Moratorium Tax Not Accepted By City Treasurer

Can Be Paid At County Office By Adding Adv. And Penalty

Moore-Holbeck taxes known as the moratorium taxes are no longer being collected at the city treasurer's department in Plymouth.

The penalty has been attached to these taxes and the county treasurer is preparing a delinquent roll of the first installment of unpaid taxes collected at the general office in Lansing.

These properties will then be advertised for sale and tax sale will be held the second Monday in May, 1936.

However, these taxes can still be paid at the county treasurer's office by paying the penalties and the advertising costs.

Delinquent taxes for 1933 and 1934 are still being collected by the city treasurer, with no penalties attached. A 4 per cent collection charge is levied on special assessment taxes which will be the only additional charges if the taxes are paid before November 1st.

Real bankers are the fellows who can see money or its equivalent anywhere—no matter where you are.

Such a banker Russell Daane, vice president and cashier of the Plymouth United Savings bank, proved himself to be in New York the other day when he walked down one of the streets near the financial center and picked up from the sidewalk near a waste paper man $2700 in negotiable securities.

With Mr. Daane at the time was Charles H. Bennett, president of the Daisy Manufacturing Co. who was in New York on business.

Just a minute, Mr. Bennett, these papers look valuable to me," said Mr. Daane as he stooped down and picked up a bundle of valuable looking papers.

As Mr. Daane and Mr. Bennett stood on the street examining the papers, they discovered that the youthful bank cashier from Plymouth had picked up $2700 of securities that had been signed and were ready for exchange in ready money at any bank or stock exchange.

When they returned to their hotel room they called the brokerage house which apparently owned the securities and told them of the find and asked that a messenger be sent for them.

The securities were quickly returned to the bond house, but Mr. Daane is still waiting for a thank you letter for saving the money from loss on the streets of New York.

Names Scribner As Traffic Head Of This Section

Highway Official Will Aid In Solving New Problem

R. D. Scribner of the state highway office of Plymouth, who was recently appointed supervisor of the traffic and safety division of the state highway department for this part of the state by Ross Heffron, state director of the newly created department, has already assumed his new duties and is making a thorough study of traffic conditions in this part of the state.

Mr. Scribner has been with the state highway department under Commissioner Murray Van Wageningen for some time and is thoroughly familiar with highway problems.

Mr. Heffron in selecting him as one of his aides to work in this part of the state picked an assistant who will be of unlimited value to him in his new work that the highway department has taken on.

Not until this department was created has the state highway department ever given consideration to the traffic problem, except during the days when Alex Groesbeck was governor of Michigan. It was Governor Groesbeck who first insisted on highways being built with the idea of providing some safety regulations for motorists.

Mr. Scribner's department will give much of its time and attention to driving problems and ways of regulating traffic so there will be greater safety in the operation of machines along highways. It is believed that one of the problems first to be studied will be the relationship of truck operations to passenger car traffic. The new department, according to its officials, expects to find plenty to do in making the highways more safe for travel.

A total of 118 men and women registered for PWA work during the three days recently set aside for this purpose at the city hall.

Woman's Club To Open Season On October Fourth

First Meeting Of Fall To Be Devoted To Early Michigan History

The organization of Friday, October fourth will find the members of the Woman's Club of Plymouth opening their program for the year. At one o'clock there will be a luncheon in the Crystal dining room of the Hotel Mayflower to which all members are urged to come and bring their friends.

The executive board of the club, with Mrs. Cora W. Chaffee acting as chairman are responsible for the opening meeting.

They have secured a speaker of considerable talent. Miss Aloysia McLoughlin, sister of Mrs. J. N. McLoughlin of Northville, will speak on the subject "Michigan's Early Days."

Miss McLoughlin has spoken before the Northville club and such organizations as the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and Exchange clubs of various Michigan cities have welcomed her excellent address. Young Peoples organizations have benefited by her fascinating pioneer tales. She is the author of "True Pioneer Tales" and many articles printed in the Detroit News, Home Companion and Michigan Historical Magazine.

Miss McLoughlin attended several of Michigan's institutions of higher education as well as the University of Chicago and the National University of Mexico. She has held several offices connected with Michigan educational organizations and has traveled widely in our own country, Canada, Mexico and Europe.

Besides Miss McLoughlin's speech, we will have the opportunity of hearing Henry Austin, a graduate of the Michigan School of Music, sing a group of songs. To add a final touch of interest there will be a display of old shawls.

Such an excellent program as this should bring out the membership 100 per cent.

Fr F. C. LeFevre Injured In Crash On Eight Mile Rd.

Priest Suffers Shock, Temple Cut As Result Of Collision

While on his way to fulfill an act of mercy, the attending of the funeral of Father James Downey, who was being buried in Ackerville Monday morning, Rev. Fr. C. LeFevre, pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel church, was injured in an automobile accident on Eight Mile Road.

Father LeFevre was cut about the temple and forehead and his knee seriously bruised when a motorist, without warning, made a sudden left turn in front of the car the priest was driving, just this side of Evergreen.

Rev. LeFevre was driving in the middle lane when the driver of this car suddenly decided to make the turn. According to Father LeFevre, there was no road or cross road to account for the sudden impulse of the driver's turn, and in order to avoid a head on collision the priest slammed on his brakes and turned an almost complete right angle.

The impact completely demolished the right wedding anniversary of the fact that the priest's LeFevre's car and the priest was taken to Redford hospital, his temple bleeding quite badly. Several stitches were taken in his head.

Father LeFevre has been recovering from the shock and injuries this past week, but feels that he will be able to officiate at mass Sunday morning.

Present At Golden Wedding Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Carley were among the guests Sunday at the golden wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sauter at their home in Dixboro. The event was rather outstanding because of the fact that the same date marked the 21st wedding anniversary of their daughter and son-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Gibbs of Ann Arbor. Mr. Gibbs has been for many years the county clerk of Washtenaw county. In addition to this anniversary, it was also the birthday of their twin son and daughter Douglas and Doris. There were nearly 200 guests present, many being prominent musicians of Dixboro where he has practically lived in retirement, was for many years a member of Pryor's famous band. He also played a number of seasons in Sousa's band.

Contractors All Combine Efforts In "Modelectric"

Cooperate Extensively To Hasten Model Home Construction

Sub-floors, sheeting, brick laying and masonry work. The next steps at the Modelectric home, which, within a few weeks after its start in June was well under way.

Completing the first sub-floor the carpenters, under the supervision of Paul Wood, started in on the studding for the outside wall of the home. Sheeting with 1x8 boards followed and upon the completion of the sheeting, joists for the second floor were laid.

While the carpenters were busy at these tasks Burger and Sok, masons, were also at work. They laid the solid brick wall for the garage, and started to face the home with reclaimed bricks which had been purchased from the Daisy Manufacturing Company.

The carpenters continued on. Partitions—the home was shingled; windows set in Plymouth's Modelectric house was fast beginning to take on the aspect of a real house.

Paul Wood's direction, the insulation of the home then began. Rock wool, an incombustible insulation about four inches thick was used. Two air stops were made in each section of the walls between the studs. Four inches of rock wool was put over the second floor ceiling and a new finish was completed.

The lathers then joined into this beehive of activity, and they started their work by nailing on the rock lath—a fireproof lath with plaster in the middle.

He was driving on a straight stretch and ran along the left side on the grass for nearly 300 feet before it struck a tree. In the crash his neck was broken and he was killed.

England's King Tireless Worker Rotarians Told

British Consul Is Speaker Before Members Of Local Club

Hon. L. C. Hughes-Hallett, His Majesty's consul in Detroit and one of the veterans of the British consular service, was last Friday's most interesting speaker before the Plymouth Rotary club. The well known British official in Detroit comes from an English family that has seen over a century of governmental service in his country.

His talk dealt chiefly with problems of the departmental work that he is in, however he did tell briefly some of the life of the British people for the royal family of their country.

"When the silver jubilee was planned in honor of the King, we were honoring one who for over a quarter of a century has served his people well. The King, as many people do not know, is a tireless worker. He is always up at 7 o'clock in the morning and rarely is his day done before 11 or 12 o'clock at night. No matter what the weather, the conservative party, the liberals or the workingmen's party that is in control, their leaders go to the King for advice. He is always ready and willing to help in the solution of any problem that the empire faces," said the speaker.

"When one enters into our service we are advised that it is our duty to aid and protect our nationals in every way possible. Naturally our countrymen when they face problems of their own, no matter how trifling they may be, come to our office for advice and assistance. You would be surprised to know that sometimes these problems involve even domestic differences.

In Detroit last year there were some 150,000 subjects of the British government. Naturally with the growth and development of Detroit as one of the great industrial centers of the world, our work has increased and the Detroit office of the British consulate is now an exceedingly important one, with a much larger personnel than it had a few years ago.

There are few places in the world where industry is more concentrated than in and around Detroit, so one can easily imagine the work of such an office as the one I represent," he stated.

The speaker told of his long years in the service and of his interesting experiences on other continents, including his work with European nations. Previous to being stationed in Detroit he was in charge of the British office in Chicago, where he was transferred after a few years of service in Cuba.

Friday evening of this week, members of the Rotary club and their ladies will be entertained at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ayers.

Double Wedding Unites Couples

Miss Vesley to Franklin Knapp, son of Mrs. Franklin Knapp of New Hudson and Miss Prough to LaVern Sheppo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sheppo also of New Hudson.

Immediately following the ceremonies the happy couples returned to the Prough home on Maple avenue where a wedding dinner, planned by both bride's parents, was enjoyed.

The dining table had covers laid for sixteen and was beautifully decorated in blue and white, streamers hanging from the chandelier above to the corners of the table, but baskets of white, each placed in a favor with a large tiered wedding cake of white gracing the center of the table. The house was decorated throughout with baskets and bouquets of lovely asters, margolds and zinnias creating a beautiful setting for the happy occasion.

Railroad Is Still In Infancy Says PMRR Attorney

Kiwanis Hear Comparisons In Various Modes Of Travel

"The United States has over 400,000 miles of railroads, and this industry though the largest in the country, still considers itself in its infancy," said William Seaton, general attorney for the Pere Marquette R. R., when he addressed the Kiwanis club Tuesday night.

Mr. Seaton told of the first mode of transportation in the country, the opening of the Erie canal in 1825. Seven years later twenty-three mile of railroad was built in Maryland. Today the United States has 33 1/3 per cent of the railroads of the world. Russia had only 47,000 miles of railroad system, said the speaker.

In relating the competition given the railroads by buses, trucks and aeroplanes, the attorney commented on the fact that Michigan alone has 3,000 miles of improved highways. In 1928, 50,000 people adopted air travel as their mode of transportation. In 1934, 500,000 journeyed by air.

Among the Pere Marquette officials, the attorney who were present at the meeting were: William Bake and Luther Tefft of the land and tax department; Claude Buzzard, attorney; F. Hammill, station agent; Charles Donohue, general yard manager and Bruce Miller, road house superintendent.

Leonard Murphy was made a member of the Kiwanis Club at Tuesday's meeting.

Plymouth Youth's Mother Killed As Car Leaves Road

Widow Was On Way To Visit Her Son Friday Afternoon

Mrs. Alice B. Sweeney was instantly killed, while on her way from Ann Arbor to visit her son, David Sweeney, Caster avenue, last Friday afternoon, when her car ran off a curve on Plymouth Road and crashed into a boulder.

The car had first grazed a tree, then smashed into the huge boulder, shoving it 16 feet along the shoulder of the road.

