Plymouth's Smaller Factories Busy As Bee-Hives—Many Are Forced To Work Part of Nights

Work Is Provided Large Number Of Men

Nearly All of The Managers And Owners Expect Business To Keep On Getting Better In Future

Plymouth is booming. Visits to the numerous industries of this city brought forth acknowledgments from the heads of the factories that Plymouth shops are the busiest they have been in years. Common indeed became the phrase, "We're running two shifts at the present time. The busy streak will continue indefinitely." If at the present time work is slack, production would be at a peak within a few weeks, judging from the advance orders that were being sent in.

From the one-man industry of the Plymouth Mill Supply Company at the corner of Ann Arbor and Lilley roads, to the Plymouth Products Company on Junction street where seventy men are now employed and twice that many will be at work within six weeks—every manager said, "This is a busy time for us."

It was obvious at the first step into the various factories that everything was in full swing. Workers were concentrating busily on intricate machinery; the heads of the firms were working right with them, and continued their tasks as they responded to questions, not daring to stop for one moment. They were all abiding by the universal law of industry. "Rush orders must be out on time."

Some of the factories visited had been founded by their president—others were branches of Detroit firms. Some shipped their products to nearby territories—others shipped them as far as foreign ports. Whether they have just one office here or are represented by sales offices in large cities from coast to coast, each Plymouth industry holds its own in the industrial map of the country.

THE PLYMOUTH SUPPLY CO. on Ann Arbor, near Lilley road is owned and operated by Dewey Smith. For four years Mr. Smith has been in general mill work, the making of window sashes, filling orders for children's swings in department stores, and other similar work. He has also made complete auto trailers which he rents to tourists. "It is this auto trailer business that has really kept up this business," said Mr. Smith. "You see, I started during the depression and it was quite a struggle, but I am glad to say that we're getting plenty of orders now." The Plymouth Supply Co. is a complete mill and machine shop and Mr. Smith believes that the day will soon come when six or seven men will

Today and Tomorrow

If you have not already taken advantage of these wonderful fall sales, do so today or tomorrow. It will be dollars in your pocket to do so.

Crowds Grow At Kiwanis Shoot

Excellent crowds have nightly taken part in the Kiwanis club rifle shoot being held in the Sturgis garage.

As interest in the "crack" shooting of the teams grows, the crowds have also grown larger.

Tonight and Saturday night will see the final wind-up of this big yearly event staged by the Plymouth Kiwanians.

All funds raised by the shoot after expenses are paid, are used for the annual Christmas party that the organization provides boys and girls of Plymouth.

Parents Asked To Aid Officers

Fathers and mothers of Plymouth are drawing near—but for some reason the boys and girls have gained the idea that because the Halloween season is approaching, that they have the right to mark up property, and in some cases destroy it.

Tuesday night the police department received four calls from property holders because boys were creating a disturbance and in one case property was being destroyed.

The police officers of Plymouth have requested all the mothers and fathers of the community to see to it that their children take no part in some of these so-called pranks that to some one means trouble and property loss.

Plymouth boys and girls are as a general rule, mighty good about doing nothing on or near Halloween time that is not right and proper but for some reason this year the excellent spirit of the past years does not exist.

It is because of this that parents are urged to assist in keeping their children from home evenings and seeing to it that they do not commit any of the pranks that usually cause trouble and loss.

Training School Wins Award At Dairy Show

The Holstein Friesian bull, Wacois Sir Marathon Sylvia, No. 644194 Grand Champion of the Michigan State Fair for the past two years, placed fifth in the National Dairy Show now in progress at St. Louis, Missouri.

This bull was bred and reared at the Wayne County Training School, Northville, Michigan, whose herd of Holsteins has, for the past six years, averaged 12,451 pounds of milk and 413.7 pounds of fat according to the Holstein Friesian Association's Dairy Herd Improvement tests.

New Device for Penetrating Fog

PAUL MACNEIL, an Anglo-American engineer, has invented a new apparatus for detecting airplanes, icebergs and ships through the heaviest fog. The device consists of a large metal tube filled with a number of small tubes. During a recent demonstration in London he gave his audience an earphone. He walked across the space "covered" by the tube. As he entered its field the constant note which was sounding in the earphone changed abruptly, reverting to the buzzing when he had passed. Mr. MacNeil pointed out that the apparatus would enable ships to proceed at regular speed through fog, even if there were icebergs in the vicinity.

Many Rotarians Will Visit City On Friday, Nov. 1st

One of The International Directors Will Be The Speaker

Friday, November 1, promises to be an outstanding event in the annals of the Plymouth Rotary club. It will be the occasion of one of the International directors of the organization who was elected to this place at the convention held last spring in Mexico City.

The visitor will be Amos O. Squire of Bowling, New York. President Frank Lefevre has invited the Northville, Wayne, Dearborn, Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor clubs to be present for this visit.

Plymouth will be the only place in Michigan where Mr. Squire will make an address upon his visit to the middle west. He will be on his way to Chicago for an important Rotary conference when he stops in this city for his visit to the Rotary clubs.

The speaker has been the medical examiner of Westchester County, New York, since 1925, having charge of the medical legal work of that county. He is an experienced lecturer and author on crime and criminals and other associated subjects.

Following his graduation in 1899 from Columbia University, Dr. Squire became actively engaged in penology and has been connected with Sing Sing Prison since that time, first as chief physician and later as consulting physician.

Dr. Squire was the founder and the first president of the Rotary Club of Ossining and was its secretary for nine years. He has attended every conference in his district in recent years and many international conventions.

In 1931-32 he was governor of the 29th district of Rotary International. He was a member of the boys work committee for 1932-33 and a member of the North American economic advisory committee for 1933-34. He was elected to the board of directors of Rotary International for 1935-36 at the Mexico City convention.

It might add a little to the next Olympic games if they were to add a contest to see which nation could run longest with an unbalanced budget.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Dondero Hits Assaultants Of Constitution

Warns Against Agitation For Defiance of Basic Law

Congressman George Dondero in an address before members of the Plymouth Rotary club last Friday noon, pointed out what he regarded as a dangerous trend in national affairs.

"What I have reference to is the hostility being shown by some towards the constitution of our country," he said.

"We all know that a constitution such as ours is an expression of fundamental principles of government, tested by long experience for the common good of all.

"Our constitution is the result of the first instance in world history of a people assembled to deliberately and calmly decide on a code of laws by which they were to bind themselves and their posterity.

"Under that constitution we have prospered as no other nation in the world has ever prospered. We have enjoyed greater freedom than any other nation that ever existed.

"In 144 years only nine times have the people of our country found it necessary to add to the organic law of this nation.

"But we are living in a restless and impatient age. The present day is an intolerant indifference to the constitution.

"We must beware any proposed trifling with the sanctity of our fundamental law if we have any desire to continue to live under the same sort of freedom we have enjoyed since the beginning of our nation."

Central P.T.A. To Meet Monday Eve

The October meeting of the Central P.T.A. will be Monday evening, October 21, in the high school auditorium at 7:30.

The entertainment will consist of a play given by the Dramatic Club under the direction of Miss Ford. Music will be furnished by the high school orchestra under the direction of Miss Henry.

All members and friends are requested to attend toward the show their gratitude toward the Dramatic Club for their efforts.

The room having the largest percentage of parents and friends will receive the banner to hang on the wall the next month. The kindergarten won the banner last month. The kindergarten also won the treat for bringing in the most members for the P.T.A. this year. There are one hundred and five members at present.

Son Born To The Rotz's In Alaskan Colony

According to newspaper dispatches from Palmer, Alaska, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rotz, Plymouth members of the colonization party of the government, are the parents of a son, born in the Matanuska colony on Tuesday, October 22. There are two other children in the Rotz family, a 16 year old son and a younger daughter.

When the government sent some 200 families from Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota into Alaska, the Rotz family was among those selected. They were enthusiastic about the so-called "opportunity" offered them, but letters received from Mrs. Rotz in recent months have told of intense discord, favoritism and alleged unfairness to some members of the party as well as dissatisfaction with many of the plans for the settlers.

Local Dealer Says All Chevrolet Plans Go Into High Speed

The Chevrolet Motor Company, preparing for the introduction of its 1936 models on November 2, has reopened all its manufacturing plants and its 10 assembly plants, and will have built more than 85,000 units by the end of October, according to Ernest Allison, Plymouth Chevrolet dealer.

Schedules for November and December call for a greatly increased production. The introductory day for the 1936 Master deluxe and Standard models, Chevrolet officials say. (Continued On Page Five)

A Bumper Crop

Here Is Excellent Idea For Next Fall's Merchants' Festival Sale

Blunk Bros. have furnished the idea and the inspiration!

Have you noticed the fall decorations placed in front of the store during the annual harvest festival sale being conducted by Plymouth merchants?

Surely you have. It is attractive and in keeping with the spirit of the season. Here is the idea—Why not for next fall's festival sale have Main street, Liberty street and Penitentiary avenue decorated in some similar way to that in front of the Blunk Bros. store?

Make the sidewalks just one side of fall beauty! It is one year away, but it is not too early to give the matter thought.

Old Paper Tells Of Fears Back In 1901

Charles Simpson, 405 Joy road, while rummaging through some belongings the other day, came across an old copy of The Pennsylvania Grit. The paper, which is over 34 years old, contained a long article about the "fear" of the people in the west of an epidemic of the bubonic plague.

Six deaths having been reported along the Pacific coast from the disease. There is also a report of the death of former President Benjamin Harrison at his home in Indianapolis and of Japan's threat against Russia over the Manchuria question.

Business Women Advised of Aims

The first regular business meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Plymouth was held October 8th at Hanna Strassen's music studio on Main street, and last Tuesday evening the members drove over to Devon Gables, on Telegraph Road, for a dinner meeting. This was well attended and an interesting program had been arranged by Mary Tibbets, the chairman. One of members read a paper, which had been compiled by Zephora Blunk, entitled "The Italo-Ethiopian Conflict," and Miss Blunk is to be congratulated on the excellence of this work, which represented a great deal of time and study. Miss Blunk also gave some readings which were very much enjoyed, and the club is grateful to her for making the evening such a pleasant one. Music was provided by Hanna Strassen.

