

PRESIDENT DEAL OF C. OF C. APPOINTS COMMITTEE TO SET UP PROGRAM OF ACTIVITIES

REPRESENTATIVE OF AMERICAN CITY BUREAU GIVES INTERESTING TALK AT SPECIAL MEETING HELD MONDAY EVENING.

The Plymouth Chamber of Commerce held a special meeting Monday evening at the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the Hotel Mayflower block. The purpose of the meeting was to meet with a representative of the American City Bureau of Chicago, organizers of chambers of commerce. The representative, J. C. Mack, explained the work which his bureau is doing in a most candid and interesting manner, and the members of the board got some splendid ideas in the way of conducting a campaign for memberships and the setting up of a definite program of the various activities which comes within the scope of a chamber of commerce.

At the conclusion of Mr. Mack's talk President P. H. Deal appointed Floyd Kehrl, Charles O. Ball and Perry Richwine as a committee to draft a program of activities and report at the regular meeting to be held next Monday evening.

PLYMOUTH HOCKEY TEAM WINS THREE FAST GAMES IN WEEK

Rotarians Observe Fathers' and Sons' Day

The Plymouth Rotary club observed Fathers' and Sons' day at the luncheon hour of the club last Friday. There was a large number of boys present and they enjoyed the occasion very much. The program was in charge of Rotarians F. D. Schrader and Frank Rambo. The high school girls' double quartet, with Miss Gladys Schrader as accompanist, rendered two selections that were greatly appreciated. Mr. Schrader then introduced his son, Edwin Schrader, who gave a splendid talk on what a father should expect of his boy and what a boy should expect from his father after he leaves home to attend college. His message contained some timely thoughts for the fathers and boys present, coming as it did from a young man who is himself a student in college. It was much appreciated.

Salvation Army Opens Fire In Plymouth

On Saturday last Plymouth received the Salvation Army in the opening exercises, as previously announced in this paper.

A meeting place has been secured at 282 Main street and the introductory meetings were held there.

The Silver band and Salvationists from Highland Park, with Captain and Mrs. George Watkins commanding officers, also the Grand River (Temple) corps, with Captain and Mrs. William Trovitchick, supported Lieut. Colonel Albert Norris, divisional commander for Michigan, in a very full program, which included two street meetings and a parade, as well as the indoor service.

Large crowds of citizens gathered to listen in at the meetings, which were held at Penniman avenue and Main street, also at Ann Arbor and Main streets, and the subsequent gathering at the hall. The accommodation was subjected to a great strain. The meeting was of the usual happy, enthusiastic sort, which is so characteristic of the Army's style, and Colonel Norris, who was supported by Staff Captains Harvey Otway, Ioss Conway and Ensign John Kelly, from the state headquarters in Detroit, afterwards observed that the Plymouth corps had a good start.

Colonel Norris, with Mrs. Norris and Staff Captain and Mrs. Otway, returned on Sunday for two meetings, and were accompanied by the band from the Temple corps, Detroit. Three street meetings were held, in addition to the indoor service at the hall at 282 Main street.

The indoor sessions in the afternoon and evening were under the charge of Colonel Norris, and a number of speakers addressed the meeting, including Rev. Palmer Harisough and Mr. Humphries, both of Plymouth; also Mrs. Colonel Norris and Staff Captain Otway.

Captain and Mrs. Wright, the newly appointed officers of the Army in Plymouth, are living at 219 South Harvey street. They have a full program of meetings arranged for and special speakers will be brought to the meetings from Detroit and other parts of the state.

It is understood that Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harte, of Detroit, who have been so prominent in the Salvation Army meetings that have been held in this village from time to time, will continue to give their support to the new venture.

Gifts of equipment have been promised the new corps in the shape of flags from Highland Park corps; a drum from the Pontiac corps; hymn books from the Mack Avenue corps, Detroit, and a piano from the divisional headquarters.

The following meetings will be held in the hall on Main street:

Thursday, 7:30 p. m., public praise, Saturday evening, 8:00 o'clock, public praise.

Sunday morning, 11:00 o'clock, holiness meeting.

Sunday afternoon, 1:30 o'clock, Sunday school.

Sunday afternoon, 3:00 o'clock, public praise, also; Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Everybody is invited to these services, especially the children. Send them all along to Sunday school. Come one and all to praise the Lord with us.

Captain and Mrs. Wright.

CLINCH PLACE IN PLAY-OFFS FINISHING IN TIE FOR THIRD PLACE WITH HALEY A. C.

Last Thursday night, February 14th, the local hockey team defeated Union Trust squad 5-2 at the Elmwood Avenue rink, Detroit. Garlett was the first to bulge the twine after two minutes of play, on an assist from Page. Union Trust tallied two in the next eight minutes which put them in the lead. They held the lead for a short time only, Pidgeon, with three minutes to go in the first period, secured the tie and in a spectacular rush down the ice beat Phipps with aizzling shot, which tied the score. The period ended 2-2. The second stanza was a hinger, both squads

BORN Feb 22 1732 George Washington DIED Dec 14 1799

"O Son of Virginia, thy memory divine Forever will halo this country of thine. Not hero alone in the battle's wild strife, But hero in every detail of thy life. So noble, unselfish, heroic, and true, A God-given gift to thy country were you; And lovingly, tenderly guarding thy shrine, Columbia points proudly, and says: 'He is mine.'" Eliza W. Durbin.

Almost two centuries have elapsed since the birth of George Washington, first president of these United States of America. To the manor born he elected to share the hard life of the colonists and to throw his power on the side of those brave pioneer souls battling for a new freedom.

His place as "Father of his country" remains imperishable in the archives of time. The years but serve to make his place in American history more secure.

Without Washington's faith, courage, ability and loyalty it is doubtful if independence would have been achieved within another century. He was content to give all, to accept all, in those tragic years stretching from Valley Forge to Yorktown.

Washington lives in the America of yesterday, today and tomorrow. The love of his fellow countrymen continues as the grateful tribute of a mighty nation of freemen.

NATIONAL DEFENSE THE TOPIC FOR FEBRUARY MEETING.

At the February meeting of the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution the topic of "National Defense" was taken up in such a thorough manner that everyone present felt the paper given by Mrs. H. S. Doerr was an education in itself. The paper did not deal alone with the present day defense of the nation, but began when this land first was taken over by the white man, gradually leading through all of the struggles of the people to maintain this country and hold it as their own. The number of definite historical facts brought out besides the ideas and statistics in regard to "National Defense" were very interesting as well as enlightening to the chapter.

The different D. A. R. chapters in Michigan are taking a vote among their members as to which spot in the state is most historic. The three spots given to choose from were the Soo, at Sault Ste. Marie; Fort Shelby, in Detroit; and Mackinac Island. The spot receiving the most votes will have a tablet erected there. At this meeting, which was held at the home of Miss Bertha Wacker, the local chapter gave the most votes to Mackinac Island.

Severely Burned

Our popular tionsorial artist, better known to Plymouth as "Lou" Stevens, suffered severe burns to the right hand and foot in trying to extinguish a fire in the rooms occupied by Mr. Stevens, over the Dodge drug store, last Tuesday morning. A spark of coal from the heating stove snapped out through the draft slide of the store door and ignited bedding material. Lou awoke to find himself in a "smoke house," and in trying to put out the burning clothing, sustained painful burns. Mr. Stevens' loss is covered by insurance.

Kiwanians Hear Interesting Talk

The local Kiwanis club was pleasantly entertained at its regular weekly meeting last Tuesday when Lester G. Auberlin, executive secretary of the Detroit Association of Purchasing Agents, gave an interesting address on "Purchasing as a Science."

Mr. Auberlin initiated his hearers into the mysteries of a comparatively new development in modern business and explained the benefits to the general public that have followed the efficient application of scientific purchasing.

Kiwanian Warren B. Lombard, purchasing agent for the Dalsy Manufacturing company and a director of the association, brought Mr. Auberlin to Plymouth.

DEATH OF ANSEL RODENBERG.

CANTON CLOTHING CLASS MEETS

The Canton Clothing class met at the home of Mrs. George Everett, on Canton Center road, Tuesday, Feb. 12. Mrs. Everett, one of the leaders, is moving and Mrs. Alma Spicer was chosen to take her place. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. M. Swegles, on Ferrisville road, Wednesday, Feb. 21, at one o'clock.

BANK BANDITS GET SENTENCE

Ben Borgman and John Strang, both of Northville, who attempted to hold up the branch of the Plymouth United Savings Bank, Friday afternoon, February 15th, were sentenced in the Wayne County Circuit Court, Thursday morning from 15 to 20 years each, with the recommendation that they serve 20 years. Borgman goes to Marquette and Strang to Jackson prison.

Entertain Salesmen At Luncheon

Fred and Oscar Sabom, of the National Window Shade company, were hosts to fourteen of the company's salesmen at a luncheon in the private dining room of the Hotel Mayflower Saturday noon. After the luncheon an inspection of the new factory was made by the visitors.

WOMAN'S CLUB WILL MEET

The Woman's club will meet Friday, Feb. 22 at the Hotel Mayflower. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock, and this will take the place of the afternoon tea, as previously arranged.

AN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT.

N. Vorbeck, of Northville, sustained several bad cuts on the head and a possible fractured skull. They were taken to the hospital at Dearborn, where they are getting along as well as could be expected.

50TH ANNIVERSARY JUBILEE FIRST DISTRICT W. C. T. U.

Local Rotarians Attend Big Meet In Detroit

About forty members of the Plymouth Rotary club went to Detroit last night in a special bus to attend a district meeting of the Rotary club, held at the Hotel Statler, Norman Somerville, Toronto, Ont., one of the best speakers of that country, and who made one of the outstanding addresses at the International Rotary convention held at Minneapolis last year, was the main speaker of the evening. There were also present several counsels of foreign countries who are now residing in Detroit, as well as the editors of the Detroit newspapers. The Cass Technical High School band furnished excellent music for the occasion. About six hundred Rotarians and guests were present.

Two Engagements Are Announced

One of the loveliest parties of the season was held at the Shattuck home on Penniman avenue Tuesday evening, Feb. 19, when Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Shattuck announced the engagement of their daughter, Ruth, to Charles H. Garlett, son of C. E. Garlett, of Beamsville, Ont.

Forty-five guests were seated at small tables, attractive with dainty appointments of scarlet roses and favors. As the dinner was served each guest discovered that her place card, a tiny cross section of George Washington's famous cherry tree, cleverly concealed a note telling the truth about "Bunnie and Chuck." After the dinner several games of bridge were enjoyed.

Guests were present from Grosse Pointe, Pontiac, South Bend, Detroit, Northville, Redford and Plymouth.

The engagement of Miss Margaret Asman to Miller Ross was announced at a delightful Valentine luncheon given at the Woodworth apartment last Saturday afternoon by the Misses Lillian Lyke and Alice Cadaret. The out-of-town guests were Miss Florence Puchoke and Miss Jean Turnbull, of Lapeer; the Misses Mary and Virginia Logan, cousins of Miss Asman, of Lansing; and Marian Sartain and Mrs. Walter Asman, of Ann Arbor. The Plymouth guests were Mrs. Sara Ross, the Misses Mary Lou Cooper, Annie Traut, Elizabeth Hadley, Eunice Fenner, Mrs. Claude Dykehouse, Miss Anna Smith and Mrs. Floyd Hillman.

PRETTY DOUBLE WEDDING OCCURS

A quiet but very pretty wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Card at 1270 West Ann Arbor street on Wednesday morning, Feb. 20, at 9:30, when their daughter, Muriel, became the wife of Thurman L. Rodman, Dr. F. A. Lendrum officiating.

Mrs. Mollie Rodman and Joseph Tracy chose the same time to become man and wife.

Miss Alma Wagenshutz and A. McLellan attended Mr. and Mrs. Rodman and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Groth acted in the same capacity for Mr. and Mrs. Tracy.

After a dainty three-course luncheon, served at prettily decorated small tables by Cyril Rodman and Miss Winifred Card, the newly weds left on a short motor trip to Florida.

Mrs. Rodman and her son and Mr. Tracy are long-time, well-known residents of Plymouth, and Miss Card, who came from Langdon, N. D., about three years ago, has made a host of friends, who join in wishing all many years of success and happiness.

JUDGE WEBSTER SPOKE HERE

About thirty-five ladies enjoyed a luncheon at the Hotel Mayflower last Friday afternoon, after which they listened to a splendid talk by Judge Arthur Webster of the Wayne County Circuit Court. The judge spoke on various phases of the law and the conduct of courts. He was introduced by Judge Phoebe Patterson, of this place.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Plymouth entertained the First District Michigan W. C. T. U., at an all day meeting, Wednesday, February 13th, in the Methodist church, in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary since the organization of the First District Union in the Plymouth Methodist church in the year 1879.

The many delegates, from the various unions, were delighted with the beautiful decorations which were the work of Harry Green, of Plymouth, whose perfect taste and artistic ability as a decorator, is well known.

The decorations were of white and yellow hunting, gracefully festooned about the chancel, interspersed with white hydrangeas, yellow narcissus and green ferns.

In the center, at the back, was a large portrait of Frances Willard, above the word "Welcome." Beneath was the W. C. T. U. motto "Not for Self, But for Humanity," and at the right front was the First District banner ever used. At the left was a banner on which were arranged the badges worn by Mrs. Jennie Voorhies at the various District, State and National Conventions she attended during her many years of active work in the W. C. T. U., ten years of which she served as the dearly-loved, faithful president of the First District. This banner was the work of Mrs. Clara Patterson Todd, to whose tireless efforts much of the success of the jubilee was due.

The morning service opened at 10:30 with a praise service led by Mrs. Jennie Spencer, of Detroit. All of the general officers were present and Mrs. Ava Downer, of Detroit, president of the District, had charge of the meeting.

The presidents were then introduced and each gave a short history of her union. Mrs. E. R. Duggett, the local president, ably represented the Plymouth union. Of the twenty-four unions of the District, fourteen were represented by their presidents. Mrs. William Hastie, President of the North Woodland union, gave the last history and in conclusion, rendered a beautiful song, "The Little Things That Tell."

After the noonday prayer, a fine luncheon was served by the ladies of the church.

The afternoon meeting opened at 1:30 with a devotional service conducted by Mrs. Turney, of Detroit.

Next followed letters of greetings from the State President, Mrs. Stella Rohlen, of Big Rapids, and other state officers.

Dr. Lendrum, pastor of the Methodist church, and Rev. Walter Nicol, of the Presbyterian church, were introduced and made brief and pleasing remarks, after which Mrs. McKinnon and Mrs. Charles Ball were presented and gave greetings from the Women's club and the League of Women Voters.

A very interesting history of the First District W. C. T. U. was given by Mrs. Phoebe L. Patterson.

