Over Hundred Men Present At Baptist Dinner

Speaker Of Evening Tells Of Alarming Conditions
That Prevail In Social Life of America

It was not a happy picture of social and moral conditions, of public interest in what he termed as a paradoxical situation existing in America, that J. H. Turnbull of the Lincoln consolidated schools located near Ypsilanti brought to the men of the First Baptist church at one of their regular monthly meetings Monday night.

It was the chief speaker at what proved to be one of the largest attended sessions the Church Fellowship club has enjoyed during the past year. Possibly it was the venison roast that was provided by Bob Todd as he is familiarly called by his host of friends that had something to do with the large attendance. The hundred or more thoroughly enjoyed as delicious a dinner as ever served in Plymouth.

F. W. Hamill, who was chairman of the evening's program, injected plenty of fun and surprise into the program to keep it interesting throughout. Recalling the inability of Fred D. Schrader who had been asked to act as toastmaster to be present, City Manager Perry Coochingham consented to act in this capacity.

Probably one of the most delightful parts of the program was the music provided by Miss Doris Hamill, a Plymouth girl who is a musical student in Ann Arbor, and two of her friends from that school. She was assisted by Miss Elizabeth Martin, Belle and Miss Anne Farquhar at the piano. Plymouth friends of Miss Hamill had an excellent opportunity to enjoy her delightful playing.

Those who have watched her progress on the wonderful advancement she is making. Not only did these young ladies provide a number of excellent musical numbers but Rev. Loy Sutherland gave a solo that was highly pleasing.

Mr. Turnbull declared that the schools, churches, universities and hospitals on one side were doing their part towards the building of a better America. But on the other side, far more now, he said, than there has been in the past, stand for the good things of America, are such influences as the Duponts, the liquor business, the motion picture producers and organized crime.

"This is said to be the land of the free, the home of the brave, but where life is held cheaper and youth is exploited more than in any other place in the world," he said.

"This is the paradox I wish to tell you about. In the eyes of the world Old Glory is at half mast," he continued.

"Crime is the biggest organized business we have. Motion picture producers and the literate are flooding the lives of the cities and villages of America are some of the destructive forces I have in mind.

"The land of the slave, the home of the coward—that's the way it looks to me," he declared.

He urged the men of the church to rise up and do all within their power to righten the conditions he said prevailed in America and that were wrecking the lives of the boys and girls of the country.

Home Furnishings Group To Meet Dec. 3

The Plymouth group of the Home Economics Extension project in home furnishings will hold the second meeting of the year at the high school Monday, December 3 at 1:00 p.m. Please note the time.

Miss Emma DuBord, Home Demonstration Agent for Wayne county will be with us that day, and as the discussion is quite long we are anxious to begin promptly at 1:00. The leaders, Mrs. Jesse Tritten and Mrs. W. A. MacLeod, have brought from their meeting with Miss Reis much interesting material to present to the members and visitors of the group. The discussion for the day is to be "Block Printing." This may be done on cards or cloth, and the finished prints have miniature use in the home.

Each lady is asked to bring with her material for printing, old cloths, newspapers, and a small paint brush. The material for printing may be unbleached muslin, feed sacks, plain color gingham, or similar material. Visitors will be very welcome.

The Thanksgiving Spirit Will Never Die

CONGRATULATIONS TO EDITOR E. R. EATON

Elton R. Eaton of the Plymouth Mail, former publisher of the Northville Record, has given our neighboring city a splendid example of good citizenship and vision in his erection of a new newspaper plant. That will be good for Plymouth and for Plymouth's newspaper—one of the leading papers in the whole state.

Not only does Mr. Eaton's progressive and patriotic action give Plymouth an outstanding civic building but it sets the pace for others to help bring back a new day in our national life. If the building industry of the nation can be set on a going basis we shall see things booming again. In staking everything on the future and in showing faith in the effort of our president to bring new hope to a discouraged people, Mr. Eaton has done his community and other communities a great good. We feel sure that the future will justify his hope. Let others do as the Plymouth Mail has done. We shall soon be building and re-building, not only buildings, but our morale and our faith—The Northville Mich. Record.

Now Use Gas For New Casting Box Federal Housing Act Favored

The burning of gas in the new Plymouth Mail building for the operation of the stereotyping equipment was made an event Tuesday morning when the local Consumers Power Company manager, L. L. Price, turned the handle of the new machine to make the first plate for this issue of The Mail.

The act was unique in the fact that the first cast on the new casting box was that of the Consumers Power Co. advertisement which appears in this issue and also that this is the first time one of these machines has been put in operation in this section of the state where gas is used as a unit of heating.

Splendid cooperation on the part of the Gas company afforded The Mail the opportunity to put this new machine in use for the paper it issued this week, two days early because of Thanksgiving. The casting box is a graduate of Hammond Machinery company of Kalamazoo. The one formerly used by The Mail was turned in for the gas burner.

Prof. Sabourin To Address Women

On Friday, Dec. 7, the guest speaker for the Women's Club of Plymouth, Professor Johanna Sabourin, Associate Professor of Modern Languages at the Michigan State Normal College at Ypsilanti, will be one whom it will be a great privilege to hear.

Mrs. Sabourin is a graduate of the college in which she is now teacher of the University of Michigan, and has studied at the Alliance Francaise in Paris and at the University of Berlin. In addition to the time spent in foreign colleges, Mrs. Sabourin has spent much time in traveling abroad.

Her subject will be "Education for Leisure" and is one which appeals strongly to all women. Several members of the Club are personally acquainted with Mrs. Sabourin and say she is noted for her wit and her charming personality as well as for being a most talented speaker.

This will be a guest day and it is hoped that there will be a large audience present to greet our guest.

Special music will be furnished by the high school girls' double quartette directed by Miss Marguerite Henry.

Mrs. Miller, Ross, as chairman of the committee for the day, will be assisted by Mesdames Perry Richwine, E. M. Moles, Paul Bennett, Irwin Pierce, C. O. Ball, W. H. Scott, Bruce Woodbury and Miss Nettie Pelham.

Michigan's New Federal Housing Administrator Is State Booster

Cities Like This One Will Get Real Aid

Administrator Raymond Foley Points Out How All Lines Of Industry Will Benefit From Act

Raymond M. Foley, Michigan administrator of the Federal Housing Act, who is coming to Plymouth next Tuesday evening to address a joint meeting of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, builders, contractors and others who are interested in the plan of the government to encourage home building and home ownership, is one of Michigan's enthusiastic advocates of the act. He succeeds Attorney George J. Burke of Ann Arbor, well known in Plymouth who filled the position temporarily during its early organization work.

The Federal Housing Administration, headed by James A. Moffett of Washington as administrator, Hopkins and others had conceived the housing act as a means of vastly increasing the Government's direct distribution of cash. They were thinking more in terms of low cost housing as a means of improving social conditions and of continued government support of the unemployed, than of a revival of private business.

Moffett, on the other hand, was inspired primarily by the hope of ending doles and replacing them with employment under a continuing capitalist system. His every move in formulation of the housing program has been to the end of stimulating private investment on the theory that only by getting business back to normalcy can the existing unemployment be finally cured.

The Board of Directors of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce thus go on record as being in favor of the Federal Housing Act in principle, and submit their viewpoint to the membership of the organization for confirmation.

Venison Supper For Legion Boys

The American Legion will hold its annual venison supper at the American Legion hall Monday, December 3 at 6:30 o'clock at the Legion hall in Newburg. All veterans are cordially invited to attend the affair. The menu will consist of venison and all the trimmings that a good venison dinner should have. It will be purely a stag affair. Members are requested to bring dishes and everything needed.

Mr. and Mrs. John Keller and daughter Gertrude, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hummel and Nathaniel Neerhood of Bellevue, Ohio, were Saturday night and Sunday guests of Mr. Hummel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Hummel on the Ann Arbor Road. On Sunday Mrs. Susan Bradner and Mr. and Mrs. Butler Bradner and children of Willis joined them for dinner.

Junior Class To Present Play On December 6 and 7

"Adam And Eva" Title
Of Event Students
Will Offer

By a member of Pilgrim Prints Staff.

The class of 1936 presents at its Junior play "Adam and Eva" to be given on the evenings of December 6 and 7 at 8:00 o'clock in the Plymouth high school auditorium.

