.

A Surprise for Mrs. Spurling

So changed were the floors that Mrs. Spurling, back from a week's visit to the city, could hardly believe it was her own house. Jim had had Frank Lovejoy, the painter, get busy with Acme Quality Floor Paint and Varnish. The floors were refinished and beautified. In fact, all the wood-work smiled a welcome. And Mrs. S. said if a word and a little Acme Quality could make such a difference, she'd go away again and not come back for a month.

MUNICIPAL NOTES

BY THE MANAGER

The South Main street pavement is finished except for the curbs and the intersection paving. The County expects to let this work by contract. The pavement laid by Bert Hannan's men is certainly a nice piece of work.

A water main has been laid in the east end of Wing street and on Joy street and Pine street, to give service and fire protection to that section.

Catch basins are being installed around the corner of Holbrook and Spring street and in the block of Holbrook north of Spring street, to relieve the swimming pools that have heretofore stood at these places.

We are relaying the walk on the south side of the Plymouth road from Mill street as far as the Beals property. A large share of the old walk here was destroyed when the county paved this road.

SHERIFF WALTERS AIDS LOCAL POLICE

SAFETY WEEK, AUG. 23 TO 28.

Sheriff George Walters

Through the good will of Sheriff George A. Walters, the Detroit Auto Club is assisting our local Police Department in an official Auto Brake Test this week.

The test was held yesterday and today (Thursday and Friday) on Stark-weather avenue between 10:00 a. m. and noon, and 2:00 to 4:00 p. m., by members of the Police Department, the Detroit Auto Club and expert mechanics from our local garages, who very graciously donated their services.

In commenting on these tests, Sheriff George A. Walters says, "It is very important at this time of the year that all cars be in perfect mechanical order as they will soon be used to carry the children to and from school."

All auto drivers are asked to cooperate with the authorities by seeing that their brakes and lights are functioning properly.

Millions in Pearls

This pagoda, a part of the Japanese exhibit at the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition in Philadelphia, celebrating the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, is made entirely of pearls, and its value exceeds $1,000,000. The exposition continues until December 1.

GREAT SHOW FEATURES ON STATE FAIR CARD

ENTERTAINMENT PROGRAM INCLUDES VARIETY FOR OLD AND YOUNG—SAID BEST EVER.

Royal entertainment, with features of interest to everyone in the family from Dad down to the youngest member, will be on hand for visitors at the Michigan State Fair, September 5 to 11.

A great midway, with 37 different shows and varieties on "the street," will make up the carnival side of the Fair. These shows, the famous Zeldner and Polle troupe, have been personally inspected by members of the Michigan board of fair managers, to guarantee clean, high-class attractions.

A strong line-up of Keith vaudeville acts, including the internationally known Buchman "million dollar" band, will furnish fine entertainment features in front of the grandstand during the programs there.

The universal appeal of fireworks displays will be met by nightly exhibitions which will rival anything ever seen in Michigan in the elaborate brilliance of the effects. The contracts here call for a program of international fame.

And topping off all the other entertainment features will be the races. For five days, leading Grand Circuit stables will compete in light harness classes for purses of more than $30,000; and then on Saturday, September 11, 14 championship automobile race drivers will fight it out for the $15,000 purse over the mile track. Earl Cooper, Peter DePaolo and many other race heroes will face the starter's flag.

CONCRETE HIGHWAY TO IRISH HILLS OPEN.

The completion of the state paving on the historic Chicago turnpike, known as trunk line 23, and the opening of the state highway from Detroit through Ypsilanti, Saline, Clinton and the Irish Hills to Somerset Center, was celebrated with a dinner last Friday night, at Hotel Huron, Ypsilanti, when visitors from the above towns were guests of the Ypsilanti Board of Commerce. The road was opened to traffic between Ypsilanti and Saline last Friday, and is now open from Detroit to the Hillsdale county line. This road passes through the famous Irish Hills and is a favorite drive for Plymouth motorists, and now that a concrete highway can be taken for the entire distance of fifty miles, it will be a more popular drive than ever.

The rural schools of Washtenaw County will start Tuesday, Sept. 7, instead of on Monday, Sept. 6, on account of the interruptions the previous week, Washtenaw County Fair and Labor Day occurring immediately before that date. Florence V. Essey, County Commissioner of Schools, has fixed Saturday, September 11, as the date of the opening institute for the rural teachers of Washtenaw County to be held at Ann Arbor—Washtenaw Post.

THE newest Paige cars sell for nearly a thousand dollars less than last year's Paige models. And they do it because Paige is building and selling five times as many cars this year as last. Indeed, Paige sales throughout America registered a gain of 55% in the first six months of 1926.

But even the new low prices of these Paige cars will not delight

you as much as the wonderful performance they display. They are speedy cars, powerful cars, economical cars. ## Community Building

Put in Water System Without Much Outlay

People living outside of water zones will undoubtedly be interested to learn how one similarly situated secured a water and sewer system for less than $100. The man tells about it in a letter published in Liberty, in connection with an article on home-building, after explaining that when he moved into the country from a city home the family missed running water.

"We had a fine driven well," the man writes, "and talked of a wind-mill and a big tank. One day an idea came to me. I had heard of septic tanks for sewage, and investigated and found they were easy to build. I built mine in a series of three tanks of concrete, and ran the outlet into the field far below the house. In town one day I picked up, for a dollar, a discarded hundred-gallon tank which had been a heater. I got this to the roof of our rear porch, and connected pipes down from it to the sink, the lavatory, and the bath. Then I connected it with the well and installed a hand force pump.

"It required more than 300 strokes of the pump's piston to fill the tank night and morning, and I got plenty of exercise. We pumped by hand for a year, then I bought a little electric pump as soon as the lighting company extended through our district and supplied us with light."

