

MANY ATTEND DEDICATION OF NEW K. P. CASTLE

Pythians Hold Open House to Friends in Their New Home in Jewell & Blach Building.

Plymouth Lodge No. 238, Knights of Pythias, took formal possession of their new home in the Jewell and Blach building, last week Thursday, July 28, holding open house for their friends throughout the evening.

The beauty of the lodge rooms, which were described in last week's issue of the Mail, was enhanced by the profusion of roses, gladioli, and other beautiful flowers which decorated the officers' stations at the sides and ends of the room, and added a touch of exquisite charm to the dignity of the castle.

While the members and their friends were arriving and inspecting the different parts of the building, they were favored with a number of musical selections, rendered by Mrs. James Honey and Harry Gebhardt.

After this, Chancellor Charles McConnell called to order, and after a few fitting words of welcome to the assembled guests, called upon C. E. Hampden, of Ann Arbor, Grand Keeper of Records and Seal of the Grand Lodge of Michigan.

Mr. Hampden congratulated the Plymouth lodge on their beautiful new home, and said in part:

"The Pythian Order, as is well known, is open only to men, but there is nothing in its work or ritual to stand as a reason why it should not be open to women as well. Its lessons are excellent for men, but some of them might not be so bad for women, also."

He then drew several examples, particularly referring to the lesson of the unkind word, and declared his belief that more suffering had been caused from the thoughtless word than from any other source, and closed with the plea that we might all resist the spread of gossip with "I don't believe it," whenever we hear a rumor which may hurt another.

Chancellor McConnell then informed his hearers that the musicians were prepared to play the music for a square dance, so the floor was speedily filled by eight couples who enjoyed the music and responded to the calls of L. L. Ball, and at the close everyone found their way to the dining room to partake of the luscious watermelons provided for the occasion.

While other attractions of the evening, and the difficulty of reaching the building while the paving of Ann Arbor street is still in progress, resulted in a smaller attendance than had been expected, all those present congratulated themselves that they could be participants in this opening, and join with the Pythian order in their well-deserved pride in one of the finest lodge rooms in the village.

A Pleasant Reunion

Mrs. Albert Porter, of Los Angeles, Calif., is visiting at the home of her brother, Louis Chambers, on Ball street. This is the first meeting of brother and sister in 20 years and quite naturally the occasion is a very happy one.

Last Sunday being Mr. Chambers' birthday, and a day or so earlier Mrs. Porter's, out-of-town friends and relatives of the family planned a sitting celebration. This occurred at the Chambers home in Plymouth last Saturday.

Guests arrived from Saginaw, Milford, Flint, Northville, Detroit and Plymouth. After a wonderful time and a tasty lunch, and also after all present had expressed a heartfelt wish that Mr. Chambers and sister might be privileged with many happy and more frequent visits together in the future, the celebrants departed, at a late hour. Mrs. Porter expects to remain in Michigan till October, after which time she will return to her home in California.

WM. GLYMPSE MEETS WITH ACCIDENT.

William Glympse, who is employed at the C. J. Hamilton & Son plant had the misfortune Monday afternoon to have both of his hands caught in a press that he was operating, which necessitated amputation of one finger on the left hand and two on the right hand at the first joint. Dr. V. H. Patterson rendered the necessary surgical attention. Mr. Glympse is getting along nicely at this writing.

Plans are now under way to provide lighting for the Twelve Mile road from the Novi town line easterly to the Orchard Lake Road, a distance of four miles that is of gravel construction. The Twelve Mile road is rapidly becoming a relief highway for some of the heavy Grand River Avenue traffic and accidents have been frequent on the gravel road due to the dust that arises from many rapidly moving vehicles.

F. S. Neal has in his possession probably the only automobile license plate issued by the state in 1909 that has been saved. The plate is unusual in many ways. Two heavy leather pieces are sewed over a metallic frame and on the leather are fastened the figures, large nickel plated pieces of metal. The license plate weighs several pounds. The number is 10050, and was issued for one of those old time Cadillacs that F. S. used to drive around town.—Northville Record.

A JULY WEDDING.

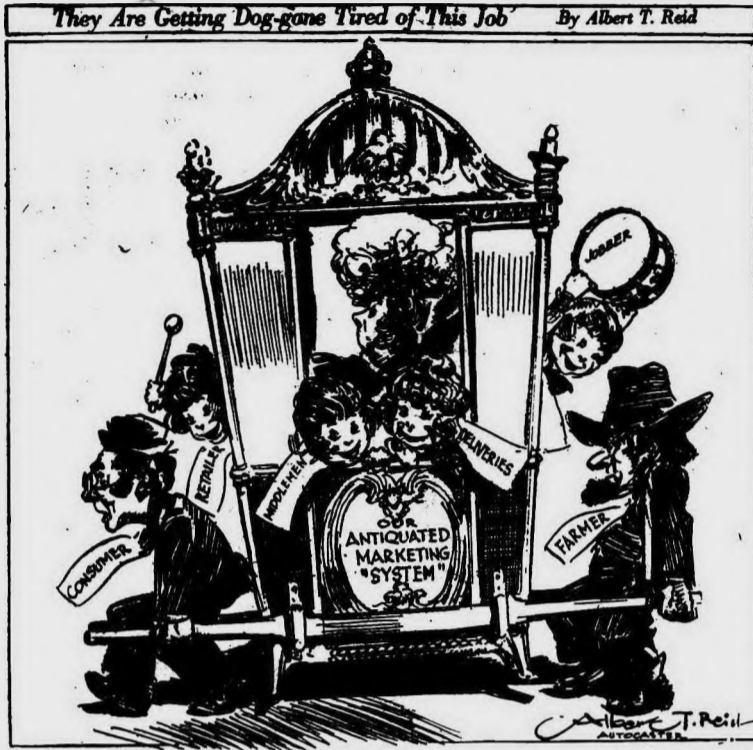

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Streng announce the marriage of their daughter, Margaret, to Jacob J. Stremich, of Plymouth. The marriage ceremony was read by Father Lefevre, after which the young couple left immediately for a motor trip through North Dakota by way of the Delta in Wisconsin.

The bride was charming in an ensemble of shades of tan and brown, with a bouquet of Coolidge rosebuds and valley lilies. Her sister, Mrs. Goodwin Crumble, was her bridesmaid and carried Bardeux roses. The groom was attended by Wm. Regner, of Plymouth.

