THE AMENDMENTS

Again the voters of Michigan are going to be called upon to pass the judgment upon a number of proposed amendments to the state constitution this fall. One or two of them have some merit, but the rest of the proposals are sponsored for no good purpose to ALL the people of Michigan. Probably the most vicious one is the scheme for the big oil and gas operators to escape all forms of taxation in Michigan. Culling in its construction is the proposal to "cut the gas tax" by constitutional amendment. Maybe it might cut the gas tax a cent or two, but it also cuts ALL future taxation from the gas corporation operators. This as well as all the other amendments except possibly the one that provides for the non-partisan election of judges should be defeated. There is some merit in the proposed amendment which would reduce the number of various governmental units, but in view of the fact that there has been no "set-up" as to what the new form of government would be or how it would function, we believe that for the present it is well enough to let matters alone. We thought when the new administration came in that there was going to be less government but we find that there is much more of it than anyone had ever believed there could be, so just as a matter of precaution it is better to kill this amendment until we know just what kind of a government is proposed to take the place of that which we have for various governmental units in Michigan. We are firmly convinced that there is just one of the amendments that can be voted for with any degree of safety whatsoever and that is the one which, if enacted, will provide a non-partisan election for circuit judges.

BANKERS

Probably no class of American business men have been more severely or unjustly criticized than the banks. Just two or three brief years ago as one walked up and down the streets of Plymouth, or any other city as for that matter, you heard everybody condemning bankers and bank boards for their "liberalism" in loans. Folks said that the collapse of the banking system was due to the loans that had been made. What a change in two brief years! Now the altogether too frequent and too unjust criticism is made that the banks are too tight with their loans, that the banks are holding back business because of their stringent loan policy. Well, there apparently must be some one to condemn and the average banker has been able to stand a lot of it, so he might as well continue to "take it." But it does seem unfair and unjust.

A ROOSEVELT PLEDGE

Some one has dug up out of the files a copy of the speech that President Roosevelt made during his campaign in which he quoted former President Coolidge and Governor Alfred Smith on the question of economy. The following is from Mr. Roosevelt's speech:

"I quote one paragraph from a document published a week ago and signed by both Alfred E. Smith and Calvin Coolidge:
"All the costs of local, state and national government must be reduced without fear and without favor. Unless the people through legislative action, arise and take charge of their government they will find that their government has taken charge of them. Independence and liberty will be gone and the general public will find itself in a condition of servitude to an aggregation of organized and selfish minorities."

Rambling Around With Michigan Editors

LIQUOR SALES ISSUE

The liquor issue will be a big problem with the next session of the legislature and it is easy to predict some changes from the present set-up. This will be particularly true if the Republican party gains control, but on the other hand a Democratic administration could not hope to continue the present policies. The Republican platform carries one promise that cannot be denied when it proposes to raise the age from 18 to 21 years on beer garden patrons. In other words the sale of intoxicating liquors to anyone under 21 years of age will be prohibited.

While the Republican party has not committed itself on the present system of liquor sales, yet it is believed that a change will be attempted if the party has a majority in the next legislature. There will be a demand for the state to get out of the liquor business and place it in the hands of private vendors who shall be held liable as they always were when liquor was legal. Another issue will be the matter of Sunday and holiday beer sales. In short, the present high, wide and handsome liquor set-up is due for a shake-down.—Harry Lorz in The Durand Express.

CRITICS ANSWERED

The republican state convention is the best answer to the journalistic critics of Mr. Fitzgerald who have contended that he is boss controlled. Ivan Hull, a highly localized Grand Rapids politician, Mr. MacKay's candidate for secretary of state did not start; "Herb" Rushon, an envious and servile of the old guard, sought the honor or representing the upper peninsula on the ticket but was side tracked in favor of the younger and politically unknown Mr. Brackett of his home town; Fred Green's business partner, had a good man, was rejected by the delegates for state treasurer and Mr. Barnard of Detroit was given a lousy kick in the pants by Mr. Fitzgerald's personally maneuvered convention. What more can these critics ask except to step out now and support the man who did this three in one job of political housecleaning in one sitting? Good sportsmanship permits no other alternative.—Muri H. DePoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

THE PRESIDENT'S FIRESIDE CHAT

Those who heard President Roosevelt's fireside chat Sunday night were of the opinion that his remarks were much more temperate and conservative than anything he has said in some months. Many observers also point out that it sounded less like a "political" oration.

His remarks directed to business should have encouraged a ray of hope to offset some of the utterances of those radical pinks who have been talking as if with authority and inferring that all business was crooked. The opportunity to earn fair profits is just as necessary to business as it is to labor, the farm or any other line of endeavor. And the President showed definitely that he recognizes that fact.

He has indicated that he intends to keep the good and throw out the bad in his NRA experiment. Even the most hide-bound partisan will admit that this is a reasonable policy although there is room for argument as to what is good or bad. There is certainly more to be gained from a cooperative spirit than all of the crack-down tactics put together for the latter only stir up needless antagonism and ill-will and generate a lack of confidence. And in the main he seems to have definitely spiked the fears of state socialism.

It looks as if he was about to make a heroic effort to restore industrial peace, which is to necessary to recovery. He is clearly attempting to steer a steady course in the storm; to pour oil on the troubled waters. It's a big job and without question some progress has been made.—Phil Rich in The Midland Republican.

A WEIGHTY EDITORIAL

An old timer told us the other day that he couldn't remember Green's business partner, had a good man, was rejected by the delegates for state treasurer and Mr. Barnard of Detroit was given a lousy kick in the pants by Mr. Fitzgerald's personally maneuvered convention. What more can these critics ask except to step out now and support the man who did this three in one job of political housecleaning in one sitting? Good sportsmanship permits no other alternative.—Muri H. DePoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

NOT BRAIN PERFUMERY

We wonder if the brain trusters who figure out the farm "relief" ever milked a cow or smelled a barnyard.—Joe Haas in The Holy Herald.

