BUY NEWSPAPER SATURDAY FROM A GOODFELLOW

Every Penny Raised Will Go To Support Of Some Worthy Citizen

Goodfellows of Plymouth will Saturday turn their unflinching efforts to the aid of the unfortunate in this locality. They are going to sell newspapers on the streets of this happy and progressive little city for the benefit of charity.

Men who are busy taking care of the multitude of problems that confront them these days, are going to leave their desks and a newspaper's shack and sell papers, the proceeds of which will go entirely to the Plymouth welfare organization.

And do you know that every cent that goes into the Plymouth welfare fund, finds its way into the purchase of food, clothing or medical care for the unfortunate who through no fault of their own find it impossible to provide the necessities of life? Not a cent goes into the pay of any one for services given.

The Plymouth Mail is donating free of charge hundreds of newspapers for this sale. The Detroit Free Press and the Detroit News have consented to let the committee have their papers at a reduced price and as a result the Goodfellow's of this community will be able to do to get rid of all the papers that will be provided them for the Saturday sale. The only expense associated with the project will be the small price that the committee has paid to pay for the two Detroit newspapers and the cost of this it is believed and hoped that a large sum of money will be raised for the support of the needy of the community this winter.

It is planned that the city will be divided into districts and news boys will call at each house in order to give every one an opportunity to participate in this drive. It is estimated that if the newspapers sell at an average of 10 each that from $15,000 to $20,000 will be raised for the Welfare Fund, which will be used to materially assist in the work of supplying the necessary clothing to needy families. The cooperation of every citizen is requested in order to make this event a success. The Myron E. H. fund of the American Legion will be out in force to help make this event a great success.

The funds received in this drive will all be turned over to the Central Welfare committee and will be used throughout the year and will be used to meet the purchase of food, clothing and medicine. It is felt that the year-end relief work is more necessary at this time than the temporary relief at Christmas time. This sort of giving is being done by other organizations and it is hoped that the welfare committee will be able to do the same.

In the summer in fair weather the doctor treated his hundreds of patients in the yard beside his house. When it is rainy or cold he treats them in a shed in back of the house which was built to house farm tools, but which has been remodeled by the addition of a concrete floor, some benches and a stove.

After three or four days rain, with hundreds of people tramping around, the yard becomes somewhat soft and muddy. An elegant looking lady in the footwear, having finally reached the "shed" through the mud, indignantly informed the doctor that he should do something so they would not have to walk in the mud. His only reply was "Did I ask you to come here?"

Having been advised by an eminent psychologist to go to Dr. Locke, he was still with a great deal of skepticism that I traveled the 550 miles to Williamsburg and finally stood in line in back of one of the chairs in the doctor's "circle."

The "circle" consists of about a dozen ordinary straight backed chairs placed in a circle in which the patients sit while being treated. One side is left open for wheel chair patients. In the center of this circle is a swivel chair in which the doctor sits.

As soon as patients are seated in the circle they remove their shoes. The doctor swings around the circle in his swivel chair giving each ones feet and hands a twist as he goes.

Having watched the procedure for some time and not hearing any outcries of pain I decided to take a chance and get in line. When it came my turn I told the doctor that I had infectious arthritis. He grabbed first one foot and then the other giving them a twist, took my dollar and went on around the circle saying as he took the next persons foot, "Get a bit of shoes next door." So I hurried next door to get a pair of shoes.

HAMILL TELLS OF DR. LOCKE

Well Known Plymouth Resident Makes Visit To Miracle Man

(By HERALD HAMILL)

After spending two weeks at Williamsburg, Ontario, at the home of Dr. M. W. Locke, whom the American Medical Association have called a "quack" and "showman," I find myself still trying to understand the man. It is true that he has treated as high as 2,000 people in a day. At the present time between three and four hundred people brave the cold weather twice a day to have their feet twisted by Dr. Locke.

Although his income was estimated to be $500,000 per year several years ago, he still lives in an ordinary frame house with his five children in one side of it. He drives a Buick car that looks to be six or seven years old. His winter supply consists of a wooden jump in back of his house, with other sanitary conveniences of about the same plan.

In the summer in fair weather the doctor treated his hundreds of patients in the yard beside his house. When it is rainy or cold he treats them in a shed in back of the house which was built to house farm tools, but which has been remodeled by the addition of a concrete floor, some benches and a stove.

TREASURE HUNT PRIZE WINNERS

Fourth Annual Event Proves Greatest Success Of Them All

By far the greatest crowd and by far the greatest success of all was the fourth annual treasure hunt conducted last Saturday evening by the business men of Plymouth in cooperation with the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce. Thousands of visitors swarmed the streets for hours, all eager to find their prize.

Not quite as large a percentage of the prizes were claimed this year as last, but the hunters were not all disappointed in their efforts. They did find hundreds of special bargains that merchants had offered for the occasion.

A complete list of prize winners was difficult to secure because of the fact many did not keep the names of the winners. A partial list follows:

Why Christmas Day Is Christmas Day

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men. — St. Luke 2:8-14.

NORTHVILLE TO HAVE BANK SOON

Plan Worked Out For The Consolidation Of Two Institutions

After considerably over a year of constant effort business men of Northville have at last been successful in working out a plan which will permit the re-opening of the two banks in that community within the near future as one bank, operating under the moratorium plan that has been worked out by the state banking department.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Lapham State Savings bank and of another meeting of the stockholders of the Northville State Savings bank held Monday night, it was voted to consolidate the two institutions and a committee composed of three was appointed to work out details for the merger.

Oliver Goldsmith of Plymouth, who has been an active member of the depositors' committee, with John Boyce of Redford and Ralph Horton of Northville, were named as a committee to perfect the plans and secure the new charter from the state banking department.

The capital stock has not been fixed, neither have the new officials or the name of the bank been decided upon. It is stated by Mr. Goldsmith. This will doubtless be done within the next two or three weeks, possibly not later than the first of the year.

Under the arrangement that has been named, money held by both closed institutions will be used in operating the new bank. The depositors who did not sign the moratorium agreement will be paid their portion of the funds in the same proportion as will those that did sign the agreement.

Plymouth residents, where the banking situation has remained a most favorable position, are greatly interested in knowing that the banking situation in the nearby community has at last been clarified. An improvement in conditions in Northville is bound to react favorably in this entire section of Wayne county.

Business men and property owners have decided to get behind the new Northville institution and make it a success—something that can be done with the community and its many friends.

KIWANIS PARTY IS HAPPY EVENT

Over 160 Boys And Girls Made Happy By Members Of Luncheon Club

Santa Claus and happiness reigned supreme Tuesday evening when over one hundred and sixty Plymouth boys and girls were guests at one of the most delightful Christmas parties ever conducted in Plymouth. The affair was the annual Christmas party of the Kiwanis club at the Mayflower hotel.

And never did such hilarity and good will reign as that found in the Mayflower Tuesday evening.

Every Plymouth Kiwanian was a Santa Claus—and every Plymouth Kiwanian went home more delighted than did the youngsters over the fact that they had had a part in making the affair such a successful one and that they had been instrumental in seeing 160 boys and girls enjoy one of the finest Christmas dinners the Mayflower ever prepared.

