

PAUL VOORHIES TOASTMASTER ALUMNI BANQUET

Former Graduate, Now
High State Official, To Be Here Tonight.

Hon. Paul W. Voorhies, attorney general of Michigan and one of the state's leading attorneys, a former Plymouth resident and graduate of the Plymouth high school, will be the toastmaster of the annual high school alumni association banquet to be held tonight at the high school.

Officers of the association and committee members are expecting the largest attendance in the history of the organization.

Mr. Voorhies has never lost his interest in his old home town and the school from which he graduated. When asked to preside at tonight's banquet he immediately consented although his office is one of the busiest in the state at the present time.

One of the interesting speakers of the banquet will be C. T. Grawn, who was superintendent of the school just half a century ago and graded the school, his work in reality making him the founder of the Plymouth high school. He is a Detroit resident but has a large circle of friends among the older residents of Plymouth.

Miss Anna Smith, still an instructor in Plymouth's schools and one of the oldest active teachers in Michigan, will be an honored guest at the banquet.

Elton Ashton, a graduate of 1927 will present the toastmaster, who is a graduate in the class of 1893. Pierre Kenyon, a member of the class of 1925 will give a vocal solo and Miss Julia Wilcox of the class of 1924 will extend a welcome to the class of 1931. Angeline Rousseau of the class of 1928 will play a piano number and a vocal duet will be given by Hazel Connor-Moore of the class of 1909 and Norma Baker-Cassidy of the class of 1910. Robert Julliffe of the class of 1906 will tell of 25 years ago.

Response to the welcome by Miss Wilcox will be made by Harold Stevens of this year's graduating class. Lyman Johnson of the class of 1921 will give a vocal solo and Dorothy Marshall-Baker, graduate of 1882 will recall times of 49 years ago. Donald Patterson of the class of 1923 will give a violin number.

Rev. Frederick Lendrum has been invited to deliver the invocation.

Many Present at Piano Recital

The piano recital given by Miss Carolina Penney, Mus. Bach, Monday evening at the Hotel Mayflower, was very much enjoyed by a large attendance. The many floral offerings manifested the interest and appreciation of the audience. Those who played were Phyllis Sumner, Marie Anne Dorothy Barnes, Betty Barnes, Mary Katherine Moon, Jack Stevens, Lawrence Smith, Jean Durham, Margaret Horvath, Charlotte Julliffe, Irma Stralander, Helen Worfman, Mary Mettetal, Ardath Baker and Marguerite Wood.

Edward Angove and Forbes Smith assisted with a trumpet and the Business and Professional Women's quartet, consisting of Mrs. R. Cassidy, Miss Irene Brown, Miss Hildur Carlson and Mrs. Charles Ball, rendered several selections. The numbers were announced by Mrs. Maurice Woodworth.

Did You Know That

Mrs. Walter Minehart has returned to her home in Plymouth after enjoying a very delightful automobile trip through the east with her sister, Mrs. McPhall of Grosse Pointe, and mother, Mrs. A. Boyes of the same place. Various interesting places in Canada were visited before going to Niagara Falls. They drove from there to New York City, then down to Erie, Pennsylvania, and back home through Cleveland. Mrs. McPhall did all the driving on the trip.

An ice cream social will be held at St. John's Episcopal church, Wednesday, June 24.

The Theatre Court Book Shop has a large group of used automobile tires that they have on sale for from $1.00 to $2.50—all sizes for all cars.

The Plymouth Motor Sales has a complete assortment of used Model-A Fords at $145.00 and up.

Walker of Detroit, were guests of Prof. and Mrs. Hoenecke at Saginaw, Wednesday, and attended the Field Day and Commencement exercises at the Michigan Seminary.

During the months of June, July and August, the Eckles Coal & Supply Co., the Plymouth Lumber and Coal Co., the Plymouth Elevator Co. and the Towle & Roe Lumber Co. will close on Saturday afternoons.

Garden Party Enjoyed By Legion Auxiliary At Home Of Mrs. Beals

Thursday afternoon, June 11th, Mrs. M. E. Beals, president of the Auxiliary extended hospitality to the members and several guests at a delightful garden party. The artistic rock garden, pools, shrubs and flowers formed a delightful setting for this affair, with a large American flag gently waving the significance of the occasion. With the guests exploring the beauties of the garden, stitching busily away on holders to be sold for the benefit of the Auxiliary, the time passed all too quickly.

Miss Gladys Schrader presented her High School Boys' Quartette who sang "Fencing on the Old Camp Ground" and "It's a Long Way to Tipperary." The Auxiliary's own talent, Mrs. Moon and Mrs. Vaughn, entertained the guests, each singing two numbers. Clever prizes were awarded, and dainty refreshments served in the garden.

Assisting Mrs. Beals as hostess, were Mrs. Wm. Schoof, Mrs. Gilbert Brown and Mrs. Harold Julliffe. This was a most delightful affair, and many thanks are due Mrs. Beals for the privilege of enjoying her home and lovely grounds.

Watch for announcements concerning the next joint meeting of the Legion and Auxiliary. The committee plans to have this a picnic affair in a near-by park, and no one should miss out on this.

Business Women Enjoy a Picnic

Sarah Gayde, Hildur Carlson and Allida Estep were hostesses for the annual picnic of the Business and Professional Women's Club, which was held in Riverside Park, Tuesday evening, June 9, 1931. No business was transacted, the members present concentrating their whole attention on the program of games, sports and the delicious supper furnished by the very efficient committee.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club is holding its first biennial convention from July 6 to 11 in Richmond, Va. Suggestive will be presented at this time for a 10-year program far more comprehensive and forward-looking than anything heretofore attempted.

One of the outstanding features of the convention is the number of interesting women executives it always assembles. This year, special functions have been arranged for women judges, for women who are owners of their own businesses and for women who pursue unusual occupations. Judge Camilla Kelly, of Memphis, Tenn., is to preside at the judges' breakfast. The presiding officer at the breakfast for owners of their own businesses will be Mrs. Ora H. Snyder, of Chicago, millionaire candy manufacturer, who laid the foundation stone of her huge business with an initial investment of 5 cents for a pound of sugar to make divinity fudge. Mrs. Emma I. Yearian, sheep queen of Idaho, will probably preside at the breakfast for women who follow unusual occupations.

Much emphasis will also be laid upon civic projects undertaken by business and professional women. Among the important legislative matters which are to be presented for action is included an urgent demand that the government change the status of nurses and welfare workers in the classification of its civil service employees.

Special classes will be held in citizenship in civic affairs and also, as an innovation, classes in personal grooming.

On Tuesday evening, July 7, there will be a press dinner at which Miss Marjorie Shuler, of the staff of the Christian Science Monitor, national publicity chairman for the federation, will preside. Visiting newspaper and magazine women will be honored at this banquet.

Piano Recital Monday Evening

Miss Anna L. Youngs will present a group of pupils in a piano recital at the Mayflower Hotel, Monday evening, June 22, at 8:30. An interesting program featuring methods of teaching, will be given. Those taking part are Helen Jane Springer, Doris Banzard, Shirley Mason, Loretta Hank, Jean Ames, Elburna Strader, Margaret Virginia Leslie, Marilyn Holton, Dorothy Hearn, Edgar Nash, Mary Patricia Kinahan, Bernice Kinahan, Yvonne Hearn, Frances Cooper, Esther Egge, Harriet Kinney, June Frederick, June Nash and Flora Gerst.

KIWANIS SPEAKER IS ADVOCATE OF PLAN TO ZONE COMMUNITIES

DECLARES ANY GROWING PLACE SHOULD PREPARE FOR THE FUTURE

Professor F. N. Menefee of the University of Michigan Engineering department was the guest speaker at the regular noon meeting of the Kiwanis club last Wednesday. Professor Menefee had as a subject for discussion, City Planning and gave to members one of the most interesting talks heard this year.

The speaker stated that the assets of Michigan justified any city within the state planning for the future and particularly city planning. "City planning today should be considered from a broad angle, not necessarily the laying out of the city streets but should start from the very foundation of its city life. The first step in a well planned action would be the survey of all city ordinances to do away with those which would hinder progress and make new those which would stimulate growth," he stated.

The fact that Michigan has more coast line than all of Germany, more coast line than China and that more than does through the Panama canal and from the sea ports of New York is only one of the reasons why we should look to the future and prepare ourselves by planning.

"The fact that Michigan is first in the production of cherries, beans, sugar beets, peaches, potatoes, automobiles and hundreds of other products are facts that make Michigan a state in which conditions are ideal. Conditions today are bringing before your eyes the fact that systematic planning must be used and why not protect your town and be prepared for future demands," said Professor Menefee.

The Governor and Lieutenant Governor of Michigan Kiwanis will be guest speakers at next Wednesday's meeting.

Two Escape But Liberty is Short

Thomas Marshick, 27 years old, 2614 Wendell avenue, and Peter Budd, 38, of 73 Sibley street, Detroit, escaped prisoners of the Plymouth house of correction farm, were captured at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday by state police at Liberty street Monday, they were found hiding in bushes near the Jim Day and Michigan roads intersection. Marshick recently attracted attention when he kidnaped his estranged wife and three children and drove them to his father's farm near Mt. Pleasant, where he deserted them. He was serving a 90-day sentence for beating his wife.