MILLIONS FOR NO HOGS

There comes from the extension department of the Michigan State College the interesting information that Michigan farmers are going to receive checks from Washington which will total $3,455,000 for not raising hogs during the past year. This amount, less the local county administration expenses will be distributed in three payments among the 24,500 producers who signed the final contracts.

Checks have already been distributed in the counties that forwarded their contracts during August and the first week in September. Although approximately one-half of the counties did not complete and ship their contracts until the last two weeks of the month, September 30 being the deadline for completion of the program, the most of these should receive their first installment of benefits during the next two weeks, as checks for the first of the three payments are being distributed as rapidly as the contracts are checked and approved in the Washington office. The second and third payments are scheduled to be made on November 15 and February 15.

The amount of corn contracted to the Government and taken out of production in Michigan was 77,125 acres with gross benefits amounting to $777,400. The number of market hogs under contract is 714,000 which signers agreed to reduce by one-fourth, or 178,500 head, in 1934. The gross benefits which amount to $5.00 per head for the three-fourths allowed to be raised, total $2,677,600. Figures are not yet available on the amount of local expenses involved in conducting the program which are to be deducted from the gross benefits, but it is expected that they will not vary greatly from an average of five per cent of the benefits paid.

Seventy-two of the eighty-three counties in the State participated in the program. Four counties, Dickinson, Houghton, Oscoda and Roscommon contributed only one contract each. The greatest number was 1631 in Lenawee County while Monroe, Huron, Branch, Hillsdale, and Gratiot submitted more than one thousand each.

WAY WRONG, T. O.

Progressive, alert, "scrappy" T. O. Huckle, editor and publisher of the Cadillac Evening News, in defense of his friend, former State Treasurer Howard Lawrence, went considerably off the beaten path of political rectitude the other day when in his wanderings he indirectly assailed Frank D. Fitzgerald for having put forth a supreme effort to win the election for himself two years ago when the Republican party was facing the great Democratic landslide. Editor Huckle stated that all of the rest of the ticket was foregone by Mr. Fitzgerald and his friends in an effort to retain the secretary of state's office, and that Mr. Lawrence who was then state treasurer as well as chairman of the Republican state central committee, forgot his own candidacy in an effort to save the entire ticket. We wonder if Mr. Huckle has checked over carefully all of "the records." It seems as though Mr. Lawrence in several campaigns not only "forgot" himself but the entire Republican ticket as well. It was but a few days previous to one important state election as the clouds in the west were gathering thick and fast when he called in a number of Republican editors in an effort to overcome the damage that had been done through dilatory tactics of the Republican state central committee. Of course it was too late and he knew it. There has not been one well managed Republican state campaign in the last six years and no one can blame Mr. Fitzgerald who must have sensed this condition or stepping out and trying to do something himself. If he had not done so, the Republicans wouldn't even have had the secretary of state's office to tie to during the past two years. Just a little bit wrong, Mr. Huckle to chide Mr. Fitzgerald for doing something conditions forced him to do.

THE RATE PER MINUTE

Work of an investigating committee reveals that the Federal government is going into the red at the rate of $7,590 a minute.
"Phrased another way," said the committee, "in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934, the New Deal spent $2.28 for every $1.00 collected from any source whatever."

The committee pointed out that the public debt on August 31 stood at $26,495,065,000, higher than at the end of the war and an increase of $5,910,754,580 during the past two years.—R. G. Jefferies in The Lowell Ledger.

As usual at this season are the complaints from farmers about the city motorists who seem to have the mistaken idea that fruit and produce is theirs for the taking. A farmer who tried the same tactics in the city would soon get into trouble, but this matter seems to be under a ruling that does not work both ways.—Grant Rowe in The Milford Times.

It appears the "wild" beer party in the White House was not really "wild" but merely "mild." So there you are!—James Haskins in The Howard City Record.

Careers of Hon. Frank D. Fitzgerald and Judge Lacy Are Interesting Ones

MR. FITZGERALD

Frank D. Fitzgerald, Republican candidate for governor, selected his own middle initial. His parents had him christened "Thaddeus," but as soon as he discovered it, he discarded that and substituted "Dwight" as his second name.
Born at Grand Ledge on Jan. 27, 1885, Fitzgerald finds his greatest contentment among the folks with whom he has neighbored 47 years. He calls himself a "hick" at heart, raises cows and chickens and has a pony, and drives back and forth between Grand Ledge and Lansing daily. He admits that his farming is of the dude variety, however.

He was educated in the Grand Ledge schools and Ferris Institute.

If Fitzgerald has a weakness it is for the friendships which have grown in the 27 years he has served the state, first as an attaché of the Senate and House in the sessions of 1913, 1915 and 1917, with clerical duties under the secretary of State between sessions, then a job with the State Food Administration from 1917 to 1919, and after that as deputy secretary of state under Coleman C. Vaughan from January 1919 to July, 1923, when he became business manager of the Michigan Highway Department. Since Jan. 1, 1931, he has been secretary of state.

Fitzgerald has also served as secretary of the Republican State Central Committee. Few men in Lansing have a wider acquaintance through the state.

Gardening about his home, an occasional game of bridge with friendly neighbors, or a hike with his son John are his principal diversions. He doesn't like golf, considering it a waste of time.

If the early worm has any advantages in politics, that may account partially for his success. Fitzgerald never has outgrown the neighborhood tradition of a 9 o'clock bedtime and 5:30 start in the morning. Frequently the dishes of considerable work before breakfast, and unfailingly he is at his desk in Lansing by 8 o'clock. He won't work at night.