This domestic comedy is considered one of the best plays of the professional theater. It enjoyed a year's run in New York and was very successful in motion pictures. This story, by Mott and Middleton, is about an American business man who is very wealthy but can not handle his own family. They are selfish and extravagant. These relatives arrange with a physician to have him go on a long trip so they can spend more money. His young business manager, Adam, takes charge of the family and by a very clever trick he succeeds in changing them into dependable hard-working people.

Can you imagine Dick Miller taking the part of a harsh old father, Marion Krumm that of a dignified aunt, Harold Jacobs a Scotch fortune hunter or Bob Windgard a silly pampered husband?

Nearly the entire cast is doubled. The players are as follows: Mr. King, Richard Miller, Thursday; Richard Miller, Friday; Corantha, Mary Donnelly, Thursday; Ruth Wilson, Friday; Clinton DeWitt, Robert Windgard, Thursday; Robert Windgard, Friday; Julie DeWitt, Ruth Bichy, Thursday; Jean Steinhurst, Friday; Eva King, Phyllis Rotnour, Thursday; Elizabeth Whipple, Friday; Aunt Abley Rucker, Marion Krumm, Thursday; Marion King, Friday; Dr. Jack Delmar, Jean Brocklehurst, Thursday; Jean Brocklehurst, Friday; Horace Pilgrim, Joe Bauer, Thursday; Marvin Criger, Friday; Adam Smith, Jack Sells, Thursday; Jack Sells, Friday; Lord Andrew Gordon, Harold Jacobs, Thursday; Harold Jacobs, Friday.

Schrader Urges All To Attend Kiwanis Session

President Of Club Is Anxious For All To Hear Foley

Raymond M. Foley, State Housing Director, will be the guest of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club on Tuesday, December 4th, according to Edwin Schrader, president of the Kiwanis club. "The attitude of many people toward the Federal Housing Act at the present time can best be described as hopeful but skeptical. Here is the opportunity for everyone interested in this legislation to hear its provisions described by the Director of the state of Michigan."

"In behalf of the club I extend a very sincere and cordial invitation to everyone interested in the building trades to attend this meeting. This invitation includes those who may not be able to get to the Mayflower in time for the meal. To avoid any confusion, the meeting will start at 7:30. A ten minute intermission will be allowed after the meal to permit late comers to be seated. Women interested in the better housing program are invited to attend. Mr. Foley will start promptly at 7 o'clock."

"Thanks to the cooperation of Plymouth Kiwanis Club officials I was able to schedule Mr. Foley for next Tuesday evening. Here is the chance for those who think the interest rate is too high, for those who question the thought of asking others to go in debt, for those who doubt that lending institutions will cooperate to help the act described from every angle," says Berg Moore, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

"I know from the many discussions I have had in recent weeks that many people do not understand this program. It is confused in many minds with the HOLC and with the low cost housing project. To many it means another gigantic outpouring of Federal funds to be repaid by the already overburdened taxpayers. I hope that the Crystal dining room of the Mayflower will be packed next Tuesday evening, so that as many people as possible will leave the meeting perhaps not sold, but at least with a clear understanding of the Federal Housing Program."

Chief of Police Vaughn Smith and Mrs. Smith will spend Thanksgiving with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kreager of Farmington.

L.O.T.M. To Elect Officers On Dec. 5

The annual election of officers for the Ladies of the Maccabees occurs at the next meeting Wednesday, Dec. 5th. The Juniors also elect their officers on that date at 4 o'clock.

At 5 o'clock the guards meet for practice and a potluck dinner for the Juniors and the entire hive will follow at 6 o'clock to which every live member is urged to come and remain for the meeting which must start promptly at 7:30 o'clock as there will be much business to transact, as well as an interesting social event under the leadership of our Canton Center group.

Ladies, don't forget that this meeting also determines the winner in the attendance race.

Religious Play Pleases Crowd

MISS DOROTHY CARLEY

"Thy Kingdom Come," a semi-musical religious drama written and arranged by Miss Florence M. Stader, one of the teachers in the Plymouth public schools, which was so successfully presented here last year, has just been given in the Central High Auditorium in Ypsilanti under the auspices of the First Baptist church of that city.

Many from Plymouth were present and witnessed the production where it was as well received as in this city. Estimates placed the attendance at well over a thousand.

Many Plymouth residents took part in the affair and Miss Stader has requested The Mail to express to them their sincere appreciation for their efforts in helping make the event such a success.

Little Miss Dorothy Carley of Plymouth, who is but seven years of age, played one of the leading roles in the production and delighted the large crowd with her singing and acting.

It is possible that Miss Stader will make arrangements to present the play in other nearby cities during the coming months.

D. A. R. WILL MEET NEXT MONDAY EVENING

Monday night, December 3, at Northvue at Green Mead, Mrs. Sherwin A. Hill's beautiful Colonial home, a reasonable price, the Revolution, Saran Ann Cochran Chapter will be entertained by a guest speaker, Mr. John L. Zurbrick, District Director of Immigration and Nationalization in Detroit. Mr. Zurbrick is the author of "Immigration Problems of Today." His ability in presentation, together with his familiarity of the subject, assures the members of a real treat. The Male Quartette of Northville will present two groups of songs. Those who heard this quartette last year need no assurance of how delightful this portion of the program will be.

Nearly Thirty Men Work On Ford Building

Construction Of Plant At Newburg Is Being Pushed By Company

Nearly Every Man Who Worked On New Plymouth
Mail Project Gets Job On Ford Plant

Excellent progress is being made on the new Ford factory at Newburg. Following the completion of the steel frame a few days ago, the Ford company employed some 25 or more local carpenters masons and workers to put up the walls and to complete the general construction work.

For many of the excellent workmen about the city it was a good "break" as some fifteen or more men who have been employed on the new Plymouth Mail building were able to go directly from this job to work on the Ford building. All of the outside work on the Ford building has been completed and there is only a small amount of interior work remaining to be finished, so it was possible for Clinton Gotschalk and almost his entire force to go directly from the newspaper construction job directly to the Ford work at Newburg.

The Newburg work is being supervised by men from the Rouge offices of the company. While no definite statement can be secured, it is understood that the factory will be ready for operation by the first of the year.

All of the twist drills used by the great Ford organization will be manufactured at this plant. Equipment will be set up soon as the building is sufficiently enclosed.

The factory will be driven by water power from the new Newburg lake. It will be one of the most complete little factories that Mr. Ford has erected in the locality. It is stated that it may have even an air conditioning equipment.

Collection Of Rare Bibles To Be Shown Sunday

Rev. P. Ray Norton Has Secured Exhibit For Services

Sunday, December 2, will be Bible Sunday at the Methodist Church. For the occasion the pastor, Rev. P. R. Norton, has secured the loan of a rare and valuable collection of Bibles belonging to Mr. B. R. Donaldson of Dearborn. In this collection are several volumes that can seldom be seen except in the largest libraries. Among them is a copy of the Latin Vulgate version, printed soon after the invention of movable type. This version was translated from the Hebrew and Greek texts by St. Jerome about 390 A.D. and preserved on parchment for a thousand years till the first book printed with movable type.

There is also a copy of the first version printed in English for the translation and printing of which its author, William Tyndale, was burned at the stake in 1536; a very early copy of the King James version, printed in the English Prayer Book of 1666 and many other interesting books.

This collection will be shown in the room adjoining the auditorium of the church a half-hour before the morning service and from three to five in the afternoon. Another table will be used for a local exhibit of Bibles and other religious books which the people of the congregation are urged to bring in. Bibles in other languages than English will be welcomed. Several century-old books have already been located.

Legion Planning For Christmas

Members of The American Legion will cooperate with The Salvation Army, the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs and the Ex-Service Men in Christmas welfare work in Plymouth and as a result will have another newspaper sale here in the near future. The money to be raised will go to supply the needy with a proper Christmas. There will be baskets of food as well as toys for the youngsters. The Legion plans to see to it that every child in Plymouth has a happy Christmas.

