WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE THINKING

Sometimes it is refreshing to know the thoughts of other editors in distant parts of the country. One is interesting to note too, how similar in such a broad land as ours are the thoughts of writers on various public questions. The Plymouth Mail this week is turning its editorial column over to other editors throughout the nation so readers of The Mail may get a little idea of the trend of thought as it comes through editorial expressions over the nation.

A LOOK AHEAD

In the midst of difficult and often unavailing efforts to meet our severely curtailed obligations, we are all prone at times to pause and wonder whether this busy-busy world we are living in will ever reach a point at which our worries and perplexities will diminish and the joy of living, planning and executing will come back to us. The best basis for an answer is to be found in the history of the past. Hard times have inevitably been followed by new eras of prosperity that rose to heights unattained before, and it doubtless will be so again.

That it should be so is entirely logical. Who is there today for instance who has not many wants that he is eager to supply? We all have them aplenty. Everyone can count up scores of legitimate needs that he is biding his time to meet. So there exists today a potential market of mighty proportions. Factories only wait the signal to begin turning out all the things that are wanted. Producers are as anxious to supply the raw materials. The means and materials are available in abundance, as are workmen who stand ready by the millions to man the factories.

The stage is set. The engine is manned and under steam. All that is needed is to get off dead center and the wheels will start turning. Some day, somehow they will begin to turn. No question about that. And then we will be on our way. Money that flows so grudgingly now will again flow freely. These times will recede into retrospect and we will be in the midst of a new day in which the experience of our present economic sickness will be utilized to immunize us against a repetition of it.

The need of the hour is courage, fortitude, faith in ourselves and our destiny and in the Providence of God. When the period of our chastisement is past a change will come that will be so pervasive and so invincible that it will be the most glorious of the future will be. What brought it about? The important thing for us is to lift our vision above the worries that circumscribe us now, take note of the progress of mankind down through the ages and from that vantage take hope for better days ahead.—Times-Journal, Chilton, Wis.

PUTTING MEN TO WORK

If the program of the Civil Works Administration, President Roosevelt's latest effort to restore prosperity, does what it is intended to do, the people of this community will see with their own eyes some results of the New Deal. Impatient with the slow progress being made by the Public Works Administration, due to the necessity of planning, the President issued an executive order transferring $400,000,000 of the Public Works funds to the Civil Works Administration.

Counties, cities and other political units are asked to provide the projects; the federal government will pay for the labor and, to a certain extent, for material. Four million men are to be put to work at once. Those now on public relief rolls are to be given preference. Others now employed will have an opportunity to exchange labor for wages, which, in turn, can be expended for food, clothing and other necessities of life.

This is only one way in which President Roosevelt is attempting to bring back normal conditions. His program is not perfect and he himself invites honest criticism of it. Many are wondering how the cost of it can ever be repaid. We agree with Senator LaFollette that the nation is justified in spending money to help its own people and in taxing, if necessary, those who are able to pay to meet the cost of the program. This is a war against poverty and the ravages of the depression have already cost this nation more in human suffering and economic loss than the World War.

We cannot drift out of it without causing more suffering and deprivation. It behooves every citizen to cooperate wholeheartedly with the President's program.—Irrigator and Enterprise, Selma, Cal.

MISTAKES

Fighting a buzz-saw, hoping to evade death or taxes, believing all one hears or talking back to your Mother-in-Law are all recognized by most of us as mistakes.

We can avoid the mistakes which stand out like a headlight on a 1913 flivver. But still we all make many mistakes. If we didn't we would make little progress. A wise man utilizes his mistakes, remembering the costly experience and profiting thereby. He learns how to steer clear of such things in the future.

An editor probably gets more blame for a mistake than anyone on earth. A little typographical error can cause more fuss than a jackass in a tin barn.

You may have heard that yarn about the country editor who wrote a flowery obituary when the town miser died. The town miser was influential and had many relatives. The editor did the best he could with the material at hand and he finally concluded by writing that the man had gone to his last resting place. Then the printer made a mistake of setting the type so it read to the effect that the man had gone to his last "roasting" place. The proof reader muffed one and the fracas started.

The editor doesn't get a fair break on this mistake business. When a garage man makes a mistake, he adds it to your bill. If a carpenter makes a mistake, well, it is probably just what he expected.

When a preacher makes a mistake nobody knows the difference. When a judge makes a mistake it becomes the law of the land. When a doctor makes a mistake, we send flowers.

But when an editor makes a mistake—GOOD NIGHT.—News, Wayne, W. Va.