Fitzgerald doesn't go in much for vacations—once having gone 18 years without a respite—but likes an occasional fishing and hunting trip. Neither, however, arouses the enthusiasm in him that they do in Gov. Comstock or former Gov. Green.

The nominee is a coffee addict. Doesn't drink it with his meals, but likes to open a thermos bottle about half way through the morning breakfast. He rarely smokes cigars, never a pipe.
He keeps his finger on the public pulse by closely following the newspapers. Reads all the metropolitan newspapers daily, first the politics and then the editorials, with a glance at the financial columns, also.

In a small way, Fitzgerald has gone in also for banking. He is president of the Loan & Deposit State Bank of Grand Ledge and worked early and late to solve its problems during the banking holiday.

He was married on July 28, 1909, to Queens M. Warner, of Mulliken. They have one son, John.

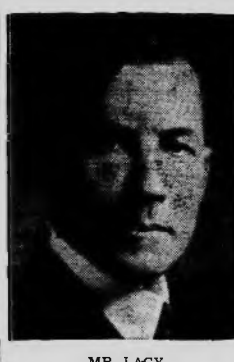

Fitzgerald is a 32nd degree Mason and Shriner, and is a member of the Maccabees, Oddfellows, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Knights of Pythias, and Order of Eastern Star.

Ask Professor About Hogs

Toad Holler, Michigan Dear Prof. Rexy Tugwell, Care of A.A.A. Washington, D. C. Dear Rexy:

Mr. Blank of Northampton has a friend who received a government check for $1,000 this year for not raising hogs. So Blank now proposes to set a farm and go into the business of not raising hogs; says in fact not raising hogs appeals to him strongly.

Of course he will need a hired man, and that is where I come in. I write you as to your opinion of the best kind of farm not to raise hogs on, and the best strain of hogs not to raise, and how best to keep an inventory of the hogs you are not raising. Also, do you think capital could be provided by issuance of a non-hog-raising gold bond? His friend who got the

MR. LACY

Friendliness and persistence are two of the foremost attributes of Judge Arthur J. Lacy, Democratic candidate for governor.

His never-failing explanation of political success is just that "people have been wonderful to me." Yet few men of public affairs have worked more diligently to earn their way up the rungs of the ladder of success.

Lacy's judgeship was short-lived. He was named by the then Gov. Woodbridge N. Ferris, in July, 1913, to preside over Detroit's court of domestic relations, but the statute authorizing the court was found unconstitutional the following April, and the Kentucky title of "Colonel" that of "Judge" has clung to Lacy ever since.

Lacy overcame adversity in the days of his youth. Born in sparsely settled, barren Lake county, he taught school when only 15 years old for $22 a month to pursue his education, supplementing those meager earnings with what he could desire in raising sheep.

Graduated from Valparaiso University in 1896, a special dispensation was necessary for his admission to practice law in the Indiana courts when he was only 19. Two years later he received his LL.B. from Michigan.

Politics interested him early. He campaigned for William Jennings Bryan, apostle of 1 to 1, back in 1896. He hung out his shingle in Clare, Mich., and it wasn't long before he was elected mayor, serving four terms. He ran for congress in the Tenth District in one of the Democratic off-years, and also campaigned successfully for U. S. senator.

For the last 20 years his interest in public affairs has been largely academic, although extremely practical for all of that. He has warred unrelentingly on governmental waste and duplication, and has hung out his shingle wide the overlapping cost of 6-500 units of government in Michigan.

He was the father of the pledge subscribed to by Democratic candidates in Wayne county two years ago when they agreed to reduce budget expenditures 25%, and did not hesitate to call Sheriff Thomas Wilcox to book for evasion.

A veritable dynamo of energy, Lacy has few idle moments. One of the first to recognize the plight of small banks which he felt it necessary to close before the bank holiday, he was instrumental in working out reorganization plans for many. He relied mainly on a candid explanation of the complications to depositors.

Representing the Citizens Children's Fund Foundation, the Rockham Fund, he did not hesitate to sacrifice substantial fees for himself by serving the two latter connections because he interpreted his political ambitions to be in conflict with the spirit of the founder.

Lacy is a golf fiend. One of the regrets of his campaign has been that it has so completely demanded his attention that he has been denied the relaxation of the golf course. A second regret is that he has not found the time to loll in the luxury of his wonderful library.

Besides affiliation with numerous law groups, he is a Knight Templar, Shriner, and member of the D.A.C., Detroit Golf Club, Dearborn Country Club, Lake Placid Club and Ingleside Club.

Mrs. Lacy was Beth Garwick of Morrison, Ill. The Lacy's have no children. Their home is at 19331 Berkeley Road, Sherwood Forest.

Yes We Are Making Loans

Every day we have inquiries for loans.

We are in a position to lend money for the purpose of financing farmers, business men and individuals, but these loans must be amply secured by collateral or adequately supported by a financial statement.

We also must know how and when the money borrowed is to be repaid. That is the only sound policy for both the bank and the borrower.

With this in mind, we shall be glad to consider your request.

Paul Weidman of the Plymouth Motor Sales company yesterday brought good news to Plymouth's flying fans. He is bringing back to the Triangle flying field the big Ford plane and a Waco open cockpit plane for flights both Saturday and Sunday. It will be recalled that a few months ago hundreds of local residents enjoyed flights in the Ford plane that Mr. Weidman brought here. Because of numerous requests since that time, he has made arrangements to have the flyers return to Plymouth to take local flying trips on air trips in this vicinity.

The planes will arrive here at 10 o'clock Saturday forenoon and will remain here until Sunday night at 7 o'clock. Flights can be arranged at any time. There will be demonstrations of the new Ford V8 at the same time and those who have no way of getting to the flying field can make arrangements at the Ford garage for free transportation both out and back.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company has announced plans for its 75th Anniversary celebration. This company started in 1859 as a single store on Vesey street, New York. Today its anniversary sale will be celebrated by 90,000 employees in 15,000 stores serving 6,000,000 customers a day.

