INAUGURATE SEMI-COMMUTER SERVICE FROM PLYMOUTH TO DETROIT

P. M. OFFICIAL TELLS OF NEW SCHEDULE HERE

New Plan Gives Plymouth Ideal Service To Detroit

Semi-commuter service to Detroit from Plymouth was announced by T. E. Bickers, superintendent of the Pere Marquette personal department at the P. M. Hooster meeting held in the Mayflower hotel in Plymouth, Tuesday evening.

So that Plymouth residents can go to Detroit by railroad early in the morning, Mr. Bickers announced that arrangements had been made whereby the "Sportsman," one of the finest trains operated in America, would stop here every morning at 8:29 Plymouth time. In something like 30 minutes time Plymouth passengers are landed right in the heart of Detroit.

For those who desire to leave later in the day, the Pere Marquette train leaving Plymouth at 2:54 in the afternoon arrives in Detroit about 3:30.

Returning home to Plymouth, one can leave the P. M. depot in Detroit at 5:30 in the afternoon, reaching here a few minutes past 6 o'clock. For those that desire to spend the entire day in Detroit, the morning train provides an ideal time for watching the city. For those that have but a brief business visit to make, the afternoon train gives one plenty of time in the city.

No traffic, no speed cops, no parking lot difficulties, no bus delays are experienced when the Pere Marquette service is used. Bound for Detroit from Plymouth to Detroit is but a few cents more than charged by buses which take from an hour and a half to two hours to get down town. Round trip fare is only $1.23 by Pere Marquette and you are landed almost in the heart of the city. A finer train leaves from the Ford Shelby hotel. This special Plymouth service is already in operation. Try it and see how you like it. Urge the Plymouth Pere Marquette Hooster club.

Miss Jessie Nelson And John Wahn Wed

Of interest to many in both Northville and Plymouth was the marriage Tuesday morning of Miss Jessie Patricia Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Nelson, of Northville and John Wahn, son of Mrs. Joseph Wahn of this city, which took place at nine o'clock between an altar banked with immense baskets of white asters in the Lady of Victory church in Northville with Rev. Joseph G. Schuler officiating in the presence of nearly one hundred relatives and friends.

The bride was lovely in a wedding gown of white net over white tulle with a long veil fastened with a coronet of pearls, her only ornament being a three-strand necklace of pearls, the gift of the groom.

She carried an arm bouquet of white roses, while her bridesmaids carried a spray of white roses. The groom wore a tuxedo of pink silk crepe with a turban of white and accessories to match and carried pink roses. The bridesmaid and Miss Estler Egan of Plymouth were groomed in peach tulle and powder-blue silk crepe respectively with tan silk turbans and matching accessories and carried arm bouquets of pink roses and yellow roses.

The groom chose for his best man Raymond Lovandowski of Northville and for best man a relative, a brother of the bride, and Louis Straub of Plymouth.

Miss Norma Moller played the wedding march and John Schomburger sang the high mass.

A wedding breakfast was served to thirty-five guests at the home of the bride's parents on Fairbrook avenue in Northville immediately following the ceremony.

In the evening about one hundred guests attended the reception which was held in the home made beautiful with quantities of garden flowers and asters.

Mr. and Mrs. Wahn left that evening for Chicago where they are visiting relatives and friends for a short time. For her going away costume Mrs. Wahn chose a silk dress in bitter sweet shade with tan coat and hat and slippers. Heresies. The young couple will be at home to their friends at 638 south Harvey street, Plymouth.

CITIES UNITE ON GAS RATES

Plymouth Manager Is Made Chairman Of Group In State

City Manager L. P. Cookingham, has been made chairman of a committee representing various cities of Michigan, to present to the public utilities commission of Lansing the basis of gas rates in this state should be reduced. Accompanied by members of the Plymouth city commission, Mr. Cookingham spent all day Wednesday in Lansing at a conference on public utility rates.

Other cities associated with Plymouth in the case are Midland, Flint, Grand Haven, Big Rapids, Warren, Northville, Detroit, Ypsilanti, Alma and Saginaw. It will be noted that all of the cities served by the Michigan Federated Utilities Corporation are included in the cities asking for a reduced gas rate.

Following are recommendations that have been presented by Mr. Cookingham's committee to the commission held in Lansing yesterday: Revise public utility laws of Michigan in order that Public Utilities Commission will be a complete fact-finding and regulatory body which will act at the request of a municipality in any matter relating to a public utility.

Require public utilities to file annual reports with each city in which they operate, the reports to cover complete data on valuations, income, expenditures, improvements, operations, etc. for the city or district included.

Enact the enactment of legislation which will require assessing officers to value public utility properties on the basis of valuation used for rate making purposes.

Provide for the maximum local regulation of public utilities with the assistance of the State Public Utilities Commission or some other public body capable of properly advising and assisting the municipality.

Require the company to maintain its books and records relative to local operation in the city and that the same be open to the inspection of authorized representatives of the city at all times.

Require complete information on the relation of the holding companies to the local unit and limit the amount which can be paid to the parent company for services rendered.

Establish in the Michigan Municipal League a Public Utilities Board of Strategy composed of capable and qualified experts, which board will be available to cities having public utilities problems. This service to be furnished on a non-profit or advisory character. Such a board, through its experience, could direct and advise the municipality as to the methods to pursue in matters concerning public utilities. It is not the intent of this recommendation that this proposed board shall handle complete rate cases, but merely to guide the municipality along the proper lines.

Investigate the possibilities of natural gas in Michigan. Check available supplies and other data concerning natural gas and make further recommendations for its development in the interests of the state, cities, consumers and producers.

Study the possibilities of municipal ownership of gas properties and assemble this information in the office of the Michigan Municipal League for the use of the cities of the State.

Request the cities of the State to contribute a sum of money sufficient to conduct a complete investigation of the entire gas situation, including both natural and artificial, rates charged for gas service, financial structure of the companies methods of doing business, the cost of the product and income from its sale, and any other matters of public concern, also to make a study and recommend changes in the laws under which the State Public Utilities Commission operates, so that that body shall have greater regulatory powers in order to protect the public and municipal interests in public utility matters.

The other day he pulled one vine just to see how they were coming and he was surprised to find dozens of peanuts practically fully matured along the roots. He planted the peanuts last spring just as an experiment to see if they would grow in Plymouth and he has been surprised by the result.

MOVES TO FLINT

Attorney Roger Vaughn has moved his office to Flint, where he will be located at 1532 Detroit street. He has also moved his family there and plans to make Flint his future home. It is his plan to continue to conduct some business in Plymouth and will visit here once or twice each week.

Woman Made Member City Commission

MRS. RUTH HINSON-WHIPPLE

By the election of Mrs. Ruth Hinson-Whipple as member of the Plymouth city commission to fill the vacancy caused recently by the death of Robert O. Minnack, the members have placed the first woman to live in that capacity on the commission. The election of Mrs. Whipple was by the unanimous vote of the members.

She will assume her new duties at once. Mrs. Whipple is not a newcomer in city affairs. She has always been a student of public affairs and that the Pere Marquette had always given her satisfaction.

Fred Schrader, another whose business requires a considerable use of transportation facilities made it clear that he would be more than willing to put his shoulder to the wheel and help put the Pere Marquette back where it was a number of years ago.

"The company has always given us good service and we should see to it that it gets the business of this place. We are all more or less inclined to use trucks but on the majority of shipping, it is far better to use the railroads. There was a time when the Pere Marquette had over 200 employees living in Plymouth. It is less than half that now and as a result we all suffer by it. We should all be more than willing to do our share to aid the Pere Marquette," said Mr. Schrader.

