CATHOLIC NOTES

Sunday is Holy Communion Sunday for the ladies.
The time for the mission is coming close. Remember the week Sept. 29, to be conducted by the Rev. C. Flynn, C. S. C., of Notre Dame, Ind.
Nethem defeated the Fluslie P. O. last Sunday, 9-8. Next Sunday they cross bats with the strong Liberty A. C. of Detroit at Newburg.
The Rev. W. A. Graeber, of Sturgis, and Dan Gerow, manager of the Elliott hotel, Sturgis, were visitors during the past week.
Mrs. F. Reynolds and children stayed a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Miller.
Flowers for the altar are always acceptable.
Do not forget your M. C. envelopes. Mr. and Mrs. C. Stitt are receiving felicitations upon the birth of a baby girl.
Albert Condo is gaining in health and will soon return from St. Joseph's hospital.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES.

On Wednesday of last week members of Mrs. Shaw's class, with their families and friends, to the number of about forty, drove to Silver Lake, where Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Baskewell were spending a vacation. The bathing was fine and the pot-luck supper excellent. All spent a most enjoyable afternoon.
The Reedy Service class is to have a picnic meeting at Cass Benton park on Tuesday, August 21. Cars will leave the Presbyterian church in Plymouth at 12 o'clock noon. Each one is asked to bring table service and one dish to pass.
The union picnic will be held at Island Lake on August 29. Cars will leave the church between 9 a. m. and 10 a. m. Come with the young folks for a fine outing.

EPISCOPAL NOTES

After a short holiday period, church activities are gradually being resumed. The guild met Wednesday at Cass Benton park and followed the meeting with a picnic supper. A meeting of the Men's club will be called in a few weeks.
Due to the fact that many have been away, the Sunday school has not met the last few Sundays, but it is planned to begin classes again this Sunday. At any rate, everyone should be back in class by the time the public schools reopen next month.
Announcement is made of baptisms to be administered on the second Sunday in September at the regular morning service. It is expected that there will be a large number of children presented at that time.

Draft Horse Pulling Contest at State Fair

SOME OF MICHIGAN'S FINEST DRAFT HORSES WILL COM- PETE IN CONTEST.

Reflecting the steady interest in the development of larger and more powerful horses for draft purposes for both city and rural use, the draft horse pulling contest to be held during the Michigan State Fair, September 2 to 8 is attracting more interest than ever before in the Fair's history, according to Fair officials.
The contest will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, September 4 and 5, in front of the main grandstand, giving the thousands of spectators ample opportunity to see Michigan's finest draft horses demonstrate their pulling powers.
A scientifically devised dynamometer, supplied by the Michigan State College, will be used in conducting the tests. Horses will be divided into two classes: for light teams with a total weight of 3,000 pounds and under and for heavy teams weighing 3,001 pounds and over. The object of the tests, according to officials in charge, will be to determine the sustained maximum pulling capacity of each team and to obtain valuable scientific data in the relation between form and function. The tests are regarded as valuable in stimulating interest in the breeding and use of good draft horses, which have never lost their popularity in certain types of heavy hauling on both farms and in the city streets. A total of $500 will be given in prizes. The strict rules under which the contest is conducted absolutely forbids the use or carrying of a whip, or shouting at the teams. Prof. Vern Freeman, of the Michigan State College, East Lansing, will be in charge of the tests.
Two Michigan teams that won records in the contest last year will participate in this year's events. A team of Clydesdales, owned by R. Herrington, of Akron, Michigan, which won the light team class tests by pulling 2,800 pounds and a team of Belgians, owned by the Owosso Sugar Co., Aleria, Michigan, which tied for the heavy-weight class, by hauling 3,150 pounds, will be seen again in action.
Information on entries can be obtained from Prof. Freeman or from the Director of Live Stock and Exhibits at the Fair grounds.
Michigan's rapid strides in the dairy and apfary business will also be shown in exhibits at the Fair, where a total of $1285 will be offered in prizes. Exhibits of various classes of butter and cheese; a boys' and girls' milking contest and an interesting display of live bees and their products will feature these departments.
A comprehensive display of needle-work, fabrics, china and antiques from Michigan homes will be on view during the fair, under the supervision of Mrs. Anna G. Swensie, of Highland Park, Michigan, superintendent of these exhibits. The total of $945 in prizes will be awarded on the following basis: workmanship, 40 per cent; harmony of color and material, 20 per cent; beauty and originality of design, 20 per cent and general appearance, 20 per cent.
Entries close for these articles on Monday, August 27 and must be delivered to the Woman's Building at the Fair Grounds not later than 6 P. M. on Saturday, September 1.