J. T. Patten, the oldest living member of the organization, gave reporters an eyewitness account of the company's growth.

"My first job with A & P was in May 1875," said Mr. Patten. "The company was then sixteen years old and had only twelve stores, but a large mail order business."

I remember well the first store I worked in. We sold only tea and coffee. Blending was done locally—if a customer found a blend too weak or too strong, she brought it back and the blend was changed to suit her taste.

That early store would probably be considered rather ornate today. On the walls were great oil paintings of Chinese scenes. A gallery ran around the store half-way between floor and ceiling. From this gallery hung a multitude of bird cages with canaries, cockatoos and parrots; and to complete the picture there was a large fountain in the center of the store in which goldfish swam.

In the center of the ceiling hung a giant chandelier with many white gas-illuminated globes on it. Glass prisms hung from under each light. These were always carefully taken off in the early summer and the whole was covered with mosquito netting. The prisms were always washed, polished and replaced in the fall. In the windows there were a great many illuminated gas globes in ached rows.

A year later I was moved to 53rd Street on Eighth Avenue. In 1876 was the farthest north as New York City has reached for north of Fifty-ninth Street there were only shanties through which ran the Boulevard, now renamed Broadway. In this store we sold tea, coffee and sugar under the smiling sun of a Chinese scene painted on the walls over the tea bins. To this Fifty-third Street store many farmers used to come from the country that lay north of Fifty-ninth Street to do their ordering for several weeks.

When asked about the famous blizzard of '88 Mr. Patten said how he walked for miles to open his store, an hour and a half late. The sales that day were $2.86 and it was three nights before he was able to go home.

"I have lived in the greatest seventy-five years of the world's history," continued Mr. Patten. "Never before in history has there been a period of such constant and rapid change. Light, heat, power, transportation, communication, entertainment, medicine, everything from the maternity ward to the undertaker's parlor has either come into being or been drastically changed during those seventy-five years. This is not true of any other 75 years in history. For thousands of years people lived pretty much as their fathers lived. The American colonists used the same crude grease

Supervisors of Putnam and other townships in Livingston county are sounding a warning to taxpayers against the tax sharks working that territory. Their operations came to the notice of County Treasurer Pay through requests for tax refunds totalling nearly $3,000.

Here is the way the racketeers work the scheme, according to the Howell Republican-Press:

A so-called and self appointed tax expert calls at your home and asks if you would be interested in having a portion of your taxes for two or three years refunded. Of course said tax investigator has previously studied the tax roll of the township and knows the errors or technical omissions in the description that have been made on the tax roll, overlapping descriptions involved and differences in assessed valuations are discussed. Now the good gentleman offers to get a tax refund in cash from the auditor general on county and state taxes on a commission basis varying from 10 to 50 per cent providing you will give him the power of attorney. He will deliver the refund check personally to you and then you divvy up.

What then after the "expert" has vanished? Well, in the first place errors basically involved are only technical and only just and fair taxes have been paid as assessed, and in all justice to your township, assessor and neighbors any refund you receive must be charged back either against the township as a whole or specifically on the same property with a corrected description. If the last case develops you are stung for the commission. If the first case is invoked your neighbors will have to bear the burden of the refund, the investigator's commission and your own just taxes as already paid. And what if you should have to pay them all over again? Be cautious folks, sharpers are clever, the racket sounds good—temporarily, but—

What if you had bought a piece of property and this racket were slipped over on the former owner and you had those back taxes slapped on you?—Milford Times.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH
"Unreality" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, October 7.

Among the Bible citation was this passage (Jer. 22:13): "Woe unto him that buildeth his house by unrighteousness, and his chambers by wrong; that useth his neighbor's service without wages, and giveth him not for his work."

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following (p. 581, 525): "The higher false knowledge builds on the basis of evidence obtained from the five corporeal senses, the more confusion ensues, and the more certain is the downfall of its structure. Everything good or worthy, God made. Whatever is worthless or baneful, He did not make, hence it is unreal."

We joyfully thank God enough for all these demonstrations of His grace. If you have no real church home meet with us Sunday. You will feel our welcome.

This Man Hitler

The thoughts of the world have focused upon Adolph Hitler, of Germany. If there is war Hitler will be the cause of it. If there is peace it will be in spite of Hitler.

majority support him in every election. This is true partly because they do not fully realize what he has done, since the press is censored. It is true partly because some fear to oppose him. More often, however, it is true because Germans reason as an alarming number of Americans reason; it can do no good to oppose the powers, so why vote against them.

Hitler is far from being a lunatic as many Americans describe him. He is a most practical man. He opposes the Jews, because all Jews hinder his progress. The higher class Jews are too often money changers of the temple whom Hitler apparently denounces. As for the lower class Hitler has not forgotten that Karl Marx, the father of Socialism was a German Jew who had many followers in this class. The radicals are Hitler's worst enemies.

Hitler is a nationalist because the average German is a nationalist. Obviously Germany got the worst end of the World War, and this fact has made her bitter to the rest of the world. Those who denounce Hitler's race prejudice, forget the American Scottsboro case. Those who oppose his ruthless crushing of opposition, forget our Espionage Act. Those who sneer at Hitler's "fire-bug trials" forget the Tom Mooney case. Those who fear his storm troops forget the militia called against the American strikers.

America has much to learn from Herr Hitler.