Herg Moore, secretary of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, briefly reviewed the many friendly wishes that the Pere Marquette had always shown towards Plymouth and in speaking for the Chamber of Commerce, he made it clear that that group of business men would be willing to cooperate to the fullest extent in the campaign that when Mr. Hamill opened the meeting he told the business men and the employees of the company who were present that the object of the session was for the one purpose of promoting the business of the company and to conduct a campaign of education along new lines for employees of the company.

When Mr. Hamill opened the meeting he told the business men and the employees of the company who were present that the object of the session was for the one purpose of promoting the business of the company and to conduct a campaign of education along new lines for employees of the company.

Two officials of the Pere Marquette were present and made brief talks. T. E. Bickers, supervisor of the railroads, stated that the state and railroad go hand in hand, our success is your success. Business is looking brighter but we have got to have both faith and hope. Our men are a part and parcel of our company. Our success is their success and our success is yours. So much to a community like Plymouth," stated Mr. Bickers.

"There is no use in disputing the fact that the railroads of this country are in a serious plight," said William R. Saxon, general attorney for the company. "But we are not laying down. We are not to dig ourselves out of the hole, and to do that we have got to ask your cooperation."

"We are confronted with other serious forms of unregulated transportation competition. We simply ask that it be regulated or that we be 'unregulated.' I believe that the problem of highway transportation will in time right itself but right now it is a serious problem, one that is largely political. But this problem has got to be solved before we can put the railroads back where they belong."

"We are not asking for sympathy. All we are asking for is a chance to meet this unregulated competition. The railroads can't even abandon a station where passengers never get on or off the train without first having a hearing before the interstate commerce commission. Michigan is a peculiar state. We have over 1625 miles of shore lines with nearly a hundred ports.

The Pere Marquette has an investment in Michigan of over 159 millions of dollars. We pay a state tax that finds its way back to your schools of over $1,500,000. So you see that in more ways than one our railroad is a benefit to Michigan."

Following the program of the evening, many of the local business men had the pleasure of meeting and talking with the representatives of the Pere Marquette and the visitors were assured personally that the business men of Plymouth were united back in any plan which would assist the Pere Marquette.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Harrison and family of Detroit and Mr. and Mrs. Ora Brown and family of Pontiac were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown on the Ridge Road from Friday until Sunday.

Mrs. Fred Gentz, who recently caught her left hand in a wringer while washing, had to have the fore finger amputated one day last week.

MASS MEETING AT MAYFLOW

Business Men Meet With P. M. Officials Tuesday Eve

Plymouth business men met in the known Tuesday evening at the "Hooster" meeting held by Pere Marquette railway employees of Plymouth that this community is back of their efforts to bring back business to the railroads one hundred percent. Not only did they make it clear that they would cooperate in every way with the railroad towards the restoration of both freight and passenger business to the place where it rightly belongs, but they expressed their willingness to assist in any way the company might suggest to carry on its campaign for restoring business to the railroads.

President Charles Bennett of the Dairy Manufacturing company, Plymouth's largest industry, when called upon by Chairman E. W. Hamill for a brief talk, stated that the Dairy company had always found it advisable and beneficial to patronize the railway's shipping facilities and that the Pere Marquette had always given her satisfaction.

Plymouth Graduate Becomes Attorney

J. RUSLING CUTLER

Judge Arthur W. Kilpatrick of the Wayne county circuit court Tuesday morning admitted to practice in the courts of this state J. Rusling Cutler, a graduate of the Plymouth high school and a well known resident of this section of Wayne county. He was sponsored by Attorney Raymond E. Van Shecke, one of Detroit's prominent lawyers.

Attorney Cutler passed the Michigan state bar examinations given early in September. He graduated from the Plymouth high school with the class of 1927, then attended Heidelberg college at Tiffin, Ohio for a year. In 1929 he took up the study of law at the Detroit College of Law, graduating in June of this year with the degree of LL. B. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cutler who are well known residents of this locality.

The world series are over, so is the great three game classic between the local Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, and by virtue of the score sheet, some of it written in the dark according to local Rotarians, the Kiwanis club emerges the victor, winning two of the three outstanding events.

Rotarians winning the first game could not stand the plaintiffs of the victors and overconfidence played a great part in bringing their defeat. Cass Hough and Dr. Paul Butz formed the battery that brought defeat to the Kiwanians in the opening session. The same battery worked in the second game and was not able to hold the hard hitting Kiwanians. The third game brought about a rearranged Rotary team and many lay claim to the fact that the new pitcher, Father Frank Lefevre and his catcher from Detroit instilled the Kiwanians to victory.

Had Schrader and Stan Corbett furnished the Kiwanians all the necessary assistance in the pitching and catching and this battery proved to be too much when the third game was over. A battle of short-pitches was the result of the opening pitch of the first game. Carl Shear for the Rotarians and Earl Mastick and Dr. Harold Brisbois for the Kiwanians. Excellent fielding on the part of both outfielders held the score 2 to 2. Walter Nichol, Don Sutherland and William Wood for the Rotarians and Charles Garlier,

LET'S KILL THE OLD WITCH!

Witchcraft has returned to life in America—it is sweeping the country just as it did back in colonial days. The pure and holy have found out who the old "witch" is that brought about the depression, yes, they have made up their minds that this old "spook" is directly and solely responsible for the disturbed economic condition throughout the world.

So on November 8 they are going to take the hooded black gown broomstick rider down on the town square, put hands and feet in the "stocks" some time early in the morning. Then the jesters of America will circle about and make faces at the old "witch," some of the more violent ones will heave great gobs of mud at it.

Soon after nightfall, the "witch" will be taken out of the "stocks" and carried up on the hillside where it will be buried at the stake in an effort to appease the wrath of the sorely afflicted and the depressed.

Then when the torturing process is over, when the complete sacrifice will have been made and only the ashes remain, all will be well. America will again be a land of milk and honey, with money for everybody and jobs so plentiful there will be no takers.

That is the political picture of America as you see it today. Maybe between now and November 8 there will be a change and voters will have discovered that there wasn't an old "witch" after all—that the economic battle they are fighting today is the direct result of eight years of bloody warfare during which hundreds of thousands of lives were sacrificed and millions of dollars worth of property destroyed. Someone has got to pay for it all—and that is what we are doing now. We are paying for our sins.

When there is idleness, when there is destitution it is but natural for people to blame some one. It is natural too that they turn to their government for guidance and aid. If that aid is not forthcoming in a satisfactory way, there has always been unrest. America today finds itself in that condition.

In times of trouble and distress voters are easily misled. In their anxiety to bring about a better condition for themselves, it is not difficult to find them chasing false Gods and false issues. The voters back in 1916 swept Woodrow Wilson into office for a second term because they were led to believe that "He kept us out of war." It developed afterwards that Woodrow Wilson and all the powers that be in Washington at the time of his re-election knew that America was headed direct for the trenches in Europe.

People cast their ballots for Woodrow Wilson at that time because they believed they were doing the best thing for themselves and the country.

The voters of today are in the same frame of mind that they were then. They are in fear and doubt. They want to do whatever is for the best interests of themselves and their country, knowing that the result will directly affect their future welfare. Republicans voted for Wilson because they did not want America to get into the world war.

Voters are now debating upon the advisability of voting against Herbert Hoover because many of them believe that the Republican party is the "old witch" that has brought idleness and hard times to all the world. So they plan to offer it up as a sacrifice in an effort to appease the Gods of wrath.

If the depression was only of our own country, if it had started in America and involved only American conditions, then it would be perfectly proper for voters of this country to seriously consider a complete change in its government.

But the depression did not start in America. It prevails in every country of the world. Economic conditions have been so bad in many other nations that governments have been overthrown by force. From out of central Europe came the first great economic crash. Like a falling row of dominoes, it swept around the world and America fell with the rest of the world.