Call Police When Peddler Knocks

Plymouth Residents Are Once More Being Warned Against Buying From House Peddlers and Agents Who at the Present Time Are Again Flooding the City With "Bargains"

A recent complaint was made to Plymouth police where one woman ordered nine yards of linoleum from an agent. When the linoleum was delivered, she was authorized to "let it stand a while before unrolling it, as it might crack if suddenly unrolled. She did, and when she came to lay it, found instead of nine yards the roll contained seven yards of linoleum.

Transient photographers, underwer salesmen, grocery agents and numerous others represent themselves as calling from house to house flaunting tempting offers to housewives. The best way the housewife can cooperate in ridding the city of Plymouth of these salesmen is to immediately phone the police department when one appears at her door.

Mr. Stevens paused to chuckle delightedly at intervals, as he recalled incidents of his celebration. "Where is Mr. Stevens?" she was asked. "Is he resting?" she asked. "He is in the house smoking. He is not out, but he smiled as she enjoyed the comfort of her rocker on the sunny porch. The name of this couple had been suggested to parade officials by Don Ryder of Ann Arbor. Trail, Mr. Stevens expressed delight that Plymouth, too, was booming.

New Ford Car To Be On Market In The Near Future

Henry Ford Says Work Is Sure Cure For Depression

Ford factories in and around Plymouth are humming with industry these days as the Ford Motor Car company plans to bring out an improved model within the next two or three weeks.

Plymouth workers employed at the Rouge plant declare that the production line is in full blast and that new cars are being turned out by the hundreds every day.

All of the little factories about here have been running steadily since the summer vacation ended. So far this has been given out about the new car, although it is believed that there will be considerable change in the body style, the radiator, the hood and possibly an all steel top.

A newspaper writer in interviewing Henry Ford the other day gleaned considerable enthusiastic and optimistic information from him pertaining to the future of industry.

"Ford" named and in good spirit, its appeared genuinely unconcerned as he talked about national conditions and the new tax legislation that some economists feel will seriously handicap if not wreck future operations of this gigantic organization.

"He had just been informed that his forecast of one million Ford automobiles in 1935 was about to be realized. The count to date is 966,474."

"That's one of the few times I've ever made a prediction," he said. "I don't want to make too many. I never prophesy unless I'm sure."

"How do you account for your increase in volume this year?" he was asked.

"You yourself, have been prominently mentioned as a presidential candidate," he was reminded. "What are your reactions?" "I don't know," he said. "I don't think it will make much difference."

Aged Pioneers Lead Parade In Big Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stevens Honored In Wider Woodward Event

Never had Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stevens, of 240 N. Harvey street, dreamed that someday 100,000 pairs of eyes would be watching them, and that the arms of that many people would raise in a friendly wave.

Comfortably seated in their chauffeur driven car, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, both 85 of Plymouth, were part of the biggest parade Detroit had ever witnessed Friday night, when Woodward avenue's wedding was celebrated in gala fashion in a car labeled "The Oldest Couple in Wayne County" for almost three hours Mr. and Mrs. Stevens returned the greetings and cheers of parade watchers.

"Tired? Not one bit," said Mrs. Stevens Saturday afternoon. "We did ride in such a elegant car, driven by a chauffeur. And he certainly could drive," she said, shaking her head in bewilderment. "How anyone could have ever driven through that crowd, I can't figure out."

"City officials sent for us about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon and we were driven to Detroit in grand style. We certainly enjoyed it all. Mr. Stevens and I haven't been to the city for a long, long time. My son Clarence and my grand daughter, Dorothy Stevens had come from Ann Arbor, so they rode in the car with us. Mr. Murphy of the Plymouth chamber of commerce later came into the hotel and said that we were comfortable and if there was anything we wanted."

"The city gave us a fine luncheon and then my son and grand daughter went on to the reviewing stand at the Detroit Institute of Arts where they gave their speeches. We were sorry we missed that, but we stayed in the car and the chauffeur drove us along with the parade."

"Mrs. Stevens was greatly impressed with the beauty of the suite of rooms that they were given at the Hotel Statler. There was just one time I felt a little shaky during all that celebration," said Mrs. Stevens. "That was when the elevator shot us up to our suite, way up high. My but, aren't things beautiful and spotless in that hotel? We stayed all night up to 9 o'clock Saturday morning."

Mr. Stevens paused to chuckle delightedly at intervals, as he recalled incidents of his celebration. "Where is Mr. Stevens?" she was asked. "Is he resting?" she asked. "He is in the house smoking. He is not out, but he smiled as she enjoyed the comfort of her rocker on the sunny porch. The name of this couple had been suggested to parade officials by Don Ryder of Ann Arbor. Trail, Mr. Stevens expressed delight that Plymouth, too, was booming.

It's too early to go into details. There will not be much change, at least no basic change. We're getting ready for production and you'll see it around the first of the month.

Ford's twenty two million dollar expansion program, which included new steel mills to be completed next month, will not make him independent of the steel industry.

"We didn't intend that it should," he added. "We don't want to be self-sustaining. Too many suppliers look to us for business. I think there are 5,000 or 6,000 firms supplying us with parts. The more the better. All we want is a little first-hand experience in the process of each one. Then we can help them more."

"There's always been a lot of talk about the effect of a presidential year on business," he said in answer to a question. "I don't think it will make much difference."

"You yourself, have been prominently mentioned as a presidential candidate," he was reminded. "What are your reactions?" "I don't know," he said. "I don't think it will make much difference."

"I mean my reaction is good," he continued. "That is, I wouldn't have it or any political office. I Of his new product, he explained."

A CIVIC LOSS

It was a distinct shock to Plymouth a few days ago when it learned of the sudden and untimely death of Dr. Arthur Patterson. For years he had been one of Plymouth's best known physicians. In his energetic way he had done much for the community as well as many of its citizens. A great lover of flowers, his spacious gardens had become one of the city's beauty spots. He is the type of a citizen that the city can ill afford to lose. We as a community regret his untimely death. He is a good citizen gone and it will be a difficult thing to find one who will fill his place in community life. To Mrs. Patterson and other relatives we extend our sincerest sympathy. The city's loss is great. Theirs is a thousand fold greater.

PLAYING UNFAIR

It is pleasing to note that there is some consideration being given by the newly organized safety club of Plymouth to the exceedingly unfair "speed trap" that the Detroit police department has maintained during the past two or three years along Plymouth road.

It is needless for the Detroit police department to deny the charge that a speed trap exists just within the city limits of Detroit and along a section of the public highway where there is nothing to advise travelers that they are within the city limits of Detroit.

Hayfields along the side of a highway certainly do not indicate a thickly populated section of a great metropolitan center—and it is along this part of the Plymouth road where Detroit traffic officers have been most energetic in picking up "speeders."

At times one can observe traffic officers on motorcycles as well as in automobiles stationed in secluded spots just off this "country" highway waiting for some one to hurry within the speed trap, there to be stopped and ordered to appear in court and pay. Naturally rather than stand trial, scores and scores of Plymouth people have gone down to Detroit's traffic court and paid whatever the clerk at the counter might suggest should be paid.

The Detroit Automobile club in past years has raised an awful howl when Detroiters have been caught in similar speed traps out in Brighton, Fowlerville, Melvindale and other places that have sought to reap a substantial sum out of fines imposed upon motorists.

There is no question but what Plymouth has paid and paid plenty into the coffers of the Detroit city government through its traffic court. Sometimes it has looked as though much of the efforts of Detroit's traffic department has been devoted to the raising of revenue rather than the just administration of traffic regulations.

Every one wants to see traffic regulations properly observed—and if motorists do not take all the precautions necessary, then it is right and proper for the police to act.

But Detroit traffic's ordinance leaves too much to the discretion of the traffic officers. Some people are arrested for some offense that in other cases are absolutely ignored.

The big city to the east should clean up its traffic problem, but in doing so it should play fair. Its speed traps out in the country highway sections that happen to lie within the city limits should be abolished—and above all, EVERY ONE should be treated equally in the administration of Detroit's traffic regulations.

POTATO CONTROL

Because of the fact that so many hundreds of readers of The Plymouth Mail have raised potatoes for their own use and to sell during their entire lifetime. The Mail believes that it is essential to give them as much information and as many views as it can secure about the new law just signed by the President which seeks to control the growing, sale and purchase of potatoes.

The Hartford, Illinois, Courant, published in a potato growing section of the nearby state, has the following comment to make pertaining to the new law:

Although the potato control law does not go into effect until December, it is already clear that its enforcement will present a problem to the government. At least one open rebellion against the measure has broken out in New Jersey, where a group of thirty-five farmers have boldly announced that "we shall produce on our own land such potatoes as we may wish to produce and will dispose of them in such manner as we may deem proper." If they produce and sell more than five bushel of potatoes apiece the embattled farmers will each be subject to a fine of not more than $1,000; if they repeat the offense they may be imprisoned for not more than a year. Moreover, if they or any one else in the country refuse when questioned to tell an official about a potato bootlegger of whose activities they have knowledge, they may be fined $1,000 and be imprisoned for a year. And, as if the act had not threatened to fine and imprison enough persons, the purchaser of illegally produced potatoes is equally guilty with the seller.

Other farming communities may not defy the government as openly as has the New Jersey group, but there is no question but that the rebellion will proceed virtually wherever potatoes are grown and sold. The small farmer is not likely to accept willingly the quota imposed by the secretary of agriculture, nor, if he is ineligible to grow potatoes, is it probable that he will restrain his impulse to plant them if the spirit moves. No more is the housewife likely to insist on properly packaged and stamped potatoes when right around the corner or down the lane is a farmer who will sell her a sack without the stamps for a lower price.

If the government attempts to enforce the act, particularly outside of the regions where potatoes are cultivated on a large scale, it is likely to be forced to recognize its importance in the face of popular rebellion on a matter which, to the common citizen, seems to be no concern whatever of the government. The humble potato may yet achieve the position that tea once held in the popular imagination, though in the case of a government as sensitive to popular indignation as is ours there is no probability that the potato rebellion will go as far as did that in which tea was involved.

You have heard it said the youth of today is being molded by the radio and the movies. To say nothing of the thrilling adventure stories heard over the radio that draw their attention more than jazz music and crooning.—Earl Seed in The Rochester Clarion.

SEEING THINGS

The individual is fortunate indeed who experiences many high moments and because of them lives for a few minutes each day on the mountain top. He may also have his low moments when he is in the valley but one really high moment during which one lives on the mountain top and thrills with genuine vision is worth many low moments. The person who drifts along in an uneventful even way misses a great deal of the adventure of life.—Paul McKee in The Mt. Clemens Monitor.

THOUSANDS IN TAXES PAID

One of the most unique advertising campaigns in the history of Michigan has just been concluded. It was carried on by the state in an effort to get people to pay their taxes. Millions in back taxes have rolled into the state, county, township, city and school coffers as a result of this effort. In Midland county alone almost $20,000 in back taxes were collected.

This is the first time that the state has used the newspapers in this method with paid advertising. The facts were given and those who had been holding off looking for bigger and better tax bargains stepped right up and laid their money on the line. The response is significant for it means that in some cases millions more in delinquent taxes will be paid under the ten-year plan.

The response was encouraging all over Michigan and especially so here where collections in August exceeded any other similar period in history. Lines of taxpayers lined the county treasurer's office and swamped those working there so that it will take several weeks just to issue sufficient tax receipts.

The response to the appeal shows that people were able to dig up the money to save their property and that great numbers of them did take advantage of the liberal provisions of the act in order to save penalties. The collection of this money will help many a government unit to pay its debts or get out of the red. It's all a healthy sign that we are well on our way up the slope toward normal business.—Phil Rich in The Midland Republican.

