

PICK POCKETS GET HIS CASH

Exposition Visitor Found He Didn't Have Lunch Money Left

When Cass Hough hurried over to the Century of Progress last week on both business and pleasure, he didn't know that he would have to wire home for money to return on, but that is just what did happen.

The youthful representative of the Datsy Manufacturing company had made a tour of some of the exhibits during the day. As lunch time approached he found himself near an excellent place within the grounds to eat. He gave his order but as he did so he reached for his pocketbook—only to find that one of the numerous pickpockets that infest the exposition grounds had walked off with his pocketbook money and all.

His experience was somewhat different than that of T. G. Richardson of Northville who had his pocketbook stolen a few days ago in Detroit, but didn't know it until he received his pocketbook back through the mail.

Mr. Richardson in talking to a number of friends told of the theft of his money. As he got on a street car down town, he felt some one crowding him, but thought nothing of it at the time.

The next day at home he had occasion to look for his pocketbook and it could not be found. Even then he thought it had been misplaced somewhere and that it would be found.

In going to the postoffice, the Northville postmaster advised him that he had a package that required 12 cents postage. Mr. Richardson paid the postage and found it contained his pocketbook, with numerous checks and other papers but the money had been removed. Later inquiry revealed that apparently his pocketbook had been stolen as he got on the street car in Detroit, that the thief had taken out the money and dropped the pocketbook in a mail box. The postoffice department forwarded the pocketbook to the address it contained.

Mr. Richardson was advised that it is now the frequent practice of Detroit pickpockets to steal pocketbooks take out the cash and drop them in mail boxes. The postoffice department has been forwarding them to their rightful owners.

Petersburg, Florida, which will be held in Traverse City on Wednesday, July 19th, the opening day of the National Cherry Festival. The Society is composed of Michigan residents who wintered in the Florida city this year. Its picnic will be held in Traverse City, July 19, 20 and 21, at the height of the cherry harvest.

Below are the Plymouth residents who are members of the society: Mr. and Mrs. William A. Blunk, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dierick, Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Eastin, Mr. and Mrs. George Schmidt, and Wesley Smith.

Prominent Druggist of Northville Dies

News of the death of C. Ralph Horton, aged 58, for years a well known Northville druggist, was received with considerable surprise early this week by his many Plymouth friends. Mr. Horton had undergone an operation for appendicitis at Sessions hospital in Northville, but complications developed and he died Monday evening. A year ago he had suffered a slight stroke of apoplexy but he had practically recovered from this ailment. Mr. Horton was born in Northville and had spent practically his entire life there.

He was active in Masonic lodge affairs, having served as master of the blue lodge and as commander of the Northville Knights Templar.

Following the closing of the two Northville banks about two years ago he was made a member of the depositories committee that served during the reorganization of the two banks into one bank. Many from here attended the funeral.

Best Service To A City Is In A Friendly, Dignified Cooperation Says Pastor

Community progress as well as individual advancement is marked by friendly and dignified cooperation. Father Frank A. Lefevre told members of the Rotary club last Friday. In one of the best addresses the club ever heard, Father Lefevre told Rotarians how they could best serve the community in which they live.

In part he said: "Service clubs have been organized in each community under various titles, such as Rotary, Kiwanis, Exchange, Lions, etc. The membership of these organizations is comprised of men devoting their lives to some noble profession, business or work, hence the roster of these clubs are made up of professional and business men, each in turn contributing his service to the club in a dignified manner, reflecting credit to his calling in life, and thereby a citizen of great respect, giving good example not so much by word, but by deed and example. Professional and business men are schooled men, the former trained in a college or university and the latter educated in the school of experience and sacrifice. The former have an objective in view, and in order to reach the goal it is necessary to forego many pleasures, and to accept many hardships and sacrifices in order to be classed in one or the other of the many professions that we have to-day. The most important fact that is indelibly impressed upon the mind of the student, is that his call carries with it a tone of respect, a dignity, that stands out like a beacon light, and hence his conduct is governed and regulated accordingly.

"Having learned the dignity of his profession and appreciating the same, this professional man gives to his community a silent duty that reflects conduct, conscience and integrity.

"The business man too has sacrificed much in order to establish a place of business becoming the business world, he educated in the school of experience, has learned that the objective of goal in business is that each business place has received from the public a tone of dignity, and having learned this lesson he aims to keep his business dignified.

"This positive factor renders a Rotarian, a Kiwanian or any service club man, a valuable citizen to the community, and he through his standards, dignifies himself and his profession.

"Dignity in profession, dignity in business is the keynote of success. During these trying times, many professional men, and business men have found it difficult to uphold these standards of dignity on account of the judgments and criticisms offered by a restless public. True judgments and criticisms are always good, when constructive because a dignified profession and business, ever wishes to be the beacon light for generations that follow, hence if a professional man, who stands at the ethics or standards of his profession be should be criticized and judgment placed upon him, because the public demands that his profession keep its dignity.

"However, the public has been made severe in its judgments and criticisms. In a concrete example, the banking situation in Michigan has been aggravating and exasperating, and because some individuals have lost their dignity and forgotten the dignity of their call it is not right that we should class each and every banker, among those that have lost sight of the objective—dignity.

"We must remember that to err is human, and we all can and do make mistakes, and a well trained professional or business man, should ever be ready and willing to help out his erring brother in order to help him.

"The order of the day is to publish another set of rulings on the sales tax which will endeavor to clear up approximately 150 more or less uniform questions that have been presented to the tax board since the sales tax went into effect. While I don't know what all of the questions will be, I am quite certain that several of the points you raise will be covered in that anticipated report. Therefore, when similar questions are being asked of me, I am trying to evade making any definite statement now in case the tax board may overrule what we might say. I believe if you can, you should try to hold up making any statements to your merchants until we can get these further interpretations."

Mr. Moore states that he will secure a sufficient number of these rulings for local distribution just as soon as he is notified that they are available at the Detroit Board of Commerce. He asks that interested merchants keep in touch with his office.

World War Vet Is Now in Forest Army

Delbert Cummings, Plymouth's sole representative in the bonus army that marched on Washington a year ago, has now joined the government's reforestation army and is located at Camp Custer previous to being sent into the woods.

In a letter to the Plymouth Mail, Mr. Cummings states that there are now 728 ex-army men from Michigan and Indiana at Camp Custer receiving preliminary exercises and medical care before being sent into the woods.

"We are sleeping in tents on army cots, with nice clean pillows and mattresses. Each man is given three blankets. We get the best of good substantial food, such as coffee, bread, butter, meat, gravy and potatoes. We have been provided with mess kits similar to what we had when we were in the army and it is expected that our fighting will be issued to us tomorrow," he stated in his letter.

"We often find unfair methods resorted to in business, men who have no conscience and consequently will set out to put his competitor out of business—cheap business, cheap men, and a cheap following—they bloom in the morning but die at night for the general public who patronize only those that have been trained in the college, university or educated in the severe school of experience.

"The solemn duty then of each service club is that its members ever remember the dignity attached to their profession or business, rendering thereby an invaluable service to their community."

Beginning with the announcement of the Michigan Sales Tax, Berg Moore, Secretary of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, has been endeavoring to obtain information for the guidance and instruction of local merchants. He is keeping in touch with Charles E. Boyd, Secretary of the Detroit Retail Merchants Association, for his information, because Mr. Boyd was asked by the State Tax Administrator to aid in lining up Detroit and Wayne County merchants under the provisions of the act.

According to Mr. Moore, Boyd gave him the following information and advice the early part of this week: "I am somewhat reluctant to attempt to reply to your questions because during the latter part of last week, we were in frequent touch with the representatives of the tax board at Lansing and find that before the end of this week they are hoping to publish another set of rulings on the sales tax which will endeavor to clear up approximately 150 more or less uniform questions that have been presented to the tax board since the sales tax went into effect. While I don't know what all of the questions will be, I am quite certain that several of the points you raise will be covered in that anticipated report. Therefore, when similar questions are being asked of me, I am trying to evade making any definite statement now in case the tax board may overrule what we might say. I believe if you can, you should try to hold up making any statements to your merchants until we can get these further interpretations."

Mr. Moore states that he will secure a sufficient number of these rulings for local distribution just as soon as he is notified that they are available at the Detroit Board of Commerce. He asks that interested merchants keep in touch with his office.

Auto Licenses On Sale July 15

Car Owners Who Have Not Been Using Autos Benefit By Ruling

Plymouth automobile owners who have had their cars in storage because they have been unable to buy 1933 license plates, will be interested to know that Secretary Berg Moore of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce has received telegraphic instructions from Secretary of State Frank Fitzgerald to place on sale July 15 license plates for 1933 at one half price.

In past years car owners were not able to get licenses at half price until after September 1st. The order of the secretary of state will make it possible for automobile owners who have not been using their cars to get the new license plates on or after July 15 and put their cars into immediate use.