We are in the process of re-construction. President Hoover aided by a congress composed of both Democrats and Republicans created legislation that both Democrats and Republicans in congress at the time of its enactment believed would do much towards solving the problems of today. Time has borne out this contention. There has been progress. But we are far from being back to normal and it the program of economic re-construction that has been started is to be interrupted by the approaching election, many believe that existing conditions will continue for another four years.

Our one and only suggestion is that we move carefully and give serious thought to the way we vote on November 8. There is too much at stake to be led astray by the balldroop of witchcraft believers of today.

DETROIT'S SPEED TRAP

The Michigan Automobile Club whenever an outside community operated a speed trap, yelled to high heaven in order to have it stopped. Through its legal department it has gone to the extent of having numerous peace officers removed for their activities against motorists. In all of this we have said Amen because the most obnoxious thing that has been devised to annoy traffic and to cause a general hatred of all traffic officers is the so-called speed trap. But now comes the great city of Detroit where live the motorists who have yelled the loudest against speed traps with a speed trap on Plymouth road operated for the sole purpose of trapping motorists who live outside Detroit. The inexcusable part about the whole thing is that the police department established its trap just east of the Rouge park where there isn't hardly a house or business block for miles. The department cannot excuse its action by saying that it was put out here because of traffic to the park, because there is practically no traffic to the park on any day except Sunday. It was established for the sole purpose of taking money from the pockets of motorists living outside Detroit. You can bet your last cent that if the Detroit police department does not bring to an immediate end its legalized pocket picking of outside motorists, there will be retaliation of such an emphatic kind that the Michigan Automobile Club will "yell" as it never has before.

WINNING BY LOSING

This community like every other place in the world is undergoing a complete economic change. Things that we believed essential two or three years ago today we regard as luxuries. With reduced incomes there must necessarily come reduced expenditures. To the man that reduces his mode of living and his expenditures to live within his income and to keep his business going, there is the highest commendation due him. When a business man sacrifices practically everything he has in order to protect his business and safeguard the interests of his community, he is doing the very thing that will help lift America out of its troubles quicker than in any other way. It is by this sacrifice, made by thousands of business men everywhere, that is going to save the day for the best nation that ever existed since the beginning of time.

GO SLOW

To meet the greatly reduced income of the taxpayers of the country, the national government, the state government and the county government have been forced to cut expenses. It will be necessary to cut again before the taxpayers are able to meet the demands of society in the operations of the various governmental units. Let it be known that the Plymouth Mail is strictly in accord with every economy move—it is essential and it will have to prevail. But in our efforts to cut the cost of government, we should be careful and see to it that no mistakes are made. We have especial reference to the circuit bench of Wayne county. This county has over a long period of years been most fortunate in having as circuit judges some of the highest type men that honor the legal profession. While their salaries may seem high, and are high according to the present standard of things, it is doubtless economy to the taxpayers to have judges who know what it is all about and who are free from any such entanglements as disgrace the bench of some of our other large cities. Wayne county has never had a crooked judge. It has never had a judge unfit to perform the duties of his office—and the men who have been elected and who now are serving as judges are the kind who should be kept there without change. The Plymouth Mail has often advanced the idea that judges should serve for life and sooner or later our country will have to come to this idea. Meanwhile, we should be careful to do nothing which will in any way lower the high standard of those we have elevated to the circuit benches of Wayne county and not cut so drastically that only unfits will aspire and be elected to the judgeships. Economy in one line may mean hundreds of thousands of dollars of expense by the improper handling of the affairs of our courts.

Rambling Around With Michigan Editors

FIDDLERS OF FLINT

If there is a city that is cursed, with a greater lot of fiddlers in it than officialdom than Flint our big county seat, it ought to be a drawing feature at the coming world's fair next year. With four city managers off and on already this year is a record that beats the world. What a beautiful comment it makes on his "five times mayor" that covered the state up to the primary. And now it begins to look like two of the administration's end men are to be recalled. J. B. Pengally and Tip O'Neil the former being under indictment for bribery. What a hodge-podge mess for the would-be governor to tackle about in his next battle program two years hence. Flint is not to be pitied, for by its negligence of civic responsibility it is simply reaping the kind of stuff it sowed in past years.—J. E. McMillen in The Linden Leader.

HAS NOT HELPED NEW YORK FARMERS

Why did the Democratic candidate go into the West and promise that he would solve the surplus problem for its farmers? Was it to garner votes or because he is really interested in the agricultural problems which beset farmers? The answer is found in his own state. Why has he not done anything, during the past year, to solve the critical and vicious surplus problem which has existed in New York? Here was an opportunity to help about which he did absolutely nothing, although there was no complicated export problem to cope with.—Robert Gifford in The Eaton Rapids Journal.

BING!

George Rogers Averill, Birmingham publisher, gives out an interview regarding his pre-election case charging that the State of Michigan fraudulently purchased excess lands in acquiring the new Grand Trunk right-of-way. He says there was no political motive in his case which was so nicely timed to embarrass the Brucker administration, that his position was merely that of citizen and taxpayer. His attitude is much like that of the old lady who was climbing into one of the carriages reserved for the mourners at a funeral. "Were you a friend of the deceased?" asked the undertaker. "Oh, mercy no," replied the old lady, "and never wanted to be. I'm just going for the ride!"—Geo. Neal in The Orion Review.

SHOCKING!

Our officers differ from the rest of us—they don't know where the blind pigs are.—Joe Hiss in the Holly Herald.

FALL

Again we call attention to the motto of Michigan carried in a box on the first page. The motto is, "If you seek a beautiful peninsula, look about you." This motto is never more dependable than in the month of October. The deep reds, the scarlets, the browns and other rich colors of the trees, the haze in the air, and the tang of the atmosphere makes pleasant the threat of colder days to come. Tourists who visit Michigan only in the summer months fail to get full value. They should lengthen their stay and see Mother Nature in her colorful autumn garb. Vernon Brown in The Ingham County News.

CUTTING

The Ford Motor Co. has reduced its minimum wage scale from five to four dollars per day. Thus does a world economic upset shake the custom of a company owned by the world's richest man. Truly, there is no security for the things of the man-made world. That's why a dependence upon spiritual things is man's greatest resource.—George Averill in The Birmingham Eccentric.

THIS MONKEY HAD THE BELLYACHE

Monday's Detroit Free Press carried a pair of headlines that are giving the Republican brothers a good laugh. One headline stretched across the top of the front page, said: "ROOSEVELT HEARD BY 20,000."

The other headline, boxed perhaps by Hap Church as only that old maestro of contemporary partisan journalism might box a classical dig, said: "40,000 THROUGH ZOO IN TRIBUTE TO JO MENDEL."

Mr. Roosevelt is the Democratic nominee for president of the United States of America. Jo Mendel is a trained chimpanzee whose antics have delighted thousands. Mr. Roosevelt on Sunday had a message for the people of Detroit. Jo Mendel had a bellyache. Ed Nowack in The Michigan State Digest.

REACHING FOR THE MOON

What this country needs to put agriculture back on its feet says Gov. Roosevelt, is a plan to raise staple prices above world prices but only in such a way as will not stimulate further production, will not give our European customers any cause to retaliate on the ground of dumping and at the same time be voluntary and financial itself. Better try something a bit easier, governor, such as a plan for the moon. No plan can possibly exist which raises domestic prices above world prices without stimulating production, will not involve dumping of a surplus, will be largely voluntary and will not cost the government anything. So talks on Franklin's broadcast your meaningless platitudes while Herbert Hoover is wearing out years of his life at Washington, in the thankless, heart-breaking task of rebuilding out of the wreckage left in the wake of a world-wide economic disaster. A sane, constructive plan for the long, slow trek toward recovery that must be followed if the affairs of the world are ever to resume normal activity.—Wm. Cook in The Hastings Banner.