Scientist Talk Heard By Many

A large audience Tuesday evening greeted Frank Bell, C. S. B. of New York City at the Penniman-Allyn theatre where he delivered a lecture on Christian Science. Mr. Bell is a member of the board of lecturership of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist of Boston. His remarks in part follow:

Life Spiritual, Not Material
The common belief about a man's life is that he lives within a physical body, that his identity is located inside a material structure of flesh and bones. How life got into the body, what keeps it there, how it is to get out, and where it is to go when its gets out are subjects of much speculation and little assurance.

All human ills are associated with the sense of life in the flesh. Therein man is supposed to live a precarious life and to die an inevitable death; therein are his aches and pains, his fears and disappointments, his sinful habits, his devastating appetites, his illusive pleasures. The sorrows and sufferings from which mortals pray to be delivered all have to do directly or indirectly with the so-called corporeal, fleshy selfhood, including that which is called the mind within the body. Christian Science, concerned with the overcoming of human ills, that the inherent rightness of God's creation may appear, invites men to consider the reasonableness of the proposition that since discord is found only within the realm of physical sense, the way out of trouble lies through the taking on of a better sense. It is possible to do this in a perfectly natural way.

To hold to the belief that man lives inside of a material body one must well-nigh ignore the fact that actual life has not been found in the body. Each of the activities within the body can be truthfully described only as an effect of something else. If that something else were inside of the body it scarcely could have escaped detection by this time. The situation is illumined by such statements as this from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, page 208: "You embrace your body in your thought, and you should delineate upon it thoughts of health, not of sickness." A moment's consideration makes it plain that we do embrace our material body in our thoughts. Therefore both we and our thoughts must be in fact outside of that body. One could not well be inside of that which he embraces. We contemplate our so-called physical selves from without, not from within. If man does not really live in the flesh, then clearly he ought not to go on believing that he does. Inspired thought beckons us out of materiality. In Genesis, we are assured that true life is the image and likeness of infinite Spirit. A psalm reminds us that we shall be satisfied when we awake in God's likeness, the likeness of Spirit. Isaiah urges, "Cease ye from man, whose breath is in his nostrils; for wherein is he to be accounted of?" Jesus, commanding his followers to take no thought for the body, declares that real life, life eternal, is a state of mind, to know God aright. St. Paul, seeing that "they that are in the flesh cannot please God," advised Christians to cultivate a willingness "to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord." John, the Revelator, explains the possibility of beholding new heaven and new earth, not material but spiritual, through mental purification. Christian Science teaches and proves that to lift one's sense of identity and reality up out of the flesh into infinite Spirit promotes health and harmony. Thus Christian Science restores that which was lost, Christian healing.

Life was no mystery to Jesus. "It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing," said he. The sick are healed and sinners are reformed through learning to look outside of the flesh for that true spiritual animation which alone is capable of maintaining the universe and all that is therein.

To the Master evidently it was clear that health is primarily a state of thought and only secondarily or incidentally a condition of body or matter. To him the sick were those "whom Satan hath bound," the Satan whom he described as "bar, and the father of it," a self-constituted lie or false sense, having "no truth" in it. Both the casting out of devils, the deluded beliefs, and the spiritual quickening of those who came to be healed were accomplished through the operation of the Mind that was in Christ Jesus, as St. Paul describes it. Those who were healed were those whose hearts were open to the regenerative influence of the mind or sense which perceived and reflected the absolute truth concerning God's creation.

Disposing of A Negation
Having accepted the Scriptural assurance that the author of all reality is good, and the creator of that only which is good, the Christian Scientist does not shun the logical conclusion that evil is not an entity. The teaching of Christian Science, that evil is primarily a negation, may be illustrated by the negativeness of the evil called ignorance.

The schools are devoted to the overcoming of ignorance, yet they do not regard it as something. No time is wasted in the schools in trying to instruct any one as to the origin or elements of ignorance. If a pupil were to demand to know who made ignorance, where it came from and what it consists of, he would have to be told that nobody made ignorance, it does not come from anywhere, nor does it consist of anything.

The educator knows that ignorance is not the presence of something but the absence of something, in other words, a pure negation. Knowledge of the essential negativeness of ignorance does not tempt the educator to ignore the effects of the negation.

One who has gone to school could not consistently say that it is impossible to comprehend the idea of a purely negative evil, a mere nothing, which yet needs to be positively and vigorously handled and overcome. Christian Scientists accept the definition of evil or devil as given by the Master, namely, that it is "a liar, and the father of it," and has "no truth" in it; in other words, a self-constituted lie, utterly devoid of truth.

Jesus' practice was consistent with his preaching as regards the nature of evil. The essential nothingness of evil need not be accepted as a mere theory; it can be proved in many ways by those who are willing to adjust their daily thinking to this rule, as explained in the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy.

Salem Township Wins Fund Case

Final decision was rendered by Judge George W. Sample in circuit court in Ann Arbor in the cases of the township of Salem against Glenn C. Burnham and against Ruth Burnham. This judgment, based upon the report made by Circuit Court Commissioner Joseph C. Hooper on September 18, awards the township $437.28 judgment against Glenn C. Burnham and $2,667.22 against his wife.

The cases were begun in the spring of 1933 when the township brought suit against Mr. and Mrs. Burnham charging shortage of funds following the periods during which they served as treasurers for Salem. Mr. Burnham was in office from April 10, 1929 to May 14, 1931, and Mrs. Burnham from the latter date to April 16, 1932.

Since the court decided there were so many figures involved as to make it impossible for a jury to retain all the facts pertinent to the case, it was agreed to refer the case to the circuit court commissioner. In making his final decision, Judge Sample stated that he had given the facts in the case careful consideration and pointed out that where there is testimony upon which the circuit court commissioner has based a finding of fact, his finding must be final and cannot be set aside. Time was allowed for the defendants to file their objections to Hooper's report.