Doctors, merchants, teachers—all Kiwanians—turned waiters for the dinner, and you may rest assured that each youngster had all the chicken and ice cream they could eat. Were tummies full? Just ask Jimmie or Mary or any of the youngsters who were there.

The program of the evening started with the singing of Christmas carols. As they dined the early lighted Christmas tree in the lobby of the Mayflower, Hawley Cobb and Ben Stewart led the youngsters in the singing. For a few moments the hotel rang with the music of the boys and girls.

Then the young gentlemen and ladies were ushered into the big dining room where such a dinner as the Mayflower serves only on state occasions was provided the youthful guests of the Kiwanis.

But that was not all—for old Santa Claus Kiwanis had not forgotten that boys and girls expect presents at Christmas time.

As the guests left the dining room, right there at the door stood old Santa with his big bag of presents. Each youngster held snug in their arms as they left the hotel a Christmas stocking filled with candy, nuts and fruit.

If Plymouth Kiwanians do nothing more to bring a little happiness and cheer into the approaching Christmas day they can rest content in knowing that one hundred and sixty boys and girls of Plymouth think the Plymouth Kiwanians are the finest bunch of Goodfellows that ever lived.

Cheerbringers Express Thanks

Plymouth Cheerbringers, who are members of the Plymouth Service Men's club, have asked the Plymouth Mail to express to the public their appreciation of the splendid support given their charity ball last week. The cheerbringers were most fortunate in raising a good sum to be used during the present winter for welfare work.

The event last week proved a far greater success than had been anticipated and the club members are gratified for the exceptional support given them.

Special Midnight Service Planned at Good Counsel Church

A splendid program has been prepared for the choir of The Lady of Good Counsel church, so as to make the midnight services this year equally as impressive as in the years past.

A sacred holy concert will be given Christmas Eve (Saturday) at 12:45 p. m. In the stillness of the night, the story of the birth of the Christ babe will be told in song, word and spirit.

A solemn High Mass officiated by the pastor, Fr. Lefevre will be sung at midnight. The Christmas service will be delivered by the pastor.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public—to all in the community to join in with us in celebrating this feast in a very becoming and befitting manner.

Holiday Activities Take Much Time of Business Women

The holiday season is usually an exacting one in all offices and business places, however, the members of the Business and Professional Women's club are making the most of their few leisure hours and are enjoying some delightful gatherings in celebration of this happiest time of the year.

On the evening of Nov. 22 they were entertained at their Thanksgiving meeting at the home of Mrs. George King, on Ann St., who with a committee consisting of Miss Margaret Stuker, chairman, Miss Alice Grant and Mrs. Albert Estep, served a delicious turkey dinner to twenty-two members and guests. A business meeting and later, games and a social hour, completed a very enjoyable evening.

On Friday evening, Dec. 16, their annual Christmas party was held in the Crystal Dining Room of the Hotel Mayflower. The committee on that evening consisted of Mrs. Oliver Martin, chairman, Mrs. R. A. Cassidy, Mrs. C. O. Ball and Miss Marie Johnson. The decorations in the dining room were very lovely and reflected the Christmas spirit, which was also carried out in the program, each member responding to roll call with a quotation, prose or poem, or a reading having Christmas as the subject.

Mrs. E. J. Maben, in her delightful manner, gave two readings, and a trio composed of Mrs. Cassidy, Mrs. Ball and Miss Carlson, accompanied by Miss Johnson, furnished a number of songs and assisted with the chorus singing by the entire club.

Departing from their usual custom of a Christmas Tree and its appointments, a table of White Elephant gifts was provided, which caused more than the usual merriment and resulted in several exchanges before everyone properly fitted and the "White Elephants" ranging from jewelry and clothing to vegetables, found their appropriate places.

The hotel management furnished a fine turkey dinner and as usual cooperated in every way to make the evening a very pleasant one.

Each club member has undertaken to make a happy Christmas for some child with toys and candy and a Christmas basket will be provided for disposal by the city Welfare organization.

Donald Ossenheimer and Loren Felt were in Homer Tuesday on business.

JEAN HAMILL BADLY HURT IN AUTO WRECK

Speeding Machine Skids Into Hamill Car And Wrecks It

Jean, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herald Hamill, was seriously injured and Mr. and Mrs. Hamill had a narrow escape from being badly hurt when an unknown driver skidded his car into their machine on the Plymouth road near the Farmington road Wednesday noon.

The girl was hurried to the Plymouth hospital where Dr. Paul Butz dressed a number of bad cuts in her head. An X-ray examination showed that her skull was not fractured although the girl is suffering from a slight brain concussion. Mr. and Mrs. Hamill were badly shaken but uninjured. Their car was wrecked.

Immediately following the accident Mr. Hamill called the sheriff's office, but typical of the kind of service given by that office, no one appeared.

Meanwhile he had rushed his little girl to the hospital in Plymouth and notified Chief of Police Vaughn Smith. By the time Chief Smith reached the accident, neighbors said that the driver of the Ford car that crashed into the Hamill car had disappeared, and that some one had come immediately and removed a number of cans from the interior of the car. Chief Smith ordered the Ford car held when Detroit city wreckers came for it.

IT CAN BE DONE

Governor William Comstock and the incoming legislature can win the lasting gratitude of the people of Michigan if they will cut the cost of government so that the state can live within the fifteen per cent tax limit that the voters have written into the constitution. This greatly reduced real estate tax, plus the prevailing licenses, fees and other revenues collected by the state is a sufficient sum to run the state government. That it is sufficient providing the officials in power desire to make it possible.

If such a proposal should be advanced during the forthcoming legislative session, you will immediately hear a cry that it cannot be done. But where will this objection come from?

The ONLY objection to such a reduction in state taxes will come from OFFICE HOLDERS, and institutional PAY-ROLL beneficiaries.

They will immediately raise the objection that such a thing cannot be done—that it would wreck the state to try and operate on such a small income.

To live within the new tax limit is entirely possible and feasible and no state institution would suffer as a result. It is true that the taxpayers would not be buying any more automobiles for hundreds and hundreds of state employees, that it would not be buying the gas for these cars. It is true that a lot of folks would not be traveling in foreign fields at the expense of the taxpayers, and that there wouldn't be many big fat salaries paid to people who never in private endeavor made one tenth of what they are getting on the public payroll—true that a lot of these things that bring no benefit to anyone would have to be cut out.

Your telephone bills would not be as high if it were not for the high special tax that the telephone company has to pay—and it wouldn't cost you but a mere fraction of the present charges to ferry your car across the straits if it was not for the desire of the state to MAKE MONEY out of the ferry system in order to PAY some one money out of public funds. Lots of other things you have to buy would not be so high if it was not for high taxes.

The state CAN be operated on the new tax and it CAN be operated without a new sale tax, an income tax or any other kind of a tax if the forthcoming administration WILLS to do so.

We have reason to believe that Governor-elect Comstock is GOING to do the thing that the outgoing governor talked about doing but didn't have the gumption to do.