DEADBEATS

As the belief that the world owes everybody a living spreads and strengthens, the number of deadbeats becomes greater and more bold. The fellow who repudiates a debt feels that he is no more of a sponge than the fellow who accepts public relief because he does not want to work. But we cannot get back to a sound foundation until pride is stirred to spur charity and to accept an obligation as binding.—George Neal in The Orion Review.

THE NEXT STEP

A complete elimination of prisons and paroles from every phase of partisan politics is the next great reform that Michigan voters should undertake. If adopted, it would remove the greatest single handicap now facing our executive officers. With this department removed governors would miss a tremendous amount of health wrecking pressure. Such action would permit wardens to speak constructively and without fear of political penalty. As it is now, our wardens are mere keepers rather than leaders on this phase of public thought.—Murl H. DeFoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

THE IMPORTANCE OF "TATERS" AND OTHER THINGS

Sometimes, if not most of the time, all of us are a bit "cuckoo." We do most of our worrying about things we cannot help. We think most about things and affairs far away from us. We interest ourselves in the affairs of the world and forget the neighborhood in which we live.

Word comes that former Mayor Jimmy Walker may come back to New York City and it gets the headlines in the nation's biggest newspapers. To Bill Jones operating his 80-acre farm it is vastly more important that he decided where he is going to plant his "taters" next year. So it goes.

Eleanor Roosevelt recently had a long article in the Saturday Evening Post justifying her curiosity. To the average Clinton county man it is vastly more important just how curious his wife will be when he gets in at two-thirty in the morning.

The NRA designed to regulate business was a thorn in the side of business and got pages of publicity every day in the newspapers and finally the attention of the Supreme Court. Most business men growled and grumbled about it, but it never was a big drawback to the average groceryman as one lazy, impudent, dishonest clerk.

The national debt has been "up-ed" to close to $35,000,000,000 in the last few years. It is a depressing thing to think or talk about. But why think or talk about it? Let's remember that we live in Clinton county where the public debt is almost nothing and we have a set of careful and frugal public officers. That's more important to you and me.

Governor Fitzgerald crowned a peach queen down at Romeo the other day and a few days later sold a prize steer at the State Fair. The newspapers printed his picture. Many people saw it and commented on it. It means a lot more to me that our small boy's teacher gave him a pat on the back and an encouraging word the first day of school. I'll forget the pretty peach queen and the steer and think about my kid and his teacher.

There was a big blow down in Florida which killed a large number of people and destroyed much property. About the same time a light blow broke a limb from one of our trees in our yard. I sympathize with the Florida people, but that tree doesn't look the same and I have to look at it every day.

This newspaper, your home newspaper, every week prints a lot of items about you people who live right here in this county. Many of these items would not find space in the big dailies. Yet, we contend, these are more important to you and your friends and neighbors than is the lease the Emperor of Ethiopia paid to the Standard Oil Company.

What do you think about it?—Schuyler Marshall in The St. Johns Republican News.

NEW DEAL FINDS ROOSEVELT OFF IN PRESS FAVOR

By Theodore C. Wallen

Among the multifarious New Deal devices for checking public sentiment is one which weighs "newspaper bias" throughout the United States. One of its main objects is to gauge President Roosevelt's personal popularity in relation to his administration's. The standing of each in the national editorial estimation is represented by a curve on a graph.

This graph shows that 70 per cent of American editorial opinion was favorable to President Roosevelt as of last November 1, just before the decisive Democratic sweep in the Congressional elections. The President held this degree of personal popularity until early in March. From then until the end of April it fluctuated violently. This was a period marked by distinct Congressional inaction, when the President's opponents, including the late Senator Huey P. Long, made some of their most telling attacks. The President's "popularity line" went from 67 per cent to 58, to 62, to 47, to 66, to 42, and back to 61 on April 29, only to dive to 21 in the reaction to his radio "fireside talk" of April 28 and his counter-attack on the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

At that moment the Republicans for the first time in an organized way, ventured to train their guns on the President personally rather than on the Administration as a whole. It was the turning point in the opposition party's strategy, brought on in part at least by the fact that its leaders sensed an ebbing of Mr. Roosevelt's remarkable cycle of personal popularity. It was followed soon by semi-official indications that, from then on, Mr. Roosevelt would insist on taking personal responsibility for the operation of his major policies, notably with respect to relief activities, rather than permit "whipping boys" to take the onus.

On the day the President's popularity curve hit the spring "low" of 21, it converged with the line showing the popularity of his administration as a whole. In more than two years since the New Deal had begun, this apparently was the first time President Roosevelt and his administration had come to stand for the same thing in the editorial opinion of the United States. Many persons who had distrusted the "brain trust" and the whole business of the Roosevelt administration had continued to have a high degree of confidence in Mr. Roosevelt's underlying political and economic philosophy.

Others were held by his personal charm, his apparently invariable personal good nature. Even when he conceded that the President scarcely could escape responsibility for the operations of his less popular subordinates or bureaus were satisfied that the whole had been done as well as any other human being could have done in the circumstances and had demonstrated his good intentions. On that basis, they were willing to charge off the mistakes of the whole and give the President time to proceed toward his general objectives.

With the approach to the Presidential campaign, the various Federal indices to public sentiment all agree that the wide gap between the popularity of Roosevelt and of his administration has never been re-established. The President having gone to the front when the two lines merged, the editorial opinion now praises them today as one and the same thing. President Roosevelt and the New Deal are synonymous.

This development, while consistent with a natural tendency in the long run is believed to have been accentuated by the growth of violent disagreements between key men of the New Deal who are personally loyal to Mr. Roosevelt and presumably in sympathy with his basic philosophy. In other words, since it is difficult to tell who speaks the New Deal gospel when Harry L. Hopkins and Harold L. Ickes fall out, President Roosevelt is credited with the determining influence when a sense of direction arrives.

It is further accentuated by such inconsistencies as the President's declaration to Congress that the United States is through with the leaf-raking form of relief, while his relief administration is unable to see any way out of it, and finally so convinces the President. The experts coldly analyze the figures on the basis of their New Deal superior will want to know just how they stand with the public. And they assume that such incidents gradually bring disillusionment to that segment of the public which has believed that the New Deal is proceeding substantially according to a well developed plan.

Newspaper opinion, however, it rejected as an unreliable index to public opinion, considering the "ownership bias" of the New Deal prefers to take its soundings directly. It is constantly taking cross-section tests of sentiment in specific sections. Mr. Roosevelt himself relating the results of these tests assured a friend July 9 that in "pivotal" Ohio the test induced them to go into the production of potatoes, limit the number of farmers going into the bacco or peanuts or other crops and drive them all over into the potato field. . . . It seems necessary, if other control acts are to continue, that potatoes should receive the protection which it is supposed they will have under this proposal.

The same argument that potato control and the rest of A.A.A. must stand or fall together, appeared in the reproach of the advocates of potato control against members of the House from Iowa, who apparently banded together to vote against the control of this crop. Democratic Representative Linus C. Warren of North Carolina, sponsor of the bill in the House, addressed the members from Iowa thus:

"The unkindest cut of all comes from Iowa. Notwithstanding that $71,000,000 was paid out to that state in benefit payments, when their chief crop (hogs) as a result of the program higher today than had shown that, while nine out of ten business men were against the New Deal, four out of seven farmers and seven out of eight laborers were for it.

Members of the Presidential circle figured that, if these soundings were accurate Mr. Roosevelt would carry Ohio overwhelmingly and in all likelihood would sweep the country for re-election as of that date. Within a few weeks the sudden death of Charles V. Truax, Representative at-large from Ohio, gave the President an opportunity to test the accuracy of the soundings.

Martin L. Davey, Democratic Governor of Ohio, stood ready to call a special state-wide election to fill the Truax seat if the President desired it. In the light of the New Deal reversal in the Rhode Island special election August 8, it was decided to hold no special election in Ohio this year. The very New Dealers who had foreseen a New Deal sweep on the strength of the President's confidential survey of Ohio, conceded privately that it would have been politically hazardous to submit the New Deal to a vote of confidence in Ohio at this time.

The incident furnished the best evidence of the President's confidence in "straw votes." The press reaction was extremely unfavorable from the Administration's standpoint.

Whether or not the New Deal is putting much dependence on the straw votes of the President's confidence, it is keeping a most careful check on the espousers of every newspaper, wherever located, on every issue. For given periods, it has reduced the editorial reaction to tables, graphs and charts to show, at a glance, the net editorial attitude toward specific happenings touching the New Deal. A speech by Father Charles J. Coughlin or Orest L. Mills is weighted against a speech or a message by the President, a Presidential crackdown on a Congressional committee for publishing confidential testimony about military plans or the holding companies' drive on the "death sentence."

How much weight the new dealers attach to such checkups only they can say. But they make it a point to know what the papers are saying everywhere. Recently they have become increasingly critical of the press.

If a headline seems to them to overemphasize, an adverse development in the New Deal, such as the disappointing outcome of the recent farm mortgage bond issue, an official protest not only to the Washington newspaper corps but very often directly to the newspaper in question. Mr. Roosevelt, in a press conference this week, held up two newspapers for a contrast of headline treatment of New Deal news. Democratic members of Congress write editors of newspapers in their states protesting that they have done the President an injustice in this report or that.

The President makes no effort to preserve his early reputation for good-natured indifference to reportorial mistakes. Now and then, in his press conference, he

it has ever been since 1929, they come here and band themselves together to deny relief to bankrupt potato grower."

The net of all this is that the matter of keeping or ending potato control is bound up with the matter of keeping or ending the rest of A.A.A.

I explain all this partly because it illustrates the automatic characteristics of A.A.A. Once one crop is put under A.A.A., pressure upon other crops causes them to follow. Senators like Mr. Bailey of North Carolina, to whom the fundamental principle of compulsory crop restriction is detestable, nevertheless supported potato control. The reason is that once the promoters of this form of society achieve their first step, the ensuing steps become so inevitable that they are accepted even by those who bitterly opposed the first step and bitterly opposed the fundamental principle. It is like the reverse of falling cards. Once one crop control is put in effect, the others follow.

Understanding World Affairs

FARMERS' OPPOSITION HELD LIKELY TO CAUSE POTATO CONTROL REPEAL

By Mark Sullivan

From widespread resentment over potato control it is assumed that this feature of A.A.A. will be beaten down. By some it is assumed potato control will be ended by general resistance on the part of farmers and consumers, both of whom are subjected to criminal penalties if the one sells and the other buys potatoes not packaged according to A. A. A. requirements and not bearing a government stamp.

Resistance by individuals and groups may come. It is borne in mind however, that the government has ways of being harassing in the collection of taxes, and it is upon the basis of collecting a tax that potato control rests. Farmers, as a rule, will now learn for the first time how formidable a Federal government tax collector can be. Any individual farmer could readily be reduced to bankruptcy by the trouble and expense the government could put him to it. It is true, as respects the imprisonment penalty, that local juries may reasonably be expected to refuse to indict or convict. As respects the fine part of the penalty, however, A.A.A. seems to have devised ways to collect that, or at least to put a farmer and his farm under restraint without letting the matter come before a jury.

It is also assumed that the ending of potato control may come through reversal by Congress of action in imposing the control. This is possible. The vote in the House was enacted on August 14 was 174 to 165. Obviously a shift of five votes, or even the presence of a larger number of members voting might bring repeal of the law. In passing it the Democratic majority leaders of the House permitted only thirty minutes for debate on each side. It was said at the time by Republican Congressman Hiram Boren of Oklahoma that had there been adequate debate, not fifty members of the House would have supported the bill.