Next on the program was the introduction of Past District Presidents, only three being present: Mrs. Phoebe Patterson and Mrs. Lydia McNabb, of Plymouth; and Mrs. Jennie Spencer, of Detroit. Each made brief remarks, after which letters were read from Mrs. Annie Andrus, formerly of Detroit, who is now a resident of Florida, and Mrs. Mattie Jones of Dearborn, who is spending the winter in the south.

Robert Champe then gave a vocal solo which was heartily encored and responded with a selection on the piano.

Mrs. E. L. Sankins, of Ypsilanti, Honorary State President, gave a very interesting address on "Past Legislative Work." For twenty years Mrs. Sankins was present at each session of the state legislature and was thus well qualified to speak of the past legislative work.

In the absence of Mrs. Florence D. Richard, President Ohio State W. C. T. U., Mrs. Norma Mudge, of Belding, Corresponding Secretary of Michigan W. C. T. U. spoke in her place, taking the same topic—"Give Prohibition Its Chance." Before her address, Mrs. Mudge paid a beautiful tribute to Rev. Etta Shaw who passed away December 4th at her home in Grand Rapids. Mrs. Shaw was a well known state worker and had spoken in Plymouth at which time she secured many new members for the local union. Prior to the recent election she had been working in Northern Michigan, had delivered 37 addresses and given 53 talks in schools, speaking altogether 90 times within a space of five weeks. Surely this was a wonderful record for a woman in her sixty-ninth year.

The music by the high school girls' quartette and the high school orchestra under the direction of Miss Gladys Schrader, was greatly enjoyed by all.

At 6:30 the dining room of the church was filled, and a fine banquet

THAT EXTRA SESSION

Now that it has been decided there is going to be an extra session of congress there is a dispute about it—about what is to be done in it. Speaker Longworth wants to limit its activity to two things, farm relief and tariff. He thinks by the time those measures are finished it will be too hot to remain in Washington. But the Speaker does not have all his party with him. Mr. Newton, of Minnesota, announces that congress in extra session must not be limited. He contends it should be able and ready to consider any subject. He is particularly interested in inland waterways development, and he believes that this subject is closely connected with the farm relief question. At any rate the argument only leaves taxpayers around Plymouth in position to wonder why it gets too hot for a congressman to stay on the job in the summer, yet never gets too hot for those who work to provide congressional salaries.

NOT ALL GONE

There seems to be no occasion for worrying about the disappearance of our national resources, where our fuel of the future is coming from and all that. Uncle Sam sent out a bulletin on the subject last week, and in it we note that a recent survey shows there are still thirty million acres of coal land, underneath which are two hundred billion tons of coal. In addition, there are a half-million acres of phosphate land that can supply eight billion tons of fertilizer; there are 65 undeveloped oil fields that can supply 33,000,000 barrels of oil, and four million acres of shale land that can furnish sixty billion barrels more when it is necessary to resort to that method of producing it. Think these figures over a few minutes and you'll not only get an idea of how vast are our undeveloped resources, but you will see that there is no occasion for worrying over where the next generation is going to get its coal, or fuel for running its automobiles.

A SIGN OF SPRING.

We have had for the past few days a positive tip that spring is on its way. We get the tip by seeing the annual arrival of seed catalogues in the mail—and there are no better forecasters in the world than the men who sell farm, field and garden seeds and the accessories that go along with them.

To use a little modern slang, "It won't be long now." Spring may, as is the past several years, be a little shy about throwing herself into old King Winter's lap; we may get some pretty blustery days and quite a few more uncomfortable ones. But that doesn't mean that we are going to be entirely bereft of spring. The seed men know better; that's why they're sending out their catalogues now. Garden planning time is really here, and planting time is just around the corner. Any job is half finished that is planned in advance, and that holds true with gardening and spring cleaning the same as with everything else. You can make it a lot easier when you do finally get at it by sitting down beforehand and working it out in your mind, and by preparing in advance for its arrival. The man who is always behind is the one who gets started late, or who waits until the last minute to get ready. Seed men all know this; that's why they sound their warning of spring's approach well in advance. It's a hint that is always sufficient for the wise. And it ought to have some effect on those who haven't learned the ways of the seed men and the seasons.

POTATOES AND STYLES

If there's anyone around Plymouth of the opinion that styles have nothing to do with farming and gardening, he wants to get that out of his head right now. Last year the nation's potato crop failed to move as it should; it was sluggish and there was a slackening demand. Now experts are explaining that someone told the women that to be stylish they must be slender, and to become slender they should refrain from eating potatoes. And thousands upon thousands of them are said to have heeded that advice. The potato market suffered, just as halterpin manufacturers suffered when the bobbed hair fad struck this country. But no one fears the worst. Bobbed hair is already going out of style and it won't be long before common sense will step in to prevent foolish women from starving themselves to death just to be stylish. Don't worry—the potato has been here too long to be knocked out now by a silly fad.

THE AUTO'S TOLL

While we still contend that the automobile is one of humanity's greatest blessings, we still must confess that in some respects it's a liability instead of an asset.

We are able now to present Plymouth citizens with a dark side of the picture, as a report of auto accidents for the past year has just been sent out by the National Safety Council. This shows a total of 800,000 auto accidents in the U. S. during 1928, involving an economic loss of $850,000,000. In those accidents 27,000 people were killed, and although the fatalities represent an increase of five per cent over 1927, it is the lowest increase for any one year since 1920.

There is a strong argument for greater care in motoring in these few figures—a more powerful sermon than anyone can preach. It means we are going to have at least 800,000 accidents this year, and in all probability, 27,000 more are going to be killed. Then, too, these accidents are going to be in widely scattered territory, the same as they are every year, and some of them are naturally going to occur around here. For that reason it would be a good idea for every motorist to study the dark side of the picture. Doing so may cause someone to drive more carefully in the hope that their own name will not appear on the 1929 list of killed, and that their car will not figure in the 800,000 accidents that are almost certain to occur.

Fuel system of the new Ford has been designed for reliability and long service

The practical value of Ford simplicity of design is especially apparent in the fuel system.

The gasoline tank is built integral with the cowl and is unusually sturdy because it is made of heavy steel sheet, terne plated to prevent rust or corrosion. An additional factor of strength is the fact that it is composed of only two pieces, instead of three or four, and is electrically welded—not soldered.

Because of the location of the tank, the entire flow of gasoline is an even, natural flow—following the natural law of gravity. This is the simplest and most direct way of supplying gasoline to the carburetor without variations in pressure. The gasoline feed pipe of the new Ford is only 18 inches long and is easily accessible all the way.

The gasoline passes from the tank to the carburetor through a filter or sediment bulb mounted on the steel dash which separates the gasoline tank from the engine.

The carburetor is specially designed and has been built to deliver many thousands of miles of good service.

Since all adjustments are fixed except the needle valve and idler, there is practically nothing to get out of order.

The choke rod on the dash acts as a primer and also as a regulator of your gasoline mixture. The new hot spot manifold insures complete vaporization of the gasoline before it enters the combustion chamber of the engine.

As a matter of fact, the fuel system of the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires very little service attention.

The filter or sediment bulb should be cleaned at regular intervals and the carburetor screen removed and washed in gasoline. Occasionally the drain plug at the bottom of the carburetor should be removed and the carburetor drained for a few seconds.

Have your Ford dealer look after these important little details for you when you have the car oiled and greased. A thorough, periodic checking-up costs little, but it has a great deal to do with long life and continuously good performance.

50 Anniversary Jubilee First District W. C. T. U.

served by the Methodist ladies. During the banquet a request was made that at its conclusion, the guests return to the church auditorium as many people were coming in who wished to hear the speeches and enjoy the beautiful decorations.

After the audience was again seated in the auditorium, the invocation was given by Rev. Nichol, after which Mrs. Robert McClure gave a vocal solo.

A. J. Koenig, Village Manager was introduced and in a few well chosen words, gave a welcome to the Village of Plymouth.

Dr. F. A. Lendrum then gave a welcome for the Methodist church and George A. Smith, Superintendent of Schools, spoke briefly for the schools of Plymouth.

Paul W. Voorhies, of Detroit, was then introduced and delighted the audience with his glimpses back into the past. As most of our citizens know, Paul's childhood was spent in Plymouth and he still has vivid recollections of many funny things that occurred while he was just a kid. He recalled how his mother, who was such an earnest temperance worker, used to send him out to distribute bills for the W. C. T. U. shows because the other boys would hide the hand-bills under the side walks instead of distributing them. In those days Plymouth had only board sidewalks and the space beneath furnished excellent hiding places for hand-bills. Paul also told how his mother trained him to recite a temperance poem entitled, "Teetotal Boots," making him a present of a pair of boots, with bright red tops and brass toes, as a reward for his recitation. Those boots furnished much sport for other small boys, who were possibly a trifle envious, and they nick-named the owner "Teetotal." Later this was shortened to "Tot" and eventually it became just "Tot." A nick-name which stuck by Paul for a long time.

Three members of the District of 50 years ago, Mrs. Phoebe Patterson and Misses Ora and Nettie Pelham were present and were introduced to the assembly. An original poem, "Our Conflict," was then recited by Miss Nettie Pelham. A welcome from Plymouth W. C. T. U. was given by Mrs. Clara Patterson Todd. The speech was brief and humorous. Mrs. Todd told how she and her brother Clarence Patterson, of Detroit, were the first and only W. C. T. U. twins of Plymouth, and while they were yet tiny babies were made life members of the local union. Mrs. Todd also told how, like Paul Voorhies, it later fell to her and Clarence to do the errands for the Plymouth W. C. T. U. In conclusion she said that this was not the first time that she had welcomed a W. C. T. U. convention to Plymouth. When she and Clarence were wee youngsters they had given a welcome to another convention in a little poem written for them by Miss Nettie Pelham. She also told of the difficulties encountered by the Misses Pelham in teaching them how to "elocute" properly and finished her address by giving the little poem:

How do you do, good people all?
We're glad you came today.
They told us we must welcome you
And this is what we'll say:
"You're welcome to this great big church,
You're welcome here and now,
And, since our little speech is done,
We'll finish with a bow."

After this Mrs. Todd's twin brother, Clarence Patterson was introduced.

A fine address was then given by Dr. Savage, of Pontiac, who is well known to many through his sermons which are broadcast over the radio.

A beautiful duet was given by two Dearborn ladies after which Mrs. Cankins delivered an interesting address, taking as her topic "The Liquor Traffic Had It's Day."

The meeting closed with the benediction by Rev. Donald Riley of the Baptist church.

The entire program was of great interest and the Jubilee can assuredly be pronounced a success.

BRIEF HISTORY OF FIFTY YEARS
W. C. T. U. FIRST DISTRICT OF MICHIGAN.

By Judge Phoebe L. Patterson.

In compiling this history of fifty years I have endeavored to use only such material as would be interesting to the women of today. The history of recent years is familiar history and we will speak briefly of those years.

Fifty years ago today the women of Wayne county met in the Methodist church of Plymouth to organize the First District Woman's Christian Temperance Union. This church stands upon the same ground occupied by that building, which was destroyed by fire in 1916. Four unions were represented at this convention, Detroit, Wayne, Northville and Plymouth.

The convention lasted two days. The first devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. Mary Davis, of Plymouth Union. Mrs. Davis was the grandmother of Mrs. Mary Hillmer, one of our members of today. Mrs. Clara Frisbie, of Plymouth, was appointed recording secretary. Mrs. Isabella Stewart, president of the first troit Union and a vice-president of the state, presided. At the state convention, held in Lansing, June 25, 1874, Mrs. Stewart was one of two delegates from the first district. In Detroit we find that the first temperance organization of women was called the Woman's Christian Temperance Alliance and was formed in 1874. At that time it was said to be the only organization made up entirely of women in Detroit. Later in the same year the name was changed to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

There are no records available as to when the other three unions were organized, but as Plymouth has two members who joined the organization in 1876 it is evident that this union was organized previous to that year, and from information gleaned from Mrs. Frisbie and Mrs. Beals, who were charter members, I believe that the organization dated from 1874. The chair appointed a committee on organization of the convention then in session consisting of Mrs. Jennie Voorhies, Plymouth; Mrs. Harriet Blodgett, Detroit; Mrs. Steers, Wayne; also a committee on juvenile work, reform clubs and perpetuity of the work. The latter committee was composed of Mrs. Clark, Northville; Mrs. Warner, Farmington; Mrs. Macy, Detroit; Mrs. Hosie, Wayne; Mrs. Beals, Plymouth; Mrs. Northrup, Monroe; Mrs. Bryant, Waterford; Mrs. Porter, Lansing, and Miss Willard, Chicago. Although Miss Willard was then corresponding secretary of the National, she is mentioned in the records only as Miss Willard, of Chicago. Reports of the four unions were given, also reports of work being done in Livonia and Newburg. Mrs. Starkweather, of Holly, gave a report of work there and Mrs. Cushing of work in Ann Arbor. A paper was to have been read by Mrs. B. B. Hudson, Detroit, then state president, but Mrs. Hudson was unable to be present and the paper was read by Mrs. Macy.

A committee on district organization was appointed but the names of members of this committee are not given.

Work among the children was considered then, as now, one of the important features, and a Band of Hope was being sustained by each of the four unions, with a large membership, the name being changed later to Loyal Temperance Legion. Mrs. Fisher had charge of the work in Detroit, and during the convention a standing committee on juvenile work was appointed, with Mrs. Fisher as chairman.

A paper, entitled, "Our Girls," was read by Mrs. Gregory, of Plymouth. A discussion followed the reading of papers, and Miss Willard is mentioned as taking part in these discussions. Music was furnished by local talent and the pastors of the different churches were introduced.

Election of officers occurred on the afternoon of the second day of the convention and resulted as follows:

President—Mrs. Isabella Stewart, Detroit; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Clara Frisbie, Plymouth; recording secretary, Mrs. Scott, Northville; treasurer, Mrs. E. L. Beals, Plymouth; vice-presidents, Mrs. Jennie Voorhies, Plymouth; Mrs. Cushing, Detroit; Mrs. Collar, Wayne.

A committee on circulating leaflets and editing a column in a local paper was appointed.

The address on the first evening was given by Miss Willard, of Chicago; the second evening by Miss Fanny McCartney. Miss McCartney was also from Chicago, and at that time was an organizer on the Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union. The records state, adjourned for one year. Signed: Clara A. Frisbie, recording secretary.

