LEGISLATURE ON FINAL LAP

This Week Will See End Of Longest Session Ever Held

Lansing, Mich.—One more week probably Saturday, June 17—and the members of the Michigan legislature will go home to tell the folks that voted for them what they have done for the people of Michigan during the longest legislative session in the history of the state.

They will go home to answer questions about legislative inquiries, grand jury investigations, rumors and charges of graft and a score and one other interrogations that really should be directed to only a scattering few. Possibly the few might not be entitled to have over a fairly large group.

In these closing days of a legislative session that should have written into Michigan history one of its most interesting chapters, it seems that members of both the house and senate are devoting the greater portion of their time either denying some of these ugly rumors or trying to find out the truth about them.

Michigan should not misunderstand—there are many senators and many representatives who are sincerely trying to find out the facts about these rumors. They are trying to find out if money has really been used to buy legislative votes. It is difficult for old time legislative observers to believe that there is a man in the house or senate who would permit himself to be sold for a meas of potage. There are many, many high type men in the legislature, men that the districts that elected them can be proud of.

But in a legislature that was so completely over-turned by the voters as was done last fall, it is true that possibly some came into the legislature not schooled in the high ethics that have always should prevail in that body. Some point out that possibly they did not have the real conception of the responsibility the voters had placed upon them.

This is true in some cases, without question. A member of the legislature sat at his desk the other day reading a letter and telegram that had come in. One happened to be from a high official of one of the great municipalities of the state. It pertained to important legislation. He barely scanned it before dropping it into his waste basket. To a friend standing close by, he commented that he didn't care to take time to read letters about pending bills.

THE PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATING CLASS OF 1933

TAX RATE AND VALUATION OF CITY SLASHED

City Commission Comes To Aid Of Taxpayers For Next Fiscal Year

The city commission, after six weeks work on the 1933 budget, has adopted the budget which will require a tax rate of $11.50 on the valuation as established by the board of review. The assessed valuation for the year 1933 of $7,501,135.00 to $4,861,261.00, a reduction of 35 and one-half per cent. The tax rate was reduced from $12.00 per thousand to $11.50. The reduction in assessed valuation and tax rate for 1933 makes a total tax reduction for the year 1933 of fifteen and two-tenths per cent under 1932.

In establishing the several items in the budget the commission has given consideration to every necessary municipal function and it is their plan to render the maximum amount of service which can be given for the amount of money spread. All of the requirements for debt service, street lighting, welfare, etc., have been included in the budget. If all of these items are taken care of it will be necessary to collect as great a portion of the taxes as were collected in 1932, during which time seventy-seven per cent of the taxes were paid.

The commission has included all debt charges in the budget with the idea of meeting these requirements promptly when due and to avoid any default which might endanger the credit of the city.

The commission has done everything possible to further reduce the taxes in order that the payment of the same may be as easy as possible. Plans are also under way for the partial payments of city taxes over a period of eight months, from July 1 to March 1. The details of this plan will be announced at a later date.

ALUMNI BANQUET ON FRIDAY EVE., JUNE 23

The 42nd annual banquet of the Plymouth high school alumni association will take place Friday evening, June 23 at 6:30 o'clock.

Robert Julliffe, '06, will call the roll of the classes and welcome the class of '33. The regular business meeting and election of officers will follow the banquet.

Chase Willet, '29, will introduce the toastmaster, Norma Baker Cassidy, who will present the following program:

"Twenty-five Years Ago" Florence Lee-Furman, '08.

Songs by Barbara Horton, '27 and Ruth Allison, '27, accompanied by Barbara Blake, '27.

"Fifty Years Ago" Clarence Stevens, '83.

Humorous Reading, Elizabeth St. Smith, '17.

"Impressions" Leigh Markham, '05.

Dancing will nine will follow the short program.

The Baptist Ladies will prepare the dinner to be served by Junior girls.

City Plans Way To Protect Merchants From Itinerants

A tentative ordinance regulating the itinerant vendor or merchant establishing a business at a definite location within the city for the purpose of remaining only a short time, is being considered by the city commission. The ordinance provides for the licensing of all such businesses in order that they will be under the supervision of the city and will contribute something to the support of the local government. These permits will last until such time as the property is placed on the assessment roll for the purpose of taxation.

Local business men and other citizens interested are very much in favor of such an ordinance as it will eliminate a considerable amount of unfair competition and will also remove the possibility of unscrupulous business procedures. The ordinance will be presented to the Commission in final form at its next meeting.

City to Continue To Provide Bread

At the city commission meeting held recently it was decided to continue the practice of furnishing bread to needy families who are not on the R. F. C. work program and who will be able to remain off the welfare lists for commodities other than bread.

Bread will be given out at the city hall to families in need on each Wednesday and Saturday morning until further notice. It is requested that the people come between 8:00 and 10:00 a. m. in order that the work of giving out bread can be taken care of during these hours.

ARREST THREE FOR BURGLARY

Effort Made To Steal New Ford Car From Local Garage

Through the chance arrest of a prowler in the alleys early Sunday morning three young Detroit fellows today face prison sentences on a charge of breaking and entering.

Night Officer Charles Thomme while patrolling near the Ford garage picked up a young fellow who was acting suspiciously. He took him up to the police station and later started back on his beat, only to discover that the Ford garage had been broken into.

He returned to the police station and questioned revealed the fact that the young fellow with two others had broken into the Ford garage with the intention of stealing a new Ford eight that stood on the floor. The big door was partly open, Signmund Overton, the 19 year old prisoner, gave the officers the names of his two companions, Joseph Galowski and Joe Ferenc, both 19 and of Detroit, who were later arrested and taken before Judge Fred Brooks. One was found to be a parole violator and will be sent back to prison for from three to five years. The other two were bound over to circuit court for trial.

Ralph Carr Has Farm Loan Data

According to an announcement from Ralph Carr, county agricultural agent, federal farm loans on real estate are again available at somewhat better terms than formerly. At present there is no association in this county, but applications can be made direct to the county agent or the Federal Land Bank at St. Paul, Minnesota. When ten applications are filed from the county then an association may be formed.

Those interested should get in touch with Mr. Carr at several places asked for an association and if there is enough interest it could be started at once.

FATHER'S DAY, JUNE 18th

Poor old Dad! The fellow who does nothing except dig in during 365 days of the year, who is expected to produce the "where-withal" no matter whether there is any to produce, who plods along rain or shine— is going to play a "Day."

Yes sir, "Father's Day," is just around the corner. It is going to be here Sunday, June 18.

Maybe a bright new necktie, a pair of socks or something like that might make things look a little different to the plodding dads of Plymouth. Who knows?

Mrs. William Jennings and Mrs. Harry E. Lee have been in Williamsburg, Ontario, the past week.