Fundamentally, however, potato control cannot be used forward alone, and repeal of it cannot be looked upon as a separate act. Potato control is geared in to the rest of A.A.A. It would seem that if the rest of A.A.A. is to remain, potato control ought logically to remain also.

When A.A.A. was started its promoters knew that the first step would force the succeeding steps. The whole reason given for enactment of potato control was that the controls that had already been set up upon other crops. When A.A.A. limits the acreage of cotton and fixes an artificial price for it, unfairness to potatoes at once rises because the land which is prevented from raising cotton goes into potatoes. This creates an artificially large crop of potatoes and an artificially low price for them. This condition is repeated again and again in the debates as practically the sole justification for potato control. As it was put by Republican Congressman Ralph O. Brewster, of Maine,

Good Attendance Marks Meeting Of Safety Club

45 Are Now Members Of Plymouth Safety Club; More Signing

Plymouth's organizations were well represented at the meeting of the Plymouth Safety Club Tuesday noon at the Mayflower when the group gathered at luncheon to further discuss traffic safety in the city of Plymouth.

The club is already responsible for the elimination of the Plymouth road speed trap, which Detroit officials investigated after this organization had made an appeal. Prominent signs now mark the entrance into the city limits.

Mr. C. H. Bennett, who heads the committee appealing to merchants to sign up for a large free parking lot for Plymouth shoppers, reported at Tuesday's meeting that merchants are cooperating splendidly, and leases for lots for this purpose are being signed.

The Plymouth Safety Club also endorsed a movement at this meeting for a motorcycle for Plymouth police, to better aid them in the safety traffic campaign.

Plymouth schools were given safety talks this morning by Captain Rounds, Safety Director of the Automobile Club of Michigan, who has charge of school safety work. School patrols are being organized at the request of the Plymouth Safety Club.

About forty-five men and women are now members of the Plymouth Safety club, with more signing up constantly. Vote was taken at Tuesday's meeting for safety stickers which members of the Plymouth Safety Club will have on their cars, to identify their interests in Plymouth traffic safety.

All men and women to whom this safety movement is a big issue, are invited to attend the next meeting of the Plymouth Safety Club Tuesday noon at the Mayflower Hotel.

Business groups are invited to send their representatives if they cannot attend in a body," said A. Morton, secretary of the organization.

New Deal Finds Roosevelt Off In Press FAVOR

 takes a reporter to task for a given story. Occasionally he has one of his secretaries send for a reporter to "put him right" on a subject he has written about to the president's displeasure.

Charles Michelson, the New Deal's publicity ace has been known to call up a correspondent to "put him right" about a subject he is inquiring about among friends of the New Deal. Recently Mr. Michelson putting aside his publicity, has begun issuing a weekly letter to newspaper editors. The first two dealt with the critical press. One singled out individual commentators for ridicule.

Several weeks ago, a Washington news commentator whose column appears in newspapers throughout the country wrote his subscribers privately that the Administration was expected to start some sort of a drive on the hostile press before long. Whether or not a prophetic statement, it is true, there has been a distinct change in the New Deal's attitude toward the press in the ten months since it stood 70 per cent favorable to Mr. Roosevelt.

Herd Maintains Its High Record

The herd of registered Holsteins owned by the Wagnon county Training school at Northville has maintained a daily average yield of 1.2 pounds of fat per cow during the first 125 days of the current annual production test. Five cows in this herd have topped the 200 pound fat mark during the 125 days with top honors going to Wacots Bess Segis with a credit of 265.2 pounds fat and 7110.2 pounds milk. During the last month of the test Wacots Marathon Bess led the herd with a yield of 74.4 pounds fat and 1894.1 pounds milk.

She was surpassed in milk production by Wacots' Marathon Ormsby Maid whose total for the month was 2201.0 pounds milk and 64.5 pounds fat. Just recently seven cows completed lactation records in Class B. Macfarlane Prospect Princess Wayne a nine-year-old cow, has produced with 701.1 pounds fat and 1917.1 pounds milk. The five-year-old Lawndale Johanna Lindy Segis completed her record with 515.3 pounds fat, and four other young cows completed records ranging from 446.4 pounds fat to 499.5 pounds fat.

Pure bred Holsteins produce more than twice as much milk and fat as the average. According to the U. S. Bureau of Dairy Industry the average for all cows in the country during the past six years was approximately 4350 pounds milk and 170 pounds fat. During the same period, Holsteins tested in the Herd Improvement Test averaged 11034 pounds milk and 374 pounds fat per cow annually.

Rabbits, rats, mice, chipmunks, squirrels, beavers, porcupines, gophers, guinea pigs etc. are classed as rodents.

NEW TRICKS
 Here's a whole batch of new tricks to try on old favorites. You'll have heaps of fun trying them, and we're practically ready to guarantee that you'll feel like a magician pulling rabbits out of hats, they'll be so successful.

First of all let's start with soup. Now that days are growing snappier there's a lot of warming comfort in a steaming bowl of your favorite cream soup, and when you scatter fluffs of popcorn on top, you've a dish that's as good as it is partitioned.

And speaking of parties, we've discovered a swell way to give that chef's air to cakes. It's terribly simple too. When the cake is still warm gently press a paper doilie over the top, one of those completely lacy doilies, not the variety with solid centers. Be sure the doilie is the same size as the cake. Then sprinkle it thoroughly with confectioners' sugar and lift off the doilie. The pattern of the doilie will remain on the cake giving it a very festive air. And it's much simpler than struggling with icing.

Now that pears are having their heyday you'll probably want to know about the two new pear recipes we've collected. One's a dessert, the other a salad. For either the pears should be peeled and halved. When serving them as a dessert, simply place the half in a sauce dish and chill them over their warm chocolate sauce that's just warm enough to take the chill off the pears. They're grand. Be sure the sauce is rather on the bitter side, the sweetness of the pears will take care of that, and if the sauce is too sweet the result is a bit insipid. For the salad place the half on a lettuce leaf and serve with cream cheese dressing. The dressing is made by slowly adding to one cup of Philadelphia cream cheese half cup of salad oil, the juice of half a lemon and a tablespoon of sugar. Beat the dressing until smooth with a rotary beater and then chill in the refrigerator until ready to use. Makes enough for six servings and will keep for days if covered and placed in the refrigerator.

Grapes are ripe now and make a grand dessert all by themselves, but if you want that extra dash of something that turns the family supper into a feast, we suggest you dip the grapes, either the cool green variety or the luscious deep purple ones in the white of an egg that's been beaten slightly and then in powdered sugar. It gives them a frosted elegance and makes them taste just as good.

And the next time you have the bridge club, why not serve them that jam you've got your eye on? Bake your favorite cup cake batter in tiny muffin tins, cut off the tops and scoop out the inside. Put a teaspoon of jam in the hole, put the top back on and frost them with butter frosting. The result is the kind of cakes that people clamor for, that taste as if they had just come from a French pastry shop.

And the last new trick is one to be used for Sunday night, when no matter how hearty a dinner they've eaten, the family always wants some supper. Take squares of bread, any convenient size and toast on one side. Spread the untoasted side pretty liberally with peanut butter and top with a slice of bacon, pop in the oven and broil until the bacon is a crisp curl. Make plenty of squares for they'll disappear like magic, for they're delicious.

Music Leader's Rotary's Guest At Northville

New Club President Has Most Successful Meeting On Tuesday

Several members of the Plymouth Rotary club were guests Tuesday noon at the meeting of the Northville Rotary club at the Presbyterian church in that community. They had the pleasure of hearing Leon Olmstead, musical director of the Hamtramck school, sing several musical selections that are popular with music lovers.

Mr. Olmstead, who has held his present position for a number of years, is regarded as one of the outstanding school musical directors of Michigan and his success in the schools at Hamtramck has won him a high place in state educational circles.

The meeting was one of the first under the leadership of Edward H. Lapham, who has just been elected president of the club, filling the vacancy caused by the recent death of Charles Thornton, and it was as interesting a Rotary meeting as ever held in Northville.

Carleton To Play Some Old Timers

Carleton, Michigan, September 23, 1935
 Dear Baseball Fan:
 The big baseball game will take place at Carleton next Sunday, September 29, 1935, at 2:30 o'clock, and the contest will be State Oldtimers vs. the Carleton Club.

The American Legion Band will blow their drums and beat their cornets about the village and at the ball park.

"Bobby Veach and Bob Fothergill, former Detroit Tiger players, have both promised Harry German, manager of the Oldtimers, that they will be in uniform to play with the old time players.

Among other State Oldtimers will be Hantz, Burgess and Hutchinson of Redford; Wolfe of Farmington; Schaub of Detroit; Harris of Tecumseh; McLachlan of Wyandotte; Jaska of Northville; Standish of Stockbridge and German of Carleton.

These players range in age from 40 to 62 years, but still are able to give younger players good competition.

The Carleton ball club will have a lefthander, Zimmerman, on the mound for the hard hitting veterans to solve.

Fred Mathew of Flat Rock will be chief umpire behind the bat, while two local lumps will officiate on the base lines.

Dr. Fred Henry of Willow, and Fred Tenig of Belleville, will be umpires for the department of State, it was announced Thursday. The cost of license plates for cars owned by the state or any municipality, including counties, cities, villages, and school districts, will be 50 cents for each vehicle regardless of size.

Instances have been discovered in which these 50 cent plates have been issued on application of municipalities, which in fact did not own them. Because of this State Department officials are warning that applications for such 1936 plates in which any question may arise as to the car's actual ownership should be filed in ample time to permit investigation of the car's exact status. Some plates have been confiscated, the owners of the cars being compelled to pay the regular weight tax.

From 10,000 to 12,000 sets of these plates are issued annually. State Department officials believe that all but a small percentage of applicants are actually entitled to them. On advice of Harry S. Taylor, Attorney General, however, the practice of issuing 'government' plates on application of school boards in districts where children are transported, will be stopped unless the boards actually own the vehicles for which the term 'owning' in this connection includes exclusive use of a motor vehicle, through lease or otherwise, for a period of more than 30 days. The device of a unit of government leasing motor vehicles and thus legally applying for 50 cent plates, is rarely resorted to for the reason that these units dislike responsibility of ownership in the event of any accidents from which costly lawsuits may arise.

State To Check "Official" Cars

Applications for 1936 automobile license plates for municipalities will be carefully examined by the department of State, it was announced Thursday. The cost of license plates for cars owned by the state or any municipality, including counties, cities, villages, and school districts, will be 50 cents for each vehicle regardless of size.

OBITUARIES

SEWELL L. BENNETT
 Sewell Lewis Bennett was born June the 4th, 1853 at Salem, Mich. and passed from this earthly life on the morning of September 23, 1935.

On November 23, 1876 he was married to Ida Jane Lyndon in Canton township, where they began their new home. Very soon Mr. and Mrs. Bennett came to the home they occupied so many years on Golden Road near Plymouth. On March 22nd they moved into his late home on Starkweather avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Bennett were among the early settlers of this community, and passed through all the experiences of the earlier days and it is most significant that from every source comes the word of the fine places they occupied among their friends and neighbors in those days when life did not afford the conveniences and comforts of this day.

It was on April the 16th, 1876 that he was baptized in the First Baptist Church, and he held that time known no other church home. During his long period of service to his Christ and his church he has served in practically every capacity, superintendent of the Sunday School, Trustee and some years ago made a life dedication. It is scarcely possible to place a due estimate upon the worth of this good man as his life was given to his church. Always kindly, possessing over a christian composure, and never refusing to do anything in his power to further the interests of the church. Again we are realizing that there must be raised up others to step into the ranks to fill these vacant places. The death of our brother Bennett removed the fourth active deacon from this church within a period of one year.

