

INVESTIGATE EXPLOSION IN EMPTY HOUSE

Officers State Insurance Is In Excess of Value of Property Loss

Two insurance policies amounting to over $5,000 covered the loss of the empty house located at 175 Fair street that was apparently blown up last Friday night about 10:30 o'clock. The explosion which was heard all over the city rocked the southern part of Plymouth as though there had been an earthquake. Fire immediately destroyed the ruins of the empty house. Pieces of window frames and other parts of the house were blown several hundred feet away. People who happened to be driving in the vicinity in automobiles at the time declared their cars rocked as though hit by a sudden hurricane. The fire department was called and within a few minutes had arrived at the place, but such rapid progress had been made by the fire that little was left of the house. The property was held in the name of Mrs. Kate Scarto, who is the wife of Rosa Sambone. They formerly lived in Plymouth but now reside at 6203 Chase road, in Dearborn. The house has been vacant for nearly six weeks and neighbors declare that there has been no one around the place for several days. While the insurance policies are for over $5,000, the report of the fire chief placed the value of the house destroyed at $3,000.

Chief Vaughn Smith and Fire Chief Fred Wagonschulz have been investigating the fire and they have called on the assistance of State Fire Marshall Charles Lane. This is the second disastrous fire to take place in Plymouth within recent weeks. The first fire leveled to the ground the practically new Catholic church on Union street. Workmen are already clearing away the refuse from this fire in preparation for the erection of a new and larger church early in the spring. The house destroyed on Fair avenue was occupied up to about six weeks ago by John Solassy who now resides in Ypsilanti.

Prominent Noelist Guest In Plymouth

Miss Helen Hull who has been spending the holidays in Lansing with her parents Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Hull, enroute to New York where she is a teacher in Columbia University, was an over week-end guest of her aunt, Anna C. McGill of Plymouth.

The following article taken from a recent issue of the Lansing State Journal about Miss Hull will be of interest to Plymouth residents: Miss Helen Hull, one of America's foremost women novelists and a former Lansing resident, was the guest speaker at the luncheon meeting of Lansing Zonta club in the wisteria room of the Hotel Olds Tuesday noon. Miss Hull, whose most recent book, "Heat Lightning," has won the acclaim of critics for its understanding portrayal of a woman's reaction to life, discussed the contribution of women to present-day society.

Pointing out that the emergence of woman in actual contact with the outside world has been comparatively recent, Miss Hull explained the failure of women as a whole to reach the peak of the business, professional, and creative world. Women, she said, have not had the same social pressure or necessity for success placed on them as men. A woman's work outside of the home has been regarded as temporary and unimportant until very recently, she said. Quoting from Virginia Wolff's book, "A Room of Her Own," Miss Hull said that women have always lacked sufficient privacy for the withdrawal that is necessary to success in creative work.

The inner urge to succeed, the patience to prepare for a career, and most important of all the growing demand by society that women produce really important work are bound to force them to organize their latent powers and produce worthwhile results in all fields, the speaker contended. Miss Hull mentioned the great modern women poets, starting with Emily Dickinson, who seems almost a contemporary because of her approach to women's problems, and continuing with a brief critique of Edna St. Vincent Millay and the late Edith Wharton. She spoke also in a modern novel-writing, taking Edith Wharton as an example of novelist who interprets the real spirit of woman without sentimentalism.

Miss Hull was presented by Miss Mips Karkau, program chairman for the day, who also introduced Miss Esther Mastorovich of Eastern high school. Miss Mastorovich sang two songs, "Somewhere a Voice Is WARNING!

Outside Advertising Promoters Here Again Trying To Get Your Good Dollars

Several Plymouth business men have reported to the Mail new outside advertising schemes that several promoters have been trying to work here since the holidays. They take on the form of everything conceivable in order to get good Plymouth dollars to lug away. The Mail has again been requested to issue this warning to those who often do not always have the time to investigate these schemes thoroughly.

It is reported that both men and women have been here trying to get some real money out of the merchants on the pretext of helping the business of the town. It is anything to get your good dollars these days and the recommendation is made to turn everything promptly over to outsiders. Immediately, Plymouth has plenty of use for every extra dollar it has.

Home Furnishings Club Will Meet On Monday Afternoon

At last the day for the "Home Furnishings Club" draws nigh. The meeting is to be held Monday afternoon, January 9, at the home of Mrs. Leo Crane, 1494 Penniman Ave., at 2 o'clock sharp. The time is of utmost importance as the campaign for promptness opens with this meeting. The captain, Mrs. Wm. Peitz and Mrs. Glenn Benwick are enthusiastically urging their teams to start the New Year aright and begin their record with none absent and none tardy. Ladies for the sake of your team, the prize, and the amusement of your husbands, be on time.

The leaders, Mrs. C. W. Ferguson and Mrs. Bruce Woodbury are also anxious that the members of this M. S. C. Extension Club be on time. This lesson, according to them, is an exceptionally fine one, packed full of interesting and valuable information. "Teaser in your hands" this week they will be handsomely engaged in gathering samples of materials of all kinds to demonstrate, concretely, color harmonies and contrasts. Our tastes in such matters are due for an intensive bit of training. As this lesson leads directly up to the one on rug making it will be of special importance to many women both members of the club and outsiders who are interested in this particular phase of home furnishing.

Early in February the lesson on rug making will be given and we hope that all who are interested will plan definitely to attend that lesson, at least.

Since many of the club members do not have phones and the task of reminding them of their duty to their team is a difficult one, we hope this notice will serve the purpose of awakening their zeal. In order that these ladies remember on whose side they are, the teams are listed below:

Team 1. Capt. Mrs. William Peitz. Mrs. Claude Dykhouse, Mrs. Earl Kenyon, Mrs. Milton Laible, Mrs. Fred Pinnow, Mrs. Miller Ross, Mrs. Harvey Semitz, Mrs. Howard Stark, Mrs. Harold Young.

Team 2. Capt. Mrs. Glenn Benwick; Mrs. Leo Crane, Mrs. F. W. Hohedel, Mrs. W. B. Beldersworth, Mrs. George Kramer, Mrs. N. R. Potter, Mrs. Jay Sackett, Mrs. Don Sutherland, Mrs. J. R. Wittwer.

League of Women Voters Will Meet

The Plymouth League of Women Voters will meet at the home of Mrs. Charles I. Ball at 232 Blunk avenue Monday, January 9, at 2:30. The program is a continuation of the study of Wayne County government, according to the program chairman, Mrs. Ruth E. Hutton-Whipple. Mrs. John Veau of Detroit who has made a thorough study of this question will speak on "County Government." Mrs. Veau is chairman of the Department of Efficiency in Government of the Wayne County League of Women Voters.

