

BUSINESS GAIN IS INDICATED

Prominent Banking Statistician Notes Improvement Throughout the State.

MANY CITIES REPORT BETTER CONDITIONS

Not Only Is There More Hopeful Outlook For All Manufacturing Lines But Retail Trade As Well.

Substantial improvement in Michigan industrial activity is expected before the year-end, according to Dr. Ralph E. Hader, executive vice-president and Carl F. Behrens, economist of the Union Guardian Trust Company, unit of the Guardian Detroit Union Group, Inc. The next few weeks should also witness a quickening of retail demand throughout the country because of the impetus given by Christmas purchases.

Since many of the indices representing business in Michigan and in the United States have recently declined to new low levels. The results of the next few weeks in industry and trade will be watched with more than casual interest. Likewise, the convening of Congress on December 7 will have added significance this year.

Industrial production as reported by the Federal Reserve Board stood at 74 per cent of the average which prevailed in the period 1923-1925, the lowest level reached since February 1922. This compares with 76 per cent in September and with 87 per cent a year ago.

Wholesale commodity prices as reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics were 68.4 per cent of the 1926 level, having declined on October 15 a little more than a per cent from the September 15 level. On October 15, 1930, this index stood at 82.6. The decline since that date amounts to 17 per cent. The retail price of food in the United States, paralleling the decline in wholesale prices, have dropped 17.5 per cent from the October 15, 1930 level. The decrease in Detroit retail food prices in the same period amounted to 19 per cent.

In this connection, it is interesting to note that the Bureau of Labor Statistics index of wholesale prices of automobiles stood at 99.7 per cent (1926-1930) in October, 1931, which compares with 100.2 per cent for October, 1930. The cause of reduced incomes and lower prices of many other types of consumer goods, such as food, rent, clothing and the like, it is possible that the 1932 automobile models will be priced somewhat lower than those introduced a year ago.

Building activity has declined further in recent weeks. The Federal Reserve Board index of Building Contracts awarded (1923-25-100) which is adjusted for seasonal variation, now stands at 55 per cent for September and with 78 per cent in October, 1930. The October level is the lowest point this index has reached since June, 1921. In February, 1921, the index stood at 43 per cent and in June, 1923, at 138 percent of the 1923-1925 average level.

Freight-car loadings during October showed the normal seasonal increase over September, but were about 20 per cent below the October, 1930, level. Department store sales actively showed more than the estimated seasonal gain. The Federal Reserve Board index which makes allowance both for number of business days and for usual seasonal changes, was 86 percent (1923-1925-100) in October, compared with 84 in September. According to Federal Reserve Board estimates, the dollar volume of department store sales in the period January 1-October 31 averaged 10 per cent less than in the same period of 1930. In view of the price changes noted above, it would appear that actual purchases were greater in the first ten months of 1931 than in the same months of 1930. Stocks of merchandising on department store shelves average about 12 per cent below stocks of a year ago.

In the financial markets, the strength apparent in the earlier weeks of November has disappeared. Stock prices are approaching, in some cases are lower than, their October 5 levels, and bonds, particularly rail issues, have also shown weakness. Prevailing rates on short term funds have shown little change during the past month, but are above the levels of a year ago. The yield on United States Treasury bonds on November 21 was computed as 3.67 per cent which compares with 3.81 a month ago and 3.32 a year ago.

Would Become City

Definite steps toward making Birmingham a city, today had taken form in the appointment of a committee of property owners to investigate the advantages of changing from a 100 year old village to a modern city.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY TO BE GIVEN DECEMBER 10th and 11th

DOROTHY HUBERT

The annual senior play entitled "The Ghost Parade," a mystery farce in three acts, written by Miss Katharine Kavanaugh, author of "Drums of Death" and "The Yellow Shadow," will be presented in the Plymouth High School auditorium, Thursday and Friday, December 10 and 11, at eight o'clock.

The scope takes place in a run-down hotel known as the Hotel Imperial. A young lady, from the city has inherited the hotel, and she and her friend attempt to make a success of this dilapidated inn. Two young men who register at the hotel see the girls through the mystery and, strangely to say every midnight, ghosts parade through the hotel. To complicate matters four extremely troublesome stage actresses take rooms at the inn and contribute much to the mystery and farce of the play. But perhaps most comical of all is the negro porter whose stupid superstition and clever direct makes one laugh at him in spite of one's misanthropy.

The leading lady, Miss Anne Watkins, is carried by Dorothy Hubert. Dorothy was chosen for this part on the basis of her past experience. She carried the leading lady's part in "A Full House" last year's January play. She has participated in several one-act plays given in the high school assemblies and in community plays.

The leading man, Ted Lewis, is very well played by Donald Proctor. Don is also a veteran of Plymouth dramatic activities. His play opposite Miss Hubert in "A Full

DONALD PROCTOR

House" and carried the lead in "The Wedding March," a one-act play given to several local organizations early this fall. Many people know Donald Proctor through his frequent public appearances playing an accordion.

A sub-lead is very originally carried by Janet Bickelstaff and Frank Allison. However, the entire play is touched with interesting bits made up by Rastus, played by "Biffon Sackow. Clifton finds it unusually natural to speak in a negro dialect, to play a mouth organ, and to roll "them" eyes.

The entire cast of characters is the following: Anne Watkins, heroine; Dorothy Hubert, Miss Watkins' friend; Donald Proctor, Mable Rose, Annie's friend; Janet Bickelstaff, Mabel Stuart, Ted's friend; Frank Allison, Rastus, negro porter; Clifton Sackow, Absalom Hawkins, and inhabitant; Casher Stevens, Sheriff Marshall Purdy, Illinois village shik; Frank Beckwith, Alvie Higgenbottom, guest; Bill Kirkpatrick, Jonas and Marilda, mysteries; guests: Maynard Larkins and Beryl Proctor; Miss Abigail Jones, Doris Hamill; Billy Lamont, Zerkow, Blunk; Claudia, Flue and Post, stage actresses; Mary Urban, Mary Lorenz, Chic, Dorey.

Clear School In One And Half Minutes In Fire Alarm Drill

Tuesday forenoon the fire zone was sounded and the eleven hundred forty-four high school and grade school pupils marched out and away from the building in one minute and forty seconds.

In the Central Grade division, the pupils, four hundred ninety-one in number, beat the record of the High School by ten seconds by marching out and away from the building in one minute and thirty seconds from the time the zone sounded.

In a building which is fire-proof, as the Central Grade building is, the danger from fire, when children are trained to march out orderly and away from the building in one minute and thirty seconds, is completely eliminated.

These Are The First To Get New License Plates in Plymouth

Secretary Herz Moore of the Michigan Department of State, who is also secretary of state's branch office in Plymouth, has started issuing licenses for 1932. To Harold L. Oon, who is associated with Carl Shear in the bulk agency, goes the distinction of getting the first 1932 license plates from the Plymouth office.

Other plates issued on the first and second days of December follow: Fred Wack, Farmington; Willard D. Stark, Northville; Archie Adams, Northville; Theo. H. Werner, Detroit; Oliver Millard, Detroit; Scott Montgomery, Northville; O. H. Butler, Northville; Wm. Wilson, Wayne; Wilkie Mortimer's, Inc., Plymouth; K. R. MacDuff, Detroit; Jack E. Taylor, Plymouth; John Nevin, Detroit; John C. Hoshack, Plymouth; Andrew T. Welzer, Plymouth; Fred J. Stocken, Plymouth; Frank H. Coon, Plymouth; Fuller Cone, Dearborn; Letha Jean, Training School; Jack Reding, Jr., Farmington. Secretary Moore believes that the next two or three weeks will see a considerable demand for the plates from the inquiries he has received in the last few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Galin will Saturday evening, celebrate their eleventh wedding anniversary, at their home in Detroit.

VILLAGE CUT MAKES RECORD

Few, If Any Other Places, Make Savings That Plymouth Has In Past Year.

TAX COLLECTION IS ALSO EXCELLENT

Taxpayers Given Chance To Save Interest; Officials Hope To Make Another Saving To Property Holders.

The village treasurer is preparing the delinquent tax roll to be sent to the Wayne County treasurer, the work on which is expected to be completed early next week.

Payments of village taxes and delinquent special assessment taxes will be received at the local office up to and including December 7th. This is the last day on which payments may be made at the Village Office. After that date the roll will be in the hands of the county treasurer, who will collect a fee of four per cent for collecting the tax and will also add a penalty of three-fourths per cent per month.

The collection on the 1931 general taxes are slightly less than one per cent below the estimate made earlier in the year, and about three per cent below the 1930 collection. Present indications are that a few more taxes will be paid before the 7th of December which will bring the total amount received up to or slightly above the estimated collections.

The record of Plymouth taxpayers is one of which to be proud. Very few, if any municipalities in this part of Michigan have such a record. A successful effort was made at the start of the year to lower taxes and thus make the support of local government easier. This was accomplished and a 25 per cent reduction made in the operating cost. No records are available which show a greater reduction in operating costs of municipal government in Michigan. The reduction of local governmental costs will continue as long as possible in order that the tax burden may be reduced by practicing every economy in the village. This will be one step toward tax reduction which must be effected by all governmental agencies, including township, county, state and federal.

BEAUTIFYING THE CEMETERY

Village Doing Much To Make Burial Grounds A Beauty Spot.

During the past two months work has been progressing rapidly on the re-grading and top dressing of all perpetual care lots at Riverside cemetery. In the past very little work of this character was ever undertaken, the result being that little or no grass was grown on these lots.

In order to get a good growth of turf on the soil at the cemetery, it has been found necessary to apply a top coating of black soil. Several of the lots have already been re-seeded and the balance will be seeded early in the spring.

In the plans for development and beautification of the cemetery, it has been found advisable to prohibit the mounding up of lots, thus producing a very uneven surface difficult to maintain. The low spots between these high lots are being filled in as rapidly as filling material is available.

Within a few years, if the present policies are continued, the appearance of the entire cemetery should be greatly improved. It is the plan of officials of the cemetery to do everything possible to maintain the perpetual care lots in perfect condition. The only item lacking at present is the amount of water available for sprinkling purposes, but consideration is now being given this matter, and plans may be developed whereby an adequate supply of water will be available.

Under present regulations of the cemetery, the cost of perpetual care is 30c per square foot, the lowest amount ever charged since adoption of the plan in 1908. The former price was 60 2-3c per square foot.

They Buried Cash Then Thieves Got It

Their life's savings, $22,000, were taken by Archie Gagney and his wife of Alpena, Mich., from a bank and buried under the basement floor of a relative's house. Recently Gagney went to the house to count his money and discovered it had been stolen.

Mrs. Weed and Mrs. Melvina Joy spent Thanksgiving Day with Mr. and Mrs. James McNabb and daughter, Joy.

DESIGNATE TWO TRUCK SCALES

Secretary of State Selects Both The Eckles and Plymouth Lumber For Weighing.

The scales of the Eckles Coal & Supply Company and the Plymouth Lumber & Coal Company, have been designated by Secretary of State Frank Fitzgerald as the official weighing stations for all commercial motor vehicles in this territory, applying for new license plates. They have already received their blanks and are ready to cooperate with Herz Moore, who operates the Plymouth branch office for the secretary of state.

License plates for commercial motor vehicles will not be issued this year except on presentation of a weight certificate issued by an official weighing station. These two places are the official stations for the Plymouth territory and all trucks getting licenses at the Plymouth branch must use one of these places for weighing.

These weight receipts are now being distributed in the Detroit district, which includes Wayne, Oakland, Washtenaw, Macomb and St. Clair Counties.

The practice of accepting any weight receipt offered has cost the state and the automobile owners themselves thousands of dollars. Mr. Fitzgerald explained, "During the last year the state recovered $100,000 in the Detroit district through its investigation of underweight tax and improper registration."

"Much fraud has been practiced by persons acting as agents in procuring license plates," Mr. Fitzgerald said. "They collect a commission of money from the owners of the trucks, lower the figures in the weight receipts before purchasing the license and then pocket the difference that should go to the state. When investigation reveals the fraud the owner is forced to pay the difference."

On the new weight receipts the motor and serial number and type of vehicle will be inserted by the weighmaster. Where owners have large fleets of trucks the Department of state will assign an investigator to take weights and issue receipts on the premises.

WILL DISCUSS PUBLIC MARKET

Village Officials Have Been Making Investigation Of The Plan.

It has been learned within the past few days that village officials have been making some investigation of the public market question, with the possibility of establishing one in Plymouth. It is stated that the matter will doubtless come before the commission at its meeting next week for consideration.

Village President Minnauk and some of the commissioners, it is learned, believe that a public market along the lines of the one operated in Ann Arbor, will be beneficial to the farmers around Plymouth and will provide them with a market for a considerable portion of their products that are now disposed of in Detroit. Officials state that they believe a public market in Plymouth will draw many people to this place from a distance and that it will not only be a benefit to the farmers around here, but to local business men and residents as well. It is said that in other communities where there is a public market it results in bringing to town many shoppers who patronize not only the farmers but local business places as well.

While no definite decision has been reached, it is learned that the matter will come up for discussion at the next commission meeting.

Did You Know That

Daisy Manufacturing Company, By Pushing Business, Is able To Keep Force Steadily Employed

Manufacturers of America have used many different ways to assist their employes in times of depression—but there is one right way and that is the way the Daisy Manufacturing Company of Plymouth has adopted—getting a business council to keep its force employed. Some time ago when officials of the Daisy company found that there would not be enough of its regular business to keep its large force of men employed during the fall and early winter, immediate steps were taken to try and secure a business council that could be manufactured in the local plant. Following considerable effort on the part of the officials, a contract was secured a number of weeks ago for the manufacture of hundreds of thousands of pressed metal toys. The contract was taken at a heavy price, which means little, if any, profit to the company, but it has provided the Daisy organization with steady work for many weeks and it has enabled the company to keep its regular force together.

As a result of this action on the part of the company practically all of its regular force has been given steady work up to the present time and indications are that there will be a good run of business through most of the winter months.

Work, instead of idles, work with wages every week, is what the American workman desires, and concerns like the Daisy Manufacturing Company are doing more for the real benefit of the workman than all the idles of the country. Officials of the Daisy company are putting forth every effort to get sufficient business to keep their plant in full operation during the entire winter and spring.

OVER 1450 NOW AT PRISON FARM

Capt. Denniston Talks To Kiwanis Club Of Big Institution.

The Kiwanis Club was pleased to have one of their old friends, Captain Edward Denniston, superintendent of the Detroit House of Correction, address them at their luncheon at the Hotel Mayflower Tuesday. He gave a very interesting talk on his work and presented facts about the new prison farm which could be gained an idea of the size of the institution.

