STRETCHING A DOLLAR.

A news item from Washington city says the printing of new paper money has started and that by October 1st there will be in circulation a new size dollar bill. It will be three inches shorter than the dollar bill we now use and three-fourths of an inch narrower. Its composition will consist of 75 per cent linen and 25 per cent cotton. A check-up shows that once out of every seven times a dollar bill changes hands it is spent for oil or gasoline, and the soiled hands of the filling station man wears it out at a rapid rate. Citizens of Plymouth will welcome the new size dollar bill—in fact, most of us are ready to welcome any size dollar bill, even though it won't buy any more than the present ones. But everybody likes a change, whether it's a change in money, clothing styles or auto models. About the only comfort we get out of this change, however, is the knowledge that it will save Uncle Sam's taxpayers the sum of $246,715 annually.

YOUR HOME TOWN.

Are you getting tired of Plymouth? Would you like to be where lights are brighter and people more numerous; where there is more noise and bustle? Then knock off work for a couple of weeks and satisfy that longing. But don't make the mistake of selling out here, or even packing your household belongings before you do. Just hop in the family flivver and get out where you believe you can "do better." Then look it over. Study living conditions and the cost of keeping a family; study the schools and find out something about the tax rates. Get a line on your chances for securing credit at the stores if you happen to lose a job or are off the pay roll for several weeks through sickness. Fill yourself up with real information, but don't believe everything that's told you—find out for yourself. Then come on back home and sit down awhile and compare conditions and living costs with what you've seen. We know the answer. And we also know that you'll be a more enthusiastic booster of your old home town than you were before you went away.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH.

Someone has said that "The nation that isn't worth cheering for isn't worth living in," and the longer we live in America the more firmly we believe it is true. There's a feeling of pride swelling in every breast along about this time of year. Even though most of us may not be given to cheers, we appreciate the feeling nevertheless and do our cheering silently but none the less happily. The Fourth of July is but one day of the 365 on which we are glad we are Americans. But it seems the most appropriate one on which to be thankful we are a part of it. It was an appropriate holiday when it was inaugurated; it is equally appropriate now that the dreams of its founders have come true. They peered into the future and visioned the greatest nation of all, made glorious by a respect for liberty and equality. We look back over the years and its progress lays before us like a picture. We look ahead and see an even greater achievement in human welfare and human progress. For America, after all, is not only the cradle of liberty but an example to all the world of what co-operation and brotherly love can bring about. We know that this Fourth of July will find every man, woman and child in Plymouth in a cheering mood, for that feeling of pride in the breast of every loyal American comes into full bloom on this occasion, and it must find expression in some form or another. We care not what form you choose in giving vent to it, so long as it does not endanger your own or your neighbor's peace and happiness. But, whatever you do, make a pledge that you will go forward, toward still another Fourth of July, stronger in your love for America and for the principles upon which it was founded this day 152 years ago.

FIRST AID.

No matter how well you may be fixed for necessities on your car, even though you never drive more than a few miles from home, you still lack a very important requisite for safety if you haven't a "first aid" kit handy under the front seat. At a cost of a few cents any motorist can buy a roll of bandage, a little cotton, a vial of arnica, a bit of adhesive tape, and, to make the kit complete, a bottle of cramp and colic medicine. You may never need it, but it is a protection in accident or illness when it may not be easy to reach medical aid. Or it might come in handy if you found someone along the road who had fallen a victim to misfortune. It doesn't take up much room in the car, just as this suggestion takes up but little space in the paper; yet the value of a "first aid" kit, like the value of this suggestion, cannot be measured by the space it occupies.

LET'S GET TO WORK.

With the big political conventions a matter of history, and with the candidates before us and little room for guesswork as to where they stand and what they stand for, the country is again settling down to its knitting. In other words, the holiday part of the campaign is over. Now we can all go back to work, for work we must if we maintain the foundation on which the country stands. No matter what party we may be affiliated with, we must keep in mind the fact that happiness and comfort are still dependent upon how well we do our daily tasks.

Indications are that it is going to be a strenuous campaign. It is pretty apt to develop some hot arguments before it is very far advanced. And not all of these arguments are going to bring forth anything helpful. Keep that fact in mind when discussing the merits of either candidate, or the measures for which they stand. We want no bitter feelings to spring up among the people of Plymouth as a result of political arguments. We want them to keep before them the knowledge that hot words have never yet helped any cause to victory. Keep cool. Do your own thinking, and grant the other fellow the same privilege. It's a long time until the polls are open, and then you can accomplish more in one minute with a lead pencil than you can in a lifetime of argument.

Mrs. Gilbert and Mrs. Flaherty, of Gully Road, Dearborn; and Mrs. Orr Passage, of Plymouth, with her niece, Eva Brower, of Romulus, spent Friday afternoon with M. E. Bird, of Powell Road.

A CORRECTION

In making up the paper last week several paragraphs in the proceedings of the Village Commission were switched about making them read differently than they were intended to. We print below these paragraphs as they should have read: The 1928 Budget as recommended by the Board of Estimates was given consideration, item by item and a public hearing held upon same. Citizens present were invited to offer objections to items under discussion. No objections were offered by citizens present at the hearing. Motion made by Commissioner Nutting, seconded by Commissioner Shear, that the Budget as presented be approved, except for the item of fire hydrant rental, which is to be reduced in amount from $4,000 to $1,000. Carried. Upon motion by Commissioner Nutting, seconded by Commissioner Shear, the Commission approved of the increasing of the salary of the Village Treasurer by $200.00 per annum, effective as of June 1, 1928, by the following vote: Ayes: Commissioner Fisher, Nutting, Pierce and Shear. Nays: President Henderson.

A Trip to a Chinese Temple

doughboys, for their sacrifice in a conflict, not of their making, represents the universal tragedy of war. Bagerly intent upon the next step in their uncharted adventure, they were swept from our sight—ironically—into the sunrise tints of the northern plain.

The trail which was to take us to Men Tou Kou at the foot of our mountains was a ramshackle affair—a wheezy little engine, two third class carriages filled with passengers and their bundles, a box car of indelible contents, and an empty flat car with three-foot sides and doorways hospitably open. The last named car was ours by choice, particularly in view of the doorways, in which we might sit and dangle our feet into space while being whirled through the country at twenty miles an hour. We recognized this very car as having served us on other similar trips for many years, though it had seen some military service and lost a few floor boards thereby, so that the wheels went through the openings a shower of gravel from the roadbed to mingle democratically with the cinders from the engine. Moving majestically from the station at 6:28, we were carried due west toward the pile of jagged peaks in which we hoped to hide ourselves for ten days. The nearer hills were lavender tinted in the morning light, and the Summer Palace hill and the Jade Fountain pagodas rose out of the mist as though recreated by the new day. The nearer temples of Pa Tu Chu, and our best loved Tien Tai Shan, barely visible in the north, raised questioning eyebrows at our interest in going farther for our holiday. We crossed the bridge over the Him Ho, and were dropped at the Men Tou Kou station where a howling horde of donkey men surrounded us, all of them declaring that they had been specially detailed to meet us. The donkey men of Men Tou Kou are much that donkey men should not be, but business for them has languished with the more serious military activity in North China, and adversity has improved their manners and their morals. We finally detached six steeds, from the number offered for our service—three for ourselves and three for the servant with his lunch baskets, and were off for the first dreary three miles along a river bed bordered by the huts of miners who work in the crude coal seams on the slopes near at hand. The rite of first sandwiches, celebrated under a group of beautiful spreading poplars on a convenient table land, put this waste behind us and gave us courage for the two hours' stoney climb between us and the temple. Tan Che Su. (One rides only to rest one's climbing muscles for the saddles are only shapeless quilted pads, offering little attraction on a stiff slope.) Every valley has its orchards and fields of restful green, still fruitful in October, and the path has plenty of variety, with sharp defiles just wide enough for men and animals in single line. We chose a high trail so that we might say a lingering farewell to the City's walls and gates before plunging down the last steep woodland to our goal.

I wish I might make you see that temple with its two-thousand year old welcome of pine and oak and towering ginkgo trees, roofs of gold and green and blue tiles, and its hundred court-yards for worship and residence. By the magic of long acquaintance, and Dr. Ferguson's official card, our servant had reserved the famous bamboo courtyard for us, an especially good fortune in pilgrim season. In its center is a tingta or summer house, out of a green-tiled dragon mouth flows a stream of clear spring water to make its way across the floor of the tingta in a stone channel out into the form of the dragon's body, and behind the main guest hall a thick grove of whispering bamboo, a miracle in North China, is protected by high walls and watered by the dragon's stream. The stories of those ten days I must pass over lightly, nights under the stars in the light of the waxing hunter's moon, early tea brought to us as we lay there wishing we need never leave the kindly protection of that loveliest of Buddha's sacred places, days of climbing and peering and mingling with the pilgrims at the many shrines. Our old friend the secular abbot came to see us early and delighted Mary by giving her the only surviving copy of a volume telling the temple's history, made from wood-blocks in the abbot's treasure house. She immediately set about making to scale a plan of the temple and might be seen thereafter all a hour of the day peering out her measurements. An even greater honor was paid to her on our second day in a visit from one of the six-foot green snakes who are patrons of the temple and live in glass shrines in the largest worship hall. We were assured that these snakes are literal descendants of the dragon who lived in the valley ages ago, and who rode off to oblivion on a storm cloud. The snakes visit only specially favored guests at the temple. I got out my photographic oil paints and colored a few of my favorite photographs of the temple, and Martha photographed the abbot. By standing by for the hours of reading and resting. The only other Westerners then at the temple were two American artists, who joined us at candle-lit supper parties, and took our small surplus store of food when we left. The last day of our stay the spiritual abbot arrived from the brother monastery in the city, and spent the afternoon with us. He found Mary playing solitaire, and proved a ready pupil of the game, so enthusiastic that he would never have left if we had not given him a pack of cards and delicately inferred that he might continue the game by himself. This little episode was witnessed by a group of pilgrims who strayed into our court and assisted with the abbot's instruction by continual comments on the moves best designed to defeat Dick Canfield at his own game.

Evening after evening we sat enthralled at doorways of the larger worship halls, watching the candle light play on the faces of the intoning priests and the simple-hearted pilgrims whose annual peace was being made with the deities. Day after day we watched the Guild groups at the mid-day service when incense sticks and paper prayers are burned in high piles to the accompaniment of the crackers. And day after day we climbed higher on the surrounding peaks and looked westward toward the unsearchable riches of the ranges beyond. The real benediction came about ten o'clock each night when a priest with a especially musical gong went about to each shrine, chanting the "sutra" which is a prayer for Buddha's continued blessing. It is hard to close this story as it was to pack up our belongings on that last morning, say our farewells to temple servants, priests, and abbots, and climb out of the valley on the homeward trail. I should leave it with you at this point, if it were not for the peculiarly strange experiences which befell us at Men Tou Kou.