The bride has been entertained at numerous delightful functions recently, and the many lovely gifts testify of her popularity. Both young people are well known and have the best wishes of their many friends.

Upon their return they will reside with the bride's parents at 822 Mill street.

Miss Nellie Beatrice Huger assisted in the service at the Boulevard Congregational church in Detroit last Sunday morning. Next Sunday she will sing at the local Methodist church.

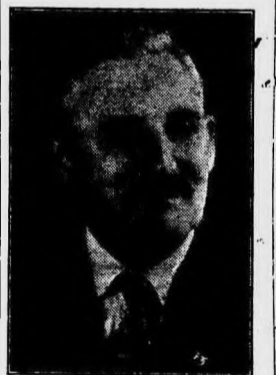

Former Plymouth Man for Sheriff

IRA A. WILSON'S CANDIDACY ON REPUBLICAN TICKET IS MEETING WITH FAVOR IN THE COUNTY.

The candidacy of Ira A. Wilson for the Republican nomination for sheriff of Wayne County is meeting with general approval throughout the county. Mr. Wilson needs no introduction to the voters of Plymouth and vicinity. He lived for many years in Livonia township and was also for several years, a resident of this village. In this locality Mr. Wilson's friends are legion and he will receive a heavy endorsement at the primaries, September 4th.

Mr. Wilson was undersheriff under the administration of the late Edward Stein, sheriff of Wayne County, and at the death of Mr. Stein assumed the office. During the short period in which Mr. Wilson has served as the county's chief law enforcing officer he has inaugurated some ideas in the conduct of the office that are refreshing indeed to the average taxpayer.

Mr. Wilson believes that the office should be conducted upon an economical basis, and to this end he has already done away with unnecessary employees in the sheriff's office, thus cutting down the cost of operating the office and a saving of money to the taxpayer.

Mr. Wilson's policies regarding law enforcement will meet with the approval of the citizens of the county, co-operating with the prosecuting officers in enforcing the laws of the state and nation.

Mr. Wilson is one of the most successful business men in Wayne County. He will conduct the office of sheriff on a business basis and in an economical manner and will enforce the laws without fear or favor.

The much talked of and long looked for time seems to be approaching, when Novi will endeavor to keep pace with her sister towns in points of growth and development.

A new barber shop has been built on the Verdun property, and is occupied by our resident barber. The Ira Lee Vacuum Cleaner company are to begin the building of a factory on the Novi Manor subdivision. The new school is nearing completion and will be ready for the fall opening.

Kinyon School Reunion

Last Saturday afternoon, July 28, about seventy-five former pupils and teachers of the Kinyon school, "The Little Red School House in the Woods," held their first reunion on the school grounds.

After a two-hour visit among old schoolmates of school days from the A B C class to the days of trying the eighth grade exam, John F. Root called the meeting to order. Arthur Stevens, a beloved teacher of former days, opened the meeting with an impressive prayer, such as only men of his true character can give.

Election of officers then took place. John F. Root was elected president and Miss Lottie Williams, secretary. It was then decided that the last Saturday afternoon in July should be the date for the annual reunion.

After a brief history of the school, remarks from several of the members and display of photographs and old registers, dating back more than three-fourths of a century, the smell of coffee and the chatter of dishes reminded all that appetites were as keen as ever and that it was time to eat.

Jollification was the closing scene of a most delightful afternoon, and the writer wondered if ever a finer spirit of comradeship and good will existed among Robin Hood and his men in Sherwood Forest in the much-talked-of "Good Old Days," than was manifested at this gathering.

While playing baseball last Sunday with the Plymouth Merchants, Ward Walker had the misfortune to fall while running bases and tore the tendons of his left knee. The injury has confined him to the home for the past few days.

Air Postage Cut Effective August 1

FIVE-CENT STAMPS ON SALE—MAIL FLIERS EXPECT BIGGER LOADS.

Reduction of air mail postage, from 10 cents a half ounce to five cents for the first full ounce and 10 cents for each additional ounce or fraction went into effect on August 1, it was announced yesterday by Postmaster Giles.

Side of the new five-cent air mail stamps was started Wednesday at the postoffice in anticipation of the impending reduction.

"The postoffice department has linked the principal cities of the country with a network of air mail lines," Mr. Giles said, "requiring 25,000 miles of air travel daily. In the short time air mail has been in operation the government has made its third reduction in air mail postage. Notwithstanding this the volume of air mail has not kept pace with the development.

"It needs but a glance at a map and a comparison with train schedules to show the unlimited possibilities of air mail development in this country. The air mail is too often considered an emergency service only.

"Detroit and adjacent territory is splendidly situated, having some months ago been placed on the main line of the trans-continental air mail. The new rate should greatly increase the use of air mail."

Mill Street Paving Contract Let

BENTON & POPE, OF MT. CLEMENS, AWARDED CONTRACT.

A special meeting of the village commission was held Monday evening for the purpose of opening the bids of contractors for the paving of Mill street from North Main street to Starkweather avenue. Benton & Pope, of Mt. Clemens, were the lowest bidders for concrete pavement, which was the kind of pavement specified by the petitioners for the paving of this street. The following were the bidders and the amount of their bids: Benton & Pope, concrete, $42,415. Crescent Construction Co., concrete, $44,540.

Michigan Asphalt Paving Co., asphalt, $42,317.40.

It will be noticed by the above bids that the bid submitted for the asphalt paving is lower than the lowest bid for concrete, but owing to the fact that concrete was specified by the petitioners, the commission accepted the lowest bid for concrete.

The new pavement will be eight-inch concrete and will be forty feet in width.

Mrs. E. T. Gott is spending the rest of the season at their summer home on Lake Orion. Mr. Gott will join her week-ends.

Following the old-time dance there will be modern dancing, with music by Charles Fitzgerald and his Rhythm Kings. Mary Tudor, Charlotte Myers and other radio celebrities will entertain.

An old-time fiddlers' contest, with liberal prizes, is another feature.

The people of Plymouth and vicinity are cordially invited to attend and enjoy a splendid program every day.

LOCAL BUILDERS GET CONTRACT

J. H. Patterson & Son, general building contractors, have been awarded the contract to build a $70,000 office building for the Detroit Edison Company at Northville. The work will be started at once and is to be completed by December 1st.

The business of the Edison Company at Northville has outgrown the present building and for some time the company has felt the necessity of a new building at that place. The new building will be erected on the property at the corner of North Dunlap and North Center street.