He stated at the present time they had 1100 men and 364 women prisoners. The 1100 men sit down to their meals at one and the same time. They have all the food they can eat and the quantities consumed are very large. They raise a great deal of their food on the farm, but it is necessary to buy some outside. Potatoes alone, they use 1,000 bushels per month. Their canny on the farm put up about 70,000 cans of fruit and vegetables this last year. Their meat refrigerator holds two car loads of beef, and is kept at 26 degrees, and they have nine ice houses besides.

He described how prisoners are handled at the institution, the trusty system, dormitories, and many other interesting things about the prison, and in closing gave the club an invitation to visit the farm at any time and see how it is managed. Some of the members suggested that it would be a good place to board, but the captain said they were pretty well crowded right now. Albert Gayde was the chairman of the day.

NUTRITION GROUP TO HOLD SESSION

There will be a meeting of the Plymouth Nutrition Group for the study of nutrition at the home of Mrs. E. L. Bradford, 1314 Northville Road, Monday, December 7th, at 1:30 p. m. This is the third regular meeting of the year. The special Christmas demonstration will be given at the high school lunch room at 2:30 p. m. All members are urged to be present at both meetings.

Walled Lake Choir Coming To Plymouth On Sunday Evening

The choir of the Walled Lake M. E. church will be heard in a program of choral music this Sunday evening at the Plymouth M. E. church, beginning at 7:30. This choir, under the direction of Charles Hutton, has become increasingly well known throughout this section of the state, having been heard in a number of cities and towns during the past three years.

The organization has the distinction of being one of the first singing choirs for the past four years at the annual state choir singing contests sponsored by Michigan State College. Its membership is composed entirely of volunteer singers of the community in which it functions. Assisting the choir on the program will be Jerrill Johnson, a young pianist of note, who also comes from Walled Lake. Although he is still in his teens, Mr. Johnson plays with the ability and experience of a seasoned musician. He has been heard often in recent programs in several Michigan cities, and has given a number of radio programs over Detroit stations.

The complete program follows: (a) Prayer of Thanksgiving (old folk song); (b) I Am Alpha and Omega (Stainer); (c) O Come to My Heart Lord Jesus (Ambrose); (d) Shall Come Down Like Rain (Buck); (e) Alleluia, Lord God (Pasterina); (f) Since by Man Came Death (Handel); (g) O Saviour Sweet (Pach); (h) Piano Song: Prelude in C-sharp Minor (Rachmaninoff); (i) Catechism (Vogrich).

PUSH SALE OF HEALTH SEALS

Plymouth Committee Hopes To Break All Previous Records Made Here.

SCHOOL CHILDREN WILL MAKE SALES

General Committee Plans More Extensive Campaign Than Was Ever Before Conducted, States The Chairman.

Under the direction of Mrs. Chas. O. Ball, chairman, and Mrs. Al Woodworth, Mrs. Robert Shaw, Miss Miriam Boyer and Norman McLeod, the annual Christmas seal sale has been inaugurated in Plymouth. These workers who have been selected for this active campaign, hope to have Plymouth equal, if not exceed all previous records.

Something like $500 is raised here each year to be used in the campaign against tuberculosis. One of the most active committees in the Plymouth campaign is Supr. George Smith and members of his family. Each year, under their direction in a two-day campaign the school children sell over 25,000 seals.

This year the school children will start the sales on Wednesday, December 9, the drive ending Thursday evening, December 10th. At a meeting of the Wayne County Seal Sale Committee held at the Detroit Tuberculosis sanatorium, Dr. W. C. Hunter, superintendent of the sanatorium, and Dr. Burr H. Hurley, executive committee president, made plans for the workers to exert every effort for the success of the sale this year.

All the funds from the sale of Christmas seals in Detroit and Wayne County go to support the Detroit Tuberculosis sanatorium. Taxpayers and Twelve Six, the after care camp on North Lake, where last summer over 100 boys and girls, predisposed to tuberculosis, were given good food and fresh air for thirty days and sent home brown and vigorous, better able to help nature ward off inherited weakness.

"Increased efforts are needed among these distressing times," said Dr. Hurley. "Tuberculosis is increasing among high school girls and young children due to malnutrition." The hardships of the past two years there is a waiting list in both adult and children's wards in the sanatorium and the funds raised will help these afflicted persons. Preventive work will be even more comprehensive than in the past.

The purchase of seals will be an untold contribution to help the little children and women, who are so afflicted, but will also exert protective barriers around oneself and family. Where in normal times from 70 to 80 patients at the hospital are able to pay all or part of their expenses, today only 150 patients, 85 pay their expenses.

The terror of all nations has been partly conquered chiefly by the sale of Christmas seals. In order that this gain is not lost we must support this work of tuberculosis prevention and cure by buying the tiny seals and contributing to many and security to the millions.

PLYMOUTH GRAD TROPHY WINNER

Millard B. Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Nelson, a graduate of Plymouth High School, now a sophomore in Michigan State Normal College, won the honors of a gold and silver trophy in the 105-lb. class wrestling match, held at the gymnasium at Ypsilanti, November 17, 18 and 25.

The nine young men who won trophies Nov. 25, are scheduled to meet the University team at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, at Notre Dame, South Bend, Indiana.

BUSINESS WOMEN PLAN MEETING

On Tuesday, Nov. 24th, Miss Katherine Kahl, as hostess for the evening, entertained the members of the Business and Professional Women's Club at her home, 270 Union St.

This was the occasion of the regular meeting of the club, and more sewing was accomplished for the Treasure Chest. Also it was decided by the executive committee that the Plymouth club extend an invitation to the State Board and all of the clubs in District No. 1, to come to Plymouth, Mich., and give the combined meeting in January. This will be one of the largest projects ever undertaken by the local club and the members are much interested in making it a complete success.

Mrs. Frank Bovee, with whom Miss Kahl makes her home, prepared a real Thanksgiving dinner for the members, which was thoroughly enjoyed.

Woman's Club Will Meet Today in The Hotel Mayflower

A regular meeting of the Women's Club will be held in the crystal room of the Hotel Mayflower at 7:15 p. m., Friday (today).

The Misses Elizabeth Burrows, Barbara Bake and Barbara Horton will entertain the club with two short plays, "Martha's Mourning" and "As to Matters of Husband's."

Mrs. Roger Vaughn will sing a group of college songs and Miss Ruth Allison, a student at the University of Michigan, will also sing. Mary Louise Holsworth, Doris Buzzard and Ruth Kirkpatrick will entertain the club with two and talk dances.

The committee in charge consists of Mrs. Chas. Humphries, chairman, Mrs. Martie Stringer, Mrs. Harry Shattuck, Mrs. Frank Burrows, Mrs. Lynn Felton, Mrs. John Bickelstaff, Mrs. Paul Bennett and Mrs. Wm. T. Rattenbury.

Members are allowed to invite guests. At the meeting held Nov. 20th, Arthur M. Smith, of the editorial department of the Detroit News, gave a very interesting talk on the subject, "What is the Matter with the Press." He also told of his experiences while on an expedition trip with Sir Hubert Wilkins in the Arctic.

Mr. Robert D. Shaw, a graduate of the Conservatory of Western College, played two piano numbers, "Chopin Waltz in C-sharp Minor" and "The Page d'Amour Camille Zeckwer."

Paving And Sewer Taxes Now Due Says Village Treasurer

Since October 1st, special assessment tax notices covering sewers and pavements in 1927, 1928 and 1929 have been mailed out to local taxpayers. These notices cover 25 sewer jobs and ten paving jobs. A total of $30,000 is due on these assessments, the greater part of which should be paid before the first of the year.

In order to finance special assessment work, it is necessary to sell bonds to cover the cost, and to retire these bonds from the proceeds of the annual collection.

If the special assessment installments are not paid, then it is necessary to secure funds from other sources to meet the bond requirements. So far in the recent financial history of Plymouth, the special taxes have not been promptly paid, and it is possible that the bond payments from collections. From all indications, the taxes paid on special assessments in 1931 will be sufficient to meet the requirements.

A delinquent special assessment tax rapidly increases in amount as the interest and penalties are added. It is approximately three per cent added in interest and penalties, therefore the prompt payment of these taxes will save considerable in the cost of the improvement and will assist the village in meeting the bonded obligations which were incurred to make possible the improvements.

"YOUR CHILD AND HOME" SUBJECT

The fourth regular meeting of the Plymouth Child Care and Training Group will be held at the home of Mrs. Bruce Woodbury, 1402 Sheridan Ave., Tuesday, December 8, at 7:30 p. m. The subject of this meeting is to be "Your Child's Home," a study of home furnishings for the comfort and satisfaction of the child.

Impromptu (Schubert); (e) Listen to the Lambs (Dett); (f) Shepherd's Christmas Song (Dickinson); Beside the Cradle Here I Stand (Rach); (g) Joyous Christmas Song (Gaveau); (h) Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem (Mauder).

THE PERE MARQUETTE

All Aboard!
Plymouth is on the way for a most promising future.

The great Pere Marquette has provided the right-of-way. The semaphore shows a clear track ahead. The business depression has already shown signs of flickering out.

Officials of the railway corporation that provide Plymouth with rail service to the north, east, south and west have signified their intentions of cooperating to the fullest extent in the industrial development of this specially favored community.

We, as a community, have much to offer an ideal location, railway service unexcelled, a water supply that is among the purest and most abundant in Michigan, good schools, churches, a well governed community, a progressive citizenship—everything desirable.

Favored as few communities of its size are, Plymouth should see to it that every crossing watchman is on the job keeping clear the track for civic progress that nothing interferes with the advancement of this little city to better times and greater prosperity.

In last week's issue of the Plymouth Mail was a section devoted to the Pere Marquette railway, showing its part in the upbuilding of Plymouth as an important industrial locality. It was published by the Plymouth Mail for the purpose of assisting in promotion of the welfare and development of a community that is bound to become one of Michigan's leading cities. All signs show the track clear ahead—the running of the train is in our hands. Let us make the trip to community happiness and success the most satisfactory one ever made.

GOSSIP VS. THE PRINTED WORD

Re-establishment of public confidence has developed into a battle between the printed word of responsible citizens and the "whisperings and unfounded, malicious rumors that are never traced to any source," Charles T. Fisher, Jr., secretary of the Michigan division of the National Credit Corporation told members of the Typographic-Franklin association, an organization composed of Detroit's master printers, at a luncheon in that city recently.

"Today," Mr. Fisher said, "we are witnessing the battle of the printed word against whisperings, rumors and slanders that have created misgivings, fears and doubts, undermining public confidence in worthy enterprises. This shaking of public confidence is regarded by many authorities as the most serious barrier we have to overcome in restoring normalcy, and, through normalcy, a prosperity in which all shall share."

"Not all of these intangible and untraceable rumors are malicious," he said, "for many are passed around quite innocently, and the farther they go the more distorted, the more damaging they become and the greater harm they do. It is only when the printed word, if it appears in the newspapers, we have the assurance that responsible, able, thoroughly experienced and honest newspaper men have first satisfied themselves of its authenticity, or the public is given the sources and allowed to judge for itself. In the case of advertising, we have individuals, corporations, institutions giving their facts, expressing their opinions openly and standing squarely behind their claims. It was the millions of these messages, read by millions of people who learned to believe in them that sold the goods, that created employment, that achieved production, that increased the quality and carried the United States to world leadership," he emphasized.

"That," said Fisher, "was the power of the printed word, and those who used it profitably recognized at the very beginning that they had to report the truth and the truth alone if the product, if idea, was to live."

In explaining the workings of the National Credit Corporation, Mr. Fisher reported that the fact that Michigan banks are enthusiastically participating in the movement had demonstrated to the people that these banks were in thoroughly sound condition and this had already resulted in restoring some public confidence. He was certain that as the corporation continued further public confidence would be restored and business, industry, agriculture, finance and the individual would all profit.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Since the beginning of the year much space has been given by newspapers and magazines to a discussion of the business and industrial outlook. Predictions of a rapid restoration of normal conditions are not being made nearly so freely as they were a year ago, yet expert opinion is in the main optimistic.

Reports from many industrial centers show that many men have been put back to work in automobile, steel, railroad and other industries, and further reports of increased forces have been of daily occurrence.

While so far those given jobs represent only a small percentage of the unemployed, it is encouraging that a start in the direction of industrial revival has been made.

In the meantime much is being done by governmental and other agencies in an effort to afford emergency relief to those who are actually suffering from the necessities of life; but this task is an enormous one, and distress is likely to be widespread for some time to come.

While it is generally conceded that recovery from the depression will be slow, many leaders believe that when normal times do arrive again the country will be on a sounder basis than ever before. They will certainly be true if all the people will heed the lessons of recent months and cooperate intelligently to avoid another orgy of overproduction, speculation and other excesses, such as that which brought about our present plight.

POLITICAL BUMS

It is fitting to consider the case of a Chicago wife who has obtained a divorce on the grounds that "politics made a bum out of her husband."

Every wife whose husband has political aspirations may well consider the price she must pay for his activities. In the case of the Chicago woman she declares that politics taught her husband to drink, use profanity, smoke long black cigars, and forget to come home to dinner.

That political life has a demoralizing effect most of us have long suspected. We seem to have been laboring under the misapprehension, however, that it is the same itself, rather than those who engage in it, that is wicked.

But it is never too late to stand corrected. So we are glad to learn that politics can make a bum out of a husband. We had thought that it was the husbands who were making a bum out of politics.

THE THIRD DISTRICT

Even the nation has become interested in the political upset in the Eighth Congressional district of Michigan. Newspapers of country-wide circulation, as well as magazines, have been indicating that possibly the Democratic victory in the Eighth district means a complete Republican overthrow next year. We are not quite so sure about that, but that many Republican congressmen are in for a "baking" there isn't much question. Michigan has, however, two or three outstanding representatives in the lower house who can doubtless withstand the biggest political tizzy-over the country has ever had: one is Earl Michener of Adrian, who represented this district previous to the last alteration of congressional boundary lines, and the other is Joseph Hooper of Battle Creek, from the Third district. These two representatives have never lost an opportunity to serve the taxpayers in every way possible. If congress had a majority of such representatives as these two, the country would not now be facing some of the problems that confront it. Neither would the Republican party be facing the fight of its life.

THE "PEE-PUL"

Just a little over a year ago, Editor George Averill sat up late at nights thinking of all the nice things he could say about Governor William Marion Tucker. The youthful son of Birmingham thought the second Moses had come to earth in the personage of the aspiring young lawyer from Saginaw. Now George firmly believes that the slus of Pontius Pilate against his Savior were nothing as compared to the slus of his Moses against the people of this great commonwealth. Over at Ann Arbor the other day, in discussing what Editor Averill declares is the betrayal of this great state by its governor, the Birmingham publisher says Governor Tucker has made so many speeches to "his" people that "Tucker can now say pee-put without drooling and sitting on the audience as the word comes from his vocal cords."