At a time when the Michigan legislature is considering several plans for county government reorganization, such a topic is of great interest to every voter. All women who care to be informed about county government are urged to attend the meeting January 9. Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Ball attended the inaugural ceremonies at Lansing Monday noon and the reception following in the Governor's room of the Capitol. Later they took their son, Charles Jr. to Olivet where he attends college. The Ball's spent the evening with Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Emma in Jackson and found them in the best of health. Calling and "Alice Blue Gown" accompanied by Miss Marjorie McMaster. Miss Edith Strong won the attention of the Legislature at the annual meeting of the Michigan League of Women Voters. She was accompanied by Miss Hull's book, "Heat Lightning."

Well Known Young People Are Wedded

A marriage of interest to many Plymouth people is that of Miss Charlotte Mandel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zimmerowski of Bonaparte Road and Alvin Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hart of Ferndale, which occurred Christmas Eve, December 24, at the home of Rev. Moulton in Ferndale.

The young couple was attended by Miss Nellie Langendam of Plymouth and Vern Perkins of Dearborn. The bride wore a gown of gold crepe and carried an arm bouquet of yellow and white tea roses while Miss Langendam wore yellow taffeta and carried an arm bouquet of burnt orange and white tea roses.

A reception was held that evening for the newly married couple at the home of the groom's parents on the Schaffer Road with about twenty guests present. The young couple went to house-keeping immediately in an apartment on Schaffer Road.

On New Year's Eve Mr. and Mrs. George Hart entertained about forty guests at their home on the Schaffer Road at a "kitchen" shower in honor of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hart. They received many lovely and useful gifts.

A three-piece orchestra furnished music for square dancing and a delicious lunch was served.

Hartland To See Choir Living Pictures

The Plymouth Methodist Choral society enthusiastically embraces the opportunity to give its entertainment of Living Pictures at the vespers service at the Hartland (Mich.) church, Sunday, January 8, at 4 p. m., and why not enthusiastically? No more nearly perfect setting could be found anywhere in which to give such an entertainment in this beautiful building in the fortunate little town of Hartland on highway No. 23 just north of Brighton.

Adjectives ordinarily make one shudder when too freely used in description of places or things. But without their generous use justice cannot be done this unique institution in which Hartland takes such pride. Perhaps after all it will be just to say that the good factors smelt on Hartland; for it is known that a good many folks from Plymouth are going with the choir to see for themselves just how beautifully decorated and equipped this fine building is. Some may be doubting but they will imagine how such a place as this and the work it accomplishes can, in a short time, raise the whole cultural tone of the community in which it is located.

Miss Nellie Huger, formerly of Plymouth, is in charge of The Hartland Music Center as Minister of Music.

WELFARE FOOD STORE STARTED AT CITY HALL

Growing Demand Forces City To Inaugurate Rigid Economy Rules

The welfare department of the city of Plymouth has provided space in the city hall where food for the welfare cases is disbursed. Authority for this new policy was granted by the city commission in special session on December 21st and the store went into operation January 1st.

The decision to make this change was brought about by reason of the high cost of administering aid to indigent families which cost was rapidly approaching one thousand dollars per month. After an investigation of wholesale prices it was felt that from 10 per cent to 40 per cent could be saved on the various classes of commodities with an average saving of at least 20 per cent. Everything possible is purchased in bulk and put up in convenient size packages at the city hall by welfare labor. All necessary provisions are handled at the Welfare commissary which will be operated Wednesday morning and Saturday morning of each week. The welfare clients enter where their orders are made out and approved by city employees. The orders are then taken to the welfare store where they are filled. It is the plan of the welfare department to keep the stock of groceries down to the lowest possible limit in order that the wastage and spoilage will be kept to the minimum. Deliveries from the wholesale houses are made each week as ordered by the City.

The bread for the welfare store is baked at the Wayne County Vocational School at a very nominal cost to the city. Government flour is used in the baking of this bread. The general public is invited to inspect the welfare store at any time during office hours as the welfare department is desirous of having the public thoroughly understand the problem which is confronting the city and the manner in which it is being handled.

The city will be in the market for farm produce, eggs, etc., and is desirous of cooperating with the farmers in the vicinity of Plymouth in the purchase of these provisions and will be glad to receive the prices from local farmers and make the purchases where they can be made under satisfactory terms. The welfare store is using so far as possible local and Michigan products.

The blackened pages fall to show any items of unusual state interest. Recent advertisements of department stores, sewing machines and medicines, a few news stories are legible. One tells of prohibition speeches being made in Hastings, Greenville, St. Johns, Holly and Marshall by John R. Clark. Another concerns trout fishing on the Truckee River while a third recounts a speech made in the United States Senate by Senator James G. Blaine.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Dykhouse returned to their home here Friday after spending the holidays with their parents at Grand Haven and Bronson.

Bookcase Is Moved First Time In 54 Years

As workmen were moving the piece of a newspaper which had been placed between the two sections of the bookcase. The pages were from the Dec. 20, 1878 issue of the Traverse City Record Eagle. The date shows that the bookcase was installed 12 days before the formal opening of the capitol.

Appreciation

We wish to express our appreciation to the Management of the Daisy Manufacturing Company, for bringing us so successfully through the past year and starting us so auspiciously on the new.

We especially mention the annual Christmas party with its distribution of bonus checks and Christmas dinners, also the life insurance policies which are given us without charge.

We know that these things are possible only because of the long hours of planning and thought by our management this year. We also think credit is due the initiative that resulted in new business brought about by the intensive advertising campaign this year and the introduction of the new Buzz Barton gun.

We all pledge our best work for the year 1933.

WOOD THIEF GOES TO JAIL

Deputy Springer Arrests One For Stealing Wood— Issues Warning

Deputy Sheriff George Springer believes that the theft of wood in this locality has been brought to an end by the arrest he made a few days ago in Hamtramck.

Following considerable investigation on his part after the theft of five cords of wood from the Earl Ryder place in Newburg, Deputy Springer landed in jail, Gustave Ernest. Not only did he get Ernest, but he also recovered a part of the wood that had been stolen from the Ryder place.

Ernest when taken before Judge Brooks pleaded guilty to larceny. He declared he could not pay a fine and took a thirty day jail sentence out of the Detroit House of Correction instead.

Deputy Springer reports that not only have considerable amounts of wood been stolen, but that a large number of other articles have disappeared from this locality. It is generally believed that people owning trucks or old machines drive out from Detroit or Pontiac and pick up anything that can be found around farm homes. Most of the thefts have occurred while owners have been away from their homes and Deputy Springer urges that farmers use more precaution than they have in the past.

The Northville Record in speaking of the progress being made in that community for a new bank says:

"Northville gets its new bank not later than Tuesday, January 10. It is generally believed that people owning trucks or old machines drive out from Detroit or Pontiac and pick up anything that can be found around farm homes. Most of the thefts have occurred while owners have been away from their homes and Deputy Springer urges that farmers use more precaution than they have in the past.

"The banking department will hold another examination for the purpose of inspecting the 'setup' and the book-keeping system which is being installed this week. Stationery for the new institution is being printed at present and the stage is set for the opening.

