A WINTER FORECAST

There's something funny about the weather shark. No matter how far he may miss it, he always manages to forget his failures and turn up a little later with another prediction.

We feel sure many citizens around Plymouth recall the prediction of the Chicago scientist, a Mr. Brown, that two years ago would be "a year without a summer." They will also probably remember how far he missed it. Well, Mr. Brown wasn't squelched with that failure. He is with us again, and this time to predict that the winter just ahead of us is going to be composed of a little of everything, though not so much cold as to clas it as a "hard winter." He says there will be only light falls of snow, and most of these will come toward the end of the season, though there will be plenty of sleet and ice and an unusual amount of high wind. Foliage still remaining green at the time he made his prediction several days ago, leads him to believe it will be what we usually call an "open winter," and one without excessive moisture.

We have no means of knowing how many of our readers, if any, set any store by these self-appointed weather forecasters. Neither do we know whether or not they follow their predictions or prefer to do their own guessing. But we do know that the weather is still the favorite topic of conversation, so we are offering Mr. Brown's forecast in the hope that it may add a little interest to the subject.

POWER ON THE FARM

The one thing needed to make the farm home and the farm itself as modern as the city home and industrial plant is electricity. It permits the rural resident to accomplish many more tasks with less expenditure of energy and in far less time than they could be done through manual labor and horsepower, or even with the use of steam or gasoline.

The U. S. Bureau of Census has just made a nation-wide survey covering the subject, and since everyone around Plymouth is interested in the welfare and advancement of farm life we are sure everybody will be glad to learn the result. The report shows that a total of 454,100 farm homes now receive and use electricity from power stations, an increase of 7 percent over last year. There are 475,000 farms using individual power plants, a tremendous gain also having been made in this field. Totals for the entire country have not been provided, but it is estimated that at the rate power companies are stringing wires into rural districts the next five years will see electricity used on one out of every four farms in America.

This is cheering news. It means that eventually it will be a poor farm and a poor farmer indeed that will not have the economic benefits and social blessings that electricity brings, and to which every rural resident is just as much entitled as those who live in our cities and towns.

NO NEED TO WORRY

Plymouth motorists who, finding nothing else to worry about, occasionally start worrying over a gasoline shortage, can now hunt for something else to fret over. A government report shows that more than 90,000,000 barrels of crude oil were produced in July, a new high record. Consumption of gasoline jumped 13 percent in the same month over July of last year—but the increased production took care of it. Now developments in Oklahoma, Texas, California and Kansas have added greatly to production, while automotive engineers say that within another year they will have perfected carburetors that will give far more mileage to the gallons than is now being provided. This means that even if production should decrease we will still be as well off as we are now, for we will be using less gasoline. And if it gives out altogether—which it will not for years to come—we can always depend on American brains to find something just as good as a substitute.

A SENSIBLE PLAN

New interest is being revived in the inland waterways of the country and the latest plans, advocated by leaders of both political parties should be of far-reaching benefit. It is proposed to scale down the program of battleship building by many millions a year, and then to use that sum for dredging our rivers and making them fit for carrying commerce from inland states to the Great Lakes, the Gulf of Mexico and thence to the seas. Such transportation facilities would aid the entire nation; every section would profit by it, and we wouldn't be long in feeling the benefits right here in Plymouth. We need waterways far more than we need battleships, and we need the better marketing facilities such waterways would bring far more than we need big guns. The plan is a sensible one. Now let us hope that it can be kept out of politics long enough to put it into execution.

HOW HARD DO YOU WORK?

Few of us work as hard as we think we do. Rare indeed is the man or woman who does not waste a lot of time and take twice as long to do his work as if he worked efficiently. It is not the number of hours a man spends at his place of employment that counts, but what he accomplishes in a day. It is no uncommon thing to use up a lot of time in making decisions; in wondering which things to do first. Then he will hesitate about what he will do with each particular problem. Before he knows it a good part of the day is gone with little accomplished. No one works at high pressure unless he is being forced. Yet practically everyone thinks he works hard, though the truth is that most of us could do a lot more each day than we do if we would work efficiently all the time. We spend a lot more hours at our business than we work at it.

NEWBURG

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wright and little daughter, Mary Jean, of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Guthrie, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Smith.

The Sunday-school had a short temperance program. A song by the primary department. Mrs. Lydia McNabb gave a history of "Prohibition." Mrs. Gladys Ryder gave a reading entitled "Soak in the Rum Barrel." A number of the boys and girls signed the pledge cards. Misses Anna and Ada Youngs led in singing. "We are out for Temperance."