THE MONKEYS

Very often country newspapers have been twitted by their city brothers, the dailies, for some of the taffy and epitaphy contained in their columns. But, so far to date, there is no record of a small town paper going to the trouble of publishing hourly bulletins giving the temperature or pulse of a sick monkey in a Zoo, as was the case last week of Joe Mendel. Yes sir, there's no place in the psychopathic ward of country journalism for that. There are too many worthwhile and interesting people around. Inspired by this piece of journalistic jackassery, the school children sent Joe more than $500.00 worth of flowers. This was a city that bankrupt, asking the state and nation for loans to solve welfare problems.—George Neal in The Orion Review.

PREFERS PRIMARY

Seemingly the whole press of the state arose last week against the primary system. Quite a number of papers, too, would endorse the old convenient system. There's no question but that the present system needs fixing, but if it is to be the old convenient gag as against "what have you" we'll stick to the primary. Agitation for a return to the convention system is very much in the minority, however.—Harry Izor in The Durand Express.

MOOD MASTERY

Until we can master our moods, we can never do our best work. No man who is at the mercy of his moods is a free man. He is only free who can rise to his dominion in spite of his mental enemies. If a man must consult his moods every morning to see whether he can do his best work, or only some unimportant task during the day; if he must look at his mental thermometer when he rises, to see whether his courage is rising or falling, he is a slave; he cannot be successful or happy.—Selected.

ACHIEVEMENT

Nature will grow a great oak from a little acorn. All that is necessary is to plant the acorn in the ground. Rain, sunshine, and the years will do the rest.

But Providence has decreed that great men shall not be produced in this manner. We must grow in and of ourselves.

To all of us are provided the same opportunities for growth. But there nature stops. Sunshine and showers are of no use in our development. And the ensuing years increase our stature only as they are used by us to acquire knowledge, and experience, and wisdom.

Success, fame, prosperity, happiness come to us only as we seek them in all earnestness. All are within the reach of every one. But most of us fail to reach.

Every man should establish for himself a definite goal, then strive mightily to reach it. Years of application, study, self-sacrifice, and disappointment are necessary for a real state of proficiency. There must be the will power to carry on the determination to succeed, the oneness of purpose that has marked the lives of all great men.

To every man is given a brain, just as to every acorn is given the germ of life.

To every man is given the opportunity to use that brain. This is Nature's decree.

But beyond that Nature does not go. The rest is up to us.

A PRAYER

O Thou who at sundry times and in divers manners didst speak unto the fathers by the prophets and who in the fullness of time hath spoken unto us through Thine own Son, reveal to our weakness and distress the power and grace of life bestowed by His coming to a weary, waiting world.

Renew in us the purity and innocence of childhood, the flaming zeal of youth, the patient temper of life's ripener years, that we, rejoicing in the light that shines about our pathway from the cradle to the grave, may brighten sadness, cheer the faint, raise the fallen, and make happiness abound. Enable us to carry hence the inward peace and strength that now are ours, that by walking in Thy presence here awhile we may learn to walk more patiently with man. We ask it in the name of Him who hath walked this way before. Jesus Christ our Lord.

THE RACE IS NOT ALWAYS TO THE SWIFT

If we could move as fast eastward as the earth turns in that direction we should, in a sense, annihilate time. But a thousand miles of travel an hour would not help us to get some of the more important things done any faster. Speed may be good for journeys, but it will not improve thinking.

Speed may help us to accelerate mechanical processes, but it will not write a book, work out a great problem, or paint a masterpiece.

Speed will undoubtedly help us in a thousand minor ways, and in some major matters, but it will not help us to work out the economic problem, nor solve the social puzzle.

It will help dig coal and bore post holes; it will hurry up the milkman and put the groceries at the back door sooner; it will plant, cultivate, and reap faster; it will build houses, lay rails, and remove mountains, perhaps. The great tasks of humanity, however, those things which call for deliberation and painstaking work will still have to go on in the same careful and deliberate manner.

The earth is speedy; other planets are speedier; the light out-travels them all. But none of these racers of the sky can compare with humanity in the great work of solving the problems of life.

Worshippers of speed have chosen a small and weak god. Speed is a good servant, but a poor master.

The great tasks of the ages have taken time for their performance.

"By their fruits shall ye know them," not by the time clock.

MOON SONG

She lingers above the narrow street,
 And her face may be dull or wise,
 For her cheeks are pale
 And her mouth is frail,
 But a mask is over her eyes.

Never does she drop her tilted head,
 And her lips never open with words or sighs,
 And none can know
 Of the mirth or woe
 That lives in her hidden eyes.

The timeless skies are about her head,
 And her shadow is silver against the skies,
 While she dreams in the middle
 Of a fragile riddle
 With a mask held over her eyes.

They say meat makes you hot,
 Especially hot, if it's that kind of steak, under the collar.

Many inquiries have been received by the Department of State in recent weeks about the method by which Michigan will vote for president and vice-president at the November election.

For the first time in Michigan's history, the names of the various candidates for president and vice-president will appear on the ballot. Formerly the ballots have listed the names of the properly designated presidential electors and it was necessary for voters to cast their ballots for the presidential electors, who in reality elect the nation's executives.

This led to considerable confusion among voters because of the fact that voters could not find the name of their choice for president on the ballot. To eliminate this confusion, the election laws were amended by the 1931 legislature.

This change provided that instead of the names of the 19 presidential electors appearing on the ballot at the head of each party ticket, there should appear the name of the various presidential candidates.

Under the present law, a vote on the November ballot for the presidential candidate of any of the parties, constitutes a vote for each of the 19 presidential electors of that party. Thus the ballot has been shortened considerably, confusion has been avoided at the voting booths and there has been no change in the national plan of electing a president.

Plymouth Coal Men Provide Best There Is For Consumers

Many have a fondness for rare old coins, but the new ones are rare enough to suit most of us.

Some women should have themselves photographed in their favorite pose to save wear and tear on mirrors.

Some people think they must subject themselves to a lot of misery in order that they can appreciate the nice things more.

The current low price of poultry indicates another "crop" surplus.

Now comes the era of the coal shovel and the ash problem and, with it, the perennial question of what fuel to buy and where to get it. Probably no item of the entire household budget is so thoroughly misunderstood by the average person as is the ordering of coal for home heating.

In the quality of the different coals and grades there is a great variety, yet none of it is evidenced to the casual purchaser through appearance. Proceeding on the assumption that all coal is black, Mr. House Owner accepts the black substance that is dumped into his bin as being all that good fuel ought to be.

The Plymouth fuel merchant knows better. He never depends upon the blackness of coal or its general appearance when making his purchases at the mine. He judges by such known factors as the kind of seam from which the coal is derived in the mine, chemical analysis, engineering reports and so on. Frequently he finds it necessary to pay more money per ton to secure the quality of coal his trade demands.

"One ton of coal may contain from 300 to 400 pounds of impurities and incalculables," states one of Plymouth's leading coal dealers, "and may also produce from 8 per cent to 15 per cent of ash while another ton, no different in appearance outwardly, will have 2,000 pounds of pure coal with an ash content no greater than from 3 to 5 per cent. The latter ton would be much cheaper for the householder, produce more heat and last much longer, even were he to pay $1 more per ton for it."

"The purchaser of coal," continued the merchant, "is a matter upon which the average householder can never possibly hope to guess right. Therefore he must depend almost entirely upon his past experience and the reputation and integrity of the merchant from whom he purchases his fuel."

"The substantial merchant is no doubt in a better position to secure low-priced fuel buys at the mines, but when he passes these up, paying higher prices for his merchandise, he does so knowing that the lower-priced, low-quality fuels will not satisfy and hold his customers, who look to him to exercise good judgment in filling their coal bins."

