AUTO LICENSE LAW.

It is important that laws now on the books and which provide penalties for reckless driving are inadequate. The driver who is fired with intoxicants is not a respecter of persons. Neither is he conscious of danger to himself. Fines or even jail sentences always come after his victims have been buried or crippled for life. The only protection the public may have is from the complete elimination of this nuisance—the reckless driver. And, in the opinion of numerous auto owners to whom we have talked in our daily meanderings about Plymouth, the way to get rid of them is by the revocation of their license, and in no other way. A state license law framed along this line, and strictly enforced, would do the work, and protect not only the careful drivers but those who walk as well. This process might be slow, but it would be effective.

LIGHTING ON AIR.

The air has been regarded as a fine medium for aviation, but looked upon skeptically as too flimsy a source of power. Now the old idea of putting the wind to work is actually coming in for serious attention. The federal weather bureau, operating with the Nebraska State Agricultural college, has found electric power generation by windmills one way of lighting the farm. Five hours of charging every two or three days is enough to keep the average farm lighted for three nights. A wind of ten miles an hour is sufficient to turn the trick. The farmer living where he can depend on the wind to do its part ought to be able to save considerable money through this new process of farm lighting, to say nothing of benefiting from a more convenient and satisfactory system of lighting his home. We've never studied the wind velocity on farms around Plymouth and we are not in position to say that this section would be ideal for windmill lighting; but the farm owners themselves are in position to know, and if the idea strikes them favorably the weather bureau at Washington city will gladly furnish them such additional information as they may desire.

AN EDITOR SPEAKS.

There is a belief in many quarters that most newspaper men are a little bit careless about facts; that they would rather print something interesting than something strictly true. Don Marquis, widely known New York World man, has this to say on the subject, and he speaks our sentiments exactly:

"The constant aim on the part of editors is for accuracy—it is their only protection if there should be a comeback of any sort. They really want to print things right, and usually when they print them wrong it is because they have been lied to by some more or less interested party whom they credited. The reader would be surprised to know how many lies are handed to reporters and editors in the course of a day's work. I have observed that it is the very people who give out tales that do not square with the facts who are always saying: 'You can't believe anything you see in the papers nowadays.'"

GOOD-BYE, BUGGIES.

According to the United States census bureau, only 8,850 buggies were made in this country during the past year. The year before there were manufactured a total of 20,500. So you can see in an instant how fast they are decreasing. The whole number for the United States last year would not have supplied one prosperous state back in the "nineties." In fact, there were some counties that boasted more than 20,000 buggies.

Mere mention of the buggy brings fond recollections to many hearts around Plymouth. How smart it looked in its shiny, fresh paint behind a spirited horse in glossy patent-leather harness. And what pride shone in the features of the youth as this equipage of his, under his skillful direction, caught the admiring glances of the fair sex. It was in the top buggy that blissful hours were spent, on the way to dances, to picnics, or just for the ride. It was a wonderful medium for courtship, and many a mature couple who now sit back on the comfortable cushions of their six-cylinder car first felt in the old buggy that mysterious and powerful stirring of the heart that united them for life.

Doubtless many think of old buggy days with a sigh as they now glide smoothly, noiselessly and comfortably along. They are proud of the beautiful new sedan or roadster, of course; and yet, though it cost probably ten times as much as they paid for the buggy of early days, it isn't treasured as highly as the early vehicle. Pretty soon a buggy will be looked upon as something quaint and antique. But memories of the day when it was at its height of popularity will not pass for a good many years to come.

ANOTHER TAX CUT.

With November elections but a short time away, we are due to hear a good deal and to read a good deal about tax reduction. Both of the major political parties are promising to give this favorite subject their attention when congress reconvenes in December. One party feels that a reduction of $150,000,000 can again be safely made; the other sees no reason why the reduction cannot be as much as a half billion.

But no matter how much federal taxes are cut by the next congress, few residents around Plymouth will benefit to any noticeable extent. Only those with incomes of $10,000 or more will feel the effect of further federal tax reductions, and there are not many of us in that class around here.

What the average American really needs now is relief from the growing burden of state, county and local assessments. The time has come to put the brakes on a little bit, because increasing taxes has come to be pretty much of a habit instead of an actual need. It's all right for a state or county to have an eye for the future, but it's dangerous to look too far ahead. Congress can do more to provide relief than merely cutting taxes, especially when the cutting relieves only those in position to pay heavy taxes. Give the country at large farm relief, and the Mississippi valley flood relief. Then everybody can be happy.

A CARD—We desire to extend our sincere thanks to friends and neighbors, especially the Presbyterian church and societies of Milford for their sympathy and kindness; also Rev. Nichol who so kindly officiated at the grave.

