

School Bonds And Interest Is Paid Up To Date

Over $21,000 Have Been Remitted On Debt Says Treasurer Hamill

Another $20.00 Must Be Paid Before Present Year Is Over, Payment Depends On Taxes

Plymouth taxpayers will be interested in knowing that the public school bonds of this district are now paid up to date. Not only have the bonds been paid that are due, but the interest is also paid, stated Herald F. Hamill, treasurer of the school board yesterday.

Last fall when local taxpayers began to pay their taxes, they discovered that their school taxes seemed to be somewhat high, this being due to the "debt service."

Now this debt service has been paid up to date entirely. The total was $21,902.50, states Mr. Hamill. But there is due another $20,380 in bonds and interest before the present year is over, and the payment of this will depend to a very great extent upon the settlement of delinquent taxes, states Mr. Hamill.

The bonds that are due and have been paid for are for construction work at the Starkweather school, the Central grade school and the Central high school.

Bonds that were due or will be due in October and April are shown in the following table:

Bonds that were due or will be due in September and March are on the Central grade school. Bonds that were due or will be due in January and July are on the Central high school.

Since December 1, 1933, the following amounts have been paid on Plymouth public school bonds:

Table with 2 columns: Date Due, Amt. March 1, 1934, Bds.-Int. $4,950.00 April 1, 1934, Bds.-Int. $6,250.00 July 1, 1934, Bds.-Int. $1,925.00 Sept. 1, 1934, Int. $1,875.00 Oct. 1, 1934, Int. $2,835.00 Jan. 1, 1935, Int. $1,125.00

Total $21,902.50 There will be due before the close of this year:

Table with 2 columns: Date Due, Amt. March 1, 1935, Bds.-Int. $4,875.00 April 1, 1935, Bds.-Int. $6,835.00

Total $11,710.00 Before taxes are collected again in December, there will be due:

Table with 2 columns: Date Due, Amt. July 1, 1935, Bds.-Int. $4,125.00 Sept. 1, 1935, Int. $1,800.00 Oct. 1, 1935, Int. $2,745.00

Total $8,670.00 To date between fifty-five and sixty per cent of the taxes have been collected, which is approximately the same as the collections last year at this time.

Whether the board of education will be able to meet the bond and interest payments as they come due on time, will depend upon the payment of school taxes and the amount received in debt service from the county treasurer which he collects from the delinquent 1933 tax.

The amount assessed each year for debt service can be used for nothing but retirement of bonds and interest, and after a few years the collection of delinquent taxes will be necessary to offset the amount which is not collected in each current year, and then there will be no time during the year when the Plymouth district bonds will not be paid to date.

Manager's Sale Made A Record

Once in a while The Plymouth Mail is pleased to call the attention of its readers to the "pulling power" of the advertising columns of this newspaper.

Last week the Atlantic & Pacific store carried in The Plymouth Mail a large advertisement for its "Manager's Sale." The advertisement in The Mail was the only form of advertising used by the store in Plymouth.

You will be interested in knowing the result of that ad in this newspaper.—The Plymouth A & P store last week showed a 53 per cent increase over the previous week. The sales for the week were the largest since 1929 and the second highest in the history of the store.

It is a record that Manager Stark can well be proud of—and it is needless to write a column as to the results that advertisers in The Plymouth Mail secure, especially in view of the fact that The Mail carried the only advertising used in Plymouth for sale.

Sewer Survey Started By City To Take Months

Officials Hope To Bring About Improvement Next Year

The long needed sewer survey for the city of Plymouth is being started and when it is completed probably sometime next summer, the city will know where all of the sewers empty. They will know that sanitary sewers empty into storm sewers and Tonquish creek. They will know, as far as possible, where every sewer in Plymouth is located, and when it is all over there will be a permanent record of them at the city hall.

It is generally believed that there are many sanitary sewers that empty into storm sewers, which were not constructed or planned for that service. The city hopes to remedy this situation in time.

At present CEBA workers are collecting such data as can be secured at the city hall. Later they will make a field survey of conditions, securing such information as not revealed by the city records. The hope of city officials is that when this information has been completed, they can use some of the funds they hope to acquire by securing such information to remedy some of the defects that exist and greatly improve the sewer system of the city, especially eliminating the foul-smelling Tonquish creek open sewer.

New Officers Of L.O.T.M. Installed

Those who could not attend the annual installation of the Lady Maccabees last Wednesday evening surely missed an interesting and entertaining evening.

Assistant Great Commander Dora Nicholson of Detroit who so efficiently filled the role of Supreme Installing Officer, was ably assisted by Supreme Mistress-At-Arms, Bessie Sallow, Supreme Sentinel, Julia Thorne, Supreme Chaplain Lena Willet and a soloist, Edna Eckles and Cora Sallow.

The following ladies accepted the charges of their various offices. Past Commander Dora Wood, Commander Elsa Campbell, Lieutenant Commander Myrtle Rowland, Recorder Keeper, Edna Magraw, Mistress-at-Arms, Doris Campbell, Sergeant, Elaine Archer, First Lady of the Guards, Edith Rowland, Second Lady of the Guards, Annie Blunk, Sentinel, Armita Hancock, Pickers, Elizabeth Smith, Deborah Mable Dix, Banner Bearer, Myrtle Dozembach, Mary Sackett, Emma Bolton, Color Bearer, Ethel Mirels, Zaida Gorton, Edna Drews, Hilda Eckles and Cora Sallow, pianist, Edith Honey and Captain of Guards Ethel Emerson.

A lovely bridge lamp was presented to Past Commander Dora Wood as an appreciation for her loyal attendance and guidance through the three successful years as Commander of the Hive. A set of lace scarfs was given to Lady Nicholson and a box of handkerchiefs to Myrtle Drews.

Following the installation service a typical Maccabee entertainment was given opened by two pretty solos by Mrs. Edna O'Connor accompanied by Irene Curtis at the piano.

Two so-called "entertainers," Naomi Atchison and Marjorie Smith entertained the crowd with two lively tap dances while their pals donned their costumes and applied make up for the big event which was a Crown Town Wedding. Such prominent performers as Mrs. Brown, Madame Queen, Brother Crawford's wife and all star supporting cast composed of members of the Maccabee actor's club.

Following the wedding it would be difficult to say which enjoyed the play best, the audience or the actors but judging by all reports every one called it a pleasant evening.

Ed. Scully Attends State Convention

Edward Scully of Plymouth was the delegate from Plymouth at the state convention held in Detroit Thursday, M. J. Murphy of Northville was the delegate from that township.

Family In Need, Not In Least Tempted To Keep Money One Had Found

If you lost your pocketbook containing more than $20 in cash that you needed badly—and if the pocketbook containing the money was found by one who needed it much worse than you did yourself—and if when the finder returned it to you, you discovered that the finder was one of ten children whose father had been out of employment so long that the little brood needed everything under the sun—wouldn't you be surprised—and wouldn't you have a word of admiration for the mother and father of the honest little lad who saw to it that the money was returned to its rightful owner?

It might be just what happened during the past few days.

Mrs. Irma De Laurier who is employed at the Detroit House of Correction last week in some way lost her pocketbook while on the way into Detroit. When she discovered its loss, with her son she made a search for it and notified the local police, ran an ad in The Plymouth Mail and did everything that a bride party given for the benefit of the local club at the home of Miss Gayde.