A communication was recently received by the village commission from the Wayne County Board of Park Trustees requesting the commission to turn the village tourist camp property over to the Board of Park Trustees for development and improvement as a public park. The communication was filed for further consideration.

The Wayne County Board of Park Trustees is seeking to establish along the River Rouge a series of public parks, extending from Cass Benton park to the mouth of the river, the parks to be developed and improved entirely at the expense of the county. It is proposed to extend an improved drive through the property along the river, to be one section of a continuous drive connecting the several county parks. Such improvements as a new bridge, modern comfort station, electric lights, new athletic field and conveniences for picnickers are contemplated if the property should be placed under county control, and caretakers will be in charge at all times. Then, too, the natural beauty of the park will be improved by proper care of trees and shrubbery and the cutting of weeds and grass. In brief, it would be planned to improve the property so as to make of it one of the finest beauty spots in this part of the county.

Persons familiar with what the county has done in the way of improving Cass Benton park will appreciate the possibilities of development possible at the site of our tourist camp, with all of its existing natural beauty.

It would seem that the proposal must work out entirely to the advantage of the village, for the county can and will spend much more money in development of the property than the village can ever afford to expend, and any improvement of the park must benefit Plymouth particularly.

With a view of determining the sentiment of the public at large relative to the proposal to give the county board control of the development of this property, a mass meeting is to be held in the auditorium of the High school next Monday evening, August 6, at 7:00 o'clock, which will be open to the general public. It is hoped that a large number of citizens will indicate their interest by their presence at the meeting and participation in the discussion. The commission is desirous of withholding action relative to the proposal until it can be determined precisely what the general public feels should be done in the matter.

FROM FARM TO CITY

Discussion continues on what many consider a major national problem—the migration from farms to cities of experienced farmers. Some hold that eventually the food supply will be considerably reduced because of this migration, and that this will cause greatly increased prices and perhaps endanger the welfare of the people.

May we quiet these alarmists by pointing out that while the movement from farms to cities still continues, it has, according to recent statistics, considerably abated?

On the other hand the number of persons leaving the cities for the farms is constantly increasing.

In other words, the exodus from farms to cities may cease to be a matter of great concern. No matter what rumors may float about, actual figures show that the tendency of people to move away from the farms is decreasing rather than increasing.

It is true that many experienced farmers go to cities in the quest for easier means of earning money, or to give their children the benefit of the educational facilities of the metropolitan centers.

However, there has been so much improvement in the educational and recreational facilities of small towns and farm districts that already the movement to large municipalities is somewhat checked. As rural life becomes more attractive, fewer persons will leave the rural districts. The solution of the problem lies in making farm life more interesting.

PENNY WISE

Plymouth people who look down on the humble cent and who ignore it because it takes up room in their pockets and "won't buy anything," now have an excuse for changing their minds. A big eastern concern that does a nation-wide business in chewing gum and candy through penny vending machines has recently issued its yearly report to stockholders. This shows that more than three and one-half billion pennies passed through its machines in a single year. And that is almost three-fourths of the total number of pennies in circulation in the entire United States.

Here is proof that the cent is among this country's greatest circulating mediums, and that the individual or the company that makes a special drive for it can get rich. When we reflect how many newspapers the pennies buy every day, and how many postage stamps it puts on the nation's letters, its value takes on new significance. But it takes a special report of a big concern dealing wholly in penny merchandise to make us see the tremendous buying power back of it. By itself, in these days of high prices, it really does seem insignificant. But it has enough companions to make its net worth $47,000,000—or enough to make 47 new millionaires in this country every year.

"Save the pennies and the dollars will save themselves" is a saying as truthful as if it had appeared in Holy Writ. And the happiest and wisest people are those who recognize it, instead of tossing the penny away as something that "won't buy anything."

THEY ALL MISSED IT

Where is the Plymouth man who was loudly contending a few weeks ago that the rainest June in 23 years was due to ruin crops? Or where is the one who, with long-drawn face, predicted about actual suffering in sections bringing there would be a shortage of wheat, tobacco and cotton sufficient to bring about actual suffering in sections given over to the cultivation of these staples? We want him to step up now and confess that he is a poor guesser. For that matter, he'll still be in a class with Uncle Sam's forecasters, for early in the season they hazarded such a guess. It is true that thousands of acres planted to wheat, corn, oats and tobacco did suffer tremendously from June rains, general all over the country. But it is also true that there was far more replanting done than the forecasters figured on; it is likewise true that for the past few weeks the world never saw finer growing weather. It has brought forth crops where it seemed certain they would be a failure. It has also brought out fruit so rapidly the government forecasters could hardly figure new estimates on the harvest fast enough.

All in all, indications for huge harvests of all kinds of grain and fruit, taking the country as a whole, haven't been better in a good many years. But what if they're not? Isn't it enough to know that the harvest is going to be far in excess of what we were told a month ago that it was going to be?

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE

Unfortunate for motoring, there's a type of driver who thinks he can hide behind the idea that he is a "stranger" and, because of it, that he can break traffic rules and regulations of a community and get by without punishment. The average community is sympathetic with the stranger in its midst. Plymouth drivers have found this to be true, wherever they might be. But at the same time these communities have the greatest sympathy for the gentlemanly stranger, the driver who feels regret when he breaks a traffic rule and who doesn't expect special privileges or special consideration simply because he is a stranger. That type of stranger has little trouble in setting himself right when he makes a mistake. He can be forgiven his error. But if there is in this community any of the other kind, who imagine they're entitled to special privileges because they are strangers, and who work that racket to cover up mistakes, it is high time they were learning that it is a still better method of conduct when in a strange community.

Farmers' Day at Lansing

East Lansing.—Five thousand farmers deserted their harvest fields July 27 to attend the Farmers Day program of Michigan State College and to compete in the series of contests held during the day.

The cradlers contest drew a large gallery which did not hesitate to express opinions on the technique of the contestants. E. A. Clise, Bath, aged 74, was awarded the cup offered for the best cradler, and Joseph Shaw of Mason, aged 84, was the oldest man. Thomas Howe, Aurelia Center, cut a forty-five yard long swath in the shortest time.

Mrs. L. W. Leffingwell, Owosso; Richard Paulus, Williamston; Clifford Spare, Howell; J. P. Hoekzema, Three Rivers, and Mrs. M. N. Stickney, Clarkston, were the winners in judging poultry.

A check for 100 dollars was won by the choir from the Flushing Methodist Episcopal church, Flushing. Other places in this contest were won by Walled Lake Methodist Episcopal, Walled Lake; First Methodist Episcopal, Clarkston; and Blissfield Methodist Episcopal, Blissfield.