DON'T STAY BURIED

This story isn't ours, but nevertheless is a good one: A farmer had an old blind horse which had outlived his usefulness. One day he fell into an old well. The farmer looked in and saw him standing deep in the water. There seemed to be no way to get him out, as he was quite useless, and the well abandoned and dangerous, the farmer ordered his men to fill up the well and leave the horse buried in it.

The men began to shovel dirt into the well. But the horse was not willing to be buried. When the dirt began to pour in upon him he began to shake it off and tread it under foot. As the well was filled up the horse came nearer and nearer to the surface, and when the men finished their task the horse walked out into the pasture.

The very things which conspire to bury the lion-hearted these days, are used by them to lift themselves out of difficulties and into the light. The very last thing one should do is to agree to stay dead and buried.—Sentinel, Fairmount, Minn.

OLD FRIENDSHIPS VALUABLE

John Wanamaker, the great Philadelphia and New York merchant, said many wise things in his day, chief among which was his thought on old friendships, expressed in the following: "Don't let old friendships be easily broken. Try to cement them more and closer as time goes on. Neither prosperity nor poverty should alter the relation of old friends. It is human for us all to make mistakes. We have all to cross the same bridge sooner or later if we expect to be forgiven." Shaken down, as we have been by the economic depression, we perhaps realize as never before that there are only a few things that count, vitally and forever. One of those things is a continuing friendship. No man has too many friends, if they are of the right variety. And just now when everything else vanishes like the morning dew before a rising sun, it is a wise citizen who puts a high value on his friendships, and who takes care to see that none of those friendships are broken.—Daily Gazette, Stillwater, Minnesota.

"The county owes everything to its newspapers—the community owes its all to the properly conducted newspaper," said Hon. Miles Callahan recently. "I don't know of anything that gives more to the support, the progress and the well-being of a community than its newspaper. A county newspaper if it does not get enough revenue from its business to properly support its publisher and his employees, should be paid an excess for the publication of public records. I do not like some of this talk about cutting legal rates. To cut the support of a community paper is cutting off the lifeblood of a community. A community newspaper in the average Michigan town, as I see it, gets exceedingly poor compensation for all that it does for the community in which it exists."

Feeding Plays An Important Part In Poultry Yard Profits

Few have thought of what a change there has been in the poultry industry and the hen: from the bird that naturally forages her own food, provided her own housing facilities, and laid about two dozen eggs per year, hatched them, and raised the chicks—to the 200 eggs per year bird, this indeed, progress. Many of the better owners are now approximating this amount.

All this has not come about just by chance. It has taken years of study and experimenting and the fundamentals of good poultry management, of the proper breeding program, of a balanced ration feeding schedule. Many of the better owners are now approximating this amount.

The United States Department of Agriculture and the Poultry Extension Departments of our state, in co-operation, have rendered the producer service of utmost value. Up to date, authentic poultry information can be secured from these sources at comparatively no cost.

Like all other animals and birds are intended to reproduce a certain number of times. The hen's natural reproduction capacity is from two to three broods (about 24 to 36 eggs) per year, and this during the warm months. In addition to laying this number of eggs, she stores up in her body a number of additional yolks, in all probability to help maintain her body during winter months when feeds would be scarce. Because we wanted more eggs and fresh eggs the year around it was necessary to force production.

We decided to feed the year around, and give her warm quarters; this added some to production. In addition we found by feeding certain materials we could make many more whites for these stored up yolks, and this further increased production.

While we say this increased production may not be true, for if given time enough it appears that hens will lay a total of almost as many eggs on one system of feeding and housing as on the other. However, by proper housing and feeding, the hen lays these eggs over a period of 18 months to two years as against 5 to 7 years under the old normal way of feeding and housing. From this it can easily be seen that a great deal of feed and time can be saved in the new method and incidentally we have fresh eggs the year around also when we decide to kill the hen she is edible.

To accomplish this, we find it necessary to feed not only Scratch Feeds, (starch and sugar, whole grain feeds) but must feed Egg Mash (Protein; ground grains, grain-by-products, meat, fish and milk feeds).

Proper feeding has played quite an important part in this process of progress in the poultry industry. The reputable commercial feed organizations have made it possible for more and more producers to secure scientifically compounded, uniformly mixed feeds, producing a balanced ration.