This in no way affects the ruling pertaining to the use of automobile license stickers. People who have been driving their cars during the last few months on the half price stickers, must get their new licenses before August 1st. If they do not, their cars must go off the highways. Police will strictly enforce this regulation.

In order that the Wayne County Road Commission may have sufficient filling material to widen the shoulders on Plymouth road, arrangements were made to remove the mound of earth at the entrance to the cemetery, also to lower the grade of the driveway leading from the Plymouth road into the cemetery proper.

Approximately 2000 yards of filling material was taken from this location during the month of June. This work has improved the appearance of the cemetery entrance and has eliminated the dangerous traffic condition caused by the mound to the east of the cemetery gate which obstructed the view of traffic on Plymouth road.

The July program has now started and the road commission is still in need of additional filling material. Arrangements have been made for the removal of the earth from the driveway around the mausoleum, which work is being done at the present time. The driveways are being widened to a width of 18 feet and lowered approximately 1 foot below the adjoining lots. This work will greatly improve the appearance of the cemetery and is being done in accordance with the plans of the Cemetery Board for the improvement and beautification of the grounds. The driveways will be re-travelled from stocks of gravel now available at the cemetery.

Upon the completion of the lowering of the driveways a worth several hundred dollars will have been made with very little cost to the city. This has been accomplished because of the fact that the work along Plymouth road required several thousand yards of gravel which was available at the cemetery at less cost to the county than would have been the case if a longer haul were necessary.

The men were discovered by the watchman when he noticed the light in the garage was turned off. They had entered the building by a window and turned the lights off and were on the outside trying to break the lock on the front door when Randall halted them to stop. Their answer was a volley of shots from an automatic revolver.

Paving Started On Park Thoroughfare North of Plymouth

Workmen yesterday morning started paving another stretch of the thoroughfare that is to replace the existing park system that Wayne county is building around Plymouth. The stretch that will be paved during the next few days runs from just west of Jewell's dry cleaning establishment on the Plymouth-Northville road to a point just north of the Ford Phoenix plant.

The paving for a distance of some 600 or 800 feet from the bridge over Rouge river just to the north of the city limits will be widened ten feet. The widened paving will provide a better turn into the park thoroughfare from the Plymouth-Northville road.

The completion of this bit of work will open to the public one of the most beautiful spots in Wayne county. Unless one has walked over the recent fill made for this new road, they can know but little of the natural beauty that is contained in this portion of the new park.

LEGISLATIVE REVOLT MAY UPSET GOVERNOR'S VETOES

BOYS ARE OFF TO EXPOSITION

A & P Contest Winners Will Spend Eight Days At Chicago Fair

Eight happy days at the Century of Progress are being enjoyed by Harry C. Dahmer, 1091 Starkweather avenue and Francis Douglas, 683 Harold street, Plymouth, as the result of their victory in the A & P vote contest that came to a close last week.

These two Plymouth youngsters won the contest that has for several weeks raged most energetically among the boys of the city. In neighboring Northville, William Schoultz and Charles W. Hill Jr. were the winners. James Travis of Walled Lake was the successful contestant in that place and Clinton Grover of Wayne captured first honors in his home community.

These boys, with several hundred other boys from all over Michigan cities met at the Hotel Statler in Detroit Wednesday afternoon and from there were escorted to a special Michigan Central train that carried them to Chicago and the Century of Progress exposition.

For eight full days these lads from the Wolverine state are going to enjoy one of the finest programs ever arranged for such a trip. They are going to see just as many of the exhibits and sights as can be crowded into that time, and all under the direction of trained guides who know all the interesting places of the exposition.

Sunday they will go to church, the Catholic lads being taken to St. Mary's in Chicago and the other boys going to the Temple Methodist church. There is a swim in the lake for them too in Lake Michigan during the time they are away.

Not from the minute they left the Hotel Statler in Detroit until they are returned to that place will the boys be required to spend a cent of their own money. The all-expense trip was the prize for which they worked so diligently and successfully.

County Labor Being Used To Improve Riverside Cemetery

In order that the Wayne County Road Commission may have sufficient filling material to widen the shoulders on Plymouth road, arrangements were made to remove the mound of earth at the entrance to the cemetery, also to lower the grade of the driveway leading from the Plymouth road into the cemetery proper.

Approximately 2000 yards of filling material was taken from this location during the month of June. ## Bandits Fire On School Watchman

An attempt to steal a Lincoln car from the garage at the Wayne County Training School was thwarted early Tuesday morning when night watchman H. G. Randall and two bandits exchanged a volley of shots at each other in the darkness.

The men were discovered by the watchman when he noticed the light in the garage was turned off. They had entered the building by a window and turned the lights off and were on the outside trying to break the lock on the front door when Randall halted them to stop. Their answer was a volley of shots from an automatic revolver.

Mrs. Jennie Meyers and family and Mrs. John Hendricks of Bowling Green, Ohio, were dinner guests Sunday of the former's daughter, Mrs. Fred Gallup and family at Ypsilanti.

Business Gain IS SHOWN BY P. O. RECEIPTS

Business was better in Plymouth during April, May and June of this year than it was during 1932. The one sure barometer that is regarded as the best business index in existence—postal receipts—provides this information.

Postmaster Bert Giles yesterday in checking over his reports noted the exceptional increase for these three months over the total of a year ago.

During April, May and June of 1932 the receipts at the postoffice were $6077.80. This year for the same three months the total jumped to $7344.25, an increase of $466.45.

This is the first time in many a month that postal receipts have shown an increase of any kind. In fact there has been a constant and gradual decrease for nearly two years up until the beginning of the last quarter in April.

Not only do the postoffice records show this improvement in business in Plymouth, but local retailers have for many weeks past shown a distinct upward trend. While it has not been great, the increase in local sales has been of such a nature that merchants believe they are on the way up out of the cellar.

The obnoxious sales tax law foisted on Michigan by office-grabbing politicians has proven the only detriment to business during recent weeks. Local merchants impatiently felt the public wrong against this measure. But outside the injury done to business by the Lansing office-holders, business men believe that public confidence in the future and in what is being done by President Roosevelt is materially aiding business.

Looking for an argument? To want to say something to some one to make some one else a display of bad temper? Yes! Well just mention the newly enacted sales tax in Michigan that places a tax on the food you eat, the clothing you wear, in fact, taxes everything you buy in Michigan—but taxes nothing sold in the state by mail order houses or concerns that operate outside the state boundary line.

Not only is the consumer paying this additional tax ransom, but Plymouth business men who are forced under the law to collect this tax, have found it necessary in many cases to set up an entirely new set of accounts and records.

Yes, just mention sales tax to anyone if you are seeking an argument. The new tax is popular with no one it seems.

Members of the Southeastern Association of Chiefs of Police were guests of Captain Edward Denniston last Thursday noon. Over one hundred members and friends accepted the royal hospitality afforded to all visitors at De-Ho-Co by the captain and his assistants. A dinner was served in the auditorium during which time the guests were entertained by the House of Correction quartette and the Ford singers of the Ford Motor Co.

A group of juvenile dancers and singers of Detroit provided a lively program which was followed by brief speeches by some of the members.

Visitors who had never inspected the institution were given a trip through the grounds and buildings after the meeting was over and all expressed a high opinion of the general condition of the place.

The association meets once each month as the guest of one of its members in the towns where they are located. The invitation from Captain Denniston was a pleasant surprise.

One of the largest service clubs in Michigan in many years takes place today in Plymouth—Riverside Park when all of the Exchange club members in the metropolitan district and their families join in their annual summer outing. Officials of the organization state that early indications are that the event will be the most successful one in the history of the club. Golf tournaments, contests of various kinds and a big picnic dinner at 6 o'clock feature the program.

Another group which is putting in some good times is that of those who feel the sting of insurrection which followed the legislative investigation into lobby practices at Lansing during the past winter.

Among the most active lobbies and investors in the lobby which operated in a most vicious manner was that of the small loan interests. When the lobby investigation broke, it faded out of the picture and a strange quiet pervaded but along with that came also strange undercurrents of rumor that no matter what happened the bill to the chambers it would not become a law. Now that the governor has vetoed the bill there are a number of leaders of his own party who are out to secure a sufficient number of votes on July 17 to enact the measure into law.

One of the letters which have gone out from a democratic member of the house to his colleagues is a fair sample of the others which are going about between members. This member says among other things that the bill to the administration ship during the winter session and his letter is especially interesting for this reason. He writes in part: "In the 'New Deal' at Lansing both parties cooperated in carrying out the pledges made to the people in the respective platforms. Are we now going to repudiate those solemn pledges we made or are we going to act to carry out the mandates of the voters? It is a question of principle. Shall we legislate for the classes or the masses?"

IS THIS JUDGE, JUDGE OR NOT?