The audience had difficulty retaining a position of unconcerned judicial calm during the dinner calling contest which was won by Mrs. John Curren, Crosswell. The carrying power and the seductive tones employed by F. E. Peck, Eaton Rapids, in the hog calling contest, won his first place in that event.

If the thief who has been stealing musical instruments will report to us, we will gladly give him the names and addresses of several persons whose instruments ought to be taken from them.

Hints for the Home

by Nancy Hart

Are you finding it difficult to keep the bed looking as immaculately dressed as though it had "just stepped out of a bad box?"

Then have a look at the new tinted damask spreads and their cool smoothness will certainly tempt you to try them as a solution for the problem.

The damask surface is as satiny as one's best table cloth, and—like tinted table linen—stands a great deal of handling before it shows signs of soiling. Then the spread may be popped into a bowl of suds and laundered quickly, with no loss of its original beauty or texture. The spreads come in maize, green, mauve, raspberry, amber—all shades that tone in with modern decorative schemes and provide an interesting color note for the room.

MACARONI SALAD

Cut fine a cup of cold cooked macaroni and add to it a half cup each of shredded cabbage, diced celery and green pepper; season and mold the mixture in lemon-flavored gelatin. Serve with mayonnaise and garnish with stuffed olives.

JAM IN A JIFFY

When you hear a home-maker boast that she made raspberry jam in less than fifteen minutes from the time she took the berries from the ice box until pans were washed and put away you will know she used a short-process recipe and the natural jelling agent of liquid pectine instead of the long-cooking method used by old-fashioned cooks.

A HINT FOR THE HOSTESS

It is a nice courtesy to keep on the pantry shelf a small supply of decaffeinated coffee or a cereal beverage for guests who do not use stimulating drinks. The personal thought pleases them immensely, and adds much to their enjoyment of the meal.

TO WHIP CREAM RAPIDLY

Wrap the jar in a wet towel sprinkle with salt; keep close to the ice for a short time before whipping, and add a pinch of salt to the cream.

MAKES THEM LIKE CARROTS

Have you ever tried mashing and heating carrots as you would mashed potatoes? It makes them delicious, and even those who think they do not like carrots find them acceptable when prepared this way.

WHEN CUSTARDS CURDLE

Do not be alarmed if the custard curdles in cooking. If the saucepan is placed in cold water and the custard beaten briskly with an egg beater the texture will become smooth again.

REMOVING TEA OR COFFEE STAINS

An easy way to take out tea or coffee spots is to apply a little glycerine to the spot as soon as possible. Then when washed the stain will come out easily.

TO PEEL ONIONS QUICKLY

If you will drop onions into scalding water for a few seconds before peeling the hard outer skin will come off very easily.

TO CLEAN PIANO KEYS

Discolored piano keys disfigure the instrument and give an appearance of slipshod housekeeping. To bleach them, cover with a paste of prepared chalk and alcohol and when dry, remove, rub keys with alcohol and dry with soft cloth.

PROTECTING THE EGG BEATER

Put only the ends of the rotary egg beater in water, being careful to keep the eggs and wheels dry, or they will rust.

CLEANS SMOKED CEILINGS

Painted ceilings that have become smoked may be cleaned by washing with cloths wrung out of water in which a small piece of washing soda has been dissolved.

GLYCERINE REMOVES COFFEE SPOTS

Delicate material that has been spotted with coffee may be restored by brushing the spots with pure glycerine and rinsing in luke-warm water.

Dog Guards Crossing on Spanish Railroad

Monserrat, Spain.—A dog acts as guard of the grade crossing over the cogwheel railroad to the convent of Monserrat, to which thousands of pilgrims and tourists make excursions. At ordinary times, when so many trains are passing, the animal lies on a wooden bench at the side of the road, wearing a cap his owner made for him. When he hears a train approaching, he jumps up and stands on his hind legs, bearing between one of his paws and his breast a red flag which signals road travelers to a stop.

Rochester Defeats De-Ho-Co Team

Old man jinx, who seems to trail De-Ho-Co when they go away from home, was present again Sunday, July 29th, when De-Ho-Co journeyed to Rochester and consequently the Farmer Boys went down to defeat by the score of 4 to 2. Constineau, De-Ho-Co's opening hurler, had trouble locating the plate and retired in favor of H. German before a man was put out. The bases were loaded and one run was in when German stepped to the mound. The first Rochesterite to face him singled and two more runs scored. German then found himself and retired Rochester in order in each inning except the fourth, when two doubles and a base on balls accounted for another run.

Cox, who pitched the entire game for Rochester, was master of the situation at all times and the best De-Ho-Co could do was to get two runs off five hits, five errors and two bases on balls. Cox had them swinging at the third one, which is attested by his eight strike-outs.

Jaska, with a home run, and Hammond, with a double and single, done the heavy clouting for De-Ho-Co, while Wold, with a double and single, and M. Bearass, with a two-bagger, starred for Rochester.

The switch in playing positions made between Destefano, Martin and Jaska seemed to eliminate errors in that section but they broke out in another spot when Denniston and Constineau each contributed one. Some of the Rochester fans were wondering if McKinzie, Rochester shortstop, was on the De-Ho-Co payroll because he booted four out of five chances.

Next Sunday, August 5th, De-Ho-Co will journey to Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens to engage the Aviators in an Inter-County League Game. Following is the League standings and box-score of the Rochester-De-Ho-Co Game.

To Inherit $1,000,000 for Changing His Name

Omaha, Neb.—What's in a name? Millions, perhaps, for Seth Rosewater, the seventeen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rosewater of 258 Riverside drive, New York.

Young Rosewater legally took the name Seth Warner Buchard last February, his mother said. The Rosewaters formerly lived here. The name is that of the young man's maternal uncle, Anson W. Buchard, formerly an official of the General Electric company, who died last year. Buchard left no heirs besides his widow.

The widow, Mrs. Allene Buchard, was understood to have proposed that Seth become her principal heir, provided he take the name of her husband and thus perpetuate the Buchard name. The Buchard estate has been valued at more than a million dollars.