W.C.T.U. is Seeking Gold and Silver

The Plymouth W. C. T. U. will meet next Thursday, June 22, at the home of Mrs. Milla Luffer of Poplar avenue, for Flower Mission Day. The program will be in charge of Mesdames Kehrl and Mack. Members are asked to bring flowers for bouquets to be sent to the sick and shut-ins. They are also asked to bring in all their old gold and silver to be converted into funds for division among the National and State organizations.

Guests are welcome to all meetings of the Plymouth Union.

Escapes Injury In Houghton Lake Storm That Cost Four Lives

Ezra Ratmour, Plymouth mail carrier who spent last week-end at Houghton lake on a fishing trip, was a witness of the cyclone that struck the lake Sunday and claimed four lives before it subsided.

Mr. Ratmour was standing on the shore of the lake near his cottage when he saw the storm break over the lake from the northwest.

"I started to get the large anchor for our launch fearing that the wind might break it from the light one that we had holding it, but before I had gone a dozen steps, the storm had struck us, turned over the boat and churned the lake into great rolling waves. The wind blew so strong that it practically blew me up to the cottage. It was as bad as they have all said about it. There was practically no warning of the approach of the cyclone. The first we knew of the coming of the storm was a sudden clap of thunder. It seemed to hit the whole lake at once. Shortly after it passed we saw many upturned boats on the lake. Everybody that had escaped took part in the search for the missing. It was the worst storm I have ever seen," he said.

Social Affair to End D. A. R. Activities

The June 19th meeting of the Sarah Ann Cochran chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, closes the chapter year with a purely social gathering at the home of Mrs. Sherwin Hill in Northville. Plans for the festivities are in charge of Miss Barbara Horton and her committee composed of Mrs. John B. Hubert, Mrs. E. B. Warner and Mrs. J. Marie Bennett. Those who are driving, please inform Mrs. Walter Nichol of space available as it is presumed all daughters will want to enjoy this last function which promises much pleasure.

The report of the chapter, Mrs. Channancy Baker, asks that all Executive Board members be at Mrs. Hill's at two o'clock sharp for a short meeting before the social hour.

Mrs. William Jennings and Mrs. Harry E. Lee have been in Williamsburg, Ontario, the past week.

SCHOOL PICNIC AT ISLAND LAKE JUNE 21

As is the custom, Plymouth high school will hold its annual picnic at Island Lake, the date of the picnic being Wednesday, June 21.

According to Ethel Wendt, President of the Student Council, the president of each class will be held responsible for the transportation for his class. The picnicers are to leave from the school house at ten o'clock. In order to make the picnic a real high school picnic, it is the hope of the Student Council to have everyone eat in the same place at twelve-thirty. Buns, rolls and hats will be furnished for inter-class competition.

Praise Plymouth For Hospitality During Convention

Secretary Berg Moore of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce and Miss Marie Johnson, associated with the management of the Plymouth Credit Bureau, have received from the Associated Credit Bureaus of Michigan a copy of the very complimentary resolutions passed by the organization for this way these two conducted the recent state convention held in Plymouth. The resolutions follow:

"In behalf of the members of the Associated Credit Bureaus of Michigan, we wish to express first of all our appreciation to Mayor Freeman B. Hoyer and the city of Plymouth for the most royal and cordial welcome and the fine hospitality shown us while in this city.

"Second, we wish to express our thanks and appreciation to Miss Marie Johnson and Berg D. Moore for the determined effort they have put forth to make this convention a huge success, which it has been.

"Third, we wish to thank Guy H. Hulise, one of the most noted speakers in the United States for having so aloofed his time that we might have the privilege of hearing one of the most timely, forceful and dramatic addresses we have ever been privileged to hear.

"Fourth, we wish to extend our appreciation to F. C. Maben and the Mayflower hotel for the most elaborate and tasty banquet, not forgetting the fine hospitality which has been ours to enjoy.

"Fifth, last but not least, we extend our appreciation to all the officers and speakers who have done their part to make this convention the best convention we have ever had.

"A. I. Hendershot, Chairman, I. O. Fox, Mrs. H. B. Kieble."

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brown of Greenville visited relatives in Plymouth the fore part of the week. Mrs. Brown's father, John Stewart who spent the winter with them, returned to his home here with them.

Naval Recruit Goes To Pacific Coast

Albert Miller, better known to his many Plymouth friends as "Red," was a visitor home over the week-end before starting for San Diego, California where he will complete his naval training before being assigned to the fleet. The training station at the Great Lakes is being closed and all of the newly enlisted men are being sent to the Pacific coast. Not only has the Great Lakes station been closed, but the navy is no longer accepting enlistments. The young Plymouth recruit states that he is great in enjoying the early training experience he is receiving.

H. S. Lee Invents A New Process Cooler For Cement Plants

Plymouth residents will be interested in knowing that the nationally known trade journal, Concrete, a publication dealing with matters pertaining to the manufacturing of cement and concrete machinery, in its last month's issue devoted six full pages, with illustrations to the comparatively new invention and product of the Cement Mill Equipment Company conducted by H. S. Lee of this place.

The invention of Mr. Lee is a process cooler for cement plants that not only improves the quality of the cement, but increases the production of the kiln and lowers the cost of production as well as horsepower required.

The magazine states that the new machine produces easier grinding, due to rapid cooling and that it has proven a great saver of fuel, and that the machine is one of the important developments in the cement manufacturing business in recent years.

The newly elected superintendent of public instruction, Dr. Paul Voelker of Battle Creek, who also assumes his position with the state department that they need not report back for services after July 1. When he assumes his duties, it will be with an entirely new staff of employees, even the minor clerks and messengers having been notified of their discharge. There is no one from Plymouth connected with the state department of public instruction, but the majority of employees have been associated with the department over a long period of years.

GALLIMORE AND ROE ON SCHOOL BOARD

James J. S. Gallimore and Russell A. Roe were Monday re-elected members of the Plymouth school board in one of the lightest school votes cast in a number of years.

Following is the result: James J. S. Gallimore, 125 votes; Russell A. Roe, 118 votes; Ruth E. Huston-Whipple, 113 votes.

From the above results, the voters decided to retain in office those who had rendered service for the last three years.

The vote this year was unexpectedly small, which would further signify the satisfaction of the community with the manner in which the board of education has administered school affairs during the difficult year that is just closing.

Highway Employees Advised to Prepare To Look For Job

Employees of the state highway department residing in Plymouth a few days ago received from the highway department notice that beginning with July 1st they will be employed on a day by day basis and that they should prepare for immediate removal from the state payroll at any time after the date fixed.

It is possible however that some may be kept for many weeks, possibly months, but it is understood that it is the intention of the new highway commissioner to completely change the personnel of the department, the first time such a thing has been done since the organization of the state highway department. The positions will be filled as rapidly as the right men can be found for the work.