Next Monday evening ten members are planning to attend a banquet at McKenny Hotel, 8 p.m. The event is given for the benefit of the local club at the home of Miss Gayde.

Church Leaders Here Today Will Talk Problems

Baptist Leaders Coming To Take Part In Sessions

Considerably over 100 delegates are in Plymouth today to attend the mid-year meeting of the Baptist churches of Wayne county.

The sessions here have brought many pastors and workers prominent in the activities of the Baptist church.

Rev. Loy Sutherland, pastor of the mid-year church in Plymouth, in the program, states that Rev. Floyd L. Carr, one of the important secretaries of the churches' world organization, is coming from New York to address the meeting this afternoon.

Dr. Bruce Kinney, who spent 25 years in India, will be here to give an address and Rev. Roy B. Deer, pastor of the First Baptist church of Lansing is on the afternoon program. There are other speakers coming and the discussion states Rev. Sutherland will include many of the great church problems of the day.

Church evangelism, debts and missionary work, educational problems and Christian social action are some of the subjects to be covered at this all day session. To church leaders, today's meeting at the Baptist church is one of the important events of the year.

Baptist Men See Wild Life Views

Last Monday evening about 75 sat down to one of the Baptist ladies' sumptuous suppers for which they have become famous.

The committee headed by George Humphries provided one of the best programs furnished in these monthly affairs to date.

Supper was followed by chorus singing led by F. W. Hamill who then introduced the "lastmaster" of the evening, Claude H. Sallow, who filled the position in a very pleasing manner. Mr. Tracy rendered two vocal solos in his usual capable manner. He was accompanied by Mrs. Sutherland.

Following the entertainment, was called on for a piano and vocal number. The piano number was a descriptive selection of his own composition. The way in which this was rendered proved the old saying that when a man is unfortunate enough to go through life without any eyes his musical ability is greatly enhanced.

Miss Doris Hamill rendered two brilliant movements from a violin concerto by Felix Mendelssohn and was called back for an encore. She was accompanied by Mrs. Schontz.

The big surprise of the evening were two groups of readings in the Italian dialect by Alvin Fry, Al for short. He has taken up audience first laughing then crying. Al is a salesman for the Oldsmobile and a new comer to Plymouth. If he is as good a salesman as he is a reader, the other auto dealers better look out. We predict Al will be in big demand.

The above preliminaries were followed by six reels of moving conservation pictures by Mr. Henry. These pictures of wild life and beautiful scenery of Isle Royal were greatly appreciated by the men.

The committee appointed to have charge of the next meeting, the last Monday in February were Chairman Giles, assisted by Mr. Henry, Mr. Compton, Mr. Starkweather, and Mr. Millross.

Plans Florida Trip, Now Has Apoplexy

While preparing for an automobile trip to Florida where they expected to spend the remainder of the winter, William Parmenter, 801 Starkweather avenue, was taken with a stroke of apoplexy and is now confined to his home. Mr. and Mrs. Parmenter were going to Florida with Detroit friends and had expected to leave Sunday, but Dr. Paul Butz, his attending physician, states that it will probably be a few weeks before Mr. Parmenter will be able to move. It is possible they may be able to go later in the winter.

Six Candidates File For Spring City Election

Three Present City Commissioners Opposed By Three New Men

Five O'Clock Today Is Final Hour For Filing Petitions—No Other Names Mentioned

Five o'clock today, Friday, is the final hour for prospective candidates for the city commission to file their petitions with the city clerk. If they have any idea of running for one of the places on the commission.

When petitions were filed this week for John Henderson, George Robinson and Arthur Blunk, it became known that all of the retiring members of the commission have decided to run again for the jobs they have held during the past two years.

There are three new candidates in the field who have been urged to get into the contest by their friends.

Petitions were filed out last week for Ed. Wilson well known northside hardware dealer who has been put forth as the candidate for north side citizens. They were filed out and filed about the same time Commissioner Henderson's petitions were returned to the city clerk.

The other two new candidates are Stanley Corbett, who has been in the electrical business in Plymouth for many years and Attorney Perry Richwine. Mr. Richwine was a member of the charter commission that helped draft the charter under which Plymouth operates at the present time.

The contest as it has now lined up between the three present commissioners and three new candidates who have been induced to get into the contest.

Up to late Thursday no other candidates had filed or were circulating petitions. Bob Smith, who had been mentioned as possible names to go on the ballot. They also refused to get into the contest a year ago when asked to run at that time.

A double quartette from the music department of the high school will sing two numbers and Mrs. Harmon will present two tap dances from Detroit.

Another special feature of the afternoon will be a Valentine Tea which will be served by Mrs. Richard Olin as chairman and assisted by Mrs. Morrow, Mrs. Litzberger, Mrs. George Fisher, Miss Nellie Riddle, Mrs. Pierre Bennett, Mrs. W. A. Jennings, Mrs. L. E. Wilson, and Mrs. E. C. Hough.

During the past few months Plymouth has been fortunate in having some excellent pictures and the new attractions will bring additional general satisfaction to the theatre goers of the community.

First National Releases Funds To Depositors

$175,000 Of Deposits Will Now Get Interest And Be Insured

Interest at two percent and federal deposit insurance covers $175,000 that was released by the First National bank of Plymouth Monday morning.

The release of this money to the depositors in accordance with the agreement signed between the bank and the depositors on February 15, 1932 was made available this money to the depositors of the bank, which is 50 per cent of the original account, less that already released.

There are no restricted deposits now in the bank and all are covered by the federal insurance plan.

The ability of the bank to make this release reflects credit to the institution as well as to the comeback of the City of Plymouth.

The fact that the money can now begin to draw the new interest rate will bring general satisfaction to the large number of depositors who have played an important part in making this release of the funds possible.

Miss Routner Is Contest Winner

Miss Phyllis Routner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Routner, is being congratulated by her many Plymouth friends over her victory in the Detroit News Recreational Skating Carnival held Saturday at Belle Isle.

The youthful Plymouth girl won first place in the fancy skating contest, over hundreds of entries from Detroit and all parts of the state.

Park officials estimate that there were over 18,000 people present at Belle Isle to watch the skating event.

This is not the first time Miss Routner has taken part in important skating events in Detroit and it is not the first time that she has been among the winners, but it is the first time that she has won the News fancy skating contest.

W.C.T.U. Hears Of Liquor Problem

A very pleasant meeting was held by the Plymouth Woman's Christian Temperance Union at the pretty home of Mrs. Stringer on the afternoon of January 24.

The speaker for the day was Rev. Nichols of the Presbyterian Church who gave an interesting talk on conditions before and after the repeal of the Prohibition Amendment.

That drunkenness is on the increase is plainly shown, and that "Repeal" has aggravated conditions is only too evident.

After the meeting an appetizing potluck tea was served and a social hour enjoyed by all. The next meeting will occur February 28 at the home of Miss Nettie Pelham.

From the Michigan Union: "At the stroke of midnight, March 1, 1934, the Washington police deleted 200 liquor licenses. No. 1 to the Press Club."

A radio program was broadcast from this club, and among other speakers, one of the "wet" women congratulated the nation on the return to "true temperance."

Baptists Win In Debt Fight

A future that looked none too bright two or three years ago for members of the First Baptist church of Plymouth, looks much different today, thanks to the efforts of Rev. Loy Sutherland and the loyal members of his church.

It has been announced that through a re-financing plan, the obligations of the church have been reduced to a point now where they are no longer the burden that caused so much gloom two years ago.

