SECURE BOOKS

More than 2,000 books and bound periodicals had been received in Detroit in response to an appeal for reading matter for the inmates of Wayne County institutions. Three thousand more are sought.

The collection is under direction of Frank Lloyd, who started it when he discovered that the same had made the Public Library stacks no longer available to these unfortunate.

One thousand volumes will be sent to the Detroit House of Correction. More are sought for county hospitals and the Northville Sanatorium. Several hundred children's volumes will be distributed to hospitals and orphanages.

The subject matter runs from Shakespeare's complete works to a set of O. Henry; from Boswell's Johnson to Horatio Alger, Jr.

The success of the appeal has led Lloyd to plan a circulating library that can be kept moving from one institution to another.

The Saving of Human Life is of Paramount Importance in Every Community

Thousands upon thousands of human lives are lost annually in the United States by asphyxiation from different causes. It is a significant fact that in spite of all precautions and general education of the public against this grave danger, that the toll of life in this classification is steadily on the increase.

There is no reason to doubt that a great number of these victims of asphyxiation could have been saved, if the community in which they lived had been awake to the vital importance of having efficient equipment on hand to combat emergencies of this kind.

People all over the country realize the necessity of adopting some means of reviving victims of asphyxiation from drowning, suffocation, electric shock, illuminating gas, as well as lime-burn infants. From a daily risk their lives, and are frequently overcome by smoke fumes.

Government Print Shops Working Night and Day To Produce New Stamps That Provide For Higher Post Rates

Wheels are turning in two great Washington factories night and day while more than 2,000 persons work overtime to produce one of the smallest articles manufactured—postage stamps.

Under the terms of the new revenue act postage rates in several categories have been increased. The rise which is straining postoffice facilities is that, effective July 6, in the first-class mail rate, from 2 cents to 3 cents an ounce. It has created many complications. In the first place, it has demanded that stamps seldom called for under the old rates and made mass production of the stamp necessary at a time when two great occasions are being marked by special issues—the George Washington Bicentennial and the tenth Olympiad at Los Angeles.

Stamp-making machinery in the service of the Postoffice Department has had to be changed over, just as in a factory which is suddenly forced to alter the specifications of its principal product, and the adjustment has had to be made within a few weeks. What might be termed "samples" have already been issued and philatelists are already in possession of the cherished "first-day covers" (envelopes bearing stamps placed on the day of issue).

Purple for the Letter
The most striking change in the stamps brought about by the new postal rates is in the color. Hereafter all ordinary letters will bear a purple stamp instead of the customary red one, at least during the next two years. Purple long has been the color of the three-cent stamp, just as red has been that of the two-cent stamp, green of the one-cent stamp, and so on. The practical reason for this color uniformity in a given denomination is that men who cancel stamps at high speed will not check numerals, but color only.

Franklin's portrait has a traditional purple on three-cent stamps, and legend has it that the purple ink is a symbol of mourning for the assassinated President. But as the likeness of George Washington invariably appears on the most popular stamp, as well as the most popular currency—the $1 bill—George Washington's head must go on the three-cent stamp. It could not be otherwise even if this were the George Washington Bicentennial year.

In order to meet public sentiment at the same time, mechanical limitations of the Postoffice Department, faced with the need of supplying the country's postoffices with 3,000,000,000 new three-cent stamps (62,700 million of them), in little more than a month, is making some of them Lincoln stamps—some of them Special Centennial Washington stamps, some of them standard Washington stamps, and a few say 20,000,000—special Olympiad stamps.

The Lincoln stamp is the same one now in use; its production, of course has been vastly expedited.

The special Washington Bicentennial issue shows the Father of His Country in a seated but on a stamp of standard size, the engraving being after a portrait of the General done at Valley Forge in 1777 by Charles Wilson Peale. The original portrait now is in the State Normal School at West Chester, Pa. The stamp bears the dates 1732 and 1932.

The regular Washington three-cent issue will be identical in design with the red two-centers now so well known—those of the Stuart portrait—except that from the three-cent stamp are omitted the dates 1732 and 1932.