Community Grows With Surrounding Country

A community is somewhat like a man. Sometimes a man waits and hopes for something to turn up that will give a boost. He lives to learn that such things happen very seldom. Our community has tried to land mechanical industries but such enterprises want the community to put them in business and let them make the profits. Our farmers have solved the problem. They have taken their first lesson in diversification and it is worth more to the community than all the cotton mills we could locate and every man finances himself, and is supposed to know how much to invest. The $20,000 that came to our truckers this year was practically a surplus, as each farmer who grew berries made his usual crop besides. Now the colour will soon bring in more spot cash—how much we cannot say until they are sold. But this new means of getting ready money enables us to feel independent of foreign industries, for we only prosper as the farmers prosper.—Guntersville (Ala.) Democrat.

Placing Shrubbery

In musing shrubbery near the house it should be set about two and one-half feet from the foundation in order to assure plenty of room for roots and foliage. Vines often can be used with good effect around porches and on trellises near the windows. It is not well to plant trees in rows on lawns. Often they, as well as shrubbery, are desirable for hiding defects, for framing vistas and for the shade they furnish. Too much shade, however, will kill the grass and will keep needed sunshine from the house. A dark, damp house makes a good breeding place for disease germs. Shrubbery and trees properly placed give a house a look of permanency. The idea is to make the home an integral part of the landscape, to give it the appearance of belonging to the place where it is located.

Regional Planning

In more than a dozen cities "definitely organized regional planning agencies" have been set to work. These are in addition to other bodies which have limited planning functions, including park commissions. That much more activity in this field may be expected soon is seen by the recent enactment of legislation in New York designed to facilitate regional planning by cities and towns of the state. The rapid growth of this movement seems to indicate that the lesson of costly delay, taught by belated steps toward planning within the cities, is being taken to heart. The daily convenience and general welfare of the increasing numbers will be promoted as regional planning gains headway.

Civic Responsibility

Every house along its residence streets, as well as every building in its business blocks, is responsible for that city's good name. One shabby, neglected house can spoil the appearance of an entire neighborhood.

When home owners everywhere cooperate with the city fathers in preserving and improving private as well as public property by frequent painting the beauty of American cities will keep pace with their growth.

Need for Board of Trade

A strong board of trade or similar civic organization which unites all the industrial, business, civic and social interests of the community for the purpose of concerted action in supporting those activities which are broader than any single business or industry, but which promote the interest and welfare of the community as a whole is an essential part of every growing town.

Protection of Porch Point of Importance

There is no part of a house that is more exposed to the relentless buffeting of wind and weather than the porch. Projecting from the main body of the house and being more or less open, it is peculiarly exposed to the attack of the elements. Sun and wind, rain and snow all prey upon the protective armor of the porch. Unless this armor is extremely durable, it will not long withstand this constant attack, and must inevitably succumb to the forces of decay and disintegration.

The only adequate and suitable protection for the woodwork and metal parts of porches is frequent painting with a good brand of exterior paint. Due to its comparatively isolated location, the porch should be repainted oftener than is necessary for other portions of the house.

Just as porches require protection because they project, so, for the same reason, they are prominently on display at all times, and therefore require suitable decoration. One of the first things one notices about a house is the condition of the porch. For this reason porches should be decorated as attractively as possible. Frequently the appearance of a porch bears an important relation to the appearance of an entire house. If the porch roof is beginning to decay in the main timbers, or if the porch columns are beginning to show signs of neglect, or if the paint is beginning to peel on the steps or the floors, the appearance of the whole house is marred. Consequently a dilapidated porch will lower the value of any house.

But, aside from these reasons, we should keep our porches as attractive as possible because of what it tells about the owner.

Concerning the color schemes of porches, they should harmonize with the body of the house, though they need not be of the same color, provided a contrast color will not make them stand out conspicuously.

Wise Property Owner Never Forgets Paint

People who are most vociferous in their appreciation of the sentimental values of their homes, who let it be known to all and sundry that they would never sell their home because of old associations, are frequently the readiest to sell if they get what they call a "good offer."

They are really good salesmen, and their boasted affection for their homes is merely good sales talk. While this attitude may be a trifle calloused, there are few of us who do not keep a weather eye upon real estate values.

We are proud and pleased when there is a "boom" in our immediate neighborhood. And rightly so. We are pleased whenever the property value of our home advances, because it has materially increased our potential estate, and proud that our purchase has proved to be a wise investment.

Be Prompt in Repairing

The old adage of "a stitch in time saves nine" is especially applicable to the upkeep of a home, as one neglected item usually leads to another. A leaking gutter or down spout should be repaired immediately, as the leakage will surely damage other parts of the superstructure.

A leaky roof may cause damage to walls and decorations many times in excess of the cost to repair the roof. In the event that the home requires painting on the outside, have it done as soon as possible. Remember that wood covered on the exposed surface by a film of paint will last almost indefinitely, and one coat of paint every year will be more effective than two coats every two or three years.

Home's Ideal Qualities

A home is a good deal more than a place where people live for a longer or shorter—usually shorter—time. It is the abode also of memories, of associations, customs and habits, and of the felt presence of those "who, having finished their course in faith, do now rest from their labors." And yet, to be fair, even "amid the city's jar" there may be a peace "man did not make and cannot mar." But the peace that dwells in a long-lived-in home is hard to find in a civilization of apartments and motor cars, and among a nervously mobile and fluid population.

Repairs Around House

A great amount of satisfaction can be derived by doing things around a home when you realize that you will be doubly compensated for your money and effort by greater durability and attractiveness of your home. However, do not overestimate your ability to do things that might result in a costly waste of material if you are not able to successfully follow the job through to completion.

By Their Shape, Quality and Mark

You can tell a bundle of Winthrops by the distinctive trade mark. You can pick out a single Winthrop by its shape and quality.

It is the only tapered asphalt shingle—shaped like the attractive old time wood shingle.

The extra heavy coats of everlasting asphalt that make up the thick butt hold the shingle snug against the roof and double the wearing thickness with but little increase in the total weight of the roof or its cost.