It has long been a question whether the hen is actually laying for the producer, the question of "Layers or Loafers." They will work if given a chance. Not just a chance feeding—but a definite program of feeding the best. That is, feeds made of grains, meat, fish products, and milk in proper balance, with the essentials of sunshine in the form of tested Cod Liver Oil and minerals. Nothing is so productive as this type of diet for laying hens. Cod Liver Oil is equally essential in starting and growing mashers fed to baby chicks. One interesting way to determine feed costs is by the use of the Quick Method for Calculating Cost of Eggs as shown in University of Illinois Circular No. 275. Fundamentally, the real test of any feeding program is its results measured in costs per dozen of eggs and its effect on the birds. It is no secret that birds bred to lay 200 eggs per year will not accomplish this result unless, among other things, the feeding program is correct.

Comed beef was blamed for Mrs. Joseph Mursen's black eye and her appearance with her husband in court at Butte, Mont. "I bought some corned beef, and when she wouldn't cook it, I decided to cook it myself," Mursen told the court. "She didn't like the smell of it and threw it out. That began the trouble." Judge Hugh Lavery suspended sentence for a month and directed the probation officer to work out a different diet for the Mursens.

The greatest miracle that I know of is my conscience. And if God has been able to work that one, there are none of which He is not capable.—Vinet.

Plymouth Youth Writes Of Life In CCC Camp Near Irons

The following letter is from one of Plymouth's CCC boys in the north and it will be interesting to his many friends in Plymouth: Editor Plymouth Mail, Dear Sir:

I received the Plymouth Mail you sent me on Friday the 18th and was sure surprised. I was beginning to think that every one in Plymouth had forgotten about Les and I up here at Irons.

I am glad to hear that things are picking up in Plymouth. I am looking forward to the time that I can come back and find myself a job. The CCC's are all right but it is sure lonesome up here in the woods, there is nothing to do but work, eat and sleep. We sure get plenty of everything. Our work is mostly building fire lines. We have cleared about 15 miles since we have been at Irons. That is we have cut all of the brush and burned all of the brush.

We are a little better fixed than we were at first, as we now have a recreation room and the company has bought a pool table, a ping pong table and also cards and card tables, so we have a little something to do to pass the evenings away.

There are about 217 men in camp now and we expect to get more in the near future, that will make this about the largest camp in lower Michigan.

Yours sincerely,
 Fred J. Reiman,
 Co. 687 CCC
 Irons, Michigan.

They were married at eight o'clock Saturday evening, January 20, at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Huston, at 123 East Maple avenue, Birmingham. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Huston of Plymouth and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Atchinson of Salem. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Walter S. Nichol, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Plymouth, before a fireplace banked with pine trees in front of which was an arch covered with pine branches surrounded by palms with a dove on either side which were used at a wedding forty years ago.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Arthur Huston of Plymouth, was lovely in a floor length gown of white lace over white silk made on simple lines with an attractive jacket and carried an arm bouquet of white sweet peas and rosebuds interspersed with stavia and tied with a bow of white satin ribbon.

Her only attendant, Miss Chloe Losey of Dearborn, wore a gown of chartreuse green silk crepe and carried a similar bouquet, but of coral color, tied with silver ribbon.

Norman Atchinson of Salem was his brother's best man. Before the ceremony Austin Whipple of Plymouth sang "O, Promise Me" accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Elmer Reichmecker of Ann Arbor after which she played the Mendelssohn and Brahms Wedding marches.

The bridal party was led by two young nephews of the bride, Lee Johnson, Jr. and Arthur Johnson of Detroit. They were dressed in white wearing white satin plug hats and carried white canes tied with silver ribbon.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception followed at which the bride party was seated at one long table of beautiful appointments decorated in green and white and the other guests were seated at smaller tables where they were served a delicious wedding supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Atchinson left at once on their honeymoon to Cleveland, Ohio, the guests remaining for music and dancing.

The second wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Edson O. Huston of this city was celebrated at this time.

The wedding guests were Mrs. A. M. Ballard of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Atchinson, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Atchinson, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Atchinson, Norman Atchinson of Salem, Rev. and Mrs. Walter S. Nichol, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sage, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Edson O. Huston, Oscar Huston, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Whipple, Mr. and Mrs. William Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Schrader, Mr. Mrs. Edward Richards of Plymouth, Mrs. Anna Hewitt, Lee Johnson, Sr., Lee Johnson, Jr., and Arthur Johnson of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Reichmecker of Ann Arbor, Earl West of Flint, Mr. and Mrs. Donovan Hamilton of Northville, Mrs. Elvira Losey, Miss Chloe Losey and Clark Losey of Dearborn.

Congratulations are extended to the young couple for a long, happy wedded life. They will make their home with the bride's father on the Canton Center Road near Plymouth.