Miss Stevens, president of Chi Gamma Delta, presided at the luncheon. Friday, after explaining the purpose of the meeting and asking Mrs. Mills, head of Youth Incorporated to explain

Guild Will Meet On November 7th

Officials of the Needlework Guild are especially anxious that members keep in mind the date of the Ingathering to be held at the Mayflower hotel on Thursday, November 7.

The organization has requested the publication of the following notice: Will the Group Directors of the Needlework Guild please see or call their members at once and plan definitely to have their complete lists and donations at the Hotel Mayflower on the date of the Ingathering or in the hands of the Secretary before that date?

It is imperative that we furnish the Ingathering promptly this year so that garments may be listed and distribution begun.

"The Guild Room will not be kept open for distribution this winter as plans have been made for more effectively reaching those who need and deserve aid."

that the weather is warm but indications were for cooler winds. Guides at the Soo said that the moose seemed more plentiful this year than for some time past.

"Unless Matt gets buck fever, we're coming home with a moose," was a postscript added by Mr. Kinney on a card received at The Mail office.

Likes Position Of City Relative To Welfare Work

Writer Believes Able-Bodied Men Should Work For Support

A letter, complimenting the city officials on the stand taken relative to requiring able-bodied welfare clients to work out their budgets was received at the city hall this week.

The taxpayer did not wish his name used in connection with this letter. However, it appears advisable to publish the general contents without mentioning any names used in the letter.

The letter follows:

Dear Sir: I think you and the Commission should be complimented for the piece appearing in last week's Plymouth Mail stating that the relief men should work out their budgets. There is a man named Mr. X who drives a car each day and obtains five quarts of milk with welfare tickets, also a Mr. Y, who will not work unless he is paid exceedingly high wages, and besides one member of the family is working steadily and the lady earns several dollars washing. It doesn't seem right, as the taxpayers are having a hard time paying their taxes. I think all the able-bodied clients should work for what they get.

A Taxpayer.

This letter expresses the opinion of many taxpayers in the city, who have seen some of the abuses of public relief by a few of the clients.

In discussing this matter with the city manager today, he made the following statement: "We hear many complaints both written and verbal about the activities of some persons who are re-

Owen Partridge To Reside In Watervliet

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Partridge will be glad to learn that they are now nicely located at Watervliet, where they opened a new, modern funeral home on Saturday, October 19.

Several weeks ago Mr. Partridge purchased the seating capacity for two hundred people with a private family room, also a preparation room, slumber rooms, rest room and casket display room.

Mr. Partridge is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Partridge of Plymouth.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Partridge are graduates of Plymouth high school and have many friends here who wish them every success in their new undertaking.

Walks On Paving, Hit By An Auto

Walking on the wrong side of the highway Monday night during the heavy rain, Robert E. Dodge of Redford township was struck by an automobile driven by Francis E. Hugg, RFD No. 2, of Northville, and was painfully injured.

The car driver was unable to see the man on the paving in time to avoid hitting him. He stopped his car immediately and brought the injured pedestrian to the office of Dr. J. P. Nalbant, South Main street in this city, where his injuries were treated.

To make sure no bones were broken, Dr. Nalbant had the patient given an X-ray examination at the Plymouth hospital. The accident happened east of the city. Dodge was taken to his home after treatment.

Library Will Be Open On Sundays

The Plymouth public library, according to an announcement just made, will be open on Sundays from 2 o'clock until 6 o'clock on every Sunday, beginning immediately. This is for the purpose of accommodating patrons of the library during the winter months, when the demand for books is greater than at other seasons.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

Jesus Tempted by the Devil.—"Then was Jesus led up of the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil. And when the tempter came to Him, he said, If Thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread. But He answered and said, it is written, man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. Then the devil taketh Him up into the holy city, and setteth Him on a pinnacle of the temple. And saith unto Him, If Thou be the Son of God, cast Thyself down; for it is written, He shall give His angels concerning Thee. Jesus said unto him, It is written again, thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God. Again, the devil taketh Him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sheweth Him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them; and saith unto Him, all these things will I give Thee, if Thou wilt fall down and worship me. Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve.—Matthew 4:1-11. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625-1630.

Meaning of Mufti
Mufti is the title of a high Turkish official who assists the judge or cadí by interpreting the law of the Koran of Moslem tradition and of other legal sources. The grand mufti is one of the interpreters of the Koran by whose decisions the cadis have to judge. The phrase, in mufti, meaning not in uniform, in civilian dress, is an Anglo-Indian expression referring to the loose robes of the Moslem mufti.
Gamma Rays
Gamma rays are high-frequency vibrations, similar to those produced by an X-ray tube, though of shorter length. No other known ray approaches them in this particular. They have the speed of light, 180,000 miles a second, and they alone of the three kinds of radium rays are used medically. They are effective five GERM inches from their source.

Marquette and Joliet
Hoping that the Mississippi was the northwest passage to the Indies, Father Marquette, a French priest and Joliet, a trapper, were sent in 1673 to follow the river to the sea. Floating below Arkansas, they turned about, convinced that the Great River flowed not to the Pacific, but to the Gulf.

Cooking is AUTOMATIC in the Plymouth MODELECTRIC Home

There are two factors to be considered in any cooking operation: time and temperature. Needless to say, if these two factors can be made AUTOMATIC, cooking becomes much simplified—and a great deal of worry and responsibility is lifted from the housewife's mind. BAKING a cake, for example, becomes as easy as mixing it . . . and the results of any recipe can be determined merely by using the proper ingredients. What was formerly the gambling element in cake-making—the guesswork of baking—is forever eliminated. You simply set a dial, and the oven is automatically regulated to the correct temperature. Furthermore, you indicate the proper baking time and the oven is turned on and off by an electric clock. All chance for error is taken out of your hands. This means that you get the same perfect results time after time. If—for instance—your oven thermostat and clock are set exactly as they were when you baked that last Angel Food Cake which was so light and fine-textured, you will obtain another cake just as tempting, differing not a bit from the first. You can bake a dozen cakes, or a hundred—and none of them will vary. Think how many hours this carefree and worryfree baking will add to your leisure in a year's time! And what is true of cakes is equally true of pies, biscuits, roasts of meat . . . anything you prepare in your electric oven. Supplementing the electric range are several other modern cooking appliances, all carrying out the "automatic" idea—and each one designed to do a definite kitchen task efficiently and well. There is, for example, that indispensable faithful daily servant, the electric toaster . . . but how it has changed from olden times! Nowadays it handles the toast situation automatically, requiring no attention whatever, other than dropping in the bread slices. Each slice is toasted a delectable golden brown—perfectly uniform on both sides—to the exact degree of toasting you prefer. An adjustable clock times the whole operation. An electric egg cooker boils, poaches, scrambles or "steams" eggs in live steam—the scientific way. After the eggs are placed in the cooker, a little water (just the right amount) is poured in the top. This turns to steam, and when all the water is gone the electricity automatically shuts off—and your eggs are finished, precisely the way you want them—soft, medium, or well-done. The electric food mixer, with its many practical attachments for doing countless kitchen chores, is an outstanding electrical servant. It chops foods, mixes cakes, mashes potatoes, grinds meats, shreds, slices, sieves, purees, grinds coffee, mixes drinks, opens cans, shells peas, peels potatoes, polishes silverware, and successfully handles many more tasks of the kitchen and home. Needless to say, it speeds up work and so adds many hours more to your leisure time. You are cordially invited to come out and see this modern equipment in an up-to-date all-electric kitchen. Make a date now to visit the Plymouth Modelectric Home . . . and bring your friends with you. Your time will be well-spent.

We are working two shifts here at the present time, manufacturing automobile felts and making insulated material."

The Plymouth Felt Products have been here a year and a half, and are a branch of the Allen Industries, Inc., in Detroit. Sidney Allen is chairman of the board here, and Harold Allen, president. Elmer Zuckerman is vice president and Mory Abarhams, secretary and treasurer.

THE PLYMOUTH COOPERAGE CORPORATION, 1000 General Drive, is a new industry which will begin operations in Plymouth in about thirty days. Here the manufacture of beer, coopers, bourbon and kindred coopers will take place in a spacious, well lighted building. Officers of The Plymouth Coopers Corporation are H. A. Weil, president; H. E. Freshman, secretary; John A. Russell, treasurer and L. A. LaFont, M. Levett, and E. D. Glossman, directors.

PLYMOUTH STAMPING CO., 323 N. Main St. is now "between rushes." For the past three months, three shifts had been working here, and from thirty to thirty-five employes were busy filling orders. At the present time the factory is "catching its breath," waiting for the Christmas radio rush which will be on within six weeks and the pre-auto-show orders. Metal stamping work, radios, auto parts, ventilators for Pullman cars, tin propellers for toy airplanes and other work are but few of the jobs in this factory. They work with steel, copper, brass, bronze, aluminum, terne plate, zinc and tin metals.

The Plymouth Stamping Co. was founded in 1932 by A. Curry and C. E. Moore. According to Mr. Moore two years ago over 1,000 radios a day were being manufactured at this busy place.

UNIVERSAL POWER SPRAYER CO. INC., 111 N. Mill street, supplies New England, New York, Ohio and Michigan, with its Universal Sprayers. That means fruit orchards, vineyards and market gardens in these territories are sprayed with Universal pumps, and according to Paul J. Nutting its president, southern states are now showing great interest in the sprayer and it will soon be marketed in Florida, S. Carolina and other states. The busy time here starts next month, when orders for next spring will be filled. The Universal sprayers are designed and manufactured to pump three gallons a minute with a 300 pound pressure, ten to twelve gallons a minute with 400 to 450 pounds of pressure and the largest pumping from fifteen to twenty-five gallons a minute with pressure up to 600 pounds.

