SOON, VERY SOON

Along about the 7th of next month, the Michigan state legislature will convene in Lansing. Then will begin what ought to be the most important session of the legislature in the history of the state. For the next legislature has some real work to do, if it will do it. Most important of all is the question of taxation. The legislature can perform a great service to the people of Michigan if it will. There is not the slightest doubt but what the state tax can be cut by many millions of dollars if the legislature will adhere to a rigid policy of economy. State officials and employees cannot spend the taxpayers' money if the legislature does not provide the funds by appropriations. Never was there greater necessity for care in expenditures than now. Thousands and thousands of taxpayers throughout the state have been required to give up their property because of their inability to meet tax payments. That condition is a most deplorable one. It does not call for new forms of taxation but it does call for a reduction in expenditures and if this is done, a reduction in taxation will necessarily follow. We wonder how great will be the service of the legislature to the taxpayers of Michigan.

PROVIDING EMPLOYMENT

The Plymouth Mail has received from the Department of Commerce of Washington, considerable data about the plan adopted in Ohio to relieve unemployment conditions in that state. While much of the data is not of general interest locally, the suggestions pertaining to county and community efforts is worthy of publication. There was organized first a state committee, then came organizations in every county.

The county committees were asked to assume responsibility for two things: First, stimulating private industry and enterprises, and second, promoting the speeding up and extension of public works. The first meetings of the county committees were attended by representatives of the State Department of Industrial Relations, men thoroughly familiar with labor conditions in their respective districts. These State representatives pointed out to the county committees the various sources of information available and urged them to give close attention to such construction projects as roads, bridges, sanitary and water improvements, water and sewer systems and similar enterprises.

Referring to the work of these county committees, the report indicates that the major efforts of both state and county committees were devoted to getting planned projects and improvements started with the least possible delay. Throughout the state road construction and repairs and building projects were speeded up to a marked degree.

In the field of private industry, the report shows that through the efforts of the committees, many employers adopted the policy of "staggering" employment, allowing each man to work ten or fifteen days during a month. Thus the whole force was given part-time employment, and many men were provided with an income, though it was reduced.

In the carrying out of the state program, not only did county and city authorities cooperate to the fullest extent, but much assistance was given by trade organizations and newspapers. The latter not only gave considerable space to the various projects in their news columns but likewise emphasized the importance of the program in their editorial pages.

The machinery built up in Ohio as a result of the present emergency is not going to be scrapped when industrial conditions return to normal, the Commerce Department report shows. A permanent state committee for stabilizing employment has been appointed by the governor and many of the county committees have signified their willingness to continue to cooperate with the state organization.

In announcing the release of the Ohio report, Commerce Department officials stated that a limited number of copies had been set aside for free distribution. These may be obtained on request to the Division of Public Construction, Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C.

DOWN IN MEXICO

Friday, the Plymouth Mail published an interview with Supt. George Smith of the public schools against capital punishment. Saturday news came from Mexico that that government had abolished capital punishment. Possibly Mexico is not so backward as many believe.

A REAL THANKSGIVING

This locality enjoyed a regular old time Thanksgiving day this year. There was plenty of snow, plenty of cold and seemingly plenty of turkey. Not for years were poultry prices so low as this year. All of Plymouth had something to be thankful for and as far as can be found out, not a family in this locality went without something extra for this joyous day.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING ABOUT

A Little Budgeteering

While Governor-Elect Wilbur M. Brucker has been busy with other matters during the past few days, Almost-Our Fred W. Green has been very busy preparing a budget for the years 1931 and 1932.

There is need, of course, that the various state departments should prepare their estimates in advance for consideration by the legislature which is to meet at the beginning of the year. This saves time. It gives the legislature an early notion of what sort of a tax problem it is facing.

But where is the need for a governor who is going out of office, and a budget commissioner who is probably going right along with him, to pass upon the finances of his successor? Governor Brucker will probably have a much better notion of what he wants to do, how much money he needs and how it should be distributed, than anyone else.

After levying a thumping tax to meet an alleged "deficit" that he "inherited," the present state executive found it necessary to boost the tax again to meet his own "overdrafts." He will go out of office leaving the state treasury a perfect vacuum, and his successor will find a fat bundle of unpaid bills waiting in the auditor general's office.

If all this activity about the budget were devoted to preparing an up-to-date audit that would show Governor Brucker just how big a debt he had inherited from the Green administration there would be some point to it. At least the new Governor would know what kind of a deficiency appropriation bill he must finance.—M. X. Novack in Michigan State Digest.

Make State Pay So Much Per Murder—

One man has suggested one way to eliminate the crime of cold blooded murder. His suggestion is this: Every naturalized citizen is what we call a subject of the United States. If a subject of the United States is killed in a foreign country the United States demand reparation—and the country where the killing took place is required to pay $100,000 or whatever amount is agreed upon. This amount goes into the federal treasury. Now, if the federal government demands reparation for the death of a citizen in a foreign country, why not demand reparation from the state for every cold blooded murder of one of its citizens, all of whom are subjects of the federal government.—Eaton Rapids Journal

Cutting Expenses

The state conservation commission has set the ball rolling by ordering a $50,000 a year reduction in its expenditures for each of the next two years. This is done in order to stand shoulder to shoulder with Governor-Elect Wilbur M. Brucker to realize his promise of economical administration. This is a fine start and it should be extended to every department in the entire state. One of the charges laid against the Green administration was that it was carrying hundreds and hundreds of political parasites, who did nothing else but play politics instead of attending to the business for which they were on the pay roll. These fellows were overlapping each other and were rapidly becoming nuisances instead of a benefit to the state. There is no question but the state must have its business attended to. But if Governor-Elect Brucker is going to cut down on his payroll he must not only begin in the departments, but also out in the field, where state employees are in each other's way. In fact they are bumping each other all the time. The conservation department has set a splendid example. Now let the other departments do likewise, from the governorship down to the least of them all.—Patrick O'Brien in Iron River Reporter.