THE ART OF GETTING ALONG

Each week the Plymouth Rotary club gets out for its members a little paper called "The Broadcaster." There is always something good in it. Of such exceptional merit is the editorial in last week's Broadcaster that the Plymouth Mail is going to pass it along so that its entire family of readers can read it and benefit by having read it. The article follows:

"Sooner or later, a man, if he is wise, discovers that business life is a mixture of good days and bad, victory and defeat, give and take.

He learns that it doesn't pay to be a sensitive soul—that he should let some things go over his head like water off a duck's back.

He learns that he who loses his temper usually loses.

He learns that all men have burnt toast for breakfast now and then and that he shouldn't take the other fellow's grouch too seriously.

He learns that carrying a chip on his shoulder is the easiest way to get into a fight.

He learns that the quickest way to become unpopular is to carry tales and gossip about others.

He learns that it doesn't matter so much who gets the credit so long as the business shows a profit.

He comes to realize that the business could run along perfectly well without him.

He learns that even the janitor is human and that it doesn't do any harm to smile and say, "Good morning," even if it is raining.

He learns that most of the other fellows are as ambitious as he is, that they have brains that are as good or better, and that hard work and not cleverness is the secret of success.

He learns to sympathize with the youngster coming into the business, because he remembers how bewildered he was when he first started out.

He learns not to worry when he loses an order, because experience has shown that if he always gives his best his average will break pretty well.

He learns that the folks are not any harder to get along with in one place than another and that "getting along" depends about 98 per cent on his own behavior."

HOLD ON TO YOUR SELF-RESPECT

"Am I slipping?" "Is my ability giving out?" "Has my resourcefulness dried up?" "Has my right hand lost its cunning?" "Is my will-power on the wane?" Such questions plague many men today. They won't down. In view of what has befallen, this is natural. But it is not logical. If you were the only person whose income had diminished, if you were the only business that has become unprofitable, you would be justified in concluding that something had gone wrong with you, with your brains, with your judgment, with your capacity. The truth is, however, that not one man in a thousand, that not one business in a thousand, has escaped the devastating effects of events since 1929.

Ponder these facts: The total income of the people of this country is estimated to have fallen from approximately $90,000,000,000 to less than $50,000,000,000. One-fourth of all who were gainfully employed are now completely idle, and a still larger number are working only part-time; almost every high salary has been drastically reduced; the income of every investor has been severely curtailed; most wages have been cut. That is what has happened to individuals. The majority of companies are today paying not a single dollar on their common stocks. Examine the quarterly or other earnings' statements published day-by-day and you discover that it is unusual rather than usual for any net profit whatsoever to be shown. In a great many cases the losses run into very large figures. Since the panic there have been about 80,000 commercial failures. In addition some 4,750 banks have closed. Our foreign trade has shrunk from over $9,600,000,000 in 1929 to approximately $3,000,000,000 for this year.

Under all these circumstances why should we feel that we should have gone along as if nothing out of the ordinary has happened? How could we in reason have hoped to receive a special dispensation? If we still have a job—any kind of a job—we should realize that we are among the fortunate ones. If we have been able to keep our business going, even at a loss, we have reason for self-congratulation. Even those who have lost out completely, financially, workwise, businesswise, must not conclude that they have outlived their usefulness. Whatever befalls, we must hold on to our self-respect. We must indulge overmuch in neither self-blame nor self-pity. We must not surrender abjectly to fear, but lay fast hold on faith. Our heads may be battered and bloody, but they must not become bowed. We must fight, not faint. Remember that no man is defeated until he himself admits defeat. Don't admit defeat!—The Forbes Magazine.

I AM THE FARMER

I am the Provider for all mankind. Upon me every human being constantly depends.

A world itself is built upon my toil, my products, my honesty.

Because of my industry, America, my country, leads the world; Her prosperity is maintained by me; her great Commerce is the work of my good hands; her "balance of trade" springs from the furrows of my farm.

My reaper brings food for today; my plows hold promise for tomorrow.

In War I am absolute; in Peace I am indispensable—my country's surest defense and constant reliance.

I am the very soul of America, the hope of a race, the balance wheel of Civilization.

When I prosper, men are happy; when I fail, all the world suffers.

I live with Nature, walk in the green fields under the golden sunlight, out in the great Alone where brain and brawn and toil supply mankind's primary need. And I try to do my humble part to carry out the great plan of God.

Even the birds are my companions; they greet me with a symphony at the new day's dawn and chum with me 'till the evening prayer is said.

If it were not for me the treasuries of the earth would remain securely locked; the granaries would be useless frames; man himself would be doomed speedily to extinction or decay.

Through me is produced the energy that maintains the spark of life.

I rise with the early dawn and retire when the "clothes" of the world are done.

I am your true Friend. I am the Farmer.—Wright County Journal-Press, Buffalo, Minn.

RING OUT, WILD BELLS

Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky
 The flying cloud, the frosty light:
 The year is dying in the night;
 Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.

Ring out the old, ring in the new,
 Ring, happy bells, across the snow;
 The year is going, let him go;
 Ring out the false, ring in the true.

Ring out the grief that saps the mind,
 For those that here we see no more;
 Ring out the feud of rich and poor,
 Ring in redress to all mankind.

Ring out a slowly dying cause,
 And ancient forms of party strife;
 Ring in nobler modes of life,
 With sweeter manners, purer laws.

Ring out false pride in place and blood,
 The civic slander and the spite;
 Ring in the love of truth and right,
 Ring in the common love of good.

Ring out old shapes of foul disease,
 Ring out the narrowing lust of gold;
 Ring out the thousand wars of old,
 Ring in the thousand years of peace.

Ring in the valiant man and free,
 The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
 Ring out the darkness of the land,
 Ring in the Christ that is to be.

I WILL

FEW things are done because we can,
 Or not because we can't.

To win is something greater than
 To wish, to only want.

We do not lose because the day
 Was dark, or high the hill;

We do not win because we may,
 We win because we will.

Men lose who might have won success,
 Who "couldn't," yet they could.

Men who win nothing more possess
 Than hope and hardihood.

Because they can't men do not lose,
 Because they can, achieve;

The winners win because they choose,
 And nothing else believe.

Who thinks that he can fall has failed
 Before he makes a start.

But "can't" has never yet prevailed
 Against a dauntless heart.

The man who "can" may be too sure,
 Who "can't" is weaker still.

But in misfortune can endure
 Before the man who "will."

Rambling Around With Michigan Editors

NOT SO FUNNY, WHEN YOU KNOW 'EM!

It's funny how supposedly big men in important positions will do some cheap-John trick that will bring them into disfavor. One of the latest to fall for this kind of stuff is H. L. Holsapple former congressman and superintendent for the Anti-Saloon League. He switched a pair of license plates on an automobile and was caught disobeying the traffic laws. The traffic laws evidently are not as sacred with Rev. Holsapple as are the liquor laws. — Senator Chester Howell in the Cheboygan Argus.