"Another stockholders meeting will be held within the next ten days for the purpose of electing the board of directors which will elect the new bank officers the same day.

"The day the bank opens every depositor will be entitled to draw against his account to the extent of $10.00.

"Personnel of the new bank will not definitely be selected until representatives of the Depositors' committee have had an opportunity to discuss the situation with state banking officials at Lansing. This will be done either today or tomorrow, Mr. Boyce affirmed."

The Wayne Dispatch has the following article about the bank situation in Romulus:

"More than 1,000 depositors of the Romulus State bank of Romulus were pleased to learn that the bank had made them a Christmas present of a 15 per cent dividend payment which will be paid to them January 5th. It was announced in letters mailed to the depositors by the bank. This will be the first 15 per cent dividend paid by the bank since it reopened under a depositors moratorium agreement March 5th of this year, and is all the more gratifying to depositors because, according to the agreement, such payment is being made almost 15 months before it is due. The first 15 per cent dividend was paid within 30 days after the bank had been reopened, although this first payment, under the terms of the agreement wasn't due until March 5th, 1933. Approximately $5,000 will be paid in dividends each time, James R. Taylor, cashier of the bank, told The Dispatch Tuesday.

"The letter from the bank to the depositors is as follows:

"We are pleased to announce that the second release of funds (15%)

Early Resident Of This Locality Dies

Mrs. Ann Eliza Farwell who died in Detroit last week was born in Livonia on March 20, 1842. Her parents, the Knickerbockers, were among the early settlers in this community. On December 20, 1864 she was married to Reuben Farwell, who had seen active service in the Civil war. Her husband died in 1883. She had lived in this community nearly all of her ninety one years. THEN AND NOW

"You are not now confronted with deficits and depleted treasury or with the necessity of devising new methods of taxation to meet and remedy them. The unit operating costs of all departments and institutions are exceptionally low and as a result it has been possible to keep the general property tax and tax rate within most reasonable limitations." The fact that the State has no perplexing financial difficulties facing it at present is not due to chance or luck, but is directly traceable to the efforts of the Legislature in cooperation with state officials and state employees. When the administrative board act was passed a new era was ushered in. With seeming propriety the weight tax could be materially reduced without the least embarrassment to the highway program.

The above is a portion of the ex-argural address sent to the state legislature in January, 1927 by former Governor Alex J. Groesbeck when he left the duties of the executive office of Michigan to a new administration.

There was no deficit in the state treasury. There were many millions of dollars in the various sinking funds placed there to take care of bonded indebtedness when due. The general property tax in Michigan during Governor Groesbeck's last term in office was but $17,800,000. Remember this was back in the heyday of prosperity when every one was working and there was no limit to wages and profits.

There had been built and PAID FOR during Governor Groesbeck's administration over one hundred buildings at various state institutions. Buildings like the library building and home economics building at the Michigan State College, a training school building at the Northern State Normal school at Marquette, dozens of large buildings at various hospitals and other educational institutions.

They were built and paid for, always keep in mind THAT FACT.

On top of all this there was constructed under Governor Groesbeck's administration 2,482 miles of hard surfaced roads of which 1,493 were of concrete. This is more highway construction than has been done in all the years since he left office. And you will remember too that when Governor Groesbeck assumed office there were practically no hard surfaced roads in Michigan, barely enough to put in your eye.

These few things are but a part of what he did on a state tax that never was within ten millions of dollars per year of what it has been EVERY YEAR since.

You will note that SIX YEARS AGO the former Governor pointed out that the tax burden of the people of Michigan could be reduced, even below what it was at that time. He recommended in his ex-argural that the weight tax could easily be cut. If this had been done it would have saved the taxpayers millions of dollars per year.

But what has happened since? And can any living man tell why the state tax rate has been pyramided each year by leaps and bounds, gone up by millions at each jump, with many more millions in receipts added annually from increased gas tax and weight tax revenues?

On top of all this the entire cash reserve created during the Groesbeck administration has evaporated.

And what has the state got to show for it all? You can drive over hundreds of miles of concrete roads built by Groesbeck. You can drive to any of the state institutions and see the buildings that were erected and paid for during his administration, but try and find something that has been done with the millions and millions of dollars you have paid into the state treasury since.

What a tragic thing it is to think that in six brief years a state that was without debt, a state that had MONEY in reserve and a state that was being operated economically and within reason could be plunged into such a mess as Michigan finds itself today.

It is not an easy problem that the new Governor faces. If it was a problem of merely adjusting state affairs to the times, the task would be a simple one. Governor Comstock's greatest responsibility lies in undoing the things that have brought Michigan to the brink of financial disgrace and the residents of the state to near destitution.

Some one said during Governor Groesbeck's last year in office that Michigan could well afford to pay him a salary of $100,000 per year to run its affairs. In view of the shameful financial mess we find ourselves in six years after he left office it is quite evident that Michigan could well afford to have paid him a million dollars per year to run its affairs.

But the people voted for what they got and now unfortunately as it may seem, they are paying the piper for their fun.

To Governor Comstock we extend every encouragement in the tremendous and almost hopeless task that confronts him. We believe that he sincerely will endeavor to restore conditions to somewhere near what they were during the administration of former Governor Groesbeck. Michigan owes him and those associated with him its wholehearted support in his effort to lift the state out of the chaotic condition in which it has been dumped into the lap of a new governor.

WHAT PRICE BANK STABILITY?

From The Rotarian
 By Chas. F. Zimmerman, Pres., First National Bank, Huntington, Pa.

For reasons best known to themselves, some of the leading men in finance and in Congress have been running ahead and beckoning people of the United States towards the most revolutionary change ever made in their system of banking. But if one will note the sources from which this agitation is being fed, perhaps he will better understand why certain men are wishing to overthrow the historic position of the unit bank along with the constitutional right of each separate state to govern branch banking within its own borders.

These men realize that under United States governance, state laws upholding the integrity of unit banking afford an impregnable defense against the aggressions of branch-bank promotion. They realize also that every reasonable privilege for which they are contending in the name of branch banking is a process, may be bestowed by state law wherever branch banking is or has been determined to be in the public interest within any state.

Hence it is evident that branch banking independently imposed by any sort of federal law—as in Section 19 of the Glass Bill now before Congress—is mere camouflage for setting up a nation wide system of branch banks and for bringing commercial banking more and more under a quasi close-corporation control such as that which now prevails in Canada. The ruling motive is to dominate bank credit of every description in the United States and, incidentally, to have it minister to the purposes of big banking and big business. Despite the fact that the Federal Reserve Act was designed to forestall centralization of banking power in this country, the campaign for centralization has now been taken up in part within the Federal Reserve System itself.

The people of the respective states are, of course, best able to decide about state wide branch banking according to their peculiar business needs. Equally they have not asked the federal government to step in and make the extension of state-wide branch banking (absentee banking) the first order of business in every non-metropolitan city and in every town and rural district in the states. On the contrary, the people in nearly all of the states have long recorded their decisive purpose.