End Politics In Naming Judges

The proposed constitutional amendment for the non-partisan election of judges, which will be submitted to the voters on November sixth, is attracting wide attention throughout the state. The amendment is sponsored by the Non-Partisan Judiciary Committee of Michigan, composed of nearly 800 members representing every county in the state.

"The primary purpose of the amendment," says Walter Meek, Detroit attorney and secretary of the Committee, "is to give the people of Michigan an opportunity to vote for the men they want as their judges, regardless of party label. Judges should be elected for their individual qualifications for the job, not because they carry some particular party brand. Unbiased public opinion is fast coming to recognize this amendment as a step forward in insuring the independence of our courts from political party influence. Judges should be responsible to all the citizens of the state, not to any political group."

Petitions bearing the names of over 210,000 voters were filed last July with the Secretary of State, asking that the proposed amendment be submitted at the November election. It will be proposal No. 1 on the ballot.

Career Of Hon. John S. Haggerty Is Closely Linked To State Progress

Veteran Member Of Wayne County Road Commission Has Had Much To Do With Development Of Wayne County And Michigan

County Road Commissioner John S. Haggerty who is to be honored in Plymouth Monday evening at a testimonial dinner given by his old friends and neighbors in the western part of Wayne county has had a most interesting career. Most of it is familiar to the other residents of Plymouth who have grown up with Mr. Haggerty. To the younger readers of The Mail, his career is a most interesting chapter in the lives of Michigan men.

HON. JOHN S. HAGGERTY

Mr. Haggerty was born August 22, 1866, on his father's farm on Michigan Avenue, within 100 feet of the spot where his office now stands. He went to the Miller School, District No. 5, Springwells, and had for schoolmates Henry Ford, John, William, Margaret and Jane Ford. His father was one of the school commissioners, and Henry Ford's father was the other. The law provided that there should be a moderator, a commissioner and a treasurer, but the moderator could fill both offices, and this is what Mr. Ford did.

It was while going to this school that Henry Ford showed his spirit of inventiveness. He made a water wheel and connected it with a coffee mill which he made fast to a fence, and it was no trick to induce the other boys to bring shovels and block the county ditch to provide water power. The mill was fed with gravel about the size of wheat, and when the power was turned on the friction caused a flame to shoot up, which greatly delighted the boys. When tired of this amusement the boys went home leaving the ditch open. When they came to school the next morning they found the whole place flooded. John Miller, who owned the farm, found his fields flooded, and he came down with a spade and speedily demolished the dam the boys had made.

Do you know that when I was a youngster I was a Democrat, said Mr. Haggerty in a reminiscent mood. "My father was a staunch Republican, but my mother was a Democrat, her brother, John Strong, being lieutenant-governor of Michigan under Governor W. A. Wood. David Miller, my nearest neighbor whom I thought to be the finest man on earth, was a Democrat, and his son, Marvin Miller was one of my schoolmates.

In 1876, when I was only ten years old, Marvin and I planned to erect a pole for Tilden and Hendricks when they were running against Hayes and Wheeler. Our intention was to cut a tree not much bigger than a fishing rod, and I took the front axle off my little truck to haul it in. Mr. Miller to ask permission to cut a pole and he told us to take any tree we liked except a hickory which he said was Democratic tree. With infinite labor we cut down a big maple, and I got one of our horses to haul it home. My mother provided a white sheet for a banner, and we painted on it with green paint our candidates' names. Two of our men helped us set up the pole, and when my father got back from plugging in the Republicans he found the Democratic pole set up in his front yard. Before I was 21, I had become a Republican and my first vote was cast for that party.

Mr. Haggerty took over the farm in 1886 when his father gave it up to go into brickmaking about a mile and a half east. One season's experience showed him however that farming was not going to be nearly so profitable as brickmaking, and he started that business in the fall. With the crude methods of that day, when the clay had to be dried in the sun the work was limited to the five summer months and Mr. Haggerty's brother became discouraged. Mr. Haggerty bought him out but had hard sledding for a time to keep up with his payments.

In 1897 Mr. Haggerty took in his father, L. D. Haggerty, the latter having dissolved his partnership with William Proctor, and the firm name was changed to L. D. Haggerty and Son, which style it continued until Mr. Haggerty, Sr. died in 1903, when the name was again changed to John S. Haggerty.

In those days the roads of Michigan were something frightful and it took six horses to draw half a load of brick to the city. This, in spite of the fact that there were toll gates on all the principal roads, Woodward, Michigan, Grand River, Gratiot, M. Elliott and Jefferson. Discussing the matter one day with Henry Ford, the latter suggested that they should take advantage of the law to form a county road commission. It required the signatures of ten freeholders in each township to get the proposition on the ballot and Mr. Ford offered the use of an automobile and driver if Mr. Haggerty would canvass the county. The offer was accepted and the signatures were obtained after several weeks of hard work.

The bill provided that the mayor or should appoint one of the commissioners and the county clerk the other two, and it was carried by a three to one vote. The county clerk at the time was Lou Himes, for whose election I had worked hard and who was willing to appoint me as member of the first board, but the sheriff was too close behind me at the time and I thought I had better attend to my own business. Henry Ford, Cass Benton and Edward N. Hines were appointed, and the last named has served ever since.

The law was declared unconstitutional and a year later a new board was appointed by the board of supervisors. One Saturday Mr. Haggerty was having lunch in Frederick Kuhn's place on Michigan Avenue between Griswold and Woodward. I used to go there because it was cheap," he said in recounting the incident when he met Marvin Miller, who was then supervisor of Springwells and he urged Mr. Haggerty to go in for the post. He agreed, and the following Wednesday he was appointed. He has served ever since.