Justice Grabs The Coat Tail

Some may think it just an accident; others may laugh it away as a mere foolish imagination—but don't you think there's a bit of real poetic justice in the following:

A Nicholas, bankrupt merchant of Yazoo City, Mississippi, was believed by his creditors to have some money—but they couldn't find it. It appeared as though Mister Nicholas would escape having to pay his losses.

But Nicholas was, at times at least, religiously inclined. Just whether or not he is a hypocrite, a Pharisee, we will leave to your own deduction. Good Reader, however, the other day Nick went to church; he even got down on his knees, while going through the motions of praying to his God. We suppose, too, that Mister Nicholas was praying for universal justice. He was given it. Fate reached down, the newspaper dispatch said it was a projectile on the pew and lifted up Nicholas' coat tail—revealing a rather bulging money belt.

Police later discovered the belt filled with ten and twenty dollar bills, totaling $1,000.

How, you see, is the practical way in which religion makes people honest—even if it reveals them at times as hypocrites. Mister Nicholas, poor bankrupt, becomes Mister Nicholas, dishonest religiousist, apparently.

Moral: don't get down to pray in church unless you are willing to take the consequences.—George Averill in Birmingham Eclectic.

Municipal Notes

With the coming of cold weather come many complaints of the freezing up of water meters, piping, etc. The attention of our citizens is called to the fact that the care of his water meter is his personal responsibility, and that where freezes occur, repairs are made only at his expense. Be sure to keep basement windows near water meters closed, and when leaving the house for a period of days have the meter removed and the piping drained as a precaution against freezing.

The drought of the past summer proved a serious handicap to young trees set out by the village last spring particularly along Penniman Ave., west of Arthur Ave., where about half of the trees died in spite of frequent watering and the best care that could be given. The dead trees have recently been replaced with vigorous new trees, and it is hoped that these will meet with better growing conditions than prevailed the past summer.

With the first fall of snow have come a number of complaints regarding boys with sleds "hooking" rides upon passing motor vehicles. This is a dangerous practice, and one which the police department has been given strict orders to break up.

Last Minute Tips For Garden Lovers Of This Vicinity

WHAT PLYMOUTH FLOWER LOVERS SHOULD DO TO PROTECT PLANTS FROM THE COLD.

Because of its many beautiful gardens and lawns, Plymouth has won much favorable comment and often in early spring and in the fall until the frost has ended the blossoming season, visitors can be seen riding about the community looking at many of the attractive beauty spots created by Plymouth residents.

This is the time of year when the gardener has his most difficult work to do in providing proper protection for some of the unusual plants and shrubs that adorn his garden. One well-versed in garden protection and development says that many gardeners are under the erroneous impression that plants are covered to keep them from freezing. Contrarily, plants are not covered until the ground is frozen and the purpose of the mulch is to keep it in that state until such time in the spring when all danger of frost is past.

It is the heaving caused by the alternate freezing and thawing in the early spring which injures the plants. Mulching prematurely is virtually as dangerous as no protection at all as it stimulates a late and succulent growth.

Materials ordinarily used for mulching consist of straw manure, not rotted manure, for this frequently causes decay; leaves and peat. Evergreen boughs, if they are obtainable, make excellent cover, for they permit the circulation of air. Salt hay is all so good but it has a tendency to mat down unless used in connection with twigs. Small branches of oak trees with the leaves on are very often used, for the leaves even in a dry state remain on the branches all winter.

For protecting roses straw manure and peat moss are best, although here in Plymouth, if the roses are in a sheltered spot, they will not require any more protection than merely the hilling up of the soil around each plant about twelve inches or more. Where more protection is required the earth should be mounded up around the plant and then covered with straw manure.

Over the manure leaves may be spread and these held down with wire netting or twigs. In the spring when all danger of frost is past, the leaves and straw may be raked off and the manure left to be spaded in, adding valuable fertility.

Where protection is required for climbing roses, the shoots are taken down from their supports, laid upon the ground and fastened down. Then they are covered with leaves and straw, as are the bush roses.

In this latitude the perennial plants usually require some protection. For these almost any mulching material may be used. If leaves are used, however, such kinds should be chosen that do not rot readily. Oak and sycamore leaves are in this class. Maple and elm leaves should be avoided for these rot very quickly and become a soggy mass which does more injury than good.

Tobacco stems make excellent mulching material. They rot very slowly, in fact may be used for several seasons but the greatest point in their favor is the fact that they repel mice, which raise havoc in many gardens during the winter months.

Tobacco stems may be purchased by the bale at any large nursery or in seed catalogs.

In mulching the perennial border care should be taken not to cover the crown of such plants as the Canterbury bell, hollyhock, peony, etc. They have a tendency to rot if air is excluded, so merely cover the ground around them, leaving the crown exposed.

The protection for such lilacs as the Turkey cap, their Canada and a good deal of others merely place a mound of ashes over the crown.

Through a Woman's Eyes

DISCONTENTED LOOK

WE SAT, my friend and I, at a table in the terrace of the Cafe de la Paix. Suddenly my friend remarked, "There come two American women."

"Why so sure?" I retorted. "They have the American woman's mouth. That mouth is a dead giveaway."

They came closer, talking. Yes, they were Americans. But what did my friend mean about the mouth? I noticed that these women had a slightly discontented expression. The corners of their mouths drooped. It gave them the appearance of fault-finding, of dissatisfaction.

"There's only one woman who goes about with that expression," asserted my companion, "the American woman."