Chloe and Her Clothes

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

(Copyright)

THERE was no doubt that Chloe lacked taste in her choice of clothes. It's true, the lean wolf was prowling about her boarding-house door and poverty was no more conducive to exquisite clothes than it was to good taste in wine.

Still, all the rest of the boarders in the Bohemian group who occupied various rooms in Mrs. Everly's house, agreed that if Chloe could put up a better sartorial appearance, she would most probably land more engagements to sing.

Now among that rather odd but best-behaved group of artists, literary folk and the like, was one whose physical body was chained daily to an office stool in a bank.

It was big Tom Danvers who sighed most heavily as he watched the comings and goings of Chloe in her atrocious dresses and hats. In his mind he was seeling her in the most exquisite of frocks and designing one after the other—each one more lovely than the last.

Being on the best of terms with Mrs. Everly, Tom, in a wild moment of hope, consulted her about a scheme he had.

"Could you get some one to make a frock if I give you the design and material? I want to slip a present into that little Miss Chloe's room—anonymously, of course. You must help me. I know if she will just wear a gown I design she will have a heap of engagements before she knows it."

"Her clothes are awful," admitted Mrs. Everly and fell right into the scheme. "I have a cousin who will do the work. And I think I can talk Miss Chloe into accepting the gift. We'll tell her if she gets this big engagement, which I know she is after, that she can give us a big blow-out."

"I say, you're a peach!" exclaimed young Tom. "I believe if she wears one of my designs she will perhaps be on the road to success for herself as well as—well—I hope some day to give up bank-clerking and launch into artistic work."

"And good luck, my boy," said Mrs. Everly. "Who would sit on a hard bank stool when he could be designing ladies' costumes—I'd like to know?"

So Tom himself purchased the exact material his fancy saw on Chloe and the design he sketched was nothing so much as a cloudy vapor of gray. And when the costume was made by Mrs. Everly's clever cousin, Tom was more than delighted.

The frock was taken to Chloe's room that evening and laid carefully on the bed. And when Chloe saw it her eyes widened and her lips smiled—she couldn't help admiring it.

It was Mrs. Everly who made up a nice yarn about its origin.

"My cousin had it designed for some actress or other who turned it down when she saw it. You must just be a good girl now and put it on and go down to that big manager. If he doesn't give you the part you want, well—my name's not Everly."

Chloe cried just a little—on the ample shoulder of her kind landlady. "You're too awfully, awfully kind," she quavered. "If I get the part I shall most certainly have your cousin design all my clothes and have her name in big letters on the program."

"You'll be leading us all to success," laughed Mrs. Everly, and in her heart rejoiced that the big Tom Danvers would share in this same success.

So, when Chloe walked out of the boarding house that sunny afternoon, she trod as if on air, for she was looking like a poem of beauty. The frock was a complete and wonderful success.

As she went into the manager's office the big man looked up and his eyes opened wide. Evidently some one had entered his office whom he was going to engage as his leading songster. He felt it in his bones. Anyone who could carry off a frock like that could do any stage justice, and he knew as well that Chloe possessed a voice.

The next evening in the boarding house there was a big party to celebrate Chloe's engagement. She had insisted on Mrs. Everly producing the cousin who had made the frock to which she attributed her success.

Tom Danvers, now that the moment of revelation drew near, became as shy as a great school boy.

Mrs. Everly dragged him forward. "My dear," she said softly into Chloe's ear, "do please be nice to him—he is the designer of that gown and he's suffering now from stage fright."

Chloe blushed, but her heart gave a joyful thump. Could anything so truly wonderful really have happened to her? Day by day she had thought of the big man who occupied the corner table in the dining room and each day had hoped, when her success came, to—well—to be able to join in with the others—just to get acquainted with him.

"Oh, you have all been so very good to me—I hardly know what to say but I do thank you, and I want you Mr. Danvers, to design all my costumes for the play—if you will?"

"If I will?" laughed Tom, throwing off his nervousness and looking into Chloe's eyes. "I doubt if you could stop me now."

"And if I know anything," smiled Mrs. Everly, "I don't think she'll want to."

And Tom and Chloe just stood gazing at each other happily.

BRYANT C. MORRIS CONDUCTS SUCCESSFUL HOTEL CAMPAIGN IN PENNSYLVANIA TOWN.

The Mail is in receipt of a copy of the Montrose Independent of Montrose, Pa., which tells of the successful culmination of a community hotel campaign conducted by the Hockenbury Co., Inc., hotel financialists, who had charge of the campaign for the selling of stock in Plymouth's new community hotel, The Mayflower. A total of $135,800 was subscribed in stock by the citizens of Montrose.