Plymouth City Commission Acts In Hurry To Remedy Situation

Law rules and measuring rules in Plymouth became all tangled up during the early part of the present week and it was necessary for a special meeting of the city commission to untangle regulations, bylaws, statutes, ordinances and city ordinances.

It all came about because the voters of Plymouth decided they wanted a civil engineer to administer justice in Plymouth. They elected one of the best engineers they could find in this part of the state.

But when the time rolled around for Engineer Herald Hamill to qualify for the new position to which he had been elected, his official acceptance was not recorded as provided by a statute.

There was nothing in any of the books on engineering about this qualifying requirement, so Judge Hamill started right off to perform the duties of his new position after July 1.

Then all at once it was discovered that somewhere in some of the hundreds and hundreds of law books that govern the affairs of Michigan that there is a paragraph which says a justice must file his acceptance of the position with both the city of Plymouth and the county of Wayne, that if he does not do so but performs the duties of the office, he must remit a fee of $100 to the city and that if he desires to serve and the position is still open, the city commission must fill the vacancy by appointment.

It was for that reason that a hurried meeting of the city commission was called to appoint Mr. Hamill to the position to which he had been elected.

Meanwhile Justice Ford Brooks, the former incumbent has been elected upon to take care of some of the many legal problems before the court.

But now that all of the kinks have been taken out of the measuring chains, proper leaps and bounds prescribed, the level placed right, Plymouth's justice court is off to a new start.

Mother's Birthday Is Wedding Day For Miss Dorothy Melow

At ten o'clock on Wednesday, July 12th at the St. Peter's Lutheran church and on the occasion of her mother's birthday, Miss Dorothy Melow was united in marriage to George T. Britcher.

Miss Elizabeth Beyer played the organ during the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Edgar Hoeneske in the presence of only the immediate families of the bride and groom.

The bride was lovely in a dress of white lace and a wrist length veil. Her bridal bouquet was white roses and valley lilies. She was attended by her sisters, Elsie, who was dressed in maise organdie with blue accessories, carrying a bouquet of delphinium and yellow roses, and Marguerite, dressed in pale blue organdie with ashes of roses accessories and carrying a bouquet of delphinium and tallman roses.

The groom was attended by Donald Melow and Leslie Evans. After August 1st, Mr. and Mrs. Britcher will be at home to their friends at 225 east Ann Arbor street.

TONQUISH CREEK

A number of years ago some of Plymouth's prominent business men who have always had the good of the community at heart, started a plan to have Tonquish creek covered over for a considerable distance through the city. They started the campaign because of the fact that no matter how many orders are issued against it, the creek is used as a dumping place for refuse and during the warm weather it is about as foul a smelling place as can be found. Not only is the creek used for the disposal of refuse, but it has been stated by those in a position to know that a number of septic tanks and cess-pools overflow into the creek. Apparently this must be true because of the frightful stench that exists along the creek at times.

While surveys and estimates as to costs had been made and all preliminary steps taken a number of years ago to do away with this open sewer that flows through the heart of the city, nothing ever came of the proposal.

A few weeks ago when news came out of Washington that as a part of President Roosevelt's public works program he had authorized that communities with such a problem as Tonquish creek present to Plymouth, complete these public projects now with the aid of government funds, city officials of Plymouth and directors of the Chamber of Commerce immediately gave thought to this old project.

It was and is their idea, from all that we can learn, that if federal funds that will cover the greatest part of its cost can be secured, now would be an excellent time to have the work done. It would do away with the worst eyesore that Plymouth possesses and it would end once and for all the foul smell that comes from the creek at times during the warm summer months.

We absolutely agree with them in this idea. Those that have gone on record as in favor of this project are NOT for it, if it means any additional tax burden upon the city. The Plymouth Mail is NOT for any project that will add to the tax burden at this time of a surely pressed people, but we are wholeheartedly FOR this project if the bulk of the expense can be secured from the federal government. If the funds for all the work that the government proposes to do under this act are eventually to come from the people of the country, Plymouth might just as well get its share as to let all the money go elsewhere. We will eventually have our portion to pay anyway, so why not get what benefit might be possible to secure out of it?

Many of those who are favoring this work and believe that it should be done, are some of the largest taxpayers of Plymouth. It can be started without fear of contradiction that these men are not going to foster upon themselves or this community any unnecessary financial hardship. In fact they have no desire to assume any additional burden themselves, but they do believe from all that can be learned, that if the majority portion of this expense will be met by the government, Plymouth should not overlook the opportunity of completing this public project.

From some standpoints this project looks more like one that should come under the county program, rather than that of Plymouth alone. While Plymouth suffers the greatest from the situation, the creek in the past has been deemed a county drain, and it is this without any doubt. It is possible that we could get the county to make this a part of its public works program. If so, it would relieve Plymouth of any local burden. If there should be one in connection with the proposed work.

The city commission should look carefully into this matter. So far little or no information has been secured as to what the government will or will not do, but if there is one project worthy of consideration at this time, it is elimination of the Tonquish creek open sewer from Ann to Main street.

AN EXPENSIVE LESSON

The future of government-in-business is not so bright as it seemed awhile ago.

The people have discovered something. They have found that the only way their community can build, for example, a power plant, is to float a bond issue. They have found that this requires vast sums of additional tax money—laid on top of already onerous taxes. They have found, too, that when such technical endeavors as power plants are operated by politics, deficits customarily occur. These, as well, must be paid by the people through increased taxes.

Again, they have found that bookkeeping for a publicly owned utility, not subject to public regulation, is of a curious sort. Pleasant reports are issued, which take little or no account of overhead, depreciation, wear and tear. When the time comes for replacement of broken-down machinery, there is usually no money in the till—and the taxpayer is again called upon.

People are learning by dear experience that when government goes into business in competition with its citizens, they have lost, not gained—that such service furnished them "at cost," means generally "at cost" to their own pockets. The proponents of schemes to put government into business never put up the money. They put up the "spiel" to obliterate the taxpayer, and then they absorb tax funds through countless new jobs—Georgia Republican Revard, Chardan, Ohio.

ON THE "PREFERRED" LIST

A lot of folks down in Washington, New York and London didn't just relish the idea of having the world know that they were on the Morgan "preferred list." Now comes along Editor Chester Howell of the famous Chesaning Argus and prints right on the first page and in the first column of his newspaper that he is not only on the Morgan "preferred list," but that of a big New York bank as well. Chet acknowledges with much ado the receipt from J. Pierpont Morgan of a neatly bound book covering Mr. Morgan's testimony down in Washington when J. P. admitted he beat the government on his income tax. Whether Chet is studying the testimony with the idea of "dittling" or boasting about the fact that Mr. Morgan acknowledges him as a power to be contended with we haven't quite made up our mind.

THE BREED COUNTS

Lauding Democrats are having a great time these days firing folks who have long been employed by the state. There is no question but what many of them should be fired and their places left unfilled. But such unfortunately is not the case. When one man is fired, one or more are being hired to do the same job. One of the last fired because of "politics" was Captain Cronin, of one of the state ferries at Mackinaw. No, Captain Cronin was not a Republican. He was and is a Democrat. But his democracy is of the wrong breed, apparently. He was appointed to his job by a Republican governor and made a most efficient official. However, efficiency it appears doesn't count so much. It all depends of what breed of a Democrat you might be. If you are figuring on a state job, Warden Charles Shean of Ionia was a Democrat, but apparently Mr. Leebore didn't want him on the job, so out he went. Mr. Frensdorf was a Democrat, served four years at Jackson under Republican Albert Sleeper, Gov. Comstock hired him again, but Leebore didn't approve of him, so out he went. Democrats, in order to get a job with the state, just say and prove that you are a "Leebore Democrat" and everything will be all hunky-dory. That's the breed that counts these days if you want any favors from the state government.

FOR SHERIFF

Needless to say Wayne county outside the city of Detroit is greatly interested in the sheriff's office. There has been much to indicate in recent months that there is much dissatisfaction with the present order of things. If the Republicans are looking around for a worthwhile candidate, why not take into consideration Capt. Edward Denniston, warden of the Detroit House of Correction and one of the best known officers in Michigan? Needless to say Captain Denniston would make one of the best sheriffs Wayne ever had.

LEGISLATIVE REVOLT MAY UPSET VETOS

Last fall during the campaign a great many democratic members took decided stands on the small loan act. They promised the voters of their respective districts that they would either outlaw the periodic loan and household finance concerns or reduce the legal interest rate to not more than one per cent per month. At the conclusion of one of the hottest fights seen in a Michigan legislature in years, the interest rate was finally reduced to one and three-fourths per cent per month. The present rate is three and one-half per cent per month or 42 per cent per year. The bill as passed calls for a legal rate of 21 per cent per year. It was opposed by one of the most active and energetic lobbyists ever operating in Lansing. The governor has vetoed the bill with the explanation that he has become convinced that the small loan concerns cannot operate at 21 per cent a year. His critics are the opponents of the present act which must stand if the veto stands, retort that they are not concerned with the continued existence of the small loan companies. They point out that no working man can afford to pay so high a price for borrowed money and that the old time loan sharks and salary check grabber was forced to work in secrecy while the present law provides a cloak of respectability which the three ball artist never enjoyed. They point to high powered salesmanship as typified in newspaper and radio advertising as well as to the fact that the present law is signing away their household effects without warning as to the high interest rates charged. The small loan act is a hot member and the governor is getting a lot of panning for his veto. It is possible that thousands are lined up to upset his plans to save the iniquitous concern which prey upon the poor and the improvident of the state.