According to Mr. Nutting, about twelve employes work at the Universal when the plant is in full swing. E. B. Nutting is secretary of the firm.

THE BEACH APPLIANCE CORP. was founded by Mr. Beach in April, and tends to bring the housewife freedom from the ironing cord of the electric iron. This iron is cordless, now being manufactured and put on the market by Mr. Beach, who has studied appliances for over 35 years. The iron stands on a platform from which it obtains its heat. Thus no current enters the iron while it is in use, and absolute safety from shocks and electrical burns is assured.

The Beach Cordless Electric Iron is fast becoming known from Maine to Washington, and Mr. Beach feels that within five years the cordless iron will have been given complete preference to the present type irons.

PLYMOUTH SCREW PRODUCTS 575 Amelia avenue was founded by C. E. Stringer five years ago, who is sole owner and general manager of this firm that manufactures screw machine specialties.

Their products are in demand by automotive, refrigeration and electrical firms and at the present time the capacity of the plant is approximately 125,000 units a day. They serve firms in Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania and in this state.

Mr. Stringer has been in screw product work for over twenty years, and stated that since the establishing of this factory five years ago, the Plymouth Screw Products has enjoyed a 15 per cent advance in business each year.

NATIONAL WINDOW SHADE CO. General Drive is the only window shade manufacturing company in the state of Michigan, and is noted as one of the finest of its kind in the country. The National Window Shade Co. was founded by two brothers, Oscar A. Sabom and Fred W. Sabom in Minneapolis twenty-five years ago; and moved to Plymouth seven years ago. Its window shades are sold through the entire United States. Fred W. Sabom is manager of this main plant in Plymouth, while his brother Oscar has charge of the Texas branch of "Mobas" window shades. "Mobas" was the name given the shades when the name of the founders "Sabom" was spelled backwards.

These shades are made to measure to fill any order from one shade to an order of thousands. Our business is doing well now," said Mr. Sabom, "but it increases as building work increases." (To Be Continued)

The Cutler's have a deep, deep well drilled on the beautiful acres they own on Ridge road, and the neighbors hope this means a new home in the future.

Only Two Lines For Ice Fishing

With one exception, ice fishermen this winter will be restricted to the use of two single lines with single hook attached to each line instead of the five single lines which were legal last winter.

The exception is that in recognized smelt waters any number of hooks, attached to a single line, may be used for the taking of smelt.

The restriction was made by the State Conservation Commission at its October meeting. The Commission also voted that ice fishing this winter must be held in the hand or under immediate control and may not be left unattended for any length of time. Last winter it was permissible to leave ice lines unattended for as long as two hours.

According to the Fisheries Division evidence is accumulating to indicate that the great northern pike is becoming more highly prized as a tourist attraction and that there is concern in many sections because the supply of these fish is not greater. It is believed that the reduction in number of ice lines and restriction in manner of their use will not only afford greater protection for gamefish, particularly the great northern pike, but facilitate law enforcement.

About the only explanation for nations still getting together and signing "solemn and binding" treaties is force of habit.—Arkansas Gazette.

THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1936

Why do we say The New Ford V-8 for 1936?

What is new about it?

Of course, the newest engine in the low-price car field is still the V-8 engine. Since Ford made it available to all car users (keeping it as economical as cars with fewer cylinders) the Ford V-8 has been the newest engine on the market, and remains the newest for 1936.

You may buy a car on minor "talking points"—some specially advertised feature "with the car thrown in"—but after all, it is the engine you buy when you buy a car. Hence we put the engine first.

Other new points about the car make a long list.

Its lines are much more beautiful. The hood is longer and sweeps forward over the distinctive new radiator grille, giving the car a length and grace that are instantly impressive. The fenders are larger, with a wide flare. Horns are concealed behind circular grilles beneath the headlamps. New steel wheels.

Ford upholstery—always of sterling quality and excellent taste—is rich and enduring. The appointments of the car give a new touch of refinement. There is no question about the increased beauty of the Ford V-8 for 1936.

In more practical matters, many improvements have been made—

Steering is made easier by a new steering gear ratio. The cooling system circulates 5 1/2 gallons of water through a new, larger radiator. Natural thermosyphon action is assisted by two centrifugal water pumps. New style hood louvres permit a rapid air-flow around the engine.

Easier, quieter shifting of Ford gears—The gear shift lever now travels a shorter distance.

The two qualities you want in brakes—Brakes that stop the car with ease and certainty. Ford Super-Safety Brakes of the long-tested, fool-proof, mechanical design.

Safety—as always—in the electrically welded genuine steel body. Safety Glass all around at no extra cost. Hundreds have written grateful letters because this glass has protected the safety of their families.

A car you can drive without strain all day, if you like, in city or country. Steady, holds the road, responds to the driver's touch like a well-trained horse. You don't have to "push" or "fight" the Ford V-8—driver and car easily get on terms of good understanding with each other.

An engine has much to do with the roominess of a car. Very much indeed. A long engine uses up car space. The compact V-8 engine permits much of the ordinary engine space to be used by passengers.

It really is a great car in every way, this 1936 Ford V-8—the finest, safest, most dependable Ford car ever built. Now on display by Ford dealers.

ceiving public relief. We are always glad to see these complaints because we make a record in the case file of the particular client complained against. We have felt right along that most able-bodied persons would rather work to the extent of relief given than to accept an out-right dole.

"Since the city commission took the stand that all able-bodied persons receiving aid should contribute to the City in labor the amount received in aid, several men have reported for work while others have been dropped from the welfare lists because they apparently did not need further aid. There are a few who feel that the Works Progress Administration program will be further delayed if they contribute their labor under the present arrangement. This belief is absolutely without foundation and we can state positively that the new projects will be approved just as rapidly as they can pass through the proper channels in Washington without any consideration of the local work relief projects.

"We admit that we have a few persons receiving relief who are not willing to work and will do anything possible to get out of work. Under ordinary conditions these persons will find it difficult to obtain relief without work. We are glad, however, that only a very small percentage of those on relief in Plymouth are of this type.

"The City of Plymouth is expected to furnish one-third of the relief cost, and certainly should expect the clients to contribute to the aid City in providing these heavy expenditures. The City is providing a considerable amount in the new program and will employ on these projects only those persons who are willing to work."

"One client recently inquired whether or not the City would have anything to do with the Works Progress Administration projects, apparently thinking that he would have a difficult time should the City have any part in this program. We can assure all welfare clients that the city will be responsible for the proper conduct of these projects and the clients will be expected to contribute a full day's work for a day's pay.

"We are glad to have the comments of citizens in respect to these matters and assure them that we will always work for the best interests of the City in handling these situations."

The strong Plymouth Park baseball club won the Southern Michigan League title last Sunday at Cass Benton Park, Northville, Michigan. The Park team was in first game by the shut-out score of seven to nothing to Wyandotte and won the second game by forfeit nine to nothing. Sinta started the first game for the local club and was hit hard and was removed in favor of H. Pisarek in the fifth inning with the score five to nothing. Both pitchers giving up a total of 15 hits.

C Levandowski was the leading hitter for the local club when he got two hits out of three attempts. He was on base every time that he came to the plate. Getting a walk in the first inning, a single in the third and a safe on the pitcher's error in the fifth and he closed the day with a double in the seventh inning.

K. Gates who had his fingers cut while at work two weeks ago was back at short with them wrapped and he played a great game at short. Gates and C. Levandowski were the stars of the day in giving up great fielding plays.

Wyandotte refused to play the second game because they would have to use the second string pitcher and because they claimed that no championship should be decided in a double header. The two umpires forfeited the game to Plymouth Park and this was confirmed at the meeting Monday night of the board. But Wyandotte is taken to court by Judge Watts who decides on the protest when they pay the protest fee. A decision hasn't been given yet but it is in favor of Wyandotte the game would be played at Elizabeth Park, Trenton, Michigan on October 26th or Saturday afternoon at 2:30 p.m.

Next Sunday at Plymouth Riverside park, the two local clubs will continue their championship series which is to be decided by one club winning three games out of five. To date the Schlar-Haggerty club has one win to their credit.

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON

"THINK NOT OF THE PROFIT"

A MODERN educator urges the youth of the land to turn their backs on the objective of accumulating wealth, to make their goal the enrichment of life. In these times he says, those deciding upon their path in the world should ask of any enterprise not "Will it yield profit and wealth?" but "Does it in every particular enrich life?"

Bolled down, that means select work that you will do for the love of it rather than with the object of accumulating wealth through it.

And it seems to me that advice holds good for all times.

And the best reason for it is not an idealistic one or a spiritual one, as its author thought, but a practical one.

From my observation those who have achieved success and fortune with it have very rarely been those who started out with the idea of becoming successful to attain wealth. The idea of "fame and fortune" may to a certain extent have a relationship in the dreams of the ambitious. But wanting fame and fortune never brought them any closer than the moon.

It is the people who had something they wanted to do—an idea they wanted to bring to life—work which meant something to them, who have "made good" with all that that implies. And the probability is that where wealth was a part of the rewards it played no great part in their own satisfaction. It was not what they were after; that is why they got it—in addition to what they were after.

No, "think not of the profit, but of the work you love to do"—for the most practical of reasons. That is that preoccupation with the profit of a venture in work is the surest road to its failure.

Allison Plans For Busy Season

(Continued from Page One) will find every one of the companies 10,000 dealers stocked with display cards and in a position to take orders for immediate deliveries.

It is expected that sales in November and December, months that heretofore have been dull, will be brisk under the impetus of the new model announcement, and the large automobile shows, which are held after January 1. The former show dates were not conducive to large selling, coming as they did in the coldest months of the year. This year's shows open with two whole months of it is the industry's belief that many motorists will buy new models at once.