When we were within a mile of the town, bits of conversation with country folks began to create a hysterical frame of mind in our donkey men, and they finally came to Mary and said that they were going to leave us there, to make our way down as best we could. We protested gently, and unnecessarily, for in a few minutes the men decided that they were too near the town to save themselves, and that the only salvation for them was to keep Westerners and their possessions on the animals. The reason for this decision was proved valid as we drew in sight of the railway station and found that a military train had been sent by Chang Tso-lin to gather in men, animals, pack saddles, and carts for the army. Soldiers sent out on this disturbing errand were everywhere, the townfolk were in hiding, shops barred, and a sinister fear clutched at one's heart as one realized what this meant to the families whose livelihood consisted of one pack mule, one mule cart, or one small stock of merchandise. Our cavalcade made a detour around the station, barely escaping a company of mounted scouts, and as we drew along the road to the next town, our men spread the word of the danger to the town of Men Tou Kou to the townsmen whom they met. The result was that for the next few miles we had in our train a motley group of those who wished to identify themselves with whatever protection we represented, but these gradually dropped away to steal homeward by devious routes. Never before or since have we ridden so long on a donkey back. The drivers would not permit us to dismount even for a scrap of lunch until we had put Men Tou Kou far behind us, soldiers sprang up at every turn to look us over, and at one point a particularly villainous cross-eyed soldier planted himself across our path, with bayoneted rifle to the fore. With difficulty we kept from laughing, for Mary's donkey, with the persistence of his race, ran his nose into the cross-eyed gentleman's ample mummy, and refused to budge, while Mary, in her most courteous Chinese, explained that we were on our way to the city and that all the goods were ours. I really believe that the donkey would eventually have eaten his way through the warlike person, if he had not accepted our explanation and retired to wait for other victims. After a few more miles our drivers decided that they could steal away into the hills, and left us on the high road. Our servants and the goods were bundled into rickshaws to go directly to the city, and we three with the other servant walked five miles more across country to Pa Tu Chu, where the Ferguson motor car awaited us, and whirled us home.

This is a bit of Oriental romance for those of you among whom the not less romantic days of my childhood were spent, with whom I built gipsy huts on the banks of the old creek and went nutting in the fields of kindly farmer friends.

God gave all men all earth to love. But share our hearts are small. Ordained for each one spot should prove beloved over all.

I have come to feel confident of the truth of an apparent anomaly, namely, that only very real love of one's fatherland—and of that "one spot beloved over all"—makes residence abroad alluring or even tolerable. Rupert Brooke, in his prophetic vision of himself lying dead abroad, spoke of that corner of a foreign field that is forever England. Such dedication of foreign soil can come, I am sure, as truly through living in it, and is not inconsistent with effective service and sympathetic understanding of other peoples, other manners.

Eva B. A. Macmillan.

Wise Man Wasn't Talking

"Sleep," said the pessimist, "is but a foretaste of death—that divine nepenthe for which we poor mortals yearn."

"Sleep," said the chemist, "is caused by such an accumulation of toxins that all organic activity must be suspended or minimized pending their elimination through chemical change."

"Sleep," said the poet, fervently, "Ah, poppy and mandragora and all the drowsy snags."

"Sleep," said the business man, "if I can get a good solid eight hours of it, makes me show up at the old desk feeling like a—re—baiting cock."

"Sleep," said the philosopher, "is a phenomenon which—"

The wise man sat in the corner and said nothing. He was taking a little nap.

Fish Easily Gathered In

It may be a slander that the ostrich buries its head in the sand when frightened, but a correspondent of the Sydney Bulletin swears there is a fish that does that and more. The black-spotted sea perch, Lutjanus fulviflamma, when approached stands on his head and wags his tail so violently that he is driven clear out of sight into the sand. The Australian fishermen, however, just wade in and mark the spot with a piece of white shell where each fish has buried himself and then make the rounds with a long sharp spear, jabbing the sand around each sign post, quickly gathering them in.

The Doctor's Ruse

The doctor of a lunatic asylum was in the bathroom one day watching a number of his patients, when one of them called out suddenly: "Let's duck the doctor!"

Seeing his danger, the doctor, with great promptitude, said: "All right, boys, but suppose, now, you give the doctor a cheer before ducking him."

This reasonable proposition was at once acceded to, and a ringing cheer resounded through the building, which at once brought the keepers, as the doctor expected, and he was saved.—Yorkshire Post.

When Washington Relaxed

Irving says that Washington on rare occasions was "surprised in hearty fits of laughter." One such instance occurred at the return of peace, when he was sailing in a boat on the Hudson, and was so overcome by the drillery of a story told by Major Fairlie of New York that he fell back in the boat in a paroxysm of laughter.

"In that fit of laughter," remarks Irving, "it was surely presumed that he threw off the burden of cares which had been weighing down his spirits throughout the war."—Gas Logic.

Mark Wild Bill's Grave for Admiring Tourists

Deadwood, S. D.—The last resting places of "Wild Bill" Hickok and "Calamity Jane," most noted of the early-day characters of the Black hills, are to be improved by Black hills residents. During recent years the graves of "Wild Bill" and "Calamity Jane" have been somewhat neglected. Massive stone monuments will be put at each grave and upon the monuments bronze tablets bearing relief portraits of the two famous characters will be placed. From 800,000 to 1,000,000 tourists are expected to visit the Black hills this year. Eight out of ten of them probably will make the hard climb up a steep highway to Mount Moriah cemetery, so they may view the graves of "Wild Bill" and "Calamity Jane."

Sailing Ship Passes From Pacific Ports

Seattle, Wash.—Although old salts along the water front saw the handwriting on the wall many years ago, the absolute disappearance of the sailing ship from trade routes out of Seattle and Tacoma so early in the Twentieth century was never dreamed of by these master sailors. Great fleets of wind-jammers in all rigs once made shipping history on the Pacific coast, but are no more.

Since the first of the year records of the marine department of the chamber of commerce show that but one sailing craft, the barkentine Centennial, passed in through the straits. Arriving in March the ship was retired from active duty, reducing the present Pacific fleet of sailing boats to less than a dozen.

MUNICIPAL NOTES BY THE MANAGER

Good weather the past week has favored contractors who are putting improvements in upon the village streets, with the result that much progress is being made in all branches of work.

With proper weather conditions this week should see the completion of paving work on Pennington avenue. Because of the necessity for allowing twenty-one days for the concrete to cure, no section of the street will be open to travel until the expiration of this period.

Calcium chloride is again being placed upon the gravel streets in the village for dust laying purposes. Because of the fact that several paved streets are being dug up for the installation of underground construction, and excavation for paving will soon follow, no chloride will be placed upon these streets.

The commission at its adjourned meeting Tuesday evening decided to order sheet asphalt paving upon several streets included in the 1928 paving program, because of the relatively low cost of such construction. This decision will give the village the opportunity to compare the relative merits of asphalt and concrete paving through actual experience with both types of construction.

Until further notice, office hours at the Village Hall will be from 8:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m.

TRANSATLANTIC TELEPHONE SERVICE TO COPENHAGEN OPENS TODAY.

Transatlantic telephone service between America and Copenhagen, the capital of Denmark, will be opened through London Friday, June 29. The service on the American side will include all of the United States and Cuba and 37 principal cities of Canada. Copenhagen, with a population estimated at 775,000, has a total of approximately 126,000 telephones. Denmark is the seventh European country to be connected with America by telephone. The overseas circuit is now in operation from 5:30 a. m. to 9:00 p. m. Eastern time. The cost of a call between any Michigan point and Copenhagen is $64.75 for the first three minutes and $18.25 for each additional minute.

The extension to Copenhagen puts the United States in communication with ten foreign countries. The service in Europe includes all points in Great Britain and Germany, Paris, Copenhagen and important cities in Belgium, Holland and Sweden.

Alaskan Governor Plans to Cover Domain in Plans

Juneau, Alaska.—It is impossible for Gov. George A. Parks of Alaska to visit every part of the big territory during one summer so he has adopted the ultra up-to-date method of seeing the country by airplane. June 1, accompanied by Malvina E. Bull territorial commissioner and J. J. Sammons highway engineer, he left here on a $24 flight with one hour every important settlement and outstanding scenic spots in the Northland. The three flights will come down on all of the 48 landing fields in Alaska for inspection and rest. The trip will include Alaska's coast, interior, and the best roadways, mines, Mount McKinley, the Yukon and Kuskokwim rivers, fisheries, and pulp mills.

Turks Protest Women in Tobacco Industry

Constantinople.—Women have become the cause of labor unrest for the first time in Turkish history in a stormy meeting of the men laborers in the tobacco factories here. The men demanded that the thousands of tobacco women now working in the factories be dismissed and woman labor be henceforth prohibited because of their willingness to work at wages running from one-half to one-third the sum demanded by the men.

Peltzer's Home Town Has Bogey-Man Clock

Stein, Germany.—This home town of Otto Peltzer, the great runner, has one of the most unique tower clocks in Germany. In the center of its huge dial there is the terrifying face of a bearded man who every second rolls his eyes from right to left like a bogey man. In his opened mouth he holds a metal plate on which the day of the month is recorded.

DESIGN SUITS TO CATCH SUN RAYS

Experts Fix Outfits for Outdoor Use by Tots.

Washington—Active little babies now may absorb beneficial sunshine while at play. Specially designed sun suits that leave plenty of skin exposed are recommended for children by the United States bureau of home economics.

The suits, the result of research by the division of textiles and clothing, under the direction of Miss Ruth O'Brien, are designed on the regulation romper plan.

They are made to provide varying degrees of exposure and to be used in sequence as the child's skin becomes accustomed to the sun and wind. Miss O'Brien advises mothers to use the sleeveless, low-necked suit first, then the one with the armholes cut down to the waist and the back cut out. The last stage is the suit with loose trousers of wide-mesh material and shirt made of two narrow strips of gauzy net, whose threads will not interfere with the sun's rays.

"All common textile fibers stop most of the ultra-violet rays," says Miss O'Brien. "So it is best to choose loosely woven fabrics for the sun suits, so that the rays can reach the body through the large spaces between the yarns."

"One of the most satisfactory suits that we have designed is made of cable net for the top and brown cotton suiting for the trousers, which are very short and very loose around the waist."

Farmer, Aged 81, Says He Has Walked 180,000 Miles

Glencoe, Minn.—The record of H. F. Bencke, eighty-one-year-old farmer here, is something for these cross-country runners to ponder over.

Mr. Bencke has clocked off 180,000 miles by foot in the past 17 years and still makes his daily walk.