Given A Surprise On Her 90th Birthday

Mrs. Arthur Stevens celebrated her ninetieth birthday last Sunday in a very happy way. Twenty-two relatives and friends came in laden with baskets of good things to eat and gave her a wonderful surprise.

A beautiful dinner was served and among the good things to eat was a huge cake decorated with her name and age which was made by Mrs. Pauline of Detroit. Many happy hours were spent in listening to Mr. and Mrs. Stevens relate some of the witty and interesting things that had happened to them. She was presented with a very nice electric lamp and also received a great many lovely birthday cards and a large box of candy. Mrs. Stevens is a very nice and very much younger woman and she and Mr. Stevens are enjoying an ideal life here in Plymouth and are proud to have such a wonderful couple here and wish them many more happy birthdays among us.

Those present Sunday at the birthday celebration were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cunningham of Toledo, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pauls; Mrs. Florence Newberry and son Frank L. all of Detroit; Harry S. Newberry and Miss Madeline Van Syckle of Battle Creek; Clarence Stevens and daughters Dorothy and Virginia of Ann Arbor; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Burton; Mrs. Helen McChumpha; Mrs. Mabel Sherwood; Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Bessie; Geer; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Root and son Charles, Jr. and Miss Roberta Chapell.

D. A. R. Meets With Northville Members

The home Mrs. Donald P. Yerkes of Northville, was the setting for the last meeting of the year of the Sarah Ann Crochran chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Monday afternoon, June 15th. The house was beautifully decorated with peonies and roses which the hostess grows in her own garden.

Following the business meeting over which the recent, Mrs. Dwight T. Randall, presided, Mrs. Nettie Dibble read several items from The Wayne County Review, dated, 1882.

Refreshments were served by the social committee in charge of Mrs. Dibble, chairman, assisted by Mrs. J. B. Hubert and Mrs. Earl Mastick; Mrs. Battie Baker and Mrs. Dwight T. Randall poured.

Accepting the invitation of Mrs. Carman Root, a picnic will be held at the same time this summer, at the Root cottage at Walled Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Wills and Jack Kenney are spending a few days at their cottage at Gun Lake, near Hastings.

YEH! SUNDAY IS DAD'S DAY; DON'T FORGET HIM

Sunday is going to be observed as Father's Day in Plymouth, and young men and daughters ought to buy Dad something even if you do charge it to his account. One of Dad's big problems is to get the family to remember that day always comes the third Sunday in June. Somehow or other Dad gets forgotten, but the man who is credited with "paying and paying and paying" should be remembered.

Advocates of the thirteen months calendar would fix things so home of us could possibly forget Father's Day. The day when father is elevated to the family throne would always fall on the same numerical day in June—as well as the third Sunday of June—if the calendar jugglers' scheme was adopted.

Things being what they are Dad will appreciate a new tie or perhaps a nifty shirt, slippers, or cigars. Dad will be the last to remind the family about the impending event, but you can bet he has noticed the display windows of stores full of "fixins'" and signs calling attention to his day of days.

Who, Pray, Is Going To Count These Pennies? May Reveal Secrets

The birthday party of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held at 2:30 p. m. next Thursday, June 25th, at the home of Mrs. Clara Patterson Todd. Each member is asked to contribute a penny for each year of her age.

Mrs. Todd, who has just returned from the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union Convention in Toronto, will give a report that will be of great interest to all of the temperance workers. It is hoped that none of the W. C. T. U. members will miss this opportunity of hearing what is being done in all the countries of the world toward banishing the evil of intemperance. A good time is anticipated at this June meeting, and it is expected there will be a large attendance. Ice cream and cake will be served.

Charles Miller Weds Miss Lavity

YOUNG CHILD TAKEN BY DEATH

Friends of little seven-year-old Ben E. Holcomb were greatly shocked to hear of his death, which occurred in the Plymouth High School, Tuesday evening, June 16th. He had been ill the past two months, and two weeks ago was taken to the hospital, where, although every possible care was given him, he passed away of heart disease.

His father, Rev. B. J. Holcomb, is well known here, having been a teacher in the Plymouth High School for a number of years, and for the past year or so has been associate pastor of the St. Mark's Methodist Episcopal church in Detroit.

Funeral services will be conducted from Schrader Bros. Funeral Home this afternoon at 2:30. Interment in Riverside cemetery.

USE PARABLE OF THE GARDENS TO BRING OUT BENEFITS OF ZONING

CITY PLANNING COMMISSION PRESENTS UNIQUE ARGUMENT FOR PROJECT.

"The related subjects of city planning and zoning," according to the City Planning and Zoning Committee, "can be rather dry at times. In going over material which the committee has been gathering on these subjects, is a pamphlet prepared by the City Planning and Zoning Commissions of Roanoke, Va. It struck one's fancy as being an amusing but nevertheless practical object lesson pointing out the advantage of zoning."

Once upon a time there were two communities who dwelt in the City of Let Lushie, which is beyond the land of Stenom. And it came to pass that in the spring each arose from his soil by the frotside and slapped his thigh and said, "Toho! I will make me a garden. And therein shall be flowers and vegetables of all kinds; and the eye and the belly shall rejoice thereat."

So he that was first went forth into the back yard and scratched the soil thereof and stooped to his neighbor, "Holo! Come ye and bring seeds and scatter them; that there may be a garden, and perchance ye may eat of its fruits and bear away nosegays of its blossoms!" And the neighbors, according to his bidding, rushed upon the land and threw about seeds in handfuls, such as they had, and went away.

Then came forth the other into his back yard, and spaded and raked with zeal like unto him that nameth to catch the 7:58 train. And when he had done, he gazed and measured with his eye, and made strange markings with his hoe. And here he set a fragment of wood, and there an ancient clothespin, and soon the back yard was studded with such trash. And between the staked strings, he made furrows and the while he muttered to himself of rows and hills and beds and the like.

But the first communter came, scowling, and said to him: "What doest thou? To which he gravely replied: "I am zoning my garden." Then he that asked the question rolled upon the ground and laughed immoderately. "Zoning, fozzosh!" he cried, and rose and went into his home, and his mirth lifted the roof thereof.

And in the summer, behold, there arose a multitude of plants. And he that had zoned his garden went forth to gaze upon it, and found it good and pleasing to the eye. In one part there grew flowers, and in another vegetables. And the corn was in hills, and the beans were in rows, and the cabbage and the radish had each his place. And they that passed by exclaimed and said, "What a fine garden!"

Then he that had scoffed came forth likewise, and gazed upon his garden. And behold it was a sight. For the corn and the half-hack rose side by side and the radish and the radish were as one, and in the midst of the marigold the cabbage raised his head. And the beet and the turnips and the bachelor's buttons and the sweet peas were striven in abandon. And there were weeds without. And they that passed by went with averted eyes and some said: "What a mess!" and others, "What a pity!"

And when the first communter heard these things, he was ashamed and went to the other and beseeched him humbly, saying, "What was that thing of which you spoke for the want of which your garden is a dud, while yours flourishes like unto the green bay tree?" "I zoned mine," replied the second. Whereat the first swore a mighty oath and lifted up his voice, saying, "If there be so great a difference in gardens, what should it be if the whole city were zoned, with dwellings and factories and stores each in his true place so that there should be order, as in your garden, and not disorder, as in mine?" And thereupon his fellow smote him mightily upon the back and uttered a loud cry, saying, "You said it!" And both arose and bestrode their flivvers and got themselves into the Planning Board; and that which shall be is not a tale that is told—

Massachusetts Federation of Planning Boards.

The law of Massachusetts requires every city and town of over ten thousand inhabitants to have a planning board. All smaller places may have them if they so desire.

"There is a crying need for a good city-planning primer. It should be of such a nature that it would be useful in both cities and villages; in short, everywhere, and it should be so simply stated that any ordinary reader could grasp it. What we need is that the people should be thinking about these problems. We are entirely behind other parts of the world. The little

KOENIG IS NEW CITY MANAGER IN WISCONSIN

Former Plymouth Official
Is Selected for Fort Atkinson Post.

Former Village Manager A. J. Koenig last week received appointment as City Manager of the City of Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin, and Mr. Koenig assumed the duties of his new position.

Fort Atkinson is situated about 53 miles west of Milwaukee on U. S. 12 running from Chicago to Madison. It is a city of about 6,000 population, industrial in character, and is situated in the heart of the dairy farming district. Manufactures are principally incubators, brooders and other farm and poultry equipment and dairy supplies of all kinds. Fort Atkinson is making the change from the Mayor-Council type of city government to the Council-Manager type, and it will be Mr. Koenig's work to inaugurate the new plan and build up a new city organization.

Mr. Koenig was selected for the position from a field of over fifty applicants, and only after the Council had made a most thorough investigation of qualifications over a period of several weeks, which ended in sending two of their number over to Plymouth last week as a final step before the appointment was made.

Mrs. Koenig and the family expect to remain in Plymouth at least for a week or two longer, to arrange for moving their household effects after Mr. Koenig has located a house in their new location.

Well, Well - Plymouth Has The Lieutenant Governor Trimmed

Lieutenant Governor Luren Dickinson must think any more that he is the original man to stop the use of tobacco in legislative halls of Michigan.