Employment is increasing rapidly in Chevrolet plants, as the supply of units and bodies for new models increases daily. The change over from 1935 models to 1936 models was completed early in October, after a brief shutdown during which plants were re-aligned for increased production.

According to W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager, Chevrolet dealers will have the advantage of an ample supply of the new models from the very start of the new selling year. "There will be no shortage of models this year," said Mr. Holler. "We have not only got under full swing long in advance of the auto shows, but we have, in addition, the advantage of a 25 per cent increase in our production capacity, both in assembly plants and in our factories making engines, transmissions, axles, and other units."

The enthusiastic reception accorded our 1936 models by our own field forces, during their convention in Detroit, is now being repeated, in every region and zone territory, by our dealers. They all agree that Chevrolet has done a great job in its new cars, and they are enthusiastic over the business prospects. We feel that the public will be just as responsive to our 1936 cars

Will Complete Refinery Soon

Charles Muirhead, operating director of the Pentagon Refining company that is erecting a new refinery at Stark on the Pere Marquette, five miles east of the city, was in Plymouth yesterday in connection with the building operations taking place nearby.

Mr. Muirhead stated that there had been some delay in connection with the completion of the plant due to a shortage of funds, but because of the excellent progress that has already been made, he believes that there will be little difficulty in securing such additional amounts as might be needed.

With Mr. Muirhead was E. J. Guy, one of the best known consulting oil engineers in Michigan. Mr. Guy has constructed six successful refineries. He is the engineer of the Pentagon company. Mr. Muirhead stated that he hoped the plant would be in operation within the winter or early spring.

Can Get New 1936 Auto Plates Now

New 1936 automobile licenses can be secured at the Plymouth branch office of the secretary of state now, stated Manager Leonard Murphy yesterday.

He was advised by Secretary of State Orville Atwood that the order at first given which granted permission to issue 1936 plates for new cars had been extended to include all cars.

But there is one provision. If a driver of an old car wishes to secure a 1936 license, he must turn in his 1935 license plates. This is to prevent the use of the old licenses on some other car.

Already Mr. Murphy has issued a number of new 1936 plates. The action of secretary of State Atwood in permitting the issue of 1936 licenses for all cars will be good news for motorists who plan to leave the state on trips for the winter. In a number of past years travelers have been caused much inconvenience because of the late issuance of license plates.

Mr. Atwood has seen to it that there will be none of this trouble this year. Manager Murphy of the Plymouth office has also requested that veterans who desire Vv plates to be sure and ask for them when securing their licenses. If they do this, considerable confusion will be avoided.

Someone Stole the Minute Hand

KENTUCKY Colonel C. H. Emerson, floor manager in charge of the majority side of the house, inspected the famous clock below the gallery of the house of representatives. Said to relate a tourist had "borrowed" the minute hand, the same one that was set back an hour last session so that it would not be later than 12 when the house adjourned. As a result the chamber has been locked until the next session convenes.

D.A.R. Meeting Is Pleasant One

The Sarah Ann Cochran Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met Monday afternoon October 21 in the home of Mrs. Fred H. Dibble on Fenimian Avenue, Plymouth.

After the usual business routine, presided over by the Regent, Mrs. Carl Bryan of Northville, Mrs. R. H. Reck read an article pertaining to National Defense.

Mrs. Sidney D. Strong, the program chairman then introduced the speaker of the day, Mrs. Russell V. Allman, state chairman of "Approved Schools." There are seventeen such schools which have passed successfully the close scrutiny of several DAR committees, eleven of which are mountain schools in the South.

There are three Americanization schools and three are industrial. Only two, Tammassee in South Carolina, and the Kate Duncan Smith school in Alabama are entirely supported by the Daughters.

Mrs. Allman had visited Crossmore, and had much interesting first-hand information as well as a fine exhibit of this school's craftsmanship. This school utilizes every conceivable material sent to them from old straps and hats to discarded false teeth. A very credible pair of black velvet trousers was seen, that was fashioned from a merry widow hat and an old cushion. Revenue is also derived from the sale of the discarded clothing sent them to the surrounding country people who are eager customers. They buy the false teeth, also.

Mrs. Allman passed many interesting pictures of the various schools, and the pupils.

At the close of this delightful exposition, tea was served with Mrs. Earl Mastick, and Mrs. William Roe presiding at the tea table.

The next meeting, Nov. 18 will be the home of Mrs. J. M. Bennett, Sheridan avenue, Plymouth.

Sunday, October 20, in the Kinson Cemetery, at the corner of Clyde and Ridge Roads west of Plymouth was conducted a most impressive ceremony. The occasion was the marking of the grave of Diana Weare Vinton, who was the daughter of a Revolutionary soldier, and grandmother of Mrs. Ameret, a member of the Ypsilanti Chapter of the D.A.R. Some thirty members, friends and relatives were present from Ypsilanti, and the local Plymouth chapter was represented by twelve members.

The program consisted of the Reville by Harry Gillet, followed by the flag salute conducted by Mrs. Sidney Strong, and singing of America by the assembly, followed by prayer by Mrs. B. S. Boyce, chaplain. A personal tribute by Mrs. R. A. Weir followed.

The marker was unveiled by Marian George, great great granddaughter of Mrs. Vinton. The Chapter's Regent, Mrs. Fred Wilber made the dedication and Mrs. Ray Fletcher placed the floral wreath. Mrs. George D. Schermerhorn, State Regent made an address. Maxwell Ameret, a great great grandson sang a patriotic song very beautifully. Mrs. Wilber spoke of the "Spirit of the Pioneers," prayer by Mrs. Boyce, taps by Harry Gillet closed the beautiful tribute. It added greatly to the interest of the occasion that there was displayed the beautiful hand work of Mrs. Vinton, a quilt made a hundred years ago, and a hand woven spread and other articles were shown.

The Arapahoos

The Arapahoos are one of the typical Plains Indian tribes, belonging to the same language family as the Algonquians. Before the coming of the white man, they appear to have migrated southwest across the Missouri river from the region of the Red River valley of northern Minnesota where, according to their traditions, they lived a quiet agricultural life. In contrast to their roaming nomadic existence in historic times—Washington Post.

Military Touch

Coq feathers cascade in military fashion from the top of this olive green felt toque. The rolled brim is bound with gold silk braid.

Ship Canal Builder

Col. Breton Somervell, U. S. A., is in charge of the construction of the Gulf-Atlantic ship canal that is being dug across Florida. It will be a sea-level waterway 200 miles long and will cost $146,000,000. It is expected the canal will be completed in six years.

Wood Preserved in Water

Water does not always hasten decay. Wood can be preserved for centuries in water in which it is free of fungi and bacteria. The only wooden objects made by Neolithic man on exhibition today were found in mud at the bottom of lakes or in swamps. Another example are the piles supporting the buildings of Venice. Many of them are still in good condition after being in service for more than 1,000 years.—Cullier's Weekly.

Still Live in Caves

Visitors to the Touraine region of France to see the prehistoric chalets which dot the district find people living in caves. At various places along the Loire, notably near the ruins of the Chateau-Marscha, the homes of these Twentieth century troglodytes, whose chambers are cut out of limestone rock. Many of the caves apparently are occupied by people in comfortable circumstances, for the rooms are ornamented and embellished. There are several miles of such homes, where people burrow into hills, like moles and pride themselves on their residence.

Canada Geese

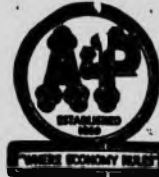

To the natives, the Canada geese are the only species recognized as "geese"; the lesser snow goose is to them a "waxy," and means only a fine meat supply during the month they spend in the marshes of James bay.

DOWN ST. CLAIR COUNTY WAY

By ANNE CAMPBELL

DOWN St. Clair County way, the summer lingers. The Dawn comes leading Day with rosy fingers. There is no hint of autumn rain. The wildwood Is green and fragrant as the lace to childhood.

The bees are humming still. Mid-summer gladness Brings to the silver rill no hint of sadness. The winter snows will fall, but in the glowing Red sunshine, green and tall the corn is growing.

Down St. Clair County way, were I a sparrow, I'd fly at close of day straight as an arrow. Alone in the dark wood, I'd need no guiding. For in the solitude a dream is hiding. Copyright.—WNU Service.

The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am writing a play but can't seem to get a finish for it. I have it all completed up to the last curtain. The last scene shows the heroine starving to death. What do you suggest for a finish?
Yours truly,
LENA GAINSTREE.

Answer: Have the heroine kneel on the stage, lift up her hands and beg for bread, then have the curtain come down with a roll.

Dear Mr. Wynn: Is it true the best way to make a vegetable speak is to cut out the inside of a melon and make it hollow? (holler).
Yours truly,
Q. KNEEB.

Answer: Your guess.

Dear Mr. Wynn: Is it unbecomingly to postpone your wedding day?
Yours truly,
I. M. DOINGIT.

Answer: Not if you keep on postponing it.

Dear Mr. Wynn: My brother and I have an argument for you to settle. He says the "Eye Teeth" are the last teeth people get; while I say it's the "Wisdom Teeth." Please tell us who is right?
Yours truly,
DENT L. FLOSS.

Answer: You are both wrong. The teeth which people get last are "False Teeth."

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am a boy nineteen years of age, and intend being a chef. I love to cook. Can you tell me the best way to preserve peaches?
Truly yours,
F. M. ENIT.

Answer: The best way for you to preserve peaches is not to introduce them to any other fellows.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I met a young chap from Atlantic City. He told me that in his home there is something that runs all over the floor of his basement yet it hasn't any legs. As you know everything, what can that be?
Sincerely,
C. SAULT.

Answer: Water.

A special treat is in store for the Homemakers of Wayne county this year. A series of Nutrition demonstrations have been planned to be given four times during the year.

"Adding Zest to Everyday Vegetables" will be the subject for the first demonstration to be given by Miss Roberta Hershey of the Extension department of Michigan State College on:

Tuesday, October 29th, 2:00 p.m. Flat Rock high school.