Diligent work on the part of members, gifts of friends and the splendid co-operation of the Plymouth United Savings bank, have cut the church debt from nearly $2,000 to $700. Rev. Sutherland hopes to have this obligation cleared away before the end of another year.

In addition to paying so much on its old debt, there has been much spent for improvements at the church and there is much more to be done, he states.

Church To Dedicate A Communion Table

When members of the First Baptist Church of Plymouth attend their regular services Sunday morning, they will take part in the dedication ceremonies of a beautiful communion table, the gift specified for the church in the will of Mrs. Sarah Bartlett, for years one of the active and most lovable members of the church.

Rev. Loy Sutherland especially invites all of the old friends of Mrs. Bartlett to be at the service when her gift to the church will be dedicated to sacred use. Mrs. Bartlett died about three years ago.

Recently purchased song books will be used Sunday for the first time.

Asks Congress For Correction In Firearms Act

Local Company Suffers As Result Of A Ruling On Law

In an effort to bring about an end to an unfair situation which has caused the Hamilton & Son company of this city, manufacturer of the name popular little .22 rifle, to practically close down their plant within the past year, Congressman George Dondero of this district has introduced into congress an amendment to the firearms act that caused the trouble.

Amazing as it may seem, it has been ruled that because the barrel of the Hamilton rifle measured over a certain part of it, is shorter than that specified in the act, the barrel as a whole is longer than the act requires. All government officials have held to the decision and it is for that reason that Congressman Dondero is seeking this relief. As the act now stands, a license fee of $100 is imposed upon all dealers in firearms coming within the definitions of the act and as a consequence the sale and distribution of the above types of rifles, principally used by the youth of America, is unduly restricted.

Congressman Dondero, in sponsoring this amendment, believes that it was not the intention of the sponsors of the original act to thwart the distribution of such rifles. His primary object being to effectively curb trade in weapons employed in the commission of crimes.

Led by Mr. and Mrs. Cass S. Hough and Mr. and Mrs. Berg D. Moore, 75 couples formed in lines for a well executed grand march that brought the party to the heights of the evening.

The committee responsible for the success of the event was composed of Mrs. Cass S. Thompson, Melvin Guthrie, Sterling Eaton, Edward Scully, Edwin Schrader, and Walter Harms.

Not Going To Miss A Rotary Meeting

When William Conner leaves for Florida tomorrow to spend a few weeks along the bathing beaches and under the palm trees, there is one thing he plans to do, and that is not to miss a single Rotary meeting while he is away. Mr. Conner and John Willis expect to leave early Saturday morning. Both have been watching the weather reports, talking with local weather "experts" and studying news reports as to weather conditions between Michigan and the southlands, hoping that when the time comes Saturday to be on their way that the weather will be good. Mr. Conner has never missed a Rotary meeting in eight years and he plans to keep up this remarkable attendance record during the next few weeks that he spends on his vacation down among the bathing beauties. More than once while away he has driven some 50 miles or more in order to attend a Rotary session.

President's Ball Happiest Event Of Winter

Record Crowd In Attendance At Dance Held On Wednesday Evening

Both Dancers And Numerous Spectators Enjoyed Affair In Honor Of President

Plymouth's first presidential ball held Wednesday evening in the high school auditorium by far the most successful social event ever held in the city, proved also to be the happiest event of the winter. It was a mixed crowd of people came from everywhere, both young and old alike enjoyed to the fullest extent one of the most delightful evenings of the winter.

When the committee in charge last week announced that they expected a record crowd, they meant just that. The big auditorium was filled with dancers and spectators. If more had come there would not have been room for dancing.

It was a happy evening for Mrs. Cass Hough, the general chairman, who had worked diligently for three weeks to make the event the success it was. Not only were the guests most generous in extending to her their congratulations, but every member of all the various committees shared with her the compliments of those present.

The committee in charge of the affair estimates that the net proceeds will run nearly $200 and they feel that from a financial standpoint their efforts were well worth while.

The auditorium was appropriately decorated with flags and a huge oil painting of the president, the couples formed in lines, chairman of the decorating committee secured through Edward Scully from the State Highway Department in Lansing.

Music for the dance was furnished by Don Patterson and his orchestra of Plymouth. Auxiliaries of Plymouth churches furnished birthday cakes for the party and they were sold with ginger ale to add many dollars to the fund raised by the ticket sale.

The fund furnished by the Rutherford electric shop brought the president's address to the gathering.

It Is The Right Thing To Do?

There is one part of Governor Fitzgerald's economy plan that we are not at all enthusiastic about. In fact, we cannot see wherein there will be the slightest economy in what he proposes to do, and the danger of it is that the successful culmination of his idea would probably add considerable to the expense of government. We have reference to the proposed closing of two or three of the state normal schools. The Governor believes he can save hundreds of thousands of dollars each year by closing the Western State Normal school at Kalamazoo and the Michigan State Normal at Ypsilanti or possibly the Central Normal at Mt. Pleasant. We agree with the governor that he may save some money that is now spent for education in Michigan.

But if he closes the normal schools, what is he going to do to care for the several thousands of young people who become Normal students during the four or five years of their lives after they leave the high school of the state?

Is he not going to simply transfer the educational burden to the welfare and unemployment costs of the taxpayers? That is the only point worth considering.

The Governor knows and every one else knows that it is practically an impossibility for a young man or woman to walk out of the high school class room into a job these days. It is useless to dispute the fact that hundreds, yes thousands of young people are carrying on their educational work at the normals and colleges as a way to occupy their time, and hoping that through better educational equipment they will be able to secure a job that has become almost a priceless prize these days.

All of the students attending normal schools are not preparing themselves to become teachers, so they are not being trained for a field that the Governor claims is overcrowded.

The only reason that all of our educational institutions have more students now than ever before is because the great army of young people who have completed their high school work cannot secure employment and they know it is better for them as well as their country to be in school than to join the great army of unsuccessful job hunters.

We would like to ask the Governor, whose sincerity about state economy is not questioned, how he proposes to support these young people who he would throw out of the state normal schools—how he proposes to provide jobs for the hundreds of normal instructors who will be without employment if his plan to close the normals should be approved.

They cannot secure work as everyone knows, and the street corners and bus gardens would necessarily receive their new halls of learning.

It is not our intention to create the impression that all of the students and all of the teachers of the normal schools would go on the welfare if these schools closed. But certainly the government or business would have to provide some place for them in our rapidly changing social system.

Michigan's compensation of its normal instructors has always been miserly. The chief executives of the normals receive less pay than do hundreds of shiftless and needless political job holders.

Suppose we keep the normal schools open simply as one of the ways of keeping some four or five thousands of people out of idleness. Would not the state spend less for the maintenance of these institutions than it would pay for the support of four or five thousands of inactive people?

They might say that most of the funds for the support of the unemployed comes from Washington, so why should Michigan worry.

You can mark it down now that Michigan PAYS into Washington millions of dollars more for welfare than it gets back and if the support of some thousands of young people who are now finding a way to go to school is thrown upon the state, the taxpayers of Michigan WILL pay the entire cost. There is no way to dodge it.

The government is constantly searching for ways to keep its mills and its people busy. What better way to keep four or five thousand young people and teachers busy than by keeping them in the school room, where they at least learn something of decency and something of value that might be of aid in getting employment.

Michigan's normal schools have long been regarded as the poor man's school—where the sons and daughters of the man without wealth could attend and secure such educational advantages as the state normals offer. If the normals are closed, the door to greater opportunities is also closed to a very great many deserving and worthy young people.