There are two other bills, somewhat companionable in their character which the governor has vetoed and for which vetoes it is difficult to discover a logical reason. In 1929 a clever ruse resulted in the passage of a bill which permits extended season and increased bag limits for members of private hunting clubs. In other words, a farmer may raise several flocks of pheasants upon his land, but if he is caught shooting one out of season, even if the birds are destroying his crops, he is subject to arrest and severe punishment. But if a so-called sportsman has money enough to own a membership in a licensed club, he is permitted to shoot both before the opening of the regular hunting season and after and may legally shoot a larger number of birds. It is the European system brought to Michigan and it has been the subject of more acrimonious discussion among hunters and sportsmen than any other measure. It was the center of a heated battle during the session of 1931 when its repeal passed the senate and was then tied up in a committee of the house which had been hand selected by the millionaire club members who had the ear of the speaker. Its repeal was easily accomplished during the 1933 session, not much opposition to its passage being in evidence. Again it is charged that the interests behind this un-American law knew that the repeal of the law was nothing to be feared as long as the governor kept his veto power. The companion bill to the foregoing is the Morley trespass bill which was designed to put more teeth in the Horton trespass law. It was asked for by southwestern Michigan fruit growers but evidently because it interferes with the privileges of the hunters the governor has seen fit to veto it.

Not only is the demand for repealment of this expensive practice going unheeded, but quite to the contrary it appears the lid is now off entirely. The democratic state central committee has provided a skilled newswriter, according to announcements made by the secretary to the governor, who will take the stuff prepared by department heads and whip it into real press agent stuff in strict Hollywood manner. The governor has also explained that this new service is intended in no way to cramp the writing style of any state official who wants to do his own press agenting.

Meanwhile the printing and mimeographing bills are piling up and the postage stamps are being consumed in mile-long strips. The taxpayer not only gets his pockets picked—he actually pays for having them picked—and for the privilege of having it done in an artistic and accomplished fashion.

Merely Propaganda
 In this connection it must be mentioned that the legitimate news regarding state affairs is covered by a staff of trained reporters maintained at the state capital by the important newspapers of Detroit and Grand Rapids, this staff being augmented by one of the best news writers in Michigan supported by a string of smaller city dailies. Added to this pretentious list are correspondents constantly on the job and looking for news in the interests of the Associated Press and the United Press agencies. What goes out from the departments is not legitimate news. It is colored propaganda and there is no excuse for it. It costs the taxpayers money to send it out but it signed to build up the political prestige of some state official or to promote the interests of some department in order to make certain of more generous appropriations. Most of it is designed to create in the public mind the idea that the Honorable Mr. Whosis is a wonderful guy, a great public official, and a friend of the dear "peepul" who by all means should be re-elected to his office or elected to some higher and more remunerative office. The commission of inquiry called attention to this growing evil and called upon the board of state auditors to clamp the lid on the practice. The statutes put this responsibility squarely at the door of this board.

What goes out from the departments is not legitimate news. It is colored propaganda and there is no excuse for it. It costs the taxpayers money to send it out but it costs the same taxpayers indirectly a whole lot more because it is sent out. The latest to succumb to the lust for propaganda is no less a personage than the director of agriculture, the Honorable Samuel T. Metzger. This week he is out with four pages of bunk in which is discussed a lot of things including the value of his department inspectors in teaching the farmer how to pack and grade his crops and how to find the highest prices for his commodities. At least Sam cannot be charged with modesty. He writes in the first person and talks of "our" and "we" as if writing to a dear friend. Incidentally it might be added that Michigan taxpayers are already digging up a lot of money for extension work at Michigan State college, most of which is along educational lines connected with agriculture. The latest venture appears like an inexcusable duplication. Nearly 40 pages of manuscript a week, devoted to the interests of the American Medical Society and presented at the expense of the University of Michigan faculty. He another newcomer to the publicity field for which the taxpayer pays. Such old offenders as the secretary of state and the department of conservation are not here mentioned except to say that they are still operating on a high production basis. The federal government started this expensive business but if Michigan keeps at it she will outpublicize the government publicists.

In four hours Bertha Deshefy, six, of Yonkers, N. Y., spent $110 of $130 in her possession. Robert Deshefy, contractor, left a roll of $130 in large bills in his house, and Bertha found it. She promptly launched forth on a spree. With most of her playmates in tow, she bought gum, candy, ice cream sodas, and food. Then they began on toys. They were changing bills for coins when police stopped in.

Though Miss Anna F. Manning has been a court stenographer in Boston for ten years, during which time she estimates that some 60,000,000 words have flowed from her flying fingers, she never has had a complaint of an error.

 A year ago when the commission of inquiry into state governmental expense set about its work one of the early discoveries made by that group of legislators was the extent to which the propagandist had gone in state affairs. It was found that several departments had had editors on the state payrolls and that huge gobs of pure bunk was being sent out to the newspapers and periodicals of Michigan. All of the so-called publicity was and is designed to build up the political prestige of some state official or to promote the interests of some department in order to make certain of more generous appropriations. # TWO BADLY HURT IN AUTO WRECKS

Both Accidents Happen Sunday Near Phoenix Lake—One Arrested

Two serious automobile accidents took place Sunday night on the Plymouth-Northville road, both happening near Phoenix lake. In one crash an Ypsilanti woman was severely injured and in the other a Northville lad was badly cut and bruised. Both accidents resulted in probable permanent disfigurements for the two injured people.

The first accident took place soon after 6 o'clock when Ubaldo Leelar, 46 years old, of Northville, crashed head-on into a car driven by Herman E. Smith of Ypsilanti. Mrs. Smith was hurled through the windshield of their car to the parking. She suffered internal injuries and a broken right arm. The fracture being at the elbow, doctors fear that the arm will always be stiff. The little Smith girl and Mr. Smith escaped with only slight bruises. Their car was badly wrecked.

Leelar was arrested by Chief of Police Vaughn Smith who was called to the accident. He was jailed on a charge of drunk and reckless driving. Leelar told Chief Smith that he never saw the Smith car, although the accident happened in broad daylight and there was nothing to obstruct his view. As unusual in such accidents, Leelar was not injured. Both cars were badly damaged.

Chief Smith after having the injured woman hurried to the Plymouth hospital where she was attended by Dr. Paul Butz, locked Leelar up in the Plymouth jail. The fellow claims to be a stock buyer, living west of Northville on the Eight mile road. The accident happened almost directly on the Phoenix lake bridge.

Leo Kohler, 18 year old Northville high school graduate, was brought to the Plymouth hospital shortly after 10 o'clock Sunday night suffering from severe cuts and bruises when he crashed into the rear end of an automobile on a motorcycle. Young Kohler was on his way to Plymouth to a show. The crash hurled him against the back of the automobile driven by Thomas Nesbitt of 2458 Eastern Place, Detroit.

In some way the motorcycle became hooked to the back of the car. Almost immediately flames broke out and the motorcycle and car were badly damaged by the fire although the crash did little damage.

There were three young people in the car with Nesbitt and when the fire started they all jumped out. In the hurry Miss Jacqueline Tjesson of Harbor Beach dropped her pocketbook. It was picked up but later recovered by Chief Vaughn Smith.

Nesbitt badly burned one hand in an effort to put out the flames. All of the party, including Kohler, were taken to the home of Mr. Darlington, who operates a popular chicken dinner eating place just north of the Pere Marquette tracks. Mr. Darlington and others at the house immediately turned their attention to the care of the injured boys.

Kohler was badly cut about the face, a part of one eyebrow being cut off. Dr. Paul Butz, who also attended the lad, ordered him brought to the Plymouth hospital. The boy said his motorcycle skidded as he started to go by the automobile.

Sunday saw the heaviest traffic of many weeks on the highways about Plymouth. Wayne county recorded three deaths and some score injured as the result of numerous crashes.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Sacrament" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, July 9.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Mark 10: 43-45): "But whosoever will be great among you, shall be your minister: And whosoever of you will be the chiefest, shall be servant of all. For even the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following (p. 31): "Obeying his precious precepts—following his demonstration so far as we apprehend it—we drink of his cup, partake of his bread, are baptized with his purity; and at last we shall rest, sit down with him, in a full understanding of the divine Principle which triumphs over death."

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Loyla Sutherland, Minister.