The new superintendent of public instruction, Dr. Paul Voelker of Battle Creek, who also assumes his position with the state department that they need not report back for services after July 1. When he assumes his duties, it will be with an entirely new staff of employees, even the minor clerks and messengers having been notified of their discharge. There is no one from Plymouth connected with the state department of public instruction, but the majority of employees have been associated with the department over a long period of years.

The fifth annual reunion of the Hood school district No. 2, fr. Lyon township, Oakland County, is to be held Saturday, June 17, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Wilkinson, formerly the Charles Wilkinson farm. The Wilkinson home is located on the corner of the Baseline and Ann Arbor roads. All former teachers and pupils are invited and requested to bring their own sandwiches, silverware and one other dish. A fine program has been prepared to follow the twelve o'clock potluck dinner and business meeting.

TWO CLASSES HOLD BANQUET

Junior-Senior Event At Mayflower Proves Delightful Affair

The members of the Junior and Senior classes gathered in the lovely Crystal dining room of the Hotel Mayflower last Friday night for the annual Junior-Senior banquet. The tables were beautifully decorated with alternating blue and pink tapers in certain colors and numerous bowls of spring flowers.

The toastmaster for the occasion was Coralline Rathburn, a member of the Junior class, who introduced the speakers of the evening. Coralline presided and introduced the speakers and then brought back to many of the memory of those taken by death from the Junior and Senior classes during the past four years.

She also told under what difficulties the J-S and the banquet were planned and the untimely deaths and what the class had learned from these experiences. Coralline then introduced Daniel Carubaldi, the president of the Junior class, who, in turn, welcomed the class of '33. The next speaker of the evening was Kenneth Greer, president of the Senior class, who very cordially thanked the Junior class for the banquet.

The toastmaster then explained the theme of the program, "The Candle" after which Mr. Smith gave a toast to the board of education and the presenters of the candle and then brought back to a toast to the faculty representing the mould. Next, the Girls' Double Quartette sang "In Old Madrid" and "The Kerry Danvers." Miriam Julliffe followed this with a speech in which she compared the wax to the candle and the high school education to the later life. The wick of the candle representing the Junior class was given by Irene Humphries and the program was completed by Evelyn Korabacher, who explained the meaning of the candle representing the Senior class.

Proceeding the dancing the group sang "A Senior Farewell" led by the Junior members of the Girls' Double Quartette.

Members of the Rotary club deflected members of the local Kiwanis club in a game of softball at Riverside park last Tuesday afternoon. The game the first this season between the two teams proved to be a close one and the game ended Rotary club 25, Kiwanis club 21 according to the official score keeper C. H. Bennett. This is the first of a series of games that will take place throughout the summer months. Both clubs expect to have their regular teams in condition for the next game which will be played sometime within the next two weeks.

A BIG JOB POORLY DONE

The legislature has about finished its session and will now return home to tell the voters all about it. No, not exactly that—they are going to answer a lot of embarrassing questions and they are going to do a lot of explaining. They are going to try and tell the voters why some of the trials and tribulations of the people of Michigan were not properly cared for, why some of the tremendous tax burden was not removed, why some effort was not made to reduce the cost of the state government back to somewhere near what the figures were seven or eight years ago. They are going to try and explain a lot of things that SHOULD be explained.

True, not all the members of the legislature will have this explaining to do, because there were many, many senators and representatives who were interested in something else besides vicious dog racing bills and small loan lobbyists. What a shame that a legislature that had an opportunity to help the people of Michigan and thereby make history for the state and add honor to the names of legislative members, failed completely to do what was expected of them. Lack of leadership, a leadership that the state has sorely needed for five or six years. Is about the only answer to such a miserable failure as the 1933 regular session of the state legislature has been—a failure that has characterized most Michigan legislative sessions during recent years. May be the voters will soon realize that this state needs more than anything else a forceful, energetic mental giant at its helm.

OFF TO A NEW START

Supply conditions are changing rapidly these days. It is difficult to keep up with the trend of affairs at times, difficult to know all about the changes that are taking place from day to day. All we know is that an effort is being made to make things better, to make life more worth living. In this we know that success is being attained. We cannot help but firmly believe that better times and better conditions are on the way.

We do not have to go outside our own progressive little city to observe the truth of these things. Hardly a person has escaped some effects of the changes we are going through.

It is but natural with all of the upsets we have endured, with all the disappointments that changing times have brought to us, we sometimes feel a little disturbed, feel as though possibly there had been an injustice done somewhere along the line. And it is natural to blame some one.

But have you ever noticed that when the sun shines a bit brighter, when things are a bit easier and the future doesn't look so dark after all, we forget most of our bitterness, that we are more inclined to let bygones be bygones? Just as sure as night follows day, this is true. And just as there is a future, we know that as time goes on and some of our perplexing problems are ended, we will all have a much more tolerant feeling—we will again be willing to join hand in hand in putting over the big things, the important things, that mean so much in the happiness of all.

GOOD ADVICE

Former Governor Chase Osborn was the speaker at the graduating exercises of Breman college at Gainesville, Georgia the other day. The former governor, always a keen student of affairs, gave to the graduates a bit of sound advice. In part he said:

"Sweet potatoes and black-eyed peas and cane syrup and cornbread and greens from one's own garden, and milk from one's own cows, are still as tasteful and as nourishing as food ever was. Labor still can produce them. There is life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness still to be had on thousands upon thousands of acres in the United States. It remains entirely possible for every man or woman to be comfortable and happy in this country if they know enough to spend a little less than they earn."

"It became epidemic for some to despise work of the hands and desire professional careers. It began to be considered more honorable to be a poor doctor or a shyster lawyer or a slipshod teacher than to be a first-class carpenter or a successful farmer. I have never understood why it has been interpreted as a curse that men shall earn their bread by the sweat of the brow. There is work—some place, somehow for every life hand. It may require a geographic redistribution, a backing out of the maelstroms of the cities into the poetry and plenty of the country. There is nothing the matter with the world. What is wrong with the people on the earth at this moment is the result of living beyond their means, for purposes of war or pleasure. If great numbers of people in America no longer are to make a living in the cities that is no catastrophe. The country shall come into its own again, that is all.

"Perhaps the painful lesson of the last years shall have been worth while. Maybe men will not soon again mortgage their homes and their farms to buy cars and join golf clubs when rambling in the woods and hunting and fishing costs less and is a thousand times as enjoyable, improving and healthful."