If this proposal should be approved we will have a situation of where only the sons and daughters of the rich can go on to the universities—and most of the sons and daughters of the farmer and workingman and the small business man will be given only such education as offered by the grade schools. Then when their school days are over all they can look forward to is a job where only muscle and endurance is required, providing they can find such a job.

No, we cannot agree with the proposal to close the normals because right now there seem to be more teachers than there are jobs. It will be economy for Michigan to keep them open, even though it may not believe in more education for its young people.

One may laugh at the suggestion that these students and normal school teachers might possibly be a welfare problem. But why laugh? Can you tell of one single job open today that one of the students or one of the teachers of these schools might secure?

The whole question resolves itself down to just one issue, would it be better for Michigan to keep its normal teachers employed and the normal students in the school rooms, or would it be more economical and better for the state to throw these thousands of worthy people into idleness and upon public support with no job to be had and the future one of abject hopelessness?

That is the issue—NOT ECONOMY, and we urgently recommend to the Governor consideration of this phase of the question.

What Will We Do?

Will Plymouth, one of Michigan's cities rich in historical and pioneer lore, take any definite part in the centennial celebration that has been suggested in connection with Michigan's one hundred year's of statehood? George N. Fuller, state historian, in a letter to Michigan newspapers, declares that the Michigan Historical Commission and the Michigan State Historical Society, will be glad to offer any assistance that may be desired by any community or organization that cares to stage any kind of a celebration or pageant during 1935 or 1936.

Secretary Berg Moore of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce has expressed a willingness to aid in any such affair, if the community should decide on some event in celebration of Michigan's one hundredth birthday.

Mr. Fuller states that it is important that dates and places for these localized celebrations be selected at the earliest date possible to coordinate them with the entire state program covering a period of two years. Advantages to be gained by this definite coordination of celebrations are obvious. Their continuity will insure "something doing" in all parts of the State during the two year period of 1935 and 1936, enable neighboring communities to visit each other's celebrations and become better acquainted, and provide ideal itineraries for tourists desiring to see Michigan at its best, in all its historic splendor, with interesting entertainment that invites a more prolonged stay than usual.

Types of celebrations will include: Pageants, parades and floats depicting local and State development, the community resources, culture and wealth; historical and patriotic events; public assemblages and picnics with appropriate programs and festivities; programs in schools, churches, community halls, club houses; fraternal organization dinners and programs; marking local historical spots; various forms of commemorating the lives of those who have built local communities and the commonwealth; signs and emblems to focus public attention upon local and State history; measures that will bring all classes of people and sections of Michigan into closer acquaintance and knowledge of each other; features that will impress thousands of visitors with the attractiveness of your own community and the State of Michigan, and their advantages for recreation, business or residence.

These are merely fundamental features for celebrations, subject to elaboration or subordination to fit the particular type of program best suited to your local interests.

"It is the coordinated activities of every community in the State that will make the Michigan Centennial so big that it will command national attention and enable our own citizenry to become better acquainted with our own state, and an opportunity to tell the world about Michigan, bring hundreds of thousands of visitors into our midst, greet them with true Michigan cordiality and hospitality, and build more extensively and profitably upon the solid foundation laid by our fathers 100 years ago. While we are building the works of our fathers, we are building for the future," says Mr. Fuller.

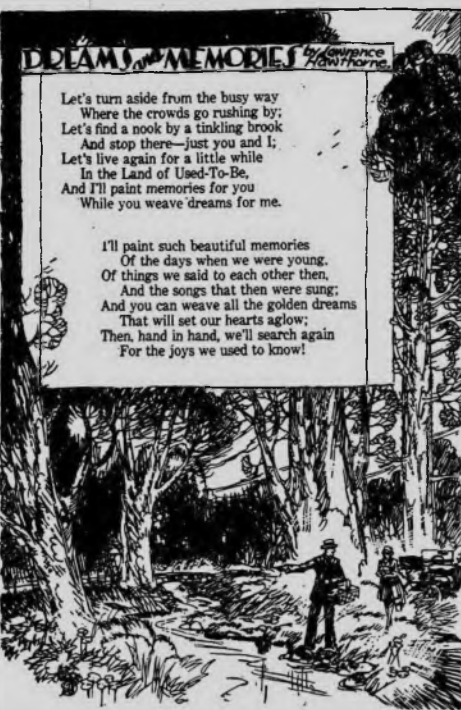

All The Buck

How under the sun we ever got the impression we do not know, but we had always thought that the hundreds of thousands of young men we sent across the Atlantic during the World war, won that war. But from a statement made in the United States Senate the other day, our impression is entirely wrong. Senator Nye told the senate that the DuPonts declare that they won the war and the soldiers and sailors who gave up their lives had nothing to do with it. Isn't that interesting news!

It Didn't Happen, But.

There was some talk a while back that Editor DeFoe of Charlotte Republican-Tribune might be the new warden at Jackson prison. He was not a candidate for the appointment and was probably as surprised as some of his friends were when he saw his name mentioned as a possible selection for this important post. This probably all came about because it is generally known that Editor DeFoe and the new Governor have long been personal friends. Anyway Editor DeFoe was not named to the place, but as to his qualifications for the job there is not the slightest question. He has made a success of all of his life's things, and he has been at it. He knows human nature. He is prompt and he is intensely interested in just the sort of problems that make necessary our prisons. He would have been one of Michigan's outstanding wardens if he had been named to the post.

Now that President Roosevelt is about to turn over to the people of the country some four billion, eight hundred thousand dollars in cash, it is up to Plymouth to get just as much of that money as can be secured. We should lose no time in setting up the necessary procedure and then go after all we can get, for the good of the city and the good of our working people.

Let's turn aside from the busy way
Where the crowds go rushing by;
Let's find a nook by a tinkling brook
And stop there—just you and I,
Let's live again for a little while
In the Land of Used-To-Be,
And I'll paint memories for you
While you weave dreams for me.

I'll paint such beautiful memories
Of the days when we were young.
Of things we said to each other then,
And the songs that then were sung;
And you can weave all the golden dreams
That will set our hearts aglow;
Then, hand in hand, we'll search again
For the joys we used to know!

Rambling Around With Michigan Editors

RUNNING TO PAPA

New Orleans, we read, has become a ward of the United States government in order to escape the dictatorial domination of Senator Huey P. Long. It slipped out of the jurisdiction of its own state just in time to prevent a hearing in a case engineered by Long to be heard before a judge friendly to the Kingfish. It is a rather peculiar situation that a state in the south, which has always been an ardent advocate of state's rights in contrast with a strongly centralized government, should have to throw matters of the mercy of the federal government in order to enjoy the rights which it should be able to enjoy under the terms of its own constitution.—Richard Cook in The Hastings Banner.

WHEN RICHES FLY

If riches do have wings, they're usually used in going away.—H. E. Condon in The Oxford Leader.

WHAT OF THE FUTURE?

A visit to the Welfare headquarters at the court house Wednesday forenoon proved that to be the busiest place in the city. With the halls crowded with people waiting their turn, and another lot of men and women packed into the offices discussing their problems and their wants with different members of the welfare workers it all combined to make us wonder what would be the end, and when, if ever.—Al Weber in The Cheboygan Observer.