10:00 a. m. "Christ's unfailing supply for those who have fallen."

The Christ met a group of discouraged men in the grey of the morning, they confessed a fruitless night of toil. The manner in which He dealt with them has tremendous weight for us of this hour. He sent them back to the same conditions and with the same personalities, but to never know such failure again. Come and find help for your discouraged soul. If you be discouraged, both Junior and adult choirs will sing.

11:15 Bible school. A fine increase in attendance. In fact the largest since the coming of the present pastor. It is indeed wholesome to see such interest in the study of God's Book. Find your place in some Bible School next Sunday.

7:30 "Seeing the Mob as Christ Saw It." Our poets see beauty in mountains, hills, brooks and flowers but Christ could see music in a mob. One day the Divine Poet looked upon a multitude and likened them to sheep without a shepherd, and to a field of golden corn. Our consideration was as to whether or not we deal with each other as He dealt with others. Come and join in music that will lift you to higher levels.

Mid-week service on Wednesday evening at 7:30. On Sunday night, the 23rd, another great Gospel service conducted by a group of workers from the Temple Baptist church of Detroit. Don't miss this service. Our Junior choir will have entire charge of the service on the 30th of July. A full program will appear later.

The July meeting of the Ready Service class will be held at the beautiful summer home of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Schrader at Island Lake. Mrs. Schrader, Mrs. J. W. Henderson, Mrs. C. H. Rauch and Mrs. W. ## CHURCH OF THE OPEN DOOR

(Independent Baptist)

184 N. Main St.

Richard Neale, Pastor

"I have set before thee an open door," Revelation 3:8.

You are cordially invited to attend any or all of our services. See complete list of our services below.

Last Sunday we were privileged to hear two wonderful, heartsearching messages given by Rev. Edward Vander Jagt, an evangelist, and Bible teacher from Grand Rapids.

"The Druggist," was the theme for his morning message. He took his text from Ecclesiastes 10:11: "Dead flies cause the ointment of the apothecary to send forth a stinking savor."

In the evening the entire family took part in the service. The Edward Vander Jagt family, consisting of Edward Vander Jagt, Evangelist; Mrs. Vander Jagt, accompanist; Adriana, first soloist, and soprano singer; Eileen, viola and alto singer; Edna, second violin and alto singer, and Marie, first violin and soprano singer, and last, though not least, Betty Mae, soloist. Christ and Him Crucified, "Raised and Glorified" is preached in every meeting—safe, sane, and sound preaching and no hobbles. Folks come from far and near to hear this consecrated family and this opportunity is taken to preach Christ to those who would ordinarily not come to the meetings. This remarkable family will be here again this Sunday, both services.

We were glad to welcome the many visitors who were at the services last Sunday and we invite you to attend the meetings this week.

Sunday: Morning service, 10:00 a. m. Bible school, 11:15. Evening service, 7:30 p. m.

Tuesday: Young People's Bible class, 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Mid-week prayer meeting, 7:30 p. m.

Be Prepared!

With each new day there comes from either government or business circles information that business is improving and that the entire country is in a much better condition than it was six months ago. We see evidences of this condition all about us.

It Will Not Be Long

Before long we will all find that a bit of thrift practiced now will go a long way in helping in the immediate future. With the combined forces of the government back of the banks and all the plans to aid business, there can be no such failure as we have gone through.

When We All Move Forward

United in one effort to win this new prosperity everyone will benefit. That is why we offer our services to the thrifty and it is why we are sure there are better times ahead—everyone seems willing and anxious to do his part.

My Dear Mr. Lee:

Mr. Percy Angove was State Director of Rehabilitation when I became State Superintendent of Public Instruction and thus a member of the State Board of Control for Vocational Education.

Mr. Angove, in my opinion, is a very exceptional Director of Special Education. He had the interest of each one of his cases at heart and exercised every effort in their behalf...

Mr. Angove possesses a very pleasing and sincere personality. He has developed very successful qualities of administration and is an enthusiastic teacher and I know of no one whom I would recommend more enthusiastically for a position of this nature.

Very truly yours,
Webster H. Pearce

PONTIAC—the Economy Straight Eight—is one of the outstanding successes of the year. It is showing the way to big-car comfort and Straight Eight performance at low price and with operating economy.

Pontiac is the Economy Straight Eight. Ask any Pontiac owner—and you'll find it is giving 15 miles or more to the gallon—and gives that not only for a few thousands of miles, but for many thousands after you'd expect it to show signs of wear.

One of Pontiac's outstanding features is Fisher Controlled Ventilation. Many say no car can be considered modern without it.

Tells How She Lost 15 lbs. of Fat
Rheumatism Gone Too

Here is a woman who was rapidly putting on weight and who was troubled with rheumatism too. Read her letter:

"I started taking Kruschen Salts because of the good it had done for a friend of mine who had been crippled with rheumatism. At the end of the second bottle I was weight and find I am now only 148 pounds (original weight 163 lbs.), at which I am so pleased. But I have also felt my rheumatism much less, which has been so troublesome in my knees. I must say I think Kruschen a splendid weight reducer." (Miss) E. J. D.

Overweight and rheumatic poisoning often go together. The six salts in Kruschen assist the internal organs to perform their functions properly—little by little that ugly fat goes: slowly, yes—but surely. You feel wonderfully healthy, youthful and energetic—more so than ever before in your life!

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all drug stores—a jar lasts four weeks and costs not more than 85c.

Farmers Not Forced To Accept Plan To Reduce Wheat Crop

Michigan farmers who do not have complete faith in the benefits to be derived from the wheat acreage reduction plan announced by Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, are asked to remember that the plan is entirely voluntary and that each man is free to decide how much wheat he shall plant, according to R. J. Baldwin, director of extension work, Michigan State College.

Any farmer who believes that his individual efforts have a more beneficial effect upon the price of wheat in the world market than the cooperative crop reduction plan proposed by Secretary Wallace is entirely at liberty to plant the number of acres of wheat which he believes will be most profitable to him.

Surveyors of the wheat acreage in Michigan will be made by residents of the community in which the survey is made. Each farmer will be asked if he wants to reduce his wheat acreage in accordance with the regulations laid down by Secretary Wallace. Each farmer will have an opportunity then to state that he does or does not want to cooperate in crop reduction. His answer is written down and that answer will be accepted as final.

Mr. Baldwin says that the thing for Michigan wheat growers to remember is that the money derived from the processing tax on wheat is going to be paid to farmers who cooperate.

The reduction in acreage suggested is not more than 20 per cent. The average amount of wheat planted on Michigan farms is 12.35 acres. If the greatest amount of reduction were requested, the average Michigan farmer would plant 2 1/2 acres less wheat. The average yield of Michigan wheat is 17.6 bushels per acre. The cooperating farmer would produce 44 less bushels of wheat than a neighbor who did not accept the plan.

The farmer would sell his extra 44 bushels on the open market and his profit would be the difference between the cost of growing 2 1/2 acres of wheat and the total price received for the 44 bushels. Plowing, fitting the seed bed, price of seed, cost of fertilizer, binder, twine, harvesting, threshing, and delivery would have to be paid out of the 44 bushels. The amount of money left is the sum which must be compared with the bonus per acre paid to the neighbor who grows less than his normal planting.

Director Baldwin points out that the experience of Michigan wheat growers during the past few years has been that wheat has been produced at a loss. The loss increased as the acreage increased. Secretary Wallace says that any increase in price caused by weather conditions can be wiped out by a change in the weather. The surplus of wheat in storage now insures that there will be no wheat shortage in the immediate future.

Michigan farmers will be asked to decide whether they will gamble their wheat production costs against weather conditions or take out insurance by cooperating with the government, and Mr. Baldwin says that the members of the extension staff in this State are instructed to extend the fullest measure of their help to any Michigan farmer regardless of the way that man views the wheat acreage reduction plan.

Art Critics Fail To Find Art in Work of Young Local Artist

There has been a whole lot in the newspapers about the modern murals of artist Rivera of Mexico. Some have liked them, others have not. John D. Rockefeller didn't like the pictures that Rivera painted down in New York, so he had them painted over, with just an ordinary, drab color of paint.

A lot of Detroit critics liked and disliked some of these murals in Detroit. Some artists even found inspiration in Rivera's work.

But it can be said authoritatively that the painting ambition of Plymouth's youngest brush welder, Mr. John Williams Moon, four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Moon, was not born by gazing upon the murals of Mexico's famous artist.

His ambition to use the paint brush came when he saw two house painters dabbing his grandfather's house with a bright new coat of lead, oil and color.

"I'm going to paint too," said the chap, and he proceeded to do just what he said he was going to do. When the job was completed, the rear end of Grandfather William Conner's automobile looked so much like some of Rivera's paintings that it was difficult to tell which was really the best.