OFFICE HOLDERS

Prof. Reed of the University of Michigan, who probably knows as much if not more about government than any other man in Michigan, declares that Michigan has over 9,000 different government units and that there are over 43,000 men and women drawing the public pay each year as public officials in Michigan. Rather a good sized army for the hardened taxpayers of the state to support, declares Prof. Reed. He would abolish all the townships and consolidate many of the counties as one of the ways to cut the tremendous tax burden Michigan is forced to carry.

In view of the unexpected over in the Eighth congressional district and in view of the general relief throughout Michigan that this decision outcome is nothing more than a repudiation of present Republican political leaders, we wonder what might happen in Michigan next year if things are not righted before that time and the Democrats should nominate for Governor some such candidate as Horatio J. Abbott of Ann Arbor or some one else of equal high standing and character? Do you think it a difficult question to answer?

You and I

CHARLES S. KINNISON

DREAM!

As the changeless days go by us,
It's the humdrum things that try us,
More than troubles that defy us—
It's the dull routine that kills.
But the fleeting hour that's gleaming
With the phantom dream we're dreaming,
Drives us on across the hills!

Let us be a staunch defender
Of our dreams—and not surrender
To our task—but give it splendor,
Make it glow and make it gleam
With the light of high ambition;
High or low be our position—
Let us never cease to dream!

What Other Michigan Editors Are Thinking About

To Thumb—Or Not To Thumb

Over by Holland two men in a car gave three wayfarers a ride. The trio turned out to be armed robbers, who forced the two men to drive to a lonesome spot, where they robbed them and took their car. A young man from Owosso, hitch-hiking home from Florida, thumbed a ride near Adrian, and was found near Liberty Mills, 10 miles south of Jackson, robbed of all his clothing by the two motorists who gave him the ride. Giving a ride or getting a ride by thumbing, is poor business.—Hiram Johnson in The Saranac Advertiser.

Down With Cannonism

Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, has rendered his resignation, temporary at least, and will now spend his time fighting legal charges that allege he misused certain political funds in 1928. Mr. Cannon too long has smeared the front pages of American newspapers, with sensational stuff, in our opinion. He ought to be relegated to some minor position where his earnings and his goings would not injure the cause of Christianity, don't you think?—George Averill in The Birmingham Eclectic.

Funny? Not So Funny

That people will pay $3.00 for a seat at the football game, and in addition to the three bucks paid sit on a concrete seat half the afternoon in a pouring rain storm and think they have had a wonderful time. And also have you noticed that if you invite some of these same people to a short meeting where civic affairs are discussed and considered, all for the interest of the individual, the cash register and the savings account, they will fidget about, wonder how much longer they will be detained, and are just ready to go every minute? It's a funny old world all right.—Robert Gifford in the Eaton Rapids Journal.

Big! Right On The Nose

Metropolitan democratic and independent papers have at last found out the real reason for the revolt in the Eighth district. The farmers say their political leaders have been deceiving them. So they elect Mr. Hart. The political leaders have deceived the farmers far less than the men who have for years made it a business to "farm" the farmers. Many farm organization men are those who have consistently lied to them. To correct this condition they jump right from the fryingpan into the fire. They elect a middleman—a lean elevator monopolist—a man who true to the traditions of his craft has taken enough cull beans from the farmers that he never paid the selfsame farmers for to pay for a heap big farm. The wonderful logic that is displayed by some of the rebels is certainly not reassuring even to democrats.—James Haskins in the Howard City Record.

It's The Right Way

It stands to reason that if relief work here during the winter is to be done with efficiency, economy and with promptness where needed, it must be done through a central organization or committee which can receive and distribute supplies in an orderly manner. Cooperation of the public will mean much in the way of efficiency and economy.—G. S. Rowe in The Milford Times.

How a Mississippi Editor Views The Present And Future-His Editorials As Good For Michigan As The Southland

So that readers of the Plymouth Mail may have some idea of what the sentiments of a real southern editor are pertaining to the present depression, the following editorial taken from the Clarion-Leader of Jackson, Mississippi, is reprinted. Much of it is applicable to this part of the country as it is to the southland.

"In years gone by when the heroes of our Southland, after four years of continuous torture on bloodstained battlefields, returned to their ruined homes, plantations and their respective business occupations that they had followed before entering this four years struggle, they found a chaotic ruin, not only in a financial way, but in every other way imaginable that the human mind could picture. Stabilized banking institutions were few and far between. They could do little back as we can today, and seek and receive the helpful assistance of a well organized banking institution, in fact they had no visible means to combat the terrible vicissitudes of fortune that had befallen them. The merchants found their business ruined, the respective financiers of banking institutions found not only the bulwark of their business they had built up ruined, but the majority of the actual money itself of no value at all.

"In turn the planters who were then, as is the case now, the veritable backbone of commerce and finance, found their blasted fortunes in a likewise bankrupt condition. Their magnificent agricultural organizations were literally torn to pieces, in fact demoralized and bursted up completely, rendering these magnificent properties practically worthless, as far as production was concerned. Here was our beloved Southland (including the three states Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, now suffering mostly from financial depression) with no money, no agricultural or financial organizations to cope with this terrible situation. Nothing absolutely left but raw guts and backbone with which to fight it, with all kinds of seemingly insurmountable obstacles and handicaps opposing them tending to disorganize every line of business they undertook at every step.

"What did these men who had not only shed their blood, but were suddenly reduced from wealth to poverty do? Did they stand by and do as some are doing now—weep with financial hysterics, run and tear down business and public confidence and drag their financial institutions to the ground with them? No, they did not. Their will power, determination and confidence had assumed the proportions of a phalanx formation, impregnable, indestructible and irresistible, that resolved to win regardless or irrespective as to privations incurred to reach their desired goal—and they did win. They built up a great country, they created great organizations and some of the veritable banking institutions that are in existence today are the fruits of their bulldog stamina and consolidated confidence, reinforced by a creed as high as the heavens to always build up and not tear down, as in some instances are the conditions of today.

"Men, compare your respective conditions with conditions that existed then. Here you are furnished with the fundamental concrete foundations that are most essential to success, namely: organization, next you are blessed with the fortune of living in a country that has been intelligently manipulated in a business way by progressive business men, thereby making conditions quick to respond to the touch of the wheels of industry, capable of always starting a speedy come-back. Once more I say, Men, compare your conditions of today, with the conditions of your forefathers who had nothing to look forward to but a long drawn out fight between starvation and success that consumed many years. The fight was won, how? by consolidated universal and stabilized public confidence, nothing more.

"The conditions we have now before us cannot be overcome by the town chat standing in the lost motion on the street corners marking time with destructive business propaganda and finishing up the disgraceful drama by whining like a whipped pot-licker bound in a polecat fight then proceeding to the bank, drawing out his filthy lucre simply because the innate fear arises in him that he will not have enough left with which to buy gas for his car or pay on some other commodity bought on the installment plan. He is frenzied with the indigenous conviction that he will be deprived of his regular weekly stipend because the innate fear of a scalp and the probable discontinuance of his social pleasures, while the down town cotton planter, who farms mostly from his office and on paper, is imbued with the fear that he will have to trade his swivel chair for a saddle horse, substituting the use of his typewriter and fountain pen for the click of the cotton planter. He still covets this frenzy, that has assumed abnormal proportions that there is a probable possibility of his being deprived of his local loafing place on the street corners or in the hotel lobby, the innate fear of some having to be substituted by the Bermuda grass head land in his cotton field.

"These gentlemen are the fundamental facts that have shipwrecked our public confidence, causing good strong banks to fail all over the country, banks that if let alone and backed by public confidence, will weather any financial storm. These reveries, that I have just mentioned, that undermine public confidence, spread like red bugs out of a rotten log and burrow into the human confidence like the seed ticks that inhabit the post oak tickle.

"Men of Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas, think what you are doing when by your united efforts a bank is wrecked, think what you have done, you have kept a party to one of the vilest crimes on earth, namely: the destruction of human and financial confidence that inevitably results in chaos and financial ruin of the business stability of our country, resembling very much the downs of the thistle when once blown from its solid formation to the four winds can never be picked up completely. So men if you have

Auto Replacement Will Provide Work For Many Thousands

American business, in search of a new "angel," may have one already at hand—namely, the automobile industry.

Thirty years ago the automobile began absorbing large portions of the production of the basic industries—steel, oil, cotton and so on. The depression came, car production fell, consumption of the basic commodities dropped.

But automobiles wear out every seven years, and the faster they wear out the more work many Plymouth men get.

In 1930 all but 50,270 of the more than 2,900,000 sold were replacements for old cars.

This year domestic car sales probably will total between 2,100,000 and 2,270,000. Most of these will be replacements, but they will fall far short of replacing all the 3,000,000 cars expected to be worn out in 1931.

In other words, automobile men feel that a huge replacement market is being built up that will bring sales up in 1932—if purchasing power maintains even its present level.

Cars apparently are being used as much as ever. Gasoline consumption by automobiles in 1930 was 5 per cent higher than in 1929; about 3.5 per cent higher in 1931 than in 1930.

Replacement tire sales have jumped amazingly.

A piston ring company reports bigger sales for the first six months of this year than for any previous similar period—old cars need new piston rings. Other automobile parts manufacturers report similar good fortune.

One motor executive estimates that there is a shortage of 12,000-20,000 car years in the nation's motor vehicle industry.

Automobile stocks are at their lowest figure in years.

What effect the increase in car sales would have on other industries is indicated by the estimates of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce that the automotive industry uses 15.5 per cent of the nation's steel, 53 per cent of its malleable iron, 82 per cent of the rubber, 85 per cent of the gasoline, 68 per cent of the plate glass, 18 per cent of the lumber, 17.4 per cent of the aluminum, 14.8 per cent of the copper, 26 per cent of the lead, 9.3 per cent of the cotton, 30 per cent of the nickel, 6.5 per cent of the zinc, and 14.1 per cent of the tin.

More than 5,000 persons are employed in the industry. Its manufacturing capital is nearly $2,000,000,000.

Twenty per cent of all retail sales involve automobile products, second only to food.

Automotive products sold in 1930 had a wholesale value of $3,330,775,532.

IN MEMORIAM

Memorial of Joseph A. Maynard, died December 3, 1931. The depths of sorrow we cannot tell. In the loss of one we loved so well; And while he rests in peaceful sleep.

His memory we will always keep. And often times our thoughts will wander. To a grave not far away. Where loving thoughts will always linger.

IN MEMORIAM—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. August Reitzke, who passed away just one year ago, December 2. Loving and kind in all her ways, Uplight and just to the end of her days.

NUTTY NATURAL HISTORY—THE FOOZLED GOLPH—During the hot summer afternoons hundreds of these golphs are seen flying around farmyards and popping in and out of their burks in the bunkers. They prefer spinach, but are satisfied with eating putting greens, which they wash down at the nineteenth hole. After this they are completely fozzled and are easily captured with sand traps.

This golph is largely made up of a golph ball fastened to the ceiling with a string and bent pin. The head is a large-sized Gilbert with clove horns. The wings are half-pneumatized shells, and the feet are claws, legs included. Chewing gum fastens everything together.

Washington Bid Farewell to His Officers Who Fought And Starved With Him During Revolution 148 Years Ago Today, Dec. 4

General Washington's last meeting with his officers took place in the back parlor of Black Sam Fraunce's Tavern, 148 years ago today, December 4.

On this day, we are told by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, George Washington called together for the last time the officers of the Revolutionary Army, then stationed in New York City. These were the men with whom for eight years he had counseled and fought and starved in the war of Independence. It was not necessary to say farewell.

All realized the significance of the summons from their chief. And when, shortly after noon General Washington entered the room they knew he had come to give them their last orders. A month previously he had said goodbye to his soldiers and subalterns, had sent most of them back to their fall ploughing. But now he must take his leave of these, his veteran brother officers, who had shared with him in measure the heavy burden of command.

The tavern they were meeting in had associations of itself. In the days before men began to gather in knots on street corners and to stop their buggies at cross roads to talk of "inalienable rights" and "taxation without representation," this tavern had had for a device on its sign the head of Queen Charlotte, and was known in New York as "Queen's Head Tavern."

But when Samuel Fraunce, steward, began to invite the outnumbered in the streets into his back parlor to continue their talk of liberty, the name was changed to "Fraunce's Tavern."

Later when the Revolution broke out in earnest and "Black Sam" Fraunce was active on the Colonial side the place became more and more a resort for "nobels."

This historic old house still stands at the corner of Broad and Pearl Streets, and is visited annually by thousands of tourists.

The room where Washington and his officers assembled, known as the "Long Room," ten days before had been the scene of an elaborate dinner in Washington's honor celebrating the evacuation of New York by the British. Candles had been blazed from the chandeliers, hands had played, toasts had been given and tributes paid amid loud applause.

But this December noon the Chamber was undecorated. The only sound was the clank of swords as the officers came to attention at the entrance of their Commander. In all the years of campaigning they had never seen Washington as vividly moved as he was at that moment.

Without any formal preliminaries he began to speak.

"With a heart full of love and gratitude I now take leave of you. I most devoutly wish that your latter days may be as prosperous as your former have been glorious and honorable."

And with these simple words he turned to General Knox, who happened to be standing at his side, and embraced him.

"Gentlemen," he then addressed the other officers, "I cannot come to each of you to take my leave, but I shall be obliged if each of you will come and take me by the hand."

They gathered around him then to shake his hand in a long, firm clasp. There was little said on either side. It is this scene that painters have depicted so often—Washington surrounded by his officers in full dress uniform, many of them almost overcome by emotion. It was the end of an association of eight years, years of starvation, calamity, misunderstanding, as well as of triumphant accomplishments.

The boat was waiting for him at the water front, ready to take him to the Jersey shore on the first lap of his journey to Annapolis to present to the Continental Congress his resignation as Commander in Chief of the Continental forces. When the final farewells had been exchanged the officers accompanied their chief to the harbor, making an aisle through the cheering and sobbing troops drawn up to present arms for the last time to their commander.

Washington stepped into the boat followed by General Van Steuben who was to make the journey with him. Turning, then, as the boat pulled off, he lifted his hat in a last gesture of farewell to the gentlemen who had served his so well.

Financial Problems
Solved By Village
Officials of Wayne

A re-financing plan whereby the village of Wayne will issue and sell $100,000 in one to six year refunding bonds at from 4 1/2 to 5 1/4 per cent interest was passed in a resolution by the village commissioners at a special meeting held Thursday afternoon. The money raised will be used to pay off bonds maturing within the next sixty days.

This plan was accepted by the commissioners as a precautionary measure since the greater part of the amount of the matured bonds could be paid from the village treasury on the dates on which the bonds become mature. The issuance of the refunding bonds in no way increases the indebtedness of the village, but rather preserves the village's assets.

The $100,000 to be raised will apply against four separate bond issues against of which will become mature within the next month and a half. $1,000 will retire a waterworks improvement bond maturing on December 15, which is a part of the original issue of $20,000 dated December 15, 1925.