"What is a Chiropractic Adjustment?"

This question is often asked, and "How does it cure disease?" A short explanation may not be amiss. A Chiropractic Adjustment is a simple thrust given by the hands on the small bony segments of the spine to replace to normal any segment that may have become slightly out of alignment. This is done with the bare hands, no appliance of any kind is used, and

"HOW DOES IT CURE DISEASE?"

No reputable Chiropractor will claim that there is any curative power in a Chiropractic adjustment. The adjustment itself does not cure.

WHAT IT DOES DO

It DOES readjust the small spinal bones to their proper positions, so as to open the foramina (small openings between the bones) to their full extent, and take off the pressure on the nerves that go through these openings to the different sections of the body. It requires a human mechanic who has had the proper training in anatomy and in the art of adjusting to do this efficiently. A Chiropractor is a human mechanic. Often a comparatively few adjustments accomplish great results in disease conditions, while in other cases longer time is required to restore the maladjusted member. No one is competent to tell how many adjustments it will require to get results. This depends entirely on the recuperative powers left in the body to rebuild tissue surrounding the vertebrae, as well as the reconstruction of the diseased condition, which was the result of the life force being partly shut off at the openings along the spine. When this tissue has been built up and reconstruction of the diseased organ has taken place, then

"Just plain wonderful"
.. say all who have seen it

Amid all the fanfare of new car announcements, one fact stands out with shining clarity: Owners of cars in every price field are turning to the Silver Anniversary Buick with an eagerness which proves that they regard it as the greatest value ever offered in the motor world!

highest degree of dashing, daring, debonair beauty—thrilling new abilities as unmatched as they were unknown a few weeks ago—new appointments of luxury and convenience never before known to motor car practice!

This radically new and different automobile is rolling up the biggest demand ever won by any new quality car. It is drawing more people to the showrooms, day after day, than any other automobile ever drew before. It is focusing the attention of America by quality-standards so new, so advanced and so epochal as to preclude any thought of comparison.

America has seen plenty of automobiles. But America has never seen an automobile like this. "Just plain Wonderful" is the country's verdict on the Silver Anniversary Buick!

State Which It Serves

MICHIGAN, summer playground, home of winter sports, yet throbbing with commerce and industry. Larger than the kingdom of Greece and our times as those of Belgium, Michigan has a land area of 36,777,200 acres.

Michigan is leader in all the world's great industries: automobile, agriculture, tourism and resort trade, furniture and mining, copper and iron deposits.

Michigan has the longest shoreline, exclusive of islands, of any of the states. It has more than a thousand inland lakes, and its water resorts attract millions of visitors who return year after year.

Linking every section of this great state are excellent roads, swift transportation lines and quick communication services. The plant of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, valued at more than $136,000,000, supplemented by scores of connecting companies, furnishes adequate telephone service to Michigan. This year alone, the Michigan Bell Telephone Company is expending $27,000,000 to add to its facilities.

FARMINGTON MILLS

State Farmers Reap Fertility Profits

M. S. C. CHECK OF HARVEST FIELDS SHOWS RETURNS FROM COMMERCIAL FERTILIZER USE.

Reports from the harvest fields of Michigan this year give additional evidence that the use of commercial fertilizers on small grains adds materially to the farm income, according to reports by the soils department at Michigan State College.

The use of a 4-16-4 fertilizer for wheat seeded on the R. V. Tanner farm in Jackson county increased the yield 25 bushels an acre. Similar increases in wheat yields have been obtained in other tests located in other sections of the State.

A complete fertilizer containing considerable potash is recommended by the soils department, especially if a legume is to be seeded in the wheat.