REPUBLICAN WALLONS REPUBLICANS

The state does not know how many automobiles it owns. Officials do to janitors living within a stone's throw of the capital operate state autos and purchase supplies for their friends at the discount accorded the state. State employees are doing private work at state expense. An army of unnecessary employees are on the state payroll. ••• Will Gov. Comstock correct these crying injustices on the Michigan taxpayer, or will the horde of office seekers who want to get at the public trough get first consideration? We hope the incoming governor will feel his obligation to the voters rather than to the machine. If he does we will be for him one full hundred per cent!—Frank A. Bryce in The Grand Lodge Independent.

HE WANTS A CLEAN HOUSE

Visiting with a prominent county republican the other evening he expressed a fear that the democrats in trying to find places for the faithful would not do as thorough a house-cleaning job at Lansing as the voters are expecting. He looks upon the Comstock victory as the only hope of getting done a job which the republicans appreciated needed to be done but didn't know where to begin. In other words, he wants the democrats to do the job thorough enough to please the republicans who voted democratic this fall. Our friend is like the smoker or drinker who, when he gives up the use of either is less considerate of the victims of the same habits than persons who have never been addicted. —Muri De Foe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

HE IS ABOUT RIGHT

The claim made by Burnett J. Abbott of Saginaw, democratic candidate for secretary of state, that a representative of Secretary of State

Frank Fitzgerald had approached him and tried to buy him out from further continuance of his reconnoiter, seems most ridiculous, counting as it did at a time when the contest was about to be brought to a close and which had made no material changes in the original vote.

At no time after the vote was authentically reported from the state at large did Mr. Fitzgerald have a thing to worry about that he'd be counted out of his office, and his most zealous admirers and supporters had no possible reason for extending themselves to the lengths Mr. Abbot complained of.

Frank Fitzgerald, who has been before the public for so long in various official capacities, through which he has acquired a state wide acquaintance and a state wide reputation for being fair, honest and honorable in his every public act and contact is not the kind of a person that would countenance or in any way be a party to the act he has been accused of, and it is just too bad to think politics can bring one to the level that must be reached to suspect crooked practices in every one. —Al Water in The Cheboygan Observer.

HOW MILLIONAIRES SPEND MONEY

Only Joe Hass, the millionaire publisher of the Holly Herald is able to master a 1 1/2 Christmas seal each of the papers he sends out. That's all right, Joe, and a lot better than leave your pile to poor relations to scrap over. —J. E. Mullen in The Linden Leader.

Ernest Allison Highly Pleased With Public Interest in New Chevrolet--Large Numbers Have Called to See Latest in New Cars

Ernest Allison's Chevrolet garage has been one of the busiest places in Plymouth during the past few days--the new Chevrolet model...

With its impressive redoesign, styling and numerous improvements for 1933, the Chevrolet motor car can no longer be referred to as "The Chevy"...

The new engineering features are headed by the "steeringator" by means of which the engine starter is engaged simply by depressing the accelerator pedal.

Manual spark control has been eliminated in favor of a two-way automatic control which provides for accurate spark adjustment throughout the speed range.

The heat control button has been replaced by an automatic control, operated by a thermostat. This device maintains the correct amount of heat to the warming engine and cutting out the heat flow at the proper time, also adds to better performance.

Another new device is the "vacuum selector," added because various types of gasoline differ widely in octane content. It enables a driver to get top operating efficiency out of all grades of gasoline.

Among the new features is a "vibration-balanced" motor mounting, or "sta-namic balancer," which is intended to control both residual static force, or "fore and aft" pitch of the motor, and also dynamic residual force, which is the tendency of the engine to rotate about its axis.

On a new sub-frame, the engine rests entirely with four points of support. The whole of its weight is carried on two lateral supports, so located that the motor is balanced in its center of gravity. This method anchors the engine to the frame at its point of minimum movement, as against the practice of attaching it at front and rear, where greatest movement occurs.

Each lateral support consists of a layer of rubber sandwiched between two flat metal surfaces, one surface attached to the motor and the other to the frame. Through the rubber, the engine is bolted to the frame.

Front and rear supports carry no engine weight, and function mainly as stabilizers of static movement, or engine "pitch." The supports are so located as to permit the engine to rotate about its principal axis.

The closed bodies include the Fisher "no-draft" ventilation sub-windows, which permit of air access without drafts and prevent rain or snow from entering the body. The windshield is slanted at a sharper angle to reduce sun glare and add to safety. The windshield wiper motor is now concealed.

The radiator is "V" shaped and slopes sharply to the rear, accentuating the new style. The radiator shell, instead of being cutaway slatted, harmonizes with the hood color. Vertical ribs in the radiator grille also accentuates height. The grille is stamped as an integral unit, making it more rattle-and-squeak proof than the built-up variety. Three ventilator doors, longer and larger than those of last year, are located near the rear of the hood and slope in conformity with radiator and body lines.

In the six-cylinder engine the bore remains at 3 5/16 inches and the stroke has been stepped up to 4 inches, delivering 10 per cent more power throughout the speed range, the maximum of 65 horsepower being delivered at 2,800 revolutions. The crankshaft has been increased in weight to 63 1/2 pounds and has an improved counterweight and a heavier harmonic balancer. The cylinder head has been redesigned to provide a larger combustion chamber and to maintain the compression ratio of 5.20 with the larger displacement.

In line with increased performance of the engine, the brakes are redesigned and enlarged. Brake drums are now 12 inches in diameter. The frame is entirely new and has been lengthened to accommodate the increased wheelbase and added body length. A "kickup" at the front end plus an increased "kickup" in the rear brings the center of gravity closer to the ground.

The steering gear ratio has been stepped up from 12.1 to 14.1. There is a new design of mounting, the housing bezel flanged at both ends. The clutch has been improved to transmit the increased torque of the more powerful engine. The transmission now has helical constant mesh type gears which are quiet in operation, particularly in second gear. The free-wheeling unit, while still employing the expanding spring principle, is improved by adopting a "single pocket" feature. This spring expands only in the pocket formed by the driving sleeve, insuring more definite alignment and spring contact.

Personality is that mysterious something that makes a successful orator out of the fellow who says the obvious about the commonplace. Figures showing that 4501 persons climbed Lassen Peak during the season just ended indicate that California alpenstocks hit a new high.

Farmington's Error In Judgment Led to Plymouth's Growth

A South Lyon writer in a recent issue of the Detroit Free Press declared that the refusal of the village of Farmington back in 1870 to permit the Pere Marquette railroad to be built through that town, had much to do with the growth and success of Plymouth, which welcomed the early railway development of the state and did all that it could to promote the building of railroad lines into this place. The article which is practically correct in most of its details follows:

About 100 years ago Michigan had a real estate boom in this vicinity, but a bank failed and the development with it, so that now only one house is left of a town which was a busy metropolis before the lumber days. Persons driving along Grand River Road would never suspect that a town was once laid out two and a half miles west of New Hudson, but a few records of the century-old town are still preserved by J. W. Lovewell of South Lyon.

Among these is a plat of the town, cut up into lots with business frontage along what is now Grand River Road. The plat was drawn by Robert Warden, Sr., and although age has crumbled the document so that only part of the date can be read, it apparently was in 1832 or 1833 that the town was founded.