A waterworks bond amounting to $2,000 maturing December 30 will also be paid. This bond is a part of the original issue of $27,500 dated June 30, 1913. $15,000 will retire a bond of the Special Assessment street paving maturing January 1, 1932. This is a part of the original bond issue of $290,000 dated June 15, 1926. A $1,000 Street Intersection bond maturing December 15, will be paid. This bond is a part of an original issue dated June 15, 1925, amounting to $20,000.—Wayne Dispatch.

Nankin Township
Advised Not To Pay
Covert Road Tax

Nankin township established a precedent this week with the announcement of Peter J. Snyder, township supervisor, urging residents of the township not to pay their Covert Road Tax and bringing to their owners attention that a 3 year moratorium has been granted to property owners on this levy. While many of the taxpayers have been awaiting this procedure, Mr. Snyder said, few of them were aware that such a step had been taken. Economy in the upkeep of the roads in Nankin township is also being practiced with the use of men on the welfare list the supervisor said.

It is thought in political circles that the delay in the payment of the Covert Tax is only the first step toward the elimination of this levy altogether, and it is believed by them that the rural legislators are already banding together to have it erased from the state statute books at the next meeting of the legislature.

The sponsor of the Covert Road Act, Judge Frank L. Covert, of Pontiac, still believes it is a good law, however. He recognizes the financial embarrassment the use of it has brought to many counties, including his own, but he points that this is not the fault of the act, which was passed for a good purpose and has served that purpose. The act was originally passed in 1915 when the road building craze had not as yet reached its peak. It was intended to be used largely for the graveling of roads which would permit the farmers to reach the trunk line highways the state was paying.

Judge Covert was chairman of the Roads and Bridges committee of the Senate when the act was passed. He did not write the bill which was patterned after an Ohio Act and was sponsored by the Michigan Good Roads Association and the State Highway Department.

The plan of the act was to divide the costs of building the roads between an assessment district of benefited property owners, the county and the city township. Wayne County's outstanding Covert Road bonds amount to $9,534,056, of which $7,191,056 is against the county, $1,815,000 against assessment districts and $530,000 against townships. The tentative Nankin township budget which is now in the making had listed $12,000 to be spread over the township at large for the Covert Road Levy.—Wayne Dispatch.

Planting Potatoes
Early Is Best Way

Field trials to determine how potatoes planted early enough to secure mature table stock compare in yield with late planted stock show that the early planted spuds out-yield those planted late, and the earlier ones also have much better cooking qualities, according to records secured by the farm crops department at Michigan State College this year. Thirty nine growers in 20 counties cooperated with the College in making the plantings from which these records were secured. The dates of planting were May 15, June 1, and June 15.

The average yield for the May 15 plantings was 193 bushels which graded on 125 bushels of U. S. No. 1. The total yield for the June 1 plantings was 178 bushels with 121 bushels of No. 1; and the latest plantings yielded 154 bushels to the acre with 119 bushels of No. 1.

Cooking tests were made with specimens from all of the plantings and a decided difference in favor of the early stock was found. The mature potatoes from the May 15 plantings showed much less mechanical injuries from handling and grading than was found on the immature stock.

Freedom from injuries and good cooking qualities are two of the major factors that determine the salubility of table stock potatoes.

Automobile Bears Great Tax Burden

The constantly increasing part the automobile has played in Michigan's state finances, is shown by a study of records of the Department of State.

The first state tax upon automobiles was levied in July 1905. For the last six months of that year, the automobile weight tax produced $6,596 in revenue. In 1906, this fell off to $4,088. From then on, the state's revenue from automobiles increased steadily until 1911 when it passed the $100,000 mark for the first time. In 1915 the state received $451,046 but the 1915 legislature made radical changes in automobile laws, making the tax proportional to weight.

This new law became effective in 1916 when the weight tax produced $1,699,650. Since then the automobile weight taxes have increased rapidly. In 1920, the state received $5,482,853; in 1924 the tax produced $11,261,282 rising each year until 1930 when the weight tax added $21,247,750 to the state's revenue.

This year up to and including Nov. 25, the weight tax receipts were $20,181,690. In 1931 there were 114,845 automobiles in Michigan while in 1930—the last year for which there are complete statistics—1,162,578 automobiles and 168,004 trucks were registered. Under state laws, all weight tax revenues are used either by the state or county highway departments for road construction and maintenance.

What a great number of "do-it-yourself" there are who know nothing slowly because we must wait for what they recommend and trust the important and ignorant.

W. C. T. U. Will Meet On December 10th

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will hold its meeting for the months of November and December, Thursday, the 10th, at the home of Mrs. Clara Patterson, Todd, Ann Arbor St.
 The Roll Call will be responded to with scriptural quotations containing the word "Thanks." There will be a short program commemo-orative of Christmas, after which delegates to the state and district conventions will give their reports.

 Mrs. Vealey took as her topic, "What Did You Learn at State Convention?" Mrs. Clemens, "What Seemed Most Important at State Convention?" and Mrs. Clara Todd, "What Was the Best Thing at District Convention?"
 A cooperative tea will be served at this meeting, something in the nature of a Harvest Festival. It will be somewhat different than the teas usually served by the Union, as each article of food will be priced differently, and the entire price will not exceed 25c. Members are urged to be present. Any questions relative to the menu can be answered by the president, Mrs. E. C. Vealey.

Mother's Cook Book

USING CANNED FISH

THERE are so many delightful dishes which may be prepared from canned fish that no matter how far one is from the sea, these dishes may be quickly prepared.

Lobster Canapes.

Cut bread into one-fourth-inch slices, then shape with cookie cutter into circles, or crescents. Cream two tablespoonsful of butter, add one cupful of finely minced lobster meat, a tablespoonful of mustard, six olives chopped fine, a few drops of Worcestershire sauce, a dash of cayenne. Cook the bread in a little butter until brown, spread with the lobster mixture, garnish with lettuce and serve.

Lobster a la Newburg.

Cut the lobster from the can in small pieces and heat in a double boiler in two tablespoonsful of butter. Sprinkle salt, paprika and cayenne to taste. Beat the yolks of two eggs, and one cupful of cream and turn it over the lobster, stirring until thick and smooth. Serve at once on hot wafers, or circles of toast.

Tuna Fish a la Papoli.

Take a large can of tuna fish, break it up with a fork. Cook together two tablespoonsful of butter and flour, season with salt and pepper and add a pint of strained tomato juice. Cook until it forms a smooth sauce, add the fish and serve hot on fresh lettuce cut very fine with the shiners.

Tuna Fish Balls.

Mix one can of tuna fish with two to three cupfuls of rice that has been boiled until tender. Add salt, pepper and celery salt to taste, with one well beaten egg. Form the mixture into small balls, dip into flour, brush with beaten egg and toss into cracker crumbs, then again into egg. Fry in deep-smoking hot fat until a golden brown. Drain and serve hot, garnished with parsley and lemon. Test the fat for frying by dropping a cube of bread into it; if it browns in forty seconds it is ready for frying.

Happiness

A man can be happy only as he makes others happy. This is a discovery we all make if we live long enough.

Health Notes

Constant resort to laxatives will compel larger doses. Fruits, vegetables, milk and eggs are home-builders. Uncooked fruits and vegetables are less constipating than are cooked foods.

Home

TO CLOSE SEASON WITH NEXT GAME

Sunday, December 6th, the Plymouth A. C. will close the football season playing Tiresman Merchants of Detroit, at Burroughs field. The locals have had a very successful season, and are anxious to close with a win.

You see it just happened that Unc' Billy was on his way home to his hollow tree in the Green Forest the morning that Bowser the Hound found Peter Rabbit hiding in the old bramble-tangle wondering how he was ever to get back to the Dear Old Brer Patch without falling into the clutches of Old Man Coyote. Where Unc' Billy had spent the night or what mischief he had been into I don't know. Of course he ought to have been home long before Jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun began his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky, but he wasn't. No sir he wasn't. More than one Jolly Little Sunbeam had peeped in at the door of Unc' Billy's home before he came pattering along through the Green Forest.

He was right near the old bramble-tangle when he saw Bowser cough. Unc' Billy promptly climbed a tree. He had fooled Bowser once by playing dead but he didn't intend to try it again unless he was in such a tight place that he had to. So he no longer intended to wait until Bowser should go, and the way home be clear and safe. So it happened that he was where he could look right down and see all that happened at the old bramble-tangle. He saw Bowser go sniffing and snuffling this way and that way, and finally discovered Peter in the middle of the bramble-tangle. He chuckled as he listened to Bowser's great voice and watched him try to frighten Peter into running out of the bramble-tangle.

Michigan, My Michigan

Home of my hear, I sing to thee, Michigan, my Michigan. Thy lake-bound shores I long to see, Michigan, my Michigan. From Saginaw's tall whispering pines, To Lake Superior's farthest mines, Fair in the light of memory shines, Michigan, my Michigan. And when the happy time shall come, Michigan, my Michigan. That brings thy war-torn heroes home, Michigan, my Michigan. What welcome from their own proud shore, What honors at their feet we'll pour.

Remarkable Remarks

Love isn't much fun anyway. I have a God-given sense of rhythm. Tanumany Hall stands for clean government. You can't play politics with human misery. What must it be like to know a little genuine privacy? American women are so frightfully greedy. America is full of organization, but not of organization.

Effective Advertising

You can't advertise today and quit tomorrow. You're not talking to a mass meeting. You're talking to a parade. A shallow flat glass or earthenware looking dish with pebbles is a great convenience for washing small portions of different leafy vegetables. Grease the plate with lard or other fat, and put each kind of vegetable in a compartment by itself. Use a white sauce on one, buttered crumbs on another, and perhaps, parsley, lettuce, and butter on a third.

Five Success Hints

It was Spencer Hood, or some other person equally wise, who pointed out that to win success we must— Be brief, politely. Be aggressive-tactfully. Be emphatic-pleasantly. Be positive-diplomatically. Be right-graciously.

 "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches on Sunday, November 29.
 Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Repent; or else I will come upon thee quickly, and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth" (Rev. 2:16).
 The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christian Scientists must live under the constant pressure of the apostolic command to come out from the material world and be separate. They must renounce aggression, oppression and the pride of power. Christianity, with the crown of Love upon her brow, must be their queen of life" (p. 451).

Catholic Notes

The success of all great occasions and celebrations is due to the amount of preparation made for the feast. The Catholic church, aware of the fact that Christmas, the feast of the Nativity of Our Lord, is a great day, warns her people to prepare carefully for this day, hence the season of advent, comprising four Sundays prior to Christmas. The blessings of this day depend upon the preparations of the heart. If even the history of our own short life, we need a consoler, a messenger of peace, it is now, whilst the dark clouds hang overhead. To whom shall we go, were the words spoken of old. Religion answers the question. Back to God, the Creator and Maker of all things. Take courage, then, and place your trust in God, and remember the blessings showered on Christmas day will be in proportion to the preparations you make for this feast.

Tuesday, Dec. 8th, is a holy day of obligation, the feast of the Immaculate Conception of the Virgin Mary. Masses on this day will be at 6:00 and 7:30 a. m.
 Next Sunday a special offering will be taken up for the Catholic University in Washington, D. C. This splendid university is supported by the voluntary contributions of the people in America.

The ladies of the Altar Society will convene in the mahogany room, Friday, tonight, at 8:00 o'clock. All the ladies of the parish are urged to attend this meeting.

Catholic instructions for the children are given each Saturday at 9:30 a. m., conducted by the Dominican Sisters. Parents are urged to send their children to these instructions, so that they may be grounded in the principles of their God-given right, faith.
 Mrs. Margaret Josephine Corbett, the mother of Stanley Corbett, and grandmother of Lorraine Corbett, died Nov. 26, and was buried Nov. 28 from our church to Mt. Elliott cemetery, Detroit, Mich. Mrs. M. J. Corbett had been ill for some time, and unable to be around for the past year. The parish extends its sympathy to the bereaved ones.

The year 1931 is drawing to a close, and it would be well for all parishioners to square their accounts with the church, so that the books can be properly closed at the end of the year. There is an earnest desire of the pastor.

The Rev. F. C. Lefevre is gradually gaining his strength, and is able to say Mass each morning in a chapel prepared in the church sacristy for him. He is as yet unable to do his Sunday work.

The tongue is given, by God, to man.
 Use this gift, the best you can; Let not the sun go down today Without a word of kindness in some way.

ROSEDALE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES

The Woman's Association will hold a dinner and bazaar at the church on Friday evening of this week. Dinner will be served from 5:00 to 7:30, for 25 cents. Following the dinner articles will be on sale. The ladies have been working hard and deserve success.

A committee composed of Messrs. Hoffman, James and Snell, is working to render aid to cases of local need. The committee will appreciate weekly subscriptions of money or gifts of food and clothing. A box has been placed at Hoffman's store where financial contributions can be made.

A committee composed of Mrs. Winert, Mrs. Ames and Miss Porteous, is arranging for the Christmas music.

Presbyterian Notes

The meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary on Wednesday, December 11, will be one of unusual interest. It will be held in the church parlors at 2:30 p. m. Everyone wants to learn the definite results of the bazaar and supper and reports from the different groups of workers will be presented and plans discussed for future work. The social hour is also to be remembered, and to add to this phase of the meeting tea will be served. All the women should be there.
 The Busy Women's class met in the church dining room on Tuesday, December 1. The noon hour found a most attractive dinner spread on tables arranged by the hostesses for the day. Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. Renwick and Mrs. R. Smith. When full justice had been done the good things, Mrs. Foulton, the president, took the chair and the business and program meeting went forward with interest. One feature of the program which fails to excite the enthusiasm was the cutting of the Christmas pie, with its amusing surprises.

 Regular English service: Sunday, Dec. 6th, 10:30 a. m.
 Regular German service: Sunday, Dec. 6th, 9:15 a. m.
 Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.
 Bible Class every Tuesday from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m., for all.

The attendance at last Sunday's service was splendid. And it is but proper for the true child of God to "hold sacred, gladly hear and learn the Word of God" by going to the house of God on the Lord's Day and worshipping Him in the communion of the saints.

But preparing is primarily intended for shut-ins, the invalid and the sick. But you, who are hale and healthy, "shake off dull sloth and joyful rise to bring your morning sacrifice," take a brisk walk to church in this exhilarating winter air, go down "with the multitude to the house of God, with a voice of joy and praise, with the multitude that keeps holy day." You will not have come in vain, either, for the Lord leaves no one empty-handed who comes to Him. He will have prepared some special blessing for you to take home with you. So come and join us next Sunday at ten-thirty.

The Bible Class is studying First Corinthians. We have finished with the first two chapters. We cover a chapter each lesson. Where will we be, when you join us?

The Ladies' Aid bazaar and bake sale is scheduled for December 9th. The children are busy with the Christmas Eve program. It promises to be a better program than ever, and is called "The Star of the East." Come at 7:30, Dec. 24th.

