

Seek Increase In Membership Of Plymouth C.C.

Business Organization Has Accomplished Much in Past Year

Highly pleased over the good work that the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce has accomplished last year for the city notwithstanding the fact that the organization functioned with practically no funds, the officers and directors at a meeting held Monday evening decided to put forth during the next year an exceptional effort to bring the organization back to the point where it was before the depression started.

President Herbert Swanson and Secretary Berg Moore reviewed briefly some of the work of the past year. The report of Secretary Moore published in full in last week's issue of The Mail brought forth considerable favorable comment.

It was decided to wage a brief but energetic membership drive, those present being divided into two teams.

The two hold-over directors, Herbert Swanson and Elton R. Eaton, were appointed captains of the two teams. The winners are to enjoy a dinner at the expense of the losers when the membership drive is over. New members and increased attendance memberships are the points which will count.

Herbert Swanson's team is composed of Floyd Eckles, Irving Blunk, Harold Finlan, Walter Harms, Ralph Lorenz, Potter Jewell, E. L. Wilson, Dr. Harold Brisbois, Roy Fisher and William Croffin.

From a preliminary survey it has been revealed that there is a much greater interest in the organization at present than has prevailed in sometime. Of course this is due largely to improved conditions in this locality.

The three new directors of the Chamber of Commerce elected as the result of the recent balloting by mail are Stewart Dodge, Carl Shear and Potter Jewell. They assume their new duties at the next meeting of the board, which will probably be early in May.

Grange Hears About Huey Long

The regular meeting of the Plymouth Grange was held at the Grange Hall Thursday evening, April 18. The pot-luck supper was followed by a piano and accordion program. High lights on this program were our two speakers, Emma DuBord, Wayne County Home Demonstration Agent, gave a most interesting account of her trip to New York City. Kenneth Greer gave a very enlightening talk on "Huey Long," expressing many facts unknown to most people and explaining how he has virtually become dictator of his own state. The program was well balanced by our surprise feature consisting of piano and accordion music by Mrs. James Gage and John Mastick and by a short play "With Complications" presented by Gerald Greer, Louis Norman and Jesse Tritten. All reported a most enjoyable evening.

The next meeting of the Plymouth Grange will be at the Grange Hall on Union street, Thursday evening, May 2. A potluck supper will be served at 7:00 p.m. An effort is being made to obtain a speaker and music will be furnished by Harold Kolk who is director of music at Greenfield village, Dearborn. Let's all strive for a record attendance.

Falls Off Train Skull Crushed

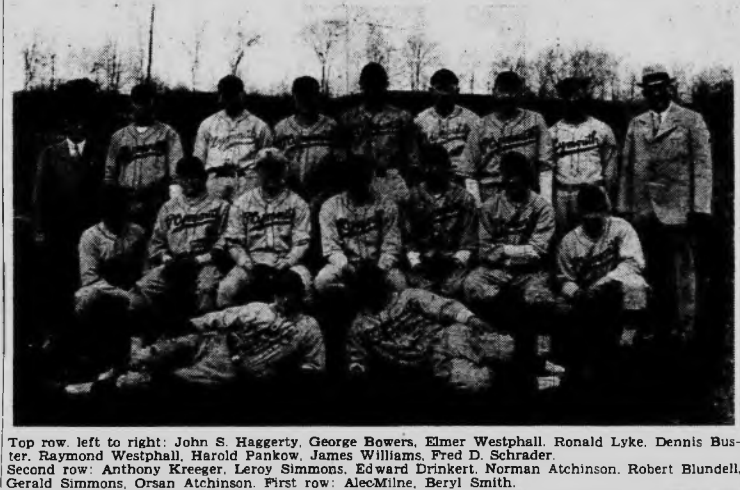

Jammed between two box cars of a train, which he was stealing a ride from Eloise to Saginaw, Charles Gregg, aged 45 years, an inmate of the county institution, was critically injured in the east Pele Marquette yards late Monday afternoon.

In some way he was thrown to the ground as the air brakes were applied and his skull was fractured in the fall. Another inmate of the same institution, Patrick O'Rourke, who was with Gregg and was also on his way to Saginaw, escaped without injury.

Gregg was brought to the Plymouth hospital where these injuries were treated by Dr. Patterson. Later he was removed to Eloise.

To keep love you must return it.

Orpheus Concert Saturday Evening

At the concert given by the Orpheus club of Detroit at the high school auditorium tomorrow evening, Saturday, April 27th at 8 o'clock, Plymouth people will be given a double musical treat.

Not only will they have an opportunity of hearing the largest and oldest musical organization of Detroit, the Orpheus Club, which is composed of the most outstanding men singers of that city, but they are bringing with them Miss Winifred Hunton Heidt as assistant soloist.

Miss Heidt is the leading soprano soloist for WWJ and is also the soloist of the Grosse Pointe Memorial church, and those who have heard her beautiful voice over the radio will be delighted to be able to enjoy a personal appearance.

There will be 44 members of the Orpheus club in the chorus on Saturday evening, each one being a capable soloist.

Charles Frederic Morse will conduct and the President of the club, Dr. W. Lloyd Kemp, will be the accompanist.

The Woman's club of Plymouth is sponsoring the concert and the tickets may be bought of any club member or at the door.

Sportsman To Arrive 4 Minutes Earlier

Agent F. W. Hamill of the Pere Marquette has been notified of a change in the time of the Sportsman, cracks Washington to Detroit train that passes through Plymouth each morning. It will arrive in Plymouth in the future at 7:31 in the morning, four minutes ahead of the schedule, that has been maintained during the winter. It will reach Detroit at 8:10, thereby getting Plymouth residents who desire to go to Detroit on business, into the city a few minutes earlier in the morning.

Woman's Club In Annual Meeting

The arrangements for the Woman's Club meeting this afternoon, Friday April 19th, are to be rather unique. This is to be the annual meeting and will open with a box luncheon in the Crystal dining room of Hotel Mayflower at 1 p.m.

Each member is to bring a lunch packed in a box and coffee will be furnished by the hotel. Following the luncheon will be the regular business meeting and annual election of officers for the ensuing club year.

The program which will follow the business meeting, is in charge of Mrs. Myron Hughes and will be in the nature of a pageant depicting weddings of several generations, dating back as far as 1860. Those taking part will wear wedding gowns worn in each period and music appropriate for such period will accompany each scene. This promises a most attractive program.

Mrs. George Cramer is general chairman of the day with Mrs. Huzhes, Mrs. Joseph Witwer, Mrs. Melburn Partridge, Mrs. Claude Dykehouse, Mrs. Robt. Reck, Mrs. Roy Mitchell, Mrs. Fred Winkler, and Mrs. H. A. Smith assisting.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Bullard of Roebush visited Mrs. Ellen Terry Tuesday.

Clean-up Week Begins Monday To Be Real One

Clean-up week in the city of Plymouth begins the week of April 29th. This is the one opportunity for the year for everyone to dispose of any surplus accumulations of rubbish, junk or other debris, at no cost to them other than placing the material at the curb for the city pick-up. The city trucks will start gathering up the rubbish on Thursday morning, May 2nd, and will continue throughout the remainder of the week and the following week if necessary until all rubbish has been picked up and disposed of. The city trucks will take any material which can be conveniently handled. Residents are requested not to place automobile bodies or other items which are too large to handle at the curbs.

The civic pride of every citizen should be aroused for this campaign, in order that the job of perfecting the city should be complete. According to the officials the only requirement is that rubbish to be removed be placed outside of the sidewalk so that the city trucks can get to it without entering upon private property. In case small articles are placed in baskets or other containers and it is the desire of the property owner to have the containers left, they should be conspicuously tagged so that the city employee will know that the container is not to be removed. The city will have the rubbish removed by Thursday morning, May 2nd, so that it will not be necessary for the trucks to double back over any of the streets. In case any streets are missed by the trucks, a call to the city hall will be sufficient to have the rubbish removed within a short time. In past years it has not been uncommon for persons to set out the rubbish after the clean-up truck has passed, which causes a duplication of work and traveling the same streets over and over in case of unsightly conditions in adjoining lots which are not cleaned up by the owners, it is suggested that the neighbors co-operate in setting the material out to the curb so that the entire city can be cleaned up.

Shriners Raise $100 For Fund

The largest banquet ever held by the Suburban Shrine club last Wednesday night at the Hotel Mayflower enabled the organization to forward $100.00 to Detroit's Moslem Shrine Crippled Children Fund. The affair was a colorful one and many illustrious guests were in attendance from the Masonic associations of Detroit. An excellent program was arranged for the affair by A. B. Gillis, president of the club and Harry Marburger, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Miss Kate Abel former Detroit girl who now is making moving pictures in Hollywood with his abundant baseball experience it is expected that he will lead the team in a base ball manner.

One of the nicest surprises ever perpetrated upon Mr. and Mrs. George W. Richwine was the dinner planned unbeknowningly by their children in celebration of their fortieth wedding anniversary. This delightful occasion was held at the Hotel Mayflower on Wednesday evening with the guests being seated at a table beautifully decorated in pink and white centered with a large spring bouquet. At each ladies' place was a tallman rose.

Celebrates 80th Birthday

When William Streng celebrated his 80th birthday Sunday, it was the first time during his long life of more than three quarters of a century that his birthday ever fell on an Easter Sunday. He attended sunrise services at the Hope Lutheran church in Detroit. The day which started in such a happy way, proved a most delightful one as his many relatives saw to it that this important event in his life was not forgotten by them. At the home of his sister in Detroit, Mrs. Katherine Fisher, relatives met for a surprise birthday dinner in his honor.

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. William Streng, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Streng, and Theodore Schoof, all of Plymouth, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Lammers and daughter Charlene of Toledo, Mrs. Edwin Block of Muncie, Indiana, Mrs. Mary Saddock, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Fisher, Miss Lillian Fisher, Albert Fisher, Raymond Fisher and Mrs. Katherine Fisher, all of Detroit.

He received many gifts that he greatly appreciates. Mr. Streng has been a consistent reader of The Plymouth Mail since its first issue nearly half a century ago. He has never missed an issue of the paper and no one more thoroughly enjoys reading the news of his home town than does Mr. Streng, who in spite of his 80 years, is as actively interested in the affairs of the community as the younger generation. His list of friends wish for him many more birthdays such as enjoyed Sunday.

The city of Plymouth has a wide reputation of being a clean, neat, well kept community in which all citizens cooperate in civic beautification. It should be the desire of every citizen to make this reputation more outstanding by making every effort towards a complete clean-up during the week. The city manager urges that anyone having special problems or those having rubbish which is not picked up by the trucks, to call the city hall immediately so that prompt service can be rendered.

Methodists To Hear Big Choir

Two big Sunday night services are in store for the Methodist church for the next two weeks. On Sunday night the A Cappella Chorus of the Spring Arbor Junior college will present a service of Sacred Songs. This choir is spending the week of spring vacation traveling and is to give its program in a Detroit church in the morning, stopping at Plymouth in the evening on its way home.

Sunday evening, May 5, the people of the Dearborn Methodist church will give "The Rock," Hamelin's finest Biblical drama. The people of Plymouth have an unusual opportunity to enjoy them as they see "The Rock," Ralph Marlett plays the part of Peter, his interpretation of this character being outstanding in that this will be his one hundredth production. Other members of the cast have unusual dramatic ability. The group are accompanied by a talented young harpist, Miss Louise Smith. Watch the paper for more detailed announcement next week.

Stake Out Plant

Apparently there is no longer any question as to the intention of Henry Ford to build a large new plant at Northville where he will produce the new cars that go into the making of his automobiles.

Mr. Ford, accompanied by a number of engineers, were in Northville Wednesday with plans of the new building.

They carefully went over all of the Ford property in the community and staked out the new plant to a point somewhat north of the present Ford plant.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Eaton are the parents of baby girl, Sally Lucinda, born Thursday night, April 18 at the Plymouth hospital.