The campaign in the Pennsylvania town was in charge of Bryant C. Morris, who had charge of the campaign for the Hockenbury Co., Inc. in Plymouth. That part of the article referring to Mr. Morris is as follows:

"At the regular meeting of the Rotary Club on Tuesday noon of this week, Bryant C. Morris was presented with a fountain pen and pencil by members of the Hotel Executive committee.

"It was through the efforts of the Rotary Club that the hotel project was first started and it was with this club that the Hockenbury System's contract was made.

"The presentation was made by B. R. Gardner, representing the executive committee, who in a few words expressed the very high regard in which Mr. Morris is held by those with whom he has been associated for the past two months. Mr. Morris, by his tact, gentleness and efficiency was the guiding spirit of the whole campaign and not only put the project over the top but impressed his personality upon his associates to such an extent that it was with genuine regret that good-byes were said."

STARK SCHOOL NOTES

By Geraldine Schmidt

We have organized a Citizenship club in the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades. The officers are as follows: President, Gerald Schmidt; vice-president, William Adams; secretary, Ruth Schmidt.

We had a Parent-Teacher Association meeting Wednesday evening, September 28th. Miss Taylor's and Miss Wise's children had a small program after the P. T. A. meeting.

The fifth graders made some soil and flour maps. They are now ready to paint them.

The seventh graders made some whirlwind maps and some rainfall maps.

The president appoints a committee to look over the writing, and the list is put on the bulletin board.

Miss Jameson visited our school Tuesday, October 4th, and she brought our intelligence tests and also our spelling tests.

Miss Held also visited our school, and told us that we had won first prize on our health booklet. She gave us a card showing that the Tuberculosis Society of Detroit and Wayne County donated to us the "Hygeia."

Isabelle Winkler exhibited her sewing at the Northville fair, and won first prize. Our hot lunch poster took second prize.

CHIROPRACTIC ADJUSTMENTS RELIEVE NERVE PRESSURE

CHIROPRACTIC FOR HEADACHES

Every individual who suffers from headaches owes it to himself to have the spine so aligned that disease cannot exist, even though temporarily dormant. The time required to bring about that condition where headaches no longer occur is dependent, not upon the severity, character or location of the headache, but entirely upon the time required to replace the segments of the spine in their normal position and thus make possible the free expression of Innate Intelligence in the bodily organs.

Some Don'ts

You will get more satisfactory service from your electric lights if you pay heed to the following suggestions:

DON'T give the bulb a hard final twist when screwing it into the socket. This tends to loosen the glass from its brass base and shorten the life of the lamp.

DON'T let dust gather on lamp bulbs. It may absorb as much as half the light. Wipe with a soft, dry cloth at least once a week.

DON'T use lamps that have become blackened from long use. They waste your light and strain the eye. Return them and get new lamps in their place, free.

DON'T use bare lamps. Have a shade of glass, silk or parchment to soften the light and spare the eye.

NEWBURG

Next Sunday Rev. Johnson will preach at the usual hour, 11:00 o'clock.

There were about one hundred in attendance at the reception given on Tuesday evening to greet our new pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. Johnson; also to bid farewell to Rev. and Mrs. F. J. Walker, as they go to their new field at Chelsea. A short program was given, in charge of Miss Aili Youngs, after which Miss Youngs, in a neat little speech, presented Rev. and Mrs. Walker with a remembrance from their Newburg friends. Rev. and Mrs. Walker both responded, as did Rev. and Mrs. Johnson. After a social hour, ice cream and cake were served by the ladies of the church.

Last Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bassett gave a reception and shower in honor of their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Bassett. A large crowd was present, and the young couple received many lovely gifts. After a pleasant evening, refreshments were served by the hostess.

The L. A. S. met at the hall on Wednesday afternoon, for a business meeting. The annual fair and bazaar will be held on Friday evening, October 28th.

The Queen Esther Circle will meet today, Friday, at the home of Miss Margaret Bassett.

The Epworth League held a party at the hall last Friday evening. It is needless to say that a good time was had, and a pleasant evening spent.

Mrs. Elizabeth Crow is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. Clark Mackinder, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ryder are reported some better at this writing.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Claire Chilson, Sunday morning, a daughter, Ruth Mary. Mrs. Chilson's sister is caring for her.

Miss Anna Youngs has been on the sick list for the past week.

Mrs. Fisk of Reed City called on Mrs. C. Mackinder, Tuesday morning. Mrs. R. Barnes of South Lyon, has enquired her lot in the Newburg cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Zielowski and Mrs. Thomas Lavandowski and son, Raymond motored to Bay City, Sunday, to visit Mrs. Martha Moranty.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Carney entertained Rev. and Mrs. Johnson and family, Wednesday night. Mr. and Mrs. Mackinder entertained them for Sunday dinner a week ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Joy and Mrs. Emma Cochrane motored to Adrian, last Friday. On their way home, they called on Rev. and Mrs. Walker at Chelsea.