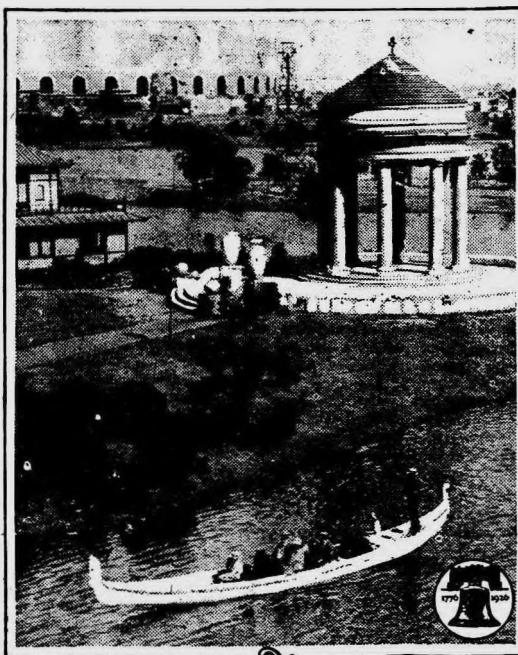

See these shingles—in attractive crushed slate surfaces of tile red, sea green or blue black—at our yard. Winthrops lay perfectly over old roofs. Let us give you prices today.

ON THE SESQUI LAGOONS

Here are Americans, visitors to the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition in Philadelphia which celebrates the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, riding about the lagoons in an Italian craft, a gondola, from which they view the buildings and displays from many lands. In the distance can be seen the mammoth Sesqui Stadium; to the right is the signal tower of the United States Coast Guard building and exhibit, and to the left is one of the Japanese pagodas which dot the exposition grounds. The Grecian pavilion is one of the permanent structures on the site before the city government decided to build the Sesqui at the front door of the great Philadelphia Navy Yard. The Exposition continues until December 1.

MYTH ABOUT GIANTS HARD TO OVERCOME

Scientific Refutation Has Been Passed Over.

For the third time within a year dispatches from northeastern Mexico record the finding of ancient bones supposed to belong to a vanished race of giants, men and women who must have stood nine or ten feet tall. A half-century ago similar reports were frequent in the eastern states, although our own discoverers were less modest than the Mexicans. Some of the giants reported from New York and New Jersey were twenty or thirty feet tall instead of a more plausible ten. All over the world these tales of giants exist. Nearly always they can be traced to some find of prehistoric bones. And always, when some competent scientist has made the journey to see these remarkable bones, the bones have vanished into nothingness.

The case of the supposed giants of New York state was simple. The bones found were those of the prehistoric animals who once roamed up and down the Hudson valley. Many of them were the bones of the mastodon, a variety of elephant which was once common in North America but became extinct before the arrival of the white men. Many natural bones are so similar to the bones of the human skeleton that they are likely to deceive any one except an expert, provided, of course, that only a single bone is available for examination, not a complete skeleton.

The explanation of the Mexican stories seems to be a different one. The bones found are undeniably human. Skulls have been found with the other bones, and the human skull is unmistakable. Nevertheless, the able scientists of the Mexican department of anthropology, who examined previous finds of this kind in the region from which the new stories come, have found no evidence at all for believing in a former race of ten-foot humans. The error seems to be in estimating the height of a living person from the bones left after he dies. These bones are laid out on the ground in what are believed to be the proper positions. The spine is joined to the large bones of the hip and the leg bones are placed next to the joints which formerly connected them with these same bones. This is natural procedure, but it is wrong. It will give a measure of height which is far too great.

In life the bones of the hip form a horizontal girdle. The leg bones join this well above its lower surface, and the spine projects down into it from the top. Thus the spine and the leg bones overlap considerably, the hip-girdle holding them in their proper positions. In reconstructing the bodily form of a vanished race from their skeletons this overlap must be taken into account, as is done by the expert anthropologists. The inexperienced are less likely to think of this or to be able to compute it accurately. Hence the idea that the bones which are found and then laid out lengthwise, without allowance for the overlap, indicates a race of extreme stature stretchable, by a little optimism, to as much as nine feet or even more. This was the explanation of the Mexican finds last year and is doubtless that of the new ones.

Remains of prehistoric man have now been found on every continent. Some of these remains are supposed to be nearly a million years old. Many of them are quite bestial in aspect, much more so than is true of any living race. Among all these finds of ancient humanity there is no indication that men were ever any larger, on the average, than they are today. Indeed, the average stature of modern man is greater than that of any of his predecessors. The verdict of anthropology is clear. There were no giants in those days, or ever.

Village That "Lags" Loses Out in Race

Need for improving country villages in the United States to meet modern social and economic needs is emphasized in a nation-wide survey made by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Most villages, declare department officials, have "just grown up" with resultant defects in form and arrangement to provide social, esthetic and economic advantages for residents and near-by farm families. The need for well-planned villages is pointed out in the fact that some 20,000,000 people in the United States live in villages, and that more than 30,000,000 farm people use these centers for purposes of trade, education, religion and recreation.

Numerous instances are cited by the department where villages have been literally rebuilt to meet modern requirements. The village of Weston, Mass., for example under the direction of the town improvement commission has in the past few years entirely reconstructed its business district to form a notable civic center. Old public buildings and shops have been removed, a disease-breeding swamp was filled in and grassed over to form a common, a beautiful new town hall was erected, public buildings were regrouped, and convenient approaches and roadways constructed.

The unfortunate results of undirected development in cities are being keenly appreciated, it is stated, and millions of dollars are now being spent to correct these conditions in an effort to make cities more approachable, traversable, convenient, orderly, and beautiful.

Home-Owning People Backbone of Nation

What this country wants is more home owners—people who can call a house a home, is the assertion of a writer in the Chicago Evening Post.

Where is the man, the great man in this country, that will rise out of the mob of material getters—where is the man who will come forward and build homes for the provident and see that these homes can be paid for on the partial payment plan, without interest, without taxes, without hindrance of any kind if necessary?

The steady, straightforward, saving and serving class are usually home owners. Let us help those who want to own their homes to own them.

Some day to own a home will be the hallmark of reliability. It is the duty and should be the privilege of every patriotic citizen, banker and business man to encourage humans to own their own homes—to do more than to encourage—to help.

Not all individuals that are interested in industry own their own homes, but nearly all humans that own their own homes hold permanent positions. Their self-interest is on the job.

As We Are Done By

A Marion mother saw her six-year-old son chasing a playmate down an alley. She called to him, but he hurled a stone at the playmate before stopping to reply to his mother. He marched rather slowly to the door, where his mother was waiting for an explanation of his conduct.