When he issued his orders last winter that the senators must not smoke or chew while the senate was in session, it caused considerable newspaper comment.

Village council records of Plymouth show that the lieutenant governor is way back of the times in this matter.

It was on August 14, 1899, when on motion of "Trustee Collier, supported by L. C. Howell that use of tobacco be prohibited during sessions of the council." The motion passed, and as far as known it has never been rescinded.

HAPPYLAND SHOWS HERE FOR ONE WEEK

The Myron H. Beals' Post of the American Legion have contracted with John E. Reid, Gen. Agt., for the Happyland Shows for a week's display of 1000 rides, concessions and exhibits. The show will be held next week, the week of June 22nd. Watch for the big opening next Monday night. Officials of the local Post wish to thank Frank Palmer who donated the use of his property at the southeast corner of S. Main Street and Golden road for the event.

According to Myron H. Beals' Post officials, Mr. Reid and his organization come highly recommended from the American Legion Post in Mt. Clemens, where they have sponsored this show for the last three years and are sponsoring it again this year. They state that Mr. Reid and members of his staff are active Legionnaires, and take pride in the reputation they have built up for courteous treatment to the public from all employees. They promise the largest and cleanest Midway to ever visit Plymouth.

The Happyland Shows feature four big rides, a merry-go-round, a tilt-a-wheel, a ferris wheel, and chair planes. They state that their shows feature curiosities from all parts of the world, and are not to miss. Jerry, the world's only 8-foot horse. They also promise many interesting concessions.

The Myron H. Beals' Post of the American Legion is sponsoring this event to raise money for the purchase of Post Colors for which they will feel a real need when the national convention of the American Legion comes to Detroit next September. Officials of the local post state that they are anxious for the Plymouth Post to make a creditable showing in the monster parade made up of hundreds of delegations from posts all over the United States, which will be the most spectacular feature of the national convention, and that they will deeply appreciate the local public's support.

Remember the time and the place—the week of June 22nd—big opening next Monday night—southeast corner of South Main street and Golden road.

provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan. In Canada, spend more money for advertising. The movement than does Massachusetts. The same is true of New Zealand and provinces in Australia. In England the matter received attention in the speech from the throne by the King. Here we leave it to Mr. and Mrs. and too frequently allow it to become the football of our politicians. While I am a state officer I am not only mildly but even strenuously opposed to any political interference whatever with the question of planning. It is time for us to see it as it ought to be seen."—From a letter to the Chairman of the City Planning Commission.

THE GRADUATE'S CODE-- By Webster H. Pearce

Superintendent of Public Instruction
Public education is for citizenship. Citizenship to be worth while must be personal hence every child who has enjoyed the privilege of the public schools should make a study of and search for the personal laws that will make him the very best citizen possible.

This is the day of codes. We have the sportsman's code, the fisherman's code, the lawyer's code, the school teacher's code, the Boy Scout's code and the Girl Scout's code. The graduate should thus have a code. Let me suggest that each graduate whether of the eighth grade, the high school, or the college pause a moment before starting out into life or on into school and determine for himself the personal legislation necessary to establish for each a code of action, the following of which will guarantee a high type of citizenship.

For my young friends' consideration, I should like to suggest the following:

First, I will continue to be a student. I will not consider my diploma a pardon from further study.

Second, I will be industrious remembering that Thomas Edison said: "Genius is two percent inspiration and ninety-five percent perspiration."

Third, I will be morally, intellectually and spiritually honest. Abraham Lincoln said—"I am not bound to win but I am bound to be true. I am not bound to succeed but I am bound to live up to the best thoughts I have."

Fourth, I will be loyal to myself, to my family, to my school, to my community, to my state, and to my nation. Shakespeare said: "To thine own self be true, and it shall follow as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man."

Fifth, I will always fight hard but fair. Theodore Roosevelt said: "Play fair, don't foul, hit the line hard."

Sixth, I will keep the faith. The ultimate success of any people depends upon its ideals. A nation's ideals are the summation of the ideals of its every citizen. I will therefore lift my ideals high and fight to keep them unswerving.

The greatest code in history is that written by the Great Teacher and contains such personal laws as:

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

"Therefore all things whatsoever you would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them."

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself."

"Honors are onerous," said some poet. Every graduate owes it to himself and his friends that graduation shall mean distinction in citizenship.

HE IS RIGHT

Rural governmental organization in Michigan, fixed by a constitutional provision years old, is efficient in operation, unsuited to modern conditions and in many cases so costly as to place the county in a dangerous financial position, states Professor Arthur W. Bromage, of the Department of Political Science, in a paper printed in the American Political Science Review. Home rule, which would enable the county to adopt an organization suited to its needs is the way out suggested by Professor Bromage.

"No reasonable man in this automobile age would map out the present jungle of small counties and townships in Michigan," says Professor Bromage. "The present system of county government was set up when the population of the state was scattered more or less evenly over the state, and a farmer had to be within a day's drive of the county seat by horse and buggy. The facts are that at present almost 85 per cent of the population is drawn into 35 counties in the southern part of the state, while the remaining 15 per cent is scattered over 48 counties in the northern parts."

There is one block of 9 adjacent counties with a total population of only 47,031 and an assessed valuation of $31,585,890. This group must, under the constitution, support 9 county jails, 9 court houses, 9 probate courts, 9 boards of supervisors, and 9 complete sets of county officers. The burden becomes staggering when we see that these counties have 93 townships, fourteen cities and villages, and several hundred school districts. There are actually thousands of minor public officials."

"The financial results of such a situation, which is common and not exceptional, show up in excessive tax delinquencies. These 9 counties bore a total state and local levy of $1,290,000 in 1928, and of this more than one-third was delinquent. The blame for this cannot fall on the state government, since 93 per cent of the tax levy was for local government. The return of land to the state for overdue taxes is even more alarming. Senator Lennon showed in 1930 that the state owns, or is in process of obtaining, more than one-fourth the total area of both peninsulas." Nothing can alter the fact that the most obvious need of local government is the re-organization of county lines through consolidation on the basis of regional units of economic, social and political significance."

An amendment to the constitution permitting counties to devise such local government as suits the particular situation of each county, is suggested as the logical solution to the serious financial crisis of county government by Professor Bromage. "The vital principle of local self-government would be respected and the way cleared for trials of 'county council-manager plan,' similar to the city manager plan which has proven so successful in many cities, he says."

PAROLES

One has heard much criticism during recent years of Michigan's governors because of the administration of the state's parole system. The criticism has been based to a very large extent upon misinformation and misunderstanding as well as upon the difference in the administration of justice in various counties. In one county not so many years ago a young fellow received a six months' prison sentence for stealing an automobile. In another county another young man was given three years for exactly the same offense. Neither one had ever before been in trouble, and they were confined in the same prison. The other day two young thugs held up a Plymouth man and robbed him while they pressed a sawed-off shot gun at his back. One got a minimum sentence of a year and a half and the other three years and a half. In a neighboring county a young bank clerk is given 25 years for taking part in a bank robbery. In your mind which offense was the worst? If you were governor would you let out the fellow who robbed another threatening to kill his victim with a sawed-off shot gun if he resisted, before you let out the man who participated in a bank robbery by having planned it? And if you were a judge, which would you have given the longer sentence to? If you can satisfactorily answer these questions, then you can solve the parole question.

MR. FORD AND MR. MURPHY

To one who has been following the constant sniping of Mayor Murphy's administration against Henry Ford's industries during recent months, the TNT bomb placed by one of Mr. Ford's officials under Mayor Murphy's Detroit city hall was not entirely unexpected. But the force of that bomb was beyond all expectations and but few pieces of the old place can now be found. The mayor was left high up in a tree dangling by his coat tail and trying to explain that there hasn't been any waste of Detroit's charity fund. With Mr. Ford revealing hundreds and hundreds of cases of men regularly employed by him who had received doles from the city, there wasn't anything left for the mayor to do but call names. Maybe if the voters of Detroit would place the operation of that city's business under Mr. Ford's direction, or that of some of the men that Mr. Ford has trained in business, some of the wanton waste of hard-earned tax dollars would be ended. It surely begins to look as though Detroit's present administration has made a mess of affairs.

HOLLYWOOD HOBBIES

Wallace Beery's hobby is said to be teaching canaries to sing songs. Ramon Navarro pays for the plane, the gasoline and his brother pilots him about. Mae Murray is said to be a specialist in oil—not pictures, but lands. Adolphe Menjou always carries three canes at one time—one inside the other. Big cave-man Victor McLaglan delights to invite folks to his home and cook for them himself. Mary Pickford adores Doug and peanut brittle. Jean Harlow has some sort of magic by which she turns sauerkraut into beauty. An apple each day keeps Bert Wheeler that way.

NEED ORDINARY FOLKS

Times are hard, chiefly because eight or ten per cent of us ordinary folks can't find work.

That is a vivid illustration of how important we really are. Ordinary folks are needed not only as producers but as consumers.

We must not get it into our heads that the only man who counts is the one standing in the limelight and drawing big pay.

He has his part, but it takes a multitude of ordinary folks to support him.

OUR TUMMIES

We have been accused of putting everything into our stomachs. But now it develops that we spent about as much for cars as for food in 1930. At least Uncle Sam looked over 644 cities and found retail food sales amounted to $4,627,971,451, while retail automobile sales figured up to $4,115,501,955. Car purchases outstrip clothes, radios and even chewing gum. We would sooner ride than eat!