There remain to mourn the loss of this splendid christian man, one son, Walter S. Bennett of Detroit, three granddaughters, Mrs. George Burr and Mrs. Marion B. Morrow of Plymouth and Mrs. Ida Mae Harmon of Detroit, also four great granddaughters, Sanford Paul Burr, Jane Helen Burr, Joan Lee Harmon and Nancy Jean Morrow. One son Paul L. Bennett preceded his father in death but a few years ago.

"You are not dead—Life has but set you free!
 Your years of life were like a lovely song,
 The last yet poignant notes of which held long,
 Past into silence while we listened, we who loved you, listen still expectantly!
 And what about you whom you moved among,
 Would feel that grief for you were surely wrong!
 You have but passed beyond where we can see.

For us who knew you, dread of age is past!
 You took life, tip-toe to the very last!
 It never lost for you its lovely look,
 Yet kept your interest in its thrilling book!
 To you, death came, no conqueror, or in the end—
 You merely smiled to greet another friend!"
 Roselle Montgomery.

SARAH J. NORRIS
 Sarah Jane McIlwain, daughter of James and Agnes McIlwain was born at Homer, Mich. October 9, 1856.

At the age of twenty-two she was united in marriage to Henry Norris who preceded her in death by fourteen years. Their only child Carrie, Irene, survives and is a resident of Plymouth.

Mrs. Norris was the last of the McIlwains who emigrated from Belfast, Ireland, to find new homes in the western world. Her entire life was spent in the vicinity of Homer except the later years, while making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Russell W. Bingley, Plymouth.

She became helplessly confined to bed early in May where she remained until death quietly came September 25, 1935.

Services will be conducted Saturday morning, ten o'clock at the Wilkie Funeral Home. She will be laid to rest in Fairview cemetery, Homer, Mich.

A live snapping turtle, four inches in length, was found by Frank Snyder of Elberta in the stomach of a four-pound black bass which he caught in Upper Herring lake, Benzie county. Snyder did not discover the turtle until he had taken his catch home and dressed it out. It was put on display in a Frankfort hardware store.

The cow elk usually gives birth to one offspring although twins are not uncommon.

HE customs and practices in funeral procedure have advanced so far in the last few years that today's mortician has little in common with the "undertaker" of yesterday. In view of the progress that has been made, it is unfortunate that so little is known about the business methods and practices of the men in this vocation.

There are two main reasons for this general lack of understanding. They are: FIRST—Because these gentlemen, as a whole, have not seen fit to acquaint the public with facts, for fear their own policies would not bear investigation. SECOND—Because of a superstition and reticence on the part of the public to discuss matters pertaining to death. This mistaken attitude permits many forms of "bad practice" that would not be tolerated in any other business. However this condition is gradually changing, and sound thinking people are demanding to know "The reason why."

There is nothing about a properly conducted funeral establishment that needs to be concealed. In fact WE are proud of our institution, our business methods and our standards of service, and invite you to discuss them freely with us at any time. Question Box
By ED WYNN
The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I have been in America for the past six months without earning one dollar. I am an artist, having studied in France and Italy. I am an expert on portraits of women, having made a specialty of painting ladies' faces. Can you tell me why I cannot get at least one job?
Yours truly,
MINNIE ATURE.

Answer: You are in the wrong country. In the United States you will find that the women paint their own faces.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am filling out an application for a job as a letter carrier. One of the questions is: "How far is it from Boston to Tucson, Arizona?" What answer shall I give?
Yours truly,
WILL I. R. WOOD.

Answer: Tell the government if that is to be your route you don't want the job without an airplane.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
According to my history teacher in school, Christopher Columbus took a couple of schooners and discovered America. Don't you think that is wonderful?
Sincerely,
IZZIE LYING.

Answer: It was wonderful in those days, but if Columbus lived today and took a couple of schooners of the kind of stuff they are making now, there is no telling what he would discover.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am bookkeeper in an office where also works a pretty office girl. Yesterday we had an argument and she called me a "snake." Wasn't that awful?
Truly yours,
I. BUSHAPEN.

Answer: Don't take it to heart. It sounds worse than what she probably meant. You see, you are a bookkeeper, meaning that you were an "adder."

Dear Mr. Wynn:
During an English lesson at a night school I attend the teacher said that the two words "recollect" and "remember" can be used in the same sentence and mean different things. If this is true, will you give me an example?
Sincerely,
HANS N. PEET.

Answer: The teacher is right. I "recollect" lending a friend of mine $25, yet I don't "remember" ever getting it back.

Bathers Hail California Invention

BEIEVED to be the world's first motor-powered bathing beach cleaner, this odd mechanical monster successfully passed its tests at Santa Barbara, Calif., and is hailed with glee by bathers. It picks up and carries away rubbish of all kinds and sizes, from tiny bits of glass or nails and pins, to stones measuring five and one-half inches in diameter. The device "sifts" off the sand to a depth of four inches, sifts it thoroughly in a revolving hopper-screen, where all foreign objects are retained, and sprinkles the cleansed sand back in a smooth loosened layer.

COMPANY ICE CREAM

ALMOST any of the fancy ices and creams prepared and served in the shops may be duplicated at home. Ice cream is one of the desserts that one always finds room for, no matter how hearty the meal. With the fancy brick ice cream ready to serve, many housewives find it a most attractive way of serving cream. The following are a few suggestions for using it in different desserts:

Cut cake, either sponge, angel, chocolate or caramel, using the kind appropriate to the cream served.

Take two slices of gold cake, put together with a slice of caramel cream, cover the sandwich with caramel sauce and sprinkle with toasted almonds.

Angel cake, strawberry ice cream and crushed berries for the sauce.

Chocolate cake, vanilla ice cream and a sauce of whipped cream and chopped nuts.

Fruit Sundae.

Prepare a nut sauce, using chopped dates, less preserved in sirup, macerated with the sirup and blanched toasted almonds. Prepare the fruit, using equal amounts of each finely chopped, adding the sirup to make of the right consistency. Serve vanilla ice cream with the sauce poured over it.

Mint Float.

Boil one half cupful each of sugar and water together for five minutes. Add the leaves from a bunch of mint finely chopped; there should be six tablespoons and a scant half cup of lemon juice and let stand several hours or overnight. Tint with green color paste. In each glass put a tablespoon of the mint sirup, fill the glasses with ginger ale and add a scoop of lemon water ice for each glass.

Chocolate Cream Squares

Place a square slice of chocolate ice cream on a dolly-covered plate and cover with whipped cream, hot fudge sauce and chopped pecans.

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON

"A LITTLE CHIVALRY FROM THE LADIES"

DEAR Jean Newton—What do you think of a man writing to a newspaper a letter which he heads "A Little Chivalry From the Ladies," complaining that women go out into the world to compete with men, take their jobs away from them, and then expect all the courtesies and amenities of the Age of Chivalry for which they offer only complete lack of consideration and even rudeness—"with the idea that they can get away with it simply because of their sex?"

I cannot subscribe to all the man's statements, and I believe my readers will agree that he wrote probably under the impulse of a bitter moment. However, there is food for a wealth of thought in that title, "A Little Chivalry From the Ladies."

There are still too many women who want to have their cake and eat it, too. And by that I do not refer to the desire for gallantry that will live in every woman's breast no matter what place she may take in the competitive world with men. It seems to me that the men worth reckoning with are not those who will quibble about such matters as removing their hats in an elevator or holding open doors for us. I refer to matters that go deeper than that and which the finest type of man will resent as small and unfair, and in the language of the unchivalrous man quoted above, "unchivalrous" on the part of women.

They are the attempts of some women to get something for nothing on the ground of being women. For instance, I was told of a case where two salespeople were waiting in an anteroom for the appearance of a buyer. The man had arrived long before the woman, but she openly insulted him for taking his turn and not allowing her to precede him in her competitive capacity. There can be little doubt that the unchivalrous person there was the woman. And then there are the many little ways in which some women stoop to petty graft at the expense of men, allowing them, on pain of embarrassment, to shoulder expenses for them in situations where that is manifestly uncalled for. Too many women still do that. And in common fairness and principally on the grounds of self-respect, it's out of date.

SATISFACTORY WORK

That is what The Plymouth Mail has always endeavored to accomplish in its job printing department.

We believe that we have accomplished this aim by the constant repeat orders we receive not only from old customers but new ones as well.

ANOTHER PROOF

Of this accomplishment has recently come when some of the wholesale houses that The Plymouth Mail buys its paper from requested samples of printed matter produced by The Mail on paper purchased from them.

TO SHOW AS SAMPLES

They wanted to use these printed pieces to show what good printing could be done on the paper The Mail purchased from them.

We feel that it is a rather high compliment to our printing department to have printed matter produced in our office used as samples by wholesale paper houses.

This work was produced in the regular routine of business and was given the same attention that every job receives. We did not know at the time it was being produced that any one would ask for it to be used as samples.

Every printing job, no matter how big or small, is given careful attention—and no place, not even Detroit, can produce work more satisfactorily, quicker or more economically than can The Plymouth Mail.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

Micah Foretells the Birth of Christ.—Micah prophesied during the reigns of Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah, being a contemporary of Isaiah. Micah 4: 6 promised restoration of Zion, of its temple and of its people, with a gathering in of all nations under the sovereignty of the Messiah. The birth of Christ is foretold. "But thou, Bethlehem Ephratah, though thou be little among the thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall He come forth unto Me that is to be ruler in Israel, whose goings forth have been from of old, from everlasting. Therefore will He give them up, until the time that she which travaileth hath brought forth; then the remnant of His brethren shall return unto the children of Israel. And He shall stand and feed in the strength of the Lord, in the majesty of the name of the Lord His God; and they shall abide: for now shall He be great until the ends of the earth."—Micah 5: 2-4. Among the Bible citations is this passage (Hebr. 11:7): "By faith Noah, being warned of God of things not seen as yet, moved with fear, prepared an ark to the saving of his house; by which he condemned the world, and became heir of the righteousness, which is by faith."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following: 10:353. "All the real is eternal. Perfection underlies reality. Without perfection, nothing is wholly real. All things will continue to disappear, until perfection appears, and reality is reached."

If you have not found the joy-giving fellowship of a church home, why not visit Calvary this Sunday. Our pastor preaches at 10 a.m. on "First A Prayer Meeting. Next an Earthquake. The Lord Jesus Christ's word can be trusted for time and eternity. He says, "He that believeth on the Son (Jesus) hath everlasting life; and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him." (John 3:36) Which are you trusting: your own opinions, or God's Word?

New Ford Car To Be On Market In The Near Future

(Continued from page one) don't want to have anything to do with politics and I don't want politics to have anything to do with me.

There has been conversation that the increase in inheritance taxes will force the company to sell stock to remain in business.

"May that is why they put on the taxes," he said.

"Do you believe that was the motive?"

Ford swung a lean leg over the arm of his chair in a characteristic well-known gesture.

"Well, somebody's got to die before they put on inheritance taxes," he said. "Nobody's dead yet."

"Would you sell stock in the Ford Motor Company?"

The interviewer inquired: "Who to?"

"To the public."

"What would the public want it for?" Ford asked.

It was suggested that people would want to share in the company's profit.

"That would increase the price of the car, wouldn't it?" Ford returned.

"Look at all the profit you would have to make for the stock. I am only interested in reducing the price of our car. What is the purpose of new taxes, anyway?"