"Sharp competition has pointed the coal business, both retail and wholesale, towards the cash basis. Margins are so thin as to make it difficult to take any credit hazards or to carry book accounts. Careful study of thousands of fuel accounts on the books of dealers shows that it costs approximately 50 cents per ton to carry them. Therefore the growing disposition to put the purchases of coal on a cash foundation, which in the long run works for the advantage of the consumer, in lowered prices and freedom from fuel bills.

"Today better coal is available in the Plymouth market than ever before because of recently improved mining methods, which provide for cleaning, purifying, washing and dustless chemical treatment at the mines."

"Regardless of this, however, it is still a simple matter for the householder to acquire poor quality of fuels unless he is morally certain that the dealer from whom he makes a purchase is equipped to consistently deliver good dependable merchandise."

Experience has the habit of teaching people a lot of things they would rather not know.

Coming Attractions At Penniman Allen

"BACK STREET" One of the outstanding screen dramas of recent years has been booked for showing at the Penniman Allen Theatre Sunday and Monday, October 16 and 17.

The picture is "Back Street," adapted from the widely read novel by Fannie Hurst, with Irene Dunne and John Hales in the featured roles.

"Back Street" tells the story of a woman who considered no sacrifice too great to make in the name of love, and a man who gave freely of his love but at the same time retained his social position as a husband and father. The story covers a span of 20 years, and is said to give an especially affecting picture of the trials of two people whose love is outside the law, notwithstanding its sincerity and depth.

"AMERICAN MADNESS" "American Madness," Columbia's dramatic spectacle romanticizing the melodrama dealing with the America of today, is the current feature at the Penniman Allen Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, October 19 and 20.

Walter Huston, regarded as one of America's finest actors, is seen in the featured role, that of a great banker whose courage and foresight prevent the ruin of his bank, as well as the breaking up of his domestic life. Kay Johnson, the blonde actress who has appeared in "Dynamite" and other films, plays Huston's wife, Constance Cummings and Pat O'Brien play the juvenile leads. Gavin Gordon plays the heavy. In addition to those well-known players, the cast includes more than a score of such character actors as Holzer, Ellis, Edwin Maxwell, Arthur Hoyt, Edward Martindale, Burton Churchill and Robert Emmett O'Connor.

Convict Woman Of Liquor Charge—Gets Sentence To Jail

(From Wayne Dispatch)

The Wayne County Prosecutor's office, through the efforts of O. W. Johnson, assistant prosecutor, scored again in its drive to clean up a case involving sale of liquor and contributing to the delinquency of a minor girl when Mary "Ma" Anderson was found guilty of a charge of contributing to the delinquency of the 16 year old daughter of a Romulus couple. Mrs. Anderson was sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined $100 by Judge Italy M. Vining in the local justice of the peace court, where the trial was held Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Anderson, through her attorneys, McLeary and Cauliff, of Detroit, appealed the case, and it will come up again for trial in circuit court. Mrs. Anderson was charged with having sold intoxicating liquor to the minor girl at the Anderson establishment on Beverley road, near Wayne.

The trial of Muriel Shick, 41 years old, of Romulus, who is charged with immoral relations with the young girl, also was scheduled for Tuesday, but arrangements were made to have him arraigned before Judge Vining Wednesday afternoon. He probably will be heard over to a higher court, and at present is out on a $1,000 bond.

The trial Wednesday, in which Judge Vining found Mrs. Anderson guilty as charged, developed into heated arguments between Attorney McLeary, veteran defense lawyer, and Assistant Prosecutor Johnson, over whether or not Mrs. Anderson could be found guilty of the charge, with Mr. Johnson winning most of the arguments.

Attorney McLeary read a supreme court statute which said in part that only parents, guardians, or persons of that nature could be charged with contributing, and that inasmuch as Mrs. Anderson could not be classified as any of these she therefore, could not be guilty. Johnson, on the other hand, claimed that Attorney McLeary was wrong in his contention, and that the word person meant anyone and not just parents, guardians or persons of that nature.

In his questioning of the witnesses, chief of which was the young girl, Johnson brought out the testimony from her that she had gone to Mrs. Anderson's place on several occasions with Mr. Shick, and that they were served beer and whiskey. During this questioning, Attorney McLeary offered frequent objections, most of which were denied by Judge Vining, who indicated that she desired to have all of the facts possible before rendering a decision.

As in a previous testimony, held last week, when Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Killenbeck of Romulus were found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of the girl, she again testified as to her relations with Shick, who is a married man.

A humorous element was injected in the trial when Attorney McLeary objected to a question regarding whether or not it actually was beer which was served to the minor witness. McLeary said that for himself he couldn't tell the difference between near beer and real beer, never having drunk near beer.

In passing sentence on Mrs. Anderson, Judge Vining said that in her opinion she could do nothing else than impose the same sentence as that meted out last week to Mr. and Mrs. Killenbeck, who were found guilty of the same offense.

"A TAXPAYER" WRITES THE TAX COLLECTOR

Dear Mr. Tax Collector:

I beg leave to inform you that the present shattered condition of my bank account makes it impossible for me to send you a check in response to your request for a remittance.

The state of my present financial condition is due to the effects of federal laws, state laws, county laws, brother-in-laws, mother-in-laws, outlaws, that have been foisted upon an unsuspecting public. Through these various laws, I have been held up, walked on, set on, sandwiched, battered and squeezed until I do not know what I am, where I am, or why I am.

These laws compel me to pay a merchant tax, capital tax, excess profit tax, income tax, state tax, auto tax, cigarette tax, street tax, real estate tax, gas tax, sur-tax, syn-tax, and carpet taxes.

In addition to paying these taxes I am requested and required to contribute to every society and organization that the inventive mind can organize. To the society of John the Baptist, Women's Relief, the Navy League, the Children's Home Fund, the Policemen's Benefit, the Dorcas Society, the Y. M. C. A., the Boy Scouts, the Jewish Relief, the Gold Digger's Home. Also every dog, cat and human hospital, and every charitable organization, the Red Cross, Black Cross and the Double Cross.

The government has so governed my farm that I do not know who owns it, or why I am so suspected, expected, disrespected, examined, re-examined, informed, required, commanded, expelled, and compelled until all I know is that an supposed to prove an inexhaustible supply of money for every human need, desire or hope of the human race, and because I refuse to donate all I have and go out and beg, borrow and steal more money to give away, I am, cursed, despised, boycotted, talked, talked, about, lied to, lied about, held up, held down, knocked down and robbed until I am nearly ruined. So the only reason I am clinging on to life now is to see what in— is coming next.

Yours sincerely,

"A TAXPAYER"

P. S. I have one dollar left but that goes to the bank to pay for the privilege of letting them keep my money for me until it was all gone.

TO DISCUSS HEALTH AND FOOD PROBLEMS

Food Problems in Relations to Health will be the subject for discussion at the first Nutrition lesson this fall. Miss Muriel Dundas, Specialist in Nutrition from Michigan State College will be at the Wayne Library from 2:00 to 4:00 on Friday, October 21. A change has been made in the manner of giving the lessons to the women this year. Instead of the Inland Leader plan, all women enrolled in the project will meet with the Specialist for the work. The planning of the subject matter for each meeting will be left to the decision of the group. In this way it is hoped that the lessons given will be the ones needed and actually give the most benefit to the housewife.

Miss Emma DuBord, County Home Demonstration Agent, extends an invitation to all Home Makers in Wayne County to attend these meetings.

WANT TO LEARN HOW TO SEW? READ THIS

Plymouth women will be interested in the announcement that this year's clothing project through the Home Economics Extension Department, Michigan State College, will include actual garment construction.