The new board, which consisted of Edward N. Hines, William B. Murdoch and John S. Haggerty, decided that nothing but concrete roads would stand up under the automobile traffic, and the first experiment was the building of a mile of concrete road on Woodward Avenue, north of the Six Mile Road. It proved so satisfactory that the system was continued all over the county, and the toll gates were abolished. The last toll gate in the country was that on Orchard Lake Road.

Mr. Haggerty was never married, but his interest in children has always been keen. For 35 years he has been aiding orphans, providing them with an education and fitting them for the struggle of life. Some 18 years ago he bought 160 acres on Canton Center Road, and on it built a commodious home in which he could house his orphans. Three acres he laid aside as a front yard in which they could play. Even the depression, which has hit him as hard as anybody, has not caused him to economize in this direction as he has been obliged to do in many others. His heart is in the work and he will continue it as long as he lives.

Mr. Haggerty's life was a hard one in his early days before he attained the success that made him one of the city's leading business men. As a boy he used to drive three miles north to his grandfather's farm to draw wood, which he took by way of Tiram, Grand River Avenue and Thimball Avenue to the hay and wood market, which was situated on what is now Navin Field. Here he sold his wood for $4 a load, and he waited till he got it.

He attended Goldsmith's Business College on the top floor of the McGraw Building, on the southwest corner of Griswold and Lafayette. There was only one elevator in the building, and the students were not permitted to use it, which compelled them to climb five flights of stairs to get to their studies. How the school boys of the present day would grumble if compelled to do this!

Cows That Were Money Makers Year Ago, Are Money Losers Today

Dairy cows which would pay their owners a profit in 1933 are a dead loss to their owners now, and the dairy department at Michigan State College urges Michigan farmers to cull their herds on the basis of butterfat production high enough to pay a profit on high priced feeds.

It cost $36 to feed a cow which produced 150 pounds of butterfat in 1933. The feed cost now for the same cow would be $45. The returns from sales of butterfat at 30 cents a pound will be only $45 so the owner of such a cow this year will lose all his labor and any costs other than those for feed.

The 1934 feed cost per year for a cow producing 300 pounds of butterfat is $54. The returns from butterfat sales at 30 cents a pound will be $90 leaving a margin of $36 between the price of the feed and the receipts for butterfat. This margin, of course, is not profit because all expenses other than feed must be deducted.

Unless cows are better than the State average in producing ability their owners will lose money on all the feed supplied to them this winter. Such cows are of little value as breeding stock because they tend to produce daughters which are no better than themselves.

Warns Of Peril To Education

In education lies the future welfare of America and the world, but no branch of the government has met such rebuffs during the past three years as the schools of Michigan. No branch of the government has been forced to suffer such tremendous cuts in operating expenses. While politicians and petty office holders have taken well care of themselves during the three years of trying times, not so with the school teachers of America. Their wages have been cut, school work has been curtailed and in many cases it has been eliminated altogether.

These were some of the interesting thoughts given members of the Plymouth Rotary club last Friday by Supt. Fred Fosdic of the Wyandotte public schools who spoke to members of the Plymouth Rotary club. He was the guest of Dr. B. M. Champe, who had charge of the program. Supt. Fosdic's remarks were not only interesting to club members but they were surprising to a number who have not followed closely the trend of school affairs during the past few years.

"What we need to do is give some attention to the kind of services we get out of our government, the services that we pay well for," he declared.

"We believe in education because it is for the benefit of everybody. Education is a continuing process. It goes on in the home, the church, the theatre and the school continuously."

"But with the trend of the time, it has become apparent that we need to have men at the helm with a pretty firm hand on the lever. We need men who can look into the future and see where we are going. We are at an important point in our national life and much that is done now will have a bearing upon the future," he said.

He branded the proposed tax amendment as a piece of class legislation, legislation that would benefit only the big gas operators and that would benefit no one else, except the big oil interests.

Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Dykhouse, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Osaver and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barrows and daughter, Phyllis, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Crane and son, Bentley, Mrs. J. Merle Bennett and son Allan, were among those who were in Ann Arbor Saturday to attend the Michigan and Michigan State football game.

Dearborn Schools Now Offer College Freshman Course

A Freshman College course, the major cost of which will be born by the Government under the provisions of the FERA and the introduction of courses in agriculture and forestry were main topics of discussion at a lengthy meeting of the Fordson school board on Wednesday evening.

The board voted unanimously to take advantage of the FERA facilities and Harvey H. Lowrey superintendent was directed to map out a first year college course which he plans to start Monday. Instructors will be paid by the Government while those who are not able to pay for text books and supplies may apply to the welfare department, it was explained. Supt. Lowrey revealed that there are 75 post graduate students now attending school and that many enroll for the college year. The enrollment will not be limited to Fordson residents but under the Federal provisions anyone may enroll. There is no age limit. A student however must have a high school diploma. Credits obtained will be recognized by state universities. The school will be affiliated with Wayne University. Supt. Lowrey went to Lansing today to complete arrangements.

The board also appointed Supt. Lowrey and Samuel H. Watkins president of the board as a committee to interview Henry Ford concerning suggestions for an agricultural course. In a communication from Frank Campsall, Mr. Ford's secretary, Supt. Lowrey was invited to meet Mr. Ford after the chapel exercises and discuss the details of the program. Mr. Campsall in his letter stated that Mr. Ford was very much interested, particularly in the laboratory work or the actual growing and producing by the students. Supt. Lowrey plans to arrange for a meeting next week.

Supt. Lowrey today secured an outline of the courses, before going to Lansing to arrange for instructors. Three groups are offered. The first is English, mathematics and history. The second languages, including German, French, Spanish and Latin. Also included in the second group is a science course including geology, physics, biology and chemistry. A physical education course, including geography, political science and other selective subjects is to be offered while the third group is music, art, business administration which includes the teaching of accounting and economics. Other subjects will be offered if there is sufficient demand.