KEEP GOOD, ELIMINATE BAD

We, at the present time, have no method of weighing the balance in terms of human relationship. It is necessary for the government to take care of its people. This is one of the primary requisites of a body politic. When people are starving and lack proper food and shelter through no fault of their own it becomes the duty of the government to see that the necessary wants are supplied. This obligation faced our present administrators and they attempted to solve the problem as best they knew how. If the various propositions promulgated by the government have not proved financially successful, they have at least diminished the amount of want among the people. The millions of dollars that the government has poured into circulation has been one of the most important stimuli to the generally better business conditions. Much of the government debt has been wasteful extravagance. We should concentrate our efforts on the deletion of this particular evil. We should concentrate on the retention of what has proven good and beneficial.—William Klamer in The Dearborn Press.

WISE CRACKING

If Mary's little lamb now followed her, it would die from loss of sleep.—George Shaw in The Pigeon Progress.

WELL DONE, GOVERNOR

Governor Fitzgerald continues to merit praise for the caliber of his appointments. When, for instance, he named Thomas Conlin, publisher and editor of the Crystal Falls Diamond Drill, to a post on the prison commission he not only makes a fine gesture to the many state weeklies which did so much to insure his election, but he drafts into service of the state a public servant of the highest type. Probably nobody could be farther from the usual type of rubber-stamp office holder than Tom Conlin. He not only has plenty of ideas and an abundance of good, sound horse sense, but he also possesses the invaluable ability to translate those ideas and that sense into some of the clearest and most pungent English now being written in this commonwealth. And considering how many good writers there are in Michigan, that's saying something. Men of the Conlin type can do much for Michigan. They are the kind that do not seek office, but when the office is offered them and they perceive an opportunity to help the state to which their loyalty and affection has been devoted for a lifetime, they do their duty. Men of this kind have the confidence of their fellow citizens, and in appointing men of their caliber, rather than the usual type of political hanger-on, Governor Fitzgerald is doing a service to the whole state.—George Welsh in The Grand Rapids Chronicle.

Ice Fishermen! Get A License

Do you have your 1935 fishing license? Unless you do, you cannot legally fish through the ice on inland waters, says the Fisheries Division, Department of Conservation.

Many fishermen evidently have been slow to understand provisions of the general fishing license law, now in its second year of enforcement. The belief persists in some quarters that a license is not necessary for ice fishing on inland waters. This is erroneous. The Fisheries Division points out, all residents over 18 years of age are required by law to have a general fishing license so as to fish in any manner on the inland waters of the state.

Fishing licenses are not good for a year following date of purchase

Fishermen Now Read Catalogues

The hunting season closed today and Plymouth hunters have put their old shotguns away. They have begun to feed their hound dogs and they are doing lots of other things just like normal people.

They can't shoot even a little bunny until next October. In fact if they are found in the woods with a gun, the game warden will make things simmer for the hunter.

So there's nothing to do now until the fishing season opens except fish through the ice if one cares for that kind of sport or read the sportmen's catalogues that are just being put into circulation for the 1935 season.

Senate Not To Jump At Crack Of The Governor

Group Formed To Have Some Say About State Patronage

By FRANK D. BROWN

Special Correspondent
The week has seen the appointment of an auditor general to fill the vacancy caused by the untimely death of John K. Stack, Jr., and with it the first sign of revolt against Gov. Fitzgerald's selection for major public offices.

In the republican controlled senate, Senator Don VanderWerp (R) of Fremont conducted a one-man insurrection protesting the confirmation of Mrs. Frederick M. Alger's appointment to the liquor control commission. All other appointments submitted to the upper house for confirmation this week were approved without question, including John J. O'Hara, prominent Menominee attorney for auditor general; John S. McDonald of Grand Rapids, former member of the state supreme court to the liquor commission; and Harold T. Ellerby, Birmingham, to the public trust commission.

Senator VanderWerp, who is one of the better known newspaper publishers of the state, an attorney and a first class member of the senate, although he has previously served as a member of the house, based his objections to Mrs. Alger's appointment on the personal belief that her presence on the liquor commission would make of that body a two-man affair, meaning that she would become a silent partner and that the policies and future action of the commission would be determined entirely by her two male associates.

The fact that Mrs. Alger happens to be one of Detroit's social elite caused Senator VanderWerp to feel that her presence on the commission would place the drinking problem in this state in the so-called "silk stocking" class, elevating and dignifying the habit to the point of being fashionable for the women of younger generations to indulge in the use of hard liquors.

The senator was not alone in this belief inasmuch as the sentiment in a hastily called caucus prior to submitting the confirmation proved to agree with his position in the matter. However, when the question reached the floor, Senator VanderWerp was the only one apparently possessing the fortitude to oppose such a formidable name as Alger and the roll call showed a lone dissenting vote.

A coalition of 11 members, composed of some democrats who have joined their republican colleagues has been formed in the upper house with the objective of opposing the administration's hand on certain patronage matters. This group, constituting a block of imposing proportions, must be reckoned with by Gov. Fitzgerald and the departmental heads in many matters before the end of the session if the administration hopes to fulfill the ambitious program which it has promulgated. These senate allies are not dedicated to any plan of embarrassing the executive and his agenda, but is formed for the sole purpose of checking such attempts as likely will be made to force down the legislative demands aversion to having both the senate and the house jump at the crack of the whip by certain "front office" spokesmen.

If present indications are correct, there will be little of this well known blind following of administration mouthpieces in either the house or the senate, although there is no conspiracy afoot to thwart the well intentioned program of the new governor.

A deliberate and somewhat naive effort to embarrass the governor occurred in the house this week but was quickly and very effectively squelched by George Schroeder, democratic speaker, who so far has evinced a sincere desire to cooperate with the new administration and expedite the work of the present session.

Rep. Harry Glass (D) of Grand Rapids, who two years ago succeeded the veteran Ate Dykstra, had prepared a house resolution calling for an audit and investigation of the books of the secretary of state for the past two years, the time during which the present governor held that office. Admittedly a move to place Gov. Fitzgerald in an unfavorable light, the resolution had gained considerable support from the democratic members of the house when Speaker Schroeder stepped into the picture and with the declaration: "We shall have no such things as that coming before this house," the resolution was promptly relegated to the land of forlorn hopes.

The senate, in fact the entire state, is awaiting anxiously the report of the special committee charged with determining whether or not fraud was perpetuated in the Detroit recount of votes for secretary of state. Two arrests on the technical charge of perjury have been made to date and following the formal report of the investigating committee, it is expected further fireworks will be touched off by Attorney General Harry S. Toy.
The committee is ready to make its report to the senate but has held up doing so this week due to the absence of Senator Wickstrom who has been in the upper peninsula to which place he accompanied the body of Auditor General Stack along with the other members of a special legislative delegation. On his return it is expected the report will be submitted probably Monday night or Tuesday afternoon at the latest.

On reasonable authority, your correspondent is informed that the report on the first count, viz: "Whether or not fraud occurred in the conduct of the recount" will be unanimous in agreement that such did exist; all nine members of the committee are expected to concur on this score, including the three democratic members of that body.

There seems to be however, some doubt as to whether or not the committee can agree on the guilt of Senator Anthony J. Wilkowski. It is likely a majority and a minority report will be offered covering this particular point. A sentiment prevails against any senate action seeking to unseat the senator for his part in the fiasco; first, because a trial of the senator before the senate bar would consume unlimited time and delay the legislative deliberations of that chamber for many weeks; and second, because by his seat would deprive him of his seat would place the halo of martyrdom around his head and practically assure his reelection by the constituency he represents.