THANKSGIVING

Oh, let me linger by my fireside embers—
 Thanksgiving is no day for idle roving.
 Old friends, old days, old songs, my heart remembers.
 Are gathered to my side for hours of loving.
 I take life's book and turn its yellow pages.
 Before the firelight glow I watch them brighten.
 Old faces of old friends of outgrown ages.
 Through windows, with me, watch the brown earth whiten.
 I see old homesteads with their snowy thatches.
 And from huge chimneys grayish smoke ascending.
 I hear the welcome sound of lifting latches.
 I feel the warm handclasp of hands befriending
 Oh, faces of the past, when life was living.
 Come, gather 'round this board and lift your voices
 Again, as yore, in one long, glad Thanksgiving.
 In which the heart of youth and age rejoices!

GOOD WORK

The Plymouth Mail does not propose to let another issue go by without saying a word of commendation for the efforts of Berg Moore, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, in endeavoring to create public interest in Plymouth in the government's house repairing and building program. It is needless to say that over a period of long years the contractors, builders and building material dealers of this city did their share, and more too, in the upbuilding of this ideal little city. And of course every one knows that the building industry suffered greater losses and endured more distress during the past four years than any other line of industry. When the depression started, all building stopped. Not only did all building end almost immediately, but so did repair work. As a result many substantial citizens of the community were brought down to the brink of despair. Not only did they lose practically everything they had, but they found it difficult to even find enough income to provide the necessities of life. Now that the government has set up a plan whereby one of the greatest and most beneficial industries of the nation can be given almost immediate aid, it is truly a fine spirit on the part of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce that it is taking such an active interest in one of the nation's best and most needed efforts.

VERNON J. BROWN

Lansing press dispatches carry the news that Hon. Vernon J. Brown of Mason is being seriously considered for the speakership of the house of representatives. We hope that Mr. Brown is elected. During his legislative career he has been one of the outstanding members of the house. He has been fearless and he has been independent in his thought. He has not permitted narrow partyism to influence his better judgment, especially if he thought that the best interests of the state were not being served. He broke with former Governor Wilbur M. Brucker also a Republican, when Mr. Brown thought that there was too much talk about economy in state government and too little being done about it. We hope for the good of Michigan that Mr. Brown is made the speaker of the house. Although there are one or two other very worthy candidates, men of outstanding ability and integrity, we cannot help but believe that in these times men of the type of Representative Brown are needed to direct the legislative program of the state.

WATCH OUT FOR HOLIDAY RACKETEERS

With the holiday season at hand charity racketeers are once again abroad in Plymouth. They are numbered in the hundreds with many wily subterfuges for separating the unwary from their cash or goods.

There is the store, the coffee and nut grafter who preys on the storekeeper, the program publication stunt which usually proves costly to the organization that indorses it, alleged raffles which pay only the promoter, the fly-by-night "store" selling worthless articles and which vanishes when the season is over and numerous other schemes to dupe the public.

No one should be "taken" by these racketeers. There are various organizations of high standing that carry on this Christian work during the holiday season. They will gladly receive and properly dispense any contribution you have to make.

If you are a member of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce information as to the legitimacy of any charitable work can be obtained by calling Plymouth 497. For years the Board has been protecting its members from grafters not only during the holiday season but at all other times of the year.

You are urged to take advantage of this service.

BUT IT IS TOO LATE

Recently The Detroit News, one of the fairest and best edited newspapers in America, published an editorial which gave to John Baird, former director of the department of conservation who died two or three weeks ago at his home in Saginaw, proper credit for much of the work he did along conservation lines in Michigan. As we read the editorial one could not help but think how unfair some of the great duties of the state were to Mr. Baird during the days he was pioneering in conservation work for Michigan.

Probably no man in public life was more unjustly represented or more viciously assailed than was Mr. Baird during the period of his official life. He was accused of everything under the sun—and ways the accusations proved untrue. Of course most of it had to do with politics—and let it be said now that one or two of the Republican governors who were so bitter in their false accusations against Mr. Baird and his department, played more politics with the department than Mr. Baird ever dreamed of doing.

Kind words should be said when a man is alive, but so fair and accurate is the News editorial about Mr. Baird that it is published in full as follows:

For 10 years the late John Baird of Zilwaukee served the State in conservation affairs—from 1917 to 1921 as State game and fish warden, and when all conservation activities were brought under one head in 1921, as the first director of conservation.

Mr. Baird never was given full credit for many innovations he introduced into the administration of the conservation activities which went far to place Michigan out in front among the states. It was through his efforts that arrangements were made for the University of Michigan to co-operate with the State Conservation Department in solving its many problems. He recognized early in his administration the need of scientific aid in building a sensible program of conservation. It was through him that Michigan's wealthy and well-known land economic survey came into existence and he saw to it that his department furnished the funds to carry on the work until its value was recognized by the Legislature in the form of adequate appropriations.

Many of the scientists and department heads now guiding State conservation activities were trained under Mr. Baird; it was his plan to combine science with hard common sense, and he supplied much of the latter.

As a hunter and fisherman of more than ordinary ability Mr. Baird kept in close contact throughout his administration with the wants and desires of the fraternity, and this fellowship served his State well. He was a first class public servant.

Rambling Around With Michigan Editors

A RUNAWAY

At noon last Saturday Linden had a bit of excitement that few towns experience these days. It was nothing less than a runaway indulged in by Charley Hunter's bay mare, that either got scared at the noon siren or in times past had been hitched to a fire truck, and simply had to go, and down south Bridge street with the buggy going on two wheels at times. It went scattering the contents along the road. When Charley caught up with it he said, the darned old fool, the pet of the family, that never showed any signs of scare to do a fool thing like that. My, but we old timers enjoyed it, for it carried us back beyond a half century when horse runaways were as common as flies on sticky fly paper.—J. E. McMullen in The Linden Leader.

WHAT BAD COMPANY WILL DO

Now that the last vote has been counted and it has been learned that the first of the six amendments on the large ballot just voted did not have enough yes votes registered to bring about the long sought ambition to entirely remove our Judge from politics, we can the more readily understand what environment means at election time as well as in our lives. The first amendment on the ballot, intended to dignify the bench, take it away from party bickering and political patronage simply got thrown into bad company, and that undesirable and questionable company caused its defeat. People were afraid. Most of that half dozen amendments we were asked to pass judgment on did not fully convey the purpose they were intended for. The people were suspicious because of the organizations and the agency responsible for their sponsorship. The Michigan Automobile Club has attached itself behind the word Michigan, but in reality it is city selfish. Its first object seems to be to respond to the immediate wishes, and Detroit's spirit is not state wide. It is too pretty much permeated by personal aggrandizement at the expense of all else. Then there too is a growing suspicion that there is grave danger in erasing from our records those acts and principals around which our state has builded and persevered and grown. The independence of the voter, as evidenced in the last election, would tend to lead one to believe that those same voters outside of some of our metropolitan districts can still be trusted to pick their highest officers as well as they could in all the long years gone by.—Al Weber in The Cheboygan Observer.

HEED THE WARNING

Four Michigan counties voted on the question of local option. Although none carried, it should be noticed to the liquor forces to put their house in order. People are not satisfied with present age limit, the late closing hours and the unrestricted sale of beer on Sunday and holiday are the result of these evils. The fear of losing money to the surrounding counties has also been a great deterrent to voting dry.

There is little doubt but that the legislature will have numerous requests to raise the age limit, for earlier closing hours and restrictions on Sunday selling and for the elimination of girls as barmaids. Many of the county boards of supervisors are already on record in favor of the above.

All of which goes to show that the liquor forces are not making good on their promises, that the people are becoming aware of the fact that most if not all of the worst features of saloon days are here or on their way back. If the liquor forces have either the disposition or the power to clean house, the handwriting on the wall should not go unheeded.—C. H. Hemingway in The Ann Arbor Tribune.

CHANGING GOVERNMENT

Nebraska voted at the last election to do away with its two legislative branches and in lieu thereof establish a single chamber of between thirty and fifty members. It will thus dispense with from eighty to 100 lawmakers, for it has had a legislative makeup similar to Michigan, a house of 100 and a senate of 30. The task of devising the precise number of legislators to be set up is scheduled for the farewell session of the old legislature, meeting the first of next year. New districts for the new legislators will also be mapped. The first election for the unique house comes in the fall of 1936. The unicameral session makes its appearance in 1937. The manner of the choice of the lawmakers is also unusual. They will be elected not as democrats, republicans or other party members, but on a non-party basis. "Party labels" writes the staff correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, "have been dropped in 85 per cent of the city manager and in half of the old-style cities while a small beginning has been made to apply nonpartisanship to counties." Now Nebraska suddenly overturns history by attempting to take national politics out of its legislature.—Muri DeFoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

If the London Conference fails the General Board has indicated that it will recommend the construction of two formidable battalions. We should be prepared with a program which will make Japan hesitate to enter into a race with the Navy in common with the American people, would deplore.