To the question: "Richard, why did you throw that stone?" he replied: "Well, he threw a stone at me, and doesn't the Bible say 'To do unto those as they do unto you?'"—Indianapolis News.

Hit the Pocket

"Ambassador Houghton's report seems to show that disarmament is a long way off," said President Theodore E. Burton of the American Peace society at a luncheon in Washington. "I'd like to suggest a disarmament idea that I'm sure would work. My idea is that each and every nation agree to support its army and navy exclusively by popular subscription."

PLEASANT OLD TOWN IS DEDHAM, ENGLAND

Essex Village Populated Before Caesar's Day.

The history of the town of Dedham in Essex, England, which has three namesakes in the United States, is extremely interesting. No one knows just when a community settled down on the present site of the village. It is known, however, that this was long before the island bore the name England. Some archeologists believe that it was populated when Caesar invaded Britain. It came to be a Roman camp in the First century A. D., and when the Saxons settled down they called the village "the home in the valley." The first written record is in the Domesday book, when "Dedham" manor is mentioned. This manor and the village which belonged to it became crown property in the Fourteenth century. It must have been an attractive place, for Henry VIII presented it to Katherine of Aragon and then to three of his other wives.

There are many fine buildings to be seen there today, which were erected many centuries back. One of the houses has the characteristic Tudor chimney. In the stables of the Sun hotel the fleur de lys is carved on the woodwork of the stalls. As the English sovereigns of Tudor times called themselves "Kings of France," the presence of this emblem of French royalty would seem to indicate that the Sun hotel belonged to the royal house of England at some time.

Dedham is a very charming and lovely village today, but it was at the height of its glory in the Sixteenth century. Its present population of 1,500 persons is half of what it was then.

This town was one of the important centers of the cloth trade which flourished there four centuries ago. One can judge of its then prosperity from the splendid buildings which were erected. One of these, Sherman hall, is of special interest to American visitors, as it was built by Edmund Sherman, an ancestor of the Civil war general, William T. Sherman. The builder gave this home to the local grammar school when he migrated to the New world. However, one would hardly suspect this to be a Tudor building, for it was remodeled together with many other buildings when the Georgian type of architecture became fashionable.

The most picturesque survival of Sixteenth century architecture is the old half-timbered quadrangle known as Southwicks, or the Flemish cottages or the Bay and Say factory. At one time this group of buildings was a cloth factory as well as the home of Flemish refugees who escaped from religious persecutions. Much of the half-timbered work, a fine old chimney, as well as handsome beams and rafters, have survived the wear of many centuries. In fact, a comparison between these ancient cottages with factories of today is not to the disadvantage of the former.—New York Times.

Joke on Paris Police

Up in northern France, says a correspondent of the New York World, a man disappeared and it was suspected that his body was lying in a large swampy wood. The local police called upon the Paris authorities for police dogs to hunt in the tangled morass for the body. Half a dozen gendarmes were sent with the dogs. As always, these officers were required to wear their best uniforms and look their smartest to impress the rustic population with the dignity of the Paris force. The immaculate gendarmes kept as far as possible, of course, from the mud of the bog, and sent the dogs into the jungle. The dogs got lost. Finally the Paris policemen, new uniforms and all, had to go wading through the mire and get the animals. You should have seen them when they came out.

Holds Affection Lightly

Paul, age six, had played with little Miriam, age four, who lived across the street, almost daily. In his own words she was his "sweetheart." But in the last few days they have not been seen together. Paul has stayed in his own front yard and back yard. The grownup girl who stays next door asked him: "Paul, what has come between your sweetie and you? I haven't seen you playing with Miriam for a long time. Does she like some other little boy better or do you have a new girl?" Paul replied disinterestedly: "Aw, I've got a turtle, now."—Indianapolis News.

Bribing the Birds

The Kings County Packing company is protecting its coming cherry crop in its large fruit orchard at Murray in a novel way. To prevent birds from eating and destroying the cherries, mulberry trees have been set out, which yield an abundance of that fruit, which is of no commercial value. Experience is said to show that where there is an abundance of mulberries the birds prefer them to cherries.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Manitoba Produces Honey

Honey production has now become a recognized phase of mixed farming in Manitoba and production figures for the last few years have shown a steady increase. Last year over 4,000,000 pounds of honey were produced in the province, having a value of $900,000. The latest statistics on this industry show that the province has 2,000 beekeepers, with 27,000 registered hives.

A nervous young gentleman, all a-flutter over the prospect of attending a party in a nearby city, rushed breathlessly into the railroad station at Bang Center.

"When does the first train leave for Galesburg?" he asked of the white-haired station agent who was perched on a truck in the baggage room. "Son," replied the agent, "the first train left for Galesburg in 1861."—Exchange.

THE THEATRE

"THE ROAD TO MANDALAY"

Grim tragedy, gaunt realism, breathless suspense, and one of the most beautiful love stories ever told on the screen combine to make a screen masterpiece of "The Road to Mandalay." Lon Chaney's latest starring vehicle, coming to the Penniman Allen theatre, Saturday, August 28. It is through the grim realism of the vivid mystery drama of the Orient that the love story, perhaps, is so forcible. It holds the audience fairly spellbound, and thus takes its place as one of the best bits of screen entertainment in a long time.

Chaney plays a weird character: a sea captain degenerated into a sinister, fight-scared ruler of an Oriental underworld, hiding in a strange dive on the Singapore waterfront, and secretly adoring an orphaned daughter who never learns her parentage: a pathetic bit of realism injected into the colorful mystery.

It is a story that lays bare human hearts, and Chaney rises to some magnificent heights of acting as the father torn between almost heavenly love and almost satanic environment. He wears one of the most gruesome disguises in his history, but gains sympathy through it—a strange trick of the dramatist and the actor's own part.

Lola Moran appears as the heroine of the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature: her first role since her success in "Stella Dallas," and Owen Moore appears as "The Admiral," dissolute former navy officer whose own sense of shame brings about a regeneration. Kamiyama Sojin is a weirdly menacing figure as "English Charlie Wing," chief of the Oriental gangsters of Singapore.