This much is certain—the whole affair will be aired in a court of competent jurisdiction, Attorney General Toy, while clinging to the idea of a grand jury investigation, may reverse himself and decide on some other course, nevertheless, official Lansing appears pretty well satisfied that the last of the recount has not been heard and that before final has been written the public will have adequate opportunity to know and judge for itself what really took place.

Regardless of what a grand jury may do or the outcome of any subsequent indictments, the one fact remains that the results of the last November election will not be upset. It is simply a case of bringing to public attention the true facts of the matter.

Less than 100 bills have been introduced in the house of representatives during the four weeks that the legislature has been in session and no more than one-half dozen of that number have been sent on their way to the upper house. In the senate, the number of measures introduced amounts to about half that number. The affect of the recount investigation is plainly discernible in the senate's work to date.

In the house there exists a strong sentiment favoring the abrogation of the three percent sales tax on certain foodstuffs. It is proposed to exempt some 15 or 20 common items of sustenance, such as flour, bread, meat, etc. from penalty of the tax. There is another school of thought, which would return a portion of the sales tax revenues to the counties in which they are collected thereby reducing still further the total of local taxes levied.

The first bill passed by the senate during this session was one which would make permanent the "sticker" plan for purchase of automobile licenses. The measure makes acceptance of half-price installment payments mandatory on the secretary of state, rather than optional. House approval of this bill is a foregone conclusion. In view of this legislation, motorists, according to an announcement made early this week by Orville E. Atwood, secretary of

OBITUARIES

MRS. HENRY J. RENGERT Mrs. Henry J. Rengert, following a brief illness from pneumonia, died suddenly at the University of Michigan hospital, Wednesday, January 23. The untimely passing of the young bride who had made a host of friends in Plymouth during the time she lived here, has caused general sorrow among a large circle of acquaintances.

Previous to her marriage to Mr. Rengert on last Christmas day her maiden name was Mildred Eleanor Newton. She was born in Ypsilanti, October 11, 1916 and was christened into the Methodist church at that place on June 11, 1916. Her father died when she was three years old and since that time and until her marriage she had resided with her brother at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Newton of Denton.

The wedding took place December 25, 1934 at the home of the groom's parents in Plymouth, with whom they made their home after the wedding.

Mrs. Rengert was taken ill on January 12 with a slight cold. It was on Tuesday, January 22 when she became severely ill and was rushed to the hospital in Ann Arbor where everything possible was done to check the serious attack of lobular pneumonia which had developed. She declined so rapidly that hospital physicians were unable to combat her illness and on Wednesday evening she passed away at the age of 19 years, 3 months and 12 days.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, Henry J. Rengert, the mother, Mrs. Mabel Window, a brother, Robert Newton, her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Newton, besides the parents of her husband and his numerous relatives and a wide circle of friends. Rev. Hoenecke officiated at the funeral services which were held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rengert on Saturday afternoon, burial taking place in Cherry Hill cemetery.

GEORGE A. GITTINS George A. Gittins who passed away at his home on West Ann Arbor street, Saturday, January 19, 1935 at the age of 54 years, of heart disease after several weeks of illness was born at Plymouth, Michigan, December 24, 1880. He attended grade and high school in Plymouth and the Cleary Business College in Ypsilanti, returning to teach school for one year at Cherry Hill, one year at Dearborn and two years at Canton Center. On August 30, 1905, he married Edna Nash of Canton Center. About 1908 he and his brother Cass entered the grocery business in Plymouth, remaining in this business until 1910 when he joined the United States Customs in Detroit and later moved to Milford, Michigan where he entered the hardware business with his father. About 1920 he attended the National

College of Osteopathy in Chicago and upon receiving his degree he practiced his profession in La Porte, Indiana, later moving to South Bend, where he acted as special representative for the Grand Rapids Plaster Co., and vice president of the Indiana Insulation Co. of that city. He returned to make Plymouth his home in May, 1932 and remained here until his death. He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife Edna, a son, Douglas of South Bend, Indiana, three brothers, Cass, Clarence, and Perry all of Detroit, two sisters, Jennie Baker, of Los Angeles, Calif., and Charlotte MacDonald, of Lake Bluff, Ill.

Fisher Bill To Help The Worker

Dr. Edward Fisher, state representative from the Plymouth district, has introduced into the lower house of the state legislature an important amendment to the state garnishment law.

If it is passed, it will assist thousands of workmen in the state in their credit tangles, was introduced by Dr. E. F. Fisher of the Fifth District in the House last Thursday. It has been referred to a committee for a report on the floor of the House as soon as possible.

Dr. Fisher in explaining the amendments, stated that his aim was to prevent workers from losing their jobs through garnishment proceedings. He said that it would provide that before the actual writ of garnishment was issued by the court that the defendant would be notified and given an opportunity to go into personal receivership with the court acting in the latter capacity.

"This would bring about two results," Dr. Fisher stated further. "First, one creditor could not step in and get a large percentage of the workman's wages but an equitable amount would be reached and distributed to all creditors. Second, the defendant would know exactly when garnishment action was to be taken and his employer would not be served with a writ without previous knowledge of the acting being had by the employee, thus preventing immediate dismissal."

Dr. Fisher stated further that: "The creditor and debtor must begin to realize that only through mutual understanding will accrued debts of the depression be settled to the advantage of both. There is no reason why present conditions should exist and both parties must surely be aware by this time that only through some agreement can they both get by without losing everything."

P.H.S. Alumnus Has All "A" Record

John Randall, an alumnus of the Plymouth high school and a senior in the engineering division at Michigan State College, was one of two students in that division to receive perfect grade for the fall term.

Student Council To Give Dance

Did you know you had a date tonight? You have. The P.H.S. Student Council is giving its first dance of the year at the auditorium at eight o'clock tonight. If you've got to take that Latin over again, change the subject, come to tonight's dance anyway.

Social News

Miss Kees spent the week-end in Detroit visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Brower. Mrs. Brower was formerly Miss Cooper, who taught here in Plymouth high a few years ago. Doris and Nina Fishlock spent last week-end at Lansing, Friday evening they attended the graduation exercises at the Lansing Central High school. Frances Bridge attended a formal dance at the Ypsilanti Normal College Saturday night. Elizabeth Hegge was Elizabeth Whipple's guest Saturday night and Sunday.

Nosing Around

Well, folks, I guess the laugh last week was on me and I am glad you all enjoyed it and I wish to state that the A&P store still handles the well known Cackelberries and if any of my dear readers wish to purchase them from me I guarantee I will know what they are talking about. I now hold the title of Blue Ribbon Champion Dumbell and I deem it my right to defend it until someone else has proven their worthiness of it. So in any of my future mistakes I hope you understand that I am merely defending my right and sooner or later "There'll Come A Day."

Exams are over and those who got through are carrying the smile of victory and those who didn't are also carrying a smile but their's is of a different nature. It is the smile of gladness that it is all over and better luck next time. Jessica Goebel is looking for a master key. It seems that Jessica is the sole guardian of the dog "Pansy" who has such an important part in the play "Elmer." At the recent performance in Newburg, Jessica put the dog in a vacant room to keep it quiet but lo! and behold the door locked and poor Jessica started a frantic search for the janitor while the dog was seriously barking and the actors were trying their best to talk above the noise.