Yet, in November, 13th and 14th of the same year a convention was held in Wayne. At this convention six unions reported—Detroit Central, Detroit Western, Plymouth, Northville, Wayne and Delray. A constitution was adopted, and under finance we find that each union was to pay into the district treasury one dollar a year for necessary expenses of the district. A prohibition amendment to the state constitution was discussed, and among the resolutions passed was one pledging the unions to work with the reform clubs in circulating petitions for this amendment. At that time the reform clubs had a membership of about 60,000 in Michigan. Forty-five clubs had been organized in 1877 by Dr. Reynolds, who had been organizing clubs in the east and had been induced by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union to come to Michigan for similar work. A large proportion of this membership was reformed men. I copied the following from the resolution adopted. "That our ultimate aim is abolition of the liquor traffic, and until that shall be secured we recommend to those who have the power to avail themselves of the benefits to be gained by the enforcement of our present laws." The third resolution reads as follows: "Whereas, the State Agricultural society has suffered its rule prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquor on the grounds of the State fair to be violated at the fairs of 1878-1879. Therefore, resolved, that we as citizens of the State of Michigan demand of the executive committee of the State Agricultural society the rigid enforcement of this rule at the fair in 1880." And in 1880 more than forty saloons were opened the first day of the fair.

Mary T. Lathrop, who was then recording secretary of the state, was in attendance throughout the convention and gave the address on the first evening. John R. Clark, of Tecumseh, an organizer of reform clubs, and himself a reformed man, delivered the address on the second evening. The Reform club of Wayne, by invitation, attended in a body.

The first mention of departments was found in the records of the convention held in Wyandotte in 1883, when a superintendent of Sunday school work was appointed. Juvenile work and work in prisons and jails were mentioned as committee work at previous conventions.

Flower mission work was added in 1884, and in 1885 sixteen departments and eleven unions reported, Inkster, Flat Rock, Dearborn and Romulus having been organized. All reports showed a marked increase in membership and in temperance sentiment throughout the district, although Northville reported that while all dues were paid and a prayer meeting sustained, yet the members were discouraged, as there was nothing to work for. Northville had no saloons.

In 1880, ten years from the date of the first convention, nineteen unions and twenty-six departments reported. During these first ten years mass meetings, addressed by the best speakers available, and pledge signing at these meetings, Bible readings, cottage prayer meetings, house to house visitation among drinking people, jail, prison and county house visiting and evangelistic services of ten days' or two weeks' duration were some of the methods used to promote temperance education. Yet while trying to educate the masses the temperance principles, the women were gradually educating themselves to the fact that in order to accomplish their purpose of abolishing the saloons, legal sanction was far more effective than moral suasion, and therefore the work was carried into legislative halls, until state and national prohibition was written into our constitutions. How this was accomplished you will learn from Mrs. Calkins in her address on "Our Legislative Work." It is not necessary to follow the work of the organization through recent years. Organizing new unions, encouraging the old ones, adding to our membership, forwarding department work under the efficient leadership of state and district directors has for years constituted our regular lines of work. I could devote pages regarding the efforts of the women of Detroit to have the sale of beer on Belle Isle prohibited, and which required years of petition work to accomplish; to secure the appointment of matrons in prisons, jails and railway stations; policewomen to visit dance halls and see that they are properly conducted; women to look after the interests of women and girls in courts; two homes for girls earning scant wages, where board and room can be secured at rates not to be had elsewhere, and with efficient matrons in charge, and other activities too numerous to mention in the time at our disposal.

In addition to what has been accomplished in the first district, we, with other women of the state, have worked and secured scientific temperance instruction and kindergarten for the Industrial School for Girls at Adrian; made illegal the sale of tobacco to minors; a flag on every school house; school ballot for women and women on school boards; local option in townships and villages; provided and paid a temperance missionary in lumber camps and mining towns; a separate prison for women of the state, and at the same time never losing sight of the fact that our ultimate aim was the prohibition of the liquor traffic and equal suffrage for women, until laws granting both were finally written into the state and national constitutions, and during the last presidential campaign all W. C. T. U. women used every effort to secure the election of a dry president.

There is an old and trite saying that one is never to swap horses while crossing a stream, and as our organization has always a stream to bridge, it has been our custom to change officers only when necessary. Therefore, during fifty years we have had only nine presidents—Mrs. Isabella Stewart, Detroit, served from Feb. 13, 1879, to November, 1880; Mrs. F. B. Cressley, Detroit, 1880-1884; Mrs. Jennie Voorhies, Plymouth, 1884-1884; Mrs. Annie Andrus, 1884-1905; Mrs. Jennie Harrington Spencer, 1905-1910; Mrs. Mattie Jones, 1910-1916; Mrs. Phoebe L. Patterson, 1916-1918; Mrs. Lydia McNabb, 1918-1919; Mrs. Ava Downer, 1919-1920.

The office of corresponding secretary has been filled as follows: Mrs. Clara B. Frisbie served from Feb. 13, 1879, to November, 1879, when Mrs. F. B. Cressley was elected and served one year; Mrs. Emery, of Northville, three years; Mrs. R. W. Hall, Flat Rock, two years; Mrs. Mason, Wayne, one year; Mrs. Brownell, Detroit, one year; Mrs. Clara Frisbie, Plymouth, seven years; Mrs. Belle Rowley, Wyandotte, nine years; Mrs. Jessie Spangler, Detroit, thirteen years; Mrs. P. J. Wilson, Detroit, three years; Mrs. Elva Crandall, Detroit, three years; Mrs. Gladys Downer, Detroit, seven years.

Recording secretary from Feb. 13, 1879, to November, 1879; Mrs. Scott, Northville. Following Mrs. Scott, Mrs. A. C. Abell, of Wayne, served one year; Mrs. Clara Frisbie, Plymouth, one year; Mrs. S. B. Harris, Wayne, three years; Miss Belle Widner, Wyandotte, three years; Mrs. Annie Andrus, one year; Mrs. A. J. Morrison, Detroit, thirteen years; Mrs. Phoebe L. Patterson, Plymouth, twenty-five years; Mrs. I. G. Jones, Detroit, three years.

Treasurer: Mrs. E. L. Beals was elected Feb. 13, 1879, and served thirty-five years. During that time Mrs. Beals did not miss a district convention. When she was obliged to retire, owing to failing health, Miss Ada Safford, of Plymouth, was elected and served two years. Following Miss Safford, Mrs. S. E. Campbell, of Plymouth, served three years. Mrs. Annie Winchester, our present treasurer, had served ten years up to November last.

Our list of superintendents of departments, or directors, as they are now called, has been subject to frequent changes. Yet ye have one, Mrs. Mae E. Butler, who has served as superintendent of medical contests for twenty-one years.

Of the fifty conventions held by Plymouth has entertained eight; Wayne, five; Northville, six; Flat Rock, three; Wyandotte, eight; Highland Park, two; Redford, one; Detroit, seventeen; the unions entertaining alternately in different sections of the city.

Of the four unions represented at the organization of the district, Plymouth is the only union that has continued to exist and hold regular meetings during all of the past fifty years; also the only union with members who have maintained an active membership during all of that time, and has had at least one member on the board of general officers.

In compiling this brief history I have refrained from special mention of any of our workers. In order to do justice the list would be longer than time will permit. Many are so deserving that their faithful service has earned the best plaudit that can be given anyone, and that is "Well done."

Salesman Killed By Monoxide Gas

POLICE SAY HE HAD TURNED EXHAUST PIPE INTO CAR.

A Northville salesman, Fred Thornton, 27 years old, is believed by state police to have committed suicide yesterday by leading the exhaust gas of his automobile into the driver's compartment while the car sat on the Ridge road between the Seven and Eight-Mile roads.

The man was found unconscious in the car by Miss Frances Crum, 20 years old, who lives at Eight Mile and Ridge roads. She told her brother, Charles Crum, who called William Safford, chief of police in Northville. Safford reported the man apparently had committed suicide. The motor still was running when Safford arrived.

Thornton's father, William Thornton, who lives near Farmington, said he knew of no reason why his son should commit suicide and indicated that the death was accidental.

Thornton was employed by a firm manufacturing fire extinguishers—Detroit Free Press.

PAINTS WASHINGTON FIRST MILLIONAIRE

Lawyer Describes Business Genius of General.

New York.—The first American millionaire was George Washington, according to Eugene E. Prussing, Los Angeles lawyer, formerly of Chicago, who has just completed thirteen years of research into Washington's career as a business man. Summing up the results of his study in the American Magazine, Mr. Prussing says: "It is customary to think of Washington as soldier and statesman. He was also a man of business, successful farmer, builder of transportation, engineer, pioneer and promoter. He was a man of broad commercial vision and rare business ability. He spent one-fourth of his life in public service and yet left behind him a record of business achievement and a fortune that entitles him to be called our first millionaire. He started life with but a few cents of his own. When he died the land and other investments that he directed to be sold were worth, by his own conservative estimate in his will, $530,000, and this did not include some of the most valuable portions of his estate.

"To many of us Washington is a mythical figure, hidden behind fables like that of the self-righteous little boy and the hypothetical cherry tree. As a matter of fact, he was a very different sort of person. He was a man who would have been perfectly at ease in a group of modern big business men around the directors' table. And he enjoyed fox hunting and dancing, as the modern man enjoys golf.

Was Good Business Man. "In his ideals, his sense for giving value as well as getting it, his insistence on exact statistics, his zeal for big constructive undertakings, for striking into virgin fields, seizing opportunities, opening avenues to development, his instinctive sizing-up of the possibilities of profit in a deal—in all these matters and others like them, his attitude was strikingly similar to that of the best of modern business. He did not definitely formulate any rules for moneymaking, but he followed certain basic principles throughout his career.

Washington's apprenticeship in business started soon after his father's death, which occurred when the boy was twelve.

"From that time," Mr. Prussing says, "he was pretty much on his own, and was always faced with the problem of making a living.

Washington's first job was as an apprentice surveyor with G. W. Fairfax. At seventeen he became official surveyor of Culpepper county, and began his life work as an engineer. He had the thrifty idea of not taking all his pay in cash. He knew where the best acres were located, and, believing that land prices would rise, he began putting his extra pay into good land.

Made $15,000 a Year. His returns on farming later averaged as high as $15,000 a year. He ran a gristmill at Mount Vernon. He conducted fisheries on ten miles of waterfront, shipping his product to England and the West Indies. He maintained a ferry across the Potomac, which paid a handsome profit. He devoted six years as managing director of a company which was engaged in drainage and lumbering operations in Virginia, and he was president of the Potomac River company, a navigation and development enterprise which eventually evolved into the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Baltimore & Ohio railroad systems. He purchased 53,000 acres of land in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

In business he was careful about exacting value and giving it. He performed his contracts and promises according to the spirit as well as the letter, even when doing so involved heavy losses.

Washington ran his business affairs by exact knowledge. He always knew where he stood. He kept complete records of receipts and expenditures and of all business transactions.

Hudson To Spend Million For Newspaper Advertising

ESSEX CHALLENGE WEEK TO FEATURE CAMPAIGN.

The Hudson Motor Car company, manufacturers of Hudson and Essex cars, will spend one million dollars in newspaper advertising during the month of March and April. It is announced by Courtney Johnson, general sales manager of the company.

Hudson, largest manufacturer of six-cylinder cars in 1928, is experiencing the greatest year in its history, and this extensive campaign, the largest ever undertaken by the company, is designed to bring about even greater success to a sensationally successful line.

The feature of the campaign will be a national "Essex Challenge Week" which commences March 4. During the week Essex cars will undertake every kind of test to prove their right to the militant "Challenger" slogan, says the announcement.

MUNICIPAL NOTES BY THE MANAGER

Three propositions are to be submitted to voters at the regular election to be held this spring. These are as follows:

1. Shall water improvement bonds amounting to $9,000.00 be issued by the village to defray the cost of replacing iron water services with lead pipe upon streets paved during 1928? If issued, these bonds would be repaid from water receipts and not from taxes.

2. Shall the compensation of village commissioners be increased from $2.00 to $5.00 per meeting attended, with the maximum increased from $60.00 to $150.00 in any one year? This would require a charter amendment.

3. Shall the charter be amended to provide that inspectors of elections be allowed $5.00 per day and gatekeepers at elections $3.00 per day for their services at elections? Compensation at present is $4.00 for inspectors and $2.00 for gatekeepers.

The questions, as above stated, are self-explanatory. Water improvement bonds, it seems, should be approved, as this will permit us to borrow the funds for the improvement in question at a lower interest rate than must be paid upon temporary loans.

The two proposed charter amendments aim to correct situations which have come to exist as a result of changing conditions during the past ten years. Both appear to be reasonable propositions and ought not to fail of approval.

IN THE THEATRE

"THE RIVER PIRATE"

Those who have read "The River Pirate," by Charles Francis Coe, which recently ran in the Saturday Evening Post and which comes to the Penniman Allen Theatre, Sunday and Monday February 24 and 25, will recall, most of all, that it was, primarily, the story of a boy who never had a chance until he met the girl who plucked him from a life of crime and brought him back to decency and to her.

The screen rights to this story were purchased by Fox Films and the directorial assignment went to William K. Howard, youthful director, who has surpassed his prior efforts, including "White Gold," "The Main Event" and other successes.

The central figures are a pair of loon companions, a hard bodied sailor and a mere youth, who team together and engage in river piracy working in the dark of the night and ever pursued by watchful harbor police.

This provides for just a few more thrills than come to the usual motion picture and stresses the old maxim that there is good in everyone if the right spot be touched. Incidentally, it goes far to prove that reform schools do not always reform.

Victor McLaglen plays the stellar role of the river pirate with his companion enacted by Nick Stuart, and Lois Moran as the girl in the case, while Earle Foxe is in the part of the double crossing "shark."

"THE RED DANCE"

Fine story, great cast, artistic direction and splendid entertainment just about describes "The Red Dance," which comes to the Penniman Allen Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, February 27 and 28. This latest Fox picture is a story of the Russia during the revolution, with Dolores Del Rio and Charles Farrell in the stellar roles. The beautiful Mexican gives probably her greatest performance since her role of Charmaine in "What Price Glory," as the peasant girl who becomes the famous Red Dancer of Moscow and a leader of the Revolution

Charles Farrell is equally effective as Prince Eugen, whose sympathies are with the people but who, in the turmoil of rebellion, is sentenced to die before a firing squad. These two young players furnish the romance of the story as well as some of the thrills.

But probably one of the most startling discoveries made in pictures in some time is Ivan Linow, a giant Russian and former professional wrestler, in the role, first of a common soldier and then a "Red" general. Linow is simply great. The huge man would have stolen the picture from almost any two other players by his remarkable performance. As it is, the trio under the mastery direction of Raoul Walsh, give a performance in this Fox feature that will not soon be forgotten.

There is plenty of action thrills, humor and historical interest in this production. Rasputin, the black monk, Trotsky, the czar and his family and other famous characters of the revolution play their parts in this, one of the best pictures seen here in many months.