"I had a fair-sized mileage ticked off when I was only eleven years old," the pioneer explained. "I walked nearly all the way from a point 23 miles south of Chicago to Glencoe in the summer of 1858. I was a member of a prairie schooner party, but there was no room in the wagons for the men and boys."

"For several years after that I walked frequently from the claim here to St. Paul and back, carrying provisions. During all that time I worked in the fields, and in those days, of course, there were no seats to ride on when working in the field. In fact, there was no farm machinery. Later I made from 15 to 20 miles a day plowing and harrowing, and during the rest of the year I reckon that I walked at least five miles a day."

Most of his walking was done with wooden shoes, Bencke said. "We used to wear wooden shoes to St. Paul even in winter and exchange them for leather ones when we neared the town," he declared.

"One time I lost one of my leather shoes while crossing the river from St. Anthony to St. Paul. I didn't like to wear wooden shoes on the streets and tried to buy a pair of buffalo shoes, but couldn't find any to fit me in the St. Paul stores."

New Radium Explosive More Deadly Than TNT

Pasadena, Calif.—A new explosive of which radium is an important ingredient, was reported by military professors of the California Institute of Technology to have shown itself to be 30 per cent more powerful than TNT and 15 per cent more effective than commercial dynamite. In official tests conducted at the college.

Tests of the explosive, which was invented by Capt. H. R. Zimmer, of Los Angeles, former army officer, were conducted by Lieut. Col. L. M. Adams, professor of military science at the institute. An ounce of each of the three explosives was placed in three separate lead jars, and their comparative power determined by measuring the expansions created by the explosions.

Captain Zimmer refused to allow the institute scientists to analyze the explosive, declaring that he believed the War department might wish to maintain secrecy of his formula.

65 Fish for Every Angler, Bureau's Aim

Washington.—In co-operation with the 60 private fish nurseries in this country, the bureau of fisheries plans to distribute this year a total of 650,000,000 fish and eggs, or an average of 65 fish for each of the estimated 10,000,000 persons who fare forth with rod and reel each summer.

From the bureau's 38 main hatcheries and 35 sub-stations, young fish from five to six inches long will be deposited in lowly brooks, rushing streams and majestic rivers from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Through the fish nurseries co-operating with the bureau, a total of 250,000,000 fry will be planted in protected waters.

"More fish in proportion to the water and a shorter time between bites," are the bureau's twin objectives.

Evidently the Republicans were anxious to bolt the convention door before any of the dark horses escaped with the nomination.

NEWBURG

Rev. Johnson preached a very good sermon from the subject, "Timothy's Task." Next Sunday he will talk on "The American Home."

Mrs. C. W. Leonard returned last Tuesday from her six weeks' trip to Scotland.

The Misses Anna and Ada Youngs attended the graduation of their nephew, Kenneth Youngs, at Redford last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Smith left Wednesday morning for a week's visit with relatives at St. John's, Me.

Mrs. Harry Gilbert and daughter, Mildred, attended the graduation exercises at Redford last Wednesday.

Mrs. James McNabb and daughter, Joy, motored to Abdon on Tuesday to make plans for Joy to enter Abdon college next fall.

Mrs. Ed. Cutler had another operation on her eye last week, but is getting along nicely.

Miss Alice Gilbert is spending two weeks at Camp Gray, at Saugatuck. The I. A. S. will be held on July 10 (the second Wednesday) instead of the first at the home of Mrs. Jessie Thomas.

Lewis Gilbert celebrated his eighth birthday on Tuesday by inviting 15 of his little friends to help him have a good time. At 5:30 the children listened to the children's birthday party over the radio. Lewis' name was given over the radio, much to the delight of the children.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ryder called on Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Greer on Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Greer and family are planning on going to Brazil this fall, where Mr. Greer has a position with Mr. Ford in connection with his rubber industry.

Newburg Sunday school is going to have a picnic in the near future. Messrs. Harry Gilbert and Clyde Smith are on the committee to select the place. We are very glad to note that Mrs. Blair is much improved in health and able to be out again.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Norris and children and Mr. and Mrs. James Norris and son, Walter, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clark Mackinder. Mr. Mackinder is suffering from an attack of rheumatism.

Mrs. Will Parrish, of Lansing, spent Wednesday and Thursday with Mrs. C. E. Ryder.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ryder spent Tuesday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Nat Ryder in Plymouth.

Miss Marie Blake, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Edith Blake, at the C. E. Ryder home, has gone to Saginaw to remain for the summer.

BRET HARTE HERO FOUND IN SWEDEN

Original of Arizona Peter Is Old and Blind.

Stockholm.—The original of Arizona Peter, Swedish hero of one of Bret Harte's stories, has been discovered by a Swedish newspaper to be still alive. He is living in the village of Smedjebacken in his native province.

The old Wild West hero is, however, totally blind. His real name is Per Erik Astrom, and he is now seventy years old.

Astrom left Sweden in the early '50s for the West, where he, like many other Swedes, entered the United States garrison service.

Arizona Peter earned a reputation for enterprise and daring. Once when he found a Sioux chief half unconscious, bound and gagged, he got off his horse and saved the Indian. The sweetheart of Astrom, however, was in Sweden, and, wishing to marry her, he got her a position at a neighboring farm, owned by a Scotch woman.

Shortly after her arrival she and her mistress were captured in their home by a plundering band and carried off. Accompanied by Grey Bear, Sioux chief, Astrom dashed across the Mexican border, surprised the brigands and rescued the women.

He then rode away and halted on the slope of a narrow canyon through which the robbers had to pass, as Bret Harte tells the story. There the Swede and the Indian shot down 50 of their foes.

One day Astrom struck a copper vein in the mountains, and soon a group of engineers and miners began to exploit the find. But his fiancée deserted him to marry one of the mining engineers.

In grief Astrom returned to Sweden, where he found work as a stone cutter. Through an explosion he lost the sight of both his eyes. Since then he has been a brushmaker.

Potato-Tomato Union Good Graft for Farms

St. Louis.—A "good graft" (not of the political variety) which anyone may try and which will reward a little patience with a double crop is described in a recent bulletin of the Missouri Botanical garden. It consists of a tomato vine grafted on a potato stock, which yields tomato fruits above and potato tubers below. The graft is fairly easy to make, it is stated, requiring no more skill than is needed for a similar operation on an apple twig. Apparently the first one on record was made over a century ago by an amateur scientist named De Tschudi, who reported his experiments to the Horticultural Institute at Frensch, in France.

Neither partner in this double plant body seems to have any influence on the other. The tomatoes are like those of other plants grown on their own roots, and the potatoes, after in no way from those grown in the ordinary way from other eyes cut from the same parent tuber.

Hough Park Subdivision

It is our aim to make this subdivision a high-class development, that is bound to come to such a wonderful natural location as we have in this property, located as it is, near the heart of Plymouth and in walking distance to schools, theatre, hotel and shopping district.

We owe it to our wives and kiddies as well as ourselves to give serious thought to planning for that real home.

CATHOLIC NOTES

Important is Sunday to each parishioner, as on that day the Rt. Rev. M. J. Gallagher, D. D., will bless and dedicate our church at 10 o'clock, being assisted by the clergy of the diocese.

The men will form ranks from the rectory to the church, acting as guard to the bishop and clergy.

The church will be closed until the bishop enters therein and blesses the same.

There will be an 8 o'clock mass Sunday for those that find it inconvenient to attend the dedication services.

Confirmation will be administered Sunday to all who have not as yet been confirmed, including a large class from the Wayne County Training school.

Let all the ushers, the old and the new, be on the job Sunday with a smile.

The men and women probably will be called upon to act as sponsors for the children at the Training school.

Nethem defeated the Mohawks last Sunday, 7 to 1. Next Sunday they play the Michigan Central Red Caps at Newburg at 3 o'clock. This team has not lost a game this season, so a good contest is assured all. Our boys are playing a good grade of baseball and give a real treat to all spectators.

A game will be played on the Fourth of July at Newburg.

Mary Aquino, aged 9, was hurled from the church last Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Garshow are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a baby girl, Eunie Eugenia.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

Mr. Partridge's class, with a number of mothers, enjoyed a picnic to Bob-Lo on Tuesday of this week.

The Sunday school is looking forward to the annual picnic, which has become an established event in this congregation.

Mr. Nichol will be on vacation during the month of July. The pulpit will be supplied by Rev. R. Stewart and Rev. J. George Peters.

EPISCOPAL NOTES

During the month of July the rector will be away. Services will be discontinued until Sunday, August 5. The church school, however, will continue to meet as usual all through the summer months.

More than fifty children and adults attended the parish picnic at Belle Isle Saturday, June 23. The day was tremendously successful for all. Special credit is due all those who helped to make the day so thoroughly enjoyable; the Guild for the very ample and delicious lunch; the Men's club for the prizes for races and events and the Sunday school for providing transportation by special bus. It was a splendid example of co-operation.

METHODIST NOTES

"Study to show thyself approved unto God a workman that needeth not to be ashamed."

Let us remember, while enjoying these lovely summer evenings, to spend 45 minutes at the church on Wednesday evening for the prayer and praise service, 7:15 to 8:00 o'clock.

The children gave us a delightful hour last Sunday morning with the postponed Children's day program. They did their parts splendidly and were much enjoyed by the goodly number present, as were also the Sunday school choir and the mixed quartet. The stage was very attractive, with strips of shaded colors of crepe paper, tulle and a profusion of flowers, and we feel the committee is to be congratulated on the good program and the charming decorations.

BAPTIST NOTES

The young people's class will hold their regular monthly business meeting Monday evening, July 2. A pot-luck supper will be served, after which the business meeting and good-time social will follow.

The Young People's society has been putting on fine programs the past few weeks. Last Sunday evening there were about twenty present. They have decided to attend the Lake Orion Bible conference one day next week. They will motor from Plymouth in the morning and return at night.

Beginning Sunday morning, July 1, Sunday school will be held at 10 a. m., and church service will open at 11:30 a. m.

AIR MAIL SERVICE EXTENDS

Washington, D. C. Twenty-six states are now being served by air mail. The Post Office Department announces that before the end of June there will be direct air mail service into thirty-five states.

OLD CIGAR BOX SWINDLE WORKS ONCE MORE

Newark, N. J.—Frank Roberts reported he had been swindled out of $2,000, his life's savings, by two strangers he met in Lincoln Park. One told Roberts he had received a $7,000 legacy and suggested they pool their resources. All three put money in a cigar box. It was given to Roberts to hold. It contained scraps of paper!

PERRINSVILLE

Church at Perrinsville at 7:30. Rev. Johnson gives everyone a welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Hanchett spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. George Bachir.

Mrs. Christner, of Garden City, is quite sick.