Wednesday, October 30th, 2:00 p.m. Belleville high school.

Thursday, October 31st, 2:00 p.m. Plymouth high school.

Friday, November 1st, 2:00 p.m. Schoolcraft Community Hall, Brighton Schoolcraft and Stout streets.

Highly nutritive vegetables, valuable for good health and vitality, are too often avoided by many people, largely because they are not appetizingly prepared and attractively served.

This demonstration, which is sponsored by Miss Emma DuBord, the Wayne County Home Demonstration Agent, is planned to offer many suggestions for serving Michigan garden products, either fresh or canned, and is open to the public. Come and bring your neighbor.

Louise Steinhel Wed To Austin Waterman

Miss Louise Steinhel and Austin Waterman chose October 19 for their wedding day. Attended by Lynn Ferridge and Kathryn Waterman they motored to Belle ville where they spent the week before Rev. Wm. Richards, formerly of Northville at 6 p.m. Driving back to Plymouth they stopped at the Hotel Mayflower for supper. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steinhel, parents of the bride, gave a reception at their home in visiting relatives and friends of both the bride and groom. All enjoyed the lovely wedding cake and ice cream.

After a merry evening the guests departed wishing the young couple much happiness. Many useful as well as beautiful gifts were received. The bride chose a dainty pale, peach chiffon dress and hat. The bridesmaid wore a becoming dress of royal blue crepe. Each wore shoulder corsages.

Flood Area of Mississippi Valley

The flood plain of the Mississippi varies greatly in width. North of Cape Girardeau, Mo., the lands which are subject to overflow are comparatively narrow, from three to five miles wide. The broad alluvial valley south of that point is some 50 miles wide, although it is almost never inundated to this width. In the lower Mississippi valley protecting levees exist and are planned to provide a width of from 10 to 25 miles. In the immediate vicinity of Vicksburg, Miss., the river is not subject to overflow on the Mississippi side because of the high bluff, 350 feet above sea level, on which Vicksburg is built.

"Shelby," Popular County Name—Nine states have Shelby counties. It is established that seven of them were named after Gov. Isaac Shelby directly and the others may well have had some connection.

THE SEVEN HUNDRED

I can't stay in the high school long without realizing how styles do change. The thundering hemmen of today aren't what they were in the days of our grandparents. I must thank Coach Matheson for identifying the thing Lionel Coffin is wearing around as a smoking jacket!

Getting back to the dance of last Friday, it must be terrible to be in Don Thrawl's position. Thoughtful Thrawl thought the whole evening with n'er a dance because, as he explained, he was afraid to ask a girl to dance with him for fear that they would all rush over to him. It is interesting to note that the reason he refrained from so doing was not that he minded having the girls swarm about him, but that he didn't want to start a traffic problem at the dance. Wasn't that thoughtful of Dazzling Don?

I have always felt that there was a need for more practical schooling hereabouts, and I finally found a course which had something worthwhile to offer. In physics there was brought out an instrument called the micrometer which measures the diameter of thin objects. I tried one of my hairs and found it to be 4/100ths of a millimeter, and that started me on a hunt to find the various diameters of different hairs. I haven't tried every body's as yet, but among the measurements which I now have are Jack Selle, 4/100ths of a millimeter; Kenneth Thumme, 3/100ths of a millimeter; Joe Merritt, 5/100ths of a millimeter; Harry Fischer, 6/100ths of a millimeter; a bristle from Tom Brock's pig, Bessie, 10/100ths of a millimeter; Peep and Peep, 11/100ths of a millimeter.

YOUTH GROUPS IN CITY FORM UNION

The four leading organizations of Plymouth Young People have taken the first steps in the formation of a local council of youth. This council plans to work out an ambitious program of youth activity which shall coordinate the efforts of the four groups which now belong to the Council and any other groups which may join in the future. At present the four participating groups are: Hi-Y, Girl Reserves, Epworth League of the Methodist church, and the Presbyterian Young Peoples' Society. These groups boast a total membership of one hundred fifty young people, most of whom are now in school. It is hoped that in the near future the young people who have graduated from high school and who are now employed in the factories, on the farms, and in the stores of Plymouth may in some way be represented on the Council. There are at present twelve delegates, three from each group, in the council. The delegates are for Hi-Y, Tom Brock, Harry Fischer and Jack Sessions; for Epworth League, Alva Elzerman, Florence Norton, and Ireta McLeod; for Girl Reserves, Jeanette Bauman, Dorothy Hearn, and Barbara Hubble; and for the Presbyterian Young Peoples' Society, Don Thrawl, Dorothy Roe, and Phyllis Stewart.

PERSONAL MENTION

Frances Bridge spent Thursday night with Betty Housley. Miss Hauf went to Ypsilanti for the home-coming over the week-end. While there she stayed at the Sigma Sigma Sorority House. Miss Kees went to Muskegon over the week-end. Ethel Rebitzke spent the week-end with her sister in Detroit. Alice Williams went to Oberlin College at Oberlin, Ohio to try for a scholarship last Saturday. Mary Holdsworth and Weltha Selle had dinner at the home of Astri Hege last Friday evening. Althea Shoemaker and Norma Coffin enjoyed the week-end at Sears, Michigan. Betty Griffiths stayed with Irene Beckwith Friday night after the Junior dance. Jean Roediger went to Silver Lake last Sunday afternoon. Lib Whipple went to Detroit Monday evening and saw the play "A Midsummer Night's Dream". Irene Granger invited the following guests to her Halloween party last Saturday night: Jean Roediger, Harriet Ingall, Ruth Roediger, Martha Ingall, Robert Brown, Harold Granger, Clifford Fink, David Ingall, George Loomes, Arnold Thompson, Gustave Eschle, and Harold Jacobs. They played Halloween games and later on ate doughnuts and drank cider.

PLYMOUTH NEGATIVE DEBATES ROYAL OAK

Participating in the fifth practice debate of the season, Plymouth negative debaters, including Edith Mettetal, Florence Norton, and Jewel Starkweather, met an affirmative team from Royal Oak in a contest held here Tuesday, October 15. No decision was rendered. The question discussed was that of government monopoly of the manufacture of munitions. The subject chosen for debate throughout Michigan this year, Plymouth has already held debates upon this question with Flint Central and Flint Northern high schools. Several Plymouth teams will take part in a practice debate tournament to be held at Royal Oak, November 9. Several other schools from this region will attend, making possible several debates for each team.

PLYMOUTH TO HOLD FIRST LEAGUE DEBATE

Meeting an affirmative team from Lincoln Park high school, Plymouth debaters will participate in their first Twin Valley League decision debate in a contest to be held in Plymouth High's auditorium at 7:30 Thursday evening, October 31. This is to be the first of a series of ten debates with other member schools of the association, continuing until December 18. The question to be discussed is formally stated, "Resolved, that the nations of the world should make government monopolies of the manufacture and sale of all combat instruments of war." Plymouth will uphold the negative of the proposition at this time.

Florence Norton, Russell Kirk, and Jewel Starkweather have been chosen to represent this school in the approaching contest. Other members of the squad include Edith Mettetal, Dorothy Hearn, Marilyn Holton, Leo Schmitz, Jack Sessions, Harry Fischer, and Tom Brock. Several of these students are preparing for debate on the affirmative side of the question, as the first affirmative contest for this school will take place November 14.

GIRL RESERVES ENJOY HIKE

About thirty-two Girl Reserves with Miss Tyler hiked to Tramps Hollow last Thursday, where they enjoyed a picnic supper. The girls were divided into four triangles headed by Cella Lewis, Catherine Schrader, Ruth Ash and Shirley Sorenson. Each triangle made its own fire and cooked its own particular meal. One group cooked goulash and apple-sauce, and still another baked beans, so in all there was quite a variety of food cooked. After supper the girls sat around one of the campfires and sang Girl Reserve songs. The program of the Senior Girl Reserves last Friday was devoted to hobbies. The chairman of the meeting was Jeannette Brown, who had asked all the girls and advisers bring their scrapbooks of particular hobbies. These were placed on display in one of the third floor rooms. Some of the hobbies brought by the members were scrapbooks on birds, poems, literary movie stars, historical clippings, and collections of stamps and recipes. One of the interesting collections consisted of a group of tiny china animals brought by Patsy McKinnon.

NOTED EXPLORER TO VISIT SCHOOL

H. Channing Beebe, famous geologist and explorer will speak on the subject "From Ants to Elephants" in the high school on October 28. Mr. Beebe served as commercial geologist for the Sinclair Oil company in Africa and Asia and for William Randolph Hearst in South America. In his thirty-six months of African travel, he hunted lions, elephants, hippopotamuses, water buffalo and other elusive animals. He studied the habits of the jungle people and animals, and narrowly escaped death from the treacherous Quissama Cannibals and a charge of an elephant herd. He will bring with him colored stereoscopic slides which will show even elephants in their natural size and coloring. He also will bring many curiosities from the jungles. Channing Beebe is a graduate of Stanford University and a member of the famous Explorers' club of New York. He comes from an exploring family, his grandfather having been slain by cannibals in the South Seas. He is the second of the North-West Assemblies Series which is bringing to the school such entertainers and educators as Brown and Menely, the Orpheon Quartette, the Lombard Entertainers, Frank Douglas, and Dr. Thomas Lutman.

STARKWEATHER SCHOOL NOTES

Jackie Britcher and Jimmy Pierce, who have been absent with bad colds, are back in school again.

The second grade children have memorized the poem "Come Little Leaves." Five children are going to recite the poem at the PTA next meeting. They have also learned a Halloween song "Jack O'Lantern Pumpkin Head." To create an atmosphere of Halloween in the room, they made one corner into a section of a farm. One of the children contributed a corn shock and others brought pumpkins.