UNAFRAID

Senator Francis Kulp of Battle Creek, a Democrat, has been one of the majority party in Lansing unafraid to let the public know just how he feels about many of the unsolved problems of the legislature has sidestepped. He has been unafraid to tell the leaders of his own party what is what. Because a recent statement he made applies so correctly to conditions as they will be when the legislature completes its work in the next few days, the statement is in itself a good editorial. It follows:

"The fiscal year for the State of Michigan will end on June 30th. This means that the State until that date is operating under the appropriations made and taxes levied by the State Legislature that was in session in 1931. These appropriations and taxes came into existence under Governor Brucker's administration."

"On January 2, 1933 there was an overdraft in the State Treasury of $8,000,000. There was also unpaid bills to the Counties for care of T. B. patients and road maintenance. The overdraft now is over $10,000,000. If the bills that the State owes are all paid by June 30th the overdraft will be around $18,000,000."

"I do not wish to convey the thought that the Legislature of 1931 is to blame. The continuation of hard times made it impossible for the owners of real estate to pay their taxes for 1930 and 1931. If these taxes were paid, the overdraft would be wiped out."

"Real estate which represents twenty-five per cent of the Nation's wealth was paying eighty per cent of the taxes. This was unfair, and was a burden that real estate could not bear. The people revolted and adopted the fifteen mill amendment to our state constitution. The present legislature after much thought waived any real estate tax for state expenses, except for the University and Michigan State. This means that the present legislature must levy new taxes to wipe out the $18,000,000 overdraft, furnish $15,000,000 for the schools, $12,000,000 for state expenses. These have been reduced over $9,000,000 by the present legislature and such amount as will be needed for welfare work."

"This is the problem that the legislature must solve. Real estate tax for this purpose has been waived. The legislature must find new sources of revenue. The beer bill will produce a little, but it is not even a good start on the amount required."

"The problem is to levy taxes that will produce and do the least harm. If the taxes are not levied, the state will cease to function on July 1, 1933."

"The rule of just taxation rests upon the ability to pay. In times we now live under, the new rule is to tax everybody but me. When the legislature considers a tax, those who must pay come to Lansing to protest. They have representatives on the grounds to throw monkey wrenches. This causes confusion and makes the job of the legislature harder."

"The fact remains that taxes must be levied or the state government ceases to function. The members of the legislature are on the spot. They cannot escape. They must do their duty."

"It is very easy for the Governor on returning from his fishing trip to jump on the legislature and demand that the sales tax that his experts (3) submitted be passed at once. He seems to forget that when he turned this bill over to the tax committees of the senate and house that he said, 'I am now turning over this mess to you.' He certainly told the truth that time."

"Our forefathers wisely divided our government into three branches, executive, legislative, and judicial. Each had its duty to perform. It is the duty of the legislature to levy the tax and make appropriations. This is its function. The members must perform their duty. They must accept responsibility. The trouble is that in the past twenty years the executive branch has usurped the powers of the legislature. The executive has dictated to the law making body until some people now look to the executive to dictate. For me, I am of the old fashioned thought. Each branch of government responsible for certain duties and independent of the others."

AID TO GOOD GOVERNMENT

Publicity is an aid to good government, says James P. McDonnell, vice president of the Minnesota Taxpayers association. Following are extracts taken from a recent address:

"People must rely on the printed page to enlighten them of the material transactions, financial and otherwise, of our representatives in public life today."

Rambling Around With Michigan Editors

A POWDER MAGAZINE

How long before Jackson prison is the scene of a riot or wholesale delivery? That's what several penologists are asking among themselves. They are certain that Jackson is due for an outbreak unless immediate remedies are effected.

Guards and principal officers of years of experience are being discharged at the prison to make way for political appointees. The prisoners are dizzy from the panorama of changing faces. New officers are being created daily and the majority of them are being passed out to Detroit Jews. It is said. The same report says that if the number of Jew appointees increases further that pork will be banned from the prison diet and that Jewish holidays will be observed by the entire prison.

Prisoners are in a mental ferment over prison changes. Men sentenced for the most serious crimes are getting sudden releases. A total of 1400 have passed through the parole mill since January 1, it is claimed. Prisoners are gossiping over "fixers" close to the door for certain payments can effect paroles and pardons. Certain it is that relatives and friends of convicts have been frequently approached by racketeers who claim influence with the powers that be. State parole officials declare the rumors are without foundation but they still persist.

Legislative proposals that the fourth offender clause in the prison code be cancelled are being eagerly watched. And if those hardened offenders are disappointed in the outcome they will be desperate indeed.

There is unrest and excitement at Jackson prison penologists assert. They claim that the prisoners are wondering if the new deal is a savior deal. Some of them hope it is. Honest citizens hope that it is. A. J. Brown in The Ingham County News.

WHO "BROKE" OUR BANKS

Alex J. Groesbeck, former Governor of Michigan, states that Michigan banks were "ruined" by federal agents—especially by officials of the Seventh Federal Reserve Bank District, headquarters in Chicago. Just as the treaty of Versailles sought to make Germany pay for ALL the World War, so do certain government agencies seem to want to make Michigan's millions of trusting bank depositors "pay" for a large portion of the lousy financial looting that has been going on in the United States since the War.

Please do not gain the impression that every government official is either crooked or inefficient. On the contrary, most of them are quite capable and try to do what is right; but, just as only one bad apple can spoil a whole barrelful, so can a few (damn) fools in the government service spoil a large portion of the otherwise helpful service that government can render. George Averill in The Birmingham Evening Post.

THE RESPONSIBILITY

We have known during the last two years how Chicago teachers have pawned their furniture, jewelry and even their clothing for money to buy food. We have read recently of the throngs of teachers who stormed the downtown Chicago banks. There have been Chicago teachers who have committed suicide because of their plight. They are unable longer to hear up under their destitute conditions.

It may be well for Michigan people to remember that this condition was brought about by the non-payment of taxes. There is no excuse for it in Chicago. There is an excuse for anything that approaches it in Michigan. More than one thoughtful and experienced member of the Legislature and veteran observers say that Michigan is on the verge of financial breakdown. It is hard to realize. It is difficult to believe. Yet facts and figures bear out the assertion.

Too many people and too many would-be statesmen are laboring under the obsession that government is made to support the people. This is not so. It never was so. Government cannot long support any considerable part of the people. People must support themselves.—S. L. Marshall in Clinton County Republican News.

BEFORE THE ELECTION

Before the last election Governor William A. Comstock assured the people of Michigan that he would rid the state of the property tax altogether. But now we are to have a fifteen mill property tax and a sales tax to produce over twice as much in taxes as the property tax heretofore amounted to. That is sure going some! Instead of reducing the taxes it is doubling them—that is all the difference!—Frank Bryce in The Grand Lodge Independent.

Wirt Lee has purchased a lot on Sutton street from C. N. Butterfield and expects to build a house there on in the near future.

Plymouth people are growling because they think the tax rate is too high. The rate last year was 10 mills. The village of Milford has a rate of 16 mills this year, now what do you think of that?