I pondered. Why was this? "Too much for nothing," declared my friend. "No vital interest. No need for any sacrifice of self. No inner companionship with their men. To be found only in work together. Without understanding it, these women feel cheated. They haven't grasped the fundamental fact that what they want isn't to be given something, but to give. They want to be asked for something worth while."

I have taken that from an article by Hildegard Hawthorne in a current magazine because I believe it is well worth reading by every one. The discontented faces of women is a big question, and I believe Miss Hawthorne has hit the nail on the head as to the reason for them.

But I take issue with the author when she typifies the woman with a discontented face as the American woman. It may be true that many of the American women who frequented the Cafe de la Paix in Paris looked discontented. They were doubtless bored! But, while it is true that the luxury of travel is being opened up to even greater numbers of American women, it is still hardly fair to take a type of woman who happens to be familiar among those tripping about on the continent of Europe—and call her the American woman!

The busy mothers of America—who are not counted in tens or in hundreds—do not have that discontented look.

If America is a woman's country it is primarily so because it is a place where women have more opportunity for self-expression, for activity, for that giving of themselves which sustains the life of the spirit, and which is the greatest enemy of boredom and discontent. So the person who ascribes that discontented look, the bored face of the selfish, over-indulged woman to American women is making a mistake. You may meet those faces on some American women in Europe, but they are by no means typical of the American woman.

Still "Lawing It" Over School Row

An attempt to gain the records of the old school board of the Garden City school district by the members of the new school board, was given a temporary setback when Edward Barnard, attorney for the old board, called for a hearing in the court of Justice of the Peace John Freeman and alleged that the records could not be obtained through a writ of replevin inasmuch as no exact value could be placed on the record. He stated that the proper court procedure was through the obtaining of a writ of mandamus through the circuit court commissioner.

Following the hearing, Judge Freeman adjourned the case until December 8 at which time both parties will be represented.

The action of obtaining the records by serving a writ of replevin by James Wencel, a constable, came following the refusal of the old board to give the records up after a permanent injunction had been issued against them restraining them from interfering with the work of the new board. The writ was obtained through Larry Davidow, attorney for the new board.

At the present time members of the new board have been forced to get along without the old records kept by the old board who allege that they are still in power because the members of the new board have not qualified according to school laws of the state. The members of the old board are Charles Bock, Robert Holland, Ewart Goldman and Fred Thiede. The new board consists of Mary Hanchett, Leslie Cook, Frank Perry, Jessie Couterman and John Markley.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

OPENING AN UMBRELLA IN HOUSE UNLUCKY

THIS superstition dates back to the days when in the Orient the umbrella was the distinctive badge of monarchs and great nobles. Even today the king of Siam bears as one of his titles "Lord of the Tent House and Umbrella." In ancient times the monarch, the satrap, the great officer of state, gave judgment seated under an umbrella if in the open and if in the palace under an umbrella or a canopy which represented it. Some even see in the Oriental dome a representation of the umbrella in stone—a permanent umbrella, as it were, sacred to royalty, great lords and the tombs of royalty and greatness.

Now for a suitor or a courtier to open an umbrella in the house of the mighty would appear like an assumption of royal prerogative—a violation of etiquette which would surely get the offender into trouble—in other words might "unlucky" for him. Once give anything the name of being "unlucky" and there you are.

Iram, indeed, is gone with all his Rose. And Jamshyd's sea'n ring'd cup, where no one knows.

But what was, for good reason, unlucky in the palace of Harun-al-Rashid is "unlucky" today in a New England cottage for no reason at all. (By McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Your Home and You

DO NOT STIR UP DUST

SOME people seem to think that the more dust they raise in house-cleaning the more proof they are cleaning thoroughly. But this is a foolish attitude to take. The fact is, the more dust you raise the more pointless your work, for if you raise dust it merely means that you are chasing it out of the carpet or furniture in which it has accumulated and are sending it to rest somewhere else or to be scattered through the air.

It is only within the last few years that we are realizing the real folly of feather dusters and other dust scatterers that undoubtedly scare up dust and dirt containing disease germs and spread them broadcast. Moreover, dust dislodged in this way is irritating to the throat, eyes and skin of the worker.

When you plan to do your house-cleaning, if you do not own a vacuum cleaner, rent one. It will not cost as much as it would to hire a man to do rug beating. If you have no attachments for your cleaner, rent a set of them for the house-cleaning. With them you will be able to clean mouldings and inaccessible places in your home without scattering up the dust.

If you have no electricity in your house you will not be able to have a cleaner. Then you should have all rugs and carpets taken a good distance from the house to be cleaned. Do all dusting with damp cloths and dusters. If there are carpets that you do not take up sprinkle them with moistened sawdust before you sweep them.

New Postmaster Named For Wayne

Official confirmation of the appointment by Postmaster General Walter Brown, of Charles Proctor as postmaster of Wayne to succeed Harry Ziegler, who resigned recently, was made last Friday. In conjunction with the appointment of Mr. Proctor came the naming of Mr. Ziegler as assistant postmaster, by Postmaster General Brown.

The appointment of postmaster is made through the recommendation of Congressman Grant M. Hudson of the sixth congressional district of which Wayne is a part. Mr. Proctor will fill out the unexpired four year term of Mr. Ziegler which ends a year from next March.

Although his experience in postoffice work has been but little, his business and governmental work qualify him as being capable to conduct the affairs of the postoffice, says the Wayne Dispatch.

Mr. Proctor was born in Dearborn township in 1893 and attended the Dearborn schools following which he attended Michigan State College. For five years he was employed as an engineer in the Ford experimental laboratories and at the time of the war enlisted as an ensign in the U. S. Flying Corps. Following his naval flying he piloted a mail plane between Norfolk, Virginia and Washington, D. C. He came to Wayne in 1919 where he was a merchant for 10 years. Last year at the opening of the Wayne county airport he was appointed as operations manager and recently resigned this post to take the postmaster's position.