AL AND THE GOVERNOR

Governor Brucker's foot may have slipped when he vetoed the bill that would have relieved counties of the extra expense now caused every four years in the selection of a county commissioner of schools, but it didn't slip when he vetoed the Arthur C. Wood bill, which would have permitted banks to charge only one per cent per month interest on loans under $300. Also the bill allowing Grand Rapids to set up an independent licensing system, and a bill providing that persons not belonging to a Masonic organization could serve on Masonic Boards of Trustees—Al Webber in The Cheboygan Observer.

GHOUL THIEVES

A new racket, that of stealing flowers, bulbs and potted plants from cemeteries in Wayne, has become increasingly annoying in the past few months. The Dispatch has been appealed to to aid in ridding the marauders. That cemetery depredations are widespread and not centered around Wayne is evidenced in reports received from other points throughout the country. Just recently a man in an Ohio city was arrested and convicted of stealing stones from a manseum to use in building a rock garden on his own property. A century or so ago when it was customary to bury costly jewels with the deceased, it was not an uncommon occurrence for the graves to be dug up and the corpse stripped of all valuables. When the ghoulish thieves were apprehended in those days the punishment was severe. Often they were deformed in such a way as to make them a mark for ridicule for the rest of their days.

For the ghoulish thieves in Wayne we do not advocate a punishment quite so severe. As a matter of fact we do not advocate a punishment at all. We leave it to the proper authorities to set the punishment to fit the crime. But we cannot help but view with alarm such a situation in our allegedly higher civilization that will permit the despoiling of graves and the desecration of sacred ground for a miserably small monetary gain.

Is our civilization retarding to such an extent that we are back to where we were a few centuries ago; or has our civilization progressed so highly that we no longer regard sacred ground with respect and awe? There is, indeed, food for serious thought in that one dirty little question—Mrs. Lois Hisey in the Wayne Dispatch.

SIGN BOARDS

Why not remove the signs when they become obsolete? For instance one at a First street corner still warns the motorist to be careful because this is the hill "where children are sliding." —Editor Rowe in Milford Times.

Dr. Frank Shuffelbotham of Newcastle, Eng., stated in his bankruptcy case that fighting his wife's divorce suit had wrecked his finances.

It took Alice Hurd of Bridgeport, Conn., 70 years to find the right man, but when she did she promptly promised to marry him.

In all his 73 years, Lincoln Neburt of Dawsonville, Ga., has never had a haircut, a shave, worn a hat, been inside of a schoolhouse, church, or court, used tobacco in any form, or tasted liquor or coffee.

SPECIAL NOTICE—Plymouth Theatre open the following days during June, July and August—Sunday and Monday, Thursday and Saturday. No matinee Saturday. Sunday shows starting at 5:00, 7:00 and 9:00 p. m. Northville—Sunday, Wednesday and Saturday.

Toledo Team Wins Spectacular Game Here Last Sunday

BIG CROWD SEES FAST GAME—WILL PLAY MELVINDALE HERE SUNDAY.

Magnificent pitching by Fred Kennedy enabled the Toledo Travelers to beat Plymouth-Hazzerty, 9 to 5, at Burroughs Park last Sunday before the largest crowd of the season.

The Colored Stars opened the game with a rush, scoring seven runs on five hits, a walk and three errors committed by Plymouth. In the fifth inning Plymouth started a rally that accounted for five runs, the only inning in which they scored. Toledo poked up one run in the fifth and one in the eighth.

"Dolly" Dahlstrom pitched the entire game for Plymouth, and was steady except for the first inning. Toledo collected thirteen hits off Dahlstrom, while he fanned eight of the Stars. Kennedy was touched for seven hits and struck out nine. The keen hitting and holding backed by good pitching was the factor in Toledo's victory over Plymouth.

City of Melvindale will oppose Plymouth-Hazzerty at Burroughs Park, Sunday, June 21. Melvindale has a newly organized club and is rated as a first-class team. To date they have been undefeated, winning nine games. Time of game will be 3:30 p. m.

Christian Science Notes
 "God the Preserver of Man" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches on Sunday, June 14.
 Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "He said unto them, Give place: for the maid is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed him to scorn. But when the people were put forth, he went in, and took her by the hand, and the maid arose" (Matt. 9:24-25).

 The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Sin, sickness, and death must disappear to give place to the facts which belong to immortal man. Learn this, O mortal, and earnestly seek the spiritual status of man, which is outside of all material selfhood" (p.456).

EPISCOPAL NOTES
 There will be an ice cream social on the church lawn, Wednesday evening. The parish house will be open for those who wish to enjoy the evening at cards. Invite your friends to come with you, and be sure to remember the date!
 A number of the men of the church drove to St. Mark's church last Monday evening, and had a very pleasant time with the men of that parish.
 The H.P.P.'s again plan and then all members of the Junior Brotherhood who wish to go on the hike to be held next week are required to attend choir practice on Saturday night. Bible readings are to be continued in Matthew 17.
 All the pupils of the church school are urged to put forth a special effort to be present the next two Sundays. The other classes are having vacation tests next Sunday. There will be no classes during July and August, but it is expected that most of the children will attend the regular morning worship hour.
 A parents' children's service will be held on Sunday, June 28, at 10:00 o'clock, when awards will be made for attendance and progress in the church-school. Special music is being prepared by the choir, and it is hoped that all who have children in the school will come with them to this service. Plans for the school picnic will be announced soon.
 If we would put as much efficiency and regularity into our worship as we do in our work and other activities, we should be assured of equally satisfying returns. Why not go to church every Sunday?

CATHOLIC NOTES
 Congratulations to the graduates of the class of 1931.
 Now that vacation is here parents must not neglect to send their children to Mass and the Sacraments on Sunday.
 July 1st we must meet the interest which is due. Let all make a special effort to be generous: an interest collection will be taken up the last Sunday in June.
 Flowers are always appreciated for the altar. Bring them Saturday afternoon before 4:00 o'clock.
 Nethem baseball team will play ball Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, at Newburg.
 Father Lefevre is still confined to bed and is improving very slowly.

METHODIST NOTES
 Banister class members please take notice, the business and social meeting has been changed to Friday evening, June 26. Pot-luck supper at Cass Benton Park at 6:30. Mrs. Guy Fisher and Mrs. Goteh are to serve on coffee committee, and Mrs. Beatrice Schultz and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Squires, entertainment. Come our and help "Boost" the attendance. Every member present every Sunday, is our class motto.
 The boys in Mrs. Irwin's class and Mrs. Squires' "Junior Boosters" are to meet Saturday morning, June 20, at 10:30, at the church, to embark for our picnic at Walled Lake. So come early if the sun shines bright, with a cup, fork or spoon, and sandwiches, too, as the rest of the goodies are to be supplied.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES
 The annual picnic of the Sunday-school and congregation will be held on Wednesday, June 24th, at Riverside Park, Plymouth. Coffee, cream, ice cream and lemonade will be provided. Picnic supper will be eaten at 6:30 p. m. o'clock. An afternoon of interest to everyone is being planned. On Sunday morning next, the young men of the Demolay organization will attend the church service in a body. The sermon will be in keeping with their presence.

Beatrice Lillie
 Beatrice Lillie of the films, a native of Toronto, Canada, has been in the theatrical profession since she was a child. One success followed another. During the war she sang at soldiers' camps, after which she went to Hollywood, and recently she signed a movie contract. She prefers comedy roles. Miss Lillie is 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighs 112 pounds, has dark brown hair and gray eyes. Her first starring picture is, "Are You There?"

Old Gardener Says:
 MANY climbing roses thrive when grown on their own roots, and can be propagated readily from cuttings. This is such a simple plan that any garden maker can increase his stock if he has a single plant. Dorothy Perkins can be multiplied easily by laying down the canes that are near the ground and covering them with a little soil. This plan may be followed with other free growing kinds but with most varieties it is better to make cuttings—short sturdy pieces of half ripened wood, cut off just below a joint and inserted three-quarters of their depth in sand or sandy soil in a sheltered position.

Your Home and You
 By Betsy Callister
 MAKING COFFEE
 EVEN your favorite recipe book may fail you when you are faced with the task of preparing coffee for a large number of persons, because the rule for coffee making is usually given in terms of small coffee pots or percolators for a small number of persons.
 For coffee of moderate strength you will find that one pound will do for fifty persons, allowing thirty-six measuring cups or nine quarts of water. This will give enough coffee for one full coffee cup each after the coffee is done.
 It is by no means necessary to have a percolator—or percolators—in which to make the coffee, as excellent results may be obtained by using any perfectly clean aluminum or agateware pan. But be sure it is perfectly clean and free from breaks. If you use a pan that has never been used for meats or vegetables it is a good plan to fill it with cold water to which a little washing soda is added and let it boil up. Then rinse and you may be sure that the coffee will be of a good flavor. To be sure that the coffee is free from grounds, tie it up in three or four clean cheesecloth bags before putting it into the pan.

SUPERSTITIOUS SUE

SHE HAS HEARD THAT—
 If a girl takes command of the kitchen and entirely prepares the dinner all by her lonesome—give thanks, sweet cookies—for it's a sign that you will have a home of your own before another year.