Earliest settlers named the place Kensington, although later it was referred to as Kent. Those who platted the town proposed to use the water of the Huron River to supply power, but this plan was abandoned when land owners upstream objected to building a dam which they said would flood their land.

So Kensington became a stopping place on the stage line from Detroit. Two hotels were erected and huge barns sheltered as many as 50 horses for travelers and stage coach use. Two stores, a doctor's office, two churches, and a flour mill made up most of the rest of the town.

Then came a bank of the variety later known as "wild cat" banks. It was named the Bank of Kensington and printed its own paper money. Mr. Lovewell has a five-dollar bill issued by the bank. It is made out to H. Clay or bearer and is signed by Henry Flske, president and F. Hutchinson, cashier. The bill is dated Jan. 10, 1838, and is No. 1750. The number gives a clue to the cause of the bank's failure and also the failure of the town. Too much money was issued and the bank couldn't pay.

When the bank failed it took the

New Chevrolets Add Over 85,000 People to Payrolls of Nation

Chevrolet's public showing of its new 1933 line means a material spur to national employment and material consumption, since the company is the largest manufacturer in the largest industry in the world. More than 85,000 people are back at work, 30,000 in the company's twenty domestic factories, 21,000 more in Fisher body plants working exclusively on Chevrolet-Fisher bodies, and more than 36,000 in dealerships throughout the nation. As many more are indirectly benefited by the announcement, through making their livelihood by building parts for the car which Chevrolet buys from independent suppliers. Chevrolet's 1932 volume totals nearly 400,000 cars and trucks with a retail value in excess of $300,000,000. This is said to be one of the greatest contributions made by any company this year to the economic welfare of America. In the new line, now on display at all dealers, is a variety of models featuring longer wheelbase, new Fisher "No-Draft" Ventilation and many other features which the company has designed to retain for it the leadership in the industry it has enjoyed for four years out of the past six. Other features included in the new line are more power and speed in the engine, which is newly cushion-mounted; improved free wheeling, plus Syncro-Mesh transmission with Silent Second gear; a new "Star-Stor" that greatly simplifies starting; such safety elements as shatter-proof glass in the windshield; larger and lower bodies by Fisher, in the new "Air-Stream" mode; three fewer controls, with really automatic features in some of those retained; an Octane Selector that insures the highest possible operating efficiency from all grades of gasoline, besides a uniform gasoline cost per mile; dash instruments of airplane type; for instant, easy reading; positive brakes; and still easier steering. With all these, and many more, the price range continues to be mindful of the buyer's pocketbook. It has been found possible to equip the new Chevrolets with many amenities that used to be confined to cars selling at several times Chevrolet's base price. Since October first, trained former employees have been going back to work in Chevrolet's widely distributed manufacturing and assembly plants, with welcome additions to the general purchasing power, made possible by more wage money in circulation. Throughout November, the increase in employment continued to a seasonal peak to the middle of December. When concentrated operations incident to prompt dealer stocking were in full swing, more than twenty million dollars worth of the new cars were in dealers' hands when the national introduction was made.

Abolishment of useless boards and bureaus; restriction of state administrative board powers; cutting away of fancy ideas in education; drastic slashes in pay in high salaried governmental positions; re-creation of control over appropriations and revenues by the legislature.

Abolishment of the department of agriculture; the department of public instruction will be curbed with a resultant saving of $300,000, many unnecessary duties of the department of agriculture will be dropped, inspections of dairies, plum blisters and fruit flies will be stopped, with a saving of $50,000. The state highway department will be given the control of state parks, the conservation department will not be supported by property taxes, the health department duties will be curtailed with a saving of $150,000, and the expensive plumbing code, class legislation will be cast aside if the recommendations of the nine-man commission that has probed state expense the past six months are adopted by the new legislature elected on a tax reduction platform.

Activities Curbed. The state library will be forced to go on its own with the heavy appropriations of the past, a parole system will be set up so that 2000 prisoners may be released to reduce prison costs, high school athletics will be given back to schools and state supervision abolished, teachers will remain in their school rooms instead of being paid to attend institutes, the powers of the state administrative board will be curbed, hundreds of inspectors who have travelled about Michigan in state-owned cars will no longer be employed, employees of the senate and house will be paid only when they work and the rate of pay and the number of employees will be reduced, if the 1933 legislature accepts the provisions recommended by the commission.

High-priced farmers at the Boys' vocational school will no longer arm at state expense, the superintendent will draw a reasonable salary, fewer employees will be hired at every state institution and the institutional frills which have in the past paralyzed taxpayers will be eliminated if the legislature carries out the recommendation of its nine legislators who have been investigating state costs.

PLYMOUTH GIRL TO WEU CHRISTMAS EVE

A marriage of interest to many Plymouth residents will be that of Miss Anna Hondorp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hondorp of this city and Harold Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Thompson of Farmington, which will take place Christmas Eve in Topeka, Indiana, with Miss Agnes Beckwith of this city and Robert Shaw of Farmington attending.

Following the marriage the young couple will go to housekeeping immediately in an apartment at 5946 Middlesex street, New Dearborn, which is completely furnished.

Plymouth friends wish them every happiness.

Miss Anna Hondorp was given a very lovely "kitchen shower" Monday evening by Miss Helen Tyler at her home on the McChompu Road at which time the honored guest received many lovely and useful gifts. The main diversion of the evening was putting together jigsaw puzzles which created much laughter and a happy time. The guests besides the honored one were Miss Agnes Beckwith, Mrs. Edward Dohler, Mrs. Floyd Burgess, Mrs. Robert Howey, Mrs. Edward Campbell, Mrs. Theron Paulka, Miss Zella Boyd, Miss Ruth Adaska, the Misses Clara and Betty Tyler.

FIFTH RADIO LECTURE HEARD

Methods of reproduction and provisions for insuring perpetuation of plant species, was the subject discussed by R. de Zeeuw in the fifth of a series of lectures to be broadcast over radio station WKAR by the Michigan state college at Lansing. This broadcast concerned work that has been already discussed by Mr. Bentley's biology classes but many new and interesting points were brought up.

The seed coat or testa is the outer covering of most seeds and usually is thick enough to protect from injury by contact, moisture, or insects. It may also have special adaptations for dispersal. A second inner coat (tegumen) is present in some seeds. Since the seed was once a part of the parent plant, it bears a scar on the testa, called the hilum, which marks this point of previous attachment. Near this scar is usually visible a tiny opening called the micropyle. The micropyle lets the pollen tube enter the seed when it is fertilized and it lets the young plant out when it begins its growth.

In endosperm present, the embryo may be poorly developed, even showing no sign of its usual parts, as in the orchids. On the other hand, the embryo may be highly developed and show well-defined stem and leaves as in the bean. In all seeds, when they are mature, it may be cuticle or not, by the growing embryo, its function of food storage being assumed by the cotyledone. It is, however, very important in many seeds, especially the grains.

The seed is within itself the miniature plant embryo, and all the kinds of nutrients needed for growth except water. The growth of a seed is a wonderful process. Though inactive, dry, and apparently dead, the protoplasm is really alive and only awaits favorable conditions for growth to begin. The ripening of the seed is really the drying and hardening of the seed.