"To help defray the expenditures of the federal government," the interviewer guessed.

"Does the government build automobiles?" he asked.

"No," Ford resumed, "we're not worried about taxes. We try to be prepared for emergencies, that's all. If they can do anything to us, it simply shows we are not doing our job. For myself, I know everything will come out all right."

"What's your opinion of these vast governmental expenditures?"

The manufacturer swung around.

"The dole is simply an expression of the money jugglers' fear of what might happen," he said sharply. "Imagine a dole being handed out in a jar like this."

There are millions of acres of land right around Detroit that are not in use. It's absurd. And everyone who ever had anything to do with it is trying to drop it. People appreciate being helped to help themselves. They don't want handouts."

On and Off The Record

The workers in Harold Stoll's office have been fingerprinted. This is the first move by County officials toward a local bureau to act in conjunction with Washington's efforts to have everyone fingerprinted, regardless of race, creed or age.

Stoll considers the days very near when all official documents recorded by the government such as deeds, licenses, etc. will contain not only the signature of the person involved, but also his fingerprint. It is a common fact that many professional slysters in the past have been known to gain property and other valuables by forging a name and then recording it with the Recorder of Deeds' office. The photostat system used by Stoll has prevented this to a marked degree, the signature now being photographed on the duplicate copy instead of typed as it was in the past. This prevents ordinary forgers, but might give rise to argument if forged by a professional who can copy a name of another man as typical as the man might sign himself. With a fingerprint on the instrument there would be no argument at all. Fingerprinters don't lie, even though some notaries have been known to do so.

Auditor Ed Williams has started a radio campaign to educate the people in the benefits of this modern method of protection. With the aid of the press, government officials, and the radio it wouldn't surprise if within a year the finger-print would supersede or at least rise to the importance of a signature.

The people must disassociate the fingerprint from the criminal and realize it is for their own protection, for the protection of the good. Their position at present is like that of the small child who can't realize that the policeman is his best friend and that when lost he should seek the custody of the bluecloth. His mind has as associated the police with criminals and he is afraid.

Zig Miowski, clerk in Judge Jos. Gillis' Court was taken with an attack of pleurisy a few days ago. He was listening to testimony in a conciliation case, taking the bench during the Judge's absence, when he was forced to leave the court room. He is recovering rapidly.

All the records of Wayne County are being transferred from the 5th floor where they have remained since the County Building was built to the basement. Auditor Ray Schneider says that the new record room will accommodate the records in a more convenient and better place. The room is now in the south east corner of the basement, directly under the County Treasurer's office.

Victor Gnaul and Charles Benoit, chief clerks for Harold E. Stoll, and Benj. Pelham head man in the County Auditor's office have settled an ancient argument which has troubled their thousands of friends for many years.

It seems that Gnaul who started working for the Burton Abstract Company back in 1892 made a bet that he was younger than either Pelham or Benoit who met him when they started work for the county the day that the county building opened up. All three were loathe to reveal their ages, although each suspected the other two of being past the century mark.

Gnaul still refusing to admit his own age, has proved to the satisfaction of Pelham that Benoit is much the oldest of the trio. He dug up a city directory for the year 1862 which lists Charles Benoit, carpenter, but fails to mention that either Gnaul or Pelham had reached their 21st birthday as yet. Benoit refuses to answer this, but makes dire threats that he is hiding documentary proof that he is Gnaul's nephew.

An 8 day exposition that is designed to depict the progress Detroit has made since Cadillac's founding of the city in 1701 will be held at Naval Armory, Oct. 5-12, under the appropriate name of Progress on Parade.

Through pageants, tableaux, stage presentations and processions the progress in industry, culture, the arts and business will be portrayed from the stage to be erected inside the Armory. Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald is honorary chairman of the event which includes in its advisory committee such public officials as Supt. of Detroit School, Frank Cody, Abner Larned, Judge John V. Brennan, Judge Arthur E. Gordon, Harold Emmons, John C. Lodge, Dr. Angus McLean and a host of others. The show is under the auspices of Detroit Federation of Women's Clubs, Metropolitan Council of Lions Clubs of Detroit, Detroit Business Pioneers, Civic Pride Association of Greater Detroit and the Madonna Guild.

Three Celebrations Are Observed On Gala Day

Gala Day, Homecoming and Arsonic Day, all three celebrations in one were observed yesterday at South Lyons.

Drum and bugle corps played there was dancing at the Veterans' hall in the evening, and also street dancing, a football game, pt parade for the children, of South Lyons and many other sports in the afternoon.

A big Grub Stake drawing was held at night, where $50 worth of groceries was the first award. The event was sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Lovell-Hill Post.

Plymouth Park Ties For First

Last week's paper stated that Plymouth Park finished the season in second place in the Southern Michigan League but the league officials insisted that the postponed games be made up before the play off starts. So last Sunday the Plymouth Park team defeated the strong Highland Park team by the score of 8 to 4 and Paradise Cave won by a forfeit from Highland Park 9 to 0. The two defeats coupled with Plymouth's victory gave the local club a first place tie with Highland Park for the pennant in the Southern Michigan League. Ed Sinta won his ninth victory of the season against three defeats when he held the strong Highland Park team to six hits in seven and one-third innings when he was relieved by T. G. Sawdowsky in the eighth. This was a great victory for Sinta as he defeated Allen who is the leading pitcher of the Southern Michigan League with fourteen victories and two defeats.

Highland Park's winning streak was broken last Sunday after teaching seventeen in a row and they lost their first series of the season to Plymouth Park, two games to one. While the local Plymouth Park team won the series from every club in the league, sweeping the series with Wyandotte, Paradise Cave and taking two out of three from the rest of the clubs.

Clarence Lewandowski and John Schomberger were the leading hitters for the local club last Sunday, Clarence getting a home run, double and a single in four trips to the plate, while John got three singles.

Next Sunday morning at 10:30 the local Plymouth Park team will meet the Highland Park team at Highland Park in one game for the pennant of the Southern Michigan League. This game is being played as both teams finished the season with twenty victories against seven defeats for a first place tie. This should be a good game as Highland Park had recently won seventeen in a row, while the Plymouth Park team had ten game winning streak. Will all the fans and play ers meet at Newburg store next Sunday morning that are going to the game so that we may go down to Highland Park in a body.

Fowlerville Wins Three Game Series

A five-run rally in the fourth, aided by the fine pitching of Don Copeland, carried the Fowlerville nine to an 8 to 2 victory over the Plymouth Schradler Haggerty's last Sunday at Fowlerville. By winning this contest Fowlerville won the three game series, 2 games to 1.

Let Kreeger started on the mound for the Schradler-Haggerty's and shut out the Fowlerville batsmen without a hit for the first three innings. He weakened as the game progressed, however, and was driven from the mound in the fifth when Fowlerville started their second rally. Southpaw Harold Pankow was called from the bullpen to save the day at that point and he checked them until the seventh when he was touched for three runs.

The Plymouth batters made only five hits off the offerings of Copeland, striking out four and walking three. Copeland was backed by some great fielding, especially on the part of E. Haire, speedy shortstop, who made one putout and eight assists.

Orson Atchinson, Plymouth's flashy little shortstop did not fare so well in the field, committing three very costly errors.

A running catch into deep centerfield of Bill Kinne's line drive, by Gerald Simmons was the outstanding fielding play of the game. And, the only home run extra bases was Norman Atchinson's hard double to left center.

The Schradler Haggerty's will be back home Sunday afternoon, September 29th when they will meet an all-star club headed by Eddie Whittnerberg. It will be remembered that Eddie was formerly with the local club, Findley, Stark and Gelm are also members of this club that were former Plymouth players. This game is expected to be one of the hardest fought of the season due to the friendly rivalry between the opposing players. The game is to be played at 3:30 p.m. at Riverside Park.

Closed Season For Lake Trout

The first of the closed seasons on commercial fish in the Michigan waters of the Great Lakes begins Thursday, October 10, when a 26-day ban on Lake trout becomes effective in Lakes Huron and Superior. The Department of Conservation announced today.

The season on lake trout remains closed in these waters to and including November 4.

In Lake Michigan the closed season on lake trout begins on October 20 and continues to and including November 14.

Closed seasons on whitefish are: Lake Superior, Nov. 1 to Nov. 26 and Lakes Michigan and Huron, Nov. 5 to Dec. 15. The closed seasons on both lake trout and whitefish come later in Lake Michigan than in other Great Lakes waters to allow for a difference in the spawning periods of the fish.

The law prohibits the taking of lake trout from Great Lakes waters in any manner during the closed seasons, regardless of whether for commercial purposes or personal use.

Following a policy instituted two years ago the Department of Conservation will not permit commercial fishermen to take either lake trout or whitefish during the closed seasons for the purpose of obtaining spawn for hatchery purposes. The Department has arranged to handle any spawn collected by commercial fishermen before and after the closed seasons at the Thompson and Harrisville hatcheries.

TRIAL ELECTRIC RANGE

PREPARE a whole breakfast—a man's breakfast—in your electric oven in twenty minutes! Muffins, broiled bacon and eggs can all be prepared at the same time, and served together, deliciously hot and appetizing. Enhanced flavor, like that of old English grilled bacon, results from electric broiling. The bacon is evenly browned and keeps its shape—it does not shrivel into unmanageable curls. Even the eggs taste better than when fried, thanks to the "flavor conserving" heat of the electric oven, which does not cook to toughness but cooks thoroughly and gently. Finally, electrically baked muffins are delightfully flaky and tempting—a treat to top off any breakfast! Here is a meal after a man's heart—and with an electric range, it takes only 20 minutes to prepare. Wouldn't you like to try it—in your own kitchen—on a Trial Electric Range?

We will install an electric range in your kitchen without initial charge, so that you may give it a thorough trial. During this trial period you simply pay for the service as registered by your meter, plus a monthly charge of $1 for the range. If you decide to keep the range, your monthly payments will be applied toward the purchase price. If you decide that you do not want it, the range will be removed at our expense. Send in your application for a trial range today!

Poor Hunting Is Present Outlook

Looking forward to the morning of October 15 when tens of thousands of sportsmen will go afield to open the pheasant season, game warden of the Department of Conservation are speculating as to what chances the individual hunter will have to get his bird.

While no assurances are seen that there will be as many or more pheasants for the sportsman to shoot at than last year, it is felt that field conditions generally will be favorable with fair prospects of another gross kill of three-quarter million legal birds.

Dr. P. F. English, game warden and feed specialist of the Department, sees no indications of an increase in the pheasant supply over last year. Instead, he says, several unfavorable factors of the past year would probably tend to reduce the supply, such as the low food supplies of last winter occasioned by the 1934 drought, the heavy illegal kill of hen pheasants last fall and the severe downpours of rain during the peak of pheasant nesting season in June, 1935.

"Although we have reports from some sections of the pheasant country that birds are plentiful, all the farmers I have interviewed have told of seeing fewer birds before, during and after mowing operations than last year," English says.

"This may be due, of course, to the rich vegetation which has grown up under continued rainfall in most of the open places which were comparatively bare last year, attracting many pheasants that usually nest and forage in cultivated places. However, the several unfavorable factors mentioned seem strong indications of fewer birds."

More widespread hunting opportunities are in prospect for the pheasant, English says, because of the abundance of grassy cover, which will tend to keep the birds from concentrating in the usual restricted areas for food and protection. Birds will be flushed from cover which were unproductive last fall and more open field shooting should be available, English states.

The pheasants that survive the open season of this year should have a better chance of getting through the winter even though there may be heavier snows than last year he believes.