The L. A. S. held a very pleasant Smith last week Wednesday afternoon. They decided to have their dinners at noon for the winter months. The president, Miss Ada Youngs, with Mrs. Frank Purdy and Mrs. Lydia McNabb are arranging the program for the year.

Rev. Frank Purdy's text for his Armistice Day sermon was taken from John 14:27. "My Peace I Leave With You."

Mr. and Mrs. Elden Geney visited friends in Ypsilanti, last Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Horton who left for California several weeks ago, are having a fine time sight-seeing along the way. At this writing they are in Mexico, and will soon be leaving for the coast.

Mrs. Sheldon Gale of Plymouth, and Mrs. L. Clemens visited Mrs. Emma Ryder last week Thursday.

Everyone in our school district will be interested in the assembly held every Tuesday morning in the school. There is considerable musical talent among our boys and girls, that should be encouraged.

Leigh Ryder, Henry Grimm, Raymond Grimm and Mr. Stamp of Northville, are on a two weeks' hunting trip in the upper peninsula.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ryder and son, Raymond, and daughter, Adabelle of Chicago, spent the week-end at the parental home, and also attended the Harvard-Michigan football game at Ann Arbor, last Saturday.

Word has been received from California, that Tappin Smith, a resident of Newburg some forty years ago, passed away October 31.

Mrs. Robert Smittling has been quite ill for the past ten days, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Jess Thomas.

Mrs. I. Clemens and Mrs. E. Ryder attended the missionary meeting at the home of Mrs. H. S. Doerr in Plymouth, Wednesday.

CHILD CARE AND TRAINING

The class of parents in child care training met in the lunch room of Plymouth High School for a two session meeting, afternoon 4:00 to 7:00 o'clock, and evening 7:00 to 9:00 o'clock when father came to lunch and both parents heard a lecture—on Tuesday, November 12.

The afternoon lecture on "Viewing Your Child Through His Environment" took up the phase of "meeting a problem in the home." In this lecture an outline was set up with which mother might ferret out the cause of a behavior problem rather than be guilty of treating a symptom. After becoming familiar with this analysis of the child's environment, we classified the reason for Stephen Knapp's—a little boy in Dorothy Canfield Fisher's "The Homemaker"—behavior, problem, disobedience, negativistness, temper-tantrams, and mean-spiritedness. "It was great fun and most beneficial."

Besides receiving this wonderful lecture, we held a short business meeting for the purpose of electing a chairman, secretary and treasurer, two librarians and food committees.

From 7:00 to 8:00 o'clock was dinner-hour, when father joined the meeting for a balanced evening meal and lecture to parents afterwards. The lecture from eight o'clock to nine o'clock, was on "Heredity and Environment. What heredity means to the child; of what the child is made; heredity and training. Environment factors have the entire burden of training as they are the only controllable ones. Environment is all that it with-out the child plus be himself."

Mrs. Lynd, who is the specialist giving this work, explained the vocabulary she uses; tells only what is investigated, exact truth—not personal opinion; answers any question bearing on the subject; assists with problems in our class or privately; and hands out outlines of the material that you may have material matter.

The next three meetings for this work in Plymouth, will fall on Tuesday, January 21, 1930; Tuesday, February 18, 1930; Tuesday, March 18, 1930.

The child in the home is like a flower in the garden. Careful cultivation enhances its beauty. If you feel the need or interest for a better understanding of that cultivation of your child or children or some one else's children, we welcome you to our class.

LOCAL NEWS

The dance held last Saturday night at the Livonia Center hall was well attended and a good time enjoyed by all.

Wm. Rutenbar, Herman Rutenbar, Harry Rles and Claude Wright left Tuesday on a deer hunting trip to the Upper Peninsula.

While driving to Ann Arbor to attend the Michigan-Harvard football game last Saturday, a car driven by H. A. Bauer of Detroit, was struck by another car on the Ann Arbor road. Mrs. Bauer, who was with her husband suffered from two cuts on the chin and bruises on both limbs.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kirk received word that their son Wilbur and his sister, Mrs. Leah Winford of Detroit, arrived safely at Los Angeles, Friday.

November 1st. They motored through by the southern route, a distance of nearly three thousand miles. They were seven days making the trip.

Mrs. Ivan Dickinson was taken to Dr. Garb's private hospital at Ann Arbor, Monday, to undergo an operation. She is getting along as well as can be expected at this writing.