Mrs. Sewell Bennett while at her farm in Canton township Monday was struck on the head by a falling pulley that dropped from a windmill. Dr. Patterson dressed the cut that was over three inches long. He pronounced the injury as a rather serious one.

It is understood that the D. U. R. will establish a freight station here next to P. W. Voorhies' office. Peter DeKor for many years a motorman on the road is circulating

The graduating class this year numbers the largest in the history of the school. 35. Following comprises the class of '38: Maxwell Mason, president; Eugene Spencer, vice president; Bertha Beale, secretary; Ethel Southerman, treasurer; Bertha Farrand, Clara Rathburn, Myrtle Walker, Florence Lee, Nina Shuart, Bessie Hood, Bessie Olshaver, Marion Salisbury, Virginia Thompson, Nina Truesdell and Nina Sherman.

WHAT IS WRONG?

What is really wrong? Well, just remember that government reflects the people who constitute it, who support it; then no longer wonder why there has come a national collapse of nearly everything except for selfishness and greed and desire for power that has caused this collapse. The day is at hand when man must turn his efforts to the conquest of himself, if he would survive for man's greatest dangers.

no longer are the wild beasts, the forests, famine or pestilence: man's greatest danger is the enemy of selfishness, greed and desire for power that must be eliminated from his thoughts. This even partially accomplishes and the world will become a veritable Utopia.—George R. Averill in The Birmingham Evening Post.

LOW PRICE CARS VS. CHEAP CARS

We do not build a low-price car: the cost to us of building our car is pretty high.

But we do sell a high quality car at a low price.

Almost every new Ford V-8 car we have built so far this year, has cost more to manufacture than its selling price was. As you buy them at only $490 to $610, we have to depend on increasing volume to make up the difference.

The reason for this is simple:— a manufacturer who gives good value must expect to lose money on the first cars he sells because he cannot charge all his costs to the people who are first to buy.

But with the purchaser it is different — he cannot afford to lose anything on a car. It must give him full value from the first, and keep on giving him full value for years.

Two things make possible our combination of low prices and high cost quality:

1. Volume Production
2. Taking only one profit

First, we set our price at what would be fair to the public on the basis of economies we enjoy in volume production. Then, in order to justify and maintain our low price we must get volume sales.

Thus it comes that a car which is really high-cost to make, is also low-cost to buy.

There is a difference between a cheap car and a low-priced high quality car.

Ford prices are always fixed at a point which makes it profitable for a customer to buy.

Good and lasting business must produce profit to the buyer as well as to the seller. And of the two, the buyer's profit must be, comparatively, the larger one.

It pays us to sell the Ford V-8 because it pays you to buy it.

Nearly 10,000 Michigan Farmers Have Already Made Application For Farm Mortgage Loans Offered by Government

Those 9,827 Michigan farmers who have already obtained farm loans through the St. Paul Federal Land Bank will save $270,000 dollars through a decrease in interest rates made by the Farm Adjustment Act, and the Act opens new financial doors to thousands of other State farmers who wish to refinance their present mortgages...

There are many senators and many representatives who have really and sincerely tried to do something for the good of Michigan—but seemingly it has been impossible for them to get anything done...

The first group are those farmers whose mortgages are due or which contain a clause permitting their payment at any time. The Federal Land Bank will make loans to refinance these mortgages...

A Michigan farm of 80 acres which is worth $90 an acre for the bare land and upon which there is a set of buildings which would cost $3,000 to replace would be security for a first mortgage loan of $3,000...

Federal Land Bank loans to Michigan farmers in the second group would be made to those farmers who have had mortgages foreclosed or which are about to be foreclosed...

In this second class of loans, it may be necessary for the farmer to persuade his creditors to pool their claims and accept their proper proportion of the loan granted by the Land Bank...

Holders of farm mortgages may act on their own initiative in changing their Michigan mortgages for Federal Land Bank loans...

If the unpaid balance of the mortgage offered by its holder is less than the amount which the Federal Land Bank would loan directly upon the farm, the bonds will be exchanged for its balance due on the mortgage...

The owner of the farm concerned in the mortgage for which bonds were traded would get the benefit of reduced interest rates in cases where bonds and mortgage were traded at face value...

Applications for loans from the St. Paul Land Bank are piling up rapidly. It will be impossible for all loans to be made at once...

Michigan farmers should make applications to the secretary of the local Federal Farm Loan Association in their county or to the Federal Land Bank in the farm or whose farm was involved...

Ralph Carr is the county agent for Wayne county and farmers interested in this loan can write him at Dearborn, Michigan.

Jan Jose Rodriguez a veteran soldier who served in the Paraguayan war of 1865, died recently at Buenos Aires on his one hundred and eleventh birthday anniversary...

FISHERMEN LOOK OUT! STATE AGAIN CHANGES LAW ABOUT FISHING

Plymouth fishermen look out! Michigan's rapid change legislation which does one thing today and something different tomorrow, has "pulled" another fast one...

Even though it passed a general fishing license law some weeks ago, which has been signed by the governor and which would not under the ordinary rules of legislation become effective until ninety days after the adjournment of the legislature...

The conservation department has announced that it will not enforce the new rod license until the opening of the bass season on June 25—but if you want to fish then, just walk over to some place and deposit a fifty cent piece with the state...

The conservation department has sent the Plymouth Mail the following statement about the sudden change in the law that has just been made:

The Michigan State Legislature has given immediate effect to the General Rod License. This action, coming after the signing of the law by the Governor, was based upon an opinion of the Attorney General...

However, according to Director George R. Hogarth, it will take several days to get the license forms in the hands of the Department's 1,600 dealers and it will be some time before the new requirements will become generally known...

The Department intends to be as considerate as possible," Director Hogarth said, "but we expect that everyone will have purchased his or her license before the fishing season opens in earnest June 25th. We consider this policy only fair since in spite of much publicity it will take several weeks to have the new provisions of this law generally familiar to the hundreds of thousands of fishermen in this state."

Under the General Rod License law now in effect all residents of the state over 18 years of age are required to buy a license costing 50 cents and good for the calendar year, to fish in the inland waters for any species in the manner and seasons provided by law...

All trout licenses purchased this year may also be used as a general fishing license, and holders of these licenses do not need to obtain any additional permit to fish for any species during the year 1933.

The owners, lessees or occupants of any enclosed land or any member of their family actually living there may fish without a license from waters wholly within the limits of the land at any time during the open seasons...

All non-residents are now being charged the new rate for fishing in Michigan's inland waters. No license is necessary for either residents or non-residents for fishing in Great Lakes waters adjoining this state.

A non-resident is classified as anyone who has not resided in the state for six consecutive months immediately preceding his application for a fishing license. The fee for a non-resident annual fishing license is $2 but the wife of such a license holder may obtain a similar license for 50 cents by exhibiting her husband's unexpired license...