But of course just like the differences of opinions over Rivera's paintings, there has been a lot of differences of ideas in the Conner-Moon families about the artistic touches, the color designs and the shadings of the picture that Artist John Williams Moon painted on the back of Grandfather's car. Some thought they were good, others bad. It seems, unfortunately, that the dislikes of the critics prevailed and just an ordinary everyday automobile painter was engaged to erase the modern artistic designs Mr. Moon Jr. labored so diligently to paint on Granddaddy's automobile.

Whittling may be loafing for some people, but it's a good way for E. J. Wilson, a hermit living in a cave near Eureka Springs, Ark. He carves runs, fans, selsors, hibiscus statues, and other novelties for sale to visitors.

Finds Trip Across The United States Most Delightful One

Albert Miller, Plymouth high school graduate, who joined the U. S. navy two or three months ago and was sent to the Naval Training station at Great Lakes, later being transferred to the Pacific coast, has written the Plymouth Mail a letter telling of his interesting trip across the United States. He says:

On Sunday forenoon I made my first stop which was Fort Dodge, Iowa. It was there about half an hour. In that 30 minutes the whole battalion of sailors nearly bought out the city.

The next stop was at Council Bluffs, Iowa. Due to three sailors failing to muster in at Fort Dodge, we were not allowed any liberty in Council Bluffs, but just across the Missouri River at Omaha, Neb., which I believe is the most interesting looking river I ever saw, we were given thirty minutes liberty, but nothing was purchased while there, for pecuniary reasons.

The next stop was at the capital city of Lincoln, Nebraska. We didn't get off as we only stopped there for eight minutes. The last stop on Sunday was at Hastings, Nebraska, at 9:30 in the evening.

I saw the first range of the Rocky Mountains about 6:45 Monday morning. It sure was a wonderful sight to see. I stopped at Denver, Colorado at 7:30 to eat breakfast. At 1:30 in the afternoon I went through the Royal Gorge. It is a sight that anyone traveling out that way shouldn't miss. The bridge was about three feet from the edge of the mountain side on one side and about eight feet from the gorge on the other.

At about 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon I passed under the world's highest suspension bridge. It is 1290 feet in length. The main span is 850 feet. Width of the roadway is 18 feet. The weight of the cables supporting the bridge is 300 tons. The height of the bridge above the river is 1,033 feet.

The cost to build it was $250,000.

At 6:15 in the evening I stopped at the highest point that the train traveled. It was at Tennessee Pass, 10,200 feet above sea level. The only reminder I had while up that high was that my ears plugged up so I could hardly hear anyone that was talking.

On Tuesday about 8:30 in the morning I stopped in Salt Lake City, Utah. I saw the Mormon Temple which is a very beautiful building. The building contains no nails or spikes.

There were no more stops until we stopped at Caliente, Nevada for water. After we left Caliente there was nothing but desert land until we reached California. It was so hot that you could almost fry an egg in five minutes. And sand storms at night were nothing to be sneezed at.

I arrived in Los Angeles, California at 8:00 Wednesday morning and changed from the Union Pacific to the Santa Fe. I left Los Angeles at 9:00 for San Diego. From Los Angeles to San Diego I saw nothing but orange groves and lemon groves and a few oil wells.

I arrived in San Diego, California at 12:25 Wednesday noon. I was taken to U. S. Naval Training station by bus. When I got there I was put in a detention camp. The reason for this was that while on the train en route to San Diego one of the sailors from Company 15 came down with the typhoid.

I will get no liberties, no shows, no visitors, no privileges such as swimming, tennis, handball or boxing until the disease is completely gone. I will say this, that if anyone is planning to go ahead and smother, they should see what good old United States looks like first.

The Hartford (Conn.) Medical Society recently went on record favoring a bill in the state legislature which would exempt doctors' automobiles from attachment for unpaid bills. An old law still on the books exempted the "horse, saddle and bridle" of physicians from attachment.

Auto Drivers Must Get New Plates For Cars Before Aug. 1

The time is rapidly approaching when car owners who applied for stickers must apply for 1933 license plates by paying the second half of the weight tax.

According to instructions received from Lansing by the Plymouth branch office, all sticker registrations expire August 1st. After that date all cars must bear 1933 license plates. One-half fee is to be collected for all such registrations, this to include cars that have not been in operation.

Car owners who have been operating their cars with sticker permits must bring their sticker certificate of registration cards, as those cards must be attached to the application blanks for 1933 license plates.

It will not be necessary for owners of commercial cars who purchased stickers to apply for a new scale weight receipt, provided they have these sticker certificate of registration cards referred to in this notice, however, where these cards have been lost or misplaced, it will be necessary to obtain a scale weight receipt in order to figure the correct fee.

Car owners who purchased stickers can apply for 1933 license plates as any car, and are urged to do so to avoid the last minute rush. Car owners, however, who have not obtained stickers must wait until August 1st to obtain 1933 license plates for half price.

Police officials have announced that they plan to strictly enforce the law relative to plates and if you do not have a new set on your car that you have been driving with a sticker, arrests will follow. No sticker can be used after August 1st and every car must be equipped with a 1933 license plate.

People who have not been operating their cars during the last six months period, can secure plates to use on and after August 1st.

Coming Attractions At Penniman Allen

"COCKTAIL HOUR" A Columbia production, will be shown at the Penniman Allen Theatre Saturday, July 15 with Rebe Daniels in the starring role.

"LOOKING FORWARD" Lionel Barrymore and an exceptional supporting cast will be seen at the Penniman Allen Theatre Saturday, July 15 in "Looking Forward," new Metropolitan-Goldwyn-Mayer-Cosmopolitan production based on the London stage success, "Service."

"HELL BELOW" "Hell Below," thriller of submarine warfare, with Robert Montgomery, Walter Huston, Madge Evans, Jimmy Durante, Eugene Pallette and Robert Young in the cast, appears at the Penniman Allen Theatre Sunday and Monday, July 16 and 17 as one of the most anticipated plays of the year. Based on Commander Edward Ellsberg's famous book, "Pigboats," the picture unfolds a terrifically moving romance set amid thrills under the sea, on the water and in the air, in a vivid narrative of fighting in the Mediterranean off the coast of Italy.

"STRANGE INTERLUDE" "Strange Interlude," showing at the Penniman Allen Theatre Wednesday, July 19, is the newest and greatest achievement in talking pictures. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's magnificent production of Eugene O'Neill's famous drama making it the outstanding triumph of the screen.

In Norma Shearer gives the most glorious portrayal of her career and Clark Gable realizes the finest role he has ever played. Throughout the cast is admirable, with the result that even the fine stage presentations of O'Neill's powerful drama are eclipsed by the film version.

Mutiny Breaks Out In The Blue Gill Crew

Mutiny has broken out in the crew of the famous "Blue Gill," the sturdy little fishing craft that Captain William Gayde slipped from the ways into Woodland lake some three weeks ago.

The crew, consisting of first and second mate Alex Vateck, went on strike last week following the third attempt of fishing trip since the launching of the big boat.

"There's something about the ship that keeps fish from biting when you are fishing from it and Captain Bill or no one else can make me fish from a boat that my fish won't bite," said the first mate.

"Well, we'll see. Maybe when the fish finally do begin biting, this famous fisherman will want to ride the decks of the Blue Gill again. Well if they don't put him in irons, we will see how much more fishing he does from the Blue Gill," declared Captain Bill.

"So there's the present end of what started to be a strenuous fishing season for the Blue Gill and her sea-sick crew."

Congressman Tells of Bills Passed To Improve Business

According to Congressman George A. Barden of the 17th Michigan district, who was a guest of the Rotary club Friday, there were no idle moments during the special session of the 73rd Congress.

Among the more important legislative acts of this historic session, the Congressman lists the following: agricultural relief, home loan act, bank holiday, arms embargo, railroad reorganization, muscle shoals act, economy act.

Under the agricultural relief legislation is grouped the project for farm mortgage relief, which makes possible the refinancing of farm mortgages over a fifteen year period with interest at 4 1/2 per cent, and the so-called processing act, which has been termed by its most ardent advocates a purely experimental effort to artificially readjust farm prices.

Under the home loan act, which provides for the refinancing of mortgages on homes over a fifteen year period with interest at 5 per cent, the machinery for putting this act into operation is now being set up and it is expected that a Detroit office will be ready to handle applications on or about July 15.

Perhaps the most popular feature of the banking reform act, known as the Glass-Steagall act, is the guarantee of bank deposits up to certain maximums, beginning January 1, 1934.

Results of the Industrial Recovery act and the Tennessee River Development will depend upon administration and conditions in general. The work of putting the provisions of these acts into operation is now under way.

Much local benefit has already been received through the reforestation project being carried on by the Civilian Conservation Corps under the very capable direction of the United States Army. More than 600 young men from the 17th Congressional district are now enlisted in the Civilian Conservation Corps and this has materially reduced the financial burdens of local welfare organizations.