At noon hour Wednesday, a quail flew against a window of Miss Loper's room, breaking the window and killing itself. The fourth grade children are studying a fall poem for language. All fourth grade books may be obtained from the book-store. The sixth grade has a new lesson, Miss Mantun, for reading, spelling, penmanship, and language. She is to teach Monday and Tuesday mornings and Thursday and Friday afternoons. The 6 B's are multiplying by decimals in arithmetic. On their last Self-Testing Drill they received a rating of 8.

At the last meeting of the sixth grade they decided what they were going to do for assembly. They are to show good citizenship about the school.

STUDENTS CAMPAIGN IN HOME ROOMS

Students held campaigns in all the home room groups last Wednesday for the sale of Student Council tickets. Members of the football team went around to all the various groups and explained the fundamentals of football. The purpose of these talks was to create more enthusiasm about the student games at home so that more students would come. At the last Student Council meeting it was decided to allow the students to pay for their ticket in two installments of twenty-five cents each. It is also possible for a student to get a ticket free if he sells one to a friend for seventy-five cents. With these advantages we hope to have large crowds at all the remaining games.

RIVER ROUGE AGAIN DEFEATS PLYMOUTH

Superior plunging by the eleven from River Rouge and poor play by the Rocks sided in the visitors' favor successively over Plymouth. The entire game was well-played and more even than the 25-6 score indicates. Plymouth kicked off to Rouge who promptly carried the ball to midfield on a long twisting run. However, the Plymouth line held and the home team made the first threat, taking the ball to Rouge's ten yard line where a bad lateral pass lost five yards and the ball was given to the league champions. Throughout this first quarter, Plymouth clearly outplayed their opponents. But the second period story was entirely different. The Blue and White boys were outclassed by a heavier and faster team. Rouge scored two touchdowns in rapid fashion and kicked one point after touchdown. During the period between halves, the Plymouth band marched and played the Plymouth Fight Song. Special mention should be given to Jack Selle, Rock drum major, for his success in throwing the baton over the goal posts and catching it as it fell.

In the second half, a blocked punt and line plunges through Plymouth's weak line gave the big red team two more touchdowns. Although outplayed most of the time, Plymouth gained some solace from the defeat by scoring on River Rouge. In four years of football in the Twin Valley League, River Rouge has been scored on only twice, both times by Plymouth. This second touchdown by Plymouth came after the most spectacular march of the day. Two forward-lateral passes took the ball to Rouge's ten yard line and from there a forward pass and Coffin hotted six points. The game was fought cleanly and spiritually all the way. It was Plymouth's line that permitted gains by the visiting backs. In the next game with Dearborn tonight, the Rock rosters hope that the forward wall will hold better than it did Friday.

Advantages of the One-Hour Period

I think that it is a good plan to have one hour periods because it gives the student plenty of time to prepare his lesson and to get a little help from the teacher. The teacher has more time to explain the lesson for the following day. When the periods are longer the days seem to go much faster and the student does not get so tired of school and then he takes more interest in his studies. Another good reason for a one hour study hall is that the student has more time to prepare his lesson there. Where the student has only one study hall a day, as under the present system, when he does get there he works and he has no time for play. If he plays there are no lessons prepared and when it comes time for class he is without any lesson, and at the end of the month he will wonder why he did not get a passing grade.

CLASS NOTES

Members of the twelfth grade English class, taught by Miss Allen, are beginning the study of the Elizabethan period in English literature, having completed the survey of the Middle English era. Thursday, October 17, the class viewed moving pictures of localities connected with the life of Shakespeare, including scenes in Stratford-on-Avon. Mr. Lature's 9B civics classes are studying "Occupations Associated with Extracting the Earth's Resources" in their work books. In this chapter they are looking up what minerals are mined and the annual production of these in the United States, and also the principal centers for mining and how care is taken to insure safety of those engaged in that occupation. Jane Hood and Agnes Nowatarki gave oral talks on the mining of coal and iron.

The ninth grade English classes are studying Edgar Allan Poe's story "The Gold Bug." Pupils are looking up the words they do not know and have written an essay on the life of Edgar Allan Poe. Last Friday the classes had a test over fifteen of the words. Next week they are to study William Shakespeare's drama "Julius Caesar." Modern history students have finished their study of the French Revolution and were given a test based on it last Tuesday.

Although Plymouth lost a hard-fought game to River Rouge last Friday, October 18, large crowd of junior and senior high school students attended the junior class dance held on the evening of the same day. The juniors consider their first party of the year as being unusually successful, as the dance netted thirty-five dollars. The music, furnished by the Melodians, met with the approval of all. Those who acted as chaperons were Mrs. Paul Nutting, Mr. and Mrs. George Burr, Mr. and Mrs. Hege, Mr. and Mrs. Holdsworth and Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick.

RURAL TUITION PAID BY STATE

Their tuition paid by the state government of Michigan this year two hundred thirty-four students from rural areas surrounding Plymouth are attending Plymouth high school. Sixty-five dollars per pupil is supplied by the state treasury, making a total appropriation of $15,210 for the education of students in this district. Of the one hundred seventy-seven students in the ninth grade, seventy, or forty per cent, are tuition pupils. In the tenth grade, forty-five of the one hundred eight members of the class, or forty-one per cent, are included in this group. Forty, or thirty six per cent, of the one hundred twelve juniors, come from rural sectors. Seventy-two per cent, or seventy-nine, of the one hundred nine seniors are aided by forty-one per cent, on an average, about forty-seven per cent, of all students in Plymouth are affected by this plan.

SHAKESPEARE FILM SHOWN IN SCHOOL

"The Merchant of Venice," Shakespeare's popular comedy, was presented in a condensed motion picture version to the high school students in a special assembly last Thursday. The familiar story of Shylock, the cunning Jewish money lender, whose scheme to win the life of Antonio, an early Italian anti-Semitic merchant, was foiled by Portia, the wonderfully wise wife of Antonio's close friend Bassanio, was told in a more elaborate style than is usually possible on the stage. Unfortunately the picture was so short that it was necessary to drastically alter the story. The love of Shylock's daughter and Lorenzo was completely omitted, and the famous line "My daughter! My daughter!" was necessarily conspicuous by its absence. Although the condensation of the lines lost much of the humor, a few of the more highly quoted passages were included. A very capable cast acted the parts with great realism and with a number of effects which were totally new to the fans of Shakespeare, including views of the Venetian gondolas and the streets.

Because of poor lighting facilities, the sub titles were read so that students might follow the play more easily.

PARENTS REQUESTED TO SIGN REPORT CARDS

Report cards were issued Wednesday, October 9, but group teachers have found that some of the pupils have signed the cards instead of their parents. It is a duty of parents to sign these cards so they may see how their children are progressing and may find out what trouble has caused a poor mark in some subject. The report cards will again be issued November 16 and all parents are requested to sign them. Hereafter the date of the issuing of the cards will appear in the school calendar on the Pilgrim Prints page every marking period.

CENTRAL NOTES

The pupils in Miss Weatherhead's room have finished their fall flower booklets and are now making oak sun-pictures for their leaf booklets. Gertrude Steele entered the second B from Northville Monday. Jacquelyn Dalton and Ann Ray are absent because of illness. The 4 B's of Miss Sly's made Halloween posters for the windows. The following have not been absent since school started: (1) Our one woman shy senior has fallen. We're warning you, Mr. Kirk, that Roland Rhead also has high aspirations in regard to the quiet but quite dangerous in her own way, Dorothy Hearn. Now the noted trainer, Betty Housley, has in her cage some of the young and inexperienced males of PHS. We have learned your art of training Betty. It is the old method which has never failed. "Look them straight in the eye till they purr gently." Fourteen Hi-Y aspirants took part in the annual initiation exercises of the club Friday, October 18. In the solemn dignity of the candle-lit room these boys repeated the purpose of the organization and pledged their support to club principles. TO END ALL

By Bruce Barton

The cause of temperance in this country had been making steady progress for three-quarters of a century. The per-capita consumption of hard liquor was diminishing. Saloons were being abolished. In many States the public school curriculum included a compulsory course in physiology, with special instruction on the evil effects of alcohol. For a young man to appear at any social function with liquor on his breath was a social felony, while hard-liquor drinking by respectable women was almost unknown. We were on our way to becoming the most temperate nation on earth.

Came the war which was "to end all" wars. Lifted out of ourselves by an emotional tidal wave, we felt an overwhelming urge to fix everything. We would topple over all thrones, free all peoples, rectify all boundaries, wipe out the sore wrongs of all the centuries, create a new earth. In the grip of this high fervor, we became impatient of slow progress of any sort. Those who hated the liquor-traffic cried out: "This is the time to end all drinking." So came prohibition.

With what result? All that we had gained in seventy-five years we lost in fifteen, and much more besides. Liquor became the sine qua non of hospitality. Women and young people drank who never had before. Prohibition put a bottle into every closet and a cocktail into every woman's hand. By trying to do too much too quickly, we undid the earnest work of generations. We ran up a bill in terms of public temperance and disrespect for law that must be paid through another long time of building bit by bit.

Now we are again in the grip of a noble fervor. Are we again in danger? I think we are, in spite of all the abuses of the economic system which recent investigations have revealed, we were making consistent social progress in the years before the depression. The relations between labor and capital were better. Plans for stabilizing employment and protecting old age were being worked out in many industries. For the first time in history, there was beginning to be an understanding of the truth that only by high wages and steady employment can prosperity endure.

But now the millennium must come in this administration. We will "end all" poverty, all inequality, all social wrong. Congress passes bills which almost no one reads, and whose effect and cost can even surmise. At the risk of being called conservative I say: Stop, look, listen. For just a few months, at least, make haste slowly. Remember prohibition. Those who hurry through laws to "end all" are not progressives; they are the world's worst reactionaries. They do not carry us forward; they throw us back for a bitter loss.