Rambling Around With Michigan Editors

GRAFT WAS EVERYWHERE

The banker was not long in discovering that gambling with the depositor's money was a reprehensible act which ended in ruin for both himself and his customers. The graft has already been written for the fake bond salesman, the mortgage racketeer, the greedy merchant, the special privilege man, the dishonest government official. Even the bootlegger found his most able customers passing up his cut liquor at eight dollars a quart in favor of bathtub gin of their own making.

Now we are willing to admit that graft, ginned and otherwise, crept into almost everything. It was the wholesome individual who was content to deny himself these short cuts in riches during a period of world hysteria that did not exempt even religion itself to gain its nefarious ends.

Our leaders of tomorrow will be men and women trained in the idea of service. They will be taught that human values must be as equally intrinsic as all other values. Our schools and our colleges will teach them that education is but opportunity to do the world's work better than it has ever been done before. The vanishing point has come for the younger generation who believed that college was but a preparatory for a life of idle endeavor at big pay.

Our leaders of tomorrow will be real leaders of men—not false rights along the shore. They will be men and women thoroughly grounded in the old-fashioned fundamentals of honest service to mankind. Perhaps it will be painful and humiliating, this taking our Bacon out in the wide open spaces and giving it a good cleansing, but our national decency and love of fair play will demand that it be done. To continue longer in a world of false values is nothing less than national suicide.—Floyd J. Miller in Royal Oak Daily Tribune.

NOT SO FOOLISH

It would be a foolish question to ask if the government ever thought of a tax on printed envelopes. They have been offered to the public at unfair competitive prices for years. No one would expect the government printing office to make its expense on envelopes, but a tax of a few cents on each envelope would build up a neat sum to help the halt and blind.—Harry Loe in the Durand Express.

WHAT'S THIS?

If this saving, estimated by Mr. Brown at $10,000,000 can be made now who is to blame for this tax load in the past—the party in power. In Texas it is the democrats. In Michigan it is the republican party. It is not a question of personalities at all—it is the system of political government that grows up under complete one party control. Don't blame the primary for this scandalous growth in state jobs. It is the system. The democrats are in a tough spot—to prove that the republican order does not bring in corruption in its suggestions with reference to state economy. And yet we find this superfluous comment in Walter Kennedy's Alton Recorder (R.):

No we don't look for the new legislature to follow the communists in recommending every clause by it would be a wonderful thing for the taxpayers if it would, and a grand bill of constructive politics which might entrench the democratic party in power in the state for years to come. However, it will be easier to raise more money with another tax than to fight all those interests that do not want their appropriations cut.—Muriel De Foe in the Charlotte Republican Tribune.

POTATOES FOR FUEL

We read they are burning corn instead of coal in South Dakota. We've done that years ago, and potatoes too, by putting in a scuffle of coal and then a scuffle of potatoes in the old lane burner, and got along pretty good at that. Any port in a storm is good enough.—J. E. McMullen in the Linden Leader.

BEER

Now you beer drinkers who are having such a fit about 32 beer find out you don't know what you are talking about. One of the most prominent law-masters of the country stated in one of our daily papers a few days ago that the old time "Blue Ribbon," "Pilsener," and other well known brands contained only 2.98 per cent alcohol! He also stated that not one man in a hundred could tell the difference between 2.98 and 4 per cent beer—all just in your head, and a little more of that 85 per cent beer that we claim life itself contains.—Robert Gifford in The Eaton Rapids Journal.

OBSERVATIONS OF A LAME DUCK

Years—10 of 'em pass in review as we hand over the toga of state senator to the able and veteran Johnny Leddels of Saginaw—this week we saw all but a few of the house and senate come back to the halls they know so well—to help out one of the nations leading Democrats—there was a smile and a cheery word from all of the lame ducks—some was tried to find a duck that would walk like a cripple but it seemed they had all their good legs and kept 'em steady which we hope the new comers will do—no knocking of the good Democratic brothers—rather the Christ-mas spirit of good cheer and a Happy New Year, here as it will be—last minute handclaps of fellows that have fought together for years and what they thought was rite—now the shoe will be on the other foot and as Senator Geo. Sadowski so aptly said Tuesday "now it's our turn to be criticized for our short comings." Final parting shot from a lame duck—"step into it brothers and do a good job and most of us will help you all we can."—Senator Chester Howell in the Chesaning Argus.

WE HAD IT COMING

It took a stage of depression to impress upon our nation the corrupted stage we had reached. It was a mad scramble for wealth and the pleasures money could buy. There were plenty willing to resort to every base means to satisfy their desire in climbing that process is not yet completed but has proceeded sufficiently to serve as warning. There had to be a time of accounting, and it might just as well have been in 1932. The sooner the better.

The better qualities of human kind come to the surface in times of trouble. We are already feeling the effects. We are facing the reconstruction period. The year 1933 is a good time to start. That we may succeed to lay a good foundation to make the world a better one to live in is the hope we express. This thought the editor passes on to you in extending a sincere wish for a better, a happier 1938.—Joseph Sturgeon in the Delta County News.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

A statement that the national government was now paying nearly half of all its annual revenues to the Veterans Administration for benefits or other disbursements to or on behalf of war veterans and their dependents and that the peak in this financial outlay was still in the future, was made by William M. Bullitt, former Solicitor General of the United States, before the joint committee of Congress investigating veterans' legislation. Payments to Spanish War veterans now exceed the total cost of that war, while payments to or on behalf of World War veterans, Mr. Bullitt said, had reached the point where they were about half the cost of the war.—R. G. Jeffries in The Lowell Ledger.

FEATURELAND

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL SIGHT

I have seen the glories of art and architecture and of river and mountain. I have seen the sunset on the Jungfrau and the moon rise over Mont Blanc. But the fairest vision on which these eyes ever rested was the flag of my country in a foreign port. Beautiful as flowers to those who love it, terrible as a meteor to those who hate, it is the symbol of the power and the glory and honor of fifty millions of Americans.—Senator George Frisby Hoar.

HEALTH NOTES

Books, magazines, and papers handled by a person suffering from a contagious disease must be destroyed.

Alcohol should not be used externally or internally when one is suffering from skin diseases.

For nose bleed, sniff a mixture of equal parts of powdered alum and powdered sugar.

Canned foods should not be left in the open can, even for a few minutes.

Dependently on sleeping pillows indicates something radically wrong.

Milk, eggs, and vegetables contain minerals for the growth of teeth.

Eating too much salt makes one pale, flabby, fatigued, and depressed.

HAPPY TIMES

It has been said that the happiest times of our lives are the years of childhood crowded with enthusiasm, illusion, fun and boistered with health.

Wonder if this is altogether true? For instance, a child suffers keenly from disappointment, is hurt by criticism, has not built a fortress of philosophy to serve as a defense against loss or grief. His fears are easily aroused. He can find no outward explanation for most troubles and generally cannot understand why he should have to be asleep before his elders.