Congressman Dondro was particularly active in his efforts to defeat the embargo of oil which placed within the hands of the president the power to declare the aggressor in any war anywhere in the world and bar the shipment

Plymouth Boys Are Now Located in New Camp Near Harrison

Many of the Plymouth boys who are in the forestry army of the government are now located near Harrison, Michigan. In a letter to the Plymouth Mail, Merle Webster who is a member of Co. 1613, C. C. C., now located at Camp Harrison, Harrison, Michigan, tells something of the experiences of the boys in the north. In part his letter follows:

"At last we are in the woods after four weeks at Fort Wayne. We were called to formation at 7:45 Friday night, June 22. The company was then marched to the Fort Wayne siding of the P. M. R. R. with the Post Army band and the other seven companies of C. C. C. arriving on a farewell without the Bronx cheer. I guess there were many officers around."

We boarded the train at 9:00, went through Plymouth at 9:40, arrived in Saginaw at 12:15 sat there for 45 minutes to take off the company of colored fellows that were off to Baldwin for the remainder of their six months."

Everyone tried to sleep after we left Saginaw but it was almost impossible. We were awakened once for our lunch, a sandwich as thick as a dictionary and an orange for dessert. Three or four times after that we were awakened by the screeching of the wheels on the rusty rails going around curves where we could shake hands with the fireman. Once we had to back down a hill four miles to get a running start. The old engines just didn't have the power."

Arrived in Harrison at 5:10 a. m. and went right to work unloading supplies landing. At about 8:30, after a breakfast of scrambled eggs, french toast and the usual muddy coffee, we went to work on our tents and getting the camp in shape. It looked like rain all day so the tents went up in a big hurry."

The camp is on a hill overlooking five miles of timber and with all the woods around us, there is only one tree in the camp but we're up here to take care of things like that.

The conservation men aren't ready for us to get in the woods, so we are taking care of the camp, building the bath house, making an athletic field and a few more things for our own benefit."

The little man here with the hagle says it's time for chow, so here goes.

July 28 is Farmers Day at the College

Grain crops at Michigan State College will be harvested before Farmers Day, Friday, July 28, but all other crops will be growing on the hundreds of acres which attract visitors to the testing ground for all crop varieties, and members of the Michigan State College staff will be ready to tell why and wherefore of each experimental planting.

Cultural methods, fertilization, insect control, disease control, effects of irrigation, selection of varieties, planting distances, and all other problems which concern the growing of Michigan crops are continuously studied on the College fields. The answers found to production problems are now used on nearly every Michigan farm.

Plant breeding to secure higher yields of arms to such aggressor nation. Recourse of the diplomatic pitfalls involved in such a wide-sweeping measure and the possibility of war as a result, prominent leaders and newspapers throughout the country denounced the proposal in no uncertain terms.

He told Rotarians that one could not help but admire the way President Roosevelt is carrying on in his efforts to restore better business.

yielding varieties or those which are immune to certain diseases is one of the most interesting phases of the crops work. College workers are able to produce almost any type of plant wanted if they are given time enough to work out their selections. Two of the most recent accomplishments are the development of a disease resistant celery and a variety of corn which is distasteful to the corn borer.

All of this work is checked until the value of any crop variety is known before it is released for use by the farmers of the State.

The College barns contain many valuable lessons for all livestock owners. Feeding, breeding, and disease control clinics are puzzled over until the experiments are able to tell livestock men new ways of avoiding business troubles.

All the livestock barns are now located east of the Cedar River and the College fields are nearly all in that vicinity so Farmers Day visitors can readily reach all the points of interest. Inspection trips will start at 9:00 a. m. and will continue throughout the forenoon with time out for the team hitching and driving contests.

Mrs. Wm. Arscott, A Former Resident Of Plymouth Expires

The many Plymouth friends of Mrs. Wm. Arscott, a former resident of Plymouth will regret to learn of her death in Rogers City, Michigan. The following article taken from the Rogers City Advance tells of her sudden death.

It was a shock to the community Monday morning when it became known that Mrs. Wm. Arscott had passed away in the early hours of the morning, her death coming suddenly and quite unexpectedly. Her death was caused by a blood clot on the brain from a ruptured blood vessel and it was thought to have indirectly resulted from the strain of a gopher operation performed in April.

Mrs. Arscott had been her usual self during the day, becoming slightly ill in the afternoon. Following the evening meal a headache continued to get worse and death came to her about two o'clock in the morning.

Mrs. Arscott's death comes not only as a great grief to the members of her family but to many friends as well and it is with deep regret that the Advance finds itself called upon to chronicle her passing from this life. Her death was a loss to the community and together with others we extend our heartfelt sympathy to those nearest her.

Mrs. Arscott (Martha M. Bertram) came from one of Rogers City's oldest families. She was born in Detroit, Feb. 12th, 1873 and came to this county with her parents some sixty years ago. Mrs. Arscott received her education here and as a young woman taught in our county schools. In 1901 she married Dr. W. W. Arscott, at that time a medical student. Dr. and Mrs. Arscott lived here until 1928 when they moved to Plymouth and after three years residence there returned to Rogers City where they have since made their home.

Surviving Mrs. Arscott are her husband and four children, a daughter, Miss Ethel, this summer attending State Normal College at Ypsilanti, three sons, Lewis of Rochester, William at Plymouth and Edward at home. Miss Ida and Miss Lena Bertram of this city and Mrs. Wm. Petz of Plymouth are sisters. Gustav Bertram of Crosby, Minn., Edward Bertram of Detroit, Dr. Otto Bertram of Alpena and Adelbert P. Bertram and Adolph Bertram of this city are nephews. Mrs. Arscott is also survived by her aged mother, Mrs. Wilhelmina Bertram, who will

American Legion's Junior Ball Team Plays Many Games

At the beginning of the summer vacation, the Myron H. Beals Post No. 32 of Plymouth organized a Junior American Legion baseball team. The boys on this team vary between the ages of fourteen and sixteen. Some of the boys on this team played regular on the high school team so, they are not a bunch of dubs.

A large number of players came out and from that group, fifteen were selected to be on the team. They have already played three games. Their first one was with Northville, Plymouth was victorious defeating Northville 17 to 9. They also defeated Hazel Park by the score 13 to 11. Last Sunday they lost a hard fought battle to Pontiac 4 to 2. The full team had measurements taken and they expect to be fully uniformed tomorrow when they go to Farmington to play their next game. Sunday they play with Northville at Northville. The only thing that these players lack is a good crowd at the games and they desire a bunch of good cheering fans who will help them to win more games. All games start at three o'clock. Games will be played down at Riverside Park and also away from home. Come and expect to see a bunch of well trained young players play and not a bunch of so-called dubs.

This City Not Alone in Plan to Ask For Public Works Fund

Plymouth is not the only place in Michigan that is considering a public works program with the idea of securing government cash. Many Michigan municipalities have prepared plans for from 50 to 60 public works projects, which are awaiting the appointment of a State Administrator, according to Harold D. Smith, an Ann Arbor, secretary of the Municipalities League.

With development and grade separation projects regarded as eligible for the $12,700,000 of direct grant to Michigan, the total of improvements under consideration is close to $100,000,000. Water and sewage disposal plants lead other municipal undertakings.

To facilitate the maturing of work programs, the Municipalities League is holding a series of district meetings at which details of the Recovery Act are discussed. The first of these for southeastern Michigan was held a week ago. Engineers of 44 municipalities in the Alliston area will meet in that city Wednesday.

Southwestern Michigan public works plans will be discussed at Dowagiac on Thursday and a similar meeting is scheduled for Grand Rapids the following week.

Detroit negotiators have discussed public works programs directly with National headquarters, but will take them up in detail with the Michigan administrator when he is named.

Detroit has mapped out a grade separation program of $16,000,000, essential parts of which the Highway Department has been asked to approve. The Woodward Ave. widening and a sewage disposal plant are main interests requiring Federal financing.

Saginaw is considering development of a ground water supply. Muskegon is working on a filtration plant, sewage disposal plant and City Hall aggregating $1,250,000.

Lansing has a $1,500,000 program for sewage and garbage disposal plants, grade separations, flood control and street improvements.

Grand Rapids is maturing grade separation, sewage disposal, flood control and building projects aggregating $13,434,194.

Port Huron has a $770,000 bridge rebuilding and street improvement program.

Ann Arbor has a $1,000,000 water filtration and sewage disposal program.

Pontiac has grade separation and belt line improvement projects estimated to cost $2,000,000.

Kalamazoo has a $80,000 grade separation and sewage disposal program.

Grand Haven has matured a $100,000 highway development schedule.

The provision in the Industrial Recovery Act which prohibits the use of Federal grants for obtaining rights of way and the stipulation that maximum benefits be expressed in employment and materials is causing Michigan city planners some uncertainty. Unless the State's construction funds can be used for sites it is possible that many projects suggested will not be eligible to share in the $400,000,000 fund set up for national highway development.