Baptist Notes

The pastor will speak next Sunday morning at 10:30 a. m. on "Nathan and The New Birth." At 7:30 he will continue his talk on "Christ and The Old Testament."

At 3:00 p. m. there will be held a special meeting in the church for the purpose of talking over the work for the coming month. Friends and members are urged to be present.

Sunday school will meet at 11:15 a. m. instead of 11:30 a. m., starting with this Sunday.

The Ladies' Aid will hold a regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Packard, at 418 N. Main St., Wednesday, Dec. 9, at 2:00 p. m.

Remember the radio broadcast: Friday at 12:30 p. m., over station WJBK. We invite you all to listen in.

There will be children's meetings at 3:45 on Tuesday for the girls, and on Wednesday at 2:45 p. m. for the boys. Bring some of your school chums and come.

 Sunday evening a chorus choir of thirty voices from Walled Lake, will sing.

Tonight a delegation of men from this church will go to Cherry Hill for supper with the Men's Brotherhood of that place.

Last Sunday night the Epworth League began the work of electing officers for the year. Miss Doris Bridge was made president; and the remaining officers will be elected next Sunday night. Mr. and Mrs. Don Sutherland and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cline will act as sponsors for the High School group.

ROSEDALE PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

Sunday services—10:00 a. m. Bible school, 11:00 a. m., morning worship; subject, "The Seventh Commandment."

SALEM FEDERATED CHURCH NOTES

Services for worship, 10:30 a. m. Bible school, 12:45 a. m. Cottage prayer meeting on Wednesday evening at 7:30.

The message for December 6 will be "Take Up Thy Cross," and will be followed by the communion services.

Mrs. Harmon Gale, church clerk, announces the annual business meeting to be held on Tuesday afternoon, December 8, at 2 o'clock.

The Ladies of the Aid Society will hold their annual bazaar in the church basement, on the afternoon and evening of December 4. A potluck supper will be served for a nominal sum.

Loss of ice from melting in the ice house can be cut down by packing the ice so that there are no open cracks in the pile, says the Bureau of Dairy Industry. A good way to pack ice is to spread on the floor a layer of sawdust or shavings about a foot thick near the walls and a few inches thinner in the center, so that the ice will tend to slide toward the middle. Pack the cakes of ice as close together as possible. Perfectly cut rectangular cakes can be packed close. Fill the openings between irregular cakes with small pieces of ice.

Insects or worms often attack cured hides and skins during storage and transportation, especially dried hides and skins not cured with salt, and those in tropical and semi-tropical countries. In this country naphthalene probably is most generally used for protecting hides and skins, especially sheepskins, against insects. Various "hide poisons," such as arsenious acid in alkaline solution, potassium cyanide, carbolic acid cresote, and naphthols, may be applied as protection against the pests. As most "hide poisons" are deadly poisons, the utmost care must be used in handling and storing them.

Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding as of November 21, 1931 amounted to $1,065, million, an increase of $976 million from November 22, 1930. This compares closely with the $984 million increase of money in circulation during the year ended November 21, 1931.

That industrial activity in Michigan, particularly in the southeastern part of the state, will show definite improvement during the next month is quite widely believed. Only four of twelve reports received from bankers and other business leaders in this area, exclusive of Detroit, indicate unchanged conditions over the period of the next month. In Flint, a substantial increase is already in evidence. In Detroit, the industrial tempo is also moving rapidly. Employment has increased in the principal automobile manufacturing centers, namely, Detroit, Flint, Saginaw and Jackson, and further reductions in the unemployed ranks are expected with the beginning of 1932 model output. One of the suggested reasons why manufacturers of automobiles have not commenced operations on their new models at an earlier date is a desire to provide all possible employment during the severe winter months. In the paper industry, centered at Kalamazoo, increased the number employed by nearly 5 per cent during October and operations are expected to continue at that level until mid-December at least. At Grand Rapids, manufacturing activity, employment and retail trade are expected to show still further improvement over that reported last month. At Ionia, work on new reformatory buildings is giving employment to a number of people.

Farming conditions are reported good at Allegan, Charlotte and Niles. The absence of a general killing frost in most farming sections of the lower peninsula until late in October has permitted many crops to reach a normal maturity despite dry conditions earlier in the summer. Good rains in September also added materially to crop tonnage.

Despite low farm prices, retail trade in Northern Michigan is expected to show a substantial seasonal improvement in coming weeks. Such manufacturing activity as is carried on in this section of the state is well under 1930 levels of output and the outlook for the final weeks of this year is not favorable. Building activity is nearly at a standstill.

Marquette and Menominee are two bright spots in the Upper Peninsula business picture. Industrial output is expected to increase during the next month in each of these cities. At Sault Ste. Marie and Ishpeming, some improvement in the building situation is in evidence. Shipments of freight through the locks at Sault Ste. Marie during the period from April to October totaled 41,000,000 tons this year, compared with 67,000,000 tons in the same period of 1930.

Good Christmas trade is expected in such cities as Houghton, Iron Mountain, Ironwood, Marquette and Menominee.

The winter ration for the dairy cow should include at least one kind of hay (preferably a legume), one succulent feed, and grain. Give the cow all the hay she will eat one day. If she will not eat straw or straw in addition, let her have it. The amount of silage to feed depends on the size of the cow and the quantity of other roughage. About 3 pounds a day to each 100 pounds live weight is the average amount. See the following table in about three times its weight in water is desirable if no other succulent feed is available.

It is a mean feeling, after you get old, that you might have done better with your opportunities. The same feeling appears in the consciousness of the young. A feeling that you have often been petty, inefficient and impolite; that people have laughed at you when they might have cheered, is a bad thing to carry around with you.

The people have apparently agreed that it is best for everybody to proceed by what we call civilized methods. But what a fuss we make about it. Half the protests in the newspapers are thinly veiled complaints about people who are not allowed to run wild.

The Boston Gazette of July 23, 1776, contains the Declaration of Independence in full, and also an advertisement of a slave for sale.

"Grubby" Fish Good To Eat Say Experts After Making Tests

"Worn" or "grubby" fish are entirely safe to eat, according to Dr. Carl L. Hubbs, director of the Institute for Fisheries Research of the University of Michigan.

Some of the parasites infesting fish are capable of injuring man, and all the parasites are killed by ordinary cooking processes. The intestinal worms are cleaned out, and the flesh "grubs" will have no ill effect even on the taste of the fish, unless they are thick enough to soften the flesh or render it otherwise unpalatable. Dr. Hubbs said. Many people refuse to eat fish believing that the worms or grubs are injurious.

All kinds of fish are subject to a greater or lesser degree of these parasitic infestations. Some species, however, are more often or more heavily infested than others. Perch and rock bass are among these. However, the degree of infestation differs greatly in different waters, and in many lakes, perch and rock bass are almost free of parasites, Dr. Hubbs said in a report to the Fish Division of the Department of Conservation. The parasite worm infestation is sometimes fatal to the fish, but usually not. The fish diseases which are of bacterial origin are most likely to be fatal.

Parasitologists, the report said, believe that most of the species of worms have a definite season in fishes. After they have produced eggs which pass out into the water the "worms" and "grubs" disappear. It is thought that some may pass out alive while others probably die before being passed away or absorbed by the fish.

These parasites usually find only one of their "hosts" in fish. The fish usually become infested by eating or coming into close contact with some small crustacean or other water animal which is acting as a host to an early stage of the parasite. The parasite then develops a further stage in the fish. It may mature in the fish, or may pass on into some other host, usually a bird or fish which has eaten the first infested fish. In any case, the parasite eventually matures in some host, and produces eggs which enter the water and develop there into larvae which in some way find their way into the small primary host again. According to the species the parasite reaches the fish either by the eating of the primary host or by the direct action of the parasite in swimming to the fish. Eventually the parasite again matures and the cycle goes on over and over again.

The NEW and the OLD
 The New Church Year brings again the arrogant demands of an ultra modern age. "A modern Christ for a modern world. But let's not be deceived. Think not, this modern cultured age will never pass away. For what we've proudly labored to construct, our modern, self-made agents of destruction, leagued with the natural causes of decay, with shameless Sin and brazen Unbelief, conspire to destroy. Honest souls who cry:

"Change and decay in all around I see,
 O, Thou who changest not, abide with me."

receive the reassuring answer from the Christ, the Rock of Ages: "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away."

Creed and Character

Roots of great oak are planted deep. Strong character...the dominant motivating force in leadership...is usually traceable to unshakable faith in God, and hence, faith in one's own ability to achieve. True, church attendance will not make a saint of a gangster but given sturdy material, it goes far toward carving a pillar of strength from the raw rock.

You as a leader, actual or potential, need the church. Its influence, once ingrained in your moral fibre is a supreme possession that can never be taken from you.

Three Bears One Dear was an old bed time story, but the lady hunters, Bud Schaffer, Bob McKinney, Ed Blissette, Bert McKinney, Al Rohde, Chuck McKinney, Hi Muskatt, reversed sex same story to "one darling little bear" (270 lbs.) and "three nice big buck deer," 8, 10, 10 points, which same they returned with last week-end. Al sed he left blissen uppe that, guess you are not alone, Al, old dear, as many hunters, and good ones, too, long tall story tellers too, who did same, honest injun.

Sod Schaffer did not go with the party this year, he was amongst the missing when they all departed, and where drabsuppose we founded the ever-losted hunter this time, why o'er to the Parish Hall on the small end of a saxophone maklin' eyes at a young body from Dearborn. Sod ablies the Sat Nite Danes kept him home, that, we take for granted means vicinity of home and mother's cooking.

The ole gang reported nice weather for base ball, but not hunting, and the folks at the Ontonagon Lumber Camp watchfully waiting for snow, beautiful snow.

Then along came the Fred Schmidt party of blisself, son, Roy, Rubie Trombel and Buzz Lefere. Daze and baggage, truck and tent and Roy's ramabout, all loaded down with a nice bear and beautiful red fox and two four pointers.

Roy is going to have the bear skin mounted to save up in his hope chest, etc., ditto the beek skins and heads.

Thanksgiving Party was a grand success at the Parish Hall, some three hundred or more on hand. All went well and had a wonderful time.

The Altar Society Ladies served coffee, sandwiches and cinnamon dough rolls, which was all good, and also sandwiches galore which were too good to last long.

Bridge, Etc. will be played in on Saturday Eve at Parish Hall until after Advent. This seems to be a favorite pastime of the conservation, so whether a r or r not come play or learn to play.

Vote Wet sed the weather man to the weather, and also wake uppe sed he, for now the voting all over has been wet, and it is time for rain, snow and colder weather, vote wet in keeping with the country side sentiment and the calendar.

Dinner To-Nite from 5:00 post meridian till half after 7:00. And, another thing, only twenty-five cents per plate. So all the vicinity side is expected to go and stay for the carnival afterward.

According to all accounts this is to be the outstanding event of R church's career, and it is hoped all will help as much as possible.

Thanksgiving Dinner Mr. and Mrs. George E. Fisher, 11300 Pembroke Road, entertained twelve guests for dinner last Thursday at Thanksgiving Dinner. Bridge was played during the evening.

Necktie and Cometies were the prizes at the last dance of the season at the Parish Hall. James Kilduff and Miss Norma Schaffer took them home. Now we are going to have.

Cards, Sat. Nite on the sign, and the folks will get together each Sat. nite for Bridge, 500 of Whathaven.

Furnace Fires have come to stay, now that the Big Grass and Weed Cutting machines have all been done up in grease and campher halls by Supt. Honcke.

Bros. Al and Walt also report sewer pumps in excellent shape for anticipated wet weather, so we will continue to have, as heretofore, dry basements—that is dry insofar as surface and storm drains might interfere thru lack of pumping down the Wilson Ditch to the River Rouge.

Children's Half Hour at both R churches is becoming quite the thing these Sunday mornings.

Increasing attendance with each succeeding Sunday is pleasing to parents of the kiddies and the pastors.

Classes of olderfolks of High School age and also of many parents are also in nucleus and look very promising.

STOP Night Coughing

Night coughing is almost always caused by irritated, inflamed throat; so is almost all coughing. Ordinary cough syrups do not reach these conditions, but Thoxine a prescription exclusively for throat troubles does. It relieves the irritation and the cough stops within 15 minutes. And Thoxine goes further too. It eliminates the internal cause which many times develops into serious illness. A swallow of Thoxine before retiring absolutely prevents night coughing and insures a good night's sleep. It gives the same speedy relief for sore throat too. It contains no chloroform or other harmful drugs and children like it. Relief is guaranteed within 15 minutes or money refunded. 35c. per bottle. Sold by: Dodge Drug Co. and all other good drug stores.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lubbested and children visited Thanksgiving Day at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Burrell.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilkie and family, entertained on Thanksgiving Day: Herman Shultz, Miss Henrietta Shultz, Mr. and Mrs. Moultinger and daughter, Betty of Dearborn.

Beaver fur is at its best in mid-winter. The usual way to skin beavers is to cut along the median line of the belly. Use a sharp knife, as the skins do not peel off but must be cut close. Stretch the skins in circular form on a board or hoop. Dry them in a cool place and keep cool until marketed, so the oil will not soften and injure the hide.

Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat In Just 4 Weeks

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I'm only 28 yrs. old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment."

Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast. An 87 cent bottle lasts 4 weeks—you can get Kruschen at Community Pharmacy or any drug store in America. If not fully satisfied after the first bottle—money back.

Northville

All Ford employes living in Northville or vicinity will be able next year to raise a garden and provide themselves with all of their vegetable needs. For many days past, Mr. Ford has been having large areas of land he owns in this vicinity plowed and made ready for planting next spring. Some of the richest land in this locality has been turned over recently. The land lying along Fairbrook avenue, which was until three or four years ago, the bottom of a big pond, has been cleared of stumps and other refuse and plowed. The dam that backed up the water for the old pond was washed out three years ago, and Mr. Ford never rebuilt it. Another piece of land lying on Griswold road and across from his Northville factory, has been plowed and made ready for spring planting.

Members of the Kings Daughters, who have for years carried on the charity work of Northville, are busy now making plans for a hunter's ball to be held on Wednesday evening, January 13, to raise money for charitable needs. The Kings Daughters have for many years not only taken care of the needy within the village limits of Northville, but in the township as well. The organization has one of the largest memberships of any Northville group.

Dr. H. H. Burkhardt, one of Northville's ardent football fans who saw the charitable game between Michigan and Wisconsin last Saturday, takes decided issue with Mr. Salinger, sports writer for a Detroit newspaper. Dr. Burkhardt declares the Wisconsin game one of the best he ever witnessed in Ann Arbor, and he says he is at a loss to know why such a well known sports writer as Salinger should hammer it as he did. Dr. Burkhardt believes that it was the opposition of the Detroit sporting news writers which resulted in such a small crowd at the game at Ann Arbor, last Saturday.