High grade fertilizer is urged because the per unit cost of an element of plant food in the high grade fertilizer is less than it is in the low grade. In addition to the saving in the cost of plant food, there is less labor needed to handle the high grade product.

If legumes are to be seeded in the wheat, the soils department advises the use of fertilizers with an analysis as near as possible to 2-16-2, 4-16-4, or 0-20-0; and, where seedlings are to be made, the use of a 2-16-6 or 0-20-20 is advised.

Big Premiums for Fruits and Vegetables

Nearly $4000 in cash is offered as prizes for 200 classes of fruits and vegetables that will be exhibited in the Agricultural building at the Michigan State fair, September 2-8, according to fair officials.

More than 100 market varieties of such fruits as apples, pears, quinces, peaches, plums and grapes will be shown. This number may appear large, yet Prof. Roy E. Marshall, superintendent of horticulture, explains, declares that it represents less than two per cent of the recognized varieties of these fruits and only those that are grown for commercial purposes in Michigan orchards. Of the 100 varieties to be exhibited, less than 23 per cent are now recommended for planting in commercial orchards. The State fair management recognizes these varieties by offering larger premiums for them than for the less popular sorts. For instance, the McIntosh apple is now regarded by both producers and consumers as the "king of Michigan apples," and the grower that displays the five best specimens of this kind will receive $5 per apple as his reward for growing the best specimens.

One of the features of this year's exhibition will be a row of grower-operated roadside markets. These markets will contain fruits, vegetables, flowers and other farm products such as are usually found at the better farm markets. The products will be displayed in packages and containers particularly adapted to the needs of the consumer.

Other special features will be large artistic exhibits of fruits from the more important fruit producing counties in Michigan. The volume of quality fruits and the artistic design of these exhibits will catch the visitor's eye as soon as he enters the large building.

Growers have already begun the painstaking job of preparing these exhibits.

The vegetable section, a new feature of the horticultural exhibits, promises to be more than just a collection of commonly grown vegetables. Several institutions are planning special displays of products that will be of strong interest to fair visitors.

With the thought that is now being devoted to the necessity of greater variety of vegetables in the diet, this portion of the exhibits will well repay considerable study on the part of the consumer.

Urge Care to Check Wheat Scab Danger

CLEAN SEED RATED GOOD INSURANCE AGAINST FUNGUS DISEASE FOUND IN STATE.

When scab, a fungus disease which shrivels spikelets or entire heads of wheat and which may injure next season's stand of wheat if infected seed is sown, is reported by the farm crops department at Michigan State College to be quite common this year.

Wheat in fields that have been attacked by the disease shows brown or black heads. Sometimes a pink mold is found growing between the chaff. Shrivelled kernels from these heads are light and frequently show the pink mold.

Clean soil and clean seed will prevent carrying the disease to the next wheat crop, according to plant pathologists at State College. Wheat should not be sowed in after wheat, and the seed wheat should be thoroughly cleaned with a good mill.

Wheat scab, in common with other fungus diseases, is most common in wet seasons. The spore masses which are the seeds of the fungi are readily carried to healthy plants by rain drops.

Additional protection against wheat scab is obtained by using the formaldehyde treatment for stinking smut.

TAKING CASH FROM WOMEN COLOR IN MOTION PICTURES A PENNY PLUS 999 YEARS.

In New York a nurse, fifty-two years old, about to retire from hard work, kills herself. Her life's savings had been lost in a trading scandal. Real estate sharks, oil sharks, all kinds of sharks, swindle women. They believe, poor things, what they want to believe, that they are to be made rich.

Women should not invest in what THEY DO NOT UNDERSTAND. They should not buy land that they have not seen. And having seen it, they should think it over, examine it several times, consult some skeptical friends, then wait a month, and see it again.

Don't believe fairy tales. Ask yourself: "Just how would I, me, myself, not somebody else, actually make a living out of that land? Or, if it is to be sold at a profit, how do I know that I can sell it at a profit? And why doesn't the man keep it and take the huge profit himself?"

If you are leaving money to wife or daughters, fix things so that no other man will be able to get it from them.

Mr. Eastman, king of all kinds of photography, announces perfected moving pictures in color. With the announcement, pictures reach full development. MOTION, COLOR, SOUND.