SUMMER OUTING OF EDITORS JUNE 22, 23, 24

For three days, June 22, 23 and 24, Michigan weekly editors and their families are going to enjoy their annual summer outing at Frankfort, one of the beautiful little northern Michigan communities that lies on the shores of Lake Michigan. Not only are they going to enjoy the hospitality of this ideal community but the Lechuan peninsula and its interesting places are to be visited by the editors.

Andrew Peterson, publisher of the Benzie County Patriot, the Rotary club of Frankfort and other citizens of that community, have made plans for a most interesting time for their visitors.

The editors and their families will be guests at a banquet Thursday evening, June 22, Village Restaurant E. K. Leuchte of Frankfort, also a member of the Democratic state central committee, will welcome the visitors. M. W. McClure, publisher of the Chelsea Standard and chairman of the summer outing committee, will make the response at the banquet in behalf of the editors.

Schuyler Marshall, publisher of the St. Johns Republican-News, will be hostmaster. The rest of the program promises to be a real thrille. Senator Leon Case, publisher of the Waterford Record and Democratic floor leader of the state senate, will tell of the work of the present session of the state legislature from a Democratic standpoint. Vernon J. Brown, publisher of the Ingham County News, president of the Michigan Press Association and Republican leader in the house, will discuss the work of the present legislature from a Republican standpoint.

The hostmaster has announced that there will be no draw to this battle and that the speakers will have all the time they desire and can say anything they desire, providing of course, it is all within the law.

The next day there will be golf tournaments, fishing, boating, swimming and a trip through the beautiful Lechuan peninsula. A lake trip on one of the big Pere Marquette car ferries with the Frankfort school band providing the music is also scheduled.

The three days is so filled with interesting affairs that the prospects are the attendance this year will be one of the largest during the many years that weekly newspaper editors started the practice of joining in one big gala event sometime during the summer months.

These Nine Faithful Hens Make a Record

Every one is pretty surely convinced at present that Plymouth hens are working overtime these days in an effort to see which flock can pile up the biggest number of eggs within a given period.

Maybe this egg record is not a record-breaker, but it is an excellent one for nine hard-working white leghorns and white rocks to produce, declares Mrs. Sarah Spaulding of 136 Union street, who brought the day-to-day record to the Plymouth Mail office this week for examination.

These faithful nine hens in March produced 170 eggs, in April 147 and in May the total went to 162.

Plan Air Races Late in July

John S. Haggerty, chairman of the board of Wayne county road commissioners, announces that the Wayne county airport is sponsoring some air races for Detroit on July 28, 29, and 30, 1933.

Edward N. Hines and Michael J. O'Brien are the other members of the commission who, together with the cooperation of the Aircraft Bureau of the Detroit Board of Commerce, are sponsoring these races; and with the many crack pilots of the country already under contract, the races will be on a scale with the National Air Races of previous years.

The Wayne county airport intends to sponsor such races each year, and the entire revenue it thus derives will go toward the operating expenses of the airport.

Mail robbers slugged a letter addressed to the chief of police of Tyler, Tex. The letter, apparently untouched, was delivered to Chief J. J. Ray nine months after it had been mailed at Cleburne, in West Texas, with the post office notation, "Delayed and damaged due to mail robbery."

The last venture to be launched on the waters of the Lake of the Ozarks, near Versailles, Mo., is a floating grocery store. The store is a craft 15 feet wide and 60 feet long which has been converted into a business place. It makes stops at the principal resorts along the lake shore.

There is no need of a watch dog on George Stange's chicken ranch, near San Francisco. "Barney," pride of the leghorn flock, takes the place of a canine guard. The rooster awakened Stange one night with an alarm of lousy crows. A few minutes later Earl Holman and Peter J. Kilne were arrested and confessed an attempt to steal some chickens.

June Weddings Are Many in Plymouth

More than forty close friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mortiz Landuendin on Irvin street Saturday evening for the reception tendered by them to their daughter, Nellie Margery. At this time her marriage to Vern Perkins of Plymouth, which took place in Grand Rapids Saturday evening, December 24, 1932, with the Reverend Moulton of that city officiating, was announced. The bride and groom received the congratulations of those present before the fireplace lanked with palm and white peonies after which dancing was enjoyed with music being played by Rihar's orchestra of this city.

Later a most delicious supper was served, the main feature being the beautiful tiered wedding cake made by the bride's father.

The young couple left for Commerce Lake following the reception and will reside there in the future. Their many friends wish them every happiness in their wedded life.

Guests were present from Windsor, Ontario, Ann Arbor, Dearborn, Detroit, Adrian, Commerce Lake and Plymouth.

On Thursday evening, June 1, between thirty-five and forty friends of Miss Nellie Landuendin attended a "miscellaneous" shower given in her honor in the Odd Fellows hall by Mrs. Roy Wheeler, Mrs. Ed Hulson, Mrs. Lynn Watts and Mrs. Irene Broegman. It was a complete surprise to the honoree who knew nothing of it until she was all about until the table with the many, many gifts was uncovered.

Cards were the entertainment of the evening with a buffet luncheon being served after and the guests left at a late hour with best wishes to the guest of honor for a bright and successful future.

On Wednesday afternoon, June 7, Miss Wanda Bakhaus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bakhaus, of southwest Plymouth, and Flander Schaffer were united in holy wedlock at the St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran church on Spring street. Rev. Edgar Hoenecke read the ring service at four o'clock before a large gathering of relatives and friends.

The bride was attractive in a gown of white embroidered organza and wore a corsage bouquet of small roses of pastel shades. In the bridal party were Miss Lydia Schenabel of Dearborn and Mrs. Herman Balmann of Plymouth, maid of honor and bridesmaid, who were attired in frocks of white with corsage bouquets, and Charles Schaffer who attended his brother as best man.

A reception was held at the Bakhaus home on Warren road following the ceremony and a luncheon dinner was served to about forty guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Schaffer left for an extended trip through the northern part of the state and upon their return will make their home east of Plymouth.

In the spacious living room, against a background of ferns, and tall baskets of peonies and roses, the Rev. Tully of the First Baptist church of Wixom, read the ceremony uniting Miss Edith Irene Cash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cash of New Hudson, to Stanley Potts, son of Mrs. Mae Potts of South Lyon Saturday afternoon at three o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kinn of Wixom, friends of the bride's family.

Little Miss Charlotte Ann, five year old sister of the bride, carried a basket of roses, lily and sweet williams which she strewed in the path of the bride as they left the parental home for the scene of the wedding.

The groom had as his best man, Robert Cash, brother of the bride, and was also attended by Douglas Cook, a close friend.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the dining room of the Kinn home for the immediate family. The table was prettily decorated with American Beauty roses and painted daisies.