The Olympiad stamp, issued primarily for use on mail from Los Angeles during the Olympic Games, is decorated with a runner crouched as though waiting for the starting signal, a design, incidentally, that has won high praise for the fitness of its execution and the delicacy of line in the engraving. All four of these three-cent stamps are purple.

Two emblems are used on the new three-cent stamped envelopes, on which the design is colored a true royal purple, several shades brighter than the adhesive stamps of this denomination. One of the designs shows a silhouette of Washington and the other a drawing of Mount Vernon, the first being the new regular insignia and the second another how to the bicentennial.

Adhesives and Envelopes
The Bureau of Printing and Engraving is keeping well abreast of the schedule which will produce 14,000,000 sheets of adhesive stamps by July 6. In another plant, at Dayton, Ohio, 1,000 persons are working on the stamped envelopes for which there is a demand hardly comprehensible to the small consumer of such goods. These envelopes are being turned out at the rate of 15,000,000 a day, compared with 100,000,000 adhesive stamps in the same period. One hundred cartons of envelopes will have been distributed by the date on which the new rates go into effect.

The three-cent stamps are prepared not only in flat sheets used by the average buyer, but in other forms to fit equipment used in mail-order houses. Some of them are printed in coils of 500, 1,000 and 3,000 side-perforated, later, end-perforated stamps must be manufactured at the Postoffice Department has not yet been able to get around to these. The books of three-cent stamps, too, will be delayed.

The engraving plant also has speeded up production of one-cent stamps. It is expected that 1,000,000,000 of these will be required for use in connection with two-cent stamps already in the hands of the consumer or upon two-cent stamped envelopes, also in stock, before business becomes adjusted to the new rate.

Fete for Collectors
Philatelists had their primary thrill in collecting the new series of stamps on June 13 when the Olympiad stamp, as befitted the reason for its existence, went on sale at Los Angeles. (In Washington it was not to be had until a days later.) On June 16 the new Washington stamps were available at the postoffice in the national capital.

The postoffice declined for the first time to handle orders for these covers. It had been the custom for it to mail out envelopes bearing any new stamps to persons requesting them and accompanying the request with the requisite amount of postage.

One question has arisen under the new order: What will become of the familiar Lincoln head since its place on the three-cent stamp has been taken by the likeness of the first President? Within sixty days it will have been manufactured and the portrait of Washington on all three-cent stamps required under the new rates. Lincoln's picture might be placed on the two-cent stamp, but the Postoffice Department will not be hasty about this; it prefers to wait and see if the letter rate is to remain permanently at three cents. Thus it will keep Washington on both the two-cent and three-cent stamps for two years at least.

Incidentally, a Postoffice Department official said that if the three-cent letter rate becomes a fixture, the three-cent stamps eventually will be colored red.

Because of the haste necessary with the new rates going into effect early in July, considerable temporary inconvenience will be caused to those business houses which ordinarily carry large inventories of stamps. The Postoffice Department has announced that it will not be able to accept two-cent stamps that customers may wish to return in exchange for three-cent ones. Thus where stamping machines are used, one-cent stamps in addition to the machine-affixed two-cent stamps will have to be attached by hand until the owners of machines have exhausted their old stock. Also local postoffices throughout the country will have to affix one-cent stamps to two-cent stamped envelopes sold to customers.

Persons who wish to return two-cent stamped envelopes may do so, but their rebate will consist only of the face value of the stamps engraved on the envelopes, as the Postoffice Department will destroy the envelopes.

Retaining the Two-Cent
Within local postoffices the work will be complicated for some time, as postmasters may not return their stocks of two-cent stamps. However, they may receive whatever three-cent stamps are needed and use up surplus two-centers in stamping parcel post packages. The initial expense of preparing for the change in postage rates was estimated by M. S. Eldaness, in charge of the stamp division, at about $630,000. The government, of course, will recover this investment as soon as the stamps are sold, and the net cost is represented only by the dies, which themselves are made by regular government workmen in the Bureau of Printing and Engraving.

Another change in letter rates, accompanied by less publicity, will go into effect on July 1, when the air mail postage will be increased from five cents for the first ounce to eight cents. Here is no inconvenience, however, as there are plenty of eight-cent stamps.