Nearby Villages Have Problems

Many cities and villages in the metropolitan area that obtain their water supply from the metropolis, are in arms against the water rates Detroit is forcing them to pay. Among these communities are Dearborn, Hamtramck, Melvindale and the Rouge.

The city council weeks ago authorized Water Superintendent Owen McCarthy to confer with the Detroit water commission for the purpose of securing a big reduction in the present rates. Some councilmen declare Dearborn is paying Detroit for its water supply at least 50 per cent more than the Detroit commission is charging Detroit customers.

The superintendent of the water service at River Rouge reported to the Rouge council a few days ago that a meeting is scheduled with the Detroit water commission early next month at which representatives of all the towns in the metropolitan district will appear and demand a cut in existing water charges. They deem the present water cost borders on profiteering.

It is reported that Grosse Pointe village and Grosse Pointe Park have notified Detroit of their intention to purchase water from Mt. Clemens because of the lower rates obtainable there. Highland Park, peeved to the limit by Detroit's excessive water rates, solved its own water problem by constructing an $800,000 water plant.

Hubbell, Hartgering and Roth, a Detroit firm employed by the City of Dearborn as consulting engineers on water works and grade separations, will submit a report to the city council Friday, of a preliminary survey they have made for the construction of a water works system in Dearborn.

The survey has been in progress several weeks and it is understood that the nature of the report will proceed or be discontinued.—Dearborn Press.

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX

Strikingly beautiful, fleet and smart —a masterpiece of Fisher styling

In the entire field of modern coachcraft no symbol has come to mean more to the buyer of a motor car than Body by Fisher. And never has Fisher's superiority been more strikingly exemplified than in the beautiful new bodies of the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six!

Working with the added advantage of a lengthened wheelbase, Fisher designers have been able to achieve in the new Chevrolet a degree of smartness, comfort and impressiveness hitherto considered exclusive to cars far higher in price.

Inside and out, you will discover scores of refinements that stamp this car as a masterpiece of modern coachwork. Radiator, headlamps and tie-bar have been artistically grouped to create an unusually attractive and distinctive ensemble. Mouldings sweep back from the graceful new radiator in an unbroken line to blend with the smart new body contours. And new colors, in carefully devised combinations, lend a new individuality.

Front view of the new Chevrolet Sport Coupe

Interiors, too, are exceptional in every way. The new mohair and broadcloth upholstery is tailored with exceptional smartness. Seats are wider and deeper and more luxuriously cushioned. A deeper windshield and wider windows give better vision for both driver and passengers. And beautiful new hardware, of modern design, lends a final note of charm.

The greater quality and beauty of the new Chevrolet-Fisher bodies have a counterpart in the many improvements which have been provided in the chassis of this Bigger and Better Six. Among these improvements are a longer, deeper, stronger frame; easier steering; a more durable clutch; a quieter, smoother-shifting transmission; and engine refinements which make the new Chevrolet a car you will be happy to drive—as well as proud to own.

The Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six is now on display in our showrooms. See it today—drive it—and learn for yourself that it is the Great American Value!

NATURALLY the old home is a cherished possession. But it needn't be a woe begone, depreciated property when a few dollars invested in improvements and repairs will transform it into a home of up-to-the-minute convenience and comfort.

And, best of all, home modernizing is not a matter of expense so much as a matter of good taste and good judgment. A few simple changes such as a new entrance, a correctly placed dormer window or a new coat of shingles will make an amazing improvement in appearances.

We have helped to make many such transformations. Don't wait for a leaky roof to cause expensive damage. Let us show you today, how such repairs can be made and paid for out of income—a little each month.

When you modernize on our plan you are given a Certificate of Quality—written proof of successful property value. Show this certificate to your banker when you want to sell—for his written evidence of the improvements you have made. You will not be obligated in any way when you write or phone for details of this new Home Improvement Plan. Mail the coupon below today.

Penniman Allen Theatre Plymouth, Michigan MOTION PICTURE PROGRAM

"THE SANTA FE TRAIL"

There are no telephone poles along "The Santa Fe Trail," no twisted traffic lanes, no railroads to cross, but how this adventure romance of the West does click the "green" light for an open-throated and exhilarating spin down a vista of Nature's outdoor visions, of daimless men and characterizations and a climax a-plomb the biggest lightning thrill you've had since "The Spinau Man."

The "Santa Fe Trail" will be seen at the Penniman Allen theatre Sunday and Monday December 7 and 8.

Orto Brower and Edwin H. Knopf co-directed Paramount's new dialog and sound edition of Hal G. Everts' novel, "Spanish Acres"; and from the start command a way into the hearts of any audience by choosing from a tumbling panorama of heart-breaking sheep, a baby member of the flock and introducing Richard Arlen's rugged interpretation as "Stan" in contrast with the woolly baby.

It's Eugene Pallette who tries to be "Jim Dandy" with a spirited scoria taking his disappointments with his drinks, cabby, and popping—comfortable pistol grip and all—in to the quick-draw climax that will make any nerve taut.

There's a special treat for the kids, too, for Mild Green and Junior Durkin ride upon Arlen's romance with Rosita Moreno, the new Latin temptress; the kids fuss, make up, and ride their little hearts out in the van of Indians on the warpath to save their adult friends.

For there are Indians a formidable bunch, 'tis a break for the paleface east they were not as numerous as the sheep. Hooper Atchley and Luis Alberni are two names you'll add to your cinema diary after seeing this play.

There's a mystery to solve, too, in the story, which tells how a stalwart young sheepman dares to fight overwhelming odds to save his flock and an estate and of how his friends help him do that—also to win a lovely lady.