THIRTY PLYMOUTH YOUNG PEOPLE ATTEND RALLY

The Baptist church of Northville was filled to capacity last Friday evening when more than 100 Baptist Young People assembled from the various Baptist churches of the Wayne Association. The churches represented were as follows: Ann Arbor, Holly, Northville, Novi, Plymouth, Pontiac, First, Pontiac Bethany, and Wixom.

A sumptuous dinner was served at 6:30, which was accompanied with cheers and songs from the various unions. Following the banquet the annual election of officers took place. Dr. Chapman, who is pastor of the Baptist students at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, was the speaker of the evening. His address was filled with interest and inspiration, and needless to say was enjoyed by all.

Plymouth was honored by having thirty young people present which was the largest attendance of any of the churches. They were unable to bring home the banner because it was awarded on the percentage and mileage basis, Holly having come thirty miles, gained more points even though their attendance was a fraction smaller than Plymouth's.

Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

The crystal dining room of the Hotel Mayflower was the setting last Tuesday for the celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wether, who resided in Mecklenburg, Germany, just fifty years ago Tuesday, November 12th and arrived in Plymouth 20 years later. Three children were born to them, a son deceased and two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Weckle of Detroit, and Mrs. Charles McConnell of this place.

There were twenty-five guests, who at 7:30 seated themselves to artistically decorated tables of yellow and white chrysanthemums. Following the dinner the guests enjoyed old time and modern dances. The couple received many beautiful gifts and the occasion will linger with them for the remainder of the many happy years to come.

Municipal Notes

BY THE MANAGER

Considerable complaint is being made of late of unlicensed peddlers, and canvassers selling their wares from door to door within the village. The village now has an ordinance regulating door to door vending and peddling within our limits, and all persons vending goods, except papers, books or magazines, from door to door should be reported to the village offices. Citizens are requested to cooperate with our police department in regulating peddlers, etc., by reporting them as soon as possible after they leave the door.

Much goods has recently been recovered by the police department, same having been taken from parked automobiles in the village during recent weeks. While most of the articles have been identified, there still remain some items, the owners of which have not been found. Persons who have recently lost articles from parked cars may recover same upon proper identification if we happen to have recovered the items in question.

LIBRARY NOTES

The month of November is a very important month to the home-maker. The house must be put in order, not only for the holiday company and festivities, but also for the long winter ahead of us.

This is also the season to take long tramps into the country to study nature and the wild life about us, and the hunter is tramping through the woods and fields with his dog and gun.

Consult the public library for guides to help you to the best methods in accomplishing the results you want in home-making, gardening, nature study and sports. A few of these helps are:

HOME-MAKING The Art of Home Decoration—North-end Beauty in Home Furnishings—Storey The Practical Book of Furnishings for the Small House and Apartment—Holloway Henley's Twentieth Century Home and Workshop Formulas, Recipes and Processes Table Decorations—Tipton Easy Entertaining—Benton

CHAMBER of COMMERCE NOTES

What New Manufacturing Industries? Where are they to come from? Why this particular industry?

Last week we asked these questions stating that we would answer them this week according to the best practices followed in other communities. A new manufacturing industry may be either of local origin or of outside origin. By local origin, we mean an entirely new undertaking which is financed and owned (controlled) by local residents. By outside origin, we mean either (a) an entirely new undertaking owned (controlled) by outside capital, or (b) a branch plant; or (c) an entire factory equipment moved from another community.

These distinctions while fairly obvious are worth thinking about. They inform us where new manufacturing industries come from, and please note that only one of the four sources mentioned refers to the movement of a factory from one community to another. Yet this source of new industries is the only one which many people have in mind.

What New Industries Has Plymouth The Facilities For?

That important question can best be answered by a carefully prepared, up-to-the-minute, comprehensive industrial survey. In brief outline, what the industry survey aims to do is these common sense things:

It will assemble the facts about our community's power supply; the quality and cost of fuel, the extent of the fuel supply, the means of bringing fuel from its source, the amount and cost of power to be had from local central stations or from electric transmission lines, the undeveloped water power resources of the district.

It will assemble the facts about our community's labor conditions; the quality and cost of labor, the supply of labor. It will assemble the facts about transportation facilities; railroads, freight rates, highways, etc. It will assemble other facts bearing on our community's economic and industrial conditions: labor laws, taxation, advantages as a distributing center, existing industrial development, available factory sites, attitude of local people towards new industries, and last but not least, it will assemble the facts bearing on our community's social and civic facilities.

The Pere Marquette Railroad Will Cooperate.