"Although the heavy rains may have had a damaging effect by drowning out fledgling birds in many instances, they have made possible an abundance of food, Ragwood, which is one of the best fall and winter types of food not only for pheasants but also for quail, already stands a foot or more in height. Barring exceptionally heavy snowstorms and severe sleet, this wood should stand high enough and long enough to help many flocks of birds through the winter months."

"On some farms wheat sprouted in the shocks and farmers probably will leave the shocks where they are. Oats that were leveled by heavy rains will remain unplowed under and corn that could not be harvested due to lack of time or help will be left in the field until next spring."

"All of these will provide food as well as cover for pheasants and also quail and rabbits," English says. "We feel more optimistic over winter conditions for the birds than in several years."

Advanced Officers Night Is Observed

Another successful special meeting was held at the Masonic Temple on Wednesday evening September 18, when Plymouth Chapter No. 115, Order of the Eastern Star, observed its first Advanced Officers night.

This meeting was opened in long form by the Plymouth officers.

After the American Flag was presented at the Altar and escorted to the East by the Marshall, the Worthy Matron declared Plymouth Chapter No. 115 duly opened.

The officers, in line for advancement next year, were invited to exemplify the initiatory work for the evening. After these officers were escorted to their various stations and introduced, they conferred the degrees of the order upon Mr. and Mrs. Harry Green, in a very impressive manner.

At the close of this beautiful ceremony all the members present were called upon to stand and pay tribute to the first Worthy Matron of Plymouth Chapter, Sister Kate Leach, who was called to her reward on September 10.

Preceding the conferring of the degrees of the Order, a co-operative dinner was served to about fifty members and their families, with Sister Lois Baker, chairman.

The next stated meeting will be on Tuesday evening, October 1, at 7:30 when a special service will be given in memory of Sister Kate Leach. All members are urged to be present at this special memorial.

Install FIRESTONES Now! - DON'T TAKE CHANCES -

The season rapidly approaches when you must depend on your tires

Don't wait until the rough roads of Fall find you with old worn out tires. Change now and be prepared for any kind of driving. Naturally your driving doesn't always take you over smooth concrete highways as there are times when of necessity you have to drive over the uneven country roads. That is when you need good rubber on your car to carry you to your destination without mishap.

And while you're changing tires — don't be satisfied with anything less than the best — CHANGE TO FIRESTONE. In Firestone you will find all that a motorist could expect of a tire.

It's the tire that champions use and the tire that pleases them all. Race drivers and drivers of endurance contests use Firestones because they know they can depend on the quality and workmanship that is built into Firestone to carry them through without interruption and mishap. They choose Firestone only after making careful tests of various tires. Then if these masters of the track use Firestone, it's only good sound judgment for any motorist to select them.

Of course many thousands of car owners each year are buying new Firestones because they have had previous experience with them and know that here is a tire that will give them all the service that can be expected. And many more thousands are turning to Firestone on the recommendation of those who have used them before.

In urging you to replace your present weak and worn tires with Firestones we know that we are taking no chances and we know that if you heed our suggestion and make the change, that you are taking no chances—but instead you will be acting wisely and preparing your car for the rough and uneven roads over which every motorist must travel at one time or another during the Fall season.

The second Student Council meeting held Tuesday September 17 was devoted to the election of officers. Jack Kinsey acted as temporary chairman. The results are as follows: president, Jack Kinsey; vice president, Lionel Coffin; secretary, Jewel Starkweather; treasurer, Phyllis Ratnour.

This year, rather than have one representative from each organization in Student Council a student from each home room is elected. Each student acts as a representative of his room and is responsible for discussing in the meeting anything that might arise in the room which is held every Wednesday and Friday for thirty minutes. The representatives are Phyllis Ratnour, Jack Kinsey, Lionel Coffin, seniors; Barbara Hubbell, Irene Ciesielski, Jewel Starkweather, Juniors; Robert West, Dick Gillis, Jack DeLaurier, sophomores; Alice Fisher, Bill McAllister, Shirley Larson, Robert Braion, freshmen; Eva Finckel, Ted Hart, Juniors; and Bill Aludia, eighth grade; Billy Herter, Lily Wikstrom, and Virginia Brockelhurst, seventh grade.

BOOK EXPLORERS' CLUB ORGANIZED

The Book Explorers' Club under the direction of Miss Hauf has been organized for the coming year. The twenty members have elected as their officers, Ivan Packard for president, June Garis for secretary, and Martin Ervath for treasurer.

HIGH SCHOOL GAINS NEW INSTRUCTORS

Joining the faculty of Plymouth high school for the first time, three teachers are assisting in the education of Plymouth students this year. A brief sketch of each of the new instructors follows:

Mr. C. A. Stolpe, new head of the commercial department, was born in Marquette, Michigan, where he attended high school. He received his degree of Bachelor of Science from Northern State Teachers' College. Previous to his coming here, he taught in Marquette, Big Rapids, Sault Ste. Marie and Farmington.

One of the three new teachers this year is Miss Loma May whose home is in Alpena. She is teaching junior high literature and history and is also leader of the Girl Scouts. Miss May attended Michigan State College for two years after which she served as principal for four years in Memphis, Michigan. Along with this she has been in charge of mathematics. From Memphis she returned to Alpena and was junior high teacher for five years. During these years she coached many basketball teams. Miss May is very fond of all kinds of sports although she likes golf best. She claims she prefers working with junior high students. She is now working for her Bachelor of Arts degree.

Mr. Robert E. Ingram was born in Hancock, Michigan. In the last ten years he has made his home in Ann Arbor. He has attended Michigan State Normal College at Ypsilanti where he took a teaching course. The scouts have had year meetings since he graduated with his degree. He says one of his ambitions is to beat Mr. Evans and Mr. Landsburg in a game of golf.

SOCIAL NEWS

Pat McKinnon stayed all night with Lib Whipple last Friday. On Saturday morning they were joined by Elizabeth Hegree and Jean Jenkins for a picnic lunch, after which they went to a matinee.

Saturday evening Douglas Eckles was host to the following friends: Eleanor Cline, Elizabeth Stevens, Virginia Behler, Jeanette Barnes, and Richard Gillis. Elton Bakewell, Claude Bauman, Gerald Bordin, Lester Upton, and Billy McGory. Games were played, followed by dancing and refreshments.

GIRL SCOUTS FORM FULL TROOP

The Girl Scouts, under the leadership of Miss Loma May, have this year doubled their membership. The scouts have had four meetings which make up one full troop. The leaders of these patrols are Belva Barnes, Betty Mastick, Lois Schaufelle, and Marion Klein. The scouts have had their year meetings for this year in which they have laid out plans for a whole year. They went on a troop hike last Wednesday.

NEEDLEWORK CLUB IS ORGANIZED

The Needlework Club girls have started their year's work. During their meetings, which are once a month, they do their knitting, embroidery, or whatever they wish to do. At the first few meetings they are each working on things they have begun at home, but later they will all work on one thing. There are sixteen members in the club, and the officers are the following: president, Norma Gould; vice-president, Hazel Curtis; secretary, reporter, Ardeth Wesseling.

kickoff on the 50 yard line. Coffin smashed through the line and by good running managed to get to the opponents 25 yard line. Kinsey followed Coffin's example by going through the line and scored the second touchdown. Plymouth failed to make the field goal and the score remained: Plymouth 13, M.S.D. 0.

THROUGH THE KEYHOLE

Although we suffered from a bad case of squint-eye after last week's peeping, we are back again to give you an unbiased account of this week's scandal. And what scandal!

We are now about to unfold to you the tale of that dramatic "hay-ride" as whispered about school. From person to person seep these choice bits.

We wonder if Weltha missed her lipstick while Jack Selle guarded it with him well, while in order to flourish it before the eyes of all observers? Is everyone jealous?

It seems that the horses were not urged on to any greater speed by Lib Hegge's terrified shrieks. How fickle are those senior heroes whom we wrote about last week. For we understand that they no longer choose "Savery" things but they now hunger for the sweet. Take Jewel Starkweather and Mary Holsworth for instance.

We hear that the hay-ride brought about a change of motto for several. For now we find two feminine members of the party with their theme song, "Footloose and Fancy Free." Guess who?

Most people would have found a pitchfork very handy for excavating purposes after getting home from this memorable event. There is no doubt that there will be no A's in the Physics Class this year owing to the fact that there are no girls.

Congratulations to Russell Kirk on his powers of endurance, or rather should we say that class endurance for delivering that snappy, thirty minute talk on the Inca Indians.

For those who listened last Wednesday's assembly was interesting, but for those who seem to suffer from hearing coughs we suggest a box of "Smith Brothers Cough Drops."

"We do not expect anyone who attended the 'Holdsworth, Hegge, and Selle' party to suffer from headaches for the next two months. We understand that 100 aspirin tablets were used to pep up the punch in hopes of pepping up the party."

As far as "Petz" are concerned, Marion Tuck seems to play quite crazy about them. She practically has them eating out of her hands. It seems that a prominent artistic member of the senior class is doing his best to en "Thrill" someone this year.

If Jack Kinsey spent one hour a day in each of his offices we wonder how much time he would have for other interests.

And now dear readers we close leaving you in suspense for at this very moment you may be under the observation of that spying couple.

Peep and Peep.

NEW CLUB ORGANIZED

A new club, the Girls' Industrial Arts, has been organized under the direction of Mr. Campbell. Last Thursday the following were elected as officers: president, Jane Burley; secretary, Alice Fisher; treasurer, Betty Curtis. There are sixteen members. Dues of five cents every two weeks are paid. The girls plan to go to Detroit to see the show about Christmas time. They are making whatnots and ash trays of wood.

CLASSES ADDED TO CURRICULUM

During the past several years it has been the general policy of the administration to introduce into Plymouth high school such classes as they consider most necessary and beneficial to the largest number of students. In following this policy two new courses have taken their places in student schedules. Those of business science and applied science.

The course in business science, taught by Miss Wells is a follow-up of general mathematics. It consists of checking accounts, budgets, telegrams, rapid calculation, interest and interest rates.

The applied science course, taught by Mr. Campbell, is an advanced course in shop. It is for those students who wish to take neither chemistry nor physics and wish to specialize in electricity or radio or desire to begin an automobile mechanics course.

SCHOOL STAMP CLUB BEGINS ACTIVITIES

Organized with a membership of fifteen this semester, the Stamp Club, meeting three hours on Tuesday under the sponsorship of Miss Cary, has begun its work for the year. Philately and other hobbies are being studied by the members.

During its recent meetings the club members have learned philatelic terms, discussed collecting, and have removed stamps from envelopes by the correct method. Officers will be elected within a short time. Last year the club presented a considerable exhibition at Hobby Night.

NOTES ABOUT CLASS WORK

The seventh grade geography classes are studying the surface of North America. They have just completed a physical map of North America in which they have shown the high lands and low lands by color. They have been learning the uses of rivers and the seven great lakes.

The eighth grade arithmetic classes are studying mortgage problems, stocks and bonds, statistics, and installment buying.

The ninth grade English classes are studying how to get along with people. Last Friday and Monday the classes gave two-minute speeches on any interesting subject.

JUNIOR DRAMA CLUB HOLDS FIRST TRYOUTS

When the Junior Drama Club under the direction of Miss Lovewell held its first meeting Tuesday, September 24, a group of young dramatic aspirants tried out for positions.

Because of the large number of students who wish to study dramatics, several tryouts will be held. The forty most promising actors will be chosen for club membership.