Back to Childhood

I'd like to go back to my childhood,
 To the days of the long, long ago;
 I'd like to recover the pleasures
 That the youngsters of ten or twelve know;
 I'd like to return to the freedom and fun
 That seem to desert us when childhood is done.

I'd like to go sliding and skating,
 As we did down at Robinson's pond;
 I'd like to hook rides on a bobsled—
 Out to Elliott's farm, and beyond;
 I'd like to go hunting for walnuts again,
 And find it as great an adventure as then!

I'd like to forsake all the problems
 That a man must contend with each day;
 I'd like to return to my childhood—
 Be a boy in an old-fashioned way;
 And many warm friendships I'd surely renew,
 Because I'd want all my old playmates there, too!

Miss Clara Patterson entertained about sixteen of her friends Saturday night. A delectable lunch was served and a pleasant time was enjoyed.

On Wednesday last Mrs. Asa Joy, Mrs. Mary Hilmer and Mrs. J. H. Patterson attended the Sunday school institute in Detroit.

Mrs. Jacob Streng gave her daughter Alvina a birthday party last Saturday afternoon. Some twenty or more of the little ones were present.

The Presbyterian Missionary meeting will be held next Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ella Chaffee.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Miss Alma Rooke and Harry H. Hanman, which occurred, September 24th. The young couple kept it very quiet and it was only a few days ago that the secret leaked out. They will reside in Canton township.

Bert Rae, who sold his Plymouth laundry more than a year ago has bought a similar establishment in Kenton, Ohio, doing about three times the business he did in Plymouth. Bert is a goodly laundryman and will undoubtedly please the Buckeye people.

A choral society has been organized in Plymouth. It was thought that some organized form of public musical work would be of great benefit and necessary to a healthy musical life in the community.

Hunting Season Ends On Friday

All but one of the remaining open hunting seasons in Michigan will come to a close Friday, November 30, according to an announcement by the Game Division, Department of Conservation.

The last day of November marks the close of legal deer and bear hunting in the open counties of the state and the end of the season for hunting raccoon in the lower peninsula.

Hunting for cottontail rabbits and varying hare will remain legal in both the lower and upper peninsulas until January 31, the Game Division reports. Hunting for such species as bobcats, coyotes, wolves and foxes will remain permissible after Jan. 31 provided the hunter carries a small-game license and proper gun permit.

Trapping for beaver, muskrat, opossum, raccoon and mink is now in full swing. Beaver trapping in all of the counties of the upper peninsula and of the lower peninsula north of Townline 20, except Benzie, Manistee and Wexford, began legal November 25. The season comes to an end December 20.

The muskrat trapping season closes Nov. 30 in the upper peninsula, but continues to Dec. 15 and Dec. 31, inclusive, in the respective zones of the lower peninsula. Under the zone system raccoon may be taken by trappers in the lower peninsula as late as December 15 and badger as late as January 31.

About the only place now to find "home cooking" is at the restaurant.

Hunting Will Lick Worst Depression

(By Muri DeFoe)

The depression will never lick America. Thousands of men every year step back to the living standards of the past and like it. In this sense, hunting is a national blessing and should forever be encouraged. Oil burners, radios, telephones and pay toilets are useful gadgets but real happiness is where they are not. Hunting makes for a type of social life which has almost entirely disappeared even in Main Street towns. There is no barometer quite so accurate as the way men react to the give and take of camp life. There is no democracy or discipline comparable to these little tests, every one of which registers a definite something in your makeup. There is a decency in camp profanity which would be vulgar in any other place. and while we are hopelessly dry—and too old to change now—there actually is such a thing as dignified drinking. Ten cent poker is more than respectable, it is both stimulating and semi-academic in that it sharpens up the most of the major senses. This quasi approval of these temporary modifications in our moral code conemplates, of course, a reasonable observation of the old Greek philosophy about moderation in all things. My bunk mate on this pilgrimage was one James Newcomer, one all white man regardless of the ashes and smoke of many years' faithful service at the federal building. His religious experience runs all the way from service in the Salvation Army to one or two orthodox faiths but above all this book goodness he is sympathetic, loyal and kind, a corking good religion in anybody's church.

THINK FIRST OF YOUR OWN COMMUNITY

This is your community. You live here. Probably you own a home or have business interests here. In some manner, what you have or what you earn comes from this community.

Therefore, you have a personal interest in the prosperity of your community. Also, you have a plain duty as a citizen to do what you can to promote local welfare.

You help when you buy from your neighborhood merchants. You help when you deposit money in the local bank, because the bank is the chief agency by which home money is kept circulating for home good.

One of the best ways to work for your own interests is to boost community interests.

With Our Churches

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Soul and Body" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, November 25.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Ps. 17:15): "As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be righteous when I awake, with thy likeness." Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following (p. 477): "Identity is the reflection of Spirit, the reflection in multifarious forms of the living Principle, Love. Soul is the substance, Life, and intelligence of man, which is individualized, but not in matter. Soul can never reflect anything inferior to Spirit. Man is the expression of Soul."

SALEM FEDERATED CHURCH

During the month of December our pastor will preach a series of Christmas sermons. "When Christ Came" will be the theme for December 2 at 10:30 o'clock.

Bible school at 11:45 o'clock. Be ready to read or recite a verse of praise at hymn-sing, 7:30 p.m.

Christian Endeavor at 8:00 o'clock. Curtis Hamilton.

"The Girl Who Forgot," a 3 act play, will be brought to the Salem town hall on Wednesday evening, December 5, at 8:15 o'clock by a group from the Dixboro Methodist church.

ST. PETER'S EV. LUTHERAN CHURCH

Edgar Hoenecke, Pastor. Thanksgiving Day service at ten o'clock. The President's Thanksgiving Proclamation that we all assemble in our respective houses of worship to render thanks unto our God and Protector, will affect and motivate every good citizen of this realm to act in accordance with the suggestion of the Chief Executive: God's Proclamation. Enter into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise; be thankful unto Him and bless His Name; For the Lord is good; His mercy is everlasting, and His Truth endureth to all generations. It is far more important and should fill our churches in America to capacity this year especially.

Thus saith the Lord: "And it shall be, if thou do at all forget the Lord thy God, and walk after thy own heart, and walk after thine eyes, and say, I will not perish, as the nations which the Lord destroyeth before your face, so shall ye perish." Deuteronomy Chapter Eight.

Next Sunday is the First Sunday in Advent. The congregation prepares itself for the reception of her King in a special Holy Communion Service, beginning at 10:30. The Advent of our King into the flesh reminds us of His final Advent "in glory and majesty for Judgment." This Judgment is not to be preceded by a thousand years of Christ's Rule here upon earth with His faithful ones in power and the wicked suppressed. Lend no credence to such expectations, lest you fall into security and the Day come upon you unawares; for it shall break upon you "as a thief in the night." "But of that day and that hour knoweth no man, neither the angels which are in Heaven, Neither the Son, but the Father." Now is the time of warning, today is the day of Salvation; and the latter days shall not be better, they will be so evil that except those days should be shortened, there should no flesh be saved, and "Iniquity shall abound." Read Matthew 24. And let the Lord's Word suffice. "My Kingdom is not of this World." Today while you yet have opportunity, prepare to meet thy God. Your King, who comes today in lowliness at Christmas to bear your sins away, is the Same who will one day come in Judgment.

The Bible Class will meet Wednesday evening, December 5th, from 7:30 to 8:30. All are invited. Bring your Bible with you, and any question which may trouble you. Your Bible may be a mirror of your faith. Not a beautiful, expensive binding or great age alone will make your Bible interesting to your pastor or your God, but the Dog's-Ears, the Thumb-marks, the Worn Pages, your own Marks of favorite passages, and is evident. Reproduction of a copy in your heart and in your Life, these be the things that lend venerability to the Good Book you possess.