The Galloway is one of the oldest, sturdiest and most individual cattle breeds, originating in Scotland. It is so old in years that, aside from the generally admitted wild white cattle ancestry, little is known of the strains which formed its foundation. Some authorities say it is a polled strain of the West Highland breed. The name is derived from a district in southwestern Scotland, where the first herds were developed. Present-day animals are mostly polled and of a black color, although among cattle in native haunts some loose scurs occur, and some brownish or dun colors will appear. White markings are common even on the underline, due to wild white cattle blood. The hide is thick, but mellow, and is covered with a profusion of long, silky hair which has a mossy undercoat. Galloway beef is considered of extra good quality, the flesh is marbled, much like Angus beef, and is well distributed over the frame. The breed was first introduced into North America about 1850 by farmers living close to Toronto. By a fire in 1851 much of early-day records and breed history were destroyed. The first separate herd-book was published by the Galloway Cattle society of Great Britain in 1878.—Indianapolis News.

Stevenson's Prayer Robert Louis Stevenson's prayer, which appears on the memorial to him in St. Giles' church, Edinburgh, is as follows: "Give us grace and strength to persevere. Give us courage and gaiety and the quiet mind. Spare to us our friends and soften to us our enemies. Bless us, if it may be in all our innocent endeavors. If it may not, give us the strength to encounter that which is to come, that we may be brave in peril, constant in tribulation, temperate in wrath, and in all changes of fortune, and down to the gates of death, loyal and loving to one another."

Statesman's Reading Among the books which Lord Cromer read often, and with the greatest degree of satisfaction, were the Book of Job, the first six and the tenth books of the Bible, the tenth satire of Juvenal, "Tristram Shandy" the "Pickwick Papers," "Soapy Spange's Sporting Tour," the funeral oration of Pericles given by Thucydides, which he thought the perfection of oratory, and "Lycidas," which appealed to him as a masterpiece of melodious verse.—From "Lord Cromer," by the Marquis of Zettland.

Charming Welsh Valley Knighton is a charming little town in the Teme in the Welsh borderland of Shropshire. The surrounding hills have the dignity of mountains and provide many fine views. For the lover of antiquity, the naturalist and the angler, the district has many attractions. The great Caractacus waged many battles here and his earthworks still may be seen. There also is a ruin of a fortress at Hopton castle dating from the time of Edward the First.

Central Indians Win Championship Of Grade Schools

The Central Indians, under the leadership of Captain Hitt, last Saturday defeated the Starkweather Red Sox under the leadership of Captain Passage and thereby won the grade school championship.

Each team reported to Coach Matheson, along with a good following of rooters, confident that when the game was over their school would be the winner.

Last year the Starkweather grade school team defeated the Central grade team and was again ready to win from the Indians, who were still feeling the sting of last year's defeat.

Starkweather, feeling that it had been done an injustice in the first inning, came back in the second, and by mixing three hits with an error and a walk, producing four runs to go into the lead.

The game was close until the fifth and sixth innings when the Indians cut loose and scored five more runs.

With the bases loaded and two out, Olson, catcher for the Red Sox, tried hard to tie the score with two vicious swings but was out on the next pitch when he knocked an easy roller to the pitcher.

"Wait till next year and we'll show you," said Starkweather.

She Might Have Explained

By ALICE DUANE

WHEN Mrs. Hanford managed to get Terry alone in their tiny stateroom, crowded almost to overflowing with handbags, cameras, golf bags, magazines, boxes of candy, flowers and books, she looked at her daughter intently and suggested firmly that she had on altogether too much rouge. "You know your father and I don't object to a little, but you look positively theatrical."

Terry assured her mother that her face was rougeless and rubbed the flawless skin of her pretty cheeks with her handkerchief to prove her innocence.

"Then you must have a fever," decided Mrs. Hanford.

"Just excitement—Terry told her and dear Mrs. Hanford believed that the excitement was due entirely to the fact that now after all these years of anticipation they were finally going abroad. Not just going for a few summer months, but for over a year of gorgeous adventure, made possible by the fact that Terry's first year out of college coincided with Professor Hanford's year's leave of absence.

And as they hurried out of the stateroom to rejoin their friends who had come to see them off, Mrs. Hanford reflected that among all the good people who had come to wish them a "bon voyage" not one had come on Terry's invitation.

"I'm sorry," she told her daughter, "you didn't have some of your own friends here."

"Oh, well," said Terry, "you know father doesn't like to have young people around very much, and there's hardly anyone here in the city anyway."

"But you expected Bob Taylor—didn't you?" Bob Taylor was one of Terry's friends of whom her parents entirely approved.

Terry was about to explain away her disappointment at Bob Taylor's nonappearance when they reached the deck and found the young man in question in the circle assembled round the beaming professor. Seeing Terry, he broke away, greeted Mrs. Hanford and accepted Terry's invitation to make a tour of inspection.

"We'll be back—soon," she called back. "There's half an hour more before people have to go ashore."

Terry hurried Bob to a secluded corner of the writing room. "Something rather terrible has happened," she told him. "I left my passport and ticket at the hotel. I wouldn't dare tell father. He'd be furious. But if I take a taxi I can go to the hotel and get back."

Bob insisted at first on going with her but yielded to her second plan.

"I'll have to go at once. You stay here and explain. Tell them everything will be all right. And if it comes time for visitors to go ashore, you come ashore and wait for me. Don't let them come ashore, whatever else you do. Tell them you'll arrange to get me at the last minute."

Once on the dock Terry sped with all haste back toward West street. Bob made some unsuccessful attempts to explain to the Hanfords who were too absorbed in their friends to think much about their daughter. It was not until the first signal for visitors to go ashore that Bob managed to make them understand.

An hour later Bob watched the last glimpse of the liner going down the bay. And then quietly, from somewhere, appeared Terry, looking entirely serene and unharmed.

"Here I am," she told him. "But don't do anything about it till I explain."

"But maybe we can charter a tugboat or something," he said. "I promised them I'd—and it's all right about your passport and ticket. Your father had them all the time."

"Of course he did," Terry told him. "I didn't go to the hotel. I just stood out on West street until the boat had gone. It was just out of the question any way you put it. Father's a dear and I admire him, but being together, morning, noon and night for over a year would be unthinkable."

"Well, of course I'm glad, Terry—that is, I couldn't endure the thought of not seeing you for so long, and I wouldn't be able to get over even next summer—but what are you going to do? I mean, you'll have to serve a wireless as soon as possible to let them know you're safe and what you are going to do—"

"Maybe you better figure that out," Terry told him. "You tell them I'm safe and everything OK and I'll write them so they'll have a letter by the time they land."

Bob drew a notebook from his pocket and scribbled with a pocket pencil. "How's that?"