It is the ambition of the club leader, Miss Lovewell, to instruct the club members in play production, stage conduct and stage furnishings. The members will study script of modern plays in order to gain a greater knowledge of dramatic production. Following this comprehensive study the students will produce two or three one-act plays and numerous skits during the year.

SENIOR DRAMA ANNOUNCE PLANS

Forty members were present at the meeting of the Senior Drama Club, Monday, September 16, at which time election of officers was held. Jean Brockelhurst was elected president and Phyllis Ratnour treasurer.

The Senior Drama Club is scheduled for two productions of "Russian Salad" a melodramatic farce. The first will be presented at the Senior-Freshman reception Friday, September 27, and the latter at Brightmore. Other details on the latter performance have not as yet been announced.

Those appearing in the cast of "Russian Salad" are: Harold Jackson, Elizabeth Whipple, Jack Selle, Phyllis Ratnour, James McLean, and Weltha Selle.

The Senior Drama Club is now

EDITORIALS

These are expressions of opinion by pupils in an English class. I think we should have a system in the halls so it will be possible to get in one room to the other without getting an arm torn off. When going through the halls one would have to be a good football player. One must be able to block, tackle, and dodge to get through without getting his books knocked out of his hands and stepped on. Everyone seems to want to use the same stairs at the same time and if some one is in the way it's his tough luck. At the fountain one should let the girls drink first and wait his turn in line. I think everyone should keep to the right when walking to and from classes, also when going up and down the stairs. When some one bumps in to some else one never hears "Pardon me" or "I am sorry."

By a boy from a different school.

Why Don't We Use Our Parks?

The people in Michigan, especially those in Wayne county, do not seem to appreciate our parks. Many people from Detroit come and use them enjoying being where it is quiet, but they are very careless about how they leave them. I have traveled in many states but I have never found any one that has any nicer parks than our own. Many states do not even have parks. It seems that the people living around them have very little use for them. I think it is an excellent place for children to play and people should consider using them instead of letting their children run the streets and destroy other people's property.

Evelyn Shackleton.

Since the seniors have been placed in the library for their study hall there is no room for other students who have reference work to do. Sometimes it can be done before or after school and other times it can not. Your writer thinks that the arrangement should be just as it was last year. The seniors have access to the reference books all the time while most of the others have to go in before or after school. It is a good idea if the pupils would use their time for library work instead of running around the halls at morning and at noon. Last year the seniors had Study Hall Three to study their work in, and if they had to go to the library, the teacher would give slips to four or five of them. In that way the other pupils could also have a chance.

OREGON DEBATES BEGUN BY SQUAD

Embarking upon a series of debates upon the Oregon plan, Plymouth high school's debate squad has begun preparation for the first decision with the Veterans Association contest to be held within a month. Under the direction of Mr. Latture, ten students are participating.

The question to be discussed throughout Michigan this year is that the Reserve Bill. The nations of the world should make a government monopoly of the manufacture and sale of the combat instruments of war.

The Oregon debate plan differs considerably from the usual system of debate. Under the former plan a ten-minute constructive speech is given by the first speaker of both affirmative and negative teams. Seven-minute rebuttals by the second speakers follow, with the privilege of the speaker questioning the first speaker of the opposing team during the rebuttal. The second speakers of each team later make a three-minute summary of their respective cases. Under the procedure followed by Plymouth debaters, two speakers constitute a team.

Teams in this series of debates, to be held for seven days during seventh hour and after school, include the following: Edith Mettetal, Tom Brock; Jack Sessions, Florence Norton; Marilyn Holton, James Marshall; Jewel Starkweather, Dorothy Whipple; Jack Fisher, Russell Kirk. A total of fourteen debates will be held.

HOME PROJECTS REPORTS ARE SENT TO LANSING

The following people had their project reports chosen to be sent to the State Department at Lansing, Michigan:

Jean Dunham—Home Management.

SENIORS ELECT CLASS OFFICERS

The senior class of 1935-36 elected their class officers Friday, September 13. Jack Kinsey was elected president for the third successive year. Jeanette Bauman was elected vice president. The office of secretary was given to Jean Roediger. Jean Brockelhurst was elected class treasurer. The student council representatives of knocked out of his hands and stepped on. Everyone seems to want to use the same stairs at the same time and if some one is in the way it's his tough luck. At the fountain one should let the girls drink first and wait his turn in line. I think everyone should keep to the right when walking to and from classes, also when going up and down the stairs. When some one bumps in to some else one never hears "Pardon me" or "I am sorry."

HIGH SCHOOL ENROLLMENT GROWS

Although our enrollment at the beginning of the school year was the largest that we have ever had, we have thirteen new members. The total is 697 and of this number 109 are seniors, 112 are juniors and 476 are sophomores. The freshmen have the largest class with 173 enrolled while the eighth graders have the smallest class with 91 members. There are 102 seventh graders.

THE SEVEN HUNDRED

Last week this column gave a brief account of the senior class president; this week I will discuss a newcomer in the field of class politics, Tom Brock, new president of the junior class. Tom moved out to the farm during the summer and took up the study and culture of pigs, practicing on a pig named Bessie. Bessie is a beautiful hog, a hog of culture and refinement. So enraptured has Tom become in Bessie that I recently discovered him at a convention of the National Farmers Union where he was engrossed in the speeches on the rights of the farmer to go after the city suckers. I am told Tom ran on an agrarian platform in the class elections and that, crediting all of his success to Bessie, he took her a double ration of corn cobs on the day of his victory.

It was an examination in history class. Miss Hegge asked Liz Whipple what she knew about the Aztec Indians. "Well," she said, "they live in caves, don't they do?" Whipple queried, "Kinsey," and replied a voice in the rear later identified as that of Jack Selle. "I hope that the school will soon get used to the new class periods. A while ago a bell rang at what seemed an unusual time. It took Mr. Evans by surprise and he shouted to his class at the top of his voice, "Fire! Everybody drop your books and run!" Which procedure was followed by most of the class.

The one hundred forty-seventh anniversary of the founding of the Constitution was celebrated by the school last week. From the way the courts have butchered the NRA et al it would seem that it has taken the courts one hundred forty-seven years to realize the full possibilities of it. Several classes were asked to write summaries of the special assembly we had for the Constitution. One freshman wrote: "Last Wednesday we had an assembly in memoriam to the Constitution."

Welcome to the midst of the columnists, Little Bo Peep and Peep Hole. I was forwarned of your coming and I have written a play especially for you to be in a drama club, and I am going to publish this little drama within a few weeks. You see, Peep peep wanted to come to Pilgrim Prints meetings, but their dramatic careers interfered. Hence I will try to make dramatics out of them, if they can't be writers.

P.H.S. DEFEATS SCHOOL FOR DEAF

The Plymouth eleven defeated the eleven from the Michigan School for Deaf Saturday, September 28, at Flint by a score of 13-0. The game was quite even until the middle of the fourth quarter when a few changes were made in the lineup. The Plymouth boys worked hard but the line did not seem to function properly and the back field fumbled quite a bit although they always seemed to recover the ball in ample time.

For the first three quarters the game was very even but in the fourth Wagenschutz went in for Gillis. Coffin for Petz, and Kinsey for Trombley. On the second play after entering the game Kinsey charged the Deaf line and after running about thirty yards was stopped within a foot of the goal line. Connelly then punted to Kinsey on Connelly's 20-yard line. Kinsey charged the Deaf line to be stopped within a yard or two of the goal-line. Wagenschutz charged the line to make the touchdown. D. Gates scored the field goal. Gates received the

SPEAKER HONORS OUR CONSTITUTION

"Like the Bible itself, the United States Constitution is a document divinely inspired and worthy of fitting reverence," according to Harry Heffran who spoke at a general assembly of the high school students last Wednesday morning. So tremendous was the responsibility placed upon the shoulders of the Constitution's framers that so great a document could never have resulted had it not been for spiritual guidance which made the Constitution a sacred document, he told the students on the one hundred forty-seventh anniversary of this document's origin. Mr. Heffran believed that the fact that we have had only twenty-one changes in it since it was first drawn up shows that the Supreme Law of the Land was written with enough forethought to provide for peace and war, prosperity and depressions, and social, political, and economic progress. Mr. Heffran commented on the various movements afoot to amend the Federal Constitution, he pointed out that America has survived numerous depressions in the past without making any drastic changes in it, and he saw no reason to believe that there would be any need to do so at the present time. Depressions are caused, he stated, by the failure of humans, not by the failure of the Constitution. The thing which he believed to be responsible for the present economic condition was the excessive use of credit and installment buying. He said, the Constitution has tended to set up a "rich man's government." It is only because the "rich men" have contributed more to their nation's development and success. Most of the amendments which have been offered so far, he thought, put a premium on failure and a tax on success. Ending his talk with a note of optimism, Mr. Heffran stated that capital is beginning to flow, labor is becoming active, and new and better times are coming.

JUNIOR CLASS SUCCESS PLAY

After several days' deliberation, the advisers of the class of '37, together with Miss Ford, decided to present "Huckleberry Finn" as the annual junior play. This comedy is based upon an immortal story by Samuel Clemmings, better known as Mark Twain, and has been successfully presented many times by other high school classes throughout the country. The play was written by Roy F. Lewis, who devises clever situations to provoke laughter from young and old alike. It contains all the human qualities that have endeared Huck to lovers of real, clean entertainment, while running through it is a romance that will interest adults, as well as comedy for all. Juniors interested in taking part are anxious to start work. Tryouts were to be held this week, but committees have not yet been appointed.

NEEDLEWORK CLUB IS ORGANIZED

The Needlework Club girls have started their year's work. During their meetings, which are once a month, they do their knitting, embroidery, or whatever they wish to do. At the first few meetings they are each working on things they have begun at home, but later they will all work on one thing. There are sixteen members in the club, and the officers are the following: president, Norma Gould; vice-president, Hazel Curtis; secretary, reporter, Ardeth Wesseling.

kickoff on the 50 yard line

Coffin smashed through the line and by good running managed to get to the opponents 25 yard line. Kinsey followed Coffin's example by going through the line and scored the second touchdown. Plymouth failed to make the field goal and the score remained: Plymouth 13, M.S.D. 0.

HOWELL VETERANS TO OPOSE ROCKS

Eight of the same gridiron stars that played for Howell against Plymouth last year will oppose the Rocks again this year. Last year the home eleven whipped Howell 27-0 at Riverside Park. The game Friday will be played at Howell between two undefeated teams, Plymouth having won from the Michigan School for the Deaf and Howell having won their opener from Lansing Eastern Reserves. The Rocks have two veteran backfield stars, Kinsey and Wagenschutz, on whom they place their hopes for victory against Howell.

G. R.'S INVITE MOTHERS TO RECOGNITION

About thirty girls became members of the Junior and Senior Girl Reserves last Friday evening in the presence of their mothers. The ceremony was held in the high school auditorium which was lighted by candles carried by each girl. Gwendolyn Dunlop, president of the Senior Girl Reserves, assisted by Elizabeth Whipple, vice-president, conducted the ceremony which was carried out very effectively. After the service, a very delightful tea was held in the music room for the mothers and their daughters.

SOPHOMORE CLASS ELECTS OFFICERS

Friday the thirteenth was not unlucky for four members of the sophomore class. The following people were chosen for guides throughout the year: president, Richard Gillis; vice president, Doris Schmidt; secretary, Althea Shoemaker; and treasurer, Margaret Bentley. Student Council representatives, who were elected earlier in the week are: Richard Gillis, Robert West, James McLean and Jacques DeLaurier. The advisers are Miss Wells, Miss Ford, Mr. Evans and Mr. Landsberg, the chairman.