Paper Stealing Causes Action

Officers have received numerous complaints recently of the theft of newspapers, that they are left in the doorways of local drug stores. So numerous have been these complaints that they are now beginning a watch to try and find the guilty parties.

Packages are broken open and papers taken without money being left for them. As this is a distinct loss to the two young girls who handle the morning papers, officers are especially anxious to stop the thefts.

Not only are papers being taken from packages but complaints have been received that they have been removed from doors after being delivered.

Miss Jane Whipple is home from Antioch, Ohio, for the spring vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lyon and daughter of Detroit spent Sunday at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bennett.

1878 Lawrence B. Samsen 1935

The many Plymouth friends of Lawrence B. Samsen who was associated with his father Fred W. Samsen in the publication of The Plymouth Mail until five years ago were surprised to learn of his sudden death last Sunday at his home in Newton Falls, Ohio. Mr. Samsen had recently undergone an operation for appendicitis in the hospital at Warren but he had recovered to such an extent that he had been removed to his home and was able to be about the house.

Sunday afternoon he had walked about the home for a brief while and as he sat down he said to Mrs. Samsen that he felt faint. Almost immediately he passed into unconsciousness. Attending physicians said death had been instantaneous.

It was four years ago when Mr. Samsen went to Newton Falls and purchased the newspaper of that place. At one time he had been in newspaper work in that state and he had always looked with favor upon the part of Ohio in which he had located. In spite of great odds due to unusual business conditions prevailing in that city because of the closing of the steel mills, he had done much to improve the paper.

Born in Blissfield, Michigan, September 4, 1878, the son of Fred W. and Sophia Samsen, he had spent practically his entire life in the newspaper business. His father, who lives in retirement in Plymouth, is one of the veteran newspaper publishers of Michigan. As soon as his school days were completed the younger Samsen became interested in newspaper work.

Previous to coming to Plymouth he had edited The Milan Leader, The South Lyon Herald and other community newspapers. In all the fields where he had worked he had met with success.

Under the splendid and ideal tutelage of his father, the young man learned the success riddle of life as well as the newspaper business. In fact the proper newspaper spirit that had been instilled in him by his father had much to do with his progress in newspaper circles.

He came to Plymouth some 20 years ago after selling the South Lyon Herald, to become the editor of his father's newspaper, The Plymouth Mail. Mr. Samsen had owned and edited the paper for nearly a quarter of a century, correctly visualized the future of Plymouth and he knew that the community and its newspaper were bound to grow. Under the combined efforts of father and son, The Plymouth Mail prospered and became a real asset to the community.

During his 17 years of residence in Plymouth he was keenly interested in all of its affairs. For a number of years he was a director of The Plymouth United Savings bank and had not a vacant hour as a member of the Rotary club. He was one of its active members for a considerable period. Of a most genial nature, he numbered among his friends his every acquaintance.

Surviving are his father, Fred W. Samsen of Plymouth, his wife, Mrs. George Samsen, who will continue the publication of his newspaper at Newton Falls, a daughter, Phyllis, at home; a foster daughter, Mrs. Ruth Fox of Northville, and a brother, Ralph Samsen of Willoughby, Ohio.

Brief services were conducted in Newton Falls, Tuesday forenoon, and the paper for publication from Schrader Bros. funeral home in Plymouth Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Rev. Walter Nichol, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated. Burial took place in Riverside cemetery.

Prospects are that the new Ford plant at Newburg will be completed within the next month. All of the brick work will be finished within the next day or so and workmen are now busy arranging the interior.

The plant, which is one of the most complete and elaborate that the Ford Motor Car company has ever erected in this locality, occupies a beautiful site overlooking Newburg lake.

Its construction has provided employment for some 35 Plymouth workmen ever since late last fall when they finished construction of the new Plymouth Mill building. All of the men who worked on the Mill building were given employment on the new Ford plant, in addition to some 15 or 18 others.

The plant will provide employment regularly for some 25 or 30 people. Twist drills to be used in the many Ford factories will be manufactured at Newburg.

The Ladies' Aid of the Lutheran church will meet in the church basement on Wednesday, May 1. The hostess for the day will be Mrs. George Springer and Mrs. Jacob Streng.

All the members of the guard team are earnestly requested to be present at the next meeting Wednesday, May 1st at 4:30 o'clock so that a thorough practice may be had for an exhibition which is to be given at the next meeting. The usual potluck supper at 6:30 will follow to which all invitees are invited.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Jesse Emery and Mrs. Wm. H. H. Harrington of the Detroit Board of Commerce, were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Arlo A. Emery.

City Officials Work On Budget For New Year

Public Hearing Will Take Place Monday Eve At City Hall

At an adjourned meeting of the city commission held on Monday evening, April 22nd, the proposed budget for the next fiscal year was considered.

The commission went over in detail the entire general fund budget, which had been previously submitted by the budget committee. In setting up the budget for the next fiscal year, the budget committee included several items which has been discussed by the commission or requested by tax payers during the past year. Because of lack of funds in the current budget such requests could not be granted. The commission is now considering the feasibility of the inclusion in the next budget of any or all of these items.

The more important items added to the budget are as follows: A possible increase to cover legal services, consideration of lawsuits now being discussed, an increased appropriation for engineering work necessary to carry out the surveys which have been started under the C.R.A., including the cost of expanding the pavement on Main street in front of the old DUR property, an increase to cover the financing of a proposed sidewalk construction and repair program, an increase to cover the cost of expanding the police service, an increase to replace some of the street lights which have been turned off, and an additional appropriation to cover the local contribution for relief.

At above items require an additional appropriation of approximately $11,000.00, which would bring the tax budget back to approximately the 1931 level.

The city commission adjourned the meeting until Friday night when the budget program will be more fully discussed. All persons interested in the budget are urged to be present at the public hearing to be held at the city hall Monday night.

New Flags Are Given To Church

Sunday night at the First Baptist church a beautiful new American flag, the gift to the church of Mrs. Louise Patterson, Mrs. Ida Stanley and Mrs. Stella Honeywell, as well as a flag of the Christian church given by the Rev. George Sammons, were presented to the church. The presentation will be formally dedicated. Present for the ceremonies will be the Plymouth Boy Scout troop No. 3, Rev. Lova Sauterlund expects to make this part of the service one of the interesting features of the evening's program. The church is grateful for the gifts that have been made to it.

Rotarians Discuss Magazine Articles

Herald Hamill had charge of the Rotary club meeting last Friday. His program was a varied one, considerably different than that usually provided the club. A number of Rotarians were asked to read published articles that had been published recently in the Rotary magazine. The discussions proved interesting and entirely different.

Want A Garden For Summer? Here's One

Do you want a garden to cultivate? Carl Shear has a fairly large lot that is of exceptionally good soil that he is anxious to give to some one to cultivate for the present summer. Mr. Shear states that he will be glad to donate the land to the first caller, but he wants to be sure that it will be planted and well cared for.

New Ford Plant Nearly Finished

HOW TO END THE DEPRESSION.

Do you want to really and sincerely bring the depression to an end? Well, the way is an easy one—let Henry Ford run the government for the next two years—make him President of the United States with the right to hire and fire. We will guarantee to you that if this was done, there would be no unemployment at the end of six months. At the end of the first year of his administration, factories would be working overtime and farmers would have a market for all they could produce at good prices. At the end of a year and a half, there would be a nation-wide prosperity and at the end of the two years, every one would be happy and the government would be out of debt. Educated nincompoops and politicians would be productive citizens or they wouldn't be eating. But of course office holders and politicians do not want to end the depression. There wouldn't be any more easy money for them to grab.

THANKS.

It was pleasing to The Plymouth Mail last week to have so many express themselves in such a complimentary way about the Fralick avenue improvement. This downtown street can easily be cleaned up and made into a most attractive thoroughfare. There is no question but what property owners will gladly cooperate with the city. It will eventually benefit them more than anyone else. Suppose the vacant property be cleaned, graded, planted and landscaped for a distance of fifty or seventy-five feet back from the street. The cost will be small indeed—and maybe the city can use some of its welfare labor to curb the thoroughfare and do a little shrubbery planting of its own along the street. Not at all a difficult job, if all will work together—and what a benefit it will prove to the entire city!

THOU TOO, BRUTE!

Not alone in his shame does Editor DeFoe of Charlotte stand in the defense of the small loan snatchers of Michigan. Low and behold there comes forth in all the glamour of a Roman knight none other than George R. Averill of Birmingham to proclaim that there IS A PLACE among decent people for finance concerns. The editorial expression of Editor DeFoe in upholding these outfits was a surprise—but with Mr. Averill it is somewhat different. His environment is such that he does not come in contact with the unfortunate people who have, through what they thought was necessity, become contributors to the coffers of money lenders.

If these two Michigan editors could hear the stories and money lenders. If these two editors could hear the stories and know the despair and tribulations this "easy money" lending brings to some, they would right about face at once and pray to the good Lord to be forgiven for what they have written. To defend such a kind of business as has been developed under the law permitting small finance concerns to operate in this state to our mind is almost sacrilegious. Surely in these days when the distressed are in need of all the help and protection they can be given, it is not good citizenship and it is not within the province of a worthy editor to come to the defense of such a cold blooded business as that represented by some finance concerns.

LET'S HOPE SO.

According to information from Lansing there are prospects that the house joint resolution which provides for a reduction in the membership of the Wayne county board of supervisors will probably be up for reconsideration within the next few days. It should be re-considered and it should pass. "Rural" Wayne is supposed to be against the measure—but all of "rural" Wayne is not against it. As a matter of fact except those who answer to the roll-call at the many sessions of the board and get their $5 for doing that and nothing more, most of "rural" Wayne is for the resolution. There was a time when we thought by the more equalized control of the board between the city and out-lying county that the out-side county might be a little better off, although "rural" Wayne has always been treated well by the board of supervisors as a whole. We sought this additional power by increasing membership on the board in one way or another. But when we did so, Detroit simply increased its membership, thereby always maintaining its top-heavy control over the board. The result has only been to increase the burden to the taxpayers without the slightest benefit to any one, except those who get the five for saying, "present." Knowing that there is no way to equalize this power and knowing that there isn't a whole lot to be gained even if we do so, the legislature can do one thing towards cutting down the cost of government by passing this resolution.

Rambing Around With Michigan Editors

WIND INSURANCE

Interesting incidents invariably follow cyclones, and Rep. Vernon J. Brown tells a good one in connection with the recent storm that did a lot of damage in Mason vicinity. Two farmers living directly across the road from each other went over to Hastings together some months ago to renew their windstorm insurance. Before arriving there one of them decided that he would drop his insurance, and despite arguments to the contrary he stuck to his decision. When the cyclone came along this fellow's house and buildings were tossed to the four winds of heaven, while his neighbor across the road, the one who had insurance, didn't even have a shingle displaced. The irony of fate, plus—Harry Izor in The Durand Express.

THE RIGHT THING TO DO

Admittedly, nearly five billions of dollars is a lot of money and it does saddle a terrific debt upon the Nation. But it is better to do this than to have people starve. We who are in the center of the greatest advance yet made in recovering from the depression may not realize that there are other sections of the country which have not yet felt the spur of better times. We may find it difficult to believe that there are regions where the full force of the depression has not yet been averted. The Federal government cannot stand by and let the people of these less fortunate regions starve. Food, clothing, and shelter have to be given to them in some way, and so long as there are no benefactors to do it, the government must assume the obligation.—William Klamsner in The Dearborn Press.

IN KEEPING WITH THE TREND OF THE TIMES

I see that the Roosevelt administration is now turning its attention to the enactment of laws that will prevent a person who can prove, if allowed to do so, that he has been injured by the changes in our monetary set up from doing so. Using the words of Senator Glass the legislation proposes to tell the fellow who has a legitimate damage claim to "go to hell." I am wondering what influence this attitude on the part of the administration will have upon the moral stamina of the American people. We have prided ourselves upon being a people whose words is as good as our bond (when bonds were bonds and not scraps of paper.) From that position we are turning to one based upon the principle that necessity is sufficient excuse for our going back on our word. I am not sure if we are not setting a word that will yield a big whirlwind at some later date.—Thomas Conlin in The Crystal Falls Diamond Drill.