PLYMOUTH HOCKEY TEAM WINS THREE FAST GAMES DURING LAST WEEK

trying their utmost to break the tie. However, the score remained the same throughout the period, 2-2.

The third proved too much for the Union Trust boys. After four minutes of play in this frame Page scored the goal which broke the tie. Six minutes later he chalked up another. With three minutes to go in the final period, Pidgeon stick-handled his way through the forward and defense lines and made a clever pass to Page for the fifth counter.

Rutherford L. D. Crowe
Pidgeon R. D. Barnes
Douglas C. Cavanaugh
Garlett R. W. Irwin
Page L. W. Hays
Dobbs Sub. Ducey
Quirk Sub. McKinnon

Last Sunday's contest with Pere Marquette ended 3-0 for Plymouth. Page made the first goal on a shot from center ice. Five minutes later he registered another one on a pass from Pidgeon, first period ending 2-0.

In the second period Pidgeon conducted another excursion inside the defense area and when he passed to Page at the proper time the French Canadian slammed it past Bois for the third goal.

No scoring in the third period, though Pere Marquette struggled hard to save a shutout.

Drew performed exceptionally well in goal. Block and Garlett on the forward line played excellent hockey, while Rutherford played his position on defense effectively.

Plymouth— P. M.—
Drew Goal Bois
Rutherford L. D. Spooner
Pidgeon R. D. Miller
Block C. McNamara
Garlett R. W. Irwin
Dobbs Sub. Ducey
Quirk Sub. McKinnon

Tuesday night was the last game for Plymouth in the regular schedule, winning from Christ Church 5-0 on Olympia ice.

The Pidgeon-Page combination started the scoring, Page making the first one, assisted by Pidgeon. The second counter was from a hard shot by Page. First period, 2-0.

In the second stanza Quirk easily beat the Christ Church goalie on a pass from Page. Dobbs flipped the fourth tally in the net, receiving the pass from Pidgeon.

Quirk secured the fifth counter on a pass from Pidgeon in the last period. Page let the sixth goal go by when he failed to pass to Block, who had the wide open net.

The playoff schedule will be made immediately and the series probably will begin the first of the week. The playoff will be on the basis of two defeats and out.

Negotiations have been started for a United States amateur hockey championship among championship teams of the Detroit league, Chicago, Buffalo, Minneapolis and Pittsburgh. The plans discussed call for a meeting of all five teams in one city at the same time and a tournament conducted similar to the annual sand lot baseball series.

The Plymouth team is going strong and hopes to come out on top in the finals.

Proof of Scotch Thrift Found in Bankbooks

Glasgow, Scotland.—Scottish thrift is not fiction.

One of every three of the population has a bankbook, and savings for 1928 constitute a record, says the annual report of the Glasgow Savings bank.

The amount due depositors is $120,000,000, an increase of $4,500,000 over last year, while 40,000 "homesaves"—small cash boxes—are in use.

The number of depositors, the volume of business transacted, the balance at depositors' credit and the banks' reserve each constitute a record.

Coincidence

Hempstead, N. Y.—"It's the first time I ever talked to a princess," remarked a policeman on examining the license of a young woman who had parked overtime. "And it's the first time I ever talked to a policeman," replied Mrs. W. B. Leeds (Princess Xenia of Russia). A $10 fine is in the offing apparently.

Wife Loses Her Ring, Hubby Finds It in Pie

Mill City, Ore.—L. G. Foster claims the distinction of having had one of the most valuable pieces of lemon pie in history.

When he attacked a generous piece of the pie, Foster discovered an expensive diamond ring.

He was jubilant until his wife exclaimed, "That's mine!"

Mrs. Foster had removed the ring and placed it on a window ledge just above the table when she made the pie. When she finished her work, she searched for the ring, without success.

Foster found it—with his teeth.

Lajoie Opposes Life Tenure For Judges

In a recent interview the attention of Judge Ernest P. Lajoie was called to the statement made by one of the Republican candidates for circuit judge favoring life appointment for judges of the Wayne circuit court, and expressed this opinion:

"I am very much opposed to the life appointment of judges or any other public official for the reason that life tenures in public office are decidedly contrary to our American institutions. The theory upon which this government was founded and under which it has prospered has been the universal ballot. To appoint judges for life is to that extent disfranchising the voter and to a great extent would tend to alienate the affection of the people from the government. The appointment of judges for life would set up a judicial autocracy from which there would be little escape for the ordinary individual.

"It is very well to say that the appointment would be subject to a series of checks and balances, but what are these checks and balances and who would apply them, or what assurance have the people that they would be applied at all, or what assurance have the people, if applied, they would not be applied according to the political dictates of the judge himself?

"The election system has a leveling influence and tends to keep judges with all their power reminded of the fact that that power is to be used judicially and wisely, otherwise the voters have it in their power to administer a rebuke.

"Every inherent right vested in the citizens at some time or other is subject to a judicial officer, and if he be one who is appointed for life we may well shudder at the lack of responsibility to the administration of those rights before a judge who sits upon a throne for life with no thought of the insecurity of his position which might result from an abuse of power.

"When we speak of checks and balances we must remember that the greatest check and the most even balance has been maintained throughout the history of this government by the voters themselves, and hence any plan tending to disfranchise them is a removal of checks and balances, and that is more particularly true when we consider that the judicial branch of the government is more powerful than the legislative or the administrative.

"It may be true that the voters occasionally make mistakes in their selection of judges, but after all it is within their power to correct that situation, but if a mistake is made in the appointment of a judge for life the voters may say neither aye or nay, and correct the situation one iota. If the present situation contains any evil it may be better to correct it by extending or lengthening the term of judicial officers, but it should never under any consideration be taken from the hands of the voters and placed in any power than those who are to be governed by that power."

In discussing the court situation Judge Lajoie stated that, in his opinion jurors are required to perform this valuable and patriotic service but are very materially underpaid. "We should not expect citizens to give up their time and energy in performing jury service unless we pay them in a manner commensurate with the valuable services that they render."

BETTER MERCHANDISING CONFERENCE TO BE HELD

THE EVENT WILL BE HELD IN DETROIT MASONIC TEMPLE
MARCH 13-15.

The 3rd Better Merchandising Conference and Exposition which is to be held March 13-15 in the Masonic Temple Detroit, promises to surpass, both in attendance and in the value of the exhibits, either of the two that have preceded this year's affair.

It will afford all retailers who attend many valuable ideas to take back and make use of in their own business. Widespread interest is reported throughout Michigan and Northern Ohio in this year's program.

C. L. Glasgow of Nashville, Michigan president of the Better Merchandising Association, will preside at the general sessions each day. Every speaker has been selected for his knowledge of the subject assigned him and every address will be full of practical suggestions that cannot help being of very practical benefit to all retail merchants.

Chambers of Commerce through Michigan are co-operating even more wholeheartedly than last year and many merchants in Michigan have offered their active co-operation to the attendance committee.

The feature speaker at the annual banquet, to be held in the Crystal Ballroom of the Masonic Temple, will be Alvin E. Dodd, managing director of the Wholesale Dry Goods Institute, New York.

The importance of the group meetings on Thursday afternoon, March 14 is stressed, as bringing retailers in every branch of distribution—drugs, dry goods, bakeries, hardware, groceries, clothing, furniture, plumbing and heating together in their own round-table discussion; there are three speakers at each of these sessions.

The exposition will occupy two complete halls immediately contiguous to the main sessions hall in the Temple. There will be 101 booths of exhibits, including a complete model grocery store fully stocked—here you will see properly displayed hardware, plumbing and heating supplies, electrical supplies, drugs, adding machines, sealers, show cases of the latest and most practical models and a separate section devoted to dry goods, furniture, floor coverings, piece goods, caps, neckwear, hosiery and practically everything sold over the counters of the department, dry goods and general retail store.

Among the exhibitors are the following: Annis Fur Co., Berry Bros. Inc., Brandon Shoe Co., Braun Knitwear Co., Buhl Sons Co., Burnham, Chas. J. and Son, Burroughs Adding Machine Co., Camill Neckwear Co., Carey Co., Case Co., Detroit Textile Co., Detroit Wholesale Furniture Co., Edson, Moore and Co., Falk, L. M. Shoe Co., Farrand Williams and Clark, Flusterwald, C. A. Co., Griswold-First State Bank, Harvey's, A. Sons Mfg. Co., Industrial Cap Mfg. Co., Kendall Reeling Co., Kiddle Kover Mfg. Co., Koss, O. A. Co., Kroll, A. and Co., Lee and Cady, Licht, Alexander and Co., Meyer Suit Case Mfg. Co., Michigan Bell Telephone Co., Michigan Drug Co., Miller Peanut Products Co., Mohawk Carpet Mills, Minto, Geo. NEWBURG

Rev. Johnson gives the boys and girls a short talk every Sunday, which is very interesting.

The Sunday school contest started out with a great deal of enthusiasm. It is to be a hill top race, lasting six weeks. Melvin Guthrie is sponsoring it, with Mrs. Cutler, Donald Ryder and Clyde Smith as the captains. You are all requested to hustle for new members.

Tuesday evening Mrs. Bertha Joy's division of the L. A. S. gave a coasting party. James McNabb and Robert Holmes made a big bonfire on the flats. A large number of the young people as well as older had a jolly time. About 10 o'clock they all went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. James McNabb, where a supper was served. A nice little sum was cleared.

Mrs. Jessé Thomas' Division will give a hard time social at the L. A. S. hall this Friday evening. A prize will be given to the most disreputable looking couple. Games will be played and refreshments will be served. Everyone cordially invited to come and enjoy a pleasant evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson and mother, Mrs. Johnson, of Detroit, were Sunday guests at the parsonage. Miss Loretta Wilson has a position in a candy store in Royal Oak.

The many Newburg friends of Mrs. Bert Hodge, of Northville, are sorry to learn of her falling down stairs Sunday afternoon and breaking her ankle.

Townships In Favor of Plan To Join Wayne County

PROPOSED BILL IN LANSING HAS MUCH SUPPORT ABOUT HERE.

Surprising as it may seem, from sentiment expressed by many residents of Novi and Farmington townships, there is a very strong sentiment in those townships in favor of the proposed bill which may be introduced into the legislature, annexing them to Wayne county and taking them from Oakland county.

During the past few days there has been considerable discussion around Lansing that a bill might be introduced which would provide for the changing of the county lines of Oakland, Macomb and Wayne counties. The plan is to annex the southern tier of townships of Oakland and Macomb counties to Wayne county.

The interests of the townships are more in Wayne county than in Oakland county it is pointed out by some, but the chief reason seems to lie in the taxation question.

Farmers in Oakland county are burdened with excessive county tax as well as Corvett road taxes. In fact the road taxes of Oakland county are among the highest in the country and the residents of these townships believe that by joining with Wayne it will be a big saving to them in future taxes.

The plan that has been discussed around Lansing provides for a ratification by the voters of any annexation bill that might be passed by the legislature and if sentiment that has been expressed during the past few days is any indication of what might happen if the measure should be passed and submitted at least the Oakland county townships nearest to this part of Wayne county would vote almost as a unit for the change.—Northville Record.

Does Not Believe in Life Terms for Judges

Opposition to the appointment of judges to life terms in their courts is being voiced by Julius L. Berns, candidate for circuit judge on the Republican ticket. The proposal to change the terms of the state constitution so as to permit the appointment of judges for life now is before the state legislature.

"There are two dangers in appointing judges. Instead of electing them to specified terms of office," said Mr. Berns. "Both of these dangers hit right at the root of popular government. One is the fear that the people cannot choose wisely in picking the men to preside over the courts. The other danger lies in the effort to eliminate the provision for a division of governmental authority between the executive, legislative and judicial branches. This division is fundamental in our ideas of popular government."

"Appointment of judges would make them subservient to the executive department which would appoint them, instead of keeping the judiciary in its place in the scheme of affairs. When appointed to life terms there would be no check on judges except the fear of impeachment in case of actual misconduct."

"Personally I feel that the public is much better off in being able to pick out its candidates for nomination and election to the bench. Looking back over the list of judges here and through the country at large it seems to me that the public has been able to do a very good job of picking out the right kind of men for the bench, and it has kept them there term after term when they have shown that they merit retention."

"Judges do not run for office on political issues, but mostly on their own merits as lawyers and jurists. In becoming a candidate for a place on the Wayne circuit bench I feel that I can offer my record at the bar as my best asset in seeking support, and if elected as judge it will be my record on the bench that will qualify me to be kept there. If his record is not good enough to warrant retaining a judge in his position it is only right that the people should have the chance in another election to supplant him with a new judge."

Mr. Berns is a specialist in city corporation law and has had much public experience as council for Melvindale, Grosse Pointe Park and other municipalities. In addition to his general law practice, he is seeking one of the nominations on the Republican ticket for circuit judge to be made at the primary election March 4.

TWO LARGEST MOTOR COACH LINES FORM GIGANTIC SYSTEM
—TRAVELING 100,000 MILES DAILY—CARRIED 3,400,000 PASSENGERS IN 1928.

Consolidation of two of the leading motor bus transportation companies in the United States has been announced by O. S. Caesar, president of Motor Transit corporation, with headquarters at Chicago, and W. E. Travis, president of American Motor Transportation company, of San Francisco. The Greyhound lines, operated by Motor Transit corporation, and the Yelloway lines, operated by American Motor Transportation company, are to be united under American Motor Transit corporation to form the largest long distance bus transportation system in the country, representing an investment of over $12,000,000. The companies' buses travel over 100,000 miles daily. In 1928 approximately 3,400,000 passengers were carried. Garages and passenger terminal facilities are maintained in the principal cities served.

The Greyhound lines operate daily schedules between practically all of the principal cities of the middle western, central eastern and southern states. Its main routes extending from Chicago east to Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and New York, and from Chicago southeast to Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Louisville, Atlanta and Jacksonville. The Yelloway lines serve the Pacific seaboard from Portland through San Francisco to Los Angeles, and extend across the continent from Los Angeles to New York via Denver, Omaha, Kansas City, St. Louis, Indianapolis and Philadelphia.

"The unification of the Greyhound and Yelloway lines," said Mr. Caesar, "should result in improved service to the traveling public through the coordination of schedules and the establishment of union terminals at connecting points. Passengers will be able to reach nearly every important city in the United States on the lines of a single system. The transportation of passengers over long distances by motor bus has grown rapidly in recent years, but the industry is still in its infancy. Through consolidations, such as the present one and others which have recently taken place, motor bus companies are developing financial responsibility and an operating organization which permit them to supply a carrying service comparable in efficiency and reliability with that of the other great transportation systems."

Disease Eliminated From Seed Potatoes

PLANT PATHOLOGISTS AT STATE COLLEGE PRODUCE STRAINS TO BE INCREASED FOR DISTRIBUTION.