Now you will see the heroines, or the vampire's rolling eyes, hear the voices that lure men to their doom. The moving picture stage will show all that the living stage can show.

Talking movies will put a premium on intelligence. A cultivated voice indicates a cultivated mind, and cannot be created over night.

Roman coins dug up after 2,000 years are worth in silver and gold only what they were worth when buried.

This shows the importance of keeping your money earning interest. A silver penny, like the one mentioned in the Bible, put out at interest compounded annually for only 900 years, would amount to $1,270,000,000,000. That's more money than there is in the world.

A great fire raging over farm lands in the Northwest burns 75,000 acres of wheat and pasturage. Homes and ranches are burned with crops, farmers fighting it in vain.

Would it be possible to equip a fleet of airplanes with chemical apparatus for extinguishing fire, to deal with a disaster of this kind?

Aircraft manufacturers and those that manufacture chemical fire extinguishers might answer that question.

Dr. Langsner, marvelous hypnotist of Vienna, does and says things to worry the criminal. By hypnosis he caused a young criminal, Verno Boehler, to confess after fifteen minutes the murder of his mother, sister and two hired men.

Dr. Langsner says each has a sixth sense that can be made to receive the thought of another. Thought is something like a broadcasting operation.

He hypnotizes the criminal and easily obtains the truth from him because "his crime is always on his mind."

Here is Dead Plymouth's recipe for happiness: "Have faith in your fellow man, but get his name on the dotted line."

Today's Reflections

How many Plymouth women can remember when they hoped the first one would be a girl so she could help take care of the balance of them?

After the flood old Noah swelled up every time a fresher came. He could remember when the water was higher.

A "painless dentist" is one who doesn't suffer a particle when he hands you his bill.

You can't find a Plymouth man so foolish as to think his wife married him for his faults, but many a one decides she married him just to be able to tell him about them.

Many a man who is known as a "go-getter" in the business world is a "bring-it-home" in his own home.

Speaking of supervising elections in Nicaragua, how much longer must the United States Marines remain there before they can vote?

Nothing is more disappointing to a Plymouth motorist than to drive ten miles into the country to visit a friend and then find his chickens are not large enough to fry.

Did you ever stop to think that maybe the other fellow's faults you see so plainly are only reflections of your own?

Just when Gene Tunney says he has quit fighting someone starts the report he is going to get married.

Still another difficult feat is for a Plymouth father of several children to look dignified while riding in a rumber seat.

A European statesman says people who speak different tongues and scorn one another can't be united as a nation. What about America?

While the donkey and the elephant are cavorting the hoofbeats of the camel will be disturbing to many.

Remember when the members of Plymouth families used to group on the front porch on Sunday afternoon for a kodak picture? Try to get them grouped since the auto arrived.

We wouldn't be a bit surprised to hear of a special form of life insurance offered to the people traveling through Chicago.

A ten-pound black bass is five pounds fish meat and five pounds hot air pressure.

This is a good year for every man in Plymouth to remember that keeping out of an argument often means keeping out of a fight!

Now what has become of the man who predicted last fall that 1928 would be a "year without a summer?"

Trying to fool the people is understood to be out of date, but you can't make a lot of politicians believe it.

The hardest thing about living in a dry town is trying to act like "a friend" just happened to leave a little bottle.

A lot of men are very much like mules. They never get through their work unless they are pushed.

WATCH ICE FLOES FOR PHANTOM SHIPS

Eskimos Believe Lost Fleet Will Return.

Nome, Alaska.—While American newspaper readers have their attention centered on the feats and perils of Arctic aerial exploration, Eskimos of the north Alaskan coast search the horizon for another reason.

They seek every returning spring for one or more of the phantom fleet, the frozen, lost ships, drifting with the sinister ice pack from which, sooner or later, some of them must emerge as the great floes break with the seasons.

Whether the fleet is legendary or really exists is one of the problems haunting Arctic navigators for years. Vessels have disappeared into the unexplored polar basin ever since the beginning of the Arctic navigation. In one great sweep, the death-frozen ice pack in 1876 carried off 30 whaling boats from the waters of the American continent. All but 70 of the men escaped to Point Barrow but the ships were frozen hard and high into the park. The ice fields covering a million square miles rotates around the central pole slowly in the same direction of the earth's movement and in cycles brings objects gradually back to certain spots.