Last Friday evening near the intersection of the two highways on US-12, a particularly dangerous spot, a car containing four drunken men struck the embankment and rolled over three times. When the car was righted a fight ensued to determine which man was the most capable of driving. The car was apparently unroadworthy and broken glass, and went on its way toward Ann Arbor, potential dynamite for those unlucky enough to meet it. Under the "new and better" order will such occurrences become so common that they will cease to have any news value whatsoever? We wonder?

Ad. Lib.

Right here the Ad. Lib. goes serious and says hello to Bill "Will" Swadlow who, at present, is at home with a broken arm. His story is the machine age version of a story we heard sometime ago.

"Just make a tube by rolling up the newspaper, put the powder in one end, blast it out containing the powder in your horse's mouth and blow the powder in and he will be well in no time," said the veterinarian as he left. "A week passed and you see next time he saw the owner of his patient. "Did you put the tube in the horse's mouth and blow?" "Yes," said the farmer, "but the horse died first."

Well "Bill" did just about the same thing. He went out to crank the family chariot but the chariot cranked first. Here's wishing you a speedy recovery "Will."

"Well, will" get well soon. "I like its alliteration" or "illiteration". Well, "Will," we hope so.

Speaking of liters (were we?) we are requested (under penalty of getting a "E" this month) to forward a "squib" or "quip" made in chemistry last week by our dear friend WALTER WALTON (the name has been disguised but you can't guess who it is) by Mr. Evans.

It is reported by Mr. Evans that aforementioned Mr. Walton who, by many, is accused of being a farmer made the slip (?) of calling a liter (pronounced a litter (maybe he raises rabbits).

What's this between "Skipper" and Julia Nowatarski?

Well known old slogans—do, two—Believe only half of what you hear and one tenth of what the "Ad Lib" tells you.

With a letter from Bob Shaw, "the voice of the west," there comes a clipping containing an essay by the same aforementioned Buttercup called "Isn't It Nice in the Spring," which took first prize (the must have been the only one in the contest) in the "Chi New Empson Salts Annual Christmas Contest." He said "These be getting along fine. The Ad Lib will get even with all these people later."

Class Notes

Miss Campbell, who is substituting for Miss Hauf, commercial geography class has recently completed term projects dealing with various nations and the projects. Some of the nations which were represented were France, Belgium, United States, Canada, Alaska, England, Germany and others. Some of the projects are a real work of art representing hours of time and patient labor.

Soaps and Gasoline

Many people send their clothes to the cleaners every week but many more send dresses, suits, etc. to be dry cleaned while they do their own washing yet how many of these know just what happens to the objects sent to the cleaners? I think very few.

At the Perfection Laundry of Plymouth on Wing street they dry clean and launder clothes very systematically.

When the object to be dry cleaned is brought in it is tagged with a cloth tag which has a number on it corresponding to a number on the bill and then it is carefully checked for buttons. On most articles except men's suits the buttons are taken off and put in an envelope to be sewed on after it is cleaned. A belt is tagged the same as the other clothes.

They are taken to a little building outdoors away from the main one which has a double ceiling, lights protected with glass, and the building is made of cement to prevent explosions which the gasoline is liable to cause if these precautions are not taken.

If the object has any spots on it it is put in a tub which is filled with a spot removing soap and gasoline. This tub when running first runs one way ten times and then the other way ten revolutions.

When the clothes are taken out if the spots still remain they are put on a spotting board which shows up spots plainly and patted with a brush but not rubbed because that is liable to make the spot larger or pull threads in the garment.

The garments are then put in this washer and on this time the washer being filled with a high grade gasoline made especially by gasoline companies for the purpose of dry cleaning and a liquid soap.

They are left there twenty minutes and then rinsed. After the gasoline is once used it goes into a purifier or a filter which purifies it and then it is used many more times the only loss being through evaporation.

The clothes are then taken back to the main building where they are put in a dryer which is similar to the washer and it automatically turns off when it is opened. It takes forty-five minutes to dry them. After they are pressed, buttons sewed back on and belts attached they are returned to the owner.

When laundry is sent to be done the articles such as towels, sheets, etc. are put altogether in a large net bag with a huge safety pin pinned to it which has a number on it which is on 30.

They are then put in a washer like the one used in dry cleaning except it is bigger and has three compartments allowing three washings to be done at once.

The clothes are washed three times with electric soap in the water and rinsed seven in clear water. They are rinsed that many times because the water is soft and the soap is harder to get out for that reason.

The colored objects are washed the same way only separately and each having a small pin with a number on it.

If the patron wishes the wash to be ironed the laundry has two electric irons by which they are ironed.

Dry cleaning and laundering have been very interesting subjects to me.