As we get on we tend to rationalize the things that are wrong in our society; we accept the world as we find it and forget our youthful questions and challenges. Children want to know what rain is, where space begins, of what stuff electricity is made, why stars aren't seen in daylight, and if the man in the moon really has a telescope. Perplexity is their lot, while most parents shrug their shoulders and refuse to be bothered.

The terrific, unsatisfied curiosity in a child is a driving force in his mental growth. But does that mean a warranty of happiness? Many full grown men and women will tell you that childhood and early youth were their most difficult periods and that only as they were able to relax and live with realities could they extract joy out of life.

Does a boy have as much fun fishing as a full grown man who casts out every care with his rod dangling from a boat? A mother's pride in the accomplishment of her

These Unemployed Were Not Forgotten

It has just come to the attention of the Mail that Constable Harry Keys of Plymouth township saw to it that no home in the township went without some of the Christmas extras that every one so thoroughly enjoys. He prepared and delivered to each home where misfortune has prevailed during the past year a Christmas basket. The basket contained not only some of the good things that are expected on a holiday, but considerable food for days after Christmas as well. His thoughtfulness proved a real delight to a large number.

HERBERT BURLEY, teacher's little ray of sunshine, was born in Flint, Michigan. He has a musical nature and plays in the high school orchestra. He claims he has no ambition, a statement which was heavily verified by Mr. Dykhouse. We are doubtful about this information because he shows much enthusiasm concerning members of the sophomore class, such as Yvonne. Would one not rather die than like to change a name in the future? We think so, but we may be wrong.
MARGORIE CLAY, the beautiful girl who hates to let the cut out of the bag, was born in or about Wayne, Michigan, the Canton Center Road to be exact. She belongs to the Girls Glee Club. Her ambition is to be a private steno-graphist for any old bachelor, but at the rate Ed is going, I don't think he is going to be a bachelor. Anyway, Margorie will undoubtedly lose her job as steno-graphist because men in that position do not seem to be able to tolerate married women and Ed shows no desire of being a member of the Bachelor club.
KATHLEEN BERGHOFF came to life at an early age somewhere in good old Michigan. She was a member of the Girls' Glee Club, Travel Club, and Girl Reserves. Her ambition was to be somebody's steno-graphist, but she contradicted herself and got married instead. Dan is indeed, a lucky young man to get a wife with a sense of humor; if just isn't being done in these modern times. Because of her ability shown in keeping books in Bookkeeping class, they should have no trouble in balancing the family budget.

Editorial START THE NEW YEAR RIGHT

Now that the New Year is here, and resolutions are the order of the day, it might be wise for a few junior high and senior high school students to make a resolution and carry it out to the best of their ability, namely start studying for the semester examinations now, instead of waiting a few days before hand. Now is the time to study. Now is the time to give up attending shows. Now is the time to stop hanging around the soda fountain and other meeting places. Now is the time to start burning a little midnight oil. Now is the time to review and study those lessons that received so little attention and concentration. Study and review now and you will be fully repaid for it. Do not wait until the last minute and cram! Of course, there are always those students who allow outside activities and social affairs to interfere with their school work. But students, do you realize that the semester examinations are only five weeks away? They will be upon us before we know it but we can be prepared to face them and laugh at them if we will only study now! Cramming is a bad habit. We are forming our life habits now! Cram now and the chances are that you will cram all your life. Prevent this bad habit from grasping you in its mighty claws by studying for those approaching exams. Study now—start the new year right!

Public Barred From Using State Parks Lakes and Streams

The rapidly with which miles of stream and lake shore have been barred to the public through "no trespassing" signs has been perhaps the outstanding reason for the remarkable growth in popularity of state parks in Michigan, according to P. J. Hoffmaster, superintendent of state parks in submitting a report of the activities of his organization for the past year. The value of water privileges has always been high, and the state, in developing its parks system, has attempted to acquire as much lake and stream frontage as possible, the report said. However, during the past few years as clubs and individuals have purchased large blocks of frontage and have banned the public in many instances the public access has become inadequate through overgrowth. The recent decision of the Supreme Court relative to reletting lands, while definitely settling title to shore property, may mean more water privileges removed from the public and an added burden on the parks. Since the beginning of the state parks service in 1919 the state has acquired for park purposes 34,706 acres of land in 81 sites. While some of the earlier parks were without water frontage, all sites now acquired must have some water facilities. Within two years 18,000,000 people of which nearly 500,000 occupied camps, visited the parks. The trend of these visitors has been to parks having bathing beaches or other water facilities. Parks development in the future should be toward the augmenting of water facilities for public use and the acquisition of as much desirable shore property as financially possible, it was stated.

Social News

Frederick Stauffer of Howell visited friends here part of last week. Robert Champe was pleasantly surprised by a group of friends last Friday night at a birthday dinner. The guests were Roberta Chappel, Elizabeth Whipple, Jane Whipple, Geraldine Schmidt, Melvin Blunk, Austin Partridge, and J. D. McLaren. Jane Platt of Detroit, formerly of Plymouth, was the guest of Betty Snell a few days during the holidays. Charles Drowsour of Detroit was a guest of Jack Smith a few days last week. Coraline Rathburn entertained last Tuesday evening twelve girls at bridge. The guests were Catherine Dunn, Emily Petoskey, Jean Jolliffe, Betty Snell, Helen Ribar, Rosemary West, Jane Whipple, June Nash, Margaret Buzzard, Evelyn Rorabacher, Delite Taylor, and Miriam Jolliffe. Wednesday evening Coraline entertained seven girls at bridge including Mary McNeal, Ruth Mearns, Ruth McConell, Sylvia Wank, Mildred Mount, Madelyn Blunk, and Flossie Rowland. Delightful refreshments were served following bridge. Betty Snell entertained at an open house New Years party last Saturday night. Jane and Elizabeth Whipple were guests of Helen Man of Birmingham a few days during the holidays. Most of the teachers spent their vacations in their home town. Miss Berg spent hers at her home in Ipsending, Michigan. Miss Wills had her Christmas in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

General Assembly

After Mr. Dykhouse made an announcement that a very important event would take place January 5, which we have called the Christmas Eve Service, the Music Department of Plymouth high school gave the students a treat by getting them right into the Christmas spirit with their Christmas songs. The scene on the stage was an old village church choir and the pupils. The choir first sang "Noel" which was followed by "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," "O Holy Night," "Joy to the World," and "Silent Night." The village minister then gave a sermon. He said that each year gifts were brought to the church as an offering to the Babe and that the chimes on the church had not rung for a great number of years. This Christmas people of all kinds brought their gifts, but the chimes did not ring. Even the King brought his crown and they didn't ring. A small child brought his last silling, the chimes rang. It was because of the spirit he had behind the giving that made the chimes ring. The choir closed by singing "O Come All Ye Faithful." The students then went to their groups to get their report cards for the third marking period.