Potatoes do not "run out" until the stock of seed which is used by the grower is badly infected with diseases such as mosaic and leaf roll, and seed stocks have now been produced which are free from these diseases, according to announcement by plant pathologists at Michigan State College.

These specialists in plant diseases have spent six years in building up a strain of disease-free stock of three varieties of potatoes commonly grown in Michigan. These seed stocks have been built up from single tuber selections and as many as 1,000 bushels of the disease-free strains are now available for increase.

It is not possible to keep potatoes free from the virus diseases unless they are kept isolated from other fields where potatoes are grown. Insects which suck plant juices will carry the diseases from infected plants to healthy ones.

The intention of the plant pathologists is to maintain a supply of disease free seed which will be available for increase when the seed in the growers' hands becomes infected with disease.

The three varieties which have been distributed for increase are Russet Burbank, Green Mountains, and Irish Cobbler. All available seed for 1929 has been distributed but growers who are interested in getting some of this stock for 1930 should write to J. E. Kotila, botany department, Michigan State College, East Lansing, Michigan.

The average cost, we are told, costs $3.30. We suppose the 30 cents is the amusement tax.

Prosperity for 1929 is practically assured. There are four months in the year which have five pay days each.

Cluster Stripe Neckties

Undergraduates in eastern universities are expressing definite preference for cluster stripe, rep silk neckties. These stripes should not be confused with regimental stripes. Clusters are either group-stripes, wide-set on dark grounds, or all-over stripes broken by a narrow cluster stripe. They represent essential good taste—in a sensible variety of color and stripe arrangement.

RUMANIA GIVES GYPSIES FREEDOM

300,000 Nomads Will Be Assimilated by Nation.

Jassy, Rumania.—Three hundred thousand Rumanian gypsies will be assimilated by Rumania and become an integral part of the Rumanian race.

This is one of the great social reforms inaugurated by Dr. Julius Maniu, Rumania's new progressive premier. Unlike the gypsies of Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Yugo-Slavia who have been granted citizenship in these countries, the gypsies of Rumania are still regarded virtually as slaves.

Up to 1845 gypsy slave markets existed in Rumania. The price of a family of gypsies sold as slaves was about $50. When the United States was struggling with the slave problem during the Civil war Rumania decided to abolish gypsy slavery altogether, so that today gypsies are free to live their own unfettered, nomadic and primitive lives, where and how they will.

Rumania's large gypsy population is scattered all over the country. Large settlements of them are to be found in Moldavia, Wallachia and Transylvania. Like their brother gypsies in the United States, they ply their trade as tinkers, blacksmiths, musicians, dancers, soothsayers and horse dealers. Those who cannot find regular employment live by theft and mendacity.

Unlike the gypsies of Czechoslovakia or Hungary, who seem to be a superior caste, the Rumanian gypsies live in great squalor and want.

Although they allow themselves to be baptized in the Christian faith, they really pursue no religion. Their old women practice fortune-telling and are famous for their magic and sleight of hand.

America Sets Record in Road Construction

New York.—No nation has ever gone into road construction at such an amazing pace as has the United States during the last ten years.

Roy D. Chapin, chairman of the highway committee, National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, says that in less than ten years the public has voted virtually $16,000,000,000 to the construction and maintenance of roads, or enough to defray our cost in the World war, excluding foreign loans.

No public roads improvement in any era has remotely approximated the expenditure of these projects, and it is notable that the feat of raising the money has been accomplished with comparative ease.

During the last year four states, Louisiana, Iowa, West Virginia and Missouri, have voted a total of $240,000,000 in highway bond issues to facilitate completion of their main state systems.

New York has more high-type highways than any other state, with 11,000 miles of hard-surfaced roads. Illinois leads in cement pavements, with 6,000 miles, while Indiana has the largest mileage of all types of hard-surfaced roads.

Two states have already completed initial improvement of all of their roads. These states are Maryland and Delaware.

The Department of Commerce estimates that there are 8,500,000 miles of highways in the world, of which more than half are in the United States. When only the improved roads are considered, the United States has much more than half.

French Citizen Claims He Invented War Tanks

Lille, France.—A man who says he is the real inventor of the tanks used during the World war has brought suit against the state for $600,000 damages for having communicated the plans of his invention to England.

M. Parisot de Rupt, who claims to have invented the war tanks, was managing editor of the "Political and Literary Annals" during the war. He has already protested to the ministry of war and the premier's office, but having received no answer has now taken his grievance to court.

Astronomer Finds Great Gas Cloud

Ithaca, N. Y.—A vast cloud of gas, lying in space in the northern heavens near the constellation Cassiopeia's Chair, has been found by S. L. Boshroyd, professor in charge of the Forties observatory of Cornell university.

The observations were made while working at the Dominion Astrophysical observatory at Victoria, B. C.

Although the cloud is invisible even through telescopes, the spectroscopic not only revealed its presence, but showed its composition, which is calcium gas. Calcium is the mineral that makes bones hard.

Georgetown in Days of Glory

Lying to the westward in a near island between Rock creek and the Potomac river, Georgetown is a part of Washington which has now begun to be apart. Proud with her public buildings and embassies and marble residences, Washington had forgotten that Tom Moore was visiting the British minister who then lived in Georgetown, in 1804, when he wrote of Washington as "a vast Serbonian bog."

Georgetown's arching elms shadowed the figures of the great Virginians who drove into Georgetown when business took them to the federal capital, over the "King's Highway"—Jefferson, Madison, Lee, and the rest. They had business in the capital and they stopped at homes in Georgetown. For as a contemporary wit remarked:

"Washington is a city of streets without houses and Georgetown is a city of houses without streets."

Here Washington met with L'Enfant in the little house pictured, still standing in "Bridge street"—now prosaically known as "M." The eclipse by its stepdaughter city was not immediate. The Civil war marked the passing of its glory, as the World war marked its return.

TINY INSECTS SAVE COCONUT GROVES

Fly Is Ally to Man in War on Caterpillars.

Boulder, Colo.—Down in the South seas a battle in the endless war between man and insects has been fought and won without any report of it coming to northern ears. Prof. T. A. D. Cockerell of the University of Colorado tells how a tiny fly co-operated with man to save the coconut trees from the caterpillar.

To us, for whom coconut means merely a confection, or, if we be a little more chemical minded, oil for soaps and butter substitutes, it is hard to bring home the importance of coconuts for the brown people of the Pacific. To them the coconut tree means both food and shelter, frequently ropes and clothing, and in addition, nowadays, white men's trade goods. The coconut has been called the most useful tree in the world, at least certainly it is the most useful tree in the tropics.

So when the innumerable sluglike caterpillars of the moth called Ievu-anna began to eat all the leaves of the coconut tree in Fiji, and threatened to spread over the whole South Pacific area, there was consternation. The insect had a host of natural enemies, but they did not seem too able to make any impression on its swarming numbers.

Then one day the tiny flies of the family tachinids, a species known as ptychomyia remota, was brought over from the Federation Malay states and turned loose. The tachinids have a pleasant habit of laying their eggs in the eggs of other insects, and the hungry little grubs that hatch out of them live in the world of natural omelet where they first come to larvalhood until they are ready to fly. The natural result is one more tachinid, one fewer caterpillar. Another member of this same family is being tried out most hopefully now in the American corn belt, against the borer.

Ptychomyia made short work of the coconut caterpillar. Within a few months the stripped trees were putting forth new green leaves, young plantations are no longer pestered, and the most prominent industry of the South seas was safe again.

Hen Has Operation; Back on Job Again

Memphis, Tenn.—"Sassy Sue," prize hen of Herbert Burns, is back on the job of an "egg a day" after undergoing a "major operation" recently.

Last July "Sassy Sue" suddenly stopped contributing a daily "and" for her master's breakfast of "ham and—" for which she had become noted.

A poultry specialist at the University of Tennessee veterinary school was called into consultation. "Sassy Sue" hadn't laid an egg in more than a week, and she appeared to be a very sick hen.

"There's just one chance of saving her," the specialist told Burns, "an operation." It sounded serious, but Burns consented and "Sassy Sue" underwent the surgery.

Eight fully developed eggs—four with hard shells and four with soft shells—were removed. "Sassy" was neatly hemstitched and put to bed. For days she hovered between life and death.

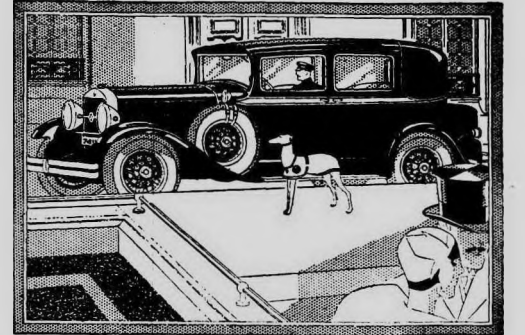

"Sassy" lived, but weeks went by and she showed no indication of again resuming her old occupation of an egg a day. Then one morning recently she loudly announced she was back on the job.

A petition was presented signed by owners of property abutting upon Church St. between Harvey St. and Main St. requesting that Church St. be paved during the 1929 construction

AGE NO BARRIER WHEN KONJOLA IS GIVEN CHANGE.

Civil War Veteran of 88 Finds New lease on Life Through New Medicine.

MR. R. H. RANDALL. Remarkable, indeed, are the works of Konjola in the cases of those of advanced age. The files of this remarkable remedy fairly overflow with endorsements from those in the eighties and last year when all else had failed. Take the case of Mr. R. H. Randall, 88, of the Soldiers' Home, Grand Rapids. Having over the health that Konjola brought him, this veteran of the Civil War writes: "At 88 I was about ready to give up trying to regain my health and had about resigned myself to sit down and wait for final taps. I was greatly run down; the slightest exertion exhausted me. My strength was leaving me rapidly, and I did not respond to any of the medicine or treatments I tried. I had heard and read many good things about Konjola, and decided to see if it would do me any good. It gave me the surprise of my life. Day by day I could feel this wonderful medicine working on my kidneys, liver and stomach. In six weeks I felt well and am enjoying life as I did years ago. In my case Konjola proved to be a wonderful system-builder, and I can not but feel that this splendid medicine has added years to my life."

A Sales Record For Graham-Paige

A new high record for sales volume attained by a new make of automobile in its first year was created by the Graham-Paige Motors Corporation in producing cars to a total retail value of more than $80,000,000 in 1928, according to an announcement from the company received by Floyd Hillman, the Graham-Paige representative in Plymouth.

The second year of Graham-Paige finds the company well on its way to creating new records with its line of new sixes and eights, as indicated by the figures for January, when 5670 cars were built, nearly four times the total for January last year. In fact, Graham-Paige is already a full month ahead of 1928, as the first month's output this year exceeded the total for the first two months of the preceding year.

The Graham-Paige company has equipped itself to take full advantage of the prestige it has built up. A statement just issued from Detroit, listing its present facilities for the production and the distribution of motor cars, in comparison with this time last year, shows how fully the company has anticipated the increased demand for its product.

At the beginning of its second year, the Graham-Paige factory employs 7200 workers, as against 2840 one year ago. The main plant at Detroit, in the last year, was increased in floor area by 360,000 square feet, and now totals 1,063,000. A new body plant at Evansville, Indiana, 273,000 square feet, was erected during 1928. The year also saw the acquisition of a separate plant in Detroit, 262,000 square feet, for the export and shipping departments, while the body plant at Wayne has been enlarged to 228,000 square feet. In addition, a lumber mill at Perry, Florida, having 50,000 square feet of floor area, was acquired during the year to supply hardwoods to the Graham-Paige body plants.

Since the three Graham brothers required control, the daily capacity of the plants has risen from 300 cars a day to 700.

The selling organization of the company has kept pace with the increase in manufacturing facilities. Graham-Paige is now represented by 2440 distributors and dealers, as compared with 875 at the beginning of 1928.

One of the most interesting features of Graham-Paige growth has been its increasing exports. Last year, 6310 cars were shipped to the world markets outside United States, not including Canada and Cuba. During the year, however, the foreign sales organization grew tremendously and increased the number of outlets. That the present year will see great improvement in foreign business is evidenced by the fact that in January, 969 units were shipped abroad, establishing a new all-time record, having exceeded the previous high mark of 951 shipped during the height of the selling season, in September, 1928.

Public acceptance of the latest Graham-Paige models has followed close upon their first showing. A bulletin from the factory reports 515 retail sales at the automobile show in twelve cities, as against 289 in the same shows last year. At Detroit, Rochester, Milwaukee, Dallas, New York, and Nashville, this year's show sales more than doubled the 1928 mark.

Ever notice that when a Plymouth citizen wins in a guessing contest of some kind he goes around blowing about what "good judgment" he displayed? As a rule the fellow who can "turn his hand to anything" very seldom does so.

MUTE MASTERS ART OF SINGING

Renders Selections With Hands and Facial Emotions.

Milwaukee.—James McArdle sings, but he makes no sound. His listeners hear nothing, yet they applaud. McArdle, called Milwaukee's most graceful deaf mute "singer," makes music with his hands, conveying meanings by signs. Deaf and mute since he was two years old, McArdle has mastered his art so that he now lectures and sings to mutes in the nation's largest cities.

Waving his arms to signify a song's rhythm, McArdle registers musical emotion by facial expressions. The expert deaf mute "singer," he explains, conveys his meaning entirely by signs. McArdle admits, however, that sometimes he is "stumped" by a single word having no abbreviated sign, so he resorts to spelling the word.

"I was fond of songs when I was small, though deaf," McArdle wrote. "I began to interpret songs into signs when I was twenty years old. My first rendition was 'Nearer My God to Thee.'"

"Soon I became known and have been invited to sing and lecture in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago, Indianapolis and Wichita, Kan." Last year McArdle explained Shakespeare's "Macbeth" to an audience of Indianapolis mutes. He claims to know most of Chicago's 3,000 mutes.

McArdle, a machinist by trade, was educated in the Pennsylvania Institute for the Deaf.

Membership of Chinese Society Has Odd Belief

Peking.—The rapid growth of the "Buddhist Brotherhood of Sacred Soldiers of the Virtuous War," an organization whose members believe bullets cannot wound or kill them, is described by a missionary who has just returned from a tour through Szechwan province in central China.

The society is formed of civilians, chiefly farmers, who try to protect the people from bandits and lawless soldiers. They wear red turbans, red puttees, a broad red belt and a red sash across the left shoulder.

One of the leaders told the missionary that a famous bandit leader named "Hair-Lip Liu" recently captured some of their men. He asked for admission to the society for some of his men. They told him the men must first undergo a test to see if their hearts were pure. So he appointed several men, and the society members backed them with their swords, killing them.