A BIT OF COMMON SENSE

If Latimer killed his mother and then killed a guard in an attempt to get out of prison his acts are beyond the pardoning power of any governor. Gov. Fitzgerald may have the power to release Latimer from prison but such a man can not be pardoned. Latimer was convicted of matricide and homicide. Was 45 years in prison too long a term for a man sentenced on two life charges? The crime situation will not be cleared until life in prison actually means life in prison. Granted that Latimer in late years has been a model prisoner, his model conduct does not mitigate the crimes for which he was sentenced.—Vernon J. Brown in The Ingham County News.

WAR SHOULD NEVER PAY MONEY PROFITS TO ANYONE

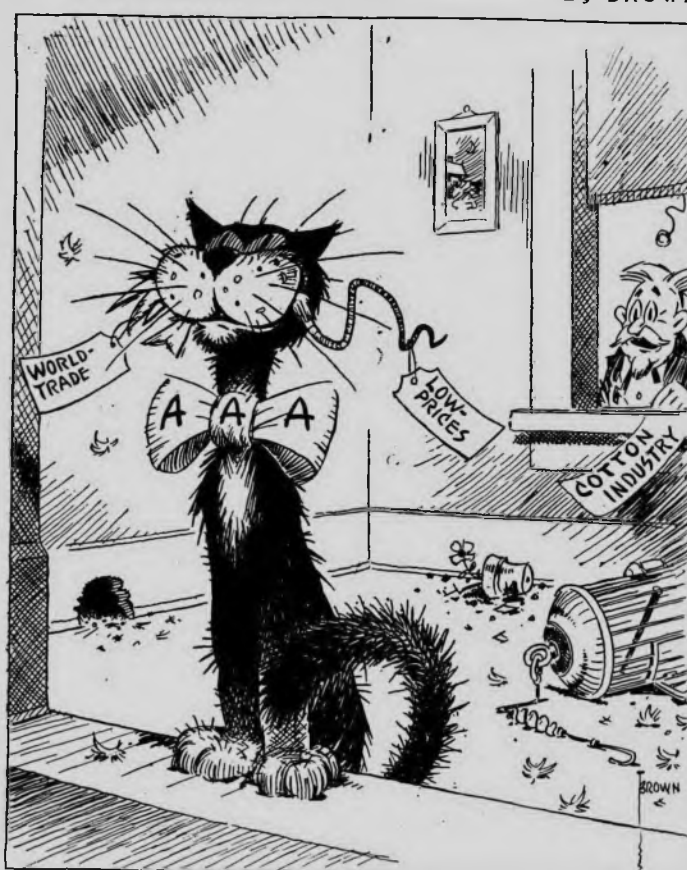

We are in favor of the conscription of wealth if and when the United States ever engages in another war. Almost without exception, modern wars are fought because of the desire of one or more nations to acquire wealth, either through the extension of foreign markets, or the desire to acquire additional natural resources. Such wars use the average human being of military age as cannon fodder. Governments pay huge sums for the guns, ammunition, ships, supplies, and other commodities necessary to carry on war; later on, governments pay widows, and the maimed, pensions or bonuses as pitiful reward for their sacrifices. In the background, however, the BIG INTERESTS hover like vultures, to pick the flesh of profit from the bones of those who constitute the great mass of pawns in their international game of high finance. The best way to prevent new wars, or at least to make them of shorter duration, is to take away the chance for anyone to make a monetary profit. Fathers and mothers can aid in the prevention of war by electing to Congress people who are unreservedly in favor of the conscription of wealth in time of war.—George Averill in The Birmingham Ecceentric.

NOTHING UNUSUAL

A subscriber who resides in Washington, D. C. sends us a portion of a Washington daily newspaper which contains the picture of a beautiful residence with the heading "Dern's Son Builds Home Through FHA." Dern is the secretary of war in the cabinet. Our subscriber writes, "This is one way that the taxpayers' money is being used while the Democrats are in power; hope this will interest you. Well, it does. It's interest is heightened because of the fact that I know of men in business who are unable to get money with which to carry on with although they have oodles of property as security and their word is as good as their bond. There is a lot of injustice and inconsistency in the administration of credit situation in the Roosevelt plan of operation. Undoubtedly the loan to the son of Secretary Dern is a good one but when others, equally deserving, are refused credit, one wonders if the much touted square deal all around is a fact or just fiction.—Thomas Conlin in The Crystal Falls Diamond Drill.

Understanding World Affairs

Stresa and Geneva

By WALTER LIPPMAN

The public announcements from Stresa reflect faithfully the present situation in Europe. They were vague, because no one knows precisely when the danger may come to a head. They were non-committal, because no great power in Europe today has a government which knows how far it can commit its people. They were subject to several interpretations, because within each nation concerned and among the nations at the conference there are wide divergences of opinion and of interest. These things are true not only of Britain, France and Italy, who were represented at Stresa, but of Germany, Russia, Poland and the Little Entente, who were absent.

It is by this very uncertainty that for the time being the peace of Europe is being preserved. The peace does not rest upon a feeling of security derived from agreement and good will. It does not rest upon the settlement or a prospect of the settlement of the vital issues that divide the vanquished from the victors. It does not rest upon respect for law and order or upon a collective system capable of enforcing law and order. It does not rest upon a balance of power or upon overwhelming superior power prepared to hold the peace. It rests upon the fact that nobody is ready to challenge any one else because no one feels sure that his armaments are ready, but his people are prepared to march, or that his alliances are in order.

It is true that all the governments, including the German, profess to be working for peace. And in one sense, a very tickwickedian, that is true. All of them would rather gain their purposes without war than by war. But the Germans will not renounce their purpose to dominate Central Europe and the lands to the east of them, and the former allies will not surrender to Germany an imperial domain. What is more, the Germans know this and the Allies know it. Therefore, the German peace program is to become so strong that the Germans will not dare to move.

The German contribution to peace will, therefore consist in the development of the greatest army in Europe, in subversive propaganda, and intrigue in Austria and elsewhere along the line of her intended conquests, and of diplomatic maneuvers designed to prevent the former Allies from reconstructing their alliance. The French, Italian and Russian contributions to peace will consist in developing their military forces, in fitting them together for some sort of unified action, in countering the German penetration of Central Europe, and in persuading and maneuvering to bring Great Britain into the coalition. The British contribution will consist in strengthening her forces, and by refraining from making full commitments to any one, in preserving precariously a balance of power.

fight in Europe without being attacked in Asia?

Who is going to be in power in Great Britain a year hence? Will the isolationists control British policy? Or will they merely influence it enough to repeat 1914, and put Britain in a position where she cannot use her power to prevent war though she is inextricably entangled if war comes?

These are the few of the many deep uncertainties in Europe today, and they help to explain the hesitations and the ambiguities of the public announcements and of public policy.

The Crisis Over Cotton

By Mark Sullivan

The condition which newspaper dispatches describe, accurately, as "the cotton crisis" is at a point where something must break or be done. Either the Administration must take a step backward from AAA or it must go forward, adding another to the body of binding restrictions which triple A already is.

More than cotton is involved and more than triple A. The whole conception of the New Deal, of "national planning" is involved. Within a short time will be decided whether we shall begin to abandon "national planning" or go farther and farther into it. For understanding of the present situation an extremely brief and necessarily incomplete statement is desirable.

The situation begins with a policy laid down by Mr. Roosevelt in his campaign for the Presidency.

On September 14, 1932, at Topeka, Kan., he said: "We must have national planning in agriculture. Then on March 16, 1933, Mr. Roosevelt at that time less than two weeks in office, sent to Congress the bill for farm relief. In his message accompanying the bill Mr. Roosevelt said to Congress:

"I tell you frankly that it is a new and untried path. If a fair administrative trial of it is made and it does not produce the hoped for results, I shall be the first to acknowledge it and advise you."

The bill was passed and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration was set up. The first farm commodity deal with was cotton. As respects the farmer, all these steps were voluntary. He under one acre out of every four that had been planted. For the next season farmers were paid to plant less acreage than they had been planting.

Farmers were guaranteed a price for cotton. The guaranty takes this form: The government lends 12 cents a pound on cotton, and promises to take the cotton off the farmer's hands if the price is less than 12 cents when the loan comes due.

To procure the money paid to the farmer, the Administration put a "processing tax" of 4.2 cents a pound on cotton, to be paid by all manufacturers of cotton goods. As respects the farmer, all these steps were voluntary. He could take the money from the Administration and reduce his crop, or he could reject the money and plant as much as he pleased. But all the voluntary steps turned out to be not enough. Much reduction was accomplished as the Administration had planned. Thereupon the reduction was made compulsory.

As a consequence of these steps, several conditions have arisen. The high price of American cotton, about 12 cents a pound, has caused foreign manufacturers to buy from other countries.

It should be said that Secretary Wallace claims the diminished sale of American cotton abroad is not wholly due to triple A. But it should also be said that disinterested authorities assert strongly and generally that triple A is the cause.

As another consequence, flowing from the artificial high price and the processing tax, the cost of manufactured cotton goods in America, clothing or what not, has increased. Because of the increase in cost, consumers are buying less. Mills are closing down partly or wholly, and unemployment results.

As another consequence, farm tenants and share-croppers in the South, not needed when the crop is restricted, are thrown on relief.

As yet another consequence, Japan, able to buy foreign-raised cotton at a lower price than America is able to undersell American cotton manufacturers in America. This adds another to the causes of unemployment.

The sum of all these conditions composes the cotton crisis. There is outcry from practically every interest affected by cotton. The remedies suggested are too many to enumerate here. Most of the possible remedies fall under one of two heads. The ways out are either retreat from triple A or else greater and greater control of cotton raising, of dealing in cotton and of cotton manufacture.

The evident disposition of the Administration is to go on. There is no sign of Mr. Roosevelt taking advantage of his suggestions of two years ago, that if triple A should not succeed he would acknowledge the failure.

Tremendous Trifles
 By ELMO SCOTT WATSON
 "HE SHOT AN ARROW—"

THE capture of the important Spanish fortress of San Lorenzo by Sir Henry Morgan, the famous English buccaneer, was not due to his expert generalship as much as it was to a strange circumstance over which he had no control. In his command were a number of pirates. One day, during the siege of the fortress one of these men was pierced in the side by an arrow. The cutthroat pulled from his flesh vowing to send it back to the Spaniards as fast as he could. Wadding cotton around the end of the arrow, he crammed it into the barrel of his gun, took aim and fired. The missile went sailing over the fortress wall and was lost from view. It was merely a gesture of revenge. No one dreamed of the consequences.

But the cotton was kindled by the powder which in turn set fire to the thatched roof of a building inside the fortress. The Spaniards were frantically trying to get the flames under control when the creeping fire reached the powder magazines. They exploded, bursting part of the walls, and Morgan rushed in to capture the stronghold.

Sees Little Benefit In Peddling Of Federal Papp To Distressed Workers of Company—Officials Will Be Held For Accounting In The Future

Jennie R. Field, well known Missouri newspaper writer and a special friend of Mrs. Coello Hamilton of Plymouth, who has often visited at the Hamilton home in this city, has sent Mrs. Hamilton the copy of one of her recent articles published in the Poplar Bluff Republican. The subject of the article "Prospects of Billions Paralleled out in the Name of Relief Will Not Silence Growing Resentment."

The article follows: On April 9 President Roosevelt signed the $4,880,000,000 work-relief bill which Congress fought over for several days. It is said that the President will personally direct this vast work-relief program, and personally allot all public works money.

It is difficult to comprehend so vast an amount of money, and still more difficult to comprehend how methods will be devised for spending it intelligently. However, spending money isn't the most vital part in restoring prosperity. Making money is the first consideration, no matter what people may say to the contrary. Anybody who has seen money which has been saved demonstrated during the first two years of the present administration, but the ability to spend and spend wisely is not vested in every one. Judicious spending is usually on the part of those who have had to earn money by honest sweat and toil.