People visiting the Nankin will find it better keep a close lookout for their cars, as Allen Keek, of Detroit, had his Ford roadster stolen while standing not more than 50 feet from it. No trace has been found as yet.

Mrs. Myrtle Hassett and Mrs. Ella White called on Mrs. Bell Bachir Monday evening.

The first 18-hole course of the new Hawthorne Golf club was opened Sunday to about 50 players.

Ted Consens has purchased a lot of John Snider and has started his house.

Walter Snider has the basement dug for his new home.

HOMES SERVICEABLE HOMES

To build houses that look better, that are better, that are more serviceable and represent a competitive value is the one sure way of building homes that satisfy. This is our aim! The final test of a house plan is the reaction of the owner or tenant who lives in the finished dwelling. It is one of the main reasons of a home. The kitchen is not up to date, the home manager and the cook blame the architect and builder for every extra step, every job, a detail of kitchen work. In our plans of the A-A HOME the kitchen has received special study, the compact arrangement of sink, cupboards, space for stove and refrigerator is very noticeable.

Your Buick Dealer stands back of the USED CARS he sells

Your Buick dealer's good reputation in the community is worth far more to him than the profit he makes on any used car transaction.

He is the head of an established business and he knows that in order to get more business, he must please his present customers.

He carries a representative stock of used cars, including both used Buicks and cars of other makes—and he represents them honestly.

You're sure of a square deal when you buy from the Buick dealer. He stands back of the used cars he sells.

Those present were Roscoe Munson, of Green Bay, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Munson, Mr. and Mrs. Verne Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tufford, Mr. and Mrs. George McPherson and three children, George J. Richard and Jean, Miss Ethel Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Koehler, all of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Kleinschmidt and children, Kenneth, Marion and Marvin. A bounteous dinner was served in the garage.

DETROIT POSTMASTER ADDRESSES PLYMOUTH KIWANIS CLUB.

Postmaster Chas. Kellogg, of Detroit, spoke to the local Kiwanis Club last Tuesday through the courtesy of Roy E. Crowe, who induced Mr. Kellogg to come. The Postmaster gave a historical outline of the postal service from the time of Benjamin Franklin to the present days of the air mail. "The Post Office Department is the largest business organization in the world," said Mr. Kellogg, "serving every town and hamlet in the United States as well as its possessions." He stated that postal employees exceeded by 100,000 the combined personnel of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, thus giving his auditors a new conception of the size of the largest of the Government departments. The Postmaster is an excellent speaker and his talk was thoroughly enjoyed by all who heard him.

NEW TRAIN SCHEDULE ON PERE MARQUETTE.

A change in time schedule on the Pere Marquette went into effect Sunday, June 24th. The Resort Special, No. 115, a new train between Detroit and Bay View, will leave Plymouth north bound at 9:15 daily except Sunday. No. 114, Resort Special, south bound from Bay View will arrive at Plymouth at 5:47 a. m., daily except Sunday, Standard time.

No. 3 for Grand Rapids now leaves here at 8:34 a. m. instead of 8:20, Standard time.

No. 6, east bound, arriving here at 8:10 p. m., Standard time will stop here for passengers from Lansing and points west of that station. Formerly this train did not stop at Plymouth.

NEW POSTAGE RATES.

Postmaster Giles has furnished us with the new postage rates which will go into effect July 1. The new rates follow:

First Class.
Letters and written and sealed matter, 2 cents for each ounce or fraction. Government postal cards, 1 cent each.
Private mailing (post) cards, 1 cent each.

Post cards must conform in size, form and quality with the government postal card. Maximum size permissible, 3 9/16 x 5 9/16 inches, minimum size, 2 3/4 x 4 inches.

Short Paid First Class.
All first class mail at short paid one rate (2 cents), but 2 cents will be collected; if short paid more than one rate, 3 cents will be collected for each ounce or fraction unpaid. Thus, if short paid 2 cents, it will be rated "Due 2 cents"; if short paid 4 cents, will be rated "Due 6 cents"; if short paid 8 cents, will be rated "Due 9 cents", etc.

Second Class.
Newspapers, magazines, etc. (complete copies only), entered as second class matter when sent by others than the publishers or news agents—1 cent for each two ounces or fraction, regardless of distance or weight.

This matter (second class transient) weighing over 8 ounces does not take parcel post rates as formerly.

Special Delivery Fees.
Applies to letters and first class packages only:

Up to 2 pounds, 10 cents; over 2 pounds but not more than 10, 20 cents; over 10 pounds, 25 cents.

Fees On All Mail Other Than First Class.

Mail, other than that of the first class, will be given the same expeditious handling and transportation as is accorded first class matter and in addition receive immediate delivery at the office of address upon payment of the following special delivery fees:

Up to 2 pounds, 15 cents; over 2 pounds but not more than 10, 25 cents; over 10 pounds, 35 cents.

Parcel post packages cannot be registered, only insured.

The Keystone

The Keystone of your body and brain, your backbone, is an intricate, delicate piece of machinery which needs, and must get, careful and constant attention. Like any other piece of machinery, it will occasionally get out of order and the aid of a Human Machinist is desired. In the back are to be found twenty-four vertebrae, or small bones. A fall, sudden jar or spill will often cause a misplacement of one of these bones. This in time causes an impingement of the nerve, which produces DISEASE.

When the cause is located and the vertebrae replaced by means of a CHIROPRACTIC ADJUSTMENT by a duly qualified Chiropractor, then health is the result. A normal backbone means normal health. Keep your backbone in the same condition as you do your automobile. The Chiropractor is your Human Machinist, being a competent and qualified backbone specialist. The backbone of a nation is to be found in the health of its people. The health of the people depends upon the condition of their individual backbones. Therefore, be sure your backbone is normal. Call upon the Chiropractor and let him make a Spinal Analysis.

Will Provide Rural Schools With Walks

WAYNE COUNTY ROAD COMMISSION HAS PLANNED PROGRAM THAT WILL APPROPRIATE $90,000.

The Wayne County Road Commission is undertaking one of its most important projects in the safety of highways for the safety of students attending rural schools located on county roads. It has planned a sidewalk construction program that will approximate for this year about $90,000. This is the beginning of a program that will continue each year until all of the rural schools in the county are provided with sidewalk facilities for children attending those schools. This year about 15 schools located on the high speed and most important roads will be taken care of.

In these 15 schools 1,439 students are in attendance. The schools to be equipped with sidewalks this year were determined upon after a survey of schools and roads had been made by the safety department of the Wayne County Road Commission in cooperation with the office of the county school commissioner, and roads were considered from the standpoint of their importance through highways and a census as follows: Telegraph road, Seven Mile road, Ecorse and Allan roads, Eureka road, Fort road and Michigan avenue, effecting Maple Grove school in Brownstown township, Sheldon school in Canton township, Walker school, Westwood school in Dearborn township, Daily school in Dearborn township, Eureka and Layton schools in Ecorse township, Plerson school in Livonia township, Corey and Hall schools in Romulus township, Sibley school in Mongagon township and the Taylor Center, Sand Hill and Eureka-dale schools in Taylor township. The Denton school is also included in this project.

The survey showed that 395,422 square yards of concrete sidewalk were necessary and it would cost $67,221. In addition to this the estimate for sidewalks to serve the schools on Michigan avenue, an item of $28,758, was submitted to the state highway department and it is probable that the department will include the building of sidewalks in its widening projects already under way on Michigan avenue west of Wayne. In that event, the state will pay half of the cost of the sidewalks constructed on that road. This project is an important step forward in road building in Wayne county. As in many other things, Wayne county is taking the lead in this important matter for the safety of its rural school children and is receiving much favorable praise from state safety officials and many communities outside of the Detroit area.

Many Groups Meet at State College

4-H CLUB MEMBERS TO COMPETE FOR PLACES ON STATE FAIR CONTEST DELEGATION.

Many special group meetings and conferences, ranging all the way from rural ministers to "just plain farmers," have been called for the Michigan State College campus during the next few weeks. Literally thousands of visitors will be included in the various gatherings.

Rural women from all sections of the state will gather for a week of entertainment and instruction at the college, July 23 to 27, in the Farm Women's Institute.

The annual school for rural ministers is scheduled to run for two weeks, beginning July 9.

An institute for social workers will be held at M. S. C. for the first time July 16 to 21. Members of the college staff and national authorities have been secured as instructors for this institute.

Farmer's Day, the largest and most important of the summer meetings will interest thousands of visitors who will come to the campus on July 27. It will be the eleventh annual Farmer's Day.

A school for librarians opens July 9 and continues through July 20, and the annual conference of Y. M. C. A. secretaries will be held the latter part of August.

A mid-summer school for poultrymen is set for July 9 to 13. The sessions were attended by 100 of the state's leading poultry raisers in 1926, when the last school for this group was given.

"This," inhaled the village drunk, as he fazed through the old home brow, "is shortening a thief town."

Ethel: "How did Miss Sharpe cut her lip?"
Chas: "On one of her biting remarks I presume."

Will Display Skill at State Club Week

RURAL WOMEN, MINISTERS, SOCIAL WORKERS, LIBRARIANS, AND FARMERS CALL CONFERENCE.

Michigan club girls will show their skill with needle and thread at a style show to be held during club week at Michigan State College, July 9 to 13.

The garments which will be exhibited were made as a part of the clothing project in girls winter club work. In addition to this show, there will be judging and demonstration contests in both boys and girls sections which will determine divisional winners who go to Detroit to compete at the State Fair.

The East Lansing camp is one of three club camps to be held in the state. Northern peninsula youngsters gather at Chatham, August 6, and a third camp will be held at Gaylord, August 13.

State club leaders expect 350 club members at the East Lansing camp. For the first time, two local leaders accompany the members from each county, and a leaders training school will be given during the week.

Branches of club work in which contests will be held to determine representatives to go to Detroit are: canning, food study, hot lunch, clothing, livestock, poultry, handicraft, and health.

Dr. Frank Crane Says

Victor Hugo in his grandiloquent way said: "Nous sommes tous condamnés."

We are all condemned criminals. The lurid descriptions of Mrs. Snyder and Mr. Gray's last hours before execution gave us all the shivers. The newspaper reporter seems to have the same complaint that some preachers have who at a funeral strive to dwell upon all the effective scenes concerning the death of the departed in order to produce tears from the auditors. It is technically known as "tolling for water."

The more we think of it, however, we conclude that there was but one terrible thing about this execution. That was the certainty of it.

We are all condemned to death, as Victor Hugo says. We must all walk the plank sooner or later, or face a firing squad, or die in battle or here the our last in our beds. Dying is dying whatever be its accompaniment.

And the act of death is probably not so horrible to the actor as it is to the spectators.

Dying is simply lapsing into unconsciousness and the worst pains are felt by those about the victim who realize they will never see him again. The victim himself probably notices little or nothing.