The bandit became very angry, and ordered the society members' heads cut off. But to his astonishment, swords had no effect on them, and he released them in terror. This belief is similar to that held before the Boxer uprising in 1900.

The missionary says the society appears to be philanthropic. In villages threatened by bandits, every family is supposed to provide one son for the society, and they have successfully defended many towns. The warlord in Szechwan, Yang Sen, is reported to have offered $1 each for pairs of ears of the society's members.

Oklahoma State Senator Only 27 Years of Age

Oklahoma City.—The youngest member of the Oklahoma state senate, six years ago was a garage mechanic, getting $2 a day. Today he is one of the political powers of one of the youngest states.

George Dewey Peck, the senator in question, is twenty-seven years old, and already has been in the senate two years. He has two more years of his present term to serve. Peck's first glimpse of "big time politics" came when he made a trip to Washington several years ago and saw congress at work.

He came back to Oklahoma with a desire to be a politician. He started out as an assistant reading clerk in the lower house of the legislature. Then he became reading clerk before being elected senator from his district.

Picked Up About Town

Dad Plymouth says it would be a good thing for the world if every man realized that it's better to fall down on the job than to lay down on it.

Believe it or not, but an echo is the only thing that can stop some women from having the last word.

"After he has been married a few weeks," asserts Dad Plymouth, "a man reaches the conclusion that it's easier to make a silk purse out of a sow's ear than to make a meal out of a can of beans."

If call's liver is so good for the complexion why are so many girls still carrying powder puffs and lip-sticks?

Dad Plymouth says no father has yet been able to figure why his daughter doesn't pick the same kind of a husband her mother did.

Deats are what trucks put in the fender of a car and what the family puts in father's pay envelope.

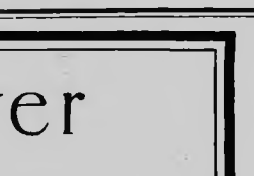

Dad Plymouth is of the opinion that a license for auto drivers is all right providing a fellow doesn't have to buy one for the back seat, too.

"Maybe repair bills wouldn't be so high," declares Dad Plymouth, "if mechanics didn't feel that they always have to leave about fifty cents' worth of grease on the steering wheel."

Popular Candidate For Judge

George Bernard Murphy, candidate for nomination for Judge of the Wayne Circuit Court bench, is proving everywhere a popular and formidable aspirant for the place. His ability and complete equipment for the honor are remarked on all sides, and a democratic and pleasing personality are standing him in good stead.

The testimonials that one hears as to Mr. Murphy's education and training for the law and a judge's job have

For their background the high honors with which he graduated from Harvard College after paying his way through the course with work between classes and at night with burning of the midnight oil and by the sweat of his brow.

Having held communion with common, everyday toil is not such had equipment to be found in an aspirant for a judgeship nor is it anything less than the best possible recommendation.

Mr. Murphy came out of Harvard with a degree of A. B. and from the Boston University Law School with a degree of L. L. D. As a member of the bar for twenty years, 15 of which have been spent in Detroit, he has earned an enviable reputation for ability and integrity. His success in any number of important cases has gained for him a commanding position at the bar as an able trial lawyer.

He most certainly can be recommended to the voters of Wayne County as a man qualified in every respect for nomination in the Republican primaries on March 4 for one of the Wayne County judgeships.

METHODIST NOTES

Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled.

So far as it is possible, every family in the church should keep Wednesday evening free and should attend the mid-week service held on that night. A co-operative supper is served at 6:30 o'clock and the praise service begins at 7:00 o'clock, followed by a class in religious education and one in Sunday school methods (for teachers and prospective teachers.) There is also a class for the children. We close promptly at 8:00 o'clock so the boys and girls can get to bed on time. Come and join our happy family and spend a pleasant and instructive evening with us.

Next Wednesday, Feb. 27, the Junior Missionary boys and girls are to have their meeting and birthday party directly after school. Be sure to bring your round coin card containing your birthday offering. We want all the boys and girls to come, and we will have a good time. If you want some of the birthday cake bring your card.

Thirty-six boosters enjoyed their class supper and meeting last Friday night. Why not sixty?

If you wish to make the "clock" go you must sign a Church Loyalty league card. Let us all get in the game. Don't know about it? Ask any member who is "in."

CATHOLIC NOTES

The children will receive holy communion next Sunday.

Sunday is the last Sunday of February. Have you adjusted your M. C. account for this month?

Tentative preparations are under way for the St. Patrick's party and dance. More will be announced later.

The Nethem girls meet each Monday evening, and a cordial invitation is extended to all the young ladies of the parish to join the Nethem girls.

Tuesday evening the Nethem boys meet for their pleasure and enjoyment. All the young men are welcome.

The season of Lent continues until Easter, and Lenten services are held each Tuesday and Friday nights at 8 o'clock. All Christians should avail themselves of this opportunity and store up a spiritual wealth for themselves.

We are very fortunate in procuring the services of the Rev. L. Gaffney for the Tuesday night services. His instructions are very wholesome and valuable to the soul. If you have not as yet been present at the services start now; give God a few extra hours per week during Lent.

The infant of Mr. and Mrs. P. Spetz, was baptised last Sunday, Margaret Ann.

Rev. F. C. Lefevre is preaching the Lenten course at Redford, "Christ, the King Church."

The Altar boys are working hard to raise funds to purchase red cassocks for themselves. They would like to have them for Easter. A sum of two hundred and fifty dollars is needed. Can anyone help them in the attainment of this amount?

Do not forget the Lenten services. All are welcome. Tuesday and Friday nights at 8 o'clock.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES.

The annual meeting of the congregation of the First Presbyterian church will be held on Monday, March 4. The women of the congregation will serve the usual co-operative supper at 6:30 p. m., after which the business meeting will convene. Reports from the different organizations of the congregation will be called for.

The Ready Service class had a very successful meeting at the home of Mrs. Albert Stever on Tuesday. The attendance was large and all had an enjoyable afternoon.

Mrs. Shaw's class will meet at the home of Mrs. Rose Holstein on Tuesday evening next. After a co-operative supper at 6:30 p. m. there will be a business and social program.

EPISCOPAL NOTES

"And she said, Truth, Lord: yet the dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from their masters' table. Then Jesus answered and said unto her, O woman, great is thy faith: be it unto thee even as thou wilt."—Gospel for the Second Sunday in Lent.

The speaker at the Sunday evening service this week will be the Rev. Henry Midworth, rector of the Church of Our Savior, Detroit. Old residents of Plymouth will remember Mr. Midworth, the first regular missionary in charge of St. John's church. We cordially invite his many old friends to attend this service and urge the attendance of all members of the congregation.

February 20 was the second anniversary of the dedication of the present church building. Attendance at the services on Sunday are but a fitting expression of gratitude for the continued advance of the church's work.

A Lenten Tea will be given by the Guild for all women of the parish and their guests, Monday, February 25, at 2:15 P. M. Miss Clara Wolbert, superintendent of William's House, Detroit, will give a very interesting account of the social service done in that splendid institution. There will also be a musical program.

A men's fellowship meeting, with a talk by I. C. Johnson, director of boys' work in this diocese, will be held Wednesday night, February 27, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. All men of the parish are welcome.

The Children's Lenten Services are held regularly every Wednesday, at 4 P. M. These are for all children above the age of nine. The instruction is very practical, along the lines of personal religion.

Read your bulletin! Frequent questions about the hours and days of service, and other parish activities, indicate an unfamiliarity with the program outlined in our monthly bulletin. Why not pin it up near your calendar?

Tomorrow, (Saturday, February 23) the women of the Guild will hold a bake sale at Wolf's market. The loyal support of all is requested.

BAPTIST NOTES

The Mid-Winter Rally of the Wayne Baptist Church, Friday, February 22. The banquet will be served at 6:30 P. M. and will be followed by a well arranged and interesting program. The program features special musical numbers and readings. The address of the evening will be given by Miss Ruth Campbell on the subject "International Patriotism."

NUMBER XX

THE SENIOR PROM NIGHT OF NIGHTS

The Event Was One of The Most Successful Social Affairs of The Season.

The night of nights of the Seniors has come and gone—that of the Senior Prom. After having worked nearly incessantly for several weeks making plans for the one big event of the year, the invitations having been sent out, the orchestra secured, the flowers made, the programs printed and various other things having been accomplished, the Seniors waited eagerly for the time when they could see the decorated auditorium.

A peaceful English garden greeted the eyes of every couple who entered through an old fashioned turn-stile into the high school auditorium last Friday evening. Dainty yellow, pink and lavender wisteria hung down around the sides of the auditorium forming an arbor under which chairs and divans were placed. Trellises entwined with English morning glories transformed the doorways and radiators giving a quaint atmosphere to the place. On one side of the stage a miniature fountain bubbled and flowed over a pile of stones around which were placed pots of flowers. A green light shed its soft glow, making the wet stones sparkle. Above a blue sky swung low with stars hanging from it. Low on the stage a moon cast its mellow glow over the orchestra. Two blue and two rose-colored flood lights in each corner of the room and many vari-colored lights around the room lent soft coloring to the scene. A large yellow light made to move back and forth played upon the dancers all evening. "Could that garden have been just a plain auditorium? The whole scene reminded one of the song: "Twas an old fashioned garden Just an old fashioned garden. But it carried me back To that dear little shack In the land of long ago."

The music seemed wonderfully soothing after a trying day of work decorating, especially to the seniors. To music of perfect rhythm and harmony the younger generation and their chaperons as well, danced all evening. The popular fox-trots and waltzes and even one or two old favorites which Barton's Oklahomians played so well were thoroughly enjoyed. About eleven o'clock the Grand March was announced. Elmore C. Carney, the class president, with his guest Miss Velma Petz led the march. After them came the other class officers and their guests followed by the other couples. A pleasing sight it was to see the dainty dressed girls as these and their escorts wound their way around the garden and out into the halls and back finally to an end near the stage where each couple received a package of serpentine.

Punch and wafers were served from a table placed in a gateway on one side by three senior girls in quiet old fashioned dresses. Girls with dainty green, pink, rose, blue, yellow and orchid dresses ruffled and frilled enough to satisfy the heart of any girl, blitted about like so many gay butterflies. And among these rainbow colors, demure black dresses could be seen adding a certain quietness to the scene.

As the orchestra played the last piece—a waltz of old-fashioned selections—ending with Good Night Ladies and Home, Sweet Home, the couples began to leave proclaiming the evening perfect.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hubert, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Deal, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Petz, Mr. and Mrs. L. Peck, Mr. and Mrs. George Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burrows, and Mrs. Bessie Dun, all acted as chaperons for the Prom. The teachers present were: Miss Wells, Mr. and Mrs. G. Crumble, Miss Schmidt, and Mr. and Mrs. Carr patrons of the class, and Miss Schrader, Miss Cooper, Miss Patterson, Miss Hadley, Mr. and Mrs. Dyke, Miss House, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Matherson, Miss Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Weier, Mr. and Mrs. Blossom, and Mr. Emens.

The committee chairmen in charge were: Margaret Dunning, Programs Alma Wagnershtutz, Refreshments Elizabeth Speier, Orchestra Leola Suckett, Invitations Irene Krauter.

The dance—the last big event to be given by the Class of '29—was a success both socially and financially. The Class of '29's four years in high school have been nearly completed. Next year some may not be able to attend the high school functions. But the Prom of '29 will remain in the minds of those who did as one of the happiest events of their high school days.

The children of the B-second and B-third grades have recently been weighed and measured. Nine people were found to have perfect weight.

Three names have been added to the list of people having perfect teeth. They are: Gene Hamst, Arthur Stroll and Betty Parker.

The A-sixth grade has started a new spelling chart. The captains are Vivian Towle and Claude Cummings. Vivian's side is ahead.

The fifth graders have made booklets on the life of Lincoln and are now ready to make them on the life of Washington.

In the Silent Reading Seat Pads, group two is cutting phrases apart and pasting them in place to give training in the completion of sentences.

On the chart for perfect teeth, the following children have gold stars beside their names: Donald Jewell, Phyllis Samsen, Lynton Ball, Samuel Virgo, Alice Plaeta and Melvin Krumm.

The children of this room had a Valentine party on Tuesday night. Games were played and prizes were awarded. The fifth graders are 22 points ahead of the sixth in spelling. Betty Moulton and Billy Petz are the captains of the teams.

The children in the A-second grade had a very pleasant Valentine's party. They heard the story of the origin of St. Valentine's and sang the Valentine songs which Miss Schrader taught them. The most important event of the party was the distributing of the large box of Valentines.

On Tuesday each member of Miss Fenner's room broadcasted to the class something about Lincoln. Jack Gordon composed a poem. The following is one stanza of it.

When Lincoln was a little boy He was very kind, He did not discover anything But that was too much to find.

MICE MISCHIEF

Why is it that a mouse, a tiny little gray bit of fur, can instill so much fear in some of the feminine sex who are a hundred times larger and could crush it at one blow? It is funny, but it is true—and isn't truth stranger than fiction? Last week in assembly while Rollin Pease, the bass-baritone, was entertaining us, it happened that Miss Schrader was sitting in the front row beside Mr. Emens. Now, she would have liked to give all of her attention to Mr. Pease, being a music teacher and loving music but an inquisitive little mouse poked its head from the cold air ventilator. Now, he was a very friendly creature and so began to creep out towards a crust of bread which lay near Miss Schrader. As I said before, she wanted to pay attention, but how could anyone if he had to hold his feet up in the air? It is difficult—just try it. If he came too close, in answer to her whispered enquiry, although grinning mightily, Mr. Emens would stamp his foot, at which the mouse would retreat a little. The tense feeling, of course, reached to the nearest seats, causing a little merriment, but Miss Schrader doubtless felt much relief when she could finally leave.

CHEERING SQUAD

A change in the lineup for cheer leaders has taken place. Russell Wallace has been put in for Donald Bronson. Here is the new lineup. Most of the leaders are veterans: Chase Willet, Marvin Partridge, James Stimpson, Frank Learned, Russell Wallace. The new yell, "Little Tiger, Big Tiger," has met with a big success. The squad will probably bring out some more original cheers this year.

PLYMOUTH AT FARMINGTON

Playing their ninth game of the season, Plymouth High school will clash with Farmington in a basket ball game Friday, Feb. 22 (tonight), at 7:00 o'clock on Farmington floor. Farmington won the first contest from Plymouth in a hard-fought battle by a low score of 10 to 9. The Rocks want to finish the season with an average of 500 in the final league standings, and to do this they must win tonight. With your backing the team will do their very best. Two games, first at 7:00 o'clock.

PLYMOUTH LOSE TO TRENTON HIGH

Plymouth Debaters Lose in First Elimination Debate. Trenton Gains Decision On a Technical Point.