"THE UTAH KID"

Whenever the good old signboard goes up saying "Tiffany Western Today," everyone rushes to the Penniman Allen Theatre, because there's nothing to equal a good old-fashioned Western for genuine talking-picture entertainment.

And that's the case with the latest Tiffany Western, "The Utah Kid," starring that handsome young devil.

A great deterrent to growing timber in the South, according to a recent Forest Service bulletin, is lack of definite and authoritative information on the rate of growth of Southern pines when properly cared for. The United States Department of Agriculture has, therefore, published the results of recent studies, showing that timber in the South may be grown quicker and much more profitably than is generally supposed. The booklet, Rate of Growth of Second-Growth Pines in Full Stands (Circular No. 121), may be had by writing to the Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C.

Lex Lease, with gorgeous Dorothy Sebastian in support and a cast of helpers of really scintillating quality: Walter Miller, Tom Santschi, Mary Carr, Boris Karloff, Lyle McKee, Bud Osborne and many other sure fire standbys. For, believe you me, "The Utah Kid," to be shown at the Penniman Allen Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, December 10 and 11, is entertainment which you simply mustn't miss.

The story is an exciting one. Cal Reynolds, a young outlaw, marries a girl who is caught in Robbers' Roost, his gang's hangout, just to save her from the proverbial "fate worse than death", at the hands of that consummate villain, Tom Santschi. Then the fun begins, and it ends in one of the most exciting gun battles ever seen on the screen, in which scores of outlaws and good men participate—almost a battle out of the World War.

It's great. Richard Thorpe must be given A-1 rating for his excellent and deft handling of the megaphone. Much credit, too, goes to Frank Howard Clark, who wrote the original story and also the adaptation. The photoplay is marvelous throughout, and too much cannot be said of the choice of locations. This reviewer has never seen such ideal country as the rocky, craggy hills in which Robbers' Roost is set.

"THE LOVE TRADER"

Women might be called the weaker sex and all that but in the Tiffany picture "The Love Trader" to appear at the Penniman Allen Theatre Friday and Saturday, December 12 and 13, they don't seem so feeble. There are two fights in "The Love Trader" and women are not only responsible for them but they are the ones to start them. Leatrice Joy and Barbara Bedford are both in love with the handsome hero, Roland Drew.

England bred Leatrice is aroused to great anger when she finds the wily Roland has gotten her to his hut by lying to her and that he has used his power of love-making only as a revenge on her husband. Leatrice grabs a heavy candle stick from a nearby table and attempts to hurl it at the deceitful hero.

Barbara, who plays the role of the native girl with all the primitive passions and jealousy, starts one fight by trying to knife her lover when she finds him with the lovely white girl, played by Miss Joy.

After the green-eyed monster has quieted down in Barbara Bedford, the cold, haughty loveliness of the New

Roland Drew is the victim of the girl passed me on the set. I automatically ducked. I was sure that I was going to have a knife plunged into me any minute and as for candle-sticks I never want to see them any more. While we were rehearsing I was certain that Leatrice would forget that she was acting and let her emotion get the better of her."

Christian Science Notes
 "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, or Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Demanded" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Sci. churches on Sunday, November 30.
 Among the churches which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "The night is far spent, the day is at hand; let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armour of light" (Rom. 13:12).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "In Christian Science, man can do no harm, for scientific thoughts are true thoughts, passing from God to man" (p. 103).

EPISCOPAL NOTES
 Bazaar! Dinner! Today, Friday, December 5th. Everybody come. Do your Christmas shopping here. Many busy weeks have been spent in preparing the large variety of beautiful and useful articles which will delight your eye—and your pocketbook! Don't miss the bazaar!
 Only three weeks till Christmas. While we are making our preparations let us remember the spiritual preparation as well as the material.
 The Sundays in Advent are set aside by the church as the time in which to make ready our hearts for the Presence of Christ. It is a golden opportunity. Every faithful member of the church will be present at the services regularly between now and Christmas Day, when all loyal communicants make their communion.
 Next Tuesday is the last session of the Church Normal School, which our church school teachers have attended very faithfully. This assures better instruction in our school than in a school with untrained teachers. The teachers are giving their time freely. They ask for the continued cooperation and support of both pupils and parents in making our school a place of real spiritual advancement.
 The more reminder—today is the date of the bazaar and dinner. Wednesday! And bring the whole family—and your friends.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES.

The Busy Women's class met on Tuesday of this week at the home of Mrs. Gus Gates, Woodland road. Mrs. Gates had made every preparation for the program under the direction of the president, Mrs. Holstein and arranged for the meeting and all went "merry as a marriage bell." The dinner was excellent, the "Christmas pie" brought to everyone some interesting gift, and Mrs. J. H. Road was both enjoyable and helpful. There were twenty-five present.

Mrs. Clyde Smith entertained the Mission Study Class at her home on the Dominion Avenue, Tuesday evening. The attendance was very encouraging and the cooperative supper much enjoyed. The business meeting was interesting program followed.

The Women's Auxiliary will hold the regular December meeting on Wednesday of next week at 2:30 P. M. The reports from the bazaar and dinner will be presented and the program will be in charge of Mrs. Clara P. Todd.

The committee in charge of packing the mission boxes ask that all articles for the same be at the church not later than 2 P. M. Thursday, December 11, when the packing will be done.

The Sunday School is preparing for a special Christmas service to be given Sunday evening, December 21. There will be the annual Christmas tree and visit of Santa Claus.

METHODIST NOTES

"In Everything Give Thanks," 1st Thessalonians 5:18.
 "Our blessings become commonplace. Familiarity with them tends to tempt for them. Joys which are below our notice because we have them all our lives would be almost unbearable bliss for millions of our brothers and sisters. We take our household joys for granted; we allow our blessings to continue day after day and year after year with not a word of thanks to our heavenly Father or to one another." Let us not be like the lepers who were healed, and only one of whom returned to give thanks.