Also the anticipation of death is worse than death itself. The certainty that they were to die upon a given date was bitter torment to the souls of these criminals than the passage through them of the electric charge, which occupied but a few seconds.

If we knew that we had to die upon the stroke of a certain hour we should die 100 deaths in anticipation of it.

Shakespeare says:

"Towards the many times before their deaths—"

The valiant never taste death but once.

That men turn their thoughts to religion when they think death is certain is a testimony to the influence of death upon life and to the superior and immortal qualities of our spiritual natures.

It seems to me most strange that men should fear:

Seeing that death, a necessary end, will come when it will come."

That men turn their thoughts to religion when they think death is certain is a testimony to the influence of death upon life and to the superior and immortal qualities of our spiritual natures.

Picked Up About Town

"There is a disease called "water on the brain," but along about this season of the year the one that most head boys suffer with is "watermelon on the brain."

One disadvantage about going into a movie show after it starts is you are apt to feel around in the dark for a seat and get hold of a pair of indignant knees.

Dad Plymouth says he can remember the time when the divorce courts of this country didn't have any trouble in keeping up with their dockets.

"I suppose there are three things the average woman will always claim the right to be about," asserts Dad Plymouth, "and that's her age, how much her husband makes and what things cost."

The high cost of living is skidding at last. Uncle Sam has ordered a reduction in the tariff on silk hosiery.

It remains for Dad Plymouth to declare that you can tell how much older a woman is than she says she is by how kittenish she acts.

Dad Plymouth says he wouldn't mind a presidential year so much if it didn't always bring around a lot of fellows taking straw votes.

DE-HO-CO WINS BY CLOSE MARGIN

FIGHTING SPIRIT OF THE DE-HO-COS WIN FROM SELFRIDGE AVIATORS 9 TO 8.

De-Ho-Co took another step up the inter-county league ladder last Sunday when, after an epic struggle, the Selfridge Aviators fell before the De-Ho-Co sluggers.

No baseball match on the De-Ho-Co field this season equaled this game in interest and intensity of effort. The Aviators are a match for, if not superior to the Farmers as sluggers, but were a shade less efficient in the pinches when hits did the most good. The fielding on both sides was erratic, six errors each being chalked up to the teams' discredit.

The game started out with a vicious attack on Henrion, De-Ho-Co's pitcher, who vainly tried to stem the tide, but was driven to the showers in the second. Constineau stepped into the breach and though continually in danger, managed to hold on.

Smith, the Aviators' opening round-man, lasted into the third frame, when he was driven off to be replaced by McCarron, who finished for the Fliers.

In the seventh, with De-Ho-Co three runs in the lead, Selfridge rallied and drove in three to tie. In the eighth De-Ho-Co capped one to just the tie, but in the Aviators' half of the ninth, in a desperate effort to put the game in the bag, the Flying boys smashed out two more, again putting the Farmers on the young end. It was up to the Farmers. In the last half of the ninth, to get two and put the game on ice, Martin, first up, fouled out to the Aviators' pitcher, Jaska walked, but German hit to Baker, forcing Jaska out at second. With two out and German on first, Pankratz was sent in to pinch hit for Denniston. Two strikes were called. The game looked lost, when Pankratz connected to deep right for two bases, German, with everything he had, dug in his toes and circled around the bases and with a perfect slide beat the ball into home plate with the tying run.

The fans were now all up on their feet roaring, and in this crisis Smith smashed through a single to center, scoring Pankratz, and De-Ho-Co's fighting spirit had won again.

Next Sunday the Municipal club will come to De-Ho-Co park and another thriller is promised the fans.

For July 4th, which is an open date in the schedule, the management has seen successful in getting the strong Barton Plumbers team to come to De-Ho-Co park. This team will surely test the strength of De-Ho-Co and what looks like the baseball treat of the year will be offered for the local fans' inspection.

Following is the box score of the Selfridge Fliers-De-Ho-Co game and the league standing after Sunday's results.

The RECKLESS DRIVER decides How High your Car Insurance is to be CAR INSURANCE COSTS, whether mutual, reciprocal, or stock company plan, are all pushed upward by acts of the reckless driver. Because all rates, high or low, are based upon the amount of money losses incurred. Reckless driving, in dire results, reaches out further than any other traffic menace. It has a direct effect upon the cost of collision, property damage and public liability protection.

In its eleven years of successful operation in Michigan, Auto Owners Insurance Company has established many innovations that have accrued to the benefit of its many policy holders. This Company has pledged itself to a policy of Lowest Rates commensurate with Actual Costs, without asking the policy holder to bear one penny's worth of direct responsibility.

Now, in this appeal for saner driving, Auto Owners again heads a movement that strikes at the Cause, which with your cooperation, will result in a great saving to all the motoring public.

First Showing of the new FORDOR SEDAN

You've waited eagerly to see the new Fordor Sedan. You've pictured in your mind the kind of car you thought it would be. And now it's here—more strikingly beautiful in every way than your fondest hopes.

Long, low, streamline body, with narrow belt moulding running completely around the car. Exquisite two-tone color harmonies set off by bright touches of gleaming metal. So richly finished and appointed in every detail that it has the appearance of a custom-built body.

Above all—a wide, roomy, comfortable car. Deep lounge seats upholstered in soft woolen cloth, with brown hairline stripe, in pleasing contrast with light brown trimming. Arm rests. Embossed cloth paneling around doors and on seat in front compartment. Oval bow light and robe rail in rear compartment. Mechanical beauty that matches this outstanding beauty of line, color and finish.

Come in and see this great new car and arrange for a demonstration through thick-est traffic, up steepest hills, on your favorite straightaway. You'll know then that it is an unusual value at $625. (F. O. B. Detroit.)

This price includes four-wheel brakes, four Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers, five steel-spoke wheels, four 30x4.50 balloon tires, electric windshield wiper on closed cars, speedometer, gasoline gauge on instrument panel, dash light, mirror, combination stop and tail light, theft-proof coincidental ignition lock, high pressure grease gun lubrication and Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield.

"THE PIONEER SCOUT"

One need not pine for thrills in the latest Paramount picture starring Fred Thomson in "The Pioneer Scout," which comes to the Penniman Allen Theatre Wednesday, July 4th. Some of the most thrilling scenes seen here for some time are included in the western picture, and to the star's credit, it must be said that his present offering is one of the best western pictures shown here for many moons.

Local film fans will remember this star in "Jesse James," which created so much talk throughout the film world. That also was a Paramount picture, and the producing firm has spared no pains with Thomson's second picture made for the concern.

Fred Thomson, as predicted before, will soon mount the pinnacle of popularity with Young America, and if the older folks fail to get a kick out of his pictures, there is something decidedly wrong with their constitution.

With "The Pioneer Scout" the lover of thrills could hardly ask for more, as there is one big punch after another. The photography is also striking—and the scenery! There is only one Golden West in the world, and Paramount has succeeded in catching a good sample of it in this coming attraction at the local theatre.

Briefly, the story concerns the days when the pioneers ventured across the desert wastes during the hectic gold rush days or during the time when the West was first settled. Of course they were beset by all sorts of hazards. Fred Thomson is a pioneer scout, whose business it is to lead these sterling characters across the desert.

It is during one of these trips that he met Mary Baxter, daughter of a settler, and immediately fell in love with her. But, of course there is the villain! And it's Tom Wilson, who portrays "Handy Anderson" who boasts a "hooked" hand. Thrilling events follow, one of which is a race between covered wagons over the flat desert, with smash ups and everything. Silver King, Thomson's white horse, also should come in for a share of praise.

"THE DOVE"

Norma Talmadge in "The Dove," her first United Artists Picture, is to be featured at the Penniman Allen Theatre Saturday, July 7th. Based on Willard Mack's stage play, which ran for a year on Broadway, "The Dove" is a melodramatic, romantic tale of Costa Rica, the "red coast." Miss Talmadge is supported by Noah Beery and Gilbert Roland. Roland West directed the picture from the scenario by Wallace Smith and Paul Bern.

"The Dove" is the colorful, quick-action narrative of a virtuous dance hall girl, a courageous young American employed in a gambling house, and "the best damn caballero in all Costa Rica." Don Jose Maria y Sandoval. Against a background of guitars, stilletos, roulette wheels, fine ladies and grand gentlemen, the characterization of Miss Talmadge as Dolores, "The Dove," a beautiful dancer, comes to glowing life, according to advance reports.

Directed by Roland West, who has previously made Norma Talmadge pictures, and supported by Noah Beery and Gilbert Roland, who were accorded considerable roles by the star, Miss Talmadge has a role of fire, tempestuous, loving, defying and yielding in its several shades. The film is said to retain all of the color which David Belasco put into the stage version of "The Dove," in which Judith Anderson and Hollbrook Blinn appeared. Roland West, the director, believes the story is even more suited to films, and that in "The Dove" Miss Talmadge achieves new heights in a part as different from her prior characterization as that was from its predecessors.

"The Dove" was made at the United Artists Studio in Hollywood, taking six months in the making. First, Roland West and Wallace Smith adapted Willard Mack's stage play to films, then Smith and Paul Bern wrote the scenario, then West directed Miss Talmadge in the picture, which Oliver Marsh photographed. It was Marsh who won himself so much critical commendation with photography of Miss Talmadge's "Camille." Photographic effects in "The Dove" are said to be so novel that the set in the United Artists Studio was closed to visitors by Director West while certain sequences were being filmed.

Norma Talmadge not only becomes a United Artists star through "The Dove," her first picture for that organization, but she is also now one of the eight owner-members of United Artists. Mary Pickford, Gloria Swanson, Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks, D. W. Griffith, Joseph M. Schenck and Samuel Goldwyn are the others.

Merchants Take an Easy One Sunday

The Plymouth Merchants' baseball team handed the Pontiac A. C. a severe drubbing out at Burroughs Field last Sunday 18-0. The Pontiac team is a colored aggregation who have some weird ideas of how the national pastime should be played. The home boys, however, showed them a few tricks that they can ponder over after they recover from the humiliation they were subjected to last Sunday. The Merchants lost all interest after the first inning, so it could hardly be called a ball game and still have a clear conscience. Quinn and Walker, who pitched for Plymouth allowed the Pontiac outfit one scratch hit and had the Plymouth infield been at all interested in the game, probably could have held them hitless.

While the Merchants were holding the dusky gentlemen harmless, they collected anywhere from 1 to 4 runs per inning for themselves, for a total of 18.

The management of the Merchants tries to look games with teams of the same class as Plymouth to give the fans as good a game as possible, but it seems that they get badly fooled occasionally. Anyone seeing the box score can imagine what kind of game it was, so the loss said the better.