For the germination of most seeds at least three conditions are required: an amount varying between twenty and fifty degrees; there must be moisture; and there must be oxygen.

Germination consists of three steps: emergence from the seed coats; penetration of the soil, and the obtaining of first nourishment. In getting out of the seed coats, the hypocotyl appears first, emerging in the way of the cotyledons. The rest of the embryo follows by various ingenious schemes, all planned by nature to enable the seedling to escape uninjured from the test, on whose protection it has so long depended.

Germination of the soil may be either from above or from below. The lifting force of germinating seeds is seldom noticed, but is very great. The most important step in germination is the establishment of the young plant in its new environment. The hypocotyls are green, the cotyledons are yellow, and the seedling is directed downward by gravitation. It begins at once the production of the primary root from its lower end. From this in turn, the whole root system rapidly develops. The region of growth is just back of the tip, which is protected by the calyptra, a sheath of cells which is pushed downward into the earth. The development of the plumule usually attracts most attention for from it arise the leaves, stem and later the flowers and fruit.

The first organ to develop in germination is the root, because the function first required by the seedling is absorption which the root performs. The lecture was brought to a close by the discussing of plants producing stolons, rhizomes, and tubers.

PLYMOUTH WINS THE FOURTH LEAGUE DEBATE

Michigan should not adopt a state income tax judging by the result of Plymouth's fourth league debate held in the Plymouth High School auditorium last Thursday evening against Lincoln Park's affirmative team. Lincoln Park was represented by Joe Koiser, first speaker; Carl Stramee, second speaker; and Wilson Smith, third speaker. Plymouth was represented on the negative side by Kenneth Greer, first speaker; Ernest Archer, second speaker; and Odene Hitt, third speaker. L. P. Cooklingham acted as chairman for the evening, and Professor Scott, from the Detroit City College as judge. James Livingston and Russell Kirk Jr. acted as timekeepers. Mr. Lark was Plymouth's coach and Mr. Whitlaw was Lincoln Park's coach.

That Michigan should adopt an income tax as a means to decrease the property tax and to keep up the high standard of education and protection now maintained in Michigan was the contention of the first affirmative speaker.

The first negative speaker brought out the fact that other supplementary taxes have not worked and that the income tax is independent.

The second affirmative speaker advanced the idea of reducing the property tax and introduced the "ability to pay" theory and tapping new sources.

The argument of ability to pay was stopped by the second negative speaker when he admitted that the income tax was based on the "ability to pay" theory but added that it could not be collected according to this theory because of the unprofitable methods of collection, self assessment, and information at the source, and legal and illegal evasion.

The third affirmative speaker stated that these other supplementary taxes which were mentioned were not used to reduce the property taxes. He then summarized the affirmative case.

The third negative speaker contended that the income tax would not reduce the property tax, and that the "ability to pay" and that it would not reduce the property tax. He then summarized the negative case.

The rebuttal speeches were opened by Kenneth Greer, the first negative speaker, who contended the plan of the sinking fund put up by the affirmative.

The first affirmative rebuttal speaker proposed the affirmative plan as the income tax plus the reduction of expenditures.

The second negative rebuttal speaker proved that the income tax could not be collected according to the "ability to pay" and that it would not reduce the property tax.

The second affirmative rebuttal speaker still maintained that the income tax would reduce the property tax and that it was based on the "ability to pay."

The third negative rebuttal speaker proved that the income tax could not be collected according to the "ability to pay" and that it would not reduce the property tax.

The third affirmative rebuttal speaker summarized the affirmative case which was to tap new sources and to equalize the tax burden by means of the income tax which was, as they proposed it, a graduated tax.

The constructive speeches were eight minutes with a warning at six minutes, and the rebuttal speeches were four minutes with a warning at three minutes. The judge gave the debate to the negative team. His three main criticisms were the grammar, the delivery, and the analysis of the case. F. Kilgore.

Editorial THE YULE TIDE SPIRIT

Will the cheer and gift-giving spirit of Christmas be seriously hindered this season because of the depression of the past year? By the festive air of the stores and the crowds which fill the city streets and buildings, we are led to believe that Christmas will be more prosperous than ever. Not perhaps in the value of the gifts but in the spirit which accompanies them. After all, is it not Christmas spirit which is the all-important thing?

Years ago our grandmothers and grandfathers looked forward eagerly to Christmas as a gala-day, an occasion of much importance and great celebration. How hard they worked to bring joy to others. They did not have much money to spend on gifts nor the quantity of things to choose from, when carefully selecting a present for a member of the family or a dear friend. They used ingenuity and their gifts were appreciated. Another thing they emphasized was the spiritual form of the holiday. Let us use their simplicity and appreciation as a pattern for our own Christmas. Forget money values and the depression and make this a season of old-fashioned good cheer and fun making.

VOX POPULI

What would you suggest to make assemblies more interesting? A pupil from each of the upper four grades and a teacher asked for their opinion on this. "A few debates on interesting subjects and just lasting forty-five minutes would probably prove entertaining."—Betty Housley, 9th grade. "Everyone likes plays and I'm no exception, so I advocate plays and more plays."—Max Sweigert, 10th grade. "I like to see the different classes could display their talent, I would make an interesting assembly."—Ruth Mourin, 11th grade. "Let's have orchestra and band concerts; also outside speakers."—Charlotte Rosdicker, 12th grade. "Why not let each class work out a program to be presented in assemblies, to the different departments such as the English, Foreign Languages, Math and Manual Training departments, in which they could show their work."—Miss Fiegel, 12th grade chairman.

MANY COLLECT CHRISTMAS SEALS

With the selling of the Christmas seals an interesting phase of stamp collecting has been brought to light. There are several stamp collectors who at the present time are specializing in the collecting of tuberculosis seals.

The first of these seals was issued in 1907 and had a very simple design consisting of a spray of holly, a red cross, and the greeting "Many Christmas and a Happy New Year." This seal was designed by Miss Emily Bissell for the American Red Cross who made three thousand dollars from the sale of the seals.

In 1910 the proceeds from the seals, three hundred, twenty thousand dollars, were used for the first time in fighting tuberculosis. A fund, who designed the seal, pictured a home among a cedar grove. In 1919 the tuberculosis cross first appeared. This seal which was designed by E. H. Baker was also the last seal to display the Red Cross emblem. In 1920 the seal was his sick. Nearly four million dollars was received from the sale of this seal.

The seals which were sold by Plymouth School children this year were printed by Edwards and Deutsch Lithographing Co. who placed as an identification mark a small blue dot in the snow of the lower left hand seal on every sheet. The entire first seal of every sheet contained a break on the girl's coat. These seals had a perforation of twelve. This year the seals were designed by Edward E. Volkmann. They were printed by Edwards and Deutsch Lithographing Company. The initial states Printing and Lithographing Company. The Eureka Specialty Printing Company, and a new company, the Columbia Note Company.

An catalogue of all the seals printed since 1907 may be purchased from the Scott Stamp and Coin Company for ten cents. This explains all of the varieties, perforations, colors, secret marks, and clever illustrations of all the stamps.