He Aids Injured Man, Lost Reward

Chief of Police Vaughn Smith's desire to help an injured man Sunday night kept him from winning one of the $100 rewards offered by a Detroit newspaper for the capture of a hit-run driver. Chief Smith was returning to Plymouth on the Farmington road early in the evening when a block or so ahead of him he saw a man lying on the paving, unable to move. A machine was speeding away from the spot. As the chief reached the place, he jumped from the car to give aid to the man in the highway. Observing another car coming from the east at considerable speed, he ran to stop this machine before it hit the injured pedestrian and by the time this had been done, the hit-runner had disappeared from view. The victim of the accident was Charles Stone of Farmington, who died from the injuries he received. The accident happened between the Six and Seven Mile Road.

Former Plymouth Young People Wed—Will Live In New York

On Tuesday afternoon, October 9th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Griffith, 118 North Normal street, Ypsilanti, Michigan, a very pretty home wedding was consummated when their daughter Miss Margaret Louise Griffith was united in marriage with Henry George Hutton of New York City, son of Mrs. Louise Hutton of Plymouth.

The ceremony took place at 2:00 o'clock before a setting beautifully decorated with many colored autumn leaves, marigolds, and zinnias. Yellow cathedral tapers added greatly to the beauty of the background.

Dr. Marshall R. Reed of the Methodist church of Ypsilanti read the wedding service before a few relatives and friends of the two families.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by her sister Miss Eva Mae Griffith of Dearborn.

John H. Carroll of Stanton, a college friend and fraternity brother of the groom, acted as best man.

The ceremony opened with a song beautifully rendered by Mrs. Burton F. Struttidge of Crosswell, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. J. W. Wagner of Williams-ton, sister of the groom. Mrs. Wagner also played the Lohengren wedding march.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white satin and wore a very dainty veil. She carried a bouquet of tallisman roses.

The bridesmaids gown was of wine color velvet and she carried a bouquet of Eleanor Roosevelt roses.

Following the ceremony light refreshments were served. The young couple left immediately for a trip to Chicago and visit to the World's Fair.

The guests present at the wedding were Mrs. Louise Hutton, Mr. and Mrs. William Reddeman, Elmer Reddeman, Mr. and Mrs. John Gerst, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Taitten of Plymouth, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wagner and son John Robert of Williamston, Mrs. Rebecca Blake and daughter, Mrs. Burton F. Struttidge of Crosswell, Mrs. Charles Beckon, Mrs. E. E. Tomlinson, and W. The bride was also a graduate of Michigan State Normal College at Ypsilanti and is a member of Kappa Gamma Phi Sorority and of Pi Kappa Delta honorary forensic fraternity. She also attended a summer session at Columbia University in New York. For the past five years Miss Griffith has taught kindergarten in Lansing schools.

He was also associate editor of the Wolverine, Michigan State College year book, in 1930. Following graduation Mr. Hutton was employed at the State college. For the past three years he has been employed in the accounting department of the General Electric company, first in Schenectady, New York, and later being transferred to New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutton will make their home at Hudson View Garden in New York City. They have the hearty congratulations and best wishes of their many Plymouth friends.

Has Picture Of Ypsi Champs On Display—Matheson, Captain

Carl Caplan, manager of the Wild clothing store on Penniman avenue has on display in the store window this week a picture of the 1927 championship football team of Ypsilanti. The picture itself is not particularly interesting to the average Plymouthite but if examined closely the entire center of the photograph is filled with the outline of a well known young man of the city.

It seems that hanging on the walls of the Ypsilanti Wild's store are pictures of all of the past Normal teams and last week Caplan found this one and brought it to Plymouth so that local football fans could see this individual in the days when he was taking in a few lessons so he could give them so freely today.

Yes, that's who it is. Coach Kenneth (Beef) Matheson, proud captain of the 1927 championship Ypsi team and after all folks it's really worth going to see because the genial coach looks the same today teaching Plymouth youth the fundamentals of football as he did when leading that battling eleven through one of the biggest seasons a Normal team ever had.

Oil Drillers Now Down About 380 Ft.

A depth of some 380 feet has been reached by drillers on the Alice M. Schmidt farm in Canton township, according to a statement issued by Vernon D. Havens, one of the promoters of this nearby oil well venture. Favorable progress has been made since the repairing of the machinery that caused a slight delay a few weeks ago. Mr. Havens states that the soil formation he is finding provides basis for his belief that oil may possibly be found in this locality.

THE SPORTSMAN

'Ode to The Sportsman Train' the crack flyer that the Pere Marquette runs between Detroit and Washington through Plymouth...

The author has for many years been a member of the staff in the auditor of revenues office of the Pere Marquette in Detroit and she is enthusiastic over one of the finest travels in operation in America...

There is naught to compare With the train called The Sportsman From the Southland so fair.

If in Plymouth you reside Though you have traveled far and wide Here ease and luxury so combine To make you feel "The world is mine."

As it gracefully comes round the curve And from its path does never swerve It gives you such a happy thrill Thoughts are sweet and you think no ill.

Then if on the train you wish to dine You will find the service and meals are fine Soft sweet music your minds instill As from their cuisine you eat your fill.

O Plymouthites you indeed are favored With this train with luxury saved It leaves the station at eight-eleven And seems like "A little bit of heaven."

Then all clean and very nifty You arrive in Detroit at eight-tifty One journey on the Million Dollar Train Will surely make you come again.

A round-trip ticket costs scarcely more Than a one-way fare, so all galore For only a dollar you can ride To Detroit and return with great pride.

So all aboard the Sportsman Train! And find in this what you can gain And travel with comfort, speed and ease Your most fastidious and aesthetic taste to please.

—Merinda A. Pierson, Auditor of Revenues Office.