The only thing that interested the Plymouth team at all was seeing some of our leading business men in attendance. It makes the boys feel pretty good to see some of the Merchants they represent, take enough interest in the team to come out and see them in action, their only regret, however, was that they didn't have enough opposition to give anyone an idea of what kind of game they are capable of playing. Next Sunday the strong Ypsilanti Fomby team will be entertained out at Burroughs Field and as this team have been champions of the Ypsilanti League the past two seasons they should give the Merchants a good battle. On Wednesday, July 4th, the Merchants play the Harper & Van Dyke Association team of Detroit, on the home lot, so come out and see a good game as these boys are touted as a first Class A club.

Lilith, Adam's First Wife, Believed Demon

There is an old rabbinical tradition that Adam, the first man, was originally married to a sorceress named Lilith, who was the mother of devils, a writer in the Detroit News relates. She refused submission to Adam and disregarded commandments conveyed to her by angels, and having finally invoked the name of Jehovah according to the rules of the Cabala she ascended into the air and disappeared.

Lilith was feared by divers nations. When children died of diseases not properly understood, their death was attributed to Lilith, who was supposed to carry out her wicked purposes as an aerial specter. Newly married pairs were accustomed to inscribe the names of their houses, and the names of Adam and Eve and the words "Beware Lilith" on the outside walls.

The name Lilith was given to women suspected of consorting with demons. The legends of Lilith were transmitted from people to people until they came down to the ancient Jews, who believed them. These people were wont to inscribe on their bedposts words and formulas calculated to prevent Lilith from troubling them with dreams.

Anyway, Search Ended With Dime's Discovery

Dusk had settled on the street and the pale rays of the street light barely pierced the murky mist of rain as a fatigued man searched the gutter intently, shuffling his rubberless shoes in the watery slush. He scanned the dirty waste with expectant eagerness, sobbing now and then. Passersby stopped to watch the tattered figure.

"What's the matter?" asked a spectator.

"Lost a dime," responded the searcher.

Some of the more adventurous joined him in the gutter. Several squatted on their heels as they searched the slimy ooze for the elusive coin with numbed hands.

A crowd collected and more advice than help was offered. Finally one of the searchers stood up.

"Here it is," he cried. A mock cheer arose from the crowd, and they dispersed.

"Wonder if he really did, or if he took one out of his pocket," someone grumbled.

The finder smiled—"That's my business," he said to the fellow who accompanied him away. Anyway it was a dime—Springfield Union.

Have to Sit and Watch

If you can have your short life and a merry one, and then be snuffed out suddenly while sleeping, without suffering, it wouldn't be so bad, so far as that is concerned, but it seldom works out that way. You have your short, merry life and then—pop! goes a kidney or your gall bladder or your stomach, and you spend what seems to be the longer part of your life ruminating ruefully, and not so merrily. It isn't so pleasant, after having indulged yourself without stint for a number of years, to sit by and see those around you enjoying their vicarious while you have to pass up everything except a piece of dry bread.—Physical Culture Magazine.

Out of the World

By CLARISSA MACKIE

(Copyright.)

ANN BEEBE waited, a cool, quiet, capable little thing, while Mr. Wentworth signed the letters. He never noticed that a spirit of dissatisfaction dwelt in her large brown eyes, nor did he even remotely guess that his secretary was unhappy. But deep in Ann's lonely heart was a wish that she could get away from the noisy city.

Ann managed a smile at her charming reflection in the mirror. "If I only had some relatives—if I only belonged to somebody!" she told herself rebelliously as she went down in the elevator to the street.

Ann never knew what prompted her to get on the Fairfield car that had stopped at the corner. She sank comfortably into one of the forward-facing seats and looked from the window as the car passed until at last they drew near Fairfield. Ann loved the charming houses with their fresh green lawns. The car stopped many times along this way and then it went on into the golden June of countryside. It was then that Ann yielded to temptation and got out at a quiet green corner and walked slowly along a pleasant country lane.

She was pretending that she was going home.

Suddenly something happened—Ann could never have told you how it happened that she did not see the deep hole that some children had made in the path that day nor how it was to affect her destiny—she came to a rise in the path and continuing her way stepped directly into the deep excavation. Her pretty, high-heeled shoe twisted and wrenched her ankle into agonizing pain, and she sunk fainting on the path.

It was half an hour later that some one came along and found her there—some one big and broad shouldered, with a merry, sun-browned face under the floppy sun hat. He was dressed in khaki shirt and overalls and one shapely brown hand cupped a rack over his shoulder. He bent over Ann and lifted her easily and when he found her eyes were closed and that one foot was wedged into the hole he guessed the truth, and hurried toward the house of the chimneys.

"Telephoned to the doctor, Mrs. Raynor," he said to the housekeeper who came out to meet him. "How about your sitting room upstairs?"

"Of course, Mr. Peter. Put her on the broad couch and I will bring some hot water with me."

It was not until after the doctor had been there and bound up the badly sprained ankle that Ann Beebe opened her lovely eyes and looked at them with blank surprise.

"What—what is the matter? Why, where am I?" she questioned.

The doctor answered her inquiries. "You were crossing Peter Larkin's field when you stepped into a hole and sprained your ankle, Mrs. Raynor, who is Mr. Larkin's housekeeper, will take good care of you for a week or so, unless your people could come for you with a car. Of course Mr. Larkin could take you home if you wish."

"I live in a boarding house—and I have no people—only good friends," admitted Ann. "But really, I should not intrude here—and if Mr. Larkin will kindly drive me to the boarding house, I will be quite all right."

"Then you must stay right with us," said Peter Larkin's deep pleasant voice. "Mrs. Raynor will be delighted to have you to take care of and Doctor MacFee will be glad to come and see you every day. The country air will be good for you. What say, Mrs. Raynor—doctor?"

"Of course she must stay here," decided the housekeeper in a motherly way, and when the doctor added his approval, Ann accepted gracefully. Mrs. Raynor went downstairs to telephone to the boarding house and to tell the landlady to pack some of Ann's clothes and send them out by a messenger, while a trim maid prepared a dainty supper for the girl who had so strangely appeared.

That night Ann slept in a dainty room that opened out of Mrs. Raynor's own bedroom, and it was late before she finally sank into slumber so delicious was the contact with people who seemed like one's family! Mrs. Raynor had possessed a little and told Ann that Peter Larkin was a lawyer in the city. He lived alone with his housekeeper in this charming old place that he had inherited from an aunt and they often had guests, when the place was full of music and activity.

The next morning Ann had a little fever and the ankle was very painful. The doctor came and ministered to her and she was feeling better at noon when Peter Larkin brought her luncheon tray and waited upon her deftly. Afterward, he read to her and Ann went right off to sleep, awakening to a delightful sense of being taken care of.

Mr. Wentworth, her employer, sent her a basket of fruit and flowers and some of her friends came to see her, but wise Mrs. Raynor smiled to herself those days because she knew that handsome Peter Larkin had at last lost his heart to this little brown-eyed girl who had "no home and no people."

And Ann? She was the happiest girl in the world when Peter asked her to be his wife. "Now," said Ann, her head on his shoulder, "now, I really belong!"

SAYS LEPROSY MAY NOT BE CONTAGIOUS

Scientist Hopes to Substantiate Theory.

San Francisco.—Possibility that leprosy is not contagious and that victims of the dread scourge need not be isolated in colonies of the so-called "living dead" was disclosed here by Dr. E. L. Walker, professor of tropical medicines in the University of California medical school.

The theory, supported for the first time by definite evidence, was advanced by the University of California scientist upon his return from a 14-months' stay in Honolulu. His investigations and experiments were conducted in a laboratory at Kalaheo hospital, a receiving station for lepers destined for incarceration at Molokai leper colony.

Doctor Walker, who said his findings are only tentative, explained that authorities long have suspected that the actinomycetes bacteria might be involved in leprosy, but that no laboratory evidence hitherto had been obtained to support the suspicion. This particular bacteria, classified as a plant fungus, is said to be a soil growing organism, like that causing lock jaw. It appears reasonable to suppose, then, according to Doctor Walker, that leprosy is an infection from the soil.

The theory is materially strengthened, according to the scientist's findings, by the known fact that leprosy is most prevalent in countries where the natives run barefoot. Investigation in these places, with the soil origin of infection in mind, the adoption of shoes and the careful disinfection of wounds, provided seemingly positive evidence of the truth of the new theory.

The stumbling block in the way of obtaining experimental proof that actinomycetes is the actual cause of leprosy, Doctor Walker said, lies in the fact that animals other than man are immune to the disease. In other words, it is impossible to try these bacteria any other way than on a human, and that is considered too dangerous. However, in his experiments in Hawaii Doctor Walker found them always present in leprosy tissue.

Hope of substantiation of the theory that leprosy is not contagious and that governments need not condemn the unfortunate victims, to "living death" in lepers' colonies, Doctor Walker declared, lies in the East Belgian Congo, the ivory coast of Africa and other known districts where the percentages of leprosy are high and where necessary experiments and observation may be made.

Scientists Digging Into Gardens of Hesperides

Algiers.—Encroachments of science must doubtless agitate the spirits of the Hesperides, those beautiful maidens who in Greek mythology guarded the golden apples which Gaea, the Earth, produced as a marriage gift for Hera, wife and sister of Zeus.

In Morocco, near the legendary gardens of the Hesperides, archeologists are making fresh excavations of the ruins of ancient Luxa. This city was founded more than 2,000 years ago by the legions of the Caesars on the hillside close to the modern town of Larache.

There is profound interest among scientists in what valuable remnants of the old Roman civilization may be brought to light. A group of prominent French and other archeologists just completed an inspection of the parts already uncovered.

Motto All Right, but Staff Went Too Far

Samuel Grindstone was a hustler of the modern school. He believed in the gospel of speeding up.

Over every desk in his office he placed a large printed notice, reading: "Do It Now!"

But a week later, with tired fingers and exhausted air, he tore them all down.

"Hello," said a friend, dashing in and seeing the ceremony of destruction. "What's up? Doesn't hustling pay? Go back to the old leisurely methods?"

"Yes, I am," snorted Grindstone. "Hustling doesn't pay. I gave ten cents each for these notices, thinking they'd spur my staff to hard work."

"Well?"

"Well, the net result is that they've all acted on the motto. The chief cashier has bolted with the contents of the safe, my typist has eloped with my youngest son, four juniors came in yesterday to ask for a raise, and the office boy got a better job and has gone off to it."

Someone Else Would Wear Nether Garment

The henpecked man came into a department store, majestically led by his wife. Their errand, if you want to use the plural form instead of the feminine singular, was to buy Mr. Henpeck a suit of clothes.