New Stamps

Picture Sports

Collectors of United States stamps will be interested in a set of three stamps, issued in the Philippine Islands, a possession of the United States.

The stamps commemorate the Tenth Fair Int'l Championship Games and they will be issued at Manila on April 2. The games opening May 12.

The 26 stamp will be orange and will picture two base ball players at bat and a catcher. The 6c purple is to picture a tennis player about to strike the ball with her racket. The 16c is to show two basketball players jumping at the center of the floor. All three stamps were designed by Fernandez Amorsolo.

A special committee has been organized to handle covers from other places. All three stamps and a special cover will be mailed to collectors. Well centered stamps are promised, which might be a standard for United States postage stamps.

Collectors desiring these covers should send twenty cents in United States money to Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation, Manila. Eighty cents should be sent if blocks are sent.

These are the first Philippine first day covers ever mailed outside of the island.

Junior Assembly Sees Play

At a Junior assembly Wednesday, January 10, the Senior Drama Club presented a one act comedy entitled "Not Quite a Goose" by Elizabeth Gale. The theme of the play is the well known fact that older sisters never fully appreciate their little brothers at least according to the little brother's opinion. In this play Miss Gale has cleverly portrayed a boy who only interested in life was baseball. He considered his little brother interested in the girls a goose. Although he considered himself "not quite such a goose," the play shows he was destined for a hard fall. The cast was as follows:

Mrs. Bell, the mother, Miriam Brown; Albert Bell, the baseball hero, Jack Wilcox; Sylvia Bell, the daughter, Marian Krumm; Flip Flick, Sylvia's sweetheart, Sanford Knapp; Hazel Hender-

Pictorial Urged For United States

Because of the political upheaval in favor of the Democratic party at the last national election and the consequent change in the administration of the Post-office Department, a complete new issue of stamps of every denomination, since many bear the portraits of Republican presidents, has been expected. There is now a possibility of a change, but this new proposed issue will not bear Democratic portraits, but will be of the pictorial variety.

These stamps are urged by high officials of the Post-office Department as a means of substituting scenic views for the miniatures of presidents not particularly important. Such stamps as the twenty-cent Golden Gate pictorial and the one dollar stamp portraying the Lincoln Memorial, of the regular issue, would supplant those now portraying presidents in the lower denominations.

If such a proposal is adopted, with pictorials similar to those recently issued in Canada, collectors of United States stamps will have an opportunity never before open to many of them, as so sweeping a change in postage designs has not taken place since 1922. It is entirely possible that the post office patron will soon be placing a stamp showing some scenic wonder or pictorial of natural curiosity upon his letter or package.

According to Ray Spencer, stockman of Ashland, Ore., the depression is on the run. He proudly exhibits a litter of piglets which he avers can equal "ma" to one sow. All save one of the litter thrived and were able to find a fatter spot.

This play was given after only five practices, the shortest time in which the Senior Drama Club ever prepared a play.

Federal officers from Detroit captured an airplane and two Ford coupes filled with Canadian liquor at the Triangle flying field last Saturday afternoon. Acting on a tip received at their office in Detroit they drove to the field when the plane was supposed to arrive. Reaching the field just as the plane was rising in the air the officers drove their car into it and broke off part of one wing so that when it did gain altitude it was necessary for one of the boys to stand on the ground in order to balance it. The plane was able to stay in the air long enough to enable the pilot to fly to the five mile road where they landed and the occupants appeared before the officers could arrive.

Farmers in the vicinity of New Hudson who have been victimized by chicken thieves will be glad to learn that the two men responsible for the depredations will be both taken no more. One of them, Clyde Thomas, was killed while resisting state troopers near Detroit, while his companion, Leonard Goerter, was captured and admitted among many others to the New Hudson thefts. State troopers were in New Hudson Wednesday with Goerter, who identified the many places in that vicinity which the two men had robbed.

The men were wanted for questioning for thefts in Jackson county, and that is where Goerter will stand trial.—South Lyon

IF YOU GET UP NIGHTS

Lax the Bladder With Juniper Oil, Buchu, Etc.

Drive out the impurities and excess acids that cause irritation, burning and frequent desire. Juniper oil is pleasant to take in the form of BUKETS, the bladder laxative also containing Buchu leaves, etc. Works on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. Get a 25c box from any drug store. After four days if not relieved of getting up nights go back and get your money. If you are bothered with backache or leg pains caused from bladder disorders you are bound to feel better after this cleansing and you get your regular sleep. Beyer Pharmacy, Plymouth, and C. R. Horton, Northville, say BUKETS is a best seller.