Finds Copy of Early Issue of the Mail Between Partitions

Just like old deeds and other valuable papers, you can never tell where copies of old issues of the Mail will be found. On the other day when Joseph Otto was making a few alterations down at the Wikke funeral home on Main street, he found an issue of the Plymouth Mail of September 30, 1904. Although the paper is nearly 30 years of age, it is in a remarkably good state of preservation and the young man plans to retain it as a keepsake.

Older residents will recall some of the advertisers that patronized the paper at that time. "The Wolverine Soda-Bar" in the large display ad on the first page offered hot chocolate, creme de menthe, fry, peach blossom, egg jubilee and numerous other popular drinks of thirty years ago—"specials for this changeable weather" read the advertisement.

A. N. Klavon advertised "Maid S" windmills and specialties on the Walter Bros. had a special on vases at 25 cents. The Conner Hardware company featured "Ruberoid Roofing" in its advertisements. William Gayle had a special on veal and mutton at his market in "North Village."

C. Draper had a sale on 1847 Rogers silverware and William B. Roe featured the fact that "Roe Sells Spurr's Coffee" in his first page ad. There were only two columns of news on the first page, all of the rest of the space being given over to advertising.

On the inside pages William Hoops featured ribs, flanks and corned beef at his market.

E. L. Riggs carried a half page ad announcing his new fall goods. J. D. McLaren offered "top prices" for grain, hay, beans and potatoes.

Schradler Bros. carried a quarter page ad announcing a "special discount sale for 30 days." The Plymouth United Savings bank was in addition to Riggs and Schradler Bros., the largest user of space in the paper.

Other ads were from John J. Gale, William F. Smith, F. Freytag, Woodworth Bros., Brown & Pettigill, and several others. It was apparently campaign time and there were numerous political ads in the paper. George Beck a candidate for sheriff being a liberal user of space. The paper is a most interesting one.

Editors Are Home From One of Best Of Summer Outings

Michigan newspaper publishers have taken the most recent returned to their desks in the various parts of the state, finding it difficult indeed to resume their normal activities following three days spent at Frankfort and the Leelanau Peninsula, way up on Lake Michigan. In one of the most pleasant of Michigan vacation spots, the members and their families ever enjoyed.

How such a little community, a village of some 1500 souls, could pack so much worthwhile entertainment and so much hospitality into three days is difficult to understand. But Frankfort did it and did it in a most commendable way. Newspapers of Michigan are telling the four millions of people of the state all about one of the ideal summer communities of the north central states.

Tucked away on the corner of a piece of land that forms a portion of the boundary line of one of the finest harbors on all the Great Lakes, the waves of Lake Michigan washing its ideal bathing beaches to the west and the harbor where some of the best fishing in Michigan can be had, running along the entire southern boundary line of the village, Frankfort takes no second place in its claim to being one of the finest resort localities in Michigan.

When the Michigan Press Association received an invitation to hold its summer outing at Frankfort there were some misgivings, some doubt because of the fact that Frankfort is not one of the largest resort places, but the cordiality of the invitation won for Frankfort the summer outing and today every newspaper publisher of Michigan who was fortunate enough to enjoy the hospitality of Frankfort and its citizens is happy to think that they had the opportunity of spending three days in that wonderful little community.

Arthur Peterson, better known to the people of northern Michigan as "Big Pete," publisher of the Benzie County Patriot, assisted by nearly every business and professional man of Frankfort, saw to it that there was not a minute's delay in the round of fun and sight seeing.

The publishers of the first day of the outing were made welcome at an elaborate community banquet. So large was the attendance that an overflow banquet took place.

President Luedke of the village of Frankfort extended a cordial welcome to the visitors. It was M. W. McClure of Chelsea, publisher of the Chelsea Standard and chairman of the summer outing committee, who made the response in behalf of the Press Association.

The banquet guests were given the rare privilege of hearing about the recent session of the legislature from both a Democratic and a Republican standpoint. Townmaster Schrag Marshall, publisher of the Clinton County Republican, saw to it that there was no discrimination between parties and he handled his difficult role most satisfactorily. Senator Leon Case, publisher of the Watervliet Record and Democratic floor leader in the state senate during the past session, gave an interesting and detailed account of the work of the legislature from the Democratic standpoint.

It was President Vernon Brown, publisher of the Ingham County News, and president of the Michigan Press Association as well as the Republican leader of the house, who discussed the work of the legislature from the Republican side.

Those two addresses alone were worth a trip to Frankfort. Other brief and interesting talks were made at the banquet, but with this event over all formally ended and for two full days following there was sightseeing and pleasures such as the Association has seldom enjoyed.

One day was given over to a trip through the beautiful Leelanau peninsula, the "little finger" of Michigan. Needless to say the winding highways along the lakes and over the hills, with Lake Michigan and Grand Traverse bay now and then flashing into view, provided part of the happy exclamations from the visitors.

A fleet of Ford cars provided by the Ford Motor company placed at the disposal of the editors at Frankfort, were used on the trip. Added to the amazing beauty of the Peninsula, the delight of riding in the new Fords, there was such much more that the editors could ask for to make the trip a perfect one.

Editor Dayton Selby of the Leelanau Enterprise and the business men of Leland saw to it that the visitors arrived at the beautiful New Nicholas hotel just in time for dinner. And what a dinner it was. President Vernon Brown let P. P. Rosman of the hotel and the business men of Leland know that their hospitality was appreciated in the fullest by the visitors. Editor Selby briefly told of the beauties of that section.

Through the urging of Editor Pills of Northport, the visitors spent about two hours at the afternoon literary that carried them to the very tip of the peninsula and they were not sorry they did so. They visited Northport, saw the beauties of this community and the surrounding country, returning to Frankfort in time to enjoy dancing parties and motion picture shows as well as other entertainment that had been arranged.

On the return trip sufficient time was taken to visit fountain point, near Lake Leelanau, where a great stream of water shoots from an artesian well some 15 or 20 feet into the air. The well was discovered some 30 or 40 years ago when an effort was made to drill for oil. Its steady flow has never varied and it provides a wonderful sight at any time of the year.

Then came a breakfast following morning at Benah, the guests of the citizens of that delightful little community, just at the east end of sparkling Crystal Lake. Editor Johnson of the Benah Record saw to it that the visitors enjoyed a breakfast such as a prosperous little community like Benah might be expected to provide.

Hardly had the breakfast hour passed when the climax of the visit to beautiful Frankfort and the Leelanau peninsula came.

Operating out of Frankfort is the great fleet of car ferries of the Ann Arbor railroad, great giants of steel and power that crush their way winter times through the thickest of ice floes and ride the highest of waves during summertime without barely a movement of the great ships from their even keel.

On the powerful Wabaab, the 380 foot long flagship of the fleet, the publishers, their families and friends as well as hosts of Frankfort sailed forth from the harbor of Frankfort on one of the most beautiful of road days that northern Michigan experiences during the summer time.

The Frankfort school band and the school orchestra provided music for the trip out to the Manitowish Islands and beyond Sleeping Bear point. Only once in many a year can such a happy trip be enjoyed. A cooling breeze swept the decks of the great ship during all the hours it was at sea.

So enjoyable and so delightful was the whole adventure of the Michigan Press Association this year that visitors found it difficult to start homeward. As a result many lingered over a day or so to enjoy the bathing beaches and the cooling breezes that make Frankfort and the Leelanau peninsula such a popular summer place for tourists to visit.

With the re-opening of the Village which had been closed during the winter months, new policies have been inaugurated which include a nominal admission fee and the selling of village-made merchandise. Crowses faced the horse-drawn sightseeing carriages on opening day and included as special guests cadets from the Norwegian training ship Sorlandet, which stopped in Detroit on its way to the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition.

Two buildings, either new this season, or newly opened to the public, are being shown by the guides. Probably the most widely known of these is the Steinhilber Cottage, where Charles Steinhilber spent much of his time in working on his electrical inventions. This cottage was originally located on the Mohawk River.

Other buildings which are attracting special attention are the original workshop of Henry Ford which was located on Bazley avenue in Detroit; the Cotswold Cottage, an all-stone cottage with the slate roof and thick walls of the English Cotswold district. Sheep which were brought across the Atlantic to accompany the centuries-old house, graze in a pasture surrounded by a stone fence. Furnishings are of the 17th century.

Other new buildings include the pipe engine house with the old-style fire engine, Deluge; the Sandwich glass plant; the original Jumbo dynamo, sole representative remaining of Edison's steam engine generator; the first power silk mill erected in the United States, the Currier Shoe Shop from Newton, New Hampshire; the Kingston Copper Shop and the old stone mill, a typical structure of 75 years ago; Sir John Bennett's Jewelry Shop, brought to Dearborn from London, which will be opened later in the season.

Clean generator and battery grounds are essential to good engine performance.