Wayne Trims Plymouth 24 - 21

The Plymouth basketball team was defeated December 23, by Wayne in a very exciting game. This game was very fast and only a few substitutes were used, and so this made it very strenuous for the players. Jack Klusky was not in a suit on account of an injured ankle received in practice. The following is a summary of the game by quarters.
First Quarter
Lucas of Wayne started the scoring with a field goal and Williams followed with a free shot. Steinhauser then sunk a field goal and Lucas followed with another basket. Blunk then made a field goal. Green made a field goal and Williams again made another basket.
Plymouth 3, Wayne 8.
Second Quarter
Clark was put in at left guard in place of Fildth. Green and Lucas made baskets. Levandovskiy made a free shot and Bronson followed with a basket. Green made a free shot and Bronson followed and made one also.
Plymouth 9, Wayne 13.
Third Quarter
Lucas made a free shot and Green followed with a basket. Williams made a free shot and a field goal. Bronson followed by making two free shots. Steinhauser and Clark then made field goals. Williams then made two field goals and a free shot and Green made a free shot.
Plymouth 19, Wayne 21.
Fourth Quarter
Williams tied the score with a field goal. McCallan was put in at guard for Stevens. Steinhauser made a field goal. After a short rest Stevens was put back in and later in the game Lucas made a free shot. The game ended at this score.
Plymouth 21, Wayne 24.

Ypsilanti Cagers Here Tonight

Plymouth and Ypsilanti meet here tonight, January 6, to compete in a basketball game. As yet nothing much has been heard about what kind of a team Ypsilanti has. In the former league games Plymouth has lost one game and won one. The first game will start at seven o'clock. The team needs your support and it only costs twenty-five cents, so all come and help Plymouth win. Home is just a parking place to those who are born in a hospital and buried from an undertaker's establishment. Some motorists drive as if they were perfectly willing to meet an accident half way.

Washington News Flashes

The Collier Bill providing for 32 per cent legalized beer was passed in the House of Representatives, 230 to 165, December 21. A vote was taken on this same bill during the first session of the 72nd Congress and was defeated 228 to 169. After being passed by the House, the bill was then sent to the senate where it is being discussed and a vote will soon be taken. This session of Congress is familiarly known as the "Lame Duck Session." The short session of any Congress following a National election is so called because many of its members have failed to be re-elected and are called Lame Ducks. Representative Louis McFadden has been ousted from Congress by the Pennsylvania Delegation for his uncooperative conduct in endeavoring to bring impeachment charges against President Hoover. President Hoover has left the National Capital for a 10 day vacation abroad. The government inspection boat "Sequoia." President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt will now be able to transfer his entire attention to National problems as his term of office as Governor of New York State came to a close at midnight, December 31.

PRESIDENT

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH WHEN I was just a youngster, then They used to say, the older men, That any boy, they used to say, Might yet be President some day.

And that today is just as true; This later generation, too, Sit in the Presidential chair, The very youngster that you meet Right now upon the village street, Just as your elders used to say, May yet be President some day.

Some day the youngster's task may be To bring us back prosperity, To keep at peace with other lands, And have a congress on his hands, Yes, any boy, no matter what His present fortune, his present lot, Although the future may be dim, May yet—but why discourage him? © 1932, Douglas Malloch.—WNU Service.

NEW ROMULUS BANK

which we agreed to accomplish in two years, considered in the light of conditions in general during the past year, must bring the realization that an ample margin of safety was provided in the plan, that through your cooperation, was put into effect.

"This second release of funds will be handled exactly the same as those formerly released. The 1932 release will be set over to your next account on January 31st. You may withdraw this money at any time on or after this date. It will be deposited in your account and interest from the first day of the month.

"Your continued splendid cooperation in the matter of depositing your funds, and the expression of confidence shown by increased new deposits certainly indicates your faith in a sound institution. Through experience we find that very few intend the withdrawal of hard earned savings unless these savings are to be used for necessities and worth while purchases.

"Let us again call your attention to the fact that all earnings of the bank accrue to your benefit. This institution is being operated for you. Its earnings are being accumulated and will be eventually credited to your respective accounts. The amount of earnings depends entirely upon deposits. These earnings will play a very important part in the final settlement of our agreement. Besides this direct benefit, there are also the indirect benefits that your funds are creating.

"Your deposits make the loaning of funds possible. These loans to worthy individuals and companies become the basis of credit upon which business is transacted. Regardless of position or occupation any general business recovery will certainly aid everyone. Sound credit is very essential in the foundation of that recovery.

"This community, through the services of a sound bank, will be in a position to advance this needed credit that it may take advantage of the opportunities that would otherwise be impossible.

Coming Attractions At Penman Allen

"PROSPERITY" Give Marie Dressler and Polly Moran something to fight about—and watch the laughs roll up. They're at it again—this time as mothers-in-law battling over the lives of their married children. In "Prosperity" showing at the Penman Allen Theatre, Sunday and Monday, January 8 and 9.

"IF I HAD A MILLION" Fifteen stars are cast together in "If I Had a Million," film drama showing at the Penman Allen Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, January 11 and 12. Together they make the most important array of cinema talent which has ever been seen in a single production.

"FALSE FACES" Strictly modern in theme and timely in type of story, the "World Wide Picture," "False Faces," to appear at the Penman Allen Theatre Friday and Saturday, January 13 and 14, deals entirely with the progress of a fascinating and conscientious plastic surgeon.

During the unfolding of the story we see Lowell Sherman, in the starring role of the plastic surgeon, using his profession only for swelling his bank account. The climax, coming swiftly and suddenly after the dramatic trial and acquittal of Sherman for criminal negligence, is unusual and sensational. The story is from an original, directed by Lowell Sherman, with a cast which includes Peggy Shannon, Lily Lee, Bertin Churchill, David L. Laidan, Geneva Mitchell, Harold Waldridge, Name O'Neil, Miriam Sugar, Joyce Compton, Oscar Apfel, Farnell Pratt and a score of others equally prominent.

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

STICKYTOES TELLS JOHNNY CHUCK A SECRET

WHILE Johnny Chuck was stuffing himself in order to make more fat before seeking his bed to sleep the long winter away he did a lot of thinking. You know one can think and eat at the same time very nicely. What was Johnny Chuck thinking about? He was thinking about the coming winter and the curious ways in which his friends and neighbors would spend it.