WAR TOUCHES US ALL

Nothing could more effectively demonstrate to everybody the fact that war or even the threat of war involving one of the major Western nations, touches the interest of every other nation and of all of their people, than the excitement and concern now being exhibited in all of the world's capitals over the questions which have been raised by the advance of Italy upon Ethiopia.

Italy is more than 3,000 miles from the United States and Ethiopia is still farther away, yet the question of our own neutrality and of what our Government should do toward cooperating to prevent the war is a vital and important one. It is one thing to talk about prohibiting the sale of war supplies to one or both belligerents in a war. It is quite another thing to make such prohibition effective.

What are war supplies? Canada has announced that she will not dump her wheat reserves on the market but will hold them in the expectation of high prices, because of this war. Wheat is a war supply no less than bullets or gunpowder.

We earnestly hope that our nation will not become involved in any way that will further strain our relations with Italy and the rest of the world, but we believe it would be in the interest of every American for our State Department to lend all the moral support possible to the efforts which the other great nations are making to avert this silly and senseless war.—News, Chardon, Ohio.

WE RUN A DEPARTMENT STORE

Last week a man came into this office with blood in his eye, a couple of dollar bills clutched in his hand, and a thorough determination to assert the righteousness of his anger.

He was angry. Not plain angry but just hopping mad. It seems there had been something in the paper he didn't like, some editorial comment which marched in icy tread right down the marrow of his backbone. And so he stopped his paper—wouldn't have the dirty sheet come into his home again.

It was not an unusual incident—such things happen once or twice in every newspaper office in the average of a year. Sometimes they happen more or less often, depending on how outspoken, how brave or how tactless an editor may be.

But the incident gave us cause to reflect. Your home town newspaper is, after all, a rather elaborate department store with items designed to appeal to every age and taste. Sports, editorial matter, society items, rural correspondence each has its own particular following.

Likewise, each store on Main street carries a number of items, hoping that one or at most a few will appeal to every customer. Now it happens that we don't like limburger cheese. Possibly something faulty in our makeup, but we just don't like it. And yet Mr. Behnke sells limburger,—rank, odiferous limburger. And we continue to buy from Mr. Behnke, buying what we prefer and not boycotting him because he sells limburger.

And our wife quite often buys a little something at Cristy's—to an extent, in fact, which has definite bearing on the family budget. Yet our good friend Mr. Cristy has in stock dresses so ill-adapted to our wife's face and figure that there'd be an ugly family scene if she sited one home. So she doesn't, but chooses items which agree with her taste and all goes well.

But that same "choosy" selection of items doesn't seem to apply to the printed department store which this office edits and issues each week, probably because we sell each customer not one item or two, but a sample of every item in the store.

So, if the editorials clash with your taste, turn to the front page or the sports. If the broken slugs have a strong limburger smell and you don't like that odor, turn to the want ads. Remember, we offer you for slightly over three cents a choice of every item on our menu. Please don't kick if you don't like them all.—Post, Waupaca, Wis.

GOV. LANDON DECLARED DOOMED IF HE IS FORCED TO BACK A.A.A.

By Mark Sullivan

There can be no doubt about the authenticity of the report that Mid-Western farmers like AAA, that they like Mr. Roosevelt because he represents AAA, and that for this reason they will next year vote the Democratic ticket, unless as one farm leader puts it, the Republicans offer "something better than AAA and it will have to be a damn sight better." We might discount these reports as coming from so-called "farm leaders." But we are obliged to be convinced when Republican Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas says that "Kansas is for AAA" and adds that the Republicans will lose the Mid-West next year if they attack AAA.

Nevertheless, one cannot help wondering. Does the individual farmer in large numbers take this uncompromising and exclusive attitude? Translated into terms of the campaign next year, it might mean that the Mid-West farmer in the position of saying something like this: "All we want is our AAA, provided we keep AAA, we don't care about anything else; we don't care about inflation, we don't care about national debt and taxes, we don't care about the Constitution; we don't care if America is taken into the form of society typified by Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy; we don't care about anything but AAA."

Apparently, for the time being many Republican leaders accept this report of the farmers' attitude. At the recent gathering of Republican leaders at Washington, and at similar regional gatherings, it was apparent that the Republicans were disposed to be silent about the AAA—to "pussy-foot" on it.

For this present alliance of many Republican leaders, there is some explanation, though not a complete one nor a wholly worthy one. Everybody knows that material portions of AAA are to come before the Supreme Court soon. There is reason for the Republicans saying, in effect, that they are not taking an attitude on AAA until after the Supreme Court passes on it. But it is quite possible that no conclusive action on AAA may be taken by the Supreme Court before next year's Presidential election. After the New Dealers were set back last May by the Supreme Court decision on NRA they rewrote much of AAA with a view to making it conform more nearly to the Constitution and to the Supreme Court interpretation of it. This revision of the AAA statute was not enacted by Congress until August 24 last. Consequently, the Supreme Court cannot act on AAA in its remodeled statutory form until there are before it cases arising subsequent to August 24. This conceivably may not be until after this winter's session of the court, and therefore not until after the Presidential campaign.

The Republicans, in not taking a present position in AAA are undoubtedly hoping the Supreme Court will solve or ease a difficult problem for them. Yet it might be better to be frank. The Republican leaders know there is not the faintest possibility of the national convention next year endorsing AAA. The Republicans conceivably may bring forward a substitute for AAA, but the substitute will differ fundamentally in principle. The Republican National Convention will not adopt any form of help which rests on the basic principles of AAA. The Republicans will adopt

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

John Dillinger knew there was money in the banks which belonged to somebody else, but he wanted it. So he went after it, and anyone who dared impede his way was ruthlessly shot down.

Mussolini wants some more territory, and some of the desired territory lies in Ethiopia. Some other countries have said to him that they will give him a strip of land, if he will leave Ethiopia alone. But, no, Ethiopia is what he wants, and anyone impeding his desire is to be shot down, it matters not how many women and children are in the way—mop them out too! What's the difference?—Frank Bryce in The Grand Ledger Independent.

QUITE TRUE

The renomination of Mayor Frank Couzens (son of Senator Couzens) for another term as mayor of Detroit by a 10 to 1 vote, should be a warning to up state politicians who are opposed to the senator's renomination. The Couzens name has strength and influence in Michigan, in fact, the youthful mayor would be elected just as easily for the senate as his father. Like Senator Borah, the Michigan senator is stronger than his party, and the overwhelming vote for Detroit's mayor on Tuesday is proof enough of the unprejudiced political observer.—Muri H. DePoe in The Charlotte Republican-Tribune.

KNOX, BEST REPUBLICANS HAVE—

From all indications we are about to become interested in another national political campaign. At present the Republicans are digging around to try to find a candidate strong enough to retire the Democrats now in office. The Democrats will again run President Roosevelt on his record.

Senator William E. Borah probably has a larger following than any other Republican at the moment. He is a recognized student of government, but he is also difficult to bend to the whims of the politicians as a steel spike. He is a strong individualist and not a strong party man. Because of his age and his independence he will hardly be the Republican nominee, although he could be the strongest supporter in any campaign.

Colonel Frank Knox of the Chicago Daily News looks like the next in line of popularity and is one who could probably muster more support than anyone else in the party. He was a rough rider with Teddy Roosevelt during the Spanish-American war and also served in the World War. Knox started his career as a cub on the Grand Rapids Herald, later bought the Soo Journal and made it into a daily. This he sold and established a Manchester, N. H. paper and consolidated it with two other papers. Later he was for four years general manager of all Hearst newspapers before becoming purchaser of the Chicago Daily News. His is the theory of a self-made individual and a colorful tale can be written about him. Knox is one of the foremost critics of the "New Deal" policies. He is "as common as an old shoe" and has the right temperament for No. 1 political job. A former Bull Moose he now rates as a progressive Republican.

Former President Hoover will no doubt be an able campaigner for the party, but will be out of the picture as a candidate if Republican generals are smart. For that matter so will Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, who lacks political leadership, showmanship and the temperament and public appeal needed for the nation's highest spot. Either would be "push-over" for President Roosevelt.

Just who can the Republicans run next year? You name one. It's a tough job that will keep a lot of heads busy, and well it may, for to win the national election is a man-sized job.—Phil Rich in The Midland Republican.

WANT NO PRESENTS WITH STRINGS

The Holly village council and the Holly township board are surely worthy of your congratulations. At a joint meeting Monday evening, they voted unanimously to turn down the proposition to re-bag the town hall with funds from the $4,800,000,000 PWA grab bag. The conditions attached to the securing of the appropriation from this source are such that practically no benefit would be derived from it.—Joe Haas in The Holly Herald.

LAYING THE CASH ON THE LINE

As time goes on the old custom of giving credit to the customer is dwindling. More and more the merchant finds himself forced to watch his accounts closer and closer. This is not a reflection upon the honesty of the average customer. It is a very distinct trend of business.

In the last two decades we have seen the cash-and-carry policy gain remarkably. The business field has been invaded to a large extent in recent years by nation-wide organizations. Without exception, the cash-on-the-line is in force in these states. Anything else would be next to impossible under their setup.

All these things add to the difficulty of the merchant who continues to extend credit. He must compete with the other stores as to price and quality which is another way of saying that his margin of profit is limited. If his judgment is not good, or if his customers fail to pay, his capital will soon be tied up in slow or bad accounts.

In a rural section like this where many of the people do not have money coming in at regular intervals, it is important that we continue to have concerns which will extend credit when credit is needed. The extension of credit will be continued unless it is abused too much. In other words, it is up to the people themselves who are not always able to lay the cash on the line.—Schuyler Marshall in The Clinton County Republican-News.

nothing that limits the production of crops, nothing that forbids the farmer to raise more than the government says he may, nothing that threatens the farmer with fine and imprisonment if he raises more than the government dictates—in short, nothing that forbids the farmer to conduct his farm as he chooses to conduct it, with no limitation except perhaps what he may put upon himself by voluntary cooperation with his fellow-farmers.