Colorful settings, strange costumes and varied races make exotic scenes for the action of this dramatic thunderbolt, which Tod Browning directed with rare artistry. The story is an original by Browning and Herman J. Mankiewicz, scenarized by Elliott Clawson, scenarist of "The Phantom of the Opera" and other works.

"IT'S THE OLD ARMY GAME"

If more funny gags exist than have been used in W. C. Fields' first Paramount comedy, "It's the Old Army Game," which comes to the Penniman Allen theatre, Sunday and Monday, August 29 and 30, the writer doesn't know of them. Fields' premiere as a motion picture star, can only be characterized as—a wallowing success.

"It's the Old Army Game" is the scintillatingly funny tale of Elmer Prettywillie, (W. C. Fields), owner of a drug store in a small Florida town.

This shop serves as a meeting place for the townspeople, and those who would buy stamps, magazines, books or use the telephone. In other words, everything is sold but—drugs.

Louise Brooks, a little lady who promises to create nothing short of a sensation because of her portrayal as the girl Fields would like to marry, gives a mighty fine performance.

Among other things shown in this cinema circus, is the young man who arrives in Florida, not to buy real estate—but to sell New York City lots to the Southerners! He being a handsome young peepster—and Louise being what she is—they fall in love with each other. How Fields manages to become involved in a case of fraud, go to New York, and get his love affairs straightened out, take up the remainder of this comedy.

All the way through the film one can detect the reliable guiding hand of Edward Sutherland, the director of "Behind the Front."

"LOVELY MARY"

A good director and good actors, at their best.

That, in brief, is the verdict on "Lovely Mary," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture directed by King Baggot, which comes to the Penniman Allen theatre, Wednesday, September 1st. Bessie Love, William Haines, Mary Alden and Vivin Ogden have the leading roles and more capable artists would have been difficult to find.

"Lovely Mary" is essentially a comedy, but there is an undercurrent of pathos whose interpretation affords Bessie Love a remarkable opportunity for a convincing display of her exceptional histrionic ability.

The story of "Lovely Mary" has been taken from the book of that name by Alice Hegun Rice, author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," and the characters and locale are the same in both stories.

It cannot be said that the book has been transferred to the screen with absolute fidelity, but it can be said that the screen version is a tremendous improvement over the book, both in drama and interest.

Bessie Love as an ugly duckling, with pigtails, freckles and shabby clothes, will be a shock to many of her admirers, but her artistic and sincere portrayal of the little orphan slave who lavishes all her pent-up affection on the baby wail, will more than compensate for her lustrous loss of beauty.

William Haines has the leading male role opposite Bessie Love, and as Mrs. Wiggs' boy Billy, driver of the cabbage patch milk wagon, he is thoroughly acceptable as a romantic hero.

The recreation of Mrs. Wiggs' cabbage patch, ramshackle buildings, weird inhabitants and all, is an interesting bit of work and the types in the film are worth many a laugh.

To sum it up, "Lovely Mary" is a good picture that is bound to make you laugh a lot. It may make you cry, and you can be certain that it will entertain.

Dad Plymouth says it takes all kinds of people to make a world, including the fellows who won't vote.

Fall hats are now on display. And as usual they bring "top" prices.

"About the only thing you can get for nothing in this country is the worst of it," declares Dad Plymouth.

Dad Plymouth says if you are just undecided what are weeds and what are vegetables in a garden, just watch the chickens.

The north pole ought to have a pleasant climate since the only wind that blows that way is a south wind.

"The lamb couldn't keep up with Mary these days," says Dad Plymouth, "unless it did a lot of walking in its sleep."

It probably doesn't quiet Europe's pulse any to learn that we waste more every year than she owes us.

"You never can tell," asserts Dad Plymouth, "maybe a fish goes home and lies about the bait it stole."

NEW HOTEL IN SOUTHERN TOWN

Wildwood, one of the southern New Jersey seaside resorts, whose population, as reported by the Board of Trade, jumps from 12,000 to 200,000 in the summer time, has filled a long felt need for a Boardwalk hotel, by a recent community stock sales program, selling $461,800 of hotel stock.

Some time ago, a Hotel Committee was formed, of representative men of the city, of which Palmer M. Way, attorney, and president of the Union Bank, was chairman. This committee secured The Hockenbury System, Inc., of Harrisburg, Pa., to make a survey of the hotel situation and to conduct the subsequent financing program.

The hotel is to be located at the corner of Wildwood Avenue and the Boardwalk, and the tentative plans call for 135 rooms, with provisions for doubling the size later on.

In a latitude the same as southern Italy, Wildwood is a favorite vacation haunt, particularly of Philadelphians, being only 79 miles by rail from that city.

A new and very wide Boardwalk, of fireproof construction, lined by attractive shops and amusement places; a fine beach made safe by a beach patrol of eighty employees; a Golf Club with an eighteen-hole golf course; and good fishing, are some of the tourist attractions claimed for the popular little city.

The hotel will be built and operated under the control of the Citizens Hotel Corporation, composed of the local stockholders.

CHAMPION DAIRY CATTLE TO SHOW AT STATE FAIR.

Blue ribbon winners in the dairy cattle world, representing every standard breed, will make up a great dairy show in the agricultural exhibits at the Michigan State Fair this year.

When entries closed on August 21, leading herds from Michigan and a dozen other great dairy states were included in the State Fair lists, according to Walter Palmer, director of livestock exhibits for the fair. Names famous in the dairy industry stand out prominently among the entrants, guaranteeing keen competition for the awards in the many classes.

Featured among the dairy exhibitors will be the state of Michigan, said to be the largest owner of purebred Holstein cattle in the world. Seven of the 13 state institutions which have Holstein herds will enter a total of 100 animals at the fair. These will be selected carefully from the 1,400 head owned by these institutions.

The fact that the National Dairy Show is to be held on the Michigan State Fair Grounds in October this year, is said by cattle men to be responsible for the unusual interest in dairy classes. With two great exhibits a month apart, this will be a big dairy year for Michigan, in the opinion of authorities.