On Wednesday, December 10, the Missionary Societies will meet at the home of Mrs. H. S. Doerr, 447 So. Harvey street. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 by the committee, but each one is to bring dishes and silver. Mrs. Fred Lee will have the devotions, and Miss Spicer and Mrs. Lendrum will be in charge of the program. Christmas in Other Lands. Bring a gift for the Christmas box to be sent to the orphanage in Cedar-town, Georgia.
 On Saturday afternoon the Junior Missionary girls will meet at Mrs. Doerr's to finish dressing the dolls to be sent in the Christmas box. It is hoped all the girls will be present, as it will be the last meeting this year, and our Christmas party.

All of our young people are cordially invited to attend the Young Peoples meeting at 6 o'clock on Sunday evening.

BAPTIST NOTES

Kinson Miller is president of the B. Y. P. L. and says the service for Sunday is a real surprise. Come and help make it a success.
 Don't forget the mid-week prayer and study at 7:30 o'clock. We had thirty here on last week. Come and receive a blessing. After the service we have a happy half hour of prayer with P. L. refreshments.
 The Ladies Aid will hold their annual bazaar and open supper in the church parlors, Thursday, December 11, starting at 6:30 and ending at 10:00.

SUNDAY, DEC. 7TH, SET FOR UNIVERSAL BIBLE DAY

Governor Fred W. Green urges the observance of Sunday, December 7, for Universal Bible Sunday in all churches throughout Michigan. The American Bible Society, an organization which issues annually over eleven million copies of Bibles, Testaments, and Portions in close to two hundred languages, has been sponsoring Universal Bible Sunday over a period of years. Thousands of churches throughout the United States as well as many Christian churches abroad join in this movement which was conceived and is promoted to emphasize the essential position which the Bible occupies in the spiritual life of men and women.

In endorsing Universal Bible Sunday Governor Green says: "The effort of the American Bible Society to promote Universal Bible Sunday throughout the land is a movement meeting my hearty approval."

"Never has there been such a great need for turning the attention of the human family to the examples set by our fathers and to put into practice the teachings contained in the Bible. The hope for the future is in adhering to the teachings of the Bible and following the example of the Master. Should this be done, there would be peace on earth and good will among men."

In selecting your Christmas turkey look for the tag that indicates U. S. Government graded birds. "Prime," "choice," and "medium" are the usual grades shown by a small round tag attached to the leg.

LIVONIA CENTER SCHOOL.

Livonia Center school entertained the teachers of zone "B" on Saturday, November 15.
 Starting December first we organized a "reading circle." The purpose of the club is to encourage frequent use of the library. Boys and girls will compete for a dictionary to be given at the close of the school year to the child having read the greatest number of books. Students are obliged to show some appreciation of the books they read by writing a sentence or paper on this subject. A careful record of the number of books read will be kept in the library. Each child will keep a separate record in his notebook.
 Miss Jamison gave a language test on her last visit. We look forward to seeing her again soon.
 The fourth and fifth grades will start an achievement campaign in reading on the first of the month. The results of the Spanglow-Wood reading test have shown the reading skills in which the children rank high or low. The purpose of this experiment is to emphasize only those skills which need development in the individual student. Each pupil will work separately since the needs of each child are necessarily different. The student will have a definite task of his own closely related to the particular skill in which he ranks low. Opportunity will be given to the student to choose any reader he wishes to use, providing it conforms to his grade level. Each child will also be permitted to decide upon the story he wishes to read from day to day. Results will be measured at the end of the year by the Stanford Achievement Test.
 The following people are members of our honor club: Catherine Eskra, Marvin Oiger, Alice Oiger, Harvey Weston, Virginia Oiger and Margaret Sisson.

For Meditation

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

AVIATION

THE air races in Chicago are now a thing of the past but the contribution made by them is of no small value. Great crowds witnessed the stirring maneuvers of the pilots; but an even greater crowd manifested its interest by watching for reports. The most striking characteristic of these races was its international aspect. Persons from all over the world had their eyes fastened on Chicago. Many of the foreign countries sent to the races their most expert pilots whose demonstration were not only exceedingly difficult to perform but also manifested courage of a very high order.

L. A. Barrett.

Aviation has increased by leaps and bounds during the past year. In 1929 there were registered 16,000 miles of passage way and in 1930, 38,000, while the number of air ports increased during the same time from 1,046 to 1,552. The use of the airplane by the navy departments of the governments of the world will doubtless become a very important means of linking nations more closely together. The commercial use of airplanes will promote more speedy transportation and thus aid greatly in international relations in the economic world. How far it will be used for passenger travel is still an open question. It is not likely that they will supplant travel by train or the automobile, although passenger travel is bound to increase. Great hopes are entertained by the postal authorities at Washington for larger and more efficient use of airplanes in the transportation of mail, especially on route from New York to points in California, Seattle, etc.

Like all adventures in the field of progress the airplane must overcome outstanding difficulties. At present there seem to be two. First, the element of risk. While this has been greatly minimized during the last few years, there still remains a large percentage of risk. People have not yet become accustomed to think in terms of air travel and the occasional disaster is heralded from the house tops, causing more consternation than a train wreck. The other difficulty is the great cost of air travel.
 In time, however, the airplane, like the automobile of today, will become the accepted method of travel and economic transportation.

Wayne Factory to Resume Operation

Assurance that the local body factory of the Graham-Paige motors would resume production by the first week in December, or at least not later than the second week, was given Wednesday by officials, who stated that everything would be in readiness at that time.