Are You in This Picture?

In the excited faces of the farming crowd pictured above, there is no thought of the ever-present danger of tuberculosis.

Yet everyone of the strikers whose form appears as a blank in an average crowd of this size actively infected with tuberculosis and capable of passing the disease on to his neighbor!

To fight this disease, the annual sale of tuberculosis Christmas Seals, by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated societies, opens officially on Thanksgiving Day.

It makes possible, among other disease-battling efforts, tuberculin test and x-ray examination surveys, and it is from these surveys that the Michigan Tuberculosis Association is able to show that one out of every two adults tested has tuberculosis germs in his body.

One out of every 43 adults x-rayed has the dangerous, infectious type of the disease.

Perhaps more startling, one of every six children in Michigan schools today has been found with tuberculosis germs in his body! When infected, x-ray photographs were made of these children's chests and one out of every five children x-rayed was discovered not only infected, but with tuberculosis of some type in the lungs.

One out of 132 x-rays had the adult, or infectious type, easily passed on to some other child. To fight this germ battle, money raised in the annual sale of tuberculosis Christmas Seals by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated societies is lined up on three fronts.

First—making possible the examination of thousands of school children and adults, by tuberculin test and x-ray follow-up and making sure that the dangerous cases found are given proper treatment.

Second—by teaching children, and adults as well, the dangers of poor health, and the ways in which tuberculosis may be kept from spreading.

Third—by constantly campaigning for more sanatorium beds in Michigan, so that there will be room to care for and possibly save the infectious cases, deathly if which are discovered each year.

Little wonder that the tuberculosis associations say: "Buy Christmas Seals!"

Plymouth Affirmative Defeats River Rouge

The Plymouth affirmative team upheld by Jewel Starkweather, Jeanette Brown, and Jack Sessions, won their third straight debate from the negative team of River Rouge last Thursday evening which was held in the auditorium of the River Rouge high school. Members of this team were Evelyn Nafaly, Jack Robinson, and David Hertzberg, who spoke in the order named. Mr. Rosa, principal of the school, was chairman while Harold B. Allen, Professor of English at the University of Michigan, acted as critic and judge.

Directly following the debate which had been preceded by several selections played by the River Rouge school band, Mr. Allen announced his decision which he based upon three facts. He stated that although it was an unusually close debate and that excellent debating had been shown on both sides, he believed that the arguments of the affirmative were more clearly organized and less scattered than those of the negative, and that he liked the convincing way in which the affirmative team reasoned and made their points. He stated that the case presented by the negative lacked a solid foundation and that the members of that team did not effectively meet the arguments of the affirmative. In addition he based his decision upon the attitude of the debaters toward the audience and toward the opposing team.

Following the decision, a short discussion was led by Mr. Allen, during which he gave the criticisms and suggestions to both teams.

Competition Column

As something new in the column business we will publish this week a dissertation upon diets for the love-lorn, inspired by the reports that certain local boys are not eating well lately. It is advisable to start such diets on a lonely evening, as the lady of the house might object. When Junius was a little boy he tried making a cake. To make a safe hedge, he used a sugar made of yeast cakes in this diet. A most delightful beverage has been devised by some of our school's amateur cooks. It consists of lemon juice mixed with the juice of several raisins. This is very handy to give sweet young things, but we won't vouch for its digestibility. Another dainty bit-bit is chocolate frosted doughnuts. To some people's bewilderment, brown sugar is not used to give chocolate its usual luscious taste, but is visible but if the box isn't opened it may be simpler to use granulated sugar. After mixing a chocolate paste, pour it on the doughnut and place in the ice chambers of a refrigerator. After ten minutes it is frozen and after twenty minutes it becomes icing. Serve with ice pick and be thankful you waited until after Thanksgiving to start the diet. Junius II.

Discussions Held On Debate Question

Discussions concerning the high school debate question in Michigan were held in the various group meetings on Wednesday, November 21. The purpose of the discussions was two-fold: first, to interest the students in a topic which concerns them so vitally as does this year's debate question which is "Resolved, that the federal government should adopt the policy of equalizing educational opportunities throughout the nation by giving substantial annual grants to the several states to aid public elementary and secondary education." The second object was to interest the students in the activities of Plymouth high school's debate teams and to gain their support in the coming, decisive debate with River Rouge high school. In the majority of the group meetings an informal discussion of the subject was held. However in some of the groups the students were allowed a certain period of time in which to prepare a talk on either side of the question. At the end of the hour a report was given through the courtesy of the Student Council, and hearing the words "I'm going to the River Rouge debate, Thursday at 7:00" were passed out.

The small children in the kindergarten have decorated the border in their room with what they have cut out. This last week they have been cutting out Pilgrims and made Thanksgiving booklets. The children have learned the song "Baby's Bowl of Milk."

The first grade children have been reading interesting stories in their language class. For their seat work they have made Thanksgiving posters. The B class is enjoying its new reader "Wag and Puff."

In the second grade James Sveicara and William Bauman spelled the B class down last Friday. They refused to be spelled down themselves spelling all the words that they have had this term. Mary Galtbreath from the Newby class controlled in the second B last Wednesday.

In construction work the second grade have entered a contest to see which one can construct the most nearly perfect airplane. The model to be put on exhibit. The children have made turkeys in free hand drawing and cutting. The turkeys are used for a Thanksgiving blackboard border.

In the fourth grade have been selling tickets on a quilt for their Christmas party. Two pupils have enrolled in the B class, Harold and Eugene Nipper. The fourth grade has moved from room nine to room seven because the seats in the former room were too large for the children. They have been making Thanksgiving pictures in art class.

The sixth graders gave a play in their assembly. The play was "Henry Clay the Peacemaker." Alfred Henke has moved away. The six B class is making graphs of tardiness. These graphs show a decrease since last year.

A True Experience—My First Ride in an Airplane

The insistent honking of an automobile horn first drew my attention to a large group of people clustered about an airplane. It has always been my secret desire to have a ride in one of those hawks of the air so I walked over by the airplane. Curiously I asked the man in charge what the price was to go up. He told me a dollar. I returned to my friends standing near the airplane and enviously watched a goggled and helmeted man step into the cockpit. With a roar the plane was off, and it circled around gracefully like a bird. It soon landed, and the man climbed out rather white in the face. I said, rather audibly, I fear. I certainly wish I could go up. The man walked over and said, "Do you really wish to go up?" I said, "Yes, sir, but I can't. The price is beyond me because I have only fifty cents." The man smiled and said, "If I give you the fifty cents you lack, would you go up?" I immediately cried, "Yes, sir. I certainly would!" With that the man pulled out the fifty cents and with mine I bought a ticket.

Donning the cap and goggles I clambered into the cockpit, and with a lurch we were off. My next sensation was of giddiness, but it soon went away. Looking down I saw the cockpit to my surprise I found that we were already several thousand feet in the air. Peeping again over the edge I saw that the landscape looked like one immense patchwork quilt. Suddenly we swooped down and up with a gentle bump we landed, and my much yearned-for airplane ride was over.

Nowadays

While the phantom of war hovers over the civilized world, a group of thinkers preach to the nations, asking them to cast aside their warfare and to embark upon a program of disarmament.

Foremost among groups urging disarmament is World Peaceways, Inc., an organization having its headquarters in New York. This group urges drastic reductions in armaments and finally mutual disarmament, a Department of Peace in the cabinet of every nation, and government production of necessary munitions. It is largely responsible for the Senate munitions investigation.

World Peaceways has constructed a huge book eight feet long, seven feet wide, and four feet thick. This book is being exhibited in the principal cities of America where those who believe in this program are invited to sign its pages. Blank sheets are being sent to communities.

When filled, this gigantic petition will be sent to England, France and Geneva as an expression of America's desire for peace. One million signatures have already been obtained.

Advocates of disarmament calculate the easiest and most logical party as the party of zero. The nations must decide whether this is a safe and practical step.

Debate Teams To Meet Ecorse

Meeting Ecorse in the fourth dual League debate of the season for Plymouth, this school will attempt to add two more victories to its record in contests held Wednesday, December 5. The debate in Plymouth high auditorium will take place at 3:45, while the one at Ecorse is scheduled for 7:30.