Jack Selle has the champion of all watches. Whenever this watch stops running all Jack has to do is drop it, jump on it, throw it against the wall, and soak it in kerosene. Then he calmly carries it to the jeweler and tells him in a weak voice that something is wrong; it just won't run. Some people are just born mechanics. A new game has been invented by some of local boys. It is the game of cracker throwing. The contestants throw oyster crackers at Jack "Pansy" Wilcox's mouth which when held open to its fullest extent makes an opening about eight inches long and five inches wide. The fellow who misses is a free throw but after all who could miss? Every once in a while the old love bug bites one or more of our weaker (male) sex. This time the victim is Ellwood Elliott and his victim in turn is Virginia Haugh. Ellwood staunchly denies he has this disease but all reports show in the affirmative.

Starkweather Notes

The advanced group in the kindergarten have started learning to read. They have read eight pages in their Pre-Primer and have done seat work with each story. Several children have been absent with illness and Miss Cavanaugh has stressed how and when to use their handkerchiefs particularly now that there are so many colds. They have learned a new song "My Little Handkerchief." The CWA men have made a new strong teeter-totter which the children enjoy a great deal. Karl Hoenecke hired a small davenport for his baby sister, from two empty cheese boxes; when it was finished he painted it a bright red and it looks very attractive. The boys have finished their airplane made from two orange crates. In it there is room for one boy to ride. In the second grade Betty Jane Fulton, Anne Sambrone, Elwood Dethloff, and Joe Fulton had perfect attendance for the semester.

Competition Column

Now that exams are over we won't feel that we are cheating if we pass a little information on to you which might have assisted you in writing your history tests. It relates to one Joan of Arc. Jack Selle informed Miss Ford that he was an English general.

Music Department Gives Entertainment

Members of Plymouth high school's various musical organizations have been busy for the past few weeks in preparing a program which they will present before inmates of the House of Correction on next Monday evening, February 4. During the past years, these annual entertainments have proved to be very enjoyable, and Miss Henry is hoping that this year's program will be just as successful.

The high school orchestra will play several numbers, including Light Cavalry Overture, Bohemian Girl, Country Gardens, American National Airs, and two marches. In addition to this they will play The Trumpeter, the solo part being taken by Gerald Hartling, and the accompaniment to two selections to be sung by the high school girls' double quartet, Allah's Holiday and Around Gypsy Fires, by Brahms. Two duets, Soldier's Joy and an Irish jig, are to be given by Nell Pierce, guitar and Robert Van Meter, violin. The latter is also to play a violin solo. Brahms' Waltz, being accompanied at the piano by Norma Jea Roe.

Ad. Lib.

While speaking of "Libs" Jack Selle, tripper among the daffydills, forgot, of all things, the Ad Lib. We think his collyme is a regular "lib"-rary. Was Slush Bove surprised yesterday when a group of his friends in Senior Drama Club acted out last week's Ad Lib. play, "Slush and the Cackelberries." June, XVG, the mono-syllabic-poet, should get some kind of an orchard for his perfectly ducky poetry last week. We were helping Mr. Stuart & Co. empty waste baskets last Tuesday when we came across this: When pesky poets pen Pointless poems presenting Puerile protests provoking Puerile patience, promulgating Preposterous propositions Pertaining to P.H.S. players' proficiency And preponderating perplexing Puerile passageway problems, —Pilgrim Prints' prescribes Profuse patience. The above may be another example of illiterate poetry—we don't know. As we see it, it explains that you don't have to read it, if you haven't your glasses with you or if you're not in the mood for such classic "stuff". After examining another of the Pil. Prints collymes, a reader dubbed it "dull and insipid." Tut-tut and tut, my friend, the only trouble is that the well-known writer has only read five of the series "How to Be a Wit in Ten Easy Lessons."

Agriculture Club Sees Film

The Agriculture Club was entertained last Tuesday by two motion picture films received from the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. The films were "One Point Landing," a series of pictures showing proper and improper take-offs and landings and "Trail of the Jack Pines" which showed the hazards of riding through the jack pines in northern Michigan with a motorcycle. The motorcycles were taken through woods and over trails of mud, sand, water, ruts, and on pavement through all the large woods and forests. This race is held annually and is sponsored by the motorcycle club of Lansing. The trails cover 515 miles.

Sour faces are always in order during exam week but none was quite so sour as that of Jeannette Brown. She merrily tripped down the halls Friday night telling Tom Brock that she had the highest mark in the history class and that Tom was some twenty points below her. Downhearted and depondent poor Tom sadly began to look at his paper. Before he had finished looking at it, he had raised his mark by thirty points, surpassing Jeannette's by ten points. Was she aggravated and was he jubilant? Junius II.

Tells Of Change In Corn-Hog Plan

Plans for handling the 1935 Michigan Corn Hog contracts were announced by John B. Wilson, AAA, Washington, D.C., at meeting for county agents and local allotment committees held at Flint, Kalamazoo, and East Lansing, states Ralph Carr.

The major phases of the 1935 contract are similar to those of the 1934 contract which was approved by a majority of Michigan hog and corn producers.

Contract signers are asked to reduce their corn acreage at least 10 and not more than 30 per cent of their base acreage for 1932 and 1933.

For the reduction in corn made by Michigan contract signers, benefit payments of 35 cents per bushel will be made upon the estimated yield of the land retired from production.

Signers of hog contracts are asked to reduce hog numbers by not less than 10 percent of their base production.

Restrictions on planting crops on contract acreages will be somewhat less stringent than in 1934.

Any bona fide producer is eligible to sign a contract.

On the morning of January 28th, 1935, we placed into effect the Depositors Agreement whereby the depositors are able to have available 50 per cent of their original account as of February 15th, 1932.

This release money was made available to our depositors without Government aid and made possible because of the liquid condition of the assets of the bank.

The release of $175,000 to our depositors of frozen deposits at this time certainly will be of great benefit to everyone and the Officers and Directors of the bank urge everyone to come in as soon as possible to have pass-books adjusted.

The Officers and Directors of the bank want to express their deep appreciation to every depositor for the cooperation which each one has given to make this release possible.

This released money is insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and bears interest at the rate of 2% per annum.

State Neglects Local Hunting

Russell Powell, one of the most enthusiastic sportsmen about here, believes that much can be done to improve the pheasant and bird hunting about here.

Why should not we have more birds planted here than any other part of the state? Doesn't Wayne county pay into the state more money in hunting and fishing licenses than any other county—and still less fish and fewer pheasants are planted in this part of the state than in any other part of Michigan?

There has been some talk about a concerted effort to induce the state to plant more pheasants and some partridge in this locality.

Right along this line it is interesting to note that a bulletin just issued by the University of Michigan School of Forestry and Conservation says the Hungarian partridge, experimentally introduced into several Michigan areas, has proved to be better adapted to living and increasing in heavily farmed regions than either the native game birds or the pheasant.

All that the partridge requires to live and multiply is a reasonable food supply and wide fence rows or grassy ditch banks and roadsides for nesting cover.

The farmer who wishes to encourage the increase of the Hungarian partridge can do so in his own benefit by establishing hedge rows.

In feeding the partridge will take almost anything. Mr. Yeater found, Summer food includes weed seeds and waste grain, leaves of grass and hay crops and insects.

We Are Pleased To Announce To our Depositors that

On the morning of January 28th, 1935, we placed into effect the Depositors Agreement whereby the depositors are able to have available 50 per cent of their original account as of February 15th, 1932.