The records of those who are in high office do not indicate great sagacity or perspicuity in the conduct of their personal affairs. Much less have they shown those qualities in government administration. Yet it is said authoritatively that three outstanding men—Mr. Hopkins, Mr. Ickes and Mr. Tugwell—who have figured largely in the present administration's disastrous monetary policies, will play an important part in the distribution of the work-relief fund.

A changing public sentiment throughout the United States is demanding results instead of promises, and unless a constructive program is arranged that will actually bring results through the wise expenditure of the $4,880,000,000, the American disposition is liable to go sour.

The initiative and confidence which are born in every individual in America will not be downed. Progress is synonymous with the spirit which has always pervaded America. Led on by belief in the future of this country, pioneers braved countless dangers and hardships in order to make it habitable. Continued endeavor on the part of our people has made this country the best place on earth, and living on dole handed out by political brain trusters is not in accord with the average American's idea of life or living. It is a striking coincidence that "American" ends in CAN, and hope deferred for another two years is likely to end in breaking the shackles which are binding us into a people who neither dare nor do.

With hungry children crying for food, defeated men and women walking the streets in quest of work, increasing bread lines and poverty surrounding us on every hand, let us hope that this rape of the United States Treasury will result in the actual relief of suffering rather than in the continuance of "Boon Dogging" which has the official approval of federal relief administrator, Harry Hopkins.

While critics of the publicly financed "Boon Dogging" in New York are said to have been described by Hopkins as "too damned dumb to appreciate the finer things of life," it is known to all that it will take more than boon dogging, eurythmic dancing and other futile symbols of the Roosevelt program to stay the vibrations of empty stomachs and quell the cries of suffering children.

Furthermore, President Roosevelt and all the others who have been entrusted with this huge sum to alleviate human misery will be held for an accounting, and let it be known that neither the American people nor American business will sit by and complacently witness continued swindling by a group of greedy politicians, who under the guise of a Victory Campaign further victimize the people who placed them in office.

Notwithstanding obstacles, well directed private initiative and constructive enterprise have always scored success in America, and it is upon these America must finally depend. Although the outlook has seemed hopeless the past two years, if given a chance unfettered and unmoisted, the people of the United States would regain their confidence in themselves and their country and set about to recoup their losses. But private enterprise cannot and will not go forward until the fear of governmental interference is eliminated.

With attacks on holding companies and appropriations made for investigations of companies that have millions upon millions of dollars invested, the prospect of fear is so great in the minds of business men and the investing public, that life from day to day is fraught with apprehension and uncertainty. Our great record of achievement stands for naught if we are to be regimented into a federalized people, governed by codes and standards that no longer epitomize American ideas and ideals.

With our freedom assailed and jeopardized on every hand by a bureaucratic administration that disregards our constitution and constitutional rights, even the prospect of billions parceled out by astute politicians in the name of work-relief for the next two years will not silence the voices of honest virile men and women who love their country, nor deter them from defending their rights under the constitution.

These same people will not continue to accept this so-called relief given under duress, which is merely a bread line maintained but will defend and demand their rights for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness for which their forefathers bled and died. Neither revolution nor war is desired in this country. What the people want is a chance to work, and the opportunity to live according to traditional American standards. Vested with billions which have been turned over to him for the creation of self-sustaining jobs, the eyes of 120,000,000 harassed and expectant people are now focused on President Roosevelt, challenging him not to betray the greatest trust ever imposed in a President by a magnanimous people.

Instead of promulgating further unworkable theories that exhaust our national resources, sound economic principles which have been tried and proven of value through ages of experience must be adopted if our domestic peace and happiness are restored.

Polite was a stranger who rode in a street car with William Stout of Kansas City, Mo. Stout received a heavy blow on the head. He looked up to see an assailant with a blackjack. "Excuse me," said the stranger. "I made a mistake." He then jumped off the car.

While critics of the publicly financed "Boon Dogging" in New York are said to have been described by Hopkins as "too damned dumb to appreciate the finer things of life," it is known to all that it will take more than boon dogging, eurythmic dancing and other futile symbols of the Roosevelt program to stay the vibrations of empty stomachs and quell the cries of suffering children.

Probes Garden Market Problem

Truck gardeners in the vicinity of Plymouth who in the past two or three years have suffered losses as the result of the importation into the Detroit market of products grown in other states are pleased to know that an intensive survey of marketing conditions in the Detroit metropolitan area is being conducted by the state department of agriculture to determine if Michigan growers are being given an equal opportunity to market their products.

Efforts by some of the big growers in this locality during recent years to have such an inquiry made failed, former commissioner Metzner paying no attention to the many complaints that went into his office.

The present survey was ordered a few days ago by Commissioner of Agriculture James F. Thomson after he had been informed that out-of-state products were being featured extensively in Detroit.

"There is no reason why Michigan products cannot be sold to an advantage over those of other states, especially right at home," Thomson said. He has sent a representative into the Detroit dis-

Screen Star Builds Miniature Doll House

THE doll house of Colleen Moore, screen star, is a fairy castle of incomparable beauty—a work of love which has made the world's most exquisite and costly toy a veritable shrine to the little god of miniature. Created by a score of famous artisans over a period of nine years and at a cost of $435,000, the enchanted capital of fairyland soon is to be booked on a world tour for millions to see. Proceeds from exhibitions throughout the United States and abroad will be donated to hospitals for crippled children. By this means more than $1,000,000 will be realized from showings which will require a three-year schedule of bookings in every city in the United States and all foreign capitals. Constructed of aluminum and copper with fantastic angles and sky-sweeping turrets and steeples, no semblance of architectural convention is found in this giant abode of little people. Resting on the summit of a rugged precipice, the castle, which is nine feet wide and nine feet long, rises four feet into the air and weighs approximately 1,000 pounds. The house, excepting rivets, contains more than 250,000 pieces, being a mechanical marvel of unprecedented intricacy. Equipped throughout with mechanical wonders in miniature, the house boasts of a solid golden cathedral organ fifteen inches high, which plays through an elaborate electrical system via remote control. Miss Moore's famous doll house also has the world's smallest electric light bulbs, each being the size of a grain of wheat and imbedded in sockets with the circumference of pinheads, in a golden chandelier, strung with glittering, pear-shaped diamonds. The doll house, wired with an electrical system requiring months of labor and experimentation, is controlled by a series of transformers and switches for each room. All lighting, with the exception of floodlighting in the gardens, is indirect, with more than 400 small-watt bulbs being utilized in the system. Water tanks on turrets and in the dungeons of the castle feed live fountains in the kitchen, garden and bathrooms. The tanks, on emptying, play beautiful chimps in the steeples every ten minutes automatically. Operated by electricity, a single feathered nightingale perches on a lavender glass tree in the Garden of Aladdin and sings full-throated, joyful tunes. The doll's house contains eleven rooms, Aladdin's Magic garden and Noah's entrance hall. The furnishings throughout the house represent years of effort in collecting in every part of the world. They are in scene an inch to the foot and are probably the most priceless in existence. Photograph shows the prince's bedroom in Colleen Moore's doll house.

Reports Made To Members of D.A.R.

The Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter, D.A.R., was entertained Monday afternoon, April 22nd by Mrs. F. A. Lendrum in Farmington. The Regent, Mrs. Carl Bryan presiding. The chaplain Mrs. Donald P. Yerkes presented "seed time" as the scripture lesson, reading from the fourth of Mark. The Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter, together with the Ft. Pontchartrain the Ezra Parker, and the Louisa St. Clair Chapters will be hostesses to the state conference next year in Detroit. Sunshine bags will be employed to aid in the raising of the necessary funds for the entertainment.

The program was given over to reports from the members who had attended State and National Conferences. Mrs. F. A. Lendrum told of the emphasis laid on "National Defense" at the state conference in Grand Rapids. She called especial attention to and read extracts from two outstanding articles in the Saturday Evening Post, "The Alien in America" by Isaac F. Marcouxon, in the April 6 issue and the "Immigration Crisis," by Martin Dies in the April 20 issue. She said, "It is admitted that there are 100 alien minded organizations in our country opposed to our government. The tolerant attitude of Secretary Perkins toward communists was deplored by the speakers. A 50 per cent increase in the quota of aliens admitted, and 60 per cent decrease in alien departures should cause anxiety among those who have the welfare of our country at heart. Mrs. Becker the new president general was present at the Grand Rapids Round Table discussions and warned that youth's congresses are dangerous. The peace talks are a blind to cover up communistic propaganda in many instances." The welfare combats much of the antagonism communists would arouse.

Mrs. Randall and Mrs. Bryan paid high tributes to Mrs. Geo.

Relief Aid For Thrift Gardens

The Wayne County Emergency Relief Commission has authorized a county wide thrift garden program for welfare clients and border-line cases. Last year Detroit and Dearborn had an extensive garden program but otherwise the county did not do much about it. This year the state emergency relief commission is taking an active part in urging county-wide participation.

The Wayne county relief commission has delected the supervision of out-county gardens to Mr. Johnson whose office is at Inkster. The state relief commission is furnishing the seeds, and the local municipality is asked to furnish the land plowing. The Plymouth city commission has already started its contribution, and twenty families have signed up for gardens. Border line families who are not on relief, but who are interested in the thrift garden plan, may apply to Miss Huggart, CERA case worker at the city hall. All applications should be made immediately.

Question Box By ED WYNN The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am a man twenty-four years of age and extremely bashful. I am usually in love with a girl my own age and would like to marry her, but I am too bashful to even broach the subject. I will never get over my bashfulness, and do not know what to do. Can you give me an idea that will help me? Yours truly, O. B. O'GOSH.

Answer: The next time you call on her get the conversation switched around to the different kinds of drinks there are in the world. Then each of you take turns asking each other which drink you prefer. Now you're all set. When she asks you: "Do you like tea?" turn to her and say: "Yes, but I like the next letter better."

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am a boy eleven years old and in the sixth grade in public school. I have to write a story about the most unusual animal in the world. Please tell me what it is and why will you? Yours truly, I. HATEORITE.

Answer: The most unusual animal in the whole world is "a man," because a man is the only animal that can be "skinned" more than once.

Dear Mr. Wynn: A friend of mine just failed in business. I went to his house to express my sympathy. During our conversation he said he was arranging matters so his creditors wouldn't bother him. Do you think he means he is going to get out of debt? Yours truly, L. L. POP.

Answer: No, he means he is going to get out of town.

Dear Mr. Wynn: How can people tell when a bank has "busted"? Sincerely, I. O. PLUNKET.

Answer: They generally can tell when they hear the "report."

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am a young and rather attractive looking blond girl. I am in love and go with a handsome boy on my own age. He is a professional baseball player. My mother says it is wrong for me to go with a baseball player, as he is in a wicked business. Is this true? Sincerely, A. FULL.

Answer: Tell your mother baseball is not wicked. If she looks in the Bible she will read: "Rebecca took a pitcher to the well."

Dear Mr. Wynn: I went to the circus yesterday, and in one of the side shows there was a skeleton of a horse. The man said it was the skeleton of a horse that was ridden by "Richard the Third." I am a student of Shakespeare and I was surprised at this, as I always understood he didn't have a horse; in fact, he offered his kingdom for a horse. What do you think of the situation? Yours truly, ELLA PHANT.

The impressive form service, the short sermon by the pastor and the special numbers by the choir were all enjoyed and appreciated by those in attendance.

Ed. Gayde to Ask State For Action

Appeals to the state insurance commissioner are going to be made by Edward Gayde, well known Plymouth business man and former member of the state legislature, in an effort to secure some sort of a settlement of a sick and accident policy he has carried for years but upon which he has so far been unable to secure a settlement.