"With so many cars parked by the highways," says Romantic Rogaine, "it looks as if even love is machine-made nowadays."

Plymouth Seniors Look To The Future With Hope and Confidence

Following, in complete, are the valedictory and salutatory presented by graduates of the 1931 senior class of the high school:

The Valedictory

To Miss Marjau Gust was given the honor of presenting the valedictory for the 1931 high school graduates. Her subject, "Our Embarkation," was treated as follows:

"Tonight we launch, where shall we anchor? This is an eventful night in our career. As we are about to set out on this, the most important journey attempted so far in our lives, we are all anxious and excited concerning the success of our voyage. We stop to analyze whether everything is in readiness. Have each of us prepared a vessel that is all that it should be? Is it large enough and strong enough? Does it have enough fuel on board? Enough food? Does it have all the repair equipment we might need in any emergency? Is there anything we have forgotten or failed to make provision for?"

This is the first time these responsibilities have been ours and we do want our life's trip to be a success. Until now, others have worried through these things for us while we have gone merrily on our way. We have been on a "conducted tour," as it were, with experienced guides. Our daily routine has been quite definitely outlined for us. The lands of thought through which we have traveled each year have been made more interesting through the careful guidance of our parents and teachers, who have pointed out to us the beauties of the nature and architecture in many fields of mental activity, who have guarded us against disaster by warning us against the mainstems and dangers that we might approach, and who have indicated to us the best way of conquering or avoiding these difficulties. They have led us from one land to another so that we have had to keep busy or be left behind. On this trip we are starting out on tonight we must find our own way and be our own guide.

Let us examine the exact status of our fleet. Just what are our vessels? May I venture to define the vessel of each and everyone as his physical condition and his inherent abilities, plus his mental and character development—of course, we find many types of vessels. No two are just alike. Just one look at the members of the class will convince you that their physical condition will not be a handicap to them. Many of them have made the most of their conducted tours by improving their mental equipment at every opportunity. They have held themselves to a task when they have preferred to do other things, even in the face of the old tempter, "What's the Use." I might even be safe in saying that some have provided their vessels with a gyroscope, which is a remarkable new ship stabilizer that will keep the vessel within two degrees from vertical position. These are the fortunate people because they are able to combat strong winds and withstand terrific storms without a deviation from the course or serious harm to themselves.

Perhaps already, some of us are wishing that we had built a little more firmly or exercised a little more care in making our vessels beautiful as well as serviceable. We already suspect that it is easier to pilot a well built ship than a poorly constructed one. We also are becoming aware of the fact that we would take more pride in piloting a first class steamer which can travel quickly, surely and gracefully than in directing a slow, clumsy barge or tug on its course.

We also know that much of the success of this nautical trip depends upon the skill of the pilot. A beautiful and substantial sea palace is worthless at the hands of a poor one. May I venture to say that the pilot in us is our accumulated sense of values plus our mental stability and character control.

Whether we can set out upon an interesting exploratory voyage, going through somewhat perilous seas, or whether we must be content to ride back and forth in a barge on a canal or whether we must tug into port those who have been on interesting adventures, must necessarily be determined by these two things—the condition and the nature of our vessel and our preparation as a pilot. We are aware of the fact that the success of our voyage lies almost entirely in the hands of the pilot. We also know that it does not take an especially clever one to maneuver a first class ship and we are surprised if their voyage is not successful. We wish to point out that very shrewd pilots have made wonderful voyages even with weak vessels. We recall the dauntless courage of Columbus and Magellan as they blindly sailed the uncharted seas to success. We note also that Helen Keller would not let a handicapped vessel keep her from enjoying an active tour through life's wonders. It is such comparisons as these that spur us on.

Some of the pilots in our fleet will not be setting out on this life's journey tonight as much as others. Some will be able to go to a nearby port, a college or university, where they can make their vessels more seaworthy and beautify them to make them more an object of pride and to make of themselves more efficient pilots before answering the living call of the sea. Those of us who have no such immediate haven must set out on this life's journey tonight. The mooring ropes will be cast off and we will launch with the complete responsibility of directing the vessels of our own construction.

Where is our destination? Perhaps some have already planned a direct course and will guide their vessel there without hesitation. Most of us, however, are not so certain. We will sail out of the harbor cautiously and chart our course with deliberation, hoping to find the land of our heart's desire. Whether we will founder, beat against the rocks, get caught in the storm, or safely sail into the harbor of success is our worry.

As we bid farewell to each other we are hoping that each will be successful in guiding his vessel to port and that when we have our first reunion, and others later on, we will hear of none who have gone down in the storm.

Our hearts throb strangely as we see our families and friends here tonight to wish us well as we pull out of port, to give up their blessing and goodspeed—we only hope that we are worthy of their cheers. The serenades are being thrown from the vessels to our cheering friends on the pier. Our hearts flutter as we clasp our passports which are the results of our four years' preparation for this event, and hear that hearty "Bon Voyage" ashore, and as we enthusiastically, yet sadly wave farewell to our Alma Mater "Tonight we launch, where shall we anchor?"

The Salutatory

Miss Viola Lattinmeyer was honored by being selected as salutatorian of the 1931 high school graduating class. She selected for her subject, "Builders." It follows:

All are architects of Fate,
Working in these walls of Time,
Some with massive deeds and great,
Some with ornaments of rhyme.
Nothing useless is, or half,
Each thing in its place is best;
And what seems but idle show,
Strengthens and supports the rest.
For the structure that we raise,
Time is with materials filled:
Our todays and yesterdays,
Are the blocks with which we build.

Thus, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, in his poem, "The Builders," has stated that we are masters of our Fate, and in working in these walls of Time, we have accumulated many pleasant memories. How one loves to think of the school days, no matter who one is, whether a senior who looks back upon high school life with joy and pleasure, and who looks ahead with keen anticipation toward college, or whether he has completed his schooling and fondly cherishes those happy memories. But where have these reminiscences been procured?

Let us consider the individual as a child. First he was told he must go to school. To school, why? To learn, to practice, to prepare, to acquire. To school, rather, let us say to a well-equipped plant, where he is to be a factotum—a busy body. But before he is a finished product he must be put through various departments under the guidance of certain foremen, whom we call teachers. He, too, like his fellow men must begin at the bottom, becoming accustomed to new and strange surroundings, making new acquaintances, and meeting problems and joys on every side. Soon, after adjusting himself, he becomes like one of the rest and works along with them. In the kindergarten he learns to draw, to paint and color, and to play games. In this new factory, he discovers that his fingers aren't all thumbs as he originally believed, and he is able to keep step with his fellow workers in production. Then he is promoted. Painting and drawing seem childish when he begins studying reading, "rithm," "rhythmic." The subjects become more difficult as he advances and he is required to spend more time studying. Soon he enters high school where he is to become a specialized worker. He may choose a commercial, academic, or general course. It is during his high school career that he finds himself—diving a little into forensic activities, athletics, and music. After all these years of practicing, acquiring, learning and preparing, the day comes when the goal is finally attained; he merges a finished product; he has reached the top. But has he reached the top?

Do you remember the story of the Dutch boy who lived on the shores of the North Sea where he grew into a sturdy healthy little lad? He went to no dinner parties; his feasts were only cookies and strawberry-jam sandwiches. Then, when only seven years old, he was forced to leave his native land and come to America. It was long before any luxuries came in the way of Edward Bok. The family settled in Brooklyn, outside New York, and Edward and his brother were sent to the public school.

In the schoolroom Edward was more or less left alone until he picked up a few words of English. Then he was given a copy book of Spenserian style, with a great many curls and flourishes. Although it was laborious and useless, he became interested and finally persuaded authorities to consider a new copy book in which the writing was plain and unornamented. That was the first step of his publishing career.

It is his school troubles, there were none accepted, that Edward overcame with penitence. One day while he was standing in front of the baker's shop looking longingly at the dainties within, the baker came out.

"They look good, don't they?" he said in passing.

"They would," replied the practical Edward, "if the window were clean."

"That's true," replied the baker, as if struck by a new idea; then, after a pause, "Will you clean it?"

The bargain was made at once. After that Edward went forward rapidly. He obtained employment as a newspaper boy and delivered papers on a big round before he went to school.

His next adventure was a more ambitious one. He sent to The Brooklyn Eagle an account of a party which he had given. The editor, Edward, established a connection with the paper which was very profitable to him. He became particularly interested in biographies of men who had begun life as poor boys and risen to wealth and high positions. He wrote to many really famous people. Later he saw these famous men and women whom he had written, and began autograph collecting. By chance, his collection was made known to the publisher, and great people became so interested in it that it was shown to distinguished visitors. Though near the close of his school career, he was not yet at the top. He had many thrilling experiences as the years went on before he became a rich man, famous and influential throughout the country. He was a finished product. Each step, each experience, helped to make him thus.

Let us do our work as well,
Both the unseen and the seen:
Make the house, where Gods may dwell,
Beautiful, entire, and clean.
Else our lives are incomplete,
Standing in these walls of Time,
Broken stairways, where the feet
Stumble as they seek to climb.
Build today then, strong and sure,
With a firm and ample base:
And ascending and secure,
Shall tomorrow find its place.