Your secretary has the assurance of the Pere Marquette officials that their Industrial Development Department will actively work along with your chamber of commerce toward the common goal of more industries. Their assistance is extremely valuable and appreciated as our present facilities for preparing an adequate industrial survey are limited. With their trained staff of industrial experts and engineers, they can compile data and turn out reports, which would necessitate the spending of dollars we do not have to spend to achieve the same results.

Where Are These New Industries To Come From?

We have already pointed out that new manufacturing industries are either of local or outside origin. The industry of local origin always involves the question of financing on the part of someone in the community. Outside industry may or may not involve this question. But how to get in touch with these outside industries?

Some cities are so located that industrial prospects come to them in the natural course of events, but most communities must search out the names of worthwhile prospects. There is no positively guaranteed way to do this. Many bubbles, of course, explode before definite proposals begin to appear.

Plymouth Business Men Can Help. One of the best sources of "leads" is the business men in any community.

If they are on the lookout in their business contacts for worthwhile industrial prospects, the community will have at its disposal an intelligent force of inestimable value.

Other Methods.

Lists of the officials in the lines of manufacturing Plymouth is interested in may be purchased and used for a series of personal letters, or for sending briefs outlining the community's facilities for particular industries. Such briefs may be advertised in trade papers reaching the people engaged in the lines of manufacturing they cover. Investment houses, the industrial departments of railroads and public utilities companies, and purchasing agents of local concerns may be drawn on. Interesting leads obtained in any of these ways are followed up by correspondence or personal visits or both. It is the uniform opinion of experienced experts in this work that a personal visit is an indispensable followup of a worthwhile prospect.

A Community Advertising Campaign.

The methods mentioned in the preceding paragraph cost money. Still more expensive is the community advertising campaign. In some communities much money has been wasted in such campaigns because of no provision for adequate follow-up. A sensible business man will not locate a branch plant or re-locate his main establishment on the basis of advertising copy, no matter how persuasive. He will want to look into the matter in detail and must have the facts which cover his particular situation. In large cities a competently staffed industrial bureau in the chamber of commerce is necessary to see to it that he gets the facts. In a community the size of Plymouth this work is largely left up to the secretary, but he must have the advice and active interested cooperation of a competent industrial committee.

Why This Particular Industry?

After we have made a contact with an industrial prospect, we are confronted with our third question, why this particular industry? To some this may seem a superfluous question. Land the industry; never mind why this particular one. Yet this is the most important question of all. It is the question which really tests our capacity to handle a new industry's program on a sound business basis. It raises our most troublesome problems.

WHEN A CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IS CALLED UPON TO ASSIST IN FINANCING A NEW INDUSTRY, WHETHER THE INDUSTRY IS ONE WHICH IS STARTED FROM THE GROUND UP, OR IS A REMOVAL OR A BRANCH PLANT, THEN THE QUESTION, WHY THIS PARTICULAR INDUSTRY, BECOMES OF PARAMOUNT IMPORTANCE, AND IT IS THIS VITAL ANGLE OF INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION WORK THAT WE WILL DISCUSS IN THIS COLUMN NEXT WEEK.

Women Voters Meet

Charles O. Ball, presided, roll call was responded to by each member reading a poem or short article appropriate to Armistice Day. These readings particularly emphasized the sentiments of many prominent statesmen and writers regarding the need of World Peace.

The program, which had been ably arranged by Miss Lina Durfee, was on the subject of Muscle Shoals, and proved to be most interesting and instructive. Misses Corn and Nettie Felham gave an excellent report on the "Early History of Muscle Shoals." Mrs. Mary Hillmer gave a report on the "Legislative History of Muscle Shoals," and Miss Durfee gave the report of the investigation of Muscle Shoals made by the representatives of the National League of Women Voters. In conclusion, Mrs. Griffin, who visited Muscle Shoals last spring, gave a few facts from personal observation.

Mrs. Dibble, assisted by Miss Durfee, served delicious cakes and tea after adjournment.

Mrs. Charles O. Ball and Mrs. Phoebe Patterson left Tuesday morning for Flint, to attend the fourth annual convention of the Michigan League of Women Voters. A report of this convention will be given at the December meeting.

NEW FACE POWDER MAKES A BIG HIT

Wouldn't you, too, like a face powder that will keep shine away—stay on longer—spread smoothly—not clog the pores—and always be so pure and fine? It is made by a new French Process and is called MELLO-GLO. It is surely a wonderful Face Powder. Just try MELLO-GLO. Community Pharmacy. "We Serve You Right."