As it is generally known, Mr. Gayde was confined for many months in a hospital and his home as the result of a long illness and operation. When able to do so he made application for a settlement under the terms of a sick and accident policy he had carried for years, but so far he has met only with rebuffs. He has written the following letter to The Plymouth Mail for publication:

Dear Sir: I am writing this letter to you, and hope you may find space in your valued paper to print it, together with the attached letter which I received from the Business Men's Assurance Company, of Kansas City, Missouri.

This letter is a reply to my claim for indemnity for my recent illness, under a policy which I have carried for several years. To be exact I have receipts for payment of premium dated back to Dec. 10, 1922. Up to April 1, 1932, I paid a quarterly premium of $11.50 or $46.00 per year.

About April 1, 1932, the Detroit representative of this company called on me and took up this policy and the company issued another one at a higher rate of premium, or $16.84 quarterly or $73.36 per year, and at the same time attached a supplement to the policy which greatly reduced the company's liability. However I continued paying the premiums on this policy which kept it in force until February 1, 1935.

Under the terms of this policy the monthly indemnity is $100.00 and one half additional during the time the insured is confined in any licensed hospital.

I was admitted to Harper hospital on August 2nd, 1934, left the hospital on September 10th, 1934, was at home until October 4th, again admitted to Harper hospital and finally discharged on October 24, and first did any work on December 6th, 1934.

During this illness I telephoned to the Detroit office of Business Men's Assurance Company and gave notice, and was told to write to the company at their main office which I did. The report of my physician was not sent until later as he was out of town at that time, but this report did not seem to be necessary as they had an excuse for not allowing the claim.

This company now claims to be a Hundred Million Dollar Company. I don't wonder at that if they settle very many claims as they did this one.

I hope by publishing this letter that it may save some other person from receiving similar settlement.

Yours very truly, Edward Gayde.

Following is the letter received from the company by Mr. Gayde: Mr. Edward Gayde, 181 Liberty Street, Plymouth, Michigan. Dear Mr. Gayde:

We have your own final statement although your attending physician's statement did not accompany it.

From this, however, Mr. Gayde, we understand that your total disability began August 1. The first information we had that you desired to make application for benefits was your letter of October 29. It is evident you did not give timely notice of your disability.

Please examine the article headed "Standard Provisions" in your policy. There you will find it is necessary to give the Company notice within 20 days after the date of an accident or within 10 days after the commencement of total disability from sickness on account of which claim is to be made or as soon thereafter as is reasonably possible.

The requirements in your policy as to when and how you should give such notice are in accordance with the recommendations adopted at a meeting of the National Convention of Insurance Commissioners. It is believed that these requirements are fair to the policyholder and to the Company.

We are indeed sorry, Mr. Gayde, but because you did not comply with the requirements in the policy in giving notice of desire to make application for benefits for total disability after your disability began, and for other material reasons we are unable to allow any benefits.

This is going to be disappointing to you we know yet under the circumstances we do not see how we can take any other course and hope that you will understand the Company's viewpoint in the matter.

Yours very cordially, G. B. Whitsitt, Claim Department.

Daddy, Let ME Drive

by Lawrence Hawthorne

I look into the future (And it isn't very far!) To see a rearrangement Of the seating in our car. There was a time when Mother Thought she'd never care to drive. Although she wasn't certain I would get them home alive.

And then (I saw it coming) She decided it was best For her to "drive a little" So that I could get some rest. Of course, she soon discovered What a pleasure it can be— And you ought to see how often She prescribes a rest for me!

And now the boys are pleading, "Daddy, let me drive today!" (I hardly need to tell you That they often have their way.) So, I look into the future, And the writing on the wall Tells me I'll be mighty lucky If I get to drive at all.

ing souvenirs, her favorite pastime is tap-dancing and parties, her best boy friend still unknown and her best girl friend Donna Bridgez. She also likes hamburgers with lots of mustard and her favorite color is blue. Rhea is taking a commercial course and at present she likes history better than any other subject. After graduation she intends to attend a business college and become a private secretary perhaps to Ward VanAtta, her present boy friend from Northville.

That one and only girl of Dean Alfred Herrick's as you remember we stated several weeks ago is Mabel Edna Ritchie who first made her appearance in Detroit on September 10, 1917. She remained in Detroit until four years ago when she moved to the vicinity of Plymouth and joined our class, then in the ninth grade. Mabel is about five feet six inches tall and blonde with blue eyes. Boy what a combination! She is a very industrious girl and can often be seen carrying a sack of groceries from town to the Matheson residence where she is employed in her spare time. While in high school she has belonged to the Girls' Glee Club and Girl Reserves. She is taking a commercial course and likes typing and shorthand very much. Mabel's favorite color is blue, her favorite pastime skating and swimming, and her hobby is scrap books, which you will remember is Dean's also. After graduation Mabel intends to take a business course and become someone's private secretary or stenographer.

A canine mathematician is attracting a lot of attention at Pittsburg, Kan. He is Shadrach, an eight-month-old, Alredale owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Roscoe. Shadrach is capable of distinguishing the number of spots on playing cards and tells the number by barking. He also knows his age, can recognize figures up to ten, and barks four times when asked the number of quarters in a dollar.

Crop Conditions Most Promising

Farmers and gardeners in the vicinity of Plymouth are elated these days over the fine rain that fell for nearly 48 hours during the last week. Thousands and thousands of cabbage plants put into the fields just before the rain started are showing up remarkably good.

Not in many years has so much ground been prepared for planting as this spring and if decent indications are any index as to what the future may bring forth, this locality will produce during the coming summer and early fall the biggest crops in years, providing of course that drought conditions do not prevail again during the summer.

The state crop report just issued in Lansing is also encouraging. According to April 1 reports of correspondents of the Michigan Co-operative Crop Reporting Service at Lansing, early-season prospects for the State's winter wheat crop point to a better harvest than in either 1933 or 1934. Good rains at planting time last fall followed by a mild winter and a fair amount of snow cover on most sections have resulted in a State average April 1 condition of 86 per cent which is 23 points better than the exceedingly low figure for the same date in 1934 and 4 points above the 10-year average. The condition of the crop on the first of this month was close to or above average in practically all parts of the State, and abandonment of planted acreage promises to be light. Final production depends to a large extent upon weather conditions between now and harvest time, but an analysis of the April 1 condition, with an allowance for probable abandonment of acreage, suggests a total crop of 16,400,000 bushels. This compares with 10,976,000 bushels harvested last year, when the State's winter wheat production was the smallest since 1918, and a 5-year average crop, 1928-32 of 15,343,000 bushels.

The condition of the Michigan rye crop on April 1 this year was reported at 86 per cent as against 68 per cent for April 1, 1934 and 84 per cent, the 10-year average, 1923-32. These figures relate to the acreage sown for all purposes including that intended for pasture and plowing down. Because of the need for additional pasture there was a marked increase in the acreage of rye sown in Michigan last fall, particularly in central and southern counties. The first estimate of the 1935 crop of rye to be harvested for grain will be issued as of May 1.

The condition of the United States rye acreage on April 1 was 78.4 per cent which is about 13 points better than on the same date last year but 6 points below the 10-year average. Lack of moisture in an area extending from Texas and Oklahoma north to Montana and Idaho has handicapped the crop in that area, but in the Dakotas, Minnesota, and Wisconsin the April 1 condition was considerably better than on the same date last year.

Total stocks of corn, wheat and oats on Michigan farms April 1 this year were reported at 491,000 tons compared with 486,000 tons for the same date in 1934, 656,000 tons for April 1, 1933, and 698,000 tons for April 1, 1932. Disappearance of feed grains from Michigan farms during the first quarter of 1935 has been light both in actual quantity and in relation to size of last year's production. Numbers of livestock on farms this past winter were about 5 per cent less than a year ago and at present prices farmers are reluctant to conserve supplies.

For the country as a whole, there is a general shortage of feed grains, the April 1 farm stocks of corn and oats being only a little more than one-half the average supplies for that date and about twice the usual quantity of such grains fed on farms between April 1 and July 1.

The condition of the peach crop in the ten southern peach producing states was 73.2 per cent for April 1 this year which was slightly less than for April 1, 1934 but nearly 7 points above the 9-year average. The outlook was above average for that date in all of these states except Arkansas, Louisiana, and Florida.

The early potato crop in the ten southern states is reported to be slightly below average for April 1 although somewhat above the outlook for the same date in either 1933 or 1934. Both Texas and Florida report poor conditions although in the eastern part of this group of southern states, the commercial crop is in better condition than the farm crop.

Golfers Enter League Contest

Plymouth golf enthusiasts will be glad to learn that the Plymouth Country Club has continued its membership in the Michigan Golf Association for 1935.

The M. G. A. is an association of about 30 of the more prominent public and semi-public golf courses in the Detroit District. Among other mutual activities, each club enters a team into inter-club matches. The clubs are divided into three leagues, according to location and the winners of each league play off for the team championship of the Detroit district.

Last year Plymouth Country Club ran off with the honors in the Red League but lost out in the playoffs by a narrow margin. The same team is expected back this year and with last year's experience under their belts they look forward to another successful campaign. Louis Campbell and Norman Copeland of Northville, Norma Wagner of South Lyon and Les Ash of Detroit.

Many of the local golfers who really take their golf seriously have already had three weeks of play in spite of chilly winds and cloudy skies. L. D. Hunt, greenskeeper has the course in perfect condition.

In addition to MGA activities, the club plans to have many week-end tournaments, open to all players. A handicap system will be used for the most part which will equalize the difference in scores of the crack shot and Mr. average player and give all players an opportunity to win.

Northville Budget For Next Year Fixed At a $60,000 Total

Northville's village budget for the year of March 18, 1935 to March 18, 1936, was set and approved at $60,000 by the village commission at its meeting at the village hall Monday evening.

The totals for the various funds include $7,500 for the principal and $7,500 for the interest of the sinking fund, $1,500 for highways, $14,700 for the principal fund and $28,800 for the general fund which includes all other expenses. This makes a grand total of $60,000 in expenditures.

The income for the village as estimated includes $8,500 for water, $3,335 in returned taxes, $85 for sewer and water taps and $80 for licenses and fines to make a total of $10,000. This, subtracted from the amount specified for expenditures leaves a balance of $50,000 which the village must raise.

Other business by the commission included the approving of the laying of a sewer pipe from Cadz street to the property line of the old Superior Chain Co. building where the Marz factory, which makes pump-housings and impellers for Ford cars, is locating.

The commission also deliberated on a possible dog ordinance by which the village may protect itself from a surplus of dogs, and obtain a slight revenue from those which citizens desire to keep. This will be more thoroughly discussed at the next meeting on Monday, May 6.—Northville Record.

Busy Times For Stream Waders

Wednesday—WEDNESDAY! May day—and what a day—for the trout fishermen.

For weeks—and in some cases months, Plymouth trout fishermen have been wiping up their rods, mending and unwinding their reels, looking over their assortment of flies and waiting patiently for next Wednesday.

Some had hoped the legislature would open the season on Sunday, but there were no tears when the action failed and the opening day remained the same as it has for years.

Dr. Paul Butz has warned all of his patients that they must be well by Tuesday night—for he hopes, unless of course some one is seriously ill, to be off bright and early Wednesday morning for some nearby trout stream. He isn't telling which one.

William Pettengill, Walter Smith, E. Champe, Frank Hambo, Frank Coward and Potter Jewell have for months past had their favorite streams picked out and by Tuesday night there will be a general exodus from Plymouth of all the stream waders in town. Many others are going, but a trout fisherman in these busy days is hard to find in order to cross-examine him as to when he is going fishing and where he is going to try for his limit.

Rabbit fur is now dyed to represent the fur of many rarer animals.

The World's Greatest Monument To The Man Who Does Not Use The Plymouth Mail Want Ads

The Sphinx says nothing—It does nothing—It has nothing to advertise—It stands as the most useless thing in all the world, typifying an age that no one knows anything about and refusing to reveal its secret to a wondering world. It is just like the man who has a plow for sale. His next door neighbor may need a plow and doesn't know that the man living right next to him has a plow for sale. Like the Sphinx, he says nothing about it and as a result he doesn't sell it.