The Republicans may present a substitute for AAA, fundamentally different from it. But that the Republicans will not endorse AAA is almost certain as if the convention were already held.

This condition has a bearing on the man who for the moment seems in the lead among possibilities for the Republican Presidential nomination. This present favorably situated leader is Mr. Alf M. Landon. (His name is simply Alf, so printed on his stationery—it is not an abbreviation of Alfred.) Mr. Landon is Governor of Kansas. Does he agree with Republican Senator Capper of the same state, that "Kansas is for AAA"? If "Kansas is for AAA," presumably Governor Landon cannot get the delegates from his own state without endorsing AAA. And if Governor Landon endorses AAA and stands upon it, he will be just about fatally handicapped in the convention, for more than half the delegates will come from communities to which AAA is impossible. There are more communities than farmers.

It is not merely the consumer acting in self-interest who opposes AAA. Somebody should explain to the Mid-West farmers, patiently and candidly and not truculently, that AAA is impossible in itself and it is impossible in its relation to the New Deal as a whole. The farmer does not know that he has been forbidden to plant, or for which he is paid cash not to plant, other acres are being made available by reclamation projects such as Coulee Dam. The farmer does not know that for the pork is paid not to raise, other pork is brought into America from foreign countries. The farmer may not know, but ought to know, that paying cash to farmers not to produce, as in the case of pork, and forbidding farmers to produce under penalty of jail, as in the case of potatoes, is so contrary to habitual American ways of thought that it cannot possibly be made to stick. The farmer is too much under the influence of the immense AAA propaganda machine to have a chance to know what AAA in its entirety is or to know how the average man feels about AAA when he understands what it is.

Through a swift and dramatic exercise of the executive power, President Roosevelt has flashed from a cruiser in the Pacific the answer to a question that has been agitating statesmen at home and abroad for fifteen years: Will the United States insist on neutral rights and freedom of the seas in the "next war" overseas?

The answer is that it will not. Reversing a principle Woodrow Wilson fought for in the World War and which ultimately brought the United States into that conflict, Mr. Roosevelt has put American citizens on notice that those who voluntarily engage in "transactions of any character with either of the present belligerents will do so at their own risk. While that major departure in American foreign policy was still having its repercussions around the world, he followed it up with the word that he meant to discourage such transactions.

There is no legal compulsion about it, except as to actual impositions of war. With this qualification, there is no law against trading with belligerents in war time and the President has no way to punish those who persist. But in his responsibility for the conduct of foreign affairs, he may say he will refuse to prosecute claims against foreign governments on behalf of American citizens who come to grief through such transactions. And in his capacity as commander in chief of the Army and Navy he may decide here and now that the armed forces of the United States will not be used to enforce any such claims.

It is far more than the drafters of the mandatory neutrality resolution contemplated when they jammed it through Congress against the President's preference. In a single sentence of three lines, lacking even the dignity of a proclamation, it assures the League of Nations powers that they need fear no American interference with any sanctions or blockades they may erect against Italy—a question the leading European powers have sought unsuccessfully to have answered since the League of Nations was established without American membership.

Linked with the statutorily required notice that Americans who travel on the ships of belligerents do so at their own peril, it vitally affects the Navy's first rule, which is to be ready to protect American lives and property anywhere at any time—that the flag follows American commerce everywhere. It ignores the claimed constitutional requirement on the President to protect Americans abroad as at home—a requirement recognized in the records of the Supreme Court.

It thus abandons a century-old tradition to vindicate which the United States went to war in 1812 and 1917. It touches the vital question of American entanglement or non-entanglement in foreign politics, and the more immediate question of co-operation with the League of Nations.

It raises the question whether the United States, under this Administration, will use the Navy to defend American commerce with, for example, China, and that, in turn, with its ramifications along a broad range including Japan, touched the need of maintaining a large navy.

What it means in the immediate crisis in Europe may be deduced from the fact that Stanley Baldwin, Prime Minister of Great Britain, declared at Glasgow a year ago: "Never so long as I have any responsibility in governing the country will I sanction the British Navy being used for an armed blockade of any country in the world until I know what the United States of America is going to do."

Through the President's unexpected and unrequited warning to American citizens, Mr. Baldwin has the information he needs. It was partly for the lack of such information, some European statesmen contend, that the Geneva tripartite naval conference of 1927 failed as the London naval conference of 1930 became a three-power rather than a five-power agreement, with France and Italy excluded. It is even contended in some quarters that, granted this key to the attitude of the United States, the French would have come to an agreement with the Italians on auxiliary naval craft in the London conference and Premier Benito Mussolini today would have nowhere near the fleet strength he has to challenge the British naval superiority.

Certain it is, in the judgment of Roosevelt administration officials that if President Wilson had adopted the same policy at the outbreak of the World War in 1914 he would have had no ground for protesting the sinking of the Lusitania. And, if President Madison had adopted that course in 1812, the young Republic would not have gone to war with Great Britain.

It is conceded that opinion may differ whether the United States went to war against Germany in 1917 because of a desire to enforce neutral rights, to protect national honor or to avenge the death of Americans on the high seas by German submarines. But the fact remains, it is contended, that few of these controversies would have arisen had the United States, at the beginning of the World War, imposed an embargo on the export of munitions to all belligerents, prohibited private loans to belligerents and announced that it would not protect any American citizen attempting to carry on certain types of neutral trade or travel in specified danger zones. Through a combination of legislative mandate and executive action on the President's own responsibility, all these conditions have been met. At least until the present temporary neutrality resolution expires at the end of February, the United States thereby has abandoned its pre-war conceptions of neutrality as a matter of national interest.

In the words of Charles Warren, from 1914 to 1917 Assistant Attorney General in charge of enforcing American neutrality laws in the United States, "it recognizes that the right of the United States to keep out of war is greater than the right of a citizen to engage in trade which might implicate the United States in war."

It is an estimate which does not go undisputed, however. There is a school of thought which believes that in the obvious though unavowed purpose to cooperate with the League powers in a case like the present, the United States, by this new neutrality policy, may bring upon itself the charge of committing an un-neutral act and find itself dragged into the next war as it was into the last.

In the light of experience with the present temporary policy, the whole question will come up for review when Congress reconvenes and readresses itself to the task of writing permanent neutrality legislation into the statute books.

The reversal of a tradition of a century, however, was in this final paragraph of the President's accompanying statement:

"In these specific circumstances, I desire it to be understood that any of our people who voluntarily engage in transactions of any character with either of the belligerents do so at their own risk."

There was no need to define "implements of war" or contraband after that. So far as Italy and Ethiopia were concerned, the United States was serving notice that no commerce of any description would have the benefit of its protection during the war.

In the same single sentence, the President also disavowed responsibility on loans to either belligerent. In signing the bill, he had lamented the failure to include a prohibition against such loans, even though Ethiopia was in no position to float loans in this country and Italy, as a war-debtor, was already debarré by the Johnson act.

Congress by its substitution of the present (Pittman) resolution for the McReynolds (State Department) resolution, it is contended in one quarter, had clearly indicated a legislative intent to avoid co-operation with the League for fear of involvement in European politics and intrigue.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee had long since reflected the same spirit, it is objected, when it insisted that, if Congress was to empower the President with arms embargo authority, it must operate equally against both belligerents.

Such a vote, in May, 1933, was interpreted at the time as a blow at the President's conditional pledge at Geneva, through Norman W. Davis, Ambassador at Large, to refrain from any action tending to defeat collective action against an aggressor nation, if concurring in the findings of the aggressor. Albeit the Senate thus winged the pledge and the League powers failed to meet the condition, which was to agree to a substantial disarmament plan, the effect of the present Roosevelt policy, in the circumstances peculiar to this specific crisis, is to make good on that pledge anyway. The United States, even if in a negative sense, is in the international cordon being thrown around Italy.

The policy of the Roosevelt administration, although at variance with the present legislation making arms embargoes mandatory against both belligerents, is a flat reversal of the principle the last Democratic administration thus defended. It is necessary to go back to the administration of Thomas Jefferson to find an approach to the neutrality policy of the Roosevelt administration is now launching. Although action at that time was taken after, rather than before, American neutral rights had been violated, the central purpose then as now was to prevent this country from being drawn into war in Europe.

President Wilson, at the outbreak of the World War in 1914, was equally determined to keep the United States neutral. Instead of trying to keep American commerce out of the war zones as Jefferson had tried and as President Roosevelt is now trying, Wilson coupled with his neutrality stand an insistence on freedom of the seas for American commerce within the limits of international law. To be sure, Wilson tried to find safety for American neutrality in the so-called declaration of London—a restatement of the rules of international maritime law as they existed in 1909 to which the principal sea powers had previously given their tacit approval but not their necessary exchange of ratifications.

While President Wilson's stand of keeping out of the war had been greatly complicated by his insistence on neutral rights—a principle which President Roosevelt is waiving at the outset—it is a fact that, in the state of American public opinion at the time, President Wilson would have had a hard time marshaling American public opinion behind such a waiver, whereas President Roosevelt, so far as Washington officialdom will admit, has had only scattering protest.

Which Party Leads Today?

Is President Roosevelt Gaining Or Losing?

READ AMERICA SPEAKS

Citizens as well as professional politicians are confused about President Roosevelt's present standing with American voters. They know he was swept into office when he defeated Hoover 59% to 41% in November, 1932. They know an election in Rhode Island last summer indicated to many observers the New Deal is far from popular in New England. But they know, too, that enthusiastic crowds of record-breaking size greeted the President at many of the places he appeared on his trip to the Pacific Coast.

What everyone is asking today is: "Is President Roosevelt gaining or losing?"

The Detroit News will print the results of a nation-wide poll on this question next Sunday. The same material will appear the same day in many other leading newspapers throughout the country.

These papers, for the first time, have set aside differences of editorial opinion, and have united to make possible a fact-finding report on the state of public opinion.