PLYMOUTH MERCHANTS WIN ONE AND LOSE ONE

LOCAL TEAM WINS FROM BELLEVILLE. 9 TO 2; LOSES TO THE POLISH NEWS TEAM. 4 TO 3.

Last week at the Northville fair, the weather man did not allow all the ball games to be played. There were only two of the regular games played, and then the series was called off. But on Friday the weather cleared and the field was in fine shape, so Plymouth and Belleville, who were to play in the series, put on an exhibition game, resulting in a victory for Plymouth, 9 to 2. It is too bad that the series was called off because we had a fine chance of winning the big money. Plymouth's playing was far superior and showed that Plymouth is still on the baseball map, which is a surprise to some people.

Shields, who pitched for Plymouth, allowed the Belleville boys only four hits, which were well scattered, never more than one in an inning. Our boys got thirteen hits off Gertz and Hoppe, and they were lunched so as to bring in runs.

The game by innings:
Belleville 0 1 0 0 0 0 0—2 4 6
Plymouth 2 2 0 3 0 1 1 0—9 13 0

Batteries: For Belleville: Gertz, Hoppe and Hammerschmidt; for Plymouth—Shields and Girardin.

Umpire—Brown.

The game with the Polish News, Sunday, was a very well played game, our boys losing, 3 to 4 in ten innings, which is a good game, whether lose or win. Gerst pitched for Plymouth, and allowed only six hits, and after the fourth inning, there were never more than three men facing him in each inning. Harry German allowed our boys only eight hits, which is a good pitching, and Mr. German is deserving of much credit, considering his age and the hard hitting team that we had against him.

The game by innings:
Plymouth 0 1 0 0 0 0 2 0 0—3 5 4
Polish News 0 1 1 1 0 0 0 0 1—4 6 4

Batteries: Polish News—German and Fenner; Plymouth—Gerst and Jaska.

Umpire—Brown.

LUMBER MAKES LASTING FRIENDS
Satisfaction

Practy Cal Says:—
"A friendship, like a house that is to last, must have the right stuff in it. The copy books say a lot about the right foundation. But it seems that finishing a thing right is more important than merely starting it right."

will be present to present the work for the year. All the women of the church are urged to be present.

Since the women have put in a nice rest room, they are prepared to look after any babies or little children so the mothers can enjoy the church services. There will be a committee from the Philathea class in the foyer each Sunday, and the mothers of little children are invited to come and leave them with this committee, who will take care of them.

Preliminary plans have been made in anticipation for the enlargement of the church, a need of necessity. As soon as all details are complete, a full explanation will be given. Here is hoping that we can put up a church in conformity with the beauty of the town.

BAPTIST NOTES

Ladies' Aid meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Beckwith, Wednesday afternoon. All members urged to be present.

A pot-luck supper will be held at the Baptist church, Friday evening, at 6:30.

Sunday, October 8th, is Rally day at the First Baptist church.

A series of sermons on the second coming of Christ will be preached at the First Baptist church, by the pastor, Rev. Donald Riley, as follows:

Oct. 9—"Jesus is Coming."
Oct. 16—"Why He is Coming."
Oct. 23—"How He is Coming."
Oct. 30—"When He is Coming."

Power of Love

Once when John Ruskin and Thomas Carlyle were discussing the literature of their day, the latter said to his companion: "Can you tell me why it is that works on subjects of vital interest to the race, splendidly written by men of profound scholarship, command scarcely sufficient sale to pay the cost of publishing; while trashy novels, false to history, false to philosophy and false to the facts of human experience, and altogether lacking in literary merit, will sell by scores of thousands?"

After a short pause, Ruskin replied: "There is but one explanation of that fact, but the explanation is all-sufficient: the novel has love in it and the other has not."—Scribner's Magazine

Good Idea

Copernicus had arrived home tired and hungry, but the beds had not been made and neither was there the faintest sign of any dinner. Presently he surprised his wife reading a novel in the drawing-room.

"Do you mean to say that dinner isn't ready?" he asked, with dangerous calm. "Very well, I'm going back to town to dine at the Criterion."

"Just wait five minutes," replied his wife, throwing aside her book.

"Will it be ready then?" he queried hopefully.

"No," was the cheerful answer; "but I'll come with you."

Bagpipes in Spain

Specimens of bagpipes are found on old Spanish manuscripts. In the beautiful volume of the "Cantigas de Santa Maria," which was made in the thirteenth century of King Alfonso the Wise, there are 51 separate figures of musicians. These form an introduction to the canticles. There are three pipers among them with bagpipes. Another Spanish manuscript of the end of the fifteenth century, illustrated by a Flemish artist for Queen Isabella, shows many musical instruments, among which are bagpipes.