If the Sphinx could talk, it could advertise to the world secrets of untold mysteries. But the Sphinx can't talk, therefore it can't advertise anything. It has through the ages been regarded as a MONUMENT TO SILENCE.

But if you want to get rid of that few extra bushels of seed oats, sell that cow, buy a used harrow, sell some surplus furniture, a baby carriage, you can't be like the Sphinx. You have got to talk about the thing you want to buy or sell—and you can talk to more people through the want ad columns of The Plymouth Mail in this part of Wayne county than you can in any other way or through any other medium. And talking through the want ad columns of The Mail costs you but 25 cents for a want ad of four lines. Try one and see how effective it is.

Miss Blomberg Recipe Winner

Miss Ruth D. Blomberg, 678 Ann street, Plymouth, Michigan, has just been awarded a certificate of recipe endorsement by Better Homes and Gardens for her recipe, "Sweet Cake Waffles."

This certificate, which brings national recognition to Miss Blomberg is given by Better Homes and Gardens only to distinguished recipes which pass its testing kitchen's tests for dependability, excellence of taste, and family usefulness.

In addition to the signed certificate, Miss Blomberg also received six copies of her endorsed recipe, each bearing the Better Homes & Gardens stamp of recipe endorsement, which she can give to her friends.

In awarding these certificates, it is the magazine's aim to provide proper recognition for the creative work done by women in their own kitchens, and also to raise the standard of accuracy and dependability of recipes as a whole. No other magazine or institution gives this personal recognition and service to its subscribers.

Miss Blomberg's endorsed recipe follows:

Sweet Cake Waffles
3 cups of butter
1 1/2 cups of sugar
5 egg yolks, beaten
1 teaspoonful of vanilla
2 1/4 cups of general purpose flour
1/2 teaspoonful of salt
5 egg whites, beaten stiff
Cream the butter and sugar until smooth and fluffy. Add the beaten egg yolks and vanilla and mix thoroughly. Stir in the flour, which has been sifted with the salt, and beat until very smooth. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and bake on a moderately hot waffle iron, placing 1 rounded tablespoonful in each section. Serve hot, with powdered sugar sprinkled over the waffles. Butter may be used on the waffles if desired.

This recipe goes back at least 100 years, and I well remember seeing my grandmother, mother and aunt baking sweet waffles on a coal range whenever we had company. This old iron they used had handles nearly 3 feet long, but I find the cakes are just as good using our modern electric iron.

World's Largest Carillon At Bourneville, England, the carillon installed in the tower of the village school is the largest in the world. Home Group Has Last Meeting

The last regular meeting of the Plymouth Home Furnishings Group was held Monday April 15 at the home of Mrs. S. W. Spicer on East Ann Arbor Trail. After a short business meeting, the local leaders, Mrs. Jesse Tritten and Mrs. W. A. MacLeod, gave a very interesting and instructive discussion and demonstration on Flower Arrangement. They stressed the following points: 1. Use plain vases. 2. Arrange flowers loosely, using few flowers rather than many. 3. Make three heights, high, medium high to one side, low to the other side of the center. 4. Place every bouquet so it lends decoration to the room.

They then gave a clear demonstration and individual instruction in the making of Italian hemstitching. The group has had a very good year. Both local leaders have been very industrious, and their discussions have been very clear and concise. The Group has been very glad to welcome the many visitors who have come to the different meetings.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH

Richard W. Neale, Pastor
You are cordially invited to fellowship with us at all of our services. On Sundays we meet at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Bible school has a class for you, meeting after the morning service at 11:15. We aim to be a friendly Bible church where Christ is preached.

Last Sunday our pastor spoke on, "The Resurrection A Fact: A Guarantee, and an Experience." He presented the evidence of the Scriptures themselves that the Lord Jesus Christ arose from the dead in the body which was crucified, transformed into a glorious, immortal body, such as He will give each believer when He returns for His Church.

Mr. Neale pointed out the significance or importance of Christ's resurrection. It fulfilled Old Testament prophecy and also His own predictions and promises. It demonstrated that He had completely satisfied the justice of God, redeeming us from sin by His atoning death in our place. "He was wounded for our transgressions." It proved that He is the eternal God, able to lay His life down and to take it again for our salvation. "He was delivered for our offences, and raised again for our justification."

In conclusion, the pastor pointed out that true believers may and should live in the power of His resurrection. His abiding Spirit makes this possible. Two young infidels were scoffing at the resurrection of Christ. Upon meeting a servant of the Lord they said, "Deacon Meyers, how do you know Christ is risen from the dead?"

The deacon politely replied, "I know it, boys, because I had a talk with him for thirty minutes this morning." The Christian's prayer and Bible study can produce the power of His resurrection in a holy life each day.

Meet with a happy, singing crowd this Sunday. Come to Calvary!

The annual meeting of the church will be held Wednesday, May 1st, at 7:30. D.V. All are welcome. The usual prayer and Bible study will form the heart of the service. We meet in the Tonquish Temple Bldg., 455 S. Main St.

"Get those men." Evelyn Finucan, 23 of Cleveland, O., screamed to a passing motorist as two robbers fled down the street with $50 taken from the till of the store where she clerked. Obligingly he sped down the street in the direction of the men. As he pulled alongside the fleeing robbers he swung open a door. Both hopped in.

Fordson Wallops Rock Nine 7 to 3

The first game of the season between Fordson and Plymouth ended in disaster for the Plymouth Rock ball players on Friday, April 19. Poor hitting and uncer- tain pitching were the main causes for the defeat. Markiewicz for Fordson pitched beautiful ball, allowing only four hits in all seven innings and held the local team hitless and scoreless for five in- nings. The only one to reach first base for Plymouth in these five innings were Williams, who was hit by a pitched ball, and Trimble who gained first on an error. On the other hand, Fordson opened the game by drawing two walks, a hit ball and homerun for four runs off Schifle, the Plymouth starting hurler.

Nuzov was the star batter of the day by getting three hits, on a home run in four attempts at the plate. Zielasko started for the Rocks by scoring the first Plym- outh run and by completing an excellent one handed stop of a hard line drive in the second in- ning.

PHS-FARMINGTON HOLD PRACTICE

The Rocks baseball team held a practice game with Farmington high school Wednesday afternoon, April 17. This is the first time that Plymouth has met Farmington on the athletic field since a Plymouth left Suburban League and joined the T.V.A.A. The game went only five innings, the local team winning 3 to 2. Don Schifle held them scoreless for four in- nings and Zielasko, who pitched the last inning, allowed two runs and three hits while Plymouth had only two. Our team has also played two other games this season, both with Catholic Central, we lost one and won one. The baseball team has looked pretty good so far this year and it looks as though they were going to have another successful season—we hope they do.

PHS SPLITS DOUBLE HEADER

The baseball team played its first games of the season Satur- day, April 13 against Catholic Central at Plymouth Riverside Park. Splitting a double header, losing the first game six to one and winning the second four to two. Harry Shoemaker, a veteran from last year, made the most brilliant play of the day, stopping a fast grounder with his bare hand and making his third as- sist of the inning. Levi Sockow was expected to start the game as catcher, but because of a sprained thumb which he got in practice, he sat on the bench while Don Blessing did the catch- ing with Don Schifle doing the pitching. Schifle pitched a good game, allowing four hits and five walks, but because of cold weather the infield made three errors allowing the Catholic Central boys to score six runs. The second game went only five innings with Francis Trombley doing the hurling and Jack Buc- Blackmore behind the bat. Franc- Blackmore his first game for Plym- outh, making a very good stand- ing, and allowing two hits and two walks, while the Plymouth boys came to life and gave him some support by getting six hits and two walks to score four runs. Harold Williams made the best showing in that game, getting two hits and a walk to score two runs; the second run was scored by his stealing second, third, and home to score the final run of the game.

These games were played for practice. The team played Ford- son, Friday, April 19, at Plymouth Riverside park. Plymouth lost four good players last year by gradua- tion, but they have some very capable replacements and that is what makes the team now as good as last year's team.

ROUGE TAKES TRACK OPENER

Rouge trackmen nosed out Plymouth last Thursday in the first meet of the year at River Rouge. Plymouth did not place in the 100 or 220 yard dashes but took first and second in the broad jump. The boys' total points amounted to 65 2-3 while Plym- outh totaled up 38 1-2. Elliott lost the mile to Robin- son who ran it in 4:53. Coffin taking the third. Wagenschutz took first in both the 1200 yard high and low hurdles. Keen of Rouge taking second. Arnold Aash took first in the 440 beating Buchkatz and Desatta in a close race. Kleinschmidt, running his first race, took third in the half mile losing to Scordy and Gregor- son, the time being 2:20. Kinsey took second in the shot with 43 feet and 4 inches. Kelter taking first with 44 feet. J. Williams took third losing to Gutz and Montry in the pole vault. Wagenschutz and Williams took first in the broad jump. Wagenschutz sailing 20 feet and 6 and a half inches. Jewell, Cline, Linnis, and Ash lost the relay to Banber, Kucyk, Desatta, and Guenther the time being 1:40.3.

NOSING AROUND

With the breath of spring again comes another new romance. This time it is the bushing "Ro- mee" Edward Olson, and believe it or not, Ernestine Hartung is playing the role of "Juliet." We may also state that as far as can be determined that fam- ous Kinsey, Coffin, Whipple trans- gress is still in existence. A suggestion for a graduation gift to the friends of Beulah Starkweather—a rope about 20 feet long which can be tied around Beulah and held onto her by Miss Ford so as to prevent any more early entrances to the stage. Of course she entered only two pages too soon; which isn't bad. You see she was supposed to enter when the sun went off but instead she entered when the lights went off. You know there is so little difference. It is reported that Jack Kinsey turned the key completely around and broke it in two at the Whip- ple residence in an attempt to unlock the door. What a man! Well folks, the miracle of mir- acles has happened. Thursday evening there was a pajama party (for girls only) right in the vicinity of Plymouth. In fact at the Jolliffe home on Beck Road. Spring surely must be here.

THE PIRATES

Ghastly shadows rise and fall. Branches seem to sigh. A small ship sailing on and on. Neath the midnight sky. Slowly they approach the shore. Singing with their might. Like some peal of thunder Through the waiting night. Pull the boat upon dry land. Three of them there are. All are wearing earrings. Shining like some star. Counting steps to the spot Where the place will be. One and two, one and two, one and two and three. Two of them are bringing bags of gems and gold. Suddenly the sky grows gray. And the night turns cold. The bold one flashes out his knife. In quick and dashing darts. While the wind howls loud and long. Drives it in the others' hearts. In cold blood he murders them. Takes away the bags of gold. Leaves them lying there, alone In the night so dark and cold. By Mary Potter, English 7.

CENTRAL GRADE SCHOOL NOTES

Mrs. Casady's pupils made East- er booklets which contain all their A papers. A "Washup" contest was held, and everyone received a Good Health pin. The children are reading from two new books. For language class, they are learning the poem "Robin Red- breast." Easter Posters and free hand drawings were made by Miss De-

Dorothy Hobbins, Frances Bridge, Elizabeth Whipple; reception, Eileen Archer chairman. Mildred Postiff, Norma Jean Roe, Helen Norgrove; refreshments, Carol Hammond chairman. Vivian Towle, Marian Jean Squires, June Gray, Jean Rediger, Gwendolyn Dunlop, Marian Krumm, Margue- rite Mattinson; general commit- tee, Yvonne Hearn chairman. Dor- is Fishlock, Marian Van Amber, Leora Ford, and Ardith Wessling while Eileen Archer had charge of the equipment. The Plymouth teams are cer- tainly proud to have been so vic- torious but they do not feel that the purpose of these games is merely for competition but to es- tablish friendship and good sportsmanship between the North- ville and Plymouth girls.