About 118 different suits of clothes were taken off the racks, and the coats, at least, tried on Henpeck. He said not a word and although his legs got trembly and wobbled, when he looked at his spouse out of the corner of his eye he saw he must stand up under the ordeal until unconsciousness gave him rest and relief.

The clothing salesman was getting more frazzled and worn down than any of the three. He had a boiler-factory perspiration and his temper was beginning to say, "I don't want to be good much longer."

So finally he blurted out to Henpeck, "Say, friend, why don't you buy this suit. You can wear the coat of it, anyhow?"—Exchange.

Nethem Defeats Mohawks 7 to 1

The Mohawk A. C., a fast amateur team of Detroit, journeyed to the Nethem ball diamond last Sunday with but one object in view—victory. Not so, Mohawk, said the Nethem boys, and victory was turned over to them with ease after the third inning. George Cunningham started the game and held the boys at his mercy for six innings, having six strikeouts and giving the visitors five scattered hits. Tony Remus then was placed on the mound for two innings, fanning four and giving no hits. Holmes closed the game with a strikeout and a hit. Eddie pitched for the Mohawks but worked out at the third and was relieved by Carl. Five strikes are credited to the visitors. Nethem played a neat game of ball, and brought in the runs when necessary, hitting safely and timely. A few errors were assigned to each team but neither did any damage.

Next Sunday the Nethem team will cross bats with the undefeated Michigan Central Red Caps at Newburg. A very good game is expected and a cordial invitation is extended to all.

Once upon a time a young man strolled past a pretty girl without looking around.

"When I looked out of the window, Johnny, I was glad to see you playing marbles with little Eddie."

"We wasn't playing marbles, ma. We just had a fight and I was helping Eddie to pick up his teeth."

ANNOUNCING OUR 34th ANNIVERSARY

and the Opening of the New Addition To Our Store

SATURDAY, JULY 7TH

Afternoon and Evening

Souvenirs for Ladies and Gentlemen

Saturday, July 7th, marks the thirty-fourth anniversary of the establishment of this store in Plymouth, and also the formal opening of the new addition to our store which we have recently completed.

The New Addition

The new addition is given over to the unpacking room in the basement; the first floor to the WORK SHOP AND PAINT DEPARTMENT, and the second floor to the LINOLEUM DEPARTMENT.

We have also made some other improvements in our store by installing Warren display cabinets, new display show cases and tables, which gives us a better opportunity to display our merchandise.

Demonstrations

We are pleased to announce that on opening day we will have a demonstration of the DUFOLD IRONERS and the EASY WASHERS, which will be of especial interest to the ladies.

Our Invitation

We most cordially invite the people of Plymouth and surrounding country to be our guests on this thirty-fourth anniversary event. This is not a sale, but we want you to come in and see the improvements we have made in our store and inspect the various lines of merchandise which this store carries upon its three floors.

HEREDITY. GOING TO COLLEGE. ONE KIND OF SALESMAN. THE CAREER OF PHIPPS.

Felstead, with betting 33 to 1 against him, won the Derby. Horses, more fortunate than men, can inherit a father's qualities. Felstead's father, Spion Kop, also won the Derby.

Rich fathers, ask yourselves what would have happened had Spion Kop left his winnings to his son, to squander as he chose. Would Felstead have won any races?

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., tells Elsk university students that merely going to college doesn't necessarily mean getting an education. It may mean only "forming habits of indolence, acquiring an unwarranted sense of superiority, or becoming dissatisfied with circumstances and environment in which one's lot is cast."

Mr. Rockefeller's definition of what education ought NOT to do should be posted up in every college. It ought not to cram the mind with dates, facts, figures, produce shrewd, money-seeking lawyers, turn out doctors that reckon success in dollars, or "fit men for a business life that is sharp, slick, shady."

The mechanical man, or "talking Robert," has been financed $25,000,000 worth.

Manufactured in thousands, he will be used as a salesman, mechanically uttering certain words, handing out cigarettes, etc.

You may say, "But he cannot THINK, how can he be a salesman?" He can be THAT kind of a salesman, and it's a numerous kind.

In Ohio, fifty years ago, an earnest young clerk named Phipps worked all day in a hardware store, then walked eight miles and back to keep books for a blacksmith. Phipps, the blacksmith and young Andrew Carnegie went into the iron business.

Some farmers think they need a low tariff, but don't. Tariff protection makes possible high wages, and high wages make it possible for American workers to buy farm products.

This country produces ninety billion dollars' worth of new wealth every year, thirteen billions from the soil, six billions from mines, sixty-three billions from industry.

Cripple that industry with foolish tariff tinkers, and everybody will have trouble.

A survey by the Illinois Association for Criminal Justice, partly financed by the Carnegie Foundation, says gambling, thoroughly organized for many years, plays a great part in Chicago's crime problem.

Gambling is literally the curse of cities, most dangerous to those that practice it, and to the community on whom they prey.

Those that promoted a revival of Chicago race tracks are responsible, whether they know it or not, for much of Chicago's crime.

It is hard to escape the crime wave these days. In one case bandits kidnaped a doctor, ordered him to treat one of them wounded, then beat him cruelly and finally killed him.

Six active bandits in New York city rounded up four taxi drivers among their victims.

Taxicabs are associated with banditry in the public mind. The policeman "meaning it all for the best" shot down two of the innocent taxi men, killing one, knocked a third unconscious with his club.

Old China changes slowly. Chang Tso-lin fled from Peking to Mukden, his stronghold, on the advice of magicians and astrologers. Two astrologers, one called "Prince Benevolence," seventy-seven years old, another "Iron Month," have predicted things that convinced him.

The Mongolians like magicians, Jenghis Khan was ruled by one of them nearly 700 years ago. Ultimately and wisely, he had the magician's back broken by a strong wrestler.

It Was Branded "Polly"

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

(Copyright.)

EDITH LEONARD was very much annoyed that Dick could even hesitate to accept the offer of a position with the big trust company, which would mean a salary that would enable them to marry almost at once.

"If you stick to the work you're doing now," she said somewhat peevishly, "you will be pottering about with those patents forever and never get anywhere."

"But Edith, dear, if I take this position it will mean grind, grind, all the time at some one else's business and give me no time to work out my patents. I know if I could just get a start in selling some of the things I have been working on so long it would soon clear the deck for bigger things."

"You'll never make a lot of money inventing soaps and can openers and little things like that."

"It's sometimes the little things that make the money," he said stubbornly. "Come, Edith, just give me another year and if I'm not marketing some of my ideas by that time I will give it all up and do as you think best. I have enough money saved now to start putting the soap on the market, and with just a little co-operation from some one who has faith in it—well, I just know it will prove a winner."

When Dick returned to his boarding house that evening he felt discouraged. Certainly the girl he loved gave no encouragement to the schemes dear to his heart.

Not so with little Polly, the daughter of his kind landlady. She was the motherly type of girl, who listened to everybody's troubles and always sent him away much the cheerier.

She had known for some time that their third-floor boarder had of late been worrying and she longed to know his troubles. He had not up to the evening in question confided his ambitions to her, but somehow his last talk with Edith had cast him so low in spirit that he wanted to pour out his troubles to that soft-eyed Polly.

It was eleven o'clock and past Polly's bedtime when she and Dick turned out the sitting-room light and went to their downy couches, but Dick felt as if a new world had opened for him, and Polly seemed to know, without having told Dick so, that she was going to do something to help him in his life's ambition.

For with the true housewife's keen brain for anything which might lighten the work of the household, she had at once realized that Dick's patent soap for cleaning windows and mirrors and his wonderful can opener, which opened the can without the usual amount of inward ravings, were both most salable articles.

And unknown to Dick she got hold of his formula for the soap, and, having got a supply of all that was necessary for the concoction thereof, Polly set to work to get out small sample tins of it.

"I want first to try it among some of our friends and see what they say," she told her mother, "and if it proves worth while I can book orders. And if housewives want it, it will be easy enough to get some of the grocers and shops to order some."

"I believe you're right," said the mother who always added her help to any pet scheme of her daughter's. "I never had anything clean the mirrors so well and it would be grand for motors, too—water doesn't seem to blur the windows after using it. And that can opener is a dandy."

"Yes, it's a pity that we can't get a few made as samples, but I'll just have to take this one on my rounds and demonstrate it as I do the soap."

The orders Polly brought back during the following few weeks were not only flattering to Polly and the soap and the can opener, but they were quite beyond anything she had hoped for.

"We will put them on Dick's dressing table this evening," she whispered to her mother. For up to now in the proceedings Dick had been merely the man who held the patent rights. This scheme to put it on the market was still a surprise for him.

When he saw the pile of orders for soap and can openers on his dressing table he felt almost like shouting his joy.

He dashed down the stairs and into the private sitting room of Polly and her mother.

"I've never had anything quite so wonderful done for me in all my life," he said, somewhat shakily. "and it is all due to you two. I suppose we will have to form a company now, the three of us, and begin manufacturing. And the brand," he said, and looked long and happily at Polly, "shall be the Polly brand." He gazed at the two women who had made life different merely by their faith in him. All his dreams had come into being and he could now spend his energy and his brain power making good in the lines he loved.

"And I couldn't marry Edith now," he said softly, and slipped his hand into Polly's, and with his other arm encircled Polly's mother. "Everyone I love—is just right here. And the sooner we can form our company, which will include the mother of the bride, the bride and the groom, the happier we will be."

Today's Reflections

Our idea of a hero is the Plymouth man who would rather get soaked to the skin than to walk down town carrying his wife's green silk umbrella.

The happiness of the home doesn't depend on how the wife carries her age as much as how she carries'ou.

Girls today don't seem to be much interested in breaking hearts. But some of them go out of their way to keep our young men broke.

The real trouble with the younger generation around Plymouth is that there were not enough parents using a paddle 15 or 20 years ago.

Neither Hoover nor Smith has yet come out flat-footed on the bobbed-hair issue.

In Mexican campaigns the women always accompany their husbands in the army, so the soldiers are always in fighting trim.

Even the Plymouth husband who never kisses his wife is considered a pretty good sort of husband if he doesn't go around kissing other men's wives.

We can remember when the only non-stop flights people knew anything about were when those ascending bank cashiers took to Canada.

It sometimes seems as if the weather is showing the effects of association with this wild and reckless "rising generation."

A doctor announces that the healthiest people are those who keep their flesh exposed to the sun and breezes. Then some of the women we see around Plymouth ought to be awfully healthy.

Yet if all those who prefer a good neighborhood could get in it wouldn't be a good neighborhood any more.

This is the season when the big canning factories start putting up our meals for next year.

When you see a Plymouth man who is a little lamb around the house you can also bet that he is a little goat around there, too.

This year's crop of graduates will do well to remember that the best of directions are worthless if they're not sprinkled with horse-sense.