Eskimos who have escaped from the ice pack after being carried far north into the unexplored wastes have returned with tales of silent ships hard and fast in the white bergs. Some tell of seeing a ship sitting alone in a vast solitude. Others report several boats close together but frozen solid miles and miles in the Arctic interior.

In the hope that some day the ice pack will break up and release one or more of the phantoms Eskimos each spring eagerly scan the returning open waters. Should one of the old boats escape in good condition and be cast on shore near the native villages they might reveal in the wealth of wood, steel and iron instruments and various stores. Once solidly frozen in the Arctic, food, clothing, rope, tools, and weapons are preserved for all time and return to usefulness when thawed.

The first breakup of the polar seas also brings Eskimos a great offering of driftwood in which are found a varied and more or less useful assortment of articles.

Texas Guinan, who originated the phrase "Give the Little Girl a Hand," is getting it. But it's the hand of the law.

GYPSIES DYING, SCIENTIST FINDS

March of Civilization Forces Elusive Wanderers to Extinction.

Washington.—Gypsies are on the wane in their motor caravans again, according to a study made by scientists for the first time. It is said that the real gypsy race is slowly on the road to extinction, according to Dr. Walter Hough, anthropologist of the United States National Museum, who has long been interested in these elusive wanderers. The clearing of forests and the broader settlement of this country leave fewer peaceful havens for gypsy encampments. Horse trading and tinkering are not good Twentieth century business projects. Gypsy fortune-telling must compete now with forms of popular psychology, character reading, astrology and other more learned looking methods of dickerings with the future, although the gypsies are slowly taking on some of this learned patter.

Originally From India. But scientists have learned and deduced some facts about the gypsies and their mysterious ancestry before it was too late. "More than 100 years ago, a student of comparative languages showed that the gypsies are originally from India," said Doctor Hough. "They came to Europe in the Middle Ages by way of Egypt. When anyone asked where they were from they said, from Egypt, and they still claim Egypt as their native land. But many signs point to their Hindu origin."

A camp of pure-blood gypsies, such as are rarely seen nowadays, would reveal many, little men with expressive faces, black eyes and hair and prominent features, a real Hindu type, Doctor Hough points out. Then, too, the gypsy nation's love of tinkering, horse trading and fortune-telling suggest the oriental freedom and postures. Gypsy love of horses need doubt was brought from the hills of India, the anthropologist also believes, for it is known that when the gypsies emerged into Europe they had fine animals and plenty of money, and they have always been connoisseurs of horses and dogs.

A few traces of Hindu religion have clung to them. "They will not eat eels and a few other animals because they think that in the mutations of the soul the spirits of their ancestors may inhabit them," Doctor Hough states.

Burn $2,000 Wagon. "A long-standing custom of the gypsy that is a survival, no doubt of India, is their burning of the possessions of the dead. In 1920 in Maryland, Chief Seth Lovell's gypsy painted palatial wagon, valued at $2,000 and filled with his property, was burned. The ceremony was conducted by his widow (Hindu and several relatives who wept while the flames destroyed the gypsy chief's equipage."

The gypsies steadily tend to blend racially, as wandering strangers with red hair, freckles, alien features, or ungypsylike speech join a gypsy band and marry into gypsy families. It is difficult now for an anthropologist to find a pure gypsy type, but gypsy temperament is as true to form as ever.

Band of Women Thieves Caught by Soviet Police

Moscow.—The operations of a gang of 20 women thieves here have been brought to a close by the arrest of their leader, Mme. Kachanovitch. The police estimate that these women have robbed hundreds of homes in the leading Russian cities over a long period of time. Mme. Kachanovitch is described as a highly cultured and elegantly dressed woman who has been living for some time in the best Moscow hotels. Her name has been in various newspapers announcing that she sought a place for her maid, whom she recommends highly, but whom for various reasons she could no longer employ. In this way she got her confederates into good homes, which soon thereafter were mysteriously burglarized. The arrest of one of these "maids" recently on suspicion led to disclosures involving Mme. Kachanovitch and her 19 assistants.