A RESUME OF RECENT H-Y MEETINGS

It may be of interest to know that at the State Older Boys Conference held in Muskegon during the Thanksgiving vacation, Mr. Dykhouse was one of the discussion leaders and resource persons. His experiences at the conference were recently related to the local H-Y. Among those whose interesting talks given by Dr. Palmer of C. and Dr. Hayden of Cleveland. The subject, "Our Economic Life," created much interest at the conference and consequently was discussed at a recent meeting of the H-Y.

At present the H-Y boys are busy making plans for the coming C's campaign with the cooperation of the Torch Club and Girl Reserves. Careful planning is also being given the Father and Son banquet to be held in the near future, full details of which will be announced later. A committee was chosen to aid in welfare work. It is evident that the boys are very willing to give whatever help possible in this matter.

Former Plymouth students now in Maybury Stateorium at one of school are not going to be forgotten this Christmas as Christmas cards are being sent to Harold Micol, John Carley, Cathleen Ford, and Vaughn Ford.

P. H. S. RESERVES WIN THIRD GAME

A fast and exciting game was the one played between Plymouth and Dearborn's second teams, although the Plymouth reserves defeated their opponents by a score of five to two. The game was refereed by Mr. Hickey of the University of Michigan.

First Quarter: Ray made the first point for Plymouth by sinking a free throw. Plymouth was not to remain in the lead long, however, for Adrick of Dearborn also sank a free throw, bringing the first quarter to a close with the score tied.

Second Quarter: Dearborn 1, Plymouth 1. Williams substituted for Shoemaker at left forward. Both for Soderquist at center. A field goal was sunk by Wagenschutz, putting Plymouth in the lead. Several attempts to sink free throws by both teams failed. Wagenschutz sank another field goal thus bringing the first half to a close.

Third Quarter: There was no scoring made in this quarter although it was a fast one. Both teams did a wonderful job of blocking plays of the opposition.

Fourth Quarter: A point was added to Dearborn's score by Albertson sinking a free throw. Plymouth failed to score. Soderquist substituted for Adrick. Dearborn 2, Plymouth 5.

Summary: Dearborn, Adrick 1, Albertson 1, Total 2. Plymouth, Ray 1, Wagenschutz 4, Total 5.

JUNIOR HIGH ASSEMBLY

After three songs "Deck the Halls," "O, Little Town of Bethlehem," and "Silent Night," the Senior Drama Club presented a Christmas play before the Junior High Assembly. The cast of characters were as follows: Max Todd, Odene Hitt, Irene Humphries, and Norval Boyce. Irene Humphries and Norval Boyce were the two boys. They lived in a cave in the wilderness. It was Christmas Eve. They were waiting for their sons whom they had not seen for many years. They had not forgotten their parents, however, at Christmas time because each year they sent them gifts. While the mother was rushing about doing different tasks, a messenger brought a large box and also a letter. In the box there were gifts for both the father and mother. In the letter there was the bad news that both boys would be unable to return home for Christmas. The mother told the boys that they were to get away. This, of course, made the old folks feel unpleasant and sad. Parker was one of the boys that had sent the package and had put Bek's name on a few gifts because Bek was in prison for a crime he did not commit. He was a clerk in a mill. It happened that an escaped prisoner saw the candle light in the window of the old folks and stopped in to warm up. His name was Dick. He would not tell the folks his last name because after a bit of conversation he was told that they were his parents but they did not know him. The mother told him that he reminded her of her own son Dick. The folks saw that he had little clothing so they gave him their gifts which they had received from their parents. The play closed with the old folks telling how thankful they were because of the visitor.

Phoenix Lake Is Cleared For Skaters

So that the boys and girls of Plymouth and vicinity may have a safe place to skate, the Wayne county park commission has cleared off a large piece of ice at Phoenix park lake a considerable distance above the dam and away from all possible danger, providing the skaters stay on that portion of the lake that has been cleared.

The ice is perfectly safe and from what can be learned it is the intention of the park commission to keep a large span of ice on the west side of the lake clear during the entire winter.

Already large skating parties have gone to the lake to enjoy the excellent skating that has been provided as the result of the snow being removed.

Miss Mary Penny has closed her home on South Harvey street and will spend the remainder of the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Dan Murray on Ann street.

late getting out the next morning. I passed up the morning treatment to be on time for the one o'clock consultation, only to find that there were a hundred others who had one o'clock appointments too, and as a matter of fact, I haven't had that appointment yet. After standing in line in the rain for a couple of hours I was completely discouraged and came near leaving for home. Then I thought of the many miles I had traveled to get there and decided to stay a day or two longer and give the doctor a thorough trial anyway. So I got into line behind one of the chairs in the circle and when it came my turn, I asked the doctor about my thyroid gland. He gave me one of those looks which seem to go right through you and presently said "get some special pills without iodine in them," which I proceeded to do.

After about the fourth day I began to notice a change in my complexion. The doctor spoke about it one day in the circle. Then I began to feel better, have more pep and enjoyed getting out doors and inhaling a good lung full of fresh air, which I couldn't do before because it hurt me to do it.

Nearly every day the doctor had some encouraging comment to make and finally told me I could go home. Although I still have a long way to go before I overcome the arthritis, yet, after a visit to Williamsburg, I feel much encouraged.

In fairness to Dr. Locke, I must say that he is not a "quack" but is a graduate of Queens University and of the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and according to the Williamsburg Times, while in Edinburgh he worked on the feet of some of their flat footed policemen and so learned of the marvels which could be accomplished by manipulating the feet. In 1908 he returned to Williamsburg to practice as a "general doctor." He is still the general practitioner of this community and if word comes to him that some of his people are sick, he will leave his hundreds of patients as Rex Beach says, "flat on their fallen arches," and make his call out in the country for weeks.

understand he charges twenty-five cents. Dr. Locke on stretchers and soon graduate to a pair of crutches. I saw and talked to a number of persons who had experienced such recoveries and if you really want to know whether the doctor knows his stuff or not—just ask his patients.

Recreation Room Increases Home Pleasures

Basement recreation rooms are ideal for all kinds of games for young and old. Here is a game room in a Louisville, Ky., home. Basement chill and dampness are banished with cane fiber insulation on walls and ceiling. This material also provides a bright, cheery interior finish that fits in with many types of furnishing.

THE basement is being stripped of its working clothes and dressed in new and brighter array for family recreation and enjoyment. Game rooms are becoming the rule rather than the exception, and cellar dampness, darkness and dirt are giving way to dry, bright, cheery quarters where youngsters can play railroad tracks and stack building blocks and where adults can enjoy such games as billiards and ping-pong without cluttering up regular quarters on the floors above.

Now Is Ideal Time A little careful planning and the expenditure of a small sum of money are all that usually is necessary to convert a shabby old-fashioned cellar into a modern basement, and this winter is certainly the ideal time for such modernizing with material and labor costs lower than they have been for many years.

In building such a basement room primary consideration must be given, of course, to dryness and warmth. Elimination of the chill and dampness common in basements is effected easily by lining walls, ceilings and floors with insulation board. For ceilings, the insulation should be nailed directly to the lower side of the floor joists. On the walls the boards should be nailed to furring strips. For the floor, insulation board should be laid under either linoleum or carpeting to remove the danger of children contracting colds by playing on chilly, damp floors.