The Personal Element

In a work as sacred and intimate as ours, the personal element must always be of paramount importance. The greatest advances in technical skill, the greatest elaboration of service and equipment, only emphasizes the need for human sympathy and thoughtfulness. The growth of our organization and the improvement of our facilities have not effected the close personal relation we maintain with all we serve.

SLIDING DOWN BANISTERS

THE wife's love for sliding down the banister has wrecked the marriage of a Chicago man.

Wife admitted that this was her favorite recreation and apparently her husband didn't like it. Whether it was the sight of her swinging round a curve, or the noise, or the danger to her or the banister that annoyed him, has not been made clear.

The point is that he just couldn't stand it, and eventually, they say, resorted to cruelty in an effort to dissuade her from the sport.

Apparently the judge didn't think it such a heinous crime as he gave her the divorce, alimony and custody of their child.

I am sure all women will acclaim the judge who decided that sliding down the banister is no cause for cruelty—that, in fact, if she must get her fun that way it is a wife's inalienable right!

For my part I think he should have gone a step further and investigated into the circumstance that caused this woman to resort to such a juvenile form of recreation. To the mind of every woman it will be clear not only that she has done nothing wrong, but that she has been very much wronged.

Any woman whose need for recreation must be supplied by the banister would suggest to us not censure, but sympathy. Her husband cannot be very good company. We all want some fun and gaiety in our lives—in fact, we need it—and when a woman has been reduced to seeking her entertainment in such pastime as sliding down the banister it is not she who should be held up to judgment, but the husband with whom existence is so colorless that sliding down the banister seems fun!

NUTTY NATURAL HISTORY BY HUGH HUTTON

THE KIPPERED SNOOPLECRAB

THE female snooplecrab meets incoming liners off Fire Island, and lays her eggs in the smokestacks. The young ones are hatched while the boat is lying at the pier, and by the time they pass Fire Island again on the outward voyage are thoroughly kippered by the smoke. From that time until they return on the next trip the snooplecrabs do nothing but crab at the meals and the weather. They are useful, however, in keeping the type lice away from the cook's galley. This particular one is crabbing about the age of the salt pork he had for dinner. His body is half a walnut with six clove legs. The nippers are cloves and split almonds, while his head is an under-sized peanut. He uses a toothpick tail, pins for feelers, and rice with ink-spots for eyes. (© Metropolitan Newspaper Service.)

ABOUT CARE OF HORSES

"I HAVE no cause for complaint," said Raven, the horse.

Raven was a very black horse. He was very handsome and his owners loved him dearly. He was the pet of the whole family.

"I have every comfort, every consideration," Raven continued. Billie Brownie was sitting perched up in the corner of Raven's stall.

"When we go out," Raven went on, "there is a rug to put over me when I'm left standing."

"If it snows I'm protected."

"If it rains I'm kept dry. There is always a rug brought along for me just as there is one for the rest stay wet and dry off slowly and uncomfortably.

"Why can't they think of their horses, too?"

"If they let their horses get wet and then allowed them in the house to sit down before the living room fires it would be quite different."

"It's cold these days, Billie Brownie, and it often snows."

"We like to be useful but we also want to be treated fairly."

"I'm speaking now for the whole horse world."

"Billie Brownie, can't you get your messengers, the Breeze Brothers, to go around and whisper to people with horses:

"Please put a rug over your horse when you leave him standing in the cold. Put it over him when it is snowing or raining."

"Please see that he is properly shod when it is slippery. It doesn't take long to do this and it saves the poor beast from being nervous and frightened and maybe getting a bad fall."

"Please try to think a horse's thoughts once in a while."

"Will you try to get these messages around, Billie Brownie?"

"Indeed I will do my very best," Billie Brownie said.

"Oh, I do hope they will listen to these messages," Raven sighed.

"You can imagine how it makes me feel to see these things and not be able to do anything about it."

"My family say many fine things to owners of horses who are not being kind."

"If they could only think of it all as though they were horses it seems to me it would help."

"That would help a great deal," Billie Brownie said. "And I'm going to do all I can to help."

"Oh, you make my horse heart very glad," said Raven.

Then Billie Brownie was off, and Raven went to sleep.

He had a beautiful dream that all horses were treated kindly and just as well as he was.

It was a lovely dream, and he woke up feeling so happy.

"I just hope my dream comes true," Raven neighed to himself.

"From the business point of view towns and cities have been classified as industrial, commercial and governmental or social. Those in the last classification are so few and so distinctive that we shall leave them out of account after saying that the industrial development which is natural and commendable in other communities will there either destroy more than it creates or will submerge their peculiar reason for existence. The other two classes are no longer distinct. A century ago we had distinctively commercial towns. Today, even in the far West, our cities are nearly all partly industrialized and are in process of becoming more so. Consequently we are developing industrial and commercial districts in the same community. That is one reason why zoning is necessary.

"This development of many of us a very wholesome one. We wish to see industry decently housed. Industrialization means more smaller cities instead of a few tremendous ones, or large cities made up of groups of distinct communities instead of the giant agglomerations suffering from elephantiasis that now are one of our most difficult problems. Industrial decentralization also means lessened waste in transportation. To haul a raw product clear across the country and then haul the finished product back again is wasteful unless there are compensating advantages, such as those which induced Denver to give up the thought of competing with New England's woolen mills. The United States Steel Corporation realized this when it built Gary at the foot of Lake Michigan and Fairfield near Birmingham.

Delegates Attend Grosse Ile Meeting

Mrs. Charles O. Ball and Mrs. Wm. H. Ball attended the Wayne County League Grosse Ile Citizenship school held at the home of Mrs. Fred E. Anderson, June 12, 1931. The subject was "Government's Responsibility for the Public Welfare." The speakers were Miss Edith Rockwood, secretary of the Department of Welfare in Government, National League of Women Voters, Washington, D. C.; Henry Irwin, State Director of the United States Employment Bureau; Dr. Frank Adams, League for Independent Political Action.

Miss Milna Sillanpaa, Member of Parliament of Finland, was the guest of honor. Through the aid of an interpreter she spoke on conditions in Finland.

The luncheon was served by St. James Service League. The June meeting of the Plymouth League of Women Voters was most enjoyable. First the members gathered at the Garden Tea Room, where a delicious luncheon was served by Mrs. B. Richards, which they went to the home of the president, Mrs. Charles O. Ball on Hunk avenue for the afternoon program.

Mrs. D. A. Bentley, president of the Wayne County League, gave a talk on League Activities and League Problems. Mrs. John A. Yenn, county chairman of efficiency in government, told the members how restricting will effect the citizens in Michigan.

The Plymouth League has received an invitation from Mrs. Frank Millard, one of its members, to meet at her home in Detroit, at which time her son, Philip Millard, will tell of his experiences in Russia during the past year. The members are looking forward with great interest to this meeting, date of which will be announced later.

Miss Velma Petz leaves today for Lake Geneva, Wis., where she will be a delegate from Harper hospital, Detroit, at the Y. W. C. A. convention. Miss Petz will be gone two weeks.

Ford Taps Take Rocks For Ride

The Ford Taps defeated the Rocks on Monday, June 15th by a score of 10 to 8. The Rocks did very good playing in the outfield making several spectacular catches. L. Partridge played his usual good game playing on second base this time, however, and stopping all balls within his reach. Clarence Smith kept his batting average up by getting four good hits in four times up to bat. Pitcher Britcher had very much difficulty in picking them off the ground but Johnny has a charity horse so he has a good excuse. Catcher Dobbs, for the Ford Taps played his usual good game behind the plate. Todd had his old clothes on so he will not have to go to the cleaners. Laible tried to make an easy catch but got one of his fingers in the way. He is now on the injured list. Smith reinstated himself by catching all balls coming his way. We have been told by Empire Johnson that Henry Handorp will have to cease razzing the umpire or he will not be allowed in the park. We are tipping you off Hank so be prepared for the worst. Mr. John Higgins, manager of the Ford Taps will in the future kindly get on the field at six sharp. Score keeper McCollum did good work in keeping score. Ford Taps will play the Purchasing Department of the Ford Motor Company of River Rouge on the Ford Athletic Field Monday, June 22 at six thirty sharp. Players of both teams will kindly be on the field on time so the game may be started at six thirty instead of seven or seven-thirty as has been the case so far. Manager Higgins kindly take notice of starting time, and by the way what has become of E. Gallimore. If he is not seen on the field pretty soon we will have to call the Police Department. Also to show how popular these games are Henry Johns made a special trip from Detroit to watch this game.

"The three items above are important from the essential point of view of assuring us a living. The next is a sort of bridge between these and the items which make the living worth the living. It is Has our town a plan which will guide its future growth, and regulations which will prevent short-sighted and greedy individuals from handicapping business and spoiling those things upon which we spend the profits of business?"

"A city plan is a very practical proposition. Its purpose is to enable our town to make the most of all its natural advantages, to plan improvements so that they will give the most for the money, supplement instead of blocking each other. The nearer end of the bridge above referred to is that city planning provides facilities for business. It selects and develops appropriately those areas best fitted for industry, those best fitted for wholesale houses, those best fitted for retail stores. Then it provides for their expansion with the greatest ease and the least possible destruction to other activities. Then it provides for access to them, transit and transportation, for communication between these various business areas and the areas which business supports and which in large measure are the justification of business, the area of homes and schools where a new and, we hope, a better generation is being reared to take over our responsibilities when we drop them. And at the farther end of the bridge we have these home areas which the city plan makes more safe, more comfortable, more attractive than they would be without a plan."