When other people do things in a different way from the way we do them we are very apt to think their ways are curious, quite forgetting that to them our way may seem just as curious. To Johnny Chuck there is only one sensible way of spending the long months when rough Brother North Wind and Jack Frost roar and howl and pinch and sneeze, and that is to curl up comfortably way down where Rough Brother North Wind and Jack Frost cannot reach him and there sleep until they have gone back to the far Northland. Johnny Chuck always thought of it as the only sensible thing to do. He sometimes quite forgot that it was the only thing he could do and so took the credit for sense and wisdom which really didn't belong to him. You see, Johnny has no choices in the matter. He has to sleep that way, because in the winter there is nothing he can eat. But this is not so with many of his neighbors. Some of them eat things which can be kept for a long time without spoiling, like nuts and seeds, and those who eat these things pack them away into storehouses or hide them where they can find them. Then in the winter they sleep in bad weather and come out to play a little and to get food from their hiding places in pleasant weather. Happy Jack Squirrel and Chatter the Red Squirrel do this. Striped Chipmunk pops up for a breath of fresh air on warm sunny days in winter. Jimmy Skunk is another who sleeps only part of the time. He does not store up food in storehouses, but like Johnny Chuck himself stores it up in the form of fat. But he does not depend on this wholly as does Johnny. He likes to come out and crawl around a little when the snow is not too soft and deep. Then there are others like Teddy and Granny Fox, Old Man Coyote, Billy Mink, Shadow the Weasel and Little Joe Otter, not to mention Peter Rabbit, who always manage to find enough to eat through the winter and so do no more sleeping than they do in the summer. That is why they are provided with thick, warm coats. The same thing is true of the feathered folk, except that none of them sleep all winter. Those who cannot find food fly away to the sunny Southland where they can find it. Johnny Chuck was thinking of these things as he ate and ate, and it seemed to him that his way was far the best way. It saved a great deal of work and worry. He never was cold. He never was hungry. It made no difference to him what the weather might be. He wondered that everybody didn't do the same thing. He knew that wise Old Grandfather Frog does and Old Mr. Toad does. Thinking of Old Mr. Toad reminded him of Stickytoes the Tree Toad, who had spent the summer in the apple tree of the Old Orchard. He and Johnny had become great friends, being such near neighbors. At the thought of him Johnny stopped eating.

"I think," said he, "that I have got quite as much sense as they have."

"I wonder," said he right out loud, "where he spends the winter." "Where who spends the winter?" asked a small piping voice. It was the voice of Stickytoes himself, and there he was almost under Johnny's nose. "Why, you!" exclaimed Johnny Chuck. "I was just thinking of you and wondering if you have as much sense as your cousins, Old Mr. Toad and Grandfather Frog. They do as I do, sleep all winter, and I was wondering if you do the same thing."

Stickytoes chuckled. It was a throaty little chuckle. "I think," said he, "that I have got quite as much sense as they have. In fact I think I've got a little more. Can you keep a secret, Johnny Chuck?" "Certainly I can," replied Johnny Chuck. "Just try me and see." Stickytoes hopped a little nearer to Johnny Chuck and whispered. Johnny Chuck's eyes grew round with surprise. "Do you really mean that?" he asked, as if he could hardly believe what Stickytoes had told him. "Every word of it," replied Stickytoes, "but remember it is a secret. Now I must hurry or I shall be too late." Stickytoes wished Johnny Chuck a long sleep with pleasant dreams and started on. Annual meeting of voters of the congregation Wednesday, January 11th, at 8 p. m.
Mite boxes which have not been returned, are expected in the hands of the treasurer not later than Sunday, January 8th.

Contributions for which credit is expected on the 1932 report, must be in previous to the annual meeting, January 11th, when the books are definitely closed for 1932.

The Condition of the Congregation
Unlike any other organization among human beings, the chief criterion by which the condition of a spiritual organization like a church is measured, is not a matter of cold cash, church attendance, attendance at Holy Communion, Sunday School attendance and growth, and that too difficult-to-be-gauged quality called spirituality constitute the true measures for success or failure. Our church attendance has increased during the past year by somewhere between 10 and 20% over last year; Communion attendance has increased by about 5%; Sunday school attendance by almost 100%.

And yet, the financial condition of the congregation at the close of business in 1932, was better than it has been in any year during the recent past. A budget of $2300.00 for the past year was reached, with in $2.75 of its total, treasurer's accounts showing receipts to the sum of $2197.25. The total debt of the congregation at the present time is less than $100. For charities and benevolences the congregation raised a total of $1069.05, $712 of which was raised for an emergency fund to help put the Synodical treasury on its feet.

During the past year the Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregation, aided by a $100 bequest by Mrs. Johanna Beyer, paid for the decoration of the church and a few rooms in the parsonage. All other societies of the congregation were active in furthering the common cause.

The number of members received into the congregation during the past year was materially greater than that of the preceding years: 20 were received by the rite of Holy Baptism; 21 by Confirmation, and 10 by admission as voting members of the congregation.

It was naturally beyond the wildest dream of anyone of us to think that we should have such a favorable year to look back upon, when all the world expects failure and disappointment. But our God in the heavens is still with His children, and His counsels must prevail despite all human calculations to the contrary. "Man proposes, but God disposes." How fortunate for us that this old adage is true. And because we so little deserve the bounty He has again bestowed unto us, we humbly give Him thanks and give Him alone ALL GLORY.

AND HE MAY GRANT UNTO ALL OF YOU HIS BLESSINGS FOR A BLESSED AND PROSPEROUS 1933 IN ALL MANNER OF SPIRITUAL AND MATERIAL BENEFITS.

On New Year's Eve a fine group of young people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Burden for a Watch Night Service. The first part of the evening was spent in singing and playing games. After a beautiful lunch, the service was closed with a Scripture reading, a season of prayer, and singing.

Last Sunday evening we had a message from several of Dr. Pace's cartoons in slide form. Some very forceful truths can be portrayed in this manner.

The Tuesday Evening Bible Class invited the adults to hear with them a very heart searching illustrated message from Miss Ericsson, a returned missionary from Egypt. She showed to us the need of spreading the Gospel to these people.

The slides pictured very vividly the transforming power of God's word in the lives of this race of Mohammedans. Miss Ericsson worked for many years among this race and we could see how the Gospel has borne fruit in that land.

The house was occupied by Maria Mitchell, born in 1818. She attained such renown in the field of astronomy that today her bust is in the Hall of Fame at New York University.

A ceremony of beauty and dignity will fittingly commemorate the occasion when we dedicate. We perform this promise—"A Service within Your Means."

WHAT PRICE BANK STABILITY?

In opposition to any such specious and dangerous program. It is clear, therefore, that Section 19 is merely a way-station. It would be invidious to refer to those comparatively few men in private life who thus far have endorsed this extremely radical federal proposal. If the lay reader will be mildly observant, he will find that, for the greater part, they are men who have a stake in holding-company (trust) banking together with business and business men whose interests or bank connections center around the distribution of securities. Be it known that these folks are rather gun-shy when they come to the point of asserting the states' rights should be dealt the death blow now prescribed by the Glass Bill. They keep on trying, nevertheless, to bolster their faulty logic by evading this stubborn barrier to Section 19, and by talking about branch banking in purely general terms.