The Plymouth negative team, speaking here, consists of Tom Brock, Russell Kirk, and Katherine Schultz, Jewel Starkweather, Dorothy Heaton, and Jack Sessions compose the affirmative team.

Plymouth now occupies a position at the top of the league standings, being tied with River Rouge for first place. Ecorse has a record of one victory and five defeats, Dearborn four victories and two defeats, but Plymouth and River Rouge each have five victories and one defeat. If Plymouth's team, debating the question of federal aid to education, wins the two debates with Ecorse while River Rouge loses, the League championship is virtually assured for the former school.

Central School Notes

The kindergartners have begun to set their table for Thanksgiving. The food is made of clay. They are making and coloring pattern drawings for Thanksgiving. Anne Johns and Charles Hoesele have brought O.K. clips from the dentist. They now have perfect teeth. The children are learning the Milnes poem "Half Way Down."

Mrs. Casady's pupils have started making their Indian village. They are making booklets to put all their A papers in. The Robins are reading in their primer now. In language class the pupils dramatized "The Three Billy Goat Gruffs." They are learning a Thanksgiving poem on hygiene in class they are learning the health rule "Eat fruit every day," and are reading health stories. They have begun an on time contest to see how many children can be on time every morning and afternoon for school.

The pupils in Miss De Waeles room are making Thanksgiving figures of clay. The first grade A's are making booklets to contain spelling and number work, and are also making a zoo that contains spool animals.

Jerald Frisbie had his tonsils out and is now convalescing at home. Miss Frantz's pupils are learning the poem "The Old Year." They are making booklets of Thanksgiving stories, and in art class they have been drawing and coloring Thanksgiving scenes.

The fifth grade A's in Mrs. Ulrick's room have begun the study of Australia. Virginia Garrison was returned to the fifth grade B class.

Miss Hornbeck's students have drawn maps of the Plateau states, and the fifth grade B's are making booklets on Great Britain and Ireland.

Miss Detwiler's pupils are learning the poem "The Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers" and are illustrating it.

Robert Daniels' division in Mrs. Holiday's room is ahead in the spelling contest. Virginia Brocklehurst's and Jack Butz's groups gave their dramatizations in Mrs. Bird's room Monday. The sixth grade A's are studying Australia in geography.

Class Notes

The senior high art class is making posters for the Women's club announcing a concert to be given by the Orpheus Club, December eighth, in the high school auditorium.

The students of ancient history are beginning their note books on Greece and the Greeks.

The American history students have finished the study of the American Revolution and made some very good projects for it. They are now studying the formation of the national government and the constitution.

JENNY WREN TELLS WHO THE STRANGER IS

"But you haven't told me who he is," protested Peter.

"He is Sprackles the Starling and he isn't really an American at all," replied Jenny. "He comes from across the ocean the same as Gully-nose the English Sparrow. Thank goodness he hasn't such a quarrelsome disposition as Gully. Just the same, the rest of us would be better satisfied if he were not here. He has taken possession of one of the old houses of Yellow Wing the Flicker, and that means one less house for birds who really belong here. If his family increases at the rate Gully's family does, I'm afraid some of us will be crowded out of the Old Orchard. Did you notice that yellow bill of his?"

Peter nodded. "I certainly did," he said. "I couldn't very well help noticing it."

"Well, there's a funny thing about that bill," replied Jenny. "In winter it turns almost black. Most of us wear a different colored suit in winter, but our bills remain the same."

"He seems to be pretty well fixed here and I don't see but what the thing for the rest of the birds to do is to make the best of the matter," said Peter. "What I want to know is, whether or not he is of any use?"

"I guess he must be of some good," admitted Jenny rather grudgingly. "I've seen him picking up worms and grubs, but he likes grain, and I have a suspicion that if his family becomes very numerous, and I suspect it will, they will eat more of Farmer Brown's grain than they will pay for by the worms and bugs they destroy. Hello! There's Daddy the Waxwing and his friends."

River Rouge Team Defeats Negative

Plymouth's negative speakers suffered the first defeat of the season for this school at the hands of the River Rouge affirmative team in a debate held in Plymouth high school auditorium Thursday, November 22. However Plymouth still ties River Rouge for the Twin Valley League championship, having defeated the River Rouge negative team in the same evening, each school has five victories to its credit.

The contest at Plymouth was judged by Professor Riley of the University of Michigan speech department, and was witnessed by a considerably larger audience than usual attracted by the probability of this debate deciding the league championship.

Affirmative speakers from River Rouge included Martin Massinger, Robert Seizip, and Hubert Rose. Ecorse was represented by Katherine Schultz, Tom Brock, and Harry Fischer. The speaking order of the visiting team was changed in rebuttal the first and second constructive speakers exchanging their respective places.

Throughout both constructive and rebuttal speeches the contest centered almost entirely upon the possibility of state aid instead of a system of federally equalized education, as the affirmative proposed. The proposition was formally worded, "Resolved, that the

Letter Tells Of Early History

Fletcher Campbell who has been busy during recent months compiling an accurate historical record of the membership of the First Baptist church, has uncovered much interesting information about the early history of Plymouth as well as the church. He was fortunate in being able to get all of the information he desired, except that pertaining to one member, and now in a letter from Florida he has secured that data.

The letter came from Lucy J. Palmer who recently left Plymouth to spend the winter at Avon Park, Florida. It is so interesting to all the members of the First Baptist church as well as older residents of Plymouth that The Mail is pleased to publish it in full, as follows:

I have a good piece of news for you, while reading over some of the old letters in St. Augustine, I came across one from Uncle Wells to Harriet dated Sabbath evening, March 1st, 1863:

"Yesterday, April 30th, 1863, at the covenant meeting we made arrangements with Rev. Mr. Northrup from Monroe to labor with us one year. He has preached every evening and a part of the day for four weeks. There has not been a unanimous coming of the church, some standing off. Yet thus far it has resulted in great good. Last Sabbath Miss Almada Halsted and a Miss Smith were baptized, today, March 1st, 1863, a Mrs. Dix from the lower village, Miss Harlan from Livonia, Della Warden, Phoebe Young and Ursula Hartough." Now I believe the matter of "where" is settled.

Federal Official Tells The Plymouth Mail Of Benefits To Come From National Housing Act

Raymond M. Foley, new director of the Federal Housing Administration in Michigan who is coming to Plymouth to tell the builders and business men of this city the advantages of this important piece of federal legislation, declared in an interview with The Plymouth Mail yesterday that untold benefits are going to come to the people of this state as the result of this legislation. Mr. Foley revealed himself as intensely interested in the possibilities of the new act, from the standpoint of a man as a newspaperman and later as a public relations consultant for governmental agencies, has made a close study of community problems in Michigan.

"In my opinion," he said, "the National Housing act holds tremendous possibilities for solving some of the fundamental problems of Michigan communities—without reference to the size of the city, town or village.

"The present situation involves some new problems relating to community well-being. It is true, but they are not peculiar to this special year or decade except in the intensity with which they affect us.

"The unemployment problem is always present in some degree and has always created a problem of dependency for the community to meet. The housing problem has always been present and by that I do not mean merely shortage or over-plus of dwelling-places. I mean the sufficiency of the facilities embodied in the houses to set up the proper atmosphere of contentment with home and this extends beyond the house itself to the grounds, the modern facilities such as sewer, water, electric connections and so on. These are all factors contributing to a degree that might startle some persons if fully revealed, to the problems of juvenile delinquency and the growth of crime waves.

"The home," said Foley "is the unit of our society and the fundamental basis of our nation. It is certainly the measuring stick of the community.

"For a number of reasons that need not be recited here, we have had, in the midst of the richest nation in the world, a set of conditions growing up that have been discouraging to home-owning. We have had consequently a trend away from home-owning and in the wake of that deterioration of the appeal of home to the family and especially to youth. When you get the whole meaning of that statement in mind you will have something to think about for a good long time. "That," continued Foley "it seems to me, and has seemed to me for a long time, contains the gist of our community problems. Promote pride in home-ownership—create better physical conditions within many of our homes—make it easier to own a home—and set up greater security around the effort to have a good attractive home—and you will have moved a long way toward solving the vexatious problems faced by every community today of unemployment and juvenile delinquency, and adult dependency."