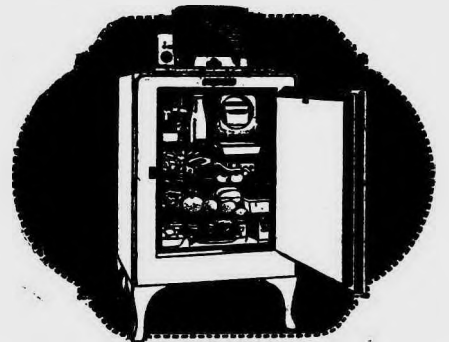

"My son has not been adopted," Mrs. Rosewater said. "He is merely going to carry on the Buchard name. Our name will be carried on by our eldest son."

Next Sunday the boys play the Eastside Cleaners, a colored team from Detroit. The game will be played at Newburg. Next week the boys will be engaged in the elimination contest at Clyde Bentley's festivities, on the Five Mile road. The first game will be played Wednesday at 3 o'clock against the Plymouth Merchants. Arrangements likewise have been made to play at the Northville and Ann Arbor fairs.

Newlyweds are constantly advised to make their honeymoons perpetual, but no one seems to take into account the expense of such an undertaking!

SHAVE HEADS OF BAD BOYS AS PUNISHMENT

Argentina's Method Proves to Be Effective.

New York—Down in the Argentine republic if a boy is bad and you wish him to reform the whipping but remember the business. But if you cut off his hair, shave it right down to the scalp, it hurts, and he forgets the business and remembers the hair cutting.

With which interesting homily on South American discipline, Jose Amaturzo of Buenos Aires, who is in America now to study reformatories discussed recently the "reform camp" he has built out of a real penitentiary in three years.

Officially Jose is a Y. M. C. A. secretary on leave, loaned to the Argentine government. Actually, however, he is a sort of big brother to 350 "bad boys" of his country. He has taken the juvenile malefactors of the Argentine out of chain gangs into homes.

Started Work Three Years Ago.
"Three years ago," said Senor Amaturzo, "the minister of education asked me what I could do with the boys who have received sentences for crimes from the courts. Then they were all housed in one building and they were treated like prisoners. They were always handcuffed or big chains were placed on their ankles. So I told him I'd try something."
"I abandoned these things. First, that there be no politics if I tried to help the boys. You know there is nothing but politics in everything in my country. Then I insisted on running my own budget and last that I should not take any men or women workers who came to me recommended by officials. I knew that type in my country."

It's a long story this bright, black-eyed young Argentinian had to tell. In three years, for instance, his institution has produced $200,000 worth of various goods in his 17 shops and 18 farms. It has spent the money for more and better equipment. It has produced, too, one boy who is certainly going to represent his country in the coming Olympic games and another who has a pretty good chance to do it.

Knows His Boys.
It has produced carpenters and masons who built 25 houses for their selves. It has brought out a furniture maker who sold a chair and desk to the President of the republic—"at a good price, too"—for his use in the official headquarters of the Argentine. Lots of other things have been done.

The thing that was most impressive about the organizer who in three years changed the system of handling boys criminals is that he knows so much about boys.
"I read the football stories in the paper every day. I've learned the boys are football crazy. So I know the names of all the stars, and I argue with the boys. That makes friends."

"I don't preach a sermon. I get out and play with 'em. I pat them on the back and shake hands."
"I haven't whipped a boy since I took the place. It isn't necessary. You can joke with a boy and get him to do more than you can when you force him."
"When a boy is a little bad I deny him the swimming pool. When he is very bad I cut his hair. They love their hair and that's what hurts them most."

"Let them plan things themselves. They figure out their own menus, for instance. They do whatever kind of work they want to do."
"Take them places. I try to give them little outings whenever I can."
Jose got his training in the Y. M. C. A. schools here. He's back now officially representing the government to study reform schools.

HUNTS WHITE BIRD IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Explorers Seek Lost Plane of Nungesser and Coli.

Baltimore, Md.—Dr. James A. Nydegger, who has had considerable experience in exploring in Newfoundland, will lead a party afoot in an exploration trip to the tablelands of the island, in search of traces of the plane of Nungesser and Coli, who were lost while attempting the first westward flight of the Atlantic.

Confident that Nungesser's plane, the White Bird, spanned the Atlantic, only to meet disastrous head winds and be forced off her course, as was the Bremen, Doctor Nydegger says he will explore every mile of the interior of the island. He said:
"My impression is that they crashed against tall trees or a mountain while lost in fog. There were a dozen reports that persons had heard their motor along the coast. The Guggenheim foundation spent thousands of dollars searching for the air for traces of their plane, but if they were lost in the tablelands the wreck could not be seen from the air."

"The White Bird" would disappear from sight like a baseball in grass three feet high. With two or three trusted guides I will follow the Grand Codary river into the dense woods of the island.
"I will send the guides back and forth across the island, crossing and recrossing until every mile of unexplored territory is covered. I am confident I will find traces of them."

"While I hold out no hope that they are alive, I believe we will find their wrecked plane. It is a little over a year since their brave attempt to fly from France to America failed, and it is not too late to make a final search."
"Nungesser's mother has always maintained that somebody will find the White Bird. I hope that I will be the fortunate man."

"I PROMISE TO PAY." Every Automobile Insurance Policy might just as well begin in this well known manner, for it is an obligation to pay the policyholder immediately upon information regarding amount, and proof of loss or accident.

The quality of any promise depends upon how good it can be kept. During the past eleven years, since its organization, Auto-Owners Insurance Company has kept 56,461 promises—every one it has ever made with policyholders who have sustained losses.

A car insurance promise, to be faithfully kept, depends upon strong financial standing, good business management, and fairness to all concerned.

The twenty-fifth day of July being the eighteenth birthday of Nathaniel Ryder, all of his children and nine of his grandchildren gathered at the residence of his daughter, Blanche Kinsley, at Ann Arbor, to celebrate the event as surprise on him. A delicious dinner was served and a fine time had in general, all wishing him many more birthdays. Guests were present from Grand Rapids, Ann Arbor, Royal Oak, Detroit and Plymouth.

Chevrolet Brings Out New Truck

The Chevrolet Motor company, whose unprecedented sales and production record of placing on the road 750,000 "bigger and better" models since Jan. 1, established a new mark for the sale of a new model, announced this week the addition to its line of a new utility truck.

The four speeds forward transmission will insure a more efficient application of engine power. The extra low speed gear provides maximum pulling power on heavy roads and steep grades.

The four wheel brakes are non-locking and supply a total of 317 square inches of braking, aside from an entirely separate and independently operated set of emergency brakes on the rear wheels.

A new low loading height, 41 inches from the ground, is made possible by a special "kick-up" feature of the long chassis.