See Upward Trend In Beef Market

IMPROVING CONDITIONS HOLD PROMISE FOR CATTLE PRODUCERS, ACCORDING TO M. S. C. SURVEY.

A continued upward swing of the beef price pendulum is indicated by statistics obtained by the animal husbandry department at Michigan State College.

In the period from 1921 to 1927, beef animals were produced at a distinct loss to their owners. The result was that livestock men sacrificed many animals that would have been retained in breeding herds in times of normal price.

Beef production declined more than 600,000,000 pounds in 1927 and the decline for 1928 will probably be still greater. This scarcity of beef has caused the upturn in the market which now is at a point which makes it profitable to produce beef, in the opinion of the college specialists.

Michigan farmers who have a surplus of hay or other coarse feeders which may be used to carry a herd of breeding cows through the winter, available pasture for summer, and who can produce grain to finish calves for beef at 18 months of age, are advised by the animal husbandry department to breed suitable cows to a purebred beef sire.

Livestock shipping associations and the use of the motor truck have made it possible for the producer of a few head of beef animals to enjoy the same market advantages as the breeder who sells animals by the carload. It is said.

MICHIGAN CROP OUTLOOK BETTER THAN LAST MONTH.

With reasonable weather in most sections of Michigan during July, the August 1 production forecast for practically all crops was increased over the previous month, according to the report issued by Herbert E. Powell, commissioner of agriculture, and Verne H. Church, agricultural statistician for Michigan. With the exception of corn, beans, sugar beets and apples, the condition of all crops in the state on August 1 was as high as the long-year average or above that, and barley are excellent throughout the state, and if average weather continues through harvest these crops will have the largest production since 1913.

Threshing of wheat and rye was only partially completed on August 1, but both of these crops are yielding below average. The quality of these grains is nearly average, and the yield is much better than seemed possible after the damage done last winter. There are many good fields of wheat in the central part of the lower peninsula, but threshing is late. The corn crop made decided improvement in nearly all sections during July, but the condition is still five points below average, and the production forecast is for a crop of ten million bushels less than average. The buckwheat average is five per cent less than last year, but the condition is better than average.

Following the disastrous rains in June which destroyed many bean fields and prevented some replanting in the heavy bean section, there was an excessive amount of rainfall in July over much of the same area. The condition is lowest in the heavy producing section and is only 70 per cent for the entire state. This condition of beans forecasts a production of 5,460,000 bushels, which is larger than last year. The United States August 1 bean forecast is practically the same as the final 1927 crop. Michigan's potato crop on August 1 promised a production of 34,538,000 bushels from a condition two per cent above average. The United States forecast was for 43,737,000 bushels of potatoes from a condition of 85.8 per cent.

Prospects are for a crop of peaches, pears and grapes in Michigan well above average, but the apple crop will be considerably short of average because of the poor prospects for winter varieties and especially Baldwins. Practically all of the fruit and grain crops in the United States now promise a larger production than that realized in 1927.

HOMES

Homes of Lasting Beauty and Practical Economy

We all love homes that grow old gracefully. Outstanding are the homes that grow old gracefully. You find them here and there, and enough in years to be landmarks, yet comfortable and serviceable for many years to come. They stand as sentinels among less carefully built houses, having home value and investment value, very often, long after inferior construction shows serious depreciation. The material entering into the construction of an A-HOME is the best, providing economy and lasting beauty. We solicit an investigation of this statement and will be pleased to have you visit our factory.

SHELL MOTOR OIL

Postpones that day of motor overhauling

Change to Shell Motor Oil—use it exclusively—and forget about motor overhauling. Your motor will still be running sweetly when new car fashions change and tempt you to trade.

A motor consistently lubricated with Shell Motor Oil seems never to wear out. It keeps running and running with tireless precision and running with tireless precision until changing styles and advanced engineering development make the car obsolete—and even then the motor is so good that the owner hates to give it up.

By adopting unusually liberal specifications—by selecting only those crude oils which are naturally adapted to lubricating purposes—by avoiding destructive heat refining—Shell Motor Oil has been given just the right body. It is thin enough to reach every moving surface instantly—thick enough to meet any emergency that may arise in modern highspeed motoring.