"Supplementing this city plan our town has a zoning code which regulates the development of private property so that the exploiter may not take much of the value out of his neighbors' holdings, but that all may enjoy a fair field and no favor. And supplementing the zoning code our town has a housing code which prevents the erection of unfit dwellings, and a building code which assures us that our buildings will not fall down or burn up without adequate provocation. These four things we lump together as item four since they all have to do with the proper building of our town."

Victor McLaglen

Clever Victor McLaglen spent most of his youth in South Africa where his father was an Episcopal bishop. He served in the Boer war and eventually reached Canada and became a boxer and wrestler. Later he entered vaudeville, after which he again wandered over various countries. At the close of the World war he entered pictures. His first big achievement was in "What Price Glory?" He has been seen to advantage in many other pictures, his latest being "On the Make."

THE WHY OF SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

BABY'S TOOTH

ALL old-time nurses and mothers in the rural districts were very careful when a child lost its first milk tooth that the tooth should be burned in the fire, for if it were thrown away and a dog happened to get hold of it the child would have a "dog's tooth" grow in its place when the new teeth came. Inquiry reveals this superstition to still be surprisingly common even among people who ought to know better. But its absurdity is equalled by its antiquity and our barbarian ancestors regarded it as a perfectly reasonable proposition.

It works by "contagious magic" upon the principle that what has been a part of a man retains, though severed from him, a magical sympathy with his person and what happens to it will happen to him. This is especially true of teeth, the hardest and most indestructible part of a man. Young children were always regarded as being particularly susceptible to magical influences of all sorts. Therefore if a dog gnaws the cast milk tooth of a child a contagion is set up and the tooth which grows in its place is a "dog-tooth." Many an old woman can point to a "dog-toothed" neighbor as proof of this. The superstition appears to be universal and in some countries the cast milk teeth are deliberately placed where rats can get at them in the belief that if they do the child's new teeth will be as strong and sharp as the rodent's. THE WHY OF SUPERSTITIONS

DEATH CONTAGION

IN THE rural districts especially, less frequently in the cities, it is the custom, both in this country and Canada, to give the whole house a thorough cleaning after a death has occurred in it, though the death may have been the result of no contagious disease, the deceased may not have had any long illness, and may even have died from violence or accident. The mere fact that death has occurred in the house is supposed to necessitate the cleansing. In some sections many people will not walk through a graveyard to going to make a call for fear of bringing death to their friends.

All this is a survival of the doctrine of the contagion of death. Primitive man had no idea of the contagion of disease but through observation of the effects of disease, came to the conclusion that death itself was "catching." Disease and death to him were purely spiritual phenomena. The nearer the relationship of the dead to the living the more favorably were the living liable to be affected. If one of the attendants of the temple of Hierapolis-Bambyce saw the dead body of a stranger he might not enter the temple for a day and night; if the body of a relative he was barred for thirty day and in any case must be purified before resuming his office. In the island of Ceos those who offered sacrifice to dead friends were unclean for two days and could not enter the temple until purified by water. Any number of similar citations might be made. Purification by water was the usual prescription for death contagion; not because of its physically cleansing properties but because it was the ultimate source of life.

Thus we see a primitive idea which has developed on the one hand into boards of health and the germ theory and on the other into a meaningless current superstition.

Through a Woman's Eyes

IS BEAUTY ENOUGH?

I HAVE two letters asking our opinion on beauty contests. I am going to quote for you, first, what the famous British artist, C. R. W. Nevinson, who has served as a judge in such contests, has to say:

"I believe that these beauty competitions originated with the real estate agents of America, who used the female of some small town to boost the female of some smaller town, and so advertised the locality in which they intended to speculate. "These beauty competitions are indirectly encouraging unfortunate women to imagine that beauty is sufficient, in spite of the fact that every day we have proofs that any woman who dares to face the mad scramble in any form of public life must be equipped with a brain as sharp as a needle, a ruthless opportunism and a skin as thick as a rhinoceros."

"The Mohammedans are possibly kinder to women than we are. They prevent this natural and adolescent mania for self-exhibition by compelling their women to hide themselves behind a veil."

From which we gather that Mr. Nevinson does not approve of beauty competitions. And while I do not agree with him that Mohammedan women are better off than we, I do believe that he has hit at the crux of the matter when he points out the danger of leading girls to believe that beauty is all-sufficient.

Since beauty, even in its day, is not sufficient without such qualities as intelligence, wit, a sense of humor, interest in things, and some individuality of personality, how leaky a bark it must prove to the girl who wants to set out in it without equipment, on the sea of life. For whatever the degree of beauty with which we may be gifted, there is one phase of it that is universal and indisputable. And that is its transiency. Beauty fades—inevitably. The years which enrich other qualities take constant toll from this gift which they must inevitably impoverish and destroy. Therefore it is wise for a girl not to overestimate its powers or exaggerate its importance to the point of overlooking the cultivation of deeper and more permanent qualities. GIRLS NEGLECTED

"DON'T touch that, you might break it." "Don't try to pour the milk, you might spill it." "No, I don't want you to help me make the cake. You would only upset things and make more work." And so it goes and the little girl who would have been only too glad to help mother when she was five or six has outgrown her desire to do so by the time she is thirteen or fourteen.

Once of course mothers had to let their children help, even when there were servants. Now with improved, shortened methods of doing things they usually find it easier to do things themselves than to bother teaching their daughters to help. And the number of girls of high school age who know practically nothing about cooking is amazingly large. This inability to do the countless and one things that girls all used to know how to do sometimes amounts to a real handicap.

The superintendent of a large nurses' training school related the other day that a surprisingly large number of girls who were perfectly well qualified to do the classroom work in training school started training handicapped because they didn't know how to do the most usual sorts of work about a house. "Mothers really ought to teach their children how to use their hands," she said, "especially mothers whose daughters want to become trained nurses."

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

WHY IS IT "BAGATELLE?"

"OH, NEVER mind, it is only a bagatelle."

This we hear or say every so often, the implication being, "It's only a trifle, don't bother about it."

Like many other words that are now common currency, "bagatelle" comes to us from another tongue in which it has a related but not identical meaning.

It is to the Italian language that we are indebted for "bagatelle." And here, spelled almost exactly as it is spelled in English, it means "a little property."

INDEX

THE index is a special breed of pointer developed by the partridge hunters of Terra Del Fuego. On scenting a partridge, it points in the direction with its tail, and reverses its feet in the same direction. In case the hunter's shells are frozen by the cold winds blowing off Cape Horn, the word of command is given and the index, throwing its head back over its shoulders, dashes off at the quarry and impales him on the sharply pointed tail. As it is more adept in this position, biologists have not been able to determine whether its feet grow backwards or its head and tail have been interchanged.

In any case, there is no doubt that its feet are split peanuts with clove legs. The body is a paper-shell pecan, the head a single peanut, and the neck and ears are cloves. The tail is a highly tempered toothpick, ground down to a fine point.

WALTER JAY COFFIN

Walter Jay Coffin was born at Plankinton, South Dakota, December 26th, 1888. On April 13th, 1917, he was united in marriage to Bessie Hope. To this union two children were born, Lionel and Norma.

About seven years ago Mr. Coffin, with his wife and children, moved to the vicinity of Plymouth, Michigan, where he has resided since that time.

Though not enjoying perfect health for some months, he carried on his usual work until three weeks ago, when he was taken to Harper hospital where he died June 11th, 1931, at the age of forty-two years, five months and fifteen days.

Mr. Coffin was an honest, dependable workman, a good husband and father, and a useful, trusted citizen. He leaves to mourn their loss, his wife, his son and daughter, and two sisters and one brother.

Rosedale Gardens

By J. W. WALKER

High Schoolers
from Rosedale next semester will be seven stronger in number. Seven is a lucky number, some say. Anyway the lucky seven to pass our eighth grade are six girls and the lucky seventh boy, all as follows: Edith Davis, Virginia Thornton, Jean Loftus, Eleanor Strachle, Lora Garity, Dorothy Morsger and Lucky Seven Donald Johnston (Esq.). Congratulations and good wishes go to all of the seven from all Gardenites. Graduating exercises were held in the Trenton High School.

Traffic
for some three weeks past has been unusually light and free from accidents. It may be the sudden changes in weather, the normal times whether we have weather or whether we don't we usually have heavier than that traffic on Sunday, which we have not lately.

Rose-Winter
Over the week-end, as has been the custom for the what is rare as a four day in June, or something. So then, on with the summer, and it may be twisted around to "March had its summer, April its summer and winter ditto for May—so if this be June make the most of it," excerpts from the diary of a modern Gardenite. Let it also be said that the nice rains have helped our shrubbery and trees, as well as to make the garden grass grow in our door yards and probably choking a billion or so of dandelions, which will never be missed when spring comes in 1932. And last Sunday was Flag Day with real summer weather.

Bricks
have ceased to fly about the Gray home, but now Cousin Don Parks and Cousin Watson are converting the Ripple and Russel homes into B. V. B.'s. The Land Co. boys are grading, sodding and neatly shrubbing about the Smith, Phipps, Gray and extra newly B. V. B.'d garages, sodded and driveway.