This release money was made available to our depositors without Government aid and made possible because of the liquid condition of the assets of the bank.

The release of $175,000 to our depositors of frozen deposits at this time certainly will be of great benefit to everyone and the Officers and Directors of the bank urge everyone to come in as soon as possible to have pass-books adjusted.

Unfairness In Phone Rate Case

Charging unfairness on the part of the Michigan Public Utilities Commission in its consideration of and decision in the telephone rate case, the Michigan Bell Telephone Company Tuesday filed with the Commission a petition for a rehearing and reargument in its 1925 application for rate relief. This action resulted from the order and opinion of denial of such rate relief, which was signed by three of the five members of the Commission January 10 and was issued January 14. The Company's petition points out eleven errors in law and of fact in support of its contention.

The Company maintains in its petition that the Commission did not fully consider the brief the Company filed following the hearings; that the order and opinion did not follow the evidence in the case, and that it did not follow the law. The Company's brief was filed January 7 and the order was signed three days later, two members of the Commission dissenting and refusing to sign on the grounds that they had not had time to study the opinion. The petition raises the question as to whether the Commission's opinion, which was 145 pages in length, could have been written in the brief interval, particularly as the Commission was busy with other rate hearings during the period.

Old Cemetery, Now A City Park, Has Most Interesting History

That the Presbyterians of Plymouth formerly owned a cemetery at the rear of the church is a well known fact, but when one attempts to uncover historical details regarding this ancient burial ground, fact is replaced by fancy, and individual recollections give far too inadequate to be relied upon as authentic.

Recent inquiries were made among the older inhabitants of the city in an effort to organize a chronological history of the cemetery, but not until copies of the actual land deeds had been found could an accurate story of this Presbyterian property be pieced together.

Although the church location has always been the same, it has changed considerably in relation to the rest of the town. In 1835 when the land for the cemetery was received, the church was located several rods north-west of Plymouth Corners, as the village was then known, while today it is actually in the center of the city. That portion of Plymouth which is today called "lower town" was at that time known as the Plymouth village, while the intersection of Main Street and North Territorial Road was designated as Plymouth Corners.

With the church, in 1835, in its present-day location, but out of the village limits, its members decided that a cemetery of their own would be most useful, since the village had none. It was subsequently acquired in that same year when one Edward Brooks deeded to the trustees of the Second Presbyterian Society one and one-quarter acres of land directly in rear of the church, to be used as a burial lot. The trustees whose names appeared upon the deed were Ira Bronson, James Purday, Henry Tibbitts, David E. Hall, George Starkweather and Henry Fralick, who was later in 1852 received for these subscribers from Dewitt Holbrook and his wife a new piece of property lying just west of the original plot.

Following this, on March 30, 1858, Dan Panches and his wife transferred to the Second Presbyterian Society a 20 foot presbytery leading up to a team shelter which the church owned. This structure then stood in a position which today would correspond to the rear of the property belonging to the Detroit Edison Company.

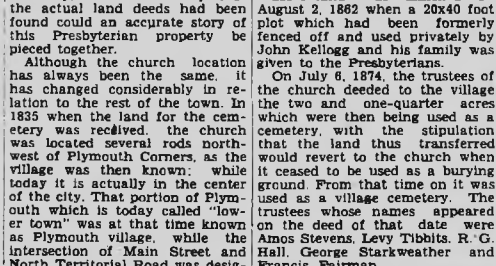

More land was annexed on August 2, 1862 when a 20x40 foot plot which had been formerly fenced off and used privately by John Kellogg and his family was given to the Presbyterians.

On July 6, 1874, the trustees of the church deeded to the village the two and one-quarter acres which were then being used as a cemetery, with the stipulation that the land thus transferred would revert to the church when it ceased to be used as a burying ground. From that time on it was used as a village cemetery. The trustees whose names appeared on the deed of that date were Amos Stevens, Levy Tibbitts, R. G. Hall, George Starkweather and Francis Fairman.

When a new manse was to be built in 1911, the church purchased from William H. Hoyt, a monument maker and marble worker, his property which fronted on Main Street and the present pastor's residence was then erected.

Finally in 1915, after the new Riverside Cemetery had been opened, the village decided to close the Presbyterian lots as a health measure, since they were now in the center of town, and surrounded by residences. The land accordingly was returned to the church. However, since the property could no longer be used as a cemetery, the church in the same year deeded it to the village to be used as a park, with the provision that the bodies in the cemetery at that time would be moved to Riverside at the expense of the village. This requirement was fulfilled in the years of 1915 and 1916, and the village then took over the land as a park.

Things were not completed yet, however. Dispute and uncertainties arose as to the exact amount of land which had been deeded to the village by the church according to the 1916 deed, and it was not until 1926 that all of the difficulties were straightened out, and the land on which the city water tower now stands became the absolute property of the village. According to the final deed, the church still retains a small plot directly in rear of their building.

What Would You Do About Taxes?

State Senator John W. Read from this district, who has proven himself to be one of the outstanding tax advisors of the legislature, has forwarded to The Plymouth Mail a list of questions prepared by Senator Andrew L. Moore, chairman of the senate taxation committee, with the request that the readers of The Mail write him their views on any of the questions asked.

Read them over carefully, and if you have answers to these questions, take your pen in hand and write them to Senator John W. Read, care senate chamber, Lansing, Michigan.

The questions follow:

Which is more important, the payment of current and future taxes, or the collection of delinquent taxes?

Should the state delinquent tax sale be held May 1, 1936? If not, what should be done?

Should the state continue to acquire title to tax delinquent lands that are sold at tax sales?

Should the taxpayer who pays his taxes promptly receive a discount for prompt payment?

How can real property best be relieved from the sales resistance now caused by the presence of delinquent taxes?

Can the real property owner receive any real relief if his land has a market value as well as an asset value?

Should real property be taxed, having regard to its ability to pay?

Should new taxes be developed in order to remove a portion of all school support from real estate?

If the tax is one within the ability of real property to pay, should the penalties for non-payment be made more severe?

Should the balance of the state property tax be repealed?

Should the sale of liquor by the state liquor stores be subject to the sales tax? It is not now.

Should the sales tax on food-stuffs be repealed?

How shall old age pensions be financed?

Should unemployment insurance have any tax support?

Should all descriptions of property for taxation purposes be prepared in the county treasurer's office?

Would the collection of all taxes by the county treasurer make for efficiency and economy?

Is it wise to set up as a tax adjustment board the various local assessing boards or any other local agency?

Should there be a homestead exemption from all taxation for aged people? If so, in what amount and what age?

What relation to the mortgage and contract moratorium laws have to the delinquent tax problem?

Is it more profitable to rent than it is to own your own home or farm?

Can there be any substantial recovery in this state until home ownership has become an asset?

Advertising may not break records in 1935 but it will break some companies.

Kansas Pastor Most Thoughtful

Not that we suppose any of you care a whoop about "saving an editor" but because there are several things in it we would like to have you remember, we are re-printing the following:

Here is at least one minister who appreciates the editor. At a recent editorial convention, a Kansas minister offered the following toast:

"To save an editor from starvation, take his paper and pay for it promptly.

"To save him from bankruptcy, advertise in his paper liberally.

"To save him from despair, send him every item of news you can get hold of.

"To save him from profanity, write your correspondence plainly on one side of the sheet and send it in as early as possible.

"To save him from mistakes, bury him. Dead people are the only ones who never make mistakes.—Wisconsin Press.