DEATH BY FREEZING IN EXCESSIVE HEAT

Thing Seemingly Impossible Well Authenticated.

Is it possible for a human being to freeze to death in the desert, with the temperature above 110 degrees Fahrenheit? Are old stories of such deaths fictional and fantastic, or are they based upon scientific principle? Was the often told story of the death by freezing of George Boden in Visalia, southern California, twenty years ago, pure myth, fabrication, or authentic?

Nationwide scientific interest and sharp differences of opinion among physicists have been aroused by the revival of the George Boden incident by Carl Clausen, writer, who has used the alleged Visalia "115 degrees freezing" case as the basis of a story entitled "Zero," published in McClure's Magazine.

Paul de Kruff, well-known scientist and author of the "Microbe Hunters," after some investigation, has declined to support the possibility.

On the other hand, indorsement of the scientific principle involved has come from George A. Dorsey, Ph. D., formerly of the University of Chicago and author of "Why We Behave Like Human Beings."

McClure's Magazine, in introducing the story "Zero," quotes Dorsey as follows:

"The principle invoked by the author of 'Zero' is one of nature's cunning little tricks not yet quite understood by physicists and physiologists, but well enough understood to make railway traveling in India comfortable with an outside temperature of 120 degrees, and so well understood by every human body that it keeps its blood from jelling in Death valley temperatures. The hero of the story proved himself a very clever young man."

The Los Angeles Times, publishing a special dispatch from its local correspondent in Visalia, Calif., declares the George Boden incident has been "completely verified." It quotes Col. George W. Stewart, prominent resident of Visalia, and other intimate friends of Boden, as having been present at his death, and being completely familiar with all attendant circumstances. The Visalia dispatch says:

"Perhaps one of the most unusual occurrences in medical history, this incident is recalled by a number of local citizens. Returning to his home on a hot summer night, George Boden was accompanied by Menvin Frazier. They retired but were unable to sleep. Boden arose, dipped a sheet in cold water, wrapped it about him, and went back to bed with the electric fan blowing directly on him. He was unconscious when Frazier attempted to arouse him the next morning and died shortly after without regaining consciousness."

Clausen, after consultation with physicians, declares that Boden's death was brought by the natural principle of rapid evaporation of moisture, which produces extremely low temperature.

He points out that this principle has been used from time immemorial by desert peoples, of both the Old and New worlds, as their only means of refrigeration. Southern American native tribes, he points out, have known of the existence of this natural refrigeration since before the coming of the white man.

Largest French Dam

The newest and probably the largest hydro-electric development in France is the Massif Central dam with its power plant capable of generating 75,000 kilowatts of electrical energy. This project, just now going into service, supplies the French departments of Creuse and Indre and provides for the electrification of 200 miles of railway from Paris to Eguisols. The dam is 190 feet high and the lake it creates holds more than 13,000,000,000 gallons of water. It is on the River Creuse near Eguzon. Judged by European standards, it is a huge power development. In this country a 75,000 kilowatt generating plant is considered to be of only moderate size.

Made Desert Fruitful

Transforming 5,000 acres of arid unproductive land in the heart of the Sonora river delta, state of Sonora, Mex., into a farmer's paradise, has been the feat of a small colony of Italians, all in a space of seven years. The settlers have built a thriving little community and have constructed 20 miles of substantial canals, checks and drains. The Italians have raised two crops a year on heretofore waste lands, including those of beans and corn in December and January and wheat in May. Now they are at work on a project to plant grape vineyards.

Coal in Philippines

Vast coal fields in the Philippine islands provide a resource that may be counted upon in the future, according to Commerce department surveys. Large quantities of coal are stored in the islands, almost every one of which is a source of supply. Anthracite, at the same time, is produced in increasing quantities in the Philippines, the annual production being approximately 60,000 tons. It was 39,000 tons five years ago.

Rubber in Philippines

An agricultural expert has been appointed by the Insular Department of Agriculture to study the production of rubber on small plantations in the Middle East. The department has also approved the establishment of a rubber experimental station in southwestern Mindanao.

Life Buoy Has Motor

At Redondo Beach, Calif., there recently was tested a new motor-driven life buoy designed by its inventor to enable a rescuer to reach a drowning person quickly. As described in Popular Science Monthly, it is four feet long and looks like a small motorboat. On the stern is a bar to which one or more persons can cling. A button on the stern bar starts and stops the motor, while the operator acts as the rudder.

AROUND ABOUT US

Island Lake is to have a new hotel to be built facing Briggs Lake, and just across the road from the present hotel, and under the same management. The new building will have 120 rooms and two dining rooms large enough to seat 200 people.

will later be enlarged to include Warren and Dix avenues.

The Wayne County Good Roads will soon have completed the new comfort station located at the eastern end of town in what has been known as Cummings Park. The building is being built of brick, and will be maintained by the county organization. A caretaker will be placed in charge of the station upon its completion—Wayne Weekly.

Northville is to be paid a very great compliment this fall when the Knights Templar of this section of the state will hold a field day here. Grand Commandery officers will be present and all the commanderies in this section of the state will be represented by large delegations. There will be a parade and exhibition drills at the fair grounds. The date for the meet has not been announced.—Northville Record.

E. H. Partridge moved his stock of groceries from the Ely block on North Center street to the new Richardson block on Main street on Wednesday, and he is now nicely situated in a brand new store. The new store will be formally opened to the public on Saturday, and all are invited to call and inspect the new quarters. The store equipment is new and attractive and Mr. Partridge is to be congratulated upon the fine appearance of his new location.—Northville Record. ### Today's Reflections

It's a mighty good thing for people who have to buy eggs that the hens of this country don't know how much brick-layers get.

There are a million things a Plymouth girl doesn't care to have her parents do, and one of them is to help her entertain her boy friend.

When a husband snores his wife will punch him to make him wake up, but it's different when he talks in his sleep.

One rotten apple can spoil a whole barrel, and one chronic knocker can keep a whole town stirred up.

Plymouth married couples should learn early in life that scraps do not make a good meal and neither do they make a happy home.

A woman has a hard time deciding whether to keep her china set unbroken or to let her husband help her with the dishes.