SUNDAY HUNTING IN EIGHT TOWNSHIPS OF WAYNE IS UNLAWFUL Conservation Department Digs Up Old Law On The Subject.

Following publication in the Plymouth Mail some weeks ago of a news article in which it was stated that Sunday hunting was prohibited in Wayne county, there has been considerable dispute among local sportsmen as to the correctness of the statement. Some contended that Sunday hunting was permitted in Wayne county and others that it was not.

The article published in the Mail came from the publicity department of the conservation department, and immediately half a dozen hunters came to the Mail office with copies of the abbreviated game law digest issued by the department in which is indicated Sunday hunting was permitted in Wayne county.

Secretary Ray E. Cotton of the conservation department in Lansing has settled the problem for the hundreds of sportsmen who have been more or less confused since the article was published. He has sent to the Mail a copy of all the laws relating to conservation that are now in force in Michigan.

It will be surprising information to hundreds of sportsmen living in the western part of Wayne county to know that Art. 25 of 1907 prohibits Sunday hunting in the following Wayne county townships: Plymouth, Northville, Greenfield, Redford, Grosse Pointe, and Livonia, without the consent of the owner of the lands located in the above eight townships.

The net specifies, however, that this law shall not prohibit Sunday hunting of ducks in the Detroit River, St. Clair river or Lake St. Clair.

The fact that the law has never been enforced in any of the townships in this section of Wayne county has resulted in the general impression that there existed no legal enactment against Sunday hunting.

When advised of the statute prohibiting Sunday hunting in eight of the townships on the western and northern sides of Wayne county, a number of Plymouth hunters declared that it was their intention to ask for a repeal of this old act at the next session of the state legislature.

Just how or why the law was originally passed prohibiting Sunday hunting in this part of Wayne county is one some do not know. Meanwhile it will probably be ignored as it has been during the past 24 years.

Melvindale Has Its Sixth President Within Two Months

Plymouth's energetic little brother over south of Michigan avenue, Melvindale, today has its fifth and sixth village president since September 30, when a recall election ousted President Arthur F. Moore and five members of the six-man village commission.

The new president is either Mr. Moore or Earl Baker, who succeeded Jolly James. Mr. James was appointed by members of the commission at a special meeting held last week. He succeeded Earl Baker, who was elected to the office at last week's election. Baker previously resigned, stating that he was "not in accord with an appointed commission passing major and permanent measures advocated by an element in the commission."

Baker first became village president by appointment a few weeks ago when he, together with five other residents, were appointed to replace the ousted officials. The appointments were made by Edward Sheldon, lone member of the commission not included in the recall. Sheldon's appointments were approved in petitions signed by 705 qualified voters.

Prior to Baker's brief term as village president, Robert Weissenstein, president of the Melvindale school board, was appointed in the chief office of the village. He resigned after the recall election had been canvassed.

Numerous changes have been made in the village government since the appointed commission took office. Village employees have been discharged and others hired.

The most recent act of the recalled village officials was to discharge all department heads of the village except Edward MacDonald, superintendent of all village departments, and Glenn Mahle, newly appointed chief of the police and fire departments. Those discharged by the commission were David Berstedt, superintendent of the village water department; Parlen L. Ballis, sewer department head; A. J. Hansen, garbage disposal foreman; Howard Scott, head of the Streets Department; Harold Lock, chairman of the Welfare Department; and John Gagner, pump station foreman.

The salaries of these men, according to Commissioner Sheldon, are needed to meet the expense of operating the village until the new commission takes office. The village treasury, according to Sheldon, is empty.

The Melvindale hidden club was most delightfully entertained Tuesday afternoon at a dinner held at the home of Mrs. E. J. Allison on Williams street.

Plymouth Man Sees Record Speed Flights of Bayles Airplane

J. W. Adams of Plymouth, was one of many who saw Lowell R. Bayles make two flights over the airplane speed course at the Wayne County Airport last week, at an average of 307 miles an hour.

Bayles was making tests for his fourth attempt to break the world land plane speed record and it appeared more certain than ever he will get the record when his tests are completed and official arrangements are made for timing the plane electrically.

The record stands at 275.4 miles an hour. Bayles indicated he may request Ray Cooper, official observer for the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, and the timers to observe the next official flight Sunday.

However, weather forecasts were unfavorable and Bayles said he wanted to do considerable experimenting to make sure everything is in good working order. Engine failure defeated him in three attempts when the official flights were made and the difficulty is not yet entirely corrected.

During two flights over the course Saturday, Bayles was again forced to abort his testing. He must make four successive flights over the measured course, which is 1.8 miles long, to get official recognition.

"It looks like we've got it now," Bayles said. "But the engine is not yet satisfactory. I discovered a peculiar thing. I made the best time on the course when I approached flat. When I dived at the course the engine detonated and I was forced to shut it off. Before I am finished with my tests I may make the official trials flat from beginning to end."

When the record was established, in 1924, by Warrant Officer Bennett, at Leites, France, contenders were permitted to dive as far as they liked to get maximum speed and the record probably was established at a speed 10 to 20 miles an hour faster than the plane was capable of making in normal flight. In subsequent attempts to break the record, several pilots dove their planes until they collapsed so officials limited the dive to 1,312 feet.

Plymouth Road Is Scene of Bad Wreck

Another one of a series of many serious wrecks took place on Plymouth road when two young men, one a student at the University of Michigan, were seriously injured at 7:30 p. m. Saturday. Their automobile crashed into a large creamery truck, drawing two farm trailers, near the intersection of Plymouth and Middlefield roads.

The victims, Benjamin Fishman, 22 years old, and his brother, Emmanuel, 18, were driving east on Plymouth road on their way from Ann Arbor where Emmanuel is a student. The truck, driven by Ward E. Stroud, of Grass Lake, was going west.

Stroud told Deputy Sheriff Vorne Ashe that Fishman's car was traveling approximately 40 miles an hour when it swerved into the side of the truck, spun around and then overturned in the ditch. The creamery truck was also overturned.

The Fishman brothers, who live at 2272 Clarkstone avenue, were taken to Redford Branch of Receiving Hospital.

Their automobile was demolished.

There's More HEAT Per Shovelful

Here's a puzzler for you. Two tons of coal weigh the same. But two tons of coal don't necessarily give the same amount of heat. Inferior coal is only PART fuel. The rest is waste. Whereas a high quality of coal, such as Eckles, gives almost perfect combustion. More heat per ton. More heat per dollar. Eckles coal cost no more than ordinary coal, but goes MUCH farther. Today, Phone 107, and order your winter supply at the low summertime prices.

The Menace of the Jaywalker

No, it wasn't the driver's fault. The fellow he hit was one of the species of jaywalkers—the sort of menace who regards himself as a one-man parade. But the pity of it is that the driver, having no liability insurance, stands the risk of losing several thousands of dollars if the jaywalker wins his case—and you know juries!
The only thing is to protect yourself in advance by adequate Liability Insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Porter, Mrs. Barbara Gibson, and Mrs. Mattie Bradley, of Detroit, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wuschack and family at their home on Ann Arbor Trail.
On Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Schettenhelm, Myron and Ernestine, and Ralph Howe of Ypsilanti, called at the Wuschack home.
Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Avery and family of Wayne, took supper with the former's sister, Mrs. Peter Kubie and family, Monday evening.

BRIGGS SCHOOL NOTES

Miss Ried and Miss Jameson visited school last week. Miss Jameson gave the seventh grade their reading test, and Miss Ried gave our health test from the fourth grade up. She left the scale with us.
Our teacher, Miss Elder went to Lansing for Thanksgiving.
The seventh graders are working on their geography workbook, and are in Europe.
We have book poster: Katherine Steingasser, Sec. Treas.

Ernest Allison's Showing Of New Chevrolets Reveals Beautiful And Greatly Improved Models for 1932

Chevrolet's new car for 1932 goes on display tomorrow at dealer Ernest Allison, Plymouth distributor, has a complete line of the new cars for the showing.

Embodiment of silent, synchro-mesh transmission in combination with selective free-wheeling, a twenty per cent increase in power, top speed of 65 to 70 miles an hour, streamlined bodies and a wealth of other new features, the new car remains in the price range of the current series, the lowest at which a Chevrolet has ever sold.

Heralded as "The Great American Value for 1932," the car boasts more extensive changes than any annual Chevrolet model since the change-over to a six in 1928. Yet changes are mostly reinforcements over the basic design of the 1931 car which, from the standpoint of public acceptance, was the most successful in the history of the company, and brought Chevrolet first place in the industry during the highly competitive market of the past twelve months.

Practically every prominent automotive feature of recent years is incorporated in the new 1932 Chevrolet, as well as a new "stabilized" front end construction embodied for the first time on any car. Outstanding improvements in the 32 line over last year's models are down-draft exhaust, counter-balanced crankshaft, smaller wheels and larger tires, radically changed front end appearance, "finger touch" front set adjustment, cow ventilator on all models, hood doors instead of louvers, improved clutch and an additional cross member in the frame.

The 21 domestic plants are now busy producing the new line. The stimulus to employment in the Chevrolet organization, in affiliated Fisher Body plants and among independent suppliers made possible by the introduction of the 32 line is conservatively estimated, will add to the earnings of 200,000 people.

Twelve standard body styles are in the line this year—three open and nine closed Fisher bodies—all in new Duco color combinations and all with smart new features. In addition, eight models also are available with deluxe equipment, making possible individuality of ownership and providing selection from twenty different types.

Of the mechanical changes, the outstanding one is the new transmission unit which is entirely Chevrolet-built and is said to combine for the first time in any car the combination of synchro-mesh with simplified free wheeling as standard equipment at no extra cost. Free wheeling is provided by an over-running clutch, engaged at the discretion of the driver by control button on the instrument panel. This optional feature enables the driver to utilize the full breaking power of the engine if he desires, and to use the free wheeling feature only when traffic conditions make it desirable.

While the wheelbase remains at 100 inches, the car looks longer than last year, lower, speedier and more powerful—promises borne out by the greatly improved power plant.

The most striking change in exterior appearance is the new front end, which has been completely redesigned this year.

The new "stabilized" front end mounting is an important feature of the new car. In conventional mounting the radiator, fenders and headlamps are supported from the side of the frame and in driving over rough roads the front end weaves and vibrates. This is annoying to occupants of the car and frequently results in the origin of squeaks and rattles at points of stress.

In the new Chevrolet, the fenders, radiator and headlamps are carried on a single fender support unit, which is uncrossed to the center of the front cross-member of the frame. This pivotal anchorage enables the front end to sway with the body as a unit, thus reducing the annoying wear as well as the possibility of squeaks and rattles developing at points of stress.

A double tie-bar, chromium plated, arches gracefully between the fenders and braces them, thus acting as a structural unit as well as an ornament. A support also extends from the tie bar to the radiator, anchoring the units securely together, also carrying the horn.

The radiator is entirely new in design and construction. The exposed core area is larger than last year for better cooling, and a grille is built integral with the radiator in all models. This grille has square meshes stamped in relief, with the vertical lines accentuated to increase the appearance of height. The radiator shell is chromium plated, and the top band has a narrow bead and a top panel, established only by the familiar Chevrolet emblem in blue and white.

Front fenders have a deeper crown and skirts, and a wider head coming to a graceful point at the front tip of the fender. Headlamps, parabolic-shaped, with convex lens, are fully chrome plated and are longer and narrower than last year to emphasize the impression of speediness. Headlamps are mounted on the tie-bar as is the new trumpet-shaped horn, mounted externally beneath the left headlamp.

Cowl lamps, similar in design to the headlamps though smaller, are standard with all sport models and are mounted behind the crumple-plated cowl moulding. The lenses of these lamps contain prisms which reflect the headlamp glare of approaching cars and afford a measure of protection for the car in the event the driver forgets to light the parking lamps.

The hood is redesigned to conform to the new radiator shape and offers several radical departures from last year. The conventional panel of louvers is replaced by four ventilating doors, on each side chromium plated on the deluxe and sport models. This "big car" refinement enables the driver to control engine ventilation in relation to temperature. Each door has a chromium plated handle and a heavy spring to hold it in the desired position without rattling. Another important feature is the replacement of the usual two external hood catches with only one catch operated internally. This type of catch is much neater in appearance and more conveniently operated.

All models this year have cowl ventilators located just forward of the windshield and controlled by a regulator in the driver's compartment.

The windshields of all models are slanted at a sharper angle, and the streamlined bodies, with the outside sun visor eliminated, greatly improve the resistance to wind. The driver's vision and add to the symmetrical appearance of the car. The sloping front pillars, strengthened by a heavier steel reinforcing structure, blend gracefully into the beautiful curving top. Moulding lines are carried along the pillars and along the edge of the top just over the doors and windshield.

With the elimination of the outside sun visor, its previous function is performed by an internal visor adjustable to any position and affording greater protection than the old fixed external visor. Its elimination, together with the lowering of the top rail of the instrument panel, affords the driver greater vision, particularly in observing overhead signal lights.

External body contours follow the same general design as last year, the most obvious changes being in the new hardware and rear door depth. Doors extend through the body sills instead of only to the top, and the effect of the smaller wheels and larger tires is to give a lower and racier appearance to the car when viewed from the side. Tire sizes are now 3.25-18 equipped with 4.75-18 tires.

In the rear are the combination tail and stop light, the safety gas tank away from the engine, with a battle plate added to prevent flickering of the dash gauge and inaccurate readings under all conditions, and rear fenders are redesigned, with deeper crowns and lower rear ends, the contour and general treatment conforming with the new design of the front fenders.

Body interiors bring a new conception of luxury to the low priced field. Mohair or leather upholstery is now optional with all models. Hardware is newly designed and improved; such line car features as silk ash cords, robe rails, arm rests on both sides of the rear seat, dome light, side ash receptacles and many other improvements are standard with various models in the line.

The instrument panel is beautified by the symmetrical grouping of the several new instruments added this year because of added mechanical features. The free wheeling control button is located just to the right of the steering column.

Other instruments are grouped on the center panel, which has a deeper flange this year and a decorative head harmonizing with the instrument design. A heat control button is added to this center panel, and all instruments have cover lenses for easier reading. The top rail of the panel has been lowered, and contains a removable inset ash tray, with a hinged cover for the convenience of front seat occupants.

All closed models have a "finger touch" front seat adjustment, whereby, simply by touching a lever to the left of the seat, the seat may be quickly rolled to the most comfortable position back of the wheel and clamped there. The adjustment may be made while the car is occupied.

The headlamp dimmer switch, located on the left of the toe board, is improved for better operation; and the stop light switch also is improved and simplified, and may be adjusted by the driver to light at any point in the travel of the foot pedal. The motor which drives the automatic windshield wiper—standard on all models this year—is located at the center of the head or board, inside the car.

For the driver's convenience, the left front window has an equalizer which reduces the effort necessary to raise or lower the window. The windshield regulator, of improved design, is located on the header bar.