Theorists and exacting tests, covering thousands of miles over all types of roads and under winter and summer climatic conditions, were applied to the new truck at General Motors proving ground before the Chevrolet engineering division approved of it for production.

Where Gold and Silver Are Trodden in Dirt

Agiers, Morocco.—Gold and silver "dust" that has been accumulating for centuries is to be taken from Moroccan jewelers' "souks" and sold. The "souks" are the market places; Jewellers, like all other tradesmen, work there in the open or in squalid little shops, son succeeding father in the business, always on the same spot.

Tooth Tips

It is unpleasant when teeth move because they are loose in the gum sockets, but if the mouth is well washed out three times a day with bicarbonate of soda dissolved in warm water, the gums harden and the teeth become firm again.

Finely powdered charcoal, especially that of the acacia nut, is supreme for making the teeth a gleaming white and keeping the mouth sweet. The charcoal, too, renders innocuous any decaying pieces of embedded food in the crevices.

MOTOR BOAT RUNS ON SEAWEED PATCH

Lobster Fisher Makes Use of Yankee Ingenuity.

East Harpwell, Maine.—Fishing a motor engine with seaweed and making it run is the latest achievement of Yankee ingenuity.

When Carroll Merriam started for a trip in his motor boat to haul his lobster pots he found that nocturnal marauders had stripped his craft. They stole ours, brass running lights, six cells of battery and oilskins and, worst of all, they cut his six-foot copper gasoline feed line connecting the tank with the carburetor.

With no place within miles where he could obtain copper pipe, with no near neighbors and with an order to furnish fifty fine lobsters at 50 cents a pound for a nighttime shore dinner, Merriam showed that Yankee ingenuity still flourishes.

He had a battery for a radio set in his home, and this he soon connected with his motor.

Then he rowed his dory out a few hundred yards to the Seal ledges, where he found a piece of kelp or devil's apron with an eight-foot stem that was hollow. Taking this ashore, he pushed one end over the end of the severed pipe projecting from his fuel tank and the other end left at the carburetor.

Wrapping them tightly many times from a roll of flexion tape, he thus improvised out of the hollow stalk a fuel pipe line that enabled him to haul his traps and fill his order.

HOW A GOAT GOT "GOAT" OF A GUIDE

"Hard Luck" Joe Loses Lariat Showing Skill.

Jasper Park, Alberta.—"Hard Luck" Joe Smithers, guide, Jasper Park, is looking around for a new lariat. Which "Hard Luck" Joe declares, is his second piece of bad luck since he left the prairies. His first was in coming to the mountains. "Hard Luck" Joe has taken a dislike to the mountains.

Down on the prairies now a man can rope along for miles without winding his horse on a trail that should be a staircase with a hand rail to watch. And then, too, on the prairies a man has a chance to show how good he is with a rope. In the mountains it is different.

Joe was explaining this at some length to his tourist party at the head of Maligne lake. "Rope"—why he could "rope" anything.

She was a mild-looking young lady, but as Joe says, "straight pretty," and she had a sharp pair of eyes as well, because she spotted a mountain goat only about 500 feet above the camp, close to a group of spruce trees.

"There," she said, "Mr. Cowboy, is something you can't rope." Joe snorted. After the steers he'd thrown, the calves he'd "holed," and the ewes whose ears he'd flicker with his lasso—"Say a man wouldn't even need a horse for a goat."

Even now Joe is not quite certain as to how he got close enough to the goat to throw his rope. But he did. It settled nicely over the two black horns and the white head. There was a moment's pause while the goat surveyed Joe in mild surprise, and while Joe thought of "hending" his rope around a tree. But there was no tree quite handy enough.

And then the goat made up his mind. He was taking a different direction to Joe—but not for the first hundred yards or so. Joe hung on as long as he could. That rawhide lariat had cost a lot of money. But the goat had his eye set on a black peak straight ahead—and up—considerably up. The rope burned Joe's hands as it passed through them.

In his return Joe admitted to the mild-looking young lady that "sents sure come lousy in the mountains," outside of that remark he was politely silent for the rest of the trip.

WOMEN NOT ALLOWED TO WEAR TROUSERS IN IOLA, KAN.

Iola, Kan., Chief of Police Custer Davis believes that trousers are all right in their place, but do not belong on women—at least, not in Iola!

Davis issued an order prohibiting women from wearing trousers in the streets of Iola, and sent two women out of town because they were wearing overalls.

Live Tortoises Worn by Paris Women

Paris.—Enameled and jeweled tortoises are being sold at $5 apiece in one of the big department stores of Paris. The little animals are alive and there is a large demand for them because the latest decree of the sorceresses is that the tortoise brings luck.

A painter goes over the back of the tortoise with a fine brush putting on highly colored tints. He is followed by another artist, who places multi-colored pieces of glass resembling precious stones all over the animal's armor. The tortoise is naturally lazy, and once he is fixed to milady's bag or attached to a far neckpiece he stays there.

Over a billion pucks of chewing gum were made last year, says a report, and we're sure nobody who employs a stenographer will doubt it!

GOETHALS' NOTE GIVES VIEWS OF CANAL JOB

Posthumous Letter Shows He Feared Failure.

Barboza Heights, Panama Canal Zone.—That the immensity of the job of completing the Panama canal struck Gen. George W. Goethals so forcibly when he first took charge that he feared it was going to be too much, but that afterward came the realization that it was not at all big, but only a mass of irritating details, has been revealed by the publication here of a posthumous letter, delivered to Gen. Charles R. Rhodes, commanding the Nineteenth brigade, U. S. A., at Gatun.

Nevertheless, men closely associated with General Goethals in the accomplishment of his great task recall that "the colonel" as he was known during construction days, not only met with "irritating details" but also saw that they were carried to completion according to plan and on time.

The records of the Panama canal show that it was his final cryptic "App'd G." that settled everything from the price West Indian negro laborers paid for their meals to the principles and intricate details of complicated engineering problems.

Story of the Letter.

General Rhodes explained that more than a year ago, when he was commanding officer at Camp Gaillard, he found workmen tearing down an old building that had been used as a barracks by Porto Rican Infantry. Upon inquiry, he learned that it was the administration building used by General Goethals while chief engineer and chairman of the Isthmian Canal commission.

General Rhodes had been a student of General Goethals' at West Point, and when he realized that under the orders of the War department this old frame structure was soon to be razed he wrote to General Goethals about it.