There probably will be an appropriate new eight-cent stamp created, however, if this new rate becomes permanent.

While a change in the letter-postage rate entails more than ordinary routine work for the Postoffice Department, new stamp designs are plentifully created for special or commemorative issues.

In his latest report the Postmaster General mentioned stamps in honor of General Palaski and for use in connection with the Yorktown and Red Cross anniversaries, in addition to the bicentennial stamps. There was, moreover, a change in the stamp of regular issue—a new portrait design on the 14-cent Harding stamp.

Twelve adhesive stamps were authorized in the Washington anniversary series, in denominations of one-half cent to 10 cents. "The likeness of Washington, modeled from the works of various artists and depicting the first President at different periods," to be used "on each stamp of the series."

Hope To Re-open Bank At Milford Today

In the matter of the petition of Rudolph E. Heichert for the reorganization and reopening of the local bank very definite progress has been made and it is anticipated that the bank will be open and doing business before July 1.

After a conference between the Assistant Attorney General, Sig. A. Erwin, representing the State Banking Department, and H. B. Seiden, attorney for Mr. Eckfeld, who has been acting as custodian, Mr. Seiden has drawn a tentative order and decree and while this order has not been finally signed by Judge Doty it is understood that its provisions are agreeable to him.

Judge Doty is holding court in Lapeer this week and there may be some possibility that it will be the latter part of the week before the order is definitely signed.

It is understood, however, that the order will contain a provision for a stockholders' meeting at which meeting directors will be elected. This is in accordance with the wishes of the Banking Commission.

The order, as drawn, approves the Depositors' Agreement, sets up the trust and moratorium funds provided for in that agreement, orders the setting aside of a proportionate and equitable amount of the bank's assets to satisfy the qualified objectors who, it is understood, represent not to exceed two per cent of the deposit liability of the bank. The order, as drawn, estops any person who did not file written objections to the plan from contesting it at any time in the future.

As stated above, it is anticipated that the bank will be operating by the 1st of July.—Milford Times.

Miss Ruth Osburn of Shelbyville, Mo., established herself as an Olympic threat for the discus throw when she heaved the platter a distance of 108 feet 2 1/2 inches to win the event in the Missouri Valley A. A. U. regional Olympic tryouts for women held at Columbia, Mo. Miss Osburn's new mark bettered the American record for women of 107 feet 6 inches, set by Caroline C. Love in 1929. Miss Osburn also won the individual championships in the shotput, baseball throw and javelin throw in the Mid-West meet.

Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, June 26. Among the Bible citations was this passage (Rev. 14:3): "And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people."

Correlative passages read from the "Christian Science" textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following (p. 107): "Through Christian Science, religion and medicine are inspired with a diviner nature and essence: fresh plinions are given to faith and understanding, and thoughts acquaint themselves intelligently with God."

TO HAVE LOWER TAX
 Garden City's general tax rate for the fiscal year beginning July 1, had been set at $11.00 per $1,000 assessed valuation, according to Thomas Hickey, village assessor. The figure is a reduction of $1.20, compared with 1931. In 1930 the village tax rate was $15.25. The assessed valuation of the village, it was stated, is $4,782,799, a reduction of $134,151.

Taxes in the village of Wayne, beginning July 1, will be $10 per $1,000 assessed, according to George Gerbstadt, village president. The rate is $2 more than last year. However, it was declared that a general reduction in valuation ranging from 10 to 15 per cent, offsets the increase.

"THUNDER BELOW" A complete seven-room tropical home with garden recently was completed and furnished on a stage in a Hollywood film studio. It was built on one of the sound stages for use in Tallulah Bankhead's current Paramount starring picture, "Thunder Below," which comes to Penniman Allen Theatre Wednesday, July 6. Assisting Miss Bankhead in the feature roles are Charles Bickford, Paul Lukas, Eugene Pallette and Ralph Forbes. This is one of the few times a scenic structure has been designed and constructed in its entirety. The average film home has rooms scattered over several stages instead of actually adjoining one another. Since much of the action takes place in this cinematic structure with movement from one room to another, the complete home was erected on one huge stage.