Foley discussed at some length the effect that may be achieved in promoting employment by means of the housing act. He pointed out that the government does not lend money under this act, but tries to encourage a more free flow of private capital from banks and other lending institutions in promoting employment by protection to the lender. Under Title One, which authorizes and conducts the modernization campaign now under way throughout the country, he held that a definite step toward re-employment in the building trades is taken.

"There are about four million unemployed in those trades," he said "and when we get them back at work we will have created more work for people in every other branch of industry. Modernization of buildings, of every sort—buying new furnaces, new roofs, connecting with sewers, adding a spare bed-room, installing a bath tub, painting, papering, putting on a new roof—all these and a thousand other modernization moves possible under this act mean work for men and women and that is definite progress toward recovery. But it is also definite progress toward a better and pleasanter community."

"The possibilities for Plymouth are especially good, he held, because the nature and location of Plymouth make it an especially attractive place of residence for people employed in Detroit, as well as for persons earning their livelihood within the community itself.

"Surely no one will be so shortsighted as to question the especial importance of such an effort for a community of that character," Foley commented. "The later phases of the act, having to do with re-financing old or financing new homes will

Lake Cottages Being Robbed

Cottagers at Silver Lake are wondering what was the mission of the man who was found prowling around some of the closed cottages at the lake last Monday afternoon, broke into one and attempted to enter another before he was frightened away.

Mrs. Bertha O'Connor, walking out with her dogs that day, noticed the fellow loitering around the Letchfield boathouse and prowling about the vicinity of the cottages. Somewhat suspicious of his actions, she made it a point to talk to him, to inquire his business. He informed her he was looking for a man named Smith. Mrs. O'Connor went on, but when she was returning to her home some time later she was surprised to see him run out of the Kenneth Allen cottage and hide behind some bushes a distance away. While she hurried to a telephone to report the incident the man entered his machine and drove away but not before Mrs. O'Connor had obtained his license number. Whether or not he had taken anything from the Allen place cannot be ascertained as the family resides in Detroit and cannot be located. It is believed he entered through a window. Doors were left open by the intruder as he departed.

At the Letchfield cottage the screen door to the porch was found to be open. The intruder had very strong appeal in Plymouth, but Title One can do great things for you. I am very happy to see that through the efforts of Berz Moore and others of your Board of Commerce we are to have a modernization campaign there in the near future, to promote acceptance of the opportunities offered. I will personally be glad to help in any way and so will the entire PHA administration.

"I see no reason why we should not do much to improve Plymouth buildings and to add much business and employment for your local people."

Mr. Foley impressed the interviewer as being very much in earnest over the possibilities of the National Housing Act and determined to meet the challenge to his abilities with a deadly intensity which characterized all his discussions of it.

He will speak in Plymouth before a general public meeting on the subject next Tuesday evening at the Mayflower hotel. While the meeting is under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club, Berz Moore, secretary of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce who arranged for Mr. Foley's visit, states that the meeting is open to every one interested in the subject.

forced open. Foot prints identical to those found where the man had walked, were seen on the porch floor. He had not as yet entered this house.

Mrs. O'Connor says that the license number of the car was Y-31636. This number, it has been discovered, was issued to Leroy H. Schmidt, 4828 Townsend Ave., Detroit.

A few are wondering if the man could be checking up on a few of the cottages at the lake, with the idea in mind of returning later for a "haul." South Lyon Herald.

Duck Hunters Know Reason Why Luck Was Poor During Season

Little wonder that Plymouth duck hunters didn't have very good luck during the season which recently came to a close. Except for Jack Taylor, who is becoming known among his hunting associates as one of the real crack shots among the Plymouth hunters, ranking well along with Russell Powell and "Dave" Bolton, no one reported any limit bags during the duck hunting season.

Now comes from D. J. Janzen, regional director of the game management division of the U. S. biological survey, the statement that the fall flight of ducks over Michigan this year is the lightest ever known.

"Our game agents have been keeping a close check on hunting conditions in all of the important waterfowl concentration points and their reports to date are very discouraging," Janzen says.

"Lake St. Clair alone seems to be holding up fairly well, but even there a decrease in the open-water species such as the canvas backs and redheads has been noted.

"Our only hope lies in the possibility that the main flight of waterfowl has been delayed and that the ducks are still north in the Canadian provinces.

"A check on ducks killed in a number of hunting clubs in southeastern Michigan and northern Ohio along Lake Erie indicates that the numbers of old ducks and young ducks is entire-

"The average is running 65 percent to 80 percent old ducks which bears out our investigation carried on last spring in the breeding grounds of Canada that the drought of 1934 has been very serious."

When did you last take inventory on your STORE LIGHTING?

You would not clutter up your shelves and show cases with obsolete goods—especially merchandise that was ten years old and hopelessly out-of-date. Your inventory would quickly unearth such material and you would get rid of it at the first opportunity. But when did you last take inventory of your store lighting?

Obsolete lighting can be a serious liability because it affects every sale you make—or fail to make. If your merchandise is poorly lighted and hard-to-see, you are making it difficult for people to buy. Eyes are naturally drawn to brilliant windows and brightly lighted stores... not to dark windows and gloomy interiors. Outdated lighting is a far more serious handicap than most merchants realize.

Has YOUR lighting been improved at all in the last ten years?

Improving your lighting is not necessarily expensive. Often a few dollars will bring your lighting system up-to-date, and your increased sales will more than pay for the cost of alterations. Detroit Edison engineers will gladly check your lighting without charge or obligation, and submit recommendations. This is part of our service. Call any Detroit Edison office.

A MAN in Camden, N. J., is suing his wife to let him out of a hen coop! Or that is what it amounts to. What he is actually suing for is the return of the title to his home.

How, you might ask, can any woman make any man live in a hen coop? We forgot to state that the husband in question is a seventy-eight-year-old preacher, and the woman he married thirty-five.

When preparing a brown sauce which with its flavor and color adds much to most meat dishes, the flour is browned; it will be necessary to add more of it for thickening, as browning destroys a part of the thickening property.

Whatever the merits of the accusation of this elderly minister that his young wife made him live in the hen coop, there is something in the thought of my friend that for a man who remains helpless in such a situation it would be more rational to hire a nurse than to take steps toward a young wife.

Has High Praise For Orpheus Club

The Orpheus Club of Detroit will appear Saturday evening, December 8 at the Plymouth high school under the auspices of the Women's club of Plymouth.

Cyril Arthur Player of the Detroit News wrote the following for The News on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the club's first concert.

Twenty-five years ago the automobile knocked timidly at the doors of an incredulous Detroit and announced itself as the world's next great industry. Henry Ford had turned out a contraption at his little Bay Avenue home and the darned thing went. Two young men from Lansing were making a car with a curved dashboard. Detroit's great roster of industrial names did not exist, all those glittering symbols of Aladdin-like fortunes were yet to become distinguishable. The quarter century spans the incredible story of modern Detroit; and in that year, two decades and a half ago, twelve men all singers, met at the Samuel Richard Gaines, organist and choir-director, and organized the Orpheus Club of Detroit.

It belongs then, this organization now become famous among the choirs of the nation, indissolubly to Detroit. It has kept musical art parallel with industrial increase and Detroit, arrived at such surpassing material prosperity, finds that the little Club it nourished so modestly at the birth of its own fortunes, has come also to full stature, and worthily reflects the city's artistic aspirations.

On April 2, 1901—a few months after that famous initial meeting of 1900—the Orpheus Club made its first appearance on the program of a local choral organization; the scene was the old Armory of varied but affectionate memory. On May 28th, the Club gave its first complete program in the old Church of Our Father, which stood on the site now occupied by the Hotel Tuller. For twelve seasons—half the history of the organization—this venerable building was the Club's concert home, until progress wrote sentence against it, and the Club was compelled to seek its new quarters in the old Westminster Church, where Orchestra Hall now stands. Two years later, in 1915, the concerts were given in the ballroom of the Hotel Statler until the Club made its formal concert appearance at Orchestra Hall.

It is not to be expected that any organization could go unchanged through such changing times. In 1904, Dr. William Horatio Browne succeeded Mr. Gaines as director and the following season Frederick Alexander, now the distinguished music director of Ypsilanti Normal School, took charge with memorable results.