Light Walls Desirable To take maximum advantage of both natural and artificial illumination, light colored walls and ceilings are advisable. Cane fiber insulation board such as Celotex, which has a natural tan color, may be left unfinished with pleasing results, or it may be painted in one or more bright colors. This board has the further advantage of being treated by the Perox process to make it highly resistant to dry-rot and the attack of termites, important considerations in basements where dampness from without might otherwise encourage these destructive agents.

Little Cash Is Needed The recreation room should be partitioned off from the remainder of the basement. This can be done easily by erecting two-by-fours and nailing insulation board to the side the recreation room is on.

Only a small outlay of cash is needed to build an attractive basement room. If you decide to create one here is the best plan to follow. First, decide in a general way what you want, then call your local lumber dealer. He will put you in touch with a reliable contractor who will gladly furnish you with suggestions and an estimate on the cost of the job. The added joys a basement recreation room will bring your family will amply repay you for the time and money spent in its construction.

Coming Attractions At Penniman Allen

"THAT'S MY BOY" "That's My Boy," the story of a national football hero's trials and tribulations when collegiate commercialism threatens to bring him eternal disgrace appears at the Penniman Allen Theatre Sunday and Monday, December 25 and 26 with a cast headed by Richard Cromwell and Dorothy Jordan.

"NEW MORALS FOR OLD" A simple, honest, straightforward story of family life and the problems of the younger generation is told in "New Morals for Old," which will appear at the Penniman Allen Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, December 28 and 29.

"PACK UP YOUR TROUBLES" Laurel and Hardy will be seen in their latest feature-length comedy, "Pack Up Your Troubles," at the Penniman Allen Theatre, Friday and Saturday, December 30 and 31.

The popular comedians portray entirely new characterizations. As a couple of vagrants they are kidded into joining the army, and when once in olive drab they find themselves involved in numerous mishaps.

These and countless other embarrassing moments are met and countered by the inimitable comedians in "Pack Up Your Troubles." Aiding and abetting them in the making of the picture are such players as Muriel Evans, Donald Dillaway, Jackie Lyn, Mary Carr, Willy Gilbert, Montague Shaw, Richard Tucker and Grady Sutton.

here is depicted the age-old struggle between parents and their children. A boy and girl resolve to lead their own lives, defying conventions and the wishes of their parents whom they consider to be old-fashioned. For the boy, who goes to Paris to study art, there are gay nights in the celebrated Latin quarter. For the girl, there is a clandestine romance and a runaway marriage. In the end it is shown that the younger generation always steers back to the course of sanity, even as their parents savor their "wild oats" but turned out all right before them.

Aiding and abetting them in the making of the picture are such players as Muriel Evans, Donald Dillaway, Jackie Lyn, Mary Carr, Willy Gilbert, Montague Shaw, Richard Tucker and Grady Sutton.

Goes To Prison To Get Aid For Family

Captain Edward Donalston is seeking out some acceptable work at the Detroit House of Correction for a young Detroit father who was last week sentenced to the place so that his wife might secure a mother's pension to support their two children.

Two weeks ago Richard Bamhow, 26 years old, pleaded guilty to carrying concealed weapons. Penitentiary he had stolen two pistols from his uncle with the hopes of pawling them. A policeman arrested him before he could get to a pawnshop.

Bamhow himself made the request for a sentence so that his wife could apply for the pension. "I'm going to put you to a test," said Recorder's Judge John A. Byrne. "You do not know perhaps that your wife cannot apply for a pension if you are only serving six months. You will have to go to prison for two years if you want her to get a pension."

Bamhow asked if he could speak to his wife, Marcelle, who with their two children, Theodore, 9, and Merry Faith, 2, was in the court room. When he again stood before Judge Byrne he was crying. So was his wife.

"I'll go to prison for two years," Bamhow said.

Judge Byrne sentenced him to from two to five years in the House of Correction, with the reservation that the sentence will be executed as soon as Judge Byrne or the court probation department can find a job for the young father.

Spearing Season To Open January First

The close of the 1932 black bass season December 31, will be followed January 1 by the opening of the season for spearing through the ice for certain non-game species of fish in all inland waters of the state except trout streams.

Spearing for certain non-game species of fish is permitted through the ice during January and February on all inland waters except trout streams.

The species which may be taken with a spear are carp, suckers, mullet, redbreast, sheepshead, lake trout, smelt, pike (great northern, grass pike and pickerel), muskellunge, whitefish, esocues, plothead or menominee whitefish, dogfish and carp.

Illumination are not permitted during winter ice spearing. While spearing is permitted only during January and February, the end of the ice fishing season does not require cessation of fishing with hook and line or other legal methods on inland lakes for bullheads, bluegills, carp, catfish, esocues, crappies or calico bass, dogfish, garfish, lake trout, mullet, perch, grass and wall-eyed pike, plothead or menominee whitefish, redbreast, sheepshead, smelt, suckers, sunfish, warmouth bass and whitefish.

The season for taking certain of these fish and for fishing in inland lakes closes March 31 but others on which there is no closed season may be taken from non-trout streams and certain designated trout streams or portions of them at any time.

"Sign of the Cross" At Wilson Theatre

The man who shot lightning from the skies in "The King of Kings" and parted the waters of the Red Sea in "The Ten Commandments," now touches a flaming brand to the pagan city of Rome in "The Sign of the Cross." This is Cecil B. DeMille's first contribution to the talking picture screen, and by it, it is said, he has demonstrated that the talking picture is as adaptable to mass-spectacle as was the silent screen.
"The Sign of the Cross" commences in Detroit a tour of the legitimate theatres of the country prior to being shown in regular motion picture theatres, at the Wilson Theatre on Christmas Day, at 2:30 o'clock. There will be two performances daily during this engagement, and all seats will be reserved.
The story of "The Sign of the Cross" Mr. DeMille wants all to know, is not a strictly religious one, as was "The King of Kings" and "The Ten Commandments," its background deals with the clash between the pagan ideals of the Roman and the religious ideals of the Christian martyrs. Against this is set the romance of a Christian maiden and a Roman noble whose love for her undergoes a mighty transformation.
For the leading players in the production DeMille has selected Frederic March to play the young Roman noble, Elissa Landi as the Christian girl, Charles Laughton as Nero, and Charioteer as Nero's exalted wife. The production cost upwards of a million dollars, and in addition to the extensive cast supporting the four stars, there are some 7,500 extra players used in the lavish scenes.
Mr. DeMille spent a year in research in preparing his spectacle for production, building of the sets, designing the costumes, and finding exactly the right persons to portray the characters. One scene, the city of Rome, took four months to build, and was destroyed by fire during the burning of Rome scene. It is absolutely necessary for the talking picture spectacle to contain a powerful and gripping story, which many of the spectacles in the silent days did not have.
While Mr. DeMille believes "The Sign of the Cross" demonstrates that spectacle has as distinct a place on the talking screen as it had on the silent, he contends that