"Terry's safe. We have decided to be married at once. Letter following."

Celebration for Janie

By GEORGE GROGAN

JANE RAINY looked across the lamplight living room at Janie, who sat relaxed and lovely, gazing sadly from the window at the Hudson river.

"She's beautiful," thought Jane. "I don't wonder he loves her." Jane, too, was beautiful, with the maturity of forty. She, too, looked somewhat sad.

Her husband, Clarkson, rustled his paper nervously. Tension was in the air. He gazed over the tops of his glasses at his wife and his daughter. "They're beautiful," he thought. "It's a darn shame that young whippersnapper has to spoil it all."

"Well, Janie," he said, "you're not by any chance gracing the family circle with your presence to-night, are you?"

"Daddy," she said—"and mother: I'm going over to Molly's for the evening. Bert's going to be there. But I want to tell you and mother something before I go. I'm going to marry him."

"Clarkson Halley spoke with an effort, guardedly.

"I don't like that Janie," he said. "You know that."

"Yes," she said, facing her father bravely. "I know that. You and mother don't like Bert. But I—love him."

"Oh, Janie," said her mother. "It isn't that we don't like Bert—he's a dear boy, but—"

"Father was a dear boy once—he'll outgrow that; I mean Bert will," said Janie.

Jane and Clarkson talked all evening. "I won't have it," Clarkson stormed. "I won't have it. He's just a boy. He's no more fitted to take care of Janie than—well, it just won't do."

Jane raised objections, but she really agreed with him. They couldn't think of Bert as grown up. They had known him from babyhood, just as they had Janie. "Of course, Clarkson, I suppose we ought to be glad we know him so well—know he's decent, and all that. But if it had only been Mr. Gregory."

That was the trouble, of course. They both favored another suitor for Janie's hand, a man of twenty-eight, established, charming, mature. Not Bert, twenty-two, stumbling at his first job, awkward, boyish.

They went to bed that night without seeing Janie. While they were dressing next morning they decided they must make the best of it. "It's Janie's life, of course," admitted Clarkson. "I guess we've got to make the best of it. Tell you what—I'll get your tickets for that show Janie wants to see, and we'll have dinner first at the Ritz. Tell the child to bring her boy along."

But there was no chance to tell Janie that morning of their change of heart. She had gone, before breakfast, to Molly's.

Jane tried half a dozen times to get in touch with Bert by telephone.

"Well, naturally," said Janie, when she came in at six. "I told him not to talk with you—not till I'd seen how things were. But I'm awfully sorry, mother. You and father are smart."

It was a radiant Janie who got out of the taxicab behind her father and mother at the gay hotel an hour later. But when seven-fifteen came and no Bert appeared—when seven-thirty came and they had to sit down to dinner without him, Janie wasn't so happy. She had telephoned his apartment. He wasn't in.

So the celebration of Janie's engagement wasn't very gay, after all. Her father was all contrition. It was his bungling fault, he thought.

At quarter past eight three rather subdued people stepped into a taxicab, to go to the theater. "Well, for heaven's sake," said Clarkson. A stooped, dumpy figure with a bunch of chrysanthemums which he was offering for sale, stood by his elbow. "Oh, daddy, get some. He's one of the unemployed—please."

But Clarkson took the shabby figure by the coat collar. "You poor goose," he said. The dumpy, stooped man straightened out and, under a worn coat and battered hat, emerged as Bert. "What over did you do that for?"

"I had to see Janie—she telephoned me, or somebody did, to meet her here at seven. Well, I saw you go in and couldn't get her eye. So I paid five dollars to a fellow selling flowers for his coat and hat—gave him mine—and his flowers, and I've been hanging around since then waiting for Janie to come out hoping to get a chance to speak to her disguised as a flower-seller."

"Oh, Bert," said Janie's mother, "you're such a baby. Here, get in here with us. We're glad you're going to marry Janie. We're celebrating."

Clarkson slammed the taxi door as he crowded in on the little seat across from his wife. His hand sought hers in the dark. One thing—Bert wasn't going to take their responsibility away from them: they'd have two children, now, instead of one.

SALEM FEDERATED CHURCH
Rev. Gladstone Bell of the Dixboro church will be our speaker on June 18 in the morning service at ten-thirty o'clock, as he and our pastor will exchange pulpits at that time.

The lesson for the Bible school hour at 11:45 o'clock is: "Jesus Rises From the Dead." Mark 16:1-20 and the golden text is, "He is risen." Mark 16:6.

There will be no hymn-sing on Sunday evening, as we plan to unite with the Congregational church in their missionary service at seven-thirty.

Coming Attractions At Penniman Allen

"ELMER THE GREAT"

Joe E. Brown will be seen on the screen of the Penniman Allen Theatre Saturday, June 17, in his latest First National comedy, "Elmer the Great," which is said to be the most uproariously funny of any picture he has appeared in to date.

Some of the funniest as well as most intense scenes in the picture occur during the playing of a World Series in a downpour of rain.

The plot concerns a hick town boy who develops into the champion batsman of the big league. He is also the champion eater and long-time sleeper. His cocksureness makes him the butt of innumerable jokes by other members of his team.

"THE EAGLE AND THE HAWK"

"The Eagle and The Hawk," the story of two war-time flyers who become heroes under the stimulus of their personal hatred for each other, has been booked for the Penniman Allen Theatre for Saturday, June 17. Fredrick March and Cary Grant play the featured roles, with Carole Lombard and Jack Oakie at the head of the supporting cast. The story is by John Monk Saunders, author of "Wings," and Stuart Walker directed the production.

"THE WORKING MAN"

George Arliss, beloved by theatergoers the world over, has found the perfect role in his latest picture, "The Working Man," a Warner Bros. feature which appears at the Penniman Allen Theatre Sunday and Monday, June 18 and 19.

It is a highly spiced comedy drama of American business and youthful folly in which the star appears as a short-tempered, soft-hearted champion of "big business" who steals time from his own affairs to straighten out the lives of the orphaned children of his former strongest competitor.

"THE SECRET OF MADAME BLANCHE"

The development of a woman's life through trials and hardships to a final haven of happiness provides the dramatic motif of "The Secret of Madame Blanche," new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer appearing at the Penniman Allen Theatre Wednesday, June 21, with Irene Dunne in the starring role.

"WHAT! NO BEER?"

That riotous comedy pair, Buster Keaton and Jimmy Durante, make their latest co-starring appearance on the screen at the Penniman Allen Theatre, Wednesday, June 21, in "What! No Beer?" a screaming satire on the current beer controversy. Buster and "Schmozzle," run their own brewery in this picture and consequently all the mechanism of a modern brewery was installed at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios and set in operation, including a 1,000 barrel boiler, vats and bottling machines.