The average Plymouth boy doesn't care much about leaving footprints on the sands of time. He wants to leave auto tracks.

The cross-word puzzle is still a craze in England, where people are slow seeing jokes.

Things are hot in Mexico just now. If it wasn't for Canada, the United States would be in a bad neighborhood.

The only difference between a road hog and the kind we see penned up around Plymouth, is two feet.

What has become of the old-time Plymouth man who used to say: "There are no ugly women—some are just prettier than others."

When the golf bug bites a man it makes him break out with knickers and loud stockings.

Wonder how many millions of years asparagus hung around before somebody got up nerve enough to eat it?

It's fine to run across an old friend occasionally, providing you don't do it in an automobile.

Divorces have about reached the stage in this country where a set of boxing gloves makes an appropriate wedding gift.

Any Plymouth woman can tell a drug-store blonde by glancing at her, but about the only way a man can tell is by marrying her.

Hard work does more than anything else to keep people out of the insane asylum.

YOU AND YOUR TOWN

If you want to live in the kind of a town

Like the kind of a town you like, You needn't slip your clothes in a grip And start on a long, long hike.

You'll only find what you left behind. For there's nothing really new; It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town.

It isn't your town—it's you!

Real towns are not made by men afraid

Just somebody gets ahead.

When everyone works and nobody shirks

You can raise a town from the dead.

And if you make a personal stake,

Your neighbor can make one, too.

Your town will be what you want to see.

It isn't your town—it's you!

WASHTENAW COUNTY FAIR 1926 Banner Year

The seventh annual Washtenaw County Fair which will be held August 31, September 1, 2, 3, 4, will indicate the agricultural progress Washtenaw County has made in the past year. Organized and operated solely for the purpose of aiding and fostering the improvement of all branches of livestock, floriculture, horticulture and domestic arts and for the building of a greater home, community and county spirit, the 1926 Washtenaw County Agricultural exposition will break all previous records for quality of exhibits, educational displays and wholesome entertainment and recreation.

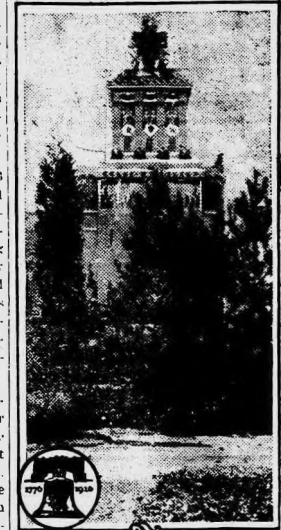

The exhibition space for the 1926 Washtenaw County Fair will be filled with quality exhibits which, it is believed, will represent progress never before equalled in Michigan considering the few years the Washtenaw County Fair has been in operation. Financial aid given by Washtenaw County has made it possible to provide suitable exhibit space for a number of departments which heretofore have been seriously handicapped for room.

In keeping with the growth and development of Washtenaw County Fair the management has contracted the highest possible class of entertainment and attractions for the 1926 exposition. Horse racing for the lovers of "the sports of kings," a clean midway with all the modern rides Washtenaw County Fair can accommodate; grandstand attractions of unusual merit; dancing every evening in the splendid new dining hall and to close every day's entertainment—the most up-to-date and gorgeous displays of fireworks obtainable.

In planning a greater Washtenaw County Fair, officials have borne foremost in mind a fair which will truly represent every township, town and city in Washtenaw County. Bands, base ball teams, exhibits and displays from every part of Washtenaw combine to make the greatest Washtenaw County Fair a real fair truly representative of Washtenaw County.

The Exposition continues until December 1.

ONLY THEORIES FOR CHANGE IN CLIMATE

Scientific Explanation of Subject is Vague.

Only in the great reaches of geologic time have we certain proof of alterations in climate. When our American coal was being made, Greenland was a warm place; coral flourished on its shores. By the close of that era an ice sheet had covered all Greenland and had extended so far south that its tip was over the place where Boston now is.

In the next era New England warmed up. There were alterations of icy periods and temperate periods. Only 30,000 years ago, at a time when man had become an implement maker, all the northern part of our country was under ice. Our climate has decidedly improved since then.

The causes of these changes of climate have been the subject of prolonged investigation and speculation. One elaborate theory was based on the variation of the amount of carbon dioxide in the air. No doubt the varying configurations of land and water have played their parts.

The most simple and persuasive explanation yet advanced is that offered by Humphreys in his "Physics of the Air." He presents a table of the exceptionally cold years since 1750 and shows that in most cases (possibly in all) the low temperature followed an unusual volcanic eruption. In 1783 there was an eruption of Asama in Japan, "the most frightful on record;" the three following years were very cold over the whole earth.

In 1812 came the eruption of Tambora, "very great," followed by four cold years; 1816 has passed into American history as "the year without a summer," the most peculiar one in the annals of weather, when hardly any crops matured north of the Potomac river.

These two freakish periods were sufficient to bring down the average of the temperature for the half century somewhat; but they were not items of climate. They were times of a peculiar and temporary condition.

The condition was that the atmosphere over the whole earth carried an excess of dust particles—just as after the Krakatoa eruption of 1883 the dust was apparent for three years and caused peculiar effects in the sky over Europe and America. Dust can cause great change in the earth's temperature because it offers more impediment to the heat rays coming to the earth than it offers to the longer heat rays that are reflected from the earth.

Only a little more dust than came from Krakatoa, if it were renewed in the air for a term of years, would reduce the temperature of the globe sufficiently to bring an ice sheet down over Canada.

"So," asks Mr. Humphreys, "why may it not be that long continued volcanic activity at different epochs of geologic history has been the cause of alterations in climate?" No negative answer has yet been stated convincingly.

The cause of climatic change is only conjectural. The fact that there have been changes is known by the indubitable hieroglyphics which the glaciers traced. But in our human records there is no proof of change. Our climate has been as constant as the weather has been erratic.—Henshaw Ward in Harper's Magazine.