The letter was sent in April, 1927, and when no reply had been received after almost a year, General Rhodes concluded that his old teacher's ill health prevented him from attending to all of his correspondence.

But then after the death of General Goethals from a young woman in New York City who had been General Goethals' private secretary, she enclosed a pencil draft of a letter addressed to General Rhodes in General Goethals' own handwriting—corrected, erased and interlined—which had been found in his desk after his death.

What the Letter Said.

"I am indeed sorry to learn of the passing of the old Culebra administration building," the letter read. "While I occupied the new one at Barboza from time to time, it was about the old one at Culebra that the memories cling. It was there that at first the immensity of the job struck me so forcibly that when I first took hold I feared it was going to prove too much.

"And then gradually this phase was replaced by the realization that it was not at all big, but only a mass of irritating details. So that the building became an 'old mill' grinding out these details from day to day enabling the big things to take final shape.

"It was there that I came so close to touch with the rank and file; that control of the force—molding, directing and guiding it so as to secure results. That became the big, attractive thing of the job.

"Well, it was a great old job and the old barnlike building the center of the universe."

General Goethals had planned to return to the canal in January with a large group of his former employees who held a reunion here at that time, but his health would not permit it. In the midst of the happy celebration of their return the old-timers received the news of the death of their chief, "the colonel."

The Panama Canal society of New York, composed of former employees of the construction period, has taken steps for erection of a memorial in honor of their chief, and to this work will be added heartily by their fellow employees who are still on the job.

WILL PRESERVE SCENE OF ARTHUR'S BATTLES

Movement in England to Save Historic Site.

Penzance, England.—A famous stretch of the Cornish cliff on the north shore of Cornwall, property known as Church Cliff, will soon become a national monument if plans made by Rev. A. Blissard Barnes, vicar of Tintagel, come to maturity this year. This stretch of cliff, about 50 acres in area, stands as a bulwark against the Atlantic rollers, and commands magnificent views of a countryside which is rich with legends of Arthur Pendragon and his Knights of the Round Table.

Below the cliff, and within view from its top, is the precipitous island rock upon which are a portion of the ruins of an ancient castle, by popular belief the birthplace of the afterward celebrated King Arthur. Not far away is the stone marked Slaughter bridge, where many say the last battle of Arthur was fought, and where the last of the Pendragons received his fatal wound.

Doubt Arthur Ever Existed.

Milton, in his History of Britain, remarks: "Who Arthur was, and whether any such person reigned in Britain, hath been doubted heretofore, and may again with good reason."

Scholars and historians have pointed out that there is little evidence worth consideration that Arthur was more than the creation of natural myth. Yet to many Cornishmen, and to Englishmen and Americans as well, the heroic tales of the son of Uther, recorded first by Nennius in the latter half of the Ninth century, and spun since by poets and singers into a glistening web of fancies and romance, have made the figures as real and believable as those of the more authentic persons of history.

The proof of this lies in the number of English tourists who visit the ruins at Tintagel, the town at Camel-ford, the battlefield at Slaughter bridge and other spots closely associated with the legend. In the last half-decade Americans, too, have found Cornwall. In increasing numbers the summer tourists have invaded the quiet country at the south of England to loiter on her white beaches at Penzance, Newquay, and Perranporth, to visit the famous tin mines near Redruth and Camborne, and to stand on the ground made famous by the tale of Arthur Pendragon, in the north.

Ruined Castle Draws Many.

The chief interest at Tintagel, of course, is the ruined castle, which is popularly referred to as King Arthur's castle and so represented to tourists. Regardless of the truth of this claim, the spot has genuine historic associations of later date, though it is now generally acknowledged that the crumbling ruins are of a period posterior to the Norman conqueror. A few English writers, however, moved to defend the legends of the Pendragon, have declared it possible that the castle, or some mansion or dwelling, must have existed there before the Conquest; that it was later restored by the Normans in their own particular style.

At any rate, there must have been some sort of castle on the island of Tintagel, or Tintagel, when Geoffrey of Monmouth, the most believable of the early writers, recorded his version of the Arthurian legend, about the year 1137. At the close of that century, it seems evident, the Norman family of De Hornacot, seated at Hornacot, in North Hamerton, had a grant of the minor of Bossington, including, no doubt, the island of Tintagel. They thereafter took the name of Tintagel as a part of the family name, which is thought to indicate that there was some castle or mansion on the island for them to reside in.

The Isle of Tintagel and the ruins upon it now belong to the prince of Wales, as duke of Cornwall. Much of the other land of especial note in the region is similarly protected for posterity. But the area along Church cliff, which is attached to the glebe land of the vicarage of Tintagel, is the property of the church, and as such may be sold at any time, provided proper authority is obtained from the ecclesiastical commissioners.

Since the increase in the tourist trade of the region began, the value of the land for building sites has steadily gone up. Rev. A. Blissard Barnes and others interested in the sentimental value of the cliff front have been alarmed lately lest an especially fine offer induces the church to sell, allowing the cliffs to fall into private hands.

Plan Traffic Tunnel for Hongkong Harbor

Hongkong, China.—The Hongkong government is studying a project to link the island with the mainland by a traffic tunnel similar to the Holland tubes, which join Manhattan island to New Jersey.

Between Hongkong and Kowloon, its mainland suburb, lies a three-quarter-mile-wide strait, which is Hongkong harbor, crossed by an inadequate ferry service, which is usually suspended during the typhoons which frequent this coast.

Engineers estimate that the tunnel need not be deeper than some sections of the London "underground." Such an undertaking, first of its kind in the Far East, would relieve the congestion of Hongkong and promote the already rapid growth of Kowloon and other towns in British territory on the mainland.

His Pledge Redeemed

By JOHN HALL

IT WAS obvious to Helen Granger as she turned in at the gateway that the small bungalow had just been vacated. She mounted the porch steps and walked in the open door. She found a young man within piling some books into a hamper on the floor.

"I found you just in time," said Helen joyously. "You see, I'm one of the collectors for— You're Mr. Robert Jones, I believe?"

He nodded as if not too proud to boast the identity. "More bills?"

"It's not exactly a bill. As I said I am one of the volunteer collectors for the Orton university alumni fund. Your name was given to me as one of the men who had pledged a hundred dollars for the fund, and hadn't—"

She hesitated, not liking to give offense, "and hadn't come across."

"That's quite a large sum for a poor devil that has had to sell his furniture and books to pay his creditors."