For the past few weeks millwrights and expert workmen have been busily engaged in preparing the factory for several changes which were announced more than a month ago. The woodmill which was formerly located here has been moved to Evansville while the sheet metal work is to be done here. This change involves an even change of man power, it was stated.

Employment estimates given on Wednesday by officials indicated that at least 300 men would be required in the opening period of about two weeks and after that the payroll would be stepped up to approximately 500 men. A more active year in 1931 at the local plant was assured when more foundations for the tumor that assembling of all Graham bodies would be done here, were given this week. The return of 500 men to work within the next few weeks will greatly relieve the unemployment of this area and this together with the increased industrial activity in the metropolitan districts points to a breaking of the near economic stagnation which has gripped the Wayne district during the past few months.

 Merchants and heads of business firms in the area have cast aside the pessimistic cloak in which they had been wrapped and again the smile that business activity brings has returned to their countenance. Men who have made a study of economic conditions and old time merchants who have passed through depressions of other decades, say that the lowest period of the depression has passed and that business would be on the upgrade from now on.
 Everywhere in this area factories are increasing their number of employed and the announcement of the Graham-Paige officials is in step with the whole movement in southern Michigan to relieve the unemployment situation.—Wayne Dispatch.

THE MOTHER OF THE MAN

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE child is father of the man, the saying may be true, and yet some woman must, and can, be mother of the man.

Man courts her in his courting days, and will not let her be, and talks to her like books and plays, like movies that you see; He says she's like a rose in bloom, a lover's dream, and yet, O lucky, lucky, lucky groom, that isn't what you get.

A fellow thinks he wants a bride, he even wants a wife, and yet he really needs, beside, a mother all his life. He loves her for her beauty's sake, but when the sun is gone, He needs a mother who will make him put his rubbers on.

Man thinks he needs a maiden fair—the greatest need of his is some one who will tell her his hat or hammer is. The dog perhaps was once a pup, and kitten cats began, But one thing never does grow up, and that one thing's a man. (© 1930, Douglas Malloch.)

FIRE FESTIVAL USED TO PROVE TRUE LOVE

FIRE festivals, one of the most primitive means of making a love charm, actually take place today in different forms in several countries, reveals a writer in Mystic Magazine. These fire festivals of today come from an old pagan sex rite in the days when fire was a symbol of fertility. In such times weird sorts of fire worshiping were practiced to insure the birth of many children and abundant growth of crops. They have been changed to their quaint and more wholesome use of today through modern influence. But the original rite may still be seen if one explores into the heart of central Africa and a few other tropical regions.

An intimate view of a modern fire festival, continues the writer, can be obtained by transporting ourselves to the pretty French province of Franche-Comte, where they are still held. If we are lucky, we find a spot in a forest where the ceremony is about to take place. We hide and watch by the light of the moon. Presently, a gay group of young men and women come tramping into a clearing among the trees. Some are pulling small carts loaded with fagots. Others gather up dead branches of trees from the ground. After much whispering and many playful smiles, the fuel is at last piled in preparation for a huge bonfire, ready for the lighting.

A man is supplied to the wood and the flames continue to mount, throw a red glow to the trees of the forest.

CHILDREN'S DISHES

THOSE who have had the most success in teaching children to like all kinds of foods, or at least tolerate them, have found that where the grown-ups will eat and express pleasure over food, the youngsters will follow, especially boys; if daddy appears to enjoy certain foods, son will strive to do so, too.

A mother has such a world of things to do to keep the home comfortable, care for the babies, feed the family and as soon as the children begin to go to school help them puzzle over their school problems. She certainly needs co-operation and help from the head of the house with the child who does not like the foods that are good for and necessary for him. Think of planning three meals a day and trying to make them palatable with variety and on a small budget for food. There would not be many business houses that would hold up under such a strain.

During the summer when the children are out of doors and do not have to depend on school lunches, they are easy to feed, but with the fall and winter comes the lunch problem for thousands of children who must carry a school lunch.

Children crave sweets; it seems they need sugar to supply the energy that is so freely used in their natural activities. The sweets of dried fruits such as prunes, dates and figs are always good. Pure candy, a piece or two after meals or between meals (not too near the meal) are especially good for children.

Simple puddings like cooked custard, cornstarch pudding flavored with cocoa, caramel or maple, are all enjoyed by the little people. Plenty of fresh vegetables, when seasonable and the canned when the fresh are out of the market, are essential for good health.

Ypsi Normal Gives Athletic Awards

A total of 65 varsity and freshman athletic awards for Michigan Normal's two autumn sports—football and cross-country—were approved by the Athletic Council at its regular fall meeting.

Coach Elton J. Rynearson's entire varsity squad of 25 football players who have just completed one of the outstanding seasons in Huron history was granted the major award, along with 24 members of Coach Ken Morrow's freshman squad who were awarded numerals, bringing the total football list alone to 49.

Each of the eight veteran members of Coach Lloyd W. Olds' varsity basketball squad, winner of Normal's fourth successive Michigan Collegiate Conference and second consecutive State Intercollegiate crowns, and now a contender for Central Intercollegiate and National Senior A. A. U. laurels, were also granted the major award, along with the same number of freshmen under Coach George Marshall.

The council also voted to make the regular varsity sweater award from this year on to varsity managers, instead of the light jersey previously awarded. The regular manager's monogram will be attached, but there will be no service stripes awarded to managers.

In addition to the regular awards, members of the two varsity squads were voted gold charms emblematic of their fourth Conference titles.

The complete list of awards follows: VARSITY FOOTBALL—Capt. TAPPING THE SEA FOR POWER

A HOLLOW cylinder of steel, reaching 2,000 feet down to the bottom of the sea, has been put in place off the shore of Cuba, and by its air Georges Claude expects shortly to produce electric power in a way that seems magical.