SOME BRAN DISHES THE value of uncooked bran as a laxative food is so well known that it need not be mentioned here. Uncooked, unsweetened bran may be used in combination with any foods to add roughage to the diet. One must know of course that all people cannot use irritating roughage, but the majority of people need all kinds to cleanse the alimentary canal, add digestion and further elimination. When one objects to taking a tablespoonful or two of bran in a glass of water, add it to the cereal, or make some of these dishes: Bran Macarons. Beat one egg, add one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, one-half cupful of brown sugar, three tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one and one-half cupfuls of uncooked bran and such flavoring as liked. Mix well and drop by teaspoonfuls on buttered baking sheets. Bake in 350 degree oven until brown. These are small cakes that the children may eat without harm. Bran Muffins. Take two cupfuls of flour, one and three-fourths cupfuls of milk, two cupfuls of bran, one beaten egg, three and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-third of a cupful of sugar, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt and three tablespoonfuls of melted shortening. Drop into well greased muffin pans after mixing and beating well. Bake thirty-five minutes in a hot oven. Sour milk with the same amount of baking powder and three-fourths of a teaspoonful of soda may be used in place of the sweet milk.

YOUR HOME and YOU By BETSY CALLISTER USES OF CHOPPED ICE

THE mere sight of chopped ice or the sound of it tinkling against glass has a refreshing effect on a warm summer's day and a meal that otherwise might be unappetizing meets with approval if served with a bit of ice here and there. Butter should always be served with chopped or broken ice and most conveniently in a butter dish made with a perforated tray for the butter so that the water melted from the ice may be drained to the bottom of the dish. Orange juice or grapefruit juice is most appetizing if served in a small straight-sided glass set in a glass bowl of shaved or chopped ice and halves of grapefruit may also be served set in beds of ice. Well chilled melons do not need to be served with ice and many persons prefer the flavor when served without it. Instead of placing ice directly on the melon sections it is a good plan to pass or place on the table a large bowl of chopped ice with a serving spoon so that those who wish it may help themselves. Iced tea is said to be most refreshing when the hot tea is poured directly on chopped ice in the individual glass. When it is to be made at the table in this way there should be a bowl of finely chopped ice from which the glasses may be filled before the hot tea is poured. Ice tongs of a collapsing variety are helpful in lifting small pieces of ice from a glass ice bowl to the individual glasses, or for using on a picnic to move ice taken along to keep things cool. These are interesting devices that can be opened in two ways, one for the larger chunks of ice, and one for the smaller pieces such as one has in an ice bowl on the table or refreshment tray.

Laud Educational Training of Children In State School At Coldwater-Plymouth Educator Long a Member of Board of Control

Supt. George Smith of the Plymouth public schools, has for many years been a member of the board of control of the Michigan State Public School at Coldwater. He has always taken a keen interest in the welfare and development of this school and its excellent management is due to a very great extent to the thought that Mr. Smith and his associates on the board have given to the institution.

The following article which appeared recently in The Michigan Journalist, the newspaper conducted by the department of journalism of the University of Michigan, will be of more than ordinary interest here because of Supt. Smith's long affiliation with the home and school for Michigan's orphans at Coldwater.

The Michigan State Public School at Coldwater, the first school of this specific type to be created in the United States, is discussed by Professor L. W. Koeler, director of instruction in the University Hospital School and educational adviser to the Michigan State Public School at Coldwater. In an article in the School of Education Bulletin of April, 1932, this institution, established by an act of the legislature in 1917, "is tax supported, is an integral part of the public school system of the state, and is devoted to the care of dependent children," Mr. Koeler writes.

The solicitation for co-operation in the study of the school by Superintendent Ramsay and the board in control in April, 1931, brought this institution to the attention of the school of education, Mr. Koeler indicated.

"The study of the statistics which define the purpose underlying the creation of this institution, reveals that it is the duty of the state to provide educational opportunities for all children of the state and discloses a definite philosophy of education basic to the carrying out of this duty," continued Mr. Koeler. The school aims to serve the state through the prevention of individual delinquency and crime. The fact that the school does not intend to serve as an institution for the permanent segregation of dependent children, stated Mr. Koeler, indicates that the state considers the purpose of education realized only when children are adequately prepared to take their places as citizens in the social group.