"Then I'm glad I came," she said jubilantly. "You see they gave me this list of the men who hadn't sent in their pledge money because I thought I could make it easy for them to pay. When college women have to raise money for their alma mater, they do something to earn the money. You know—make sealing wax beads, or batik blouses or baskets or something. So it seemed to me that the men who fit it hard to raise it, if money could do something and get their money that way without really having to scrimp for it."

"What, for instance?"

"Well," she said, "if it weren't that you were moving out of town I would suggest that you come over to our place in the spring and summer whenever you have any spare time and pick berries and fruit. It isn't as if you would be doing it for strangers. My father and brothers and uncles and grandfathers back as far as anybody can remember have gone to Orton—"

"But I wouldn't want to meet them while I was picking berries and cherries and things."

"That could be arranged beautifully," soothed the girl. "They have given me the charge of the farm."

Every Saturday afternoon and often whole days during the week the young man reported for work at the Granger estate. Always he worked under Helen's personal supervision and never once did he encounter any of the members of her family who might know the secret way in which he was making good his pledge to their alma mater.

One warm day in August, during peach-picking, Helen was not at hand when he arrived, but he found his ladder in the accustomed place and proceeded to work.

When Helen did appear she came running breathless. An open letter fluttered in her hand. "What in the world does this mean?" she said accusingly. "Here is a letter signed Robert Jones, class of 1918, but it's not your writing. And it couldn't be from you, anyway, because it contains a check for a hundred dollars. The note says: 'I am sorry to send in my pledge money at this late date, but last year I suffered financial reverses and I have only just found myself in a position to pay my obligation.'"

Explanation was cut off, for not far off came the sound of the voice of Tom Granger, Helen's brother. "Say, Helen," said Tom coming in quick strides. "here's good news. I stopped at the Orton club on my way home from the office. Lawrence Carter has come across with his check for $50,000 to swell the fund. That's quite a lot, even for a bloated bondholder like him. Good Lord—" Tom Granger stood still and turned visibly white as his hand clutched his sister's shoulder and drew it close to him.

"Why, bless my eyes—Lawrence Carter. How did you drop in here?"

"Lawrence Carter?" echoed Helen weakly, and she in turn laid a drooping hand on Mr. Carter's arm for support.

"I was just going to tell you—" stammered Mr. Carter, the bloated bondholder just referred to. "Yes, I am Lawrence Carter, and after that letter from Robert Jones I was going to tell you." He put his grimy hand over the small one grasping his sleeve and drew it close to him.

"You see you just took it for granted that I was Robert Jones. He had been living in a bungalow that I happened to own. When he fell down financially last year he gave it up and—well, I was sorry for him and went to help him start off. I thought you were a collector. And when I asked you what you wanted to collect it was because I had rather interested myself in Robert's affairs. I always liked him a lot."

"But why did you come over here to pick peaches?" said Tom Granger.

"Because it seemed to me to be the best opportunity I'd ever have to get better acquainted with the most charming young woman I ever met," said Lawrence Carter.

"And to cap the climax you, Lawrence Carter, sent in a check for $50,000—after the $25,000 you sent last year?" Tom pressed on.

"I did," said Lawrence. "Don't thank me. Thank this plucky sister of yours, who has worked harder for old Orton than the rest of us put together. She half promised to marry me when she thought I was Robert Jones. She isn't going to throw me down now, is she?"

And there before the astonished Tom, Helen was swept into the embrace of her future husband.

We Put Up Orders to Take Home

Today's Reflections

Another thing, a lot of people around Plymouth wouldn't be in debt if their friends didn't buy such expensive things.

The man who kicks about the extravagance of his wife is the one who passed up the girl who wore cotton stockings and made her own clothes and married one who only knows how to dance.

The way to tell good liquor from bad is to take a few drinks and lay down. If you wake up it wasn't bad.

A Plymouth boy's idea of a silver lining to the clouds is the fact that when he is sick he doesn't have to go to school.

A reformer is usually a man who uses your money to put over his own ideas.

The Spanish dictator has decided that he will not get married. In other words, he doesn't want to give up dictating.

Plymouth gardeners regret that Burbank didn't live long enough to develop a slow-growing weed.

An Eastern paper is conducting a column called "What Society Women Are Wearing." And it isn't a very long column, either.

Preacher by Day Is Cab Driver at Night

New York.—By day he is Rev. Thomas H. Whelpley, ministering to his flock at the Chelsea Presbyterian church, but by night he is plain Tom Whelpley, hack driver.

His motive is not hard to understand. He is alive with curiosity about how the many thousands who seldom appear at church on Sunday spend the long Saturday nights before and driving gives him a chance to know.

Recently, while out on a run, he remembered he had a wedding to perform. In a minute he had rushed into his room, changed into his clerical garb and walked solemnly into the transept.

After the ceremony, as the young couple were being congratulated in the doorway, Rev. Whelpley did his Jekyll-Hyde act and appeared at the wheel of his cab.

"Cab!" shouted the young groom.

"Yes, sir," answered the preacher, who had just tied the knot. They were off through the rain to Woodside, L. I., and their new home.

Influence of Health on Progress Studied

Washington.—The history of health, and how health conditions influenced the progress of Americans for the last 300 years, is being studied for the first time this summer. The American Historical association has commissioned Dr. Richard H. Shryock, research scholar appointed under the $50,000 memorial fund established in honor of former United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge by his widow, to do this job.

Historians often mention spectacular epidemics or strange medical practices, and medical men record the technical progress of their science, but none heretofore has made an attempt to relate the status of the nation's health with its social background.

Dr. Shryock will work this summer among scholars of Washington and Philadelphia.

Lapis Lazuli Monopoly Given to German Firm

Idar, Germany.—As first evidence of the much heralded trade development with Afghanistan expected to result from King Amanullah's recent visit, a local firm announces that it has been granted by the Afghan monarch the monopoly for importing Afghan lapis lazuli.

It is claimed that nowhere in the world is lapis lazuli found of such good quality as in Afghanistan. Idar is a small town on the River Nahe, a tributary of the Rhine, and has a special industry connected with the setting and mounting of lapis lazuli stones.

More Cartons in Use to Keep Butter Clean

Washington.—Increased use of cartons for sanitary reasons in packing butter for retail sale is considered advisable by health officials in 117 cities.

In a special survey by the federal bureau of agricultural economics officials declared that cartons lessen the likelihood of contamination both in the home and in retail stores and are a means of checking the absorption of undesirable odors.

One way any Plymouth married man can find out who is boss at his house is to start out to prove that he is.