The cylinder is two yards in diameter. At the surface it is washed by waves that vary in temperature from eighty to ninety degrees and at the bottom it lies in water forty-five degrees colder. The power magic lies in that difference in temperature.

"The general principle involved," says the Review of Reviews, "is that behind the simple high school physics laboratory experiment by which water, subjected to a vacuum, boils. It gives off steam at temperatures much below 212 degrees Fahrenheit, which is the boiling point of water at sea level. It is a law of thermo-dynamics that differences in temperature can be converted into energy. The ordinary steam engine works on this principle, though of course on a much higher differential than exists between the temperatures of bottom and surface sea-water.

"Professor Claude proposes to start his boiler by making a vacuum high enough so that water will boil at a surface of eighty-six to eighty-eight. The steam from this will be directed against a turbine, and then cooled rapidly by water drawn up from the bottom. This cooling will produce a vacuum and so permit continuous operation with the starting vacuum pump cut off."

Three times Professor Claude tried to sink his tube to the ocean bottom. Twice he encountered disaster—and the cost of each attempt was $1,000,000. If the tube now in place operates as he expects it to operate, he will be able to produce limitless electric power at cheap rates. His dream is to reorganize the world's economic geography and make of the tropical bay where he is conducting his experiment a vast industrial area fed with cheap power.

THANKSGIVING MESSAGE BROUGHT BY REV. OSCAR J. SEITZ

The assembly was opened with an announcement of the ten H-Y and Torch Club boys who are going to attend the Thanksgiving Conference in Bay City. Doris Holloway gave a report of what the school organizations had been doing for the poor. Several baskets of food were on the stage ready to be distributed for Thanksgiving. Marian Gust announced that the Student Council would present the Shakespeare Players Tuesday evening at eight o'clock in "Macbeth."

CENTRAL GRADE SCHOOL NOTES

A gold star has been placed by Marie Ann Miller's name for having had her teeth fixed by the dentist. Marie Ann is also absent in the holiday reading; she has finished the Elson Primer and is now reading in the Child Library Primer. The children in this room are making scrap books and other gifts for Christmas. Mrs. Root read the story of Christmas to the children.

CIVICS CLASS GIVE PROGRAM

Thanksgiving day is a day set aside to give thanks unto God for everything we have. Many of this holiday should be spent in serious thinking while the others a good time. It was on this idea that the civics class gave their program. They hope to give more programs which will interest the members as much as the Thanksgiving program.

GIRL RESERVES CONTRIBUTION TO NEEDY

Through the generous contributions of the Intermediate, Junior and Senior Girl Reserves, the H-Y and Torch Clubs, several families were supplied with food for the Thanksgiving holidays. Each girl and boy was held responsible for one article of food. Some of the contributions were: squash, pumpkin, cranberries, potatoes and canned fruit and vegetables. There was a total of six baskets loaded in the top with Thanksgiving goods. The baskets were given to Plymouth families whose financial circumstances made it impossible for them to have a normal Thanksgiving dinner.

MANY HOBBIES INTEREST CAMP-FIRE GIRLS

Singlet "We Come, We Come to Our Council Fires" the girls of Camp Wemachick entered the candle lit living room at Zephra Blunk's, and raised their hands in the hand-sign of the organization. After the candle-lighting ceremony, the girls recited together the Law of the Campfire, and sang "Wholed for Aye." After a roll call to which each girl answered with a statement of her hobby, Mrs. Stevens, after awarding the honor beads earned by the girls, read an Indian legend, "Why the Leaves Turn Red, Orange and Yellow." After the candle-lighting ceremony and the refreshments were served.

STUDENT COUNCIL AWARDS LETTERS

The student council, on recommendation of Coach Matheson, has voted to give letters to all the members of the varsity football squad. Manager Bill Kirkpatrick will receive a Manager's letter. Of the twenty-one others who will receive letters, four have played on the varsity team for three years. These are: Captain Stanley Lanter; Captain-oleo Steve Dudek; Bernard Curtis and Cyril Rodman. The seven members who have played for two years are: Harlow Waagen, Edwin Towle, Marvin Bannerman, Clyde Ferguson and Charles Ball. The remaining ten fellows who have received their first letter for varsity football are: Arthur Amelch, James Meyers, John Randall, Lester Bassett, Norman Orr, James Williams, Arthur Bannerman, Mason Potter, Robert Burrey and Henry Wagner.

The football fellows and Coach Matheson have spent many happy and very hard hours in practice on the gridiron. Many great lessons that may influence their lives have been learned. It is with the greatest regret the fellows are separated. Most of those fellows went through victory and defeat always fighting. Fifteen out of a squad of twenty-one will graduate. Plymouth high will miss those hard-fighting fellows.

STARKWEATHER SCHOOL NOTES

The children in Mrs. Mole's room wrote letters to Harry Danner who is in the hospital in Ann Arbor. They have also written very good stories of the Pilgrims and the first Thanksgiving and have made them into attractive booklets. Miss Hunt's five B children dramatized a Thanksgiving play called "Scenes from Pilgrim Life" for the sixth grade. Myrtle Drews and Marion Kleinschmidt recited a Thanksgiving poem. Twenty-five children recited stanzas in spelling. Some of the children in Miss Willard's sixth grade English class have received answers to the letters they wrote to children in other states. There have been five answers and three of those receiving letters were Azusa, Mattinson, Irving Beckwith and Arnold. Father Irwin Beckwith received her letter from a Japanese boy. The states which their letters came from are as follows: two from California, one from Indiana and two from Missouri. The children are helping to make a Thanksgiving border and also some posters. They will be stories about Thanksgiving and read them before the class after which the children noted which story was the best. Jeannette Brown got the highest number of votes which was ten and Patricia Cassidy was next with eight.