Buy your Shell Motor Oil when you buy your Shell Gasoline. Shell service stations and dealers are conveniently located everywhere.

400 "Extra Dry" Shell Gasoline is EXTRA DRY... unusually free from heavy, greasy, carbon bearing elements. It vaporizes completely, ignites instantly, leaves no unburned residue to dilute the oil in the crank case. It is a quality product... more expensive to produce, but costs you no more than the ordinary kind.

Hints for the Home by Nancy Hart

Cleaning within the refrigerator is most important especially if baby foods are stored therein. The old-fashioned ice box should be scalded out periodically to keep it sweet and clean. In the best automatic refrigerators, however, the use of scalding water and soap is not necessary. Simply wiping the box out quickly with a cloth wet in a cold solution of baking soda and then wiping dry is sufficient. In the automatic type, defrosting the chilling unit is necessary about twice a month in order to maintain proper radiation of cold from the unit. It can be done over night. Before retiring, turn off the current—or gas, if you have one of the new noiseless refrigerators which operates by gas. By morning the refrigerator is again ready to function and the drip pan can be emptied and fresh water put in the ice cube trays.

FOUNDATION FOR FRESH FRUIT PUDDINGS.
Cream together a cup sugar (beet or cane) and tablespoon butter and beat one egg into it. Then add alternately a cup milk and two cups flour sifted with three teaspoons baking powder and a fourth teaspoon salt. Half fill buttered molds with batter, cover with any sweetened fresh fruit. Fill balance of mold with batter, cover and steam.

A TART MINT JELLY FOR MEATS
Mix a cup vinegar with a cup and a half water, add green vegetable coloring and stir until dissolved. Add 1/2 level cups sugar and bring to a boil. At once add a bottle of liquid pectin and bring again to full rolling boil and boil for a half minute. Remove, add teaspoon spearmint extract. Let stand one minute, skim, pour and seal.

AN APPLE SAUCE CHILDREN LIKE
Cook six tart apples until tender in pint of boiling water. Add half cup sugar and while still boiling, stir in package of fruit-flavored gelatin. Beat thoroughly and strain. Set in molds to harden and serve with sweetened cream.

A HINT FOR THE MAN OF THE HOUSE.
Except for sports wear the rumpled soft collar is yielding to the new type of light plant white collar which, although starched to contribute neatness of neck and tie, sacrifices nothing in comfort.

VERY LATEST By Cecile

Among the smartest suits for fall are ones ensembles with coats of varying lengths. The full length coat is still with us and perhaps holds first place. Two extremely chic new suits from over the seas, however, possess jackets of finger length. And a third suit—an attractive little model worn by Nancy Carroll, a Paramount player—has a three-quarter length coat of quite boxy lines.

The fabric is one of the deep tones of brownish beige, the trimming a border of leopard skin. The French felt hat in a matching shade of beige has a puffy brown feather ball above one ear. Brown suede and kid shoes and beige hose complete the costume.

A BELOVED TAILORED THEME
With the decline of flat necklines, and the development of collar and scarf effects, the shirt-bosom theme asserts itself in smart and youthful ways for tailored frocks. Tucked georgette and satin in shades of beige or nude are often used for the skirt-bosom vestee; again it is of the same material as the frock, the line of its stitching being the only indication of its presence.

NEW SHOES.
Among advanced models shown in footwear is the one strap pump of watersnake skin in shades of brown that are soft and dull and harmonious with fall's favorite colors. Combinations of brown kid with the brown watersnake are features, although the shoe entirely of the brown snakeskin is equally modish.

TWILL BE A VELVET SEASON
All indications point to the popularity of velvet—both plain and printed—for the coming season. One clever costume noted on the Avenue combined a sleek black satin skirt with an over-bloss of white chiffon velvet printed in blocks indicated by fine black lines and discs in solid black. With it a handsome scarf of silver-tipped fox was worn.

On "Old Bear's" Land

By HELEN R. BARTON

NOBODY ever had a better champion during all the hazy, kaleidoscopic days so dearly recalled by most people than the lucky bunch who attended school number nine in the Hatstead district.