The open phaeton and roadsters have a divided convertible top, supported by chromium plated moldings along the front edges of the top. Both models have special moldings for starting side curtains and top. In the phaeton, the rear seat pivots forward to provide space for curtains. The rear seat also is more comfortable, and the kick pad at the rear of the front seat is now of carpet.

The roadster top folds into a space in the body just back of the seat. A snap-on cover conceals the folded top and the arrangement eliminates the usual boot, giving the car a much racier appearance and affording greater comfort to rattle seat passengers. Easier riding and greater capacity is assured by improved springs the front springs having increased camber and load-carrying capacity, and the rear springs in the roadster and coupe models having one more leaf than last year.

The frame has an additional cross member and is redesigned in several points for greater efficiency and safety. A new type of engine suspension known as "diamond" mounting, because the points where the power plant is secured to the frame are in the shape of a diamond, is used. At this suspension point rubber insulation in a stamped container prevents metal to metal contact. This insulation effectively prevents road shocks from reaching the engine, dampens vibration which otherwise might be communicated to the passengers, and at the same time provides a stable anchorage for the power plant.

The sixty horsepower, over-head valve, six cylinder engine is smoother, quieter and more powerful, due to the counterweight effect of many reinforcements. The engine block is stiffened and strengthened by additional ribs and more metal at points of stress. Main crankshaft bearings are thinner, making possible an increase in diameter of the crankshaft journals. The crankshaft, with full counterweights, forged integrally, weighs 53 pounds, an increase of five pounds over last year. Lubrication to the crankshaft and camshaft bearings, and the valve stem is positive pressure this year, instead of splash feed as formerly. Improvements in timing whereby, simply by touching a lever, contribute materially to the twenty per cent increase in power and to quicker acceleration.

In addition to the new down-draft carburetor, a heat control valve has been added to the exhaust manifold to concentrate the hot exhaust gases on the intake manifold for easy starting and quick warming up of the engine at low temperatures. A button regulating the heat control is located on the instrument panel.

An air dome has been added to the fuel pump, which assures constant feeding of fuel to the carburetor under all operating conditions and is especially effective for high speed driving or at low engine temperatures. Air drawn to the carburetor passes through the combined air cleaner, intake silencer and flame arrester mounted on the top of the carburetor. Within the air cleaner an air resonance chamber has been built this year to reduce the "hiss" of incoming air, which at high speeds might otherwise be noticeable to occupants of the car.

Cooling is improved, in addition to the larger radiator area, by increasing the amount of water at the exhaust ports of the engine, and by a new four-blade fan so designed that one pair of blades sets up vibrations of different frequency than the other pair, one cancelling out the other, thus effecting unusually quiet operation.

Refinements in the cushion-mounted clutch combine to insure smooth and extremely quiet operation and freedom from squeaks, clatters and slippage.

The transmission unit, incorporating the synchro-mesh principle and the over-running clutch or "selective" free wheeling is entirely new, and is said to be the first instance of any manufacturer offering the combined features to the motoring public. It is designed to meet the needs of modern traffic, and in operation it automatically permits the novice to shift gears smoothly and noiselessly.

The synchro-mesh transmission follows the same general design as that used successfully during the past few years in other General Motors cars, although some parts have been changed for greater safety in operation and other minor changes have been made either for better performance or better to adapt the units to volume manufacturing.

Select Your Funeral Director As You Choose a Doctor . . . According To His Professional Skill

TOO many people are inclined to think of the funeral director just as a business man. Too little consideration is given to his necessary qualifications in embalming, physiology, chemistry, physics, pathology, bacteriology, sanitary science, and post mortem plastic surgery. And few people know of the part played by the modern funeral director in safeguarding the health of the public. Often, at great personal risk, he takes the necessary steps to prevent the spread of disease. This vital service is recognized and appreciated by the medical profession and public health authorities.

Sues Father-In-Law For Fifty Thousand

Fifty thousand dollars damages for the alienation of his wife's affections is sought from her parents by Raymond Straight, of Belleville, in a suit filed recently in Circuit Court.

The suit is directed against John and Josephine Wilkie, also of Belleville.

Straight says that he and Lillian Wilkie were married May 10, 1919. The following October, he adds, the parents of his wife urged that he and his wife move in with them.

Straight says that he objected but that at the insistence of his wife and the promise of her father to give them 50 acres of land he finally consented. He states that his father-in-law turned over 40 acres to him for use but that he had to pay the taxes.

Four years later, Straight adds, his father-in-law sold 22 1/2 of the 40 acres. He said that he then bought 20 acres of land near Belleville and erected a small home there. His father-in-law then bought 20 acres next to him and erected an attractive home on it, turning it over to Mrs. Straight.

Straight said that he and his wife moved into the new house and that his wife's parents then moved in also. He charges that they conspired to maintain a policy of disaffection. This family feud, he said, led to a separation between his wife and himself last July 26. Two days later she filed suit for divorce.

Among foods mentioned as good excellent sources of the pellagra-preventive factor are milk, lean muscle meat, liver, canned salmon, wheat germ, and pure dried or brewers' yeast. Dried and canned milk cannot be obtained. These foods are suggested in addition to the cereals, vegetables, fats, and sweet foods, such as sugar or molasses, usually forming the basis of the diet in regions where pellagra often develops from too one-sided a diet. Fruits and vegetables should be provided to the greatest extent possible. Tomatoes, both raw and canned, are very valuable for the vitamins they contribute to any diet.

Fire Destroys High School At Carleton

The high school in Carleton, over south of Dearborn, was destroyed by fire shortly after four o'clock last Tuesday morning. Four articles were saved. The damage is placed at $30,000, with $15,000 of insurance.

The blaze started near the furnace room. The fireman apparently had the blaze out and left for home when fire broke out between the partitions and shot through the roof. Only the brick walls are standing.

The structure was erected in 1908. It was two stories high, 80 feet long, 50 feet wide, and contained eight classrooms, which were occupied by 350 pupils under charge of L. E. Eyer, superintendent, and eight teachers.

S. O. Reeves, president of the Board of Education, said school will resume Monday in the Odd Fellow Temple and a store building. A new building will be erected.

The world would treat us all better if we would treat the world better, and all it asks is a little more fairness and politeness and industry.

GREENFIELD VISITED BY THE TRAVEL CLUB

Greenfield Village, Henry Ford's collection of famous buildings, was visited again this year by the Travel Club.

The Menlo Park laboratory, where Thomas Edison carried on many of his experiments, was the first building we saw. All of the wood used in the old building could possibly be found in the collection of the buildings at this building.

The Menlo Park laboratory, where Thomas Edison carried on many of his experiments, was the first building we saw. All of the wood used in the old building could possibly be found in the collection of the buildings at this building.

Logan County Court House of Logan county, Illinois, was Abraham Lincoln first practiced law here next stop. Even the plaster on the walls of this building is the same, excepting that little additional line was mixed with the original.

Then we saw the school-house which Henry Ford used to attend, which contained double desks and looked rather peculiar in comparison with our modern schools.

The ship, the "Sawnee," a smaller replica of the original boat which sank in the Mississippi, is at present resting on dry land in the valley of an old Rouge River channel. This is expected to be dredged some day and the boat sailing in it.

We saw Clinton Inn, constructed exactly one hundred years ago. This was the first over-night stage stop between Detroit and Chicago. There is an interesting old-time kitchen, in which dried corn and apples are hanging from a string near the fireplace, and a bed-warmer is nearby.

The stable was our next stop. Here we saw an old tread-mill churn, which could be run by a dog or a goat. There was a very nice-looking buggy here which had what might have been the original "grumble" seat, so the guide said.

A log house, the home of a hermit, was quite interesting, partly because of the old rope-springs on the bed.

CENTRAL GRADE SCHOOL NOTES

The Junior Kindergarten, under Mrs. Carpenter, welcomed Janet Mitchell last week. She comes from Ionia. The following pupils in Senior Kindergarten have perfect teeth: Madeline Allen, Josephine Armstrong, Billy Baker, Delphine Bogenschultz, Tommy Chaffee, Bobby Fletcher, Robert Gottschalk, Glenn Guldner, Carl Hale, Elizabeth Horvath, Barbara Martin, Wanda Rorabacher, Velda Rorabacher, Kathryn Scruggs, Junior Sehmelerger, and Jean Crandell.

Mrs. Root's first-B pupils made a board pattern of Santa Claus last week. The nature study class have been studying the Evergreen tree which will lead up to the study of the Christmas tree. They are making scrap books for other children. They received the Thrift Banner again last week, which is the fifth time they have had it. They are going to have a large stocking in which the children will put candy, books and toys to help Santa Claus.

The first-B pupils in Miss Mitchell's room made turkeys out of potatoes last week. The head was made of paper, the feet of matches and the feathers of sticks. Some Thanksgiving stories were read to them last week.

The two-B pupils in Mrs. Alban's room have made Thanksgiving booklets. In picture study they studied "Return to the Farm," by Constant Tryon, and wrote a story about the picture. There were eighty per cent without colds last week.

The pupils in Miss Wetherhead's room finished their Pilgrim books last week. Their last picture in picture study was "Autumn" by Manly. There were sixteen A's in spelling last Wednesday.

Nineteen pupils have had perfect attendance in Miss Field's room. The pupils in this room have written Thanksgiving stories and have put the Mayflower on the cover. Norman Peterson had the highest score on the self-testing drill last week.

In Miss Holt's room, fifteen people have been neither absent or tardy for the last six weeks. The fifth graders have started the study of Europe in geography class.

Jean Hadley has returned back to Mrs. Holliday's room after being absent a week. The pupils made book reports last week. The five-B's have started the study of Europe in geography.

The pupils in Miss Penner's room broadcasted a Thanksgiving program last Wednesday morning, with Elmer Barlow as announcer.

The pupils in Miss Penner's room broadcasted a Thanksgiving program last Wednesday morning, with Elmer Barlow as announcer.

On Tuesday evening before Thanksgiving vacation, about thirty Commercial Club members and their friends met at Zielasko's house for a Thanksgiving party.

The program for the evening was opened by inviting Harold Brown. With this as a start, various games were played, and although the boys were outnumbered by the girls, everyone had a grand time.

At the end of the evening, lunch was served, everyone having enough to eat and plenty of cider to drink. The Commercial Club members then entertained everyone by taking turns in playing at the piano. When everyone was "filled up," Donald Proctor played while some danced. Miss Graf then thought it was time for the party to break up, and everyone went home satisfied.

If you lack education, it is your own fault. Every man you meet—every inhabitant of life—every hour of the day is a page from the best textbook there is. This book is called Experience.

CAMP FIRE

Camp Wetonachiek held a Thanksgiving ceremonial at Zerepha Blunks, on November 24th. The girls entered the magic circle singing the Professional. As they faced the guardian, the hand sign was given, and the candles were lighted by Work, Esther Egge, Health, Jane Whipple, and Love, Madelyn Blunk.

"America, the Beautiful," was then sung. Each girl was given two months about which she was to tell why she was thankful. Janet Blunkstaff told that she was thankful for November and December because "November brings us Thanksgiving, and because in this month we celebrate world peace. December is the love night moon, which brings us Christmas with its joy and love. I give thanks for love and for friends who have made my life richer and happier."

January and February were given by Jean Strong. "January is the snow moon; I am thankful that we have happy, comfortable homes, that we have parents and friends, and loved ones about the hearth fire to love and cheer us every day. February is the Hunger Moon; this is the month that calls us to service. Let us be thankful that we can be of service to others and thus find our deepest happiness."

The next two months were given by Zerepha Blunk. "March represents the crow moon, our birthday month; I give thanks for Camp Fire in whose magic circle we have found Work, Health, and Love. April is the wild goose moon; the wild birds are returning to the southland. I am thankful for the animals of the earth, bees and butterflies, and for the birds that fly in the sky."

Esther Egge told why she was thankful for the months of May and June. "June is the rose moon. I am thankful for our country's flag and for the colors of the red, white and blue. Let us never forget the sacrifices that were made by Washington and Lincoln and their followers. August is the green corn and red moon. I am thankful for the cool streams and the shady woods. In August we follow the grey tracks of the bear and through the forest. Let us all give thanks for the granting of health stored against the years to come."

September and October were given by Madelyn Blunk. "September brings the hunting moon. We are thankful for this time of year at our schools and for opportunities which we have in this great land of education. It is for the pure, the beautiful and the good. October is the leaf falling moon. This year is ripe and full. Let us give thanks for the work we do in Camp Fire which brings us the happiness of working together. We give thanks for these happy hours of working together."

Mrs. Stevens then said, "We give thanks for Camp Fire. It would be showing scant gratitude for this rich harvest if we kept it for ourselves alone. Other girls are waiting to be admitted to this magic circle. Let us share with them our treasure of dreams and happy hours."

The pledge of allegiance was given, and "We-He-Lo for Aye" was sung. The torch bearers then stepped into the circle and gave their desire. The Pilgrimage was then undertaken everyone by taking turns in playing at the piano. When everyone was "filled up," Donald Proctor played while some danced. Miss Graf then thought it was time for the party to break up, and everyone went home satisfied.

One of the best of our sayings is that virtue is its own reward. The young man who declines an invitation to engage in a night of drinking and rowdiness must find a particular pleasure in the little in his pocket of money he didn't spend.

Next to the above building there is a tall-gate building. The amount of toll for various animals was painted on the side of it. And the toll collector started them. The first shoe factory had a capacity force of three men, and produced sixty pairs a day, which was an item to cause worry among the ranks of the ordinary cobblers who feared the loss of their trade. We saw this factory, which looked like a common little shack.

"Under the spreading chestnut tree the village smithy stands," the chestnut tree is at Greenfield, and so is the blacksmith shop.

A jewelry shop which came from London, designed especially for the two giant figures which are supposed to strike every quarter-hour refused to strike at all when we stood watching them.

We passed by an old type town hall and the glass blower's shop, and then went home, having spent an enjoyable afternoon among old-time surroundings.

ROCK GRID TEAM LOSES SEVEN

Upon the recommendation of Coach Marhenson, the Student Council has voted to award nineteen varsity letters, sixteen reserve letters and a manager's letter to Bruce Miller, the trusty manager of the football team. The award will be made at the first general assembly instead of the honor assembly as was customary. Seven of the varsity members and four reserve fellows will graduate next June.

Among the former are Harlow Wageschurz, halfback, whose hard blocking and hard tackling was respected and feared by all the teams. He has completed his third season of varsity football. Arthur "Hap" Amrhein, that dependable and hard fighting guard, has completed his second year. Jack Gillis came from Saginaw, and made the varsity this year at quarterback position. He was a hard runner, hard blocker, and a hard tackler. Hugh Horton, playing at halfback, thrilled the spectators many times by his brilliant running. Charles Carr and Edwin Ash, stars of the reserve team last year, came to the varsity with hard going fight, both provided thrills for spectators and Charles played every minute of every game this year. Captain Steve Dudek, who has completed his fourth year of varsity football, held down fullback position, and did most of the line plunging for the Blue and White this season.