Big Water Power Project

Five hundred and thirty billion gallons of water from the world's largest artificial lake are about to go to work in the service of the people of Alabama. This volume of water will soon be backed up behind a new dam 1,200 feet long and 150 feet high on the Tallapoosa river at Cherokee Bluffs in the heart of the state. The weight of controlled flow from the reservoir behind the dam will run three water turbines driving generators that will produce 128,000 horse power of electric energy. A fourth generating unit may be added later. This new power development goes to work some time this month. More than 40,000 acres will be covered, and the lake rim will measure 750 miles.

United States' Rainfall

A vivid picture of the amount of rain that falls upon the United States is given by a Washington scientist. It is equivalent, he states, to ten Mississippi rivers flowing constantly. Otherwise measured, it equals 30 inches of water for the entire area, making a total volume of 152,000,000,000,000 cubic feet. But this is only half the amount that would be necessary to maintain the full productivity of the soil of the whole country. One-third of this amount runs down to the sea in rivers. The problem for the engineers to solve is the utilization to the utmost of the supply that nature furnishes.

Princess Becomes Nurse

Princess Phon Diskul, daughter of an uncle of the king of Siam, has gone to Manila to study nursing. This is said to be the first instance that any female member of the royal family of Siam has been permitted to leave the country to study. Princess Phon, who is just twenty-one, was connected with the Red Cross in her native country. Her work was so successful that her parents decided to send her abroad to study nursing in order that she may become useful in helping to educate her people. Later she will finish her course in the United States.

Good in Civic Pride

Pride in the home is a very beautiful, and withal, a very common virtue in American life, but civic pride is this and much more. Civic pride is one that sets the high standards both for the individual and for the community. And when civic pride has succeeded in beautifying the community a very forward step has been taken toward beautifying the lives of those who dwell in that community.

May Honor Woman Who Aided Lewis and Clark

A bill introduced in congress would mark the resting place of Sacajawea, the Indian girl, whose guidance and fortitude enabled President Jefferson's expedition, under Lewis and Clark, to blaze a trail to the Pacific and open a vast empire to settlement. It would be the first recognition of the government to the Shoshone woman whose history has credited with being the key to the success of the exploring party, writes Robert Kilroy in the Argonaut. True, there stands a monument in her honor at Portland, Ore., another one at Bismarck, N. D., and an inconspicuous memorial at Three Forks, Mont., but these were all built by private subscription.

Sacajawea was a child of ten when she was stolen from her people in a raid by the Blackfeet, and carried to what was then Dakota land. Later she was given to a French voyageur, Charbonneau by name, as payment for a gambling debt and became his squaw.

In 1804 Lewis and Clark, storm-bound in a Mandan village near the present site of Bismarck, were seeking a guide and interpreter to lead them to the coast. They succeeded in inducing Charbonneau to undertake the task. Sacajawea was much interested in the project, and as the expedition must of necessity go through the Shoshone territory, the explorers were eager that she be taken along.

Receiving a more attractive offer from some Northern traders, Charbonneau at the last minute declined to go with the expedition, but Sacajawea remonstrated and Charbonneau grudgingly remained true to his promise.

With her papoose on her back Sacajawea led the way through the territory of the marauding Shoshones and down the Snake and Columbia rivers to the sea. Intelligent, resourceful and fearless, she had an uncanny sense of direction, and chose the only passable routes through a country that had nothing more than game trails. At one point, Charbonneau, seeking an opportunity to trade with the Indians, declined to go farther. Sacajawea flatly refused to desert the white men. On November 14, 1805, the expedition arrived at Tillamook Head and got its first view of the Pacific.

Glands for Tetany

Two physicians of Florence have performed an operation which bolsters up the falling hope that gland grafting had put a new weapon in the hands of the medical profession for subduing hitherto unconquerable disease.

Drs. Cesare Frugoni and Vittorio Scimone have announced, says Science Magazine, the results of treating a case of tetany, a chronic disease resembling lockjaw, with a graft of human parathyroid, one of the small glands placed around the better known thyroid in the neck. The technique followed was that of Dr. Serge Voronoff, one of the original experimenters in transferring glands from apes to humans.

The results were almost instantaneous, according to the authors. The patient, released from the terrific pain suffered during six or seven long attacks every day, picked up amazingly. Tests made some time later still showed a slight parathyroid deficiency, but the ingrafted piece was still firmly attached under the skin five months after the operation.—New York World.

Hot Weather High Up

The tropics are not the only place to go for tropical weather. If man could ever get there, he would find a tropical climate far above the earth. At very high altitudes the air becomes extremely warm, according to Dr. H. H. Turner, professor of astronomy, at Oxford university.

This statement has been confirmed by observations of meteors entering the earth's atmosphere. Although aviators can only get a few miles off the earth's surface, and unmanned instrument-carrying balloons ascend no more than 20 miles, the observation of meteors, or shooting stars, extends knowledge of our atmosphere up to about fifty miles.

Woodpecker Made Trouble

The cause of early morning rappings and the jingling of the telephone bell in the home of Mrs. Joseph Henslip at Hagerstown, Md., had been looked for in vain by police and telephone officials. So at three o'clock in the morning, Mrs. Henslip arose and sat down by a window in the rooms where the sounds had been registering. Shortly after four o'clock a red-headed woodpecker began operating on a telephone pole. The phone instantly rang and the rappings of the woodpecker came through the room amazingly audible.

Embargo Acts

The first embargo act of the United States was passed 132 years ago, in retaliation against British interference with American commerce.

The first embargo lasted 80 days, with little effect. In 1807 another embargo act was passed directed against both England and France, which were then at war. American commerce, however, suffered more from this act than did the countries against which it was aimed.

Its Status

"What sort of a place is your neighboring town of Tygopyty?" asked a recently arrived guest.

"Aw, it's one of them mildewed hamlets," replied the landlord of the tavern at Wayoverbehind, "where the discovery of an egg with a double yolk is cause for wild excitement."—Kansas City Star.

For Sleeplessness

Sleeplessness can be cured by painting large imaginary figure 3s on a large imagined black wall with imaginary brush and can of white paint, says Doctor Farrow in the Journal of Neurology and Psychology. It is almost impossible to remain awake, he says, after three figures have been painted. He usually falls asleep after he has finished painting only one or two figures; but if not, almost invariably after the third one.