Before an audience of approximately 200 Trenton school children, Trenton High won the first elimination debate from Plymouth High school on a technicality. The question for debate is: Resolved, That a Federal Subsidy for the Development of an American Merchant Marine would be a wise National Policy." On the fact that Plymouth, who had the negative side of the question, offered a substitute for the subsidy, and so doing, both teams became affirmative, the judge based his decision. The third affirmative speaker, according to the judge's notes, attacked our plan sufficiently enough to win the debate. In this debate, for the first time, Plymouth used the expert judge system, Professor Mayskens, of the University of Michigan, acting as critic-judge. The Plymouth team for this debate was Lester Daly, Ruth Root and Alice Gilbert. Their opponents, of Trenton, were Josh Horvitz, Cleola Blanks and Herbert Hering. The Trenton rebuttle order was Cleola Blanks, Josh Horvitz and Herbert Hering. Donald Murphy is the Trenton coach. The debate started at 3:00 o'clock. Presiding in the Trenton High School orchestra, of about 40 pieces, offered two well-played classical selections. Miss Helen Knox, a Trenton teacher, formerly of Plymouth, acted as chairman. Although Plymouth was eliminated in the first elimination debate, the Plymouth High school students do not consider the season an unsuccessful one, for the experiences gained by the debaters more than made up for the loss of the debate. The debate team this year was made up of Alice Gilbert, Ruth Root, Rhea Peck, Harold Hubert, seniors, and Lester Daly, sophomore. The first league debate was held Nov. 16, 1921, in the Plymouth High school auditorium, with Eeorse High school, in which Plymouth upheld the affirmative side. The Plymouth debaters were Ruth Root, Alice Gilbert and Harold Hubert. We won a unanimous decision, gaining four points towards entering the elimination series. The second league debate was three weeks later, with Dearborn at Dearborn. Again Plymouth had the affirmative and the team was Rhea Peck, Harold Hubert and Alice Gilbert. This was the only split decision debate of the year, Plymouth winning two-one, for a total of seven points for the elimination series. Between the second and third debates Plymouth changed sides, from the affirmative to the negative. The third debate was held Jan. 11, 1929, with Clawson, at Plymouth. The team was Harold Hubert, Ruth Root and Alice Gilbert, and again Plymouth won a unanimous decision and entered the elimination series with 15 points, an almost perfect record. Then came the eliminations, and as related in the first of this article, Plymouth lost the first to Trenton High school. So closes the debating season of 1928-29, a rather successful one, in spite of the early elimination of Plymouth, because the Plymouth team raised its reputation for good sportsmanship and also for debating in all of the schools which we met.

General Assembly

Rollin Pease, with his daughter as accompanist, entertained us at a special assembly on Thursday. He is a bass-baritone soloist and was formerly with the Washington National Opera company.

A short talk was given by Mr. Pease on the origin of music, and as he gave this talk he illustrated it with songs. There are three sources and types of songs. They probably originated in the churches. At first the words would be sung on a single note, then "curves" would be inserted to break the monotony of tone. Travelling minstrels as they went from town to town would interpret the sounds of nature as they understood them into song. And as these were never written and were handed down from generation to generation variations crept in that tended to make these more beautiful. Songs that originate with the people are called folk songs. Usually these portray the life and work of the peasants.

Among his songs were examples of each type. Kuhl Negri, a Jewish hymn of atonement that is still used in the synagogues, the offertory of the mass, and the hymn of Saint John, all are examples of church music. An Italian minstrel song of the early centuries perfected by many people during its descent to us was sung for the second time. The Volga Boat Man, a song of the Russian peasants, has its tempo written in rhythm, with the type of work the boat men did. A South Carolina levee song was another illustration of folk song. Mr. Pease's repertoire contained many that would appeal to the various types of audience he sings to. It is only recently that Mr. Pease has been available to the schools and colleges of the School Assembly association. This entertainment is the first of two interesting special assemblies that have been obtained. A nationally known athlete will speak at the second assembly.

Dearborn Defeats Plymouth Basketeers

PLYMOUTH LOSES TO DEARBORN IN A HARD-FOUGHT OVERTIME GAME.

For the second time this season, Plymouth lost to the Dearborn High School five in an overtime game. In the first game Dearborn scored a winning basket after two overtime periods had been allowed and in the second game won in the first overtime.

During the first quarter the defense of both teams was very good and the scoring was light. Plymouth led 4 to 1. In the first few minutes of the following quarter Dearborn forged ahead to take the lead, 8 to 5. Plymouth then caged a foul shot to tie the score. Later in the period Dearborn led 9 to 8 and as the whistle blew another foul shot by Plymouth tied the score. The beginning of the third quarter showed a spurt on the part of Plymouth and they assumed the lead, 12 to 10. The score remained the same until the last of the fourth quarter when both teams caged enough baskets to tie the score 16 to 16. In the last part of the overtime, 3 minutes, Dearborn caged the winning shot. The final score was: Plymouth 16, Dearborn 18.

Student Council Tickets

The student tickets for this semester have had good sales. The seniors lead with 80 per cent sold; the sophomores have 61 per cent; the juniors 54 per cent; freshmen have 49 per cent; the seventh grade, 53 per cent, and the eighth grade 50 per cent.

These tickets are not wholly pertaining to athletics. They admit the student to all of the debates. Equipment for the teams and the funds for judges and referees are also provided for by the money that is paid into the Student Council.

Music Department

Last week was a very busy one for the music department. Tuesday evening the High School orchestra played at the father and son banquet. Wednesday afternoon the High School orchestra, Robert Champe and the High School Girls' double quartette rendered good selections at the W. C. T. U. meeting. The girls' double quartette again appeared before the Rotary club at the Mayflower hotel on Friday. The orchestra played several selections for the Central P. T. A. meeting.

Early Flying Enthusiast
The first comprehensive explanation of the laws governing heavier-than-air flying, especially with gliders, was made by Sir George Cayley, an English scientist, in a series of magazine articles written and published in 1809 and 1810. Although he produced several crude airplane and helicopter models to illustrate his theories, there is no record that he ever achieved any measure of success with them.

Second Team Wins From Dearborn Reserves 12-10

Displaying a smashing attack and a strong defense, the Plymouth second team defeated the Dearborn five, 10 to 12. Though in the lead by several points in the first quarter and part of the second, Dearborn failed to keep it and the Blue and White goal was never seriously menaced thereafter. The final score was 10 to 12.

Indicate Presence of Oil

The Geological survey says that an anticline is an upfold in rocks, and such a fold in deposits, that are buried beneath formations of more recent geological age that were not subjected to the folding, cannot be detected at the surface. Such upfolds—called "anticlines"—are regarded as favorable to the accumulation of oil and it is for this reason that oil prospectors endeavor to locate such structures.

Bears and Horses

Bears weigh about as much as light horses. Light or race horses vary in weight from 850 to 1,300 pounds, and heavy or draft horses average from 1,700 to 2,000 pounds. Bears vary from less than 700 to more than 1,600 pounds.

Grave of Washington's Only Sister

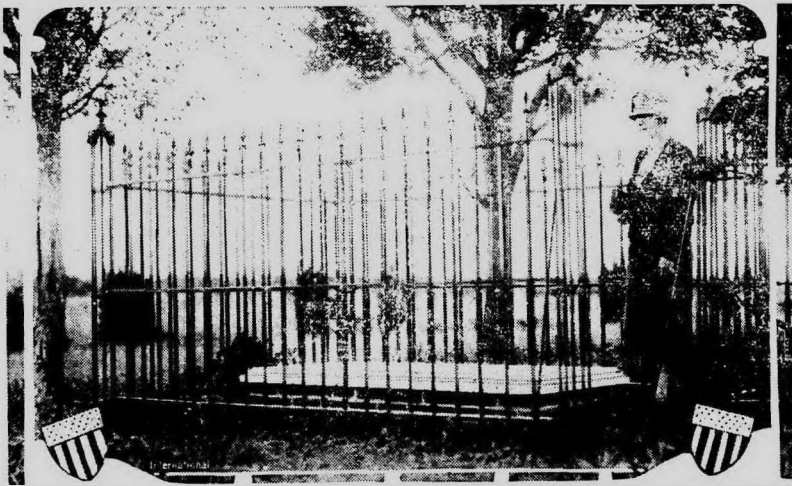

Photo shows the grave of Mrs. Betty Washington Lewis, who was the wife of Col. Fielding Lewis and the sister of General George Washington, in Culpeper county, Virginia, which was recently discovered. The inscription on the stone reads: "Sacred to the Memory of Mrs. Betty Washington Lewis, Who Was the Wife of Col. Fielding Lewis, and Sister of Gen. George Washington. Born at Wakefield, June 30, 1733. Died at Western View, Culpeper County, March 31, 1797."

Years but Add Lust to Name of Washington

On the anniversary of the birth of George Washington, a national holiday, and one that inspires and impels a new consecration to the ideals and institutions of a free and independent government, bought with the blood of patriots, it is fitting that a review of the life and works of this great American be made in every home and before every group.

History presents us with few characters so worthy of admiration and esteem. It presents us with few lives—despite detractors who in the early days of the Nineteenth century, published so-called intimate annals that were manifestly fictitious—so worthy of emulation.

Outstanding among the errors and absurdities of so-called biographers are those in the "Life of George Washington," written by Rev. Mason L. Weems and published the year after the death of the "Father of His Country."

No one, not even so great and powerful a man as Washington, could entirely live down in history the reputation of a goody-goody prig with which the well-meaning but over-optimistic Scottish divine smothered him.

The cherry tree story—fiction of the whole cloth—has had but few rivals in publicity, and has done the memory of this great man of red blood and unflinching courage more harm than good.

The Real Washington.
Fortunately, as the generations have come and gone, the real Washington—the Washington who was the leading figure of thought and judgment to the Continental congress who led with spirit and masterful generalship the army of the Revolution, who guided the building of the tenets of faith in a new governmental structure—the federal Constitution—who for two terms served as the first President of the United States—

Fortunately, the real Washington has stood out stronger and greater—as a warrior, as an executive, as a constructionist, as a patriot, as a man, as a force in moral leadership—as the years have passed.

In generations yet unborn he will grow rather than shrink in universal appraisal.

The mental gifts of George Washington were not of the dazzling kind. His talents were not overbrilliant. And yet his good judgment, founded upon an inherent wisdom, was forceful and appealing. He was not an orator, like Patrick Henry, who labored with him for a repeal of the Iniquitous stamp act. He was not as dashing and as impulsive as either John Hancock or Samuel Adams. And yet both of them, during the intense stress and the excitement of the proceedings of the Continental congress, turned to Washington for his thoughtful advice and deliberate conclusions, and Adams from the floor declared the quiet, almost silent leader "the unerring son of Westmoreland"—George Washington having been born in Westmoreland county on February 22, 1732.

Deserved Immortal Title.
This was in September, 1774. All of the Colonies were represented at the first except Georgia. The people of that state were in deep sympathy with the congress, but their royal governor prevented the appointment of delegates.

Washington was a man of unusual power because his traits of character were so finely proportioned and adjusted and so firmly controlled by a heroic will and fine moral faculty. He could withstand alike disaster and oblation. He could reject the promptings of ambition. He was moved by but one aspiration—to provide the good government of his country and the happiness and prosperity of the people. He well deserved the noble title that will go with his name throughout the expanse of human history.

Just a word about the origin of Washington, his personal life, and his career as a soldier, a statesman, and as an executive—

He was the grandson of John Washington, who emigrated in 1650 from Northamptonshire, England where the family had been of high social and financial standing. His grandfather acquired great land holdings along the Potomac, and high social and public position. The ancestral home was inherited by Augustine Washington, who was the father of George and five other children. George Washington became interested in surveying and while a mere lad surveyed the great Fairfax estates. He later surveyed the proposed canal route between St. Marys, Georgia, via St. Marks, Florida, and to the Mississippi river. In time, he inherited the great Mount Vernon estate from an older brother. He became active in Colonial military life and was quickly promoted to colonel.

Won Important Point.
When orders came from the British crown that any English field officer should be superior to a Colonial officer, even of higher rank, Colonel Washington took the issue direct to General Shirley, the commander-in-chief, and won.

After his military career as a Colonial officer he was elected to the house of burgesses of Virginia.

In 1755 he married Mrs. Martha Custis, the wealthiest widow in Virginia, and for several years lived quietly as a great planter at his home overlooking the Potomac, and the marsh lands of the great capital city which now bears his name.

In 1773 he again became active in public affairs as a member of the Williamsburg convention, which asserted the right of the Colonies to self government. He then declared the cardinal principle that taxation and representation could not be justly separated.

Great in Military Leadership.

On June 15, 1775, Colonel Washington was elected by the Continental congress the commander-in-chief of the American forces. He assumed command with the declaration that he did not feel himself equal to the task, but, with a consecrated will to break the 1775 year, he went quickly into the mobilization of his forces and into the manner of their training and equipments.

The battle of Brandywine had already taken place with much credit to the patriots, but the military forces were without leadership or discipline. He brought order out of chaos.

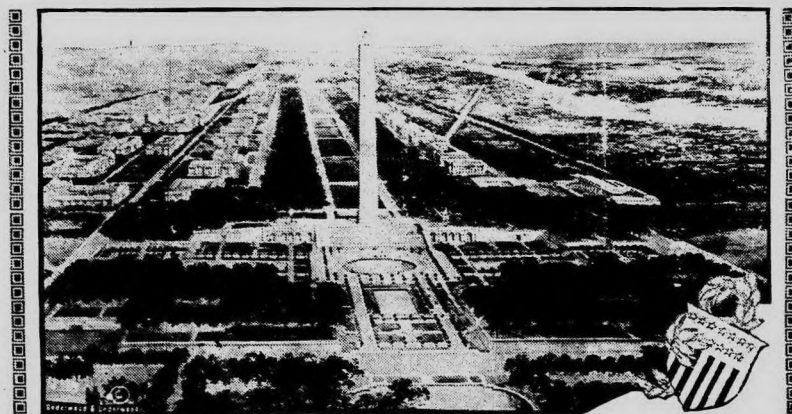

It is unnecessary here to go into the history of the war—the great conflict between two master generals, Washington and Cornwallis. The odds were against General Washington. He conquered and he was conquered. He never flinched. His sufferings, along with his men, were intense. The story of Valley Forge will always live in the sympathetic hearts of Americans.

He finally won through generalship, for even British historians have declared Washington the strongest and ablest warrior of his day and generation. He was not a meteor of war, like Alexander or Napoleon, but a military genius.

Masterly "Farewell."