The varsity fellows coming back next year, who will receive their letters, are the following: Captain-elect James Williams, Lester Bassett, and Arthur Bannerman, who will start their third year on the varsity team, and Warren Bassett, Conie Dudek, Melvin Blunk, J. D. McLaren, Bob Champagne, Matthew McLellan, Ray Trimble, Harold Micol and Donald Branson have all played their first year of football.

The reserve fellows who will receive letters are: March, Meloy, Todd, Highfield, Howers, Baker, W. Carr, Knapp, G. Miller, Pontor, Rorabacher, Steffen, N. Wagner, H. Williams, Judd and reserve captain Whitaker. Only four reserve fellows will graduate which will leave twenty-five experienced prospects for next year's grid team. All though the new and green Plymouth team was outwitted by every team met in the depression, they took the season to win second place in the Suburban League standings for the Blue and White.

FOOD MAKES A DIFFERENCE

We see throughout the country every kind of school lunch from the cafeteria down to the one-dish lunch which is prepared and served by the children themselves. Our school lunch as the home economist girls see it, is not just a place to obtain food, but also a place where good food habits may be taught. Because the school meal forms about one-third of a child's food during school months, it should be as carefully planned as any other meal. The way a student attacks his afternoon school work of the day depends a great deal on the sort of lunch he has had.

Not only does the body need the minerals and vitamins found in fresh vegetables and fruits, but it also needs the proteins in the form of meat, cheese, fish and eggs. Energy foods, such as cereals, breads and healthful sweets, form another important part of the noon lunch.

In the school lunch room approximately sixty people are served each day. Three girls assist in serving while a fourth girl makes change at the end of the line. Most of the food is five cents, while no food exceeds ten cents. Each day soup and one or more vegetables are served besides a hot dish which may be chop suey, macaroni and cheese, potatoes served mashed, creamed, or baked, or some meat. Milk is always served as well as rolls and sandwiches of various kinds. For dessert one may select some simple nutritious pudding, baked apple, sliced fruit, or custard; while pie is served if a heavier dessert is desired. Ice cream in some form is always a favorite dessert. The average amount spent by the students for lunch is 14c.

All boys and girls must purchase their Student Council tickets if they want to play on any class team. So if you are an athlete, you had better purchase yours if you have not already done so. The assembly closed with the singing of "America."

9-B ENGLISH STUDENTS HAVE BEEN GUESS WHAT?

The 9-B English students have been reading "Treasure Island" by Robert Louis Stevenson, and have enjoyed it very much. One member of our class is quite a promising young cook. Out of flour, sugar and water, Fred Radcliffe made a map of Treasure Island. He put it on a pane of glass. It was shaded with water colors and, although none of us has tasted it, it has a very enticing look. Fred also made a stockade of matches with a small cabin in it. One especially noticeable map was that of Yvonne Hearn who painted hers with water colors. Another belonged to Jack Wilcox who drew his with white ink on a black background. The maps drawn by the following are worthy of special mention: Olive Gotschalk, Thelma Lunstorf, Billy Swaddling, Peggy Tuck and Ruth Schmidt.

Sloine Shingleton contributed a large picture of a ship, once used as an advertisement. Elaine made a "Jolly Roger" pirate flag and put it on the mast. It was well done and adds greatly to our collection. Ruth Schmidt and Marian Van Amburg made silhouette posters, pirates and Ben Gunn, respectively. Jean Joffe contributed a poster of Ben Gunn. This work of art places Jean high in the ranks of ninth grade artists.

TEACHERS IN TURN, M-E-R-R-Y S-E-W

It began: M—something we use to sew on. Answer—material. E—part of the needle. Answer—eye. R—something which can be made from old pieces of cloth. Answer—rag. Etc. until the name of the club had been spelled. The girls who guessed the answers correctly were Evelyn Shackleton, Audrey Moore, Betty St. Clair, Elizabeth Hegge, Mildred Postif and Ardith Wessling.

At the last meeting the girls played the game of "Consequences," which was found to be so much fun that they hope to play it again. Next week the "Merry Sewers" hope to start Christmas gifts. The meeting will be under the direction of Sally Bailey and Winifred Smith.

There is no rule more invariable than that we are paid for our suspicions by finding what we suspected.—Thoreau.

Two children attended a party. Next morning one of them, an imaginative child, told a wonderful story about it. Her sister, a quiet little thing, listened in wonder. Finally she asked: "Mother, is that the party I attended?"

Some choice varieties of evergreens which do not come true from seed may easily be propagated in greenhouses during the winter. Among these are varieties of arbor vitae, boxwood, juniper, retinospora, yew, and others. The wood for the cuttings is usually in good condition after a few light frosts have checked the growth and it has ripened. Cuttings may be made at any time up to midwinter with good results. Do not cut or handle the wood while it is frozen. The vigorous branches on the sides and near the tops of the trees furnish the best wood for cuttings.

A new puzzle was planned for the Nov. 17 meeting of the Merry Sewers' Needlework Club. The crossword puzzle for the time before was solved by Patsy McKinney and Elizabeth Hegge.

The new game, planned by Grace Highfield and Lillian Howard, consisted of guessing the name of some article which began with the letter

HARRY BARNES PLEADS FOR STRONG AMERICAN LEGION MEMBERSHIP

Commander of Plymouth Post Points Out Benefits of Organization.

Harry Barnes, commander of the Plymouth American Legion organization, declares that every man so served in the World War should be a member of The American Legion if for no other reason than to show his individual appreciation and gratitude for what the Legion has done for him and his comrades of the Great War. With the interests of ex-service men always at heart the Legion, through persistent and organized effort, has obtained many benefits for veterans as a group. These benefits were obtained by the Legion for all World War veterans, not for Legionnaires alone. The ex-service man who has failed to take out membership in the Legion, who has failed to support the Legion program, benefits equally with those who have fought and labored in his interest.

One of the outstanding benefits the Legion has obtained for veterans is that of free hospitalization. Any ex-service man or woman who becomes ill or physically disabled, regardless of whether the disability is traceable to war service, may go to a United States Veterans Bureau hospital and there receive medical attention and hospital treatment without cost, providing facilities are available. This benefit is valued at more than $5,000, for that is the estimated amount such service would cost in a lifetime. The government is sometimes severely pressed for hospital beds, however, and in order that all veterans may be cared for the Legion has successfully sponsored the appropriation of funds to provide the needed additional hospital facilities.

Perhaps the hardest battle the Legion ever fought for veterans was in the adjusted compensation fight. Bitter opposition to this measure arose from many sources but the Legion believed the principle was right and made a determined stand for it. After a four-year fight the law was passed over a presidential veto, giving veterans compensation in the form of a paid-up insurance policy based on their length of service. In 1928 when the time expired to file for Adjusted Compensation benefits, the Legion obtained passage of an amendment to the law which extended the time of filing. This amendment enabled approximately 30,000 veterans to benefit by the act.

Another benefit which has operated to the financial advantage of veterans is the privilege of taking out government insurance. Any veteran who can pass the physical examination is eligible to take out life insurance through the government at reduced rates. The successful operation of the government's insurance plan has saved veterans thousands upon thousands of dollars because of the elimination of overhead expenses. Through the enactment of laws sponsored by the Legion, veterans are given preference in the matter of civil service appointments. Many ex-service men are employed in the different branches of government service today who might otherwise have encountered difficulty in obtaining the positions had they not been accorded the right of preference.

There is no organization with higher ideals and purposes than The American Legion. Composed as it is of the patriotic minded men and women who bore arms in the defense of their flag and country, the Legion is today pledged to a program of usefulness and service which commands the deepest respect and the highest admiration of the American public. The men who marched away to war returned to civilian life with a rekindled love for their native land, appreciating the fact that solemn obligations and responsibilities rest upon them as individual citizens. In furtherance of the objective which they fought, these men organized The American Legion as the vehicle to put their program into practical operation.

Comradeship to war veterans who have served in a common cause is friendship intensified to flaming affection by the most exacting of mental trials. War services breed the very souls of those engaged in it. The ordeals and dangers which they undergo reveals their true nature to one another almost as clearly as their faces.

Forwardness cannot long be concealed in the uniform, especially when life is threatened. Selfishness crops out quickly in the rigors of training and the grim struggles on the battle fields. Whether a person's spirit is that of all for one and one for all in win victory may be determined speedily among a nation's defenders.

In ordinary pursuits, a man might live long and die without it ever being discovered that he was untrue to his God, disloyal to his country and selfish toward his fellow men, but the close contact of the military in war time tears off every mask. Frightful as war is, in it as in no other occupation of mankind nobility or lack of it in a nature becomes readily apparent.

MADE-OVER DISHES

IT IS a fact that a good many people really prefer leftover meat dishes to first day meat.

This occurs, of course, where the housewife or cook knows how to prepare leftovers in your family.

Rice is one of the best things to combine with leftover meat. Tomato is another. Green peppers and onions are excellent for flavor. And bread crumbs, too, may often be used.

One good leftover dish calls for finely-cut-up but not dried cooked meat, boiled rice, canned tomatoes and sliced onions. These ingredients are placed in layers in a casserole and the whole is baked. It must be properly seasoned, and it must be moist enough, either with tomato juice, gravy, stock, or water, so that it will not dry out in the baking. The proportion of the different ingredients may be varied according to the resources of your refrigerator.

A good way to serve a leftover stew is in the form of a bread pie. Cut the ingredients of the stew in small pieces, and place them in a baking dish, with gravy enough to moisten them well. Remember that you can always make additional gravy with meat extract if you have not enough. Then make a crust of fine fresh bread crumbs, moistened with a beaten egg, milk and melted butter. Put this over the top of the stew, rather thick, and bake until brown. The bread crust should be seasoned with salt and pepper.

Roast beef is rather more difficult to warm over palatably than roast lamb. The first night you can broil slices of the roast beef, just long enough to heat them thoroughly. Then you can make a stew of the last remnants, simmering them slowly, adding onion and tomato, removing fat and crystals after they are cooked, and thickening carefully. Croquettes, with rice or bread crumbs added, may always be used, and the meal may be minced and mixed with boiled rice or bread crumbs and used as a stuffing for sweet green peppers—and baked.

EARTH AND SKY

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE sky is beautiful, but I love the green earth more. The heavens seem so very far. The world so near my door. Above me are the splendid stars So radiantly bright. But here are patios, and pasture bars, And little lamps at night.

The sky is beautiful, ah, yes. And yet the good, green earth Gives me each day her loveliness. Each day a whole life's worth. How many of his weary ones The sun has left a-thirst! But, oh, how many of her sons Old Mother Earth has nursed.

The sky is beautiful, but flowers Are beautiful to see. And all the cycle of the hours Earth spreads a feast for me. And even when the thing is through, When all of life is past, Earth's is the breast I turn me to And find my rest at last.

Trick Photography
The photographer was engaged to take a group picture of the school. Bobby forgot to dress up on the day appointed and told his teacher he was worried about the hole in the knee of his trousers. When he was assured that it would not be likely to show in the picture, Bobby faced the camera. After the picture was taken he ran to his teacher and said: "Say, but I'm glad I didn't dress up. You know that man let me kneel in the front row, and the hole was all covered up just as good as my new pants would have done it."

Firemen Save House From Destruction By Excellent work
Timely discovery of a fire burning on the roof of the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Vealey, 245 East Ann Arbor street, by Fred Reiman, a neighbor, and the prompt work of the fire department, saved the Vealey residence from serious damage by fire last Saturday morning. Mr. Reiman happened to look out of the window of his home, and as he did so he saw smoke and flames coming from the roof of the Vealey home. He immediately called the Vealey residence and warned them of the danger. A call to the fire station brought the department in record time, and before the flames could gain any headway, the members of the department had checked the blaze. It was necessary to cut two holes through the roof, one at some of the flames which had burned through the shingles and roofing boards, but carefulness on the part of the firemen saved most of the roof from damage. Only the chemical tanks were used in putting the fire out. It is believed the fire started from a spark on the roof as it started on the outside and burned through to the inside of the attic. Mr. and Mrs. Vealey were highly pleased with the prompt arrival of the fire department and its excellent work. The good work of the firemen saved them from a disastrous loss.

Diphtheria Claims Life of Little Girl

Sympathy of the community is extended to the family in the sad death of their only daughter, Eva M., who died in University hospital Monday night, where she had been taken a month on that day suffering from diphtheria.

Not many know of Eva's illness, as she was stricken only a week before her death. Her sudden demise brought sadness to many hearts.

She was an ambitious, industrious person, and possessed a character of sterling worth. Her winsome manner won her friends wherever she went.

Eva was nearly 15 years of age. She was born December 12, 1913 at the farm home in Rushton, where she completed her short earthly career. She received her education in the Van Atta district and South Lyon high school, graduating with the class of this year, 1931. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church of South Lyon.

Beside the grief-stricken parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wortley, the departed is deeply mourned by her sweet friends, Lyman who lives near the homestead in Rushton, and Clair at home.

Funeral services, which will be strictly private, will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and burial will be in South Lyon cemetery. Rev. D. C. Strubbs will officiate. South Lyon Herald.

You Are Right! Past Summer Hottest One Known in History

Did you say it was the hottest year you had ever known? In the whole "times" who have lived for half a century or more around Plymouth, say that as far back as they can remember they never experienced such a hot year as the past one has been?

Well, they are right—because Michigan or no other part of the United States, as far as known, ever experienced a "hotter" summer. Reports from the weather bureau, compiled by Joseph B. Kinser, indicate that 1931 will establish a record as being the hottest in the history of the country.

The statistics indicate a constant climbing average from the cold winter of 1917-18, reaching a climax this year. Each year since 1918 has shown an excess of heat over the normal, but nothing so far has approached the extremes of this year.

Weather bureau experts do not know the cause of the "hot" year. They do not know whether it is unique in meteorological history for North America, since the temperature records only go back about a century, and the reliable ones for only about 50 years. But it appears to be the hottest year experienced by anybody now living within the limits of the United States.

Although the strange reversal of geographic order has been apparent all the year, the world freak has been most apparent in recent telegraphic reports. This week there was a hard frost in Meridian, Miss., while Milwaukee has not experienced freezing weather. Last week Mississippi gardens were nipped, while late vegetables were ripening and flowers blooming in east Iowa. A below-zero blizzard a week ago swept a portion of New Mexico seldom visited by severe storms.

At the whole, it has been an exceptionally good crop year, Mr. Kinser's reports show. There was enough rain to keep the crops moist, although there was very little replenishment of the subsoil water depleted by the 1930 drought. Now, however, another drought seems to have hit the Gulf States, the Atlantic coast and parts of the central West. For September and October Alabama had only 54 per cent normal rainfall; South Carolina, 24 per cent; Virginia, 57 per cent, and Texas, 53 per cent.