Accident
on Friday last on US-12 and Outer Drive double curbers. Three bicyclists tried to make circles about one another, but started and ended quickly; they all tried to go different directions at same time, with the Schroeder car as a pivot. Net result—many lacerations, four stitches in Joe Jr.'s lower lip and much repairs to the bicyclists in question.

Gone
are the Victor Vassold and Joseph Schroeder families. They have moved away. Sorry to see them go, they will be missed by all. Joe, Sr., is returning to make it possible for lights to be worked by electricity, however.

Airways
are becoming more and less popular with Gardenites. Reason—some took a ride the other day from Middle Belt Field and got so sick, while others enjoyed the ride, view, everything.

Roads
cross, concrete and otherwise are being repaired, graded, salted and oiled—both for winter rain and summer dust protection. So if you see a red light at night or a discarded carpenter icians horse blocking traffic during the day, it means may, may for safe and some passage thru to the next intersection. Some drains in the street lines are also providing Supt. Alfred's attention, so careful folks, or a busted tire may result from too big a hurry.

Garages
and cement driveways are being added to the attractive brick veneering on the lots—Phipps, Gray, Webster Brown, by brother Day and cousin Leo Bordek, woodchickens and cousin Silvio Bernadotte the cementician. Tony the "Tio" is following or rather leading the way filling, baths, kitchens and whatnots.

Visitors
Former residents visiting to praise, marvel and gossip the past week, were Mr. and Mrs. Guy Emerson and granddaughter, Miss Shirley; Mrs. Ramon Dixon, William Keely, Mrs. E. G. Brown, George Watson and Miss Marion Small "coming home" at least once every week.

Play-Field
at the School House has attracted many youngsters, as well as the field, beyond for some quiet ones in the early evening for a game of singles with the bigger boys—and sometimes girls. Lawd too!

Boy Scouts
are going on the boat-ride on the 13th, all hoping to bring home the bacon, or whatever prizes may be.

Vacationing
to Portage Lake are the Nichols' family of lower York avenue, whilst others are planning various places and methods. Probably most folks are glad to have a steady job, let alone a vacation.

Radio Picnic
that is many kiddie Gardenites went to Father Coughlin's Radio Sunday-School Picnic last Sunday, and did they have a wonderful time. Even Mayor Murphy and the Detroit Police Band went and had a good time.

Condolences
of all are extended Mrs. King, who has just returned from Matfund Mo., leaving buried Mr. R. Q. King there in the old family burial grounds.

No Water
all Friday Nite and Satdee till two past meridian. The main feed line to our system (water, we mean, dear Burt) broke about four o'clock in the past noon abast Schoolcraft and McKinney Roads. The workmen came out twice, not being able to find the break in the dark. However, the weather being nice, the brickicians had a holiday and carpentericians contented with Vitamin "R" in lieu of water. Some Gardenite kiddies got a sudden holiday to town and the zoo with mother; so every water pipe has its bright side even if it busts.

New "D" Boy
is Don Johnston, at "R" Emporium—delivery of the week-end specials and many orders for hot weather requisites have kept Don on the old bus all day long. Don is learning fast, even to knowing that 12 eggs make an even doz., etc., etc.

Bass Fishing Season Opens Next Thursday No Changes In Laws

Regulations unchanged from last year, the open season for bass, bluegills and sunfish starts June 25. At that time all lakes and streams will be open to fishing for all game and non-game fish. Only two species are protected throughout the year, grayling and sturgeon.

Size and possession limits were unchanged by the 1931 legislature. The black bass size limit is 10 inches with a creel limit of five per day or in possession at one time. Twenty-five is the daily limit for catfish, rock, sunfish, white and warmouth bass, crappies, bluegills, sunfish and perch or any combination of these species.

Everyone interested in the protection of the black bass should familiarize himself with the provisions of the recently enacted federal black bass law as it is applicable to both anglers and commercial fishermen, according to officials of the American Game association.

The fact that they had to work in the heat, whilst aviatoricians went sailing by in cool breezes overhead. "Wish I was up there in one of them that airplanes," says G. W. "If you all was," reports Sambo, "Miss Wilson woulda shot you all for a blackbird." Which remark is the reason a brick was dicked by G. W., and a basement window is out on the Ripple job.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary met Wednesday, at the church. There were fourteen present. Plans for an ice cream social to take place June 24, were made. Tickets will be placed on sale soon. Everyone is invited.

Briefly the law prohibits transportation of largemouth and smallmouth black bass from one state to another that have been caught, sold or transported contrary to existing state law; in other words, a violation of the federal law is predicated on a violation of state law; then the fish must be taken out of the state where the state violation occurred.

One of the important features of the law is that section which requires package or container containing such "Black Bass," and an accurate statement clearly and conspicuously marked "Black Bass," and an accurate statement of the number of bass contained, and the names and addresses of the shipper and consignee. An important section is that relating to the seizure of black bass transported in violation of the law; fish illegally transported interstate may be seized by an authorized employee of the Department of Commerce, or U. S. Marshal, which are forfeited upon conviction, or if the U. S. Judge believes a violation occurred.

The U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, the direct government agency charged with the enforcement of the federal black bass law, declares it is not intention to prosecute persons who are unfamiliar with the law at this time for trivial infractions, but it solicits the hearty cooperation of the hook and line fishermen in upholding the law which was passed and is being enforced for their direct benefit. Copies of the law may be obtained

32 MILES ON ONE GALLON OF GASOLINE 32

That Record was Established in the PLYMOUTH MOTOR SALES GASOLINE MILEAGE CONTEST

Friday and Saturday, June 12th and 13th at our Garage

Friday and Saturday, over 100 Model "A" Ford Car owners accepted our invitation to compete in our Gasoline Mileage Contest, in which a model "A" Ford was used with a special attachment which allowed only a specified amount of gasoline to be used, and the car to be driven over a straight, specified route.

Mr. John Forshee won the contest, and first prize of $10 when he drove his car to the equivalent distance of 32 miles on a gallon of gasoline. Mr. William Gayde was second with 31 miles, and Mr. Walter Schultz was third with 30 miles. That's what we call distance.

That's Economy that YOU should enjoy with a Ford Car

The new Ford car is as economical a car as you could desire, and an equally fine car in performance and willingness to stand the toughest of driving. With millions of motorists all over the country averaging over 20 miles on each gallon of gasoline used regardless of locality or topography of the country, that is why the new Ford car is so much in demand all over the United States and foreign countries as well.

The Penniman-Allen Theatre has announced the coming of "The Cohens and Kellys in Africa" which will be the feature attraction Saturday, June 27...

Initiating Universal's hilarious series with "The Cohens and Kellys," Murray and Sidney, and Vera Gordon and Kate Price have left a trail of laughter which has been doubled and trebled with each successive picture...

Cohen and Kelly, whose perpetual arguments are screamingly funny, cannot fail to agree that their piano manufacturing business is in a serious depression because of a shortage of ivory for the keys. In desperation, they decide to go to Africa on an ivory expedition under the leadership of Windjammer Thorn, a fake explorer...

How their serious predicaments are finally untangled will be shown at the Penniman-Allen Theatre, Saturday, June 27.

The splendid supporting cast includes Lloyd Whitlock, Nick Cogler, Frank Davis and Eddie Cane. Vin Moore directed the picture.

The most difficult and spectacular play ever made in Rousseau Park was witnessed by the spectators in the seventh inning. With Shoemaker and Chass on bases, Cleve hit what looked like a Texas leaguer over shortstop...

Next Sunday at 3:00 p. m., Jersey Creamery of Detroit, will be at Rousseau Park, Newburg.

Urges Students To Use Library

Mrs. Murray, librarian, urges all students to make liberal and profitable use of the Plymouth library, 204 Main street, during the summer vacation months...

"When the call to vacation comes," she said, "so many students plan not only on leaving the classroom behind but on forgetting about books until the school bell rings again."

"The fact is that those students who are busily engaged with their studies during the regular school year find that the summer months afford them that opportunity they seek of reading exactly the books they enjoy reading."

"Another consideration is that students are not so rushed in the summer. They can spend time browsing around the library, getting acquainted with this store house of information; they can discover how to look for things they want and how to use the library efficiently and to advantage not only now but in years to come."

Business Not Aided by Worry

"Clear thinking and diligent application must dominate the merchandising field in 1932," stated Frank M. Mayfield, president of Scruggs, Vanderhoort and Burney Dry Goods Company, St. Louis, Missouri, in an interview with David J. Woodlock, manager-director of the National Retail Credit Association, which was forwarded today to Miss Marie Johnson of the Merchants Service Bureau, local bureau member of the N. R. C. A.

Mr. Mayfield will address the nineteenth annual convention of the National Retail Credit Association at St. Louis, June 16-19, and his subject will be "Let's Plan Our Work and Work Our Plan."

"This is going to be a good year for merchants to do some clear thinking. Most of our problems can be solved by analysis: few by fretting or worrying or stewing," Mr. Mayfield said. "Volume and profits certainly are not going to come easily. The probabilities, in most cases, are that the former cannot be increased and the latter will show improvement only by better methods of internal operation."