After the smokes of the Revolution cleared with the victory of the patriots, the constitutional convention met in 1787, and he was chosen its president. From this came the federal Constitution, which Gladstone declared to be the soundest code of organic laws ever framed in any nation. He was unanimously elected President of the newly created Union and he declared in acceptance that he did so with more diffidence and reluctance than he ever experienced before. He was re-elected in 1792. His "farewell address" to congress, delivered in 1796—three years prior to his death—will live through the ages as one of the greatest, ablest and wisest of state documents.

Setting for Washington Monument

With the federal building program for the national capital now under way at full speed, the century-old dream of Major Pierre L'Enfant, the celebrated French engineer who laid out the plans for the capital, is about to be fulfilled.

Photo shows an architect's conception of the Mall, or Monument gardens, extending from the monument to the capitol, showing the magnificent parkway, flanked with the newly erected federal buildings, as it may appear in time for the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington in 1932.

Washington returning from a perilous journey through the wilderness.

George Washington's Life Was a Romance of Preparation

His self-education and early trials gave him the confidence and resourcefulness that made him a good surveyor. As surveyor the hardships and dangers of the wilderness prepared him for service in the French and Indian War. The experiences of this war helped to fit him for the tremendous responsibilities that were his during the Revolutionary War. Political and military experiences of the Revolution prepared him for his exacting duties as the First President.

Preparation counts for much in every life, and a growing reserve fund provides one of the best preparations. Your fund, if deposited here, is safely guarded and earns interest—two good aids in the preparation for financial success.

James Myrnan of Howell received a check for $2000 for insurance carried by his wife who was recently killed when struck by an automobile. It was an accident policy and cost just $1.00.

The Michigan Bell Telephone people expect to occupy their new offices in Howell early in March. The building is of colonial design and makes a fine addition to the public buildings of that community.

A bulletin from the state conservation department says that at Dodge Park, Number 10 at Highland as many as 1200 to 1500 people on some days make use of the park's facilities for winter sports. The bulletin says that as many as 300 cars have been parked near the toboggan slide at one time.

To increase its steel output, the Ford Motor Company has announced that three new furnaces will be put into operation within the next few days to be used in addition to the seven steel furnaces now in use at the Fordson plant. A gain of more than thirty per cent is expected in the steel output at the local plant. The new furnaces have been built at a cost of $850,000.

When the Pinckney town hall was built in 1883, there was placed in the corner stone and secretly sealed up, a quart of whiskey, a silver dollar, and a Detroit Free Press. The other night, some party shouldered a pick and attempted to crumble away the foundation of the building, but was frightened away when a resident heard the noise and investigated. It's a safe guess he wasn't after exercise—probably the "pre-war stuff," which is now more than 45 years old and quite valuable.

L. C. Stearns, of Plymouth, announced the early part of this week that he will open a floral store in the Brader building. He is moving his family to Northville from Plymouth and intends to have one of the most up-to-date floral display rooms in this section. It will be the policy of the new Northville Floral store to give special attention to all telephone orders and to carry only a high class grade of cut flowers, potted plants and floral designs.—Northville Record.

A deed 230 years old is in the possession of a woman at Brighton. It was given by three Indian chiefs for 500 acres of land. Their signatures were made by the print of their thumbs in sealing wax followed by the words, "His Mark." The introduction to the deed reads "This indenture made on the fourth day of August, 1690, in the second year of the reign of our Lord and Lady, by the Grace of God, King William and Queen Mary." This king and queen among the last of the Stuarts, were on the throne of England at the time the deed was written.

The grading for the widening of the Seven Mile road from Farmington road to Northville has nearly been completed. The paving is to be widened to 40 feet, a ten foot strip of concrete will be laid on each side of the present paving. Workmen have been busy all winter making the necessary cuts and fills. Drain tile were necessary over a good portion of the road. An effort is being made by the county road commission to save as many trees as possible. In some places large concrete forms are being constructed so that the necessary earth filling will not kill some of the trees.—Northville Record.

Farmers Ask About New Dairy Devices

AIDS TO MILK PRODUCTION ATTRACT MORE QUESTIONS THAN SELF PROTECTION.

Michigan farmers have a greater interest in dairy building equipment which will increase the milk production of their dairy herds than in equipment to insure their own protection from attacks by enraged bulls, if the questions asked by farmers at a series of meetings in Tuscola county can be accepted as a gauge.

The 255 farmers who attended the Tuscola county meetings wanted to get information on better types of cow stalls and to learn how to install ventilating systems in their dairies, according to reports by M. S. C. agricultural engineers.

A special truck exhibits models of milk houses, types of cow stalls, milk cooling tanks, ventilating systems, and a safety bull pen at these meetings. Plans and specifications for building any of these are given to farmers who request them at the meetings.

The type of cow stall which attracts the most interest is the modified Hoard stall, which is designed to keep the animal cleaner than was possible with the old type of stall. In this stall, the cow is tied with a halter or chain and has to step forward to eat or to lie down.

The truck which carries these models will visit fifteen Michigan counties before June first. County agricultural agents in those counties have arranged the time and the location of local meetings.

VOODOOISM OF MANY CULTS GRIPS CUBA

Find Right Cat Bone and You Are Invisible.

Havana, Cuba.—Mystic voodoo rites practiced in many parts of the United States have been linked by recent investigation with the cult of Nangolism in Cuba.

Comparative analysis of African sacrificial customs have furnished unusual evidence that both had a common origin in the Congo jungles and that voodooism reached the American continent by the importation of slaves from Cuba and Haiti.

"Obeah," a mild form of voodooism, is practiced in Cuba and the British West Indies with virtually identical ceremonies. Negroes who came to labor in Cuban sugar cane fields have brought to this Spanish-speaking island not only the Obeah but also the far more terrible and sanguinary rite of Nangolism. The high priests and priestesses of these cults have shown great powers of resistance to the suppressive measures of the police.

Cuba has dealt severely with voodooism, and it is believed that its more ghastly forms have been eliminated. It was largely in connection with the government's campaign against Obeahism and Nangolism that measures were adopted curtailing the immigration of illiterate workers from Haiti and Jamaica.

Takes Criminal Aspect. Cuba has been particularly concerned because voodooism here takes on a criminal aspect entirely exclusive of the possibility of human sacrifice. In Oriente province, which lies nearest Haiti, the voodoo priests of that island wield large powers. In other parts of the island Nangolism is dominant among the negroes who take their religion in this form.

Nangolism is a combination of devil worship and gang spirit. Its priests promise occult powers to law breakers, and members of this cult are pledged to render all possible protection and assistance to each other.

As far as can be learned the symbolism of the cults is very similar. All include the sacrifice of roosters, black cats, goats and other animals. Cuban police records show cases where the perpetrators of murder in connection with voodooism have been brought to justice, but it is claimed that this type of sacrifice has been eradicated.

Havana newspapers continue to chronicle cases of Nangolism outrages committed against those who have incurred the enmity of the gangsters. It has been found that there is always some one willing to carry out the priests' orders, because a Nangolism neophyte falls of membership unless he has one capital crime to his credit.

At Nangolism funerals a black rooster is slaughtered in the home of the deceased. The fowl is then presented to some neighboring non-Nangolism family as a warning.

Cat Bone is Charm. One of the strangest superstitions in the Haitian cult is that a certain bone in a black cat's body will confer invisibility to its possessor. The rite takes place in the presence of three witnesses, and the cat is thrust into hot water. It is related by voodooists that supernatural manifestations, such as thunder and lightning, are an accompaniment of this process.

In the early years of the Nineteenth century Jean La Fite, famous pirate of the Spanish Main, frequently brought slaves to Cuba and the United States. His principal market in the United States was New Orleans and this fact is now being used to explain the particularly close similarity between the voodooism of Cuba and that of the lower Mississippi valley.

There is a tradition that La Fite's entourage included several African "conjur doctors."

The successors of these doctors today have considerable knowledge of herbs and the curative properties of plant juices. In general they are employed to effect cures, but with other herbs the doctor-priests are said to be able to cause temporary or permanent loss of memory to their enemies. This belief appears substantiated by the recent discovery by United States marines in Haiti of a colony of negroes, dazed or hypnotized, working under their task masters on a plantation.

Priests frequently claim the power to take on animal or reptile form. This recalls the African "leopard" superstition where a certain clan were credited with power to turn themselves into leopards and prowl the jungle at night.

Manila Declares War on 12,000,000 Rats

Manila, P. I.—Bubonic plague has broken out in parts of India and China and the Philippine health authorities have started a campaign against rats, the principal carriers of the disease.

It is estimated that there is one rat for every person in the islands, approximately 12,000,000. The chief of the health service issued a warning that until this number is reduced the outlook would be dangerous.

Sanitary inspectors are acting as pied pipers in the ports of Cebu, Iloilo, Zamboanga, Legaspi and Davao.

Farm Science Dear to Heart of Washington

George Washington, in whose honor our illustrious national capital was named, wanted more than all else to rank as the leading farmer and agriculturalist of the New world. His hobby was scientific farming. Of all the books in his extensive library, those which related to agriculture were most read.

Our first President cherished the desire to spend his days at Mount Vernon, where he could experiment with seeds and plants imported from foreign fields. He wished to solve the perplexing problems of the Virginia planter. He aspired to develop Mount Vernon into the finest plantation and stock farm in the western hemisphere, according to George H. Drexler, writing in the Washington Star.

Excellent American architects who have made careful studies of the construction of Mount Vernon's mansion say that the house as completed by Washington was built to withstand seven to eight centuries of service. The frame of the house consisted of hand-hewn white oak timbers which were joined together with wooden dowel pins instead of spikes. The foundation was built to endure as long as the rock of ages. Some of the sandstone walls date back to the days of Augustine Washington. It is probable that 700 years from now the mansion will still be standing as a cradle of history and shrine of patriotism.

Symbols of Masonry. Perhaps at some time or other when you have visited Mount Vernon you have been impressed by the methodical arrangement of the barns, spinning house, kitchens, office, gardener's house, seed and leechhouse, carpenter shop, laundry, smokehouse, and other outbuildings. History believes that George Washington, the leading Mason of his day, designed the layout of his estate buildings to represent the outlines of Masonic symbols. The modern birdman who files his plans for Mount Vernon may be able to recognize the curious insinuation in structures of brick and wood.

Even though Mount Vernon were not the former home of one of the world's greatest generals and one of America's most beloved Presidents, it would still merit historical preservation as an example of superior Colonial architecture and an illustration of successful scientific farming. George Washington devoted many years of study and effort to the perfection of his Potomac plantation. He builded so well and wisely that modern planners and designers do not err when they copy some of his schemes and arrangements. In the Chicago suburbs an American millionaire has a remarkably true reproduction of Mount Vernon on his country estate. It fronts on one of the "Gold Coast" highways speckled with the best

Mount Vernon Flour Famous.

George Washington remodeled and improved the old grist mill at Mount Vernon and developed a profitable system of marketing the wheat and other bread grains which he raised and made into flour or baked ship biscuits. A creek a tributary of the Potomac, provided the power to turn the cumbersome millwheel and also served as a waterway for navigation. Sailing ships from the seven seas came up the river and creek from the Atlantic and moored at Washington's mill wharf, where they loaded cargoes of flour and barrelled biscuits. When the prices of wheat and flour were low Washington had his colored cooks bake stupendous supplies of ship biscuit which were packed in barrels and sold to the mariners as nutritious provisions.

The Mount Vernon flour mills produced a fine quality product. Its fame gained such importance in the British Isles that the English customs officers eventually passed all of Washington's flour on the basis of its origin and label without opening and examining each shipment. Washington's diaries record that at times he sold as many as 1,000 barrels of flour in one cargo.

Today's Reflections

The reason a Plymouth shoe dealer never asks a lady what size she wears is because it's a lot easier to measure her foot than to argue with her.

There never was a pretty girl who would not be twice as pretty if she did not know that she was pretty.

This is the year that you are going to get that tooth pulled that you promised yourself all last year you were going to get pulled.

Discretion is something that comes to every Plymouth man when he is too old for it to benefit him.

There's a whale of a difference between offering a Plymouth man a suggestion and telling him how to run his business.

We can remember distinctly 'way back when the buttons would stay on a garment for at least six months after you bought it.

Next to hand-shaking, nothing is as much overworked as a woman's promise that she is going to start dieting.

Nothing is more annoying than to have to sit beside of a fellow who carries a $3 cough to a ten cent picture show.

Courtesy is the thing that keeps a Plymouth woman smiling when a departing guest stands at the open screen door and lets the flies in.

If the price keeps going up it won't be long until beefsteak will be rare, no matter how you cook it.

A choir singer was recently murdered in New Jersey. Some people never will be able to tell the difference between good and bad singing.

The old-fashioned Plymouth woman who used to have prunes every morning now has a daughter who has dates every night.

QUALITY AT LOW COST

To George Washington

Days of terror, years of trial,
Scourge a nation into life,
L.A. the youth, become his leader!
All her baffled tyrants yield;
Through his arm the Lord hath freed her;
Crown him on the tested field!

Vain is Empire's mad temptation!
Not for him an earthly crown!
His whose sword hath freed a nation
Strikes the offered scepter down.
See the throneless Conqueror seated,
Ruler by a people's choice;
See the Patriot's task completed;
Hear the Father's dying voice!

"By the name that you inherit,
By the sufferings you recall,
Cherish the fraternal spirit;
Love your country first of all!
Listen not to idle questions
If its hands may be united;
Doubt the patriot whose suggestions
Strive a nation to divide."

—Oliver Wendell Holmes

homes which American architecture can devise and build. The simulation of Mount Vernon is outstanding among the mansions, many of which cost double and treble as much.

It was from his half-brother Lawrence that George Washington inherited the 2,500-acre homestead which was later a part of spacious Mount Vernon. George subsequently purchased the interest of Lawrence's wife in the estate and at the age of twenty-one became the sole owner and proprietor of one of the Old Dominion's finest plantations. The young landlord purchased adjoining acres until he finally possessed a plantation of 8,000 acres. One-half of the area consisted of timber.

Five Farms on Estate. George Washington divided his fields and forests into five farms, which he designated as Mansion Home farm, River farm, Union farm, Dogue Run farm and Muddy Hole farm. He placed a foreman in charge of each farm, with a manager overseeing the entire enterprise. The manager was responsible to Washington and reported in detail every Sunday.

Do not gain the incorrect impression that George Washington was a "front porch farmer" because he hired an agricultural manager to look after his farming interests. Washington was called away from home so frequently that it was imperative that he keep some one on the estate to look after his interests. While our first President was at home he worked as hard as any farm hand. His day began at sunrise, when he rode forth to see that his farm hands were at their stations on time.

After breakfasting at 7 Washington would spend the morning riding over his farming fields, seeing to it in person that his orders were faithfully executed. He also kept all the farming records and accounts, wrote the daily happenings in special agricultural diaries and generally took charge of the business affairs of the great plantation.