Miss Danvers, red, or more accurately, "rusty," headed, topaz-eyed, diminutive, but dynamic for all her ninety-five pounds, possessed all the warm-hearted, hot-headed loyalty of the race that is famous for its beautiful women, loyal hearts and fighting spirit!

Miss Danvers opened school Monday morning and by noon had won every last one of her "kids," even to the slightly hard-boiled "Toot" Wilson, village bully and otherwise hard luck guy. Miss Danvers won Toot by betting him that she could bat a ball further than he could "pitch."

The hard-boiled Toot, who stood at most six feet tall for all his seventeen years, was torn between a desire to "beat" the adorable Miss Danvers, and hold prestige with the gang—or let her win, and increase his standing with her. Toot was by way of being an embryo ladies' man.

The ball sung through the air, whistled against the bat so skillfully manned by the lovely rusty-haired teacher and whizzed in a great graceful arc over the school grounds and on "Old Bear" Messer's lawn.

A gasp of amazement—first day of school and the ball lost in Old Bear's yard. Anybody who lost a ball, or anything else on Old Bear's land might as well reconcile himself to the loss. It was indeed lost, and for all time, for "Old Bear" collected all the bats, balls, mitts and other trophies dear to the juvenile heart and stored them on a table in plain view of the playground of number nine school.

"Gee whiz, Miss Danvers—watters, gone and done it now! Old Bear'll never let us on his land—we might as well play something else."

"Do you mean to say a detestable old man lives there and won't allow you children to cross his neglected old lawn to get your playthings?" Miss Danvers' lovely red hair scintillated with ire and her topaz eyes glinted like tiny pinpoints.

With lifted chin, she marched to the road, which ran along in front of the school and also the Messer place, and unheeding of the sign on the lawn forbidding trespassing, and ignoring the late, scowling face of an old man in the window of the Messer place, she looked about for the lost ball, retrieved it and walked haughtily back to the playground, conscious only of the pop-eyed admiration and awe of her school.

At four-thirty the school was deserted except for a slip of a red-haired girl poring over scraggy, scrawny papers.

A step grated on the porch and in a moment a tall, red-haired man of possibly thirty-five years strode into the schoolroom and stood glowering at the demurely working Miss Danvers.

"You'll have to teach those kids of yours to keep off my land, ma'am. The trespassing notice is plain enough for any dumbbell to understand!"

"Well, possibly plain enough for dumbbells, but not for me! You've no right to forbid those little kids the privilege of bat-dessly retrieving their playthings, Mr. Bear, and—"

"My name isn't Bear!" snapped the red-headed man, "and you'll keep those kids off my land or I'll have to resort to legal measures!"

As irritating as red hair can sometimes be, Thornton Messer was appalled to discover how utterly disconcerting topaz eyes can be when they are swimming with tears. After a brief uncomfortable moment, he tried to apologize for his gruffness and she only wept the harder.

"Go away," she waited. But he found a clean handkerchief and after he had dried her tears, they began to hate each other less, to discover that there is a vast bond of human understanding between the red heads of this world.

So the trespass signs held, but the children were amazed to see a tall, red-headed man with strangely stern eyes and face for a chap so young looking, coming across to the school each night, bearing the balls and other playthings they'd lost over the fence. Spring, and Miss Danvers was planning on leaving number nine. She told her school victoriously that she'd been happy there, that she'd miss them.

"And your dear, nice grouchy Old Bear, too?" she finished, blushing.

"Old Bear? That feller ain't Old Bear! That—there's his son. He's a writer or something," snorted Toot, derisively.

"Here comes red-head now!" drawled Tommy Blake, and the children departed grinning as Thornton Messer came striding across the schoolyard armed with a big box of candy and a bunch of balloons, the next day.

"I heard you'd miss me, so I came huskily 'that you'd miss me. You needn't worry at all."

"How can I help that? She's contented, blushing."

"If you cared enough you'd marry me. I love you so—damned to the peppery red-head!"

Perhaps Gene Tunney left the prize ring because he grew tired of the necessity of reading all those classics.

A blind man regained his sight in the chair of a barber shop while getting a massage. Male vanity being what it is, we guess the miracle was accomplished through the sheer intensity of his desire to see himself "prettied up."