Let others growl about road hogs and parking space. Lindbergh just hops off and takes the air where there is always plenty of room and no idle chatter.

We can't imagine anything more pathetic around Plymouth than seeing a horsefly light on a radiator.

When Children Become Finicky

When Sonny and Sister become tired of eggs, prunes, spinach or carrots—four of their most wholesome foods—try preparing them in the form of a fancy gelatin dessert or salad. Use fruit flavors for dessert combinations, and lemon-flavored gelatin for salads. Mold in fancy shapes, and see how welcome they are.

SAVES IN THE END

In preserving according to new methods the use of pectin may be specified in recipes. Although these new recipes require more sugar (either beet or cane), the yield in finished jellies and jams is much greater, and the cooking time many minutes less.

TAKES PLACE OF EGGS IN CAKES

A dessert-spoonful of vinegar added to a cup of milk will answer the same purpose as two eggs in cake making. Prepared cake flour should be used in this, as in all cake recipes, to insure lightness and uniform success.

COMBATTING TROUBLESOME ANTS

A heavy chalk mark drawn a finger's distance from your sugar box and around containers for bread and cake will keep the ants away.

WHEN BAKING PEPPERS

To keep peppers whole when baking place them in buttered muffin tins, and when ready for serving, remove with the aid of two large spoons.

SAVES TIME IN SEWING

Let the children thread a package of needles on the loose ends of your spool of thread and fasten the thread under the notch in the spool. Then you will have a dozen threaded needles to use when sewing.

LONGER LIFE FOR STOCKINGS

Remember that perspiration wears out more stockings than laundering them—so it is economy to wash hosiery after each wearing.

Your Flower Garden

By Romaine B. Ware

Transplant Iris Now

There is probably no more important task in the garden at this season of the year than to transplant the Iris. If you have any plants that have not been divided and reset in the last two years the next thirty days are the best season of the year to do this work. Iris should be divided and reset every two or three years. If you let them go longer the blooms are not as good and the plants suffer.

In resetting Iris take the spading fork and lift the whole clump out of the ground. This is best done in dry weather as the soil works better then and the Iris are somewhat of a dry weather plants. After lifting the clump shake as much of the dirt off as possible and cut all the leaf stalks off about six inches from the roots. The round stems that have bloomed may be cut right at the root. As you examine the clump after shaking the soil off you will find that it naturally breaks apart into many divisions. Break it up till you have not more than three or four leaf stalks to each division.

The soil where the Iris are to be set should be well pulverized and a good sized trowel full of air slacked lime or ground lime stone added to each plant; also add a similar amount of bone meal. Spade this all up well together and you are then ready to plant. One of the greatest mistakes in planting Iris is setting them too deep. The thick fleshy part of the root known as the rhizome should set in the ground much as a duck sets in the water, half in and half out. This is the natural way for them to grow as they like to get the sun on this part of the roots.

As this is the best time of the year to plant Iris I will give you a list of good varieties next week. In the blooming season just passed I visited some of the finest Iris gardens in the country and made notes of some of the most desirable things. There are few flowers that give the all-round-satisfaction that the Iris do in almost any climate and under any conditions but they respond very quickly to good care. Study their needs and you will be pleased with the better bloom you get.

Hints for the Home

by Nancy Hart

So much beauty can be given to rooms through the use of attractive slip covers that it seems we should try our hands at making a set for the summer home.

Printed linens, chintz, cretonnes in quaint floral patterns are ideal for the purpose, and need not be expensive, so long as colorings and design are good.

Lay material over chairs or sofa, tuck well into corners, crease and pin according to the outlines of the furniture. Cut from the pattern you have molded, allowing a half-inch for seams. Fold seams back, lay pieces on furniture again and pin together so they fit snugly. Remove cover, baste and stitch with a "well seam" on the right side, allowing a six inch opening at each side in back so the cover can be slipped on and off.

EGGS WITH MACARONI

A substantial luncheon dish.

A half cup milk, a tablespoon butter or margarine, a half cup canned mushrooms, a cup cold boiled macaroni, two eggs, a half teaspoon salt and pepper to taste. Heat milk in a double boiler, add the butter or margarine, mushrooms, cut fine and macaroni, then the eggs, well beaten. Stir for ten minutes and serve.

SATURDAY IS TAG DAY FOR STARR COMMONWEALTH

Citizens of Plymouth Will Be Given Opportunity to Help a Most Worthy Michigan Institution.

On Saturday, June 30th, citizens of Plymouth will be given an opportunity to lend a hand, and thereby a bit of encouragement, to the remarkable work that is being done at the Starr Commonwealth, that unusual home and school for delinquent boys, located near Albion, Michigan. On that day several Commonwealth boys will be in Plymouth to assist in putting on a tag day for the benefit of this home.

It is taken for granted that everyone who is interested in the work at Starr Commonwealth will welcome an opportunity to help financial in this human enterprise, but there are those who, knowing intimately of the good that is being done in that little school, have given largely by such support the school has grown and developed.

Fifteen years ago Floyd Starr, founder of the school, bought a forty-acre farm near Albion, on the shore of Montclair lake. Here he began, with very small and limited materials, the building of a lifelong dream into a thing of reality. Seven boys, whom nobody else wanted, went to this farm home with Mr. Starr and helped him build their first shelter, "Gladstone Cottage."

As knowledge of the work spread about the country, more and more boys came to Mr. Starr's family until Gladstone Cottage could no longer hold them. Then, by the hands and heart of one who deeply sympathized with the work, another cottage was built and furnished, and still the family grew. In this way another and much larger cottage is financed and built, besides a school house and community house.

These cottages shelter seventy-five homeless boys, all under age, who had blundered into criminal paths, not understanding their probable destination, or just what led them in that direction. Nine times out of ten it has been lack of love and sympathy and home training that has been to blame; but had it not been for Mr. Starr's interest and understanding and love the boys must have paid the price with lives of failure and tragedy.

Under the best home influence, with which the Starr home is surrounded, these boys forget the mistakes of the past, are encouraged to develop their best, rather than their worst traits; in the end every one of the two hundred and fifty boys who have thus far come under this hospital roof has not only redeemed himself but has been instructed in helping other boys.

The only creed known at Starr Commonwealth is "There is no such thing as a bad boy." What are they? At Starr Commonwealth they are thought of as misdirected victims of environment. There the environment is changed. In an atmosphere of hope, love, loyalty, culture, encouragement, helpfulness and high ambition a boy's soul can grow and find itself.

This is a democratic, non-sectarian institution, conducted on one and only one principle—love for unfortunate boys. The work has grown in popularity, not only with the boys themselves but with those who know its aims, its scope, and its results, until its influence is felt far beyond the borders of Michigan. Many workers are now employed. Here the first—but not the only—requisite for employment being always, "can you place the interests of these boys above your own?" Every one who is employed at Starr Commonwealth as cook, matron, teacher must answer that question in the affirmative and must prove it in order to hold the job. Only Michigan boys are accepted.

though applications come in constantly from a score of states. Not all who should or would come from our own state can be accepted on account of limited accommodations. Tag days are definitely for the extension of this work, so that more and more of our own boys may be saved the stigma of crime and sin and may be shown the dignity of labor, the beauty of purity and the obligations of citizenship.

New Telephone Cable Completed

One hundred miles of long distance telephone cable, comprising the Ann Arbor-Kalamazoo unit of the trans-Michigan toll cable, will be placed in service fully this week by the Michigan Bell Telephone company, company officials announce. This brings to a completion approximately 350 miles of the proposed 825-mile long distance cable system of the company, building of which was begun in 1926. It is planned for completion in 1930 at a total cost of more than $10,000,000. The cost of the unit just placed in service was about $950,000.

Upon its completion in 1930, the trans-Michigan cable and principal branches will connect more than 50 of the principal telephone exchanges of the state, extending from Detroit and Port Huron on the east to Benton Harbor-St. Joseph and South Haven on the west with Grand Rapids, Grand Haven, Bay City and Saginaw, the northern points, and Toledo, Ohio; Niles and South Bend, Indiana, the southern points. At the two out-of-the-state points, the cable will be joined with the big New York-Chicago-St. Louis cables and transcontinental and other circuits reaching into every state in the Union. It also will connect with the transatlantic, Mexican and Cuban circuits. In Michigan, smaller cables and open wire lines from all parts of the state will tie in with the new cable also. Kalamazoo, Jackson, Ann Arbor, Dearborn, Ypsilanti, Battle Creek, Flint, Pontiac, Royal Oak, Birmingham, Mt. Clemens and intermediate points are on the route of the new cable. Lansing will be reached by a branch cable.

In diameter the lead sheathed cable is slightly larger than a man's wrist, yet it contains an average of 387 talking circuits, which, if in the form of open wire circuits, would require 15 pole lines of five crossarms per pole with 10 wires to each cross-arm. Building of this cable and the recent introduction of a new speedy type of long distance service by means of which a majority of long distance calls can be connected while the calling party holds the line, as in making a local call, are the two outstanding long distance developments of recent years, it is stated. The opening of this cable provides many additional long distance circuits, and also shortens the time required to connect users of the service. Michigan telephone users now are averaging 2,000,000 long distance calls per month.

Prisoner Had Brief Hours of Pleasure

A truly Gilbertian situation is described by Francis Carlin, late superintendent at Scotland Yard, in his "Reminiscences of an ex-Detective." Mr. Carlin was once sent to New York to take back to England a well-known absconding lawyer. They returned on the Cedric. The relations between Mr. Carlin and his prisoner were perfectly friendly on the voyage, and no one on board even suspected the truth.

The lawyer, most popular with passengers, was constantly in demand to organize deck games. On each occasion he went quietly to Mr. Carlin and inquired if he would mind.

"Certainly not," the detective told him.

Then came the inevitable ship's concert. The lawyer was invited to take the chair.

"Of course my uncle will act as chairman," butted in Carlin, "and I'll sing you a song."

"And an excellent chairman my prisoner made," said Carlin. "He was accustomed to preside over meetings. He made a most telling speech on behalf of the seaman's charity, and then went on to announce the terms—including my own, and to give the audience an interest in each."

The lawyer got five years when he arrived home.—Kansas City Star.

Some of those who used to say "two heads are better than one" now have children who argue that two cars are better than one.

There's no demand for knee-length pants," declares Dad Plymouth, "but most of us men folks have to wear our pants too long."

A Walk-Over Creation

The natural arch of the foot is held in suspension by muscles and tendons that strain with every step. If the arch is too great, foot troubles develop. The Main Spring Arch sets these muscles while they are working. It relieves them of just enough of their load to keep them from over-exercising without denying them the exercise they require.

Like walking on air

ALL of the three points of contact of the Main Spring Arch are on a resilient pad. Every step gives you a joyous feeling of buoyancy.