County Home Demonstration Agent, Emma DuBord, announces that the first meeting will be held at 10:00 o'clock on October 18 at Wayne Library. The morning discussion will be for the chairman, secretary, treasurer, and local leaders from each of the organized committees. The afternoon session will be for all group members. How to know and use the new Fabrics will be discussed.

Every woman who buys clothing for her family is interested in the new and beautiful fabrics which appear each season. Will they wear well? How shall they be laundered? What are practical home tests to see that will insure wise buying? A standard for frequently used textiles will be established.

Miss Irene Taylor, Clothing Specialist from Michigan State College, believes this busy woman who sews at home could save both time and money if she could design and cut patterns for some of the simpler attractive work dresses for herself and her girls.

Nearly every home contains a sewing machine. Is it as much of a labor saver to the busy housewife as it could be? Perhaps it needs only slight adjustments or repairs to give first class service. Most women are enthusiastic over the demonstration on care and use of the sewing machine which is given in the lesson on home sewing equipment, third of a series of five meetings.

Attractive tailored finishes make a smart looking garment. These are especially usable on fall dresses. Bound buttonholes and pockets, becoming necklines and collars and other interesting ways of finishing garments will be shown. These can be applied to the dress which each woman is asked to make for herself.

A paste of rottenstone and linseed oil will give an effective dull finish on copper, brass, and pewter, or a bright finish may be obtained by applying a cream of fine whitening and denatured alcohol.

Style Show Proves Highly Pleasing Event of Past Week

About one-hundred ladies of Plymouth and Northville gathered in the Crystal dining room of the Hotel Mayflower last Thursday afternoon, which had been made more beautiful by the gift of two lovely baskets of chrysanthemums from the Ross and the Sutherland greenhouses, to witness the display of fall fashions shown by the Esther Dress Shoppe and the Walk-Over Dress Shop by models having hair-dress appropriate to the costume or gown they were wearing, done by the Orchid Beauty Shoppe.

It was a very pleasing display, the clothes for sport being shown first, then afternoon frocks with evening gowns for formal and important wear following. Each wore accessories by coiffeurs, hats and shoes in matching colors as required. Some coats of cloth, others of beautiful fur, the latter from the Miss Perry shop in Detroit. Miss Marion Snell, formerly of Hinesbrook's, Detroit, very ably announced each number.

A very well served and attractive luncheon was enjoyed by a large percentage of those present during the presentation.

The models, who were furnished by the Esther Dress Shoppe were some of the well known young ladies and young matrons of Plymouth and Northville and little Dana Lee Washburn also of Northville who was so sweet in a two-tone brown and white curly astrakhan coat, very ably assisted in making the affair a complete success. Much furnished by Miss Inez Curtiss added greatly to the occasion.

It was surely a worthwhile effort on the part of the three shops, giving the people of Plymouth and Northville an opportunity of seeing the latest in dresses, coats and shoes and in delightful surroundings. They are to be complimented on the success of their combined efforts.

Why Visit A FUNERAL HOME?

As we extend this invitation for you to visit our funeral home, the thought arises that you may wonder what reasons there are for your accepting it.

In this instance there are two good ones.

First, we have just purchased a new Henney side servicing hearse with an electrically operated casket table. The side servicing feature of our new hearse adds to the reverence and dignity of the funeral service to a surprising degree.

Second, it is no longer customary to wait until need arises before visiting a funeral home. Foresighted people are making it a point to visit and know about the facilities of modern funeral homes, as one of their responsibilities. By doing this they avoid hurried decisions made in emergencies, that might result in lasting regret. They secure information that helps make their final tribute to loved ones as considerate and beautiful as possible.

Please accept this announcement as your invitation to visit our funeral home, (which has seating capacity for over 200), see our new motor equipment, and consult with our advisory committee. You will secure information that will be of untold value to you at some future date and which will be worthy of record among your private family papers.

CENTRAL GRADE SCHOOL NOTES

A Bunny Club, to help the children keep good health habits, has been formed in the kindergarten. The requirements for this club are: to eat fresh vegetables without complaining, to drink plenty of milk and water, to keep face and hands clean, to keep teeth clean, to play out of doors, to sleep many hours with windows open, to eat fresh fruit. When each child has learned and obeyed these rules, he will receive a Bunny Club pin. The kindergarten hand has been started.

The children in Miss Crannell's class have been bringing nuts for nature class and are studying in squirrel in language class. They have been dramatizing nursery rhyme. The poem "Golden Keys" was read to the children in Miss Mitchell's room, and the boys and girls are trying to use their best manners. The boys in which all the children have remembered to take care of their health duties will have a picture of a white rabbit on the first seat of their row for that week. The children are getting ready for Halloween by coloring and cutting out black cats, witches, pumpkins, and ghosts.

The boys and girls in Miss Franz's room have been making booklets on trees. They are decorating the room with autumn leaves. Barbara Pond entered Miss Weatherhead's room. In nature class they have been studying the leaves how they prepare for winter. The windows are decorated with wild geese. Harry Peckey and Daniel Perkins have been ill and out of school.

In Miss Sly's room the children have been making a Halloween border for the room. They had an arithmetic contest on time tables last week. Phyllis Nichols entered Miss Dixon's room last week coming from Brighton. Phillip Klisabeth has returned to school after recovering from an automobile accident. Ernest Epps received the highest score last week on the standardized spelling test.

The girls in Miss Field's room won the attendance contest for the first four weeks of school. Kabri Drews won the geography down, similar to a spell down, last week of the Southern Atlantic States and the capitals. Ruth Wellman received the highest score on a spelling test. Jean Swartz entered Miss Halliday's room last week. Virginia Brocklehurst and George Edwards are the health inspectors for the month of October in Miss Holt's room. She is reading "The Hoosier School Boy" to the class. The fifth graders are writing letters in language class.

The five B's in Miss Eriksen's room have been making original stories. The five A's have been making product maps of Asia in geography. The class is illustrating a story which they are having in reading.

STARKWEATHER SCHOOL NOTES

In Miss Caravanaugh's room, the kindergarten project has been "Mother's preparation for Winter." The children have discussed what mother has been canning and preserving, and where she gets the fruit and vegetables. They built a grocery store with their blocks and modeled clay fruits and vegetables to sell. Each one had a chance to be storekeeper. They used toy money and bills. In their sand table they made a farm scene to show where fruits and vegetables grow. They made the fences of peas and they cut out pigs, cows, horses, and chickens for the barnyard. Tuesday morning a fat, brown caterpillar walked into their room through an open window, so they fixed a box for it and will keep it and watch it spin its cocoon. They have started the Bunny club this week, and they are all working hard to get a Bunny Club pin.

One section of the first B in Miss Eriksen's room are reading "The Peppit Duck" to them. The first A and second B in Miss Stader's room are using cloth to make toy dogs and cats for posters. Anna Lon Ray is absent for a box of having her tonsils and adenoids removed. She will be back to school soon. Mrs. Gilbert Brown was a visitor in Miss Stader's room last Thursday afternoon. They are conducting a contest in spelling. The boys who receive "A" in spelling Friday will have their picture taken.

The third A and fourth B in Miss Waele's room have started their penmanship booklets.

The fourth A class in Miss Hunt's room went up one point on their arithmetic chart. The fifth B language class are learning the poem "October."

The sixth B geography class in Miss Farrand's room are reading out of "Our South American Neighbors" readers. They had a spelling test Thursday. Dorothy Ew won the spell down Friday. Anna Glass brought three nice plants to the sixth grade room. The sixth A's are studying about verb phrases in language. The highest rating in spelling tests are as follows: Marlon Klisabeth six A, Merle Eriksen six B, Dorothy Row five A. The whole class are taking Achievement tests.