It was in October, 1910 that the energies and assistance of Charles Frederic Morse became associated, with such signal effect, with the Orpheus Club. Mr. Morse, in accepting the conductorship, decreed a serious and consistent policy, among his stipulations being that all programs be memorized, and that there be at least two regular concerts each year. To focus the activities of the Club in a useful direction, Mr. Morse conceived the present plan of giving concerts to a sustaining membership, the first of such concerts being given on March 15, 1912.

In the year 1920, the Orpheus Club took its place, fittingly on the stage of Orchestra Hall. In 1922, there was the notable participation of the Club in the National American Music Festival contest at Buffalo, where the Detroit organization won the second prize for male chorus work.

Always the story has advanced; its history covers vanished landmarks and vanished leaders. At its inclusion also a most fruitful conductorship, a membership scrupulously loyal and studious a policy influential and constructive, and a cultural growth which is not the least significant of Detroit's remarkable adventures.

The "stipulations" originally decreed by Mr. Morse have become the routine of the Club with others added to meet growth. Every Monday night from October to May the Club rehearses; its membership carefully selected and then as carefully trained. Twice a year its sustaining members hear the results of this finely-directed study and faithful preparation. In addition the public hears the Choir on Symphony programs. It has come, in fact, during its twenty-five splendid years to an accepted place of integrity and high performance, possessing the profound admiration and respect of the community and the approving recognition of musicians everywhere.

This Jubilee of congratulatory honors Detroit, which is not too busy nor too deeply engaged in reviewing its prosperity to give generous acknowledgment to a notable group of men who, with the aid of a gifted leader, have created a valuable contribution to the genius of the city.

Miss Mabel Spicer, with Mr. E. C. Powless and Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Powless of Highland Park, Park Mich., left Wednesday evening for Indianapolis, Ind., where they will spend Thanksgiving and the week-end with Miss Spicer's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Mason.

Some cities have the best judges money can buy. Beware of the man who talks much of his honesty.

BASKETBALL MANAGERS TO MEET AT CITY HALL

The first official call to arms for Plymouth's array of basketball talent was issued today when all managers were asked to meet at the City Hall Monday evening at 7 o'clock. Plans will be made for the coming season and new rules will be discussed for the play.

Each year the interest in the city league has grown and the teams are looking forward to greater crowds than ever before this season. At least eight teams will participate in the games and two new ones are thinking of entering.

CHERRY HILL QUILTING GROUP TO MEET AT WAYNE

Italian hemstitching will be the topic of the second lesson offered to the Quilting clubs of Wayne county, under the auspices of Michigan State College. Miss Anna Looking County Home Demonstration Agent, will be the leader of the Group which will meet at the Wayne Library Friday, December 7, 1934 at ten o'clock. CHERRY HILL

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Cole are celebrating their fiftieth wedding anniversary on Sunday, December 9th, at the Cherry Hill Church House. An informal reception from two to five o'clock will be held.

Miss Jennie Hauk and Mrs. Wm. Hauk and daughter called on the former's sisters in Detroit Friday.

Miss Thresa Combelleck, of Owosso, will spend Thanksgiving with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dunstan Mr. and Mrs. August Hauk called on Mrs. Jennie Hauk Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Vealey were visitors at the home of the latter's sister in Oxford on Sunday where they enjoyed a weekend dinner.

The bigger the fish the more easily it gets away.

Just To Be Sure

Her chest about to be x-rayed because she showed a "positive" reaction to the tuberculin test, the young woman in the picture above knows that whatever the x-ray film tells, can be counted on as scientifically correct.

In Christmas Seal clinics during the past three years the Michigan Tuberculosis Association has x-rayed over 12,000 persons. Of these, 1,810 were diagnosed by x-ray as having tuberculosis.

Most wonderful of all modern machinery used in the war on tuberculosis, the x-ray's coats in Michigan Tuberculosis Association clinics held throughout Michigan the year round, are paid for with money raised by the sale of tuberculosis Christmas Seals, which begin on Thanksgiving Day, and lasts until Christmas.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH
Richard W. Neale, Pastor
You are cordially welcome to visit all our services. They are planned with your interests in mind. If you desire the Bible's message for your needs and longings; if you crave joyous Christian fellowship, meet with us this Sunday.

"God's Way to a Blessed Life," is the pastor's sermon topic for the service at 10 a. m. Read the fifth chapter of Matthew and bring your Bible to the service.

"The Life of David, and Its Message For You" is the evening theme at 7:30. Remember, the Christ is not a lecture course, it is a laboratory course, based on the plain revelations of the Word of God. That is, we do not experiment in search of truth; but we do learn by practice in applying God's Truth to our lives. Only those "born of the Spirit" may do this; but it is your privilege and opportunity to enter the family of God thru receiving Christ as your Savior. Get a Bible Study Joan 3:16. Trust God's promise as His personal message to you. He can transform any obedient and believing life. Come and see what He has done for others.

NAZARENE CHURCH
Robert A. North, Pastor
Bible School, 10:00 a. m. Morning worship, 11:15 a. m. Young People, 6:30 p. m. Evangelistic service, 7:30 p. m. Mid-week, Wednesday, 7:30 p. m.

The subject for Sunday evening will be the Importance of the Theme "The Second Coming of Christ." This will be the first of a series of sermons to be preached by the Pastor on this theme.

Many have allowed themselves to become prejudiced against the preaching of this great truth because of much speculation on the part of some preachers. Some have even suggested dates, while others have gone far beyond what the Scriptures have to say about it. The Pastor will endeavor in this series of sermons to give you what God would have us to know. There will be no speculation whatsoever, nothing beyond what the Bible has to tell us, all are welcome to come and hear this first sermon in this series on Sunday evening, Dec. 2, at 7:30.

Ice-Cold Milk for Byrd Expedition

Only a few of the several exclusive pictures to arrive in America shortly before the end of the Antarctic winter near the South pole is this amusing one of two of the cows taken south by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, shown out on the ice for a bit of exercise. Heavy blankets protect the cows from the 60-degree-below-zero weather.

WEST PLYMOUTH

Mr. and Mrs. Orin Rigley and little daughter will spend Thanksgiving with Mrs. Rigley's parents in Detroit.

Daniel Cool of Stockbridge called on former neighbors Saturday afternoon.

Simon Brown and his son John, Wm. Spangler and his son Earl, spent several days last week in the deer country, but did not see a deer. The deer had evidently been frightened away from the locality they visited by the numerous hunters.

Mrs. Frank Truesdell is considerably better and was able to accompany her daughter, Mrs. H. C. Root to her home in Ann Arbor Sunday.

Henry Root is sick in his home in Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Hawley Cobb of Northville spent Saturday with Mrs. Miller Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. North and little daughter Shirley of Detroit were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Young Sunday. For the pleasure of Shirley, Betsy Ross was also invited.

Betsy Ross was the guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Asman of Ann Arbor on Wednesday until Saturday last week. Sunday evening, Mrs. Miller Ross entertained the Wesleyan Sunday school class of the Methodist church. This was the first of a series of such meetings. After lunch plans were discussed for study and service.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller Ross were guests Friday night of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Young who took them to Detroit to witness a play, "A String of Beads" given by the Young People in the Christian Church.

Thanksgiving Proclamation

BY THE GOVERNOR
"Once again the people of a nation are called upon by their executive, the President, to bow their heads in prayers of thanksgiving to the Deity."

"In keeping with the custom which the Pilgrim fathers established, and with the proclamation of the President, the citizens of Michigan are urged to join in this national expression of gratitude to their God for the manifold blessings which He has bestowed upon them."

"Schools, churches and fraternal organizations are urged to assemble their membership for the purpose of joining in thanksgiving services. Business concerns and public agencies are requested to suspend their activities throughout the day, and display of the American flag by all state institutions is ordered in recognition of the goodness of God."

"To supplement the proclamation of the President and to bring the attention of the people of Michigan to their obligation, I, William A. C. Stock, governor of Michigan, do therefore proclaim Thursday, November twenty-ninth, 1934, Thanksgiving Day, and urge its proper observance."

On April 8, 1909, Rear Admiral Peary went around the world in six weeks. He stepped one pace from the North Pole, and then describing a circle in eight paces, was back to the starting point, the end of the first and only journey, passing through the meridians.