It pointed out three main requirements that are necessary to carry out the purposes of the state. First, it is necessary to organize adequate dormitory facilities, hospital accommodations, and such features essential to provide good living quarters for children, who range from infancy upward and who represent those who are orphaned, those who come from broken homes, or those who cannot be cared for by their parents. Delinquent children and those of exceptional physical or mental defects are not taken to this school, Mr. Koeler stated.

Finally, residence in the institution should be desirable, Mr. Koeler asserted, in order that children may not lose the advantages of life in a normal home and community. This aim, he indicated, is realized through adoption, placement within adoption and boarding home placement. Much care is taken, Mr. Koeler stated, in placing the child in the right home. "The purpose of this care is to increase the likelihood of a happy and beneficial home and social life for the child," he declared. The authorities of the school take the position of the foster parent, he added.

water and does not permit the Harvey street storm sewer to discharge with its full velocity into the ditch. This has caused a large amount of sand to accumulate in the Harvey street sewer which naturally prevents this sewer from carrying its full load.

"After receiving many complaints as to the condition in this area we have come to the conclusion that some step should be taken to clean out the ditch from at least Harvey Street to the Tonquish Creek, a distance of approximately 1800 feet. This would allow the water level to fall in the culvert at Harvey street and would permit us to remove the sand from the Harvey street sewer."

"I have taken the matter up with the Wayne County Drain Commissioner and have been advised that their records do not show that this is a county ditch. They will upon application signed by at least ten people, five of whom are subject to assessment, lay out and establish this creek as a county drain and will do the necessary dredging and cleaning work, the cost of which will be assessed over the drainage district. This work could be done by the city if it is not desired to have the matter handled as a County drain. It would not be possible to handle the work economically with welfare labor as the ditch is quite deep and it will require dredging an additional four foot depth from the culvert tapering off to grade at the junction with Tonquish Creek. If the work was to be undertaken by hand labor a considerable amount of material would be necessary."

NEW THREE-CENT STAMP One hundred thousand three cent stamps have been ordered by Postmaster Bory Giles to take care of the demand for the new postage that will be required on all first class mail after July 6. That is the date that the new postal regulations become effective.

The postmaster states that the government is urging the use of all two cent stamps with the addition of one cent stamps so that there will be no waste of postage material already prepared.

FISHERMEN BACK WITH FISH YARNS

"Bly the poor fish!" Armed with all the fishing tackle that the extra space in their machine would allow, David Bolton, Clifford Smith and Russell Powell left for Lime Lake last month of West Branch early Monday morning. They're back and never did Plymouth hear such fish stories! Lime Lake—no not Lime Lake—certainly produced more bass and pike in three short days than any other spot in the world. That is the lake did if you accept as Gospel truth all that these boys say. Never did the fish bite better and never were bigger ones caught so sayth David, so sayth Clifford, so sayth Russell.

DEARBORN BANK TO MAKE PAYMENT

A 15 per cent repayment of deposits will probably be paid almost immediately to depositors of the First National Bank of Dearborn, which closed on June 25, 1931, following abandonment of the claim of the City of Dearborn. Tuesday night for a preferred account rating, according to W. T. Hatch, receiver for the bank.

The City Council Tuesday evening unanimously voted to drop the preference claim for its $46,341.88 account after City accountants had reported that only $200,000 of City funds could be traced to the time of the bank's closing.

Depositors, under the Federal banking laws, must trace funds to establish preferred ratings.

A motion to refer the matter to the Committee of the Whole which is to meet Thursday afternoon, failed after Councilman Ernest Mihf declared that he was not right to hold up the payment of dividends to other depositors, since no payment can be made until our status is determined.

The City will probably incur only slight loss on the full amount of its deposit, according to Corporation Counsel James E. Brown. Of the City money, $1,000 is covered by a bond, and final payments of dividends promise to equal at least 75 per cent, he said after conferring with Mr. Hatch.