Mrs. Frederick Gents, who caught her hand in a wringer three weeks ago, received treatment at the Plymouth hospital Friday and is recovering nicely.

HI-Y BOYS HAVE FORMAL INITIATION
At a very impressive ceremony last Friday afternoon, the following boys became full fledged members of the H-Y: Arden Sackett, Oscar Laittemoser, Clarence Lovandowski, Fred Heitler, Warren Bassett, Edward Murphy, Arthur Kopka, Weiler Kaiser, Bill Ray, Samford Knapp, Robert Gillis, Vincent Forster, George Straub, Marcin Semidt, Russell Armbrage, Grant Miller, Robert Champe, Matthew McLellan, James Williams, and Harold Stevens.

This ceremony was carried out in a darkened room, the sole light being three burning candles on a red and white triangle background. The red in the triangle stands for a world wide movement among boys toward a Christian relationship among men no matter what may be their race, color, or creed. The white cross in the triangle is symbolic of our leader, Jesus Christ. McLellan acted as master of ceremonies; the following officers of the H-Y gave instructions as to the four planks of the H-Y platform: Robert Shaw, good sportsmanship; Ernest Archer, clean speech; Donald Bronson, clean scholarship; and Russell Stevens, clean living. Bill Tuck, Lester Bassett, and Dewar Taylor acted as doorkeepers.

KEEP YOUR SCHOOL OUT OF DEBT

$230 for football suits this fall; $5 for helmets which no coach now allows his men to go without; $6 for a medium grade of pants, $4 for a jersey, $3 for a pair of shoulder pads. Total for each suit $18. Who pays for it? Not the Board of Education, but the students who like to attend a school that fosters clean athletics.

Our Student Council must have the money from Student Council tickets if we are to "keep out of the hole." Everyone wants his athletic teams to look well. The support of all the students is needed if this is to be done. The Student Council pays for football, basketball, baseball and track equipment. If suitable equipment is not worn by the players how can you expect our teams to be the winning ones? Everyone wants good referees to see that the games are played fairly and squarely, but all good things cost money.

Students having these tickets are admitted free of charge to all home football games and to debates and basketball games during the first semester.

Get your Student Council ticket now and help Plymouth High pay their bills.

SENIORS TRY BALLAD WRITING

The following ballads were written for the English Literature class after study of early English ballads. References from the Bible were given out; the story of Jonah and that of Daniel proved most popular.

Jonah and the Whale
Jonah was as mighty a man
As 'ere sailed on the sea.
As 'ere had gone upon his ship
Where Lord had told him not to be.

And up there came a mighty wind
It blew both night and day.
The sailors all fell upon their knees
And earnestly did pray.

Then Jonah came from down below
And seeing their sad plight
Told them that he had brought the storm
By doing what was not right.

And he cast himself into the sea,
The sailors all turned pale
When Jonah by the grace of God
Was swallowed by a whale.

Three days and nights he was inside,
A terrible place to see
Said Jonah, "If now I can escape
How pious I shall be."

Now the good Lord had heard his prayers
And caused the whale to steer
For that fair land which Jonah now
Was hoping to be near.

The whale he spit out Jonah
Upon the peart and sand
And since then he ne'er has done
As much against the Lord a hand.
Robert Shaw.

Jonah and the Whale
When Jonah, summoned by the Lord,
Sought from his word to flee,
He chose a ship for Tarsish bound
And sailed across the sea.

Then he confided in his friends
In secrecy they promised each,
In silence rowed they all.

FIRST SENIOR HIGH ASSEMBLY HELD

With the making of a few announcements Mr. Dykhouse opened the first senior high assembly. One announcement was that Student Council tickets are now in the hands of the Student Council representatives. A good working fountain pen will be given by a certain company to anyone turning in two old fountain pens. A good working pen does not mean a new one but a rebuilt one. Anyone having two old fountain pens may put them in an envelope with his name on it and turn it in to Mr. Dykhouse. The senior choir - David Mathers, clarinet, Kenneth Greer, violin; and Inez Curtis, piano - played a few numbers. Miss Lovell gave an interesting account of her experiment with the Polish people in the slums of Chicago. She said this group of people was a very happy one and they liked to make others feel happy when with them. She was greeted upon her arrival by smashed fruit and vegetables coming from all directions. She made friends with the toughest boys by joining in and learning at the same time, to play traps, in the alley. One student who showed the correct method of handling food was when a little boy went to the baker shop and got a large loaf of black bread. It was so large that he soon grew tired of carrying it and so he rolled it along the street. On one occasion a small child grew dissatisfied with his school lunch of bread and milk so he said he would bring his own lunch. The next day he brought a chunk of black bread with raw bacon and sliced raw onions on it. They never slice their bread; they just tear a piece off the loaf. Mr. Dykhouse announced that the report cards will be given next Wednesday.

CLASS NOTES

Did you ever hear of anyone trying bones into knots? This is what the seventh grade hygiene class is doing. They put chicken bones in diluted hydrochloric acid, which takes all the lime out of them, after which they were able to tie them into knots as easily as a piece of string. The class is also looking at one called animals through a microscope.

The eighth grade English class is studying informal debating. They have been discussing the value of being the school as a social center and the current happenings of the time.

The first year foods class is studying the preservation of foods and the lunch box. They are reviewing breakfasts and will next study lunches.

The second year clothing class is studying color harmony, choice of design, and structural and decorative lines of a dress. They will take up wool next and make woolen garments.

The Commercial home economics class is studying the home and its furnishings. They will next study the girl and the various phases of her life.

"England of Song and Story" by Curtis is being read by the English twelve class. They find it very interesting as it gives out-of-way details that are not found in ordinary books. The material is concerned with how London streets got their strange names, how people lived in these old streets and lanes and the holidays, sports, landmarks, customs, education, manners, customs, ceremonial banquets, style of dress, superstitions and drama of London.

THE WHOLE THING IN A NUTSHELL

No wonder the teachers get angry! No wonder some classes are full of laughter. Read these and perhaps you will laugh too.

CROSS COUNTRY RUN AT ROUGE CANCELED

Due to a state law that forbids cross country run entrants under sixteen years of age, two of Plymouth's five entrants were disqualified and another failed to secure the doctor's permit needed to race. With only two men left to race, it was decided that Plymouth would not race at the River Rouge game. It is hoped that the state will place a younger age limit, thus admitting the now barred freshmen and sophomores to this new high school sport.

DEBATE TRYOUTS

At a debate front last Thursday afternoon in Sindy R. Frege Humphries, Evelyn Rorabaugh, and Freda Kilgore were selected from eight students to represent Plymouth High school on the affirmative side of the question for debate which is as follows: "Resolved, That the State Income Tax Should Be Adopted in Michigan." The first league debate is to be at Ecorse, November 3. A negative team will be chosen later.

COMMERCIAL COURSE IN PLYMOUTH SCHOOL

An outline of the commercial course as it is given in the Plymouth High School at the present time is presented below. The purpose of the course is to prepare students for office work and to give a broad education in other subjects.

In the commercial course geometry, science and foreign language are not required. Students taking a strictly commercial course are not eligible for college. All of the subjects in the outline are required in the commercial course. Students are urged to select geometry as their elective in the tenth grade if they intend to continue their education in any field. As part of the course in office practice, commercial students have practical experience in the bookkeeping, the school lunchroom accounts, dictation from the superintendent and principal, and the bookkeeping of extra-curricular finance. In connection with the commercial home economics course, the students are given instruction in personal budgets, office etiquette, dress and other essential activities pertaining to office work.

I hope none of my readers faint when they find out that for once this column, at least the first part of it, is going to be conducted in a serious vein.