PLYMOUTH COURT TEAM LOSES

Plymouth lost on their own courts in tennis to Wayne by a score of 3 to 2. The freshmen played the best game of all, while the seniors and upper classmen let down on the job. The coach had high hopes of winning another cup at the end of the season but they let him down on the first game. Those who played were: Herter, B. No. 1 singles; Burden, H. No. 2 singles; Moe, G. No. 3 singles; Eli- ott, E. and Moe, L. No. 1 doubles; Martin R. and Aderson, A. No. 3 doubles.

He described the symptoms of the disease and presented various facts concern- ing its prevention and cure. This address by Dr. Smith was a part of the national tuberculosis cam- paign which has been planned by Mrs. Matheson presented the basket ball awards. Those receiving hon- ors were Ellwood Elliott, a gold basketball pin, Virginia Cline, a silver pin, and Ray Trimble, a bronze pin.

P.H.S. GIRLS HOLD ANNUAL PLAY DAY

A successful "Play Day" was held between Northville and Plymouth Thursday, April 18, in the Plymouth high school gymna- sium. Six basketball games were played. Because the seventh grade girls from Northville were unable to come to the "Playday" the two seventh grade basketball teams from Plymouth played against each other, team two defeating team one by a score of 8 to 2. The eighth grade fared well, con- quering the Northville girls with a score of 14 to 2. The Plymouth freshmen also did themselves proud, fairly wal- ching away with their game by a score of 58 to 2. The two sopho- more teams were more evenly matched and the score continual- ly saw-sawed from Northville to Plymouth, but in the last quarter Northville gaining two points on the game by a score of 8. At that time a delicious luncheon was served to the participants of both schools, and a short program of singing and tap dancing was presented. Playing was resumed and both the eleventh and twelfth grade girls were victorious. The juniors won by a wide margin of 35 to 7, while the seniors, school cham- pions, maintained their reputa- tion by making their last game a fast and exciting one and final- ly winning by 2 points, the score being 12 to 10. "Play Day" was made possible by the cooperation of the fol- lowing committees: general chair- man, Joan Cassidy; entertain- ment, Anna Urban chairman.

SENIOR BIOGRAPHIES

Lawrence Joseph Moe was born at Thief River Falls in Minnesota, January 17, 1917. The first six years of his schooling was spent in Memidji, Minnesota. Lawrence is a tall, light-haired, blue-eyed fellow. He is one of the many boys who would like to go to Michigan State College after he has graduated this year. Lawrence has been active in tennis, golf, basketball, and he has also been in Hi-Y, Torch Club, and Drama club. He has played on all inter- class sports teams. L. J. says that he does not give a hoot for the girls but I know differently—he likes to go to Pearl's and Eileen's parties, says he gets a big kick out of them. His one hobby is athletics and the reading of novels of adventure. His two dislikes are geometry and tomatoes.

STUDENT COUNCIL PLANS ART EXHIBIT

After depositing the proceeds of the Donkey Game and paying sev- eral bills the total in the treasury amounted to $258.19. A budget was then presented to the council showing the expenses yet to be faced and the sources of income until the end of the year. It was decided that the council appro- priate $15.00 to Miss Kees for the Northville and Plymouth Play Day. Jack Wilcox announced that it would be proper for the student council to show their appreciation toward the members of the Bo- tany and Kiwanis clubs, who were so willing to help the student council by playing in the Donkey Basketball game, by inviting them to a dinner at the Hotel Mayflow- er. This was agreed to by all the members and Jack Wilcox was put in charge of it. A motion was made to issue a check of $25.00 to the Plymouth Country club, for the use of it by the golf team. Mr. Dykehouse announced that the date for the student council dance was May 24 and May 31 was the date set for the honor banquet. A number of letters, tick- ets, and pictures were presented to the council from the Fine Art Company. This company will dis- play a great number of beautiful reproductions of great masters; the dates for this event are May 13 through May 17.

When asked what she disliked she replied "Inquisi- tive people who simply can not or won't understand." Although he is rather timid he likes to read books and give oral reports about them.

That red-headed pest, Stanley Vern Passage, who has always been in our class (even in kinder- garten) was born in Plymouth in 1917 on September 30. He has lived in Miami and St. Peters- burg for one summer. Stan has no particular hobby but we always see his on the spot if there is any- thing interesting going on. Hartland Music Festival May 2

Six great days of inspirational music and drama will mark the fourth anniversary of the dedication of Hartland Music Hall. The experiment that was started in the Ministry of Music by Miss Nellie Beatrice Huger, Minister of Music four years ago and sponsored by J. Robert Crouse, has won a very large place in the field of music throughout the State of Michigan and it is now listed as one of the major musical activities of the state. In the beginning a definite program was planned to create a consciousness for the best in music and the arts. This was done by giving specific training to all the school children in the area, the training of choirs in the local churches and the presenting of artist programs in the Music Hall.

The Ministry of Music has had the cooperation of the best music educators throughout the state and all music organizations have contributed to this unusual experiment in music. The community and surrounding towns have responded well to all of the music activities. All of the plans for the work have been highly idealistic and the motto that was chosen in the beginning was "Music Exalts Life."

A Homecoming and reception will take place at 2 o'clock on the opening day of the Festival, May 2. All ministers who have gone in to the ministry from Hartland community have been asked to take part in this day's program. The Hartland Consolidated School Band under the direction of Leon Metcalf will play and also the Burgess Orchestra.

The story of the old church bell will be told during the afternoon program. A reception will follow. Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Crouse will be on this reception committee.

Fred Patton, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera in New York, a singer who possesses a dynamic personality and voice, will be heard. Mr. Patton has been heard at all of the major festivals in the United States and is also a favorite oratorio singer.

Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock the Hartland Grade School program will be presented. This will consist of many songs by the grade children under the direction of Miss Nellie Beatrice Huger and a stringed orchestra directed by Mrs. Katherine Metcalf. The children will be entertained by the Georgia Merrill players from Detroit in the presentation of the play "For Lack of Evidence."

Friday evening the Consolidated School program consisting of the School Band and orchestra under the direction of Leon V. Metcalf and the glee clubs and choruses directed by Miss Nellie Beatrice Huger. These programs will present "The Fool" one of the greatest plays of this age, written by Channing Pollock, on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock and Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. This great play has an appeal to everyone who has felt the conflict between the material and spiritual forces within the soul. The Will-O-Way players of Detroit have presented the outstanding dramas of the Festivals during the past three years.

Sunday, 3:30, thirty minutes of hymn singing will precede the dramatic and String Quartet of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. They will present an hour of exquisite music at 4:00. These artists will present a program embracing the more graceful and melodic examples of the classic romantic and contemporary composers. This program perhaps more than any other will appeal to the people who have learned to appreciate the best in music.

D'Avignon Morel, one of the outstanding Catholic organists of Detroit who has often been heard as soloist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra will present an organ recital at 8 o'clock, Sunday evening. He is a real master of organ technique and will play a program that will be interesting to all. The Hartland Area Combined choirs under the direction of Miss Nellie Beatrice Huger, will also sing on this program.

Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock the rural school music program, under the direction of Mrs. Inez Mysson, will take place. The boys and girls will be entertained by a play "The Birthday of the Infanta" presented by the Bitten School children, under the direction of Miss Evelyn Smith, drama director of Hartland Area Project. Mrs. Leon Metcalf, violinist, will play several selections.

The Russian Balalaika Orchestra, under the direction of Michael Kuzmich, will present the musical novelty program in the festival. The orchestra is composed of 22 Balalaika and Dorna players, all of Russian descent. This was the first Balalaika Orchestra in Michigan. They have been heard over WWJ in folk music programs. They have also appeared in New York and other eastern cities. Madame Puklenko, Russian soprano will be soloist and several folk dances will be featured during the program.

Eugene Cserecsu, a boy artist, 17 years old will be heard in the Tuesday afternoon program at 2:30. Last year Eugene made his debut with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in March. He is now concert master of the all city high school orchestra and last summer was the concert master of the American Music Camp. In 1931 he won first place in the Michigan Music Teachers Ass'n. contest. Last month he appeared at the North Central Music Educators Ass'n. Convention in Indianapolis. He plays with a finish of an older experienced artist. Those who have heard him play predict that he will be a nationally known artist in the near future.

The Festival will close on Tuesday evening with a concert presented by the Varsity glee club of Ann Arbor, under the direction of Dr. David Matern. The glee club is composed of 40 young men attending the University.

There will be no admission charge for the six local programs presented during the Festival, but a silver offering will be taken at each performance. A very small admission charge is made for the six professional programs to assist in the great expenses involved. The Festival is sponsored by the Ministry of Music fund, provided by J. Robert Crouse in the Hartland Area Project.

Because of the limited capacity of the Music Hall, it is necessary that seats be reserved in advance. Address your request to Harley J. Kirk, ticket chairman, Hartland, Michigan.

Something to remember: Try the juice of the milkweed to destroy the glitter on the surface of a gut leader.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

Esau Sells His Birthright to Jacob—Isaac was forty years old when he took Rebekah to wife. When Rebekah had no children, Isaac prayed to the Lord, and the Lord declared to Rebekah that she would be the mother of two nations and two manner of people, one stronger than the other, and that the elder would serve the younger. And Rebekah became the mother of twins, the elder one being called Esau and the younger one Jacob. "And the boys grew and Esau was a cunning hunter, a man of the field; and Jacob was a plain man dwelling in tents. And Isaac loved Esau, because he did eat of his venison; but Rebekah loved Jacob. And Jacob sold pottage; and Esau came from the field, and he was faint: and Esau said to Jacob, Feed me, I pray thee, with that same red pottage; for I am faint: therefore was his name called Edom. And Jacob said, Sell me this day thy birthright. And Esau sold his birthright unto Jacob. Then Jacob gave Esau bread and pottage of lentiles; and he did eat and drink, and rose up, and went his way: thus Esau despised his birthright."—Gen. 25:27-34. Regular services every Sunday throughout the summer at 10:30 a.m.

LADIES AID MEETING, WEDNESDAY, MAY 1st, 2:30 p.m.

The real acid test to answer the question for yourself: "Am I a Christian?" is not an affirmative reply to the query: "Were you in church Easter Sunday?" but a ready and honest "Yes!" to the questions: "Do you go to church every Sunday?" and "Do you conscientiously apply what you say you believe, in your everyday life, in your business dealings, and in your relationship to your family?" The Lord is not deceived or duped by "whitewash and veneer" christianity!

Among the Bible citations is this passage (II Samuel 12:13): "And David said unto Nathan, I have sinned against the Lord. And Nathan said unto David, The Lord also hath put away thy sin; thou shalt not die.
Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 74): "In Christian Science there is never a retrograde step; a return to positions of outgrowth. The so-called dead and living cannot commune together for they are in separate states of existence, or consciousness. This simple truth lays bare the mistaken assumption that man dies as matter but comes to life as spirit."

The Lord says to us today, "I beseech you, by the mercies of God, that you present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." Upon the minds and in the hearts of those who do this, He will write the laws of His new covenant, a covenant sealed by the blood of Calvary's Lamb; and all who yield to Him He will transform, putting within them the lowly obedient heart of Christ, putting within them a delight to do the will of God. He will make known to them His good and acceptable and perfect will. Do you desire to win the victory over Satan, over the world over the flesh? Yield your spirit, soul and body wholly to the Perfect One. He will be a fire within thee. He will enable thee to overcome even as He overcame. Trust not in thine own armor, in thine own reason, in thine own judgment, in thine own thoughts, but let the Word of God dwell in you richly; and be very dependent upon Him to lead thee all the way. He will lead thee to a place by His side on His throne.

House Leaders Put Own Ideas Into Some Of Governor's Bills

By FRANK D. BROWN, Special Correspondent

Speculation as to the ultimate failure of much of the administration's legislative program is now rife in capitol corridors and anterooms. Gov. Fitzgerald and Speaker George Schroeder (D) of the House have "locked horns" which incident is regarded as likely to have a sharp bearing on the outcome of the session.