One of the age high analogies most frequently cited is the stability of (Canadian through) banking as compared with that of the United States. This consideration is by no means far fetched. An editorial in a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post, "Lessons Must Be Learned," has given an impetus to the Canadian idea. There have been many bank failures in the states; Canada has had none during the prevailing unpleasantness. How much better it would be to have a system of banking patterned after the Canadian system? The man on the street asks: Why not? And those who have been running ahead are too hurried to give a proper answer. The answer is, of course, that the Canadian system is not the Canadian system, but the writer missed just about every fact on which to base the inevitable conclusion that it is wholly unsuited to the free spirit of the United States commerce and form of government.

WHAT PRICE BANK STABILITY?

One could not wish for a more conclusive method of estimating the relative merits of free banking and controlled banking than by comparing the banking systems of the United States and Canada. We realize that Canada's system of banking is based on points based with provision and finality from a host of other factors. The Canadian business man who secures credit at his bank, soon discovers that he is serving a strict master. These credits, the conditions of which are fixed by absentee bankers, have a direct bearing on the economic attainments of the entire people of Canada.

Once the Canadian business man becomes a bank borrower under the banking laws of his country, a heavy hand is laid upon him. He may not wish to consider bank or seek to withdraw funds from any source, unless first he secures the consent of his creditor bank. Should he do so and be found out by his bank, he is placed on the "black list." He has, of course, no opportunity to deal personally with the actual banking officer of his bank, except when merely nominal amounts are involved. His bank loans can only be of the self-liquidating sort and are not available even in part for real estate or equipment used in the conduct of business.

If he is a manufacturer, no matter how his stock may change in character, his creditor bank may take title to every bit of it, regardless of other merchandise creditors, in case he fails to meet the bank's demand for repayment. If he is a manufacturer, his sack of goods, raw materials, goods in process, and finished products alike, become the property of the bank in case he fails to pay his note. If he is a farmer, when his grain is delivered to the railroad, the bill of lading becomes the property of the bank; when it reaches its destination and is stored in an elevator, the bank receives the warehouse receipt; and when it is again consigned, the bank receives the draft on the consignee. In all these transactions the bank instead of the farmer has title to agricultural products until the bank loans are paid.

This banking law, designed primarily to make the banks safe, turns all merchandise into collateral security for bank loans. The real owner of the merchandise or business is little more than a partner whose interests and authority are subordinated to those of his bank. Figure actively the bank has the right to cancel its warehouse receipt, and when it is again consigned, the bank receives the draft on the consignee. In all these transactions the bank instead of the farmer has title to agricultural products until the bank loans are paid.

Very naturally, the bank credit system of Canada gives rise to deep-seated antipathies and dissatisfaction. It inevitably results in credits being rigidly restricted or loans being called in one section of the country where credit is needed, while at the same time credit is being expanded in another. The particular community thus becoming the incident in the minds of the men directing the banks' leading policies. Thus it may be seen that, as compared with the United States under its common law permitting free credits and granting no autocratic prerogatives and special privileges to banks, Canada is permanently sacrificing her otherwise normal business expansion and national progress upon the altar of unyielding conservatism in banking. Small wonder that the free banking bankers find it desirable to deal at greater than arm's length with their clientele. They send banking clerks into remote cities and towns of the country to do their bidding, precisely as the local ticket agent serves the trunk-line railroad. Small wonder, too, that Canadian business activities remain more or less stagnant even in good times, and that their smaller communities loudly proclaim their own fully appreciated lack of progressiveness. All of this, I hasten to add, is not said in criticism but in the spirit of truth telling, as I see it, for the sake of the greater good.

In the United States the local unit banker may perhaps be lacking in degree, but at least he has certain authority. He is a self-realizing business executive, associated in most cases with a level-headed board of directors. He is interested in his community and in the welfare of his patrons with whom he deals as between man and man. If a local merchant finds himself in difficulty, the banker's and his board of directors use every reasonable means at their command to compose his affairs and to give him a new start.

Important community enterprises are largely guided by the local banker. He counsels with leading men on all questions of taxation and civic advancement. Like metropolitan bankers, the local unit banker also makes mistakes; but in proportion, perhaps, not more serious mistakes than are made by them. He accepts in good part the out-spoken criticism directed at him and his bank by those in high places who would have a wiser discretion except for their own ambitions. He is at the very center of those forces which have occasioned the growth and prosperity of his community, and his place can never be filled under any branch-banking system.

Be it said the credit of Canadian bankers that they know the dangerous elements in their birthright so far as the people of Canada are concerned. They endeavor at all times to be careful and conservative. They continue to be bankers who never take a business chance in support of any business enterprise, even in periods of prosperity. Their banks, larger and smaller alike, never fall in the hands of those who embark in promotion, speculation, or investment banking. They pay very low interest rates, charge very high interest rates, and conduct their investments—aside from commercial paper to government and municipal bonds. Who would be so rash as to deny that the Canadian system has the meritorious quality of stability? So, I submit, has the old farm wagon. But what proportion of American business men would choose to have their business needs stagnate under a remote-control banking system founded on the intransigent, single standard of stability?

In the United States, men do not look to "The Crown" but to the head and heart and hand of the banker with whom they deal personally. Better for us, they say, that we move faster, even though we sometimes stumble, take a header, and, perhaps, crack a bone or two. The United States has been getting along fairly well in a banking sense despite the mistakes of her bankers, big and little. And Canada's southern neighbor will, I prophesy, continue to go on, trusting in and upholding and defending the integrity of the home-owned and home-managed unit bank. Canada is potentially one of the richest regions on the face of the globe. Her natural history antedates that of the United States. Her latent possibilities in agriculture and minerals are unsurpassed. Yet the United States has seemed to move ahead of her northern neighbor in many ways. The entire resources in Canada's ten commercial banks with nearly four thousand branches, are exceeded by those of the two largest banks in New York City. Again, Canada's total bank resources are exceeded by those of the next four largest banks in New York City. Canada's total bank resources are again almost equaled by the ten largest banks in New York City. The conclusion is almost forced upon one that the achievements and progress of the United States, in contrast with those of Canada, must be attributed to the inevitable effects of free credits and unit banks as contrasted to the "stabilized" system of bank credits under a thoroughly centralized control. May I suggest that the Canadian people might do well to study the American system of banking. Banking facilities in Canada are not only shrinking rapidly, but one who banking system in my opinion, has not only been a failure for business. Whereas there were forty or more branch banks in Canada a few years ago, there are now but ten. Thus it becomes apparent that once a system of branch banking imposed by the federal government were established in the United States, so that it could be broadly in designated sections of the nation, the Canadian system of artery-hardening would soon take hold and would not be "stabilized" until a freespirt and the balanced judgment should be the result.

Banking is a business and power who persuasively extol the virtues of "stabilized" banking invariably refer to it in purely idealistic terms. This is not the case with the people of the United States are not slow in recognizing the fact. Those who have knowledge of events in the large commercial centers, need no warning that federally imposed branch banking is an era of exploitation, of mismanagement, and of financial disaster such as the United States has never seen in its history. Neither do they need to be reminded that the local banker is the most dependable business factor today in the stability of the United States commerce, industry, and finance.