To be perfectly frank, we as a student body have a terrible school spirit! This statement, while perhaps a little strong, has its proofs. Those who saw the Walled Lake game will remember what a poor cheering section we had. But when the game was over, there was much back slapping and congratulating aimed in the general direction of the players and the coach. After

According to Miss Wells the depression is just about over. She has a new jinye and has even gone so far as to start feeding Herman, the much-touted fish who masquerades the math classes, twice a day. We understand Herman has been made very happy by such procedure and is looking forward to the day when prosperity is here and he can eat three times a day.

Before closing let me ask you to inquire of either Bob Champe or J. D. McLaren as to whether they had a good time Saturday night. And now, "So long, darlings!" - M. D. S.

the last two games, however, the spirit has been entirely different. All that the boys have received for their "pains" is the merry old "razzberries." Now that's not right! It's after the toughest games and the lost games that the boys should be cheered, and after the games they are given the razz; it won't hurt half so much. We who sit on the sidelines don't realize how much it means to those boys out on the field to have the rest of the school back of them. But it does mean a lot. I may get called down for using this word but I want to say that it takes guts and nerve to go out on a football field and contend with a bunch of other fellows who dwarf your team by their stupendous size! And that nerve which is so badly needed is lacking when the school for which you are fighting laughs at the cheer leader and slings the razz at you as you rub your nose in the dirt in an effort to get hold of an elusive ball! So let's all get out to the next home game (which will be plenty tough) and help those eleven lads who are "showing them and, by so doing, helping them, most all of us physically, to win that game!" At the same time we will be putting the old spirit back in them for future contests! Thank you.

And now for the lighter side of the strip. First I have something to say on one of last week's bit of enterprising, although I do not profess to be a critic. I am forced to disagree with several points printed in that article "What A Man" which was co-authored by Miss Ford and Ernie Archer. In the first place, I am not running for either city dog catcher or county detective in the second place, I am not in the least bit interested in Ernie's girl friend Big Bertha, and in the third place, what happened this summer, according to Ernie and Miss Ford, didn't happen at all. But I do want to thank the enterprising pair for one thing, and that is that they handed me some information of which I would have remained in total darkness but for their kindness.

You know, so many people have threatened my life since last week's edition that I am quite as sea as to what to do to save my hide. The only thing I can think of, just now is to inform you that if I am found murdered soon just round up the following, one of which probably did the deed: Don Bronson, Mel Blunk, Bob Champe, Odene Hill, Big and Little Bertha, J. D. McLaren, Miss Genevieve Neely, Miss Ford, "Dusty" Miller, and Bill Thoms. Hold them for identification by me when I recover. (No rewards, I'm broke too!)

"What Manner of Man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him?" (Matt. 8:27). These words were spoken by astonished men as Jesus stilled the angry wind and waves, which were about to sink their ship on the sea of Galilee.

There is also a great calm in our souls when Jesus speaks a pardon for all the sins of our life. This is that "peace which passeth all understanding" that the bible speaks of. It is a great experience in everyone's life to have the storms of life stilled by a word from Jesus our Lord.

The pastor preaches at both services next Sunday, 10:00 a. m. "The Christian's Tongue" 7:30 p. m. "How Memory Torments the Lost Soul."

Every Wednesday at 3:45 p. m. we have a meeting for the children. Fine bible instruction, please send them.

ST. PETER'S EV. LUTHERAN Spring Street Edgar Hoenecke, Pastor

Regular English Services Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Prof. Roland Hoenecke, youngest brother of the pastor, will deliver the sermon.

Sunday school will be held every Sunday at 9:30 a. m. We will begin preparations for a bigger and better Christmas celebration than ever, very soon. Be sure that your child is enrolled with us before November, as we will not admit late-comers to the program.

Game Laws Badly Violated About Here Declare Sportsmen

While the hunting season does not open until Saturday morning, Plymouth farmers and sportsmen declare that hundreds of violations have taken place in this part of the state during the past two weeks. In fact some of the local sportsmen say that pheasant hunting has already been spoiled for this season, that the birds that have not been killed off have been so badly frightened they cannot be found. As far as anyone knows there have been no arrests in this locality for violation of the game laws.

The upland bird season in the upper peninsula closes today with a two days lull preceding the opening of the lower peninsula open season. Saturday, October 15 south of the Straits the season opens for ring-neck pheasants, ruffed grouse, prairie chickens and woodcocks. The 1932 season for fox squirrels and rabbits opens at the same time.

The fox squirrel season will be the first to close, October 24. Upland birds may be killed until October 29 inclusive. Rabbits may be taken until January 31. No changes have been made since last year in the regulations governing the taking of any of the birds or animals for which the seasons open Saturday, according to the Department of Conservation. For the second year several southern Michigan counties will not be open to prairie chicken hunting. These birds are protected in all counties south of the north line of Van Buren, Kalamazoo, Calhoun, Jackson, Washtenaw and Wayne Counties.

Bag limits are as follows: Pheasants (male 2 in one day, 4 in possession and 4 in the season. Ruffed Grouse (male 2 in one day, 4 in possession and 4 in the season. Ruffed Grouse (female 1 in one day, 2 in possession and 2 in the season. Quail (male 2 in one day, 4 in possession and 4 in the season. This Woman Lost 45 Pounds of Fat

"Dear Sir: For 3 months I've been using your pills and am very much pleased with results. I've lost 45 lbs., 6 inches in hips and bust measure. I've taken 3 bottles—one lasting 5 weeks. I had often tried to reduce by dieting but never could keep it up, but by cutting down and taking Kruschen I've had splendid results. I highly recommend it to my friends."—Mrs. Carl Wilson, Manton, Mich.

To lose fat SAFELY and HARMLESSLY, take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—don't miss a morning. To hasten results go light on fatty meats, potatoes, cream and pastries—a bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle—but don't take chances—be sure it's Kruschen—your health comes first—get it at Mayflower Drug Co. or any drugstore in America. If not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back.

It is important in a "well groomed" kitchen that the floors be kept in good condition. However, they should be so treated that this may be done with the least expenditure of time and labor.

Today more than ever before—

LIGHT can help you boost sales!

Long recognized as a powerful selling force, good lighting today carries added weight and significance. In an atmosphere of gloom and depression, the store that displays brilliant windows and well-lighted interiors accomplishes two things: It instills a feeling of confidence in the public mind; and it profits immediately through increased sales and new customers.

Bright windows attract attention. They urge closer inspection of the goods on display. Actual tests have proven—time after time—that improved store lighting results in increased sales. One such test, typical of many, is that of a small department store, which increased the intensity of its lighting. Results after six weeks showed an increase in buyers and an increase in the unit value of customers' purchases.

Arc YOU overlooking an important sales help in today's competitive merchandising? Detroit Edison illuminating engineers will gladly inspect your lighting without charge.

First Meeting Opens Winter Activities

On Friday, October seventh, at one o'clock, there assembled in the lobby of the Mayflower hotel, a company of earnest and progressive women of Plymouth, with their guests, the occasion being the luncheon and meeting of the Woman's club of Plymouth, which marks the opening of the club year.

Luncheon was served in the coffee shop which was attractively decorated with brilliant luscious fall flowers from the gardens of club members.

After the luncheon a very interesting program was enjoyed, the high lights of which were the address of the new club president, Mrs. Charles O. Ball and an inspiring talk by Mrs. Malcombe McKinnon, president of the Detroit Federation of Women's clubs, on the subject "What Women's Clubs are Accomplishing."

Mrs. James E. Sessions sang delightfully, three numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Gilbert Brown on the piano, and Mrs. Horace G. Krake of Columbia, entertained with a group of dialect readings. These women, together with the Mesdames W. H. Ball and Augusta Hendrick of Columbia, comprised a partial list of the distinguished guests.

Following the program there was a short but enthusiastic business meeting which augurs well for a most interesting and successful club year.