The governor in a letter sent to the speaker has complained that many of the bills he is sponsoring are tied up in democratic committees with no apparent reason for delaying action on them. Speaker Schroeder has retorted that the governor's program holds forth no economies in state government but is predicted wholly upon creating a huge political machine.

In a statement by your correspondent, Mr. Schroeder compared the policies of the chief executive with those of Senator Huey Long in Louisiana. "If we enacted his program as it has been presented to us the governor would become a virtual dictator with almost unlimited power over every phase of state government," the speaker said.

The more worthy of the bills effecting governmental reform will be reported out of committees but not until they have been amended in accordance with the views of the democratic House majority. In one or two cases substitute measures will be offered. Among those proposals to which the democrats particularly opposed are those setting up a finance director to dictate the spending policies of the state and the one which would consolidate the welfare machinery under one head. The latter proposal is probably the most bitterly objected to. The Washington relief authorities take unkindly to it and in event such a reorganization takes place, indications are that the federal agency will divorce itself entirely from any connection with the state in administering relief in Michigan.

The date of final adjournment is still a matter of little consideration in either house. Lieut.-Gov. Tom Reed and his senators are inclined to stay on until they have had ample opportunity to mull over to their satisfaction all the bills before them. In the House, nothing is heard right at the moment. If they wanted to, both houses could wind-up their deliberations within four or five days but things aren't done that way. Some senators and representatives seem to thrive on the Lansing atmosphere; they prefer the limelight and the life of the capital to that of prosaic back-home existence. The result is the taxpayers have to take it "on the chin."

Following out his original plan of taxation reform, Senator Andrew L. Moore (R), Pontiac, chairman of the upper house tax committee has submitted two bills, one creating a state land office to dispose of property turned back to the state and the other abolishing tax sales. The latter measure provides that all lands upon which the tax is not paid shall vest in the state, subject to the owner's right to redeem at any time within six months from the date of sale. At the end of six months, the land would be appraised and for the period of six months the owner would have the exclusive right to purchase at the appraised price. After the second six months had elapsed, the land would be offered for sale to any person.

Senator Moore claims for his bill the abolition of the sale of land to the tax buyer and the elimination of the tax title shark. Some differences have appeared relative to his bill setting up a state land office. The state conservation department already has indicated its opposition on the ground that this agency has handled in a satisfactory manner the disposition of state cut-over land as well as commercial property in the past.

The old bugaboo, the oleomargarine tax has made its appearance during this session. The senate has deferred action until next week on a bill to place a five-cent per pound tax on butter substitutes. Sponsored by certain farmer interests as in past years, the bill is designed to remove oleo from competition with butter and thus aid the dairy industry. The always amusing part of the oleo tax argument is the fact that the farmer himself is one of the chief purchasers of the substitute.

The small loan proposition which caused Gov. Constock no end of embarrassment two years ago is still a bone of contention. Efforts are being made to pry loose from the Senate committee the bill which would reduce the rate of interest on this type of loan to one and three-quarters percent. The small loan companies have quite an effective organization in the state and during the past two weeks have undertaken to contact the newspapers of the state as a means of preventing the present bill from ever seeing the light of day. Whether or not they are successful in their efforts remains to be seen.

The democratic minority in the Senate, led by Leon Case, is insistent that the bill shall be reported out for consideration on the floor. Threats are even being made of discharging the committee from further consideration of the bill, but this is not likely to pass beyond the domain of idle talk. Discharging of a committee happens only once or twice if at all during a legislative session so it really remains to be seen whether enough pressure can be brought to bear on the state affairs committee to "kick out" the bill in question.

The senators early in the week finally passed the Palmer measure which would prohibit the so-called "heart balm" suits. After defeating the bill by one vote last week, the upper house has given it a 20 to 11 approval.

Michigan State College and the University of Michigan received the "short end" of the deal in recommendations made by the House ways and means committee last Wednesday. In recommendations for institutional requirements made by the committee, the state college would receive some $300,000 less than their original request, while the university would be pared down to the extent of $1,000,000. These amounts are on a yearly basis for the next two years, both of which are claimed by the college authorities to be highly insufficient.

The senate has passed and sent to the house three measures. One, increasing the state board of registration of nurses from three to seven members and requiring that registered nurses be at least high school graduates before entering their preliminary training period, was passed, 22 to 6. The opposition was apparently based on the belief expressed by several that the measure might hinder the practice of practical nursing, despite assurances to the contrary from friends of the bill. It was stated that at present candidates for training as registered nurses are required to have completed only two years of high school study.

Another bill would expose to the jeopardy of a 90-day jail sentence employers who fail to pay wages to their employees, in addition to the penalty of a fine of up to $100 already written into the law.

The third measure was one requiring self-insuring employers to pay an annual fee of $50 to the state department of labor and industry to defray the expenses of the living allowances. The measure was limited as it passed to those employing 30 or more employees.

Phone Company Will Celebrate

When Manager Roy Crowe of the Plymouth district of the Michigan Bell Telephone company decides to do something, there is no fooling about it. He wants it done and he wants it over with in a hurry.

Readers of The Plymouth Mail will recall that less than three weeks ago he went down to the Highland Park General hospital and had a major operation performed. He secured a leave of absence of some six or eight weeks from the company, expecting to be laid up that long.

In less than three weeks he was back on the job and now he is planning his summer fishing trips. Yesterday he brought over to The Mail office details of the interesting and unique radio program that has been planned by the American Telegraph and Telephone company for next Sunday between 6 and 7 o'clock in celebration of the 50th anniversary of the company. The program will come over CKLW.

The anniversary broadcast will be of particular interest to telephone users and telephone employees and Bell System stockholders, not only because of the program to be presented but because of those who will participate in it. Ted Busby, radio reporter of news and special events will announce and be master of ceremonies, and the program will open with four successive long distance calls to telephone offices at the four corners of the county—San Diego, Calif.; Eastport, Maine; Bellingham, Wash.; and Key West, Fla. Another outstanding feature will be a dramatization of the "telephone conference" service, with Ted Husing and prominent personalities in far-separated parts of the country hooked up for a long distance round-robin conversation. The conference hookup will permit each to talk to and hear all of the others, and their voices will be audible to the entire radio audience.

Edwin C. Hill, noted news commentator, and Channing Pollock, eminent author and playwright, will tell the story of the telephone in two groups of interesting dramatizations. One group will portray several historic events in the development of telephone service, including the first telephone conversation ever held—between Alexander Graham Bell and Thomas Watson—and other significant episodes. The group of dramatizations will demonstrate the vital part the telephone plays in modern life, in such activities as tracking down criminals, the dissemination of news, and the summoning of help in cases of emergency.

At the close of the program, Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, will be interviewed for the radio audience by Edwin C. Hill. Mr. Gifford will discuss questions of policy and tell how telephone service has been coordinated to serve the nation with the utmost efficiency and economy.

Andre Kostelanetz, one of the foremost musical directors in radio, will present his famous orchestra of 50 pieces, augmented by a chorus, to provide the musical

Books For Desires Of All Kinds Now At Plymouth Library

For the reader who likes to have his hero a real person there is "The Glory Hunter," by Fred-eric Van de Water. This is a biography of General Custer and shows him as a tangle of contradictions. His wife 'enshrined her husband in the folklore of America.' Now Mr. Van de Water without fear of favor, gives us a complete and unsparring analysis of the man. I congratulate him on an excellent biography that says the final word." W. R. Benet in the Saturday Review of Literature.

The author of "Under the Big Top" has written another story of circus life called "Boss Elephant." It is the story of Old Mom, a temperamental elephant whose mannerisms and unexpected exploits furnish entertaining and humorous reading.

A biography which is very well written is by George F. Howe on Chester A. Arthur. He portrays him as a man of culture, geniality and charm, who was one of the chief figures in New York politics for two decades and president of the United States for three and a half years.

Mrs. Maud Howe Elliott has written a book of "fragmentary impressions" about F. Marian Crawford. She was his first cousin and a daughter of his aunt Julia Ward Howe. Her engaging affectionate portrait of her subject is interwoven with numerous excerpts from family letters.

Finally, a book that is especially suitable for this season of the year is "The Road to Nowhere" by Maurice Walsh. It is a typical Irish romance about a picturesque tinker and his family, who live like gypsies. A young Scotchman and a beautiful American girl who hope to forget their troubles in the adventures of the road join them. Several good fist fights, a murder mystery, and a love story make up the plot.

May Festival To Be Held 15 to 18th

Program This Year Promises To Be One Of Best Ever Given

All musical roads lead to Ann Arbor for the 42nd Annual May Festival, which will take place on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 15, 16, 17 and 18. Four evening concerts will be given, with matinees on Friday and Saturday.

Programs of exceptional interest and brilliancy have been arranged which will be presented by twelve major soloists, five distinguished conductors, and three important musical groups.

The soloists include the sensational Mary Moore, coloratura soprano, the spectacular Helen Jepson, lyric soprano, Myrtle Leonard outstanding contralto, Giovanni Martinelli and Paul Althouse, all of the Metropolitan Opera Association; Maxim Pan-telieff, the stupendous Russian baritone, said to be the finest "Boris" since Chaliapin was in his prime, will sing the title role in Moussorgsky's great opera, "Boris Gudunof." Other singers who will be heard are Ethyl Hayden, soprano, Wilbur Evans, baritone, and Theodore Webb, baritone, from among the ranks of the great present-day oratorio singers; Paul Laysac, distinguished reader of the New York Civic Repertory Theatre, will appear in the role of the Narrator in the presentation of "King David."

Ruth Fossell, American violin virtuoso and Josef Lhevinne, the master pianist, will represent the instrumental field.

The University Choral Union of 350 voices, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra of 70 players, and the Young People's Festival Chorus of 400 school children, will participate in several of the programs. The Choral Union under the baton of Earl V. Moore, will present "Boris Gudunof" by Moussorgsky in English, and Honnegger's "King David," while Howard Hanson will preside in the presentation of the world premiere of his own work entitled "Drum Taps," a setting of Walt Whitman's poem. Dorothy James, a young American composer, will also have a work on the program performed by the children, entitled "Jumbies," which will be conducted by Juva Higbee. Dr. Stock and Mr. DeLa-marter, will present the orchestra in brilliant orchestral selections and in accompaniments for the artists at the miscellaneous concerts.

Wednesday and Friday evening's concerts will be in the nature of artists' concerts. Helen Jepson distinguished star at the first, and Martinelli, at the second, Mary Moore will appear in the second half of the Thursday evening program, while Ruth Fossell, will be heard Friday afternoon and Josef Lhevinne, Saturday afternoon.

The choral union will be rather largely interspersed during the seven days, being heard in the Wednesday evening program, in "Drum Taps," in the first half of Thursday evening's concert in "King David," and Saturday night in "Boris Gudunof."

BLOCK TESTING HUDSON AND TERRAPLANE MOTORS

Every Hudson and Terraplane engine is run in under its own power until it is ready to pass a rigid inspection on power delivered, quietness and perfect performance. Hudson engines have a minimum of two hours on the block. The engines are started at about 700 r.p.m. and run for about a half hour, the speed being gradually brought up to about 1500 r.p.m. When the engines reach running temperature the tappet clearances are set, the engine inspected for oil and water leaks, quietness, proper action of oil and water pumps and quietness of front end gears. The oil used is a special break-in and flushing oil that is circulated from tanks in the block test room. Thus the engine is cleaned as well as broken in. The water is also circulated from a factory system. After the inspection the engine is passed back to the assembly line.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, who departed this life, one year ago, April 23, 1934.

There is no flock how'er watched and tended. There is no fireside how'er defended.

But has one vacant chair. There is no Death! We see but dimly through the mists and vapors: Amid those earthly damps, What seem to us but funeral tapers.

May be Heaven's distant lamps. And thou who o'er thy loved one's bier, Sheddest the bitter drops like rain; Hope that a brighter, happier sphere, Will give her to thy arms again.

Sadly missed by those who loved her most. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wheeler, Meldrum Smith and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Moore, W. S. Ray. 11pd

No great achievement without great enthusiasm.
